" But he [Preston] as unpollitick in the conduct of " war as treaty of peace was utterly routed at a place " called Dungan's Hill on the 8th of August 1647 and " lost there at least 6,000 men, and this happen'd that " very day twelvemonth, the Nuncio and clergy at " Waterford had broken the peace of 1646, and about " 4 months after the Lord Taaf, general in Munster, was " routed by Inchiquin. This now that would make " another man sensible of his folly was far from having " that effect on the Nuncio, for he instead of that " caused Owen O'Neile to be on the defensive parte, " and rejoyced that the overthrow of theso two gave " him way and occasion to use O'Neil as Generalissimo " over the whole kingdom. These losses were returned " in a small measure on Jones by O'Neile, for he takeing " his advantage when the Ulster Scotch were returnd " and Jones unable to cope w^th him in number, destroy'd " and burnt a great parte of the County of Dublin " called Fingall, and marched hence in quiet againe, " w^ch served to shew the folly of Preston who might " have easily dou the same by encamping in security " and distressing Jones wth small parties who had not " much provision to subsist above a very few days, and " by the want of provisions must have been necessitated " to return home without anything material performed. " However the Catholicks in generall found themselves " extreamly weaken'd and unable to hold out the war " against so many enemies in each province. The " natives of the kingdom began now, when too late, to " see their miseries in their mistakes, though still " obduratum est cor Rinuenii. The king was prisoner " to the Parliament, and nono admitted to come at him, " so as their application must be to the Queen and " Prince then in France, and one of their instructions " was to have a Catholick Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. " Their agents the Marquis of Anthrim, the Viscount " Muskry, & Geofry Browne, they made undoubtedly " as ill a choice of the Marquis of Anthrim as the king " did of Glamorgan, and the soquell will shew it. At " the same time they sent the Bishop of Fernes and " Nicholas Plunket to the Pope who by his Primes was " mad a knight. Anthrim, Muskry and Browne found " the Queen, the Prince of Wales, and their Court at " St. Germains in France, where these gentlemen at " one and the same time received a severe reprimand " for their delaying and breakeing the peace, the occasion " of so much misfortune and misery, & now however a " welcom for their repentance and willingness to re- " medy by their future undertakeings what tho former " actions did mischief and ruin, & after some days " spent in consultation they were comanded back againe " w^th instructions to prepare their people hereafter to " obedience and loyalty, and to expect a Vice Roy as " soone as they would make choice of one and dispatch " him away for Ireland. Here now appear'd the strango " weakeness of Anthrim, for the Queen and Prince not " declaring who should be Lord Lieut^t. this man fancies " to himself (who was neither statesman nor soldier in " the least) that ho should be the person, and accord- " ingly setts up for a faction upon his return, and closes " w^th those of the Nuncios party, then w^ch nothing " could be more absurd, when he knew already whilst " he was in France how justly odious those people were " to her Majesty."

He pages 604–5 [1007–8], we read as follows:—

" In a little time after this Cromwell landed, the gar- risons in Munster revolted, Drogheda and Wexford were takeu, and most of them all put to the sword, and it is remarkable that few or none escaped out of the former, but amongst these few Dick Talbot was one, and he at this time so young, as he got away in womens apparell, to be afterwards very unfortunate to his own king and country, by the great and even wonderfull power he had over the Duke of York, w^ch miserable country wanted not all along above these 50 years past some eminent man or other, that by seeming kindness or friendship to Ireland, proved the ruin at last of those that most admired and obey'd them."

Between the last above-named pages the following is inserted, written on two leaves, marked at head, " to " come in in page 1008."

" Now I have mentioned Dick Talbot, and how he made his escape, I will give you an exact account as I can of his advancement in the Duke's favour afterwards. When the King and his two brethren banished from France, to comply with the rebellious Governmt * . . . Engl^d, his Maj^tie was forced to joyne himself with the Spanish Govern . . in the Low Countreys, upon which the Lord of Muskery's eldest son, then called Coll^ll Mus- kery, drew his reg . . from France to the Low Countreys. But the place of Lieu^t Coll^ll in th . . regim^t being vacant, Coll^ll Muskery designed the same for soue of his re . . or countrey men of Munster, in which provinco lay his auncestors estat . . , doubted not but the king would not soe much as scruple such a thing . . when he had brought his regimt from the French service to the Spania . . happened that Dick Talbot had 3 brothers with him at the same time . . Gilbert & Thomas, Peter was then in the number of the Jesuits, and . . gained by his smooth & industrious deportm^t, some favours from the Sp . . Governours, w^ch gave him encouragem^t to put his brother Dick upon . . employm^t of Lieu^t Coll^ll, and the Duke of York was gained upon to pr . . the same, the dispute & contest occasioned a duell between Mus- kery & T . . but the Duke shewed so much kindnesse to Talbot as very much dispie . . three eminent persons at that time, for Coll^ll Muskorry's father (after- war . . of Clancarty), was descended from amongst the chief princes of Munster before it be . . subject to the English Monarchy, and since that was eminent all along . . person, & his family before him from that time of the English Governm^t constantly loyall to the crowne . . According to the best intelligence I have, hee marry'd the sister of the D. of Ormond, and these were tho father & mo . . Coll^ll Muskerry. Now Talbot was, as I believe, the 7th son of S^r W^m Ta[lbot.] . . . . . whose industry . . . . . and his eldest son S^r Robert was a worthy, honest, loyall, gentleman, hee marryed the Lord Baltimore's daughter, and by her had S^r W^m & other children. His estate was in Leinster, not far from Dublin, neither could I find what estate S^r W^m the lawyer had before this time. Now Muskerry's estate being 100 miles distant from S^r William's, and in a different province, the thing seomed more strange, that a private gentleman of Leinster should get himself pre- ferred before soe many of Munster, and that soe con- trary to the inclination & intention of the Coll^ll which appeared very disobliging to these 3 great nobleman, father & uncle, and also much coudemned for the un- politick contrivance and violence of this action by the then Chanc^r, afterwards E[arl] of Clarindon. By this unfortunate action the Duke gave a jealousie to the English & Protestants, then banished men with the king, and soe rooted that they carry'd the venome thereof afterwards into Engl^d, when K. Charles was restored, for they saw the little regard that war shewed herein to Ormond and the Chanc^r, both Protestants. And wo may say that this was a parfid [sic] beginning of those miseries that afterwards ensued in the remain- ing part of K. Charles's reigne, whome they suspected to be a parcell Papist, as they were certaine the Duke was, and these Talbots was soe vain ou one side to set themselves up that they made it their busines to magnify their brother in the esteeme of the Duke, but extreamly injurious even to the highest dogree to the Duke him- self, for severall of the Irish Catholicks finding what favour Dick Talbot had with the Duke, did very unpoli- tickly countenance all they could the said Talbot, and at the same time by severall wayes. Dick Talbot was a very proper, seemly, stout gentleman, and had too much of confidence upon any occasion, whereas had he really kindly & gratefully made use of his Royal Highnesses favour and friendship, he should rather have withdrawn himself to a more moderate way . . . attendance than hee did. But heuce came on those fatall quarrells between the King & Parl^t, to this we must attribute the mock bloody plott set on foot and executed by as very a monster out of a dunghill, as nonesuscil a fop as could be gotten in the nation, I mean Dr. O[ates], who insencible of any cruelty or murdor, swore such things as could not be match'd, or at least undone by Ovid's Metamorphoses, and after this preamble of a continual perjury in this vile monster, whome at that time the people was brought to call blasphomously the saviour of the nation, and presently of . . this bloody mock prologue ensued the horrid stratagem of Rye House . . had it succeeded, I question much whither the massacre of Paris or Ul[ster] would have exceeded it. And as to the subsequent history of the Catholicks . . Irel^d, and in some measure to those in Engl^d, I leave to the perusall of . . Act of Settlem^t, and to the progresse & managem^t of K. James, and fatall ruine of himself, and those that joyned with him, as you may . . in the constant intelligence & history of the times by severall people. I am of this opinion, had K. James falne into the hands of honest & . . Councellors, he might have given law to Christendome, but being of we . . judgm^t and hurry'd away to a pernicious managem^t of affaires, when it . . too late, I verily believe he rupented, and so parted the world heart . . . Those that have a mind to describe all his actions & the deportm^t of fatall favourites & flatterers, let them please themselves therewith . . truly the reflection of these past actions makes me scarcely proof ag . . . remembrance & recollection thereof, much certainly might have bo . . corrected, managed, & mended by Cha. 2d, but that he was an unhim . . patterne of luxury who had naturall parts & ability to performe ac . . but soe lazy to bring himself to the caro & concernednesse of what . . . . . attacks of flattery, dissimulation & pleasure of viciousnesse, and the malice of their invecterate enemys. For had Cha. 2d fixed himself in a confederacy with those whome Lewis 14th made his enemies, he had soe rivetted by surh a peace the Settlem^t of Engl^d, that it should not have been in the power of his brother to have broken it, but K. James instead of this prudent course made certainly K. Lewis the President of his Councell, who for his own ambitious ends, drew K. James to his party and thence to his ruine."

* Gaps caused by damage of edges are indicated thus . . .

Digitized by Google

With the exception of that of this insertion the writing of the volume is large and uniform so far as page 614 [1017], which is not half filled, and concludes as follows in a different hand:—

"I referd you to Cox's History, who hath these transactions at full, and tho' he is an author on whom several descant variously, yett I deliver these transactions between the Catholick clergy and the then Lord Lieutenant for authentique."

After this are fair copies of "the declaration and ex- "communication of the Popish Clergy at Jamestown." These extend to page 668 [1040], where we find the following memorandum on a small slip:—

"There is wanting from this fo. 1040 to 1109, pages 68. Oct. 30th, 1748; and after page 1235."

The next page, numbered 737 and 1109 at head, and 522 at foot, is as follows; written in a small perpendicular character, different from that of the preceding portions of the volume:—

"As he left a party of foote behind him least by "staying for them he might not overtake Dungan in "time, but the Maior ran himselfe unwarily into a great "mistake for he had here to deale with a select party "that would willingly have fought any of theire number "in the parliament army, and the match for number "was very equal, the Irish divided into five troops, "comanded by Coll. William Burk afterwards Earl of "Clanrickard, by Coll. Bagnall, by Dick Butler, then "Captain Lieutennant to Dungan, by Coll. Miles Reily, "and the forlorn hopo by Maior Orourk, so as Maior "King was worsted, and his foote who were left behind "him in a mill made prissoners. But its very remark- "able that those who a few yeares before were most "violent for breaking the peace were but very indifferent "for fighting. All these I nam'd unto you were officers "that joyn'd with the Marquess of Ormond against the "Nuncio's faction, and had in this skirmish a great "many gentlemen and reform'd Officers that charg'd in "the rank as private troopers. I may also here note "unto you how foure particular Bisshops that instead of "plying their proper duty and devotions became true "Church Militants. The Archbishop of Tuam lost his "life in Connaght with the army of that province, "the Bisshop of Ross in Munster, and the Bisshop of "Clogher in Ulster, Darcy, Bisshop of Drummore must "have his share in Linster, whom the wise general "Preston made his chief favorit and even governor "of the Castle of Catherlogh, which place would have "given sufficient trouble to the parliaments forces had "the place beene put in proper hands that would have "fortifyed it as it easily might have been and provided "all other things necessary for its defence. But the "good Bisshop spent most of the little revenue he gott in "foolish hospitality and grandnss, and leaves the place "to be defended by one of his officers whilst he sceneed "himselfo elsewhere. Attempts were made to relieve "it after it was besiedged and a few poore officers with "a little remnant of the stragling army attack'd a "party of the Roundheads that convoyde a considerable "quantity of provisions from Ross to the camp in several "boates, and succeeding tooke the boates and destroyed "the provisions, thus you see how these devoute priests "chang'd the mitre for an helmet. At length Galway "surrendred, after which there was little or nothing "of fighting through the whole kingdom. In the "County of Wexford was an encounter betwixt Sr. "Walter Dungan and Lt. Collonell Throgmorton, in "which the later had the advantage. Before Galway "was taken an agent sent from the Duke of Lorrain "arrived in that citty, with whom the Ld. Deputy "Clanrichard treated, supposing indeed, that this duke "was in his undertaking to assist the King against his "rebellions Covenanters. The duke's agent prevail'd "with Clanrichard to send agents to his master, which "were Sr. Nicholas Plunkett and Jeffery Browne, whilst "they were in the Low Countries agitating this busines "pursuant to the Ld. Deputie's instructions, a letter "from the Bisshop of Fernes comes to theire hands, "which I here deliver you."

The same penmanship continues from page 737 [1109] to page 805 [1176], the matter contained in this portion of the book being mainly as follows:—Extracts from Clarendon, Burnet, Warwick, Whitelock, Cox, Le Strange, and from "Animadversions on a letter of advice to Non-conformists," 1700; denunciation of N. French, bishop of Ferns; eulogies on Marquis of Clanrickard, notices of transactions of Sir W. Dungan, Sir Robert Talbot, Sir Thomas Esmond, and Colonels O'Dwyer, Fitzpatrick, and Bagenal; references to transplantation and emigration of Irish; dialogue between Protestants, Catholics, and Puritans on "Acts of Settlement and Explanation," and reputed Popish Plots.

At page 1178 begins in a transcriber's fair hand "the introduction to the second volume of Nalson," extending to page 1215, and followed by ten leaves in the small perpendicular hand before mentioned. These pages are filled with discursive remarks on the "worthy and honest historian, Doctor Nalson;" discussions on rebellion in Ulster, the writings of Sir John Temple and Lord Anglesey; extracts from "Observators," and animadversions on the projects of Oates and Bedloe. Of the style the following is a specimen:—

"When I and some others had proceeded at least 3 "parts in this narrative or history of Ireland wee "perused the work of our honnest and loyal Observator "whose words in several places I thought reasonable "and very fitt to ad hereunto, the better to justify what "is already written, and nothing better then this last "discours can satisfy the impartial reader of the mallice "of those 2 learned pen men Anglesey and Sir John "Temple, and theire ingratitude to so gracious a prince "as was Charls the first, and his son Charls the 2d "both; and it is a remarkeable demonstration of the "principles and practises of the phanatiequos in general, "what you see in those 2 pillars of that faction, and "pray note also this—Anglesey is bitter, even to the "greatest degree of bad language, against the Irish and "Catholicks in general, yet could he for his advantage "marry one daughter to Alexander MacDonnell after- "wards Earle of Antrim, an Irish papist, and another "to the Ld. Power, an Irishman, but his religion I "know not. MacDonnel's wife I have been credibly told "was most arrogantly rude with her husband, and he, "of a pleasant humour, would onely and usualy return "in his Irish language, how can it be otherwise w^th a "man that has maryed the daughter of the devil. "Thus all men that will make a true use of theire eyes "and eares must see that these people only make use of "religion for a stalking hors, and had the Alcoran been "more for their temporal advantage then the Bible, "the Bible showld be layde aside to give place to the "other, and what Ben Johnson spoke in drolery, "conform, perform, reform, and any form, was the truth "of the same peoples tenets and practises in his dayes. "And since it appears so difficult and almost impossible "to wash this black moor white, every good Christian "should be inoffensively on theire guard against them. "And may God in his goodness and wisdom now at "length convert them to Christianity, or for the good "of Christendom in generall reduce them to a disability "of injuring theire neighbour. Before I presented you "with Nalson's introduction, I then promis'd you in the "perclose what occurd unto me (if any did) that I "thought necessary to be added hereunto. Pray then "consider how unseasonable as well as foolish was "that barbarous rebellion in Ulster, for it perfectly "ruin'd themselves, as it did the king, and gave the "most desirable advantage imaginable to the Cove- "nanting rebels in the 3 nations." pp. 1219–20.

The volume ends as follows, with the page now numbered 1235:—

"Tho next particular that I think fitt to present unto "you is the petition and protestation of 12 Protestant "Bisshops abbreviated. That it is thoire indubitable "right to vote in Parliament, and accordingly are ready "to do their duty, and abhominat all actions or opinions

Digitized by Google

" tending to papery. But in coming to perform that " service were lately chaced away, and put in danger " of theire lives, and can find no redres or protection " upon sundry complaints made to both Houses in these " particulars, and dare not sit in the House untill his " Ma^ty secure them from all affronts, indignities, and " dangers in the premisses; that they were thus absent " from the 27th of 10br 1641. And humbly beseechd " that the Clerk of the House of Peers might enter this " their petition and protestation amongst the records. " Give mo leave hero to resemble this passage to the " condition of the Irish Catholicks in Ireland upon the " first breaking out of the Ulster rebellion. The par- " liament before this was represented as you have it " formerly sett downe under the loyalest character that " pen could express, and in this parliament were almost, " if not fully, as many Catholicks as Protestants. The " parliament that sate in November at Dublin declared " against the Ulster men, but soone after you find it " difficult if not impossible, for any of that religion to " gett thither with safety. In this extreame some of " the nobility and gentry signe a petition to the king, " and entrust the same to Sr. John Reade. The gov- " erning Jnstices instead of permitting him to attend " his Ma^ty therewith, seize upon this gentleman, rack " him contrary to law, and also Barnwall of Killerew, " and the whole substance of their queries was to sepers " the king with the Ulster rebellion. The Lord Dillon " and Tuaf who gott into England upon the same " accompt of addressing and petitioning the king, " were taken and robd of theire papers and themselves " imprisond, they having these papers and petitions if " any thing therein savord of rebellion, why were they " not printed and published no—"

From internal literary evidence, I would conclude that the oldest portion of the manuscript now under notice was not originally compiled earlier than the close of the 17th century.

Carte's tendencies, no doubt, caused him to regard it to be, as he described it, "wrote with great temper, " modesty, candour, and regard to truth."

This character appears, however, scarcely reconcilable with the violent and opprobrious language applied throughout the pages at present before us to the Nuncio Rinuccini, the native Irish, their bishops, clergy, and others who acted in opposition to the Marquis of Ormonde and his party.

The nature of the contents of the now missing portions of the manuscript may be gathered from the following extracts from Carte's unpublished abstract:

"A Treatise or Account of the War and Rebellion in Ireland since the year 1641.

"Lib. I., p. 1. A few friends join together to make a collection of the most material passages since 1641, of which some of us have been eye-witnesses.

" Pp. 6, 15, 20. He makes K. James's attainting Tyrone and his adherents, and dividing six counties in Ulster among British inhabitants (except some small parts reserved to gratify well-affected natives), confiscating the estates of the natives one cause of the rebellion.

" See Nalson's collections, fol. 48. Introd, and fol. 61. Vol. i., f. 197, 277. Introd., fol. 63. Whitlock, fol. 35, p. 209, 231, the council all Prot. (23 March, 1639), and Declaration of Parl. with the subsidies, fol. 344, 376.

" P. 40. They drew the factious heads of all parties to carry on their design against the E. of Strafford, whose letter of April 1 and 2, 1639 had exasperated the Scots. Sir H. Vane communicated all to them.

" P. 47. The Parliament of 1639 promiscuously composed of Catholics and Protestants.

" P. 48. They soon after corrupted the P[rivy] C[ouncil] and brought over to their faction Sir W. Parsons, Sir C. Coote, Sir Adam Loftus, Sir J. Borlace, and Sir Robert Meredith, and brought not only Protestants but some Catholics (irritated on the execution of the search after Defective Titles) to join against E[arl] of S[trafford].

" Nalson, vol. 2, fol. 1, p. 4, 15, 23, 70, 79 (vol. 1, p. 509).

" P. 73. See Whitlock for Strafford's coming to Parliament on the King's assurances. See his character, ib.

" P. 93. Nalson, vol. 2, p. 80.

" P. 110. The Irish army disbanded, none of them of any trade but that of the sword, the King intending to send them abrond obstructed by the contrivance of the Puritans. Then the provocations of the Puritan faction by petitions and papers. Success of the Scots. Seeing how even Protestant bishops were prosecuted.

" P. 111. He thinks the truth of the Ulster rebellion set forth by Lord Macguire, as in Nalson, v. 2, p. 543.

" P. 140. Mr. Roger Moore the first that laid the foundation of the rebellion & Tirone to recover his estate heark'ned to it, and when he was dead his place supplied by Owen Roe O'Neile. Moore laid the foundation, and speaking to one Fleming his brother-in-law who asked whence the rebellion sprung & who begun it, said, to deal ingenuously with you, I was the man that began it. Fleming said then, by God I was mistaken for I thought the devil had begun it, and yet if the Palo were concerned nobody was so likely to know as Fleming.

" P. 141. Sir J. Temple makes Col. Plunket and Capt. Fox concerned; the latter unknown, but Col. Plunket was a younger son of Sir. Chr. Plunket of Dunsoghly. Sir Nic. Bagnal, Knt., Marshal of Ulster, commanding the province, had several daughters, one married to Loftus Archbp of Dublin, of whom Sir Adam Loftus P[rivy] C[ouncillor] & a Puritan. Another to Plunket, Lord of Lowth; a third to Barnwell of Turvy, after Lord Barnwell of Kingsland; a fourth to this Sir Chr. Plunket; a fifth to Tyrone, died s[ine] p[role]. The rest had numerous issues. Sir Chr.'s mother was daughter to FitzWilliams, Lord of Merriong, which daughter after her first husband Plunkot's death married Preston Lord Gormanston, by whom a numerous issue.

" P. 142. Sir Christopher who was related to the best families of the Pale, was himself descended from Plunket, Lord of Killeone, afterwards E[arl] of Fingall. Luke E. of Fingal after his first wife's death married a niece of Sir Christopher Plunket's. Besides which, Plunket Lord of Dunsany and Plunket of Rathmore were branches of the house of Fingall; whereby Col. Richard Plunket had a numerous relation in Leinster, and the fittest man Roger Moore could pitch on for his purpose. When Sir Chr. Plunket was sent agent out of Ireland to the King he entered with him the son of his, & after he had bestowed upon him what breeding the English court could afford, he got him a command in Flanders. There in a short time he was advanced from his first post, being a man of singular good parts, and those accompanied with a suitable conversation and pleasant affability. Moor's advantages were no less than the other; his extraction honourable & ancient, his ancestors very considerable before the English Governments, & spoken in English and Irish, affable and courteous, but far beyond Plunket in that of design and policy, & one of the most handsome, comely, and proper persons of his time. He married a sister of Nic. Barnewall, late Lord of Kingsland, and had by her several children; his eldest son lived till the time of K. James 2.

" P. 143. One of his daughters he married to Sarsfield, whose son Patrick lately deceased was afterwards Lord Lucan, another daughter to Col. H. O'Neile a popular man in Ulster, not Sir Harry, father of Sir Nealo O'Neale. And so generally was he taking among the Irish that in a song they made a few words thereof were these. God and our Lady be our assistance and Roger Moore. His wife was cousin german to Plunket, & so allied to his many relations, so as they helped to close those two in friendship, and indeed two more fit could not be found but for this fatal design. Moore was piqued by the loss of his aneient patrimony, & tho' Plunket was a younger brother a meer man of fortune, yet besides his expectations of improving himself, he wanted not some provocations on account of his eldest brother heir to Sir Chr. Plunket, who married one of the daughters and heirs of Fr. Tregeon of Goldin in Cornwall, and he in Q. Eliz.'s time lost his whole estate which was very considerable on account of his religion. Many years was he a prisoner besides, & at last got to Portugal & died poor at Lisbon. His son-in-law Plunket set up for the recovery of his estate, but in prosecution of it ran in debt, so that his brother Col. Plunket found him on his coming out of Flanders a prisoner on that account, and sickly besides. Moore was much the more politick man, & seeing into Col. Plunket and finding him a great bigot, used the same spur & cheat of religion which you find in Macguire's declaration as he did to others, & also fixed Barnwell the clergyman in his interest, who being no less ambitious and covetous than y^e laity made himself a tool fit for Moore's contrivance.—Ibid.

" Whatever Sir J[ohn] T[emple] says, Plunket and Fox were the most considerable men in the Pale, at least the rest would have been known, and Plunket in his vanity might boast more than he was certain of, & was as certainly deluded by Moore and Sir Phel. O'Neale with that false pretence of acting herein for the King against the Covenanters. (See Nalson, v. 2, f. 545.)

" P. 145. The foundation of the rebellion laid many years before by injuries to the Irish, by K. James the first's giving away their estates, & inquisition into defective titles, drove on impolitickly by Lord Strafford irritating such as suffered thereby, their friends and relations (many legally possessed of estates having lost their writings & suffering by the enquiry) who were prevailed on by y^ Puritans to join in prosecuting Lord Strafford. Irritated by petitions and rumours industriously spread by the Parliamentarians. The Irish in Ulster swallowed the bait, & commenced the work with the correspondence and concurrence of some, though very few, in the other provinces, as this Moore and Birn and Cavanagh in Leinster, and the design was also urged on by the emissaries of O. Roe O'Neale, an implacable enemy to the family of the Stewarts, choosing rather this horrid design of Ulster apart from the rest and to execute revenge on K. James's planters, then to join in assisting the K. against the English and Scotch rebels. The rest were brought in gradatim necessitated on one side by the preposterous and designed severity of the Lords Justices, and wheedled in on the other by the perswasions of the Irish clergy of Ulster.

Digitized by Google

" P. 189. Sir Nic. Plunket writ a narrative of his own life in his own hand; & says, Christ. Lord Baron of Killeen and Jane Dillon his wife, sister to the E[arl] of Roscommon had issue Nic. Plunket, their 3d son, born Dec. 1602, who was 10 years old at his father's death, and chose Knight of the shire for the C. of Meath in 1634, with Patrick Hussey of Galtrim, and afterwards in another Parliament with Sir R. Barnwell, during the sessions of which Parliam^t, he was with others deputed into Eng., whence returning with several gracious concessions from the K[ing] at the latter end of Aug. 1641; the Parliament was adjourned then to Nov., to whom they were to give an account of their commission; and when it met was soon prorogued, Mich. Term put off, and the Lords Justices, by Proclamation, ordered all who had dwellings in the countray to repair to their country houses. Sir N. Plunket did so till he found it necessary to repair to Dublin to avoid being engaged in arms. For this end he sent his wife thither in Feb. 1641, to procure the Lords Justices' pass and protection for his repair thither, where she was told by some person of quality that it was not safe for the said N. P. to come thither. All the Roman Catholics that had been employed as agents being suspected of having had a hand in raising the rebellion, and if he were there he would be racked to find out the ground of this suspicion. In this condition his harvest and all that he had in the country for his livelyhood was in Aug., or Sept., 1642, taken away by the Eng. and Irish, his house burnt, and he forced to retire into an island for the safety of his person. There, being informed of a general meeting of the nation at Kilkenny to employ agents to his M[ajesty], he went thither with his family, about the latter end of Oct., 1642. He was chose chairman of that assembly, and at the end of it one of the Supreme Council, which gained subsistance to himself and family.

" P. 192. Col. Bagnal was one of the hostages in 1652, given for performance of articles of Kilkenny, but though Axtel hated him, and he was advised to escape, he refused, trusting only to his innocence, having done no murder, nor put any man to death, but one N. Stone, a spy, whilst he was Governor of the county of Catherlogh.

" P. 193. When he was by the Supreme Council made Governor of the county of C[arlow], Mr. James Butler of Tynebinch, brother to the Lord Mountgarret, was competitor with him for the place, and missing his aim, advised him to write a warrant to put this Stone to death; Bagnal, then just turned of 30 (Butler above 60), ordered it. Butler advised the wife of the man who had Bagnal's order to keep it carefully for preventing future danger. Bagnal when hostage ten years after, was arraigned for this and other murders in Lady Butler's Dep[osition] (Sir J. T[emple], fol. 224), who summoned to give witness against him, though the whole story was but hearsay from one Dorothy Reynolds, wife to a native of the country, enemy to Bagnal on account of his estate. Nor does she charge Bagnal with the murder of the 35; and in her evidence she deposed nothing of consequence against B. at his trial, so that he had been acquitted if they had not arraigned the wife of the man, as egging Bagnal thereto, who by B.'s orders executed Stone. She heroically sent for a friend of Bagnal's & told him: Sir, your friend Col. B. will be tried for the death of Stone, and I am imprisoned for it; all they aim at from me is to get the warrant my husband had for his execution, thereby to charge Bagnal. Here take the warrant, carry it to B., my life is not worthy to be saved where he is in danger, if he thinks it will injure him let him burn it. I'll leave myself to God, if it will do him no hurt, bring it to me again. B., after perusing, returned it. 'Twas this,—Whereas proof is made before me that W. Stone a late convert hath lately and often resorted to the garrison of Duncannon with intelligence as a spy. These are therefore to will and require you to apprehend the said W. Stone, and him so apprehended to hang till he be dead, or words to this purpose. Bagnal tho' an hostage, was tried and shot to death at Kilkenny, tho' he apprehended no guilt, either on evidence of the warrant, or rather his own confession, and yet so ill an opinion of their sentence, that they sent in vain to Loghlin bridge for intelligence of Sir J. T[emple]'s 35 murdered persons. As to Sir J. T's charge of designs against Lady Butler, &c., they needed only have left them to the rabble, and it had been done.

" Pp. 200, 1. He does not believe what is said of Lord Mountgarret, who was known to be a lover of the English, lived mostly among them before the rebellion, and with his own hands killed one of the Irish that attempted to plunder some of the English in Kilkenny.

" P. 209. He supposes Owen O'Conolly a spy of Sir W. Parsons, and Sir J. Clotworthy on whom he was a dependant or servant, as Ludlow owns in his memoirs (f. 17), and had he not pretended to be a Roman Catholic, they would hardly have trusted him in such a business. See Sir J. T[emple], f. 139."

In addition to the details already given, I may state that in 1741, printed proposals as follow, were issued for the publication of Plunket's Manuscript:—

" Proposals for printing by subscription, a faithful History of the Rebellion and Civil Wars in Ireland, from its beginning in the year 1641 to its conclusion. With an introductory account of the true state and condition of that kingdom before the year 1641, and the most material passages and actions which since that time have contributed to the calamities it hath undergone. Written by Nicholas Plunkett, Esq., and communicated to Mr. Dryden, who revised, corrected, and approved it. Published from the author's original manuscripts by his grandson, Henry Plunkett, Esq. Conditions: I. This work will contain about 130 sheets, printed on a neat letter, and good paper. 2. The price to subscribers will be one guinea, viz., one half to be paid down, and the remainder on delivery of a perfect book in sheets. 3. Those who subscribe for six books shall have a seventh gratis. 4. The work will be put to press as soon as 250 copies shall be subscribed for. N.B.—A few will be printed on a large paper for the curious at a guinea and half each. Specimens may be seen, and subscriptions are taken in by the undertaker, Thomas Meighan, in Drury Lane, London, by George Faulkner, printer hereof, and I. Kelly, bookseller in Mary's-lane [Dublin]."

Ware's editor in 1746 refers to Plunket's work, as then remaining in manuscript, and mentions that it had been proposed to be printed by subscription by the author's grandson.

Dublin. J. T. GILBERT.

CORRESPONDENCE AND PAPERS OF WILLIAM KING, ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN, SUBMITTED BY ROBERT D. LYONS, Esq., M.D., DUBLIN.

This collection consists of papers and letters addressed to, written by, or connected with William King, from 1681 to 1729.

King, born in 1650, graduated at Trinity College, Dublin, where he studied under the learned Henry Dodwell. In 1679 King was appointed Chancellor of St. Patrick's and Rector of St. Werburgh's, Dublin.

He published tracts in 1687-8 against the arguments put forward by Peter Manby, Dean of Derry, who had renounced the Protestant religion.

King in 1688 obtained the Deanery of St. Patrick's, but for his compliety with the revolutionary party was imprisoned by the Jacobite Government in Dublin. He preached before William III., in St. Patrick's, in 1690, and in the same year was appointed Bishop of Derry.

In 1691, he published at London "The state of the "Protestants of Ireland under the late King James's "government, in which their carriage towards him is "justified, and the absolute necessity of their endeavour- "ing to be freed from his government, and of sub- "mitting to their present Majesties is demonstrated."

This work was found so serviceable to King's party, that within one year three editions of it were issued under government licence, dated White-hall, October 15, 1691.

The publication at London was superintended by Sir Robert Southwell, King William's Secretary of State for Ireland, and the present collection contains letters in connexion with it from him and its publisher, Robert Clavel "at the Peacock at the West end St. Paul's; Appendix I.

Digitized by Google

Notwithstanding the restrictions on the théé press, an anonymous writer contrived to have printed in 1692, "An answer to a book intituled, The State of the Protestants in Ireland under the late King James's government; in which, their carriage towards him is justified, and the absolute necessity of their endeavouring to be free'd from his government, and submitting to their present Majesties, is denied." This author animadverted severely on King's conduct and principles, impugned his veracity, and prayed "that God might give him grace to repent sincerely and confess honestly all the errors, wilful or malicious representations, in this book of his."

The answer to King was ascribed to the Rev. Charles Leslie,* an eminent non-juror. Some memoranda in the autograph of King, in the present collection—but without heading or indication of their character—I have identified as his notes for an answer to Leslie's book. They will be found in Appendix II.

In 1694–5, King published theological discourses and admonitions intended to influence the Dissenters in his diocese of Derry, which were replied to by their ministers.

King's treatise "De origine mali," printed at Dublin in 1702, was dedicated to his friend Sir Robert Southwell, who made arrangements for the publication of an edition of it in London. It was criticized by Bayle in the "Nouvelles de Repnblique des Lettres," was subsequently translated and annotated by Law, Bishop of Carlisle, and was used by Pope for his "Essay on Man."

King was appointed Archbishop of Dublin in 1702, held office as a Lord Justice for Ireland in 1714–1717–1721; and died unmarried in 1729.

The present collection contains several letters in the handwriting of King, and some addressed to him by the following, amongst hundreds from numerous correspondents of lesser note:—

Jacques Abbadie, dean of Killaloe; Lord Abercorn; Robert Adair; Joseph Addisont; Lord Anglesey; Francis Annesley, commissioner for Irish forfeitures; St. George Ashe, Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, 1692–95, Bishop of Cloyne, 1695–97, of Clogher, 1697–1716, and of Derry, 1716–1717; Lord Athenry; Lady Beresford; George Berkeley,‡ (1710), subsequently Bishop of Cloyne; Dissing Bolton, Bishop of Elphin (1729–1729); James Bonnell, accountant-general of Ireland; Jane Bonnell; Lord Breadalbane; Sir Richard Bulkeley, F.R.S.; Gilbert Burnet; Ezekiel Burridge, author of "Historia nuperæ mutationis," 1690, etc.; Dr. Arthur Charlett, master of University College, Oxford; Lord Clifford; Henry Compton, Bishop of London; Thomas Coningsby, Lord Justice for Ireland, 1690; Sir Richard Cox; Charles Delafaye; Patrick Delany; Simon Digby, Bishop of Limerick (1678–1691), and Elphin (1691–1720); Henry Dodwell‡; Dive Downs, Bishop of Cork (1699–1709); Countess of Drogheda; Sir Patrick Dun, physician to the State in Ireland; Lord Dungarvan; William Fitzgerald, Bishop of Clonfert (1691–1722); Nathaniel Foy, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore (1691–1707); Edmund Gibson, Bishop of London; Lady Gormanstown; Lord Gormanstown; General Frederick Hamilton, M.P. for Coleraine, privy councillor and colonel of royal regiment of foot; Sir Patrick Hamilton; William Hamilton, Archdeacon of Armagh, author of "Life of Bonnell; Francis Higgins; John Hooper, Bishop of Bangor; Robert Howard, fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, Bishop of Killala (1720–1729), and of Elphin (1729–1740); Lord Howth; Francis Hutcheson, author of "System of Moral Philosophy;" Lady Lanesborough; Sir Arthur Langford; Sir Richard Levinge, solicitor-general, attorney-general, and chief Justice of Common Pleas; Lord Limerick; Owen Lloyd; William Lloyd, Bishop of Worcester (1710); Francis Marsh, Archbishop of Dublin (1681–1693); Lord Meath; Thomas Mills, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, 1707–1740; Robert Molesworth,* author of Account of Denmark; Samuel Molyneux, secretary to Prince of Wales; John Moore, Bishop of Norwich; Lord Mount Alexander; Lord Mountjoy; Lord Mountrath; William Nicholson, Bishop of Carlisle and of Derry; William Palliser, Archbishop of Cashel; Sir Lawrence Parsons; John Robinson, Bishop of London; Alexander Rose, Bishop of Edinburgh; William Sheridan, Bishop of Kilmore, deprived as a non-juror in 1691; Edward Smith, Bishop of Down and Connor; Thomas Smyth, Bishop of Lismore (1695–1725); Lord Southwell; Sir Robert Southwell, secretary for Ireland, and his son and successor Edward Southwell; Sir John St. Leger, Baron of Exchequer; John Stearne, Dean of St. Patrick's, Dublin, 1704–1713, Bishop of Dromore, 1713–1717, and of Clogher, 1717–1745; George Story, Dean of Limerick, author of "History of wars of Ireland." 1688–1691; Earl of Sunderland, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1714; Viscount Sydney, Lord Justice and Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1690–1692; Richard Tenison, Bishop of Clogher (1690–97); Charles Trimnell, Bishop of Norwich; John Vesey, Archbishop of Tuam, 1678–1716; Bartholomow Vigors, Bishop of Ferns; William Wake, Archbishop of Canterbury; Edward Wetenhall, Bishop of Kilmore; Charles Willoughby, M.D.; Thomas Wilson, Bishop of Sodor and Man; Thomas Wyndham, Chancellor of Ireland.

The principal subjects of general interest treated of or referred to in this correspondence, may be detailed chronologically as follows:—

1681.—Charles Holeroft on wars of Charles I. in England and Ireland, in which he was engaged.

1684–5.—Correspondence with Moses Pit and Benjamin Tooke, booksellers.

1687.—H. Dodwell on King's answer to Manby and on printing in England and Ireland; Appendix VI.

1688.—Collection for distressed families in Dublin.

1689.—Protestant clergy in County Wicklow harassed by tories.

1690.—War in Ireland.—State of Protestant Church in Dublin.—Administration of oath of fealty to Roman Catholics.—Legislative devices to deprive Roman Catholics of their estates. — Presbyterians encouraged in County Derry by London company with the object of letting waste lands to them.

1691.—Sieges of Ballymoro and Athlone; Appendix III.—Disputes in corporation of Derry.—Death of Duke of Tyrconnel.—Capitulation of Limerick.—Bishop of Meath dismissed from council for inflammatory sermon against Irish.—Viscount Sydney appointed Lord Lieutenant; Sir John Temple Attorney General; General Ruvigny Viscount Galway; "a man of the cabinet as well as skilled in war, to manage affairs of army."—Distress of Castallina, Lady Lambart.—State of diocese of Derry, dangerous to Protestant Church from Scotch settlers; non-residents and pluralists.—Licence for publication of "State of Protestants."

1692.—Refusal of Queen Mary to sign letter appointing Samuel Synge to see of Killaloe.†—Suggestions

---

* Appendix XVI.

† The following letters in the present collection supply new details on this remarkable affair and elucidate the obscure passages connected with it in Burnet's "History of his own time," 1833, iv. 360. That writer expressly noted that he refrained from naming "the person," but referred to him as "a branch of a great family" of Ireland. Bishop Mant in his Church History of Ireland (1840, 30-32) does not give Synge's name in full, and states erroneously that the see in question was that of Kilmore, vacant by deprivation of William Sheridan, hereafter noticed:—

"My Lord, Kildare, Decem' 17, 1692.

"On the death of Dr. Roan, late bishop of Killaloe, it pleas'd my Lord Lieu' to recom'end me to the Queen for a fitt person to succeed him in that bishoprick, w'ch her Ma'ie was at first pleas'd to grant, but when the letter came to be sign'd her Ma'ie refus'd it, on some very ill character that was given of me. I have endeavored all I could to finde from whence this information should come, and all I can learn (with any certainty) is, that a letter was sent to the Queen subscribed Elis. Grant, in which I was represented to her Ma'ie as a person altogether unfitt for such a promotion in the Church. But a gentleman newly come out of England, has said before some persons of quality in Dublin that Dr. Sheridan, the late Bpp. of Kilmore, told him that he knew the information given to the Queen in my prejudice was by your Excie. Your Ex'ys general character, as well as behaviour to all men, makes me assur'd that in this your Ex'ys p. is abus'd, w'ch I the rather am satisfied in, since, by a strict enquiry into that time in w'ch I had the honour of y' Ex'ys frequent conversation, as well as since y' Ex'ys promotion to that station you worthily possesse, I cannot finde anything in y' Ex'ys demeanour to me, that might make me apprehend it, or anything I have done to deserve soe severe a character from y' Ex'y, and therefore, I cannot but conclude, that he who has thus privately wounded me, would not unworthily shelter himself under y' Ex'ys name. I would not give y' Ex'y the trouble of a let', would the distance allow of my attending on you myself, and therefore I doe beseech y' Ex'ys pardon that in justice to y' rep, as well as in some little regard for myself, this address is made to y' Ex'y, by,

"My lord,

"Y' Ex'y's most humble servant,

"For "SAM. SYNGE.

"The Right Reverend Father in God,
"The Lord Bishop of Derry, at London Derry.

[Endorsed] "Dean Synge, Dec' 17, 1692."

---

* For, Bishop of Waterford, wrote as follows in a letter to Bishop King, dated 19 May, 1693, in the present collection: "Some little scholastick news I have to acquaint your lordship with, all of which, perhaps you have receiv'd a more particular acct. already, but for this time I shall run the hazzard of it. The book against your lord'p was in the MSS. copy, found in Clavis Lesley's study, who upon the discovery fled and now absconds. Mr. Churchill is employed to search for it in Bt. Library, and sifting the most usefull of them for the press, and he with Mr. Kettlewell, has wrote two books to prove us all schismaticks; the B. of Cloyne has begun his predecessor's which he designs for the press, De ratione Studii Theologici, the Royall Society are upon a design of sending two of their members, Mr. Middleton and Mr. Halley, to saile round the world in order to make correct observa'ons of the longitudes and latitudes of all places, Dr. Allen's great work of the coun' goes on apace, Mr. Harmer, an English clergyman, has publisht shrewd remarques upon the B. of S' History of the Reformation, which give him much trouble, and the Ab. of Cant. Sermons of the Divinity and incarnation of our Lord are come out very reasonably, and are much applauded."

† For Addison's letters, see Appendix XX.

‡ Appendix XIV. § Appendix VI.

Digitized by Google

by E. Burridge for establishing school at Dublin to be exemplary to all the rest and to be endowed out of Irish forfeited estates. — Proposal by Bishop Foy of method for future selection of bishops for Ireland. Considerations on pluralists and their consequences. Pluralities and non-residence, "the very pests of the church, arise from impropriation of most of the parochial endowments."—Dioceses, which have suffered most by impropriations, Meath, Kildare, and Lismore; in the last, of 59 rectories, 42 are impropriate, and 24 of them to one man.—Proposed legislation on impropriate tithes and purchase of them by Government, partly out of taxes and partly out of incomes of future bishops.—Plan for supplying curates and vicars with books.—Intrigues for bishopric of Raphoe; the candidates satirized by "E. Reader, a great pluralist."—Republication of State of Protestants.

1693.—Lord Capel's conferences with George Story and Bishop King.—Question on right of nomination to deanery of St. Patrick's, Dublin.—Irish prayer books for Highlanders in diocese of Derry.—Hawks presented by Bishop King to Lord Lieutenant Sydney.—Correspondence with James Bonnell, accountant-general. Affair of Bishop King with Colonel Murray.—High character of Ezekiel Burridge.

1694.—State of Protestant Church in Ireland; the churches out of repair, many of them uncovered, must soon fall.—Clergy, where justices of the peace will let them, deny that they may not be under the necessity of maintaining curates.—Dean Ward's litigation concerning his jurisdiction in Connor.—Bishop King's discourse to Presbyterians replied to by their writers. More and more countenance shown to Dissenters by Government.—Bishop Foy's complaints of open immorality in his diocese of Waterford—difficult to be controlled through ecclesiastical courts.—Publication of Boyse's remarks on Bishop King's discourse to Dissenters.—Plans for reply to Boyse.

1695.—Affairs of Sir John Dillon and his wife Mary, grand daughter to Parker, Archbishop of Tuam.

1696.—Support of Bishop King by Lloyd, Bishop of Lichfield.

1697.—Bishop Foy reviled by family of Dean Synge for supposed prevention of advancement of latter to bishoprics.—Lord Clifford objects to breach of public faith in infringement on articles of Limerick.

1698.—Bishop King's law-suit with the London Society respecting lands in Derry; petition of Society against proceedings of Peers in Ireland; address to the Crown to send for Bishop King: the serjeant-at-arms, his deputy, and the lieutenant of Derry all in custody. The Peers in England resolve to overthrow all jurisdiction in the Peerage of Ireland.—Parliament in Ireland alleged to be in the hands of three men.—Suggestion of Francis Annesley to reject money bills in Ireland for barracks "which are platforms for arbitrary power."—English legislation against Irish woollen manufacture.—Andrew Hamilton's answer to Cragheed's book.

1699.—Complaints in Ireland that she is run down in England upon every occasion, whether as to property or jurisdiction, and is now sought to be controlled by laws framed in England.—View of Sir Robert Southwell that the dependence of Ireland on England is to be preserved only by cherishing and not crushing those English Protestants there "who have nothing on this side "Paradise to adhere to but old England." Question on decree in favour of Lord Ward of Dudley in chancery of Tipperary. Interposition of Bishop of Salisbury on behalf of Bishop King in House of Lords, London. Jurisdiction of House of Peers in Ireland repudiated in England. Progress in English Parliament of bill for resumption of Irish forfeitures and impropriate tithes; debates on their clauses.—Proceedings of trustees of Irish forfeitures.—Bill passed in House of Lords, England, against Papists; Duke of Ormonde and 16 lords speak against it.—Necessity for a Parliament in Ireland to support and give supplies to army, and yet the vitals of that Parliament already in a manner overthrown.—Representations of Dean of Derry to Chancellor of England, concerning alleged violence of Bishop King.—Quarrel between Lady Eustace, Sir Thomas Newcomen's daughter, and Colonel Luttrell, creates "two "very furious parties amongst Papists."—Sir Richard Bulkeley's proposal to endow a college on his estate at Dunlavan, 20 miles from Dublin; Appendix IV.—Illness and death of Stillingfleet, Bishop of Worcester; his library worth between 3,000*l.* and 4,000*l.*—Case of Archdeacon Matthews of Lisburn, who had six distinct cures in his archdeaconry and prebend, and never did the office of a minister in any of them.—Death of James Bonnell.—Correspondence with his widow concerning his monument, biography, and writings.—Account of Bonnell prepared by Strype, cousin of Mrs. Bonnell.

1700.—Mark Bagot's claims on trustees of forfeitures.—Bishop King in London.—Prosecution of Rev. Mr. Kirkwood in court of Bishop of Clogher.—Rochester appointed Lord Lieutenant.—Visit of Lord Galway to Clogher.—Death of Dr. John Lesley. Correspondence with Peter Browne, Provost of Trinity College, relative to work on "Origin of Evil;" Appendix V.—Charges against Mr. Conolly before trustees of forfeitures.—Mrs. Bonnell importunes Bishop King to carry out his promise of writing her husband's biography.—Protestant opposition to re-appointment of David Melvill, Provost of Strabane, as he has a strong party of Presbyterians, and discourages people who go to Church.—Affairs of Sir Robert Adair. Proceedings on claims for Irish forfeitures.—Report of trustees brought to England by Mr. Annesley of the county Kildare.—Henry Dodwell on independence of Parliament in Ireland and on schism with church in England in connexion with case of Bishop Sheridan of Kilmore; Appendix VI.

1701.—Letters of Provost Peter Browne on theories in King's work, "On origin of evil."—Biography of Bonnell; letters of his widow.—Divisions in Convocation in England.—Extension of time for Commission on Irish forfeitures.—Davenant's Discourse on resumption of Irish forfeitures.—Remarks of E. Burridge on anonymous publication entitled "Jus Regium," concerning Irish forfeitures: "It sets forth the King's title and "the hardships of the resumption; it has made a great "noise, and they expect to find the author; there are "very bold things in it, and it has stunned some "people."—Proceedings in London Parliament on war. Levy of landmen and seamen.—Parnell in Trinity College, Dublin.—Completion of treatise "De origine "mali."—Affairs of Established Church: Proposal to solicit Crown and Parliament to take off incumbrances from forfeited impropriations.—Arrangements for publishing treatise "De origine mali" in Dublin and London.—Life of Bishop Bedell lent to Bishop Burnet's friend, Sir Richard Bulkeley, now in England.

1702.—Accession of Queen Anne, &c.—appointment of officials; Appendix VII.—Proposed union with Scotland may serve to create necessity of union with Ireland: considerations on those subjects.—Addresses from clergy in Ireland to Queen.—Quarrel between John Pooley, Bishop of Cloyne, and Bishop King.—Petition in opposition to Bishop King's proceedings against Matthews in diocese of Down.—Competition between Clavel and Tooke, London booksellers, for treatise "De "origine mali;" Appendix VIII.—Publication of Bonnell's life by Archdeacon Hamilton.—Negociations for post of major in Colonel Stanhope's regiment for Irvine, brother-in-law of Bishop King.—Death of Michael Boyle, Primate of Ireland.—Efforts of Sir Robert Hamilton to obtain the primacy for Bishop King.—Convocation of clergy in London.—Forfeited impropriations settled on Church through exertions of Bishop Foy of Waterford and Bishop Lindsay of Killaloe.—Too numerous addresses from Clergy in Ireland to Queen Anne.—Collections in Ireland for Vandois and Scotch Clergy.—Retirement of Sir R. Southwell from office; succeeded by his son Edward.—Objections of Thomas Smyth, Bishop of Limerick, to Bishop King's scheme of subscription for general fund for Church purposes, and their promotion in Parliament.—King

" My Ld',
" The favour of your lordships Pre came yesterday to my hands, wch when I read, I could not but think myself guilty of a greater fault then indiscretion, should I tax your Pship with what your Pre mentions of giving an information against me, & a severe character of me. But my ld, if I remember aright, I gave your lordship a generall account of my hard usage lately at Dublin, & then told your Pship that Mr. Sheridon had named your lordship for it, wch, in justice to your Pship's character in all respects I cannot believe, & since nothing is more com'on than private Pres with mean names or none at all, & publicke rumors in wch men's reputations are to freely handled, & most com'only without ground, I was apprehensive your lordship might have suffered by a com'on report, as well as I had by a secrett Pre, & therefore my intent was to doe that justice to your Pship, that I might reasonably expect from another's charity. What p'ticular information or character Dr. Sheridon gave your Pship gave of me I know not, nor cannot learn, & it is my greatest misfortune to be represented under a hard character, & yet can neither know an p'ticuler instance of my misbehaviour, nor the p'son who says I am faulty. In all matters that relate to me, I should desire no other judge than your Pship, & am so little apprehensive of hard usage from your ld'ship that I should not decline your ld'ship's judgmt. in my reputat'on & character, notwithstanding what Dr. Sheridon says, who, I am confident, takes it on some private whisper, & no just ground. I humbly beg your l'dship's pardon that I thus rudely addresse you with another hand, but a painefull indisposic'on wch God Almighty is pleased to lay upon me, will, I hope, plead for, my l'd,
" Your most obedient humble servt.,
" SAM. SYNGE.

" Kildare, 9th Jan'r 1692.

" For the Right Revd. father in God, "William, L'd Bishop of Derry, at [Endorsed] Londonderry.
" Dean Synge, Jan. 9, 1692."

appointed Archbishop of Dublin.—Correspondence with Charles Hickman, his successor in see of Derry.—Affairs of Mrs. Warren, who had endeavoured to procure liberation of Dr. King from prison in 1689.—Bishop Hickman's arrangements of dispute in the London Society connected with lands in Derry.—Henry Dodwell on schism in Protestant Church: Case of William Sheridan, Bishop of Kilmore, deposed for refusing to take oaths to William and Mary; Appendix VI.—Turbulence and indiscretion in Convocation in Ireland.—Proceedings in Parliament of Scotland.—Presbyterian interest there has become weakened.—Independence of Parliament in Ireland not admitted in England.—Correspondence with Samuel Leeson, Mayor of Derry, respecting prosecution of Edward MacColgan, a Popish priest who had solemnized several marriages.—Priests in county Derry have all refused the abjuration oath.—Warrant issued against James O'Hegarty, a regular, in the county Donegal.—Some gentlemen in Donegal very vigorous on behalf of priests; particularly one, who at sessions there said publicly that, if he could not have the priest released, "he would get it done in spite of us."—Preparations for Convocation.—Bishop of London apprises Archbishop King that the great feuds between the Bishops and Clergy of Ireland make it difficult for the English to serve this Church, give great scandal, and much lessen the credit and interest of the Church of Ireland to the last degree.—John Lovett's candidature for representation of county of Dublin.—Affairs of Derry magistracy; disasters in town council.

1704–5.—Convocation of Established Church in Ireland. — Letters of Archbishop King from London.—Litigation there on his claims on Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Dublin.—His preaching so well liked in London that he has customers enough from all parts to beg sermons; preaches before the Queen in her chapel, and to a great auditory at St. Margaret's Westminster.—Recovery of lands of Seatown for see of Dublin.—Proceedings in Parliament of Scotland. — Protestant Church in Rotterdam, South Carolina, and Plantations.—Plans for conversion of Irish Roman Catholics.—French Protestant Church in Ireland; Appendix IX.

1706. — Dealings with forfeited estates. — Francis Annesley on union with Scotland and Ireland; Appendix X.

1707.—English Convocation.—Conference of Francis Higgins with Archbishop of Canterbury; Appendix XI.—Affairs of Derry.—Scheme for the more effectual preventing growth of Popery, and speedy conversion of the Irish.—State of livings of Narraghmore and Moone, co. Kildare.

1708.—Poverty of Bishop Sheridan; Appendix XII.

1709.—Election of Provost of Trinity College, Dublin.—Affairs of Church in diocese of Dublin.—Proceedings in Irish convocation—Collections for Palatines.—Contentions in municipal corporation of Dublin.

1710.—Altercation between Bishops at consecration of Peter Browne, Bishop of Cork; Appendix XIII.—Legal formularies for Roman Catholic converts.—Accession of George I.—Plot sworn by Dominic Langton, a Dominican friar, pretendedly a convert to the Established Church.—Riots in Limerick and affairs of that town.—Letter of George Berkeley on his ordination; Appendix XIV.—Death of Barbier, minister of French Church.—Anxiety of Bishop of Worcester to repress Dr. Lesley, who has been writing in London these many years; Appendix XV.—Unrequited services of Lord Limerick to Crown of England.

1712.—Erection of St. Anne's church, Dublin.—Palatines in Ireland.—Correspondence with Bishop of Edinburgh on contributions from Irish Protestants to church in Scotland.

1713.—Addison's tragedy of Cato.—R. Molesworth on parliamentary arrangements in Ireland; Appendix XVI.—Swift installed in Deanery of St. Patrick's.—Affairs of Trinity College, Dublin.—New buildings at St. Sepulchre's. — Dissensions in Trinity College and between Dublin Mayor and aldermen.—Sickness and death of Sir Patrick Dun, M.D.

1714.—Proposed parliamentary reward for discovery of longitude: — Ditton and Whiston. — Archbishop King appointed Lord Justice. — Budgell's demaud on Dawson for Government documents.—Appointments to Irish bishoprics.—Judgeship of King's bench offered Sir Richard Levinge.—Decision at London against Sir C. Phipps and his party.—Letters of R. Molesworth; Appendix XVI.—Sunderland appointed Lord Lieutenant.—Addison, his secretary, "Protestant interest may now "be secured in that kingdom.—Letters from Sunderland to Archbishop King; Appendix XVII.—Addresses to King George from dissenting clergy of Ireland.—Condition of Dromore diocese.—Letters of S. Molyneux from Antwerp, Havre, and London; he is appointed secretary to Prince of Wales. His obligations to Archbishop King; Appendix XVIII.—Legislation against Rapparees.—Parties of Sir C. Phipps and Lord Anglesey.—Irish troops in service of France computed at 17,000 men.—Arrival of George I. in London.—Renewal of Sir E. Southwell's patent as Secretary of State.

1715.—Flight of Lords Bolingbroke and Oxford.—Raising of a regiment by Sir Marcus Beresford and Frederick Hamilton.—Affairs of Trinity College, Dublin, and election of George Prince of Wales as chancellor of that university in place of Duke of Ormond.—Affairs of Kilkenny, Waterford, and Wexford.—Buildings of palace of St. Sepulchre, Dublin.—Recompense to Sir Richard Levinge and his son for sufferings under administration of Duke of Shrewsbury.—Disturbances in London; proceedings on impeachment of Lord Bolingbroke.—Correspondence of Charles Delafaye, secretary to Lord Sunderland.—Alterations of form of prayer to those used in England.—New peers for Ireland proposed.—Seizure of Jacobite papers addressed to Dean Swift; Appendix XIX.—Susanna Sargent and title of Riverston.—Disturbances in Trinity College, Dublin.—Proposed publication at Oxford of Dr. Aungier's MS.—Riot at Oxford.—Letters of Addison; Appendix XX.—Lord Sunderland appointed Privy Seal:—Lord Galway and Duke of Grafton, Lords Justices. — Attainder of Duke of Ormond.—Apprehensions of invasion; preparations against it.—Outcry of Tories and Jacobites.—Array of militia.—State of feeling in North of Ireland; Appendix XXI.—Case of Richard Fitzgerald condemned unjustly as a Tory, robber, and rapparee; Appendix XXII.—Projected purchase of Bishop of Ely's library for Trinity College, Dublin. — Plans for inducing Provost Pratt to resign.—Archbishop King in London.

1715–16. — Dr. Robert Howard's negociations for Prince George's acceptance of chancellorship of Trinity College, Dublin; ceremonial on his investiture; Appendix XXIII.

1716.—Military operations in Scotland.—Rev. Owen Doile convicted for using seditious words; his execution at Wexford respited.—Opposition to Test Act.—Affairs of See of Tuam.—Confederation in England of "those called Tories."— Grants expected towards library of Trinity College, Dublin, on choosing Prince George as Chancellor. — Candidate for honorary degree recommended by the latter; Appendix XXIII.—Differences between Provost Pratt and Fellows.—Application from clergy of Gloucester respecting family of late Judge Lyndon in Ireland.— Government of Lord Galway.—Increase of disaffection in Trinity College, Dublin: characters of Drs. Richard Baldwin, Claudius Gilbert, and John Elwood.

1717.—Abatement of party spirit in Trinity College.—Provost Pratt nominated to deanery of Down.—Baldwin appointed Provost of Trinity College.—Bonfires on birthnight of Duke of Ormonde.—Trial of Lord Oxford. Bishop of Bangor's answer to Dr. Snape.—Dangers to established church from writings of Sir R. Steele and Bishop Hoadley.— Ex-provost Pratt's benefactions to Trinity College.—Negociations with Dean of St. Patrick's for church livings.—Restrictions on Dissenters. — Letter of Sir Richard Levinge on case of Dean Francis, grandfather of Sir Philip Francis; Appendix XXIV.—Encouragement of Palatines in Ireland.—Deficiency of silver coin.—Judgment of House of Lords in London on case of Annesly and Sherlock.—Affairs of Kilkenny Corporation:—difficulties of Archbishop Wake, of Canterbury, with his Majesty, who is advised by ministers looking only to promotion of their political interest.—Clergy of England infected with loose opinions both as to doctrines and government.—Dr. A. Charlett on characters of J. C. Pfaff and Grabe.—Projected Oxford publication of Hebrew MSS. of Dr. Aungier of Dublin, under editorship of Gagnier: difficulties of publishing works at Oxford, except through booksellers: subscription system of Hearne: censure on his preface to Camden's Elizabeth; Appendix XXV.

1718.—Archbishop of Canterbury assures Dr. King that when consulted on Irish promotions he will consider nobody's schemes, but give his own opinion according to his own judgment. He never was so complaisant to his governors as to do as he was bid, and hopes his friends will not expect it from him.—Legislation on Erasmus Smith's charities.—Opposition to toleration of Dissenters. —William Nicholson appointed Bishop of Derry.—Setting of proclaimed Tories in Monaghan, Cavan, and Louth; Appendix XXVI.—Sir Marcus Beresford desires titles Baron Beresford, Viscount Curraghmore, and Earl of Tyrone.—Eustace Budgell removed from Accountant-

Digitized by Google

Generalship.—Disputes between Bishop of Waterford, and military there.—Affairs of diocese of Ossory and of Wexford town.

1719.—Opposition to repeal of test act and occasional conformity bill.—Dangers to Church of England from Dissenters.—Alleged adherence of Presbyterians in North of Ireland to solemn league and covenant.—Archbishop King's book on Consecration of Churches.—Arians and Bangorists very open and insolent.—Archbishop King's opposition in Parliament of Ireland to toleration bill.—The Dissenters, "a busy and indefatigable generation, and our Court [in England] seems "to be very fond of favoring them."—The bishops in Ireland firm and unanimous in support of the Established Church.—New fashion in London of "flying up hoops "and straw, and other flapping hats worn by women."—Bill of Peerage rejected by the Commons "in one of "the fullest houses that ever was known."—Controversies of Dissenters on Arian points.—Bishop Waterland's work.—Movements of enemies to Revelation, favourers of Arianism, haters of episcopacy and universities.

1720.—Distribution of the property of John Forster, late Chief Justice of Common Pleas.—South Sea Bubble.—Archbishop King's papers on matters about the South Sea Stock.—Letters from Lord Abercorn on this subject.—Expectation that the Tories are again to have their turn in London.—Clergymen for Jamaica and Antigua.—Obstacles to printing Dr. Aungier's MSS.—Professors for Virginia.—Controversies between Dissenters in North of Ireland and in England.—Efforts to check growth of Atheism, Deism, and indifference in them in faith in Jesus Christ.—English officials "find themselves unwelcome guests" in Ireland.

1721.—Miserable effects of South Sea project on many in Ireland.—Dispute between Isaac Leak and Rev. Mr. Antrobus.

1722.—Charge of treason against Augustine Nugent.—Questionable character of witnesses on part of Government.—Bolton appointed Lord Chancellor of Cashel.—Archbishop King in England.—Instruction respecting the "Wild Geese."—Information of Daniel Mulcahy, laid before Government by Chief Justice Whitshed.—The country resolved to acquit all that come before them.—Difficulties with witnesses.—Pauperized condition of Lady (Margaret) Gormanstown, widow of Jenico, Viscount Gormanstown.—Business of the "Wild Geese," and what "depends thereon, a very unpleasant work."—Difficulty in North and South of Ireland about rents.

1723.—Contest respecting episcopal jurisdiction in Isle of Man.—Suggestions for employing poor in fishing.—Letter of Archbishop King to Duke of Grafton, Lord Lieutenant, respecting patent for Kingsend chapel.—Supply of clergymen for West Indies and church in the plantation.—Irish bills before Privy Council in London.

1724.—Recommendations of candidates for bishoprics.—Grand jury of St. Sepulchre and supply of water.—Lord Carteret declared Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; His Majesty "told him that if he had anything better to have "given him he should have had it."—Wood's patent for copper money: proceedings respecting it: Secretary Southwell's account of assay at the Tower by Sir Isaac Newton; Appendix XVII.—Difficulties in vouching the patent.—Bishop Boulter, of Bristol, intended for primacy of Ireland.—Memorial of Luke Nettervill.

1725.—Letter from Francis Hutcheson; Appendix XXVIII.—Proposed marriage of the heiress of Culledon to heir of Selkirk.—Exculpation of Bishop of Elphin.—Action of Irish bishops in Parliament in opposing the interest of King of England not conducive to having sees filled by Irish.

1726.—Archbishop King at Bath.—Death of Bishop of Cloyne.—Conjectures as to ecclesiastical preferments in consequence.—Duke of Wharton's proposal to Bishop of Clogher for endowment of preachers on divine right of episcopacy—the first sermon to be preached on Hebrews, chap. v., verse 4.—Dr. Robert Howard recommended for bishopric of Cloyne; "Nothing can make "it fall among [in Ireland] but the great weight "which is on it, which is above 2,500l."—Repair of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin.—Preaching at St. Michan's Church.

1727.—Roman Catholic address well received in England, and will be of good use abroad.—Bill from Ireland for qualifying converted Roman Catholic lawyers stopped at English council, as having originated from council board in Ireland, who are His Majesty's immediate servants.—Rapid conclusion of Westminster election.—Open bargaining and buying.—Arrangements for coronation—medals, anthem, &c.—Condition of Ireland, bad as possible; all the gold coming away in specie in great quantities every day.—Carteret declared Lord Lieutenant.—Proceeding of George II. in selection of officials.—Colony of Palatines on lands of Ballingarrane, part of jointure of Lady Dowager Southwell; contrary to custom of England or Ireland that any tenant should offer to vote but as their landlord directs.—Account by Nat. Whaley of his appeal case in London.—English lawyers in London: Danvers, Serjeant Hawkins, Mr. Bootle, the most arrogant man and the greatest despiser of Irish lawyers, whether judges or council.—Less wrangling or debates in English Parliament than ever known in any session.

1728.—Accounts of Robert Adair with Bishop of Raphoe.—Erection of charity school at Castleknock.—Answer of Archdeacon Thomas Wall, vicar of Castleknock, to Thomas Crosthwait.

1729.—Affairs of Archbishop of Raphoe and his daughters Mary and Dorothea Forster.

The papers in the collection include the following:—

1688.—The present state of the [Protestant] Church in Ireland: 1. Her discipline admitting members; 2. Admitting clergymen; 3. Calling offenders of the laity to account and punishing them; 4. Calling offending clergymen to account and punishing them. ii. Her tithes and revenue: 1. Dues; 2. Difficulty of collecting; 3. Government; 4. Service.—Observations addressed to Sir R. Southwell on Serjeant Osborne's motion, 6th November 1690: "Serjeant Osborne moved in the King's Bench "that court to give in charge to the grand jury then "empanelled that all persons whatsoever who acted as "justices of the peace in this kingdom since the abdi"cation of King James might be found and esteemed "guilty of treason, and the day before declared in "chancery that all Protestants who acted in any civil "employment here during the late Government were "guilty of high treason."

Depositions on behalf of the aldermen and burgesses of Londonderry and on behalf of Mr. Warham Jeunnet and the mayor, 1691.—Reasons for the jurisdiction of the lords in Ireland.

Memorandum for his Grace the Duke of Ormonde concerning the appeal of the Bishop of Derry.

Note concerning the Act prohibiting the sending out of cloth.

Case on opposition of Bishop of Kildare, Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Dublin, to citation issued by Archbishop King to appear before him in Chapter House there on 24 April 1704, to undergo visitation, and to show their letters of orders, their elections and dignities.—Report of proceedings in House of Commons on impeachment of Bolingbroke, 1715; Appendix XXIX.

Some observations on the taxes paid by Ireland to support the Government, 1716; Appendix XXX.

Letters and extracts from these papers are appended in their original orthography. Through them and the foregoing synopsis the novel light thrown by this collection on many points of English and Irish history will be sufficiently obvious, without more lengthened details here.

When submitted for my inspection, the collection was entirely unarranged, and portions of it were found to have been irreparably injured by damp.

It was presented by its late owner in 1852 to Dr. Lyons, who, however, does not possess any details in connexion with its descent or history.

I have reason to believe that the collection, after the death of Archbishop King, came into the hands of his relative, the Rev. Robert Spence, rector of Donaghmore, in the county of Donegal, diocese of Derry, and that it remained with the Spence family till about 1810, in which year George Spence, Esq., was resident in Donaghmore House, near Castlefinn. I may add that there are in Ireland other collections of Archbishop King's papers, on which I purpose hereafter to report to your Commission.

Dublin. J. T. Gilbert.

APPENDIX.*

Appendix I.—Publication of "State of Protestants of Ireland."

1.

My Lord, London, 8 Septemb[r] 1691.

"I doubt not but M[r] Tolet did lett y[r] lord'p know when it was he put the manuscript into my hands. I lost noe time to attend my Lord Nottingham for his promise of licence. But because he could not possibly examine the work, he wish't I could prevaile on the

* All the letters in the Appendix, with the exception of App. VI. 3., were written to King, whose address, however, does not appear on some of them.

Digitized by Google

Bishop of Worcester to doe it. I went to him and there found the Bishop of Salisbury. I discoursed to their lo'pps the valne I had thereof by reading only the extract. My Lord of Worcester was involv'd in other things, but the Bishop of Sarum sayd that if I would lett him carry it next morning to his house at Windsor, he would goe through it and give his opinion. Yesterday, I had a letter from him whereof the enclosed * is copy. I show'd it at night to my Lord Nottingham who bid me send for the writings, as I did this morning; but by noone I found them sent to my house, and have since been with my Lord Nottingham, who having look'd over the extract and read the preamble, tells me his licence shall be ready when call'd for. And of this I now give M^r Tollet notice and send the manuscript back unto him.

* * * * * * *

ROBERT SOUTHWELL.

Lord Bishop of Derry.

2.

My Lord, London, 6th Feb^r 169½.

I did already acknowledge your lordpp's of the 13th Novemb^r, and I was in hopes to have had opportunity of writing to your lord'pp at large upon what I have so long since lodged in my Lord of Canterbury's hands; but winter and Parliament, and my constaut attendance at the Custom House, makes it hard to gett anything to say, and when I was once at Lambeth, it was early days with his Grace, who was but newly settled in that place, so that now my cheif occasion of writing to your lord'pp is at M^r. Clavell's request who is reprinting your lordpp's book in a lesser volume. He shewed mee a preface that a friend of his had prepared for it, but I advised him to send it your lord'pp, as the only hand that could turn those materialls to best advantage, the design of them being to shew that whatever was fulfilled in Ireland was intended also for this side. He would have had mee putt my Lord Salisbury on this work, but hee is so filled with his own concerns and the long session of Parliament, that 'tis easy to foresee his lord'pp would have ex[c]used it tho' he may be glad to read whatever shall have past your lordship's hand. There is one point in your lord'pp's book and but one that I ever heard off w^ch is cavilled at, and that is the ill condition of the English Fleet under K. James, so that perhaps if it be reprinted as it was, it may deserve a large marginall note signifying that altho' in fact this of y^e fleet were otherwise, yett was it so discours't by K. James, and perhaps to animate his friends on that side to the easier regaining of England. It is certain that the fleet of England was for a long time in a ruinous condition, but in the 2 last years of K. James's reign, there was very great care and expence to restore them. I know not how to entertain your lord'pp with publick affairs or with those in particular y^t refer to Ireland. It is generally beleived my L^d Sidney will forthwith go over to Ireland Lord L^d and there is a bill now preparing by the Commons to vest y^e forfeitures there for the payment of debts. There is a clause in it to save all Protestants, but such as continued in arms soon after Duke Schomberg's landing, and altho' no man was opposite to this, yett was there very much opposition as to the other part by some who would have garbled the Protestants. I am sorry to observe that some of us in this place have held a conduct so contrary to the sense of the Court, as I can hardly think when their resentment of it will be wiped off. Our good friend M^r Trench may tell you part hereof, but it is much worse than when he went hence. Your lord'pp was long since pleased to recomend unto mee Coll. Fletcher for the government of Kinsale. I had from my friends in that place who had tasted of him, such farther accounts of his vertue, as I never more earnestly sollicited anything then this concern, and it had been a blessing sible to repair the calamitys past, and what at this very day, we still there undergo. But as to him, the effect is much better for his virtues being published, he is appointed to go Governor to New York, which may be very honestly worth him a 1,000*l.* p. ann. I wish your lordship all sort of prosperity, and shall ever be, my lord,

Your L^dpps most faithfull & most obedyent servant,

ROBERT SOUTHWELL.

3.

My Lord, London, 29th March 1692.

I have the honour of your lo'pp's of the 2^d. The first part whereof referrs to the amending that passage in the State of Ireland which concerns the navy. M^r Tollet and I had long since agreed upon a marginall note, which was soone printed off, and I hope it will be to your liking, for wee thought best to leave the original as it was. My Lord Cheif Justice Reynell had given M^r Clavell two long letters writ by S^r Theob. Buttler to be added to the Appendix, which he desireing me to reade, I thought they would confirme the former vouchers, as falling much into the measures of Bishop Mullony, and I offer'd him another letter of the same hand and to the like intents; but I was soon inform'd by one at Court that Buttler had notie eof these intended additions, and that he made loud complaints against a new paper war, when it was promis'd them as signing the Articles that all should be forgott; but in case he were provok't he wul alsoe write, and would make appeare that your lo'pp was never in prison but at y' owne request, and that you had your liberty to goe forth when ever you desir'd it. The party who told me these things beleiv'd that what he said was calumny; however, thought it best that the book come out as it was before and upon discource hereof, and of another preface which Mr. Clavell showd me, wee thought it best to leave all new things alone till they give provocation, as they menace by answering the book. I guess this preface was writt by the Archbishop of Tuam, because a great part of it, though very long, was of his Grace's owne case as a thing omitted in the book. But having seene what your lo'pp wrote to M^r Tollet concerning a preface, I may long wish before I see one that is fitt, for I never read anything with more delight then the modell you prescribe, which ought in every title to be fulfilled to make a preface as it ought to be, superiour to the book. And if ever any provocation be given by the adverse party, it may then be fitt to write and to pursue those instructions if wee can find the man.

* * * * * * * *

ROBERT SOUTHWELL.

APPENDIX II.—BISHOP KING'S MEMORANDA ON LESLIE'S ANSWER to his "STATE OF THE PROTESTANTS OF IRELAND."

[The pages referred to are those of Leslie's book.]

p. 43. Holland never begun a warre.

p. 44. Ireland ruined by submission not struggling for liberty. Compare absolute governments with [oblit.] where most rebellions.

p. 45. Falsified from the title.

p. 46. It is the principle of the Papists to [oblit.] those that they cannot convert.

p. 47. The author never said the government by the abdication was dissolved. Declaration before y^e of King William at Finglass. None submitted on 12th Ginkle's proclamation.

p. 49. Falsification about Derry.
Queen Mary's parlement well urged.
Falsification about Irish protestants.

p. 50. The B'p of Galway [Galloway], a papist, never went in clergymens habite.

p. 105. Quere, the order of the House of L^ds.
Most false, y^t the author owes his life to mercy.
Most false, y^t he was accused of correspond [oblit.]
Knows no such man as Sherman.

p. 106. Most false, y^t the author ever spoke to King James.
Judge Nugent accused the author of preaching treason. Chancellor Herbert answered, y^t he [oblit.] and was assured of the contrary.

p. 107. Consider the letter.
Give an account of praying for the Prince of Wales.
Give an account of proving the French league.

p. 108. Prayer for King James.

p. 109. Not one prayed for King James in y^t prayer.
Charges all the protestants with the parlement adiress, Thought him not their lawfull [sic]; refused to pray against the Prince of Orange.

p. 111. False, y^t the clergy was first to make y^e court.
Quere if the L^d Primate advised the B'p of Chester to take Clogher.
B'p of Meath did not print his speech.
Quere was the proctor commanded to print his speech.
Proctor dyed with hardships in King Jameses time.
Dublin clergy never met about the Prince of Wales.

* Now missing.

Digitized by Google

p. 112. The parlement took away the declaration because misinterpreted.
False, y^t they preach against it.
p. 113. The[y] wonder, & curse their hard fate; false [sic] falsehoods about the author.
p. 114. Did not se[e] Cork.
How cou'd he speak of forreign force.
Reason why I did not visite B'p Sheridan.
Mr. Hudson required no such thing; give an account of Mr. Dodwell.
p. 116. Disingennous quoting.
p. 117. Passage of the preface to B'p Sheridan.
p. 119. Religion y^t leads to despise y^e word destroys salvation.
Quere the B'ps sermon on Matt. 25, 46.
Quere sermon on Rom. 13, 5, by B. Sarum.
p. 122. Consider the rethorick of the B'p of Meath.
Falsehood concerning the clergy.
If King James had prevailed we expected no such questions.
p. 123. False aspersion on the clergy.
The number of doubters small, those y^t doubte Jacobites still; picks up all the malicious storys against the clergy.
p. 124. Contempt of religion greater in King Charles the 2^d.
Putting papists in power greatest blot in King James' administration.
p. 128. No popish principles allowed by us.
p. 129. Quere how many non-jurors.
p. 130. Quere Judge Nugents bribery.
p. 131. All noblemen had y^r outlawry's reversed.
L^d Clarendon removed.
p. 132. S^r Charles Porter credited more y^n Fitton.
p. 133. Sermon in X^t Church.
p. 134. S^r John Davis report.
Quere the ancient customs of Ireland.
Quere Alderman Pierces case.
p. 135. Bruno Talbot not commissioner of the revenue.
p. 137. Charles Murray, quere.
p. 138. Protestant bakers false.
p. 138. Many protestants dyed before Derry.
Quere about y^r Charters.
p. 139. Falsification about the lye.
Severall slanders.
p. 140. Falsification, p. 157, of state, &c.
Quere L^d Granard's testimony.
p. 140. Quere the busyness of Wexford.
Quere Brown's busyness.
p. 142. Overt act of treason.
No pardon.
Reason of was to exchange.
p. 143. Clear from contradiction.
Quere the suggestions 299.
Reflect on the use K. J. made of passive obedience.
p. 144. Reconcile contradictions.
p. 145. K. J. did not put it out of his own power designedly.
p. 147. Who destroyed y^e countrey?
Quere restoration of absentees goods.
p. 149. Quere the busyness of Youghill.
James M^{c}Cartney's answer to the commissioners bill in the exchequer.
p. 150. Quere the busyness of the ships at Belfast.
p. 150. Query the story of the merchantmen.
Quere the story of the boxwood & ivory that came wth Crosby of Cap^n Corker.
p. 151. General Hamilton marched in on articles.
Quere the protection from Gen^{ll} for Belfast.
Quere the breach of protection.
p. 160. Quere Major Callaghan's treatment to Mrs. Hawkins.
p. 161. Quere the fort of Culmore.
Quere what was done in the articles Carrigfergus.
Quere the breach of capitulation at Drogheda.
p. 162. Quere the usage of the prisoners at Cork.
Quere whether 16 shot between Cork & Clonmell by Cap^n Lauther.
p. 162. Quere whether any killed in cold blood.
Quere about the L^d Galmoy.
Quere the number of rapparees killed.
p. 164. Quere the King's proclamation & the outlawry.
p. 166. King J. promised the people of Galway reprizal.
List of ships lost by storms & warre.
p. 168. Quere the act about the fleet.
p. 170. Condition of the fleet not printed with the fleet.
Quere did King James expend million.
Quere w^t the King had from the parlement.
p. 171. King James's words misrepresented.
Quere the names of the Commissioners of the Navy from Ap^l '79 till May '84, and w^t probability of K. J. influencing y^m.
p. 174. 16 burroughs in the enemy's hand; those in England as much as in England [sic].
p. 175. Falsification.
p. 177. Falsification.
p. 178. Observe the disingenuity about oaths.
p. 179. False, the author never took any new oath till the law required.
p. 180. Enquire what oath put the Protestants in Cork.
Quere the number of the women & children sent into Connought, 90.
p. 181. Enquire about proclamation.
Great falsehood.
Difference between enemys & subjects.
p. 185. Quere in w^t condition the women went over the Shannon.
p. 186. Falsification by leaving out the excuse; consult Serjeant Osburn about the prerogative.
p. 188. Misrepresentation of the authors sense.
p. 189. No associations to carry on their warr.
p. 190. Those y^t were were [sic] seising L^d Tirconnel went to England.
p. 191. The King of France using the Hugonots, as he did sufficient to make y^m submit to another King y^t wou'd protect y^m.
p. 192. Falsehood in matter of fact the Protestants y^t lived under King did not drive y^m out of the kingdom.
Observe his sense of destroying.
King never lost by his clemency.
p. 193. Quere y^e French prisoners; examine.
p. 194. Falsehood about deserved.

Appendix III.—Sieges of Ballymore and Athlone, 1691.

I.

From y^e Camp neere Ballymore, June 9th '91.

Right Rever^d Father,

I gave M^r Jemmett an acc^t it was universally concluded by our gen^{ll} offic^{rs} y^t the enemy would desert Ballymore, but on Sunday when wee satt down before it they plyed us wth 4-pounders, haveing in the garrison 2 small Peices, y^t evening we plyed them wth 3 or 4 small field pieces, & at night raised 4 batteries, 3 for cannon & one for mortar pieces; wee planted twelve or 14 greate guns beside the small pieces I mentioned, & 3 mortar pieces for bombs, wth w^{ch} wee plyed they enemy. Y^t morning y^e Gen^{ll} ordered a parley, & twist asked them if they would surrender the place & refer y^{m}selves to his mercy, w^{ch} they refused unless they might march out wth theire armes, flying collours, & wth moveables they could carry on theire backes. About twelve o'clock, diametricaly opposit to theire fortification, in a lough y^t joyns to it, we lanched 4 boates, w^{ch} wonderfully scard them, y'n they held out a white cloath & beate a parley, but my collon^{ll}, who comanded ordered the greate guns to play, having no inclination to give y'm quarters, & so y^e guns continued firing till the evening, & almost levelled severall partes of theire outworkes. Then they beate another parley & hung out a white flagg, on w^{ch} the Gen^{ll} sent an Aducam to treate with them; we sent in a Lieut. Collon^{ll} as hostage for theire Govern^r who came out to treate wth the Gen^{ll}. They soon concluded to accept of the proposals given them in the morning, only Bourk, theire Govern^r, has liberty to go to Athlone, if he thinkes convenient. Theire fortification was realy verrie strong & regular, only their bastions were too small. Wee lost some 5 or 6 men, one whereof was a gunner, & had only 4 wounded, one of them being likewise a gunner. Y^t night had they not surrendered, the place had certainly been stormed, & they all put to the sword. They had in the garrison 17 hundred, 7 or 800 whereof were women & children. I suppose wee killed y^t day wth o^r greate guns, bombs, & small shott about some 50 or 60 of them. One Bourk, theire guner, had his head shott off. We got a greate number of sheep, & neere one hundred black cattle. O^r bombs had undoubtedly done more execution, but the place was so soft that they sunk into it, & killed but few of them. The Post is just goeing, so y^t I have scarve time to tell y^r l'dship y^t I am

Yo^r most humble serv^t,
W^m Hansard.

Digitized by Google

One Bourton, theire engineer, who was married to B'p Joneses daughter, had his braines dash'd out.

The day wee came before Ballymore wee tooke in an old castle a serj^t & 14 or 16 men; the serj^t was hanged next morning in the onomyes view.

All the prisoners positively affirm y^t Sarsfield will give us battle, but I supose he will scarce run y^t hazard; however I am p'suaded he designes to use his utmost endeav^rs to stop o' passing the Shannon. The postmaster is not pleased I delayn him.

ffor the Right Rever^d.
Father in God W^m L'd
B'p of Derry.

2.

My Lord, Dublin, 4^th July 1691.

I am sorry to find by your lord'ps of the 30^th of the last month that the prayers and proclamations did not come to your hands as they were intended, but upon inquiry after the reason thereof the postm' here tells me that the bundle was to big to send them altogether, that he was under some necessity of divideing them for the horses carriage, but that they went the following packett; soe that I presume that they are before this come safe to your l'dps hands.

The defence of Athlone continued very obstinate for some time, but the last attempt of our men was soe brave y^t upon a thorow assault soon made themselves masters of the place, the particulars of w^ch action as they came this day to me from the camp at Athlone beareing date the 2^nd of this instant are as follows: the enemy haveing constant intelligence of our proceedings, by the great number of boggars & other spyes in our camp, prevented our design on Sunday, the Gen^ll having promis'd a gyrny to every grandeer, & 2 to every serjeant, that day for their service, made them impatient & a little troublesome till effected, & on Monday night the same party at six at the ringing of the church bell went into the river at each side of the bridge, & our cannon and small shott firing into their trenches made an easy passage to our party, who in less than halfe an hour made themselves m^r of the towne & all y^r out works. As soon as our men were entred, the enemy run, & 2 of their battalions being ready to enter the towne run as fast as the other; hundreds were slain, for the trenches that were by the river of each side of the towne were full of the enemy who, pressing towards a bog, their old retreat, were cruelly galld by our cannon. Wee tooke Major-Gen^ll Maxwell, his nephew, 6 Capt^ns, aboat as many subalterns, & 95 men, with the loss of about ten men & 30 wounded. L^t Col^ll Columbine shot thro' the body. The action was very extraordinary brave in the face of an enemy of 30,000 men, who decamp'd that night, & were last night 5 mile towards Galway, in extream want, & the horse threatn to enter Leinster; the foot its believed will goe into garrysons. We have few deserters yet. Yesterday was our thanksgiveing day; 3 volleys & 42 cannon thrice dischard'd. Here landed about 2 dayes since my Lord Portland's gallant regim^t of horse, w^ch consisted of 700.

Since the takeing of Athlone, Lanesborogh is likewise deserted by the enemy, soe that now we have passes enough over the Shannon. I have noe further to trouble your lord'p at present. I pray God bless us all, & send us heaven.

I am, my Lord,
Your lord'ps very affect. brother
& humble servant,
MICH. ARMACH.*

APPENDIX IV.—SIR RICHARD BULKELEY'S PROPOSAL TO ENDOW A COLLEGE.

1.

[Cook Street, Dublin,
My Lord, Nov. 4^th [16]99.

The regard w^ch I have for y^r lord'ps thoughts, w^ch I take not to be at y^r common rate of other mens, has occasiond my giving you this trouble at this time, & w^ch I trust to y^r candor to pardon. My great Lord & Master has now put me upon a triall of giving a poor testimony of my inclination to his service; indeed I my self think it so poor a one, y^t hardly can I allow it to be any at all, since either y^r way of a mans education or ones naturall temper or constitution may incline him to be uneasy w^th a great expence or to com'iserate & relieve any thing y^t is in misery, nothing being more certain than y^t almsgiving & charity may greatly differ. By y^r death of y^t excellent man my brother w^tout sons, my estate is now at my own disposall; I have been for some months past debating upon y^e nature of y^e severall kinds of charity y^t have come under my thoughts, & I am so far determined, y^t those y^t are to y^r soul are most preferable, how frequent or pressing soever outward distresses may be at some time in a nation, tho' they by being much more various then those y^t can be exercised to y^e body, do leave me in some measure undetermined in my choise of them. I have considered of divers of them, both of such as tend to y^r improvement of mens intellectuals & of their moralls; & I am almost inclined to believe y^t as y^r present state of our churches is, y^r founding of another college would be of as publick & universall use & benefit, as any other sort of good y^t one could effect for mankind. It were too much in this place to give my reasons, beside y^t I believe there are divers obvious to every thinking man. Now supposing yo' concurrence w^th me in this first article, viz., yo' approbation & preference of a college (tho' if you do not, I earnestly desire yo' reasons, w^ch probally may be of use to me) I take it for granted. 2^dly, y^t you approve not of Dublin for y^r place. In y^r next place, then, I come to request yo' lordships thoughts for some materials for a scheme of such an undertaking. W'ever you would say upon y^t subject cannot be amiss to me. Moreover, I pray yo' opinion whether another college (at Kilkenny, suppose) should be of y^e University of Dublin, & consequently y^t all who are to take degrees should go thither to p'form their exercises & acts. I have heard y^r y^e old Duke of Ormond, upon some superficiall discourse of a college, was of opinion y^t (upon y^e supposall of all y^t I have now said) it would be of advantage so to be, in begetting emulation between y^e schollars of y^e severall colleges, & y^t they who were to perform exercises in a stranger college, would take more care of it then they did so perform. But I think y^r argument will ly as strong on y^e other side, y^t young men will take more care of doing best what they do before those with whom they daily converse & before their tutor or y^r fellows of their own house, who will also more concern themselves to be present at y^r exercises of such as are of their own house, to see what progress they make in their studies. Wherefore, on y^r other hand, when a lad comes out of y^r country to p'form his exercises, tho' a little curiosity at an idle hour sometimes might, yet not any concern, would move any of this (Dublin) College to go out of their studies to y^r hall to hear it; & so in fact we see y^t all y^r exercises perform'd at Oxford at y^e publick scholes are mere trifles, at w^ch sometimes onely y^r bookeeper is present. Upon this I desire yo' thoughts, & whatever more upon this subject you shall think fit to impart to me, especially y^e seamarks, y^e methods, customs, or practices y^t are to be laid aside and avoided; as for y^e landmarks, y^r guides y^t are to be followd, beside w^t I hope I may receive from yo' lordship, I believe I shall consult y^r statutes of many colleges. I further pray yo' fatherly advice in generall, but especially yo' prayers, y^t while I am in my narrow sphere endeavouring y^e salvation of others, I may not myself become a castaway.

I remain,
Yo' lordp^s most humble serv^t,
For y^e Right Rev^d the Rich^d. BULKELEY.
Lord Bishop of Derry,
at Londonderry.

2.

My Lord, Dublin, Dec. 9^th 1699.

In yo^r of Nov. 10^r, you seem to suppose y^t a college built out of Dublin, unless it were of a distinct university, would be but in y^e nature of an hall. Now that purely in it self I take to be no objection; for in relation to y^e University at Oxford there is no difference between y^r colleges & y^e halls; y^e schollars of each promiscuously have precedence according to y^r date of their matricula, and so proceed on to their degrees, praestitis prius omnibus ad id requisitis, & having a certificate from their respective house, of their performances therein. But further, if one college founded at Kilkenny might reasonably expect to have a university established there, why might not y^r college y^t was like to be erected (or one y^t hereafter may be erected) at Abby Boyl as reasonably expect y^r same, & another p'haps at Galway, & another at Derry, when any person shall be disposed to found a college at any of y^r said places? So y^t I cannot see how reasonably one may expect a single college to be of any other University then of Dublin. I wold therefore, if you please to

* Michael Boyle, Protestant Primate of Ireland.

Digitized by Google

favour me so far, hear yo^r objections, if any you shall have, ag^st founding a college at y^e town of Dunlavan, 20 miles from Dublin, upon y^e Kilkenny road, in a pleasant, healthfull, & very pleasant country, a good market, & a large colony of English, & to be of y^e University of Dublin. I propose it there because it is y^e rents of that lord^p y^t will be its maintenance, & w^ch probably will thereby be y^e better paid. I would endow it with 420^li p^r ann. rent charge, beside 80^li p^r an. & a schole house & scholemasters house for a public Latin schole in y^e same towne for a nursery for y^e same, & ont of which its schollars of y^e house to be chosen, as y^e students of Christ Church, Oxford, are, out of y^e schollars of Westminster Schole. I believe I shall not need fear a scarcity of schollars to such college, for its discipline shall be most strict, even whatever relating to that, y^e statutes of every college in Oxf^d or Cambridg can hint to me; for I take discipline to be y^e life of a society y^t consists of subordinate ranks. In yo^rs you say y^t as to y^e forming of it there need be no hast; it is true indeed in all matters of moment festina lente is good advice; but, however, in this thing y^r emphasis must be upon y^e festina, for since it has but y^e duration of my crazy life for its formation, it is possible my survivors may one day say y^t cunctando perdidimus rem, if I should be taken away re infecta, & an heir at law carry off all. Therefore I beseech yo^r lord^p, as much as your business will permitt, vouchsafe a correspondence w^th me on this subject til it come to some maturity, for I find all full of their own business y^t I had thought to have discours'd w^th here about it, so true is it in relation to everybody, y^e sufficient to y^e day is y^e evil thereof.

I am,
Yo^r Lord^ps most humble serv^t,
For y^e Right Rev^d y^e ... RICH^d BULKELEY.
L^d Bishop of Derry,
at Londonderry.

3.

My Lord, Dublin, Dec. 23^d '99.

By yo^r lord^ps of y^e 15^th inst, I find I have 2 objections to answer, w^ch arise . . merely from my not sufficiently explaining myself in my last. You say thus if you . .* college w^th out power of degrees, then unlavan may be a proper place, &c.; but if I . . right y^e great use of another college would be to stir up an emulation to w^ch end . . would not answ . . I have caught & do not find y^t y^e halls in Oxford are so cons . . esteris paribus as y^e colleges. In answer to this, I say 1^st y^t no college has y^e power . . conferring degrees, not in Oxford I am sure, nay, nor this in Dublin, tho' by reason . . is but one college that w^ch, I assert does not so plainly appear. You see y^t all masters . . y^r ever have been members of this university have votes in y^e Regent house . . give you my further thoughts of yo^r proposition I take it y^t you have . . an idea of another sort of college, if I may call it one, a gymnasium . . . schole, such as Manchester, Eaton, & Winchester, in each of w^ch are provosts (& W . . Manch^r), & fellows & schollars, y^t is to say scholeboys. Here indeed are no degrees . . no capacity for them; & as for y^r fellows, they are so much remnant of popery . . owned as incongr, neither serviceable in y^e church nor in y^e foundation to w^ch they . . . (except as they have opportunity to imrich their minds by study & spiritualize . . their retirement from y^e world. But it is not a gymnasium y^t I intend, but such . . . as any in Oxford, w^ch if any of y^m singly & at home w^thin y^rselves do confer degrees (w^ch . . sure none of them do), mine should do so too. 2^dly, I say (in answer also to . . paragraph) y^t I do not take y^e use of another college to be to stir up em. . .(tho' if it were so mine would answer y^t end, since I suppose it every way eq . this or any other college), but I take y^r use of a second college in this . be y^e same w^th y^t of ye first viz^t to give mankind a politer edncation to diffuse . y^r vehicle of many blessings, but especially (as I intend it) to send forth more labourers . . . Lords harvest. It matters not much whether it cause emulation or no in ye sence . . . pose it, y^t is, between y^e colleges; p'haps it is better otherwise, it is a thousand to . y^r sublimation, y^e refining of virtues, makes y^m sour y^e sooner. Zealots too often beare those y^t differ from y^m in things about w^ch p'haps y^e zeal was not raised or exercised . . for virtuous actions is too likely to ge on even to other actions of y^e same person y^t claim not so . . mation, & so does transire into flattery, & emulation between distinct colleges . naturally beget animosities, & those will produce worse effects, bnt ns far as . between particular persons is capable of prodncing good effects, & restrainable . . during any ill ones, this college may encotrage it as much as any other . . Schollars of y^e same classe & under y^e same discipline for restraining . . . In y^e 8^d place I am to speak a word of halls, w^ch may be unders . 2 sorts, y^e 1^st I describe to be such as are onely y^e outhouses of some colleges . . they are truly a part of w^ch y^e college make y^e master & fellows for disciplin . . because y^e schollars of y^m being w^thout y^e college gates would otherwise be w^thout God. These then are scarce be calld distinct fioundations from y^e colleges they belong . are no more y^n as another quadrangle w^thout y^e gates, buildings erected & bestowd by . gratefull persons who have had their edncations in those colleges, so y^t y^e schollers of . halls are in some sense to be reckoned as schollers of y^e Mother College; & so Mag. . Hall, w^ch is y^e largest hall in Oxford, not being yet arrived to y^e conveniency of having . . chappell of its own they all attend constantly as y^e chappel of Magdalen College to . . gate it joyns, as if Clancarty house were one & adjoyning to our College gate, & so was . to Queen's College in my remembrance, tho now it have a very pretty chappel. There are another sort of halls, w^ch are indepondent of any College, & onely differ from Colleges in degrees of wealth; they are not endowd w^th lands or rents, or perhaps very little. y^e founder purchased ye lands, y^e site thereof, & built y^e lodgings & perhaps chappel . . and library, & y^e by licence in Mortmain gave ye fabrick in usum literarnm . . also some statutes for its governm^t, so y^t it is a sort of a family in w^ch y^e master . by y^e rents of y^e lodgings (p'haps he has pupills himself) or fellows subsist either . selves or by tutorage, & y^e pupills are there in y^e same manner as in any other . . & according to their matriculation & doing y^e Universitie Acts in their proper terms . . 12^th term proceed to their degree, as in y^e Colleges. Now these do but nomi . . from Colleges. The convocation of heads of houses does comprehend those . as well as Colleges, & they take place of each other onely accordiug to y^e seniority of taking their degrees . . there is in Oxford no other difference, & in Cambridge y^e halls are much more consi . good foundations some of y^m, & if you were in y^m you would not imagine y^m to be halls unless . heard y^m called so. So much for y^r halls. As to schollars coming to Dublin from . to p'form their acts, y^t lying in an inn, or rather as a friends house, or even hiring . . lodging for 3 or 4 days at a time, is not so mighty an inconvenience since y^e other occasions . . a poor schollar may sometimes have at Dublin may render y^t expense y^e easier. We are . by all y^e authors of y^e best repute y^t write of China, y^t all y^e schollars in every of Universities do come to y^e Court to seking to take their degrees . . thing I consider is yo^r advice concerning Mortmain, but you need not be apprehen . difficulties thereof, for y^t is done to our hand by y^e Statute for pious uses, 10^o Car^i on . . consulted able councell, & y^e thing is w^thout dispute. I shall however want a charter . it a body politick, or rather to procure some priviledges & immunities necessary for ta will being, & these . y^t I am sure w^th my friend y^e Bp. of Worcester has w^th y^e King I hardly doubt of . . tho if there be occasion I could make use also of y^e Bp of Salisbury's my singular friend. You make some difficulty of its not being present, bnt I cannot alter y^r . . of things. When Providence sees best to make future things present, it will make . . my part I have never had quiet in my mind till I became possessed of y^r belief y^t . . y^t is is best, y^t nothing is amiss (y^t is where a man's sloth or inconsideratenes is not an .) p'haps it is not yet fit in relation to myself or to y^e nation, or to y^e Government . fiamily & that brings in yo^r next objection, to blow away which I must . you y^t by heir at law I meant no more y^n such person as by being next of . have y^r fairest claim if I should dy intestate. Any such heir at law every . . is not ἀγνεκαλήγτεος, for it is well known among all my relations y^t by y^e death of my brother w^thout sons my estate is all of it intirely at my disposall, & I . since his death levyd a fine w^ch bars my own issue from any right by settlement . . here is no disinheriting in y^r case, & even y^r groundless prospect of an estate probably can . in this case have any ill effect upon ye imagination of y^r person next of kin, w^ch is a girl, my brother's daughter, virtuously and religiously educated, y^t at almost 17 years of age never saw a play, & I believe never read one, & who may be worth after y^e death of my Lady Bulkeley near 2,000*li*., so y^t she may be married comfortably & suitable to her rank, w^thout being ex . ed to be run away withall

* Letter in bad condition; obliterations are denoted thus . .

Digitized by Google

for an heiress, & fall into ill hands. Not but y^t probadly if she deserve not ill of me, I may give her y^r estate; for I formerly acquainted you . y^r ascertaining y^r allowance of maintenance to y^e College, Publick Schole, Hospital . I intended not to give y^r land, but onely to charge it w^th ab^t 2 thirds of its value in . charge, but beside overplus of rents there will remain two as noble . (& one of y^m polite & in exact order) as, tho' I say it, I have seen in this . or y^e next, of w^ch y^e whole estate of Dunlavan is in y^r summer a paradise. You see, my L^d, I take great ffreedom to trouble you with this long letter, & . mestick concerns, & break into yo^r own business; but I can hardly make apology . so much do I think it w^th submission y^e duty of those who have their sight to . hand to a blind man y^t earnestly requests it. Therefore I continue to request . favour me w^th whatever occurs to you, either for materialls for y^e building or for . either for y^e K^es charter, or my statutes, & especially whatever may strengthen . . pline.

I remain, yo^r Lord^ps most humble serv^t,
RICHD. BULKELEY.

For y^e Right Rev^d y^e L^d Bishop of Derry, at Londonderry.

APPENDIX V.—PETER BROWNE, PROVOST OF TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN.

My Lord, Tr. Coll. Dub., Jan. 28, 1700.

I am much obliged to y^r lordship for putting me in mind of an oversight to which I am very subject, y^r letter comes very seasonably, it will make me more cautious hereafter, & I will never send away letters again w^th out reading them over after they are written, w^ch I often do tho' I always write them in haste. To put one in mind of any imperfection he can't help is to upbraid him, but to tell him of w^t is easily mended is y^e greatest act of kindness in this world & nothing leaves so lasting a sence of gratitude in my mind as a kindness of this nature. I am heartily sorry y^r lordship dos not see all y^r imperfections of my soul as easily as my slips in y^t letter, since I now find I shoud not fail to hear of y^m all; if y^r lordship could perform this as well, I wou'd call you my gardian angel & bless you for being severe. But it may be some excuse for me to y^r lordship for my inadvertencies I beg leave to take notice of something of y^e like nature in y^r lordship's last letter to me, such as humor for humour, w^ch signify 2 very different things; affraid for afraid, transgreat y^e participle for transgress'd, y^e verb in y^r lordship's remarks on mine; farre for far, inadvertencys for inadvertencies, y^e singulas for y^e plurall, busyness for business, ee'n for even, a contriction in no use. Several words in y^r letter with capitalls in y^e middle of sentences where there is no stress, such as If, &c.; such forms of speaking as these, Good example will goe a good way, do not take it ill y^t I put you upon taking—w^ch are carefully avoided in all langnages. If such mistakes as these could slip y^r lordships pen at a time when it was in your thoughts to examine you will be y^e easier inclin'd to pardon those committed by me when I was off my gard. One design of y^r lordships criticisms I believe was to prepare me for a review of y^r discourse De Malo, and therefore, I begg y^r lordship not to take it ill if I begin with it, now I fear it is too long for y^e subject, especially with those great additions you mention in y^r former letter, if y^r whole strength and substance of it could be contracted into a narrower compass it were y^e better, for few men care for going along w^th y^e thred of a metaphisicall discours if it be anything tedious. I am mistaken if y^e origin of morall evill be not to be accounted for by a shorter and easier method, and is at last to be resolv'd into y^e freewill of intelligent creatures, whereas on y^e contrary y^r lordship goes about to establish liberty from y^e origin of evill; I can't speak w^th any assurance of this matter till I consider y^t discours again and read it easily in a fayr hand, but I have some apprehensions y^t y^r arguments on y^t subject do all run in this circle. I speak this as my first thought of y^t matter w^thout any consideration, & do hope to recant it upon y^r reading y^r discours more attentively, & then I will give y^r lordship my thoughts of this matter more fully.

I am y^r Lordships obliged & faithfull ser^t,
PET. BROWNE.

I am not yet sending anything to y^e press, before I do y^r lordship shall have notice of it, & I shall be happy in so impartiall a judge.

To the Right Reverend William,
Lord Bishop of Derry, in Derry.

APPENDIX VI.—HENRY DODWELL.*

1.

Worthy S^r,

When you sent me your observations on my book against Grotius you were pleased to put me in hopes of the like observations on my Diss. on St. Cyprian. I hear a new edition of the Oxf. Cyprian is designed, and perhaps on that occasion they may think of a new edit. of my Diss. If so, your observations will now come seasonably to correct what has been mistaken in them. I got and read your answer to my old chamberfellow Mr. Manby. I am sorry he has given you the occasion, but could wish some of the tartness of your style had been spared. It has taken well here in England, where, if you could conveniently, perhaps it would be the best place to print what you publish for the future. Your press there does not afford a constant number of saleable copyes for the bookseller's trade of exchanging copyes for copyes, and the selling them here, for money hinders the vent of them. So that they hardly come to be known here, unless they be reprinted here. This advice I offer, presuming that though this be the first, yet it will not be the last work of my good and worthy ffriend. As I doubt not but you remember in your prayers our dear mothers the Church and University, so be pleased also in them to remember

Your aff. friend and brother,
S^t Asaph, ffeb. 9, HENRY DODWELL.
168½.

You may be pleased to return your answere by this bearer my cozen. I think of removing towards Shrewsbury. My service to our old ffriend Dr. Acton.

ffor my honoured ffriend
M^r William King, minister of
S^t Warburgh's parish in Dublin.

2.

Honoured Sir,

It is not without great regret that I cannot own the character of my old ffriend. If good will to your person could have inclined me to it without any culpable partiality, you needed not have doubted of my favour both to your character and to your cause. I should have heartily congratulated your honour as well as the merit that qualifyed you for it if I had thought the conditions on which you have it really reconcilable to your greatest interests. But till I can think so you must excuse my freedome. I am apt to think your self would not desire me to prefer your person to our late common mother the Church of Ireland. But, for my own part, I think I cannot better shew my affection to your person than by my freedome in a cause which I conceive to be as pernicious to your person as to the publick. And I shall very readily comply with your desires when I shall be convinced that my doing so is really reconcilable with that hearty love and veneration which I have those many years since our acquaintance in the college entertained for your person. I do withall thank you for your observations on the book you had from Dr. Madden. Words, I think them useless, because they do not satisfy me. It inclines me to believe that the cause it self must be very bad indeed when so able an advocate cannot better defend it. Though the oaths were the occasion, yet they are not the cause of the schism. I was very well satisfyed of my communion with the Publick so long as they kept true to the principles of communion, till they erected altars against altars, no otherwise vacated than by . . . And the book you were pleased to peruse managed the question of schism independently on that of the oaths. But since you . . . . to bring that . . . . were not pleased to produce what you . . . thinke you should not have forgotten to do it in your book by . . . . of private persons none of them skilled in our . . . . you rightly . . . of our constitution that it is not arbitrary, like the Eastern governments, but limited by the coronation oaths and the many oaths of ancestors to Magna Charta for themselves and their successors. But this is only with regard to conscience, not so as to give authority to subjects to resist. I graunt withall that there are such places where subjects are allowed resistence upon breach of articles. So it was by the coronation oath in Hungary till very lately. So the German lawyers assured Luther that it was in Germany. So, perhaps, it is still in Poland. So it was in England in the times of K. John and Henry 3rd, so far as the constitution of the trustees for the libertyes of the people, & the cautionary garrisons and arms commanded by them were legal, if indeed they ever were so. But I know nothing in our present constitution that can be pretended for it. The Militia Act both disowns it and disproves it. And I believe it would puzzle the ablest lawyer in our dominions to frame an hypothesis of a predicable resistence against the king for the time being that should not have many things in it which would be fairly condemnable of high treason in our legal courts, proceeding on the laws in favour of our constitution. This if it were not true you might (now at least that resistence is so much defended) persuado some learned in our laws to undertake, and I am apt to think you will hardly find any lawyer so unadvised to shew how subjects may subvert our present government without acting against the law. That is not, that I know, ever allowed bnt where some, other . . . besides the Prince, has a legal power of the sword. And I believe you will never ho able to provo that any besides him has that power by our constitution. This is all I think fit to say to this first dispute at present. In the 2d I am very glad to find you agree with me in owning the independency of the pure spiritual jurisdiction of the chnrch. I could say many things to what you have suggested in defence of our Ch. of Ireland in relation to the case of Bp. Sheridan. But finding you favourably affected to the Church's rights, I would rather spend the little time that can now be allowed on a more delightful subject,—the healing, rather than the abetting, the schism. Our whole dispute with you here is onely to assert the independency of your episcopal rights against your persons. This, methinks, should rather oblige you than displease you. Yon are more concerned in it than we of the laity, and as much as Bishop Sheridan himself. You seem desirous of an opportunity for vindicating those rights. And here you have it if you and your brethren, our old common ffriends of our unhappy country will be pleased to make use of it. That is, to propose to him such honourable terms as may satisfy him that he may yield his right without any ill precedent that may turn to the Church's disadvantage. Of those terms he is to judge whether . . . his right. The better the terms are and the more publickly the . . . the more effectually they will secure you from the like invasions for the future. If you will heal the schism, you will have reason to bless God for those . . . which have given you a fair occasion for it. You have already brought this good out of this evil, that the rights of the Church have been better understood than formerly. Now, therefore, you have the best opportunity for asserting . . . better than in the late reign, when the difference did not come to a schism. We were not then under those obligations of conscience to oppose as now, when we do not think it consistent with the safety of our souls to join in a schismatical communion. And certainly our agreement in the doctrine concerning the Church's rights is a better expedient for asserting them than that agreement of many in an animosity against Popery, who had either none, or very ill, notions of the Church's rights. If you can agree among yourselves to do yourselves, as well as Bishop Sheridan, justice, you will thereby ease us of our greatest grief of all, that of not owning your character and your commnnion. The other dispute, we doubt not, will fall in cause together with the concernments of those who have occasioned it. We shall, in the mean time, more contentedly bear with the delay of the glory of our Church, if we may, with safety to our souls, enjoy the communion of our old ffriends and brethren. And I shall be enabled, by your agreement, to subscribe myself most heartily,

* The persons and subjects connected with Ireland referred to in these letters are not noticed in the memoirs of Dodwell by Thomas Brokesby, D.D.

Digitized by Google

Yours in all filial dnty,
HENRY DODWELL.

Shottisbrook, Dec. 7, 1700.

Bp. Sheridan knows nothing of what I write. My absence from London made me a stranger to him ever since the schism.

ffor the Right Reverend
William, Bishop of Londonderry in Ireland.

3.

Honoured Sir,

I return yon my hearty thanks for your MS. in defence of our Irish libertyes. I perceivo it was written after the xth of K. Charles I., before any invasions thought of that were made by Engl. Parliaments. The opinions of Hussey and my L^d^ Cook were those that gave the author occasion to write it. I have mislaid your former letter, and therefore am not very sure that it was S^r^ Richard Bolton who was the author of it, nor whether it were your design to part with it. I think you there signified that you intended it as a gift. If I mistake in either poynt, be pleased to correct me. I am, however, very much obliged to you for the sight of it. I design to let Mr. Lesley see it if I can without going to London. God has already made him an instrument of great things, and such a one as all our countrymen are obliged to favour. However I find our friend Mr. Molyneux has exceedingly improved his author and added many excellent things not observed by him. I have also received Bp. King's observations on the book you sent him. I have made bold to inscribe my reply to himself, which is more than he was pleased to do in his answere. However, I have sent my letter open, as he did his, purposely that you may read it before you send it to him. When you have done so, be pleased to seal it, and send it forward. Finding him of my mind in the main poynt, I have laid hold on the occasion to put him upon laying out the talents God has given him for healing the schism that, if it should please God ever to restore me to my native country, I may be able to communicate with you. This I thought a better employment of the little time I have now to spare for it, than to enter into a dispute with him wherein his interest may very much incline him to be partial. I wish all our old ffriends in the colledg, who are now dignifyed, would second him in so . . . an attemt. If you have any interest in any of them, God will reward you if you will be pleased to serve him herein. We also of the laity ought to employ what opportunityes God is pleased to put into our hands for the good of souls and of religion, that we may be able to give him an acconnt with comfort. My old ffriend, Bp. Foy, was pleased to give me a visit, and I believe designed it longer if our little villy could have afforded entertainment. My wife asked him blessing, mistaking him for Bp. Sheridan, whom she never saw. My hearty service to him, and tell him that I would have shewn her the example, if the schism would have given me leave, and that I am still ready to do it if they will end the schism in the way here proposed to his and my old ffriend. Again I return my hearty thanks for all your kindnesses, and remain

Your very much obliged ffriend
and humble servant,
HENRY DODWELL.

Shottisbrook, Dec. 7, 1700.
ffor Dr. John Madden, in St. Brides St. in Dublin, Ireland.

4.

Honoured S^r^,

I return you many thanks for your favour to the proposals made for healing the schism and asserting the rights of our Church of Ireland. Yet for the spiritnall part, I hope you will find it more for your own interest than that of my L^d^ of Kilmore. The temporall favour to his lordship was indeed a kindness, and a great one. Bnt it had almost prejudged him against the whole transaction. However, I do not think it fit it should be made an article. And if you would make him amends for it in the advantageousness of your spiritual grannts, it would add to his reward in heaven, and that I believe would be more satisfactory, even to him. Yet I doubt not but he wants it, if you can prevayl with him to accept of when the main design is first attained. In order hereunto I send you this form, I suppose, according to his lordship's mind, for the proposal to be made to him from you and your brethren. It would be convenient that it might have all your hands, that it may be the act of the whole communion and Church of Ireland. That will add more authority to it. And it is equally the interest of every individnall bishop as making for the interests of the episcopal authority in general. The best way of notifying your claim to the rights of your function, in perpetuam rei memoriam, will be by ordering it to be printed with your subscriptions. When you have done your parts, he is then to have a form to be also subscribed by him at your desire, which will do you also the more service by how much the fuller it is in asserting his own rights, and should be subscribed and printed with yours. I know not when you can do it more effectually than in the beginning of a reign favourable to the Church, and when it is once done, it may be a precedent for ever. If God will favour your good designs herein and bless them with a suitable success, it must needs be a satisfaction to each of you that shall have most contributed to it; and then, most especially, when you are to make your final accounts. It will be withall a great joy to me that I shall be hereby enabled to pay you the dues of your function, and to subscribe myself,

Digitized by Google

Yours, as in duty bound,
HENRY DODWELL.

Shottesbrook, near Maidenhead, in Berksh., Jun. 10, 1702.

I had thought to have had these things adjusted to your hands by your brethren in England, if they had not been dispersed.

ffor the right Reverend
Dr. William King, Bishop of London-Derry.

[Enclosure.]

The schism in the Church of Ireland being now onely upon account of the deprivation of William L^d^ Bish^p^ of Kilmore and Ardagh by an Act of Parliam^t^, & other bish^ps^ being substituted in his place. And wee being desirous of doing all that is in our power towards healing of the s^d^ schism, have treated w^th^ him for his free and voluntary resignation. And wee finding him very willing to resign anything y^t^ is personal in him for so great & good an end; onely insisting that y^r^ Church may not be hurt and her original and inherent independancy from all civil powers, as to the exercise of her purely spiritual power & authority may be confirm'd & assert'd by us; and that we would from henceforth disown & protect against all lay deprivations for the time to come that those late examples of it in England, Scotland, & Ireland may not pass into precedents and be pleaded as of right in after ages. And the resignation of the s^d^ L^d^ Bish^p^ of Kilmore may not be lookt upon as a quitting or giving up of this principle of y^r^ essential rights of y^e^ Church, upon w^ch^ he still dos insist, and intends w^th^ the blessing of God never to depart from. And wee being satisfied & fully persuaded y^t^ Christ did found and endow his Church w^th^ powers essential, inseperable, and sufficient to preserve her body as distinct from and independent of any power on earth, in the exercise and discharge of that spiritual authority granted unto her by Christ our Lord. And tho' joyn'd w^th^ Christian States and incorporated into one com'on body of subjects, yet not to be confounded with the State. As to y^e^ distinct nature of their powers each independent on the other in their several spheres and com'issions granted unto them by God. And wee w^th^al being sensible that lay deprivations in the consequences of them, and being admitted as precedents, will dissolv this independency, w^ch^ is essential to y^e^ Church, do for the future protest against all such upon any cause or pretence whatsoever. Leaving still the persons & temporal estates of all bish^ps^ and other clergymen in the full and absolute power of the State as to all civil punishments of confiscations, imprisonments, or death it self, according to y^e^ laws and constitutions of the State. And y^e^ schism being so happily healed in our National Church, wee think our selves oblig'd not to keep com'union w^th^ those who are in schism in England or elsewhere, 'till they shall return from it. And if any of us or others under our jurisdiction shal com'unicate w^th^ them, we will inflict such censures upon them as shal be in our power. And y^t^ this may have y^r^ full effect for y^e^ satisfying of y^r^ consciences of all, and y^r^ benefit of after ages in the true notions of the Church of Christ & of her spiritual authority w^ch^ relation to Christian States as well as others, wee do consent y^t^ this our declaration may be printed together w^th^ the resignation of the s^d^ L^d^ Bish^p^ of Kilmore w^ch^ he has voluntaryly given for this sole end and purpose.

APPENDIX VII.—SIR ROBERT SOUTHWELL ON ACCESSION OF QUEEN ANNE.

My Lord, Spring Garden, 14^th^ March 1702.

I have been for this weeke confin'd and ill at ease, yet on receipt of y^r^ l^dsh^pp's of the 28^th^ past, I wrote to M^r^ Clavell of what concern'd him. And doubtlesse he wrote to y^r^ lo^dsh^pp, since I had then from him what is here inclos'd.* Wee are now in a new world, and after soe great a thunder-clap surely never was there soe quick a calme, for within 8 houres after the King's death, Queen Ann was fixed in the throne. This blessing was due to a sitting Parliament which had power of continuance, for had there been a dissolution by the King's death, things had been at large and perhapps uncertain. Her Ma^ty^ charm'd both Houses on Wednesday last, for never any woman spoke more audibly or with better grace. And her pressing to support our allyances abroad will commute for what the Dutch may take amiss in that emphasis which Her Ma^ty^ layd on her English heart. But it did very well at home and rais'd a hum from all that heard her. L^d^ Marlborough is gone this morning for Holland to confirm our steddiness to the allyance, and to establish theirs, that soe the enemy may not sow tares. There will doubtless be a great casme abroad for want of that center of power and trust which his late Ma^ty^ so gloriously fill'd. And we must attend to heare how it will be solv'd. In the mean time 'tis already visible that wee shall have more union at home, more councill, more despatch, and there will noe doubts remayne but that the true interest of England will have prefereece to any other. I have great wishes that good may come by attempting an union with Scotland, and the more in hopes it will necessarily draw in a consideration of Ireland, since soe great a share of that kingdome is in the hands of those that will not forgett mother country, if it should ever come to blows. There could noe progress be made in this work by King James y^e^ 1^st^ for that he disgusted the nation by giving all to his Scotch followers. And in the time of King Charles y^e^ 2^d^, we thought we had them fast enough, by expectation of issue; but since we are now only ty'd together by a single thread, the ease is much altered on either part. We see not here as yett where the ministry will be setl'd. Most men think of the L^d^ Rochester, L^d^ Marlborough and L^d^ Godolphin. Doubtlesse the first will retaine his lieutenancy of Ireland, for as no seale past to vacate his, so he now holds it by law for 6 months, and by not needing any new commission for that time, he may depute as he pleases; and soe the Queene, for soe long at least, have the benefit of his service here, without obligation to step over for satisfying the formalityes of that side. But this is only my conjecture. I am very glad y^r^ l^dsh^pp can weather your distempers without the vexation of physick. For my owne part, whether I take it or lett it alone, I am extreamly disorder'd by a weak stomach, and the vapours which fly from it to my head. But these or worse being the common perquisitts of 67, I must not complaine, especially being assur'd that there is not noe of this family that will not ioherit, when I am gone, that true veneration which I will ever pay y^r^ l^dsh^pp, who am, my lord, your l^dsh^pp's most faithfull and most humble servant.

ROBERT SOUTHWELL.

* Now missing.

APPENDIX VIII.—LONDON PUBLISHERS AND TREATISE "DE ORIGINE MALI."

My Lord, London, 8^th^ April 1702.

On receipt by the last post of y^r^ l^dsh^pp's letters of the 28^th^ past, and of your book, I presently wrote to M^r^ Clavell to call on me, for I have been of a long time confined home. He came this morning, and upon view of the book, and much discourse on the subject, he would not otherwise undertake the matter than upon the terms below. Hereupon I sent for my bookseller young M^r^ Tooke, who begins to thrive in the world, and would be content to gett nothing by this undertaking, soe that he might be but intitl'd to y^r^ l^dsh^pp's favour hereafter. And what he alsoe finally says y^r^ l^dsh^pp will find below. I may probably in lesse than 14 days receive y^r^ l^dsh^pp's opinion in this matter, and doe therefore stopp any proceeding, and 'till then retayne the book in my hands. I doubt not, by the glances I have hitherto taken, but it will prove a very acceptable present to those y^r^ l^dsh^pp intends it for, and for the honour therein done to myselfe, I must ever more remaine my lord.

Your l^dsh^pp's most obedyent serv^t^,
ROBERT SOUTHWELL.

L^d^ B^p^ of Derry.

M^r^ Clavell apprehends that lett my l^dsh^pps care be never soe strict, yett the printers there will strike off and send over, whether correct or incorrect, such number of copys as may spoile his markett here. That he can only venture to print 500 copys 'till he see how the work may take. That this should certainly be done on good paper and correctly within six weekes. That he can only afford 50 copys, whereof 25 to be bound and the rest sow'd in marble. But that if he should be encourag'd to a 2^d^ impression, then would he allow 100 copys more. M^r^ Tooke offers to print 750 copys and to be certainly well done in a month or 5 weeks. He only apprehends that if it be already printed there, this would hinder him the sending over 100 copys which Ireland might take off. And his next feare is that should it be here translated (which noe man can hinder) the English one would stopp the sale of one halfe of the Latin. He doth at last consent to give your l^dpp 150 copys, whereof 50 to be bound and the rest sow'd in marble.

Digitized by Google

APPENDIX IX.—FRENCH PROTESTANT CHURCH IN IRELAND.

1.

My Lord, [Dublin, March 1705.]

Your grace has been informed by M^r de Galenieve's letter that Mr. de la Mothe has refused the place which we offered him in our church; his refusal has put us under a great concern, because our congregation stands in great need of another minister, when we were thinking of one or two that are in England, & who perhaps have not the same reasons as Mr. la Mothe to stay there, some persons have represented to our vestry that if we could unite our church with that of Lucy-lane, there would be ministers enough here to serve both congregations, because there are three in the other church, one of whom has episcopal ordination; this proposal has been unanimously approved by all the members of the vestry & of our church; & some common friends having communicated the project to the church of Lucy-lane, both the ministers & people have received it with great joy, & they have forthwith nominated commissaries to make the articles of union; we have named some likewise on our side, & that committee has agreed about seaven or eight articles, which the two churches have approved; we are also informed that the Government does approve of our design, & judges it necessary in the present juncture & would fain see a perfect union & a strict correspondance between the French churches do openly declare that they thought it our duty not to go any further in the prosecution of this design without first acquainting your grace of it. We have such confidence in your piety, zeal, & charity, that we hope your grace will not dislike this union which our people desireth so earnestly, & which we think so necessary for our mutual edification, by it our refugees do openly declare that they have a great veneration & cordial love for the Church of England; by it a much greater number will be drawn to communicate with us; by it we shall be in a better condition to maintain our ministers, & the happyest effect of all will be that by it the divisions & misunderstandings which of late have been but too visible amongst us, will be quite abolished. We entreat your grace by the compassions of God, by the meekness & by the charity of Jesus Christ, to confirm by your approbation the design we have formed & which appears so advantageous to us in all respects. We ask with humility your pastorall blessing, & beseech your lordship to be persuaded that we shall have always for your grace the submission & respect which we owe you, being as in duty bound.

My Lord,
Your grace's most humble & most obedient servants.
CHA. VIGNOLES, Moderator.
DE LA MILLIERE, Churchwarden.
CRAMAKE, Churchwarden.
JOHN PORTER, Churchwarden.
NICO. GREUBER, Churchwarden.

To
The Most Reverend father in God My Lord Archbishop of Dublin, in the Pale Male, London.

2.

My Lord,

I have inquired very often of yo' grace's health, and heard with all y^r joy imaginable that it was good. I take the liberty to assure your grace of my earnest wishes for its continuance, and that you may gett by the watters at Bath all the benefits you expect by them. I cannot express, my Lord, how sincerely I am thanckfull for all yo' grace's goodness, and the charitable cares you have been pleased to show to St. Patrick's church. I am doubly concerned in that matter now being lately chosen one of the members of the vestry, and am very glad to see that our right and yo' grace's protection have brought it to the good condition it's now in, since I can boldly assure you that St. Patricks church never was so flourishing and quiet as it is now that some troublesome minds have left it. My Lord Duke of Ormonde hath been well pleased when he heard that our communicants exceeded the number of four hundred: it is not the same with St. Marys, whose number is but very small. Truth and uprightness not being the motives y^t engaged those that compose that church to ask for a separation, they accordingly see that prosperity doth not answer their expectations, such behaviour as theirs full of contradictions, which are well known to yo' grace, could not be attended but with a fall. You know, my lord, that they have assured your grace seu^ll times that they were more in number and richer than wee, and that with Her Majesty's patent they could easily keep two ministers and give sixty pounds to each, they have notwithstanding refused M^r. La Mothe, the onely minister to keep up that church, by telling him that they could not grant him the conditions he asked, though just and approv'd of by yo' grace: the same motive made them seek a reunion with y^r meeting in Lucy-lane, and it is the same preteuce that made them press hard upon my Lord Duke and Mr. Secretary Southwell to give Her Majesty's patent to Mr. Desgatemiere, they not daring to thinck of bringing in Mr. Rochebluue after what yo' grace writt about it to them. Mr. Galenieve's self interest wich hath been his sole aime in all the troubles he hath created us, and who is satisfyed provided he getts mony, will undertake all alone to do all the functions of ministery and to preach twice every Sunday in that chappel: it is certain that my lord duke hath granted them their request, and that the patent hath been given to them this day. I wonder this should be done without yo' grace's consent and knowledge, and that by their importunitys they should obtaine a patent for a man whose behaviour deserues nothing lesse than rewards. I think, my lord, I have heard yo' grace say that it was contrary to the canons of the church that Mr. Galenieve could gett the Queen's patent, he having allready a considerable liveing; besides it is certain that he seruing in that chappell and he not being an extraordinary preacher, he will gett the income of two livenigs, but will gett few or no auditors: the meeting will reap a great benefit by it, and this second conform'd church will undoutedly fall against both Her Majesty's intent and your grace's. I thought it my duty to inform yo' grace of all this, leaving to your prudence and piety to take the necessary mesures to prevent such an accident. I end this letter, my lord, by begging yo' grace's blessing and by assureing you that I am with all due respect, my lord, your grace's most humble and most obedient servant.

AUGUSTUS LASPOIS.

Dublin, May the 8^th 1705.

Pray, my lord, if yo' grace will favour me with an answer, direct your letter to Cap^n Laspois in S^t Stephen's Green, near Lisson's.

To
The Most Reverend father in God his Grace My Lord
Archbishop of Dublin.

3.

My Lord,

A journey into Conought, where I have been till now, has hindered me to answer the letter your grace honoured me with. I do not wonder that you cannot get a minister for St. Mary's, Mr. Desgalieneve's proceedings. ..no means to procure himself a fellow minister, and . . is very few honest men that will leave any settlement to come hither and serve a divided church, St. Mary's congregation has known it so well that they chose lately a yonge man by name Ducasse, at Deane Abadie's sollicitation, to be one of their ministers; he is a chapelain to Col. Ecklin's regiment, and hath a living near London of 80 pounds, and to take off all the difficultys that that affair could cause him, he will serve for 40 pounds a year, and Dean Abadie has engaged to preach once a month for him. I do not know what will be the issue of it, but I am much afraid it will be too heavy a burthen for Mr. Ducasse, who is certainly levis armatura miles. I do not question in the least but Mr. Galenieve is very well pleased with such a one, for similis simili gaudet; all I can say to your grace is that St. Patrick's reunion with St. Mary's is thereby more backward than ever, our congregation in general having no good opinion either of Mr. Galenieve or of Mr. Ducasse, so as to admitt them to be their pastours, and I can assure your Grace of it, knowing very well their disposition in that business. What you thought about Mr. Rochelblaue was very good and suffered no difficulty as to St. Patrick, but Mr. Rochelblaue has engaged never to leave Lucy-lane, and that since your grace refused to consent to its re-uniting with St. Mary, and there's no likelihood he would accept it, and supose he would, the breaking his word would incense the dissenters, rather then to bring them to us to hear his preachings. I can assure your grace that Mr. Barbier and Mr. Quartier have quite forgotten all maner of resentments, and as faithfull ministers of Christ, peace and union will be always the main object of their wishes and the subject of their aplication, but as you know very well charity must be allwais attended with prudence, and grounded upon good order. We hope to see soon your grace here, and that your affairs will be ended to your satisfaction, and then seing how affairs go, you may take such measures as your wonted prudence shall think fit; I shall spare no labour to see that every thing be so managed as to give no cause of complaint to our enemies. I wish your grace all prosperity and good health, and I begg of you to continue me the honour of your friendship, who am, with all respect, my lord, your grace's

Digitized by Google

Most humble and obedient servant,
AUG. LASPOIS.

Dublin, September the 4th 1705.

To his Grace the most Rever'd
Father in God William Lord
Archb'p of Dublin.

APPENDIX X.—UNION of ENGLAND with SCOTLAND and IRELAND, 1706.

I have y^e hon^r of y^r grace's of y^e 17^th ultimo. As to y^e intended union it is most certain that Scotland is to have, according to the y^e present terms agreed on, 45 com'on^rs & 16 l^ds, so as many dead votes one way will be a great stroke in y^e legislature. It is much to me that no one step is taken by the people of Ireland, to be admitted into y^e union, where are all y^e mighty patriots? Sleeping, when they shouldde or at least offer at doing good for y^r poor nation; those who would have served y^m must not stir, they are so much under their displeasure, & those who ought to be active, only are so for their private interest, not for any good to y^r kingdom. Y^r thoughts ab^t y^e linnen of Scotland interfering with y^t of Irelaud are very truly grounded, & as certain it is y^e 45 & y^e 16 will endeavour to curb y^r trade therein, w^n y^e union takes place, whereas now, England looks upon Ireland to be neerer and dearer to y^m, y^n Scotland; but I take it y^t all y^e produce of Scotland, when part of Great Brittain will infallibly have a preference to anything y^t relates to Ireland. Can it be doubted y^t those of the established religion of Scotland will not have all imaginable countenance in Ireland, as well as in England, after y^e union, have they not now; & will they not y^n have at least as much? The articles of y^r treaty is yet kept a secret; but now soon we will have y^m, & as soon as I have y^m, y^r grace may expect a copy. Our victorys at home make some men presume on anything. Y^e court is gone to Newmarkett; & University of C. is to be visited, & y^n lett my kinsman look to it. There are some remarkable things w^ch respect to one Mr. Tudway, of C., and one Mr. Hart, of Oxford, w^ch in time y^r grace shall see.

I am,
Y^r grace's most obed^t & most humble serv^t,
FRA. ANNESLEY.

To his Grace y^e Lord Archbishop of Dublin in Ireland.

APPENDIX XI.—"NOTES OF MR. [FRANCIS] HIGGINS' CONFERENCE WITH ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, 1707."

H.—I understand from his grace the Archbp of Dublin that your grace had storys told of me long ago.

A'bp.—I assure you his grace never said anything ill of you, but rather justified you.

H.—My lord, I don't say that his grace accused me; but that I understood by his grace that other people had prejudiced me in y^r grace's opinion.

A'bp.—Why the A'bp himselfe (tho' I believe in the main a good man and a good scholler) said odd, strange things here at my table; tho' I advised him to keep such things to himselfe; but he wou'd not, and I assure you made himselfe a great many enemyes; he had like to have lost his business in Parliament by it; tho' I made all the friends I cou'd for him in it.

H.—My lord, I dare say his grace spoke his mind, and was able to justific what he said, his cause in Parliam^t was for the interest of the Church, and the just rights of his see; it had been hard had that suffered in an house where so many b'ps sat, for my lord archb'p's freedom of speech [*] other matters att y^r grace's table.

A.—No, no, he did not lo[] it, the list was very like [] it; men don't know what mischief they do, who talk.

To his Grace the Archb'p of Dublin, Ireland.

APPENDIX XII.—WILLIAM SHERIDAN, NON-JURING BISHOP OF KILMORE.†

1.

My Lord, London, Jan. 31st 170½.

This comes to y^r lordship under y^rs and my freind's cover, w^ch would have waited uppon y^r lordship much sooner, had I known before he acquainted me last night, w^th my particular obligations to you, and now, my lord, after such a pressure one would expect I should say some great things; but alas, my lord, I can only give y^r lordship (and I heartily do it) my unfeigned thanks, and doe entreate you to desire my lord b'p to accept of y^e like, in returne of his charity to me, I did in a letter to himself directed to his son in St. Georges Lane, this time 12 months, acknowledge his favor; whether he received y^t letter or not I cannot tell; but I owne myselfe truely obliged to him, and in witnesse y^t I am soe to y^r lordship, I subscribe myselfe, as I really am,

My lord,
Y^r lordship's aff^t brother and obliged humble serv^t,
WM. KILMORE,
disposseet.

To the R^t Reverend William
Lord Bishop of Derry.

2.

11th of September 1708.

I went yesterday to pay a visit to Bpp. Sheridan, whom I found in a very languishing condition; he thinks he shall not recover; but y^t w^ch occasions my mentioning him to y^r grace is y^e poor distressed circumstances he is in, destitute of all manner of necessaries; he told me y^r Bpp. Whetenhal ‡ has not sent him one penny since last Midsumer was a year, & then but tean guineas. Is it not a reproach to y^e hierarchy of Ireland to lett y^e only one of y^r kingdom, under y^t character, want bread? He owns y^r grace & y^e archb'p of Tuam his chief benefactors on y^t side y^e water. It will be a great hit of charity in y^e B'pp of Killmore to send him some support, I had allmost called it something like an act of justice; if anything could be gott from there, it must be by y^r Grace's influence & mediation w^th y^e Bpps, and lett it be by bill sent to his neice Mrs. Sherridan; he protested to me he had not one penny to bury him; sure not one bpp in Ireland would refuse to contribute something to make a certain annual income for him.

FRA. ANNESLEY.

To Archbishop King.

3.

London, March the 18th 1709.

May it please y^r Grace,

I am still confined to my chamber, and the doctor tels me the' little or noe hopes of my recovery, for my weakness daily encreases, and the more because I am fallen into a loosness; give me, therefore, leav (since this is the last I shall ever write to y^r grace) to give you my hearty thanks for the many instances you have given me of y^r great charity, for w^ch I beseech God to reward you both in this and a better life. My lord, I find by this my approach to death that it is dreadful to be taken unprepared, but hope y^t God wil accept of my repentance, and wil for the merits of Christ have mercy uppon me, and wil not repay my former neglect of his many calls to amendment by refusing to hear me in this time of my greatest need, or suffer my sun to goe downe uppon his wrath; but grant my pardon before I goe hence, and farther beg the assistance of your praiers & of the b'p of Kilmore's. My lord, my poore neece, w^th her concern for me and toiling about me is fallen very ill, and tied to her bed, and if the bishop would be soe charitable as to send me in this my extreme want a little releiffe, it is the last I shall ever desire or trouble him for; what his lordship does must be out of hand, if at all; I owe w^t I have had from him to y^r grace, therefore shal add noe more, but leave it to you to do

* Original torn.
† Of Bishop Sheridan and his relations with Dodwell (Appendix VI.) no notices appear in the works hitherto published on the history of the Non-jurors.
‡ Edward Wetenhall, Bishop of Kilmore.

Digitized by Google

for me and wᵗ me what he pleases; my lord, I have tired my selfe, and am affraid yʳ grace will be soe too, before you have read this, and therefore will add noe more than that I am sincerely,

May it please yʳ grace,
Yʳ grace's most faithfull, most obliged, and most humble servᵗ and unworthy brother,
WM. KILMORE.

For The most Reverend Father in God, William Lord Archbishop of Dublin, his grace at Bath.

APPENDIX XIII.—CONSECRATION OF PETER BROWNE, BISHOP OF CORK, 1710.

1.

[April 4, 1710.]

Yᵗ wᶜʰ obliged me to trouble yʳ grace by this request yᵗ yʳ opposition wᵗʰ was publickly given to yᵉ consecration of yᵉ Bᵖ of Cork. The Bᵖ of Raphoe appeard in his lawns, & desired yᵉ Bᵖs not to be hasty in laying on theyr hands upon him, he thought him unworthy to be admitted into yᵗ order, he objected agᵗ him yᵗ he had calumniated him & made him no reparation (in wᵗʰ he was thought impolitick, because yᵗ might give yᵉ world reason to believe yᵗ his other objections were yᵉ effects of his ressentm[ᵗ] of private injuries) yᵗ he had bin unfaithfull in yᵉ govern[ᵗ] of the college, yᵗ he had imbehaved himself in yᵉ convocation, yᵗ he had bin unjust to Mr. Forbes & Mr. Whiteway, and yᵗ he was agᵗ yᵉ hereditary right of yᵉ Queen, he excused himself for turning his back upon yᵉ sacram[ᵗ], & desired yᵉ people to believe yᵗ it was not for want of charity, for he had a great & some even for Dr. Br.; but yᵗ he cou'd not joyn in yᵉ consecration of one he thought unworthy of yᵉ office, nor communicate wᵗʰ persons whom yᵉ Apostle commands him not to eat wᵗʰ.

Letter of John Stearne [Dean of St. Patrick's, Dublin], to Archbishop King.

2.

I have inclosed a paper wᵗʰ pretends to be a true copy of a paper given alᵈ by the Bᵖ of Raphoe or his brother, and I am well assured yᵗ a great part of yᵉ contents is what he actually spoke on yᵉ occasion.

Letter from Stearne, dated 18 April 1710.

3.

What passd in Trinity College near Dublin, Apʳ 24, 1710, before Dr. Brown was consecrated.

* (When yᵉ Bp of Rapho came into yᵉ chappell yᵉ Lᵈ Charlem[ᵗ] pointed to yᵉ Bp to sit by yᵉ Aᵇ & Bᵖ-elect. The Bᵖ of Rapho said he was too nigh him (Dr. Browne) where he was. Dean Marsh gave yᵉ Bᵖ of Rapho his place. The Bᵖ of Rapho pritty loud observ'd to Dean Marsh several falsities in yᵉ sermon).

Dr. Synge's sermon ended, yᵉ Bᵖ of Rapho said to yᵉ Abp of Cashel :† May it please yʳ grace, & you my revᵈ brethren who are to lay hands on this person, consider what yᵉ preacher has pray'd for, that Bᵒʳ may lay hands suddenly on no man, nor be partakers of others sins. Praying without doing accordingly is vain (here yᵉ Abᵖ & Brown went up to yᵉ altar, Bᵖ of Kildare‡ & Ash § follow'd). In stewards of yᵉ mysteries of God faithfullness is yᵉ main requisite. Moreover 'tis required in stewards that a man be found faithfull. Requir'd especially above all things. This person ye are going to consecrate is unfaithfull in sundry instances. In yᵉ Convocation he basely betray'd his trust. He calumniated me, he slander'd my doctrine, hinder'd me of yᵉ pulpit, when I wod have told him of his unfaithfullness & others too. (Here yᵉ Bp of Rapho called to yᵉ Bp of Meath,‖ bad him not go to yᵉ altar till he heard wᵗ he wod say. Bp of Meath said I do stay: note yesternight yᵉ Bᵖ of Rapho told yᵉ Bᵖ of Meath wᵗʰ he sᵈ yᵉ consecration was to be to-morrow, I'd not lay hands on him for yᵉ world). My Lᵈ, laying on hands suddenly is a grievous crime, be not guilty. The Queen's title by birth has been question'd & tax'd by him. He was partial in yᵉ College in many particulars. He was more arbitrary yᵉ yᵉ late King James in Whiteway's & Forbes's case. And being unfaithfull in yᵉ lower station he ought not to be advanc'd in yᵉ higher. He that is unfaithfull in little things who will commit to his charge great riches? The Bᵖ of Rapho intending to go out, turn'd & said, Brethren, I hope ye will have so much charity as to think I turn not my back on yᵉ altar on any dissatisfaction to any thing but yᵉ impurity of him who is to be consecrated there. If a brother is false or walks disorderly have no fellowship with him, no not to eat, especially yᵉ body of our Lᵈ Jesus Christ. The Bᵖ of Rapho then turning to yᵉ Lᵈ Charlem[ᵗ] said: My lord, you had better come out than recieve yᵉ Communion with such an unfaithfull person. In a degree you partake of his sin. Note yᵗ yᵉ Bᵖ of Rapho intended to mind Aᵇᵖ Paliser of wᵗ yᵉ Aᵇᵖ of Dublin said to him when he propos'd a charity to him yᵉ Aᵇ of Cashel, who said, I will not be first, to wᵗʰ Dublin replied, Were you ever first in a good thing in your life? He not first in consecrating an unfaithfull man? suspend yᵉ matter till he gives some publick satisfaction for his treacheries. Wᵗʰ yᵉ abrupt, hasty & unbrotherly departure of yᵉ Aᵇᵖ on Brown's speaking to his grace, hinder'd being delivered. As also that next to have Bᵒʳ hands in blood was to lay hands on an unfaithfull minister. Young Ned will be old Ned.

APPENDIX XIV.—ORDINATION OF GEORGE BERKELEY.

Trin. Coll., April 18, 1710.

May it please yʳ Grace,

It was with great concern and surprise that I understood my being fallen so far into the displeasure of yʳ grace, as that you should order me to be prosecuted in yonr grace's court, especially without any fault of mine that I knew of. For I do assure your grace, that if the manner of my ordination was in me fault, it was a fault of ignorance, as will appear from the following account which I humbly submit to yʳ grace's consideration. The time drawing nigh at which I was oblig'd by the Statutes of the College to take on priest's orders, I resolved to make use of the first opportunity that shou'd offer, and being inform'd that a gentleman of my acquaintance had apply'd to the Bishop of Clogher to be ordain'd by him, I thought it proper for me likewise to address his lordship in my own behalf, and the rather for that his relation (as vice-chancellor) to our society entitled me in a particular manner to expect that favour from him. But my lord, as I was a stranger to the nature and intent of yʳ grace's jurisdiction, I did not apprehend it was my business to examine how far your grace's licence may be necessary to his lordship's ordination in custom. Whether the Bᵖ of Clogher wou'd ordain me or no, or what licence he had to do it, I left entirely to his lordship's [] to determine, not thinking it became me to intermeddle in [] of that nature, since I was [], and his lordship might be presum'd best to know on [] grounds he proceeded. But least of all did it enter into my thoughts that in case there had been any irregular act of hi[*], it won'd lye upon me under the resentment of yʳ grace, or be interpreted in me an encroaching on yʳ grace's authority, which I never meant to lessen or dispute. This, my lord, is the true state of the matter, which I presume to lay before your grace, in hopes it may (if not justifie me altogether) at least make my error appear the more pardonable. I have already engaged to the Dean of St. Patrick's (who has been pleas'd to suspend the prosecution), as I do now to yʳ grace, that I shall not exercise any ecclesiastical function in yʳ diocese untill I have first obtain'd licence from yʳ grace.

I am, my Lord, yʳ grace's
Most dutifull & most obedient servant,
GEOR. BERKELEY.

To the Most Reverend Father in God, his Grace William, Lord Archbishop of Dublin, att his lodgings in the Mall near St. James's, London.

APPENDIX XV.—SACHEVERELL AND REV. CHARLES LESLEY.

May it please yo' Grace, 1710, Jun. 30.

You cannot but be sensible of yᵉ great danger we are brought into by yᵉ turbulent preaching and practices of an impudent man, one Dr. Sacheverell yᵗ having been judged guilty of high crimes and misdemeano'ʳˢ by yᵉ Parl[ᵗ] of this kingdome is now riding in triumph over yᵉ middle of England & every where

* John Pooley.
† William Palliser.
‡ Welbore Ellis.
§ St. George Ash, Bishop of Clogher.
‖ William Moreton.

* Original torn.

Digitized by Google

stirring up y^r people to address to Her Ma^ty for a new Parl^t. The danger is so great y^t I cannot but tremble to think of it, if Her Ma^ty should dissolv y^e present Parl^t and change her ministry, w^ch in y^e thing driven at by y^r addressers. But withall it is so visible y^t I hope Her Ma^ty cannot but see it through all y^e fals colors they put on it. I need not tell yo^r grace who they are by whom this work is caried on, The heads of them are such as have been formerly in y^r ministery, & if they were so again, I should not be much concernd if there had taken a fitter time to try for it. But this is like to be y^r overturning of all, in o^r present circumstances. And it is surely so understood by all y^e Papists & Nonjurors of this kingdome. They push for it with all their might. I could name sundry instances of this but at present I have not time. And yet I cannot forbear acquainting yo^r grace w^th one instance of this, w^ch I guess will not seem very strange to you. It is of Mr. Lessley y^t came hither out of Ireland & has been writing here these many years. I think, ubi bene, nemo melius, ubi male, nemo pejus. At present he is writing amain ag^st Dr. Sach^d fals brethren, against us, y^t are not stark mad for y^e doctrines of non-resistance & passive obedience. One would think he were surely so now by his writing. And yet yo^r grace remembers when I was otherwise, and gave I think over-great instances of it. Especially in his declaring against K. James in y^e first begin'inge of y^e revolution in Ireland. I beg of yo^r grace y^t you would get somebody to write me an account of y^r matter, such as may be publisht without saying from whence I had y^r information. I heartily pray for yo^r grace's good health & prosperity in all things,

Yo^r grace's most faithfull servant,

W. Worcester.

For the most Reverend Father in God his Grace y^e Lord
Archbishop of Dublin.

Appendix XVI.—Robert Molesworth

1.

Edlington near Doncaster in Yorkshire, Oct. 7th, 1713.

May it please y^r Grace,

Upon my hearing the newes of her Maty's intentions of haveing a Parl^t called suddenly in Ireland, I order'd my Coz. Adair to wait upon you in my name & to desire y^r favour & interest for Swords, w^ch my cuzen tells me y^r grace is unwilling to give but upon a condition w^ch 'tis utterly impossible for me to perform, w^ch is that I would bring in Mr. Parnel at Phillipston. I had really disposed absolutely of my interest there (in trust & confidence that I could not miss it in Swords) before I had y^r least intimation that Mr. Parnel put in for Swords. I knew indeed of Mr. Plunket's pretentions but not of any body's else. Now, my lord, y^t case is thus: I & my ancestors for about 7 score yeares & more have had & still have a very considerable estate in & about y^e town of Swords, equivalent to that of the see of Dublin there, & ever since y^e reformation (whenever Parl^ts met) my ancestors have serv^d for Swords or recommended (at least one) member for it. My grandfather Bysse, then Chief Baron, immediately after (I mean y^e first Parl^t after y^e Restoration) recommended his son-in-law Sr Wm Tichborne & at another time Coll. Forster, the present Recorder's father. When I serv'd for y^e county of Dublin since y^e Revolution I recommended my friend for Swords, & since that time I serv'd for it myself. All this I say to inform y^r Grace that altho' I desire y^r interest there, yet 'tis not without being sensible that my family allwayes had & I hope have (as I ought to have) a fixed interest there of my own, so that y^r grace's proposal of changing Swords for Phillipston seems to me not to be grounded on a right notion of y^r matter and is no equivalent. I own, indeed, that y^r grace ought to have y^e nomination of the other member, & Mr. Peppard is the person I took to have bin of y^r nomination. I had no hand in his first coming in. Y^r grace's predecessor & I think [my]self principally have contributed to raise up a third interest w^ch now proves [stro]nger then both ours, & this has bin done through a distrust of me, though liveing in another kingdom, & takeing out of my hands some tenements w^ch my predecessors & I allwayes held by lease from y^e See, in order to weaken me in Swords, w^ch tenements & lands either directly or by mean assignments have since fallen under Mr. Peppard's disposal. So that now y^r grace ownes that he is too strong to be contended with, & any struggle must be between me & y^e other candidates. Whereas y^r former Archbps chose rather to have y^r freindship of a fixed family & to set their interest to one who won'd make no ill use of any trust that might be reposed in them. I do not deny but that Mr. Peppard is very worthy of his good fortune & has servd his country very faithfully & perhaps more effectually than I can pretend to do; but this I say to disculpate myself from haveing joyned with any interest in opposition to y^r grace. I never did it, I seek only for myself, & if I must now give any votes to Mr. Peppard, 'tis only in order to deprive my antagonists of them, because it seems Mr. Peppard must be one. Now, my lord, Mr. Moor can inform y^r grace that in my recommendations for Phillipston, I had no regard for my own sons, tho' I have two perhaps as deserving as most I see, but to the good & service of my country, & my present view is y^r sanse, & if it should happen that I could have a reserve in that town, assure y'self it should be to secure some very usefull worthy person who meets with an unlooked-for disappointment in another place. I have one in my eye whose lott it may chance to be, & whom y^r grace would very unwillingly have out of y^r house. Now Mr. Plunket has not only a borrough of his own, but intends to make a fortune by sitting in y^r House; he intends to bring in one at Granard that honest men would be afraid of keeping company with, one who keeps a diary & setts down people's words and actions that he may be afterwards an evidence against them; & in case he carryes Swordes will bring in another of y^r like stamp. There might be other differences alledged between Mr. Plunket and me, but such as do not become me to make: all I can assure y^r grace is, that in case I miss my election at Swords, I shall not sit in yo House, & I wond not urge this as an argument to any but to a person who both in Parl^t & at Council board has allwayes bin of y^r same sentiments in relation to the publick with me. I can easily spare myself y^r charge, y^r fatigue the vast struggles & quarrells w^ch I foresee & after all perhaps y^r disappointments of y^r best endeavoures we can use; but I shod not acquit myself of y^r duty I owe my self & countrey did I not use my best endeavoures to come in, & if they fail I have nothing to reproach my self with. The very suspending of letting y^r grace's intentions (if they shoud be favourable for me) to be known puts me to great chages, w^ch with a word of y^r mouth to y^r 2 divines & others under y^r power may be avoyded; & indeed I think I cannot lose my election there unless y^r grace has a mind I shoud, w^ch I am not willing to beleive till further proof, haveing never done anything in my life to disoblige y^e, but on y^e contrary; & if y^r 2 clergymen will do me [] they can inform y^r grace that I am at least as good a churchman & as constant at all religious offices as Mr. Plunket, this I add because y^e interest of y^e Church and religion is now so much insisted on. I am not ignorant that [] y^e arbitraryness, foul play, violence, & makeing use of scoundrel sheriffs magistrates to make false returns will be put in use at this time before y^r House meets, & afterwards. The bill pay, affronts, & hardships that honest men will meet with in the House must follow: I know by w^t I see a doing here, for, beleive me, my lord, tho' we have lifted one hand we have not changed maxims, & as long as you & one great man hard by you at y^e Council board expect nothing from y^e mildness of the other that shall do us any essential good. I have done my lord, & now leave it freely to y^r self to do w^t you please: Liberavi animam meam. I grow old & infirm, a disappointment for aught I know may be best for me; I shall wait here till I know the result of this election, w^ch [] wood be over did I resolve it otherwise before I could be [] tother side y^r water, for they will call this Parl^t precipitately to make use of y^r present sherriffs & magistrates, then whom they think they can scarce find fitter.

I am, my Lord,
Y^r grace's most obedient humble serv',
R. Molesworth.

To his Grace the Lord Archb'p of Dublin.

2.

My Lord, London, Sept. 2d, 1714.

Being resolved to communicate my joy for the transaction of this day to some honourable friend who woud have as true a tast of it as I have, I presently pitched upon y^r grace for my man. This day our countrey is deliver'd from y^e domination of 2 tyrants, & in their stead we have 2 worthy honourable patriots set over us. The poor citty of Dublin has bin long denyed y^r justice of a fair hearing, but at length is vindicated by a board of 22 of y^r honestest noblemen his Majesty coud pick out to make regents in his absence. The villany & obstinacy of our adversarys was so insufferable that we coud not have wish'd a greater tryumph. And now, my lord, give me leave to congratulate y^r grace upon that particular share w^ch you have in it, as you have in a great measure born y^e brunt, so it was but just you shoud receive y^e honour & recompence of y^r courage, patience, & perseverance. Y^r grace & my L^d Kildare had y^e unanimous voice of all the gentlemen of Ireland. I must tell y^r grace we here have had our shares of labour & toil too, & are proud to see the good effects of it, but we have not yet done with Sr. Con. Phipps & his governor who persisted to y^e last in justification of those poor knaves & knaves he has deluded, & made a harangue of half-an-hour long & to my great wonder told one great truth in it w^ch was that he verily believed had he bin at y^r Council board in Dublin he shoud have done just as his freinds y^r justices had done. His Majesty is not master of y^e English tongue & therefore my L^d Ang—is 3 honres every morning learning French to please him with, & he is much mistaken in his Majestys temper, and I hope will be disappointed in all his designs as much as he is in this of y^r citty. I much suspect y^r Privy Council will be as tronblesome to y^r grace & my L^d Kildare as they can be, & endeavour to dye hard like their masters, but they will find that such vigorous measures will be taken as shall break those who will not bow to truth & justice. I cannot forbear pleasing myself with y^e fancy how S^r Con. will digest carrying y^r purse before y^r Excellencys, a man of his rude obstinacy and surlyness, but I will delay sending you any more of my reflexions till I have a better opportunity, or perhaps till I have y^r honour of kissing y^r hands in person, for I am with a great deal of truth & that made me take the unkindnesso ill from you), my lord, y^r grace's most affec^t humble serv^t.

* Original torn.

Digitized by Google

R. Molesworth.

To his Grace the Archbishop of Dublin, Ireland.

3.

My Lord, London, Sept. 28^th, 1714.

I shoud sooner have acknowledgd y^r favour of your grace's letter had I not waited to give you some certain account of those alterations w^ch we were in hourly expectation of for Ireland. The hurry of affaires has bin so great that till my L^d Sunderland was confirmed in the Government little besides good promises coud be given to us. But now 'tis resolved we shall have a thorough reformation, & 'twill be our own faults if we make not a right use of it, for certainly no Lord Lieu^t ever went over with a better disposition to do essentiall good to that poor country w^ch has been so long & so villainously tyrannizd over. Mr. Brodrick will be our L^d Chancellor & we shall have such a set of Privy Councellors & Judges (these last almost entirely new) as your grace & all good people coud wish for; there will be a great change in all subordinate civil employm^ts And the bp^ricks fill'd with such worthy men as y^r Archbp of Canterburys recommendation & y^r grace's approbation shall determine upon. In short, there seems to be a disposition to do every thing that can conduce to y^r future happiness of these realms, & I most heartily congratulate y^r grace upon this (miraculous lucky turn of y^r publick affaires, methinks I can scarce persuade myself I am yet awake, when I consider our late condition, & I look back with dread upon y^e precipice we have escaped. I know you will receive by this post from some of my friends a list of persons names designed for severall places, & therefore I do not trouble y^r grace with it. As to forreign affaires, all y^e Princes of Europe (nay even the Fr. King himself) show a great regard for y^e friendship of our king, who is indeed upon all accounts a more potent prince then ever ascended the throne of Great Britain. I shoud not commend his power were it not at y^t same time tempered by all y^e justice, mildness, & experience of y^r world that can be desired in a ruler of so great a people, so that such as think to cope with him by y^e old artifices of managing a party, will fall short of their computations. His thoughts of y^e late peace & treatys of commerce are directly opposite to those of y^e late ministry, & with reason, for every hour opens a new scene to us of villany & ignorance in the contrivers of it, so that there are hopes we shall see some of y^r grossest offenders brought to due punishm^t, for we are likely to have a good House of Commons next Parl^t, since y^r publick mony will not as formerly be employd in bribing electors. As to Ireland I find by my L^d Lieu^t that we are not likely to have a new Parl^t till Feb. or March, in all probability Mr. Dean will long ere that time be one of our Cheif Judges, in w^ch case I design to stand (as I formerly did) for y^e county of Dublin, and with y^r grace's leave bring in my eldest son at Swords in conjunction with y^r man you shall appoint; for both these I desire y^r graces interest, that y^r Hoath family may not prevent me; but that my L^d Brabazon may rather chuse to joyn with me (who have already serv'd for y^e county) then try a new man who may chance not to do so well. I think to recommend Mr. Forth & S^r Harry Tichborne (who is likely to miss his election in y^e county of Louth) for Phillipston. All our difficulty in Ireland will be to have a good House of Lords. You know what an old set of men commonly attends them, & I can think of no speedy way of mending it. Y^r grace's letter to me did us good service, for that w^ch was sent by you to our late L^d Lieu^t was not so soon delivered over to our present one as one would have wished for y^r importance of y^e affair, & I venturd to communicate early what you wrote to me, w^ch put our freinds into a method and prevented any surprize. We are much beholding to the gent of y^r Privy Council; they have justifyed us beyond what ever we coud have said or done our selves, & have effectually done their own business for ever.

I am, my Lord,
Y^r grace's most obedient & faithfull
humble serv^t,
R. Molesworth.

Appendix XVII.—Letters of Sunderland, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to Archbishop King.

1.

My Lord, London, Oct. 1^st, 1714.

Tho' I have by a letter in form acquainted y^r grace & the other Lords Justices with his Maj^ties having appointed me Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, & that the Patent is passing; yett I could not satisfye myself without taking this first opportunity of assuring you of my sincere respect, and that as I shall never have anything in view butt the serving the King & kingdome to the best of my power, so I shall allways think myself happy in having & following y^r grace's advice who have shewn y^rself so eminently zealous for the service of his Maj^ty & the Protestant interest. His Maj^ty has been pleas'd to constitute Mr. Broderick L^d Chancellour, Mr. Whitshed, Chief Justice of the King's Bench, Mr. Forster, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, & Mr. Dean, Chief Baron, all which warrants Mr. Broderick & the other gentlemen that are here will carry when they go over, which they intend to do with all expedition. His Maj^ty has been further pleas'd to dissolve the old Privy Councill & to constitute a new one, in which all the persons that have acted irregularly in the great affair of the city of Dublin are left out & severall others of the greatest note & fortune in the kingdome putt in. The letter for constituting the new Councill goes to y^r grace and the other Justices by this express. I hope this step will go a great way towards putting the kingdome at ease, & that it will now be in y^r grace's & my Lord Kildare's power to settle the city of Dublin. I beg y^r grace to believe that nobody is with greater truth & respect, my Lord, y^r grace's most obedient humble servant.

Sunderland.

I must nott forgett acquainting y^r grace that Mr. Macartney is also restor'd in the room of Mr. Nuttley, Judge in the King's Bench.

2.

My Lord, London, Oct. 16th, 1714.

I have the honour of y^r grace's letter of y^e 9^th inst., & am very glad the great affair of the City of Dublin is at last ended to the satisfaction of all that wish well to the quiett of the kingdome. The part y^r grace has had in this whole affair, as it has his Maj^ties entire approbation, so ought to be acknowledg'd by all those that wish well to his & and the kingdome's service. As to what y^r grace mentions in y^r letter in relation to the Church, I can assure you there is no part of the administration of the kingdome which his Maj^ty has been pleas'd to entrust me with, which I shall have so great & constant a regard to, as what may tend to the honour & service of the Church. & in order to that

I shall allways have the greatest deference to y^r opinion & advice, & in particular I must now beg y^r grace to lett me know y^r thoughts in relation to what benefices are now vacant by the promotion of the new bishops, some of which. I am inform'd are in y^e diocese, which I shall dispose of as you direct. I have had Dr. Lloyd recommended to me for St. Warburgh's, which is one of them; I know him to be an honest man, butt whither proper for that I submitt to y^r grace. I onely mention it to have y^r opinion, for if you think any other properer I will dispose of it to that person; it is severall of y^r grace's friends here that have mentioned Dr. Lloyd to me; but this is submitted to you. I should take it for a particular favour if y^r grace would transmitt to me an account of the benefices during the vacancys that have been dispos'd of in preindice to his Maj^ties title, with y^r thonghts upon it. The king has been pleas'd to appoint my Lord Tyrawley generall & commander in chief of the troops in Ireland, in the room of Lieutenant Generall Stewart, & I carried him this day to kiss his Maj^ties hand. I hope this nomination will meet with y^r grace's approbation.

I am ever, with great truth & respect,
My Lord,
Y^r grace's most obedient humble servant,
SUNDERLAND.

3.

My Lord, Bath, June 15th, 1715.

I received on Sunday the honour of your grace's letter of the 2d, and last night of the 4th instant. Your opinion, my lord, is certainly right, that making use of the Duke of Ormond's birthday as a pretext for treasonable meetings and setting up his name for a watchword to traiterous riots is the greatest disservice that can be done him at this time, and may make it necessary to act with greater severity towards him than was perhaps at first intended; but I am afraid his vanity and affectation of popularity have so blinded him that he is pleased with these extraordinary marks of respect from people by whom one would be ashamed to be owned, and who are sacrificing him without the least prospect of advantage to themselves. I have already told your grace my lord lieutenant's sentiments of what has been done by the lords justices for the suppressing of libels, riots, & other disaffected practises, and how well he is pleased with their diligence in it, and particularly with your grace's care. His Ex^cy hopes the same spirit and vigour will be shewn in punishing as has been in detecting, else the work is imperfect, and there can be no error in punishing misdemeanours, especially against the government, as soverely as the law will allow. It is true, my lord, that where a single piece of wit or satyre comes abroad, it is better policy to overlook and neglect it than by shewing too quick a sense of such injurys to encourage those to repeat them who would take a pleasure in galling & vexing you, when they can do you no other hurt. But where the endeavours to corrupt a nation are so general and have succeeded with so many that the enemy begin to put a confidence in their numbers and to appear barefaced and brave the Government, there the same end of shewing how despicable they appear is to be attained by a contrary method, of punishing with severity; for if once by a faint-hearted proceeding they were led to think you afraid of them the flame would burn more fierce and spread wider by the coming in to them of weak people that would joyn with that side that appeared the stronger. This I can assure your grace, that your proceeding briskly and with vigour in these matters is what my lord lieutenant approves and recommends to you in the most earnest manner as the most acceptable and effectual service that can be done to his Ma^ty. And I hope his Ex^cy^s opinion and what his secretary^s write by his command, besides their being a justification for what you shall do, will weigh more with your grace than any conjectures that can be made from the silence of a person who perhaps out of mere caution is unwilling to concern himself in matters that are not in his province. Your grace will be pleased to observe my lord lieutenant gives this caution as far as the law will warrant; but his meaning is not that one should bate them anything of it. By what I have heard, it will reach particular persons in the colledge; but y^r purging of that foundation and putting upon a better foot must probably be the care of the Parliament. I am sure it very well deserves the consideration of every gentleman who has the least regard to posterity. Your grace has before this time received the King's letter about the forms of prayer. I do not find his Ma^ty is very fond of having an anniversary kept for him, looking upon this honour paid to a prince as a kind of prophanation of God's worship. My lord lieutenant intends to get those pensions continued which your grace mentions, and desires your advice about Lord Bellew's, how that should be settled. He is under age and his mother, tho' a good woman, is I fear so ill a manager that it should not be left entirely at her disposal. I believe that your grace may expect the establishment soon after my lord lieutenant's return to town, which is so near that it is not worth troubling the King for particular orders about those who want the payment of their salarys and pensions. I have made your grace's compliments to my my Lady Sunderland, who is no stranger to your caracter, and bid me to assure you of her esteem & respect.

I am, with the greatest deference,
My Lord,
Your grace's most dutiful and most obedient humble servant,
CH. DELAFAYE.

I forgot to mention to your grace that the delay we have met w^th in relation to our examinations proceeds merely from multiplicity of business, not from want of inclination to the measures I have been mentioning. My lord continues to improve in health.

APPENDIX XVIII.—SAMUEL MOLYNEUX TO ARCHBISHOP KING.

1.

My Lord, [Endorsed: Sep^r 23, 1714.]

I have the honour of y^r grace's in relation to the present state of affairs in the citty, which I have this moment communicated to my Lord Sunderland, who is named for our lord lieutenant, and who, I am sure, will give such assistance in that affair as will, I hope, put an end to that confusion you are in at present. I believe he will entirely alter the Privy Councell, & I do not doubt but the kingdom will be well satisfyd with his government, for he is an honest, upright, and understanding man, as I think on the honour of a personall acquaintance. Mr. Boyse, the Presbiterian minister, is here with an address from the dissenting clergy of Ireland. I believe y^r grace will think it proper that the Established Church of Ireland should not be behind hand with them in the asurances of their duty to his Majesty, and I am sure if an address were transmitted hither from those of the lords, bishops, and clergy now in Dublin, congratulating his Majesty's accession, it would be most graciously & wellcomely received. Yesterday morning his royall highness the Prince did me the honour to nominate me for his secretary; but as this is not yet publickly declared, y^r grace will please not to speak of it. I send y^r grace hereunder a list of our changes as near as I can remember them.

I am, with great dnty and respect,
Y^r grace's most obligd & most humble servant,
S. MOLYNEUX.

L^d Marlborough, Captain Gen^ll.
L^d Townsend & Gen^l Stanhope, Secretarys of State.
Duke of Montross, Secretary in Scotland.
Duke of Roxborough, Privy Seall there.
L^d Wharton, Privy Seall here.
L^d Cowper, L^d Chancellor.
L^d Argile, Groom of the Stole to the Prince.
L^d Dorset & Berkeley, of the Bedchamber to the King.
Duke of Devonshire, L^d Steward.
L^d Cholmondeley, L^d Steward of the Houshold.
M^r Addison, secretary to L^d Sunderland in Ireland.
I believe Brodrick will be Chancellour, & Dean Forster & Whitchet judges.

2.

My Lord,

I have before me the honour of two of y^r grace's letters, one of which brought me inclosd y^r graces letters of recommendation to the Duke and Dutchess of Shrewsbury, both which I have deliverd, and am infinitely obligd to y^r grace for y^r favour & protection therein, y^r grace was much in the right when you said in one of those letters that you looked on me to otherwise than as a son. My lord, I have allways had great reason from y^r tender concern of me to be convinc'd of this, and I shall allways make it my best ambition to endeavour to deserve to esteem y^r grace my father; I am satisfyd whatever good fortune attends me in this world I shall owe it in a great measure to y^r graces, and if I could be capable of becoming it, I am sure it will be due to y^r grace's good instruction. In this view I shall think my self infinitely happy in receiving from y^r grace from time to time such instructions as you shall be pleased to give me. I have not yet the honour of being actually in office, because the Prince's family is not yet declard; but I have no doubt of that employment under his highness which I mentioned in my last to y^r grace. Her R. Highness is hourly expected in town, the prince went this morning at 5 a'clock to Margate to meet her. I am much presd in time this day, & must beg y^r grace to excuse my being obligd to conclude so soon.

Digitized by Google

I am, with great respect,
Y^r grace's most dutifull & most obligd
humble servant,

London, Octo. 12th 1714. S. Molyneux.

Appendix XIX.—Dean Swift.

My Lord,

I received yesterday a letter from Mr. Manley giving an account of the seizing of a parcel of treasonable papers with one Jefferys directed to Dr. Swift. I acquainted my Lord Lieutenant with it, who was very well pleased with this fresh instance of your grace's zeal and diligence in the King's service, which can not fail of being highly acceptable to His Majesty. His Ex^cy commanded me to give you his thanks for it; and he hopes that, if there appears enough against the Doctor to justify it, he is kept in confinement, and Mr. Houghton also, but how far that may be justifyable your grace is best able to judge; I presume they are at least held to very good & sufficient bail. If any thing can add to your grace's caracter, this application to the publick service will undoubtedly heighten it in the esteem of all good men, which, like all other things that may happen to your advantage, will give a particular satisfaction to, my Lord, your grace's most dutifull and most obed^t humble servant,

Ch. Delafaye.

Bath, May 25, 1715.

My Lord Lieutenant's health is daily improving.

Appendix XX.—Letters of Addison to Archbishop King.

1.

My Lord, May 24, 1715.

Mr. Delafay tells me that H. E. not being willing your grace's letter which I transmitted to him shoud lie too long unanswerd had orderd him to write to your grace by the cross road from the Bath to Chester, so that I need not repeat his Ex^cy's sentiments upon the matters contained in it. As for the ease of the Palatines, it has bin often solicited in the Treasury, and upon the death of my Lord Halifax a warrant was found in his pocket ready drawn, but not signed, for the relief of those poor people. I am promised that it shall be dispatched very suddenly. I am sorry that the petition relating to the parish of Warburg has bin unfortunately mislaid, but upon the first receipt of another it shall meet with all possible dispatch. Your grace knows that among a multiplicity of papers such mistakes will sometimes happen. I find that Mr. Gilbert will be Chief Baron, and that our great men are studying at the same time to gratify S^r R. Levinge, but this last circumstance I dare not mention to any but your grace. My L^d L^t is as yet a stranger to it, but will hear of it by this post. I promise my self that our affaires in the Treasury will passe through that office sooner than formerly. My dear and ever-lamented L^d Halifax was so busy in settling the funds and revenue here in England that he coud not attend to other matters so much as he woud have done at any other time, besides some other reasons which your grace may ghesse.

I am, with the greatest respect, my Lord,
Your grace's most obedient and
most humble servant,
J. Addison.

1.

My Lord, July 2, 1715.

The letter which I had lately the honour to receive from your grace gave me a fresh opportunity of making my court to my L^d Lieut^t, who is always very much pleased to read your grace's opinion of things, especially since they so exactly concurre with his own. Our establishment is now finisht and agreed to by His Majestie, and will be signed as soon as it can be transcribed in a fair copy. My Lord is so kind as not to let me know the names of the persons added or left out, that I may not be worried to death by solicitations and importunities, before it is actually signed. He has, I believe, made augmentations to the prime serjeant's salary, and to that of the masters in Chancery. He has likewise struck off about a dozen pensions, and made a separate list of some to be continued till further order, by which means it is hoped they will deserve them by their future behaviour. Mr. Keightly's 400 li. p. an^m is taken off, but the 1,000 li. continued. There are, I think, five brigadiers, and very near the same number of major-generals. Col. Creighton is among the former, and Major-General Wynne among the latter. I hope to send over the military commissions some time next week. They have bin signed by the King about a fortnight ago, but y^r secretary is so full of businesse that it is very difficult at present to get any thing dispatch'd in his office. I do not remember the name of any one superceded but that of Major Champaigne in Clayton, who has bin represented by very many as a person unworthy of such a trust. As soon as the report on the affaire of Warburgh comes to my hands, I will for certain reasons endeavour to give it the utmost dispatch, since I know your grace has it so much at heart. My Lord Sunderl^d, tho' perfectly cured of his cholick pains, has frequent returns of his palpitations, which last a day or two together, and are very uneasy to him. I must beg leave to acquaint your grace that my secret service money is all expended, and must therefore beg your grace to move for a new supply if you shall think it proper.

I am, with the greatest respect, my Lord,
Your grace's most obedient and
most humble servant,
J. Addison.

3.

My Lord, Aug. 25, 1715,

This evening my Lord Lieutenant tells me that His Majesty was pleased in the morning before he went to the review to declare the Duke of Grafton and L^d Gallway lords justices of Ireland, and I find Colonel Bladen is to be their secretary. I was with his Ex^cy (for so I must yet call him) at eight a'clock, when he had heard nothing of this matter, but the Duke of Marlborough making him a visite whilst I was there informed him of what had passed. As I have heard nothing of it yet in town, I do not know whether the news will spread enough to be sent to Ireland by this night's post. I have every day hastened the warrant about St. Warburghs, and found so many difficulties in it that I was forced to mention it in the letter to y^r Secretary of State as what was earnestly recommended by your grace. I was obliged to go into the countries upon an indisposition, when the warrant was drawn up and shown to my L^d L^t, but I hope it will answer your grace's intentions. It comes to the Lords Justices by this post. Your lordships will likewise receive a warrant for making all the payments due upon the last establishm^t from the Queen's demise to the commencement of the new establishment, which my lord hopes will turn to my advantage, having worded the letter to your Excell^cy in that view. As the Secretaries of State here have drawn from me about a thousand pounds by the commissions which they have given out, so if I lose the benefit of the two quarters succeeding the Queen's death, my place will be quite starved by my L^d L^t's absence from the Government. I most humbly recommend myself to your grace's protection in particulars of this nature, and shall ever remain, with the greatest gratitude and respect, my lord, your grace's

Most obedient and most humble servant,
J. Addison.

My L^d L^t will, I believe, be declared Privy Seal to-morrow.

4.

My Lord, Oct. 4, 1715.

Tho I have nothing to trouble your grace with at present, all matters relating to Ireland being now entirely passed into other hands, I cannot dispense with myself from repeating my humble thanks to your grace for the many favours you have bin pleased to shew me during the short continuance of my secretaryship. I am not without hopes of paying my dnty to your grace in person very snddenly, and in the mean time cannot forbear taking all opportunities of expressing my sentiments here of the obligations His Majesty has to your grace for the services you have rendered him before and since his accession to the throne. I do not know but the vanity I have of being thought to have a share in your grace's good opinion may frequently put me upon this subject, but at the same time I am sure nothing can be more for His Majesty's as well as our country's interest, than that such persons shou'd on all occasions have justice done them who are best able to promote it. My Lord Gallway set out for Ireland yesterday, and as his lordship's marches are but slow, it is probable the Duke of Grafton may overtake him before his arrival in that kingdome. Your grace has doubtlesse heard before this that Col. Bladen and Mr. Delafay are to be joint secretarys, and that the two secretarys places are to be thrown together. Mr. Walpole is the patron of the first of these two gentlemen, who might have pin envoy to Switzerland if he had pleased: and I can not see how he can propose greater advantages to himself from halving the secretarys post in Ireland. The Duke of Grafton is a perfectly good-humoured man, and would have bin too happy might he have learn't the arts of government under such an associate as I cou'd have wisht him. I was informed yesterday that overtures had bin made for the surrendry of S^r W. Windham, who has this morning given up himself, and has bin under examination before the Cabinet. He has a good councellor in his father-in-law the Duke of Somerset. An expresse arrived yesterday from the Earle of Barclay, desiring a reinforcement at Bristol, for that he expected every moment a rising in that place. A colonel was sent into those parts to apprehend Mr. Colson, but miss'd him. Several others, as Kynaston and Forster, can not be met with. It seems very odde that none are yet discoverd to have embarqued in this hellish conspiracy but the inconsiderate, hot-headed men of the party. It is to be suspected that the ringleaders are more obliged to their caution than their innocence that they are not yet detected, since it is observed that none of 'em have taken this opertainity to wait on His Maj^y, and expresse their abhorrence of such proceedings. The conduct of the University of Oxford is very unaccountable. They have not yet addressed H. M., nor intend to do it. One of the heads of colleges, who is a moderate Tory, told me they durst not propose an addresse in Convocation where there are so many violent young fellows as would opertainly reject it. We expect every day to hear of Mr. Walpole's being at the head of the Treasury and a member of the Cabinet. His brother, is said, will be secretary to that board, who is now gone to hasten over the Dutch troupes. S^r R. Onslow will be a peer and a teller, and the rest of the board either continued or provided for to their satisfaction. Our principal business in Parliament on Thursday next will I believe be to move for writts for new elections with respect to those who get places. Our ministers have letters from France that the Duke of Ormond was going towards Brest, but that upon the road he met with a message from his friends in England, upon which he returned to Paris. The good disposition of the Duke of Orleans, and the vigilance of our ministers who are busy'd day and night in the discovery of these dark designs, give us reason to hope that they will end in the perfect settlement of His Ma^ties throne and the crushing of that sett of men who woud make him uneasy in it. I beg your grace's pardon for such a confused news-letter, and am ever, with the utmost respect and gratitude, my lord, your grace's most obedient and most obliged humble servant,

Digitized by Google

J. ADDISON.

There is a talk of a battle in Scotland, but I believe it is Exchange news.

5.

My Lord, Oct, 6, 1715,

When I had the honour to write to your grace on Tuesday I did not think I shoud have had occasion to have troubled you so soon with another letter. But His Ma^ty having bin pleased to bestow a marke of his royal favour upon me in augmenting the salary of my place in Ireland and granting it me for life in consideration of my services when I was secretary to the Lords of the Regency, and that affairs having bin dispatched through the Treasury much sooner than I expected, I make bold to apply to your grace for the continuance of your favour in this particular. My Lord Godolphin promised me in a letter under his own hand to move the late Queen for the same grant I have now obtained the next time he shoud wait upon Her Majesty, but he was immediately after displaced before he met with an opportunity of doing me this kind office. During the late ministry I was under apprehensions every day of being removed, not having deserved the indulgence at their hands which they were pleased to shew me. This hinderd me from settling the office I have so long enjoy'd in the method prescribed me by the grant. This, with the obligation I am under to take the oaths, will I hope give me the honour of waiting on your grace in Ireland. In the meantime, by my Lord Sunderl^ds advice, I presume to send your grace and the present Lords Justices my warrant from the Treasury, which I have also communicated to the Duke of Grafton by his secretary. I shoud be glad to own my obligations to none but your grace for the giving this warrant its proper effect in Ireland, since I believe it will reach your grace's hands a few days before the arrival of the Duke of Grafton and the Lord Gallway. I am sorry that ev'ry letter I write to your grace shou'd be either to acknowledge or aske your favour, but if it lay in my power to make any return of gratitude I shoud think it one of the happiest incidents in my life, being ever, with the most unfeigned respect, my lord, your grace's most obedient and most obliged humble servant,

J. ADDISON.

The H. of Commons met this morning, but promotions not being yet ripe we only orderd the Speaker's last speech to H. M. to be enter'd in y^r journals & adjourn'd to this day fortnight. Letters are just come in from y^r D. of Argyle who says he has nothing to fear. The L^d Mar is but 3,000 strong.

6.

My Lord, March 22^d, 171[illegible].

The affaires of Ireland being now entirely passed from my hands into those of others I can only thank your grace for the honour of your last letter and wish the scheme contained in it may takeplace, which our great men here being acquainted with, I question not but they will give that attention to it which everything deserves that comes from your grace. My Lord Lieutenant will, I believe, this evening, transmitt to your grace a warrant that regards myself which I never proceeded from any request or intimation of my own; but as I cannot but value such a mark of His M^ties acceptance of my poor services I must entreat your grace's favour in giving the proper orders for its taking the designed effect. I shoud not presume to trouble your grace on this occasion had I not already received great instances of your favour, and were not I, with the most inviolable sincerity and respect, my lord,

Your grace's
Most obedient and most humble servant,
J. ADDISON.

His Grace the Arch-Bp. of Dublin.

In addition to the foregoing, the collection contains letters of the following dates addressed from England by Addison to Archbishop King:—

1714, October 1.—New Chancellor and Chief Judges for Ireland desire their warrants may be immediately sent to the Lord Justices by express, it being their intention to follow them in a very few days. Letter to be delivered by Mr. Forster, written pursuant to a conference which his lordship has had with some of the principal gentlemen in Ireland now in this kingdom.

1714, October 8.—Addison recommends his kinsman whom he has appointed to act as his deputy, in room of Mr. Dawson, at solicitation of Irish gentlemen, and by particular direction of Lord Lieutenant.

1714, November 23.—Reply to Archbishop King's recommendation of Mr. Parnell. Promotion of Dr. Bolton. His Majesty recommends that Mr. Greenshields be provided for in Ireland.

"I hope Mr. Daniel's promotion to the archdeaconry of Killaloe will be agreeable to y^r grace, and cannot but be the better pleased with any good fortune which may happen to him, since I have read a very handsome dedication, which he made to a very fine poem." . . .

"My lord has left the case of the half-pay officers and pensioners to the consideration of the Lords Justices, that they may be relieved according to their exigencies, and the present state of the Treasury. I am only to hint to your grace that S^r T. Haumer presses very much in behalf of Capt^n Philips, and S^r Thomas is a person whom his Ex^cy would be desirous to oblige. Madame de Montandre has likewise great solicitations in her favour, and a very indigent gentleman, called L^d Power, is starving for want of his customary relief. I have therefore my L^d Lieutenant's particular directions to desire your Grace will take these three persons under your care, and order their payments in such proportion as you shall think proper. The last of them has a son, who is now in his travells, and has nothing I believe to subsist upon but his Irish pension."

Digitized by Google

1714–15, February 19.—Addison obliged to attend his election in the country.

1714–15, March 9.—The bearer, Mr. Sterlin, universally recommended by the gentlemen of Ireland to Lord Lieutenant, is proposed as barrack master of Waterford.

1714–15, March 12.—Candidates for barrack master's place at Dublin.

"I shall leave Mr. Budgell to lay before your grace what has bin usual as to the secret service money, and shall take care to put it to the proper use. I am forced often to advance money here to take out warrants for gentlemen in Ireland, to pay messengers, and sometimes to relieve such indigent petitioners as are not able to carry on a just pretension, not to mention the article of stationary ware, &c. And as I do not follow my predecessors in taking fees for recommendatory letters or any businesse done in England, the usual allowance on this head will be an ease to me. But this I submit entirely to your grace."

1715, March 29.—Lord Lieutenant hopes to get Mr. Manley something upon the Post Office in England or upon the Irish establishment. The Primate of Ireland has written to Dr. Dering and Dr. Lancaster on altering the public prayers.

"I hope your grace will not be disappointed in your expectations from the Brittish Parliament. Our great men seem determined to act with steadiness and unanimity, and on Monday next, if we may believe what is said, something will entered on preliminary to impeachments. There will be three more regiments sent over to Ireland, which will make up the compliment of 12,000. These regiments are to be re-raised under Wills, Wade, and Borr, who were broke out of their turns, and will be officerd by their respective officers now in half pay."

1715, April 12.—Mr. King to succeed Thornton as Stationer General.

"This post will, I fear, bring your grace the melancholy news of my Lord Wharton's death. He has said more than once that the affaire of his son would break his heart, and I am affraid it has had too great a share in his sicknesse."

"As the Parliament takes up a great deal of my time, I am forced to write many of my letters there, so that I must beg your grace's pardon, as well for the haste they are written in, as the paper I am forced to make use of."

1715, May 5.—Affair of parish of St. Werburgh, Dublin. Letter to Lords Justices in favor of Mr. Taylor, at earnest recommendation of Mons' Kregenberg, His Majesty's resident in London, when Elector of Hanover. Lord Lieutenant indisposed at Bath.

"Mr. Secretary Stanhope will move His Majesty for his royal letters to make Mr. Caulfield a judge, and Mr. Boate prime serjeant. I believe your grace will approve my L^d^ Lieutenants over ruling several applications made in behalf of Councellor Stevens for a cushion. H. E. will, I believe, settle the new establishm^t^ at the Bath, and either bring it up with him or send it to me, in order to be signed."

1715, June 5.—Accounts of the kingdom. Affair of St. Werburgh's.

"I have several times solicited the Treasury, both by letter and word of mouth, upon the affaire of the Palatines, and find the comm^rs^ and secretaries of that office can very difficultly persuade themselves of the reasonableness of what is proposed in the report on that subject: but yesterday I pressed them so far in it that they called for the papers, and gave an order to draw up such a warrant as is desired, w^ch^ I hope to transmitt some time next week. I am bound in justice, on this occasion, to acquaint your grace that Hintz, the agent of the Palatines, has bin an indefatigable solicitor, both at the Treasury and with my L^d^ Lieutenant. I believe my L^d^ Lieutenant has it in his thoughts * pair the losse sustained by so many lords who were in his * ties interest; and in particular to recom'end the two persons mention'd by your grace, to whom I believe I may add Mr. Moor."

* * * *

"Upon the receipt of Mr. Budgell's letter yesterday in the afternoon, I very much pressed the Secretary to get an order for that post, to pnt off the election at Dublin College, but he told me it could not possibly be done before this day, when a Cabinet Council is to meet. I then gave into his hands some other memorandums relating to the dispersion of libels, &c., that they might be laid before the Cabinet at the same time, which he promised me to do. I have orderd an expresse to be in readinesse upon occasion; since a very short delay or a contrary wind may render an order ineffectual, and it will be now more than two days before the departure of the ordinary post."

1715, August 4 [Misdated 1705].—Payments to half-pay officers and pensioners. Recommendation of writer's kinsman, Captain Addison, who leaves for Ireland.

"I have found the advantage of your grace's putting Mr. Budgell in mind of the secret service money, for I have received by this post a bill for 200^li^, which I shall take care to lay out for the proper uses."

1715, August 13.—Obscure in consequence of portions having been lost through damage.

Appendix XXI.—North of Ireland, 1715.

My L^d^,

I should sooner have given your grace y^r^ trouble of this letter to have acquainted you as well as I am able with y^r^ present state of y^r^ county, but y^t^ I was kept a considerable time on y^e^ road by y^e^ indisposition of one of my children. I have since my comeing here seen & conversed with severall of y^e^ gentlemen of y^e^ county & find they are all zealously well affected to his Majesty, I must except some of ther of y^e^ barony of Enishowen who by what I can find give but too much reason to suspect their affection to his Majesty. I therefore hope y^t^ none of y^t^ Barony except Mr. Charles Norman & George Hart may be commisioners of array, & I have substantiall reasons for desireing this, too long at y^t^ time to trouble y^r^ with. The great scarcity of armes in y^e^ county is beyond any thing I could have imagind till about three days ago y^t^ I had occasion to send some men after seven torys y^t^ were hunted out of Fermanagh and in y^e^ barony of Killmakrenan, I could not get thirty men tolerably armed tho' I believe y^e^ county will be able to array seven thousand men. I aske y^r^ grace's pardon for y^r^ trouble of y^s^. I am, with great respect, y^r^ grace's most obedit & most faith^d^ humble serv^t^,

FRED. HAMILTON.

Lifford y^e^ 9^th^ August 1715.

Appendix XXII.—Prosecution in Ireland A.D. 1715.

May it please yo^r^ Exc^y^,

I'm encouradg'd by the many favors your exc^y^ has honour'd me with to ask one more, the goodness & charity of your exc^y^ may assure success where distress, oppression & innocence are the advocats, these I lay at your exc^y^s feet to plead the following case:—An unfortunat gentleman who is my relation & neighbour, whose sole support for him & his family was a farm of a 100^l^ a year profit or thereabouts, which farm was in his family for some descents; on or near the determination of his lease, his own gossip, neighbour, & bosom friend has unknown to him taken this farm over his head, this treacherous dealing stirr'd up a resentment in my friend, which at their next meeting he express'd after a gentleumanlike manner (as people call it), of which the other & his adherents (the chief of whom was Geu^ll^ Steuart) taking the advantage of the law had my friend endicted at Cork assizes, by pretext ways got a Presentm^t^ against him as a Tory, robber & rapparee & this return'd to the L^ds^ Justices with an intent to have him outlawed. My L^d^, he is of an ancient Protestant flamily in this county, I know him very well & never knew or heard any ill thing of them or him till this unhappy accident. I wou'dnot, my L^d^, for all the friends on earth tell this to your exc^y^, were it not true, he has sev^ll^ affid^ts^ of gentlemen in this county to strengthen this character, his name is Rich^d^ Fitzgerald. Now I beg in his behalf my L^d^, when this business will come before your exc^y^ in Council, that you' use him with your wonted and unbounded clemency, which shall be ever acknowledg'd by him & all his friends and especially by, my L^d^,

Your Excy's most obliged and humble servant,
A. NUGENT.

Cloncoskran, May the 26^th^, 1715.

Appendix XXIII.—Trinity College Dublin, and George Prince of Wales.

1.

My most Hon^d^ Lord,

Since my last I have delivered the letters your grace was pleased to give us to the Archbishop of Canterbury and Mr. Stanhope, and have very full promises of all countenance and favour; the Prince has been pleased to use very kind expressions towards our University, and the princess was pleased to tell my Lord Archbishop that she must see the gentlemen that brought the compliment to his Highness; I find my L^d^ Archbishop is very often with her, and they have

* Torn.

Digitized by Google

frequent correspondence by letters, and I find she takes all occasions to shew favour and confidence to men of his character. I have had of late the honour of being for some time alone with his grace, and as he was pleased to talk of matters relating to Ireland, so I think myself particularly obliged to mention what he spoke relating to the Test, your grace being the best able and most willing to do service to the Church in that matter. I find great care has been taken to give him wrong impressions of that affair, namely, that it was forced on the nation, and imposed but lately, that they have ever since been uneasy under it, that all methods must be taken to encrease the force of Protestants and make the King's freinds easy, but above all that the House of Commons must not be disobliged, who have unanimously desired it; this last I find cheifly insisted on, tho' your grace knows but for a sudden terrour artfully raised, it was not their desire; to all these I mentioned what I thought proper to urge, but lay it before your grace who are perfectly master of this important question; I find there are thoughts here of qualifying the bill by making it for three years only, and some such like softnings, but I must own I should answer like King Charles the first, no, not for an hour, for if ever it goes it is gone for ever. Your grace will excuse this freedome in a matter that so nearly concernes our happy establishment, for now our succession is secured, nothing can so nearly impart the peace and happiness of our kingdome in the humble opinion of

My most Hon^{d}, y^{r} Grace's Most obedient son and obliged humble servant,
ROB. HOWARD.

London, March 17.

The Bishop of Norwich presents his humble service to your grace.

2.

My most Hon^{d} Lord. London, March 31.

I have the honour of your grace's of the 24 inst., and can now informe you that our ceremonial is setled, and Friday in next week appointed for our day. The Archbishop of Canterbury and the L^{d} Chancellour are ready for their parts, a very full compliment prepared by the Provost, of which Mr. Molyneux has the copy to shew the Prince, to prepare a proper answer, an entertainment ordered at Somerset House, to which all the Irish gentlemen that attend the compliment are to be desired, and there are about forty or fifty now in towne. The Provost took hold of his grace's opinion that the speech would do well in mother tongue, so that matter could not be insisted on; his grace also advised our getting scarlet gownes, which are accordingly prepared. I am highly pleased with your grace's approbation of our conduct hitherto, and hope we shall still continue to preserve it. Besides his grace of Canterbury the Bishops of Norwich, Oxford, and our new one of Meath, enquired for your grace with great regard, and present their humble respects to you; they ask many things relating to Ireland, and I hope I have had some times an opportunity of informing them right. The repeal of the Triennial Act is now the subject of all conversation, some very much allarm'd, and every body thinking it a matter of great consequence; the attempting the test in Ireland is generally thought a very unskilfull step, even by those that don't think it a wicked one; but I am persuaded if it is stood steadily against it will fall, and your grace compleat your merits to the Church of Ireland. L^{d} Sunderland has declined seeing us together; but I find he will be glad to see me alone. I believe steady councils are right; but I question wheither such severe ones are for the publick service. Mr. Molyneux is somewhat piqued at his obstinacy in this affair, and assures us that his advice has not been listned too in our business, for I have some reason to think the prince was advised to coldness at least, if not neglect; but he was pleased to be more graciously inclined, and has declared all signs of approbation. I am much concerned to find y^{r} grace is still out of order; but hope the spring will restore a health so dear to all that have the honour of being known to you, and so useful to the publick, which is the constant prayer of

Y^{r} grace's most obedient son and obliged humble servant,
ROB. HOWARD.

3.

My most Hon^{d} Lord,

In my last I acquainted your grace how our ceremonial was setled, I beg leave now to give you an account how well it was executed to our honour and satisfaction. Wee gave notice to the Irish gentlemen, who appeared at Court in great numbers: his grace of Canterbury introduced us to the Prince with a short but very kind speech, and then the Provost spoke very well and fully*: it went of extreamly well, and he has been much complimented upon it; the Prince looked very much pleased, and accepted our offer in a very gracious manner, the words I shan't mention, because Mr. Molyneux tells me he has sent them to your Grace: Mr. Molyneux read the diploma, the lord chancellour gave the oath, he was then admitted, and wee kissed his hand. Wee were afterwards introduced to the Princess, who received us in the most gracious manner; she said she thought herself very happy in the University's of Dublin having done the Prince the honour to choose him their chancellour, and she was persuaded he would always have a very great regard for every member of that body who had expressed their duty in so loyal and acceptable a manner. Wee afterwards went to Somerset House, where wee were very nobly entertained, the Speaker of the Commons, who is the Prince's treasurer, doing the honours of the table, and afterwards inviting us to dinner at his own house. Your grace will excuse my being so particular; but wee are to be introduced to-morrow to the King, his grace of Canterbury still doing us that honour, and then Mr. Molyneux will carry us to returne our compliment of thanks to all the great men whom wee have troubled on this occasion. Every thing has gone on extreamly well, and as I hope wee have obeyed your grace's directions, so I must still give you the first honour of having set this whole machine in motion. The order for taking of the inhibition goes over this night, and the vice-chancellours commission by next post. My Lord of Canterbury presents his humble service to your grace; all parties here think very well of him, so I can assure you he has lost no ground of late with the Tories. The repealing the Triennial Bill was brought in this day by the Duke of Devonshire, read a first time, ordered a second on Saturday next, when that very important point is to be fully debated; but it will certainly pass. Lord Nottingham violent against it. Your grace's goodness will excuse all this, and Beleive me to be,

Y^{r} most obedient son and obliged
humble servant,
London, Apr. 10. R. HOWARD.

4.

My most Hon^{d} Lord,

Since my last to your grace, wee have had the honour to be introduced to the King, and kiss his hand; the archbishop took this trouble on him, and we are highly indebted to your grace's goodness for recommending us to so high and acceptable a patron; he has spoke very favourably of us both to the King and Prince. He was very well received and heard by both, spoke French very readily to the King, to the Prince in English, who answers fluently enough. We afterwards waited on the Princesses who are very pretty and extremely well behaved, especially the Lady Ann, who has an understanding much above her years. Everybody about court appeared very well pleased with our message, and wee had compliments from the German courtiers. Wee were at the Prince's levee; he bowes very graciously, and desires the speeches and whole should be made publick. When we waited at the King's levee, his Grace of Canterbury spoke again about the Test, promised to do his utmost in it; but said the gentlemen of Ireland did not express any dislike of their bill; this, my lord, is the main point, and would weigh more than all the rest to have men of weight and known affection to the Kingly service discourage it. Whereas he said hitherto none had advised against it but the bishops. I hope I don't mistake if I apprehended he meant that other people would be better heard by those in power. I find they dont think of sending us another bishop; from your side they expect recommendations, and tis with pleasure wee hear that your grace has taken care of restoring the quarter parts to the clergy, who have been much barthened by that payment. I think that income, the leasned, will be much more comfortable to the next archbishop. The provost and my brother present their duty to your grace.

I am, with all duty,
Your obedient son and humble servant,
London, Apr. 12. ROB. HOWARD.

* See Addison's "Freeholder" and Swift's works, ed. Scott, 1824, xii. 381.

Digitized by Google

5.

My most Hon^d Lord,

I hope this will find your grace safely arrived at Bath, and already receiving benefit from the waters. Our Commencement was celebrated with a very full appearance, and speeches from our vice-chancellour and proctors. I brought in an address, to which some amendments were offered, extreamly improper and absurd, the substance of the paragraph offered to be added, being, that wee thanked the Prince for the honour he had done us, and care he shewed in taking of our inhibition, which was put on by wicked and ill-designing men. I insisted on the question being put for the address I had read, wheither it should be the address of the congregation, and it was carried fifty-eight to eleven. I wish the numbers of the well affected stood so in both the English universities, and then wee might have a blessed prospect of future peace and quiet. Since your grace left Ireland wee have had a recommendation from the Prince of one Monsieur Regis, a clergyman, of French extraction, and, as I hear, a relation of my Lord Galloway's, for a doctor's degree, tho I think such recommendations a very great hardship upon us, wee could not altogether refuse our chancellour the first time, and have made him a Batchelour in divinity. His Grace of Canterbury wrote also in his favour. I must earnestly beg of your grace to screen us hereafter from such applications, and to represent to my Lord of Canterbury and Mr. Molyneux the inconvenience of giving degrees in such a manner, or they will grow into contempt, when they are matter of favour, and servile court application, and not the reward of long standing and merit: and indeed I must own to your grace that if such applications grow frequent I shall think it my duty to propose to our board that a representation be drawn up and laid before our chancellour of the inconveniences of it, and I promise myself from his justice and goodness that wee shall not be troubled with them hereafter. Both our college and university are in a very good disposition towards our new chancellour, and I hope more will not be sent on us than wee are able to bear. It would have been impossible to have carried the degree for Mr. Regis in the Regent house, so that he has only the grace of our house. I beg your grace's prayers and blessing, and am, with the greatest respect,

Y^r grace's most obedient son and most
obliged humble servant,
Trin. Coll., Jul. 18. ROB. HOWARD.

Appendix XXIV.—Dean Francis, Grandfather of Sir Philip Francis.*

May it please y^r Grace,

I presume to give y^r grace the trouble of receiving my gratefull acknowledgm^t for y^r grace's tendernesse for my friend, Deane Francis; there is not any one thing in y^e world w^ch y^r grace cou'd do for mee w^ch cou'd affect my mind more deeply with a sence of y^r goodness or oblige mee more to devote myself to y^r service dureing the rest of my life. I came first acquainted with him about 30 y^rs ago, in Lancashire, where he was tutor to y^e present S^r Roger Bradshaigh, & in Aug^t 88, when the mayor of Chester, my self, the record^r, all the aldermen & com'on councell, being 64 persons, were in one day remov'd from our sev'all stations, expressely for refuseing to take up the test & penal laws, & agreed to dine together on y^t occasion. This gent was by com'on consent pitch't upon to be our chaplayne, as one known to us all to be well affected to the Protestant intrest ag^t the then attempts of popery & arbitrary power, & after the Prince of Orange landed, haveing some scruples in my mind arisecing from some prejudices of my educac'on, I consulted with him concerning my going to Nottingham to to the then Earle of Devonshire, my Lord Cholmely & others then in armes, & when I had receaved satisfac'on in my doubts I went, & so there. Afterwards in the yoar '90, I was made solicit^r here, & in '91 I sent for Mr. Francis, & bee liv'd 3 yrs in my house before hee got any p^ferm^t. The opinion w^ch I have of his integrity is well grounded & the effect of long experience, & his learning & abilities in his profession are known to all, & I do not believe y^t such a man cou'd at any other time have been sacrific'd & his wife & seven children lett to starve in his old age. I have done all y^t I can on y^r other side y^r water to prevent his ruine, & those y^t I have writ to have credit enongh with y^r Duke & Dutchesse both to lay aside the present orders & to get for the deane the title of the crown. I have no need to importune y^r grace; no one knows better the means of his preservac'on than y^r grace, & I'm told y^r grace has expreast y^r self with compassion & with a disposic'on to protect him as far as you can fittly do it, & I am sure you will make it good. I am extreamly obligd to y^r grace for y^r many fav'rs, & wou'd have waited on you to expresse my self more fully if I was not just goeing out of town.

I am, with all sincerity,
May it please y^r grace,
Y^r grace's most dutifull &
most obliged servt,
These R. Levinge.
ffor his Grace
My Lord Archbp. of Dublin.

Endorsed: "Sir Richard Loving, March 1717-8."

Appendix XXV.—A. Charlett, Master of University College, Oxford, 1717-18.

1.

Univ. Coll., Oxon,
May it please your Grace, 12 March 1717-18.

I cannot, without very much shame, look upon a very kind letter of your grace's, dated May last the 25th, not yet answered; but that which first created the delay was my inquiry after Mathæus Pfaffius, to whose book your grace referred me for a character of Dr. Grabbe. I could not meet with any of that author's works till within this fortnight, and now if I have met with the right, being his Anecdota S^ti Irenæi, Hagæ Comitis, 8^vo, 1715. I am most agreably surprised to find him so true and candid a freind & defender of Dr. Grabbes adherence to the Protestant religion, the Ch. of England established, and a great aversion to the errors & corruptions of the Ch. of R., all which he averrs to his own knowledge to be true, even to the time of his death. As to his singularity of opinions in preferring some part of the Communion Service in the Scotch Common Prayer Book, I believe Mr. Pfaffius may be very true, and I have heard Dr. Grabbe sometimes with much modesty own his preferring of it, of which he spoke w^th diffidence, no sort of eagerneese as a private wish or desideratum, or infirmity of his own, which he seemed unwilling should be known to young gentlemen, students, or common people for feare of ill uses might be made of it, avoiding w^t great decency, not only disputing, but even the least mention of it. The two persons that he chose here most familiarly to open such difficultys to (for none desired more or enjoyed oftener his instructive and delightfull conversation then myself), were the present B^ps of Bristol and Oxford, the later bred up in this college, both my early acquaintants, frequent and very acceptable visitants of me, at that time one deputy for Dr. Tane, the other providing to succeed him, both therefore delighting to talk over the more abstruse points or controversys with Dr. Grabbe, and both these will, I suppose, joyn in a testimonial of Dr. Grabbes learning, principles, virtues, &c., w^ch some other R. R. to be printed in the next volume of the Septuagint now ready to be published from the Theatre, from Dr. Grabbe's notes, which are now by Dr. Hickes will, I think, to be deposited in the Bodleian Library. But notwithstanding this candor of Mr. Pfaffius, who studyed here several months, not many years since, I have met with another very learned French critic, and, one as I am assured by young Mr. Gronovius, was no ill-natured man, being a professor at Leiden, lately dead, has in a book publisht the last yeare, given a very infamous account of Dr. Grabbes morals & conversation, but so monstrously ag^t all evidence of sense, so extravagantly false as that not one who ever saw Dr. Grabbe, or once conversed w^th him, but must pronounce to be impossible, being not only one of the most self denyers as to sleep, diet, watching, &c., but agreeably as mortifyd in his looks, being mere skin & bones, yet very chearfull and easy in his conversation, and very complaisant. It is Casimiri Oudini Trias Dissertationum criticarum, 1^ma de Codice Alexandrino &, Ingolstadii, Bat. 1717, his words I have here* inclosed, for feare

* This letter furnishes details in connexion with Dean Francis which were not brought to light through the extensive researches of the late Joseph Parkes, author of "Memoirs of Sir Philip Francis; completed and edited by H. Merivale." London, 1867.

* "Casimiri Oudini Trias Dissertationum Criticarum Prima de Codice MS. Alexandrino Bodlei Bibliothecæ. Lugduni Batavorum, 1717.

" Pag. 19. ab eruditis omnibus imberbe gratiæ excepto.

" Pag 66. Cap. 21. De quibusdam operibus aliis Joannis Ernesti Grab. Nobis enim intentio non est, ut cinerea mortui hominis inquietentur atque magis nigrescant exumoribus de illo sparsis nonnul litteræ non decentibus, neque convenientibus quos habuimus a plerisque qui illum in Anglia familiarius frequentarant intimiusq' noverant, quorum your grace may not have seen these truly learned treatises. But certainly never any writer met with more malicious or falser informers, as will appeare at first view. I will only adde, upon my own personal knowledge, he never missed the public prayers of our church in some chappell, &c. every day twice in the yeare. He would even, whilst eating or drinking, when called upon by way of tryal or experiment, sett any particular verse of scripture, memoriter, in 6 languages, viz., Hebrew, Greek, Latin, French, English, German. He frequented sermons constantly, seldom abed above 4 hours, very often not go into a bed at all, but steal a little sleep in a chair, or on y^e^ outside of a bed, so that he was macerated to a great degree; but when in company, very merry, eat not much, but pretty heartily, and would drink a glasse of wine in a sociable manner, but I believe seldom to y^e^ quantity of a pint in the whole day. As to civil affairs, he was a true and zealous subject of the King of Prussia, had no manner of scruples about the Revolution, bnt, if I misremember not, was in private with me a hearty defender of it, tho with great deference to those that refused when he thought conscientiously. He had a very short and excellent plain way and method of talking ag^st^ Papists, Presbyterians, Independents, Socinians, Deists, Free Thinkers, Anabaptists, Quakers, generally by arguments from Scripture, very successful in converting Papists here in England. With learned men, from antiquity, his memory being so great, both as to words & things, that nothing of councils, church history, &c. which he would not in a change manner quite exactly memoriter, yet none more artfully endeavoured to conceale his great learning, or none could be more confounded at the least approach of any prayse or commendation. He was a day's solicitor of charity for the distressed, without distinction, and whatever money he got, either by pinching or saving, he gave away to y^e^ poor, with so much alacrity that would not be conceled, nor could any refuse him when he askt, if he had where withal to give. I never thought, nor any in this place, of person so eminently humane, politely courteous, so evidently unblameable, so discreetly inoffensive, or rather so positively obliging, affable, religious, & tender in all circumstances of his life & conversation, could ever be the subject of any slander, especially when no profit to tempt, and yet you see Mr. Oudinus three informers, Germanus, Borussus, et Gallus conspired ag^st^ him. Pardon, my L^d^, my present heat, because I never knew any man's conversation or temper more freindly, more open, more obliging, more usefull & inobjectible, and to whom, upon all these accounts, I own myself much indetted, never thinking an hour better spent then in his company, which was always in a good humor. I have now done. The inclosed * from Mr. Gagnier will, I hope, excuse our delay, of returning your excellent MSS. of Dr. Annger, and signify what we think still remains as a desiderata, notwithstanding the great pains of Mr. Trommins in reviewing Kircher's Concordance; but your grace will perceave how much still it may be improved, and your graces judgment is earnestly implored upon Mr. Gagnier's scheme, which he humbly offers to your grace, and the learned of Ireland, for theyr further advice and councill. We have not yet at all here considered this matter, much lesse determined, because this new edition is in few hands, and not much considered by any but Mr. Gagnier, if your grace and others should think it proper to have a concordance of both Greek Testaments; I am not sure but that we should have the courage to attempt a new edition, being told that this edition of Mr. Trommins is probably already vended and dispersed. I am sure we should be long eno in finding purchasers for so expensive a book, tho never so well finished. As to the other part of your excellent letter. It was not possible for us to have prevented this edition of Trommins, it having been neare halfe finished before we could be ready to begin, and although our specimens were sent beyond the seas, yet so far as we can discern, Trommius never takes the least notice or heard of such design. As to our presse, we can never engage further than for fair types, good workmen, and reasonable prices for the use of our materials or utensills, the vending of our wares never could compasse, the want of vent broke Bp. Fell's body, public spirit, courage, purse, and presse, and so it did even the great Lewis 14, who was fain at last to sell, as Bp. Fell did, all his fine Louvre editions of the classick authors, conncills, &c. by lotts or auction, and no author dares publish any book at his own expense, without subscription, therefore I think no author is to be blamed that he will not ly at the mercy of booksellers, which is cruelty to all that dare print, without first contracting with them. Mr. Herne is now under censure for his many rude, ill-mannered, and scandalous reflections in his new preface to Camden's Elizabetha, in 3 volumes in 8^vo^; price to subscribers, in large paper, 40*s.*, in lesser, 20*s.*, and so catcht up, none to be had at any rate, so deare is slander of the practice! I shall not be wanting to promote the prosecution ad reformandos mores, but I cannot condemn his method of printing no more then subscribed for, and by consequence setting such a price as he thinks advantageous to himself, and not displeasing to his subscribers, both being volunteers, and at liberty to proceed or refuse, nor are any deayd to subscribe, since both Ireland & England are deficient in bnyers, 'tis to be wished both kingdoms would joyn and assist each other in taking of good & learned editions. Before I begd your pardon, and now humbly ask your blessing to,

Digitized by Google

May it please your grace,

Your grace's
Most humble and most dntifull servant,
AR. CHARLETT.

For
His grace the most Reverend Father in God William L^d^
Archbishop of Dublin.
Dublin Castle,
Ireland.

---

alius Borussus, alter Germanus ac tertius Gallus. Testabantur autem omnes, quod Grabius, e Borussia in Angliam trajiciens, prudenter sibi consuluisset, si sentirem in Germania relinquere potuisset.

Pag 67. Hæc enim re cognovisscnus dubie procul transverens Grabii cervicem, qui forsan cum vino adusto plenus esset, Reformationis hanc Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ supino ventre conspiraret. Nullos video, qui majore Reformationis exerant, quam qui reformandos alios volunt. Quamdiu Grabius in Anglia fuit Anglicanæ Reformatio ab ipso incipienda fuit, illeq', impedimedus me vino adusto ad sitiendum impulverat. Unum, scio ingiterum hanc Grabii summa displicuisse Anglis omnibus, ac Gulielmo Cavo, homini sobrie et temperanti, quem Grabius fautorem et patronum sperat, cujus auspiciis pensionem, ab Anna Regina Borussus noster obtinuerat. Reiatum mihi a socio, qui Grabium istum apprime noverant, qui tam serior contra Gulielmum Whitacoum Arianum pugnavit et scripsit, crudelissimo Christianissimum omnem fuisse fabulam mersus, cui nihil intererat, quanvis opinionem illius amplecterctur, ant simularet, dummodo cautus inde resecretur, aut famam doctrinæ captaret. Unde memoria illius post mortem, frigide ab Episcopis Anglicanis defensa fuit, qui manuscriptorum omnem illius collectam, sectæ cuidam Philadelphorum Londinensi inbentes relinquere jussit."

* "Vindiciæ Kircherianæ sive Animadversiones in novas Abrahami Trommii Concordantias Græcas versionis vulgo dictæ Lxx. Interpretum, cujus voces accentibus elementisque Græcis omnis Græci digestæ recensentur contra atque in opere Kircheriano.

I. Defendantur ac vindicantur Conradi Kircheri Concordantiæ Græcæ adversus accusationes Abr. Trommii, qui illas defectuosas, serorum, mendosas vel quovoog nomine appellat, paulo severius redargnit, quin et ipsum clarius. Auctorem in sua methodo imprudentia facti rcum persgit, et opus absëndum durius pronunciat.

II. Odeuditur editionem Trommianam, quanvis Cl. Henrici Savilii Methodum sequatur, tamen, prout jacet, pluribus adhuc ac crasioribus defectibus, serui ac mendis laborare, quam Kircherianæ.

III. Proponitur nova alia methodus concordantiarum Græcarum, cujus summa hæc est, nempe, ut vitandæ confusionis gratia, cui tam Trommianæ quam Kircherianæ Concordantiæ obnoxiæ sunt, in tres partes quibus potissimum inter se compositis constabant, seorsum distribuantur, quarum:

Prima pars sit Lexicon Hebraico-Græcum (id quod præcipue intendebat Kircherus) quale ex Kircheriano opere vir Cl. Ambrosius Ancirens, omissa ipsarum Concordantiarum nsle in compendium redegit.

Secunda pars sit, vice versa, Lexicon-Græco-Hebraicum, quale item mira industria et incredibili labore, servatis tantum Scripturæ locis, quæ ad propositum faciebant, et addito ubiq Hebræo textu, concinnavit idem vir doctus, ex eodem Kircheriano opere. Utrique interim Lexico passim inspersi poterant doctæ observationes et conjecturæ criticæ ipsius D. Augieri et aliorum, viz., Grotii, Bocharti, Capelli Hammondi Anr: &c., ad voces tam Hebraicas quam Græcas, pro ratione instituti.

Tertia pars, sit ipsum Corpus Concordantiarum omnibus additamentis et litteris, prorsus nudum et liberum ad instar Concordantiarum Buxtorfii Heb. vel Augustanarum, Newmanni videlicet servato ubiq' grammatico, ordine tam in verbis quam in nominibus adornentur de novo tam concordantiæ simplices, nec ad Pentateuchum quæ pessimæ est, quam tamen sequutus est Trommius post Kircherum, sed ad optimam versionis lxx. editionem, vel Romanam ex Vaticano codice vel Oxoniensem ex Alexandrino cum Cl. Joh. Ernesti Grabii, cum asterisis, obelis &c. appositis si id commode fieri possit. Hexaplorum Origenis reliquiæ, quæ superstant, a Rev. D. Bern. de Montfaucon collectæ quas quidem intactas reliquit Trommius in ordinem concordantiarum redigantur, et suis locis cum propriis characteribus inseruntur.

Quæ omnia duobus voluminibus in folio comprehendi possent adjectis aliquot indicibus et nomenclaturis, quales etiam D. A. Augierus adornavit, cujus nomen in hoc toto opere Concordantiarum imprimis præclipere debet.

Si addendæ sunt operi Concordantiarum Græcarum, ipsæ Concordantiæ Novi Testamenti (quæ quidem eâ sententia perverdissimi Archiep. Cantuariensis) huic proposito apprime inserviet luculentissimus Index omnium vocum Græcarum utrisuq' fœderis inter se collatarum quem sedulis diligentiis ibidem confecit præclarissimus D. Augierus noblissimæ familiæ Hibernus Scrius Coll. SS. Trinit. apud Dublinienses, hac non A. T. Professor, cujus in concordantias Kircheri elucubrationes duobus tomis propria authoris manu exaratis et, bibliothecæ istius Collegii ab eodem consecratis et a Præposito sodiisq' nobis humanissime mutuo datas, pro sua benevolentia A summo sacrarum literarum promovendarum studio, ad nos transmitti curavit reverendissimus Gulielmus King, Dublinensium Archiepiscopus."

Endorsed by Dr. Charlett: "Vindiciæ Kircherianæ per M^rm^ Gagnier, 20 Feb. 1713."

Digitized by Google

Appendix XXVI.—Setting of Tories, a.d. 1718.

My Lord,

I humbly leave to inform your grace that I have imploy'd Adam Lambe, of Brittis, in y^r^ county of Wicklow, to sett John Ryly and the other proclaim'd torys who rob [and] murder in y^r^ severall countys of Monaghan, Cavan, and Lowth, all w^ch^ I inform your grace of this 26^th^ day of May 1718.

Wm. Hume.

Appendix XXVII.—Assay of Wood's Copper Money, by Sir Isaac Newton.

My Lord, London, 30 April 1724.

I had the honour of your grace's of the 19^th^, and as that related to our copper coynage, give me leave to acquaint you that I received last week a message from the Treasury, that by order of that board I was directed to attend with the secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Scrope, the essay on Monday the 27^th^, at the Tower, in presence of S^r^ Isaac Newton and the officers of the Mint, & M^r^ Wood, whom to that time I had never seen. S^r^ Isaac, who is a very exact man, weighed his farthings, w^ch^ by the pattent being to consist of 116 grains, or 30 pence to a pound. It appeared there was a difference in the individuals from 108 to 125 grains, which they say is impossible to be otherwise from the jumping of the rolers, but when weighed by the pound it answerd some grains over. The next tryal was by the breaking them cold, w^ch^ is of little import. Then by fire, by heating them red hott & beating them out thin. If they don't crack & after appear ruff to the hand, it seems that denominates good copper. So that, in conclusion, as to what was produced it appeared to be good copper & weight according to the pattent. But what Ireland complains of, as I understand it, is the smallness of the weight & the quantity that may be poured in by being coyned at Bristoll or any other place out of a proper controul. This is the matter of state to be considerd & w^ch^ will attend y^r^ D. of Grafton's arrival here before any thing is determined, & I already perceive there is a disposition to mend these 2 affairs, & to find some medium in ascertaining y^e^ prerogative & satisfying as to the quantity. It appeared 5 Irish half pence were but equall to 4 English; that the copper is worth but about 12 or 13 pence a pound; that the English are coyned at 23^d^ a pound & these at 30^d^. As I know more I shall lett you know, but I was not fond of being named, tho as the King's servant one is to attend where one's superiors direct. As to the half pence of K. C. 2., K. J. 2., & K. W^m^ they appeard of very bad copper, & did not stand the tryal. But it may be said that by the pattent they coyned by, they were to charge them by contract. It appeared by the comptroller's acct^t^ they had coyned 59 tons & 3 quarters, amounting to 16,570*l.* I was willing to inform your grace of these particulars, and particularly for one reason, that if you hear mee mentioned for giving a sanction to these coynage, you may assume that I was summoned to see what Mr. Wood produced at the essay. And the report of that matter goes no further. But may tell you that S^r^ I. Newton was always against any coynage out of the Tower. Since gold, silver, or copper still bear the Royal image, & ought to be in his sense under the same inspection.

I am, my Lord,
Your grace's most humb^le^ ser^t^,
E. Southwell.

Appendix XXVIII.—Francis Hutcheson.

May it please your Grace,

The author of the book which you will receive along with this letter, thought it proper not to be known as the author till he found how it would be received. His diffidence of its success hindered him from presenting a coppy of it to your grace sooner, but since he has found that it has pleased some persons of distinction, he begins to presume that it will not be disagreeable to your grace, and would willingly hope that he shall make some small return in kind for the great pleasure he has very lately received, upon a subject that had long employed his thoughts, from the author De Origine Mali.

I am, may it please your grace,
Your grace's most obedient humble servant,
Francis Hutcheson.

Dublin, March 25^th^, 1725.

To
His Grace the Archbishop of Dublin.

Appendix XXIX.—Report of Debate on Impeachment of Bolingbroke in House of Commons, London, 10 June 1715.

[Extract.]

Whilst the Report was reading by the clerk, which lasted till about four o'clock, there was a great division among our friends, whether they should adjourne the consideration of it till a further time, or proceed immediately upon it. Mr. Boscawen and the younger part of the House were very violent for the last; the lawyers and the Speaker for the former. Mr. Stanhope upon the first settling of the Committee had unluckily promised that the House should have some days to consider of the Report after its being brought in, which obliged him to be silent, or, if a division should happen, to leave his friends in that point. In the mean time messages went to and fro between the opposite corners, and it was in a manner compromised to proceed on the Report on Monday next, which was all the time the Tories then asked. But when they found the Whigs whispering very warmly among themselves, they declared they would not rest satisfyed with so short a day. Upon which our friends agreed to offer Monday, and if that was not accepted, to proceed immediately.

When the Report was finished, S^r^ Jos. Jekyll stood up and declared himself satisfied that there were several matters in the Report which did amount to a charge of high treason and ended with a motion that they should be taken into consideration on Monday next. Mr. Barrington Shute spoke to the same effect, and seconded the motion. Mr. Ward, the lawyer, answered, that this Report was rather a narrative of matters of fact than a charge against particular persons, and that he saw in it no crimes of a capital nature, and then he moved for a longer day. Sir Rob. Raymond said it would be impossible for the members to be masters of it unless they might all have the perusal of the Report, which could not be done unless the Report were printed. This, he said, might be done by Monday, and if it were put off three or four days longer every member might be prepared to give his opinion of the facts before them. Mr. Hoysham, the City member, said: As man's life was concerned in it, and as every one there must answer in another place for his conduct in this affair, he was for putting it off till Wednesday next. Sir W. Whitlock seconded him, adding that he could see nothing like high treason in the Report. Mr. Freeman said it was the same thing whether they proceeded on it now or on Wednesday, since neither could answer the intention of such a delay; it being impossible for all the members to peruse the Report within that time, and therefore moved for Monday sen'night, observing at the same time that there was an omission in the Report of those words which directed the D. of Ormonde to correspond with the Secretary of State. L^d^ Coningsby said, we were to impeach and not to judge, and cited the precedent of the Popish Plott for proceeding immediately. He put the House likewise in mind of the present day, which was the 10^th^ of June, the birthday of the Pretender, and as (says he) I hear there is a flag already hung out upon one of the churches, so if you do nothing this day, there will be a flag hung out upon every church in England.

N.B.—There was a flag hung out upon S^t^ Jones's Church in Clarkenwell and ringing of bells at S^t^ Dunstan's. S^r^ Tho. Cross insisted upon the declared sence of the House, when Mr. Stanhope promised a longer day, and as for my L^d^ Coningsby, he did not question but his lordship was prepared to give judgement without a further hearing; but as for himself he had not his lordship's parts & experience in parliamentary matters, & therefore was not in a readyness to give his opinion: he concluded for Monday sen'night. Mr. Comptroller, in answer to the omission of the words in the Duke of Ormonde's instructions, said, they were refer'd to in y^e^ Report and placed at large in the Appendix, which contains all such original papers as were too long to be inserted in the Report. He observed that the Duke of Ormonde had been visibly betrayd by the ministers, for that in other instructions it was usual to give an express direction to obey such orders as should be received from time to time from a Secretary of State. He concluded that he did not think Monday would be of any use, and therefore that they should order the doors to be immediately shut and proceed upon the Report. Mr. Bromley endeavour'd to answer the precedent of the Popish Plot, and instanced my Lord Coningsby's own case, when impeached of murder by Lord Bellamont, when he had a reasonable time allowed him for an answer; adding that he very well remember'd it, as being one of those who had cleared the said Lord. Lord Coningsby said, if Mr. Bromley should be in the same condition, he should be glad to return his civility, and to clear him too, if he should appear as innocent upon an impeachment as he himself had done. Mr. Foley wonder'd at the comparison which L^d^ Coningsby had made between the conduct of the late Ministry and the Popish Plot, endeavouring to show that upon the worst construction the former fell infinitely short of the latter, and that there could be no high treason found in it. Mr. Aislaby said he won'd begin with the words made use of in the late Treasurer's letter as inserted in the Report with relation to the Dutch (viz.):—The warriours are driven out of their out-works & their last retrenchment [sic] is delay. He urged that since the private compromise for Monday next was not stood to by the gentlemen of the other corner, he thought all further delay was unreasonable. That no time ever had been given to such criminals accused to the House, as particularly in the last impeachment for the Partition Treaty, and in the case of my Lord Danby when impeached by Mr. Montague. That in this Report there were matters of as high treason as were ever charged against a minister, concluding for Monday or now."

Digitized by Google

Appendix XXX.—Taxation of Ireland, A.D. 1716.

[Extracts.]

Some observations on the taxes pay'd by Ireland to support the Government.

'Tis a gen^ll^ opinion in Great Britain, and passes currant without contradiction, that Ireland is in a flourishing condition; that whilst England has bin oppressed and deeply sunk in debt by excessive taxes Ireland has bin at ease, contributed nothing to the support of the Governm^t^, and is not one shilling in debt; this I take to be a great reason of that ill affection that appears on many occasions against Ireland in the Parlem^t^ of Great Britain, and the occasion of several laws past there, which the people of Ireland look on as very hard upon them. But in answ^r^ to this I believe it may be demonstrated that Ireland, in proportion to the riches thereof, has contributed as much as Great Britain, if not more, to the support of the Crown and Governm^t^ since the Revolution; this p'haps may be looked on as a paradox, but I believe it will not appear such to any one that will impartially consider the following p'ticulars.

1st. That the hardship of the taxes pay'd by subjects to support the Governm^t^ is not to be estimated by the quantity of the money given, but by the proportion it bears to the substance of the p'son that gives it, as, for example, a person that is worth in substance but 20*l.* and gives one pound out of it, gives as much in proportion and feels the hards'p of parting with it as much as another that is worth 20 thousand pounds and contributes one thousand out of it. Nay, the less a man's substance is, the more he must feel the parting with his proportional part; as, for example, suppose a man worth 20 thousand pounds and the publick shou'd require 19 thousand of it, yet he wou'd have one thousand left him, which wou'd prevent his starving & furnish him and his flamily with the necessarys of life, but if a man be worth but 20 shill' and 19 be taken away 'tis impossible the remaining shill' shou'd subsist him & his family, and so in all probabilitie he must starve.

2dly. If we compare the riches of Ireland with y^t^ of Great Britain we shall find that they do not bear the proportion of one to 13, this might be demonstrated from unanswerable arguments, I shall only mention one or two: first, if we compare the metropoles of the two kingdoms, that is, London and Dublin, we shall find about 13 times more houses in London than in Dublin; the houses of London are much better than those in Dublin, they are much better furnished, and the inhabitants much richer, in so much that perhaps one Alderman in London is richer then all those of Dublin, at least they are 13 times richer. If we look into the Custom houses of both kingdoms, we shall find a greater disproportion between the trade of the one and the other then 13 to one. And there want not those that affirm the riches of Great Britain to be at least 30 times more then the riches of Ireland, but I will take it to be but 13 times.

3dly. Let us see what Ireland has contributed to the support of the publick by way of taxes since it was settled after the Revolution, and we shall find that one year with another it has actually paid above 400,000*l.* And if we take in the management of the revenu above 450,000*l.* This will appear from the receits of the revenu, and if we put in the Trustee Act which cost Ireland at least a million, it will appear that Ireland has contributed much more then this.

4thly. When Ireland pays 450,000*l.* Britain ought in p'portion to the riches thereof to have contributed 13 times as much, that is 5,850,000*l.*, but that it has not done. 'Tis true that some years six or seven millions were raised, but they never paid actually five millions, but mortgaged funds to pay the interest of the rest; now for a man to mortgage his lands is not to pay his debts, whereas Ireland actually paid within the year their taxes, and by that means kept themselves clear of debts. I find several things alleged as if they made a disparity between the case of Britain and Ireland; the first is that a great part of the mony raised by the Parlem^t^ in England was sent out of the kingdom to support the armies and pay the allys for the men put into the English service. Whereas the mony of Ireland was spent in the kingdom, and therefore the people were not impoverished by it so much as the inhabitants of Britain.

* * * * *

As to the charges of England in reducing Ireland, I will allow that in the 3 years the warre continued it cost England five millions, tho', I believe, that is a great deal too much, this was the sum of the loss; now as to Ireland, I believe the rents of Ireland may be computed at 1,500,000*l.* p' annum, now take the landlords of Ireland one with another and 'twill be found that they lost four years rents at least by the warre, for tho' the Courts did not allow so much, yet many gents lands lay wast five or six years, or they got nothing out of them, and many set their at a riseing rent, that is ½ of the old rent for 7 years, ¾ for the next 7, and then to come to the old rents; so that computing one place with another and one landlord with another, the loss coud not be less then 4 years of the whole, that is six millions if we adde the stocks of the cow kind, the sheep, and horses that were distroyed in the warre, these will amount at least to 6 millions more; by a certain computation there were in the diocese of Derry about 200,000 of the cow kind, 46,000 horses, beside sheep, hogs, goats, &c., of these there were left only 300 cows, 2 horses, 2 swine, and seven sheep; now if we compute those of the cow kind at 20 shill' a head and the horses one with another at 40 shil', in those 2 sorts there were lost to the valu of near 200,000*l.* in that one diocese, whereas the land in proportion much less stock than other parts of the kingdom and is not the 30^th^ part of the whole. At the Revolution every one knows that Ireland was then overstocked and every 4 acres had at least a cow or what is equivalent to a full grown cow, and such cows can't be valued at less than 30 shill' one with another; if the stock was in horses or sheep, &c. it was much more; divide then 15,000,000 the number of profitable acres by 4, and the quotient is 3,750,000; multiply this by 30 and reduce it to pounds and it mak's 5,625,000*l.*, the valu of the stock in 1688; but it is undeniable that at the conclusion of the warre ¾ of the stock did not remain, no not one 5^th^, and then you see that our loss in stock was much greater than I make it. Nor can it be said the stock was only driven from one part of the kingdom to another, for the distruction was universal, and so much that the grass was burnt in most places, there being no cattle to eat it, and y^e^fore withered and being set on fire either by chance or designe, burnt in several places 20 miles, till some river or other accident stopped it. Let to adde to this the burning of houses and destruction of improvements which were reckoned to at least a million more and then the whole loss of Ireland come at least to 10 millions, which is double that of England in reducing it and for which no compensation was ever made. As to the loss of men, it is plain that dureing the 17 years of warre if we compute the Irish troops, private men, and officers that served the crown of England dureing that time, we shall find them at least to be double to the English subjects that were employed in the reduction of Ireland or were lost in it dureing the 3 years it continued, so that in this point England has bin repaid with interest.

* * * * *

Perhaps some will doubt of the truth of this representation of the miserable estate of the common people of Ireland, but whoever has been in their cabbins have seen the matter of fact to be so and can vouch the truth of it. There are two sort of men that I except against as incompetent witness in this case: first, such English gent. as come over into Ireland on visits or business, and 2^dly^ such gent of Ireland as live in England or that tho' they live generally in Ireland yet are as much strangers to the common people and their way of living as if bread in Turkey. I know these two represent

Digitized by Google

Ireland as the most plentifull, luxurious countrey in Europe, and magnifie the excessive eating and drinking in it. To unfold the mysterie of this it must be observed that there are p'haps a thousand gent. in Ireland that live very splendidly, keep good tables, and make their frends welcome, when ther'fore a stranger comes to them they hospitally invites him, liberally entertain him, and do the best they can to make him welcome; thus he is feasted from house to house while he stays, and he returns into England full of the plenty and luxurie of Ireland. But he doth not consider that there are 300 thousand families in Ireland, and among all these hardly a thousand live in that condition in which the gent. lives who entertained him, and for the good dinner he mett there, three hundred neighbours or tenants dine on a potato without salt. This and the plenty in the good houses in Dublin deceive most strangers and gives them conceptions of Ireland most distant from truth. Most strangers that come to Ireland go no further then that city and only converse with gents. or the richer sort there, and never are acquainted with the povertie of the rest which is very great; p'haps a third part of that citty need charity. As to the Irish gents. that go to England or live there, they often know little more than theire fathers house or the city of Dublin, and are in truth strangers to the common way of living in that kingdom, or if they know it, either shame or vanity make them conceal it as much they can, which I take to be source of infinite mischiefs to the countrey and p'vok's envy instead of pity in our neighbours of Great Britain. And p'haps many of the laws complain'd of in Ireland ow their being to this mistake. I know that lasiness is commonly objected to the Irish and this is made the ground of their povertie. I own that there are some whose ancestors had great estates and lost them in the several rebellions, being forfeited and seised by the English, who give occasion to this surmise; now the posterity of these men commonly preserve with care their genealogies and still reckon themselves gents. and look on it as the greatest debasement in the world to work or exercise any trade; they have y^most part wood enough on there clans who still pay them a respect and maintain them after a sort, but the common Irish are laborious people, and if we set aside the holydays their religion injoins, they work as hard and as long as any in England. I confess not with the same success, for they have neither the assistance to labour nor the incouragement workmen have in England, their poverty will not furnish them with convenient tools, and so the same quantitie of work costs them p'haps twice the labour with which it is p'form'd in England; there are many accidental differences that increase their labour on them, as, for example, England is already enclos'd, and if a farmer have a mind to keep a field for medow, grazing, or plowing, it costs him no more but the shutting his gate, but the Irishman must fence his whole field every year or leave it in common, and the like saving of labour happens in the plow utensils in building houses and p'viding fireing. Neither hath the Irishman that encouragement to labour as there is in England, he has no markett for his manufactories, if he build a good house or inclose his grounds, to be sure he must raise his rent or turn out at the end of a short lease. These and many other considerations make the Irishman's case very pitifull, and ought, as seems to me, to move compassion rather then anger or a severe condemnation. Upon the whole I do not see how Ireland can on the p'sent foot pay greater taxes then it does without starving the inhabitants and leaving them entirely without meat or clothes. They have already given their bread, their flesh, their butter, their shoes, their stockings, their beds, their house furniture and houses to pay their landlords and taxes, I cannot see how any more can be got from them, except we take away their potatoes and butter milk, or flay them and sell their skins.

Rothe's Register of the Antiquities and Statutes of the Town of Kilkenny.

It will be regarded as somewhat remarkable that a work of large extent on the history of an important town in Ireland, laboriously compiled by one of its chief legal officials towards the commencement of the 17th century, from public and private sources, should have been apparently unknown to historic and literary inquirers. The circumstances will not appear the less peculiar when I mention that the work is an unique collection of historical materials connected with Kilkenny, the antiquities of which have for some years past, through its local archæological institution, been made the subjects of diligent research and widely circulated inquiries.

The volume which has lain in complete obscurity to the present time consists of 132 leaves of vellum of large folio size, with the following title :—

"A Register or Breviat of the Antiquities & Statuts of the towne of Kilkenny, with other antiquities collected by me, Robert Rothe, of the same, Esquier, as well out of severall books, charters, evidences, and rolls belonging to the said towne, as also out of the Statuts and Cronicles of England & Ireland, and in especiall out of two books belonging to the said towne, thone called the *olde Redd Booke written in parchment, which in the notes and referrments of this booke is called Liber Primus by cause it is the first and auncientest book I can find amongest the Records of this towne, and the second is called the White †Booke written in paper, which in the referments of this booke is called Liber Secundus, also out of the cronicles of Ireland made by John Hooker contayning as it is nowe printed a hundred fourscore & one pages or sides which in all are fourscore and eleaven leaves, the first parte whereof is called the Conquest of Ireland, and the last the Cronicles of Ireland, bothe whiche nevertheless for avoiding the farther trouble of the reader I name in this booke Liber Conquesti, that is to say, the booke of the conquest, referring all to one generall title, and lykewise I have collected out of an Anncient booke or Cronicle somtyme belonging to the gray ffrerie of Kilkenny written in velom in a faire attenticque hand by a friar called §Clyn div'se notes woorthy to be remembred, w^ch booke was shewed unto me by S^r Richard Shee, knight, and remaineth at this present in his custody, and the rest for the more part are gathered out of the cronicles of Hollinsede and Grafton, and also oute of sundry rolls and evidence belonging to my self and to divers other gentlemen and burgesses of this towne, whose names appeare in this booke in the severall notes delivered by them unto me."

Robert Rothe was the first recorder of Kilkenny, under the charter by which James I. in 1609 advanced that town to the dignity of a city. In the preceding two centuries the office of sovereign of Kilkenny had been occasionally filled by members of the Rothe family.‖

Before entering on a description of this work some observations may be made on the manuscript sources from which it was partly compiled.

The "old red book called liber primus," now somewhat damaged, but still extant at Kilkenny, was described by me in Appendix to the First Report of the Historical Commission, page 129. The fragment now possessed by the Kilkenny corporation of "the white book" or "liber secundus" has lost nearly all the matter transcribed from it in the present volume by Rothe.

The manuscript communicated to Rothe by Sir Richard Shee, which had belonged to the Franciscan monastery at Kilkenny, may have been the now missing original of the compilation made by Friar John Clyn in that house in the fourteenth century.

Among the gentlemen and burgesses whose documents are quoted in various parts of Rothe's book the following are specially named by him: Patrick Archer, Patrick Archer Fitz Thomas, Walter Areher, John Fitz Lewes Bryn, James Grace, Adam Lawless, David Savage, and James Shortale of Ballylorcan.

Rothe cites and gives extracts also from many instruments in his own custody as well as in the common treasury of the town of Kilkenny, including those of the dissolved Franciscan monastery granted on its dissolution to that commonalty.

On the back of the first page are two entries. 1. Extract from Liber I, page 1 a.: act in French of A.D. 1230, for annual election of sovereign and council.

2. Memorandum that James by the grace of God, King of England, Scotland, France and Ireland, defender of the fayth, etc. by his highnes lettres patents bering date at Westminster the xi^th day of April, in the seaventh yeare of his highnes rayne of England

* "Old redd book called Liber Primus."
† "White book called Liber Secundus."
‡ "Liber Conquesti."
§ "Ffryer Clynn's booke."
‖ At folio 70 b. under A.D. 1462 is entered a writ of Thomas Fitz-Maurice, Earl of Kildare, chancellor, and Sir Roland Fitz-Eustace, lord of Portlester, treasurer of Edward IV., in Ireland, setting forth that "much at the busy and greate instance of John Rothe," burgess of Kilkenny, that town gave unto them nine butts of wine when of late they were there "with a puissant [force] of people, for noe ill will of the "inhabitants there, as God it knowes, but onely for the good weie of "English rule of this land and the unitye of obedience of the Kinge "our sovereign lord his liege people in this his land of Ireland, as it "well apperith by our demeanings there"; xx^th of May, 5 Edward IV.

Digitized by Google

France, and Ireland, and of Scotland the two-and-fortieth. In consideration of the true and faithfull service heretofore don by the corporation of Kilkenny to the crowne of England hath incorporatid the said towne of Kilkenny by the name of maior and cittizens, and made the same towne and all the liberties and franchises thereof an entier countie (distinct and separatid from the countie of Kilkenny) by the name of the countie of the citty of Kilkenny lymitinge the bounds of the same as far as the uttermoste meares of the fowre parishes thereof do extend. And granted unto the said maior and cittizens authorities to elect a nominat yeerley two sheriffs and twoo corroners for the said city and countie thereof, with divers other liberties and privileges incerted in the said charter as by the same charter more at large may appere.

The first leaf is followed by three without pagination containing the following:—The oath of the maior; statute for ordering of the revenues of the city. "The said statute appereth in fo. 221 of the greate booke h." Maior whilst in office not to take lands. Statute appereth in fo. 232 of the said booke b. Old maior to be justice of the peace. The oath of the justice of the peace. The oath of the sheriffs. The oath of the corroners. The oath of the alderman. The oath of the recorder. The oath of the clerke of the Tolsell. The oath of obedience to be ministered upon the Friday after Michaelmas yearly to every free man. The oath of the free man. The oath of the servants of the maire. The oath of the constabells. The oath of the master and wardens of the companies. The oath of the portref. These three numbered leaves appear somewhat more modern than the rest of the volume, the contents of which may be described as follows:—

Folios 2 & 3. Latin annals quoted from li. I., f. 29 b, with interpolations in English; notices of Richard Strongbow and his daughter Isabel, wife of William Maréchal, senior, and their children. Charter of William Maréchal to Kilkenny.

Fol. 4 a. Memorandum in English on coronatiou of Philip Augustus and armorial bearings of peers of France.

Fol. 4 b. Latin annals 1132, 1221, from li. I., ff. 29, 30, and 31. Charter of William Maréchal, junior, to Kilkenny, 1223, from li. I., f. 4 a.

Fol. 5 a. Obits of Maréchal family, partition between their heiresses and annals to 1272, from li. I., f. 4 a, 28 b, 30 a, 31 a, &c.

Fol. 5 b. Grant to burgesses of Kilkenny of freedom of custom, A.D. 1275, 8 July, 3. Ed. I., li. 1, f. 4 b.

Fol. 6 a. Order in French from Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester and Hereford, addressed to his seneschal of Kilkenny and his treasurer there on purveyance of victuals, fifth of May, 4 Ed. I.

Fol. 6 b. From this leaf most of the pages are ruled into spaces for each consecutive year, commencing with 1277. Some of these spaces are blank or only partially filled, while others are entirely covered with matter from the sources mentioned on the title-page.

Fol. 11 b. Divisio comitatus Kilkennie inter filias domini Gilberti de Clare, comitis Gloucestrie: Proparte domini Hugonis De Spenser et Elinore, uxoris ejus.

Fol. 12 a. Feodum militum in Ouerke.

Proparte Hugonis de Audeley et Margarete uxoris ejus.

Feodum militum, li. I., f. 25 b.

Fol. 12 b. Proparte domini Rogeri Damari et Elizabeth uxoris ejus.

Feodum militum, li. I., f. 26 b.

The leaves from 13 a to 18 b are headed "Transcript of an auncient roll." This is an annalistic and genealogical account of the Maréchal family and their descendants, together with details under the following titles:—

"Particio terrarum et tenementorum que fuerunt Walteri Mareschalli in Hibernia facta inter heredes ipsorum Walteri et Anselmi in curia domini regis Henrici tercii regis Anglie, anno regni sui tricesimo primo, tertio die Maii, apud Wodstock: Pars Matilde Comitisse de Northfolke et Waryn, primogenite filie et sororis ipsorum Walteri et Anselmi; Pars Johanne de Monte Caniso; Pars Richardi de Clare comitis Gloucestrie; Pars Agnete de Vessy et sex sororum suarum; Pars Matilde (filie Eve filie Wilhelmi Mareschalli) de Mortuo mari."

Details of marriages and descendants of Matilda, Johanna, Isabella, Sibilla, and Eva, daughters of William Maréchal.

Fol. 15 b. Extenta comitatus libertatis Kilkennie, videlicet particio ejusdem anno 1295, 23 Edw. i.

Propars Hugonis de Spenser junioris et Alienore, uxoris ejus, de terris et tenementis que fuerunt comitis Gloucestrie et Hereford in Hibernia.

De feodis militum que fuerant prefati comitis in Hibernia.

Fol. 16 a. Propars Hugonis Audele junioris et Margarete uxoris ejus.

Feodum militum, etc.

Fol. 16 b. Propars Elizabethe de Burgo.

Feoda militum.

Fol. 17 a. Regale servicium tocius comitatus domino regi reddendum xliii. li. viii s. x d. ob. Summa cujuslibet propartis xiii. li. xvi s. x d. ob.

Grant of Edward I. to Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester, and his wife Johanna.—Westminster, 27th May, 18th year,—1290.

Fol. 17 b. Latin Annals commencing: "Ab origine "mundi usque ad nativitatem Domini quinque m. c. "nonaginta novem." The concluding entries are on fol. 18 b. as follow: "Anno Domini MCCCCVIII, in die Martis xx, viz. in crastino Sancti Barnabe, Apostoli, Arthurus Mc Morreghowe domitavit Fothard, Bargy et magnam partem destruxit et combussit earundem et perno ctavit apud Ballytery et in crastino ante recessum combussit Ballytery.

Anno eodem, sexto die mensis Septembris, idem dominus Stephanus Scrope viam universe carnis ingressus est apud Tristildermot in Hibernia.

Anno MCCCLXXXII in die Sancti Kenelmi, regis et martiris, Jacobus le Botiler, comes Ormonie, fecit conflictum super Hibernicos apud Thascoffyn in comitatu Kilkennie in quo fuerunt occisi sexcenti de hominibus Mc Morchowe.

Anno sequenti in festo Sancti Luce, Evangeliste, idem comes diem clausit extremum apud Knocktopher.

Anno MCCCLXXXVI combustio de Kilmeker per Arthurum Mc Morchowe, O'Karrole et alios et magnus conflictus super Anglicos in festo Sancti Kenelmi, regis.—Finis Rotuli." . . . "M^d that Kinge H. 2 toke the great townes hee drove out to the outside the Irishry calling that part Irishtowne, and within the walls he called Inglishton."

From folio 18 b. to 29 a. the contents include notices of English affairs in Ireland from 1169 to 1339, extracted from Liber Conquestus, Clyn, Stanihurst, Holinshed, and Grafton. At folio 29 b. the arrangement of a space for each year is resumed and copious extracts are given from the now missing portion of the "white book," as well as from documents, with copies of acts of the commonalty so far as folio 119 b., where we find the end of the last entry of the proceedings of the town, A.D. 1544, under the sovereignty of Walter Archer. These are followed by charter of Richard II., alphabetical table of "statutes and privileges" and of antiquities, the latter ending at the letter n. The last entry in the book is on the back of folio 130, with the following heading:—

"Placita fractionis memorum tenta apud le newe Tholsell ciuitatis Kilkennie, vicesimo septimo die Maii anno regni domini regis nostri Caroli, Anglie, Scotie, Francie, et Hibernie quinto et anno Domini 1629, coram Edmondo Grace, generoso, et Johanne Roth, mercatore, preposito de Chapman yeld civitatis Kilkennie predicte, juxta antiquam consuetudinem veteris burgi ville Kilkennie et nunc ciuitatis Kilkennie predicte."

The years for which entire blank spaces have been left by Rothe are as follows:—

A.D.	Folios.	A.D.	Folios.
1275	6 a.	1453	67 b.
1277	6 b.	1454	,,
1278	,,	1455	68 a.
1280	7 a.	1456	,,
1283	7 b.	1458	68 b.
1291	9 a.	1459	,,
1297	10 a.	1461	69 a.
1325	33 a.	1462	,,
1354	44 a.	1463	69 b.
1362	45 b.	1469	71 b.
1363	,,	1470	,,
1365	46 a.	1472	72 a.
1409	57 b.	1474	73 a.
1423	61 a.	1476	73 b.
1426	61 b.	1480	74 b.
1436	64 a.	1481	75 a.
1437	,,	1484	75 b.
1439	64 b.	1485	,,
1441	65 a.	1495	79 a.
1448	66 a.

Under the sovereignty of Robert Rothe in the year 1509 we find the following memorandum of the enrolment of a charter of Kilkenny in the red book of the Mayor of Bristol:—

Digitized by Google

"Memorandum quod carta domini Henrici octavi, regis Anglie, sub suo magno sigillo cera viridi impresso, per quam ipse dominus rex ratificavit et confirmavit burgensibus ville dicte Kilkennie in Hiberuia heredibus et successoribus suis diversas libertates usus et consuetudines et clamaciones eis prius concessas fuit ostensa Johanni Caple, maiori ville Bristoll, Johanni Williams et Johanni Wilkins, vicecomitibus eiusdem ville, in Guildhalda ibidem per David Savadg de Kilkennia predicta, mercatorem, xvi die Aprilis, anno primo regis predicti. Et eisdem die et anno irrotulata fuit carta predicta in libro rubeo dicti maioris in folio ceix eiusdem libri per Phillipum Ricaut, communem clericum ville Bristoll predicte, prout patet ibidem." Fol. 88 b.

The compiler of the volume before us has with occasional gaps inserted under each year the names of the sovereign and officials of Kilkenny from 1293 to 1544 from the materials to which he had access. He has thus supplied a catalogue of sovereigns of this important town which, as more complete than any yet in print, I have extracted as follows, giving the folios of Rothe's manuscript and his references to the first and second corporation books:—

Folios.	A.D.
9 b.	1293. Alanus Donnynge.
10 a.	1295. Idem.
ib.	1296. Johannes le White.
10 b.	1300. Robertus de Edesor.
11 a.	1301. Willielmus Outlawe.
ib.	1303. Robertus de Edesor.
11 b.	1305. Alanus Donyn'.
29 b.	1307. Johannes Albus, alias White.
30 b.	1310. Willielmus Outlawe.
30 b.	1312. Alanus Donynge.
31 a.	1314. Phillipus Croker.
ib.	1315. Nicolaus Croker.
31 b.	1316. Johannes Godyn.
ib.	1317. Idem.
ib.	1318. Johannes Eynowe [li. 1. f. 1 a.]
32 a.	1319. Johannes Godyne.
ib.	1320. Johannes Eynowe [custos].
32 b.	1321. Thomas de Ley.
ib.	1322. Johannes Eynowe.
ib.	1323. Willielmus Doninge.
33 a.	1324. Idem.
33 a.	1326. Willielmus fil Galfridi.
33 b.	1327, 1328. Idem.
34 a.	1329. Johannes Ffolyn.
ib.	1330. Thomas Shortalls.
34 b.	1331. Bartholomeus Folyn.
ib.	1332. Idem.
ib.	1333. Thomas Oweyn.
35 a.	1334. Walterus fil' Hugonis.
35 b.	1335. Gilbertus Fforte.
ib.	1336. Idem.
36 a.	1337. Johannes Crosse.
36 a.	1338. Idem.
36 b.	1339. Nicolaus Brisbone.
ib.	1340. Johannes Alyn.
ib.	1341. Johannes Crosse.
37 a.	1342. Idem.
ib.	1343. Idem.
38 a.	1345. Nicolaus Brusbone.
38 b.	1346. Johannes Crosse.
39 a.	1347. Idem.
ib.	1348. Thomas Venn.
39 b.	1349. Johannes Eynowe.
40 b.	1350. Idem.
ib.	1351. Willielmus Folin.
42 b.	1352. Johannes Eynowe.
44 a.	1353. Jacobus Owen.
44 b.	1356. Willielmus Lofe.
ib.	1357. Johannes Rennell.
ib.	1358. Johannes Eynowe [li. 1. f. 9 b.]
45 a.	1360. Johannes White de Ely [li. 1. f. 11 a.]
46 a.	1364. Johannes Eynowe.
ib.	1366. David Archer.
46 b.	1367. Willielmus Tirrell.
ib.	1368. Idem.
46 b.	1369. Robertus Dencourt.
47 a.	1370. Willielmus Bristowe.
ib.	1371. Oliverus Knarisburgh.
ib.	1372. Robertus Flod [li. 1. f. 11 b.]
47 b.	1373. Robertus Dencourt [li. 1. f. 16b.]
ib.	1374. Robertus Talbot.
48 a.	1375. Idem.
ib.	1376. David Archer.

Folios.	A.D.
48 a.	1377. Idem [li. 1. f. 11 b.]
48 b.	1379. Oliverus Knarisburgh.
ib.	1380. Idem.
49 a.	1381. Patricius Catermas.
ib.	1383. Johannes Cadde [li. 2. f. 11 a.]
49 b.	1384. Nicolaus Ley [li. 1. f. 14 a.]
50 a.	1386. Robertus Talbot [li. 1. f. 17 a.]
50 b.	1387. Johannes Lumbard [ib.]
ib.	1388. Richardus Norton [li. 1. f. 17 b.]
ib.	1389. Robertus Folyn [li. 1. f. 21 a.]
51 a.	1390. Johannes Dyer.
ib.	1391. Johannes Chamberlaine [li. 1. f. 21 b.
52 a.	1392. Thomas Knarisburghe [li. 1. f. 18 a.]
52 b.	1393. Thomas Tailour [li. 1. f. 17 b. li. 1. f. 33 b.]
52 b.	1394. Johannes Cadde [li. 1. f. 9 b.]
53 a.	1395. Johannes Daniell [li. 1. f. 18 a.]
53 b.	1396. Willielmus Stone [li. 1. f. 19 a.]
54 a.	1397. Nicolaus White.
ib.	1398. Willielmus Stone.
54 b.	1399. Richardus Talbot.
55 a.	1400. Thomas Knarisburgh [li. 1. f. 19 a.]
ib.	1401. Robertus Dullard [ib.]
ib.	1402. Thomas Talbot [ib.]
55 b.	1403. Thomas Rothe [ib.]
ib.	1404. Richardus Talbot [ib.]
56 a.	1405. Rogerus Bernard [li. 1. f. 23.]
56 b.	1406. Johannes Marschall [li. 1. f. 23 a.]
ib.	1407. Johannes Croker [li. 1. f. 23 b.]
57 a.	1408. Nicolaus Stokes [li. 1. f. 24 a.]
58 a.	1410. Robertus Taine.
ib.	1411. Thomas Mownister, alias English.
ib.	1412. Johannes Schortals [li. 1. f. 20 a.]
59 b.	1416. Johannes Lumbard.
ib.	1417. Thomas Chamberleyne [li. 1. f. 32 a.
ib.	1418. Johannes Marshall.
60 a.	1419. Thomas White.
ib.	1420. David Girdler, alias Browne.
60 b.	1421. Robertus Ffolyn.
61 a.	1422. Nicolaus White.
61 b.	1424. Johannes Cadde.
ib.	1425. Willielmus Archer.
62 a.	1427. Johannes Knarisburgh [li. 1. f. 38 b.]
ib.	1428. Mauricius Stafford [li. 1. f. 27b.]
62 b.	1429. Johannes Marshall.
ib.	1430. Thomas Mounister, alias English.
63 a.	1431. Nicolaus Sutton.
ib.	1432. Johannes Knarisburgh.
ib.	1433. Johannes Marshall.
63 b.	1434. Willielmus Archer [li. 1. f. 28a.]
ib.	1435. Willielmus White.
64 a.	1438. Johannes Archer [li. 1. f. 28 b.]
64 b.	1440. Johannes Rothe.
65 a.	1442. Walterus Sherlock.
ib.	1443. Johannes Knarisburghe.
65 b.	1444. Robertus Savadge.
ib.	1445. Johannes Whiteside.
66 a.	1447. Elias Archer.
66 b.	1449. Johannes Rothe.
67 a.	1450. Patricius Sentleger.
ib.	1451. Johannes Knarisburgh.
67 b.	1452. Johannes Ragged.
68 a.	1457. Johannes Gerrott [li. 1. f. 31 b.]
69 a.	1460. Thomas Sherlocke [li. 1. f. 29 a.]
69 b.	1464. Willielmus Archer.
70 b.	1465. Johannes Rothe.
ib.	1466. Willielmus fil' Elie Archer.
71 a.	1467. Walterus Archer [li. 1. f. 48 a.]
ib.	1468. Idem [li. 1. f. 40 b.]
72 a.	1471. Patricius Daniell.
72 b.	1473. Johannes, fil' Johannis Rothe [li. 1. f. 45 b.]
73 a.	1475. Thomas Sherlock [li. 1. f. 41 a.]
73 b.	1477. Johannes Whiteside.
75 a.	1482. Johannes Knarisburgh [li. 1. f. 43 b.]
76 a.	1486. Johannes Sherlock [li. 1. f. 31b.]
ib.	1487. Robertus Leonard.
76 b.	1489. Nicolaus Ragged.
ib.	1490. Johannes Mothell [li. 1. f. 41 b.]
77 a.	1491. Dionicius Maldony [ib.]

Digitized by Google

Folios.	A.D.
77 b.	1493. Robertus Shee [li. 1. f. 44 b.]
79 a.	1496. Idem [ib.]
79 b.	1498. Petrus Archer [li. 1. f. 46 b.]
81 a.	1499. Johannes Archer [li. 1. f. 50 a.]
82 b.	1500. Thomas Marshall [li. 1. f. 49 a.]
83 a.	1501. Johannes Savadge [li. 1. f. 56a.]
84 a.	1502. Walterus Sherlocke [li. 1. f. 58 b.]
84 b.	1503. Patricius Archer [li. 1. f. 59 a.]
85 b.	1504. Willielmus Kyrdowe [ib.]
ib.	1505. Robertus Rothe [li. 1. f. 54.]
86 b.	1506. Richardus Rothe [li. 1. f. 61 b.]
87 a.	1507. Walterus Courcy [li. 1. f. 60 a.]
88 a.	1508. Patricius Archer [li. 1. f. 55 a.]
88 b.	1509. Robertus Rothe [li. 1. f. 58 a.]
89 a.	1510. Idem.
89 b.	1511. Thomas Langton.
90 a.	1512. Walterus filius Thome Sherlocke [li. 1. f. 55 b.]
90 b.	1513. Thomas Mothell [li. 1. f. 61 b.]
91 a.	1514. Robertus Rothe.
91 b.	1515. David Savadg [li. 1. f. 63 a.]
92 a.	1516. Walterus Courcy [li. 2. f. 2.]
92 b.	1517. Galfridus Rothe [li. 1. f. 64 a.]
93 b.	1518. Patricius Archer.
94 a.	1519. Thomas Mothell.
95 a.	1520. Petrus Archer [li. 1. f. 66 a.]
96 a.	1521. Idem [ib.]
96 b.	1522. Richardus Shee [li. 1. f. 64 b.; li. 2. f. 6 b.]
97 b.	1523. Robertus Rothe.
98 b.	1524. Thomas Shee [li. 1. f. 67 a.]
99 b.	1525. Richardus Rothe [li. 1. f. 67 b.]
100 a.	1526. Nicolaus Huckett [li. 1. f. 70 a.]
100 b.	1527. Johannes Walsh [li. 1. f. 68 b.]
101 a.	1528. Galfridus Rothe [ib.]
101 b.	1529. Petrus Walsh [li. 1. f. 65 a.; li. 2. f. 16 a.]
102 a.	1530. Thomas Shee [li. 1. f. 69 b.; li. 2. f. 16 b.]
102 b.	1531. Johannes Rothe [li. 1. f. 70 a.; li. 2. f. 17 b.]
103 a.	1532. Richardus Shee [li. 1. f. 70 b.; li. 2. f. 20 b.]
103 b.	1533. Galfridus Rothe [li. 1. f. 71 a.; li. 2. f. 22 a.]
104 b.	1534. Nicolaus Hackett.
105 b.	1535. Thomas Langton [li. 2. f. 26 b.]
106 a.	1536. Richardus Shee [li. 2. f. 28 b.
106 b.	1537. Robertus Rothe [li. 2. f. 30 a.
107 b.	1538. Johannes Walsh [li. 2. f. 32 b.]
108 a.	1539. Johannes Rothe [li. 2. f. 36 b.]
109 a.	1540. Nicolaus Cowley [li. 2. f. 37.]
111 a.	1541. David Rothe [li. 2. f. 45 a.]
112 a.	1542. Walterus Archer [li. 2. f. 47 a.]
114 b.	1543. Robertus Sheeth [li. 2. f. 54 b.]
117 a.	1544. Walterus Archer [li. 2. f. 59 b.]

The docnments transcribed in the present volume from the lost portion of Liber 2. and other sources include enactments and proceedings of the commonalty of Kilkenny between 1500 and 1544 on the following subjects:—

Ago of a burgess that may sell his land. Aghaboe Fair. Ale and its measures. Amercements for Wear bridge. For breaking the assize of victuals. For taking of fish coming to the town. Apples and pears, stealing of. Aqua vitæ, rules on. Armour and weapons for every man according to his degree. Artificers. Assize of bread, ale and victuals. Assaults in streets. Auditors of accounts. Bakers and the manner of baking bread in loaves after the English fashion. Banquets, and the order thereof. Barons of Whitsuntide fair and their authority. Beasts found in gardens. Bill of money delivered for building St. John's bridge. Bloodshed, punishment for. Breakfasts or banquets. Burial of strangers dead in freemen's houses. Bushes of furze cut without licence. Butter bought for men of Waterford or Ross. Candles and their prices. Captains appointed in Kilkenny. Cars of corn drawers. Carpenters and orders for them. Change of flesh coming into the market. Cheeses honght for men of Waterford or Ross. Counsel disclosed by a freeman. Corn to be sold at the market place, &c. Corpus Christi day and the privileges thereof. Craftsmen. Customs. Devise of lands. Disobedience to sovereign. Distresses. Drinking money allowed to inquests. Ducking stool. Election of officials. Entering gardens or orchards. Enrolment of Charters of Kilkenny at Bristol. Fairs among the Irishry. Farms, fields, or meadows. Fines for not answering the alarm bell or summons; for entering the house of a burgess; for slander; for bloodshed; for weapon drawn; for forestalling; for beating the wife of a burgess that was sovereign. Fires. Fish, forestalling; sale of. Flesh, sale of in open market; forbid to be sent out of the town; to be cut on Saturday at a certain hour. Foreign merchants. Freedom and freemen. Fruit, furze, fagots and bushes. Gate to be stopped in time of war. Girdles to be made only by glovers. Glovers and their apprentices. Grey friars and their gardens. Green for shooting. Hedges broken. Hides and skins. Hogs. Hue and cry. Hundred court. Husbandmen and their sons. Imprisonments. Inquisitions. Irishry forbidden to be lodged in Kilkenny. Jurors. Irish town of Kilkenny. Killing of men in defence of the town rights. Labourers, their sons and fathers. Licences for sale of merchandize. Lodging strangers of the Irishry. Maidder. Masons and their work. Measures for wine, ale, and other liquors. Meat to carpenters and labourers the night before they enter to work, or on holy days. Meadows, and trespassers on them. Mills. Misdemeanours. Mowers. Murage. Mutton allowed to be cut on Sundays. Musters and journeys. Night walkers after the hour of nine. Oaths and pledges of the Irishry. Oaths of the sovereign and officials. Orphans' goods, and accounts of them. Ossory men forbidden to be apprentices or servants to townsmen. Pavement of Kilkenny. Pawns or pledges. Penalties. Pestilences. Pillory. Playing for money, or with apprentices having no goods of their own. Pleas. Pledges. Porters of gates. Portrief elected that can speak no English. Prentices. Prices of articles. Privileges. Regrators. Rents. Saint Nicholas' offering and order for it. Sessions. Servants. Shoemakers and shoes. Shops. Slander. Soldiors. Sovereigns. Springs and wells. Stakes of corn. Strangers, a common house appointed to lodge them. Strangers dead in freemen's houses, and how they shall be buried. Submission. Subsidies. Suits. Sureties. Suspected persons, and goods bought of them. Tailors and prices for their work. Tallages. Trespassers. Trials of offences. Victuals, prices and sale of. Walls of the town. Wardships of burgesses. Warning to be given by tenant to landlord. Wax. Weights. Wine. Wool.

Of the enactments and ontries the following are specimens:—

1523. Robert Rothe, Superior:

"Armour and weapon: It is enacted that every man have his jack, sallet, and long bowe, such as shalbe assigned therto. Others to have gley[v]es by St. Stevens day, upon payne of iii. s. iv. d., l. 2. f. 9 a."

1540. Nicholas Cowley, Superior:

"Item, it is ordered, statuted, and agreed by the Soveraigne, Burgesses, and Comons of the said towne in the drenhumdred, holden the Friday next after the Feast of St. Michaell tharchangle, in the xxxii yere above written, that the best quarter of boofe be not sold above ii. s., and as the flesh shalbe woorth within the same parte to be [ap]praised by the [ap]praysers appointed. The best quarter of porke at xviij. d. The best quarter of mutton at iiii. d. . . A stone of roughe tallowe contayning xiv. li. nit xx. d., and every stone of mutten tallowe contaning xiiii. li. at the same price, li. 2. fo. 38 a. Item, that no bowtcher cutt nether kerve any kinde of fleshe on Sonday except mutton, upon payne of vi. s., viii. d. Thereof to the spier, viii. d., and the other parte to the Soveraigne and Comons equally to be devided," li. 2. fo. 28 b.

"For lawfull warning of six wiks by the landl[ord]:

"Item, it is enacted also that every person haying any house, orchiard, garden, or land in the fields fro yere to yere, be warned by the space of six wicks afore the terme or last gale by the lorde of the freeholde. Otherwise the said person or tenant shall keepe the said house, orchiard, land, or garden, till he be lawfully warned as is before said for like rent yerely, as he had the same before. And the said persons or tenants shall likewise warne the lord of any such freehold, as is before rehersed, otherwise that they shall answer yerely for sonuch rent unto him as the said house, land, or orchiard was first lett for unto them till he be lawfully warned as is above written. li. 2. fo. 38 b."

"Rate of shoes to be solde:

"Item, that every burgesse and honest mens single shoes be solde for vi. d.; for every womans single shoes iiii. d.; every woorkemans shoes v. d.; all prentises and childrens shoes of the adge of xii. yeres or more iiii d. and within the adge of xii yeres for ii. d. the peire. And that no man (except shoemakers) buy any halfe, thre quarter, or bullock hides or goate skynnes upon payne of forfeiture, halfe to the Soveraigne and half to the espier. And yf any shoemaker of this towne doe from henceforth sell their shoes to any forriner of the country (without licence of the Soveraigne for the tyme being) whereby the inhabitants of the towne cannot be served, but at an unreasonable highe price farre above the said value, that he or they doing the contrary shall forfecte iii. s., to be divided in thirds, etc., li. 2. fo. 38 b."

Digitized by Google

1542. Walter Archer, Superior:

"For portreif elected that can speak no English:

"Item, it is enacted, condescended, and agreed by the said Soveraigne, Burgess, and Commons of the said towne that every person to be hereafter chosen or appointed by the towne or the Chief Lords styward, in the office of portrifshipp, and can not speak Englishe nor order himself after the English sort and fashion for the woorship of the said towne in court, That he or they so elected, choosen, or appointed, shall wadg or fynd a sufficient and hable person such as the soveraign and his Councell for the tyme being shall thinck meet & convenient to serve the same roome, and the soveraigne and his councell to moderate the said wadge reasonably, li. 2. fol. 47 b."

For breakfasts made to women in child bedd:

"Item in consideracion that by reason of the resort of divers women to visit their freud or kinswoman, being brought a child bed to comfort the parient and make her cheare w^th^ heretofore hath ben used of love, woorshipp, and honesty, and nowe the same custom is by reason of light shamles, & idle women lacking good maners, & hahilitie presuming at such tymes to kepe company w^th^ the Soveraignes wif, and other her associats misused, & rather converted to dishonesty more than woorshipp to the slander of the said good wives, and hindrance of the house where they useth to resort. It is therefore enacted by the same auctoritie that no person nor persons from henesfoorth go to visite any such woman being at child bed to make any jounkery or breakfaste, but her mother, sistere, or gossobbs for that tyme upon paine of xx^s^ to be forfaicted of the house that shall receive the same, and vi^s^ viij^d^ of him or her that shall make or take any such breakfast otherwise then before is said, of w^ch^ paine the so'vaigne for the tyme being shall have the third parte, and the spier and comens thother part, li. 2. f. 48 a."

"For making of Aqua vite:

"Item in consideracion of the intollerable mischiefs that growcth to the comon wealth for making of Aqua vite as the same is now used, whereby wheat, malt, and other cornes & fuell is made very dere, so as poore men can have mony scantly to buy the same, It is enacted by the auctoritie aforsaid that no person or persons shall mak any kynd of aqua vite w^th^in the said towne or the franches of the same unles he or she be a free burges in towne upon paine of forfaicture to be made of the crock w^ch^ all instrumente that apertaineth thereunto, and all the licor or aqua vite that in any wise can be had or proved to be made at that tyme wherof the sov'aigne for the tyme shall have the third part, the espier as much, and the residue to the commons, li. 2. f. 48 a.

"Item that no crock nor instruments be sent out of towne to make any aqua vite in the cuntrie or given by any fre burgess w^ch^ in the towne to any forriner or such as is not cnhabled to make aqua vite w^th^in towne upon paine of vi s. viii d.; thereof, to the espier, xx d., and the surplus to the Soveraigne and comons equally, li. 2, f. 48 b.

"Item, that no freman or burges by collor of his owne fredom do make or suffer to be made within his house or jurisdiction any aqua vite to any other that is not free burges within the said towne upon paine of xx s. to the owner or hed of the house that contenneth the same whereof the sov'aigne shall have vi s. viii d., and the residue to the spier and the comens, li. 2, f. 48 b.

"For the faire of Aghwoe [Aghaboe]:

"Item, in consideracion of the great hindrasnce that the towne sustained by reason of a certaine fayre or markett which the lord of Upper Ossory have proclaimed to be kept at Aghevoe on Thursday ones every fortnight w^th^out auctboritie but of his owne extort power for his sole and private gaines, whereby the trade and stirring of the towne is much putt back and the kings custom of muradg greatly decayd. It is therefore enacted by the same assent and auctboritie that no inhabitaunt of the same towne do go, haunt or in any wise trade or use the said fayre or markett the day named or appointed for the same, nor by any collor send any ware, money, or victuall there to be sold the very day of the markett, nor have any servaunt or lodgers w^th^ in the country there to buy or sell any kynd of ware upon paine of xl s., to the offender of this present act, totiens quoliens. Whereof the sovereigne for the tyme shall have the third part, the spier as much and the comons the other third part. This statute to continue till the next dernhundred, provided that the inhabitaunts of the Irishtowne conforme them to be lykewise restrained, or otherwise this estatute to be void, li. 2, f. 49 a.

"For leasers of corne:

"Item, in consideracion that divers strong and hable persons by collor of leasing of corne in harvest tyme refuseth to go hyre for wadg, but keping them idle thre quarters of the yere for the commoditie of that one quarter, having no substaunce nor other living but such as they plucketh and stealeth from true men, whereby men can scantily have rippers and other workmen to labour for their mony, to the great detryment of the com'on wealth, It is therefore enacted that no p'son nor p'sons being strong in his body and hable to do woork & service otherwise shall not leasse any maner of corne upon paine to forfaict all such leassed corne togither with as much other corne as then shall be founde with the same, and all the clothes and goods as shall be found then upon his or their boddyes that shall so lessee and themselves to be stocked or imprisoned for xxiiij hours or more at the discression of the hed officer of the towne, of w^ch^ forfaictures the sov'aigne shall have th'one half and the spier or taker the other half, li. 2, f. 49 a.

"Erring for halves to inherit^e^" in the cuntrie or for 3 or 4 sheaf or port:

"Item in consideracion of the great hindrances that chanced to div's of the inhabitants and dwellers of the said towne, and of further inconveniences lyke to growe if due remedy be not the soner provided, by reason that divers inherito^rs^ of the same who hath their dwelling and habitacion out in the cuntry have taken upp into their owne hands all such arrable land as they had w^th^ in the franches of the said towne without setting any part thereof for rent to the said inhabitaunts who had none other trade of living but their erring and sowing and setting the said lands to certaine poore and insufficient p'sons whom they bring with them out of strange places to occupie and err the said lands to them for the one half & som for the third and fourth sheaf after the Irish sorte & custom who living most scarcely with milk, whey, or bread & such other beggerly fare are not hable to lodg, victuall, or receave any of the kings ma^ty^ armye or subjects com'ing to & fro, the said towne being a throughfare, and yet the towne in no little danger to be by such outcomes folk one tyme or other burned, betrayed or utterly destroyed; and the said inhabitaunts for a great part compelled to give over their housholds for lack of hable land to be had for rent (as hitherto they were accustomed) to be occupied and manured for the supportacion of their chardgs. Whereby the said towne is lyke to be much depopulated and decayed and a great deale the lesse hable to sustaine or maintaine their pavadge and murad^g^ or yet to receave the King's highnes dep^ties^ councell and armye, or to serve his grace otherwise at tymes of opportunitie. Wherfor & for that such erring for halfs and other Irish customes premised was never ha [sic] sene here till nowe of late and for the saulf guard of the said towne, be it established and enacted by assent of the Sov'aigne, burgess' and Com'ons of the said towne that no p'son ne p'sons dwelling, being or inhabiting w^th^in the said towne or the franches of the same shall manure, occupie ne err for halfs port of corne, the third or fourth sheaf any lands within the said towne or franches, or elsewhere, without the said lib'ties to any laudlord or inherito^r^ that is or hereafter shall be dwelling out of the said towne unles such landlord or inheritor do p'sonally com' and inhabit and dwell within the said towne for maintenance & defence of the same without any frawde, deceipt, or collusion uppon paine of six pounds thirtene shillings & fowre pence, to be levyed and forfaicted of him or them that shall contenne the same, totiens q^uiens. And the offendo^r^ or offendo^rs^ thereof to be utterly exiled out of the same towne and franches, of the w^ch^ forfaicture the Sov'aigne for the tyme shall have xx s., the espie', vi s. viij d., and the residue to be taken upp & conuerted to the comon use of the towne without remison or grace, li. 2, fol. 49 b."

1543. Robertus Sheeth, Superior:

"For fleash sent out of towne:

"Item, where great scarcitie and dearth of victuall is lyke to growe within the towne by reason that div's of the same for their private profit fleath fourth to div's other, whearas the fleash and cates w^ch^ would come to the said towne if the same were not disturbed otherwise: It is therefore enacted by the same auctboritie that no inhabitaunt of the said towne shall sell, bargaine, or send any kynd of beoves or other fleash brought or coming by any meane within the said towne the frauches of the same, or within iij miles adioyninge to the said franches or mere. Any collusion being p'ved to defrawd this present estatute but in the said towne to serve the same upon paine of iij s. iiij d. for ev'y beof, ij s. for every swyne, & xij d. for every sheep w^th^ shalbe solde or sent to be solde in maner aforesaid, totiens quotiens. Of w^th^ paine the Soveraigne for the tyme shall have the third parte, the Comens and the spyer the residue, to be equally devided betweene them. Provided that the Soveraigne for the tyme being with the advise of his counsell may lycence such as they shall thinck in discress'on to sell or send foorth any fleash out of towne to be solde where it shall please the owner, so that the toune be sufficiently furnished then with other like cates and fleash, li. 2, 55 s."

Digitized by Google

1544. Walter Archer, Superior:

"Election of the Soveraigne after Lammas:

"M^d^ that where by Walter Courcy [h]is tyme being Soveraigne of the said towne, in the viij^th^ yere of the raign of o' Sov'aigne lord King Henry the viij^th^, by the assent of the said Sov'aigne, the burgess, and com'ons of the said towne it was enacted, ordained, and established that the Soveraigne for the tyme should from thence foorth be chosen yerly in the Tolsell of the said towne, & not elswhere, the Monday next after the exaltacion of the crosse as by the same estatute more pla'nlier it doth appeare; w^ch^ statute notw^th^standing in considerac'on that the whole com'ons by reason of their resort to sundry fayers, whereupon rested a great part of their living, could not be at the said election, being so nigh the day of the fayer: And to the entent that the Sov'aigne for the next yere following shall have some convenient respite as well to have his provision as otherwise to prepare himself for the wourshipp of the said towne: It is therefore enacted and established that from hensefoorth the same election of the Soveraign shalbe yerly the Monday next after lammas day, otherwise called the feast of St. Peter the advinde, and that every freman of the said towne w^th^ shalbe absent at the said election or choosing of the Sov'aign shalbe utterly discommoned and hereved of his fredom for one twelvemoneth following. And after to made a grevous fyne w^th^ the Sov'aign, burgesses and com'ons before he be receaved to the same liberty or fredom againe, li. 2, fol. 59 b.

"Shomakers, weavers, and teaslers putting upp shopps nere the market cross:

"Item, where by reason of div's shomakers, weav's, and teaslers putting upp shopps toward the markett place of the said towne much deformitie and inconvenyens daily appeareth whereby the wourshipp of the said towne may one tyme or other be rebuked or slanderd. Therefore it is enacted by the auctoritie aforsaid, that none of the occupac'ons do from the feast of Easter next ensuing presume, or in any wise sett upp any shopp to occupye any of the said occupac'ons fro' the cornell shopp unto the style of our lady churchiard adioyning to St. Peter [h]is priests chamber upon payne of vi s. viij d. totiens quotiens, to be forfaicted by the owner of the shopp and the occupier of the same equally. Of which forfaict the Sov'aign for the tyme being shall have the one half and the commons th'other half, li. 2, f. 60 a."

"Prices of victuals:

"Item, It is lykewise condiscended and agreed that the assise stynt and price of bread, ale, and fleash, and all other victuall shalbe contynued and kept at lyk price and fashion as the same was lymited and written in this present book the xxv^th^ year of the raigne of our Soveraigne Lord King Henry the VIII., Robert Sheth being Soveraigne; that is to say, every penny woorth of good white bread without lovaine, shall containe ii. pound; and white lovaine bread to contayne i. li. and di.; and browne bread of other sort, the penny woorth to containe iiii. li. upon paine lymited by the charter (that is to say) xii. d. for the first default, ii. s. for the second default, and so foorthe, etc., and that every gallon of good wholsom ale be sold for iii. d. upon like paine, etc., li. 2, fol. 60 a."

The penmanship of this volume is in the various contracted styles of the early part of the 17th century, the most elegant portions being those from page 86b to 119. The transcription bears evidence of careful revision and exact references are inserted to authorities from which extracts are given. Although Rothe's Register of the House of Ormonde* was known and referred to from the time of its author, mention is not to be found of this his much larger work on Kilkenny. As yet no similar compilation is known to be extant made at so early a period in connection with the history of any town in Ireland.

Rothe's Manuscript is in excellent condition in its original oaken boards, on which portions of the red leather and brass fastenings still remain. It has been temporarily placed in the library of the Royal Irish Academy by its present owner.

This long hidden book will, apart from local associations, be regarded with interest as a literary monument of the family of Rothe, which, under adverse circumstances at home, contributed a learned and patriotic episcopal writer to Ireland, and, down to the present century, gave eminent officers to France, Austria, and Russia.

J. T. GILBERT.

Dublin.

* See notice of it in Report on MSS. of O'Conor Don, in present appendix.

Digitized by Google

Circular of the Secretary of the Commission.

Historical Manuscripts Commission.

Rolls House, Chancery Lane.

Her Majesty has been pleased to appoint under Her Sign Manual certain Commissioners to ascertain what MSS. calculated to throw light upon subjects connected with the Civil, Ecclesiastical, Literary, or Scientific history of this country are extant in the collections of private persons and in corporate and other institutions. A copy of the Commission is enclosed, which will best explain the object Her Majesty has in view.

The Commissioners think it probable that you may feel an interest in this object, and be willing to assist in the attainment of it, and with that view they desire me to lay before you an outline of the course which they propose to follow.

If any person express his willingness to submit any paper or collection of papers within his possession or power to the examination of the Commissioners, they will cause an inspection to be made by some competent person, upon the information derived from whom the Commissioners will make a private report to the owner on the general nature of the papers in his collection, such report will not be made public without the owner's consent, but a copy of it will be deposited and preserved in the Public Record Office, to which no person will be allowed to have access without the consent of the owner of the papers reported on.

Where the papers are not mere insulated documents, but form a collection which appears to be of Literary or Historical value, a chronological list or brief calendar will be drawn up, and a copy thereof presented to the owner, and to no other person without his consent, but the original of such calendar will be deposited for preservation in the Public Record Office, to which no person will be allowed to have access without the consent of the owner of such collection.

The Commissioners will also, if so requested, give their advice as to the best means of repairing and preserving any papers or MSS. which may be in a state of decay, and are of Historical or Literary value.

To avoid any possible apprehension that the examination of papers by the Commissioners may extend to or include any title deeds or legal documents, I have to call your attention to the fact that nothing of a private character or relating to the titles of existing owners is to be divulged, and to assure you that positive instructions will be given to every person who examines the MSS. that if in the course of his examination any title deeds or other documents of a private character chance to come before him, they are to be instantly put aside, and are not to be reported on or calendered under any pretence whatever.

The object of the Commission is solely the discovery of unknown Historical and Literary materials, and in all their proceedings the Commissioners will direct their attention to that object exclusively.

In no instance will any MS. be removed from the owner's residence without his request or consent, but if for convenience the Commissioners be intrusted with any MSS., they will be deposited in the Public Record Office, and be treated with the same care as if they formed part of the Public Muniments, and will be returned to the owner at any time specified by him.

The costs of inspections, reports, and calendars, and the conveyance of documents, will be defrayed at the public expense without any charge to owners.

The Commissioners will feel much obliged if you will communicate to them the names of any gentlemen who may be able and willing to assist in obtaining the objects for which this Commission has been issued.

I have the honour to be,

Your obedient servant,

WD. GEO. BRETT,

Secretary.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

INDEX TO FIRST AND SECOND REPORTS.

A.

Aæria, Josep de, to D. Methuen; I. 15.
Abbadie, Jacques, Dean of Killaloe, letters of; II. 232.
Abbey of the Holy Ghost, The (a treatise, 15th cent.); II. 106.
See Alcock, Bishop.
Abbeys, a book relating to; I. 32.
Abendonensis monasterii, Psalterium secundum morem Nigrorum Monachorum (printed, black-letter, 1528); II. 127.
See Abingdon.
Aberbrothock, Registrum de; II. 156.
Abercorn, Lord, letters of, 1720; I. xiii.; II. 232, 235.
Abercrombie, Dr.; II. 203.
Abercromby:
General, letters of; II. 29.
George, letters of; II. 27.
Sir James, letters of; II. 188, 189.
Sir R., letters of; II. 29.
Abercromby's letter to Lord Brougham; II. 192.
Aberdeen:
burgh of, records of the; I. xli.
—— report on the records of the; I. 121.
church of, lists of elders and deacons of the; I. 122.
collegiate church of St. Nicholas, register and chartulary of the; I. 111, 122, 123.
monastic houses of, charters of the; II. 200.
Carmelite, Franciscan, and Dominican friars at, charters of the; I. 111.
Franciscan convent of, mortuary of the; II. 201.
presbytery of, a protestation against the; II. 198.
University of, letters to doctors and professors of the; I. 113.
—— documents belonging to the; II. xix.
—— report on the records and MSS. of the; II. 199.
King's College, Principal of, Dr. Guild; I. 121.
Marischal College, records of; II. 200.
Blair's College, near, the collection of MSS. at; I. 112.
Old, Orem's history of; II. 200.
Bishops of, charters by; II. 180.
Aberdeen, Earl of; I. 19.
letters of the (beginning of 18th cent.); I. 118.
Aberdonensis, Martyrologium secundum usum Ecclesiæ (15th cent.); I. 111, 121.
Aberdonensium Episcoporum, Boetius de vitis; II. 146.
Abingdon:
Corporation of, records of the; I. xi.; II. xv.
—— report on the records of the; I. 58.
—— additional report on the records of the; II. 149.
—— some MSS. belonging to, repaired and bound; II. lx.
Abbot of, Ethelwold, his translation of the Rules of St. Benedict; I. 94.
—— Papal Nuncio, an absolution by; I. 26.
Christ's Hospital at, records of; I. xi.
—— report on the MSS. of the; I. 98.
See Abendonensis.
Abingdon, Lord, to the Earl of Nottingham, 1702; I. 15.
Abington, Thomas:
his antiquities of Worcestershire; I. 53.
his account of the Powder Plot; I. 53.
letters of; I. 53.
Abjuration oath, the; II. 234; oaths, 1715–22; I. 103.
Aboyne:
Earl of, letter to the, 1645; I. 115. See Gordon, Lord Charles.
Lady; II. 180.
the family of; II. 180.
Aboyne Castle, report on the Marquis of Huntly's papers at; II. 180.
Abridgments, a book of, Hen. VI. to Ric. III.; I. 32.
"Absalom and Achitophel," translated into Latin verse by the son of Lewis Atterbury; I. 15.
Accounts:
private and personal, from the 16th cent.; I. 11.
in the Hatton collection; I. 33.
of receipts and expenditure, 1347–60; I. 104.
various, 14th to 16th cent.; I. 110.
of personal expenditure, 1699–1700; I. 118.
—— 1650–54; II. 178.
of a family in Ireland, 1652–96; I. 127.
among the Stair Papers; II. 191.
books of, temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 72.
—— 1627–51; II. 199.
—— of the priory of Lillechercke or Heyham (Kent); I. 74.
—— at Abingdon; I. 98; II. 149, 150.
—— at Coventry; I. 101.
Accounts—cont.
—— at Wells; I. 107.
—— at Westminster Abbey; I. 95, 96.
—— in the Chapter Archives, York; I. 97.
—— at York; I. 109, 110.
parcels of, at Nottingham; I. 105, 106.
register of, at Edinburgh; I. 126.
rolls of, belonging to the Dean and Chapter, Norwich; I. 89. college; I. 64 sq., 78 sq.; II. 117 sq., 128 sq.
monastic, 15th cent.; II. 119.
Public, Commissioners for, 1668; I. 51.
—— —— temp. Ann.; I. 54.
—— —— journals of proceedings before the, 1700 sq.; II. 79.
Achelleus, Thomas, his "Cupidinis et Psychis Nuptiæ," 1573; I. 61.
Acheson, Sir Archd., letter of; II. 185.
Henry, letter of; II. 185.
Acton of Alderley, deeds belonging to; I. 46.
Actors, 18th cent.; II. 70, 71. See Players.
Acts of Court Books, in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich; I. 86.
Adair, Sir Robert:
despatches from; II. 3.
letters of; II. 232, 233.
accounts of; II. 235.
Adam, the painter [of Scotland], payments to, for portraits; II. 199.
Adams, Mr.; II. 69.
Adamson, Robert, letters of; II. 185.
Addison, Joseph, of Queen's Coll. Oxford (1687); II. 138.
letters of; I. xiii. 13; II. 69, 189, 212, 232, 234, 249, 250, 251.
letters concerning; II. 71.
portrait of; II. 69.
his tragedy of Cato; II. 234.
secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; ib.
Administrations, copies of, at Tabley House; I. 46.
—— at King's College, Cambridge; I. 67.
Admiral, Lord High, George Prince of Denmark; I. 22.
Admiralty, the; I. 19, 21 (bis).
—— "De officio Admiralitatis Angliæ;" II. 40.
—— a treatise on; II. 41.
—— letter of, 1718; II. 217.
—— letters of, 1733; II. 212.
—— letters dated at, 1759; I. 41.
—— orders of (17th cent.); I. 17.
Court of, commissions of appeal in the; I. 24.
—— treatises on the practice of the; I. 43; II. 156.
Lords Commissioners of the, letters to the, 1695; II. 2.
Lords of the, send a squadron against the Czar, 1719; I. 41.
Registrar of, [in Ireland,] notes of fees received by him and his clerks; II. 156.
suits, commission and articles of inquiry in, 1626; I. 43.
Adrian VI., Pope, account of the election of; II. 90.
Adriatic, papers relating to the formation of an Imperial navy in the, 18th cent.; II. 212.
Advertisement of a loyal subject to his gracious Sovereign (James I.); I. 47; II. 81.
Advocates' Library. See Edinburgh.
Æquatorium Campani, a Latin treatise called; I. 46.
Aeronaut, letters of an, 18th cent.; I. 127.
Africa:
travels, &c. of Capt. John Smith in, 1595–1629; II. 4.
account of "the petrified city" in; II. 146.
Agar, Thomas, to Viscount Hatton; I. 15.
Aghaboe fair; II. 260, 261.
Agincourt, battle of, contemp. letter touching the; II. 94.
Agilonby, William, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 15.
Agnew, Thomas, letters of; II. 188.
Aids, commissions to levy, temp. Hen. VI. et Edw. IV.; II. 94.
Ailesbury:
Lord, letter of, 1682; I. 15.
—— letters of, 18th cent.; I. 127.
and Elgin, Lord, letter of, 1735; I. 15.
Ainslie:
Miss, of Berwick-upon-Tweed, report on a MS. of; II. xii., 68.
Robert, letters of; II. 190 (bis).
Airlie:
Earl of, report on the MSS. of the, in preparation; I. 112.
—— his MSS. at Cortachy; II. xvii.
—— report on his papers at Cortachy Castle; II. 186.
—— letters of the, 1652–4; II. 191.
Earls of, papers of the; II. 187, 188.
Countess of, letter of the, 1654; II. 191.

Digitized by Google

Airth, Earl of, William, letter of, 1633; II. 184.
Aix, account of the present state of, by Wm. Mildmay, 1749; II. 3.
Aix-la-Chapelle, letters dated at; II. 189
Akdin, William, to Mr. Pulkin; I. 30.
Albani, Cardinal, letter of, 1764; II. 13.
Albany:
Countess of, Louise de Stolberg, letter of, 1793; II. 13
Duke of [John Stuart], writ signed by the, 148-; II. 191.
Albemarle:
Duke of (C. Monk), letter of, 1661; II. 79.
—— letters to, 1684; II. 23.
—— chancellor of the University of Cambridge, letters of, 1684-5; II. 114, 116.
Lord, letters of, 1709-14; II. 188.
—— letters of, 1718; II. 189.
Alberoni, Cardinal, letter of; II. 189.
Albert, Archduke, letters to the, 1608-9; II. 51.
Albumazar, a drama entitled, with notes [by Shakespeare?]; I. x.
Albuquerque, Duke of; I. 22.
Alchemical notes; I. 11.
Alchemy, books on, in the Advocates' Library; I. 125.
Alcock, Bishop, "The Abbey of the Holy Ghost" by; II. 106, 144, 145.
Alderby, prior of, accounts of the; I. 89.
Alderley (Cheshire), documents relating to; II. 81.
Aldershott, letters dated at, 1827; II. 185.
Aldred, Mr., letter to; II. 59.
Alehouse licenses; I. 30. See Public Houses.
Alehouses, a book touching; I. 31.
Alençon, Francis d', an English letter of, 1575; I. 60.
Ales and revels, orders at assizes for suppressing, 1633; I. 37.
Alexander the Great, Wars of (MS. 15th cent.); II. 106.
Alexander VI., Pope, account of; I. 33; Latin diary of proceedings in the time of; II. 44.
Alexander II., King of Scotland, charters of; I. 121; II. 166.
Alexander III., King of Scotland, charters of; I. 121; II. 166.
—— an inquisition after the death of, concerning lands in England; I. 125.
Alexander:
Anthony, letter of; II. 185.
Bishop, letter of; I. 204.
—— letters to; I. 33.
Robert, letter of; II. 24.
Sir William, letters of; I. 116.
—— See Stirling, Earl of.
Alexandri Magni, Vita; II. 46. See Alexander the Great.
Alexandrine MS., the (Bodleian Library); II. 253, note.
Alexandrini Patriarchæ, S. Johannis Eleemosynarii, vita, auctore Leontio episcopo, etc.; II. 145.
Alfred, King:
his translation of Orosius; I. 60.
letter to, from the Archbishop of Rheims; II. 75.
Algiers, narrative of a captivity in, 1622; I. 61.
—— See Dey.
Alienation:
licenses of; I. 33, 34.
pardons of; I. 33, 34.
Alienations, Office of Compositions for, [treatise] by Lord Bacon on the; II. 2.
Allan, David ("the Scottish Hogarth"):
letters of; II. 24.
letters touching; II. 25, 26.
Allegiance, oaths of; I. 15, 21, 103.
Allein, Francis, letters of; II. 185.
Allen:
Cardinal, commentary on his letter in defence of Sir W. Stanley's betrayal of Deventer; I. 61.
Dr., letter to, 1577; II. 41.
J., to Viscount Hatton; I. 15.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
W., letter to O. Cromwell, with his tract, "Killing no Murder;" II. 87.
Allestre, Richard, to Lord Hatton; I. 15.
Allibond, Sir Peter, letters to; I. 61.
Allured, see Alured.
Almack, Mr., of Melford, Suffolk, catalogue of the papers of; I. x.
Almack Collection, report on the; I. 55.
Almains, companies of, in service of Hen. VIII. and Edw. VI.; II. 96.
Almanack, an, 1723; I. 33.
Almanacks, a book of, 1734-61; II. 2.
Almoner, charters of lands belonging to an; I. 88.
—— accounts of an; I. 89.
—— fees due to a Bishop's; II. 89.
Alphabet, an Irish tract on the; II. 223.
Alphington vicarage, dioc. Exon., I. 91.
Altamont, Lord, letters of (18th cent.); I. 127.
Althan, Ro., to Lord Hatton; I. 15.
Althen, Count d', letter of; II. 217.
Althorp, Lord, letters relating to, 1768 sq.; II. 13.
Alum Commissioners, letter touching the, 1620; II. 58.
Alured (or Allured), Thomas, his letter to the Marquis of Buckingham against the Spanish match; I. 48, 54; II. 79, 86.
Alva, Duke of, letters from the nobility of Scotland to the, 1568; II. 183.
Ambassadors:
A view of the privileges of, by Sir R. Cotton; I. 42.
Relation of the proceedings against ambassadors that exceed their commission, by Sir R. Cotton; II. 44, 90.
accounts of, temp. Car. II.; II. 83.
and foreign ministers, list of presents to, from Chas. II. to George II.; II. 83.
credentials to, temp. Ann.; II. 79.
audiences of, papers touching, 18th cent.; II. 83.
British, at foreign courts, correspondence of, 1768-72; II. 26; 1782-9, II. 30 1783, I. 13.
America:
travels, &c. of Capt. John Smith in, 1593-1629; II. 4.
a proposal for supplying provisions in (no date); I. 28.
letters touching the discontents in, 1765; II. 12.
copy of Lord Chatham's plan for settling, 1775; II. 28.
papers relating to affairs in, 1778; II. 192.
documents connected with; II. 216.
North, letter to the commander of H.M. forces in, 1783; II. 20.
North-west continent of, observations on Great Britain's right to the, &c. (1748?); II. 3.
American: affairs, letters on, 1766; II. 30.
(North) colonies, papers relating to the, 1764-5; II. 2.
Rebellion, Gibbon's letter on the; I. 41.
—— letters and papers touching the; II. 12, 13, 24, 28, 29, 30, 48.
Amiens, Bishop of, Louis Fr. Gabriel, letter of; II. 147.
Amity, bonds of (Scotch); II. 178. See Friendship, bonds of.
Ampibirion, sive de Jovis et Alcmenæ amoribus (MS. 14th cent.); II. 81.
Ampleforth, St. Lawrence's College:
MSS. in the library of; II. xiii.
report on MSS. in the library of; II. 109.
Amsterdam, letters dated at, 18th cent.; I. 19, 40, 41; II. 21, 189.
Anabaptistas, Contra (a paper in Latin); II. 154.
Anatomy, grant by Queen Elizabeth of two bodies for the study of; II. 118.
Anchorage, a roll touching; I. 31.
Ancrum, Earl of, Robert (1st Earl), letters to the; I. 116.
See Ker, Sir Robert.
Anderson, James (compiler of Diplomata Scotiæ), papers of; I. 125.
Andover, charter to the men of; I. 71.
Andover, Lord, speech of, in Parliament, 1640; I. 63.
Andre, John, Major, letter of; II. 24.
Andrews, John, his Commentary on the Constitutions of Clement V.; II. 81.
Andrew (St.), Martine's Reliquiæ divi Andreæ; II. 186.
Andrews:
Francis, Provost of Dublin University, letter of; II. 2.
Miles Peter, his relation of the appearance to him of Lord Lyttelton's ghost; II. 37.
Andros:
A. (?), to Lord Hatton; I. 15.
C., et al., to Lord Hatton; I. 15.
E., to Lord Hatton; I. 15.
J. (?), to Lord Hatton; I. 15.
Thos., to Lord Hatton; I. 15.
Angell, Nich., letter to; I. 30.
Angers, expenses of students at, 17th cent.; I. 116.
Angevilliers, M. d', letters to; II. 32.
Anglesey:
Earl of, Lord Privy Seal, temp. Car. II.; II. 213.
—— his treatise concerning Parliaments, II. 7.
Lord, letters of [beg. of 18th cent.]; I. xiii.; II. 232.
—— the party of, 1714; II. 234.
Angleterre, Les Annales d' (from Brutus to Q. Eliz.); I. 124.
Anglo-Norman Instruments, in the Hatton Collection; I. 14.
Anglo-Saxon charters, in the Hatton Collection; I. viii., 14.
—— in Westminster Abbey, I. 95. See Saxon.
Anglo-Saxon glosses; I. 14.
Anglo-Saxon Homilies, 10th cent.; I. 14; about to be printed by the Early English Text Society; II. ix.
Anglo-Saxon times, a will and charters of the (at Peniarth); II. 109.
Anglo-Saxon volume, a, (King Alfred's translation of Orosius); I. 60.
Anglo-Saxon and Anglo-Norman Princes and Kings, genealogies of; II. 42.
Anglorum Gestis, excerpta ex, (MS. 12th cent.); II. 145.
—— liber de miraculis; ib.
—— de viris illustribus; ib.
Angus:
Countess of, contract by the, 1375; II. 206.
—— Jane Wemyss, account of expenses of; II. 178.
Earl of, letter of the, 1598; I. 55.
—— William, letter of, 1633; II. 184.
—— Archibald, letters of, 1643-1651; II. 197, 198.
—— letter of the, (? date); II. 183.
and Morton, Earls of, lives of the; I. 114. house and family of, Hume of Godscroft's History of the; I. 114.

Digitized by Google

Angus—cont.
shire of, gentlemen of the; II. 188.
Anjou, Duke of:
copy of treaty of marriage with Q. Elizabeth; II. 39.
a volume of documents touching his proposed marriage with Queen Elizabeth; II. 86.
Anley, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 15.
Annals, Latin, in Rothe's Register of Kilkenny; II. 258.
Annandale, Earl of:
letters of the; 1640, sq.; II. 9.
James, letters of, 1626–42; II. 184.
Anne:
Princess (afterwards Queen), guarded by 3,000 horse and 800 foot, 1685; I. 24.
—— letters touching her flight, 1688; II. 11, 16.
—— at Tunbridge (1690?); I. 22.
—— her marriage to Prince George; I. 44.
Queen; I. 13, 19, 20.
—— at Bath, 1702; I. 22.
—— letters of; II. 99, 188, 217.
—— autograph letters of; I. 20.
—— letters to; I. 18, 49, 79.
—— letters on the accession of; II. 233, 242.
—— memorial to; I. 33.
—— petition to, 1702; I. 23.
—— speech to, at her coronation; I. 62.
—— account of the death of; II. 79.
Anne de Bretagne, Queen of France, Book of Hours of; II. 202.
Anne of Cleves:
letter from, to Princess Mary; I. 151.
a paper relating to the funeral of, 1558; I. 96.
Anne of Denmark, Queen of James I.; I. 55, 107.
jewel book of; I. 124.
her letter in behalf of Sir W. Raleigh; II. 8.
letter of; II. 37.
privy seal warrants by; II. 79.
account of the funeral of (a roll); II. 86.
Annesley, Francis, one of the Commissioners for Irish Forfeitures, letters of; II. 232, 233, 234, 244 (bis).
Sir Francis, letter of; II. 61.
Annesley and Sherlock, case of; 234.
Anson, Lord (of the Admiralty), letters of; I. 41.
Anspach, Margrave of, letter of the, 1620; II. 57.
Antichrist, the Mystery of (13th cent.); II. 106.
Antigua, clergymen for; II. 235.
Antiphoner, an (13th cent.); I. 43.
Antiphoners, account of (15th cent.); II. 208.
Antiquitie of Gentry, Nobleness, and Coat Armour, The, (an heraldic MS.) 1676; I. 53.
Antoninus, annotations to the Itinerary of; I. 32.
Antonio, Don (styled "king"):
a follower of, arrested as a Spanish spy; I. 60.
draft of Queen Elizabeth's passport for; II. 45.
accounts of expenses for; ib.
Antrim, Marquis of, Reginald, bond by, 1647; II. 226.
Antrobus:
J. C., Esq., of Eaton Hall, Cheshire, MSS. of; II. xi.
—— report on his MSS.; II. 69.
the Rev. Mr.; II. 235.
Antwerp:
English soldiers in, 1583; II. 73.
instructions by Q. Elizabeth touching money borrowed at; II. 95.
deed of security for money lent by a merchant of, to Sir T. Gresham, agent for Q. Elizabeth; II. 104.
religious house at; II. 195.
letters from, 1550; II. 40.
letters dated at, 18th cent.; II. 29, 234.
Anwill, Rob., letter to; II. 87.
Aphorisms, books of; I. 82, 83.
a book of, by R. Dallington, 1609; I. 33.
Apothecaries' accounts, 1667–76; II. 191.
Apothecary, appointment of an, by Anne, Queen of James I.; II. 79.
Apparel, inventories of, 16th and 17th cent.; II. 101, 192, 187. See Dress.
Appleby, documents relating to; II. 125.
Appollonio, Guilelmus, letter of, relating to ecclesiastical affairs; I. 13.
Apprenticeship indentures, books of enrolment of, at Cork; I. 129; at Norwich; I. 103; at York; I. 108, 110.
entries of, at Abingdon; I. 98.
Appropriation of two churches (Carlisle Cathedral MSS.); II. 126.
Appropriations of churches and assignations of vicarages, register of, at Norwich; I. 86.
Appropriations of northern churches to monasteries, a volume on the; I. 97.
Ap William, Thomas, a Latin and Welsh dictionary by; II. 106.
William, letter of; II. 86.
Aqua-vita (Waterton?), Nicholaus de, sermon by; I. 60.
Arabian writers, MSS. of the; I. 77.
Arbitration, awards of, at York; I. 108. See Awards.
Arbor of Battailes, a French treatise, translated by Roger Fremys; I. 14.
Arbroath, abbey of; I. 113.
Abbot of; II. 184.
—— Chancellor of Scotland, warrant to the; II. 166.
abbots of, commissions by the; II. 187.
bailies of the regality of; II. 187.
regality court of; II. 187.
Arbuthnot, R., letters of; II. 189.
Archbishop, order of attendants and services appertaining to an; II. 81.
Archdeacon, Daniel, letter of; II. 184.
James, of Kilkenny, papers touching; II. 226.
John, alderman of Kilkenny, letters to; II. 226, 227.
Archer, John, his History of the Earls and Barons of England; I. 45.
Archery butts; II. 149, 150.
keepers of the, at Wells, temp. Hen. VI.; I. 106.
Arches, Court of, commissions of appeal in the; I. 34.
Archiatton (Scotland), priory of, rental of the; II. 197.
Argyll, the Episcopal See of; I. 113.
Countess of, letter of the, 1685; I. 116.
Earl of, papers relating to his burning the castle of Airlie; II. 187.
—— letters of the, 1568; II. 183.
—— Archibald (7th), letters of, 1620–6; II. 184.
—— —— (8th), letters of (1627–56); II. 184.
—— letter of the, 1640; II. 178.
Marquis of, letters of the, temp. Car. I.; I. 116.
—— letters to the, 1646; II. 176.
—— (temp. Car. II.); II. 213, 214.
—— Archibald, his daughter Jane, wife of the Marquis of Lothian; I. 116.
Duke of, letter of the, 1704; I. 116.
—— John, letters of the, 1715; II. 26, 184; 1716; II. 178 (bis).
—— letters of the, 1736; II. 27.
—— —— 1742 sq.; II. 191.
—— —— 1745–6; II. 179.
—— the "Claim of Rights" brought into the Scottish Parliament by the, 1703; I. 15.
Argyll and Greenwich, Duke of, letter of the, circ. 1730; II. 24.
Argyllshire, names of soldiers going from, to France, 1627; II. 185.
Arianism, 18th cent.; II. 235.
Aristotelis, Liber Politicorum (MS. 14th cent.); II. 208.
Aristotle's Rhetorikes, the second booke of; II. 4.
Arithmetic, a book of, mentioned in an inventory, 16th cent.; II. 102.
Arlidg, Abraham, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 15.
Arlington, Earl of; I. 17.
letter of the, 1665; I. 54.
signature of the, 1666; I. 88.
Henry Bennet, letter of, 1672; I. 55.
letters of the, 1674–9; I. 56.
letters of the (? date); II. 19.
Armada, the Spanish; II. 178.
letter of one who was with; II. 45.
papers relating to preparations for; II. 46.
Armagh, Archbishop of:
Reynard, indulgence by, 1248; I. 96.
petition by the (and others), 1679; II. 10.
Michael, Lord Justice of Ireland, instructions to, 1685; II. 216; letters to; 217. See Boyle, Michael.
Narcissus (Marsh), letter of, 1703; I. 15. See also Marsh, Narcissus.
Armour:
16th cent.; II. 150.
return of, 1603; II. 31.
note of, rated on the clergy, 1612; II. 86.
agreement respecting, 1634; II. 48.
a list of, 1642; II. 48.
private, note of, 1640; II. 47.
—— list of, 1644; II. 48.
Armourers' bills, 1644; II. 48.
Arms:
a grant of, 1504; II. 13.
—— 4 Hen. VIII.; I. 33.
—— 1682; I. 127.
books of; I. 31.
MS. book of; II. 3.
drawings of, in colours; I. 48, 49.
plates of, coloured; I. 31.
roll of, 16th cent.; II. 6.
in early deeds; II. 69.
of Chancellors of the University of Cambridge; I. 13.
of Kings and nobles; I. 114. of Kings of England; I. 33. of Welsh princes; I. 49.
of Cumberland and Westmoreland families, with a catalogue of the Books and Collections thereof; II. 125. See Heraldic MSS.
Armstrong:
Archibald, "plesant" to James I.; I. 122.
—— letter of; II. 19.
Mr., letters of; II. 189.

Digitized by Google

Army :
the, temp. Car. I. et II. ; I. 51.
the English, letter from, to the Earl of Northumberland [temp. Car. I. ?] ; I. 63.
the, assessments for, 1651–3 ; I. 54.
letters relating to the, temp. Car. II. ; II. 36.
letters and papers touching the, 18th cent. ; I. 54 ; II. 24, 25.
documents relating to the, temp. Geo. II. ; II. 190, 191.
an Act to reduce the ; I. 23.
accounts, 1706–10 ; I. 54 (bis). affairs, 1689–1704 ; I. 22.
contracts ; I. 44.
taxes (receipts for), levied on college property in time of the Commonwealth ; I. 77.
Arnold, Thos., to Lord Hatton ; I. 15.
Arnot, David, letter of ; II. 184.
Arnott, Mungo, letter of ; II. 185.
Arran, Earl of, "James G.," letter of ; II. 183.
Array :
commissioners of, in King's County, their rules and orders, 1672 ; I. 127.
commissions of, for all counties, by Dugdale ; I. 31.
Art, English, as exhibited in a Psalter of 12th cent. ; I. 11.
Arthur, King, collections about ; II. 195.
Arthur, Prince, Duke of Britanny, letter of Richard I. touching the proposed marriage of, to the daughter of the King of Sicily ; II. 85.
Arthur, Prince, son of Henry VII. :
a writ by [as Earl of Chester] ; I. 46.
marriage of, 1501 ; I. 72.
description of his visit to Coventry, 14 Hen. VII. ; I. 100.
letters of ; I. 100.
and Princess Catharine, his wife, letters and papers of the Council for managing their affairs ; II. 72.
Articles, the Forty-two, of Religion (a Latin copy) ; I. 86.
Artists, contracts with (17th cent.) ; II. 183.
Arundel :
Countess of, Lady Anu Daere, extracts from writings and a martyrology belonging to ; II. 4.
Earl of, Richard, computus of the bailiffs of, 13 Ric. II. ; II. 24.
—— William, letters of, 1 & 2 Ric. III. ; II. 91 ; writ to him ; ib.
—— Philip, arraignment of, 1589 ; I. 47 (bis).
—— Philip, a collection touching the attainder of ; II. 42.
—— Lieut. of co. Sussex, instructions to the [temp. Eliz.?] ; II. 96.
Arundel and Surrey, Thomas Lord, letter of, 1633 ; I. 67.
Arundell of Wardour, Lord :
MSS. of ; II. xii.
report on the MSS. of ; II. 33.
MSS. given by, to Stonyhurst College ; II. 144, 145, 146.
letter of, 1617 ; II. 53.
Arundell, family of, documents relating to the, with their correspondence ; II. 34.
John, to Lord Hatton ; I. 15.
John, letters of ; I. 50.
Thomas, suit by the Crown against ; I. 51.
Wm., poems by, about 1650 ; II. 106.
Asgill :
Captain, captured by the Americans, letter touching ; II. 20.
—— letters from and to, ib.
Lady, letter of [1783] ; I. 20.
Ashburnham :
Lord, to Lord Hatton, 1699 ; I. 15.
John, letter of ; I. 51.
Ashe, St. George, Bishop of Cloyne, &c., letters of ; II. 232.
Ashley, [Lord], letters of, 1661–2 ; I. 47, 55.
Ashmole, Mr., his collection of curiosities destroyed by a fire in the Temple ; I. 44.
Ashmolean MSS., extracts from the ; II. 37.
Asia, travels, &c. of Capt. John Smith in, 1593–1629 ; II. 4.
Aspilogiæ libri tres, (a paper so headed,) I. 31.
Assaium Argenti (extract from the roll of the Exchequer, 3 Eliz.) ; II. 81.
Assart rents and lands, accounts of ; I. 30.
Assassination, a letter against ; I. 42.
Assembly, the General, of the Scotch Church ; I. 26.
letter touching, 1647 ; II. 31.
letters relating to the business of (1663–1709) ; I. 116.
volumes of proceedings of, 1690–1725 ; II. 201.
registers of, 1712–17 ; II. 201. register of, 1726–36 ; II. 206.
at Glasgow, letters to ; I. 113.
Assessments :
Commissioners' inquiry for moneys received for, since 1642, (dated 1662) ; I. 47.
particulars of, in Ireland, 1672–79 ; I. 127.
Assignations, among the Marquis of Lothian's records ; I. 116.
Assignment, an, 1818 ; I. 33.
Assize roll, an, 1 Hen. V. ; I. 11.
Assize of bread :
six books relating to the, at Cambridge, 1596–1836 ; I. 73.
the, at Waterford ; I. 131.
Assurance :
the office of, in London, 1634, papers relating to ; I. 34.
papers on, 16th cent. ; II. 40.
Astier, ——, letters of ; I. 124.
Aston :
Lords, memoirs relating to, 17th cent. ; II. 147.
Herbert, letter to ; I. 61.
Sir Walter, ambassador in Spain, memorial by ; I. 15.
—— letter of ; II. 59.
Astrological notes, 15th cent. ; II. 84.
treatises, Gaelic ; I. 126.
Astrolop, The descrypcion and knowlege of the (a volume so entitled) ; II. 65.
Astronomical treatise, a Latin, 17th cent. ; I. 46.
Astronomicæ, Tabulæ (16th cent.) ; II. 109.
Astronomy, letter touching a discovery in, 1728 ; II. 116.
Atalantis, The (a work) ; I. 61.
Athenry, Lord, letters of ; II. 232.
Athlone :
camp at, letters dated at the, 1691 ; II. 217.
siege of ; II. 232, 236.
Athol :
Countess of, letter of the [1618 ?] ; II. 55.
Earl of, declaration of the, and others who took up arms for Chas. II., 1650 ; I. 128.
Marquis of, letters of, 1703 ; I. 15.
Duke of, his narrative of the discovery of Captain Fraser and his accomplices, 1704 ; I. 33.
—— letter concerning the, 1715 ; I. 117.
—— letters of the, 1742 sq. ; I. 121.
Atterbury :
Francis, Bishop of Rochester ; I. 51.
—— papers relating to, 1700–3 ; I. 52.
—— [his] paper against Burnet's articles ; I. 52.
—— intended prosecution of ; I. 52.
—— retractation by ; I. 52.
—— and others, letters touching the trials of, 1723 ; II. 26.
—— letters of ; I. 52 ; II. 64, 69, 28.
—— petition of, to the House of Lords, ib.
—— his letter to the Speaker of the House of Commons (copy) ; II. 79.
Lewis, to Lord Hatton ; I. 15.
Attorney, letter of, 15 Edw. 2 ; II. 93.
warrants of, in the Hatton Collection ; I. 34.
Attorney, the Office of an (a treatise) ; II. 90.
—— instructions for an, etc. ; II. 90.
Attorney's Academy, The, by Tho. Powell. 1630 ; II. 89.
—— Almanack, by same ; ib.
Aubespine, M. de L', letters of ; I. 124 ; II. 50.
Aubigny, M. d', Avis au roy de la Grande Bretagne par ; II. 44.
Audit Books, of Colleges ; I. 64, 72.
Audley :
Thomas Lord, of Walden, Chancellor ; I. 12.
Thomas, letter of ; II. 72.
Augmentations, Court of, the articles of its union to the Exchequer ; II. 20.
Augustine, St., on the Psalms and Homilies (Univ. Aberdeen) ; II. 200. works of, copy 14th cent., at St. Andrew's ; II. 208.
Augustini, S., Floriger sententiarum ex operibus (15th cent.) ; II. 201.
Augustinus, S., de Spiritu et Anima ; II. 143.
Aulnage, entries of, at Norwich, 1580–1610 ; I. 103.
Aungier, Dr., proposed publication of his MSS. at Oxford ; II. 234 (bis), 235, 254.
Francis, letters of ; I. 15 ; II. 211.
Aversberg, Count d', letter from ; I. 25.
Avignon :
Papal court at, expenses of a journey to the, 14th cent. ; II. 140.
list of the King's (Pretender) subjects at, 1716 ; I. 117.
letter from an antiquary of [18th cent.] ; II. 132.
Avon, river ; II. 153.
Awards, copies of ; I. 46. See Arbitration.
Aylesbury :
Lord. See Ailesbury.
Tho., letters signed, 1642 ; II. 197.
Ayloffe :
Guicciardini, to Christopher Hatton ; I. 15.
Sir William, letter of ; II. 58.
Aynhford, J., letter of ; I. 15.

B.

Baber, Wm., of Lincoln's Inn, letters of ; I. 52.
Babington :
persons of the name of ; I. 105.
Anthony, letters between Mary Queen of Scots and ; II. 41.
—— his attempt against the life of Queen Elizabeth ; II. 154.
—— arraignment of, 1586 ; I. 31.
—— execution of ; II. 41.
Sir John, charter of ; I. 106.

Digitized by Google

Bacon :
Anthony, to the Earl of Essex ; I. 47.
—— letter to ; II. 51.
Sir Anthony, an apology of the Earl of Essex dedicated to ; II. 8.
Mr. F., to Lord H. H. ; I. 47.
Francis, Viscount St. Alban's, Lord Chancellor, On the Use of the Law ; I. 31.
—— a book of Selden's dedicated to ; I. 32.
—— commissioner touching the Gunpowder plot ; I. 58.
—— his "Character of a King" ; I. 62.
—— his opinion touching Yelverton ; II. 56.
—— autograph of ; I. 57.
—— copies of his Letters of State ; II. 2.
—— a treatise by ; ib.
—— charges and speeches by ; ib.
—— early copies of three of his Essays ; I. 58.
—— letters of ; I. 57 ; II. 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 60, 61, 62, 122.
—— letters to ; II. 57, 58, 59, 61.
—— ordinances by, touching the Chancery ; I. 31, 63.
—— petition against ; I. 57.
—— secretary of, T. Meautys ; I. 58.
—— speeches of ; I. 31, 62.
—— his submission and supplication to the House of Lords, 1621 ; I. 62. See Keeper, Lord.
Lady, letter to, from Archbishop Parker, touching Lord Bacon ; II. 154.
Sir Nicholas ; I. 65.
Thomas, Master of Gonville Hall, Camb. ; II. 118.
Baden, Margrave of ; II. 71.
Badger, Bryan, committed for heretical opinions, 1621 ; I. 69.
Badges. See Liveries.
Baggs, Zachary ; II. 70.
Baginton Hall, Warwick, report on Mr. Bromley-Davenport's MSS. at ; II. 78.
Bagnio, proposals for building a, at Cambridge ; II. 122.
Bagot, Sir Charles, despatches of ; II. 2.
Bagshaw, Dr. : paper by ; II. 134 ; letter to ; ib.
Bail Book, a, 1661–83, at Coventry ; I. 101.
Bailiff's Court, amercements in a, 1344 ; I. 103.
Bailiffs' accounts :
at Belvoir Castle ; I. 10.
at Bridgwater ; I. 99.
at Pembroke College, Cambridge ; I. 70.
at Norwich ; I. 100.
Baillie, David, letters of ; II. 190 (bis).
Baillieul, Rachel, to Lord [Hatton] ; I. 15.
Baird, Mr., letters of ; II. 179.
Baker :
W. R., Esquire, of Bayfordbury, Herts, MSS. of ; II. xi.
—— report on his MSS. ; II. 69.
Austin, Father, treatises by ; II. 109, 110.
S., to "my Lady Cisly" ; I. 16.
Wm., letter to ; II. 72.
Bakers, regulations for ; II. 28.
Balcarres :
Earls of, charters of the ; II. 181.
Lord, letters of, temp. Car. I. ; I. 116.
—— papers of, temp. Car. I. et II. ; I. 124.
—— See Crawford and Balcarres, Earl of.
Balcarres Papers, The, in the Advocates' Library ; I. 124.
Baldwin, Father, the Jesuit ; I. 61.
Baldwini, Francisci, consilia pro Regina Angliæ ; II. 44.
Bale, Bishop ; II. 156.
Balfour, Sir James, collections of ; I. 123, 124, 125.
—— keeper of Edinburgh Castle ; II. 183.
Balfoure's Practiques ; II. 186.
Balfour's Account of the Scottish Peerage ; II. 200.
Ball, Wm., of Queen's College, Oxon. ; II. 138.
Ballard, —, execution of [temp. Eliz.] ; II. 41.
Ballard, Margaret, to Lord Hatton ; I. 15.
Balliol :
John de, estates lately belonging to, 1331 ; I. 70.
—— letters of ; II. 5.
—— names of arbitrators chosen by ; ib.
—— fealty, &c. done by ; ib.
Peter, of Guernsey ; I. 22.
Ballymore, siege of ; II. 239, 287.
Balmerinach, Registrum Chartarum de ; II. 186.
Balmerino, Lord :
letters of [temp. Car. I.?] ; 116.
letters to, 1646 ; II. 178.
letters of (beg. of 18th cent.) ; I. 118 ; II. 204.
Baltemore, Lord, to Lord Hatton, 1671–3 ; I. 16.
Banekes, John, "The Seaman's A B C" by ; II. 4.
Bancroft, Richard, Archbishop of Canterbury, letter of ; II. 122.
Banff, community of, letter of the ; II. 205.
Bangor, Bishop of :
letter to the, 1615 ; II. 87.
his answer to Dr. Snape, 1717 ; II. 234. See Hooper, John.
Bangorists, the ; II. 235.
Bankrupt, commissions of ; I. 34.
Banks, Sir John, Attorney General ; I. 51. See Banekes.
Bar, Duke of, Henry of Lorraine, letter of ; II. 51.
Barbadoes :
governor of, 1721 ; II. 26.
Island of, trees and plants in ; I. 33.
Barbaro, Daniel, his "Relazione d'Inghilterra" ; II. 45.
Barber, Sir Wm., lease by ; II. 72.
Barberini, Cardinal :
instructions by, 1644 ; I. 16.
Francis, letter of ; II. 157.
Barbour, Richard, to Lord Hatton ; I. 16.
Barclay of Brechin, family of, register of the, by II. Maule ; I. 119.
Barducci, Cavalier, his account of movements in Ireland, 1578, sq. ; II. 44.
Baretti, Joseph, letters of ; I. 127.
Barillon, M., French Ambassador at London, letter to ; II. 79.
Barker, Pentecost, letters of ; I. 61.
Barlow :
Dr. ; I. 23.
Rosend, treatise by ; II. 109.
Barlowe, Mrs., letter touching Charles II.'s marriage with ; II. 19.
Barnet, Dr., letters of ; II. 15.
Barnstaple, M.P. for, 1609 ; I. 62.
Barnwell, Robert, execution of [temp. Eliz.] ; II. 41.
Barodal (?), M. de, letter of ; II. 63.
Baron Courts, Scotch, records and registers of ; II. 196, 197, 199.
Baronage : of England ; I. 31 (bis).
—— a book of precedents concerning the rights of the ; II. 6.
a, "in pedigrees" ; II. 45.
Baronagium Angliæ (MS. 16th cent.) ; II. 7.
Baronetcies, warrants for patents of ; I. 34.
Baronets, letters touching the creation of, temp. Jac. I. et Car. I. ; II. 42.
Baronets and knights, fees payable by ; II. 83.
Baronianum, Libellum ; II. 151.
Barony, notes to illustrate tenure by ; II. 44.
Barres, John, report of, touching an unknown country ; II. 45.
Barrett, Sir Edward, letters of ; II. 58, 62.
Barrey, —, letter in French by ; II. 79.
Barry, Arthur, letter of ; II. 68.
Barrymore, Lord :
letters to, 1735–9 ; II. 68.
letters of, 1732–46 ; ib.
Bas. See Le Bas.
Bassett, letters touching the game of, II. 32.
Bassompierre, M. de, letter of ; II. 61.
Bateman, Bishop, letter concerning ; II. 122.
Bath : corporation of, licence to the ; I. 57.
Queen Anne of Denmark's visit to, 1613 ; I. 107.
letters dated at, 18th cent. ; I. 53.
Bath, Earl of :
letters of the, 1624 ; II. 61. 1667 ; I. 51. 1676–86 ; I. 56. 1685 ; II. 23. 1688 ; II. 10. 1689 ; I. 52. (mid. 18th cent.) ; II. 38.
copies of Council letters by the, 1690 ; I. 52.
Bath and Wells, Bishop of :
Robert, letter of, 1292 ; II. 5.
letters of the [temp. Hen. VI.?] ; I. 95.
—— 1637 ; II. 48.
his pretensions to the precentorship in Exeter Cathedral [1702] ; I. 21.
See Ken, Thomas ; King, Oliver.
Bath, Knights of the ; II. 81.
Order of the, a long account of the ; I. 32.
Baths :
the, visit to (1703) ; II. 70.
in England, licence to a Scotchman to visit the, 1570 ; II. 196.
Bathurst, Moses, to Lord Hatton ; I. 16.
Bautru, M. de, letter of ; II. 63.
Baxter, Richard, the Nonconformist, letters of ; I. 100.
Bayfordbury, Herts, report on Mr. Baker's MSS. at ; II. 69.
Bayly, J. W., Esq., of Finglas :
documents in possession of ; I. xii.
report on documents in the possession of ; I. 128.
Baynes, J., to Lord Hatton ; I. 16.
Bayton, Leonard, letter of ; II. 226.
Beach, Sir H., letter of ; II. 11.
Beachy Head, accounts of a [naval] engagement near, 1690 ; II. 8.
Beacon, Sibyl, letter of ; I. 67.
Beacons, instructions touching, temp. Eliz. ; II. 96.
Beale :
Bartholomew, letter of ; I. 16.
Dr., complaint of the fellows of Pembroke Hall [Cambridge] against ; I. 32.
Robert, collections, notes, and compositions by ; II. 40 sq.
—— conferences of ; II. 41.
—— letters from and to ; II. 41, 42, 43, 44, 45.
—— instructions to ; II. 43, 44, 97.
—— negotiations of ; II. 45.
Bearward, Queen Elizabeth's ; II. 150 (bis).

Digitized by Google

Beaton, James, Archbishop of Glasgow: letters from Mary Queen of Scots to; I. 120.
a rental book of; I. 121.
will of; I. 121.
a panegyrical oration on his elevation to the cardinalate; II. 207.
letters of; II. 209. See Beton.

Beauchamp:
Joan de, release by, 1434; I. 50.
Viscount, Edw. Seymour, his patent; I. 32.

Beauclerk, Topham, letters of; I. 127.

Beaufort:
Duke of, Henry first, account of his progress through Wales, 1604; I. 54.
—— prisoner in Turkey, 1669; II. 21.
—— letter of the, 1685; II. 88.
Duke and Duchess of, letters about their divorce (circ. 1749); II. 81.
Cardinal, Bishop of Winchester, member of St. Peter's College, Cambridge; I. 77, 78.
Henry [afterwards Cardinal], at Queen's College, Oxford, 1391; II. 141.
—— Cardinal, obit of; II. 131, 132, 144.

Beaulieu, M. de, letters of; II. 62, 63.

Beauly (Scotland), House of, register of the; I. 111.

Beaumont:
Captain; I. 17.
family of, papers relating to the; I. 50.

Beauvoir:
Anne de, to Lord Hatton; I. 16.
C.D., to Lord Hatton; I. 16.
Daniel de, to Lord Kirby [Hatton]; I. 16.
G. de, et al., to Lord Hatton; I. 16.
James de, to Richard Beauvoir; I. 16.
—— letters from, to Viscount Hatton; I. 16.
Jeanne, to Lord Hatton; I. 16.
Peter de, letters of, to Lord and Christopher Hatton; I. 16.
Richard de, letters of, to Viscount and Christopher Hatton; I. 16.
Richard, letter to; I. 16.
W. de, letters of, to Lord Hatton, et al.; I. 16.

Beauvoir la Noile, M. de, letters of; II. 50.

Bec (in Normandy), monastery of, documents relating to its possessions in England; I. 68, 69.

Beckford, Wm. (at Fonthill), letters of; II. 25.

Beckington (or Bekyntone), Thomas, at New College, Oxon; II. 134.
Bishop of Bath and Wells; I. 107.
—— letters of; II. 66.
—— obit of; II. 131.
—— his executors; II. 131, 135.

Beda, Ven., de Naturis Rerum; II. 145.

Beda's Ecclesiastical History (MS. 12th cent.); II. 104.

Bedæ, Ven., Epilogium de obitu; II. 144.
Expositio super Tobiam; II. 145.

Bede Rolls; I. 64.

Bedell, Bishop, Life of; II. 233.

Bedford:
Countess of, letter of the, 1591; II. 82.
Earl of, Francis, instructions to, in various offices, temp. Mar. et Eliz.; II. 95, 96.
—— a Latin poem to the [temp. Eliz. ?]; II. 66.
—— letter of the, 1617; II. 53.
Earls and Dukes of, documents connected with the; II. 1, 2.

Bedford, Duke of:
his collection at Woburn Abbey; I. ix.
sends an inventory of his MSS. at Woburn Abbey; II. ix.
inventory of his MSS. at Woburn Abbey; II. 1–4.

Bedfordshire, account of riots in, 1757; II. 91.

Bedingfield, Mary, prioress of Nazareth, petition of, 1798; II. 89.

Beech, Thomas, letter of; II. 121.

Behn, Aphra (authoress), letters of; II. 70.

Beisly, Capt. William; II. 217.

Bekyntone. See Beckington.

Beleth, Johannes:
de Ecclesiæ Officiis; II. 144.
Summa de ecclesiastici's historiis, &c.; II. 143.

Belgici," "Summarium facultatum Nuncii; I. 16.

Belgium, foundation of an English convent in, 1660; II. 147.

Belhaven, Lord; I. 16.

Bell, the big, at Westminster Abbey, account of a mob on its removal to St. Paul's; I. 43. expenses for a, 16th cent.; II. 130. See Bells.

Bell:
Alexander, letters to; I. 44.
Richard, his "History of the Borders;" II. 123.

Bella Landa, liber S. Mariæ de; I. 45.

Bellarmin's Notes of the Church; I. 22.

Bellasyse, Lord:
Governor of Tangier, &c., instructions to, 17 Car. II.; I. 54.
letters from and to, temp. Car. II.; I. 54.

Bellegarde, M. de, letters of; II. 61.

Bellendini, Gulielmi, Scoti Gelmerdeunensis, opuscula; II. 201.

Bellingham, Sir R., letters of; I. xiii.

Bellings:
Lady, correspondence of, 1664 sq.; II. 34.
Sir Richard, Comptroller of the Household to Queen Catharine, wife of Chas. II., accounts of; II. 34.
—— his correspondence; ib.

Bellomont, Lord, to Lord [Hatton ?], 1690; I. 16.

Bells:
consecration of (1400); II. 135.
expenses for, 14th cent.; II. 140.
(of Celtic Saints), hereditary keepers of, in Scotland; II. 127. See Bell.

Belvoir Castle:
the Duke of Rutland's collection at; I. x.
report on the Duke of Rutland's MSS. in; I. 10.

Belvoir Priory:
chartulary of; I. 11.
register of the lands and tithes of; I. 11.

Bely, M., to Lord Hatton; I. 16.

Benbow, Admiral; I. 27.
—— instructions to, 1702; I. 22.

Benedict, St., fragment of the Rules of; I. 94.

Benedictines, English:
narrative of the dissolution of the houses of, in France; II. 109. statutes of the; II. 110.

Benefices:
granted by the Lords of Commission, 1649–54; II. 79.
lists of, in London, Middlesex, and Essex; II. 89.
various estimates of all; ib.

Benn, Sir Anthony, Recorder of London, essays by; II. 8 (ter).

Bennet, St., Order of, MS. concerning the (A.D. 1707); II. 109.

Bennett:
Dr., letter of Hen. VIII. to; II. 42.
—— letters of; ib.
Henry (Secretary of State), letter of; II. 36.
Sir John, letter to; II. 37.

Bentham, Jeremy, of Queen's Coll., Oxon.; II. 138.

Bentinck, —, letter from, 1688; II. 14.

Bentivoglio, Cardinal, his "Relazione d'Inghilterra"; II. 45.

Bentley:
Dr.; II. 71.
Richard, assignment by; II. 70.

Benton, H., to Viscount Hatton; I. 16.

Berdmore, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 16.

Berengaudus, super Apocalypsim; II. 145.

Beresford:
Lady, letters of, II. 239.
Sir Marcus; II. 234 (bis).

Berew, Matthew, letters of; II. 72. See Berowe.

Bergenopsoom, Journal du siége de; II. 30.

Bering, Captain, a relation of his expedition to Kamtschatka; II. 216.

Berington, C. M., Esq., of Little Malvern Court:
MSS. of; II. xii.
report on the MSS. of; II. 72.

Berkeley:
(Lady) E., to Lady Hatton; I. 16.
Lord John, Lieutenant-General of Ireland, commission by, 1670; II. 211.
—— instructions to, 1670; II. 216.
—— instructions by; II. 216.
—— letters of, 1676–7; I. 56.
Lord, to Lord Hatton, 1683–7; I. 16.
—— orders to, 1688; II. 10.
—— letter of, 1688; II. 11.
family of, correspondence of the; II. 73.
Colonel, letter to; II. 11.
George (Bishop of Cloyne), letters of; II. 239, 234, 242.
F., to Mr. Hatton; I. 16.
J. [? Lord], to Lord Hatton; I. 16.
Sir Maurice, pardon to, 26 Hen. VIII.; I. 33.
Maurice, letter of [temp. Jac. I.]; I. 57.
William de, charter to; I. 11.

Berks, county of; II. 138, 139.
—— lands in; II. 73.

Berkshire, Earl of, to Mr. Chester, 1626; I. 16.

Berlin:
letters dated at, 17th cent.; I. 36, 37, 40.
—— 18th cent.; I. 42; II. 72, 190.

Bermingham, Lord; II. 211.

Bermondsey, priory of, extracts from a book of the; II. 45.

Bernard, St.:
epistles and treatises of; II. 145.
works of (Aberdeen University); II. 200.

Bernard, John:
to Chr. Hatton; I. 16.
Sam., to the Lord of Nottingham; I. 16.

Berne, letters dated at, 1716; II. 189.

Berners, Dame Juliana, Treatises of (a portion of the edition of St. Alban's, 1486); II. 80.

Bernewelle, prior of, licence by the; II. 118.

Berowe, Wm., of Bullocks Hall, Hants, letters of; II. 72. See Berew.

Berry, Sir John, letter to; II. 10; letter of; ib.

Bertie, Charles, letters of; I. 16, 56.
Peregrine, letters of; II. 82.

Bertrand, Jaques, letter of ; I. 124.
President, letter of , I. 124.
Bertye, Richard, husband to Catharine Duchess of Suffolk, his answer to the book of John Knox, 1558 ; II. 42.
Berwick-on-Tweed :
Commissioners at, papers of, temp. Mar. et Eliz. ; II. 123.
deeds relating to ; I. 12.
town and castle of, ancient statutes of the ; II. 98.
new orders for the town of, with other documents, 1560 ; ib.
one of the ordinary captains at [temp. Eliz. ?] ; II. 97 (bis).
Recorder of, speeches of the, to Chas. I. ; I. 62 (bis).
North, priory of, writs of the ; II. 186.
Berwick, Duke of :
letters of the ; I. 56. 1688 ; II. 10, 11.
papers relating to the, 1709-13 ; II. 32.
letters to the ; ib.
Besford, grant of tithes of corn in ; II. 72.
Besser, —, letter to ; I. 37.
Bestiary, a (Aberdeen University) ; II. 200.
Beton, Mary, a MS. supposed to have belonged to ; II. 202.
Betoun, Alex., Chamberlain of Dunferenline ; II. 184.
Betterton (the actor) ; II. 71.
Beverley :
Mayor, &c. of, letter of the : I. 109.
Alured of, his history, MS. 15th cent. ; II. 104.
Bevis, T. (?), to Lord —— ; I. 16.
Bewdley, borough of, letters relating to the ; I. 55.
Bible :
copies of the Latin (13th cent.) ; I. 42 ; II. 4.
several splendid MSS. of the ; I. 61.
description of a, 14th cent. ; I. 66.
a printed (mentioned in an inventory, 1540) ; I. 71.
MSS. of the, in the Advocates' Library ; I. 125.
fragments of a Latin, 12th cent. ; II. 34.
a comparison of the translations of the ; II. 78.
redemption of a (1354) ; II. 128.
the (English Bishops' version) ; II. 143.
Bible of English Poliey, the (a poem, 15th cent.) ; II. 7.
Bibles, right of the University of Oxford to print ; II. 71.
Biblia Sacra Latina, 13th cent. ; I. 45. 15th cent. ; II. 144.
Biggs, Dorothy, to Mr. Strethay ; I. 16.
Bilani, Father Vota de, letter of ; I. 37.
Bilboa, merchants at ; II. 78.
Bill, Charles, poems by, 16th cent. ; II. 85.
Billingsgate, customs at ; II. 69.
Bills :
at Belvoir Castle ; I. 11.
in the Hatton Collection ; I. 30.
17th cent. ; II. 47.
Binding, ancient, specimen of ; I. 70.
Bingley, Sir John ; II. 3.
Binham (Norfolk), registrum cartarum prioratus de (transcript) ; II. 186.
Binning, Lord, letter of, 1619 ; II. 55.
Binns, Lieut. ; I. 19.
Biographical collectanea ; II. 80.
Bird's (or Doddridge's) Magazine of Honour ; II. 44.
Birmingham, riot at (Hen. VI.) ; I. 50.
Birr Castle, Ireland :
narrative of sieges of, 1688 and 1690 ; I. 128.
papers connected with the surrenders of, 1642 and 1688 ; II. 217-223.
See Parsonstown.
Birse, barony of ; II. 180.
Births, registers of, at Aberdeen ; I. 122.
Bisham monastery, Berks, exemplification of a grant to ; II. 1.
Bishop, George, letter of ; II. 201.
Bishop, fees due at the consecration of a, &c. ; II. 89.
Bishoprics, a book relating to ; I. 32.
Bishops :
patents and congés d'élire for ; I. 34.
marriage of, letter of Lord Burleigh touching the ; II. 82.
valuation of the livings of, with their tenths ; II. 89.
a note of their order of precedency ; ib.
a "spiteful speech" of ; II. 155.
a poem against the [temp. Car. I. ?] ; I. 63.
the seven, imprisonment of, in the Tower, by James II. ; I. 22.
—— committal and acquittal of ; I. 44.
—— copy of the warrant for their imprisonment ; I. 59.
the, memorandum of Bishop Trelawny respecting their reported invitation to the Prince of Orange ; I. 52.
Bissett, Mr. ; I. 22.
Blacfan, John, letter of ; I. 57.
Blackburn, Dean, letters of ; I. 32 (bis).
Blackfriars, examination of witnesses touching some land at ; II. 63.
Blackhal (or Blakal), Gilbert, a priest of the Scotch mission, his "Narration of the services done to three noble ladies;" II. 189, 209.
Blackman, Dr. ; II. 69.
Blackwell :
Sir L., to George Stepney ; I. 39.
William, "the arch-priest," papers relative to ; II. 154, 156.
Blair, Dr., "Journals of Journeys in Italy" by, 1716-19 ; I. 117, 119.
Blair's College, MSS. in the library of ; II. xx. report on the MSS. in the library of ; II. 201.
Blaithwaite, Mr. ; I. 21.
Blaithwayte, Mr., letters to ; I. 13. See Blathwayt.
Blakal. See Blackhal.
Blake, Humfrey, father of Admiral Robert Blake ; I. 99.
Peter, letter of ; I. 50.
Blanc. See Le Blanc.
Bland, Nicholas, the King's poulterer, letter for arrest of, 1668 ; II. 92.
Blantyre, Lord, 1702 ; I. 16.
[Lord], letter of (? date) ; II. 189.
Blathwayt, ——, his correspondence with Geo. Stepney, 1695-8 ; I. 35, 36.
William, letters of ; I. 16. See Blaithwaite.
Blechynden, T., to Lord Hatton ; I. 16.
Blickling Hall, Norfolk, collection of the Marquis of Lothian at ; I. x.
report on the Marquis of Lothian's MSS. at ; I. 14.
Bligh, Lieut.-Gen., his "Review Returns," 1758 ; II. 4.
Blois, treaty of, 1572 (copy) ; I. 42.
Blood, Col., letters touching ; II. 10, 19.
Blount, —, to Lord Hatton ; I. 17.
Blue Boy's Hospital, the ; I. 15.
Blythe, Dr. Samuel, master of Clare Hall, Cambridge, &c., letters to and from ; II. 113, 114, 115.
Bobinet, Jean, and another, medical evidence by ; I. 17.
Boccaccio's "Fall of Princes," translation of, by Lydgate ; I. 11.
Boccasius on Illustrious Men and Eminent Women ; II. 131.
Bochetel, —, letters of ; I. 124.
Bodleian Library, pieces extracted from MSS. in the ; II. 37.
the Alexandrine MS. in the ; II. 253 (note).
Bodley, Mr., Councillor of State in the United Provinces, instructions to ; II. 104.
Bodvill, Elizabeth, letters to ; I. 26.
Boetie, Etienne de la, his tract "De la Servitude Volontaire ;" II. 42.
Boetius, Hector, a present by the town of Aberdeen to ; I. 122.
—— Deidonensis, de vitis episcoporum Aberdonensium ; II. 146.
—— excerpts from (touching St. Margaret) ; II. 146.
—— a MS. given by, to the College of Aberdeen ; II. 200.
—— de consolatione Philosophiæ ; ib.
Bohemia, a discourse concerning the Palsgrave's acceptance of the Crown of ; II. 43.
King of, Frederick, letters of, 1620 ; II. 57.
—— letter of, 1623 ; II. 62.
—— letter to, 1627 ; II. 63.
Prince of, a description of the late, 1629 ; I. 60.
Queen of, Elizabeth, letters of ; II. 58, 61, 62, 82, 89, 170, 171.
—— letters to ; II. 58, 82, 83.
—— papers touching ; II. 59, 83.
See Elizabeth ; and Palatine, Electress.
Bohemia and Moravia, protest by the nobles of, touching the burning of John Huss and Jerome of Prague ; I. xii., 121.
Bohun, Humphrey de, Earl of Hereford, &c., grant by ; I. 12.
Boilean, translations from, by Prior ; II. 71.
Bointon, of Airdook, letters of ; II. 26.
Boisloré, M. de, letter of ; II. 54.
Boleyn, Anne, Queen :
letter from, to Henry VIII. ; I. 54.
—— announcing the birth of a Princess [Elizabeth] ; I. 100.
Bolingbroke, —, I. 31.
Lord, flight and impeachment of, 1715 ; II. 234.
—— proceedings of Parliament on impeachment of, 1715 ; II. 235, 255.
—— letters of, 1714, &c. ; II. 12, 15, 84.
—— letters from and to [mid. 18th cent.] ; II. 38.
—— letter of, to Lord Winchelsea, 1744 ; I. 17.
Bologne, Godfrey of, a paper on his expedition to the Holy Land ; II. 42.
Bolton, Theophilus, Bishop of Elphin, letters of ; II. 232.
Bommare (?), J., to Lord Hatton ; I. 17.
Bonamy, Capt. J. ; I. 13.
John, to Lord Hatton ; I. 17.
P., to Lord Hatton ; I. 17.
Bonaparte (Napoleon), letters touching, 1797-8 ; II. 18, 29. See Napoleon I.
Bonaventura, St., the "Stimulus Amoris" by, translated by Walter Hilton ; II. 33.
Bonaventura, S., Dieta Salutis ; II. 145.
Bond, Dr., master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, letter to ; II, 122.
Bond of Union, the, between Charles I.'s loyal subjects in Scotland ; 175, 176.
Bondman, a document relating to a claim to a ; I. 109.
Bonda, in the Hatton collection ; I. 30, 34.
a register of, temp. Eliz. ; I. 110.
Bonœuil, M. de, letter of ; II. 62.
Bonhor, Honorius, Prior of Salom, his treatise, "The Arbor of Battailes," dedicated to Charles V. of France ; I. 14.
Bonion, Holcroft ; II. 113.
Bonnar, Ninian, of Keity, knight ; II. 168.

Digitized by Google

Bonnell, James, accountant-general of Ireland:
—— letters of; II. 232, 233.
—— letters relating to the death of, &c.; II. 233.
—— biographies of; ib.
Jane, letters of; II. 232.
Mrs., letters of; II. 233.
Bonner, Edmund, Bishop of London:
Sir T. Wiat's reply to the charges of; II. 40.
letters to; II. 42.
letters of; II. 49, 159, 153, 155.
"petigre" of; II. 153.
instructions of Stephen Gardiner to; II. 155 (bis).
Book-binding, expenses for, 15th cent.; II. 137.
Books:
in the Hatton collection (described); I. 30–34.
privilege for a London merchant to import; I. 34.
accounts relating to, 14th and 15th cent.; II. 118, 129, 131, 207.
account of (of Archbishop Langham); I. 96.
accounts of expenses for, 15th cent.; II. 91, 96.
—— 1699–1700; I. 118.
catalogue of, in King's College, Cambridge, temp. Henry VI.; I. 69.
—— 1643; II. 197.
indenture touching, 1483; I. 97.
inventories of, in the library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 14th and 15th cent.; I. 66.
—— 14th cent.; II. 110.
—— 15th cent.; II. 112, 131, 135.
—— in Queen's College, Cambridge, 1472; I. 72.
—— temp. Henry VII.; I. 76.
—— 1506; I. 67.
—— 16th cent.; II. 6, 7, 109, 122, 131, 135.
—— 17th cent.; II. 139.
—— 1747; II. 191.
lists and catalogues of; I. 30.
legacy of, 14th cent.; II. 140.
payments for writing, illuminating, and binding, 14th cent.; II. 129.
plan for supplying the Irish clergy with, 1692; II. 233. purchase of, 14th cent.; II. 141.
treatise on the craft of limning, 15th cent.; II. 84.
and collections concerning the arms of families in Camb. and Westmor., catalogue of, by Mr. Machel; II. 125.
Booksellers:
18th cent.; II. 234, 244.
correspondence with, 1684–5; II. 232.
London, competition between, 1702; II. 233, 242.
Boon, account of the siege of, 1703; I. 51.
Booth, — (actor): II. 71.
—, of Twemlow; I. 49.
family of, genealogy and arms of the; I. 49.
Sir George, declaration by; II. 81.
Bord, Jean, to Lord Hatton; I. 17.
Bordelegh, church of, grants to the; II. 78.
Borders, Scotch:
appointment of commissioners for suppression of outrages on the [temp. Mar.]; II. 96.
proceedings under a royal commission for the settlement of the, 1605; II. 181, 182.
documents relating to the, 15th, 16th, and 17th cent.; II. 129, 134.
—— from 1505; I. 116.
—— temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 17.
—— temp. Eliz.; II. 104.
—— 16th cent.; II. 12, 40.
—— temp. Jac. I.; I. 62.
commission to survey the lands of the Grahams upon the; II. 78.
history of the, by Richard Bell; II. 123.
Boreman, Wm., to Chr. Hatton; I. 17.
Bornhem (near Malines), English monastery at, MSS. connected with the; II. 147.
Borough, Sir John, his Observations concerning the Nobilitye of England; II. 3.
Borough accounts, of Cambridge; I. 100.
Borringdon, Lord, letters of, 1789–91; II. 9.
Bostoe, Peter, a Latin poem to; II. 66.
Bostock, Mr., verses by; I. 47.
Boston, an address to the King from the borough of (undated); I. 17.
Boswell, William, letters of, 1628; I. 68.
Boteler:
Richard, grant by; II. 79.
Wm., letters of; I. 17; II. 64.
Bothwell, Earl; I. 55.
—— copy of his marriage contract with Mary, Queen of Scots; II. 41.
—— James, dispensation for his marriage with Lady Jean Gordon; II. 122.
Boucaud, J. de, to M. Hatton; I. 17.
Bouderie, M. de la, answer to the complaints of; II. 51.
Bouhault, J., to Lord Hatton; I. 17.
Bouillon:
Duke of, letter of the, 1603; II. 51.
Duchess of, letter of the, 1588; II. 50.
Jean, to Lord Hatton; I. 17.
Boulstred, 'Sell (a lady), epitaph on, by Ben Jonson; II. 79.
Boundaries, papers respecting; I. 46.
Bourbon, Duke of:
taken prisoner at the battle of Poitiers, letter concerning the; II. 132.
letters of the, 1725; II. 32.
Bourbon, Isle of, and the French Islands, papers relating to the, 1786; II. 28.
Bourger, Albert, depositions of; I. 25.
Bourne, Ja., to Lord Hatton; I. 17.
Bouttellier, E., to Lord Hatton; I. 17.
Bowen, T., letter of; II. 71.
Bower, George, letter of; I. 17.
Bower's continuation of Fordun, at Brechin Castle; I. 119.
—— selections from (1509), in the library of the Catholic bishop of Edinburgh; I. 121.
Bowes, Sir Robert, his appointment as commissioner on the Scotch Borders; II. 96.
—— Sir William, ambassador to Scotland, &c., instructions to; II. 104.
Bowle, Dr. John, letter of; II. 57.
Bowling alley, expenses for making a; II. 139.
Bowls, accounts of losses at, 17th cent.; II. 139 (bis).
Boyd, Ninian, letter of; II. 22.
Boyle:
H., letter of; II. 188.
Michael, primate of Ireland, &c., letters of; II. 212, 238.
See Armagh, Archbishop of; and Dublin, Archbishop of.
Mr.; II. 69.
Mr. Secretary, letters from and to, 1709–10; II. 79.
Robert, letters of; II. 19.
Boyse's remarks on Bishop King's Discourse to Dissenters, 1694; II. 233.
Bracton, a copy of, 14th cent.; I. 58.
Bradford, Earl of:
papers of the; II. ix.
report on the MSS. of the (Belgrave Square); II. 30.
Bradforthe, John, treatise by, on the religious state of the country; I. 60.
Bradley, monastery of, grants to the; II. 93.
Bradly, Mr., his "discovery relating to the parallax of fixt stars;" II. 116.
Bradshaw:
John, letter of, 1600; I. 55.
Ned, letter of; I. 17.
Braganza, Duke of, letters of the, 1764; II. 13.
Braishe, Thos., letter of; I. 17.
Brakspere, the name of; II. 150.
Bramhall, letters of; I. 24.
Bramston, Geo., to Lord [Hatton?]; I. 17.
Brandenburgh, Elector of:
letters to the, 1698–9; I. 36, 37. See Elector.
ambassador from Wm. III. to the; I. 40.
letter of the ambassador of the, 1620; II. 58.
Brasses in churches; I. 32.
Bray, Sir Reginald; I. 107.
papers of; I. 95.
Braybroke, Bishop, account of the despoilment of his corpse in St. Paul's, by the Duchess of Cleveland, 1675; II. 37.
Brazil, papers relating to an expedition to, 1582; II. 21.
Bread and beer, regulations for the sale of; I. 103.
Bresdalbane, Earl of; I. 19.
letters of the, 18th cent.; II. 190, 232.
Brechin Castle:
the Earl of Dalhousie's collection at; I. xii.
reports on the Earl of Dalhousie's MSS. at; I. 117; II. 186.
Brechin:
documents connected with; II. 206.
Bishop of, Alexander, charter by, 1574; II. 187.
bishopric of, chartulary of the; I. 119; II. 186.
Breda, letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 82, 121.
Brellington, church of St. Mary of, charter to the; I. 12.
Bremen, letters about the expedition to, 1795; II. 30.
Bresand, Wm., to Lord [Hatton?]; I. 17.
Brent, Robert, letter of; II. 14.
Brereton:
—, to Lord Hatton; I. 17.
O., letter of; I. 51.
Sir Thos. and Lady, papers relating to, 1646–1648; II. 67.
Brertons of Cheshire, deeds by and to the; II. 69.
Bretagne, Duchess of, roll of Henry VII.'s war expenses in aid of the, against France; I. 96.
"Bretanno-Belgicus," by Thomas Powell; I. 63.
Breton, Thos., letter of; I. 17. See Le Breton.
Brett, Bishop, letters of; II. 204.
Brett, W. G., Esq., secretary to the Historical MSS. Commission; I. xiii., 4, 133.
Bréval, D., letters of; I. 17, 30.
Brewer, E., to Lord Hatton; I. 17.
Breviarium Romanum, illuminated; II. 200.
Breviarium Sanctæ Katerinæ (15th cent.); I. 121.
Breviary, a Sarum, 14th cent.; I. 118.
Brewer, John, letter of; I. 17.
Brewers' recognizances, temp. Eliz.; I. 119.
Brewood, prioress of, certificate by the; II. 48.
Breze, De, letters of; I. 124.

Digitized by Google

Brian, Sir Francis :
letters of Henry VIII. to ; II. 42, 43.
letter of ; ib.
Bridgeman, —, letters of, 1679–89 ; I. 56.
Bridgman, Wm., to Lord Hatton ; I. 17.
Bridgwater :
Corporation of, records of the ; I. xi.
—— report on the records of the ; I. 99.
Hospital of St. John at, documents connected with the ; I. 99.
Briechin, family of, register of the, by II. Maule ; I. 119.
Brief, a lawyer's, of the 17th cent. ; I. 51.
Brigham, Philip, to Thomas Streatfray ; I. 30.
Brill :
a colony of Grahams sent to ; II. 181.
governor of, instructions to the, 1598 ; II. 104.
Brinker, Wm., letter of ; II. 88. See Bryuker.
Brinkhurst, Susannah, abbess, petition of, 1798 ; II. 39.
Brisac, M. de, driven from France for preaching ; I. 16.
Briscoe :
—, to Lord Hatton ; I. 17.
D., to Lord Hatton ; I. 17.
Brissac, J. de, to Lord Hatton ; I. 17.
Bristol, the Dean and Chapter of, report on the MS. cartulary belonging to ; I. 97.
Bristol, Earl of :
John Digby, his letters from Madrid to James I., 1622 ; I. 57.
—— his answer to articles exhibited against him in Parliament by the Duke of Buckingham, 1622 ; I. 62 ; II. 3.
—— papers relating to the charges against the ; I. 30.
—— proceedings in the impeachments of the, temp. Car. I. ; II. 104.
—— declaration by the, of what passed between the English and Scotch Commissioners at Ripon, 1640 ; I. 62.
[George Digby], his charge against Chancellor Hyde, 1663 ; II. 8.
—— speeches of the (ob. 1677) ; II. 15.
—— letters to and from the ; ib.
—— memoir of the ; ib.
Britain :
an early history of (15th cent.) ; II. 85.
Great, objections against the name or style of ; I. 39, 48 ; II. 85.
British History, ancient, a work on, by John Lewis, of Lynwern ; II. 104.
British Museum, MSS. acquired by the Trustees of the ; II. viii.
Britons, ancient, collections touching the ; II. 124.
Britonum et Anglorum, Compilatio de gestis (in the Advocates' Library) ; I. 124.
Britonum, Saxonum, Danorum, et Normannorum, Annales de gestis ; II. 85.
Britton, copy of (MS. 14th cent.) ; II. 105.
Broadside, a printed, 1595 ; II. 43.
1598 ; II. 40.
temp. Car. I. ; II. 48.
(a satire on the Revolution) ; II. 88.
Broadsides, printed, Mr. Harvey's collection of ; II. 91.
Brocerley, Cath., verses by, to Dryden ; II. 70.
Brochard, —, to Lord —— ; I. 17.
Brock, Anthony, to Lord Hatton ; I. 17.
Brockie, Marianus, Father :
his histories of the monasteries of Iona and Dunfermling ; II. 202.
his Monasticon Scotieum ; II. 202, 203.
Brocton (or Broughton), family of, of Henley, correspondence and papers of the ; II. 72.
Brodrick family, correspondence of the ; I. 44.
Brodrick, Sir Alan : his notebook on the trial of the Earl of Strafford ; I. 44.
his correspondence with the Hyde family ; I. 44.
Surveyor-General (of Ireland) ; II. 127.
Brodie, Alexander, letters of ; II. 191.
Broghill, Lord, letters to, 1657–9 ; II. 98.
Broglie :
M. le Duc de ; I. 11.
M. de, letters to ; II. 39.
Bromehall (Berks), monastery of, deeds relating to the ; I. 74, 77.
Bromfeld and Yale, extents of the lordship of ; II. 104.
Bromley, collections for ; II. 5.
Bromley :
H., letters of ; II. 84.
Mr., letter to ; II. 79.
Thomas, Attorney-General, letter of ; II. 82.
William, translations of records by ; I. 46.
Wm., Secretary of State, letterbooks of ; II. 79.
—— letter to ; II. 78.
Bromley-Davenport, W., Esq., M.P.:
MSS. of ; II. xi.
report on his MSS. at Baginton Hall, Warwick ; II. 78.
—— at Capesthorne, Cheshire ; II. 80.
Bromore, prior and convent of, charter concerning the ; I. 90.
Brooke :
Ar., letter of ; I. 17.
Brooke—cont.
Lord Fulke, his tract on the manner of Sir Philip Sidney's death ; I. 62.
Lord, letter of, 1621 ; II. 89.
Sir P., deeds of ; I. 48.
Brougham :
Henry, letters of, 1806, sq. ; II. 192.
—— letters to ; II. 192.
Lord, a conversation with ; II. 192.
Broughton, Sir Edward, letter of ; II. 73. See Brocton.
Brousse, De la, letters of ; I. 124.
Brown :
Edward, letter of ; II. 114.
Henry, letters to and from (at Londesborough) ; II. 17.
Browne :
Sir Anthony, Justice of C. P., his treatise on the Queen of Scots' right to the Crown of England ; II. 42.
Peter, Provost of Trin. Coll. Dublin, letters of ; II. 233 (bis), 240.
—— Bp. of Cork, letters touching the consecration of ; II. 234, 245.
Richard, to Chr. Hatton ; I. 17.
Sir Thomas ; I. 21.
Brownlow, W., letters of ; I. 127.
Bruce :
Robert, King of Scotland, charters of ; I. 121 ; II. 167.
—— letters of ; II. 5.
—— names of arbitrators chosen by ; ib.
—— warrant by ; II. 166.
Sir Alexander, to Lord —— ; I. 17.
Lord, letters to and from Mr. Sackvill, 1613 ; I. 17.
—— letters of (18th cent.) ; I. 127.
Brudenell :
(Lady ?) F., to Lord and Lady Hatton ; I. 17.
Lord ; I. 24.
—— to Lord and Lady Hatton, 1646–60 ; I. 17.
—— to the Earl of Nottingham ; I. 30.
Thomas, a work by, on the creations and arms of the nobility ; II. 44.
Bruges :
two petitions about prisoners at, 1798 ; II. 39.
colloquy at, between English and Belgian merchants (15th cent.) ; II. 39.
memorial of matters to be treated at the conference at, between English and Spanish Commissioners, 1565 ; II. 97.
religious house at ; II. 195.
superior of the English nuns at, Lady Lucy Herbert, 1716 ; I. 45.
Brühl, Count, his enormous expenditure ; I. 41.
Brummere, abbey of, grant to the ; I. 14.
Brunswick :
ambassador from Wm. III. to ; I. 40.
letters dated at, 18th cent. ; I. 41.
Duke of, Christian, letters of, 1624–5 ; II. 61, 62.
Brussels :
English envoy at, for Charles II. and James II., letters to the ; I. 56.
English ambassador to, correspondence of the, 1782–92 ; II. 30.
confessor to the nuns of St. Dominic at, letter and order to the ; II. 79.
letters dated at, 17th cent. ; I. 36 ; II. 55, 60, 184, 216.
—— 18th cent. ; II. 30, 188, 189.
Brut y Brenhinoedd, MSS. of the, 13th, 14th, and 15th cent. ; II. 108.
Brut y Tywysogion, MSS. of the, 15th cent. ; II. 103.
Brute Chronicle :
a, in English, extending to 10 Hen. VI. ; I. 60.
—— to the death of Edw. III. ; I. 60.
the English ; II. 4.
a French version of the ; II. 7.
the English, four MSS., 15th cent. ; II. 104.
Bruyn, Ambrosius de ; II. 54.
Brynker, Ann Wynne, letter of ; II. 88. See Brinker.
Bubb, George, letters of ; II. 188, 189.
Bucari, documents on the revenue of ; II. 212.
Buccleuch, Earl of, Walter, letters of, 1630–2 ; II. 184.
Buchan, Earl of, James, letter of, 1628 ; II. 184.
Buchanan :
George, copies supposed to be by ; II. 42.
—— a dialogue by ; II. 42.
John, letters of ; II. 87.
Robert, letters of ; II. 197.
Buchanan's History of Scotland, translation of into English ; I. 61.
Buchanan Castle, report on the Duke of Montrose's muniments at ; II. 165.
"Buchentour," the (Venice) ; II. 13.
Buck, John, his collection of matters concerning the University of Cambridge ; I. 68.
Buckhurst, Lord :
a volume of letters by, 1586–7 ; II. 44.
causes why the Earl of Leicester was aggrieved with (temp. Eliz.) ; II. 45 ; proceedings between them ; ib.
Buckie, the MSS. at ; I. xi.
report on the MSS. at ; I. 120.

Digitized by Google

Buckingham:
Duchess of, Katharine, letter of, 1645; II. 19.
—— Privy Council letter issued at the prayer of the, 1679; II. 73.
Duke of, Humphrey Stafford, documents relating to his estates, 15th cent.; II. 104.
Buckingham, Duke of, George Villiers (1st):
letter from the Spanish Ambassador to James I. against; I. 15.
Charles I.'s letter touching the election of, to the Chancellorship of the University of Cambridge; I. 18.
papers relating to the charges against; I. 30, 42.
his relation at Whitehall touching his negotiations in Spain; I. 42; II. 104.
a journal of his proceedings in his voyage, 1617; I. 49.
answer of the Earl of Bristol to the articles exhibited by, 1622; II. 3.
the Commons' declaration and impeachment against; I. 42.
proceedings in the impeachment of, temp. Car. I.; II. 104.
letter of, 1618; I. 67.
letters from and to, 1617–27; II. 52–63.
letter to, against the Spanish match; I. 48, 54; II. 79, 86.
—— from Anne of Denmark; II. 8, 32.
—— from Anna Villiers, Lady Dalkeith; II. 184.
letters patent by, 1619; I. 127.
Buckingham, Duke of, George Villiers (2nd):
letter to the, 1664; I. 109.
letter of Charles II. concerning, 1674; II. 115.
in Paris, 1678; I. 21.
papers relating to the affairs of; II. 83 (bis).
Buckingham, Duke of, [John Sheffield,] to the Earl of Nottingham, 1703; I. 12.
Buckingham, county of, deeds relating to places in the; I. 12; II. 35, 138.
Buckinghamshire, John, 2nd Earl of, ambassador to Russia, his letterbooks, 1762–5; I. 14.
Buckly, Wm., to Lord Hatton; I. 12.
Budge, of, 1686; II. 215.
Budgell, Eustace; II. 234 (bis).
—— son of Gilbert, of Trinity College, Oxon.; II. 143.
Builders, compendious directions for, by James Leoni (18th cent.); II. 2.
Building, a contract for, 1470; I. 107.
Building expenses, accounts of, 14th cent.; II. 128, 129.
—— 15th cent.; II. 120.
—— 15th to 18th cent.; II. 111, 113.
—— temp. Henry VII.; I. 95, 96.
—— temp. Henry VII. and VIII.; I. 75, 76.
—— 16th cent.; I. 65, 68, 70; II. 126.
—— 17th cent.; II. 138, 192.
materials, prices of, 1507–15; I. 68 (bis).
Buildings:
warrants and papers relating to, temp. Henry III.; I. 95, 96.
a book relating to, 17th cent.; II. 185.
Bulkeley, Sir Richard, F.R.S.:
letters of; II. 232.
his proposal to endow a college; II. 233, 238, 239, 240.
"Bulle et Conclusiones Dubiorum" (MS., 15th cent.); II. 144.
Bullinger, Mr., "book" of; II. 153.
Bullock:
John, of the Inner Temple, letter to; I. 61.
William, compilation by, touching King's College, Cambridge; I. 68.
Bulls, Papal:
in the Advocates' Library; I. 125.
at Ampleforth College; II. 109.
in the register of Belvoir priory; I. 11.
at Blair's College; II. 202.
at Pembroke College, Cambridge; I. 69, 70 (bis).
at St. John's College, Cambridge; I. 74, 77 (bis).
in Countess Cowper's collection; II. 5.
at Hamilton Palace; I. 113.
in the Hatton Collection; I. 14.
in the registers at Norwich; I. 88.
in the University of St. Andrew's; II. 207.
in the Salisbury Register; I. 91.
at Wardour Castle; II. 34.
in the registers at Wells; I. 93.
in the "Liber Albus," at Wells; I. 94.
in the Chapter Archives, York; I. 97.
Bullyvant, Jeremiah, to Lord Hatton; I. 12.
Bultrode:
Sir Richard, author of the Memoirs of Charles I., and II. letters to; I. 56.
Whitelock, letters of; I. 56.
Bunyan. See Bonion.
Burchett:
J., to Mr. Warre; I. 12.
Secretary, letter of; II. 217.
Burdett, Wm., to Lord Hatton, and another; I. 12.
Buremonde, journal of the siege of, 1702; I. 20.
Burgh, Hubert de, Earl of Kent, grant by; II. 38.
Burgoyne, Sir J., letters of; I. 127.
Burgrave, Robert, to Wm. Longueville; I. 17.
Burgundy, Duke of, papers relating to the, temp. Hen. VII.; I. 50.
Burials, registers of, at Aberdeen; I. 192.
Burke, Edmund, his behaviour on the death of Sir Joshua Reynolds; I. 55.
pamphlets relating to the life of; II. 65.
letter touching, 1780; II. 13.
letters of; I. 127; 1780–97; II. 192.
Burkes, family of, Irish papers relating to the; II. 224.
Burleigh, Lord:
William Cecil, Chancellor of Cambridge, supplication to; II. 153.
—— letters of; I. 74, 100; II. 44, 45, 50, 51, 82.
—— letters to; II. 8, 44, 49, 50, 151, 153.
—— papers in the handwriting of; II. 45.
Michael, letters of, 1637; II. 184.
President of the Estates of Scotland, signatures of, 1641; II. 168.
Burlington:
Countesses of, letters to; II. 17, 19.
Countess of, letters of the, 1723–34; II. 18.
Earl of, letter to the, 1665; II. 17.
—— letters from and to the, 1680–92; ib.
—— Richard, printed case of, touching the barony of Clifford; II. 19.
Earls of, letters to; II. 18, 19.
and Cork, Earl of, letters to the [temp. Car. II.]; II. 15.
Burnet, Dr. Gilbert:
Atterbury's paper against the Articles of; I. 52.
his history of the Dukes of Hamilton, in MS.; I. 113, 114.
the papers quoted by him; ib.
letter from, to the Duke of Hamilton; I. 113.
letters of; II. 197, 232.
letters touching; II. 203.
Burnett:
Sir James Horn, Bart., MSS. of, at Crathes; I. 112; II. xix.
—— report on his MSS. at Crathes Castle; II. 197.
Duncan, a physician at Norwich, letters of; II. 197.
Sir Thomas, letters to; II. 197.
Burniston, Carolina, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 18.
Burridge, Ezekiel, letters of; II. 232, 233 (ter.)
Burrish, Onslow, letter of; II. 3.
Burrars' Accounts. See Accounts, College.
Bursar's Roll, specimen of a (1388); I. 79–82.
Burt, Nicholas, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Burton, monastery of:
a roll formerly belonging to the; II. 47.
Anglo-Saxon charter to the; II. 105.
Burton, Humfrey, his book on the Antiquities of Coventry; I. 100.
Burton Manor (near Stafford), Mr. Whitgreave's papers at; I. xi; report; I. 61.
Bury:
Lord, letter from, 1745; I. 115.
Ricardi de, Episcopi Dunelmensis, Liber epistolaris quondam; II. 85.
Bury St. Edmund's, "Liber monachorum Sancti Edmundi regis martyris;" II. 85.
Busbye, Richard, of Trinity College, Oxon.; II. 142.
Bute:
Marquis of, MSS. of the, to be inspected; I. 112.
Lord, letter of, 1768; II. 32.
Butler, family of, Account of the, by Robert Rothe, 1616; II. 224.
Butler, Capt. Nath., his "Dialogicall conference about marine affayres;" I. 114.
Buttery books, at Belvoir Castle; I. 11.
—— at Queen's College, Oxford; II. 139.
Button, Wm., to Sir Chr. Hatton; I. 18.
Buzenval, M. de letters of; II. 50.
Byng:
Sir George, Admiral, his line of battle, &c., 1756; II. 24.
—— instructions to and orders by; II. 189.
—— letters from and to; II. 189, 190.
Serjeant, letter of; I. 67.
Thomas (Master of Clare Hall, Cambridge), letter of; II. 155.
Bynns, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Byrche, John, letters of; II. 47, 48.
Byron:
Gilbert, letter of, 1645; II. 87.
John, letters of, 1644–6; II. 86, 87.
John, of Newstead, Notts, 1576; I. 105.
John, of Colewyke, Notts, son of Sir John; I. 105.
(Biron) Richard, of Colwick, Notts; I. 106.
Byrons of Buglawton, deeds by and to the; II. 69.

C.

Cadiz:
the enterprise against; I. 22.
voyages, relations of the, 1596 and 1625; II. 45.
depositions relative to the attack upon, 1702; I. 25.
Cadoc, St., Life of; II. 104.

Digitized by Google

Cadogan :
Earl, letters of, 1716, sq. ; II. 189, 190.
General, letters of ; II. 178, 188.
Mr., letter to ; II. 189.
Cadzow (Scotland), parish church of ; I. 113.
Cælius Secundus, his History of the wars of Malta ; II. 31.
Caerlaverok Castle, French poem on the siege of ; I. 45.
Cæsar :
Charles, of Great Gransden, letter of ; II. 113.
—— M.P., letters to ; II. 83.
—— letters to the widow of ; ib.
Sir Julius, letters of ; I. 57 ; II. 122.
—— commissioner touching the Gunpowder Plot ; I. 58.
Caietan, Lord Peter, instructions for, when he went to the Prince of Parma ; II. 85.
Caithness, the gentlemen and heritors of, letter from Montrose to, 1650 ; II. 126.
Bishop of, Robert, articles sent by, to the Earl of Caithness, 1549 ; II. 127.
—— —— his bond of amity with the Earl of Sutherland ; II. 178.
—— letters of the ; I. 116.
—— Andrew, letter of, 1668 ; II. 178.
Caius, Dr., third founder of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, papers connected with ; II. 116, 118.
Calais :
proclamations of mayors of, musters of the English garrison there, &c. ; I. 50.
papers of the French secretary to the English garrison at ; I. 50.
Queen Elizabeth's demand for, with the French King's answer ; II. 41.
collection of reasons to prove Her Majesty's right to have the restitution of, 1566 ; I. 42.
instructions to Sir T. Smith touching the proposed restoration of ; ib.
negotiations of Sir T. Smith for restitution of ; II. 44.
lease of lands in ; II. 72.
letters dated at ; II. 189.
Deputy Governor of. See Talbot, Sir Gilbert.
Calchus, Jacobus, a Carmelite, a treatise by, touching marriage with a deceased brother's widow ; II. 7.
Calder House, report on Lord Torphichen's MSS. at ; II. 196.
Calder :
Thanes of ; II. 193.
West, Barons of ; II. 196.
Sir Thomas, order for the seizure of, 1716 ; II. 28.
Calderwood's History of the Church of Scotland ; I. 123.
Caledon Forest, the, a poem by John Hepwith ; I. 13, 42, 61.
Calendar :
a, 13th cent. ; I. 89 ; II. 179 ; ditto, 14th cent. ; I. 87 ; ditto, 15th cent. ; I. 89 ; II. 84.
an illuminated ; I. 93.
—— temp. Edw. III. ; I. 100.
a, for 1481 ; II. 66.
documents touching the correction of the, by Leo X. ; II. 109.
Calendars, 18th cent. ; II. 2.
California, Noticia de la, hasta el año 1768 ; I. 90.
Callan, town of, list of proprietors in the ; II. 211.
Callander :
Earl of, letters of the, temp. Car. I. ; I. 116.
James, letter of, 1648 ; II. 184.
Calledon, heiress of ; II. 205.
Calthorpe, Lord, collection of ; II. x.
report on the MSS. of (Grosvenor Square, London) ; II. 39.
Calveleph, Hugh de, deed by ; II. 81.
Calveley, Roger, his admission to the freedom of the city of London ; II. 81.
Calvert, Sir George, Secretary of State, letters from and to ; II. 46, 54, 56, 58, 59, 60, 61, 68.
Calvinists and Lutherans, papers relating to J. Dury's mission to the Continent for a reconciliation between the, 1630–9 ; II. ix.
Cambrensis, Giraldus :
a book comprising the first part of his History of Ireland ; I. 49.
an English version of part of (16th cent.) ; I. 131.
excerpts from ; II. 104.
Cambricæ, Annales, ignoti autoris ; II. 45.
Cambridge, Reports on MSS. at, of the following Colleges :—
Christ's College ; I. 63.
Corpus Christi College ; I. 64.
King's College ; I. 67.
Pembroke College ; I. 69.
Queen's College ; I. 72.
Registry of the University ; I. 73.
St. John's College ; I. 74.
St. Peter's College ; I. 77.
—— (second report) ; I. 78–82.
Trinity College ; I. 82.
Clare College ; II. xiii, 110.
Gonville and Caius College ; II. xiv, 116.
Jesus College ; II. xiv, 118.
Trinity Hall ; II. 121.
Cambridge :
Corporation of, records of the ; I. xi.
—— report on the MSS. of the ; I. 99.
ancient names of localities in ; I. 64, et seq.
Catharine Hall ; I. 70.
chancellor, regents, and non-regents of the university of, 1351 ; I. 70.
chancellorship of the University of ; I. 16.
—— letter of Chas. II. for the election of the Duke of Monmouth to the ; II. 115.
chapel of St. Edmund, prior of the ; I. 65.
Christ's College, a book of statutes of ; I. 33.
—— the building of ; I. 73.
church of St. Benedict ; I. 65, 66. church of St. Sepulchre ; I. 76.
Clare Hall ; I. 70.
—— a new chapel in ; I. 75.
—— letter of the Master of, 1573 ; II. 155.
collection of verses to Queen Eliz., on her visit to ; II. 8.
colleges of, collections in the ; I. xi.
—— arms of the ; I. 73.
convent of St. Radegund, deeds and grants to the ; II. 119.
—— rolls of the ; II. 119–121.
Disputationes theologicæ Cantabrigiæ habitæ coram Regali Majestate, 1564 ; II. 66.
drainage of, two books relating to the, 1628 and after ; I. 74.
Great St. Mary's Church ; I. 70.
guilds of St. Mary and Corpus Christi at ; I. 64, 65.
Hall of Valence St. Mary ; I. 71.
History lectureship at [temp. Car. I.] ; I. 68.
hospices and schools at ; I. 83.
Jesus College ; I. 73.
—— a volume by a professor of, dedicated to Henry VIII. ; II. 85.
King's Hall, foundation charter, bursars' books, &c. of ; I. 82, 83, 84, 85. letter of a Master of Arts in, 1630 ; II. 2.
madrigal, a, regarding an Oxford ballad ; I. 13.
Magdalen College ; I. 17.
mayor of, letter to the, "for mustring of the Towne ;" II. 26.
Michael House, statutes and documents of ; I. 82, 83. nuns of St. Radegund at ; I. 76.
office of clerk of the market at ; I. 75.
Pembroke Hall, complaints against the Master of ; I. 33.
Peterhouse ; I. 70, 76.
Physick's or Fishwick's hostel at ; II. 117, 118.
Prior and Hospital of St. John ; I. 70.
St. John's College ; I. 70.
—— Library, papers relating to books stolen from the ; II. 122.
town of, documents relating to the early history of the ; I. 78, 79.
Trinity College, letter dated at ; II. 153.
University of, a supplication touching the new statutes of, 1572 ; II. 153.
—— Charles I.'s letter to the ; I. 43.
—— its answer to Charles I.'s letter touching the election of the Duke of Buckingham to the Chancellorship ; I. 18.
—— orders by the Commissioners for reformation of the, 1644–5 ; II. 116.
—— letter of Chas. II. to ; II. 115.
—— letters to the ; II. 116.
—— its refusal to obey James II.'s mandates ; I. 22.
—— foundation of the, with the arms of its chancellors ; I. 13.
—— a book relating to its founders, &c., 1618 ; I. 72.
—— collection of matters concerning the, by John Buck, Esquire Bedel ; I. 69.
University Hall, schools of ; I. 65.
Vice-chancellor of, letter of the, 1662 ; II. 156.
—— letter to the, undated ; II. 113.
Vice-chancellors of, vouchers of the accounts of ; I. 74.
—— letters to (17th cent.) ; II. 114, 115.
Cambridge, county of, roll of escheats in the (Edw. I.) ; I. 65.
Cambridge, Earls of ; I. 13.
Cambuskenneth :
abbey of, chartulary of the ; I. 111.
Registrum Monasterii de ; II. 186.
Camden, Earl, letters of ; I. 127.
Camden's Elizabeth, censure on Hearne's preface to ; II. 234, 254.
Cameron of Lochiel, letter from, to his brother Major Donald Cameron ; II. 189.
Camoys, Lord, MSS. of ; II. xii. report on a MS. in the library of ; II. 38.
Campanella ; I. 68.
Campbell :
Archibald, Bishop, letter to ; II. 203.
—— letter of ; II. 205.
—— sermons of ; II. 203.
Duncan, of Glenurghay, letter of ; II. 183.
Jo., captain, letters of ; II. 211.
John, letters of, 1713 ; II. 25.
Sir John, charter to ; II. 193.
S[ir] James, of Lawers, letter of ; II. 183.

Digitized by Google

Campeden, Hugh, his English version of the Questions of Sydrac, temp. Hen. VI.; II. 4.
Campion, Edward, two books of "Ireland's History" by; II. 40.
Campleshon, Mr., letter to; I. 28. See Gampleshon.
Canada, documents relating to, 18th cent.; II. 20.
Canadas, a letter on the reduction of the, 1760; II. 38.
Candia; I. 23.
Canon Law:
books of the faculty of (list of), 16th cent.; II. 135.
fragment of a work on; II. 126.
MSS. of writers on; I. 77.
treatise on the; II. 49.
a work on, 13th cent.; II. 200.
Canons Ashby (Northampton), report on Sir H. Dryden's MSS. at; II. 63.
Cant, Andrew, the Rev., letters of; I. 116.
Canterbury, Archbishop of:
St. Edmund, miracles of (MS. 13th cent.); II. 105.
—— Life of; II. 152.
Vita B. Edmundi; ib.
St. Thomas, portion of the hair shirt of; II. 23.
Wm. Warham, his protest against the statute passed to the prejudice of the ecclesiastical power, 1536; II. 40.
submission of the, 1590; II. 82.
John Whitgift, an indulgence by, for eating flesh on forbidden days, 1596; I. 93.
letters of the (temp. Jac. I.); I. 43, 102.
G. Abbot, letter of, 1614; II. 122.
letter of the, 1621; II. 60.
1665; I. 17.
1688; I. 17.
letter from the, to the King (? date); I. 18.
accusations and articles against the, by the Scotch Commissioners; I. 32. See Bancroft, Laud, Parker, Sancroft, Sheldon, Tenison, Tillotson, Wake, Whitgift.
Canterbury:
Archbishops of, extracts from lives of the; II. 41.
clergy of, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 30.
hospital of Estbrig in, grant of the, to the priory of Ospringe; I. 74.
monastery of St. Augustine, letter relating to a chartulary of the; II. 122.
monks of St. Augustine's, charters to; I. 71. province of, provincial constitutions of the, collected by Wm. Lyndewood, Bp. of St. David's; II. 146.
register of the see of (extracts); II. 89.
the Wallons congregation of; I. 29.
Canute. See Cnutenis.
Capel, Lord; II. 233.
his residence in Jersey, during the Commonwealth; II. 158, sq.
Capelin:
Nicholas, to Georges Holmes; I. 30.
Richard, to George Holmes; I. 18.
Capell, Arthur, to Sir Chr. Hatton; I. 18.
Capesthorne, Cheshire, report on Mr. Bromley-Davenport's MSS. at; II. 80.
Capuchins, order of; II. 195.
Carbery:
Lord, letter of, 1665; II. 88.
Earl of, portrait of the (18th cent.); II. 69.
Cardiff, pleas of assize at (a roll); I. 11.
Cardigan:
Lord, proposals of, for Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Lords, to Lord and Mr. Hatton, 1671–1729; I. 18.
"Cardinal Primate," the, letters from and to, &c., 1699–1702; I. 37, 38.
Cardinals, lists of, 1590–1; II. 20.
Cardonnell, Adam, letters of; II. 188.
Adam de (collector of the customs at Southampton), to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Mary de, to Lord and Chas. Hatton; I. 18.
Cards, used as missives, 18th cent.; II. 38.
Cards, account of losses at, 17th cent.; II. 178.
Caresley, town of, taxation of the, for the relief of persons infeoffed with the plague at Coventry; I. 101.
Careston, Lady of, letter of the; II. 187.
Carew:
Colonel, MSS. of, sent to the Public Record Office; I. viii.; II. xiii.
—— report on his MSS. at Crowcombe Court; II. 74.
Sir G., letters touching; II. 51.
Lord, letters of, 1620; II. 57, 58.
Sir Matthew, award by; II. 122.
Sir Peter; II. 95.
Carey (or Careye):
Abraham, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Isaac, to Lord and Col. Hatton; I. 18.
J., to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Nathaniel, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Pierre, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Thomas, his deposition concerning Charles de la Marche's sermon against the (Stuart) Royal family; I. 18.
See Cary.
Cargill, "the great covenanting field preacher," letter touching; II. 32.
Carhampton, Lord, letters of; I. 127.
Carisbrook, priory of, chartulary of the; II. 97, 98.
Carle, Colonel, depositions of; I. 25.
Carleton:
Sir Dudley, papers connected with the embassies of; II. 44.
—— letters of; I. 37; II. 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 58, 60, 61.
—— letters to; II. 52.
Sir Guy, commander in North America, letter to, 1783; II. 20.
Lord, letters of (17th cent.); II. 15.
See Carlton.
Carlingford, Lord, to Lord [Nottingham], 1702; I. 18.
Carliolense, Chronicon, 680–1557; II. 125.
Carlisle:
Cathedral, Library of, submitted to the Commissioners by the Rev. R. W. Dixon; II. xiii.
—— report on the; II. 123.
city and diocese of, documents relating to the; II. 123, 124, 125.
ecclesiastical valors of the diocese of; II. 123.
letters relating to; II. 17.
Carlisle, Bishop of:
letters of the (temp. Hen. VI.?); I. 95.
Henry, letters of, 1605; II. 182.
letter of the, 1620; II. 57.
Edward [Rainbow], to the Countess of Thanet, 1676; I. 18.
See Nicholson, William.
Carlisle, Earl of, letters of the, 1625; II. 62. 1630; II. 185.
—— 1781–93; II. 192.
Carlsbad, letters dated at, 17th cent.; I. 35.
Carlton, Lancelot, letter of; II. 124. See Carleton.
Carmarthen, priory of, chartulary of the; II. 105.
Lord, materials necessary for a design proposed by him concerning some fire ships, 1702; I. 18.
—— letters from and to, 1782 sq.; II. 20.
Carmelianii, verses of (temp. Hen. VII.); II. 6.
Carnaby, N., letters of; II. 17.
Carnarvon, Earl of:
letter to Lady Hatton; I. 18.
letters of, 1650–4; II. 83. 1793–4; II. 192.
Carnarvonshire:
deputy lieutenants of, letter to; II. 86, 88.
sheriff of, letter to the, 1594; II. 87. See Owen, Sir John.
law papers relating to; II. 88.
Carne, Edward, his letters from Whitehall, 1683–4; I. 36.
Carnegie:
David Lord; II. 168.
Magdalen, contract of marriage between the Earl of Montrose and; II. 168.
—— letters of; II. 191.
Carney, Michael, to Lord ——; I. 18.
Carolina, South:
letters to the Governor of, 1756–65; II. 38.
and plantations, the Protestant church in; II. 234.
Caron, Mr., letter from James I. to; II. 52.
Carpenter, F., to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Carpi, camp of, newsletter from, 1701; I. 37.
Carr:
Lady, letter to, 1618; II. 55.
Richard, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Carre:
Sir Andrew, of Oxenholme, letters of; I. 116. See Ker.
Sir R., of Ancrum, letters of; I. 116. See Ker.
Carré, —, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Carrick, earldom of, lands in the; II. 167.
Carrington, pedigree of the; II. 94.
Cartæ Antiquæ. See Chartæ Antiquæ.
Carte, Thomas:
extracts of papers by; II. 8.
original papers in hands of his widow; ib.
Carter:
Dr., Provost of Oriel College, Oxon., letters to; II. 137.
Elizabeth, letters of, 1773–1800; II. 14.
Sir John, letters of, 1649–50; II. 87.
—— charges against; ib.
John, architect, his "Specimens of Military and Civil Costume," from early times; II. 144.
Mary, letters of; II. 14.
William, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Carteret:
Lord, letters of, 1719; I. 41. 1721; II. 217.
—— letters to, 1719; II. 190.
—— Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1724 and 1727; II. 235 (bis).
—— letters of, 1738–42; II. 190.
Anne de, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Sir E., to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Sir G., Treasurer of the Navy; I. 51.
Sir George, Governor of Jersey; II. 160–165.
Sir Philip, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Sir Philip de, Lieutenant Governor of Jersey; II. 158, 159.
Carterets, appointment of, as bailiffs, &c. of Jersey; I. 34.
Carthagena, letter touching the expedition to, 1740; II. 28.
Cartier, Jacques, report of, touching an unknown country; II. 45.
Cartularies. See Chartularies.

Digitized by Google

Cartwright:
Francis, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Mr.; I. 24.
—— interrogatories to, and answer of; II. 43.
—— his refusal to dispute with Whitgift; II. 153.
—— his "mad brother"; II. 154.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Carverth, Captain Henry, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Cary:
E., to Mr. Hatton; I. 18.
Sir George, of Cokington, Devon, Treasurer at War for Ireland, instructions to, 1598; II. 104.
—— ambassador to France, his address to James I.; II. 43.
—— his "Relation of the Estate of France," 1610; I. 53.
Sir Henry, letters of; II. 54, 58.
Phil., letter of; II. 36.
See Carey.
Caryll, John, letters of; I. 56.
Carysfort, Lord, letters of; I. 127.
Casanat, —, letter of; I. 124.
Cassel, letters dated at, 17th cent.; I. 35.
Castellar (in South Andalusia), law proceedings against the inhabitants of, 1641; I. 57.
Castelvetri, Giacomo, a work by, presented to James VI.; I. 125.
Castile:
King of, account of his meeting with Henry VII. at Windsor; I. 75.
Almirante of, to the Queen and Mr Methuen, 1703; I. 18.
—— letters to the; I. 26.
Castillian project against England, The, &c. (a pamphlet addressed to Charles I.); I. 124.
"Castle of Indolence," The; II. 8.
Castlehaven, Earl of, arraignment of the; I. 34.
Lord (temp. Car. II.); II. 213.
Castles, Scotch, licences to fortify; II. 193, 194, 197.
Castro, Don Scipio de, discourses by; II. 85.
Catalogues, in the Hatton collection; I. 30 (bis).
Catesby, Richard, letter of, temp. Hen. VIII.; I. 100.
Catharine, St.:
Life of; II. 84.
Life and passion of; II. 144.
Catharine of Aragon:
letters of; I. xi.
original papers of; I. 56. See Arthur, Prince.
Catharine, Queen of Charles II.:
letters concerning; II. 16, 22.
letters and accounts of the Comptroller of her Household, 1679–1703; II. 34.
Catheart:
Earl, collection of; II. x.
—— report on the MSS. of the, at Catheart House, Thornton-le-Street, co. York; II. 24.
Earl of, letters of the, 1738, sq.; II. 191. 1742, sq.; II. 191. circ. 1745; II. 179.
family of, documents, papers, and correspondence of the; II. 24–30.
Charles, Colonel, letters of; II. 188, 189.
Catholic Address, the Roman, 1737; II. 235.
Catholic bishops and priests, in Scotland, collections for the biography of; I. 120.
Catholic camp, in Ireland, letters dated at the, 1641; II. 218, 219.
Catholic Church (Roman):
in Scotland, history of the, after the Reformation; I. 112.
collections for the history of the, in Scotland, from the reign of Queen Mary; I. 120; ditto, from 1542 to 1792; I. 121.
Catholic (Roman) converts, legal formularies for; II. 234.
—— lawyers, converted, bill for qualifying, 1727; II. 235.
—— priests, prosecutions of; I. 122.
—— question, George III.'s opinion on the; II. 192.
—— Remains, or Lives of English Catholic Clergy, from 1500; I. 90.
Catholics (Roman):
papers relating to the, temp. Eliz. & Jac. I.; II. 154, 156.
Walsingham's defence of Queen Elizabeth's proceedings against the; I. 61.
in Ireland, letters relating to the, 1690; II. 232.
information of the designs of the, 1699; I. 36.
a book concerning their "going to church with Protestante;" I. 90.
oaths of; I. 103.
papers on their admission to all the privileges of subjects; II. 192.
the Confederate, in Ireland, an application by, to Charles I.; II. 222.
—— petitions of, to Charles I., with other papers; II. 223.
—— order by the General Assembly of the, 1647; II. 226.
English, materials for the biography of; I. 90 (bis).
Cato Parvus and Cato Magnus, English translation, 15th cent.; II. 106.
Cattle, narrative of "accidents" to; II. 88.
Cattle plague, 1745; II. 61.
Caulfield, Dr. Richard (of Cork), collection of; I. xli.
—— report on the MSS. of; I. 128, 129.
Cans, Red Book of, extracts from the; II. 104.
Cavalry, foreign light, letters about the, 1795–6; II. 22.
Cave:
Sir Ambrose, grant to, 1568; I. 33.
John, letter of; II. 64.
Robert, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Thomas, to Chr. Hatton; I. 18.
Sir Thomas, letter to; I. 58.
Cavendish:
Lord, to Lord Hatton, 1679; I. 18.
Lord Frederick and Lord John, letters of, 1779–88; II. 14.
[—], letters of, to Henry VIII.; II. 42.
George, MS. copies of his life of Wolsey; I. 33; II. 43.
Cavendish's patent, case of, 29 Eliz.; I. 43.
Cawdor, Earl of:
report on the MSS. of the, in preparation; I. 112.
places "the Golden Grove Book" under the care of the Commissioners; II. viii.
report on the genealogical MSS. deposited by the, in the Public Record office; II. 31.
charters of, at Cawdor Castle; II. xvii. report on his MSS. at Cawdor Castle; II. 193.
Caxton's "Dictes & Sayings of Philosophers;" I. 60.
Caxton's Chronicle, a continuation of, by Warkeworth; I. 77.
Caxton's edition of the "Polychronicon;" II. 78.
Caylus, Countess de, letter to the; II. 63.
Cecil:
family of, papers relating to the; I. 55.
Sir Robert, Secretary of State, his negotiations in France, 1597–8; II. 2, 45.
—— "the State of the Scottish Commonwealth," written by; I. 32.
—— letters of; II. 15, 50, 158. See Salisbury, Earl of.
T. C., to Lord ——; I. 18.
Sir William, instructions by; I. 42.
—— letters of; II. 154, 155.
—— letters to; II. 6, 8, 154. See Burleigh, Lord.
Cecily, Princess (mother of Edw. IV.), grant by; II. 94.
Cellarers' accounts; I. 88, 89, 110.
Celtic:
a book written in, consisting of triads; I. 31.
a volume in (Keating's History of Ireland); I. 124.
Cemeteries, treatise on, 14th cent.; II. 105.
Cenada, Bishop of, Papal ambassador in France, letter of the; I. 124.
Ceraven (?), —, to Captain Winde; I. 18.
Cercelier, Jean, letter from, to his brother Claude; II. 49.
Ceremonies:
Masters of the, Observations by, 17th cent.; II. 83.
——, papers of, 17th and 18th cent.; ib.
State, papers on, 18th cent.; ib.
Cevennes, the, Protestants in arms in; I. 20 (bis).
Chaderton, Dr. William, Fellow of Christ's College, Cambridge, 1560; I. 73.
Chadwick, Thomas, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Chaise, Père la, confessor to Louis XIV., letters of, 1675; I. 54; letter to; II. 85.
Chakenden, church of, letter touching its patronage; II. 93.
Challoner, Bishop, letter of; II. 201.
Sir Thomas, ambassador to Scotland, instructions to, 1555; II. 96.
Chamberlain:
Sir Thomas, letters of; II. 53, 62.
Thomas, letters of; II. 73.
Chamberlain, Great, errors in the Peers' proceedings in the case touching the office of, 1626; II. 8.
the Lord, licence by, to players, 1720; II. 71.
Chamberlains' books and rolls of account:
at Abingdon; II. 149.
at Coventry; I. 101.
at Hythe; II. 91.
at Norwich; I. 103.
at Nottingham; I. 105, 106.
at Wells; I. 107.
Chamberlayne, Edward, to Lord Hatton; I. 18.
Chambers:
Dr., and Mr. Browne, patent to; II. 81.
Sir W., letters of; I. 127.
Chamier, Daniel, copies of his work, "Panstratia Catholica," to be imported by a London merchant; I. 34.
Champagné:
Arthur, Rev. Dean, letter of; II. 213.
Lady Jane, verses by; II. 212.
Champarty, a law document respecting; II. 145.
Champernoun, Elizabeth Lady, her suit against Henry Champernoun; I. 50.
Chancellor, Lord:
Seldon's book on the office of; I. 32.
the, 1665; I. 17.
—— 1666; I. 20.
—— 1684; I. 23.
—— letters of, 1745–46; II. 179.
—— (Loughborough), letters, memoranda, and papers of, 1774–1804; II. 192.
Chancellors, list of, from Wolfuinus to John Puckering; I. 32.
Chancellorship of the duchy of ——; I. 25.

Digitized by Google

Chancery:
Bacon's ordinances touching the; I. 31.
cases in; I. 31.
copies of a bill and answer in, temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 64.
Court of, petition for reformation of the (against Bacon) I. 57.
—— a presentment as to abuses in the, 40 Eliz.; II. 89.
—— "Abuses and Remedies" of the, by George Norbury; I. 63.
—— Abuses of the, and the Remedies, a treatise (qu. same as preceding?); II. 3.
—— treatise on the, with names of the Chancellors; II. 43.
—— treatises concerning the, 17th cent.; II. 8, 44, 90.
files, rolls, and officers of, accounts of the; II. 61.
orders in; I. 63.
Chancery and Chancellorship, a treatise on the; I. 42.
Channel Islanders; I. 19. See Guernsey, Jersey.
Channel Islands, a volume of papers relating to the; II. 39.
Chantilly, letter of Chas. II. dated at; II. 172.
Chantries:
accounts of the receiver of the revenues of the late, 1668–98; I. 101.
a book relating to; I. 32.
mass books and vestments for; I. 108.
Chantry:
copy of the foundation of a; II. 47.
deed of foundation of a; II. 92.
description of the ornaments of a [14th cent.]; I. 109.
Chapels, a book relating to; I. 32.
—— lists of ornaments of, 14th cent.; II. 110, 111, 133, 134, 135. See Church ornaments.
Chapman, John, letters of; II. 73.
Chappell, John, to Lord ——; I. 18.
Chapter House (Westminster):
extracts from records in the; I. 39.
reports on the records in the, by John Lowe and Peter Le Neve; II. 125.
Charitable uses, commissions to inquire of lands given to; I. 34.
Charity, appeals for; I. 38.
Charity moneys, accounts of, at Coventry; I. 101.
Charlemagne, the Gest of (Welsh MSS. of, 14th and 15th cent.); II. 106.
Charlemont, Earl of:
the collection of the; I. xii.
report on the MSS. of the; I. 126.
Viscount, William 2nd, letter of; I. 127.
Earl of, James 1st, his autobiography; I. 126.
—— his correspondence; I. 127.
Charles V., "Ragionamento di Carlo V., Imperatore, tenuto al Re Philippo, suo figlinolo" (presented to James VI.); I. 125.
Charles, Prince, son of James I.:
a volume of French poetry addressed to, 1614; I. 49.
list of his attendants in Spain, 1622; I. 57.
letter from the Pope to, with his answer; I. 54.
copies of the Pope's breves to, 1623; II. 43.
his marriage with the Spanish Princess (Buckingham's relation of the passage to Spain); I. 42.
declaration by [touching the marriage with Spain]; I. 43.
papers relating to his expedition to Spain; I. 125.
an oration to, at Portsmouth; I. 62.
letters of; I. 116.
Charles I., King of England:
remonstrances of Parliament to, with his declaration; I. 42.
his answer to the remonstrance of Parliament, 1628; II. 97.
papers relating to his disputes with Parliament; I. 43.
answer of the University of Cambridge to the letter of, relative to the election of the Duke of Buckingham to the chancellorship; I. 18.
requires money to keep his army from disbanding, 1640; I. 63.
his offer of pardon to the rebels, 1642; I. 63.
his proclamation to London and Westminster, 1642; I. 63.
documents relating to his captivity in the Isle of Wight; I. 63.
college plate melted down for relief of; II. 138, 142. See Plate.
asks for a loan from Wells; I. 107.
a report of the Parliament's proceedings touching the captured letters of; II. 91.
a pamphlet containing his letters captured at the battle of Sherbourn; ib.
negotiations with the Scotch Parliament, 1646; II. 176. measures of Scotch peers against; II. 178.
proceedings against the adherents of; I. 110.
a "Relation" touching the reign of; I. 114.
"Humanum est errare, or false steps on both sides; first on the King's part"; I. 114.
Cooke's case concerning the trial of; I. 81.
a paper connected with the execution of; II. 87.
anniversary of the execution of, papers relating to its non-observance; II. 112.
commissions, &c. by; II. 156, 172. declaration of, 1634; II. 3.
fleet of, description of the; I. 41.
forces of; I. 18.
list of gentlemen in his service; II. 73.
Charles I., King of England—cont.
autograph letter of, touching the impending civil war; I. 45.
letters of; I. 45, 46, 113; II. 9, 17, 36, 49, 63, 73, 78, 86, 87, 157, 158, 176, 185, 211.
—— taken at the battle of Naseby; I. 1, 2, 4–10. See "King's Cabinet."
holograph letter from, to the Earl of Glamorgan; I. 92.
letter from, to Earl Lanark; I. 113.
—— to the Earl of Manchester; I. 13.
letters from, to the Earl and Marquis of Montrose; II. 169, 170.
letters to; I. 117; II. 184.
letters relating to; II. 73.
parliaments of; I. 43.
petitions to; II. 157.
sign manuals of; I. 34; II. 86.
signatures of; II. 169.
speech of, to both Houses of Parliament, 1625; I. 62.
—— to Parliament, touching the King of Denmark; I. 34.
—— 1640, notes of the; II. 48.
—— to the nobility at York, 1640; I. 31.
speeches of, to the House of Commons; I. 61 addresses of the House of Commons to; ib.
—— to Parliament; II. 104.
speech to, in his progress to Scotland; I. 62 (bis).
—— at his departure from York, 1639; I. 62 (bis).
Charles, Prince:
son of Charles I.; I. 51.
letters of, 1645; I. 51; II. 21.
letter of, 1648; II. 8.
account of his residence in Jersey; II. 158, sq.
Charles II., King of England; II. 19. account of his residence in Jersey; II. 163, 164, 165.
letters of one of the Parliamentary Commissioners sent to treat with, 1648; I. 129.
declaration and letter of, from Breda; I. 3.
a journal of actions in Scotland after his arriva from Holland, 1650; I. xii. 128.
a solemn acknowledgment of, to be true and undoubted King, &c., 1650; II. 176.
an oath of allegiance to, 1650; II. 176.
pamphlets relating to the escape of, after the battle of Worcester; II. 63.
urged to make war with France, 1675 (?); I. 19.
his engagement with France, touching the Dutch, 1678; I. 33.
his disavowal of having married the Duke of Monmouth's mother; I. 31.
his disputes with the House of Commons, 1684 I. 23.
forbids the meeting of Parliament; I. 19.
needs friends in Parliament; I. 51.
letters touching the attempt on his life, 1685; II. 23.
Father Huddleston's narrative of the death of I. 45.
commissions by; II. 172.
letters of; I. xi., 30, 50, 96, 115, 116; II. 1 10, 23, 32, 36, 37, 87, 113, 137, 212.
—— while in exile; I. 61.
—— 1649; II. 9.
—— 1651; II. 178, 197.
—— 1652; II. 82.
—— 1654–5; I. 28.
—— 1660; II. 216.
—— to the House of Commons; I. 3.
—— to King's College, Cambridge; I. 67.
—— to Marquises of Montrose; II. 171, 172
letters to; I. 54, 116; II. 18.
orders by, 1656–60; II. 82, 83.
petition of Dudley Northe to; I. 27.
sign manuals of; I. 28; II. 10.
speeches of, to Parliament; II. 83.
Charles, Prince of Wales (the Young Pretender):
letter of, 1736; II. 33.
proclamation of, 1745; I. 58. See Pretender
Charlett, Dr. Arthur (Univ. Coll. Oxford), letters of; II 232, 234, 253, 254.
Charlotte, Queen:
notes from, 1778; II. 29.
letters of, 1791–1800; II. 29.
Charlton, J., et al., to Mr. Le Marchant; I. 18.
Chartæ Antiquæ:
letter touching the; I. 24.
extracts from (three books); I. 39.
a volume of, from Edgar to Edw. I.; I. 71.
Charter Rolls, extracts from the; I. 31; II. 125.
Charterhouse, the; I. 19.
Charters:
at Aberdeen; I. 121, 123.
in the University of Aberdeen; II. 200.
at Abingdon; I. 98.
at Aboyne Castle; II. 180.
in the Advocates' Library; I. 123, 125.
at Belvoir Castle; I. 10, 12.
at Brechin Castle; I. 119; II. 186.
at Buchanan Castle; II. 166, 167, 168.
at Calder House; II. 196.
in the Registry of Cambridge University; I. 74.
in Trinity College, Cambridge; I. 82.

Digitized by Google

Charters—cont.
among the Carlisle Cathedral MSS.; II. 125.
at Castle Forbes; II. 194, 196.
at Cathcart House; II. 24.
at Cawdor Castle; II. 193.
of Colchester Abbey; II. 7. of Cork; I. 128.
at Coventry; I. 100, 101.
at Crathes Castle; II. 197.
at Dalnaboy; II. 183.
at Drum Castle; II. 198.
of the city of Dublin; I. 129.
at Dunecht; II. 181.
at Dunrobin; II. 177.
at Dysart House; II. 191.
of the city of Edinburgh; I. 126.
at Everingham Park; I. 45 (bis).
at Glamis Castle; II. 185.
at Gordon Castle; I. 113.
at Hagley, co. Worcester; II. 38.
at Hamilton Palace; I. 112.
in the Hatton collection (Anglo-Saxon); I. viii., 14.
in the Hatton collection (early); I. ix., 14, 15.
of Kilkenny; I. 129, 130.
at Kimbolton Castle; I. 12.
at Little Malvern Court; II. 72.
among the Marquis of Lothian's records; I. 116.
at Montrose; II. 205, 206.
at Mount Edgcumbe, Cornwall; II. 20.
of the Neville family; II. 93.
at Norwich; I. 102.
in the registers at Norwich; I. 88, 89.
at Nottingham; I. 106.
of Exeter College, Oxford; II. 127, 128.
at Queen's College, Oxford; II. 138.
at Panmure Castle; I. 117, 118.
at Peniarth (Anglo-Saxon); II. 105.
in the University of St. Andrew's; II. 207, 208, 209.
at Salisbury; I. 90.
in the Shrewsbury collection; I. 80.
of the Standish family; II. 92, 93.
at Tabley House; I. 46, 47, 49.
at Wardour Castle; II. 33, 34, 35.
of Waterford; I. 131, 132.
at Wells; I. 108.
in the Bishop's Registry, Wells; I. 93.
in the Chapter Archives, Wells; I. 93, 94.
in Westminster Abbey; I. 95.
at Whitehaugh; II. 188.
at York; I. 109.
in the Chapter Archives, York; I. 97.
of private individuals, extracts from, 16th cent.; II. 5.
monastic, ib.
of the Scotch College at Paris; I. 121.
of the Scotch monastery at Ratisbon; II. 202.
Scotch, unprinted; I. 111.
See also Deeds.
Chartres, Ivo of, chronicles of; II. 131.
Chartularies:
at Abingdon; I. 98.
of Beivoir priory; I. 11.
at Blairs College; II. 202.
at Brechin Castle (transcripts and originals); I. 119; II. 186.
at Buckie; I. 120.
of the Dean and Chapter of Bristol; I. 97.
among the Carlisle Cathedral MSS.; II. 125.
in the Countess Cowper's Collection; II. 4, 7.
at Glasgow; I. 126.
at Everingham Park; I. 45.
at Hagley, co. Worcester; II. 38.
of St. Mary's at Ospringe; I. 76.
at Peniarth; II. 105.
among Mrs. Prescott's MSS.; II. 97, 98. relating to property in Tyddeswell; I. 11.
Scotch, unprinted; I. 111.
See Registers.
Chartularies and records of Scottish religious houses and bishoprics, in the Advocates' Library; I. 123, 125.
Chastillon, Cardinal de, letters of; I. 124.
Chateauhérault's fleet; I. 22.
Chatham, Lord:
copy of his plan for settling America, 1775; II. 28.
letters of; II. 24, 30, 38.
letter to; II. 30. See Pitt, William.
Chaucer, Geoffrey:
a MS. of some of his poems; I. 61.
identification of the "Soleres Hall" mentioned in his Reve's Tale; I. 84.
a lease to; I. 95.
his Orisoun to the Blessed Virgin; I. 125.
a MS. of his Canterbury Tales, 15th cent.; II. 106.
his Canterbury Tales (the Tales of Mellybe and Prudence); II. 145.
Chauvlin, Mons. de, minister at Paris, correspondence of, with the French agent in Russia; II. 212.
Chaworth, persons of the name of; I. 105.
George, of Annesley; I. 105.
Chaworths:
grants to and by the; II. 93.
seals of the; II. 24.
Cheke, Sir John, recantation of, &c.; II. 155, 156.
Chelsea; II. 22.
letters dated at, 17th and 18th cent.; I. 51, 67; II. 78.
Chelsea Hospital, papers relating to; I. 54.
Cherry, H., to Capt. Hatton; I. 18.
Chertsey, abbot of, his claim to the body of Henry VII.; I. 97.
Cheshire; I. 34.
collections for the history of; II. 81.
deeds relating to; I. 55.
families, genealogies of; I. 46.
papers relating to; I. 46, 47, 48, 49, 50.
a register of deeds relating to places in; II. 66.
sheriffs of, list of, 1574–1663; II. 81.
visitations of, 1566, 1580, 1613; II. 80.
Chester:
bishopric of, letter touching the, 1615; II. 87.
a book of the works of Edward the Black Prince relating to; I. 81.
constable of, charter of King John to the; I. 71.
county palatine of, charters relating to the; I. 80.
—— notes touching the, &c.; II. 81.
earldom of. See Doddridge, Sir John.
Earl of, Hugh Cyveliok, dispute as to the legitimacy of his daughter Amicia; I. 49.
Earls of; II. 81.
—— chronicle of the (draft); I. 46.
—— verses on the, 1620; I. 47, 49.
Earls and Bishops of, account of the; I. 49.
Mystery Plays, the; I. 49.
siege of, documents relating to the, 1645; II. 86, 87.
town of, papers relating to the; I. 49.
Chester, Bishop of:
letter to the, 1617; II. 52.
letter of the, 1629; II. 61.
John Pearson, letter of, 1680; II. 114.
Francis (Gastrell), letter of; II. 78.
Daly, letters of (18th cent.); I. 128.
Chester, Mr., letter to; I. 16.
Chesterfield, Lords, letters of, 1661 and 1679; I. 18. 1676–91; II. 16. 1696; ib. 1733 sq.; II. 190, 191. 1747–8; I. 41. Mid. 18th cent.; II. 38.
Chetham Library, Manchester, a MS. in the; II. xii.
report on same; II. 156.
Chetwode, Dr., Fellow of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, letters to; II. 122.
Chetwynd, Dr.; II. 70.
Chevreuse, Duke of, letters of the, 1625; II. 63.
Chevalier, the (the young Pretender?), letters of; II. 204.
Chevalier, Jean, his journal of events in Jersey during the Civil War; II. 136–155.
Chicheley, Henry (afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury); II. 133, 137.
Chichester, Sir Arthur, Deputy of Ireland, letter to; II. 217.
Chicksands (Bedford), report on Sir G. Osborn's MSS. at; II. 65.
Chief Justice, Lord, letter touching the appointment of, 1616; II. 88.
Chief Justices, the two, letter from the Privy Council to [temp. Eliz.]; II. 153.
Child:
Cæsar, letter of; I. 19.
John, to Lord Hatton; I. 19.
Chillingworth, Wm., of Trinity College, Oxford; II. 142.
China:
extracts from early voyages to; II. 28.
instructions to the English ambassador to, 1787, with other papers; ib.
Chipp, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 19.
Chirk:
court rolls of; II. 74.
papers and charters concerning; II. 65, 66, 67.
Chirk Castle, Denbighshire:
report on the MSS. of Colonel Myddelton-Biddulph at; II. 73.
letters relating to; II. 73.
Chirkesland, lordship of, documents relating to the; II. 65, 66, 67.
Chivalry, Court of:
proceedings in the; I. 44.
notes of proceedings in the, 1631–2; II. 3.
Choiseul, Duc de, letters of; II. 29.
Choissy, Count of, letter to the, 1608; II. 51.
Cholmeley, H., to Lord Hatton; I. 19.
Cholmley, G., to Lord Hatton; I. 19.
Cholmondeley, Lord, to Lord ——, 1703; I. 19.
Christ, Arms of, a poem on the, 14th cent.; II. 201.
Christmas Carol, A (political); I. 63.
Christmas Carols, 15th cent.; II. 84.
Chronicle:
a short, from the Creation to A.D. 1388; II. 68.
of the Kings of England, from Ethelbrict to 1388; II. 42
a, 15th cent. (early history of Britain); II. 85.

Digitized by Google

Chronicle—cont.
of the Kings of England, Alfred to 6 Hen. VI., by Richard Fox; II. 2. of England (15th and 16th cent.); II. 6.
of affairs in England and Scotland, 1547–1665; II. 186.
a Biblical, 16th cent.; I. 65.
Chronicles:
in the Advocates' Library, Edinburgh; I. 129, 124.
at Brechin Castle; I. 119; II. 186.
in Countess Cowper's collection; II. 6, 7.
at Helmingham Hall; I. 60.
at Peniarth; II. 103, 104.
at St. Andrew's University; II. 208, 209.
at Stonyhurst College; II. 145.
excerpts from, 16th cent.; II. 104.
extracts from various; II. 3, 6. inventory of, circ. 1500; II. 131.
list of, temp. Hic. II.; II. 110.
Chronicon Angliæ, Cambriæ, et Normanniæ (16th cent.); II. 5.
Chronicon, sive Annales, eccl. Cathedralis Wellensis; I. 94.
Chronologia, ad an. 1618; II. 201.
Chronology of occurrences in England, 1559–62; II. 41.
Chudleigh:
John, Captain, letter of; II. 69.
Lady, verses of; II. 70.
Mr., letters of, 1676–85; I. 56.
Church Ales, 18 Hen. VII.; I. 107
Church courts (Scotch), proceedings of; I. 125.
Church expenses, account of, 15th cent.; II. 91.
Church livings: (See Appropriations.) survey of, 1655, co. Worcester; I. 59.
list of, in gift of King's College, Cambridge; I. 68.
Church matters, papers on [temp. Eliz.]; II. 45.
Church ornaments, inventories of; I. 69, 71, 72, 74. See Chapels.
Church, the:
an Irish tract on the rites of; II. 223.
tracts for bettering the condition of; II. 43.
Churches:
treatise on the construction and repairs of (14th cent.); II. 105.
and churchyards, an order by Doctors' Commons touching repairs of; II. 89.
Churchill:
John, Captain and Colonel (afterwards Duke of Marlborough), letters of; I. 56; II. 36.
—— order by, 1688; II. 11.
Lord; I. 23.
Churchwardens' accounts:
at Bridgwater (Edw. III. and after); I. 99.
at Glastonbury; I. 102.
Chute, Edward, letters of; I. 56.
Chyles, Nathaniel, his history of the Church of Wells, 17th cent.; I. 94.
Cibber (actor); II. 71.
Cicero, ad Marcum Fratrem, translation of, 17th cent.; II. 46.
Ciceronis Epistolæ (17th cent. copy); I. 45.
Ciceronis, M.T., Rhetorica (MSS. of, 1445); II. 145.
Cinque Ports:
copies of early charters to the; II. 40.
papers relating to the; II. 41.
a MS. on the liberties of the; II. 46.
documents relating to the; II. 91, 92.
Ciphers, keys to; II. 1, 176, 183, 188.
Ciphers and Characters, the Earl of Southampton's, temp. Eliz.; II. 2.
Cipriani, J. B., letters of; I. 127.
Circular, the, of the Secretary of the Historical MSS. Commission; I. vii. 133; II. 263.
Cirencester, abbot of, charter to the; I. 71.
Civil Law, books of the faculty of, list of [15th cent.]; II. 135.
Civil List, the; I. 19.
Civil War, the:
a book relating to; I. 107.
letters and papers relating to, 1640–9; II. 9, 19, 20, 21, 23, 36, 47, 48, 67, 73, 74, 86, 87, 99, 232.
losses in; II. 198.
reminiscences of; II. 147, 148.
See Rebellion, the Great.
Clancarr, Earl of; II. 158.
Clancarty, Lady, letters of; II. 18
Clanmaleere:
Lady, her appearance to a summons, 1690; I. 19.
Lord, to Lord Hatton, 1691 (10 letters); I. 19.
—— rebellion of; I. 19.
Clanranald, the captain of, "bakband" by; II. 185.
Clanricarde, Lord, letters of, 18th cent.; I. 127.
Clare:
county of, answer of the gentry of the, to the Earl of Thomond's proposals, 1642; II. 195.
Duchess of, Margaret, form of holding a court for (15th cent.); II. 66.
Earl of, proposed marriage of his daughter; I. 15.
—— charges against the; I. 30.
—— letter to Lord Hatton, 1702–3; I. 19.
Gilbert and Richard de. See Gloucester and Hertford, Earls of.
Clarence, Duke of, Thomas, household accounts of, 6–9 Hen. V.; I. 96.
Clarendon:
Earl of, Edward Hyde: proceedings in the House of Commons touching his impeachment, 1667; I. 12; II. 3.
—— copy of protest of peers on his commitment, 1677; II. 83.
—— letters of; II. 1, 15, 63.
—— order by, 1662; II. 122. See Hyde, Edward.
second Earl of, letters of the, 1677–9; I. 56.
—— letters of the, 1686; II. 10.
—— appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1685; II. 217.
Lady, Frances, letters of, 1681; II. 15.
House, letter dated at, 1673; II. 216.
Clark, Major-General, letters and papers by; II. 30.
Clarke:
George, to Lord Tarbatt and the Earl of Nottingham, I. 19.
Wm., secretary to General Monk, volumes belonging to; II. 143.
Classics:
books of, in the Advocates' Library; I. 125.
MSS. of the, at Blickling Hall, Norfolk; I. 14.
catalogue of books of the, temp. Hen. VI., at King's College, Cambridge; I. 69.
Clavell, a London bookseller; II. 233.
Claverhouse, —, 1650; II. 198.
Claviours' Books, at Norwich; I. 102.
Clay, Mr.; II. 69.
Clayton, Robert, to Lord and Chr. Hatton; I. 19.
Clements, John:
letter to Lord Hatton, et al.; I. 30.
his petition to the King; I. 30.
Clement's Inn, papers relating to; I. 34.
Clergy, the:
muster of, 1608; II. 73.
note of armour rated on, 1612; II. 86.
loose opinions of, 1717; II. 234.
Clerk, Robert, Col., letters of, 1757; II. 30.
Clerkenwell, house of, conveyance of the; II. 142.
Clermont, Lord, letters of, 1780–1800; II. 14.
Cleveland, Duchess of: account of the despoilment of Bishop Braybroke's corpse in St. Paul's by the, 1675; II. 87.
letter touching the, 1679; II. 18.
Cleves, Anne of. See Anne of Cleves.
Clifford:
barony of, a printed case touching; II. 19.
family of, papers relating to the; I. 35.
—— collections respecting the; II. 123.
Elizabeth, letters to; II. 18.
Francis, letters to; II. 18.
Henry, letters of, temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 19.
Lords, letters to, temp. Hen. VIII. et Eliz.; II. 17.
Lord, letter of, 1621; II. 39.
—— —— 1624; II. 61.
—— to Lord Hatton (? date); I. 19.
—— letters of, 1681; II. 17.
—— —— 17th cent.; II. 15.
—— beginning of 18th cent.; I. xiii., 239, 233.
Thomas, letters of, temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 17.
Clifford's Inn, papers relating to; I. 34.
Clifton, Frances, letters of; II. 73.
Clifton, or Team, History of, by H. Jefferys; I. 53.
Clinton:
Anne, to Lord Hatton; I. 19.
Sir Henry, letters of; II. 29.
Clitherowe, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 19. See Clytherowe.
Clive, Lord, letters of, 1774 sq.; II. 192.
Clonfert, Bishop of, letters of the, 1783–1804; II. 192.
Clopton, parson of, Wm. Spycer, obit of, I. 75.
Close Rolls:
extracts from the; I. 31.
books of extracts from the, temp. Joh. et Hen. III.; I. 31, 32.
extracts from charters in the, Edw. III. to Edw. IV.; I. 32.
Cloth:
entries relating to the manufacture of, 15th cent.; II. 120.
Act prohibiting exportation of [from Ireland]; II. 235.
Clothes, inventories of. See Apparel.
Clough, Mary, to Jane Hatton; I. 30.
Cloyne, visitation books of; I. xii., 129.
Clyn, John, friar of Kilkenny, author of a chronicle; II. 257, 258.
Clytherowe, Margaret, account of her apprehension at York, 1586; I. 99. See Clitherowe.
"Cuntonis Magni Gesta" (at Hamilton Palace); I. 114.
Coaches, proclamation against the excessive use of; I. 34.
Coal digging, 1594; I. 105.
Coal duties, letter touching the lease of the, 1620; II. 58.
Cobb, —, to Besser; I. 37.
Cobham, Lord:
John, letter to [circ. 1356]; II. 133.
Oldcastle; II. 88.
F., signature of, 1591; I. 100.
conspiracy of, 1603; II. 3.

Cobham, Lord—cont.
Ric. Temple, letters of [c. 1716] ; II. 188.
an epistle to (by Congreve) [c. 1726] ; II. 70.
Sir H., letter of ; II. 42.
Sir Henry, ambassador to Spain, instructions to ; II. 97.
Cochrane, Sir John, Colonel, letter of ; II. 176.
Cockburn :
Dr. ; I. 19.
Dr. J., to Lord ——; I. 19.
Major J., letter of; II. 37.
Sir John, of Ormiston, letters of ; II. 191.
Cockermouth, mines at, discourse touching ; II. 40.
Cock-fighting, temp. Car. II. ; II. 32.
Cockpit, letters dated at the, 17th and 18th cent. ; I. 37 ; II. 98, 189.
Codex, the (1750) ; I. 51.
Codrington, Colonel ; I. 27.
Coe, alias Clyfford, Ursula, heir of Joan Lady Knyvett, petition of ; I. 50.
Coffee-house keepers, summoned before the House of Commons ; I. 44.
Coffee-houses, the London, 1675 ; I. 19.
Cohue :
——, to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
Mace, to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
Coin :
tracts on, 16th cent. ; II. 43.
arguments about the scarcity of, 1611 ; II. 46.
a discourse touching the alteration of, 1626, by Sir R. Cotton ; II. 81.
silver, deficiency of, 1717 ; II. 234.
Coinage :
letters touching the, 16th cent. ; II. 40.
of England and Ireland, papers relating to the ; I. 44.
Coining, by private persons in Ireland ; II. 10.
Coins and medals, Scottish, catalogue of, by Bishop Keith ; II. 201.
Cokaine, Sir Aston, poems of (autograph) ; I. 61.
Coke, Sir Edward (afterwards Lord) :
abstracts of all the cases in the 11 books of, in French ; I. 31.
his case concerning Charles I.'s trial ; I. 31.
Chief Justice of the Common Pleas ; I. 33.
letter of, against play-acting in Lent ; I. 100.
letter touching the case of ; II. 60.
letters of ; I. 100 ; II. 35.
letters to ; I. 48, 54.
speeches of, in Parliament ; I. 45.
Sir John [Edward ?], speeches of, in Parliament, temp. Car. I. ; I. 61.
Colchester :
abbey of St. John the Baptist, register of the ; II. 7.
—— "leger-book" of the ; ib.
Coldstream :
charters relating to ; II. 186.
monastery of, charters of the ; I. 111.
Cole :
Mr., letter to ; I. 23.
Nat., to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
Thomas, letters from, to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
Coleman, Edward, secretary to the Duchess of York :
letters of, 1675 ; I. 54.
newsletters of, 1675–8 ; I. 56.
his trial, 1678 ; I. 23.
Coles, Samuel, to Lord Hatton ; I. 30.
College, "the Protestant joiner," trial of ; I. 44.
College, proposal to endow a, near Dublin ; II. 233, 238.
Colleges, English and Scottish, in foreign cities ; I. 92, 120, 121. See Lisbon, Paris, Ratisbon, Valladolid.
Colleyne, John, probate of will of ; II. 157.
Collier :
Bishop, letters of; II. 204.
Sir Robert, his opinion touching the alteration of wine ; I. 54.
Collings, P., to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
Collins, Dr., Provost of King's College, Cambridge, letters to ; I. 67, 68.
Collis, Mrs., of Leicester :
MSS. lately in possession of ; II. xiii.
report on same ; II. 76.
Cologne, Three Kings of, story of the ; II. 106, 145.
Cologne, letters dated at, 17th cent. ; I. 35.
Colonies, considerations relating to the present condition of the, 1734 ; II. 3.
Colonna, Guido de, his Historia Trojana (15th cent.) ; I. 45. See Columna.
Colours, recipes for (15th cent.) ; II. 80.
Colquhoun :
J., of Luss, letters of ; II. 191.
Major, letters of ; II. 179.
Colshill, Rob., instructions to ; II. 95.
Colt, William Dutton, letters of ; I. 19, 56.
Colthurst, Thomas, to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
Columbani, Missa Sancti (in the Advocates' Library) ; I. 1 18.
Columna, Guido, translation of his "Destruction of Troy," by Lydgate ; I. 60. See Colonna.
Colville :
James, of Uchiltre ; II. 184.
Robert, of Cleishe ; II. 184.
Colyns, Thomas, prior of Tywardreth, letters from and to ; II. 34.
Combat :
Judicial ; II. 194.
a trial by, 1602 ; II. 184.
Combats [single], a Discourse of the lawfulness of, by Sir R. Cotton ; II. 80.
Comedies, expenses for, 1632 (before Charles I. and his Queen) ; II. 122, 123.
Comeley, George, to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
Comestor, Peter, copy of the Preface of ; II. 85.
Commentary :
a, on the Gospel of St. John, 14th cent. ; II. 34.
a, by Thomas Reid, corrected by James VI. ; II. 201.
Commerce, a treaty of, between England and Prussia, 1388 ; I. 109.
Commercial affairs in Ireland, documents relating to ; I. 132.
Commission, Lords of, benefices granted by the, 1649–54 ; II. 79.
Commissioners, an inquiry by, into "exacted fees and innovated offices ;" I. 32.
Commissioners of inquiry, 1662 ; I. 47.
Committee, a, to inquire into the miscarriages of the late war. 1667 ; I. 51.
Common Pleas, Court of, offices in the ; II. 81.
—— a treatise concerning the ; II. 90.
Common Pleas or De Banco Roll, 22 Edw. I. ; I. 11.
Common Prayer, Book of :
original MS. of the ; I. 2 ; its history ; I. 2, 3. reasons for not using the service of the ; I. 90.
history of matters touching the ; II. 43.
a conference at Lambeth about things to be reformed in the ; II. 43.
Council letter on observance of the, 1573 ; II. 153.
another letter concerning the ; II. 153. See Liturgy ; Prayer Book.
Common Prayer, the Order of, used in the English congregation at Frankfort ; II. 76, 77.
Commonplace Books ; II. 1.
Commons, House of :
bill and proceedings in the, for the attainder of Sir John Fenwick, 1596 ; I. 31.
James I.'s visit to the, 1607 ; I. 57.
letter of James I. to the Speaker of the, 1607 ; I. 69.
adjournment of the, 1610 ; I. 57.
list of the, 1614 ; I. 13.
address by the, to James I., with his answer, 1621 ; II. 18.
protest of the, 1621 ; II. 88.
reproof of the, by James I. ; ib.
letter of James I. to the serjeant-at-arms of the, 1621 ; II. 69.
note-books of debates in the, 1620–1 and 1625 ; I. 13.
"A Relation to prove that the House of Commons had equall power with the Peeres in point of Iudicature," by Sir R. Cotton, 1621 ; II. 8, 90.
notes of proceedings in the, temp. Car. I. ; I. 42.
remonstrances of the, to the King, 1626 and 1628 ; I. 42.
declaration of the, and impeachment of Buckingham, 1626 ; I. 42.
protestation of the, temp. Car. I. ; II. 9.
Observations upon "Phoelon's" arraignment by the (two books) ; I. 82.
speeches of Charles I. to the ; I. 61.
addresses of the, to Charles I. ; I. 61.
letters of Charles I. to the Speaker of the ; I. 43.
account of proceedings in the, 1640 ; I. 63.
order by the, 1641 ; II. 9.
journals and extracts from the journals of the, 1661–85 ; II. 78.
proceedings in the, for impeaching the Earl of Clarendon, 1667 ; I. 12.
proceedings in the, 1672 ; II. 79.
impeachment of Lord Danby in the ; I. 20.
its dispute with Charles II., touching the election of a Speaker ; I. 23.
proceedings in the, 1715 ; II. 235, 253.
news from the, 1753 ; I. 51.
letters on debates in the, 1757 ; II. 29.
notices of proceedings in the, 1779–88 ; II. 14.
observations on the Journals of the, 18th cent. ; I. 54.
Speaker of the. See Phelips, Sir Edward.
Speakers of the, letters to ; II. 79.
See Parliament.
Commonwealth, the :
orders of the Protector and Council for securing the peace of, 1655 ; I. 49.
a book relating to the period of ; I. 109.
documents of the period of ; II. 73.
Commonwealth, propositions for the benefit of the (? date) ; I. 54.
Commonwealth of the realm of England, a Discourse of the, by Sir Thomas Smith (temp. Eliz.) ; I. 42 ; II. 43.
Compleat Parson (A), pamphlet entitled, by J. Doderidge ; II. 89.

Digitized by Google

Compton:
Sir Francis, letters of; I. 36.
Lord William, letters of; I. 100.
S., letter of; II. 70.
Spencer, to Chr. Hatton; I. 19.
Computi, at Eaton Hall, Cheshire; II. 69.
in the Chapter Archives, York; I. 97. See Accounts.
Computus, a, temp. Hen. VIII.; I. 51.
Computus Books, of St. John's Hospital, Cambridge [Hic. III. and Hen. VII.]; I. 74.
Computus Rolls, of the priory of Lillechercbe or Heyham (Kent); I. 74.
Conche, Bishop of, Inquisitor General, letter from, to the King of Spain; I. 54.
Concordances. See Evangelia; and Greek Testament.
Concordantiæ Bibliorum, 13th cent.; I. 45.
Condé, Prince of:
letter from James I. to the; II. 51.
letters of the, 1615; II. 52.
letter from the Duke of Buckingham to the; II. 63.
Condé, Princess of, letter of George I. to the, 1717; II. 189.
Conference, debates of the Lords and Commons in the, 1688; I. 54.
Confiscated estates, Commissioners of, order by the, 1652; II. 188.
Conformity, Occasional, bill touching, 1703; I. 52; opposition to its repeal, 1719; II. 235.
Confraternity, letters of; II. 34.
Congreve, Wm.; II. 71.
letters of; II. 70.
portrait of, ib.
last verses of, ib.
his signature as a witness; II. 70.
Coningsby, Thomas, Lord Justice of Ireland, letters of; I. xiii.; II. 232.
Conjurations, a book of, 17th cent.; II. 198.
Connaught:
plantation of, temp. Car. I.; II. 157, 158.
Lord President of, Sir Charles Coote, declaration by, [temp. Car. I.]; II. 28.
Governor and Council of, letter to the (no date); II. 156.
Connecticut, church of, concordat with "the Catholic remainder of the ancient Church of Scotland;" II. 205.
Connor, Bishop of, William, indulgence by, 1257; I. 26.
"Considerations touching Intercourse, presented to the King, 1630," by "P. S."; I. 32.
Consignation Books, in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich; I. 86.
Consistorial law (Scotch), collections touching questions of; I. 125.
Constable of England, ordinances of the, 6 Edw. IV.; II. 31.
Constable:
George, his "Book touching the order and government of a Nobleman's house;" I. 45.
J., letters of; I. 56.
Marmaduke, entertainment of Queen Elizabeth by; I. 45.
Sir Philip (a Recusant), papers relating to; I. 45.
family, of Everingham, history of the; I. 45.
Constance, Council of (1415), protest by the nobles of Bohemia and Moravia to the, in reference to the burning of John Huss and Jerome of Prague; I. 121.
Constantinople:
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 61, 62, 114.
newsletters from, 1614; II. 31.
—— 1701; I. 37, 38.
Constitutiones Clementis V. Papæ, a Johanne XXI. confirmatæ, et Avinione publicatæ, 1318; II. 81.
Contarini, Francesco, his "Relazione d'Inghilterra;" II. 45.
Conte, J., to Lord Hatton; I. 19.
Continent, the:
Notes of a tour on, by John Harvey, 1688–9; I. 62.
Notes of a journey on, 1699; I. 13.
letters from, 18th cent.; II. 189.
Conventicles:
proclamation against seditions, 1660; I. 47.
a warrant to levy fines for attending, 1670; II. 48.
letter concerning, 1675; II. 22.
Scotch, letters touching; II. 203.
Convention Parliament, the; I. 113.
a printed invitation to the, 1688; II. 32.
proceedings in the, 1689; II. 3.
account of the management of public affairs till the, [1689]; II. 8.
history of the, 1689; I. 45. See Conference. conveyance, deeds of:
at Norwich; I. 102.
in the registers at Norwich; I. 88.
at Nottingham; I. 106.
at York; I. 108, 110.
Convocation:
divisions in, 1700; II. 233.
letters touching, 18th cent.; II. 233, 234.
the Rights of, a work by Atterbury; I. 42.
in Ireland, papers relating to; II. 156, 157.
—— proceedings of the, &c., 18th cent.; II. 234.
Convocation Books, the, belonging to the Corporation of Wells; I. 106, 107.
Conway:
Lord, letters of, 1676–86; I. 56.
Edward, (afterwards Baron), letters of; I. 100.
Sir Edward, Secretary of State, letters of, 1622–3; I. 67; II. 61.
—— signature of; I. 67.
II. S., letters of; II. 38.
Conway Castle, letters relating to, 1643–6; II. 87.
Cook, G., letter of; II. 26.
Cooke:
Edward, to Chr. Hatton (1662); I. 19.
Francis, letters of; I. 42.
Mr., letters of, 1674–85; I. 56.
Robert, letter of; II. 17.
Coote, Chidley, Captain; II. 218, 219, 220.
Cope:
Sir John, Lord Advocate of Scotland, account of his defeat at Falkirk, 1745; I. 115.
—— letters of; II. 191.
Sir Walter, his Discourse of Trade, 1629; II. 4.
Copenhagen, letters dated at, 18th cent.; II. 189, 190, 213, 216.
Copley, J. S., letters of; I. 127.
Copper money, Wood's patent for, and assay of; II. 235, 255.
Copyright (1644); II. 197.
Corbet:
Richard, Esquire, of Market Drayton, collection of; II. xi.
—— report on his MSS.; II. 77.
Andrew, letters of; I. 61.
Dr., Master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, letters to; II. 122.
Robert, instructions to, 1575; II. 97.
Corbets, lords of Hadley, grants by; II. 77.
Corby; I. 31.
Cordell, —, letter of; I. 19.
Cork:
Corporation of, report on the records of the; I. 128.
names of livings and benefices in, 1672; I. 129.
county of, lands in; II. 217.
Countess of, letter to the, 1645; II. 19.
Earl and Countess of, papers touching the estates of the, under sequestration, 1645–46; II. 19.
Earl of, letter of the, 1671; II. 212.
and Burlington, Countess of, letter to the, 1640–2; II. 19.
and Cloyne, visitation books of; I. xii., 129.
and Ross, Bishop of, Peter Browne, catalogue of the library of; I. 129.
Corn:
tumultuous assemblies to prevent transportation of, 1629; I. 57.
Council letters touching, 1629–31; ib.
rates of duty on (at Waterford); I. 131.
Cornic, —, to Lord Hatton; I. 19.
Cornish language, a dramatic mystery in the; II. 106.
Cornwall:
sheriff of, and others, letter from the, to Wolsey; II. 34.
election of knights of the shire for, 1627; I. 43.
justices of, letters of the, touching the election of knights of the shire, 1627; I. 62.
the affair of the loan in (temp. Car. I.?); I. 60.
letter touching elections in, and the state of the militia, 1702; I. 23.
charters, deeds, rolls, and papers relating to lands in; I. 30, 51, 52, 53; II. 90, 94, 95.
tinning trade in; I. 41.
Cornwall, duchy of:
papers relating to mines in the; I. 41.
letters concerning the; I. 50. See Doddridge, Sir John.
Cornwall, Earl of, John, letter of Edw. III. respecting the body of; I. 96.
Cornwallis:
Sir Charles letters by, on Spanish affairs, temp. Jac. I.; I. 61.
—— letter of, to James I.; I. 62.
—— treatise by, on war with Spain; II. 43.
Sir Thomas, his appointment as commissioner on the Scotch Borders; II. 96.
Coronation:
the office of carrying the spurs before the King at his, 1685; I. 21.
Forma coronationis Regum et Reginarum Angliæ (16th cent.); II. 5.
ditto, 17th cent.; II. 80.
"Coronation and Reception of Princes," a book so endorsed; I. 31.
Coronations, summonses to attend; I. 33.
Coroners' inquests, records of, in the registers at Norwich; I. 88.
Coroners' inquest rolls, at Norwich; I. 103.
Coroners' rolls, temp. Hen. III., at Norwich; I. 104.
Correro, Marc' Antonio, his "Relazione d'Inghilterra;" II. 45.
Correspondence:
a bundle of, 1729–1818, in the Hatton Collection; I. 38.
a collection of, 1710–30, in Lord Herries' Collection; I. 45.
Corriton, Mr.; I. 51.
Corry:
Isaac, letters of; I. 127.
Trevor (at Dantsic), letters of; II. 26.

Digitized by Google

Corryton, Sir John, occurrences between him and the Privy Council touching the loan (temp. Car. I. ?) ; I. 60.
Corss, John, his collections from the records of the Scottish Parliament ; II. 186.
Cortachy Castle, report on the Earl of Airlie's papers at ; II. 186.
Cortenuo, M. de, letter of ; II. 62.
Corti, Nicholas, to Lady Hatton ; I. 19.
Corvisers, Company of, at Coventry, account book of the, 1652–1760 ; I. 101.
Costume, military and civil, specimens of, from early times, by J. Carter ; II. 144. See Apparel.
Cosyn, Dr., his History of the Church of Wells, 1506 ; I. 94.
Cotesl, Thomas, of Tichfield, Hants, letters to ; II. 23.
Cottell, Simon, Capt., letter to ; II. 21.
Cottington :
Mr. ; I. 43.
Francis, letters of ; I. 57 ; II. 54.
Cottington and Hyde, letter of, dated at Madrid, 1649 ; II. 78.
Cotton :
Andrew, to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
A. S., custos rotulorum for Denbigh, letter of ; II. 88.
Bartholomew de, a portion of his "Historia Anglicana," at Norwich ; I. 89.
Mary, to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
R., to the Earl of Nottingham (1704) ; I. 19.
Sir Robert ; I. 22.
—— "Judicature in Parliament" written by ; I. 31.
—— his answer to certain propositions of peace and war, made to Prince Henry ; I. 32 ; II. 44, 90.
—— his abstract of the question of precedency between England and Spain ; I. 32 ; II. 90.
—— a MS. formerly belonging to ; I. 114.
—— an information against, 1629 ; II. 1.
—— speech of, in Parliament (1625) ; II. 3, 91.
—— his discourse touching the equal authority of both Houses of Parliament in point of Judicature ; II. 8, 90.
—— his relation of proceedings against ambassadors, &c. ; II. 44.
—— Arguments at the Conference about the liberty of a freeman (printed in Cotton's Posthuma) ; II. 79.
—— his Considerations for repressing the increase of Recusants ; II. 86.
—— collections of treatises by ; I. 42 ; II. 44, 90, 91.
—— an "epicedium" to ; II. 91.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
Cottrell :
Sir Charles, letters from and to ; II. 82, 83.
—— documents relating to, ib.
Chas. L., letter of ; II. 82 ; letters to, ib.
Sir C. Lodowick, journals of ; II. 83.
Sir Clement ; II. 83 ; letters of, ib.
Council :
Acts of, a volume of extracts from the, temp. Phil. et Mar. ; II. 46.
the Great, at York, letter from, to the citizens of London, 1640 ; I. 63.
the Privy. See Privy Council.
the Secret (1683?) ; I. 27.
of State, a remonstrance to the, (? date) ; II. 229.
a General, at Pisa ; II. 156.
Counties, descriptions of, by Norden ; I. 31. See England.
Coupar, letter dated at, 1710 ; II. 24.
Couper, monastery of. See Cupar.
Courland, Duke of ; II. 176.
Duchess of, letters from and to the, 1733 ; II. 217.
Court :
expenses of journeys to, 17th cent. ; II. 199 (bis).
officers at, tract concerning, temp. Edw. II. ; II. 41.
news, 1670–1704 ; I. 26.
—— (17th cent. ?) ; I. 27.
life and court news, letters giving accounts of, 18th cent. ; II. 29.
and city news, 1673–92 ; I. 44.
and town news, 18th cent. ; II. 23, 24, 25.
and Courtiers, a discourse of ; II. 4.
Court baron, collections touching a ; I. 49.
Court Books of the mayor and aldermen of Norwich, from 1492 ; I. 102.
Court Leet Rolls, at King's College, Cambridge ; I. 69.
—— at Norwich ; I. 103.
—— See Leet Books.
Court martial, opinion as to procedure by ; II. 8.
Court Rolls :
at Baginton Hall, co. Warwick ; II. 78.
at Belvoir Castle ; I. 10.
at King's College, Cambridge ; I. 68.
at Pembroke College, Cambridge ; I. 70.
at Chirk Castle ; II. 74.
at Dytchley, Oxford ; II. 31.
at Eaton Hall, Cheshire ; II. 69.
in the Hatton collection ; I. 30, 33, 34.
at Loton Park, near Shrewsbury ; II. 65.
at Norwich (of Courts of Record) ; I. 102.
in the Shrewsbury collection ; I. 50.
Court Rolls—cont.
in Lord de Tabley's collection ; I. 46.
at Wardour Castle ; II. 34.
and Court books, Welsh ; II. 88.
Courtenay, Hugh de, deed of grant by, 5 Edw. III. ; I. 53.
Courtenays, pedigree of the ; II. 93.
Courtney :
Lord Thomas, Lord Keeper, letter to (circ. 1630) ; II. 4.
Sir Wm., letter to ; I. 31.
Courts of Record, in London and Westminster, a "Breviat" concerning the ; II. 89.
Covenant, the Solemn League and ; II. 235.
oaths taken in reference to ; I. 103.
accounts of losses during the time of, in quartering troops ; I. 122.
documents relating to ; I. 122, 123.
papers relating to ; II. 169.
history of the troubles excited by, 1638–49 ; II. 201.
Covenanters, the Scottish ; I. 55 ; II. 157.
—— letter from, 1639 ; II. 86.
Covenanting forces, list of goods plundered by the ; II. 128.
Covenanting leaders, letter from the, 1639 ; II. 127.
Covenanting ministers, letters between some of the ; I. 114.
Coventry :
Corporation of, records of the ; I. xi.
—— report on the records of the ; I. 100.
guild of Corpus Christi, accounts of the ; I. 101.
indenture touching disputes between the commonalty and priory of ; II. 49.
inquisition touching the Prior's half and the Earl's half of ; II. 49.
Coventry, Earl of :
his papers at Croome Court, I. x.
report on his MSS. ; I. 34.
Thomas, letter of, 1690 ; II. 16.
Coventry :
Sir Henry, letters of ; I. 56.
Sir Thomas, Lord Keeper, letters of ; I. 100 ; II. 58, 59.
—— letter to ; II. 28.
—— official papers of, 1626–39 ; I. x., 34.
—— order of ; I. 57.
—— signature of ; I. 57.
—— speech of, in Parliament ; I. 43.
Sir William, Privy Councillor, letters of ; II. 15 (bis), 17.
—— letters to ; II. 15, 18.
Coventry and Lichfield :
a taxation made in the diocese of, 1370 ; II. 49.
Bishop of, letter of the, 1621 ; II. 59.
William [Lloyd], Bishop of, letter of [1692–9] ; I. 19.
Coverley, Roger de, letter signed, 1735 ; II. 69.
Covert, Anthony, to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
Cowell, Dr., Master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, letter to ; II. 122.
Cowley, Abraham, receipt by ; II. 88.
Cowley's David ; II. 70.
Cowper, Countess, and Baroness Lucas : collection of ; II. ix.
report on the MSS. of, at Wrest Park, Bedford ; II. 4.
Cowper, Lord, letters of, 1680 aq. ; II. 16.
Cox :
Sir Richard, letters of ; I. xiii ; II. 232.
Richard (Lord Chancellor of Ireland), to the Earl of Nottingham (12 letters) ; I. 19.
—— —— to Lord Hatton, and another (6 letters) ; I. 19.
Cracow, newsletters from, 1702 ; I. 38.
Craggs, J., Secretary of State, letters of ; I. 41 ; II. 189, 190, 212.
—— letters to ; II. 188, 189.
Craghead's Book, Andrew Hamilton's answer to ; II. 253.
Craig, James, letter of ; II. 24.
Craigie, Thomas, letter of ; II. 28.
Crail, collegiate church of, register of the ; I. 111.
Cranborne, Viscount, principal Secretary to James I., letter to ; I. 43.
Cranfield, Sir Lionel, letters of ; I. 57 ; II. 53, 54, 58.
Cranmer, Archbishop :
letters of ; II. 18.
his order for removal of images from churches ; II. 155.
Cranston, Captain, letter to Lord Cranston ; I. 115.
Crathes Castle, report on Sir J. H. Burnett's MSS. at ; II. 197.
Craven :
Lord, letters of, 1673 ; I. 56.
Sir W., letter touching the widow of ; II. 54.
Crawford and Balcarres, Earl of :
the Dunecht collection belonging to the ; II. xvii.
report on his MSS. at Dunecht ; II. 181.
Crawford and Lindsey, Earl of, John, letter of ; II. 184.
Crawford :
Mr., letters of (1693–9) ; II. 16.
Thomas, secretary to the Earl of Stair, letters of ; II. 189.
Crawmond, William of, charter to ; II. 157.
Creake Abbey, Norfolk, charters of ; I. 63. See Creke.
Creditors, letters of protection against ; I. 34.
Creech, Thomas, letter of ; II. 70.
Creed, Richard, to Lord Hatton ; I. 19.
Creke, abbey of, charter to the ; I. 71. See Creake.
Cremona, attempt on, 1702 ; I. 38.

Digitized by Google

Cremonini, Cesare, an Italian play by; I. 32.
Crescentiis, Petrus de, his "Liber Ruralium Commodorum," (MS. 15th cent. at Everingham Park); I. 45.
Cressett, James:
correspondence of, while ambassador in Germany, 1693–1703; I. ix., 40, 41.
letter from, to Lord Nottingham; I. 19.
letters to; I. 36, 38.
Cressing (Essex), chapel of; II. 93.
Cretoy, Mons. de, Walsingham's letter to; I. 61.
Cretyng, William, seal of; II. 39.
Crewe:
Nathaniel, sub-rector of Lincoln College, Oxon.; II. 132.
Sir Thomas, his speeches to James I.; I. 43.
Crichton, Sir James, letters of; II. 191.
Crichtoun, Lord, letter of; II. 190.
Crispe, Henry William, letter of; II. 91.
Croft, Wm., letter of; II. 78.
Crofte, Sir James, commission to; II. 96.
Croke, Sir John, letter to; II. 223.
Cromarty, Lord, to Lord ——, 1703; I. 19.
Crome Court, Worcester:
the Earl of Coventry's papers at; I. x.
report on MSS. at; I. 34.
Crompton:
Mr., letter to; II. 47.
Thomas, letters of; II. 47, 48.
Cromwell, Oliver, Lord General and Lord Protector:
heads of agenda by Parliament on his appointment as Protector; I. 43.
a visitation made by order of; I. 53.
letters of; I. 30; II. 20, 122.
—— to Colonel Hammond; I. xii., 116.
—— to members of his family; II. 98. order touching his portrait; II. 98.
letters to; II. 87, 98.
letters relating to; II. 36, 113.
offices, letter signed by; I. 55.
orders by; I. 55; II. 115.
petitions to; II. 36, 221.
speech of, to the Parliament, 1657; II. 87.
Cromwell, Richard, Protector: proclamation by; II. 93.
writ by, ib.
letters to and from; II. 98.
Cromwell:
family of, domestic letters of the; II. 98.
Henry, letters of, 1640 sq.; II. 9.
—— Deputy of Ireland, letters to and from; II. 98.
—— documents relating to his pardon, &c., ib.
Lord, Ralph, grant to, 27 Hen. VI.; I. 58.
Thomas, Secretary of State and Lord Privy Seal, letter from, to Dr. Boner; II. 42.
—— letters of; II. 72.
—— letters to; II. 78, 152, 153.
Crosbie, Richard, aeronaut, letters of; I. 127.
Cross, history of the, 15th cent.; II. 66.
Cross, Mary, letters of; II. 73.
Cross-raguel, house of, register of the; I. 111.
Croth, Wm., to Lord ——; I. 19.
Crowcumbe Court, report on Colonel Carew's MSS. at; II. 74.
Crown, book of oaths to be taken by officers under the; I. 31.
Crown lands, warrants for grants and leases of, 1626–39; I. 39.
Croxden abbey, remarks on; II. 48.
Croxon, Mr., letter to; II. 47.
Croxton abbey, registers and rentals of; I. 11.
Croyland abbey, chartulary of; II. 4.
Crusade. See Bologne, Godfrey of.
Cruso and Robinson, persons named; II. 117.
Crusoe, Dr., mentioned in college accounts, 1661–75; II. 117, 123.
Cullen:
Lady, letter from; I. 19.
Lord; I. 16.
—— letters to Lord Hatton, 1681–85; I. 19.
Culloden, battle of, narratives of the; I. 115; II. 27.
Culpeper, Lord, sent to the Prince of Orange, 1688; I. 16.
Cumberland, county of; II. 123.
documents and MSS. relating to; II. 123, 124, 125.
Cumberland, Countess of, Margaret (born 1560), letter of, giving an account of her life; II. 15.
Cumberland, Earl of:
George, and his Countess, inscriptions on the family picture of (1558–1647); II. 1.
proposed grant to the, 1603; II. 28.
his request to the House of Commons (temp. Jac. I.); I. 62.
document concerning the [1605?]; II. 124.
letter to the, 1605; II. 181.
letters of the, 1640 sq.; II. 9.
Henry, Lord Clifford, letters of, 1640–42; II. 19.
Cumberland, Earls of:
letters to the, temp. Hen. VIII. et Eliz.; II. 17, 19.
temp. Jac. I.; II. 13 (bis).
Cumberland, Duke of, William:
letter of, 1732; II. 24.
letters relating to, 1745–6; I. 115; II. 187.
Cumberland, Duke of, William—cont.
letter of the; I. 115.
——, 1763; II. 13.
—— (? date); II. 24.
Cumbernauld, abbots of, grants to and by; II. 77.
Cummins, Charles, to the Earl of Winchilsea; I. 20.
Cumnor, hundred court at; II. 150.
Cundra (?), D. Luis, to the Queen [Anne] and Lord ——; I. 18.
Cunningham:
Alex., letters of; II. 188, 189, 190.
General J., letters of; II. 13.
William, letter of; II. 27.
Cupar in Angus:
abbey of, charters and deeds connected with the; II. 187, 202.
—— register of the; I. 111.
abbots of, commissions by the; II. 187.
regality court of; ib.
Curzon, N., letters of, from France, 1785; I. 55.
Custom House, proceedings at the, 1698; I. 43.
Customs:
papers relating to the; I. 34.
Observations on the case of (cited in Coke's 12th Report) II. 8.
Commissioner of, E. Trelawny, papers of; I. 32.
Commissioners of, letter to the, 1673; I. 27.
Customs, old; I. 101.
Custos Rotulorum, commission to a; I. 33.
Custumal, a; II. 182.
Custumals, in the Bishop's Registry, Wells; I. 93.
Cutler, Mary, to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Cutts, Lord, to the Earl of Nottingham, 1703–3; I. 20.
"Cyclian Commonwealth," the, and the answer to it; I. 14.
Cythnia, argument for the pastoral drama of; II. 6.

D.

Da., An., intercepted letters from, to Mr. Sparry; I. 47.
Daccombe, Sir John, letter of; II. 53.
Dacre, Francis, letters of; II. 124.
Dacres, Lord, English commissioner at Carlisle, 1561; II. 123.
Dahl, Pope's portrait by; II. 71.
Dakers, Robert, and another, to John Hasilwood; I. 20.
Dakin, Arthur, letters to and from; II. 50.
Dale, Dr., his negotiations at Brussels; II. 39.
Dalez, Baron, to Lord Galway; I. 20.
Dalgarno, George, to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Dalhousie, Earl of:
his collections at Panmure and Brechin Castles; I. xii.
report on his MSS. at Panmure and Brechin; I. 117.
his collection at Brechin Castle; II. xviii. report on his MSS. at Brechin Castle; II. 186.
William, letter of, 1637; II. 184.
Dalinglio (Suff.), church of, law paper concerning the; II. 89.
Dalkeith:
Lady, Anna Villiers, letters of; II. 184.
Lord, letters of; II. 184.
D'Allegrete, Marquis of, to Mr. Methuen, I. 20.
Dallington, R., a book of aphorisms by, 1609; I. 32.
Dalmahoy, report on the Earl of Morton's papers at; II. 183.
Dalrymple:
David, letters of; II. 25, 27.
Sir D., Bart., letters of; II. 189.
Sir Hew, Lord President of Session, letters of; II. 26.
Hugh, letters of; II. 190.
James, letters of; II. 189.
Sir John, Lord Stair, letters of; I. 116.
—— letters of; II. 190.
Robert, letters of; II. 27, 190 (bis).
Thomas, letters of; II. 24, 93.
Dalston:
John, to the Countess Dowager of Thanet; I. 20.
Thomas, to the Countess of Thanet; I. 20.
Daly, Bishop of Chester, letters of; I. 128.
Dalyell, Sir T., letters and orders of, to the Earl of Airlie, 1680; II. 187.
Dalzell, General Thomas, letter of, to the Earl of Lauderdale, 1667; I. 55.
D'Ameland, Lady Augusta; II. 192.
Dampiere, Mons. de, to Lord ——; I. 20.
Danbury, a rental of, 2 Eliz.; I. 33.
Danby, Lord; II. 214.
charges against; I. 30.
letters of, 1677; II. 83. 1679–84; I. 20.
Dancing-girls, exhibitions of, 13 Hen. VII.; I. 107.
Danett, Audley, letter of; I. 49.
Daniel of Over Tabley, genealogies and arms of the family of; I. 49.
Daniell:
P.; I. 49.
Sir Thomas, a volume on the case of; II. 43.
Daniells, Samuel, a "pastorelle trage-comedye" by; I. 116.
Danish princes and kings, genealogies of; II. 49.
Dantzick, letters dated at, 17th and 18th cent.; II. 176, 217.

Digitized by Google

Danvers:
Daniel, to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Sir John, letter of; II. 87.
Darell, Nathaniel, to Lord and Chr. Hatton; I. 20.
Darent. See Tharent.
Darey, Richard, letter of; II. 22.
Darien Settlement, papers relating to the; I. 123.
Darmestadt, Prince of; I. 21.
Darnley, Lord Henry, consort of Mary Queen of Scots:
letter of; II. 183.
a confession about the death of, 1569; II. 41.
letter concerning the murder of; II. 183.
See Henry and Mary.
Dartmouth:
Earl of, MSS. of the; II. x.
—— report on his MSS. at Patshull, co. Staff.; II. 9.
—— William Legge, 1st, correspondence of, circ. 1714; II. 12.
Earls of, letters to, 18th and 19th cent.; II. 12.
Lady, letter of, 1688; II. 11.
Lord, letters of, 1676–86; I. 56.
—— letters, commissions, and instructions to, 1665–89; II. 10, 11, 12.
—— letters of, ib.
—— papers relating to his imprisonment; II. 12.
Dasent, G. Webbe, Esq., one of the Historical MSS. Commissioners, his report on the documents in the House of Lords; I. 1–4.
Davenant:
Bishop, his opinion touching the change of Church government (Charles I.); I. 13.
Charles, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 20.
Henry, letters of; II. 189.
Wm., letter of; II. 20.
D'Avenant, Mons., letters of; II. 189. See Davenant, Henry.
Davenport, family of, charters and genealogy of the; I. 47. See Bromley-Davenport.
Davenports, of Capesthorne, Cheshire, documents relating to the; II. 81.
Davers, Sir John, v. Lady George (in Star Chamber); II. 3.
David I., King of Scotland; I. 121.
charter of; I. 126.
David II., King of Scotland, charters of; I. 121.
David, Earl of Huntingdon (afterwards King of Scotland), charter of; I. ix., 14.
Davies, Sir John:
an argument upon the question of Impositions by, 1624; I. 32; II. 3.
his work on the state of Ireland; II. 40.
letter of; II. 33.
Davison, William:
proceedings in the Star Chamber against [temp. Eliz.]; II. 41.
instructions to, on his mission to the Low Countries, 1576–7; II. 97 (bis).
letters of, 1584; II. 45.
Dawson, J., to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Day:
John, a tract printed by, 1561; II. 44.
John, to the Earl of Nottingham, 1702; I. 20.
Dayrolles, Mr., letters of; II. 190.
Deaneries:
a book relating to; I. 32.
valuation of, with their tenths; II. 89.
Debenture, an original, under the Act of Settlement; II. 217, 221.
Debt, arrests for, at York; I. 168.
Debt, a quitclaim of, 49 Eliz.; II. 72.
Debts, commissioners appointed to examine the, 1711; I. 54.
Debts' Court, rolls of the, at Bridgwater; I. 99.
—— at Norwich; I. 102.
Decalogue, Latin treatises on the, 15th cent.; I. 60.
Decretals:
fragments of the, 14th cent.; I. 101.
leaves of; I. 107.
commentary on the (of Gregory IX.); II. 140.
20 vols. of lectures on the, 15th cent.; II. 200.
Dee, Dr., the necromancer, letter of; I. 132.
Deeds:
register of, at Aberdeen; I. 122.
at Abingdon; I. 98.
in the Almack Collection; I. 55.
at Baginton Hall, Warwick; II. 78.
at Belvoir Castle; I. 10, 12.
at Bridgwater; I. 99.
in the MS. Chartulary of Bristol; I. 97.
at Clare College, Cambridge; II. 113.
at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; I. 65.
at Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge; II. 118.
at Jesus College, Cambridge; II. 119. of King's College, Cambridge; I. 69.
at Pembroke College, Cambridge; I. 70.
at St. John's College, Cambridge; I. 74, 77.
of St. Peter's College, Cambridge; I. 77, 78, 79.
at Canons Ashby, co. Northampton; II. 64.
at Capesthorne, Cheshire; II. 81.
at Cathcart House; II. 24.
Deeds—cont.
at Cortachy Castle; II. 187.
at Coventry; I. 100, 101.
at Dunster Castle; I. 36.
at Eaton Hall, Cheshire; II. 69.
in the Hatton Collection; I. 14, 33.
at Loton Park, near Shrewsbury; II. 64, 65.
at Market Drayton; II. 77.
at Norwich; I. 102.
in the Registers at Norwich; I. 88, 89.
at Nottingham; I. 106.
at Corpus Christi College, Oxford; II. 126, 127, 128.
at Lincoln College, Oxford; II. 132.
at New College, Oxford; II. 136.
at Queen's College, Oxford; II. 138.
at Panmure Castle; I. 117.
belonging to Earl Spencer; II. 13, 20.
of the Standish family; II. 92, 93.
abstracts, copies, and notes of, in Lord de Tabley's collection; I. 46, 47, 49.
in the Trelawny Collection; I. 50, 53.
at Worthenbury, co. Flint; II. 65, 66.
at Wrottesley, Staffordshire; II. 46, 47.
of the Vicars Choral of Wells; I. 93.
in the Liber Albus at Wells; I. 94.
enrolments of, at Wells; I. 106.
at York; I. 110.
enrolments of, at York; I. 108.
Deer (in Aberdeenshire), prior of; II. 208.
Defoe, Daniel (query respecting); II. 192.
Delabertonche, P., to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Delafaye, Charles, letters of; II. 189, 232, 234, 248, 249.
De-la-Fontaine, —, to Chr. Hatton; I. 30.
Delamarche, G. (?) S., to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Delany, Patrick, letters of; II. 232.
De la Tour, Count, letter of; I. 20.
Delaune, Dr., President of St. John's College, Oxford, declaration by; II. 126.
De la Vall, Count, letters of denization for, requested; I. 34.
Delawarr, Lord, letters to and from, 1688; II. 14.
Delinquents:
authority to seize the estates of, 1646; II. 23.
Commissioners for compounding with, their papers; I. 30.
—— order by the, 1648; II. 9.
Committee for sequestration of, its proceedings, 1649; II. 73.
Dell, J., to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Dellahoyde, Richard, letter of; II. 226.
Deluke, Robert; I. 92.
Delves, Sir Thomas, extracts from books of; I. 49.
Demarces, —, to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Demesne, ancient, a book of; I. 34.
Denbigh, extents of the lordship of; II. 104.
Denbigh, Lord:
letter of, 1702; I. 20.
M., to Lord Hatton (no date); I. 20.
Denbighshire:
books of orders at quarter sessions for; II. 73.
great storm in, 1706; II. 73.
Denham, George, to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Denization, warrants for letters of; I. 34.
Denizens, names of strangers made, 35 Hen. VIII. (a roll); I. 96.
Denmark:
discourse on the state of, 1588; II. 151.
embassy from Scotland to, 1596, papers connected with the; II. 187.
papers on English negotiations with, 1599; II. 45.
papers relating to the mercantile relations of England with, 16th cent.; II. 44.
papers touching negotiations with, temp. Jac. I. et Car. I.; I. 125.
ambassadors from, letter of the, 1619; II. 55.
ambassador from Wm. III. to; I. 40.
ambassador of [to Russia] (beginning of 18th cent.); II. 216.
messenger from England to (no date); I. 19.
Denmark, King of:
Eric, letter of [1292?]; II. 5.
convention with the, 1583; II. 44.
Frederick, letters from, to Queen Eliz.; II. 45.
instructions to treat with the commissioners of the (temp. Eliz.); II. 97.
answer to his letter for a league between Protestant princes [temp. Eliz.]; II. 151.
Christian IV., letters from and to, 1615; II. 52.
—— letter to, 1621; II. 59.
troops raised in Scotland for the, 1626; II. 195.
speech of Charles I. in defence of the (his uncle); I. 54.
to the King of Poland, 1698; I. 36.
letter to the, 1699; I. 37.
treaty with England and the States General, 1701; I. 54.
letter concerning the (? date); I. 37. See Helst, Duke of.
Denmark:
Anne of. See Anne of Denmark.
Prince George of. See George of Denmark.

Digitized by Google

Dennis, J., letter of ; II. 70.
Dennistoun, Mr. James, of Dennistoun, his collections ; I. 125.
Denny :
Anthony, temp. Hen. VIII. ; I. 12.
Daniel, to Lord Hatton ; I. 30.
Sir E., speech of ; I. 51.
Denton, John, his Description of Cumberland ; II. 125.
Denys, Thomas, letter of ; I. 51.
Depopulations, by conversion of arable land into pasture commissions to inquire of ; I. 54.
Deposition Books, in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich ; I. 86.
Depositions, among the Shrewsbury Papers ; I. 50.
Deprez, Cardinal, letter of ; II. 79.
Derby, county of, deeds relating to places in the ; I. 12.
Derby, Countess of :
letter from Prince Charles to the, 1621 ; I. 116.
letters of the, temp. Car. I. ; I. 116.
Derby, Earl of :
letters to the, 1625 ; I. 46.
letters of the, temp. Car. I. ; I. 116.
commissions of array to the, 1640–1 ; I. 47.
engaged in the Civil War ; I. 48.
the resolution touching his banishment, 1648 ; I. 51.
copyl of his last letters to his wife and children, 1651 ; II. 15.
Chares, orders resolved on by, 1660 ; I. 47.
letters of, 1702 ; I. 90.
offices to be granted to the, 1702 ; I. 21.
Edward, conveyance to ; II. 69.
Dering, Sir E., letter touching, 1641 ; II. 47.
Derry :
letters relating to, 1691 sq. ; II. 232, 233, 234.
Bishop of, letter of the ; II. 1.
Derwentwater, Lord, and others, trials of ; I. 92.
Desborow, Thomas, to Mr. Holmes ; I. 30.
Deshayes, J., to Lord Hatton ; I. 30.
Deslandes, — , to George Stepney ; I. 86.
Desmond, Earl of (temp. Jac. I.) ; II. 213.
De Sou, Alexandre, to Lord Hatton ; I. 30.
Despatches, official, 1794–8 ; II. 3.
Despenser, Sir Hugh Le, junior ; I. 88.
—— and Eleanor his wife, their purparty of co. Kilkenny ; II. 253 (bis).
Destrade, Peter, his letter concerning the Spanish Armada ; II. 45.
Dettingen, battle of, plan of the ; II. 101.
Deulacres, abbot of, liberties of the ; I. 46.
Devat, D., letter of ; I. 30.
Deventer, the betrayal of, by Sir W. Stanley, defended by Cardinal Allen ; I. 61.
Devereux :
family of, papers relating to the ; I. 55.
Walter, letters of, temp. Hen. VII. ; II. 79.
Walter, letter to, 1591 ; II. 50.
Sir Walter, letters of, 1625 ; I. 43.
Sir William, letter of ; II. 47.
—— letter to, ib.
Devisme, M. (at Munich), letters of ; II. 26.
Devon :
insurrection in, 1549 ; II. 4.
names of Papists in, 1707 ; I. 52.
tinning trade in ; I. 41.
charters relating to lands in ; I. 50 ; II. 35, 36.
Cornwall, &c., Lord Lieutenant of, instructions to the, temp. Mar. et Eliz. ; II. 95.
records of the law courts in, 3–5 Jac. I. ; I. 50.
Vice-Admiral of the county of ; I. 43.
Devon, Countess of :
Amicia de Redvers, Lady of the Isle of Wight ; I. 11.
Christian, letters of, 1639 ; II. 184.
Devon, Earl of :
letter of the [? temp. Hen. VI.] ; I. 95.
Henry Courtenay, letter of (temp. Hen. VIII.) ; II. 34.
Edward Courtenay, papers of, 1553–5 ; I. 52, 53.
Thomas, petition of the heir of, 2 Eliz. ; I. 50.
letter from the, to Sir Chr. Hatton, 1603 ; I. 20.
apology by the, for his marriage with Lady Rich, 1606 ; I. 32.
letter touching the [1685 ?] ; I. 24.
letters of the, 1688 ; II. 11.
Devonshire, Duke of, establishment of his household at Dublin Castle in 1755 ; II. 3.
Devon, the river (in Scotland), collections relating to the navigation of ; II. 29.
Devotions, book of, 15th cent. ; II. 202.
—— leaves of a ; II. 202.
Dewe, Elizabeth, to Lord —— ; I. 20.
Dewes, Sir S. ; I. 49.
Dey, letter of Queen Elizabeth to the ; II. 45. See Algiers.
Dialogicall Conference about Marine Affayres, by Capt. Nath. Butter, 1635 ; I. 114.
Dialogue, a, between a Councillor of State and a Justice of the Peace, by Sir Walter Raleigh ; I. 32, 42, 53.
Dialogue of Ochinus touching Polygamy, The ; I. 53.
Dialogue between a Hermit, Soldier, and Secretary, by Mr. Caffe, servant to the Earl of Essex, 1595 ; I. 54, 62.
Dialogue between two friends, servants to his Majesty, by the Earl of Salisbury ; I. 62.
Dialogue, a, between Philoleutheros and Philopolites (touching annual parliaments) ; I. 63.
Dialogues, Three, by Robert Radcliff (dedicated to Henry VIII.) ; II. 46.
Diaries, books of, 18th cent. ; II. 25. See Journals.
Diary, a, 1743, addressed by a Lady to her friend Musidora ; II. 8.
Dick, Sir Wm., letters of ; II. 185.
Dictionary :
part of a, by Dugdale ; I. 33.
portion of a Latin and Greek (14th cent.?) ; I. 99.
a Latin and English (fragments), 15th cent. ; II. 46.
a Latin and Welsh, 16th cent. ; II. 84 ; ditto ; II. 106.
See Vocabulary.
Digby :
Lord, his negotiations in Spain, 1622–3 ; II. 46.
—— George, his speech in Parliament [temp. Car. I.?] ; I. 63.
—— letters of, 1640 sq. ; II. 9.
—, his letter about a passage in Spenser ; I. 42.
—, letter touching his entertainments and "jornalls" [in Spain, temp. Jac. I.] ; I. 43.
E., M.P., letters of, 1741–3 ; II. 81.
Sir John, letters of ; II. 53.
John, letter of ; I. 51.
John. See Bristol, Earl of.
Sir Kenelm, I. 34 (bis) ; II. 143.
—— journal by, when Admiral of the Narrow Seas, II. 106 ; his discourse touching plants, ib.
Simon, Bishop of Limerick, letters of ; II. 229.
Digges :
Sir Dudley, the "Compleat Ambassador" by ; I. 12.
—— his charge against the Duke of Buckingham ; I. 42.
—— letters of ; I. 43.
—— speeches of, in Parliament, temp. Car. I. ; I. 61.
Thomas, letters of ; II. 45.
Dilke, Sir Charles W., Bart., M.P. :
MSS. of ; II. xvi.
report on the collection of, II. 63.
Dillingham, Dr. Theophilus, Master of Clare College, Cambridge, &c., letters to ; II. 113, 114, 115.
Dillon :
family of, letters and papers of the ; II. 31.
Sir John, and his wife ; II. 233.
Viscount, collection of, at Dytchley ; II. x.
—— report on the MSS. of, at Dytchley, co. Oxon. ; II. 31.
Dillon papers, the ; II. 32.
Dineley, Thomas :
his Observations in France, Ireland, and the Low Countries ; I. 53, 54.
his History from Marble ; I. 54.
his Notitia Cambro-Britannica ; I. 54.
Discourse, a philosophical, of the Body and Soul ; I. 32.
Discourses, see Treatises.
Discoveries, Commissioners of, their papers ; I. 30.
Dispensation :
a, to hold three benefices, 1565 ; II. 13.
letters of, for a marriage within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity, 1565 (in Scotland) ; II. 177.
a, to Jeremy Taylor, 19 Car. I. ; I. 38.
Dispensations :
for pluralities ; I. 34.
papal, bonds of College Fellows not to obtain ; I. 77.
Dissenters :
in Ireland, 1694 ; II. 233.
letters relating to toleration of the, 1717 sq. ; II. 234, 235.
Divination, an Irish tract on ; II. 223.
Divorce :
copy of proceedings in a, 14th cent. ; II. 40.
a treatise on the civil law in cases of ; II. 42.
Dixon, Philip, to Lord Hatton ; I. 30.
Dobbs, Francis, letters of ; I. 127.
Dobree, Elisha, to Lord Hatton ; I. 30.
Dobremel, John, to Lord Hatton ; I. 20.
Doctors' Commons :
order and direction by, touching church repairs, &c. ; II. 80.
letters relating to ; II. 122.
Docwra :
E., prior of St. John's of Jerusalem in England, letter of ; I. 95.
Sir Henry, letter of ; II. 52.
Dod, —, (author of the Catholic History of England), a MS. of ; I. 99.
Dodd, Dr. (of Plaistow, Essex), letter of ; II. 12.
Doddridge :
Dr., his correspondence with Lord Lyttelton ; II. 38.
Mr. Justice (Exeter), a charge of ; I. 62.
Sir John, a copy of his History of Wales, Cornwall, &c. ; I. 41.
—— report of ; I. 51.
J., his "Compleat Parson," II. 89.
Doddridge's (or Bird's) Magazine of Honour ; II. 44.
Dodsworth, Roger ; I. 45.
Dodsworth's Collections, extracts from, regarding the Monasteries ; II. 37.

Digitized by Google

Dodwell:
Mr., letters of; II. 204.
Henry, letters of; II. 232 (bis), 233, 234, 240, 241, 242.
Dolle, Owen, the Rev.; II. 234.
Dolben, Gilbert, to Lord ——; I. 20.
Dolemon, R., alias Parsons, the Jesuit, his treatise concerning succession in the throne of England; I. 45.
Doles and charities, list of (of Queen's College Cambridge); I. 72.
Dombrot, M., letter of; II. 53.
Domburg, Corneille, his "Miroir des fleurs de la Noblesse du Pays Bas;" II. 42.
Domesday Book:
extracts from; I. 32.
explanation of terms and abbreviations in; I. 32.
"Breviarie" of, Cestre scire; I. 46.
an abstract of, touching Cheshire; I. 48.
copy of the, for Northamptonshire; I. 32. of Dublin; I. 129. of Norwich; I. 97, 102.
of York; I. 32.
Dominican Order, proceedings of Chapters and Synods of the; II. 147.
Don, Sir Geo., letters of; II. 22 (bis).
Doncaster, Viscount:
letter to, 1619; II. 55.
letter of, 1621; II. 59.
Donegal:
county; II. 234.
monastery of, Irish poem on the; II. 224.
Donne, Dr. John, letter of; II. 59.
Donyland, East and West; I. 33.
Donypaice, Laird of, letter of the, 1627; II. 185.
Doraston, Mr., of West Felton (Salop), extracts from a MS. of; II. 88.
Dorchester:
Mayor of, warrant by the; II. 81.
Lord, letter of [temp. Car. I.]; I. 58.
Dormer:
C. Cottrell, Esq., of Rousham, near Oxford, MSS. of; II. xi.
—— report on the MSS. of; II. 82.
Sir C. C., Master of the Ceremonies to Geo. III., journal by; II. 83.
John, letters of; II. 82.
Philip, his verses on Easthampstead House; II. 82.
Robert, of Rousham, letter to; II. 82.
Dornoch, cathedral church of, documents relating to the; II. 177 sq.
Dorset:
county of; II. 138, 139.
charters touching lands in; II. 35, 36.
Earl of, French passport for the, 1612; II. 51.
—— his quarrel with the Earl of Cumberland, 1616; II. 18.
Lord, letter of [temp. Hen. VI. ?]; I. 25.
—— letter of (? date); I. 20.
Marquis of, Thomas, letter of [temp. Hen. VIII.]; I. 100.
—— recovery suffered by; II. 78. See Grey, Thomas.
Dousi:
English College at, history of the; I. 92.
—— papers relating to the; I. 130.
Diary, transcript of the, 1692–1778; I. 92.
Doughty, Mr., to Mr. Stretehay; I. 20.
Douglas:
family of; II. 196.
—— papers of the; II. 183.
house and family of, Hume of Godscroft's History of the; I. 114. See Angus and Morton.
Earls of, history of the (fragment); I. 114.
Marquis of, letters to the, 1643–50; II. 197, 198.
—— the collection of MSS. formed by the; I. 114.
cause, papers relating to the, 1769; II. 2.
Mr. Robin, letters to; II. 184.
Sir James, letters to; II. 184.
Sir William, of Lochlieven, licence to; II. 183.
—— notarial protest by, touching Mary Queen of Scots; II. 183.
—— letters of; II. 184.
Dover packet boats, the, 1702; I. 22.
Down, Bishop of:
Jeremy Taylor, letters of, 1661–2; I. 20.
letters of the (18th cent.); I. 127.
Downall, William, "to the Major-General;" I. 30.
Downing, George, to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Downs, Dive, Bishop of Cork, letters of; II. 232.
Downton, Henry, his certificate of the Stewardship of Higham Ferrers and Rushden; I. 20.
Doysel, —, letters of; I. 124.
Dragoons:
the Royal Scotch; II. 24.
the Royal British; II. 25.
Drake:
Sir Francis, note of the voyage of, 1595–6; II. 45.
Sir J., instructions to; II. 104.
Drama of Cythnia (pastoral), Argument for the; II. 8.
Drawings, coloured:
12th cent.; I. 11.
13th cent.; II. 86.
15th cent.; II. 81.
17th cent.; II. 30, 46, 86.
Drax:
monastery of, chartulary of the; I. 43.
Henry, to Lord and Lady Hatton; I. 20.
Lady; I. 21.
Drayton, Great; II. 77, 78.
Drayton, Market, report on Mr. Richard Corbet's MSS. at; II. 77.
Drayton in Hales, a volume relating to; II. 78.
Dresden:
account of an embassy from the Crown Prince of Saxony to, 17th cent.; I. 124.
letters dated at, 17th and 18th cent.; I. 35; II. 191.
Dress:
expenses for, 14th cent.; II. 140.
account of articles of, 1518; I. 106.
accounts of expenses for, 17th cent.; II. 178, 179, 199.
letters touching, temp. Car. II.; II. 48. See Apparel.
Dresses, inventories of, 17th cent.; II. 185.
Drogheda, Countess of, letters of the; II. 232.
Droitwich, borough of, letters relating to the; I. 55.
Dromore, Bishop of, letter to the; I. 27.
Dropmore, Maidenhead, report on the MSS. of the Hon. G. M. Fortescue at; II. 42.
Drum, forest of (in Scotland); II. 197, 198.
Drum Castle, report on Mr. A. F. Irvine's MSS. at; II. 198.
Drumlanrig [Lord?], letter of; II. 183.
Drummond Castle, account of MSS. found at, by T. Innes; I. 118.
Drummond:
Earl of, James, a copy of Fordun given by him to the Scotch College at Paris; I. 121.
family of, genealogy of the; II. 201.
of Hawthornden; I. 116.
Jane, warrant signed by; II. 79.
Lord, John, lease to (1489); II. 167.
Louis, de Melfort, letter of; II. 24.
Drunkards, registers of punishments of; I. 122.
Drury:
Sir D., letter to, 1588; II. 41.
—— an address signed by; II. 41.
Sir Wm., Lord Justice of Ireland, "A conference between the Lord Deputy and the Council of Ireland" by; II. 40.
W., a Latin poem to [temp. Eliz. ?]; II. 66.
Dryburgh, Registrum Chartarum de; II. 186.
Dryden:
Sir Henry, Bart., of Canons Ashby, collection of; II. xi.
—— report on the MSS. of; II. 63.
family, correspondence of the; II. 69, 64.
Charles, son of the poet; II. 70.
Erasmus, of Canons Ashby, father of the poet; I. 12.
John, sheriff of Northampton, letter of; II. 18.
—— the poet, letter of, II. 63.
—— letters from, to Jacob Tonson; II. 70.
—— receipts by; ib.
—— letter of Honour Dryden touching; II. 64.
—— letters relating to; II. 69, 70, 71.
—— publisher's agreement with, 1698; II. 70.
—— bill for the funeral of; ib.
—— verses to; ib.
Mr., a work revised by; II. 231.
Robert, rector of Kinnettles; II. 208.
Dublin:
Corporation of, records of the; I. xiii.
—— report on the records of the; I. 129.
Abbey of St. Mary, documents of the; I. 129.
—— grant of the, 1611; II. 217.
Christ Church Cathedral; II. 234, 235.
churches of, &c., notes on; II. 158.
city and county of, letters relating to the, 1688 sq.; II. 239, 233, 234.
deanery of St. Patrick's, question as to right of nomination to the, 1693; II. 233.
Governor of, Col. Jones, letters to and from, 1648; II. 87.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; I. 57; II. 52, 53, 54, 55, 57, 59, 60, 211, 212, 216, 217.
—— 18th cent.; II. 68, 213, 217.
letter to a nursery-man on St. Stephen's Green at; II. 26.
monastery of All Hallows, documents of the; I. 129.
plot by Protestants to seize the castle and city of, 1689; II. 226.
Privy Council at, orders of the; I. 130.
see of, letters touching the; II. 233, 234.
St. Patrick's, form of subscription for repair of; II. 157.
statutes of the provincial synod at, II. 156.
Trinity College; II. 233, 234, 245, 251, 252, 253.
—— observations on the bequest of H. Flood to; I. 128.
University, letters concerning; II. 2.
Dublin Castle:
the Great Assembly at, Dr. Usher's speech before, 1627; I. 62.
the way and manner how Jones and Ludlow were to be surprised in; II. 9.

Dublin, Archbishop of:
Michael, Lord Justice of Ireland, instructions to, 1671; II. 216. See Boyle, Michael.
Dr. King, correspondence of, 1682–1727; I. xiii. See King, William.
Narcissus Marsh, his letter on his translation to Armagh, 1703; I. 15.
Dubois:
Francis, to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Marie, to Lord ——; I. 20.
Du Bois, M. l'Abbe, letters to and from; II. 189 (bis).
Dubourdieu, M., to Lord ——; I. 20.
Duckett:
Sir George, presentation by, of some of his MSS. to the British Museum; II. viii.
John, to Lord Hatton and others (17 letters); I. 20.
Dudley, priory of, grants to the; II. 47.
Dudley:
Anne and F., to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Augustine, to Lady Hatton; I. 20.
Edmond, the Tree of Commonwealth by, 1 Hen. VIII; II. 46.
Guildford (afterwards husband of Lady Jane Grey), accounts referring to; II. 101, 102.
John (afterwards Duke of Northumberland), letters of; II. 47.
Sir Matthew; I. 24.
Sir Robert, letter of, touching his newly invented vessels of war; II. 49, 51.
W. (?), to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Sir William; I. 19.
Duels, letters touching, temp. Car. II.; I. 17, 44; II. 29, 32.
Duff, James, letters of; II. 29.
Dugdale:
—, accuses some one of being concerned in the plot, 1684; I. 24.
John, to Lord and Chr. Hatton; I. 20.
Sir William, letters of; I. 20.
—— autograph letters of; I. 30.
—— letters of; II. 48.
—— papers in the handwriting of; I. 29, 30, 31, 32, 33.
—— Genealogiæ Incertæ by; I. 31.
—— indexes of all the counties of England, and one for Ireland, by; I. 31.
—— indexes by; I. 33.
—— part of a dictionary by; I. 33.
—— documents lent by; I. 49.
—— abbreviations and law terms in old records explained by; II. 125.
—— excerpts out of his Monasticon; ib.
Dumaresq:
Ph., to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
R., to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
Dumbarton, county of:
materials for the history of the; I. 125.
lands in the; II. 167.
Dumbleton, John de, works of; II. 129.
Dun:
Lord, letters of; I. 118.
Sir Patrick, physician to the State in Ireland, letters of; I. xiii.; II. 232.
See Dunn.
Dunbar, Earl of, Patrick, grant by; II. 166.
Dunbar:
Archbishop of Glasgow, letters of; II. 209.
William, poems of; I. 122.
Duncomb, Charles; I. 21.
Dundas:
Mr., of Arniston, examination of the collection of; II. viii.
Mr., of Dundas Castle, examination of the collection of; II. viii.
Sir D., letters of; II. 29 (ter).
H., the Right Hon., a paper addressed to; II. 28.
Sir Laurence, letters to, 1750–80; I. 44.
Lieut. Gen., letters to; II. 29.
Thomas, letters of; I. 127.
William, letters of; II. 190.
Dundee:
burgh of, documents relating to the; II. 206.
constable of; II. 167.
Dundee:
Lord, quartering of his troops in Angus, 168—; II. 187.
Viscount, to Wm. III.; I. 45.
—— proceedings of; I. 113.
—— letters to and from, 1689; II. 178.
Dundrennan, abbey of, Register of the; I. 111.
Dunecht, report on the MSS. of the Earl of Crawford and Balcarres at; II. 181.
Dunelmensis, Collectio Antiquitatum Ecclesiæ; I. 31.
Dunelmensis Episcopus. See Bury, Ricardi de, &c.
Dunfermline:
abbey of, lands of the; II. 167.
—— history of the; II. 209.
chartulary of; II. 166.
commendator of, letter of James VI. to the; I. 65.
Dunfermline, Earl of:
Alexander (the 1st Earl), letters of; I. 122.
letters of the, 1616; II. 191.
letter of, 1621; II. 59.
Charles, letter of; II. 184.
Dungarvan, Lady, letters to (temp. Car. I.); II. 19 (bis).
Dungarvan, Lord:
letters of; II. 15, 232.
letters to (17th cent.); II. 19.
Dunheved, manor of; II. 23.
Dunhon, Alexander of, knight, charter by; II. 166.
Dunkeld:
Bishop of, Nicholas, letter to, 1400; II. 135.
—— See Guthry, Henry.
Bishops of, Myln's Lives of the; II. 200.
Dunkeldensis, Compota Episcopatus, 1506–17; I. 125.
Dunkirk:
letters dated at, 18th cent.; II. 188, 189, 190.
proposed royal meeting at, 1684; I. 23.
Poor Clares of (English nuns so called); I. 92.
Dunkirkers, plan for repressing their attacks on the coast of England [1625]; I. 43.
Dunn, Sir Daniel, a relation by; I. 31.
Dunne, the Right Hon. Francis Plunket:
the "Plunket MS." belonging to; II. xx.
report on the MS. in his possession; II. 227–231.
Dunrobin, report on the Duke of Sutherland's MSS. at; II. 177.
Duns Scotus, "Doctor Subtilis," works of; II. 131 (bis).
"the Subtle Doctor," on Porphyry; II. 141.
Dunsmore, Lord, letter of, 1642; II. 26.
Dunstan, charters of; II. 5.
Dunster Castle, Somerset, Mr. Luttrell's papers at; I. x.
—— report on the same; I. 56.
Dunsterr, Charles, letters of; I. 53.
Duplessis Mornay, Lord of, "A serious contemplation of life and death," in imitation of the; II. 7.
Dupont-briand, —, to Lord Hatton; I. 21.
Dupplin, Viscount. See Hay, Sir George.
Durand, Pieres, to M. Hatton; I. 21.
Durham:
church of. See Dunelmensis.
county of; II. 138.
visitation of the county palatine of, by Norrey King-of-Arms, 1575; II. 7.
Durham, Bishop of:
charter of King John to the; I. 71.
letters of the [temp. Hen. VI.?]; I. 95.
Thomas, letter of, 1633; I. 67.
account of the consecration of a chapel by the (? date); I. 21.
Dury, J., papers respecting his mission to the Continent, 1630–9; II. ix.
Thomas; II. 184.
Dusseldorf, letters dated at, 17th cent.; I. 35.
Dutch:
in Ireland, 1642; II. 195.
letters on engagements with the, 1665–1666; II. 48.
agreement between England and France concerning the, 1678; I. 33.
the, make peace with Spain, 1678; I. 21.
anticipated war with the; I. 19.
the, land at Portsmouth; I. 19.
letters touching the, temp. Car. II; II. 21, 22.
affairs, papers on (16th cent.); II. 41.
ambassadors, extracts from letters of, 1701; I. 38.
carver, a; II. 185.
convoy, a, attacked by the French, 1703; I. 21.
fleet, accounts of its engagements with the English fleet, 1672–3; II. 10.
—— description of the, 1673; I. 33.
—— in the Thames, 1681 (letters touching the); II. 17.
—— letters touching the, 1688; II. 10, 11.
Government, the; I. 23.
letters in, 18th cent.; I. 44.
ships of war, 1702; I. 17.
weavers and artisans, at Norwich, rules to be observed by the; I. 103 (bis).
Dutton:
family of, genealogy and arms of the; I. 49.
Sir Thomas, letter of; II. 62.
Dyas, Emanuel, letters of; II. 16.
Dyneham, family of, household rolls, &c. of the; II. 34.
Dysart, church of St. Serf at, &c.; II. 191, 192.
Dysart House, report on the Earl of Rosslyn's MSS. at; II. 191.
Dysart, Countess of, a poem addressed to the, 17th cent.; I. 61.
Dytchley (Oxford), report on the MSS. of Viscount Dillon at, II. 31.

E.

Earle, John (consul in Portugal), to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 21.
Earnely, Sir John, M. P., 1684; I. 24.
Earth, the Quantity of the, a poem on (16th cent.); II. 145.
East Indies. See Indies.
Easter, a table for finding (15th cent.); II. 180.
Easter Daes, books of payments of; II. 72.

Digitized by Google

Eastland Merchants, books of the, 1645–96 ; I. 110.
Eastlinn, Edward, instructions to ; II. 95.
Easton, John, to George Holmes ; I. 30.
Eastwell, Kent ; I. 33 (ter).
Eaton Hall, Cheshire, report on the MSS. of Mr. Antrobus at ; II. 69.
Eaton under Lyne ; II. 69.
Ecclesiastical :
affairs, papers regarding (temp. Eliz.) ; II. 42 (ter).
—— letters relating to, 17th cent. ; I. 17, 19, 22 (bis).
—— a MS. relating to, 17th cent. ; II. 89.
—— letters relating to, 18th cent. ; II. 234, 235.
Causes, royal commission (by James II.) for hearing ; II. 8.
collections, of Father Hays ; I. 123.
Court, Lords Commissioners of the, letter to the ; I. 28.
Courts, volume of forms used in the ; II. 40.
—— abstract of statutes touching ; II. 89.
documents, Scotch, 1650–60 ; II. 197.
law, treatise on [1637] ; II. 3.
offences, penalties for ; I. 97.
papers, at Aberdeen ; I. 192, 193.
Ecclesiasticis, Summa de Officiis ; II. 145 (bis). See Beleth.
Eclipses, table of, 15th cent. ; II. 84.
Eden :
Sir Morton, despatches by, 1797–1805 : II. 3.
Sir Thomas, Master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, letter to ; II. 122.
Edgar, King, charters from the time of, to that of Edw. I. ; I. 71.
Edgecumbe :
family of, deeds and papers of the ; II. 20–24.
Sir Richard ; I. 51.
Edgeworth, R. L., letters of ; I. 127.
Edinburgh :
Corporation of, records of the ; I. xii.
—— report on the records of the ; I. 126.
the General Register House, records in the ; I. 111.
Advocates' Library ; I. xii.
—— report on the MS. collections in the ; I. 123.
University of, MSS. in the library of the ; I. xii.
—— report on the MSS. in the library of the ; I. 121.
Abbey of the Holy Rood, charter to the ; I. 126.
Castle of ; II. 183, 184.
—— siege of Mary Queen of Scots' adherents in the ; I. 55.
—— papers connected with its defence by the Duke of Gordon, 1689 ; I. 115.
county of, lands in the ; II. 166.
Presbytery of, imprisonment of an English clergyman by the ; I. 119.
—— original records of the, 1586–9 ; I. 121.
professorship of mathematics at, letter touching the, 1746 ; II. 28.
letters dated at, 16th cent. ; II. 49.
—— 17th cent. ; II. 39, 55, 59, 69, 185.
—— 18th cent. ; II. 37, 38, 189.
Bishop of, letters of the, 1712 ; II. 234.
—— See Rose, Alex. ; and Fullarton.
the Roman Catholic Bishop of, MSS. in the library of ; I. xii.
—— report on the same ; I. 120.
Edisbury, John, letter of ; I. 52.
Edmonds :
Clement, a paper by, on the policy of the United Provinces, 1615 ; II. 46.
Thomas, to Sir Chr. Hatton ; I. 21.
Sir Thomas, letter to ; II. 52.
Edmonston, Sir James, of Duntreath ; II. 168.
Edmonstone, Sir Archibald, Bart., examination of the collection of ; II. viii.
Edmund, son of Henry III., charter of ; I. 14.
Edmund, St., Abp. of Canterbury, miracles of (MS. 13th cent.) ; II. 105. See Canterbury, Abp. of.
Education, gentlemen's sons sent abroad for (Council letter on the subject, 1593) ; II. 86, 87.
Edward, King, the Confessor :
Visio et exortacio Sancti Edwardi Regis et Confessoris ; I. 61.
deeds of the time of ; I. 24.
documents relating to the shrine of, at Westminster Abbey ; I. 96.
charters of ; II. 5.
Edward I. :
French account of his address at Norham ; II. 5.
letters or writs of ; ib.
extracts from rolls of the "grans seigneurs" led into Scotland by ; II. 6.
proceedings before, on the right of succession to the throne of Scotland ; II. 42.
a document touching his claim to the Seigneury of Scotland ; II. 47.
Edward I., II., and III., Kings, letters of the times of ; II. 85.
Edward II. :
history of ; I. 33.
a pardon under the Great Seal of ; I. 50.
his journey to Scotland, 1318 ; I. 88.
copies of documents of the time of ; II. 42.
Vita et Mors Edwardi II. Regis, ex Gallico Thomæ de la Moore ; II. 151, 155.
Edward III. :
letter of ; I. 96.
list of his retinue in France ; II. 6.
Edward the Black Prince, a book of the works of ; I. 31.
Edward IV. :
a notice of the death of his queen ; I. 95.
letter of ; I. 100.
documents of the reign of ; II. 94.
his mother. See Cecily, Princess.
Edward, Prince (afterwards Edward V.) :
letter of ; I. 100.
precept by ; II. 42.
Edward, Prince (son of Hen. VIII.), letter to Princess Elizabeth ; II. 151.
Edward VI. :
documents of the time of ; I. 33.
his signature to College statutes ; I. 82.
letter to the Bishop of Norwich ; I. 87.
copies of State papers of the reign of ; II. 94, 95, 96.
a story touching the birth of ; II. 132.
letters from, to Princesses Mary and Elizabeth ; II. 151.
his "device" touching the succession of the crown ; II. 154, 155.
proposed sumptuary laws in the handwriting of ; ib.
letter of ; II. 155.
letter to ; II. 155.
Edward, Prince, letter touching, 1790 ; II. 29.
Edwards :
John, of Chirkland ; II. 66, 67, 155.
Jonathan, letters of ; II. 75.
Roger, his treatise, "Castra Regia ;" II. 43.
—— a dialogue by, intitnled "Cista pacis Anglia ;" II. 44.
Edzell :
Laird of, letters of the ; II. 198.
J. Lindesay, letter of ; II. 188.
Effiat, Marquis of :
letters of the, 1624–5 ; II. 62, 63.
order for ships to be delivered to, 1625 ; I. 43.
Egert, David, secretary to Mr. Foley, letters of ; I. 56.
Egerton :
Sir John ; I. 23.
Sir Thomas, letter to ; II. 51.
Eglinton, Earl of :
Alexander ; II. 168.
letter of the, 1640 ; II. 178.
Eglintoun, Countess of, letters of the, 1733 sq. ; II. 190.
Eglish (King's County), barony of ; II. 217, 221.
Egremont, Lord, letters of (mid. 18th cent.) ; II. 38.
Ekeren, battle of, an account of what passed at the ; I. 21.
Ekins, John, to Chr. Hatton and another ; I. 21.
Eldon, Lord, letters of, 1801 ; II. 192.
Election news, 1685 ; I. 23 ; II. 78. 1695–1703 ; I. 16. 1698–1702 ; I. 25. 1703 ; I. 93. 1721, &c. ; I. 117, 119.
Elector, the :
letter from, to William III. ; I. 36.
to the Emperor, 1698 ; I. 36.
letter to, 1698 ; I. 36. See also Brandenburg.
Electrical apparatus, letter touching, 1777 ; II. 13.
Elgin, Earl of, letter to the, 1645 ; I. 35.
Eliot :
family, letters and papers of the ; I. 42, 43.
Edward (afterwards Lord Eliot), letters to his father, Richard Eliot, from abroad, 1744–8 ; I. 41.
Sir John ; I. 62 (note).
—— Mr. John Forster's life of ; I. x., 41.
—— case of, concerning the jurisdiction of the King's Bench ; I. 31.
—— his manuscripts, papers, and correspondence ; I. 41–44.
—— his speeches in Parliament ; I. 43, 61, 62.
—— proceedings in the Star Chamber touching ; I. 61.
—— and others, the case of ; II. 43.
Richard, letters from, to his son, 1742–8 ; I. 41.
See Elliot.
Elizabeth of York, Queen of Henry VII. :
letters of ; I. xi.
original papers of ; I. 50.
household roll of ; I. 76.
Elizabeth, Princess (daughter of Hen. VIII.) :
her reply to Queen Mary touching marriage with the elect King of Sweden, 1558 ; II. 43.
letter to, from Prince Edward ; II. 151.
—— from Queen Mary ; II. 154, 156.
Elizabeth, Queen :
propositions to show her unfitness to bear rule, and the answer thereto ; II. 42.
the custom of making bonfires and burning the Pope on the anniversary of her coronation in November ; I. 43.
her answer to the Pope, 1561 ; I. 30.
her answer to the French King, touching a proposed marriage ; I. 42.
treaty of marriage with the Duke of Anjou (with two orations at Rheims) ; I. 42 ; II. 39.
a volume of documents touching her proposed marriage to the Duc d'Anjou ; II. 86.
Mr. Wentworth's exhortation to, for establishing her successor ; II. 2.

Digitized by Google

Elizabeth, Queen—cont.
oration of the Lord Keeper to, exhorting her to marriage; II. 43.
a discourse touching the marriage of; II. 43.
a treatise addressed to, against the necessity of providing for the succession; II. 43.
discourses against trying to settle the succession to; II. 44.
petition to, urging her to marry ("The common crye of Englishe men"); II. 77.
—— praying her to settle the succession; II. 77.
heads of a league between her and the princes professing the Gospel; II. 45.
papers touching plots against; II. 40, 41. instrument of the Association for the preservation of Her Majesty's royal person, 1584; I. 124.
certain observations before the death of; I. 58.
project for setting up the Catholic faith on the death of; I. 58.
a letterbook on military matters in the time of I. 31.
papers of the reign of; I. 42.
copies of State papers of the reign of; II. 94, 95, 96, 97.
Observations on the reign and character of, by George Lord Lyttelton; II. 37.
addresses to; II. 152, 153.
Great Seal of; II. 104.
instructions by; II. 96, 97.
letters of; I. 86; II. 34, 37 (bis), 43, 45, 96, 122, 154. letters to and from Philip of Spain; II. 45. letter of, touching Mary Queen of Scots; I. 100.
letter from, to Lady Norris; I. 47.
letters to; I. 42, 54; II. 40, 43, 44, 45, 50, 82, 124, 151, 152, 153, 183.
letters from the Earl of Essex to; I. 47 (bis).
letter from Lady Riche to; I. 47.
letter from Sir Philip Sydney to, concerning her marriage with Monsieur; I. 48. letter from Vergerio to; I. 29.
portrait of; I. 61.
sign manuals of; I. 50, 51.
speech of, 1601; I. 47.
speeches to; I. 54, 61, 62.
Elizabeth, Princess, daughter of James I.: proposed marriage to the Prince of Piedmont; I. 32.
masks at Court on the marriage of, to Frederick, Palsgrave of the Rhine; I. 57.
instructions to commissioners for levying aid money on her marriage; II. 86.
a dirge addressed to; I. 139. See Bohemia, Queen of; Palatine, Electress.
Elizabeth, Princess (daughter of the preceding):
annuity for; I. 34.
letters of; II. 83.
Ellesmere, Lord Chancellor, letter of; I. 100.
Elliot:
Andrew, collector of customs at New York, batch of papers by; II. 29.
—— political letters by; ib.
Stephen, to Lord [Hatton]; I. 21. See Eliot.
Ellis:
—, taken prisoner by the French, 1696; I. 17.
Captain B., letter to; I. 24.
Bernard, to Lord Hatton; I. 21.
J., letters of, 1677–88; I. 56.
Mr., letters to; I. 28, 29.
—— Under Secretary of State, his correspondence with George Stepney, 1694–1707; I. 34–40.
—— his correspondence with James Cressett; I. 40.
Elphinstone, William, Bishop of Aberdeen:
his History of Scotland (the MS. so called); I. 111, 123.
a transcript of the same; I. 118, 119.
MSS. of; II. 200.
Elphinstoun, Lord, letters of, 1733 sq.; II. 190.
Elsinge (or Elsynge), H., his "Modus tenendi Parliamentum;" I. 32; II. 42. See Vowell, John.
Elwell, Dan., to Mr. Longe; I. 21.
Elwes, Sir Gervase, arraignment of [1615]; I. 47.
Ely:
Isle of; I. 33.
prior and convent of; I. 72.
a register book of, 1459–1550; I. 55.
Ely, Bishop of:
[Richard Cox,] letter to, 1570; II. 154.
Peter Gunning, to Lord Hatton, 1676; I. 21.
—— letters to and from, 1680; II. 114.
sent to the Prince of Orange, 1688; I. 16.
Francis Turner, letters of, 1688; I. 52.
Simon Patrick, letters from, to Lord Hatton, 1694–1701; I. 93.
Dr. Moore, letter to, 1713; II. 115.
library of the, 1713; II. 234.
See Wren, Matthew.
Ely, Bishops of:
licences by, &c., 14th cent.; I. 69, 70.
documents of the; I. 76, 77.
MSS. given by, to St. Peter's College, Cambridge; I. 77.
Ely House, Holborn, conference at, between the Spanish ambassador and certain priests, 1621; I. 61.
Ely, M., to Lady Hatton; I. 21.
Ely O'Carroll, country of, commission for raising troops in the; II. 217.
Emancipation, the Duke of Wellington's intentions with respect to; II. 192.
Embargo on vessels, copy of an order for, 1655; II. 92.
Embassies, letters concerning, 1697; I. 13.
Embden, a Discourse for establishing of traffick at; II. 40.
Emperor, the. See Germany, Emperor of.
Enclosure, a treatise concerning, by Adam Moore; II. 44.
Endowments, record of, at Aberdeen; I. 122.
Enfield, vicar of, Dr. Thomas Thomson, obit of; I. 75.
Engine, an, for the recovery of wrecks; II. 178.
England:
bishops and other dignitaries of, letters of, 1682–1727; I. xiii.
Church of, a letter of the Pretender touching the privileges and independence of the; I. 118.
counties of, indexes of all the, by Dugdale; I. 31. See Counties.
dukes and earls of, genealogies of; II. 42.
early ecclesiastical history of; II. 2.
history of, from Egbert to Elizabeth; I. 33.
—— materials for the, 16th and 17th cent.; I. 60.
—— two parchment rolls of the, 15th cent.; I. 61.
—— MSS. relating to the, in the Advocates' Library, Edinburgh; I. 123.
—— papers relating to the; II. 42.
—— a roll of the; II. 47.
—— a collection for, to about 1003; II. 104.
kings of, genealogical rolls of the; I. 33.
—— a chronicle of the, in the Advocates' Library; I. 124.
—— the descent of the, from the earliest times; II. 42.
—— tracts showing how they raised money; II. 80 (bis).
—— and their burial places, list of; II. 117.
kings and princes of, genealogy of the; I. 31.
names of the forts and ports of [temp. Eliz. ?]; II. 45.
nobility of, notes on the; II. 3 (bis).
—— MS. Book of Arms of the; ib.
the Offices of, 1608 (a book so called, at Heidelberg); I. 139.
a treatise and advice touching the defence of, 1587; I. 62.
See Angleterre; Inghilterra.
Englefield, Sir Francis, letters to; II. 41.
English families, noble, extracts from the records of; II. 7.
Enrolments, books of, at York; I. 108.
Epernon, Duke of, letters of the, 1588; II. 50.
Epigrams; II. 124.
Episcopal government, a paper concerning; I. 63.
Erasmus; I. 73.
Erdeswick's Survey of Staffordshire (a MS. copy); II. 49.
Erfurt, Scotch monastery at, lives and acts of the abbots of the; II. 202.
Ernst, Charles (at Copenhagen), letters of; II. 26.
Errol, Earl of;
George, letter of; II. 183.
Francis 8th, letters of, 1590–1637; II. 185.
William 9th, letters of, 1638–39; II. 185.
Errol, Earls of;
table of the; II. 202.
charters of the; ib.
Erskine:
Sir James, letters of; II. 190.
John, of Dun; II. 184.
—— letters and sermons by; I. 119.
Lord, John, letters of, 1627–84; II. 184.
Escheators, warrants for appointments of; I. 34.
Esmond, Lord, Lawrence, depositions on proof of the will of; II. 156.
Esplin, Mr., printseller, of Edinburgh, letter to; II. 205.
Essex, forest of, grant of the wardenship of the; I. 71.
Essex, Countess of, letter of the, 1595; II. 51.
Essex, Earl of:
[Walter Devereux ?] letters of; II. 40.
[Robert Devereux] letter of, to Queen Elizabeth, 1587; I. 47.
ordered by Queen Elizabeth to arrest a Spanish spy; I. 60.
his servant Mr. Cuffe's Dialogue between a Hermit, Soldier, and Secretary, delivered in a speech before Queen Elizabeth, 1595; I. 54, 62.
journal of Spanish actions under the; II. 45.
relation of his expedition to Cadiz, 1596; II. 151.
instructions by the, to naval officers [1596]; II. 45.
letter to the, against peace with Spain [temp. Eliz.]; II. 15.
letter of Sir Robert Cecil to the; II. 151.
letters touching troops under the, for Ireland, 1596; II. 87.
Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, letter of the; II. 219.
censure of his cause being heard in York House upon his return from Ireland; I. 48.
letter of the, to Queen Elizabeth [1600 ?]; I. 47.
letters from and to Anthony Bacon; I. 47.
an apology of the (addressed to Sir Anthony Bacon); II. 8, 43.
papers relating to his rising (1600); I. 47.
account of his trial and execution, 1600; I. 47.
account of the trial of the, 1600; I. 55.

Digitized by Google

Essex, Earl of—cont.
MSS. relating to his affairs; I. 35.
accounts of the rebellion and trial of the; II. 43.
"The manner and end of the E. of Essex in the Tower of London," 1600; I. 21.
collections out of his letters to Lord Rutland [temp. Eliz.]; I. 49.
[Robert Devereux] letters of, temp. Car. I.; I. 116.
letter to the, 1639; II. 86.
letter of the, 1641; II. 47.
order by the, 1642; II. 115.
—— 1644; II. 33.
[Capel] letter of, 1675; II. 216.
letters of the, 1676; I. 56.
notes on the death of the, 1683; II. 3.
letter of the Archbishop of Canterbury concerning the nullity of his marriage; I. 18.
prosecution of nullity of marriage between him and his wife, Lady Frances Howard; I. 81.
Essex House:
the parley at, between the Earl of Essex and the General of the Queen's forces; I. 47.
letters dated at, 1641; II. 42.
Estates, the Three, of the realm, a book upon; I. 32.
Etching, an, of Sir W. Hamilton, 1789; II. 14.
Etherege, G. (the dramatist), letters of; I. 56.
Eton, lord of, Hugh son of William, deed by; II. 77.
Eton College:
papers relating to; I. 67.
letters patent to (copies); II. 42.
Eugene of Savoy, Prince; II. 71.
letters of; II. 188, 189.
letter touching, 1706; I. 51.
Eure:
Lord, instructions for, touching the Borders, 1595; II. 104.
Ralph, letters of, 1611–12; II. 87.
—— a bond to; II. 88.
Eusebius of Cæsarea. See Evangelia.
Eustace, Lady; II. 233.
Evangelia, according to St. Jerome, with parallelisms according to the Canons of Eusebius of Cæsarea (MS. 10th cent.); II. 74. See Haymonis.
"Evangelia Glossata," (13th cent.); II. 144.
Evangelists, the four, drawings of the symbols of; I. 60.
Evans, John, to Lord ——; I. 21.
Everingham Park, MSS. of Lord Herries at; I. xi.
report on the same; I. 45.
Every, "the grand pirate;" I. 22.
Evesham:
abbot of, Clement, letter of; II. 72.
abbot and convent of, deeds by and to the; II. 46, 47.
monastery of, foundation charter of the; II. 146.
Ewdon, Margaret, to Lord Hatton; I. 21.
Ewer, J., letter of; I. 21.
Exchange:
treatise on, 16th cent.; II. 40.
letter against, 1550; II. 40.
Exchanges, proclamation by Edw. VI. touching; II. 40.
Exchequer, the:
accounts of unappropriated money paid into, 1711; I. 34.
"an account" of; II. 45.
a book relating to; I. 31.
a paper on; II. 42.
a treatise on; I. 42.
and Court of the same, treatises on; II. 90.
Court of, a printed order of the; I. 29.
—— a compendium showing what its officers ought to do; I. 31; II. 90.
—— book of the officers of the, 1692; II. 79.
Exchequer Chamber, proceedings in the, 1639; I. 31; II. 3.
Exchequer revenue, particulars of the, 12 Eliz.; II. 81.
Excise, the, 1661–8; I. 58.
Exemplifications, warrants for; I. 34.
Exeter:
cathedral, grant to, 1495; II. 20.
city of; I. 58.
mayor and senators of, letter of John Vowel to the; II. 41.
Bishop of, John, letters of, temp. Hen. VII.; II. 72.
—— John Voysey, letter of; II. 34.
—— Joseph Hall, his apology upon a report that he was a favourer of Puritans; I. 58.
—— Sir Jonathan (Trelawney), letters of, 1702–3; I. 21.
Earl of, letter of the (beg. 17th cent.); I. 73.
—— —— 1624; II. 15.
—— —— 1625; II. 62.
—— William Cecil, letter of, 1663; I. 67.
—— —— to the mayor and aldermen of Northampton, 1635; I. 21.
—— John, to Lord Hatton, 1672–3; I. 21.
Lord; I. 34.
Marquis of, Henry, letter to the (temp. Hen. VIII.); II. 34.
Extent, an, at Tabley House; I. 47.
Extents, at Peniarth, co. Merioneth; II. 104.
—— in the Bishop's Registry, Wells; I. 93.
Eyre:
General, letter of; II. 18.
Sir John, letters of; II. 59.
Eyre—cont.
Mr. and Mrs. Anthony, letters of; II. 18.
Nathaniel, law papers collected by; I. 92.
Eyton:
Gerrard, letter to; II. 73.
William, to Lord Hatton; I. 21.

F.

F., C., essays by, touching the Netherlands; II. 85.
F. F. to Sir C. Hatton; I. 22.
Fabian's Chronicle (MS., 15th and 16th cent.); II. 80.
Fables; I. 32.
Fabula de Ysopo (a short piece); II. 80.
Fadd, Leo, to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Fail, house of, register of the; I. 111.
Fairborne, Sir Stafford, depositions of; I. 23.
Fairfax:
family of, papers relating to the; I. 35.
Lord, orders by, 1645; II. 23.
B., letter of; II. 13.
Mr., letters of, 1640 aq.; II. 9.
T., signature of, 1648; I. 58.
Sir Thomas, letter of; I. 55.
Falconar, John, Bishop, letters of; II. 204 (bis).
Falconet, the sculptor, letter of; II. 29.
Falkirk, battle of:
narratives of the; I. 115.
account of the, 1746; II. 27.
Falkland, Viscount:
letter of Charles I. touching the creation of Henry Cary as; II. 157.
letter of, 1622; II. 60.
Lord Deputy of Ireland, letters of Charles I. to, 1628; II. 157, 211.
letters of, 1642; II. 36.
—— [temp. Car. I.]; II. 19.
letter touching his patent to fish the King's sea [1685]; I. 24.
Falmouth, quay at; II. 92.
Fama fraternitatis, or a discovery of the fraternity of the most laudable order of the Rosy Cross [temp. Jac. I.]; I. 43.
Fane, George, letter of; II. 18.
Fanshawe:
—, instructions by, 1662; I. 47.
Charles, to Lord Hatton; I. 21.
Elizabeth, to Lady C. Tufton; I. 21.
H., letter to; I. 30.
Henry, to Lord and Lady Hatton; I. 21.
Katharine, to ——; I. 21.
Lord, papers relating to; I. 34.
Mrs., letter to; I. 25.
Sir Richard, ambassador at Madrid, letter of; I. 54.
——, his mission to Portugal; II. 114.
Thomas, to Sir Chr. Hatton; I. 21.
Sir Thomas, the manner of consecrating his chapel at Wear Park by the Bishop of Durham; I. 21.
—— a brother of; I. 24.
Viscount, the fees for his patent, &c.; I. 21.
Faria, Joseph de:
letter of, to Paul and John Methuen; I. 21.
letter to; I. 26.
Farmer, H., to C. Hatton; I. 21.
Farmor, W., to C. Hatton; I. 21.
Farnham, South (co. Surrey), petition of the inhabitants of; II. 43.
Farnham, Wm., letters of; II. 15.
Farwell, Christopher, to Sir Thomas Morgan; I. 21.
Fashion, a new, 1719; II. 235.
Fathers, MSS. of the, 11th and 12th cent.; I. 61.
Fauchon, M., to ——; I. 21.
Fauconberg:
Lady, letter from, to Henry Cromwell, 1655; II. 98.
Lord, to Lord Hatton, 1698; I. 21.
—— letters of (? date); II. 19.
Faudrie, Moise, to Lord and Lady Hatton; I. 21.
Fautrart, G., to Lord [Hatton]; I. 21.
Faux, Guy, copy of the letter sent by him to Lord Monteagle, whereby the plot was discovered; I. 21.
Faversham, Earl of; I. 24.
letters of the, temp. Car. II.; II. 17.
—— 1678; I. 56.
—— 1684–5; II. 23.
—— 1688; II. 11.
letters of James II. to; II. 14.
Favorites, Essay on (temp. Jac. vel Car. I.); II. 8.
Fawkener, Sir Everard, letters of; II. 179, 187.
Fealties, list of, done by abbots and corporations [in Scotland?] to Edw. I.; II. 5.
Fearn:
abbot of, Patrick Hamilton, proceedings against, for heresy; II. 208.
ecclesiastics of; II. 180.
a Kalendar of the monastery of; II. 179.
Feast days. See Richardsoune, Lord.

Feckham and others, imprisoned for Popery; II. 97. See Feknam.
Fee-farm rents, documents relating to, in the Hatton Collection; I. 34.
Fees:
of officers in the Royal service, temp. Jac. I. et Car. I.; I. 31.
exacted, and innovated offices, an inquiry by the King's Commissioners touching; I. 32.
lists of, temp. Eliz.; I. 60.
court, at Waterford, list of; I. 131.
of a Bishop's officials; II. 83 (bis). of officers in Ireland, lists of; II. 156, 157.
See Offices.
Feknam, Dr., Dean of St. Paul's, oration by; II. 153. See Feckham.
Fell:
Bishop (of Oxford), letter of; II. 8.
Dr., letter of; II. 137.
Felton:
the Earl Marshal's decree concerning; I. 32.
murder of Buckingham by; I. 42.
Fénélon's works, II. 71.
Fenner, William, letter of: II. 61.
Fenwick:
family of, papers relating to the; I. 55.
Sir John, proceedings against, in Parliament, 1596; I. 31.
—— trial of; II. 17.
Sir John, letter to his lady [temp. Car. II.]; II. 82.
Fergus, St.: relics of; II. 208.
stone image of; ib.
Ferguson, James, aide-de-camp to the Duke of Mar, letters of; II. 178.
Ferham, Lazars of, charter to the; I. 71.
Ferniehurst:
the laird of; I. 116.
papers relating to, from 1505; I. 116.
Ferrara, Stephen de, de Gama, a Portuguese gentleman, proceedings of Queen Eliz. against; I. 60.
Ferrars:
Henry de, and Isabel his wife, early grants by; II. 77.
William de, Lord of Stoke, grants by; ib.
Ferrer, Father; I. 34.
Ferrerius, an old MS. of, "De origine et incremento Gordoniæ familiæ in Scotia," 1545; I. 113.
Ferrers, Sir Edward, grant to; II. 72.
Festivals, Liber, 15th cent., with miniatures of saints; II. 144.
Fez, King of, ambassadors from the; I. 17.
Fiddes, papers lent to, for his Life of Wolsey; I. 51.
Fiefs, Percage et mesurage de (three books, 1591 and 1663); I. 32.
Fielding:
Basil, letters of; I. 100.
Henry, letter touching a comedy of; II. 13.
—— letters of; II. 82.
John, Archdeacon of Exeter, letter of; I. 52.
Viscount, ambassador extraordinary at Venice, letter to; II. 36.
Fife, county of; II. 143.
—— Balfour's Notes of the; I. 123.
Fife, Earl of:
MSS. of the, to be inspected; I. 112.
grant by the, 1338; II. 126.
Fifteenths and tenths, eight, granted 43 Eliz.; I. 33.
Fillon, —, of Over Alderley, deeds belonging to; I. 46.
Finch:
—, to Lord —; I. 21.
D., to Lord Hatton; I. 21.
Edward, to his brother; I. 21.
Essex, to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Sir H., Speaker of the House of Commons, Charles I.'s letter to; I. 42.
Heneage, letters to the Earl of Nottingham, 1698 and 1702; I. 21.
J., to Lord Hatton; I. 21.
Lady Isa., letter to; I. 27.
Lord Chancellor, to Lord Hatton; I. 21.
Lord Keeper, speeches of; I. 62.
L. W., to Lord [Hatton]; I. 21.
M., to Lady Halifax and another; I. 21.
Sir Molle; I. 33.
W., to Lord Hatton; I. 21.
Findlater, Earl of; II. 188.
Fine Rolls, extracts from; I. 31.
Fines:
extracts from the, Richard I., &c.; I. 32.
abstracts of, in Lord de Tabley's collection; I. 46.
Fines, a patent for, by Chas. I.; II. 81.
Finett, Sir John, Master of the Ceremonies under the Stuarts, Observations of; II. 83.
Finglas, Patrick, Baron, his "Breviate of the Conquest of Ireland and the Decay of the same;" II. 6, 40.
Finn, Dr., a sorcerer, life of; II. 201.
Fintbogh, account of the battle near, 1703; I. 23.
Fiott, Thomas, and another, to Lord Hatton; I. 21.
Fire, the Great, papers connected with; II. 79.
Fireships; I. 18.
Fireworks, at Blackheath, account of, 1687; II. 12.
First Fruits:
due to the Pope, 1353; I. 70.
estimates of; II. 89.
and tenths (Carlisle diocese); II. 125.
—— Court of, the articles of its union to the Exchequer; II. 90.
Fisher, John, Bishop of Rochester:
plate given by, to St. John's College Cambridge; I. 75.
an indenture respecting an obit for; I. 75.
executor of the Countess of Richmond, his papers; I. 76, 77.
sermon by; I. 77.
Fisheries, Scotch; II. 166, 167, 168.
Fishing in the King's sea, the patent for, 1685; I. 24.
Fishmonger's Company, London, statutes and other documents of the; II. 68, 69.
FitzGeffery, Charles, letter of; I. 13.
Fitzgerald:
John, Knight of Kerry, letter from; II. 195.
Richard, case of; II. 234, 251.
William, Bishop of Clonfert, letters of; II. 232.
Fitzgeralds, families of, Irish poems relating to the; II. 224.
Fitzgibbon, John, letters of; I. 127.
Fitzherbert, Alleyne, minister at Paris, 1782–3, correspondence of; I. 13.
Fitz-James, Harry, to Lord Hatton; I. 21.
Fitzmaurice:
Lord Edmond, one of the Historical MSS. Commissioners, reports by; I. xl. 1–4, 132; II. 63, 89, 90, 91, 99, 100.
James (rebel), letter of; II. 42.
Fitz-Urs, Robert and Reginald; I. 56.
Fitzwaters, Lord, ambassador to Spain, instructions to, 1554; II. 96.
Fitzwilliam:
family of, papers relating to the; I. 55.
Earl, letters of; I. 127.
Thomas Arthur, an Irish physician, a volume written by; I. 131.
Flanders:
memoirs of military transactions in (Wm. & Mary); I. 129.
letters and papers touching the English army in, 1702–40; II. 24, 25.
English regiments sent to, 1742; II. 190.
merchants of, letter of David II. banishing them from Scotland; I. 121.
documents relating to, temp. Eliz.; II. 45.
—— 17th cent.; II. 85, 86.
letters from, 18th cent.; II. 88.
See Low Countries; Netherlands.
Fleece, Order of the Golden. See Thoison d'Or.
Fleet, the English; I. 21.
—— sent by Charles I. to Scotland, instructions to the commander-in-chief of; I. 113.
Fleet Prison, the:
petition of a prisoner in; I. 57.
pamphlet touching, 1561; II. 89.
Fleetwood:
Dame Elizabeth, wife of Sir William, an annuity for; I. 34.
Dr. James; I. 67.
Lord, letters to, 1657–9; II. 98.
Miles; I. 24.
—— to Lord Hatton; I. 22.
Mr., M.P. for Northamptonshire; I. 22.
Mr., British consul at Messina, letters of; II. 190.
Serjeant, an opinion of; I. 31.
W., to Lord Hatton; I. 22.
Wm., Recorder of London, Book of Forest Laws by; II. 20.
—— an Historicall and Legall Discourse by; II. 90.
Fleming:
Lord John, 1585; II. 168.
Mary, attendant on Mary Queen of Scots; I. 55.
Flemings in Scotland, early documents relating to; I. 121.
Flemish, a treatise in (18th cent.); II. 142.
Flemish affairs, papers on (16th cent.); II. 41.
Fletcher:
Andrew, Lord Justice Clerk, order by; I. 44.
—— of Saltoun, letter of; II. 28.
Captain, depositions of; I. 23.
Sir George, of Queen's College, Oxford; II. 136.
H., of Saltoun, letters of; I. 117, 118.
J., to Lord Hatton; I. 22.
John, book of receipts of; I. 53.
Lawrence, comedian to James VI.; I. 129.
Flinders, Robert; I. 69.
Flodden Field, account of the battle of; I. 32.
Flood, Henry:
letters of; I. 127.
papers, pamphlets, speeches, &c. of; I. 128.
Florence:
city of, a relation of the, 1585; I. 61.
letters dated at, 18th cent.; II. 189. See Trumbull, Sir W.
Florus, extracts from; II. 7.
Floyd, Captain, a "relation" by; II. 8.

Digitized by Google

Flushing:
a colony of Grahams sent to; II. 161.
an inn of, appointed by James II. of Scotland for the resort of his subjects; I. 121.
letter dated at, 1585; II. 82.
Foe, Susanna, letter of; II. 122.
Foley, Robert, to Lord Hatton and Sir Charles Lyttleton; I. 22.
Foliat, Thomas; II. 22.
Foljambes, grants to the; I. 11.
Folkes, Martin, letters of; II. 116; letter to; ib.
Follais, John, to Lord ——; I. 22.
Fontenoy, battle of:
plan of the; I. 115.
account of the; II. 25.
Fontevraud, abbess of, delivery of Henry III.'s heart to the; I. 26.
Foote, Samuel, the actor:
his correspondence with the Duchess of Kingston; II. 20.
letter touching the death of; II. 13.
pedigree of, at Worcester College, Oxford; II. 143.
Footmen, impressed for Charles I., indentures of; II. 48.
Forbes:
Lord, collection of, I. 112; II. xix.
—— report on his MSS. at Castle Forbes; II. 193.
family of, papers of the; II. 211 sq.
Bishop of Caithness, MSS. of; II. 205.
James, letters of; I. 124.
John, letters of; I. 127.
—— Admiral, his memoirs of the House of Forbes; II. 216.
Lady, papers relating to; II. 210.
Lord President, letters of, 1745–6; II. 179.
Lord, diary of, while envoy to Russia: II. 215, 216.
Lords, correspondence and memoranda of; II. 194, 195.
—— rental of, &c.; II. 196.
Forbes, Castle (co. Longford):
report on the Earl of Granard's MSS. at; II. 210.
account of the siege of, 1642; II. 210.
Fordun's Chronicles, MSS. of:
at Edinburgh and elsewhere; I. 111.
at Brechin Castle (with Bower's continuation); I. 119.
in the University Library, Edinburgh; I. xii. 121.
in the library of the Catholic Bishop of Edinburgh; I. xii., 121.
in the Advocates' Library (four copies); I. 123.
in Lord Caithcrpe's Collection; II. 43.
Foreign affairs, letters relating to, 1703–4; I. 31.
Foreign ministers, presents to, from Chas. II. to Geo. II.; II. 83.
Forest:
metes and boundaries of a (Hen. III.); I. 50.
perambulation of a, 28 Edw. I.; I. 50.
claims, proceedings in; I. 46.
laws, the book of, by W. Fleetwood; II. 20.
—— the old, papers concerning; II. 40.
Forestallers, regraters, and others, roll of amercements and fines of, at Norwich, 1295; I. 103.
Forestalling and regrating, a register of convictions for; I. 122.
Foresters, account of allowances for the support of; I. 93.
Forests:
the Fire, rangership of; I. 20, 21.
perambulations of, in the Bishop's Registry, Wells; I. 93.
Royal, papers relating to, 17th cent.; II. 12.
—— perambulations of, Edw. I. and Hen. VIII.; II. 12.
tithes in; I. 90.
Forfar:
burgh of, documents relating to the; II. 206.
loch of; II. 185.
shire of, lands in the; II. 166, 168.
—— commission by the, to the Earl of Montrose; II. 175.
Forfeited Estates. See Ireland.
Forman, Archbishop, synodal statutes of; II. 209.
Forms:
official, collection of, by Rob. Beale; II. 40.
for holding courts, &c., 15th cent.; II. 66.
Formulare (a) of letters for various occasions, by "Matheus "quondam Alberti de Libris;" II. 46.
Formulare instrumentorum ecclesiasticorum, 16th cent.; II. 209.
Forster:
John, Chief Justice, Common Pleas, property of; II. 235.
Samuel, to Lord ——; I. 22. See Foster.
Fortescue:
the Hon. G. M., MSS. of, at Dropmore, Maidenhead; II. xiii.
—— report on the MSS. of, at Dropmore; II. 49.
—— a selection of the letters and papers in the collection of, printed by the Camden Society; II. ix.
J., signature of, 1591; I. 100.
Sir John, imperfect copies of his treatise in favour of Hen. VI.'s right to the throne; II. 5, 39.
—— his (long-lost) Latin treatise touching the right of Hen. VI. to the Crown; II. 43.
—— his Declaration upon certain writings sent out of Scotland against the King's title to his realm of England; II. 40, 44.
—— his treatise on the difference between an absolute and a limited monarchy; II. 42.
—— Chancellor to Henry VI., "Rules for a Purchaser," supposed to be written by; II. 80.
Fortescue—cont.
Sir John, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, commission by James I. to; II. 78.
John, and Helen, his wife, their narrative respecting the Gunpowder Plot; I. xi. 92.
Forth, collections relating to the navigation of the; II. 29.
Fortifications, a book on; I. 33.
Foscarini, M., amb. stranord., Relazione di (circa 1750); II. 3.
Foster:
Sir Humphrey, his brother; I. 17.
J., Speaker of the House of Commons of Ireland, letters of; I. 128.
Samuel, letter of; II. 47. See Forster.
Fotherby:
Ant., to the Dowager Countess of Thanet; I. 22.
T., to Mr. Warre; I. 22.
Fotheringhay, Castle of (1331); I. 70.
Fothers, William, to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Fouler, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 22.
Foulis, Sir David, letter to; II. 51.
Foundling Hospital, copy of its charter of incorporation; II. 4.
Fox:
Bishop, his disputes with the city of Wells, temp. Hen. VII.; I. 107.
Charles James, his correspondence with the Duke of Manchester; I. 13 (bis).
—— letters of; I. 55, 127; II. 192.
—— letters from and to; II. 30.
—— letters to, about 1806–7; II. 192.
—— his eulogy on the Duke of Bedford (in the House of Commons), 1802; II. 2.
—— account of a speech by, with Pitt's answer; II. 18.
Dr. E., letters of Henry VIII. to; II. 42.
—— letter of; ib.
H., letters of; II. 38.
Henry, first Lord Holland, letters of; I. 55.
John, "MSS. out of his study!" II. 151, 152.
Richard, his chronicle of the Kings of England; II. 2.
Stephen, to Lord Hatton; I. 22.
Fox-hunting, temp. Car. II.; II. 32.
Foy, Nathaniel, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, letters of; II. 232 (and note), 233.
Framlingham Castle, Suffolk; I. 70.
Frampton, Robert, "once Dean, then Bishop of Gloucester," to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 22.
France:
account of the reception of four English ambassadors in, 1518, by Sir Nich. Vaux; I. 96.
English ambassadors in, letter from Henry VIII. to the; II. 42.
treatise advocating war with, temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 39.
clergy and nobility of, letter of the King of Navarre to the; 1586; II. 151.
instructions to English ambassadors to, temp. Eliz.; II. 96, 97.
and Savoy, treaty of peace between, 1600; II. 51.
commissions and other papers touching maritime matters between England and, 16th cent.; II. 44.
Journal of a Traveller in, 1606; II. 4.
reasons inducing the match of [1606 ?]; I. 43.
A Relation of the Estate of, by Sir G. Cary, 1610; I. 53.
copies of treaties between, and other countries, and of instructions to French ambassadors (from Charles IX. to 1615); I. 124.
levy of men in Scotland for Charles I. of England's service in; II. 183, 185. observations during a voyage in, 1673, by T. Dineley; I. 53.
intrigues between James Duke of York and, 1675; I. 54.
peace between Holland and; I. 19.
war between Spain and, 1684; I. 23.
war against, 1690; I. 23.
treaty between Sweden and, 1698; I. 36.
description and maps of the coasts of, 17th cent.; II. 40.
characters of personages of the Court of, 1702; I. 30.
project for an invasion of, 1703; I. 20.
papers relating to the military operations of, 1706–13; II. 32. war with, 1709; II. 188.
ambassadors from England to, their instructions, 1711–15; II. 188.
and the States General, copy of the secret articles between, 1784; II. 30.
letters from, 1735; I. 55.
—— 18th cent.; II. 35.
Chancellor of. See Vair.
Council of, 1678; I. 21.
Crown of, a treatise on the King of England's right to the, 16th cent.; II. 39.
—— declaration by Henry VI. of his right to the; ib.
—— papers on the claim of the Kings of England to the; II. 44.
history of, from Pharamond to Henry IV.; I. 33.
King, Dauphin, and royal family of, their letters to Mary of Guise; I. 124.
peers of, armorial bearings of; II. 258.
Queen Dowager of, Mary, letter of, 1695; II. 62.

Digitized by Google

France—cont.
Queen Regent of, letter from M. Rosni to ; H. 152.
Queen of, death of the, 1684 ; I. 23.
—— See Anne de Bretagne.
Reformed Churches in, the Ecclesiastical Discipline of the ; I. 48.
ships of ; I. 17.
spies in, letters to, 1702 ; I. 13.
a treatise on, by an ambassador there ; I. 48.
Sir T. Overbury's observations on the 17 provinces of ; I. 61.
view of, "in the method of travaile" [temp. Eliz.] ; II. 41.
France, King of :
speech of the [1572 ?] ; II. 151.
treaty with England, 1572 ; ib.
papers touching his plots against Queen Elizabeth ; II. 40.
list of the household of the [1620 ?] ; II. 39.
commissions and letters from the, to the Marquis of Huntly, 1624–37 ; I. 115.
an answer to his manifesto by a subject of the King Catholic, 1635 ; I. 33.
his engagement with England touching the Dutch, 1678 ; I. 33.
his guarantees of treaties, 1698 ; I. 36.
letter to the, 1698 ; I. 36.
assassination of the, 1727 ; I. 51.
See Francis I. ; Henry III. ; Henry IV.
Francesca Margarita, la Signora, a singer ; I. 16.
Francis I., of France, duplicate of his treaty with Henry VIII. [1534] ; II. 104.
Francis :
Dean (grandfather of Sir Philip Francis), case of ; II. 234, 253.
Father ; I. 22.
Sir P., letters of ; I. 127. See Francois.
Frankfort :
English congregation at, "The Order of Common Prayer" used by the ; II. 76, 77.
Academy of, letter of the Rector and Senate of the, 1662 ; II. 157.
letters dated at, 17th cent. ; I. 13, 35, 36 ; II. 89.
Frankland, Sir Thomas ; I. 22.
Franklin, Dr. (1777) ; II. 13.
Frankpledge, view of, roll of a (co. Camb.) ; I. 65.
Frankpledges ; I. 30. See Forms for holding courts.
Fraser :
Mr. William, of the General Register House, Inspector in Scotland for the Royal Commission on Historical MSS. ; II. vii.
—— report by ; II. 165–177.
Captain, and his accomplices, discovery of, 1704 ; I. 33.
Frauncis, John ; II. 72.
Frederick the Great, letter of ; II. 217.
Frederick, Prince of Wales :
household accounts of ; II. 28.
letters to and from ; II. 37.
letters from, to George II., with the King's reply ; II. 78.
Freedom of a city, admission of a woman to the ; I. 130.
Freehold hook, a, of Cheshire ; I. 48.
Freeholders, of England, "Second and last Advice" to the (a tract) ; II. 72.
Freeman, Arguments at the conference about the liberty of a (temp. Car. I.) ; II. 79.
Freeman :
Aylworth, letter of ; II. 64.
Dr. ; I. 22.
Ed., to Mr. Goode ; I. 23.
Sir Robert, letters of ; I. 67.
Sam., to Lord and Lady Hatton ; I. 22.
Fremys, Roger, his translation of the French treatise, "The Arbor of Battailes" ; I. 14.
French, the :
attack on Guernsey by, 1665 ; I. 17.
their propositions to the Allies, 1678 ; I. 19.
attack a Dutch convoy, 1703 ; I. 21.
French : affairs, papers on (16th cent.) ; II. 41 (bis).
ambassadors to England, 1665 ; I. 17.
fleet, description of the, 1673 ; I. 33.
—— 1689 ; I. 19.
—— 1702 ; I. 22.
intercepted correspondence, 1803–4 ; II. 3.
men-of-war ; I. 17.
merchants, letter of, to the Privy Council [temp. Eliz.] ; II. 49.
ministers, letters to and from, 1783 ; I. 13.
poem, a, 14th cent. ; II. 84.
poems and letters, copies of, 18th cent. ; II. 19.
poetry, a volume of, addressed to Prince Charles, 1614 ; I. 49.
politics, letters on, 18th cent. ; II. 189.
Protestants, in arms, 1703 ; I. 20 (bis).
Protestant Church in Ireland ; II. 234, 243.
Revolution, notices of the, 1734–95 ; II. 75.
royalists, account of the, 1793 ; II. 29.
squadron, a ; I. 28.
miscellaneous papers in ; I. 30.
Frendraught, house of, burning of the, 1630 ; II. 194.
—— Lord, confined at Dunrobin, 1651 ; I. 116.
Friar and the Boy, Story of the (a poem, 15th cent.) ; II. 84.
Friars Minors, or Franciscans, decree of the Provincial of the, 1475 ; I. 69.
Friars Preachers, at Kilkenny ; I. 129, 130.
Fridberg, battle of, plan of the ; I. 113.
Friendship, indentures and bonds of (Scotch) ; II. 167, 168, 175.
Friesland, East, letters about the military expedition in, 1795 ; II. 29.
Friezeland, Earl of, a treatise addressed to the ; II. 40.
Frigge, Mr., letters of ; II. 179.
Frise (or Friaen), Count :
letters to George Stepney, 1695 ; I. 35.
letter touching, 1704 ; II. 71.
Frobisher, Martin, instructions to, touching the North-west passage ; II. 97.
Froissart, Jehan, first part of the Chronicles of (at Stonyhurst College) ; II. 146.
Froude, Captain, letter to ; II. 10.
Frowde, Phil., letter of ; II. 11.
Fryth, II., letter of ; II. 48.
Fuente, Diego de la, letters of ; II. 55, 56.
Fugitives over sea, list of, returned into the Exchequer, 1573 ; I. 60.
Fullarton, Bishop of Edinburgh, letters of ; II. 204.
Fuller :
—, letter of ; I. 22.
Daniell, to Mr. Smith ; I. 30.
W., to the Earl of Nottingham ; I. 22.
Funerals, papers relating to ; II. 31.
Furlong, Mr., nurseryman, letter to ; II. 26.
Furnesii, Registrum Sanctæ Mariæ, per abbatem Guill. Dalton ; I. 114.
Furniture, inventories of, 17th cent. ; I. 13 ; II. 185, 187. See Inventories.

G.

G., Th., a letter by, touching the practice of an attorney at Common Law ; II. 90.
Gabaleone, Signor, letters of ; II. 55, 56, 57.
Gabetis, Thomas, to the Countess Dowager of Thanet ; I. 22.
Gadbury, John, letter of Privy Council concerning ; II. 79.
Gaelic MSS., in the Advocates' Library ; I. 125.
Gage, Richard, to Lord Hatton and another ; I. 22.
Gainsborough, Earl of, letters to the, 1685 ; II. 78.
Galba, the Tragedy of ; I. 51.
Galbraith, William, charter by ; II. 166.
Gale (or Sale), William, letters to Lord Hatton ; I. 22, 30.
Galens', Collectorium ; II. 141.
Galiardello, Marc' Antonio Cesare, letters of ; II. 47.
Galileo ; I. 68.
Galla, Count, account of his reception ; II. 83.
Gallasis, N., a tract by ; II. 44.
Gallway, —, to Lord —— ; I. 22.
Galway :
articles of surrender of the town of ; II. 226.
certificate by the Commissioners for determining claims to the articles of, 1699 ; II. 227.
Galway, Lord, Lord Justice of Ireland :
letter to, 1703 ; I. 20.
letters touching ; II. 233, 234.
Galwey, family of, an inventory of the properties of the, temp. Eliz. ; I. 129.
Games, unlawful, penalties for playing at ; II. 78.
Gampleshon, Henry, to Lord Hatton and another ; I. 22. See Campleshon.
Gaol delivery, commissions of ; I. 34.
Gardeners' rolls, 15th cent. ; I. 88.
Gardiner :
—, letter of, 1688 ; II. 11.
Colonel, letter of, 1712 ; II. 24.
—— James, letters of ; II. 190, 191.
Robert, letters of ; I. 44.
Stephen, Bishop of Winchester ; II. 153.
—— Instructions by, to Dr. Bonner ; II. 155.
—— oath of, repudiating the Papal supremacy ; II. 155.
—— letter of Edw. VI. to ; II. 155.
—— deposition of, by Edw. VI. ; II. 155.
Garnet, — (priest) ; II. 154.
Garrard, Geo., letter to, from Ben Jonson ; II. 79.
Garrie, D., letters to Lord Hatton, 1694 ; I. 22.
Garrick :
David (the actor), letters of ; II. 13, 24, 37.
letter touching his funeral ; II. 13.
Mrs. See Violetti.
Garter :
the Black Book of the ; I. 31.
documents touching an investiture of the, 1603 ; II. 20.
Knights of the, list of ; I. 32.
The Antiquitie of the Order of the ; II. 7.
statutes of the Order of the (MS. 1714) ; II. 7.
—— (copy on vellum) ; II. 31.
—— (a roll, temp. Hen. V. vel VI.) ; II. 49.

Digitized by Google

Garter King-at-arms, office of ; I. 20.
Garth, Dr. ; II. 71.
Gascoigne, Sir Bernard, letters of ; II. 19.
Gascon, Bernard, letters of ; II. 24.
Gascony, letters to the King's officers in ; II. 85.
Gaunt, Gilbert de, deed of ; I. 12.
Gavelkind tenure, in Wales ; II. 105.
Gaveston, Peter de ; I. 92.
  a pardon to John Chaumont for all acts against ; I. 50.
  execution of ; II. 81.
Gawain, Sir, the Romance of ; II. 84.
Gayland, —, letter of ; I. 34.
Gazette, the, an advertisement for ; I. 25.
Geath, F., a paper by ; II. 24.
Gee, Marmion, to Mr. Hatton ; I. 30.
"Geese, the wild," in Ireland ; II. 235.
Genealogiæ Incertæ, by Dugdale ; I. 31.
Genealogical collectanea ; II. 80. (See Pedigrees.)
Genealogical tables ; I. 32 ; II. 90.
Genealogies :
  books upon ; I. 31.
  at Tabley House, Cheshire ; I. 46.
  Gaelic ; I. 126.
  Scotch ; II. 186, 196, 197, 198, 199, 201, 208.
  by Sir G. Mackenzie ; II. 201.
  Welsh ; II. 84.
  See Heraldic MSS. ; Pedigrees.
Genealogy, works on, in the Advocates' Library ; I. 125.
Generall of Warre, commission for a [16th cent.?] ; II. 96.
Geneva :
  State of, letter from the, to Queen Elizabeth ; II. 151.
  letters dated at, 1719 ; II. 188.
Generides, Sir (title of a long romance in English verse, 15th cent.) ; I. 60.
Genoa :
  envoy extraordinary from, Marquis Sauli, his harangue to Queen Anne, with the Queen's answer ; II. 83.
  letters dated at, 18th cent. ; II. 189.
  Journal of the marches of the Imperial army in, 1747, (French) ; II. 216.
Genoese :
  goods, captured 1743, letters relating to, 1748 ; II. 4.
  men-of-war ; II. 217.
Gentil, M., to Mr. Streethay ; I. 30.
Geofferyes, George, letter to ; I. 30.
George of Denmark, Prince Consort to Queen Anne :
  his instructions to Admiral Benbow ; I. 22.
  order for putting regiments under ; I. 54.
  letters of ; II. 15.
  papers relating to ; II. 83.
George Louis and Sophia (of Hanover), to Queen Anne ; II. 79.
George, son of Sophia of Hanover (afterwards King George I.)
  letters of ; I. 13.
George I. :
  accession of ; II. 234.
  instructions by, to ambassadors ; II. 188, 190.
  letters of ; II. 178, 189, 217.
George, Prince of Wales, his election as Chancellor of Trinity College, Dublin, 1715-6 ; II. 234, 251, 252, 253.
George II. coronation of ; II. 235.
  instructions by, to an ambassador ; II. 190.
  letter of ; II. 191.
  letters to ; II. 213.
  letters to, from his son, Prince Frederick, with the King's reply ; II. 28.
  order by ; II. 190.
  warrant by ; I. 13.
George, Prince of Wales (afterwards George III.), portrait of, by Ramsay ; II. 205.
George III.
  letters of ; II. 12.
  letters relating to ; II. 14, 29, 30.
George, Prince of Wales (son of Geo. III.), letters of ; I. 127.
Georgia, trustees for, letters to and from the, 1736 ; II. 3.
Georgius, Hieronymus, letters from, to the Doge of Venice ; II. 44.
Geraldine, Mons., letter to the trustees for, 1736 ; II. 3.
Gerard, Lord Charles, letters of, 1676-86 ; I. 56.
Gerbier, Sir B. ; II. 83.
Germain, Lady Betty ; II. 14.
German :
  ambassador from Vienna, copy of his speech to Queen Anne, with the Queen's answer, 1711 ; II. 83.
  paper, extract from a, 1702 ; I. 38.
  princes, negotiations with, temp. Jac. I. et Car. I. ; I. 125.
  soldiers, list of the King's, 1670-1759, with drawings ; II. 30. wars, the, 17th cent. ; II. 194, 195 (bis).
  work, a, 15th cent. ; II. 81.
  miscellaneous papers in ; I. 30.
  two books in, of articles of agreement ; I. 82.
  a document in, supposed to be a licence to travel ; I. 33.
  —— dated 1603 ; II. 20.
Germanian, Jus Publicum ; II. 3.
Germany :
  instructions by the Privy Council for borrowing money in, 1576, with commissions for same ; II. 95, 97.
  account of the war in, temp. Eliz. ; I. 32.
  letters and papers from, on religious matters, temp. Eliz. ; II. 44.
  English ambassadors to, instructions to, temp. Eliz. ; II. 96, 97.
  letters touching the affairs of, 1619 ; II. 86.
  Journal of a journey through, 1671 ; I. 115.
  correspondence relating to, 1694–1707 ; I. 34, 40.
  a volume (in German) relating to, 17th cent. ; I. 124.
  Emperors of, Scots serving under ; I. 132.
  Princes of, a discourse how Queen Elizabeth and the French King deal with the ; II. 44.
  —— letters to (temp. Eliz.) ; II. 45.
  troops of, 1684 ; I. 33.
Germany, Emperor of :
  English ambassador to, temp. Edw. VI. ; I. 124.
  letter of his ambassador, 1578 ; II. 89.
  Matthias, letters from and to, 1614 ; II. 51.
  his negotiations with Venice, 1688 ; I. 23.
  credentials of the English ambassador to the (1697) ; I. 13.
  his letters to the Elector of Brandenburg and the King of Poland, 1698 ; I. 36.
  propositions of the, 1699 ; I. 37.
  letter to the Duke of Mantua, 1701 ; I. 87.
  —— to the King of Sweden, 1701 ; I. 38.
  treaty with the States General, 1701 ; I. 54.
  Stepney's credentials to the, 1701 ; I. 37.
  Leopold I., his declaration sent to the Elector of Mayence, 1703 ; I. 22.
  letter from George I. to ; II. 217.
  papers connected with the entrance of Admiral Forbes into the service of, 1718–21 ; II. 212, 217.
  treaty between the King of Sweden and, 1742 ; II. 190.
Gernon, Barth., alderman of Kilkenny, letter of ; II. 227.
Gerrard :
  Sir T., petition for relief to ; II. 69.
  William, Chancellor of Ireland, treatise by ; II. 40.
Gerveys, Master John, Bishop of Winchester, "synodus" of ; I. 61.
Getsthorp, Peter, to Lord Hatton ; I. 22.
Ghent, clergy and seminary of, account of the persecution of the, 1811 ; II. 110.
Gibbon :
  Edward, of Benton (father of the historian), letters of ; I. 41.
  Edward, the historian, letters of ; I. x. 41.
Gibbons, Dr. ; II. 69.
Gibraltar :
  list of offices in ; II. 4.
  letters dated at, 1793 ; II. 29.
Gibson :
  —, to the Archbishop of York ; I. 22.
  Alex., letters of ; II. 185.
  Charles, to the Earl of Nottingham ; I. 22.
  Edmund, Bishop of London, letters of ; II. 232.
Gilbert :
  Mr. J. T., Inspector for the Historical MSS. Commission in Ireland ; I. vii., xii., xiii.
  —— reports by ; I. 126-132 ; II. 209-269.
  Sir Humphrey ; II. 97.
  —— his paper for the reformation of Munster ; II. 40.
  Sir H., "Sundric reportes of the countrie which (he) goeth to discover ;" II. 45.
  J., letters of ; I. 52.
  William, to Chr. Hatton ; I. 30.
Gildas or Nennius, a MS. copy of, at Drummond Castle ; I. 118. See Nennius.
Gildon, Mrs., letter to ; I. 30.
Gilsland, barons and lords of, names of their descendants ; II. 124.
Gluckell, Lieut.-General, letters of ; II. 217.
Gladman, John, papers concerning the insurrection of, at Norwich, 1443 ; I. 106.
Glamis Castle, report on the Earl of Strathmore's MSS. at ; II. 185.
Glamorgan, Earl of, Edward, Charles I.'s letter to ; I. 99.
Glanalley, Lord, letter of, 1675 ; II. 212.
Glanville :
  Barth. de, translation of his work, "De proprietatibus rerum," by Trevisa ; I. 60.
  copy of (MS. 13th cent.) ; II. 105.
  John, speech of ; II. 3.
  Serjeant, Speaker, his speech, 1640 ; I. 51.
  Wm., letters of ; II. 21.
Glasgow :
  Corporation of, records of the ; I. xii.
  —— report on the records of the ; I. 126.
  the General Assembly at, 1638 ; I. 124.
  —— letters to the, 1638 ; I. 113.
  cathedral church of, chartulary of the, 13th cent. ; I. 120.
  —— documents connected with its temporalities, 15th and 16th cent. ; I. 120.
  chapter of, charter of the ; II. 167.

Glasgow—cont.
church of St. Anne, chartulary of the; I. 126.
college of, a contribution to the fabric and library of the; II. 175.
magistrates of, letter to the, 1715; II. 26.
ministers of, list of the, 1682; II. 204.
see of, a rental book of the possessions of the, 1509–69; I. 131.
Archbishop of, letters from Mary Queen of Scots to the; II. 41.
—— See Leighton, Robert; Paterson, John.
the Archbishop, presbytery, and town of, letters to the; I. 113.
Glasgow, Earl of:
report on the MSS. of the, at Hawkhead and Kelburne, in progress; I. 112.
MSS. of the, at Crawford Priory, to be inspected; I. 112.
Glasguensis, chartularium seu registrum ecclesiæ; II. 186.
Glass, foreign, proclamation against the importation of; I. 34.
Glasswork, expenses for, 17th cent.; II. 199.
Glastonbury:
Corporation of, records of the; I. xi.
—— report on the records of the; I. 102.
abbey of, dispersion of its library; I. 99.
abbot and convent of, dues from the, to the church of Wells; I. 93.
Glastone, Master John, at Cambridge, 1342; I. 84.
Glenalmond, Trinity College:
the collection of MSS. belonging to; I. 112; II. xx.
report on the MSS. at; II. 203.
Glencairn, Earl of, and others:
bond by the [1569?]; II. 183.
letter of the, 1570; II. 183.
Glencoe, massacre of; I. 113.
Glengary, laird of; II. 205.
Glenlioce:
abbey of; II. 178.
—— register of the; I. 111.
commendator of, Lawrence, 1620; II. 178.
Glenorchy, Lord, letters of, 1715; II. 178.
Glossarium Brigantinum (by W. Nicholson); II. 195.
Glossary of legal and antiquarian words, by Sir P. Leycester; I. 49.
Glosses, English, to a Latin grammatical treatise; I. 61.
Gloucester:
abbey of, charters granted by the; II. 72.
clergy of; II. 234.
county of; II. 138.
—— sheriff's return of the hundreds in the, Edw. I.; I. 14.
deanery of; I. 92.
Gloucester and Hertford:
Earl of, Gilbert de Clare, grants by; I. 129, 130; the partition of Kilkenny between his heiresses; I. 130.
Earls of, Gilbert and Richard de Clare, documents touching their possessions in Ireland; II. 238.
Countess of, Maud de Clare, letter of; I. 96.
Gloucester, Duke of:
Humphrey, charters by, temp. Hen. VI.; II. 94.
—— seals of; ib.
letters of Queen Henrietta Maria to the, 1660; II. 82.
documents connected with the; II. 89, 83.
Glover:
Robert, Somerset Herald; I. 45.
the herald, a MS. by; II. 6.
Goade, Dr., Provost of King's College, Cambridge, letters to; I. 62.
Godfrey, Sir Edmondbury:
depositions of Titus Oates before; I. 54.
murder of; I. 18.
three men condemned for the murder of, 1684; I. 24.
confession of France, one of the murderers of; I. 58.
Godolphin:
Lord Treasurer, to the Earl of Nottingham, 1689–1704 (48 letters); I. 22.
—— handwriting of; I. 30.
—— letters of; 1680–2; I. 56.
Lord, letters of (17th cent.); II. 15.
Earl, letter from Queen Anne to, with his reply; II. 99.
Francis, letters of, 1590; I. 50.
Francis (father of Sidney), letters of, 1639–45; II. 99.
—— copy of the Commons' Journals touching his suing out his pardon, 1646; II. 23.
Henry, letters of; I. 50.
Mrs., letters of; II. 99.
Sidney, Captain, Deputy-Governor of Guernsey; I. 15.
—— letters of; I. 22.
—— letter to his wife; II. 88.
Godolphins:
pedigrees of the; II. 88.
letters of the; ib.
Godstow, abbess of, deeds by the; II. 126, 128.
Goertz, Baron de, letters to George Stepney; I. 35, 36.
Gohre (Germany), letters dated at, 18th cent.; II. 190.
Golden Grove Book, the:
placed in the Public Record Office; II. viii.
report on; II. 31.
Goldsmiths' Hall, treasury of; II. 221.
Gondomar, Count of:
letter to the; II. 84.
letters touching the [temp. Jac. I.]; II. 84, 85, 87, 88, 89.
Gonson, William, squire of the body to Henry VIII.; I. 12.
Goode:
Henry, to Lord Hatton; I. 22.
William, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 22.
Goodman:
Bishop, letters of; II. 106.
Christopher, address by, to Queen Elizabeth; II. 153.
—— a paper by; ib.
Goodrest (Berks), collection of Mrs. Willes at; II. 103.
Goodriche, Sir John (at Stockholm), letters of; II. 26.
Goodwin, Christopher, his device for erecting a mart town in England; II. 40.
Goor, F. W., to "Their High & Mighty Lordships;" I. 23.
Gorbier, Sir Balthazar, the "Relation" of, touching the reigns of Kings James and Charles; I. 114.
Gordon:
Duke of, letters to the, 1625; I. 115.
—— letters of the, 1684–6; II. 178.
family of, books and papers relating to the; I. 115.
house of, its amicable arrangement with the house of Forbes, 1589; II. 194.
Adam, of Kilcolmkill, letters of; II. 178.
Bernard, physician, his "Opus de Curandis Morbis," &c. 1303; I. 115.
Clunie, letters of; II. 179.
Dame Elizabeth, of Gycht; II. 184.
James, Lieutenant-Colonel, letter of; II. 20.
Sir John, of Embo, letters of; II. 179.
John, his sketches of statuary at Rome; I. 115.
John, elected Bishop of Galloway; II. 178.
Lady Jean, dispensation for her marriage with James, Earl of Bothwell; II. 177.
Lady Margaret; II. 195.
Lord, Captain of Gens d'armes d'Ecosse, French commissions to (? temp. Car. II.); I. 115.
Lord Charles (afterwards Earl of Aboyne), poems of; II. 180.
Lord George, letter of (temp. Car. I.); II. 184.
Lord George, letters touching the riots of; II. 14.
Nathaniel, Colonel (an adherent of Montrose), process and decreet of forfeiture against, 1645; II. 174.
Sir Robert, papers relating to (? Jac. I. or Car. I.); II. 178.
—— his accounts as tutor to the Earl of Sutherland, 1616–22; II. 179.
—— the original MS. of his history of the Earldom; II. 179.
Sir Robert of Gordonston, the Earl of Mar's order for his arrest, 1716; I. 118.
Sir Robert, letters of, 1745–6; II. 179.
Robert, of Straloch, his work, "Origo et progressus familiæ Gordoniorum de Huntley in Scotia;" I. 118.
of Rothiemay, letter from the widow of; II. 184.
Gordon Papers, the, belonging to the Duke of Richmond; I. xii.
—— report on; I. 114.
Gordons, epigram on the emblem of the; II. 194.
Gore, Thomas, to Lord and Chr. Hatton; I. 23.
—— See Ormsby-Gore.
Gorges:
Sir Arthur, letter of; II. 35.
Lady Elizabeth, letter touching; II. 57.
Richard, and another, to Lord Hatton; I. 23.
Goring, Sir George, letters of; I. 67, II. 56.
Gormanstown:
Lady, letters of; II. 239.
Lady Margaret, poverty of, 1722; II. 235.
Lord, letters of, 17th and 18th cent.; II. 239.
Gorstelow, Leo, to Chr. Hatton; I. 23.
Gosford, Lord, letters of, 18th cent.; I. 127.
Gospel, the Apocryphal, on the infancy of Christ; II. 105.
Gospels, the:
a leaf of, in Greek, 14th cent.; I. 45.
translation of, into French verse; I. 45.
text of, or Oath Book, at York, written before the Norman Conquest; I. 87.
and Epistles, in old English, 14th cent.; I. 60.
See Evangelia.
Gosport, condition of, 1688; 10, 11.
Gosselin:
Jean, to Lord Hatton; I. 23.
Mary, to Lord Hatton; I. 23.
P., to Lord Hatton; I. 23.
Goudge, Edward, to Lord Hatton; I. 23.
Gough, Stephen, letters of; II. 83.
Gourdon, Madame de, a work dedicated to; II. 202.
Gower:
J. Leveson, to Lord —— ; I. 23.
Wm.; II. 72.
Graal, Legend of the Saint, in Welsh, 15th cent.; II. 106.
Grabe (or Grabbe), Dr.; II. 234, 253.
Græcorum, Secundum Antieos (a paper of prognostications so entitled); II. 84.
Grafton, Duke of:
letter of the; II. 70.
Lord Justice of Ireland, 1715; II, 234.
Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, letter to the, 1733; II. 235.

Digitized by Google

Graham : family of, muniments of the ; II. 165, seq.
—— charters by and to the ; II. 166, 167.
Mary, letters of ; II. 29.
Richard, letters of ; II. 17.
Sir Thomas, letters of ; II. 29 (passim).
William the, and his son, 1375 ; II. 206.
Grahams, the :
commission to survey the lands of, on the Borders ; II. 78.
petition and complaint of, to the English Lord Warden, 1600, with "the Gentlemen's Answers ;" II. 124.
names of the clans of ; ib.
proclamation for their transportation, 1603 ; ib.
a colony of, expelled from the Borders, 1605 ; II. 181, 182.
petition of the ; II. 182.
Grahme :
J., to the Earl of Nottingham ; I. 23.
Ra., to Lord —— ; I. 23.
Grammar, Latin treatises on, 15th cent. ; I. 61 ; II. 66.
Granard :
Earl of, archives of the ; II. xx.
—— report on his MSS. at Castle Forbes ; II. 210.
Earls of, papers and MSS. of the ; II. 211–217.
Grandison, Viscount, letters of the, 1632 ; II. 184.
Grange, Lord, letters of, 1719, &c. ; I. 117, 118.
Granger, Eliz., to Lord —— ; I. 23.
Gransden, vicarage of, letter touching the, II. 113.
Grant, James, a work by, on the "Northern Circars," addressed to Warren Hastings ; II. 28.
Grantebrigge (Cambridge), nuns of, grants to the ; II. 119.
Grantham, Lord, Secretary of State :
correspondence of ; I. 13.
notes by, 1766–9 ; II. 8.
letters of (from Madrid), 1768–72 ; II. 26.
letters to and from, 1778–80 ; II. 9.
—— 1782 sq. ; II. 30.
Grantham, Hugh, auditor to the Duke of Suffolk, receipt by, I. 23.
Granville :
Lord, despatches by, 1797–1805 ; II. 3. See Grenville.
J. (Lord ?), to Lord ——, 1702 ; I. 23.
Col. J., letters of ; II. 18.
Grattan, Henry, letters of ; I. 127.
Gray :
Lady, relation of an apparition which commanded her to deliver a message to the Duke of Monmouth ; I. 45.
Lord, conspiracy of, 1603 ; II. 3.
—— his advice touching defence of the realm [temp. Eliz. ?] ; II. 43.
Ambrose, of Envill, letter of ; II. 48.
Mr. proclamation of the King of Scots concerning ; II. 43.
Mr., letter to, 1643 ; II. 48.
Thomas, the poet, copies of letters by ; II. 27.
—— agreement for publishing the works of ; I. 70.
—— letters relating to his poems ; II. 37.
Graye, F., to George Geoffreryes ; I. 30.
Graye, Master of, a discourse by the, touching the King of Spain's designs ; II. 27.
Gray's Inn, transcripts from the Great Coucher Books at ; I. 49.
Great Seal, Keeper of, his fees, temp. Car. I. ; I. 34.
Greaves, J., to Lord Hatton ; I. 23.
Greek, letters in, 15th cent. ; II. 205.
—— poems in, by Charles Bill ; II. 85.
Greek Church, the, proposed concordat with "the Catholic remnant of the British Churches," 1716 ; II. 205 (ter.) ; letter touching its principles ; ib.
Greek Testament, Concordances of the ; II. 254.
Green Cloth, Board of ; I. 34.
Green, Rev. Samuel, to Lord —— ; I. 23.
Greene :
Francis, to Lord Hatton ; I. 23.
—— to — Macarty ; I. 30.
J., to Mr. Hatton ; I. 30.
Greenhill, Henry, letter of ; I. 52.
Greenshields, Rev. James, letters of ; I. 118, 119.
Grenville, Bev. See Grenville, Bevill.
Greenwaxing, office of, in Wales, Cheshire, and Northumb. ; I. 34.
Greenwood :
Father Christopher, letter of ; I. 58.
Nathaniel, to Lord Hatton ; I. 23.
Gregge, Benjamin, to Lord Hatton ; I. 23.
Gregorii Papæ, Homiliæ Beati ; II. 144.
Gregory the Great, Pope :
treatises of (copy of 15th cent.) ; I. 45.
the "Trental" of (MS. 15th cent.) ; II. 85.
a good book "of his moder ;" II. 106.
works of (Aberdeen Univ.) ; II. 200.
Gregory XIII., Pope, letter from Mary Queen of Scots to ; I. 120.
Gregory XIV., Pope, MSS. relating to ; II. 90.
Gregory XV., Pope : to the King of Spain ; I. 54.
to Prince Charles ; I. 54.
Gregory :
Dr. John ; I. 22.
Mr., [Gregory Casale ?] letter to, 1549 ; II. 152.
Grenville :
Lord, memoranda by, 1761–68 ; II. 8.
—— letter of, 1794 ; I. 42.
—— letters of, 1795 ; II. 29.
—— letters to, 1793–4 ; I. 42.
—— letters to (1806 ?) ; II. 192. See Granville.
Bevill, I. 21 ; letters of, I. 43.
George, letters of ; II. 38.
Mr., his negotiations at Paris, 1782 ; I. 13.
Mr., letters to ; I. 14.
Richard, letter of ; II. 21.
Gresham, Sir Thomas :
instructions by Queen Elizabeth to, for borrowing money in the Low Countries ; II. 25.
deed of security for money lent by an Antwerp merchant to ; II. 104.
Gretton :
manor of, documents relating to the ; I. 33.
prebend of ; I. 18.
vicarage of ; I. 15.
Greville :
Fulk, letters of ; I. 57, 100.
Sir Fulk, letters of ; II. 36, 38.
Mrs., letter of ; I. 51.
Grey :
Earl, letters of, 1821–9 ; II. 192.
Lady Annabell, correspondence of, 1763–9 ; II. 9.
Lady Jane, a prize poem on the execution and death of, by R. E. Worsley, 1792 ; II. 4.
—— Edward VI.'s device for settling the succession on ; II. 155.
—— letter of, as Queen ; II. 153, 155.
Lord, Richard, release by, 23 Hen. VIII. ; II. 78.
Lord, death of, 1679 ; I. 21.
—— probate of the will of (no date) ; I. 17.
Lord, education of ; I. 15.
—— recommendation of Mr. Berard as governor to ; I. 15.
—— offices claimed by, 1685 ; I. 21.
Thomas, Marquis [of Dorset], his petition to the Pope ; I. 77. See Dorset, Marquis of.
Grey de Ruthin :
Lady, Susannah, will of ; I. 33.
Lord, letters of, 1676–86 ; I. 56.
—— (Henry Yelverton), to Lord and Lady Hatton and others, 1683–5, (42 letters) ; I. 23.
—— accounts of, 1680–5 ; I. 33.
See North and Grey de Ruthin, Lord.
Greyden, John, depositions of ; I. 25.
Greys :
De, collections for the pedigrees of the ; II. 4.
documents concerning the ; II. 5.
pedigree of the ; II. 6.
collections by Le Neve for the family of ; II. 8.
Griffin :
Lord, to Lord —— ; I. 24.
Edward, to Lord Hatton ; I. 24.
Essex, letter of ; I. 24.
J., to Lord Hatton ; I. 24.
Griffith, Lancelot, to Mr. Pulkins ; I. 24.
Grigg, Wm., Master of Clare College, Cambridge, letter of ; II. 115.
Grimani, Venetian ambassador, letters to and from [1710, vel post] ; II. 83.
Grimes, Ambrose, confessor to the nuns of St. Dominic, at Brussels, letter and order to ; II. 79.
Grimestone, Johannis de, Liber Locorum Communium in ordine alphabetico (14th cent.) ; I. 125.
Grimston :
A., to Lord Hatton ; I. 24, 30.
Sir Harbottle, Master of the Rolls, death of ; I. 56.
Grindall, Edmund, Archbishop of York :
his "Statuta de Schoiasticis," &c. (at Queen's College, Oxford) ; II. 138.
letters of ; II. 138 (bis).
Grindallana, Compositio et Statuta (at Queen's College, Oxford) ; II. 138.
Grisons League, letters to and from the, 1614 ; II. 31.
Griti, Antonio, a copy of Quintilian's Orations executed for ; II. 5.
Gross, Robert (?) Le, to H. Fanshawe ; I. 30.
Grosteste, Robert, Bishop of Lincoln :
a copy of his "Liber Hosebondrie" ; I. 75.
translation by, of Walter de Henley's treatise on Husbandry ; II. 106.
his works, De Oculo Morali, and De Lingua ; II. 141.
Essay on the Life and Manners of, by — Perry ; II. 201.
Grosvenor, E., to Chr. Hatton ; I. 24.
Grove :
family of, correspondence of the ; II. 73.
J., letters of ; II. 75.
Gryll, Wm., to Lord Hatton ; I. 24.

Digitized by Google

Guernsey:
account of a storm at, 1672; II. 36.
affairs in, 17th cent.; I. 15–24.
bailly, &c. of, petition to the; I. 25.
Castle Cornet in, collection of letters and papers relating to the defence of, during the civil war; II. 65.
church of, new canons made for, by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Winchester; I. 17, 18.
deputy governor of; I. 15.
government of; I. 15–24.
list of officers in; II. 4.
papers relating to, temp. Eliz. et Jac. I.; II. 65.
—— 1688; II. 11.
papers and books relating to; I. 30, 31.
papers relating to a survey of, circ. 1680; II. 9.
Lord Hatton's account of; II. 10.
"Schola Regimæ Elizabethæ" in; I. 34.
Guest, General, letters of, to the Duke of Gordon; I. 115.
Guiana:
two apologies of Sir Walter Raleigh for his "action" in; I. 48.
relation of Sir W. Raleigh's voyage to, by Samuel Jones, preacher in one of his ships; I. 53.
Guicciardini, Francis, extracts from the history of; I. 32.
Guild:
accounts of a, 14th to 16th cent.; I. 110.
—— Edw. IV. to Hen. VIII.; II. 91.
—— 1488–1553; I. 101.
brethren, of Edinburgh, register of the; I. 126.
of St. George, Dublin, documents of the; I. 129.
Court Book, the, of Aberdeen; I. 122.
Guildry, accounts of the, at Aberdeen; I. 122, 123.
Guilds:
accounts of the receiver of the revenues of the late, 1668–98; I. 101.
books and accounts of; I. 98, 104.
extinct, documents formerly belonging to; I. 110.
history of, illustrated; I. 105.
at Cambridge, rolls, bede-rolls, accounts, &c. of; I. 64, 65.
Scotch; II. 206.
Guilford, Lord, to Lord Hatton, 1683–5; I. 24.
Guille:
J., to Lord Hatton; I. 24.
Peter, to Lord Hatton; I. 24.
Richard to ——; I. 24.
Guise:
Duchess of, Anthoinette de Bourbon, letters to her daughter Mary of Guise; I. 124.
Duke of, instructions to the (temp. Car. IX.?); II. 151.
Mary of. See Mary of Guise.
Gulloch of Tanochy, order for his seizure, 1716; II. 28.
Gun, Capt., letters of; II. 129.
Gunners, a commission to levy [16th cent.]; II. 96.
Gunnery, orders, rules, and instructions in the art of, 16th cent.; II. 124.
Gunning:
Peter, to Lady Hatton; I. 24. See Ely, Bishop of.
Robert (at Copenhagen), letters of; II. 26.
Gunpowder Plot, the:
a collection of documents relating to the; I. ix.
account of, by Thomas Abington; I. 53.
narrative of, by John Fortescue and Helen his wife; I. xi. 92.
original Council letters, depositions, &c. relating to; I. 58.
an Italian account of; II. 44.
transcripts made of papers relating to, and placed in the Public Record Office; II. ix.
Gunton, family of, correspondence of the; II. 73.
Gussage (Dorset), customal of; II. 139.
Gustavus Adolphus, King of Sweden:
his letters to the Marquis of Hamilton; I. 113.
letters of one serving under; II. 188.
troops raised in Scotland for; II. 194, 195.
See Sweden, King of.
Guthrie, John, Esq., of Guthry:
MSS. of; I. 112; II. xix.
report on the MSS. of; II. 197.
Guthry:
barony of; II. 197.
family of, papers relating to members of the; II. 197.
Laird of, letters to the, 1643 sq.; II. 197, 198.
Francis, letters to; II. 197.
Henry, Bishop of Dunkeld, his Observations on the Rebellion against Charles I. in Scotland; II. 186.
—— his Memoirs of Scottish affairs, 1637–49; II. 192.
John, Bishop of Murray, congé d'élire in favour of; II. 197.
—— confession of faith [by]; ib.
—— letters to; ib.
—— diary of; ib.
Patrick, passes for, 1646–49; II. 176.
Guylan, articles of peace between the Earl of Teviott and; I. 54.
Gwydor family, History of the, by Sir J. Wynne; II. 84.
Gwynne, Gwyn, or Gwine:
Francis, letters of; I. 56; II. 11.
—— of Ford Abbey, letters of; II. 16.
Nell, notices of; I. 44; II. 22, 43.
Dr. Owen, of St. John's College, Cambridge, letters to; I. 75.
Gysseburne, Walteri de, Cronicum de Gestis Regum (transcript); II. 186.

H.

H. G., to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
H. H., to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Haberdashers' Hall, resolutions at, 1648, as to persons to be excluded; I. 51.
Habington, Thomas, letters to; II. 73.
Hackness (Yorkshire), MSS. formerly belonging to the owners of the estate of; II. 49.
Haddington (in Scotland), prioress and convent of; I. 85.
Earl of, letter of the, 1606; II. 188.
—— letters of the, temp. Car. I.; I. 116.
—— Thomas (1st), collection of charters, &c. made by; I. 123; II. 186.
Earls of, letters of, 1652–70; II. 191.
Haddon, Mr., instructions to, 1565; II. 97.
Walter, poem on the death of, 1569; II. 85.
"Hæredes," books so endorsed; I. 31.
Haggabul, the rent-service called; I. 70.
Hagley (Worc.), report on Lord Lyttelton's MSS. at; II. 36.
Hague, the:
treaty of, 1614; I. 13.
letters dated at, 16th cent.; II. 50.
—— 17th cent.; I. 35, 36, 37; II. 10, 15, 16, 17, 53, 54, 55, 56, 58, 60, 61, 62, 69, 171, 173.
—— 18th cent.; I. 39, 41, 42; II. 188, 189, 190.
Haldane, Peter, curious letter touching; II. 27.
Hale, Lord, his treatise on the power and jurisdiction of Parliament (copy); II. 79.
Hales:
Judge, papers of; I. 14.
Sir Edward, action against, 25 Car. II.; II. 8.
Hales Owen, abbey of, charters, &c. to the, with a chartulary; II. 38.
Halfpence, tin, proposal to make; I. 41.
Haliday, Dr., of Belfast, letters of Lord Charlemont to; I. 127.
Halifax (Nova Scotia), letters dated at, 1767–8; II. 29.
Halifax, Earl of:
George Savile (afterwards Marquis), letters concerning; I. 19, 22.
letters of, 1676–86; I. 56. 1688; II. 14.
letters to; II. 12. 1678–81; II. 13. 1681; II. 15. 1681–8; II. 15. 1688; II. 14.
letters from and to (various); II. 15, 16, 18, 19.
notes of his conversations with William III.; II. 12, 13.
MSS. collected by; II. 4.
"Saviliana" by, in four tracts; II. 18.
Charles, biographical sketch of; II. 15.
letters of, 1696–1702; II. 15.
—— beg. 18th cent.; II. 70, 188.
letters to the, 1723–34; II. 18.
letters of the, 1733 sq.; II. 190.
—— (mid. 18th cent.); I. 127.
letters to the (1762–5); I. 14.
Halifax, Lady, letters of, 1703; I. 24.
Haliwell, priory of, seal of the; II. 20.
Hall:
Joseph, letters of; I. 43.
Robert, Captain, commissions, &c. to; II. 176.
Halmote Book, a; I. 31.
Halsey:
family of, correspondence of the; II. 73.
John, letters of; II. 73.
Haltan, John, letters of; II. 48.
Hamburgh:
instructions by Queen Elizabeth for borrowing money at; II. 95.
ambassador from William III. to; I. 40.
letters dated at, 17th and 18th cent.; I. 40, 41; II. 52.
Hamilton:
Duke of, papers of the, at Hamilton Palace; I. xii.
—— report on the MSS. of the; I. 112.
Marquis of, James 3rd, letters of the, 1627; II. 184.
—— "certain speeches" concerning the, 1630; II. 194.
—— letter of the, 1631; II. 178.
—— letters to the, 1638–43; II. 184.
Marquises of, papers of the; I. 113.
Marchioness of, letter of the; II. 184.
Duke of, letters of the, temp. Car. I.; I. 116.
—— letter from the, to Charles I.; I. 117.
—— in a street brawl, temp. Will. III.; I. 45.
—— letters of the (beg. 18th cent.); I. 118.
—— letter to the, 1711; II. 189.
—— a memorial of Scotch peers on his creation as Duke of Brandon; II. 193.

Digitized by Google

Hamilton—cont.
Dukes of, History of the, by Bishop Burnet, in MS. ; I. 113, 114 ; the letters and papers quoted by Burnet ; ib.
Lady Archibald, accounts of, while in the household of Frederick Prince of Wales ; II. 28.
lists of persons of the name of ; II. 184.
Andrew, his answer to Craghead's book ; II. 233.
Sir Charles, letter of ; II. 211.
Sir Francis, letters of ; II. 211.
Frederick, letter of ; II. 29.
Frederick, General, M.P. for Coleraine, letters of ; I. xiii. ; II. 232, 234, 251.
Gavin, letters of ; II. 14.
Sir Patrick, letters of ; II. 232.
—— of Preston, letters to ; II. 188.
—— of Little Preston, letters to ; II. 191.
—— papers relating to ; ib.
Rachel, letter of, to her sister Lady Catheart ; II. 25.
Richard, Lieut.-Gen., letters to ; II. 32.
Sir Wm., letters of, with two from his wife ; II. 14.
—— letter of ; II. 23.
—— letters of, from Naples ; II. 29.
Wm., Archdeacon of Armagh, letters of ; II. 232.
Hamlyn, Robert, monk of Tavistock, letters of ; II. 34.
Hammond :
Colonel, letters from O. Cromwell to ; I. 116.
Dr., the "Defence of the Common Civil Law" ; II. 41.
—— "The Pope's excommunications of Christian princes unlawful" by ; II. 42.
—— notes by ; ib.
Hampden, John :
articles against ; I. 51.
argument of Mr. Justice Crooke on the case of, 1638 ; II. 3.
letters of ; I. 43, 116.
papers by ; I. 42.
Hampden's Ship Money Case, arguments and judgments in ; I. 14. See Ship Money.
Hampole, Richard :
"The Pricke of Conscience" by, translated into English verse (c. 1400) ; I. 60.
—— MSS. of, 15th cent. ; II. 38, 84.
other poems by ; II. 85.
De emendatione vitæ, sive de regula vivendi ; II. 143.
Hampshire ; II. 138.
journal of a journey through, 1722 ; II. 25.
Hampton Court, housekeepers' and wardrobers' fees at ; II. 81.
Hanbury, Robert, letter of ; II. 47.
Hannes, Dr. ; II. 69.
Hanover :
ambassador from William III. to ; I. 40.
letters dated at, 17th cent. ; I. 37, 40.
—— 18th cent. ; I. 40, 41, 42 ; II. 79, 189, 190, 217.
Court and Electoral family of, accounts of the ; II. 82.
Elector of, credentials and revocation of the English ambassador to the, 1697 and 1703 ; I. 40.
Electress of, Sophia, letters of ; I. 13 ; II. 79. See Sophia.
Hansard, Wm., letter of ; II. 237.
Hanse Towns :
papers relating to their trade with England, 13th to 16th cent ; II. 39.
letters and papers relating to the, 16th cent. ; II. 44, 45.
"Harborow of a faythfull subject," The, a book called ; II. 155.
Harcourt :
Marquis of, his memorial, 1699 ; I. 36.
Lord Chancellor, letter from ; II. 137.
Lord, letters of, 1784–1805 ; II. 14.
Hardinge, Sir Richard, grants to, in Ireland ; II. 217.
Hardwicke, Earl of :
letters of the, mid. 18th cent. ; II. 38.
letters of the, 1738 sq. ; II. 193.
Hardy :
Sir T. Duffus, one of the Historical MSS. Commissioners, reports by ; I. 1–4 ; II. 74, 75, 76.
Sir Charles, log-books of the British fleet under, 1779 ; II. 87.
Francis, letters of ; I. 127.
Thomas, to Lord —— (90 letters) ; I. 24.
See Le Hardy.
Hardyng's Chronicle (15th cent.) ; I. 60.
Hare, Sir Charles ; I. 21.
Harington, Sir John, letters of ; I. 100 ; II. 50, 51.
—— letter to ; II. 50.
See Harrington.
Harlech, a bond respecting the charter of ; II. 88.
Harleian MSS., extracts from the ; II. 37.
Harley :
Lord, letters of, 1710–22 ; II. 12.
—— —— 1713 ; I. 24.
Robert, letters of ; II. 84.
Harlowe (Clarissa) ; II. 8.
Harper, a Scotch, legacy to ; II. 193.
Harps, Irish poems on ; II. 224.
Harpsfeld :
John, Archdeacon of London, homilies by ; II. 65.
Nicholas, obit of ; II. 127.
Harrington, Lord :
his letter touching the Gunpowder Plot ; I. 58.
John, letter of (? date) ; I. 100.
letters of, 1733 ; II. 212.
his correspondence with Lord Forbes, 1733–4 ; II. 216.
letters to, 1740 and 1742 ; II. 3, 190.
Harrison, Knightley, to Lord Hatton ; I. 24.
Harrowby, Lord, despatches by, 1797–1805 ; II. 3.
Harrys, E., to Captain B. Ellis ; I. 24.
Harte, W., (author of the Life of Gustavus Adolphus), letters of ; I. 41.
Hartfell, Earl and Countess of, letters of the ; II. 191.
Hartopp, Mary, letters of ; II. 64.
Harvey :
John, Esq., of Ickwell Bury, Bedf., and Finningley Park, York, the collection of ; I. x.
—— report on his MSS. ; I. 62.
—— another collection of ; II. xv.
—— list of additional MSS. belonging to ; II. 89.
Dr., letter to ; I. 24.
John, notes of a tour on the Continent by, 1688–9 ; I. 62.
—— diary of, in Rome, 1710 ; II. 91.
Sir Sebastian, a statement by ; II. 56.
—— letter of ; ib.
Harwood, Anthony, to Lord —— ; I. 24.
Hascard, Gregory, to Lord Hatton ; I. 24.
Haseley, manor of, court rolls of the ; II. 78.
Hasell, Edward, and others, to the Countess Dowager of Thanet, and others ; I. 24.
Haselrigg, Sir Arthur ; II. 79.
—— articles against ; I. 51. See Heselrige.
Haslewood :
A., to Mr. Streethay ; I. 24.
—— letter to ; I. 30.
Sir Anthony, pardon to, 1 Car. I. ; I. 33.
John, licence to, 4 Edw. VI. ; I. 33.
John, letter of, 1702 ; I. 24.
(or Hasyllwoode), John, letters to ; I. 20, 27.
Haslwode, Mr., letter to ; I. 30.
Hastings :
Countess of. See Moira.
Lady Betty ; II. 138.
Sir Edward, letters to ; II. 153, 156.
John, letter of, 1557 ; II. 79.
—— instructions to, 1575 ; II. 97.
Warren, a work addressed to ; II. 28.
Hatcher, —, letters of ; I. 43.
Hatton Collection, charters in the, (described) ; I. viii.
—— report on the ; I. 14.
Hatton :
A., to Lord Hatton ; I. 30.
A. E., to Lord Hatton ; I. 24, 30.
Alice, letters of, principally addressed "to her brother ;" I. 24.
Anna, to Lord Hatton ; I. 24.
C., to Lord (Hatton), (1,021 letters) ; I. 24.
C., to —— (24 letters) ; I. 24.
C., to Lord Hatton ; I. 30.
Cecilia, will of ; I. 30.
Charles, letters of ; I. 24.
—— letters to ; I. 18.
Sir Christopher, vice-chamberlain to Queen Elizabeth, letter to, 1581 ; II. 82.
—— signature of, [temp. Eliz.] ; I. 100. See Hatton, Lord Chancellor.
Christopher, letters of, 1601 ; I. 30.
Sir Christopher, letters to, 1603 ; I. 20.
—— —— 1611 ; I. 27.
—— —— 1614 ; I. 18, 21, 26, 27.
—— —— 1619 ; I. 30.
—— —— 1628–50 ; I. 18, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 29.
Christopher, letters to, 17th cent. ; I. 13–30.
—— letters from, 1645 ; I. 22.
—— letter to, 1664 ; II. 9.
Colonel, letters to ; I. 15, 18.
Dr., to Lord Hatton and another ; I. 24.
E., to —— ; I. 30.
Eliza, to Mr. Chr. Hatton, et al. ; I. 24.
H., (?) to Lord Hatton ; I. 24.
Isabella, to —— ; I. 24.
Jane, to Lords Hatton and Nottingham ; I. 24.
—— letters to ; I. 27, 30.
John, to Lord Hatton ; I. 24.
Lady, letters to ; I. 16, seq.
Lady, fatal accident to, and to the mother of Lord Hatton ; I. 16, 17.
Lady C., letter to ; I. 27, 28.
Lady E., to Lord Hatton (157 letters) ; I. 24.
—— letter to ; I. 27.
Lady Eliza, to —— ; I. 30.
Lord Chancellor, picture of ; I. 20.
Lord, letter relating to, 1672 ; II. 36.
—— letters of, 1688 ; II. 10.
—— his account of Guernsey ; II. 10. See Hatton, Viscount.
Mary, to Lord Hatton and others (245 letters) ; I. 24.
—— letter of ; I. 30.

Digitized by Google

Hatton—cont.
Miss, letter to; I. 28.
Mr., letters to; I. 16, 18, 25, 27, 28, 29, 30.
P., to (her father) Lord Hatton; I. 24.
Pr., to Lord Hatton; I. 24.
Robert, to Lord and Lady Hatton; I. 24.
Susan, to Lord Hatton; I. 24.
Thomas, to Lady and Sir Chr. Hatton; I. 24.
Viscount, correspondence of; I. 15–30.
W., to Lord Hatton; I. 24.
William, to Lord and Chr. Hatton; I. 24. family of, letters without signatures, probably from some of the; I. 24.
—— papers relating to the; I. 33, 34.
genealogy, the; I. 31.
Hatton Garden, divided into plots for building, 1690; I. 23.
chapel in; I. 16.
rents in; I. 19.
tenants in; I. 15.
Haviland:
— De, to Lord Hatton; I. 24.
Jean de, to Lord Hatton; I. 24.
John de, to Lord Hatton; I. 24.
William, testimonial as to his character whilst at Oxford; I. 24.
Havre, letters dated at; II. 189, 234.
Havre, Marquis of, letter to the; II. 51.
Haward, William, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Hawke, Admiral, orders and line of battle of, 1756; II. 24.
Hawkes:
Sir Edward, Admiral, his victory over the French, 1759; I. 41.
—— orders by; II. 30.
Ruth, to; I. 20.
Hawkesworth, Mr., papers of, 1605; I. 43.
Hawkins, James, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Hawley:
Sir Francis, Lieutenant-General of the city [of London?]; I. 38.
William, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Hay:
Colonel Leith, MSS. of, to be inspected; I. 112.
A., of Delgatie, letter of; II. 185.
Archibald, his Panegyrical oration on the elevation of Archbishop Beaton to the dignity of Cardinal; II. 207.
Sir George, of Kinfauns, Chancellor of Scotland (Viscount Dupplin, and Earl of Kinnoull), letters of; II. 185.
Helen, wife of Sir Archibald Johnston, letter of; I. 55.
Lord James; II. 124.
Sir John, of Lands, Clerk Register, letters of, 1632–3; II. 185.
Richard, Canon of St. Genevieve's, Paris, &c., his collections; I. 125.
Wm., of King's College, Aberdeen, his treatise on Extreme Unction, Ordination, and Matrimony, 1535; II. 209.
Haydon, John, receiver for the Earl of Devon:
receipts by; I. 52.
inventory by; I. 53.
Hayes, Elie des, charges made against; I. 25. See Deshayes.
Haymon, Peter, proceedings in the Star Chamber touching; I. 64.
Haymonis, de Temporali, Expositiones super Epistolas et Evangelia; II. 144.
Haynes, Robert, letter of; II. 46.
Hays, Father, ecclesiastical collections of; I. 123.
Health, three quatrains for; I. 46.
Hearne, ——, his subscription system of publishing, &c.; II. 234, 254.
Hearth Tax, papers relating to the; I. 34.
Heath:
H., letters of; I. 45.
Lord Chief Justice, mem. by, of what took place on Strafford's impeachment; II. 72.
Richard, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Sir Robert, Attorney-General; I. 34.
—— letters of; II. 59, 60, 61.
—— petition by; II. 104.
Heaver, Dr., letter of; II. 114.
Hebrew MSS., Dr. Aungier's; II. 234, 235.
Hedderwick, the heritor of, 1575; II. 206.
Hedges, Sir Charles, Secretary of State; I. 15, 22.
letters to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 25, 30.
his correspondence with George Stepney, 1701–2; I. 34, 37, 38.
Heele (Herle?), Wm., instructions to [by Queen Eliz.]; II. 35. See Herle.
Heidelberg:
documents relating to English history at; I. xi.
report on documents relating to English history at; I. 132.
form of capitulation of; I. 58.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 63.
Heidon (Hatton?), Sir Christopher, letter to; II. 153.
Heirs, names of; I. 32. See Hæredes.
Helmingham Hall, Suffolk, report on Mr. Tollemache's MSS. at; I. 60.
Helst, Duke of (afterwards recognised as King of Denmark), letters relating to the, [temp. Hen. VIII.]; II. 42.
Hemingford, Walter of, the Chronicle of, in the Advocates' Library; I. 123.
Hengham, treatises by; I. 61.
Hengwrt collection of MSS., of W. W. E. Wynne, Esq., report on the; II. 103.
Henley, Orator, copy of an advertisement by; I. 51.
Henley, Walter de, translation of his treatise on Husbandry by Grosteste; II. 166. See Grosteste.
Henreyong, Richard, of Hoxton, Middlesex, grant of arms to, 4 Henry VIII.; I. 33.
Henrietta Maria, Queen:
correspondence of, with her husband, Charles I.; I. 4, seq.
letters of, 1660; II. 82.
letters from, to the Marquis of Montrose; II. 170.
a pass signed by; II. 176.
Henrietta, Princess (daughter of Charles I.), letters of; II. 82.
Henry I., charter of; I. 99.
Henry II.:
charters of; I. 12, 56, 71, 102.
copies of charters granted by; I. 31.
letters of the time of; II. 85.
Henry III.:
charters of; I. 71, 102.
Life of, by Sir R. Cotton; I. 42; II. 90. protection by; I. 70.
warrants of; I. 95.
a short view of the reign of; I. 54.
letters patent witnessing the delivery of his heart to the Abbess of Font Evraud; I. 96.
Henry IV., letters of; I. 100.
Henry V.:
requisition by, to his adversary of France, touching his claim to the French crown; II. 39.
his treaty with France (in English), with Henry VI.'s writ for its observance; II. 40.
letters from and to; II. 66.
his probable connexion with Queen's College, Oxford; II. 141.
interment of; I. 14.
Henry VI.:
payments to stipendiaries sent from Cambridge to, 1460; I. 67.
Latin statutes and regulations for the army of, in France; II. 39, 44.
a treatise in defence of his right to the Crown (qu. the long-lost Latin treatise of Sir John Fortescue?); II. 43. See Fortescue, Sir John.
declaration of his title to the Duchies of Normandy, Guienne, and Gascony; II. 44.
grants by; I. 69.
letters from and to; II. 66.
obit of; I. 69.
costs of arguing the matter relating to the body of, before the King's Council; I. 93; the proceedings before the same; I. 87.
Henrici Sexti, Regis, Miracula; II. 151. documents of the time of; II. 42, 94.
Henry VII.: account of his meeting with the King of Castile, 1505; I. 75.
Papal bull of indulgence for; I. 77.
a form of prayer for; I. 91.
roll of expenses of his war against France in aid of the Duchess of Bretagne; I. 96.
account of his reception at Wells, on his march against Perkin Warbeck; I. 107.
Papal confirmation of his treaty of marriage with Margaret of Savoy; II. 44.
deed of acquittance by; I. 50.
letters of; I. xi., 80.
sign manual of; II. 66.
Henry VIIth's Chapel, expenses of building; I. 85.
Henry, Prince, son of Henry VII., original papers of; I. 50.
Henry VIII.: order of the coronation of; I. 14.
papers relating to his divorce from Catharine of Aragon; I. 12.
a treatise dedicated to, on the question whether a man may marry the widow of his deceased brother, by J. Calchus; II. 7.
a treatise on his divorce from Queen Catharine of Aragon; II. 43.
and Catharine of Aragon, a treatise on the validity of the marriage of; II. 44.
copy of the bull for his second marriage; II. 43.
original duplicate of his treaty with Francis I. against the Turks; II. 104.
his charge to the Scotch lords, 1543; I. 124.
a panegyric addressed to, by Gualterus Ogilvy; I. 124.
autographs of; I. 12.
commission by, to sell lands of Irish monasteries; II. 137.
a volume dedicated to; II. 85.
household of, regulations for the; II. 40.
letters of; I. xi., 50, 100; II. 40, 42, 43.
letters to; II. 42, 43, 152.
letter of Ann Bullen to; I. 54.

Digitized by Google

Henry VIII.—cont.
petitions to ; II. 67.
privy seal warrants by ; I. 12.
will of, (copy) ; II. 133.
documents and letters of the time of ; I. 32, 33 ; II. 17, 19, 20, 21, 34, 40, 42, 46, 79, 94, 96.
volume of parliamentary affairs during the reign of ; I. 31.
Henry and Mary, of Scotland, licence, &c. by ; II. 183. See Darnley.
Henry, Prince (son of James I.) : an answer made by command of, to certain propositions of war and peace by his military servants (by Sir R. Cotton) ; I. 32, 33 ; II. 90.
considerations touching the marriage of, with the House of Savoy, by Sir W. Raleigh ; I. 47.
a politique dispute about the happiest match for (by Sir W. Raleigh) ; II. 85.
another tract about the marriage of ; ib.
death of ; I. 37.
instructions to commissioners respecting moneys late of ; I. 57.
leases of lands of the late ; I. 57.
Henry III., King of France, letter of ; II. 184.
Henry IV. of France :
ratification by, of a contract to repay Queen Elizabeth's expenses in his behalf ; II. 50.
letters to ; II. 51.
Henry, Dr., letters from and to ; II. 201.
Hepburn, Patrick, Bishop of Moray, and Commendator of the Abbey of Scone ; I. 121.
Hepwith, John, his poem, "The Caledoioian Forest" ; I. 13, 42, 61.
Heraldic MSS. ; I. 53 ; II. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 42.
Heraldic notes ; II. 3.
Heraldry :
books upon ; I. 31.
a tract on ; II. 84.
works on, in the Advocates' Library ; I. 125.
Welsh ; II. 84.
Herault, M., French minister at London, his death, 1665 ; I. 17.
Herbert :
Lord, letters of, 1676–86 ; I. 56.
Sir Edward (ambassador in France), letters of ; II. 57, 59. II., to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
J., to Mr. Stretchay ; I. 25.
Sir John, negotiations of, in France, 1598 ; II. 45.
Herd's Historia quatuor Regum Anglise ; I. 53.
Hereford :
a new Book of Receipts of Rents, Annuities, &c., written at, 1638 ; I. 33.
commission by Charles I. dated at ; II. 172.
county of, charters relating to the ; I. 50.
—— lands in the ; II. 72.
Bishop of, letter of the, 1620 ; II. 57.
Earl of, pipers of the, 1348 ; I. 65.
Earl of. See Bohun.
Heresies, treatise on, 15th cent. ; II. 46.
Heresy, proceedings against a Scotch abbot for ; II. 208.
Heretical opinions, Bryan Badger committed for, 1621 ; I. 62.
Heretics :
at Toulouse ; I. 11.
letter of Bonner concerning ; II. 152.
Herivell, M., to the Bailly, &c. of Guernsey ; I. 25. See Herrivell.
Herle, W., letter of ; II. 82. See Hcele.
Herne, Samuel, Fellow of Clare College, Cambridge, letter of ; II. 115.
Heron :
Edward, to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
Richard, letters of ; I. 127.
Herp, Henry, sermons by, 15th cent. ; II. 34.
Herrera, Antonio de, his Description of the West Indies (C. Tooke's translation) ; I. 60.
Herrick, Robert, mentioned in college accounts ; II. 122, 123.
Herries, Lord :
his MSS. at Everingham Park ; I. xi.
report on his MSS. ; I. 45.
letter of, 1568 ; II. 183.
Herring, ——, letter of ; II. 154.
Herrivell, Matthew, a paper concerning, 1662 ; I. 30. See Herivell.
Hertford :
county of, charters touching lands in the ; II. 35.
Earl of, to Sir John Hollis, 1606 ; I. 62.
—— letter of the, 1620 ; II. 58.
—— letters of the, 1742 sq. ; II. 191.
Hervey :
Fr., to A. Haslewood ; I. 30.
Francis, to Chr. Hatton and Sir Chas. Littleton ; I. 25.
Herys, Lord, letter of, 1594 ; II. 184.
Heselrige, Robert, to Lord Hatton, letters of ; I. 25, 30. See Haselrigg.
Hesse :
Landgrave of, Stepney's credentials to the, 1694 ; I. 85.
Prince of, William, letters from and to, 1742 ; II. 190.
—— Frederick, letter of, 1766 ; II. 13.
Hessian treaty, 1755, copy of the ; II. 2.
Hewett, John, letter of ; II. 63.
Hewitt, Thomas, Esq., of Cork : collection of ; I. xii.
report on the MSS. of ; I. 128, 129.
Hewling, Benjamin, will of ; II. 98.
Hewson, J., servant of the Duke of Buckingham, letters of ; II. 83.
Hexham, parish of ; I. 128.
Heyham (Kent), monastery of, deeds relating to the ; I. 74, 77.
Heysham, Mr., letter to ; I. 25.
Heytesbury, William, the "Sophismata" of ; II. 129.
Hibberd, William, to John Stretchay ; I. 25.
Hibernia, Chronicon (MS., 15th cent.) ; II. 7.
Hickman :
—, to Chr. Hatton ; I. 25.
Charles, Bishop of Derry, letters of ; II. 234.
Wm., letters of ; II. 18.
Hieronymus, S., de Assumptione B. Mariæ Virginis, &c. ; II. 145. See Jerome, St.
Higden's Polychronicon, MSS. of :
at Helmingham Hall ; I. 60.
in the Advocates' Library ; I. 123.
in Countess Cowper's collection ; II. 4.
in Mr. Ormsby-Gore's collection ; II. 86.
See Polychronicon.
Higford, John, letters of ; II. 72.
Higgins :
Francis, letters of ; II. 232.
—— notes of his conference with the Archbishop of Canterbury ; II. 234, 244.
Mr., letter of James II. to ; II. 188.
High Commission, Court of, papers touching the oppressions of the ; I. 57.
Higham (Kent), rental of the demesne of, 25 Henry VIII. ; I. 72. See Heyham.
Higham Ferrers, documents relating to ; I. 20, 30, 33.
Highlanders, oppressions by the, 1645 ; II. 197.
Highlands, the, roadmaking in, 1744 ; I. 113.
Highmore, Dr., to Dr. Harvey ; I. 24.
Highwaymen :
letter concerning, 1669 ; II. 99.
—— 1774 ; II. 99.
Hildersley, Bishop, account of ; II. 20.
Hildesheim, monastery of ; II. 145.
Hill :
Lord, to the Earl of Nottingham and another, 1704 ; I. 25.
— (?) to Lord [Nottingham] ; I. 25.
J., to the Earl of Nottingham ; I. 30.
Joseph, to the Earl of Nottingham ; I. 25.
William, to Lord —— ; I. 25.
Hilton, Walter :
his translation of the Stimulus Amoris by St. Booaventura ; II. 33.
his Treatise upon Contemplation ; II. 146.
Hinchinbrooke, II., to —— ; I. 25.
Hippocratis Aphorismi, Latine (15th cent.) ; II. 109.
Historical Collections, 1685–1714 ; II. 80.
Historical notes :
15th cent. ; II. 80.
ending with the battle of Agincourt ; II. 84.
History :
an, from the Creation to Edward IV. (a roll) ; II. 86.
a general, in French, 13th cent. ; I. 53.
general and English, a roll of, down to Henry V. ; II. 81.
—— two parchment rolls of, 13th cent. ; I. 61.
Hitchin, letter from the camp at, 1706 ; I. 31.
Hoadley, Bishop, writings of ; II. 234.
Hobart, Miles, proceedings in the Star Chamber touching ; I. 61.
Hobbs, Dr., surgeon, cousin to T. Hobbs, hints for verses on ; II. 71.
Hobs, Mr., a prescription by ; I. 30.
Hobye :
Sir Edward, correspondence of, 1602–39 ; I. 124.
Sir Philip, ambassador from Edward VI. to the Emperor, letters to ; I. 124.
Sir Thomas, letters relating to the courtship of ; II. 49, 50, 51.
Hochstadt or Hogstat, battle of ; II. 212.
—— account of the ; I. 115.
Hodgeson, Gabriell, letter of ; I. 30.
Hodgkin, John, arraignment of ; II. 43.
Hodgson, Thomas, to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
Hoel dha, Laws of (Welsh) ; II. 84.
Hogarth, Jane (relict of William), letters of ; I. 127.
"Hogg's Character of a Projector;" I. 33.
Hogstat. See Hochstadt.
Holburne, Francis, to Lord —— ; I. 25.
Holeroft, Charles, letters of ; II. 232.
Holden, James (consul in Spain), to Lord Chancellor Methuen ; I. 25.
Holderness, Pagula and Kayngeham in, documents touching ; I. 75.

Digitized by Google

Holford:
family of, genealogy and arms of the; I. 49.
Jane, to Mrs. Fanshawe; I. 35.
Lady, a gift by, 1733; II. 71.
Holgrave, Thomas:
depositions respecting the will of; II. 72 (bis).
account book of; ib.
Holland:
instructions to English ambassadors to, temp. Eliz.; II. 97.
papers touching its relations with England, temp. Eliz. et Jac. I.; II. 45.
a ship from, with stores for Charles I., 1642; I. 18.
the Duke of Ormond's affairs in; I. 18.
proposals for establishing the service of the Church of England in; I. 19.
peace between France and; I. 19.
treaty between Portugal and, 1703; I. 20.
letters touching the war in, 1746–7; II. 27.
—— on the expedition to, 1795; II. 29.
—— and papers touching the expedition to, 1794–5; II. 29.
papers relating to the English military expeditions to; II. 24.
Admiralty of, papers on the; II. 212.
the States General of; I. 21. See States General.
Holland, Earl of:
Florence, letters of, temp. Edw. I.; II. 5.
letter to the, 1641; II. 9.
Henry, Chancellor of Cambridge University, letter to, 1645; II. 122.
letters of the, 1647; II. 184.
Lord, Henry Fox (1st), letters of, 1745; I. 55.
Hollanders:
allowed to enter French ports, 1678; I. 21.
a project to decay the fishing of the; I. 39. See Dutch.
Holled, Jonathan, to Chr. Hatton; I. 25.
Holles:
Lord; I. 19.
Denzill, articles against; I. 51.
—— proceedings in the Star Chamber touching; I. 61.
—— a letter by, concerning the government of England; II. 7.
—— letters of [1625, vel post]; I. 43. 1665; II. 13.
Holliday [Barton (?), the poet]; II. 126.
Hollis, Sir John, M.P., letter to, 1606; I. 62.
Hollyman, Robert, to Lord ——; I. 26.
Holm Cultram:
register of; I. 111.
collections out of the register book of the abbey of; II. 125.
rental of; ib.
Holme, Randle, the Herald; I. 46.
Holmes:
George, letter of; I. 30.
—— letters to (many); I. 18, 30.
Sir John; I. 19.
Mr., letter to; I. 30. See Hoomes.
Robert, to George Holmes; I. 30.
Thomas, to George Holmes; I. 30.
William, to George Holmes; I. 30.
Holofernes, play of, in English, 16th cent.; II. 106.
Holstein, Duke of:
letter of the, 1618; II. 53.
letter touching the pension of the, 1620; II. 57.
letters of the, 1795; II. 29.
See Helst, Duke of.
Holstocke (or Hosstoke) William, comptroller of the Navy, instructions to, 1576; II. 96, 97.
Holt, Father, letter from Mary Queen of Scots to; I. 120.
Holyrood House:
proclamation from, 1583; II. 41.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 198.
Holyrood House Abbey, writs of; II. 186.
Home:
Earl of, James, letter of, 1627; II. 184.
D., of Wedderburn, letter of; II. 185.
Patrick, of Polwart; I. 188.
See Hume.
Homeshy, George, to the Countess Dowager of Thanet et al.; I. 25.
Homilie, 15th cent.; II. 144.
Homilies, in the Advocates' Library; I. 125.
Hompwood, Charles, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Hongrie, La rebellion de, 1675; I. 14.
Hongrois, Histoire de la persécution des Ministres; I. 14.
Hoo, J., to William Longvill; I. 25.
Hood, Samuel (at Philadelphia), letter of; II. 38.
Hooker:
John, his Chronicles of Ireland; II. 257. See Vowell.
Richard, of C. C. C. Oxon.; II. 126.
Rob., letters of; I. 42.
Hoomes, Mr., letter to; I. 30. See Holmes.
Hooper, John, Bishop of Bangor, letters of; II. 232.
Hop, General, to the States General (of Holland); I. 21.
Hope:
Robert, letter of; II. 36.
Sir Thomas, letters of; I. 116; II. 185.
Hopkins:
Dr., his observations on Worcestershire; I. 53.
Ell, to Mr. Horton; I. 23.
Hopton:
Lord, his residence in Jersey, during the Commonwealth; II. 158 sq.
Ralph, letters of; I. 38; II. 23.
Sir Ralph, letters of; I. 107.
—— patent of; I. 42.
Horns, Commander, demands of, 1699; I. 37.
Horse-racing, letters relating to, 17th cent.; I. 22, 44; II. 39, 99.
Horsey, Edward, instructions to [1576?]; II. 97.
Horsted Manor, Norfolk, survey book of; I. 99.
Horticulture, 17th cent.; II. 185.
Horton (Staff.), manor of, series of rolls of the; II. 69.
Horton:
John, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Mr., letters to; I. 25, 35.
Horwood, Mr. A. J., Inspector for the Historical MSS. Commission; I. vii., ix., x.
reports by; I. 10–14, 34, 41–3, 46–50, 50–55, 56–61, 62; II. 4–48, 63–74, 77–88, 91–99, 103–109, 136–158.
Horwood, ——, to Lady Hatton; I. 25.
Hosier, Capt. Fr.; II. 46.
Hoskins, Dr., his collection relating to Jersey; II. xlii., 158.
Hosstoke. See Holstocke.
Houppelines, John de, French secretary to the English garrison at Calais, his papers; I. 30.
Hours:
books of, in the Advocates' Library; I. 123.
—— illuminated, at Blairs College; II. 202.
—— at Blickling Hall, Norf.; I. 14. of the B. V. Mary, the, with illuminations, 16th cent.; II. 34.
Household, the Royal:
an old book concerning, Edw. III.; I. 13.
assignments for, 28–36 Hen. VIII.; I. 46.
regulations for, temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 40.
a volume of regulations and accounts of, temp. Hen. VIII., Edw. VI., Mar., et Eliz.; II. 65.
letters touching purveyance for, temp. Eliz.; II. 87.
commissions of provision for [temp. Car. I.?]; I. 34. establishment of, 1685; I. 41.
offices and fees in, 17th cent.; I. 49.
note of officers in; II. 81.
Household Books, Rolls, and Accounts:
temp. Edw. II.; I. 96.
temp. Edw. III. et Ric. II.; II. 34.
6–9 Hen. V.; I. 96.
temp. Hen. VII.; I. 75, 76.
1506–17; I. 125.
18–19 Hen. VIII.; I. 70.
1564; II. 192.
16th cent.; I. 124; II. 34, 79.
17th cent.; II. 20.
at Belvoir Castle; I. 11.
at Dunster Castle; I. 56.
at Kimbolton Castle; I. 13.
in the Shrewsbury Collection; I. 50.
of the Abbot of Westminster; I. 93.
Household necessaries, schedule of, 15th cent.; II. 72.
Household utensils, list of, 14th cent.; II. 111.
Howard:
family of, papers relating to the; I. 55.
Lady Frances, wife of the Earl of Essex; I. 31.
Lord, Lord High Admiral, instructions by, to the navy; II. 45; journal of Spanish actions under, 1596; ib.
—— C., signature of, 1591; I. 100.
—— Henry, a paper found in the study of; II. 41; his answer to a tract of W. Stubbes; ib.
—— Thomas, letters of, 1682; I. 56.
—— William ("Belted Will"), letters of, 1605; II. 182.
Cardinal; I. 23; II. 17.
—— letters of, 1685 and 1688; II. 34.
Charles, letter of; II. 87.
Dr., letters of; I. xiii.
Mary Rosa (a nun), letter of; II. 73.
Robert, Bishop of Killala, &c., letters of; II. 232, 259, 253.
Sir Robert, letters of; II. 16.
Howard de Walden:
Lord, letter to, 1615; II. 52.
Lady, letter of, 1619; II. 56.
—— —— 1625; II. 62.
Howe:
Lord, letters to, 1806–7; II. 192.
J., to Lord ——; I. 25.
James, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Mr., letters to; II. 192.
"Howes Cronacles," formerly in possession of the corporation of Abingdon; I. 98.
Howston, W., to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 25.
Howth, Lord, letters of; II. 252.

Digitized by Google

Huddleston, Father, his narrative of the death of Charles II.; I. 45.
Hudson, Christopher, instructions to; II. 95.
Hudson's Bay, transactions between England and France relating to, 1687; I. 41.
Huggines, Edmond, instructions to, 1577; II. 97.
Hugh, St. See Lincoln, Bishop of.
Hughes:
Captain, depositions of; I. 25.
H., to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 25.
Paul, to Mr. Stretehay; I. 25.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Huguenots, the; I. 13. See Villeroy.
Huldenberg, Baron de, letters of; II. 188.
Humble, Sir John, Bart., paymaster of the Lottery, accounts of, 1710–13; I. 54.
Hume:
Lord; II. 198. (1651.)
—— lord lieutenant of the borders of Scotland; II. 124.
Anna, a work by, 1644; II. 197.
Colonel; II. 198.
David, anecdotes of; I. 127.
William, letter of; II. 235.
of Godscroft, his History of the house and family of Douglas and Angus; I. 114.
See Home.
Hundred roll, a, of the burgh of Hales, 6 Edw. I.; II. 38.
Hundreds:
accounts of (in Cheshire); I. 46. return of the, in co. Gloucester, Edw. I.; I. 14.
Hungarian student, a; II. 156.
Hungary. See Hongrie.
Hungerford, Sir E.; I. 16.
Hunt, J., to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Huntbach, John, collections of; II. 49.
Huntendonensia, Henricus:
Historia Anglorum contexta ab eo (MS. at Stonyhurst College); II. 143; Epistola ejusdem de Mundi Contemptu, ib.
See Huntingdon, Henry of.
Hunter, J., Pitscottie's Chronicles by; II. 200.
Huntingdon:
county of, list of the gentlemen freeholders in the, 1768; II. 4.
—— militia and lord lieutenancy of the, 1715 and 1745; I. 13.
Countess of, letter to the, 1595; II. 51.
Earl of, Henry, instructions to, as Lord President in the North, 1574; II. 95.
—— Lord President of the North, musters taken by, 1584; II. 124.
—— letters of the, 1591 sq.; II. 30, 51.
—— letters to the; ib.
—— to Sir Thomas Cave (temp. Jac. I.); I. 58.
—— See David.
Lord, letter of, 1687; I. 28.
Huntingdon, Henry of:
MSS. of, in the Advocates' Library; I. 123 (bis).
chronicle of, at Peniarth, co. Merioneth; II. 104.
excerpts from; II. 85, 104. See Huntendonensis.
Huntly:
Marquis of, his papers at Aboyne Castle; I. 119; II. xvii.
—— report on his MSS.; II. 180.
Earl of, Alexander, Governor of the North of Scotland, relaxation by, 1519; II. 177.
—— his covenant with Protector Somerset to further an English marriage; I. 114.
—— inventory of the forfeited moveables of the, 1562; I. 114.
—— letters of Mary Queen of Scots to; I. 115.
—— letter from the, to Mary Queen of Scots; II. 183.
Earls and Marquises of, various papers of the; I. 115.
Marchioness of, letters to the; I. 115.
Marquis of, George (1st), letters of; I. 122; II. 184.
—— letters to the, 1645–6; I. 115.
—— declaration of the, and of others who took up arms for Charles II., 1650; I. 129.
—— order for the seizure of the, 1716; II. 28.
Hurricane in 1703, a poem upon the; I. 32.
Hurry, Sir John, "General Major," order to; II. 176.
Husbandry. See Henley, Walter de; and Liber Husebondrie.
Huske, General, letters of; II. 179.
Huskine, W., letters of; II. 39.
Huss, John, protest by the nobles of Bohemia and Moravia touching the burning of; I. xii., 121.
Hutcheson, Francis, letter of; II. 232, 235, 255.
Hutchins, F., to Mr. Heysham; I. 25.
Hutton:
General, collections of; I. 125.
Wm., letters of; II. 18.
Hyda (near Winchester), convent of, injunctions to the; II. 133.
Hyde:
Sir Edward, and his family, correspondence of, with Sir Alan Brodrick; I. 44.
—— his residence in Jersey, during the Commonwealth; II. 158 sq.
—— letters of; II. 37, 82.
Hyde—cont.
Chancellor, the Earl of Bristol's charge against, 1663; II. 8. See Clarendon, Earl of: Cottington and Hyde.
Laurye; II. 17.
Laurence. See Rochester, Earl of.
Lady Mary, letters of; II. 15.
Hymns, English, 14th cent.; I. 125.
Hyndford, Lord and Lady, letters of; I. 126.
Hythe:
report on Mr. H. B. Maekeson's MSS. at; II. 91, 92. letters and papers connected with the town of; ib.

I.

Icelandic and other codices of laws, sagas, &c.; I. 195.
Ickwell Bury (Beds.), report on MSS. belonging to Mr. J. Harvey at; I. 62; II. 89.
Illuminations in MSS., 13th to 16th cent.; I. 59; II. 34, 81, 109, 202.
Imola, Geoffrey de, his De arte loquendi (MS., 14th cent.); II. 81.
Imperatoris insignibus, De, a paper headed; I. 31.
Imperial:
army, journal of the marches of the, in Genoa, 1747 (French); II. 216. towns and cities, negotiations with, temp. Jac. I. et Car. I.; I. 125.
Impignoration, charters of (Scotch); II. 167.
Impositions, an Argument upon the Question of, by Sir John Davies, 1624; I. 32; II. 3.
Impropriations in Ireland, letters on, 1692 and 1701–2; II. 233.
Incheolm, abbey of, chartulary of the; I. 111.
Inchiquine, [Lord], letter of, 1642; II. 195.
Indentures:
at Coventry; I. 101.
in the Hatton Collection; I. 30, 33, 34.
at York; I. 110.
enrolments of, 1583–1625, at Norwich; I. 103.
Index (An), or Abstract of Law, Parliamentary Proceedings, &c.; II. 3.
Indexes:
twenty-two, of all the counties in England, and one for Ireland, in the handwriting of Dugdale; I. 31.
portions of, by Dugdale; I. 33.
India:
journals of a voyage to and residence in, 1781 sq.; II. 28.
letters and papers relating to, 1781–8; II. 28.
letters relating to, 1783 and 1791; II. 13.
papers relating to the government of; II. 24.
India (East):
"business," Commissioners for the, letter of the, 1622; II. 61.
Company, and merchants, letters relating to the; I. 20; II. 56.
India (West) Company:
proposal for erecting a; II. 4.
the Dutch, letter touching; II. 53.
Indiamen, agreement and letters of marque touching the capture of, 1582; II. 21.
Indian affairs, letters about, 1784; II. 30.
Indian Emperor, The, a play (1732); II. 24.
Indies, the:
Raleigh's voyage to; I. 48.
a voyage to, 1655; II. 82.
the East, trade in, 1614; I. 13.
—— convoys from; I. 20.
—— papers relating to trade with, temp. Jac. I.; II. 45.
the West; I. 22.
—— list of patent offices in; II. 4.
—— list of staff on the expedition to, 1740; II. 24.
—— C. Tooke's translation of Herrera's Description of; I. 60.
—— clergymen for; II. 235.
Indulgence:
an, 1372; I. 90.
papal bull of, to Henry VII. and his mother; I. 72.
petition for an; ib.
an, for eating flesh on forbidden days, 1596; I. 33. See Licences.
Indulgences; I. 96.
a treatise on, 15th cent.; II. 109.
Indus, Mem. on the proposed operations beyond the, 1838; II. 4.
Infirmaries, accounts of the, at Westminster Abbey; I. 95.
Ingall, Mr. Henry:
MSS. of, sent to the Public Record Office; I. viii.
a play and other papers in possession of; I. x.
Ingham, Thomas, to Mr. Hatton; I. 25.
Inghilterra, Relazioni di (various, 16th and 17th cent. qu. by Venetian ambassadors?); II. 44, 45.
Ingham, David, examination of, touching an unknown country II. 45.
Iniskillen, Irish poem on; II. 224.
Ink, recipes for (15th cent.); II. 80.

Digitized by Google

Innes:
the Laird, letter to, 1598; I. 55.
Lewis, secretary to the King (Pretender), letter of; I. 118, 119.
Thomas, antiquarian, MSS. of; I. 112.
—— letters of; I. xii., 117, 118, 119.
—— —— touching his Critical Essay on the Early Inhabitants of Scotland, and his proposed Ecclesiastical History of Scotland; I. 118.
Innholders:
a Bishop's exactions on, 1540; I. 107.
at York, contract by, for a yearly pageant; I. 108.
recognizances of; I. 110.
and victuallers, recognizances by, not to sell or dress flesh meat in Lent; I. 101.
Innocentius Papa Tertius de Miseria Hominis; II. 143.
Inns of Court, Council letter to the Benchers of the, 1569; II. 43.
Inquests of office, at King's College, Cambridge; I. 69.
Inquisition, the, letters against its introduction into this country; II. 40.
Inquisition, an, with seals of jurors, temp. Hen. III.; II. 81.
Inquisitions:
copies and extracts of, from Henry III. to Charles I.; I. 31.
in the Hatton Collection; I. 54.
in cos. Berks, Essex, and Kent; I. 74.
exemplifications of, in the registers at Norwich; I. 88.
post-mortem, at York; I. 108.
at Waterford; I. 131.
(Fachnet.), extracted from; II. 125.
Inscriptions, copies of; II. 2.
Insignibus, De Hodiernis, a paper headed; I. 31.
Inspectors:
two, employment of, by the Historical MSS. Commission; I. vii.
two additional, for Scotland and Ireland; I. vii.
an additional for Scotland; II. vii.
Institution Books, in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich; I. 86.
Institutions, diocese of Wells; I. 92, 93.
Insula, Geoffrey de, deed of; I. 11.
Insurrection, papers relating to an intended, 1655; II. 87.
Intelligence, papers of (five volumes), 1787–9; II. 30.
Intercourse, Considerations touching, by P. S., 1630; I. 32.
International Law, a work on, by Richard Zouch (17th cent.); II. 46.
Inventions, warrants for patents of; I. 34.
Inventories of goods, plate, furniture, books, &c.:
14th cent.; I. 65.
15th cent.; I. 65; II. 47.
temp. Hen. VII. et VIII.; I. 76, 77.
16th cent.; I. 11, 53, 67; II. 34, 47, 101, 102.
temp. Eliz.; I. 50; II. 94.
17th cent.; I. 11, 44, 114; II. 48, 185, 187.
of College property; I. 69, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75; II. 126.
in the Hatton Collection; I. 30.
at Limerick; I. 131.
of the effects of deceased persons in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich; I. 86.
among the Stair Papers; II. 191.
in Westminster Abbey; I. 95, 96.
Inverbervy, town of; II. 206.
Inverchaply, [Lord?], letters of, 1745–6; II. 179.
Inverleithe, Laird of; II. 184.
Inverness-shire, clans in; II. 189.
Iona:
Commendator of, charter by the; II. 193.
monastery of, history of the; II. 202.
Ipres, Bishops of; II. 73.
Ireland:
reports on Historical MSS. of; I. 126–132; II. 209–262.
A Breviate of the Conquest of, and of the Decay of the same (by Patrick Finglas); II. 6, 40.
The Discovery and Recovery of, by Thomas Lee; II. 91, 40.
Annals of, ending in 1248; I. 130.
notices of English affairs in, 1169–1339; II. 258.
the Duke of Norfolk's title to the Earl Marshal's estates in (no date); I. 70.
account by Cavalier Barducci of movements in, effected by the Pope against Queen Elizabeth; II. 44.
articles by Queen Elizabeth for uniformity of religion in; II. 156.
description of, 1586; I. 136.
soldiers sent into, 1590; I. 11.
letter about sending men from Wales to, 1595; II. 86.
Council letters about forces for, 1598; II. 86, 87.
instructions for levying men for, temp. Eliz.; II. 96.
an estimate of the state of, 1599; I. 31.
papers relating to, 16th and 17th cent.; II. 156, 157, 158.
Council letters touching supplies of men for, 1601–2; II. 18.
papers relating to, temp. Eliz.; I. 48; II. 45.
—— temp. Jac. I.; II. 52, 53, 54, 55.
—— 1626–1694; I. 127.
—— 1697–1798; I. 44.
newsletter from, 1633; I. 95.
Ireland—cont.
Commissioners on defective titles in, compositions with the, 1636–8; II. 217.
Account of the War and Rebellion in, 1641 sq., ascribed to Nicholas Plunket; II. 227–231. See Irish Rebellion.
Council of War in, order by the, 1642; II. 218.
letter of Charles I. touching soldiers expected from, 1643; II. 86.
powers given by Charles I. to the Earl of Glamorgan to treat with the Confederate Roman Catholics in, 1645 I. 92.
Committee of Lords and Commons for [in England], extracts from their proceedings, 1643–6, with memoranda; II. 220, 221.
orders respecting troops sent to, 1646; II. 221.
letters on the wars in, temp. Car. I.; II. 233.
order respecting troops for the service of, by O. Cromwell, 1649; I. 55.
Commissioners for trial of transplantable persons in, 1655; II. 226.
account of affairs in, after 1660; I. 53.
letters from persons in, 1660 sq.; II. 9.
letters from, 1665; II. 17.
army in, temp. Car. II.; II. 214.
letters from, 1686; II. 10.
narrative of the affairs of, from the Restoration to James II.; II. 213.
a Latin poem on the affairs of, regnante Jac. II.; I. xii., 128.
French fleet on the coast of, 1689; I. 19.
account of the wars of James II. and William III. in; I. 128. war in, 1690, letters on the; II. 232.
a poll tax for reducing, 1690; I. 33.
memoirs of military transactions in (William and Mary); I. 129.
newsletters relating to, 1690 and 1702; I. 27.
complaints in, 1699; II. 233.
observations in a voyage through, by T. Dineley, 17th cent.; I. 34.
letters and papers relating to, 17th and 18th cent.; II. 67.
account of the establishment for, 1709; II. 31.
taxation of, observations on the, 1716; II. 235, 256.
difficulties with witnesses in, 1722; II. 235.
difficulty about rents in; ib.
condition of, 1727; II. 235.
lists of appointments in, 1757–60; II. 2.
Civil Establishment of, 1757; II. 3.
Military Establishment of, 1759; II. 3. list of Livings in, in the gift of the Crown, 1760; II. 3.
letters and observations on, 1757–68; II. 103.
pamphlets relating to the political history of, and the rebellion of 1798; II. 63.
the Duke of Wellington's intentions with respect to; II. 199.
acts of synods in; II. 156.
Bishops of (Protestant), documents relating to; II. 156, 157, 158.
—— proposed method for selection of, 1692; II. 233.
Bishops and other dignitaries of, letters of, 1682–1727; I. xiii.
Chancellor of, order to the, 1610; II. 217.
Church of, letters and papers relating to the affairs of the, 1689–1729; II. 232, 233, 234, 235 sq.
civil list of, an annual bounty for Presbyterian ministers inserted on the, 1691; II. 217.
clergy of, first fruits, &c., released to, 1661; I. 20.
—— addresses from, to Queen Anne; II. 233 (bis).
—— dissenting, their addresses to George I.; II. 234.
Crown rents in, 17 Eliz.; II. 156.
discourse on; I. 32.
ecclesiastical affairs of, 16th and 17th cent.; II. 157.
—— letters and papers on the, 1689–1729; II. 232, 233, 234, 235 sq.
Forfeited Estates in, Commissioners of, 1690; II. 222.
—— report of the Trustees of, circ. 1700; I. 55. See Irish Forfeitures.
fortifications of, report on the condition of the, by Thomas Eyre, Surveyor-General, 1754–5 (with plans); II. 3.
historical families of, documents relating to great; I. 55.
history of, to 1504; I. 49.
—— Keating's; I. 124.
—— portion of an; II. 156.
—— MS. materials for the; I. xii., xiii.
history of the conquest of, with a catalogue of Deputies to Charles II.; I. 48.
House of Commons of, letters of Speakers of the; I. 128.
House of Peers in, its jurisdiction repudiated in England, 1699; II. 233.
—— reasons for its jurisdiction; II. 235.
index of [places in], by Dugdale; I. 31.
justices of the peace, &c. in, during the Revolution; II. 235.
lands in England exchanged for lands in; II. 77.
"Liste de quelques officiers Français à la pension de sa Majesté en Irlande," (? date); I. 95.

Digitized by Google

Ireland—cont.
Lords Deputies of, instructions to, by Edw. VI. & Eliz.; II. 94, 95.
—— correspondence of, &c., 16th & 17th cent.; II. 157, 158.
Lord Deputy of, royal letter to the, 1574; II. 43.
—— letters to the, 1610–11; II. 217.
—— letter to the, 1613; I. 47.
—— and Council, order by the, 1696; II. 217.
—— See Russell, Sir Wm.
Lord Justice and Council of, letter of the (? date); II. 156.
—— order of the, for rebuilding churches, and enforcing attendance at church; ib.
Lords Justices of, temp. Car. I; II. 157.
—— and Council, orders, &c., by the, 1639–43; II. 217, 219, 220.
—— instructions to the, 1671 and 1685; II. 216.
—— their return to the King's instructions, 1685; ib.
—— letters to the, 1685; II. 217.
—— powers given by the, 1691; II. 217.
—— orders to the, 1691; II. 217.
—— order by the, 1692; II. 222.
Lord Lieutenant of, letter to the, 1580; II. 10.
—— and Council, orders by the, 1643; II. 220.
—— instructions for the, 1670; II. 216.
—— Duke of Bedford, correspondence of the, 1757–9, and 1806–7; II. 2.
Marshal of the army in; II. 219.
—— instructions to the, 1679; II. 216.
nobility of, lists of the; II. 157.
North of, Dissenters in the; II. 235.
—— petition of poor persons in the (undated); II. 216.
—— state of the, 1715; II. 234, 251.
notes and treaties on; II. 40.
Parliament of, extracts from the Roll of the, 31 Hen. VIII.; II. 157.
—— papers relating to the, 1635; II. 157.
—— —— 1639–40; II. 157.
—— letter to the Speaker of the, 1659; II. 98.
—— Act of the, 1689; II. 226.
—— letters relating to the, 1699 sq.; II. 233.
—— its independence not admitted in England, 1702; II. 234.
—— affairs of the, 1703; I. 19.
—— MS. volumes of debates in the (1776–89), in possession of Mr. W. M. Torrens, M.P., report on; II. 99.
—— speeches in the, 18th cent.; I. 128.
peerage of, notes of the; II. 156.
peers of, creations of; II. 157.
—— letters touching the, 1698; II. 233.
new peers for, proposed, 1715; II. 234.
preachers from, in Scotland, 1675; II. 203.
princes and nobles of, arms of the; II. 7.
revenues of public institutions in, return of the, 1658; II. 98.
revenues of, return of the, 1658; ib.
South of, lands in the; II. 221.
Union of Great Britain and. See Union.
Vice-treasurer of war in, 1635, prisoner in Dublin Castle; I. 26.
See Hibernia.
Ireland, W., to Ric. Langhorne; I. 23.
Ireton, —, Lord Deputy of Ireland; II. 226.
See Irton.
Irish:
account of a great defeat of the, temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 17.
letters of the leaders of the, 1641; II. 217 sq.
commissioners from the, Charles I's answer to the, 1644, with memoranda of subsequent occurrences; II. 220.
narrative of the sufferings of the, under Cromwell; II. 228.
plans for the conversion of the, 1704–7; II. 234 (bis.) affairs, collections on, temp. Eliz.; II. 40.
—— letters on, 1565–6; II. 10.
Bills before the Privy Council in London, 1723; II. 235.
cattle, Bill touching, 1665; II. 19 church councils, notes on; II. 158.
college of Friars Preachers at Lisbon; II. 147.
Dominicans, at Louvain; II. 147.
Forfeitures; I. 23.
—— bill for resumption of, 1699; II. 233.
—— proceedings of the Trustees for; ib.
—— commission on; ib.
—— dealings with, 1706; II. 234. See Ireland, Forfeited Estates in. monasteries, commission by Hen. VIII. for sale of lands of; II. 157. poems; II. 223.
Rebellion, 1641, sq.; letters relating to the; II. 47, 157, 195, 218–223.
rebels, under the Earl of Montrose in Scotland, 1645; II. 174. troops, in service of France, 1714; II. 234.
woollen manufacture, English legislation against; II. 233.
"Hippocratis Aphorismi" in (16th cent.); I. 25.
MSS. in; II. 223.
MSS. in (chiefly transcripts); I. xii., 129.

Irlandi, Johannis, (Scoti Parisiis Theologiæ Professoris), Quæstiones in 3 et 4 Sententiarum P. Lombardi; II. 200.
Irlandia, Johannis de, opera theologica; I. 128.
Irton (or Ireton ?), Henry, letters of; I. 67.
Irvine:
Alexander Forbes, Esq., of Drum, MSS. of; I. 112; II. xix.
—— report on his MSS. at Drum Castle; II. 198.
Alex., of Drum; II. 185.
Sir Alexander, his protestation against the Presbytery of Aberdeen; II. 198.
Isabella, Queen of Edward II.:
letter of; I. 100.
indenture by; II. 49.
Isham:
Sir ——; I. 24.
Sir Justinian; I. 18.
J., to Lord Hatton and another; I. 25.
Islay, letters of; II. 26.
Isles, the:
Bishop of, Ferguhard, charter by; II. 193.
—— John Campbell, will of; II. 193.
Bishops of, commissions by, 1617 and 1630; II. 197.
bishopric of the, rentals of the; II. 197.
Northern, commission of James VI. for the subjugation of; I. 115.
Western, a work on the, by Dean Monro; I. 193.
Italian:
MSS. in, 15th cent.; I. 90.
MSS. in, relating to England and Ireland; II. 44, 45.
miscellaneous papers in; I. 30.
newspaper, an, 1702; I. 38.
poems, by Charles Bill; II. 85.
tracts on religion in, 16th cent.; II. 44.
treatises in; II. 45.
Italy:
Journal of a Traveller in, 1606; II. 4.
negotiations with Princes of, temp. Jac. I. et Car. I., I. 125.
wars in, letter touching, 17th cent.; I. 67.
letters relating to, 1703–4; I. 31.
journals of journeys in, by the Pretender and others, 1717–19; I. 117.
letters touching the war in, 1745–6; II. 23, 27.
French invasion of, letters touching the, 1796–9; II. 14.
letters from, 18th cent.; II. 36.
"Iter Borealle," a book so called; I. 39.
Ivan, Prince, letter about the murder of, 1764; II. 8.
Izod, Francis, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.

J.

J. W. to Lady Hatton; I. 25.
Jackson:
Francis, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Dr. James, Fellow of Clare College Cambridge, letter to; II. 114.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 25.
Jacobite:
army, at Perth, proclamations and letters of the; I. 117.
papers, seizure of, 1715; II. 234, 249. poem, a, on the affairs of Ireland, temp. Jac. II.; I. xii., 128. rising, the, 1744–5; I. 115.
Jacobites:
the, I. 113; II. 234.
leading, correspondence of; I. 117.
pamphlets relating to the intrigues of the; II. 63.
movements of the, 1716; II. 189.
Jaffray, Alexander, Provost of Aberdeen, letters of; I. 122.
Jamaica:
ships bound for, 1702; I. 20.
documents relating to; II. 86, 38.
clergymen for; II. 235.
Governor of, E. Trelawny, papers of; I. 52.
—— letters to the, 18th cent.; II. 38.
James II., King of Scotland, warrant by, 1459; II. 167.
James III., King of Scotland:
commissions by; II. 167.
treaties with England; II. 193.
James IV., King of Scotland:
a theological work compiled for, by John of Ireland; I. 125.
treaty between him and Charles VIII. of France (copy); II. 41.
letter of challenge from the Earl of Surrey to; II. 6. account of his defeat by the Earl of Surrey at Flodden Field; I. 32.
lease by; II. 167.
charters by; II. 168.
James V., King of Scotland:
treaties between him and Henry VIII.; II. 193.
articles relating to his marriage with Mary of Guise; I. 124.
letters from, to his Queen; I. 124.
letters of; II. 183.
volumes of State Papers of the time of; I. 113.

James VI., King of Scotland:
a bond made by his subjects for pursuit of his right to the Crown of England and Ireland; I. 47.
a tract on "treason pretended" against; II. 45.
his treaties with Queen Elizabeth; II. 123.
a Commentary corrected by; II. 201.
commissions, &c. by; II. 168 (bis).
correspondence of, 1580–1618; I. 124.
letters of; I. 55, 113, 123; II. 185, 184.
warrants of; I. 116.
writ by; II. 188.
the history and life of; II. 43.
James I., King of England:
speech to, on his accession; I. 34, 62; his answer; I. 62.
an advertisement to, before his progress into Scotland; I. 54.
particulars of his visits to Nottingham; I. 105.
a "Relation" touching the reign of; I. 114.
Court and Character of, by Sir Anthony Weldon; I. 53.
a Latin description of; II. 44.
letters of; I. 57, 67, 102; II. 18, 46, 51, 55, 61, 62, 63, 88, 217.
letters to the Speaker and Serjeant-at-Arms of the House of Commons; I. 62.
letters to; I. 49, 54, 57, 58, 62; II. 20, 45, 46, 51, 61.
a philosophical treatise said to be written by; I. 43.
speeches of, to Parliament; I. 43, 62, 63; II. 8, 104.
James, Duke of York (son of Charles I.):
account of his residence in Jersey; II. 164, 165.
instructions for, 1672; I. 30.
account of his reception at Yarmouth, 1682; II. 34.
animosity of Parliament against, 1684; I. 24.
his friends in Parliament; I. 51.
comptroller of; I. 51.
letters of; II. 10, 17, 32, 82, 92.
—— 1648–50; II. 173.
—— 1659; II. 87.
—— to La Chaise, 1675; I. 54.
letters to; II. 19, 23, 63.
James II., King of England: proclaimed King; I. 22.
proclamations of, on his accession; II. 78.
his disputes with the Universities and the Bishops; I. 22.
a collection of speeches delivered to, touching the necessity of calling a Parliament; I. 31.
appointment of bishops by; I. 22.
"Impartial Account" of ministers in the service of, 1686; II. 15.
letters touching the birth of his son, 1688. See James III.
summons by, "to witness the labour of the Queen," 1692; II. 79.
an instrument by, 1689; II. 226.
letters touching the abdication of; I. 16, 17, 44, 52; II. 11.
arguments upon the abdication of; I. 12.
notes of debates touching the abdication of; II. 15.
account of a conversation of the ministry at London concerning, after the Revolution; I. 115.
extracts from papers relating to, by Carte; II. 8.
memorials to the French Court touching; ib.
pamphlets relating to events of the reign of; II. 63.
papers touching Archbishop King's "State of the Protestants in Ireland" under; II. 231, 232, 235, 236.
piloted to Ireland; I. 15.
privateers acting under commission of, 1692; II. 79.
instructions by; II. 10, 11.
—— to Tirconnel; I. 128.
—— to the Archbishop of Armagh, &c.; II. 216.
letters of; I. xi., 50, 109, 113; II. 8, 11, 12, 14, 115.
intercepted letter of; II. 188.
letter to; II. 8.
mandates of; II. 147.
sign manuals by; II. 10, 11.
writs by, 1689–90; II. 229.
his Queen consort; I. 16.
—— letters of; II. 18.
James III., son of James II. (the Pretender):
letters touching the birth of; I. 44; II. 10, 17, 18, 32.
"Prince of Wales"; I. 16.
declaration of; I. 53.
his orders to the Earl of Mar; I. 115.
account of Louis XIV.'s visit to; II. 37. See Pretender.
and Princess Clementine, letters of, 1726–45; II. 33.
James, the Rev. John, information given by, respecting a collection relating to the see of Salisbury; I. x.
Charles, to Mr. Strethay; I. 25.
Mr., negotiations of, in the Low Countries; II. 45.
Richard, letters of; I. 43.
Jamesone, the painter; I. 123.
Jane (Seymour), Queen, a story as to the death of; II. 132.
Jane, Queen, letter of; II. 125. See Grey, Lady Jane.
Jedburgh, Lord, his "business," temp. Car. I.; I. 116.
Jeffreys:
An., to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Chr., to Lord Hatton and another; I. 25.
George, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
—— letter to; I. 25.
Jeffreys—cont.
Henry, his History of Clifton or Teame; I. 58.
John, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Lord Chancellor, account of expenditure for the entertainment of him and four other judges at Wells; I. 108.
—— letter of, 1688; II. 68.
—— letters touching the capture of, 1688; II. 11.
—— signature of; II. 32.
Jekyll:
E., letter of; II. 70.
J., letter of; II. 70.
Jenison and his brother, their confessions concerning the Plot, 1679; I. 24.
Jenkins:
I., letters of; I. 23; II. 23.
Sir Lionel, letters of; I. 56.
Secretary, letter of, 1685; II. 28.
Jenkinson:
Mr., instructions to [temp. Eliz.]; II. 97.
Anthony, account of his journey from London to Persia, 1561; I. 61.
Nathan, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Jennery, Wm., letter of; II. 11.
Jennings, Captain, depositions of, I. 25.
Jennures, Henry; I. 68.
Jenyns, Soame; II. 13, 14.
Jephson, Robert, letters of; I. 127.
Jermyn, Lord:
Governor of Jersey, 1643 sq.; II. 159, 160, 161.
letters of, 1649–50; II. 176.
Henry, letter from, 1650; II. 83.
—— a receipt for 150 agates for the use of; ib.
letters from, to Charles I.; I. 7, 8.
Jerome, St.:
the Evangelia according to, &c. (MS., 10th cent.); II. 74. works of (Aberdeen University); II. 200. See Hieronymus.
Jersey:
collection relating to, made by Dr. Hoskins; II. xiii. 158.
Journal of events in, during the Civil War, by Jean Chevalier (in French); II. 158–165.
letters dated at, 1650; II. 171, 173.
directions for a survey of, circ. 1680; II. 9.
affairs in; I. 15, 18, 19, 21.
bailiffs of; I. 34.
list of offices in; II. 4.
Jersey, Earl of:
letters to the, 1699; I. 13.
Lord Chamberlain, letter of the, 1703; I. 25.
letters of the, 1769–1804; II. 13.
Jerusalem:
Church of, ancient liturgy of the; II. 205.
Siege of (a narrative in prose, 15th cent.); II. 84.
Jesuit missionaries, in Scotland; I. 129.
Jesuitical Assertions, Confutation of (a book); I. 31.
Jesuit's letter, a; II. 1.
Jesuits:
treatise or oration against the (? date); II. 152.
a Device of the, intercepted, 1600; I. 53.
papers relative to, temp. Eliz.; II. 154.
and seminary priests, opinion of certain Protestant divines as to the manner of dealing with [temp. Eliz.]; II. 153.
—— tract by Sir R. Cotton concerning; II. 90.
demands against the, 1610; I. 48.
in England, the King of Spain's letter concerning, 1673; I. 23.
letters about the, 1697; I. 18.
Jesuits' School, the Earl of Salisbury's project against the, temp. Eliz.; I. 54, 61, 62.
Jew Bill, the, in the House of Lords, 1753; I. 41. See Jews.
Jewel, Bishop, Notes upon the Treatise of Rastell against; II. 57.
Jewel Book, the, of Queen Anne, wife of James VI.; I. 124.
Jewel House, the Royal:
list of plate lent out of; I. 13.
master of; I. 50.
Jewelry, sale of; I. 13.
Jewels:
account of, 15th cent. II. 207.
inventories, &c. of; I. 96, 97; II. 138, 185. See Plate.
loss of a ship laden with; I. 24.
Jews, rolls relating to affairs of the, temp. Hen. III. and Edw. I.; I. 96. See Jew Bill.
Joan, Queen, widow of Henry IV., seal of; II. 94.
Jodrell, Paul, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 25, 30.
John, King:
charters of; I. 71, 102; II. 123.
grant by; I. 62.
John o' Groat's House, Journal of a Journey to, 1762; II. 206.
Johnson:
J., to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
John, his Discourse touching the Staple; II. 40.
—— his Device for erecting a Mart Town in England; ib.
M., to Lord Hatton and another; I. 25.
Richard, Master of the Temple, sermons of; I. 46.
Robert, letter of; II. 153.
Dr. Samuel, an Answer to his "Taxation no Tyranny," by H. Flood; I. 128.

Digitized by Google

Johnson, Dr. Samuel—cont.
—— "exceptions" of, in arrest of judgment; II. 8.
—— letters of; II. 12, 37.
—— epitaph on, by Soame Jenyns; II. 13.
Swebbin, a paper by, on the reformation of Ireland; II. 40.
William, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Johnston, Sir Archibald, of Warriston, letters of, 1645 and 1660; I. 55.
Johnstown, town of, book of the; II. 216.
Joinville, Count of, letter of the; II. 63.
Joinville's Life of St. Lonis (a MS. of 15th cent.); I. 124.
Jolly, Bishop, of Moray, MSS. and papers of; II. 205.
Jones:
Charles, letters of; II. 28.
David, to Lord ——; I. 25.
Elizabeth, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Lady Frances, letters of; II. 15.
Hugh, to Mr. Mountage; I. 25.
Inigo, receipt by; I. 57.
John, letter to; II. 73.
—— Colonel (the regicide), letter of; II. 106.
Mr., letters to; I. 26, 30.
Mrs., letter to; I. 27.
Ro., to Chr. Hatton; I. 25.
Roger, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Samuel, preacher in one of Sir W. Raleigh's ships, his relation of Raleigh's voyage to Guiana; I. 63.
Samuel, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Sir William, letters of; I. 127; II. 13.
—— character of, by Countess Spencer; II. 20.
William, sen. and jun., to Lord, Lady, and Chr. Hatton; I. 25.
Jonson, Ben, letter and epitaph by; II. 79.
Jorett (?), John, to Lord Hattou; I. 25.
Journal (a), in London, and on the Continent, 1740 sq.; II. 83.
Journals:
private, temp. Hen. VIII.; I. 26. See Diaries.
of tours in France and elsewhere, 17th and 18th cent.; II. 83.
of Lady Catheart, 1745–7; II. 25.
of journeys, 18th cent.; II. 205.
Journey, account of a, to the North of England, 1696; II. 79. See Travels.
Joyeuse, Duke of, letter of the; II. 49.
Julius II., confirmations by, of the treaty of marriage between the daughter of the King of the Romans and the King of England; II. 44.
Junius, Patrick, letters of, 1633; I. 67.
Junius:
papers respecting the authorship of; I. 128.
letter concerning; II. 13.
pamphlets relating to the writings of; II. 63.
Jurors, panels of, 1575; I. 106.
Jus Regium, an anonymous publication, 1701; II. 233.
Justice, Difference between a, and a Conservator of the Peace (a book); I. 32, 216.
Justice, Courts of, Fleetwood's opinion concerning the original foundation of; I. 31.
Justices of the Peace, an order to remove, 1626; I. 57.
Justiciary, commission of (Scotch); II. 168.
Juxon:
Richard, signature of; I. 67.
Wm., Bishop of London, letter of; II. 79.

K.

K——, John, to George Holmes; I. 30.
K. A. (?), letter of; I. 28.
Kalendars. See Calendars.
Kamchatka; II. 213, 216.
Karne, E., letters of, to Hen. VIII.; II. 49.
Katerinæ, Breviarium Sanctæ (15th cent.); I. 121.
Kaye, Lady, letters to, 1740 sq.; II. 12.
Kearney, John, Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, letters of; I. 127.
Keating, Jeoffrey, a copy of his General History of Ireland; I. 124.
Keck, Anthony, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Keeper, Lord:
speeches by the, temp. Eliz.; II. 43.
speech of the, 1633; I. 43.
speeches of the, 1626; I. 43.
his speech to the Lords, 1628; II. 97.
speeches of the, in Parliament, temp. Car. I.; I. 61, 1685; I. 14.
See Bacon; Williams.
Keill, James, to Lord ——; I. 25.
Keith:
Lord, William, letter of, temp. Car. I.; II. 184.
—— letters of, 1799; II. 192.
Bishop, his Catalogue of Scottish coins and medals; II. 201.
—— lists and excerpts of MSS. by; II. 203, 204.
—— correspondence of; II. 204.
—— his "Mareschalate of Scotland"; II. 205.
Robert Murray, letters of (from Copenhagen and Dresden); II. 26.
Keith—cont.
Sir William; II. 184.
See Keyth.
Kelcho, chartularium de; II. 186.
Kellow, Lord, ordar for the seizure of, 1716; II. 28.
Kelly, Earl of, letter of the, 1622; II. 61.
Kelmersh, chapel of; I. 33.
Keltie, Adam, letter of; II. 185.
Kemish, Joseph, priest, trial of, at the Old Bailey; II. 147.
Kempthorne, —, account of his attack on Turkish pirates; II 99.
Ken, Thomas, Bishop of Bath and Wells, letter of; II. 10.
Kendale, barony of, papers relating to the; II. 124.
Kenilworth, the Dictum of; II. 47.
Kenmare, Lord, letters of; I. 127.
Kenne, Edmund, prisoner in the Fleet, petition of; I. 57.
Kennet, Basil; II. 70.
Kensington, letter dated at, 1647; II. 184.
Kensington, Lord, letter of, 1624; II. 61.
Kent:
county of; II. 138.
articles of the Commissioners of, 1460; II. 42.
state of the ports of (temp. Hen. VIII.); II. 152.
deputy lieutenant for, 1778; I. 33.
justice of the peace for, 1786; I. 33.
western division of; I. 33 (bis).
Earl of, Henry, letter to, 1588; II. 41.
—— —— an address signed by [1587 ?]; II. 41.
—— Henry, list of mourning apparel for, 1614; II. 8.
Duke of, Henry, MSS. dedicated to; II. 7.
Kent, W. [the artist], letters of; II. 19.
Kentish men, in London, 1641; II. 47.
Kenton, vicarage of, dioc. Exon.; I. 91.
Ker:
Sir Andrew, warrants to; I. 116. See Carre.
Sir Robert (afterwards Earl of Ancrum), letter of Prince Charles for, 1621; I. 116.
—— letters to; ib.
Sir Thomas, of Fairnieherst; I. 116.
Kersley, Sir J., letters of; II. 12.
Kettell, Dr., his Register of Trinity College, Oxon.; II. 142.
Keymer, John, letter of; II. 61.
Keyth, Annas, letter of; II. 183.
See Keith.
Kilbride, church of; II. 186.
Kildare:
Earl of, letter to the [temp. Eliz.]; II. 42.
Countess of, Joane, acknowledgment by, 1644; II. 220.
—— letters of; II. 221, 223.
Kilkenny:
Corporation of, records of the; I. xiii.
—— report on the records of the; I. 129.
Register of the Antiquities and Statutes of, by Robert Rothe; II. xxi.
—— report on the; II. 357–369.
papers relating to the city of, 17th cent.; II. 226, 227.
affairs of, 1715–17; II. 234.
the Irishtown of, books of; I. 130.
county of, early documents connected with the; II. 358.
Kilkenny Castle, Report on the Ormonde Muniments at; II. 209.
Kilkerran, Lord, letters of, 1745–6; II. 179.
Killaloe:
Consistorial Court of, books and papers from the; I. 131.
Registry of, list of records in the, 1713; I. 131.
Killiecrankie, battle of; I. 45.
Killigrew:
—, letters from Queen Elizabeth and others to; II. 42.
Henry, instructions to, as ambassador to Scotland, Germany, and France, temp. Eliz.; II. 96, 97.
Sir Henry, letter of, 1593; I. 80.
"Killing no Murder." See Allen, W.
Kilwinning, House of, Register of the; I. 111.
Kimbolton Castle, the Duke of Manchester's papers at; I. x.
——report on the same; I. 12.
Kimbolton, Lord:
letter to; I. 13.
articles of high treason against; I. 51.
Kincardine, Earl of, letter to the, 1665; II. 203.
Kincleven, Lord, letter of, 1620; II. 58.
King, the Character of a (treatise, 17th cent.); I. 54.
King:
Alex., Treatises on Naval Law by; II. 186.
Sir Edmund, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Gregory, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 25.
Lord Chancellor, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Oliver, Bishop of Bath and Wells; I. 107.
Robert, to Mr. Strethay; I. 25.
William, Archbishop of Dublin, correspondence of, 1682–1727; I. xiii.; II. xxi.
—— report on the papers of; II. 281–269.
—— papers touching his "State of the Protestants of Ireland;" II. 231, 232, 233.
—— his treatise "De Origine Mali;" II. 232, 233, 235, 236, 242.
—— his answer to Manby; II. 232, 240.
—— his book on Consecration of Churches; II. 235.
Bishop, copies of poems by; II. 7.

Kinghorne:
Earl of, John 2nd, letters of, 1627–43; II. 184.
Lady (1630); II. 198.
King's Bench:
case concerning the jurisdiction of the Court of; I. 31.
a treatise on the; I. 42.
directions for soliciting of causes in the; II. 89.
The Office of an Attorney in the, (a treatise); II. 90.
"King's Cabinet," The, a volume of Charles I.'s papers, published by Parliament; I. 2.
"King's Cabinet Opened," a copy of the; II. 91.
King's County:
documents relating to, 1626–94; I. 127.
papers relating to, 17th cent.; II. 221, 222.
payment of subsidies in; II. 217.
lands in; II. 217, 221, 222, 223.
King's Evil, touching for the, 1683; II. 82.
Kings, English and foreign, letters of, 14th cent.; II. 85.
Kingsmill, B., to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Kingston, Duchess of:
her correspondence with Foote; II. 20.
letter touching her trial, 1776; II. 29.
Kingston, Sir Anthony, letter to; II. 153, 155.
Kingston-upon-Hull, merchants of; I. 110.
Kinnaird, Dr., letters of; II. 179.
Kinnoull, Earl of:
MSS. of the, to be inspected; I. 112.
George 1st. See Hay, Sir George.
George 2nd, letters of, 1634 sq.; II. 185.
letters of the, 1738 sq.; II. 191.
Kinsale:
letter from the camp before, 1601; I. 47.
letter of Prince Rupert dated at; II. 173.
Kintore, Lord, letters of; I. 118.
Kircudbright, Lord Thomas, letters of, 1642; II. 184.
Kirk, Commissioners of the, their Advice to the King, 1593; II. 184.
Kirkaldy, Margaret de (afterwards Abbess of Rheims), letter of; I. 55.
Kirkby in the Moor (Yorkshire); II. 93.
Kirkby's Inquest, or Fees of the Crown in Yorkshire (the York copy); I. 97.
Kirkbythore (Westmorland), collections touching; I. 124, 125.
Kirkcaldy, Sir William, letter of; II. 183.
Kirke, Colonel, letters to; II. 10.
—— letter touching; II. 99.
Kirkham, Charles, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 25.
Kirkstall, Abbot of, charter to the; I. 71.
Kirkwall, in Orkney, commissions by Montrose dated at; II. 176.
Kit-Cat Club, the:
portraits of the members of; II. 69. See Tonson, Jacob.
letters concerning; II. 71, 72.
a poem on, by R. B.; II. 72.
Knatchbull, W., Bursar of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, letters from and to; II. 122.
Kneller, Sir Godfrey:
portraits by; II. 69, 70.
letters of; II. 70.
Knight:
John, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 25.
Mr., letters of, 1678; I. 56.
Payne, letters of; I. 55.
Knight and his Wife, The (a poem, 15th cent.); II. 84.
Knight-errantry in 17th cent.; II. 194.
Knighthood, list of fees payable on receiving the honour of, 1681–2; II. 68.
Knightley:
Sir Richard, a paper addressed to; II. 18.
Richard, letters of; II. 61, 64.
Knights:
names of, in various counties; I. 32.
privileges, due to; I. 32.
Knollys, Sir Francis, his advice touching defence to the realm; II. 43.
Knowles, Henry; II. 25.
Knox, John:
the Answer of Richard Bertye to the book of, 1558; II. 42.
Scotch letters of; II. 45, 183.
Knyveton, St. Lo., to Sir Chr. Hatton; I. 30.
Knyvett:
Sir Henry, instructions by Hen. VIII. to; II. 42.
Jane Lady, petition of the heir of; I. 50.
Königsberg, letters dated at, 17th cent.; I. 36.
Koningsmark, capture of; I. 44.
Kybbet, Thomas, a dirge by, addressed to Princess Elizabeth and Elector Frederic; I. 139.
Kyffin, Walkyn, letter to; II. 75.
Kyle, Dr., the late Catholic Bishop:
the collection of MSS. in his custody, at Preshome, Banffshire; I. 112.
report on the MSS. formerly in the custody of; I. 120.
Kynlos, Liber Sancte Marie de (14th cent.); I. 121.
Kyteler, Dame Alice, the reputed Kilkenny witch; I. 130.

L.

L. E. to ——; I. 26.
L. W. to ——; I. 26.
Labanoff, Prince, his collection of the letters of Mary Queen of Scotland; I. 120.
L'Abbé —— to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Labourers:
the statute of (copy); I. 99.
order touching the condition of, 1560; II. 18.
Lacon, Dorothy, letters of; II. 73.
Ladder of Perfection, The (a treatise, 15th cent.); II. 33.
La Grange, letter of; I. 25.
Lake, Sir Thomas, letters of; II. 53, 54.
Lambarde, William:
his Archeion, or the High Courts of Justice of England; I. 32; II. 43.
award by; II. 122.
(the Kentish antiquary), extracts by; II. 152.
Lambart, Lady; II. 232.
Lambert:
J., to S. Smith; I. 25.
John, Fellow of Queen's College, Cambridge (burnt at Smithfield, 1538); I. 73.
Nicholas, examination of, 1569; II. 41.
Lamphy, Thomas, letter of; II. 153.
Lampoons of town ladies; I. 17.
—— collection of (MS. 18th cent.); II. 180.
Lanark, Earl of:
Charles I.'s letter to the; I. 113.
William, letters of, 1642–8; II. 184.
Lancashire:
charters and deeds relating to; I. 50, 55.
families of, materials for pedigrees of; II. 93.
Lancaster:
Castle, constableship of; I. 20, 21.
Duchy of, Liber feodorum militum ducatus Lancastrie; I. 49.
—— extracts from records of the; I. 49.
—— extracts from the great register of the; II. 5.
—— account of all grants in the, (1702); I. 54.
Earl of, Henry 1st, his "Livre de Seynte Medicines; II. 145.
Duke of, pipers of the, 1348; I. 65.
House of, tract by Sir John Fortescue in behalf of the; II. 5. See Fortescue.
Lancaster Herald, 1688; I. 28.
Land:
measurements of; I. 65. See Mesurage.
measures of (in Saxon); I. 97.
Landi, L'Abbé, letter to; II. 190.
Landlords, custom that tenants should vote at the direction of II. 235.
Lando, Girolamo, Venetian ambassador, letters of, 1620; II. 57, 58.
Lands, names of persons holding (in the Hatton Collection); I. 32.
Lane:
F., to Lord Hatton and another; I. 25.
Sir George, letter of; II. 211.
R., to Lord and Chr. Hatton; I. 25.
Richard, to Lord, Lady, and Sir Chr. Hatton; I. 25.
Sir Robert, a paper addressed to; II. 18.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
William, to Sir Roger Norwich; I. 25.
Lanercost, monastery of:
list of founders of the; II. 124.
transcript of the chartulary of the; II. 125.
Lansborough, Lady, letters of; II. 232.
Langford, Sir Arthur, letters of; II. 232.
Langham:
John, to Lord Hatton et al.; I. 25.
Rokeby; I. 33.
Langhorne:
Letitia, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
R., to Lord and Chr. Hatton; I. 25, 30.
Richard, letters to; I. 25, 28.
Sarah, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Thomas, sen., to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Langrishe, —, letters of; I. 128.
Langside, defeat of Mary Queen of Scots at; I. 125.
Lanier, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Lansdowne:
Marquis of, the Shelburne papers belonging to the; II. viii.
Lord, letters of, 1676–86; I. 56.
Lanthony, Clement of, his Harmony of the Gospels, translated by Wiclif; I. 60.
Lantrow:
Joshua, to Lord Hatton; I. 25.
Martin, to Lord ——; I. 25.
Laoooon, seni representing the, 21 Hen. VIII.; II. 34.
Lapidary, the, or Book of Stones; I. 60.
La Plate, to M. Hatton; I. 25.

Digitized by Google

Lascelles :
family of, collections touching the ; II. 8.
Col., letters of ; II. 189, 190.
Mr., letters of ; II. 189.
Latham (co. Lanc.), journal of the siege of, 1643–4 ; I. 48.
Latimer :
barony of ; I. 31.
copies from MSS. at ; II. 1.
Latimer, William, to Richard Pace [temp. Hen. VIII.] ; I. 25.
Latin grammar and composition, treatises on, 15th cent. ; II. 66.
Laud, Archbishop :
the original documents of his visitation in 1634 ; II. ix.
specimen calendar of papers relating to the visitation of ; II. 106.
account of the trial of ; II. 143.
letter of, 1629 (when Bishop of London) ; II. 113.
letters touching ; II. 99.
petition of ; I. 9, 10. See Canterbury, Archbishop of.
Lauderdale :
Earl of, letters of the, 1646 ; II. 176.
—— letters of, temp. Car. I. ; I. 116 (bis).
—— letters to, 1660–1 ; I. 55.
—— letters of, 1661–75 ; II. 203.
—— letter to, 1667 ; I. 55.
Earl and Duke of, John, letter of ; I. 55.
Duke of, papers in the custody of, 1670 ; II. 205.
—— letters of the, 1676 ; I. 56.
—— a Satire on the, by the Earl of Aboyne ; II. 180.
Lauderdale correspondence, transcript of the, from the originals in the British Museum (7 vols.) ; I. 121.
Laurence, Dr., letters of ; II. 192. See Lawrence.
Lausanne, letters dated at, 18th cent. ; I. 41 (ter).
Lavater, letters of, with his portrait ; II. 19.
Lavington, Lord, letters of, 1792 ; II. 192.
Law :
the manner of proceeding and drawing out forms at ; I. 31.
a French treatise on ; I. 31.
"Axiomata legum Angliæ ;" I. 48.
case, arguments in a [17th cent.] ; II. 44.
cases, a digest of, 17th cent. ; II. 46.
—— abstracts of, 16th cent. ; ib.
—— reports of, 22–43 Eliz. ; ib.
—— memoranda of (18th cent.) ; II. 192.
manuscripts, in the Advocates' Library ; I. 125.
papers, collected by Nathaniel Eyre ; I. 92.
—— at Newbattle ; I. 116.
—— in the Shrewsbury Collection ; I. 50.
proceedings, an immense mass of, 17th cent. ; II. 67.
—— collection of, 1685–1702 ; II. 79.
suit, a volume of proceedings in a, 16th cent. ; II. 64, 65.
suits, proceedings in, at Hythe ; II. 92. suits, Scotch, 17th cent. ; II. 194.
tract, a short (early) ; II. 80.
See Legal affairs, &c.
Lawe, T. to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
Lawrence, Thomas, to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
See Laurence.
Laws, ancient, a discourse on ; I. 31.
Lawson, Sir Wilfrid, his register of the proceedings of the Border Commissioners, 1605 ; II. 181.
Lawyer's commonplace book, a, 16th and 17th cent. ; II. 46.
Lawyers :
fees of, 17th cent. ; II. 192.
London, 1727 ; II. 235.
Irish ; II. 235. See Catholic (Roman) lawyers.
Layton, William, to George Jeffreys ; I. 25.
Leak, Isaac ; II. 235.
Leake, Andrew, to Lord —— ; I. 25.
Lease books :
of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge ; I. 64. of Queen's College, Cambridge ; I. 73. of St. John's College, Cambridge ; I. 74. of Trinity College, Cambridge ; I. 86. of Corpus Christi College, Oxford ; II. 126.
Leases :
at Abingdon ; I. 98.
in the MS. Chartulary of Bristol ; I. 97.
registers of, at Cambridge ; I. 100.
in the Hatton Collection ; I. 33, 34.
copies of, at Kilkenny ; I. 150.
at Little Malvern Court, II. 72.
at Newbattle ; I. 116.
in the Ledger Books of the Chapter at Norwich ; I. 89.
counterparts of, at Nottingham ; I. 105.
copies of, in Lord de Tabley's collection ; I. 46.
by the Treasurer of St. Paul's ; II. 89.
See Crown lands.
Leathes, Mr., letters of ; II. 188, 189.
Le Bas, to Lord ——; I. 25.
Le Blanc, to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
Le Breton, Edouard, to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
Lee :
family of, charters and genealogy of the ; I. 47.
—— letters and papers of the ; II. 31.
Lee—cont.
Edward, Archbishop of York, oath of, repudiating the Papal supremacy ; II. 135.
Francis, D.D., pardon to, 1 Car. I. ; I. 33.
John, to ——; I. 25.
L., letter of ; II. 48.
Robert, letters of ; I. 25, 30.
Thomas, his "Discovery and Recovery of Ireland" ; II. 81, 46.
William, to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
Leeches, Jere., to —— ; I. 25.
Leede, Anne, to —— ; I. 25.
Leeds, Duke of ; 18.
state of the case between the Earl of Rochester and the, 1702 ; I. 28.
Leet-Books, at Coventry ; I. 100, 101.
Leeward Islands, the ; I. 20.
papers connected with the ; II. 212.
Lefroy, T. E. P., Esq. :
catalogue of the documents of ; I. ix.
report on the papers of ; I. 56.
Legal :
affairs ; I. 22.
——, books and papers relating to ; I. 31.
forms, copies of (15th cent.) ; II. 80. matters, a MS. relating to (containing various tracts), 16th and 17th cent. ; II. 89, 90.
papers, in the Hatton collection ; I. 30, 33, 34.
proceedings, in a Mayor's court, bundle of ; II. 92.
Legenda Sanctorum (Aberdeen University) ; II. 200.
Legends, in the Advocates' Library ; I. 125.
Legge :
G., to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
George, Captain, a journal by, 1673 ; II. 10.
J., letter of ; I. 25.
John, to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
W. (?), to Lord Hatton ; I. 30.
William, Colonel, letters to ; II. 9, 10.
—— letter of ; II. 9.
—— documents relating to ; ib.
—— petition by ; II. 12.
—— letter touching ; II. 32.
Leghorn. See Trumbull, Sir W.
Le Hardy :
Jeanne, to Lord Hatton ; I. 25.
Philip, to Lord ——; I. 25.
Leicester :
county of, Peck's collections for ; I. 11.
—— deeds relating to places in the ; I. 12.
—— materials for family and topographical history of the ; II. 93.
—— pedigrees of families in the ; II. 79.
Countess of, Lettice, letters implicating her in the rebellion of her son, the Earl of Essex ; I. 53.
Earl of, Robert Dudley, authority given to, in the Low Countries ; I. 151.
—— copy of his resignation of the government of the Low Countries, 1587 ; II. 45.
—— answer to his requests ; ib.
—— an appointment by, 29 Eliz. ; I. 33.
—— causes why he thought himself not well dealt withal by the Lord Buckhurst ; II. 45.
—— proceedings between them ; ib.
—— at Abingdon, 1570–87, presents to ; II. 149, 150.
—— players of ; ib.
—— bearward of ; II. 150.
—— genealogy of, 16th cent. ; II. 6.
—— law papers between him and others, 1586 ; II. 88.
—— letters of ; I. 100 ; II. 2, 43.
—— letters from and to, 1564–85 ; II. 8.
—— letters to, 1571 ; I. 60 ; II. 41, 44, 45, 77.
—— —— 1575–92 ; II. 82.
—— [Robert Sydney] a letter concerning the proceedings of him and his friends, 1630 ; II. 2.
Leicester of Tabley, evidences belonging to ; I. 46.
Leicester's Commonwealth, a tract, 17th cent. ; II. 31.
—— a contemporaneous copy of ; I. 90.
Leigh, Lord :
MSS. of ; I. xi. ; II. xlii.
—— sent to the Public Record Office ; I. viii.
report on the MSS. of ; II. 49.
Leigh :
Mr., of Adlington, extract from a book of ; I. 46.
Sir Thomas, Mayor of London, letter of ; I. 100.
family of, correspondence of the ; II. 73.
Leighton :
Sir Baldwin, Bart., of Loton Park, papers of the late ; II. xi.
—— report on the MSS. of ; II. 64.
Ellis, signature of ; II. 212.
Robert, the Rev. (afterwards Archbishop of Glasgow), letters of ; I. 116 (bis).
Leinster :
Duke of, letters of ; I. 137, 138.
Kings of, Irish poem on ; II. 224.
Leipsig, letters dated at, 17th cent. ; I. 35. 18th cent. ; I. 41.

Digitized by Google

Leith, James Forbes, Esq., of Whitehaugh :
MSS. of ; I. 112 ; II. xix.
report on the MSS. of ; II. 198.
Leitrim, county of :
commission for arrest of robbers in the ; II. 214.
powers to grant protections in the, 1690 ; II. 217.
Leland, Thomas, letters of ; I. 137.
"Leland Collect.," four volumes so endorsed ; I. 31.
Leland's Commentaries, transcript of ; II. 104. See Leylonde.
Le Marchant :
—, to Lord Hatton ; I. 26.
Eleanar, to Lord Hatton ; I. 26.
Mr. ; I. 18.
W., to Lord Hatton ; I. 26.
Le Mesurier :
General, letters of ; II. 29.
J. (?), to Lord Hatton ; I. 26.
John, to Lord —— ; I. 26.
Nicholas, to Lord Hatton ; I. 26.
Le Moyne to —— ; I. 26.
Lempriere, Philip, letter of ; II. 72.
Le Neve :
Peter, excerpta by ; II. 125.
—— reports by, on Public Records ; ib.
W. (Clarencieux), to Sir Chr. Hatton ; I. 26.
Lenihan, Maurice, Esq., of Limerick, report on the MSS. of ; I. 131.
Lennox :
Earl of, letters of the (? date) ; II. 183.
—— Regent, letter of the, 1570 ; II. 184.
Earls of, muniments of the ; II. 165.
Duke of, letter to the, 1620 ; II. 38.
and Richmond, Duke of, James, letter of ; II. 185.
Lent :
bond against eating flesh in, 1637 ; II. 92.
petition for an indulgence to eat flesh in ; I. 77.
proclamation for the keeping of, 1597 ; I. 105.
recognisances by innholders and victuallers not to sell or dress flesh meat in ; I. 101, 110.
returns touching the eating of flesh in, 1572–8 ; II. 150.
restraint of play-acting in, by Lord Coke ; I. 100.
Lenthall, Speaker, letter to ; II. 20.
Lenton (Notts) :
fair of ; I. 105, 106.
priory of, documents concerning the ; I. 106.
Leo X., Pope, letters to ; II. 34.
Leochaus, David, his "Bellonæ Tarantantara ad Scotos in Armis ;" I. 114.
Leoni :
Gio. Batt., his account of the island of Malta ; II. 45.
James, compendious directions for builders by ; II. 7.
Leontius Episcopus. See Alexandrini.
Lerma, Duke of :
letter of the, 1614 ; II. 51.
letter to the, 1614 ; II. 52.
Lesieur, Sir Stephen, letter of ; II. 52.
Leslie (co. Fife), town of, Register of baptisms and marriages in the ; II. 143.
Leslie, or Lesley :
Bishop, his account of his proceedings as Queen Mary's ambassador ; I. 123.
—— letter of ; II. 202.
Charles, letter to the Pretender ; I. 118.
——, the Rev., his Answer to Archbishop King's "State of the Protestants of Ireland ;" II. 232, 236.
—— a letter touching ; II. 234, 245.
David, General, letters of ; I. 122 ; II. 195.
James, letters of ; II. 197.
John, his History of Scotland ; II. 43.
——, Bishop of Ross, his "Tranquillitatis animi preservatio, &c. ad D. Mariam Scotorum Reginam ;" II. 46.
——, Bishop of the Isles, afterwards of Raphoe, commission and letters of ; II. 197.
Dr. John, death of ; II. 233.
Lodowick, letter of ; II. 185.
L'Estrange :
Sir R., a licence for printing by ; I. 46.
Roger, I. 31.
L'Estrange's Seneca's Morals ; II. 70.
Lethieullier, Chr., to Lord Hatton ; I. 26.
Letter-book, a, 14th cent. (of Popes, Kings, Bishops, &c.) ; II. 85.
Letter-books :
temp. Eliz. ; I. 31.
1702–4 ; I. 31.
at Hamilton Palace ; I. 113.
Letters :
1589–98 ; I. 89.
14th, 15th, 16th, and 17th cent. ; I. 100.
enrolment of, 1307, at Westminster Abbey ; I. 95.
autograph, of celebrated persons ; I. 30.
Latin, from Emperors, Kings, and Popes ; II. 7.
royal, at Queen's College, Oxford ; II. 138.
—— 16th and 17th cent. ; I. 116.
transcripts of, 1596, 1597, and 1609 ; I. 74.
original, temp. Eliz. et Jac. I. ; I. 74. original, 16th and 17th cent. ; I. 67, 68, 102, 124 ; II. 92.
Letters—cont.
(1,700), from 1672–1689 ; I. 56.
collections of, 17th and 18th cent. ; I. 18, 41, 55, 109 (et alibi passim).
Letters-patent, at Westminster Abbey ; I. 96.
Levant, papers concerning merchants trading to the ; II. 44.
Levant Seas, printed papers relating to the trade to the, 1744 II. 2.
Leveneur, Count. See Tillieres.
Leveson, R., letter of ; II. 48.
Levinge, Sir Richard, Attorney-General of Ireland, &c., letters of ; II. 232, 234, 238.
Levingston, James, to Mr. Mortimer ; I. 30.
— See Livingston.
Levinus, "the Duke of Brandenburg's painter ;" I. 116.
Lewis :
Erasmus, to Mr. Ellis ; I. 37.
Fr. David (executed), speech of ; II. 73.
J., to Lord Hatton ; I. 26.
John, of Lynwern, a long work by, on ancient British History, dedicated to James I. ; II. 104.
Manuel, confession of, 1593 ; I. 60.
Lewisburgh ; I. 25.
Lewknor, Sir R., one of the Council in the Marches of Wales [1600] ; I. 47.
Lexington, Lord, to Lord —— ; I. 26.
Ley, Chief Justice, letter of ; II. 60.
Leycester, Sir Peter :
papers of ; I. 46–50.
account of his collections ; I. 46–48.
Leyden, expenses of students at, 17th cent. ; I. 116.
Leyfield, Dr., letter to ; II. 13.
Leylonde, John, a Latin grammar by ; II. xi. 66.
See Leland.
Leys, barony of, court book of the ; II. 197.
"Libels," an Act to compel spiritual persons to grant copies of ; II. 43.
Liber Hosebondrie [by Rob. Grosteste, Bishop of Lincoln], copy of the ; I. 75.
Liber Regis (in the Hatton Collection) ; I. 31.
Libraries, Bishops', 18th cent. ; II. 233, 234.
Licences :
for selling wines and tobacco ; I. 34.
to eat flesh at times forbidden ; I. 38, 34.
Liehfield :
Countess of, letters to the, from her father, Charles II., and from James, Duke of York ; II. 32.
Earl of, letters to the ; II. 32.
Liehfield and Coventry, Bishop of :
letter of the [temp. Jac. I.] ; I. 67.
Thomas Morton, letters of ; I. 100.
John Hacket, letters of ; I. 100.
Lidgate, John. See Lydgate.
Lieutenants, instructions for [16th cent.] ; II. 96.
Ligonier, Sir John, letter to ; II. 30.
Lillecherche (Kent), monastery of, deeds relating to the ; I. 74, 77.
Limerick :
Corporation of, records of the ; I. xiii.
—— report on the records of the ; I. 131.
statutes of the provincial Council at, 1453 ; II. 156.
list of officers slain and wounded before [1690 ?] ; II. 88.
articles of, infringement on the, 1697 ; II. 238.
certificate by the Commissioners for determining claims to the articles of, 1699 ; II. 227.
riots in, 1710 ; II. 234.
Limerick, Lord ; II. 234.
letters of, 1710 ; II. 239, 234.
Linacre's tomb in St. Paul's, licence for removal of ; II. 118.
Lincluden, House of, Register of the ; I. 111.
Lincoln :
county of ; II. 138.
—— rebellion of the commons in the, temp. Hen. VIII. ; II. 17.
—— deeds relating to places in the ; I. 12.
—— families of the ; II. 24.
—— surveys of land in the ; I. 31.
sheriff of, letter of the, temp. Hen. III. ; I. 95.
Archdeacon of, letter of Henry VIII. to the ; II. 40.
Bishop of, St. Hugh, charter of ; I. ix., 14.
—— —— miracles of ; I. 52. See St. Hugh of Lincoln.
—— letters of the [temp. Hen. VI.?] ; I. 95.
—— John (Williams?) to Mr. Tittley (undated) ; I. 26.
—— warrant for respite of homage to the, 1621 ; II. 60. See Williams, Lord Keeper.
—— Dr. Fuller, letter to, 1674 ; II. 137.
—— Thomas Barlow, to Lord Hatton, 1687 ; I. 26.
—— Dr. Gibson, letter of ; II. 137.
Bishops of, letters of [temp. Jac. I.] et Car. I. ; I. 67, 68.
Lindenbrog, F., letter of ; II. 52.
Lindisfarnensis, De exordio et statu ecclesiæ cathedralis (extracts from a book so entitled) ; II. 5.
Lindors, charters relating to ; II. 186.
Lindsay :
Lord, report on the MSS. of, in preparation ; I. 112.
Earl of, letters of the, 1640 sq. ; II. 9

Digitized by Google

Lindsay—cont.
John, of Menmuir, Secretary of State under James VI., his collection of State papers; I. 124.
Sir John of, of Thuriston; II. 167.
Sir Walter, Lord of St. John's and Preceptor of Torphichen; II. 196.
See Lyndesay.
Lindsays, charters of the; II. 181.
Liner, Ralph, petition of, to Queen Elizabeth; II. 155.
Ling, Nicholas, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Linlithgow:
search for arms in; I. 44.
Earl of, Alexander, letters of, 1627–34; II. 185.
Linton, convent of; I. 70.
Linstruhin, vicar and parishioners of; II. 187.
Lionne, M. de, letters to; II. 15.
Lipsius, Justus, six Books on Politics by; II. 202.
Lisbon:
English College at, history of the; I. 22.
Irish College of Friars Preachers at; II. 147.
a ship of, captured; I. 17.
letters dated at; II. 16.
Lisieux, Bishop of, Arnoul, charter of; I. ix., 14.
Liskeard, papers relating to; II. 23.
Lisle:
Viscount, inventory of the effects of; II. xv.
—— and Earl of Warwick, John, inventory of his effects, 1545–50; II. 101, 102.
Viscountess, Act of Parliament confirming her agreement with Lord and Lady Berkeley; II. 6.
R., to Sir Chr. Hatton; I. 26.
Lismore, letter dated at; II. 212.
Lister:
Katharine, to Sir Chr. Hatton and Elizabeth Bodvill; I. 26.
Martin, of Trinity College, Oxford; II. 142.
Litchfield, William, to ——; I. 26.
Literary:
collectanea; II. 80.
men, presents of the town of Aberdeen to; I. 122.
persons, letters of, 18th cent.; II. 83.
subjects, letters on, 18th cent.; II. 12.
Littell, Thomas, letter from (at Brougham Castle); II. 18.
Littleton:
Sir Edward, Lord Keeper, speeches of, in Parliament; I 48, 62, 63.
—— letter to; II. 48.
Dr. J., petition to the House of Commons against; I. 29.
Humphrey, warrant for the execution of, 1606; I. 53.
See Lyttelton.
Liturgical MSS., 15th cent.; I. 45, 92.
Liturgy:
the original Book of; I. 3. See Common Prayer, Book of.
a paper concerning the; I. 63.
the English, questions as to, 18th cent.; II. 204, 205.
ancient, of the Church of Jerusalem; II. 205.
Liveries:
warrants for general and special; I. 34.
copies of; I. 46.
Liveries, badges, or cognizances, an order by Henry VII. touching; I. 107.
Liverpool:
documents relating to the siege of, 1644; I. 55.
letters dated at, 1746; II. 81.
—— 1749; II. 68.
Castle, constableship of; I. 20, 21.
Livery, a special; I. 33.
Livings, Chancellor's, petitions for; I. 34.
Livingston, Lord, John, 1585; II. 168.
Livingstone, Sir Thomas, Commander of the Forces in Scotland, 1689; II. 178.
See Levingstone.
Llandaff, Bishop of, letter of the, 1619; II. 56.
Llewellin, David, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Lloyd:
Humphrey, his collection for the history of Wales; II. 44.
Sir Nathaniel, Master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, letter of; II. 122.
Owen, letters of; II. 232.
Richard, to Lord ——; I. 26.
Thomas, letter of; II. 68.
Trevor, letter of; I. 26.
William, Bishop, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 26.
—— Bishop of Worcester, letters of; II. 232. See Norwich; Peterborough; St. Asaph.
Llwellyn, Martin, letter of; I. 26.
Loan:
a, to Henry VII., by the city of Wells; I. 107.
sign manual regarding a, 5 Eliz.; I. 51.
the (temp. Car. I.?); I. 60.
printed form of application for a, by Charles I.; II. 99.
Loans, temp. Guil. III.; II. 79.
Lobkowitz, Prince, letters of; II. 23.
Lochindorb, castle of, warrant for razing the; II. 193.
Lochleven:
the "place" of; II. 183.
warrant for committing Mary Queen of Scots to; II. 183.
Lochleven—cont.
letters of Mary Queen of Scots from; I. 124, 125.
House of, papers of the; II. 183.
Lockhart:
Lord, ambassador in France, letter to, 1675; II. 86.
George, of Carnwath, letters of; I. 117, 118.
Sir William, ambassador at Paris, letters of, 1678; I. 56.
Locksley, John, Fellow of Queen's Hall, Oxford, computi of, 14th cent.; II. 140, 141.
Loftus:
Viscount, Adam, Chancellor of Ireland, commissions to and by; II. 156, 157.
Dudley, papers in the handwriting of; II. 158.
Logarithmetical trigonometry (1621); II. 201.
Logicus, Cursus, scriptus T. Ogilvie dictante Geo. Skene, 1702; II. 200.
Londinium Antiquum, being an historical collection touching London and Westminster, 1725; I. xi., 90.
London, City of:
copies of charters to the, with other papers; II. 41.
arguments on the quo warranto against the, 1682; II. 6.
proceedings in the case of quo warranto against the, 1682; II. 46.
action by the King against the [1683]; II. 3.
a MS. containing various documents connected with the; II. 68, 69. documents relating to the; II. 138.
London:
alderman of, displaced by James II.; I. 22.
Bishopsgate, prioress of St. Helen's, agreement by the; I. 14.
Bridge, grant of lands for the support of; II. 68.
citizens of, letter from the Great Council at York to the, 1640; I. 63.
Common Council of, orders of the; II. 2.
Company of Fishmongers, the statutes and other documents of the; II. 68, 69.
liberties of, a MS. on the; II. 46.
Mayors and Sheriffs of, "Armorial" of the; II. 5.
municipal laws of, a collection touching the; II. 40.
Muscovy merchants of; I. 54.
parishes of, subsidy paid by the, 1643–4; I. 73.
port of St. Katharine, near the Tower of; II. 22.
Recorder of, his speech to James I.; I. 54, 62.
—— his speech to Queen Anne; I. 62.
St. Bennet's Grace Church, a law case concerning; II. 89.
St. Leonard's, Foster Lane, petition of the parishioners of; I. 9; Archbishop Laud's reply; I. 10.
subsidies and petty customs of; I. 46.
Tower of, memorial of things to be done in the, 1572; II. 93. See Tower of London.
notices of journeys to, temp. Ric. II.; II. 34.
account of expenditure on a visit to, 1455; I. 67.
two surveys of musters in, 1588 and 1599; II. 46.
orders to be observed in, in time of infection, temp. Eliz.?; II. 40.
letter touching the institution of an Academy in (circ. 1630); II. 4.
memoranda of daily transactions in, 1644–5; II. 217.
the Plague and Fire of, reminiscences of the; II. 147.
insurrections in, 1665 and 1692, letters touching; II. 88.
descriptions of journeys to, 17th cent.; I. 116.
diaries kept in, 1714–26; II. 25.
letters dated at, 16th cent.; II. 17, 20, 21, 50.
—— 17th cent.; I. 16, 52, 56; II. 11, 15, 16, 17, 21, 22, 23, 32, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 62, 64, 73, 88, 99, 185, 194, 211, 212, 216, 217.
—— 18th cent.; I. 41, 51, 117, 118; II. 25, 27, 28, 29, 189, 190, 191, 217, 234.
London, Bishop of:
letter of the, 1622; II. 60.
Humphrey Henchman, letter of, 1674; II. 114.
proceedings of the Lords Commissioners against the, 1686; II. 8.
Henry Compton, letter to, 1703; I. 15.
—— letter to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
—— letters of; II. 232. See Gibson, Juxon, Ridley, Robinson, Sandys, Stokesley, Tonstall, Williams.
London, bishopric of:
letters patent touching the, 4 Edw. VI.; I. 26.
a MS. relating to its revenues, &c.; II. 89.
Table of officials' fees in the; II. 4.
London Company or Society, the, in Ireland; II. 232, 233, 234.
Londonderry, depositions relating to, 1691; II. 235.
Longe, Mr.; I. 21.
Longford, county of:
commission for arrest of robbers in the; II. 211.
powers to grant protections in, 1691; II. 217.
Longford, Lord, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Longitude, proposed reward for discovery of, 1714; II. 234.
Longland, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Longueville:
Duke of, François d'Orleans, letters to his mother, Mary of Guise; I. 124.
De, —, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
H., to Mr. Stretehay; I. 26.
W., to Lord Hatton et al.; I. 26.

Digitized by Google

Longueville—cont.
William, letters to; I. 17, 25.
—— to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Loo, letters dated at, 17th cent.; I. 35.
Lopez, Dr.:
physician to Queen Elizabeth's household; I. 60.
account of the treasons of; II. 42.
Lords, House of:
the Collection in the, examined by three of the Commissioners; I. xi.
report on historical documents in the; I. 1.
two officers engaged by Sir J. G. Shaw Lefevre to arrange the papers in the; II. ix.
the Treasury willing to devote an annual sum for arranging and calendaring those papers; ib.
reports of the two officers above mentioned; ib.
proceedings in the, on the Occasional Conformity Bill, 1703; I. 52.
accounts of debates in the, 1711 and after; I. 118.
remembrances for order and decency to be kept in the, brought down to 1767; II. 7.
Journals of the, documents illustrating the; I. 1.
—— 1677–8 (copy); I. 51.
—— 1685–6 (copy); II. 5.
—— index to the; II. 6.
Lord's Day, a paper touching the King's Declaration for recreation on the; 1633; II. 131.
Lorges, De, letters of; I. 124.
Lorn, Lord; II. 213, 214.
Lorraine:
Cardinal of, letters from Mary Queen of Scots to the; I. 130.
Duchess of, letter from James I. to the; II. 55.
Duke of; I. 18.
—— letters from and to the, 1606–7; II. 51.
—— to Queen Anne; I. 49.
House of, letters from the, to Mary of Guise; I. 124.
Lothian:
Marquis of, his collection at Blickling Hall, Norfolk; I. x.
—— his muniments at Newbattle; I. xii.
—— report on his MSS. at Blickling Hall; I. 14.
—— report on his MSS. at Newbattle; I. 116.
Earl of, letters of the; I. 116.
—— letter of the, 1640; II. 178.
Earls, Marquises, and Countesses of, papers of the; I. 116.
East, sheriffdom of; II. 176.
Lottery, accounts of the paymaster of the, 1710–13; I. 54.
Loudoun, Earl of:
John, Chancellor of Scotland, letters of, 1627–48; II. 183.
—— letters of, 1646–8; II. 176.
letters from Charles II. to the; I. 116.
letters of the, 1733 seq.; II. 190, 191.
Loughborough, Lord, Chancellor, correspondence and papers of; II. 192.
Louis XIII., King of France:
letters to; II. 51.
letters of; II. 35, 61.
Louis XIV., King of France:
letter from, to the Princess Royal of Orange; I. 22.
—— to the Duke of Berwick; II. 32.
—— to the Parliament of Scotland; II. 127.
Louis XVI., King of France, copy of the will of; II. 19.
Louth, William, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Louvain:
notes on lectures at; I. 125.
Irish Dominicans at; II. 142.
school of Theology at; II. 156.
Lovat, Lord Simon:
letters of, 1714–1717; II. 178. 1718; II. 24. 1733; I. 118. 1743; I. 115.
trial of; I. 92.
Lovell, Sala, to Chr. Hatton; I. 26.
Lover, Robert, letter of; II. 115.
Loving:
John, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Richard, to ——; I. 26.
Low Countries, the:
documents relating to the early trade of Scotland with; I. 121.
English ambassadors to (instructions, temp. Eliz.); II. 97.
affairs of, temp. Eliz.; I. 54.
letter on the affairs of, 1587; II. 41. papers relating to; temp. Eliz.; II. 44 (bis), 45, 151, 152.
—— 16th cent.; I. 57.
papers relating to English intervention in, 16th cent.; II. 39, 40.
United Provinces of, propositions of their ambassadors [to James I.]; I. 63.
Travels through, 1674, by T. Dineley; I. 54.
allowances to [English] troops in, 1694; II. 222. necessity of consolidating England and, proved in "Bretanno-Belgicus," by Thos. Powell; I. 63.
See Flanders; Netherlands; United Provinces.
Low Country Genealogies; II. 42.
Lowther:
John, letter of; II. 17.
Thomas, letter of; II. 17.
Loyde, John F., to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Lucas:
Lady, letters of; II. 192.
Lord; I. 16.
Charles, letters of; I. 127.
Lucie, Dr.; II. 113.
Ludgate, John. See Lydgate.
Ludlow, Colonel, proclamation for arrest of; II. 92.
Luffield, priory of, the register-book of the; I. 95.
Luke, Oliver, letters of; I. 43.
Lumley, Lord, siege of Carlisle by, 1685; I. 24.
Lumlores, Lord Patrick, letters of, 1627–31; II. 185.
Lundyne, Wm.; II. 184.
Lunisburg, account of the taking of, 1745; II. 68.
Lupsetus, Thomas, to Richard Pace [temp. Hen. VIII.]; I. 26.
Lupton, Thomas, letter of; II. 40.
Luques, M. de, letter of; II. 50.
Lurcho, monastery of, Tipperary; II. 223.
Luterel, Andrew, of Nottingham, and Johanna his wife; I. 106.
Luthemaker, Matthew, "a Dutch colonel," his agreement to furnish Almain troops [to Edward VI. ?]; II. 26.
Luther, works of, "in Dutch;" II. 138.
Lutheranos, Monitorium perhorrendi anathematis contra; II. 209.
Lutherans and Calvinists, papers respecting J. Dury's mission to the Continent for a reconciliation between the, 1630–9; II. ix.
Luttrell:
Mr., his papers at Dunster Castle; I. x.
—— report on his MSS. at Dunster Castle; I. 56.
Colonel; II. 233.
John, letters of; I. 67.
Luxembourg, House of:
Genealogy of the, by Roland Bournel; II. 5.
arms of the; II. 6.
Lydd, bailiff and jurats of, letter of the; II. 92.
Lydgate, John, monk of Bury St. Edmund's:
translation by, of Boccaccio's Fall of Princes; I. 11.
his version of Columna's "Destruction of Troy;" I. 60.
his translation of Julius Cæsar, 1400; II. 42.
mention of a "fabula" by; II. 80.
Lyndon, Judge, family of, in Ireland; II. 234.
Lyndesay, Sir David, of the Mount, the Lord Lyon, his Heraldic MSS.; I. 123. See Lindsay.
Lyndesay's Minor Poems, a scarce edition of, printed by the Early English Text Society; II. ix.
Lyndewood, Wm., Bishop of St. David's, his collection of the Constitutions of the province of Canterbury; II. 146.
Lynn:
corporation of; I. 23.
prior of, accounts of the; I. 89.
Lyon:
Sir John, Chamberlain of Scotland, charter to; II. 185.
Sir Patrick, of Carse, collections by; I. 125.
Thomas, Master of Glammis, letters of; II. 184.
Lyons, Dr. Robert D., of Dublin:
correspondence of Archbishop King belonging to; I. xiii.; II. xxi.
report on Archbishop King's papers submitted by; II. 231–269.
Lytcott, Sir John, letters of; I. 56, 67.
Lyttelton:
Lord, MSS. of; II. xi.
—— report on the MSS. of, at Hagley, co. Worcester; II. 36.
—— George, treatises, poems, and correspondence of; II. 37, 38.
—— Thomas, papers touching the death of, with a relation of the appearance of his ghost, 1779; II. 37.
family of, correspondence and papers of the; II. 36.
C., to Chr. Hatton; I. 26.
—, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Sir Charles, letters to; I. 22, 25.
E., to ——; I. 26.
G., to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Henry, to Chr. Hatton; I. 26.
K., to Chr. Hatton; I. 26. See Littleton.

M.

M. —— to Lord ——; I. 26.
M. —— to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
M., George, to Mr. Willis; I. 30.
M. L. —— to Lord ——; I. 26.
Macartney, Lord (at Madras,) letter to, 1784; II. 30.
Macarty:
—, letter to; I. 30.
Charles, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
MacCarthys, family of, Irish poems relating to the; II. 224.

Digitized by Google

Macclesfield ; II. 69.
account of ; II. 81.
documents relating to ; ib.
forest of, documents regarding the ; II. 81.
grammar school ; I. 46.
school, grant to ; II. 81.
Macclesfield, Earl of :
MSS. of the, sent to the Public Record Office ; I. viii.
copies of his papers to be made, and placed in the Public Record Office ; I. ix.
report on the papers of the ; I. 84.
continuation of the calendar of the letters of the ; II. ix.
Macdonald, memorial touching the chieftainship of the name of; II. 205.
McDonall, Jo., of Castle McDonall, letters of; II. 190.
Macdowal, Andrew, receipts by ; I. 26.
Macfarlane of Macfarlane, transcripts by ; I. 123, 125.
MacFarroll, John ; II. 217.
Maelur, Saint, one of the followers of St. Columba ; I. 121.
Machel, T., MSS. of ; II. 124, 125.
Macintoshes, chief of the ; II. 194.
Mackay, Major, letters of ; II. 179. See Makky.
Mackenzie :
Sir George, collections by ; I. 125.
—— his genealogies of the families of Scotland ; II. 201.
Murdoch, Bishop of Moray and Orkney, memoir of ; II. 204.
Robert, to Lord —— ; I. 26.
Mackeson, H., B., Esq., of Hythe, co. Kent : collection of ; II. xi.
report on the MSS. of ; II. 91.
Mackuan, Laird of, letter of ; II. 185.
Maclaurin's correspondence, papers, and works ; II. 201.
Macleod of Macleod, MSS. of, to be inspected ; I. 112.
McPherson, Sir John, letters of ; II. 192.
Macrell, Dr. Matthew, abbot of Barlings, Lincoln ; I. 73.
Mac Samhradhain, sept of, Irish poems, &c. relating to the ; II. 223.
Madgburg, papers relating to an intended assembly at, temp. Eliz. ; II. 44.
Madox, Thomas, excerpts by ; II. 125.
Madrid :
English ambassador at, letter of the, 1665 ; I. 54.
letters dated at, 17th cent. ; I. 57 ; II. 16, 51, 59, 78.
—— 18th cent. ; II. 188, 189, 190.
Magauran. See Mac Samhradhain.
Magic, Natural, aphorisms containing the whole body of ; I. 32.
Magna Charta :
a book relating to ; I. 92.
expositiones vocabulorum in ; I. 88.
expositions of, by A. de Swerford ; I. 88. collection of statutes beginning with ; II. 105.
a roll entitled, in the Hatton Collection ; I. 33.
Magnon, M., French agent in Russia, correspondence of ; II. 212.
Magrath, Thomas ; II. 197.
Maguires, family of, Irish poems relating to the ; II. 224.
Mahomet, Life of, the conquest of Spain, and the ruin of the Saracen empire ; II. 85.
Mahon, Isle of :
account of a naval engagement with the French off the, 1756 ; II. 37.
list of offices in the ; II. 4.
Maine, Due du ; II. 30.
Maintenon, Madame de :
letters to ; II. 32.
letter of ; II. 63.
Mainwaring :
family of, genealogy and arms of the ; I. 49.
Sir Thomas, his dispute with Sir P. Leycester ; I. 49. See Manwayring.
Maister, William, Dr., letter from ; II. 153.
Maitland :
Lord, his translation of three books of Virgil's Æneid into English verse, 1691 ; II. 202.
James, Captain, commission to ; II. 176.
William, of Leithingtonn, letter of, 1564 ; II. 184.
—— Secretary of State for Scotland, papers of ; I. 55 (bis).
William, the younger, of Ledinton, secretary to Mary Queen of Scots, obligation by ; II. 191.
Major :
Mary, to Lord Hatton and another ; I. 26.
Peter, to Lord Hatton ; I. 26.
Makgill, Sir Ja., letters of ; II. 191.
Makky, Sir Donald, Colonel, letter of ; II. 195.
Malahide (Mullaghyde), lordship of, grant of the, to Thos. Talbot ; I. 128.
Malcolm IV., King of Scotland and Earl of Huntingdon : grants by, to the nuns of Grantebrigge (Cambridge) ; II. 119.
his pedigree ; ib.
Mallet, David, letters of ; II. 12.
Malmesbury, Lord, letters of, 1793–4 ; I. 42.
Malone, Edmund, letters of ; I. 127.
Malplaquet, battle of, papers relating to the ; II. 25.
Malt tax, the ; I. 23.
Malta ; II. 196.
observations on (18th cent.) ; I. 127.
history of the wars of, by Cæsius Secundus ; II. 31.
an Italian account of, by G. B. Leoni ; II. 45.
Maltsters, prohibited from malting, on account of the scarcity of corn, 1590 and 1596 ; I. 103.
Malvern Court (Little), report on Mr. C. M. Berington's MSS. at ; II. 72.
Malvern, Little, monastery of, charters and other documents of the ; II. 72, 73.
Man, Isle of :
relation of its surrender [1651] ; II. 13.
Lord of, the Earl of Salisbury, charter by ; II. 23.
contest respecting episcopal jurisdiction in ; II. 235.
Manby, Mr., Archbp. King's Answer to ; II. 232, 240.
Manchester :
Chetham Library, report on a MS. in the ; II. 156.
Duke of, papers of the ; I. x.
—— report on his MSS. in Kimbolton Castle ; I. 12.
Countess of, Anne, to Lord and Lady Hatton (21 letters, undated) ; I. 26.
Earl of, letter to the, 1635 ; I. 26.
—— Charles I.'s letter to the ; I. 13, 43.
—— Edward Montague, mandate of, 1660 ; I. 57.
—— —— orders by, 1660 ; II. 116.
—— R., to Lord Hatton, 1679–81 ; I. 26.
Lord, his death at Montpelier, 1683 ; I. 23.
Duke of, letters of the, 1686–7 ; I. 56.
—— his son ; I. 19.
Earl of, C., to Lords Hatton and Nottingham, 1701–3 ; I. 26.
—— his correspondence with John Methuen, 1702–4 ; I. 26.
Earls and Dukes of, papers relating to ; I. 13.
Mandates, royal, 1358–1458, in the Registrary of Cambridge University ; I. 74.
Mander, Francis, will of ; I. 33.
Mandeville :
Lord, letters of, 1640 sq. ; II. 9.
Geoffrey de, grants by ; I. 12.
Manley :
Mr., author of the Atalantis ; I. 51.
(or Manbey), R., to Lord Hatton ; I. 26.
Manlove, William, to Alice Hatton and another ; I. 26.
Mann, Sir Horace, letters of, from Italy ; II. 20, 26.
Manners, illustrations of, 17th cent. ; II. 195.
Manners, Sir John, of Haddon, personal account book of, in 1563 ; I. 11.
Manning, F., letters of ; II. 189.
Manor, perambulation of a ; II. 47.
Manors :
accounts of, temp. Hen. VII. ; I. 70.
admittances to ; I. 34, 35.
Manrent and maintenance, bonds of ; I. 113, 115 ; II. 168, 193, 198.
Mansel, Rev. Dr., Life of ; II. 130.
Mansfeld, Count, letter of, 1625 ; II. 62.
Mansfield :
Lady E., to —— ; I. 26.
Lady Eliz., to —— ; I. 30.
Lord, letter of, 1759 ; II. 38.
Mantua :
plan of, 1695 ; I. 35.
newsletter from, 1702 ; I. 38.
duchy of, relation of what passed in the, 1628–9 ; I. 43.
Duke of, letter to the, 1731 ; I. 37.
Manufactures, subsidy on, at Norwich, 1580–1610 ; I. 103.
Manumission :
a deed of, to a villein and his children, temp. Edw. I. ; I. 110.
by the chapter of Salisbury, 1474 ; I. 91.
Manumissions of villeins ; II. 7.
Manuscripts :
lists and catalogues of ; I. 30.
early, in the Library of the Dean and Chapter, York ; I. 97.
repertory of, relating to the history of Scotland, by Sir R. Sibbald ; I. 125.
notes and memoranda concerning (temp. Jac. I.) ; II. 104.
Manwayring, Sir Henry, his discourse on Pirates ; I. 38. See Mainwaring.
Map, a, of Portugal, 17th cent. ; I. 33.
Mappe or Survey of a Kingdom, The (a treatise) ; II. 85.
Maps, 17th cent. ; II. 40.
Mapurly, Humfry, petition of ; II. 64.
Mar. See Marr.
Mara and Woudum (Cheshire), pleas of the forest of ; I. 46.
Marbeck, Roger, oration by ; I. 60.
Marchant. See Le Marchant.
Marche, Charles de la, his sermon against the (Stuart) royal family ; I. 18.
Marches :
Laws of ; I. 123. See Borders.
(of Scotland), contracts with the Warden of the, temp. Jac. I. ; I. 116.
Marchmont, Earl of, letters of the, 18th cent. ; II. 38, 190, 191.

Digitized by Google

Maréchal family, of Ireland, early documents connected with the; II. 258.
Margaret, Queen [of Hen. VI. ?], letters of; I. 95.
Margaret (of Anjou), Queen of Henry VI.: pageants on her visit to Coventry; I. 109.
letters of; II. 66.
Margaret (Tudor), Queen of Scotland:
a poem on her visit to Aberdeen, 1511; I. 122.
discharge by; II. 168.
Margaretæ, S., reginæ Scotiæ, vita, ex Alredo, abbate Rievall., et Boetio desumpta; II. 146.
Mariæ, De ætate Beatæ Virginis; II. 144.
Marianus Scotus, chronicles of; II. 131.
Marigore, —, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Marine Affairs, a "Dialogreall Conference" about, by Capt. Nath. Butter, 1635; I. 114.
Mariners' wages, Hen. VIII.; I. 12.
Marischall, Earl:
William, letters of, 1629–36; II. 185.
—— bond of friendship by, 1640; II. 175.
letter from the, 1650; II. 197.
Marius, collections about; II. 125.
Market regulations, at Kilkenny; I. 130.
Markets:
keepers of; I. 130.
rent-rolls of shops and stalls in, at Norwich, 26 Hen. VI.; I. 103, 104.
Markham, Sir Griffith, and others, arraignment of; II. 3.
Marlay, Richard, Bishop of Waterford, letters of; I. 127.
Marlborough:
Duchess of, Sarah, letters of; II. 3, 12, 33, 38, 84, 190.
—— autograph letters of; I. 26, 30.
—— letters to; II. 17.
—— letters concerning; II. 68, 71.
—— inventories of plate, &c. belonging to; II. 13, 15.
—— holograph will of; ib.
—— comments on the will of; II. 81.
Earl of (John Churchill), letters relating to the; I. 22, 27.
Duke of, order by, 1711; II. 24.
—— march-route signed by, 1711; II. 24.
—— letters touching the campaigns of; II. 25.
—— letters of; I. 13; II. 15, 79, 178, 188.
—— autograph letters of; I. 26, 30.
—— letters to; II. 29.
—— letters touching collections for the life of; II. 17.
—— See Churchill, John.
second Duke of, letter of the; II. 70.
—— letter to the; II. 17.
Marr:
rentals of; II. 180.
Countess of, letters of the; I. 116.
Earl of, letters of the (? date); II. 183.
—— letters from the, 1569–70; II. 183.
—— John, letter of; II. 183.
—— —— Regent, letters of, 1571–2; II. 184. See Scotland, Regent of.
—— 7th, letters of, 1608–34; II. 185.
—— letter of the, 1715; II. 204.
—— orders to the, 1716; I. 115.
—— movements of the, 1716; II. 189.
—— letters relating to the, 1718; II. 190.
—— letters of the, 1716–20; II. 188.
—— —— 1717; II. 206.
—— —— 1718, &c.; I. 117, 118.
—— —— 1719; I. 117 (bis), 119.
Marr, John, letters from (in Nova Scotia); II. 29.
Marriage:
contracts of, early; I. 115.
an instrument of dissolution of a, 1556; II. 94.
Scotch; II. 168, 198.
settlements; I. 50.
Marriages:
Acts of Parliament and printed papers relating to, 1753–5; II. 3. clandestine, an Act for preventing, with alterations in MS. [1753 ?]; II. 3.
licences for, at Limerick; I. 131. registers of, at Aberdeen; I. 122.
—— 1710–21, in King's College, Cambridge; I. 69.
solemnized by Popish priests, 1702; II. 234.
Married men, not to keep household in cathedrals or colleges (order by Queen Eliz.); II. 155.
Marseilles:
account of the present state of, 1749, by Wm. Mildmay; II. 3.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 16.
Marsh:
Francis, Archbishop of Dublin, letters of; II. 232.
Narcissus, afterwards Archbishop of Armagh, letter of; I. 26. See Armagh, Archbishop of.
Marshal, Earl:
account of the duties of the office of; I. 32.
a decree of the; I. 32.
extracts from records touching the office of; II. 5.
orders of the; II. 81.
tract on the office of; ib.
See Norfolk, Duke of.
Marshal, Knight, ordinance touching the office of; II. 81.
Marshal, family of. See Maréchal.
Marshals, catalogue of, 17th cent.; II. 31.
Marshalsey, or Verge Court, The (a pamphlet); II. 89.
Marston, John, to Lord Kimbolton; I. 13.
Marta, Dr., letter of; II. 52.
Marten, Sir Henry:
his speech in Parliament, 1627; I. 43.
verses by; II. 81.
Martin:
Catharine, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Edm., letters of; I. 115.
Henry, to Lady Hatton; I. 26.
Jean, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
John, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Laurence, to Lady Hatton; I. 26.
Mr., Recorder of London, his speech to James I.; I. 34, 69.
Mr., letter of, 1748; II. 3.
N., to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
P., to Mr. Strethen and others; I. 26.
Thomas, D.C.L., his defence of the execution of the Queen of Scots; II. 41.
Martine's Reliquiæ divi Andreæ; II. 186.
Martinengo, M. de, letter of; II. 61.
Martinenye, Abbot of, Papal Nuncio, consultation at Greenwich touching his admission into England, 1567; I. 42.
Martinico Expedition, the; I. 16.
Martyr, Peter, his Commentary on the Book of Judges; II. 1.
Martyrologium secundum usum Ecclesiæ Aberdonensis (15th cent.); I. 121.
Martyrologium veins (Queen's College, Oxford); II. 138.
Martyrology:
a Scotch, unprinted; I. 111.
extracts from a; II. 5.
Mary, Princess, daughter of Hen. VII., Latin tract on her proposed marriage with Charles of Castile; II. 5.
Mary, Princess, daughter of Henry VIII.: letters to, from Edw. VI. and Privy Council and others; II. 121. letter from; ib.
Mary I., Queen of England:
questions propounded by, and answered by her Council, touching a treaty made by Hen. VIII.; II. 43.
papers relating to the reconciliation with Rome under; II. 155.
letters of; II. 153, 156.
—— to Princess Elizabeth; II. 154, 156.
letter to; I. 60.
charter of; I. 89.
sign manual of; I. 50.
copies of State papers of the reign of; II. 94, 95, 96.
Life of, by Robert Wingfield; II. 44.
Mary of Guise:
articles relating to her marriage with James V.; I. 124.
letters from James V. to; I. 124.
contract between the Earl of Huntly and; I. 115.
accounts of her expenses, as Queen Dowager of Scotland; I. 124.
instructions to the English ambassador to, 1555; II. 96.
numerous letters to, as Queen and Queen Dowager of Scotland; I. 124.
letter of; II. 122.
Mary, Queen of Scots; I. 116.
her treaties with Edw. VI., Queen Mary, and Queen Elizabeth; II. 123. inventory of her share of Huntly's forfeited moveables; I. 114.
instructions of English ambassadors to, 1563–66; II. 96.
an agreement between certain noblemen and the keeper of Edinburgh Castle to relieve her from Bothwell's thraldom, 1567; II. 183.
declaration by, on the state of the realm, 1567; II. 183.
her demission of the Crown in favour of her son, 1567; II. 183.
dissertation on her marriage with Bothwell; II. 201.
correspondence with the ecclesiastical authorities at Rome on the affairs of; I. 120.
letter of Queen Elizabeth touching her safe keeping at Coventry; I. 109.
accounts relating to, while prisoner in England; I. 53.
the proceedings against; I. 31.
papers relating to the affairs of; II. 35, 40, 41, 42, 43.
addresses and letters to, with a portrait of her; I. 121.
grants by; II. 196.
letter of (from Lochleven); II. 196.
letters of; II. 15, 183.
—— seventy-two; I. xi., 120.
—— to the Earl of Huntly; I. 115.
—— to her mother; I. 124.
—— to Throckmorton; I. 124.
—— after her defeat at Langside; I. 125.
numerous letters to; I. 124.
letters to and from; II. 41, 43.
letter to; II. 183.
copy of letter to, from the nobility and subjects of Scotland; I. 35.

Digitized by Google

Mary, Queen of Scots—cont.
"Tranquilitatis animi preservatio," &c. dedicated to, by John Lesley; I. 46.
treatises relating to; II. 40, 41, 42, 43, 44.
draft of a will of; II. 30.
drawings of her trial and execution at Fotheringhay; II. 41.
allowances for the funeral of; II. 31.
the four Marys attendant on; I. 55.
"Miscellanies" during the reign of; I. 113.
volumes of State Papers of the time of; I. 113.
Mary of Este, Queen, a work dedicated to, 1691; II. 202.
Mary, Princess, daughter of James II.: letter concerning her marriage with the Prince of Orange; I. 24.
Princess Royal of Orange, letters from Louis XIV. to; I. 22.
letters of the Queen of James II. to, 1688; II. 18.
letters from, to James II.; ib.
Mary II., Queen of England:
visits the Princess (Anne); I. 22.
letter of, 1691; II. 217.
poem on the death of, 1695; II. 71.
Marye, J., II., letter of; II. 58.
Masham, Mrs., letters of; II. 84.
Mass books:
for chantries; I. 108.
account of, 15th cent.; II. 208.
Mason, a free, contract for building by, 1470; I. 107.
Masons ("rough masons" and "free masons"); I. 65.
Mather:
Cotton, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 26.
Increase, to Lord ——; I. 26.
Mathias, E. (at Hamburgh), letters of; II. 26.
Matilda, Empress. See Maude.
Matriculation books, 16th cent., (Cambridge); I. 73.
Matthew:
Toby, letter of; II. 52.
Sir William, to Lord ——; I. 26.
Maubuisson, Abbess of, letters of the; II. 85.
Maude, Empress of, charters of; I. ix., 14, 90.
Mauger, Peter, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 26.
Maule:
family of, in Scotland; I. 117.
—— register of the; I. 119.
—— their charters; ib.
Henry, the Honourable, of Kelly, (antiquarian and Jacobite), correspondence of; I. 117, 118.
—— his library and MSS.; I. 118, 119.
Henry, of Melgum, his History of the Picts; II. 186.
James; I. 117 (bis).
Sir P., letters of; II. 185.
Robert, his "De Antiquitate Gentis Scotorum, contra Anglorum calumnias," &c.; II. 186.
William, of Glaister; I. 118.
See Mowle, Peter.
Maulemault, Jacques, petition of; II. 50.
Maunday, directions and instructions touching the; II. 89.
Maupas de Tour, Baron, letter of; II. 53.
Maurice, Prince:
an order of; I. 107.
letters of, 1643–4; II. 86.
Maurice, M. (Prince?), letters of, 1655; II. 82.
Maurice. See Morris.
Mawll, S., to Lady Hatton; I. 26.
Mawson, Jo., to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Maxwell:
Sir W. Stirling, Bart., three volumes presented by, to the Commissioners; II. ix.
Lord, letter touching, 1612; II. 87.
Mr., Laird of Cowl, account of his appearance after death as a minister; II. 205.
Maxwells of Pollock, volumes relating to the, presented by Sir W. Stirling Maxwell to the Commissioners; II. ix.
May, Isle of; I. 117.
grant of the; II. 209.
May:
H., letters of; II. 83.
Sir Humphrey, letters from and to; II. 54.
Mayence, Elector of; I. 22.
Mayenne, Duke of:
letter to the, 1605; II. 51.
letter of the, 1617; II. 53.
Maynard, Lord, letters of, 1676–86; I. 56.
Mayne, Sir Wm., letter of; II. 29.
Mayniall, F., to Mr. Streethay; I. 26.
Mayo, James; I. 92.
Mazun, Master John Le, letter to; I. 95.
Mead, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Meadley, Mr. Cornelius:
a MS. of, sent to the Public Record Office; I. viii.
Memorandum respecting the MS. of; I. 110.
Measurements of land; I. 65. See Mesurage.
Measures, corn; II. 28.
Meath, Lord, letters of; II. 232.
Meautys, T., Bacon's secretary; I. 58.
Mechlin, letter dated at, 1557; II. 79.
Mecklenburgh, Duke of, letters of the, 1795; II. 29.
Medan (St.), deed relating to the bell of; II. 187.
Médars, Count de, letters to; II. 39.
Medical:
evidence, 17th cent.; I. 17.
expenses, 17th cent.; II. 199 (bis).
prescriptions, 17th cent.; II. 197.
recipe book, a, 17th cent.; II. 46.
recipes, 15th cent.; II. 84.
treatise, a, 15th cent.; II. 109.
—— 17th cent.; II. 6.
treatises, Gaelic; I. 126.
works, old; I. 61.
Medicine:
MSS. of writers on; I. 17.
"Bernardi Gordon, Medici præstantissimi, opus de curandis morbis, inscriptum Lilium Medicinæ," &c., (1303); I. 115.
books on, in the Advocates' Library; I. 125.
lists of books of the faculty of, 16th cent.; II. 135.
Medicines, expenses of, temp. Hen. VII.; I. 95.
Medicines, Le Livre de Seyntz, by Henry first Earl of Lancaster; II. 145.
Mediterranean, the:
proposals and orders concerning the English squadron in, 1703; I. 28.
English fleet in, 1718; II. 189.
Medley, Thomas, to the Dowager Countess of Thanet and another; I. 26.
Meeting-houses, liberty of preaching in; I. 15.
Megnier, M., letter of; II. 50.
Meldrome, George (Representation of the Commission of the General Assembly); I. 26.
Melfort, Lord, letters of, 1685; I. 56.
Mell, the "affair" of [1745]; I. 115.
Melmerby, full account of the parish of; II. 125.
Melmoth, William, letters of; I. 127.
Melrose:
charters relating to; II. 186.
chronicle of, two transcripts of the; I. 123.
church and monks of, charters to the; II. 167.
commendator of, James, letters of; II. 184.
Earl of, letter of the [1631]; II. 59.
—— —— 1625; II. 62.
—— Thomas, letters of, 1625–7; II. 185.
and Haddington, Earl of, letters of the [temp. Car. I.]; I. 116.
Melville, James, diary of; I. 123.
Melvin, Andrew; II. 187.
Mendham, Mr. W., Registrar of King's College, Cambridge; I. 68.
Mendip, code of the Mining Laws of; I. 93.
Mendoza (Spanish ambassador), letters from Mary Queen of Scots to; II. 41.
Mennes, Sir John, Governor of N. Wales, letters to; II. 86, 87.
Menteith:
Earl of, William, letters of, 1630; II. 185.
Earls of, muniments relating to the; II. 165.
Mentz, Elector of, letter to the; I. 26.
Menyot, Pierre, poems by, addressed to Prince Charles, 1614; I. 49.
Merchandise:
journals of conferences in the Low Countries on the subject of, 15th cent.; II. 39.
assurance of, 1634; I. 34.
Bill for impositions on, 1671; I. 12.
Merchant, Tale of the (a poem, 15th cent.); II. 84.
Merchants Adventurers, Company of:
a "discussion" by, touching a Bill in Parliament for free trade; II. 18.
their dispute with the Earl of Cumberland; II. 18 (bis).
a collection touching the; II. 40.
papers relating to the, 16th cent.; II. 44, 45.
Merchants Strangers:
diary of the case of the (in the Star Chamber, 1619?); II. 3.
letters touching the case against the, 1619 II. 56.
Merchants' accounts, directions how to keep, 1654; I. 32.
Mercian Kings, list of; II. 5.
Mercy and Righteousness (a poem, 15th cent.); II. 84.
Mere of Mere, genealogy and arms of the family of; I. 49.
Meredith, Roger, letters of; I. 56.
Meres, Sir Thomas; I. 23.
Merioneth, county of, documents relating to the; II. 106.
Merlin, the Prophecies of, concerning the Kings of England; II. 49.
Merricke, W. A., Captain; II. 37.
Merton, convent of (Winchester diocese), injunctions to the; II. 133.
Messina:
account of the plague at, 1743; I. 127.
letters dated at, 18th cent.; II. 190.
Mesurage de Fiefs; I. 92.
Mesurier. See Le Mesurier.
Metals, grant of; II. 196.

Metcalfe :
Dr. Nicholas, of St. John's College, Cambridge, a bundle of letters to; I. 73.
Roger, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Methuen:
—; I. 27.
D., letter to; I. 15.
John, correspondence of (129 papers); I. 26.
—— letters of, 1691–4; II. 16.
Lord Chancellor; I. 21.
—— letter to; I. 25.
Mr., letters to; I. 18, 20.
Paul, to the Earl of Nottingham (38 letters); I. 26.
—— letters of; I. 188, 189.
—— and John, letters to; I. 21.
Methven, Lord, Henry, third husband of Margaret Tudor, Queen of Scotland; II. 168.
Metingham:
chartulary of; I. 87.
castle of; ib.
Metricum, the Chronicon; I. 121.
Mexico, Emperor of, news about the, 1668; II. 21.
Meyrick, Edmund, letters to; II. 86, 87.
Micueli, M.; I. 55.
Michelli, Giovanni, his "Relazione d' Inghilterra" (two copies); II. 44.
Middelburg, town of, letter of the, 1620; II. 37.
Middlesex, Earl of, Lionel Cranfield, covenant of, at the sealing of his pardon; I. 34.
Middleton:
Andrew, genealogical table by, 1527; I. 65.
David, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Lord; I. 214.
—— letters of, 1680–6; I. 56.
—— letter of, 1685; II. 78.
—— letters from and to, 1688; II. 14.
Earl of, John, letters of; I. 122.
—— "his paper, 1702;" I. 26.
General, declaration of, and others who took up arms in Scotland, 1650; I. 128.
—— protection by, 1645; II. 197.
Sir Thomas, of Chirk, letters to; II. 73.
Sir Wm.; II. 73.
Middletons, pedigrees of the; II. 88.
Midleton, Viscount:
inventory of the papers of; I. ix.
report on the MSS. of; I. 44.
Milbourne, Luke, letter of; II. 71.
Mildmay:
Sir Francis, letter of; I. 100.
Wm., his representation of the State of Provence, 1743–8, with a supplement; II. 3.
Military:
discourse, a, 16th cent.; I. 62.
matters, documents concerning (Henry VIII. to Charles I.); I. 103.
—— a book on, temp. Eliz.; I. 31.
—— papers on, temp. Eliz. et Jac. I.; II. 46
—— letters on, 18th cent.; II. 30.
—— volumes of letters on, 18th cent.; II. 29.
transactions in Ireland and Flanders (William & Mary), by Capt. R. Parker; I. 129. treatise, a [17th cent.?]; I. 114.
Militia: commission for muster of, 1573; I. 106.
documents relating to the, temp. Eliz.; II. 64.
assessments for the, 1651–3; I. 34.
in Ireland, accounts of expenses for the, 1672–9; I. 127.
Millar, Bishop, letter to; I. 204.
Millington, John, letters of; II. 18.
Mills, Thomas, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, letters of; II. 232.
Milton, John, his name in the admission book of Christ's College, Cambridge, with that of his brother Christopher; I. 63.
Milton's Paradise Lost, copy of the First Book, corrected for press; II. 69.
Minchin, Mr., letters of; II. 18.
Minden, battle of:
plans of the; I. 11.
papers relating to the; II. 28.
Minehead, letters relating to; I. 56.
Miners, tumults of (in Cornwall), 1690; I. 52.
Mines and Metals, Scotch, documents relating to; I. 124.
Mining Laws of Mendip, code of the; I. 93.
Ministers:
poor, a treatise to show the unlawfulness of the Archbishop of Canterbury's proceedings against [temp. Eliz.?]; II. 45.
papers touching calls to (at Aberdeen), 17th cent.; I. 129.
(Scotch), Memoirs of; I. 125.
Minorca, Isle of:
list of offices in the; II. 4.
papers of the commander in the, 1715–18; II. 212.
Minorites, provincial and commissary of the, in Ireland; II. 157.
Minstrels:
payments to; I. 109.
Scotch; I. 121.
Mint, order of taking assays of the; II. 81.
Minto, Lord, letter of, 1798; II. 192.
Miremond, M., to the Lord Treasurer (1703); I. 26.
Mirror of Our Lady, The (a MS. of 15th cent.); II. 200.
Miscellaneous papers in the Hatton Collection; I. 30.
Mise books, of Cheshire; I. 48, 49.
Missal:
description of a [14th cent.]; I. 66.
a, in the "Saxon-Irish character;" I. 118.
Missale Norwicense Ecclesiæ, 15th cent.; I. 89.
Missale Romanum (a); II. 7.
Missale Sarisburiense (c. 1350, illuminated); II. 200.
Missale ad usum ecclesiæ Sarisburiensis (two printed copies, 1506, 1526); II. 201.
Missals:
mediæval; I. 14.
14th cent.; II. 64, 144.
leaves of, 14th cent.; I. 99.
15th cent. (according to various uses); II. 81, 144.
prices of, 14th and 15th cent.; II. 140, 142.
Missals and other books, list of, temp. Hen. VI.; I. 69.
Missions, of Madure, Maysure, and Carnate, Apology in favour of the, by Francis Lainez; II. 201.
Mitchell:
Sir Andrew (at Berlin), letters of; II. 26.
Sir David, instructions to; I. 26.
Sir D., papers by; I. 30.
Mobberley, family of, charters, genealogy, and arms of the; I. 47, 49.
"Mock Poem, or Whiggs Supplication;" I. 114.
Mockton, E., letter of; II. 68.
Modena, Duke of; I. 23.
Modus judicandi nativitates hominum (1470); I. 46.
Moghaut, court rolls of; II. 73, 74.
Mohun:
John; I. 51.
Reginald; I. 51.
Moiny, M. de, letter of; II. 50.
Moira, Lord, letters of, 1796–7; II. 192.
Moira and Hastings, Countess of, letters of the; I. 127.
Moldavia, Prince of; I. 23.
Molesworth, Robert, letters of; II. 232, 234, 246, 247.
Molino, Nicola, his "Relazione d' Inghilterra;" II. 45.
Molinos, Michael de, and Quietism, account of; II. 205.
Molleras, Mr., letters of; II. 188, 189.
Molloy, Phelem, letter of; II. 218.
Molton Park; I. 30.
Molyneux:
family of, papers relating to the; I. 55.
Samuel, secretary to the Prince of Wales [afterwards George II.], letters of; II. 232, 234, 248, 249.
Molyns, family of, correspondence of the; II. 73.
Monamy, A., to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Monasteries:
names of, and of their founders; I. 32.
Visitors of, extracts from the letters of the; II. 37.
Monastic registers, extracts from; I. 32; II. 5.
—— regulations, a Saxon book treating of; I. 91.
Monasticon Scoticum, by Father Marianus Brockie; II. 209, 203.
Monbodie, Lord, letters to and from; II. 37, 38.
Monderi, Bishop of, letter to the; I. 120.
Money:
early values of; I. 65.
How the Kings of England may raise, a book entitled; I. 32.
extracts from records showing by what means the Kings of England may raise; I. 31.
an account of the mode of levying, for maintenance of forces; I. 103.
a book by T. Wilson, showing how the Kings of England have raised (1636); II. 90.
unappropriated, accounts of, paid into the Exchequer, temp. Ann.; I. 54.
Money bills, abstracts of the, 1689–1746; II. 3.
Monington, family of, letters and papers of the; II. 73.
Monk, Christopher, General; I. 35.
letters of; I. 122; II. 98, 115.
licences by; II. 188.
warrant by; II. 187. See Albemarle, Duke of.
his secretary. See Clarke, Wm.
Monmouth, Geoffrey of;
a MS. of his Historia Britonum, at Drummond Castle; I. 118.
ditto, in the collection of Mr. Ormsby-Gore; II. 84.
excerpts from; II. 85.
MSS. of, 13th and 14th cent., at Peniarth, co. Merioneth; II. 104.
Monmouth, Duke of, James; I. 16, 51.
recommended by Charles II. as Chancellor of Cambridge University; II. 115.
the King's address to Parliament touching; I. 45.
speech of Charles II. to the Council concerning; II. 89.
Charles II.'s disavowal of having married the mother of; I. 31.

Digitized by Google

Monmouth, Duke of, James—cont.
mention of writings showing that Charles II. was married to the mother of; I. 56.
relation of an apparition which commanded Lady Gray to deliver a message to; I. 43.
letters of; I. 56; II. 36, 82.
his papers, 1679; I. 12.
letters relating to the; I. 44; II. 10, 19, 22, 82.
letters touching his intended invasion, 1685; II. 87, 88.
letters relating to his rebellion; I. 22; II. 16, 23, 99, 217.
trial of the adherents of; I. 108.
Monmouthshire, sheriff of, Council letter to the, 1630; II. 86.
Monopoly, a, of dealing in wool, correspondence touching; I. 124.
Monoux, George (Alderman), to Nic. Angell and another; I. 30.
Monro:
Dean, his "Western Isles;" I. 123.
John, Colonel, of Obstell, letters of; II. 178.
Robert, Colonel, letters of; II. 178.
Monson, Mr., order of James II. for pardon of; II. 147.
Montacute House, Somerset:
the Phelips collection at; I. ix.
report on MSS. at; I. 37; supplement to the report; I. 88.
Montacute Papers, belonging to R. Phelips, Esq., now in the course of being arranged and bound; II. ix.
Montague:
Duke of, John Montague, portrait of; II. 69.
Lord, to Lord Hatton, 1672–93; I. 26.
Lord E., letter to; I. 27.
Viscount, instructions to, 1565; II. 97.
family of, papers relating to the; I. 55.
Anthony, letter of; II. 82.
Edward (husband of Lady M. W. Montagu), letter of, 1733; II. 116.
George, Horace Walpole's letters to; I. 13.
R., letters of, 1676–86; I. 26.
See Mountague.
Monte, Peter de, Papal Collector, proposition of, in Parliament, 14 Hen. VI.; II. 39.
Monteage:
Denne, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
John, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
S., to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Stephen, letter to; I. 28.
See Mountage.
Montengle, Lord, copy of Guy Fawx's letter to; I. 21.
Montferrat, Marquisate of, relation of what passed in, 1628–9; I. 43.
Montgerald, Viscount, Edward Butler, letters of; II. 34.
Montgomery:
chief steward of the lordship of, petition against the [temp. Hen. VIII.]; II. 67.
Lord, letters of, 1660; II. 211.
John, his treatise on the navy, 1570; I. 32.
—— letter to the Earl of Leicester, 1571; I. 60.
Montmorenci, Constable de, letters of the; I. 124.
Montpensier, Duke of, letter to the, 1605; II. 31.
Montrose:
royal burgh of, records of the; II. xx.
—— report on the records of the; II. 205.
alderman and burgesses of; II. 167.
Duke of, muniments of the; II. xvi.
—— report on the muniments of the, at Buchanan Castle; II. 165.
Earl of, letter of the, 1605; II. 181.
—— James, fifth (and first Marquis), papers and correspondence of, 1626–50; II. 168 sq.
—— letter of, 1638; II. 185.
—— —— 1640; II. 178.
—— arrest of, 1641; I. 116.
Earls, Marquises, and Dukes of, muniments relating to the; II. 165 sq.
Marquis of, letters of the, 1645–6; I. 115, 116.
—— account of the execution of the, 1650; I. 116.
—— his hand removed from the Tolbooth of Aberdeen; I. 132.
—— James, second, letter of, 1660; I. 132.
—— letters from Charles II. to; II. 179.
Duke of, to Lord ——; I. 26.
—— letters of the, 1715; II. 178.
—— —— 1738, sq.; II. 199, 191.
Moorall, Thomas, letter of; I. 26.
Moore:
Adam, his treatise concerning Enclosure; II. 44.
Daniel, letters of; II. 189.
Garret, Col., certificate by; II. 222.
Gawen, of Quethiok; I. 51.
Peter; I. 51.
Dr. John (afterwards Bishop of Norwich), letter of; II. 114.
See Norwich, Bishop of.
Thomæ de la, his "Vita et Mors R. Edw. II."; II. 151, 155.
Moothills, in Scotland, in 17th cent.; II. 187.
Moravia. See Bohemia.
Moravia (Moray), Simon of, charter by; II. 167.
Moraviensis, chartularium episcopatus; II. 186.
Moray:
chartulary of; II. 209.
Earl of, MSS. of the, to be inspected; I. 119.
——, cardions of, agreement between the King of France and the Earl of Huntly touching the; I. 113. See Murray.
Mordant, Lord; I. 17.
Mordaunt:
Har., to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Sir John, account of his expedition to St. Hellier; II. 30.
More:
Hannah, letter touching, 1777; II. 13.
Sir Thomas, an old copy of Roper's Life of; I. 114.
—— Life of; II. 43, 44.
Morley, Hannah, letter to; II. 98.
Morer, Edw. Rowe, his History of Queen's College, Oxford; II. 138.
Morgan:
Charles, Dr., Master of Clare Hall, Cambridge, letters to; II. 116.
Delarivers, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Fr., to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Sylvanus; II. 80.
Sir Thomas, letter to; I. 21.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Morlaix, Seneschal of, instructions given by the Duchess [of Britanny ?] to the, for intimation to the King of England; II. 42.
Morley, afterwards Bishop of Winchester, letters of; II. 82.
Mornington, Earl of, letters of the; I. 127.
Morocco:
letter relating to, 1788; II. 14.
ambassador from, letter of the, 18th cent.; II. 116.
Emperor of, news about the, 1668; II. 21.
articles of peace with the, 1703; I. 28.
and Fez, King of, instructions to the English ambassador to the, 1577; II. 22.
Morphy, Gerrard, pilot of James II. to Ireland; I. 15.
Morrin, E., to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Morris (or Maurice), Sir Wm., deputy-lieut. of Carnarvon, letters to; II. 87, 88.
Morrison:
John, letter of; II. 52.
R., to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
Morse, Justinian, a new organ by; I. 52.
Mortgages, (temp. Ric. II.); II. 66.
Mortifications, record of, at Aberdeen; I. 122.
Mortimer:
Benjamin, to Lord Hatton; I. 26.
George, letter to; I. 30.
Mr., letter to; I. 30.
Roger de, grant to; II. 38.
Mortimers, Latin pedigree of the; II. 6.
Morton:
Earl of, MSS. of the, to be inspected; I. 119.
—— MSS. of the, at Dalmahoy; II. xviii.
—— report on his papers at Dalmahoy; I. 183.
Earl of, James, Regent of Scotland; II. 187.
—— letters and papers of; II. 189, 184.
—— sum of the conferences between him and others on the day of his execution, 1581; II. 41.
—— a regiment levied by the, 1639; II. 195.
Earls of, Lives of the; I. 114.
—— letters and papers of; II. 183.
Countess of, letters of the; II. 184.
Sir Albertus, letter of; II. 85.
Mortinary, a Scotch mean-tie; II. 201.
Mortuary roll, a large (temp. Edw. I.); I. 74.
Moscow:
letter dated at, 1771; II. 25.
recipe by the Commission at, against the plague; ib.
Mostyn:
Lord, MSS. of, sent to the Public Record Office; I. viii.
—— the papers of; I. x.
—— catalogue of the library of; I. x.
—— report on the collection of; I. 44.
Lady E., to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 26.
Sir R., to the Earl and Countess of Nottingham; I. 26.
Roger, to his brother Thomas; I. 44.
Thomas, to Lord ——; I. 26.
—— letters to; I. 42.
Mottes (or Mottet), Alfonse de, to Lord ——; I. 26.
Mounson, Sir Thomas, his speech on receiving his pardon, 1616; I. 47.
Mount, Lord; I. 24.
Mount . . ., letters of; I. 26.
Mount Alexander, Earl of:
letter to the, 1707; I. 127.
letters of; I. xiii., II. 232.
Mount Edgcumbe, Earl of:
collection of the; II. x.
report on the MSS. of the; II. 20.
Mountage, Mr., letter to; I. 25. See Monteage.
Mountague:
A., to Lady Hatton; I. 26.
Edward, to Lord and Lady Hatton and others, 1652–85 I. 26.
Eliz., to Lady Hatton; 26.

Digitized by Google

Montague—cont.
Katharine, to Lady Hatton; I. 26.
W., to Lady and Chr. Hatton; I. 26.
Walter, to the Earl of Manchester; I. 26.
Lord. See Montague.
Mountain, Dr. George, Bishop of Lincoln, letters of; I. 67.
Mountgrace, prior of, letter to the; II. 12.
Mountjoy:
Lord, Deputy of Ireland, letter of, 1601; I. 47.
—— letter to; II. 158.
Viscount, letters of; II. 232.
—— a MS. written by, 1588–9; II. 215.
Mountmorres, Lord, letters of; I. 127.
Mountnorris, Francis, Vice-Treasurer of War in Ireland, prisoner in Dublin Castle; I. 26.
Mountrath, Earl of:
letter of the, 1660; II. 211.
letter of Charles II. to the, 1660; II. 216.
letters of the, in Archbishop King's collection; I. xiii.; II. 232.
Mowbray, Francis; II. 184.
Mowle, Peter, a volume of collections of; I. 90.
Mowns, Alexander, letter to, 1660; I. 55.
Moyen de Parvenir (a French work); I. 51.
Moyle, J., letters of; I. 43.
Moyne. See Le Moyne.
Muckairne, papers relating to; II. 193.
Muddiford, Sir Thomas, Governor of Jamaica; II. 36.
Mudge, Mr.; I. 51.
Mulgrave, Earl of, letters of the, 1676–86; I. 56.
Mulligar:
the "affair" of, 1660; II. 211.
election at, 1761; II. 213.
Munimuske, Thomas of, charter by; II. 166.
Munster:
Queen Elizabeth's offers for disposing of her lands in; I. 47.
plantations in, 1585; I. 48.
Muntfichet, Lords, services due to the; I. 83.
Murage:
in Waterford; I. 132.
grant and proceedings, at Kilkenny; I. 130.
Mure, of Rowallan, copies of papers of the family of; I. 125.
Murimouth, Richard de, almoner to Edw. III.; I. 86.
Murray:
Bishop of. See Guthry, John.
Dean of, letter to the, 1623; II. 197.
Earl of, testament of the, 1567; II. 183.
—— bond by certain noblemen for pursuing the murderers of the [1569?]; II. 183.
Lady Augusta, letters of; II. 192.
Sir George, letters of; II. 55, 59.
H. E. J., letters of (from Constantinople); II. 26.
John, son of Patrick Murray, of Ochterarder; II. 167.
Mr., letter of (1720); I. 117.
William, of Tullybarden; II. 168.
See Moray, Moravia, Moraviensis.
Muscovy:
ambassador from; I. 17.
merchants, of London, Company of, narrative of the discovery of the Northern Seas by; I. 54.
Musgrave:
Sir C., letters of; II. 18.
Sir Chr., to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 26.
P., letter of; II. 11.
Sir Philip, letters of; I. 26; II. 19.
Wm., letters of; II. 18.
Music:
14th cent.; II. 208.
paper by Sir Isaac Newton on; II. 116.
treatise on, by Sir P. Leycester; I. 48.
"Music lecture (a), at the Schools," 1642; II. 78.
Musicæ, Encomium; I. 48.
Musical: instruments, a volume relating to, 1659; I. 48.
notation, early; I. 99, 100, 107; II. 138.
services, for the Church (MS. 15th cent.); II. 105.
Musicians, annuities to, 17th cent.; II. 79.
Muskets, a bill for, 1642; II. 191.
Musters:
instructions, commissions, and other papers touching, temp. Edw. VI., Mar., et Eliz.; II. 95.
general, a book of, 1573–4; II. 44.
papers on [temp. Eliz.]; ib.
a royal letter touching, 1574; II. 43.
abstract of, taken on the Borders, 1584; II. 124.
papers respecting, temp. Eliz.; II. 86.
Council letter touching, temp. Eliz.; II. 18, 87.
letter touching, 1606; I. 62.
Council letters touching, 1624; II. 87.
—— concerning, 1634; I. 68.
and array, commissions of, 1640 and 1660; I. 47.
Mutiny Bill, the perpetual, a speech on; I. 128.
Myln's Lives of the Bishops of Dunkeld; II. 200.
Myine, Robert, collections of; I. 123.
Myddelton-Biddulph, Colonel, of Chirk Castle, Denbighshire: MSS. of; II. xi.
report on the MSS. of; II. 73.
Myddelton, Sir Rich., letters of; II. 88.
Mystery:
a dramatic, in Cornish; II. 106.
a, performed at Oxford, 1360; II. 198.
Mystery plays, the Chester; I. 49.

N.

N. P., to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Nairne, David, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 27.
Names of persons, Gaelic; II. 193.
Nancre, Marquis de, letter to the; II. 189.
Nansa (?), Richard, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Nantwich; II. 69.
documents connected with; I. 50.
account of; II. 81.
Napier:
Colonel, MSS. of, sent to the Public Record Office; I. viii.
—— Spanish papers in possession of; I. x.
—— report on his papers; I. 57.
Lord, letter of, 1640; II. 178.
—— trial of, temp. Car. I.; II. 168, 169.
Sir Robert; II. 142.
Naples:
manifesto of the people of, 1647; I. 27.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 16, 17.
—— 18th cent.; II. 14, 29, 30, 189, 190.
newsletters from, 1701; I. 38.
King of, letter of the, 1701; I. 38.
Queen of, Charlotte, letters from and to, 1794–1802; II. 14.
Napoleon I., the schism set on foot by; II. 110. See Bonaparte.
Nary, Cornelius, the Rev., of Dublin, correspondence of; II. 24.
Naseby, letters of Charles I., taken at the battle of; I. 1.
Nassau:
Count Maurice of, letter from, to Queen Elizabeth; II. 50.
—— letter to the Earl of Leicester; II. 45.
House of; I. 18.
Nassington, William of, the Mirror of Life by; II. 106.
Natuf Pasha, Grand Vizier of the Sultan, letters of [1612?]; II. 31.
National Debt. See Debts.
Natural History, MSS. of writers on; I. 77.
Naunton, Sir Robert, letters from and to; II. 54–59, 61.
Naval matters, papers on:
temp. Eliz. et Jac. I.; II. 46.
18th cent.; I. 13; II. 212. See Navy.
Naval law, treatises on, by Alex. King; II. 186.
Navarre, King of:
letters of the, 1582–8; II. 49, 50.
letter from the, to his wife (no date); II. 82.
his letter to the clergy and nobility of France, 1586; II. 151.
Navigation:
an Introduction to the Art of (The Seaman's A.B.C.), by John Banekes, 1629; II. 4.
See Ships.
Navy, the:
papers relating to, temp. Edw. VI. & Eliz.; II. 95, 96.
treatise concerning, by John Montgomery, 1570; I. 39.
treatise concerning the maintenance of, 1571; I. 60.
instructions to officers of, 1596; II. 45.
papers touching supplies for [temp. Eliz.]; II. 44.
letter touching, 1630; II. 58.
of Charles I., description of; I. 41
description of, 1673; I. 33.
accounts of engagements of the, 1673; II. 10.
a misfortune to, 1691; I. 52.
letters and papers touching, 1688–9; II. 10, 11, 12.
papers relating to, 17th cent.; I. 54.
a project to increase (?date); I. 63.
letters to Geo. II. on; II. 213.
Accounts, temp. Ann.; I. 54.
affairs, 1689–1704; I. 22.
—— papers on, 1743–4; II. 24.
comptroller of the, instructions to the, 1576; II. 96, 97.
treasurer of the, 1668; I. 51.
—— letters to the, 1711; II. 83.
See Fleet.
Nayler, Fra., to Lord Hatton and another; I. 27.
Naylor, Sir George, library of; II. 79, 80.
Neale:
William, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 27.
Sir Wm., letter of; II. 87.
Necromancy, MSS. on; II. 198.
Nelson, Lord (Admiral):
letters touching, 1798–9; II. 14.
letters of, 1799; II. 192.
Nennius, copy of, 16th cent.; II. 104. See Gildas.
Nero, Mons. or Madame de, letters to; II. 88.
Nesbit, Col., letters of; II. 29.
Nesse, Peter, letters to; II. 50.
Netherlands:
the petition of the (undated); I. 27.
Essays on certain negotiations between the Archduke and the States, 1607; II. 85.
Austrian, notes of what passed in the, 1787; II. 30a.

Digitized by Google

Nethersole, Sir Francis, letters of; II. 58, 61.
Netterville, Luke, memorial of; II. 255.
Neuburg, Count Palatine of, Wolfgang William, letter of, 1625; II. 62.
Neville:
of Holt (co. Leic.), charter chests of the family of; II. xii.
—— report on the same; II. 93.
Edward, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
J., to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Sir Henry, English ambassador to Spain; I. 32.
New Abbey (Scotland), house of, register of the; I. 111.
New England:
relation of the affairs of; I. 58.
abstract of the laws of; II. 3.
New York:
account of a voyage from Plymouth to, 1776; II. 37.
letters dated at, 1781–9; II. 29. See Elliot, Andrew.
Newark:
conditions of the surrender of, by Charles I.; I. 45.
letter of Charles I. dated at; II. 170.
Newbattle, the Marquis of Lothian's muniments at; I. xii.
report on the same; I. 116.
Newbold Pacey, co. Warwick; II. 140.
Newbolt, Jerome, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Newbottle, abbey of, chartulary of the; II. 186.
Newbury, battle of, newsletter after the; I. 51.
Newcastle:
letters dated at, 1630; II. 183.
letters of Charles I. dated at; II. 170.
Earl of, Holles, to Lady Isa Finch (no date); I. 27.
—— letters of; II. 38, 71.
Duke of, letters of the, 1665; II. 19.
—— —— temp. Car. II.; II. 17.
—— —— 1745; I. 115.
—— —— 1746–7; II. 3.
—— —— (mid. 18th cent.); II. 38.
Duchess of, Margaret, letter of; II. 113.
Newcastle-under-Lyme, charters relating to tenements in; II. 72.
Newchurch, rectory of, Isle of Wight, papers touching the; II. 23.
Newcomen, Sir Thomas; II. 211.
Newey, Thomas, letters of; I. 91, 92.
Newfoundland, narrative of a shipwreck at; II. 20.
Newgate (London), book of the gaol delivery of, 32 Hen. VIII. sq.; II. 73.
Newhous, priory of (co. Lanc.), extracts from the register of the; II. 5.
Newington, St. Mary's; II. 89.
Newmarket:
Charles II.'s visits to; I. 44.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 32.
Newport, Lord, letters of, 1640 sq.; II. 9.
Newsletters:
about 1550; I. 134.
1622, 1630, 1633, &c. (foreign); I. 58.
1634; I. 57.
1639 (Scotch); I. 27.
1640; I. 26, 51.
temp. Car. I.; I. 51.
temp. Car. I. et II.; II. 99.
1664–78; I. 25.
1668; II. 73.
1670–89; I. 56.
1670–1704; I. 26.
1673–92; I. 44.
1675–8; I. 56.
1677–1704; I. 25.
1679–83; I. 21.
1681–5; I. 26.
temp. Car. II.; II. 21, 22, 33.
1688, 1689; II. 68.
1690; I. 27.
1690 and 1702, (from Ireland); I. 27.
1690–1704, (67 letters, foreign); I. 27.
1702–3; I. 19.
1703–4, (foreign); I. 25.
1703–6, (abstracts and copies); I. 30.
1711 and after, (from London); I. 119.
18th cent.; I. 51; II. 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 38, 68.
from Jacobites, 18th cent.; I. 117.
Newspaper, an Italian, 1702; I. 38.
Newton, rentals of the vill of; II. 80.
Newton:
Francis; I. 92.
Henry, letter of; II. 71.
Humphrey, of Pownall, Cheshire, collections by; II. 80.
Sir Isaac, a letter about his "Book," 1727; II. 116.
—— paper by, on music; ib.
—— assay of copper money by; II. 235, 255.
R., of Hart Hall, Oxford, letter of; II. 71.
Newton Poppleford, chapel of, deed of grant to the; I. 53.
Nichodemi, Testamentum; II. 144.
Nicholas:
E., letters of, 1645 and 1703; I. 27.
Sir Edward, Secretary of State, letters of; I. 29, 67; II. 36.
—— letters from, to Charles I.; I. 9.
Nicholls, Dr., Fellow of Trinity Hall, Cambridge:
letters of; II. 122.
will of; ib.
Nicholson, W., Bishop of Carlisle and of Derry:
collections of; II. 125.
glossary by; ib.
letters of; II. 239.
Nieuport (Flanders), English Carthusians of, papers connected with the; II. 73.
Niphus, Fred., letter of; I. 27.
Nisbet, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Nismes, principal of the college at, Mr. Aberdeneth; I. 68.
Nithsdale:
Earl of, Charles I.'s letter to the; I. 45.
Lady, her narrative of her husband's escape from the Tower, 1716; I. 45.
Nobbes:
Christopher, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Rachell, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Nobility:
catalogues of the; I. 31.
surnames, titles, &c., of the; I. 34.
a work on the creations and arms of the, by T. Brudenell; II. 44. See Peers.
Noble, Mark, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Noke, Richard, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
"Nomenclator Navalis," (1633), two MSS. entitled; II. 45.
Nonconformists, papers concerning the; I. 97.
Nonjuring bishops, letters of; II. 204, 205.
Nonjuring clergymen, prosecutions of; I. 122.
Nonjurors, the; I. 119, 118.
Non-residents (clergy) in Ireland, letters touching, 1691–2; II. 232, 233.
Norbury, George, his "Abuses and Remedies of the High Court of Chancery;" I. 63.
Norden, descriptions of counties by; I. 31.
Norfolk:
deeds relating to; I. 55.
documents relating to lands in; I. 69.
sheriff of, writ by Edward I. to the; II. 145.
Cardinal of (Howard), letters of the, 1688; I. 56.
Earls of, papers relating to; I. 70.
Duke of; I. 20.
—— Thomas, book of his household expenses, 18–19 Hen. VIII.; I. 70.
—— —— letters of (temp. Hen. VIII.); II. 42.
—— —— letter to; ib.
—— Thomas Howard, beheadal of; I. 20.
—— Lieut. in the North, letter to the, 1560; II. 26.
—— arraignment of the, 1571; I. 42.
—— papers touching his plot against Queen Elizabeth; II. 40, 41.
—— letters to the, temp. Eliz.; II. 8.
—— letters of the, 1679–88; I. 56.
—— Thomas, reasons why he should retain precedency as Earl Marshal, notwithstanding his minority; I. 51.
—— —— his title to the Earl Marshal's estates in Ireland, (no date); I. 70.
Duchess of, M., to Lord Hatton (? date); I. 27.
Norham, letters dated at, 13th cent.; II. 5.
Normanby, Lord, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 27.
Normandy, papers relating to, 1169–1643; II. 1.
Norreys, B., to Sir Chr. Hatton; I. 27.
Norris:
the Rev. Canon, MSS. of, sent to the Public Record Office; I. viii.
—— report on the MS. Chartulary forwarded by; I. 97.
Lady, Queen Elizabeth's letter to, on the death of her son in Ireland; I. 42.
Lord, to Queen Elizabeth; I. 42.
Sir H., ambassador to France, 1566; I. 42.
Sir Henry; II. 73.
Sir John, letters to; I. 41.
—— his advice touching defence of the realm; II. 43.
—— instructions to [temp. Eliz.]; II. 42 (bis), 104.
Mr., letters of, 1717; II. 189.
Sir William; I. 20.
Norse deeds; II. 191.
North, Lord President in the, instructions to the, 1574; II. 95.
North:
—, letter of; I. 27.
A., to ——; I. 27.
Dudley, to Lord and Lady Hatton; I. 27.
—— letters of; I. 55.
Sir Francis, to Lord and Chr. Hatton; I. 27.
Lord Chief Justice; I. 23.
Lord, letter of, 1776; II. 94.
—— letters to, 1779; II. 30.
—— letters touching, 1782; II. 18.
North and Grey de Rathyn, Lord:
Charles, to Lord Hatton, 1677–82; I. 27.
R., to Mrs. Hatton, 1693; I. 27.
Northampton:
town of; I. 23.
mayor and aldermen of, letter to the; I. 21.

Digitized by Google

Northampton –cont.
the assizes at, 1683; I. 17.
names of persons in, who are to take the oath according to their Majesties' proclamation [1689?]; I. 27.
parliamentary election for; I. 24.
conveyance of a messuage in; II. 93.
county of, parliamentary elections in the; I. 18, 19, 22, 24.
—— documents relating to the; I. 34, 35, 38; II. 18.
—— documents relating to the militia in the, temp. Eliz.; II. 44.
Marquis of, Parr, poem on the death of, 1569; II. 85.
Earl of, an oration in answer to the, by Ronidius, 1604; II. 159.
—— letters to the, 1606; I. 48.
—— letter of the, 1609; I. 62.
—— —— 1621; II. 60.
—— letters of the, 1645; I. 99.
—— Spencer Compton, letters of; I. 100.
—— See Compton, Lord.
—— W. (?), to John Hasyllwoode (? date); I. 27.
Countess of, Mary, to Lady Hatton; I. 27.
Northern Counties, Association of the, 1645; I. 102.
Northern Seas, narrative of the discovery of the; I. 34.
Northolk, fishery in the water of; II. 166, 167.
Northington, Lord, letters of; I. 127.
Northumberland; I. 34.
Countess of, letter to her husband, 1572; II. 184.
Earl of, letter of the [temp. Hen. VI.?]; I. 92.
—— account of his receiver in Kent, 31 Hen. VIII.; I. 33.
—— H., letter of, temp. Edw. VI.; II. 34.
—— letter to the, temp. Edw. VI.; II. 155.
—— plot for carrying him off from Lochleven Castle, 1571; II. 184.
—— —— proceedings against the, 1606; I. 48.
—— his daughter (1617); II. 194.
—— letters of the, 1640 sq.; II. 9.
—— letter to the, from the English army [temp. Car. I.?]; I. 63.
—— See Lisle, Viscount.
Duke of, 1684; I. 56.
Northumbria, kingdom of; I. 53.
Norton, priory of, deeds belonging to the; I. 48.
Norton:
Mr., his work touching the Philosopher's Stone; I. 32.
Thomas, prisoner in the Tower, 1550, letters and diary of; II. 40, 42.
—— his "Chain of Treasons"; II. 42.
—— a paper by; II. 41.
—— his "Observations touching the Bishop's Articles"; II. 44.
Norway:
discourse on the state of, 1588; II. 151.
negotiations with, temp. Jac. I. et Car. I.; I. 125.
King of, charter and letter of the (early); II. 191.
Norwich:
the Bishop's Registry at, records in; I. xi.
—— report on MSS. in; I. 86.
Dean and Chapter of, Records of the; I. xi.
—— report on MSS. of the; I. 87.
Corporation of, records of the; I. xi.
—— report on the records of the; I. 102.
list of the bailiffs, mayors, and sheriffs of; I. 88.
documents relative to Gladman's insurrection at, 1444; I. 103.
municipal laws of; II. 40.
petitions of certain preachers in, against the Bishop, 1576; II. 44.
Bishop of, letter to the (1570 circ.); II. 154.
—— E. (? Reynolds), to Lord Hatton (undated); I. 27.
—— Anthony, certificate by, 1684; I. 52.
—— John Moore, letters of, 1697, 1702, &c.; I. 87; II. 114, 232. See Moore, Dr. John.
—— William Lloyd ("now deposed"), to the Earl of Nottingham (1704); I. 27. See Lloyd.
—— See Trimnell, Charles.
church of, history of the; I. 88.
—— a missal written for the (15th cent.); I. 89.
diocese of, a register of acts and correspondence within the, 16th cent.; I. 86.
—— collections for the history of the, by Tanner; I. 87.
the Domesday Book of; I. 87.
guild of St. George, books and accounts of the; I. 104.
prior and convent of, books relating to the; I. 88, 89.
prior and monks of, a bill found by a jury against the, for a riot; I. 104.
Norwich:
R., to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Sir Roger; I. 23.
—— letter to; I. 25.
Notarial instruments, in Westminster Abbey; I. 95, 96.
Notarial writs, at Glasgow; I. 126.
Notaries, payments to, 14th cent.; II. 140.
Note-book, a, 1723; I. 38.
Nottele, abbey of, documents relating to the; I. 70.
Nottingham:
Corporation of, records of the; I. xi.
—— report on the MSS. of the; I. 105.
Nottingham—cont.
a document relating to a riot at, 1471; I. 106.
letter of Charles I. dated at; II. 170.
county of, deeds relating to places in the; I. 12.
Countess of, letters to the; I. 26; II. 8.
—— Anne, to Lord Hatton and others (250 letters, undated); I. 27.
—— Margaret, to Sir Anthony Sinckler (? date); I. 27.
Earl of, letter of the, 1619; II. 57.
—— —— 1622; II. 60.
—— Daniel, the oaths taken by him as a Privy Councillor, &c.; I. 27.
—— Lord Chancellor, to Lord Hatton, 1681; I. 27.
—— letters of (17th cent.); II. 15.
—— to Lord Hatton and others, 1683–1726 (290 letters and 86 drafts); I. 27.
—— letters of the, 1697–9; II. 18.
—— letterbook of the, 1702–4; I. 31.
—— letters to the (17th & 18th cent.); I. 15–30.
—— Secretary of State, letters to, 1692; II. 2.
—— letter from M. de Schmettau to, 1699; I. 27.
—— a draft in his hand; I. 26.
—— a protest in his handwriting, 1703; I. 29.
—— corrects the drafts of Royal speeches; I. 30.
—— notes by; I. 33.
Earl and Countess of, letters of the (circ. 1647); II. 184.
Nova Scotia:
whale fisheries in, 1614; I. 13. See Whale fisheries.
papers relating to, 18th cent.; II. 12.
Noy's Projects, 1634; II. 8.
Nugent:
A., letter of; II. 251.
Augustine, charge of treason against; II. 235.
R., letter of; II. 41.
Susanna, and the title of Riverston; II. 234.
Nuncio. See Papal Nuncio.
Nuns, English, obituary of (called "Poor Clares of Dunkirk"); I. 92.

O.

Oates, Titus:
admission of, into Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge; II. 117.
conspiracy of; I. 18.
depositions of, before Sir E. Godfrey; I. 54.
names of conspirators discovered by; II. 89.
his "Popish Plot;" I. 44; II. 147.
—— copies of confessions of Bedloe and Dugdale touching; II. 8.
—— notes touching; II. 34.
—— papers relating to; I. 58.
—— letters touching; II. 19.
See Plot.
Oath of Association, the (in Scotland, temp. Jac. VI.); I. 47.
Oaths:
of abjuration, on taking certain offices, against transubstantiation, touching the Solemn League and Covenant, &c.; I. 103.
municipal; I. 130; II. 238.
Obits:
indentures touching; I. 70, 75.
yearly, a statement of; I. 75.
list of, temp. Hen. VI.; I. 101.
lists of, from 1340 (at Aberdeen); I. 122.
compositions touching, 15th cent.; II. 131.
lists of; II. 179.
Obligations, a book of, temp. Phil. et Mar.; I. 32.
—— at York; I. 108.
O'Brien:
—, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Henry, to Mr. Hatton; I. 27.
Lucius, letters of; I. 127.
O'Briens, family of, Irish poems relating to the; II. 224.
O'Carrol, John, of Clounlish, order for searching the house of, &c., 1639; II. 217.
Ochiltre:
Earl of, and others, bond by [1569?]; II. 185.
Lady Margaret, letters of; I. 116.
Ochinus, Dialogue of, touching Polygamy; I. 53.
Ockham, a work by, "On the Poverty of the Saviour;" II. 141.
O'Conor Don, M.P.:
MSS. of the; II. xxi.
report on the MSS. of the; II. 223.
O'Conors, family of; II. 223, 224.
O'Donels, family of; II. 223, 224.
Office of the B. V. Mary, copies of the, 15th and 16th cent.; II. 34.
Officers:
&c., list of, in the suite of His Catholic Majesty; I. 27.
in the Royal service (Jac. I. et Car. I.), names of; I. 31.
of State, list of, temp. Eliz.; I. 60.
accomptable to the King, treatise on; II. 90.
Offices:
account of all, in the King's gift (temp. Jac. I.); II. 44.
and fees, a true collection of, in the Courts at Westminster and in the Royal Household, 17th cent.; I. 49.

Digitized by Google

Offices, books of, 14th and 15th cent. ; II. 81, 109.
—— list of books of, with their values ; II. 110.
Ogilby, Mr. ; I. 13.
Ogilvy :
family of, papers of the ; II. 187, 188.
Lord, letters of ; II. 191.
Lords, papers of ; II. 187, 188.
Gualterus, his panegyric addressed to Henry VIII. ; I. 124.
Walter, of Findlater ; II. 184.
Ogle :
Lord, letters of, 1664, sq. ; II. 17.
Lady ; I. 17.
D., to Lord Hatton ; I. 27.
Dorothy, her will ; I. 27.
Sir John, letters of ; I. 54, 56.
Ohr, Lieut.-Gen., letter from William III. to ; I. 26.
Okebourne (Wilts), priory of, deeds touching its estates ; I. 69.
O'Kellys, family of, Irish poems relating to the ; II. 224.
O'Kenedys, of Tipperary ; II. 217.
O'Kennedy, Farell, letter of ; II. 218.
"Old England," references to a newspaper entitled ; II. 12.
Oldfield, Sam., to Lord —— ; I. 27.
Oldsworth, Michael, letters of ; I. 43.
Oliphant, Lord, John, indenture between Lord Graham and ; II. 167.
Oliver, Rachel, to Lord —— ; I. 27.
O'Molloy, Donnell Mac Cahirr ; II. 217.
O'Moore, Ro., letter of ; II. 218.
O'Neile, Shane, instructions to the English envoy in Scotland touching ; II. 96.
O'Neile, Sir Henry ; II. 211.
O'Neills, family of, Irish poems relating to the ; II. 224.
Opdam, M., his account of the battle of Kheren ; I. 21.
Opera, the, 1720–2, notices of ; II. 71.
Orange :
Prince of ; I. 21.
—— instructions to English envoys to the, 1575–6 ; II. 97.
—— letters touching the, 1619 ; II. 55.
—— letter of the, 1625 ; II. 62.
—— letter to the, 1627 ; II. 63.
—— letters of the, 1738 sq. ; II. 191.
—— —— 1794–5 ; II. 29.
See William, Prince of Orange.
Princess of, 1684 ; I. 23. See Mary.
Orations, by members of one of the Universities, (Hen. VIII. to Eliz.) ; I. 60.
Ordinations of ministers, in the Registers at Wells ; I. 92.
Ordnance :
papers concerning ; II. 40.
iron, advice concerning ; I. 32.
reasons to maintain the transportation of the King's, temp. Car. I. ; I. 43.
papers on, 1670–88 ; II. 11, 12.
Commissioners of, to the Earl of Nottingham ; I. 27.
Office, letter touching the, 1688 ; II. 11.
O'Reillys, family of ; II. 223.
Orem's History of Old Aberdeen ; II. 200.
Orford, Lord, Horace Walpole, letter of, 1794 ; II. 34. See Walpole.
Organ, a new, by Justinian Morse ; I. 52.
Oriental MSS. :
in the Advocates' Library ; I. 125.
of Dr. Pocock (1691) ; II. 64.
Orkney :
Norse deeds relating to ; II. 191.
writs, inventory of ; II. 191.
and Shetland, shire of ; I. 16.
—— the vice-admiral in the islands of, 1727 ; II. 178.
Earl of, journey by, 1722 ; II. 25.
Orkneys, account of the, under the family of Sinclair ; II. 192.
Orleans :
Leonard, letters to his mother, Mary of Guise ; I. 124.
L. M. T. B. d', letters of, 1780 ; II. 13.
Père d', translation of his account of the Revolution ; II. 80.
Orlow, Count, letter from, to J. J. Rousseau, with the reply ; II. 19.
Ormistoun, laird of ; II. 176.
Ormonde :
Marquis of, his collection at Kilkenny Castle ; II. xxi.
—— report on the muniments of the ; II. 209.
Duchess of ; II. 205.
Earl of, letter of the, 1622 ; II. 61.
—— petition of the officers and soldiers under his command, 1638 ; I. 130.
—— letter of the, 1648 ; II. 87.
Earls and Dukes of, a MS. relating to the ; II. 213, 214.
Duke of ; I. 15, 27.
—— Lieutenant-General in Ireland, orders by the, 1643 ; II. 220.
—— Lord Lieutenant of Somerset, mandate to the, 1666 ; I. 58.
—— instructions by the, 1679 ; II. 216.
—— his affairs in Holland, 1689 ; I. 18.
—— memorandum for the ; II. 235.
—— depositions of the, 1702 ; I. 25.
—— attainder of the, &c., 1715–7 ; II. 234.
Ormonde, Duke of—cont.
—— draft of a declaration by the ; I. 27.
—— to the Bishop of Dromore, 1656 ; I. 27.
—— letter to the, 1659 ; II. 216.
—— letters of the, 1660 sq. ; II. 9.
—— letters to the, 1663–78 ; II. 216.
—— letters of the, 1665–6 ; II. 10.
—— —— 1668 ; II. 211.
—— —— 1668–75 ; II. 212.
—— —— 1677–86 ; I. 56.
—— Lord Lieutenant, letter of the, 1678 ; I. 130.
—— letter of the, 1684 ; II. 1.
—— to Lord [Nottingham], 1702 ; I. 27.
—— letter of the, 1720 ; I. 218.
—— correspondence of John Methuen with the ; I. 26.
account of the family of Butler of the house of, by Robert Rothe, 1616 ; II. 224.
Ormsby-Gore, J. R., Esq., M.P., of Brogyntyn, Salop :
MSS. of ; II. xi.
report on his MSS. at Porkington ; II. 84.
Orologium Sapientie, a tretyse drawen out of the booke clepede (15th cent.) ; II. 84.
Orosius, King Alfred's translation of ; I. 60.
Orrery, Earl of, letters of the, 1667 ; II. 18.
O'Ruarcs, family of ; II. 223, 224.
Osborn :
Sir George, Bart., of Chicksands, MSS. of ; II. xi.
—— report on the MSS. of ; II. 65.
John (at Dresden), letters of ; I. 26.
Lord Treasurer, letters of, 1673 ; I. 27.
Serjeant ; II. 235.
Oscott (near Birmingham), College of St. Mary :
MSS. belonging to ; I. xi.
report on MSS. belonging to the ; I. 89.
a MS. of ; II. xiii.
additional report ; II. 125.
Oseney Abbey, a deed of ; II. 128.
Osnaburgh, Bishop of ; I. 18.
Ospringe (Kent), monastery or hospital of, deeds relating to the ; I. 74, 76, 77.
Ossian's Poems, Gaelic MSS. collected in the course of the inquiry into the authenticity of ; I. 125.
Ossory :
Bishops of, grants by and letters of ; I. 129, 130.
Bishops and bishopric of, papers connected with the, 1641–6, and 1689 ; II. 225, 226, 227.
Earl of ; I. 18.
—— letters of the, 1665–6 and 1678 ; II. 10.
—— —— 1668–78 ; I. 56.
—— his speech in the House of Lords, 1679 II.
Osuna, Duc d', letter from the, to James I. ; II. 45.
Ostend vessels ; I. 18.
Osterman, Count, letters of ; II. 213.
Otway :
John, to the Countess of Thanet ; I. 27.
Thomas ; II. 71.
Oudart, N., letters of ; II. 89.
Oudenarde :
letter from the camp at, 1694 ; II. 88.
battle of, account of the ; II. 25.
Oudini, Casimiri, Trias Dissertationum Criticarum, &c. ; II. 233.
Oundle, rector of, deed of the ; I. 82.
Ousley, John, letter to ; I. 27.
Overbury :
Sir Giles and Walter, registrars of the Office of Assurance in London, their petition, 1634 ; I. 34.
Sir Thomas, his Observations on the state of France ; I. 61.
—— arraignments of various persons for the poisoning of ; I. 47.
—— letter touching the poisoning of, 1615 ; II. 87.
Overtoun, Colonel, one of Cromwell's captains ; II. 198.
Owen :
Sir John, Sheriff of Carnarvonshire, letters to, from Prince Rupert and others ; II. 86, 87.
—— his articles of high treason against the Archbishop of York ; II. 86.
—— letter of ; II. 87.
Mrs., letters to ; II. 88.
Sir Robert, letters to ; II. 87, 88.
Oxburgh, Howard, Col. ; II. 221, 222.
Oxenford :
Elizabeth, to Sir Chr. Hatton ; I. 27.
F., to Sir Chr. Hatton ; I. 27.
Oxenford, report on the Earl of Stair's MSS. at ; II. 188.
Oxford, reports on the MSS. of the following colleges at :
Corpus Christi College ; II. xiv., 126.
Exeter College ; II. xiv., 127.
Jesus College ; II. xv., 130.
Lincoln College ; II. xiv., 130.
New College ; II. xiv., 132.
Oriel College ; II. xiv., 136.
Queen's College ; II. xv., 137.
Trinity College ; II. xv., 142.
Worcester College ; II. xv., 143.

Oxford:
notices of journeys to, temp. Ric. II.; II. 34.
certain passages of the Parliament at; I. 34.
account of a riot at, 1683; II. 116.
news from, 1685; I. 24.
riot at, 1715; II. 234.
projected publication of Hebrew MSS. at, 1715–7; II. 234, 254.
ballad, a Cambridge madrigal regarding an; I. 13.
Bodleian Library, a MS. purchased by the Curators of the; II. viii. See Tanner, Bishop.
Christ Church; I. 17.
church of All Saints, payment for building the chancel of the, 1472; II. 130.
—— St. Mary at, charter to the; I. 71.
city and county of, deeds touching the; II. 138.
Corpus Christi College, indenture by; II. 142.
Gloucester Hall, letters to the principal of, 20 Eliz.; II. 73.
Hart Hall, presents of books to; II. 71 (bis).
Jesus College, list of plate of; II. 64.
Magdalen College, account of James II.'s interview with the Fellows of; II. 8.
—— mandate of James II. for Ric. Short to be Fellow of; II. 147.
—— letter from the Fellows of, to Archbishop Parker; II. 134.
New College, lette ridated at, 1781; II. 13.
Oriel College, letters dated at; II. 72, 73.
prior of St. Frideswyde's, deeds by the; II. 126.
St. John's College, lands claimed by; II. 73.
University of, a roll of depositions relative to riots in the, 1411; II. 137.
—— injunctions by the Commissaries for visiting the, 1548; II. 127.
—— a tragedy acted before the, by the students of Christ Church, 1618; I. 48.
—— copy of Charles I.'s confirmation of its liberties; II. 78.
—— the "pretended Visitors" of the, during the civil war; ib.
—— its refusal to obey James II.'s mandates; I. 22.
—— its right to print Bibles; II. 71.
—— vice-chancellor of the, letters from Charles I. to the (giving thanks for the loan, and appointing Visitors); II. 78.
—— —— Jonathan Edwards, his roll of account, 1691–2; II. 64.
University College; I. 75.
commissions of Charles I. dated at; II. 172.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 73.
county of, charters, &c. touching lands in the; II. 35, 93.
"Oxford Prologue," The; II. 69.
Oxford, Bishop of; I. 16.
—— John (? Fell), to Lord and Lady Hatton (419 letters, undated); I. 27.
—— a letter relating to his illness, undated; I. 27.
Oxford, Earl of:
John de Vere, grant by Ric. III. out of the forfeited estates of; I. 73.
letter of the, 1634; II. 62.
grant by the, 20 Jas. I.; I. 33.
Lord, letters of; II. 15.
—— flight of, 1715; II. 234.
—— trial of, 1717, ib.
Oxfuird, Viscount and Lady, accounts of, 1666–7; II. 191.
Oysel. See Doysel.

P.

P. (?) L., to Miss Hatton; I. 28.
Pace, Richard:
letter from William Latimer to; I. 25.
letter from Thomas Lupset to; I. 26.
Packer, John:
letter of; II. 60.
letters to; II. 53, 55, 56, 57, 59 to 62.
Packington, family of, correspondence of the; II. 73. See Pakington.
Padua:
letter dated at, 17th cent.; II. 194.
letters testimonial touching degrees taken at; II. 118.
university of, description of the [temp. Car. I.]; I. 67.
Page, Thomas, letter of; II. 211.
Pageant, a yearly, 15th cent.; I. 108.
Pageants:
accounts of, temp. Hen. VI.; I. 100.
description of, 1613; I. 107.
of various trades; I. 109.
at Aberdeen; I. 121, 122.
Paget:
Lord, to George Stepney; I. 38.
—— letters from Mary Queen of Scots to; II. 41.
Lady, letter from Q. Elizabeth to; II. 37 (bis).
Sir Arthur, despatches to and from; II. 3.
—— correspondence of, 1804–5; II. 3.
Painter:
a Dutch, letter of, 1688; II. 12.
payments to a, 1 Hen. VIII.; I. 76.
payments to a, for portraits, 17th cent.; II. 129.
Paintings:
in early MSS.; II. 7, 81, 146.
contract for, 17th cent.; II. 185.
at Woburn Abbey, list of; II. 2.
See Drawings; Pictures; Portraits.
Paisley, abbot of; II. 167.
Pakington:
Humphrey; II. 36.
Sir John; II. 36. See Packington.
Palatinate, the:
war of; II. 195.
affairs of, 1622; I. 57.
a treatise on the affairs of, in Italian, temp. Car. I.; II. 8.
Palatine:
Count, Frederick, instructions to the English ambassador to, 1568; II. 96.
—— Frederick IV., letter of, 1608; II. 51.
—— letter from James I. to, 1609; II. 51.
Elector, Frederick V., letter from James I. to, 1613; II. 52.
—— letter from, to James I., 1623; I. 58.
—— correspondence of, with James I., 1632–3; II. 46.
Elector, papers concerning the, 1651; II. 83.
—— letters of the, ib.
—— letters touching the, 1676; II. 82.
—— letter from William III. to the; I. 36.
—— letter from the Cardinal Primate to the, 1699; I. 37.
—— Charles, letter of, 1719; II. 189.
Electress, Elizabeth, letter from James I. to; II. 52.
—— letters from, to James I.; II. 53. See also Bohemia, Queen of; and Elizabeth.
Electress, Elizabeth Augusta, letter of, 1765; II. 13.
Maison Electorale, memoirs of the assistance given to it by James I. & Chas. I.; II. 83.
Palatines, in Ireland; II. 234.
—— collections for, ib.
—— encouragement of; ib.
—— a colony of; II. 235.
Palavicino, Sir Horatio, letters of; II. 50.
"Palladius de cura equorum et bouu," an Italian MS., 15th cent.; I. 90.
Pallin, John, chancellor of the church of Lincoln, a play by; I. 61.
Palliser, William, Archbishop of Cashel, letters of; II. 232.
Pallot, Dan., to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Palmer:
—, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Henry, Captain, instructions to, 1570; II. 97.
John, to Lord Hatton; I. 27 (bis).
Palmerston, Lord:
Henry first, letters of; I. xiii.
despatches to, 1881–2; II. 3.
Pamphili, Cardinal, copy of instructions for, 1641; I. 27.
Pamphlets:
a bundle of; I. 30.
catalogue of, 17th & 18th cent.; I. 46.
—— 1719; II. 4.
collection of, belonging to Sir C. W. Dilke; II. 63.
legal, 16th & 17th cent.; II. 99, 90. See Tracts.
Pandects, portions of copies of the; I. 99.
Panmure:
Castle, the Earl of Dalhousie's collection at; I. xii.
—— report on the same; I. 117.
Earl of, letter of the, 1653; II. 191.
—— accounts of the, 1699–1700; I. 118.
—— letters, journals, and papers of the, 1717–20; I. 117, 118, 119.
Registrum de, I. 119; about to be printed by the Earl of Dalhousie; II. ix.
Panmuir, family of, collections from the archives of the; I. 119.
Panstratia Catholica. See Chamier, Daniel.
Panter:
Andrew, burgess of Monros, charter to; II. 167.
—— indenture by; II. 167.
David, Bishop of Ross, correspondence of; I. 124.
Pantheon, letter touching the, 1777; II. 13.
Papal:
affairs, a MS. relating to; II. 90.
bulls. See Bulls, Papal.
dispensations, &c., I. 96. See Dispensations.
Nuncio to Queen Elizabeth, (a request that he might enter England); I. 42.
Nuncio, the, to James II.; I. 22.
—— invited to the Lord Mayor's feast, 1685; I. 24.
—— letter from the Pope to the, (no date); I. 27.
supremacy, oaths of bishops repudiating the, 1534; II. 155.
Paparum, Catalogus, (16th cent.); II. 4.
Papist, copy of a recantation by a, [temp. Car. II.?]; II. 83.
Papists:
a Scotch proclamation touching, 1570; II. 43.
instructions touching, 1577; II. 97.
a letter of the Lord Treasurer intercepted, published, and answered by the, 1592; I. 14.

Digitized by Google

Papists—cont.
names of, [temp. Eliz.] ; II. 41.
a poem against, [temp. Car. I. ?] ; I. 63.
Committee for sequestration of, proceedings of the, 1649 ; II. 73.
proclamation of Richard Cromwell concerning ; II. 92.
plot of the, and the number of them in Parliament ; I. 22.
the Act to remove, from London ; I. 18.
disabled from sitting in Parliament ; I. 21.
catalogue of, in Cheshire [? temp. Car. II.] ; I. 47.
Council letters for disarming of, 1689 ; II. 78.
Bill passed against, 1699 ; II. 233.
names of, in Devon, 1707 ; I. 52.
estates, valuation of, 1716 ; I. 45.
returns of the names and prosecutions of, at Norwich ; I. 103.
Pardon, a, under the Great Seal, temp. Edw. II. ; I. 50.
—— a, by George III. ; I. 128.
Pardons :
special and general, temp. Car. I. ; I. 33.
—— warrants for ; I. 34.
copies of I. 46.
a treatise on, 18th cent. ; I. 54.
Paris :
prisoners at the Conciergerie, letter of the, 1625 ; II. 62.
English ambassador at, letters of the, 1678 ; I. 56.
English envoy extraordinary at, letters of, 1679–82 ; I. 86.
English ambassador to, correspondence of the, 1699 ; I. 13.
expenses of students at, 17th cent. ; I. 116.
description of a journey to, 17th cent. ; I. 116.
letters from an English spy in, 1701 ; I. 13.
journal of journey from, to Scotland, 1720 ; I. 117.
English minister at, correspondence of the, 1782–3 ; I. 13 ; his credentials ; ib.
letter describing scenes at, 1789 ; II. 24.
the Scotch College in ; I. 117.
—— documents formerly in the ; I. 120.
—— history of the, by Thomas Winterhope ; I. 121.
—— Louis XIV's confirmation of the, &c. ; I. 121.
—— a copy of Fordun formerly belonging to the ; I. 121.
—— some of the Dillon papers sent to the ; II. 33.
—— a chartulary in the ; II. 186.
—— MSS. of the, supposed to be preserved in the Catholic College of Blairs ; II. 201.
letters dated at, 16th cent. ; II. 50, 202.
—— 17th cent. ; I. 13, 16, 54, 55, 61 ; II. 15, 16, 18, 51, 52, 53, 57, 59, 61, 62, 86, 87, 170, 176, 184, 185.
—— 18th cent. ; I. 17, 47, 57, 72, 73, 189.
Parish clerk, election of a, in Scotland, 1541 ; II. 193.
Parisians, French King's speech to the, [1572 ?] ; II. 151.
Parker :
Matthew, Archbishop of Canterbury, correspondence of ; II. 153, 154, 155, 156.
Robert, Captain, his Memoirs of Military Transactions in Ireland and Flanders (William and Mary) ; I. 129.
Parliament ; I. 20. form and manner of keeping the, temp. Ric. II. ; II. 8.
proposition made by the Papal Collector in, 14 Hen. VI. ; II. 39.
at Bury St. Edmund's, 1446, narrative relative to the ; II. 2.
bill of expenses for attending, 31 Hen. VI. ; I. 103.
the first, of James I. ; I. 62.
grievances and demands of, 1610 ; I. 48.
numerous papers relating to, temp. Jac. I. et Car. I. ; I. 43.
History of the sittings and deliberations in, 1625 ; I. 42.
the first, of Charles I., specimen Calendar of Papers relating to the ; II. 106, 107.
at Oxford, "certain passages" of the ; I. 54.
a remonstrance concerning impositions without the aid of, &c. ; I. 31.
a conference between both Houses of, [temp. Car. I. ?] ; I. 63.
the, of 1640 ; I. 22.
"Diurnal occurrences" in, 1640–1 ; II. 8, 72, 98.
meeting of, 1656 ; I. 19.
papers relating to, during the Commonwealth ; I. 44.
canvassing for the, 1678 ; I. 16.
the, 1688 ; I. 16.
debates of the Lords and Commons of, in the Conference, 1688 ; I. 34.
the Convention ; I. 113. See Convention Parliament. accounts of debates in, temp. Guil. et Mar. ; I. xiii.
the, 1701 (?) ; I. 18.
few debates in, 1727 ; II. 235.
account of the opening of, 1762 ; I. 56.
account of the High Court of, (by Robert Beale) ; II. 42.
Act of, 3 Edw. VI., touching the relief, printed by Grafton in black letter ; II. 67.
—— 18 Eliz., exemplification of an ; I. 33.
—— (a printed), 43 Eliz. ; I. 33.
Acts of ; I. 30.
—— in the Victoria Tower ; I. 4.
—— copies of the ; I. 32.
—— (copies, temp. Edw. III.) ; I. 109.

Parliament—cont.
Acts of ; 27 Hen. VI. ; II. 9.
clerks of, covertly furnished copies of the minutes to newsmen [17th cent.] ; I. 44.
history of, temp. Car. I., by Sir John Eliot ; I. 42. journal of debates in the Lower House of, 1593 ; II. 2 ; ditto, 1601 ; ib.
journals of, from Hen. VIII. to Jas. I. ; II. 3.
—— I–43 Eliz. ; II. 45.
—— temp. Eliz., Jac. I. et Car. I. ; I. 24, 31.
—— 1627–8 ; II. 78.
—— 1640–1 ; ib.
—— 1640–2 ; I. 63.
—— 1673 (copies) ; II. 79.
—— 1661–85 (extracts) ; ib.
—— 1660–81 (17 vols.) ; ib.
—— abstract of, 1604 ; II. 46.
list of the knights and burgesses of, 1571 ; I. 46.
Lords of, orders by the, 1647, &c. ; II. 122.
members of, list of, 1654 ; II. 91.
—— letters touching elections of, 15th, 16th, and 17th cent. ; II. 91, 92.
names of persons summoned to ; I. 32.
orders of, 1646–8 ; II. 221.
proceedings in, account of, 1318 ; I. 88.
—— temp. Edw. III. ; II. 43.
—— 7 & 8 James I. ; II. 43.
—— temp. Jac. I. et Car. I. ; II. 44.
—— at Oxford, I Car. I ; II. 44.
—— 1625–6 ; I. 42.
—— 1625–7 ; I. 62.
—— 1625–8 ; II. 3.
—— 1627 ; II. 5.
—— 1627 sq. ; II. 43.
—— 1628 ; II. 1.
—— 1640–1 ; I. 54.
—— 1642 ; I. 31.
—— 1644–8 ; II. 220, 221.
—— 1667 and 1679 ; II. 3.
—— 1689 ; II. 8.
—— 17th cent. ; I. 113.
—— 1701 ; II. 233.
—— 1741–3 ; II. 81.
speeches in ; I. 30.
—— 1625–7 ; I. 62.
—— 1625 and 1628 ; II. 3.
—— 1640 ; I. 63.
—— temp. Car. I. ; II. 7.
—— for the liberty of the person (Car. I.) ; I. 43.
speeches by James I. to ; I. 62, 63.
speeches of Charles I. to, touching war ; I. 54, 62.
speeches of Charles II. to, 1673 and 1677 ; II. 83.
royal speeches to ; I. 30.
summonses to (copies) ; I. 49, 63.
tract addressed to, entitled, "The mad (wise) man's Admonition ;" I. 62.
treatises on ; II. 44 (bis), 79.
treatises by Sir Robert Cotton concerning, temp. Jac. I. et Car. I. ; II. 90, 91.
Judicature in, by Sir Robert Cotton ; I. 31.
a View of the Jurisdiction of, by Sir R. Cotton ; I. 42.
Institution, power, and jurisdiction of, by Judge Hales ; I. 14.
Of the Antiquitie of (a treatise) ; I. 53.
Upper House of, "remembrances for order and decency to be kept" in the ; II. 79.
See Commons, House of ; Lords, House of.
Parliament Rolls :
copies of the, Edw. I. to Hen. VII. ; II. 46.
copies, Edw. III. and Ric. II. ; II. 79.
temp. Hen. VI., letter touching the ; I. 24.
books of extracts from the ; I. 31.
Parliamentaria, Placita, Edw. I. (extracts) ; I. 32.
Parliamentaria, Summonitiones, Hen. III. to Hen. VIII. (extracts) ; I. 32.
Parliamentary :
affairs, a volume relating to, I–38 Hen. VIII. ; I. 31.
—— books and papers relating to, 1599–1680 ; I. 31.
authorities in London, correspondence of, with the mayor and aldermen of Coventry ; I. 100.
committee, the, at Coventry, during the civil war, its doings ; I. 101.
elections (1695?) ; I. 16.
—— 1702 ; I. 20.
news (date?) ; I. 19.
—— 1640 ; I. 51.
—— 1684–5 ; I. 23, 24.
—— 1689–1704 ; I. 22.
—— 1690–1700 ; I. 23.
papers ; I. 30.
—— printed ; I. 30.
Parliaments :
"A true Presentacon of forepast Parliaments to the Views," &c. ; II. 3.
annual, a Dialogue concerning ; I. 63.
triennial, the King's speech on the passing of the Bill for ; I. 63.

Digitized by Google

Parliamentum, Modus tenendi, by Elsing; I. 32; II. 81.
—— (copy of the, 15th cent.); I. 53.
—— English versions of the; II. 40, 41, 81.
Parma:
Archduchess of, negotiations of Queen Elizabeth with the; II. 39.
—— letter of the; II. 40.
Prince of, instructions to an ambassador to the [temp. Jac. I.]; II. 85.
Parroys, Madame de, letters of; I. 194.
Parry, —, account of his execution, by Vaughan, with an epitaph; II. 41.
Parry, Adam, letters of; II. 42.
Parslow, Henry, to Lord ——; I. 27.
Parsons:
family of, documents relating to the, at Parsonstown Castle, Ireland; I. 137.
—— papers of the; II. 217–223.
the Jesuit, alias R. Doleman, his treatise concerning succession in the throne of England; I. 45.
—— letter touching, 1619; II. 56.
—— treatise by; II. 110.
—— declaration touching; II. 153.
—— papers relating to; II. 154.
—— See Persons, Father.
Sir Laurence, letters of; I. xiii., 127; II. 232.
—— his drafts and notes of speeches in the Irish Parliament; I. 128.
Sir William, autograph of; I. 131.
Parsons' Lawe, The, by W. II. of Grayes Inn, 1637; II. 89.
Parsonstown Castle:
the Earl of Rosse's MSS. at; I. xii.
—— report on the same; I. 127.
—— second report on the same; II. 217.
papers relating to the siege of, 1642 and 1688; II. 218–223.
Paske, Dr. Thomas, Master of Clare College Cambridge, letters to; II. 116.
Pasley, chartulary of; II. 186.
Passio D. N. Jhesu Christi, sive Testamentum Nichodemi; II. 144.
Passion, Instruments of our Lord's, early English poems on the; II. 146, 201, 202.
Passports, temp. Eliz.; II. 83.
Pastorelle Trage-comedye, a, by Samuel Daniells; I. 116.
Patentees, a poem against [temp. Car. I.?]; I. 63.
Patents:
in the Hatton collection; I. 33.
a book of, from John to Edw. IV.; I. 31.
and commissions, return of, granted by Charles I.; I. 31.
of honours, a book of; I. 32.
petitions for; II. 42.
Paterson, John, Archbishop of Glasgow:
journal of, 1695–6; II. 192.
letters of; II. 203.
Patron, Jean, jun., to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Patshull (co. Staff.), report on the Earl of Dartmouth's MSS. at; II. 9.
Paul IV., Pope, a treatise addressed to; II. 151.
Paulden, Thomas, to Lord [Hatton] and another; I. 27.
Pavage, at Waterford; I. 132.
Paynell, Francis, of Boothbie (Leic.), inventory of goods of; II. 94.
Paynter, Henry, to Lady E. Hatton; I. 27.
Peace, commissions of the; I. 33, 34.
Peace of 1763, letters and papers touching the; II. 2.
Peach, Thomas, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Peake, F., Esq., of Bedford Row:
the Standish Papers sent by; II. xii.
—— sorted and repaired by the Public Record Office; II. ix.
—— report on; II. 92, 93 sq.
Pearde, Mr., of Castle Lyon, letters of; II. 68.
Peck:
Francis, his collections for Leicestershire; I. 11.
Mr., letters of; II. 204.
Pedigree, a, "from Adam" to 688; I. 11.
Pedigrees:
at Baginton Hall, Warw.; II. 79, 80.
at Belvoir Castle; I. 11.
in Lord Calthorpe's collection; II. 44.
among the Carlisle Cathedral MSS.; II. 195.
in the Hatton collection; I. 32.
in Mr. Ormsby Gore's collection; II. 88.
in Lord de Tabley's collection; I. 46, 47, 49.
See Genealogies; Heraldic MSS.
Peerage:
warrants for patents of; I. 34.
bill of, rejected, 1719; II. 235.
claims, proceedings and pleadings in various (17th cent.); II. 46.
Peers:
creations of, Hen. VII. to Eliz.; I. 32.
elections of, in Scotland, 1721; I. 117.
list of, in order, 1577; II. 31.
privileges due to; I. 32.
and peeresses, trials of, for treason, 17th cent.; I. 12.
Pelham:
H., letters of; II. 71.
Henry, letters of; II. 88.
T., letters of; I. 127.
Pelsant, Henry, vicar of Weatherfield, letter of; II. 122.
Pembroke:
county of; II. 138.
Countess of, Mary de St. Paul, foundress of Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1331–3; I. 70, 71.
—— a book compiled by order of the; II. 125.
Anne of, to Lady C. Hatton, 1668; I. 27.
Earl of, William Marshal, charter of; I. 71.
—— —— grants by; I. 130.
—— Henry, President of the Council in Wales, instructions to, 1586; II. 73.
—— —— letter of, 1590; II. 88.
—— —— 1591; II. 89.
—— letters of the, 1594; II. 86, 87.
—— letter of the, [temp. Jac. I.]; I. 67.
—— William, letter of, 1626; I. 68.
—— letters of the, (circ. 1647); II. 184.
—— sent to the Prince of Orange, 1688; I. 16.
—— letters of the, (18th cent.); I. 127.
—— Journal of the Lords on the trial of the; II. 8.
Penal laws, documents connected with the; I. 22.
Penant, Edward, letter of; II. 73.
Peniarth collection of MSS. of W. W. E. Wynne, Esq., report on the; II. 103.
Penn, William:
letters of, 1688–9; II. 10, 18.
his first charter of liberties on founding Pennsylvania, 1682; I. 52.
Penna Forti, Raymundi de, Summula de Summa; II. 145.
Pennington, John, captain of the Vanguard, Charles I.'s order to; I. 43.
Pennsylvania, province of, 1704; I. 21.
Penrith, town of, oath of fealty by the, [1603]; II. 124.
Penrose (Cornwall), report on Mr. Rogers' MSS. at; II. 98.
Penruddocke, [Sir] Thomas, letters of; I. 68.
Peory, John, examination, letters, and papers of; II. 43.
Pensionary, the Grand; I. 27.
—— his instructions to and correspondence with George Stepney, 1696–7; I. 35, 36.
—— letter to; I. 36.
Pensions granted by William III. and Anne; I. 33.
Penterridder, Mons. de, letter of; II. 190.
Pepys, Samuel:
letters of; I. 52; II. 10, 11, 12, 24.
—— while at the Admiralty; II. 9.
his report on the fleet, 1689; II. 11.
Pera, letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 59.
Perambulations; I. 50; II. 47.
Percage. See Fiefs.
Percevall, Mr., letter to, 1601; I. 30.
Perchard, Daniel, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Percies, an English poem on the descent of the; II. 6.
Percy:
Thomas, Bishop of Norwich, institution books of; I. 86.
Bishop, letters of; I. 127.
Perkins, Henry, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Pern, Andrew, Master of Peterhouse, Cambridge; II. 153.
Perrott:
Lady, letters of, 1591; II. 50.
Sir John and wife, v. Richard Wise, 1631; I. 51.
Pershore, vicar of, lease to the; II. 72.
charters relating to tenements in; II. 72.
Persia:
account of a journey from London to, 1561; I. 61.
memorial touching the trade through Russia to, 1740 II. 3.
Persian, the four Evangelists in; I. 109.
Persian Ambassador, letter from the Grand Vizier to the, [1612?]; II. 51.
Persons, Father, (John Philopatris), abstract of his book against the Queen's proclamation; I. 14. See Parsons.
Perth:
proclamations of the Jacobite army at; I. 117.
governor of, letter to the, 1715; II. 204.
extracts from the records of; I. 123.
letters dated at, 1651; II. 198.
shire of, commission by the, to the Earl of Montrose; II. 175.
—— lands in the; II. 167, 168.
Earl of, letter of the, 1688; II. 191.
Duchess of, her children abroad, [about 1730]; I. 118.
Duke of, with the Pretender in Italy, 1719; I. 117.
Pery, E., Speaker of the House of Commons of Ireland, letters of; I. 128.
Peter the Great, letter touching the equestrian statue of; II. 29.
Peter's Pence, receipts for, 1522–9; I. 76.
Peterborough, Bishop of; I. 20.
—— —— John (Towers), to Lady E. Hatton, 1642; I. 27.
—— —— William (Lloyd), to Lord Hatton, 1681–5; I. 27. See Lloyd, William.
—— —— Thomas (White), to Lord Hatton, 1686–8; I. 27.
—— —— Richard Cumberland, an order by, 1704; I. 33.

Digitized by Google

Peterborough, Earl of; I. 99, 27.
—— to Lord Hatton (four letters, undated); I. 27.
—— to Sir Jonathan Trelawney (no date); I. 51.
Petersburgh. See St. Petersburgh.
Peters:
Father, almoner to the King [James II.], letter of; II. 83.
Richard, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Petitions, in the Hatton collection; I. 30.
Petrarch's Sonnets and Triumphs (MS. 15th cent.); II. 81.
Petre, Sir William, his deed of gift to Exeter College, Oxon. &c.; II. 127.
Petrie, Bishop, letters to; II. 205.
Petyt MSS., the, in the Library of the Inner Temple; II. xv.
—— report on the; II. 151.
Petyt, Mr., abbreviations, &c. in old records explained by; II. 195.
Pfaff:
J. C., character of; II. 234.
Matthew; II. 233.
Phelips:
R., Esq., his collection at Montacute House, Somerset; I. ix.
—— Montacute papers belonging to, now in course of being arranged and bound; II. ix.
Sir Edward, Speaker of the House of Commons, and Master of the Rolls, papers of; I. 57. See Philips, Sir Edward.
Edward, son of Sir Robert, papers relating to; I. 58.
Francis, to James I.; I. 44. See Philips, Francis.
Sir Robert, M.P., papers of; I. 57.
—— copy of his diary while in Spain on the business of the Spanish match; I. 59.
—— speeches of, in Parliament, temp. Car. I.; I. 61.
Robert, son of Sir Robert; I. 58. See Philips.
Phelps, Richard, letters of, 1761; II. 37.
Philadelphia:
letter dated at, 1754; II. 38.
letters from, 1773–5; II. 12.
Philibert the Hermit, Vision of (a poem, 15th cent.); II. 84.
Philip of Spain:
Queen Mary's instructions to her ambassadors to, 1553; II. 96.
letters to and from Queen Elizabeth; II. 45.
Philip and Mary, King and Queen of England:
letters of; II. 4.
letter from, to the shires; II. 42.
writs of, to the Bishop of Norwich; I. 86.
Philip Augustus, King of France, memorandum on the coronation of; II. 258.
Philips (or Phillipps):
Sir Edward, M.P.; I. 63.
—— Speaker of the House of Commons, speech of; I. 62.
—— letter from James I. to, as Speaker; I. 62.
—— letter to; I. 62. See Phelips, Sir Edward.
Erasmus, to Lord ——; I. 27.
Francis, "his letter of Digbie's entertainments," &c., in Spain; I. 43. See Phelips, Francis.
Lady, letter to, 1634; II. 221.
Mrs., plays of; II. 70.
Morgan, B.D., his treatise on the Queen of Scots' right to the crown of England; II. 42.
Thomas, letters of; II. 10.
See Phelips.
Philomena, Fabula (a poem, 15th cent.); II. 80.
Philopatris, John (Father Persons). See Persons.
Philosophers, The Book of Moral Sayings of (qu. same as Caxton's Dictes and Sayings of Philosophers); I. 60.
Philosopher's Stone, the—a book of poetry headed, "Mr. Norton's work de lapide philosophorum"; I. 32.
Philosophical treatise, fragment of a [by James I.]; I. 43.
Philosophorum, Secretum (a tract, 15th cent.); II. 46.
Philosophy:
a work on, by Hector Boece; II. 200.
Moral, manual of, by Henry Scougal; II. 200.
Phipps, Sir C. and his party, 1714; II. 234 (bis).
"Phocion's Arraignment by the Commons," Observations on; I. 32.
Physicians:
Charles II.'s; II. 79.
hereditary, in Scotland; II. 181.
Pickman, —, captain at Berwick, "memorial" for; II. 97.
Picts, History of the, by Henry Maule; II. 186.
Pictures:
the Duke of Buckingham's letters touching (circ. 1650); II. 83.
inventories of, 17th cent.; II. 185.
letters touching, 18th cent.; II. 14.
schedule of, in a palace at Venice; I. 13.
at Woburn Abbey, list of; II. 2. See Drawings; Paintings.
Piedmont, Prince of:
proposed marriage with Elizabeth, daughter of James I.; I. 32.
Victor Amadeus, letter of [1624]; II. 62.
Pignerolle, De, of Angers, letter of; II. 48.
Pigot, Ric., of Oriel College, Oxford, letters of; II. 72, 73.
Pinchbeck, the confectioner and toyman (18th cent.); II. 14.
Pincod, Henry, letter of; I. 27.
Pinfold, Charles, to Lord Hatton; I. 127.
Pinguillon, ——, letters of; I. 134.
Pioneers, letter for a levy of [16th cent.]; II. 95.
Pippewell, abbey of, three books of the; I. 32.
Piranesi, G. B., letters of; I. 127.
Pirates:
discourse of Sir H. Manwayring on; I. 33.
instructions for capture of, temp. Eliz.; II. 97 (bis).
of Argim and Tunis, payments by the Cinque Ports for suppressing; II. 92.
Turkish, account of an engagement with; II. 99.
Pisa. See Trumbull, Sir W.
Pisanella, Summa, auctore Bartholomæo Pisano; II. 144.
Pisuna, G. G., letter of; II. 32.
Pit, Moses, bookseller, correspondence with; II. 232.
Pitcottie's Chronicles, by J. Hunter, 1727; II. 200.
Pitt:
Hester, wife of Lord Chatham, letters of; II. 24.
William, account of the first session of his administration, by H. Flood; I. 128.
—— memoranda touching the resignation of, 1761; II. 8.
—— speech of, in Parliament, 1762; I. 66.
—— a conspiracy to assassinate, 1794; I. 42.
—— letter of, 1759; II. 29.
—— letters of, 1792–1800; II. 192.
—— to Lord Eliot, 1797; I. 42.
—— letter of, 1800; II. 42.
—— See Chatham, Lord.
Sir W., General, letters of; II. 29.
Pitteinzie, Baron of, Duncan Toschach; II. 168.
Place Bill, debates on the; I. xiii.
Placita:
extracts from, Ric. I. and John; I. 32.
—— Edw. I.; I. 32.
coram Rege, at Westminster, temp. Hen. VII.; I. 88.
Parliamentaria; I. 24. See Plea Rolls; Pleas.
Plague:
ordinances touching the, at Bristol, 1575; I. 107.
the, 1578; II. 142.
—— 1625–99; I. 107.
—— 1637; II. 42.
the Great, 1665, letters touching; II. 10, 48, 118.
—— documents connected with; II. 81.
—— reminiscences of the; II. 147.
taxation for the relief of persons infected with, at Coventry; I. 101.
records relating to visitations of the; I. 122.
Plantations:
a discourse upon our foreign, with grounds for erecting a West India Company; II. 4.
clergymen for the; II. 235.
Plate:
silver, belonging to Westminster Abbey, 1463; I. 95.
pledged by Richard III. to an alderman of London; I. 50.
inventory of, temp. Eliz.; I. 80.
for relief of Charles I. (list of); II. 23.
college, given for relief of Charles I., letters and papers relating to; II. 127, 130, 137, 138, 142.
a paper touching the coinage of, into money, 1643; II. 48.
inventories, descriptions, &c. of; I. 13, 66, 69, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 96, 97; II. 13, 64, 81, 111, 122, 130, 131, 135, 142, 185, 187.
Play:
a, of Robin Hood, 13 Hen. VII.; I. 107.
a, entitled Albumazar, with notes [by Shakespeare?]; I. x.
a, by John Pallin, chancellor of the church of Lincoln, 17th cent.; I. 61.
a, private, 1732; II. 24.
an Italian, "Origine di Venetia," by C. Cremonini; I. 32.
Players:
payment to, 1449; I. 104.
of Queen Elizabeth, Earl of Leicester, and others, payments to; II. 149, 150.
committal of a person for allowing them to play within his house without licence, 1603; I. 105.
Lord Coke's letter forbidding the acting of, in Lent; I. 100. licence to, by the Lord Chamberlain, 1730; II. 71.
of interludes, petition to Parliament against (no date); I. 104.
French, letter touching; II. 19.
Playhouse, the King's, account of a fire at, 1672; II. 22.
Plays:
17th cent.; II. 70.
list of books of, 16th cent.; II. 102.
the Chester Mystery; I. 49.
Scotch; I. 122.
Plea Roll, a, of 22 Edw. I.; I. 11.
Plea Rolls, extracts from; I. 46. See Placita.
Pleadings, at Kilkenny, 1349; I. 130.
Pleas of Assize, roll of, 1 Hen. V.; I. 11.
Pleas of the Crown, at Kilkenny, 1325–6; I. 130.
—— relating to Colchester Abbey, copies of; II. 7.
Plessis Mornay, M. du, letters of; II. 50.

Digitized by Google

Plot:
letter concerning a, 17th cent.; I. 13.
confessions concerning the, 1679; I. 24. See Oates, Titus; and Popish Plot.
a new witness of the, 1684; I. 24.
a, by Dominic Langton, a friar, 1710; II. 234.
Ploughing and harrowing, particulars relative to, in early times; I. 89.
Plunket, Nicholas, an account of the war and rebellion in Ireland (17th cent.) ascribed to; II. 227–231.
Pluralists, in Ireland, letters touching, 1691–2; II. 232, 233.
Pluralities, dispensations for; I. 34.
Pluscardine, in Moray, priory of, charters of the; I. 111.
Plymouth:
commissioners at, Car. II.; I. 51.
commissioners of sick and wounded at, 1702; I. 19.
mayor of, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 27.
letters from, 17th cent.; I. 51, 52.
Plymouth, Earl of:
letters of the, 1661, sed post: II. 15.
to Lord Hatton and another, 1683; I. 37.
to Lord Hatton, 1683–6; I. 27.
letters of the, 1686; I. 56.
Plymptou Priory, rental of; II. 20.
Pocklington School, letters from, 17th cent.; I. 75.
Pocock:
Dr., Oriental MSS. of (1691); II. 64.
Edward, the divine and orientalist; II. 126.
Poem:
an alliterative (early); II. 80.
a Latin, describing a house and its contents, 15th cent.; I. 61.
a French, with an English translation, temp. Eliz.; I. 45.
a French, addressed to Charles I. and his Queen; II. 143.
a, against Parentees, Papists, and Bishops [temp. Car. I.?]; I. 63.
a Latin, on the affairs of Ireland, regnante Jac. II.; I. xii. 128.
a Pindaric, on the hurricane in Nov. 1703; I. 32.
Poems:
14th cent.; II. 201.
15th cent.; II. 4, 7, 84, 85, 202.
16th cent.; I. 61; II. 85.
17th cent.; I. 13, 42, 61, 63; II. 7 (bis), 106.
18th cent.; II. 205.
political, collection of, 1689; I. 45.
religious, 15th cent.; II. 80, 144, 145.
by Sir P. Leycester; I. 49.
early English; I. 60, 125; II. 89, 106, 146.
English and Welsh, 17th cent.; II. 73.
French, 14th cent.; I. 45.
—— (religious and moral stories), 14th cent.; II. 145.
Gaelic; I. 126.
Irish; II. 223.
Latin, 16th cent.; II. 66.
Scotch, 15th cent. and after; I. 122.
—— by William Dunbar; I. 122.
—— of Lord Charles Gordon, 17th cent.; II. 180.
Poetry:
a book of, addressed to the Earl and Countess of Somerset; I. 32.
a book of, by Mr. Norton, touching the philosopher's stone; I. 32.
French, a volume of, 15th cent.; I. 61.
French religious, 15th cent.; II. 202.
Latin; I. 33.
MSS. of, in the Advocates' Library; I. 125.
Welsh; II. 106.
—— volumes of; II. 84, 88.
Poindexter, Mr., collections and papers by; I. 20.
Poland:
diary during an embassy to, 1709–10; II. 25.
letter describing the state of [18th cent.]; II. 8.
Scotch settlers in; I. 122.
King of, Sigismund, history of; I. 33.
—— letter from to William III.; I. 37.
—— letter from the Pretender to, 1696; I. 35.
—— a letter of the, 1697; I. 36.
—— —— to the King of France, 1698; I. 36.
—— —— to the Elector, 1698; I. 36.
—— letters to the, 1698; I. 36.
—— instructions by the, 1698–9; I. 36, 37.
—— to the King of Denmark, 1699; I. 37.
—— to Waywode Galetzky, 1699; I. 37.
—— project of an Act for the, 1699; I. 37.
—— Augustus, passport by, 1710; II. 27.
—— character of the, 1747; I. 41.
—— Stanislaus, letter of, 1764; II. 8.
—— —— letters to and from, 1771–2; II. 37 (bis).
—— Lord Rochester's speech to the; I. 28.
the King and estate of, 1683; I. 23.
Kings of, negotiations with, temp. Jac. I. et Car. I.; I. 125.
Princess Royal of, her projected marriage to the Pretender; I. 117.
republic of, to the King of Sweden, 1701; I. 38.
Senate of, resolutions of the, 1702; I. 38.
See Polonia.
Pole, Cardinal:
absolution pronounced by, to the whole Parliament, 1554; II. 155.
one of the Visitors to Cambridge University; I. 70.
"De sua ac Caroli Moroni suspensione ad Papam Expostulatio"; II. 152.
letter to; II. 152.
seal of; II. 24.
Pole, De la. See Suffolk, Duke of.
Poles, the:
defeated by the Turks, 1673; I. 17.
conditions offered to the, by Sigismund, King of Sweden, &c; II. 151.
answer of the States of the Low Countries to the, &c.; II. 151.
Poley, Edmund, letters of; I. 56 (bis).
Polish Diet, Journal of the, 1699; I. 37.
Political affairs:
letters on, about 1711; II. 83.
—— 1714; I. 118.
—— 18th cent.; II. 12.
letters and documents on, 1780–90; I. 13.
Political papers:
in the Hatton Collection; I. 14.
relating to the "Great Rebellion"; I. 113.
Politics, six books of, by Justus Lipsius; II. 202.
Poll money:
account of, 1660; I. 46.
orders of sessions for payment of; I. 55.
Poll tax, a, 1690; I. 23.
Pollexfen's Argument in Rex v. Civit. Lond., 1683; II. 3.
Poloni, Martini:
Chronicon; II. 7.
Cronica de Imperatoribus; II. 46; ejusdem cronica de Papis; ib.
Polonia, ambassadors of, answer by the States to the (1597); II. 40.
Polwarth, Lord, letters of, 1716 sq.; II. 189, 190.
Polychronicon, Caxton's edition of the; II. 73. See Higden, Ralph.
Polygamy, Dialogue of Ochinus touching; I. 83.
Pont-à-Musson, English college at, papers relating to the; I. 120.
Poole:
Jo., to Lord Hatton and another; I. 27.
Mr.; I. 28.
Robert, to John Strethen; I. 27.
Poor Man's petition to the King, the (? to James I.); I. 47.
Poor:
a book for overseers of the; I. 31.
rules for the management and accounts for the support of the, at Norwich, temp. Eliz.; I. 103.
account of doles to the, 1652–60; I. 110.
Poors' rates, at Norwich, temp. Eliz.; I. 103. See Rates.
Pope:
Alexander, the poet, letters of; I. xi; II. 37, 84.
—— letters to his sister, Mrs. Rucket; I. 92.
—— —— from and to Jacob Tonson; II. 71.
—— —— relating to; II. 19, 70.
—— pamphlets relating to the life and times of; II. 63.
—— portrait of; II. 71.
—— will of; I. 92.
Lady Eliz., wife of Sir Thos.; II. 142.
Francis, letter of, 1622; I. 67.
Mr., his marriage to Patty Blunt, 1725; I. 34.
Sir Thomas, Princess Elizabeth's answer to Queen Mary's message by; II. 43.
Pope, the:
copy of a letter from, to his Nuncio in England (undated); I. 27.
his brief to the Duke of Hamilton, 1726; I. 115.
a discourse of the devices of [temp. Eliz.]; II. 42.
his jurisdiction in England, extracts from Latin histories and other works relating to; II. 42.
and Cardinals, "capitula" between [beginning of 16th cent.]; II. 109.
See Alexander VI.; Gregory XV.; Innocentius; Paul IV.
Popery:
letters of the Privy Council concerning, temp. Eliz.; II. 155. See Jesuits.
A Glance at, through a Protestant Glass (MS. 1700); II. 109.
Popes:
Catalogus Summ. Pontif. (a book printed at Paris, 1518), I. 121.
a Chronicle of the, in the Advocates' Library; I. 124.
Lives of the, down to Adrian IV.; II. 4.
copies of letters from and to various (14th cent.); II. 85.
MSS. touching elections of; II. 80.
Popham:
Sir John, to the Speaker of the House of Commons; I. 69.
Chief Justice, letter of; I. 100.
Popish Plot, the (1681); II. 18. See Plot; and Oates, Titus.
Porkington, report on the MSS. of Mr. Ormsby-Gore at; II. 84.
Port, Abraham van; I. 14.

Digitized by Google

Port Eliot, Cornwall, the collection of the Earl of St. Germans at ; I. x. report on the same ; I. 41.
Porter :
Endymion, letters of ; I. 100.
J., letters of ; II. 16.
Lord Chancellor, letters of ; II. 10.
Mr., letters of ; II. 15.
Porterfield, Alexander (in Limerick gaol), letter of, to his brother William ; II. 27.
Porteus, —, dragged by a mob to the Grass Market, 1736 ; I. 51.
Portland :
Earl of, letter to, 1695 ; I. 35.
—— account of his meeting with M. Boufflers, 1697 ; I. 36.
—— letters to the, from William III. ; I. 55.
—— correspondence of, 1698 ; ib.
—— letter of, 1698 ; I. 27.
—— —— to the, 1698 ; I. 29.
Duke of, letters of the, 1698 ; II. 8.
—— —— (18th cent.) ; I. 127.
—— —— 1792–4 ; II. 192. 1795–6 ; II. 22.
Portlock :
Ben. ; II. 70.
Henry, to Lord Hatton ; I. 27.
Portrait :
an engraved, of Richard II. ; 63.
a, of Queen Elizabeth ; I. 61.
a, of Mary Queen of Scots ; I. 121.
a, (17th cent.) ; I. 116.
a, by Dahl ; II. 21.
proposal for engraving a, 1760 ; II. 205.
Portraits :
15th and 16th cent. ; II. 3.
of Kings, in an abbey register ; I. 114.
temp. Eliz. ; I. 54.
engraved, 17th cent. ; I. 63.
expenses for, 17th cent. ; II. 129 (ter).
by Sir Godfrey Kneller ; II. 69, 70.
at Woburn Abbey, notes to the, by Horace Walpole ; II. 2.
Portsmouth ; II. 96.
fortifications of ; II. 10.
Governor of ; ib.
—— letters to the, 1685 ; II. 78.
mayor of, letter of the, 1688 ; II. 11.
recorder of, his speech to Prince Charles ; I. 62.
letter from, 1672 ; II. 23.
Duchess of, letters relating to the, temp. Car. II. ; II. 32.
Portugal :
war in, 4 Ric. II. ; I. 11.
the Duke of Alva's relation touching, 1579 ; I. 61.
a declaration touching the seizure of wheat sent to, 1589 ; II. 41.
papers relating to, temp. Eliz. ; II. 20, 21.
history of, to 1643 ; I. 33.
letters from an English consul in, 1702 ; I. 21.
letters relating to ; I. 26.
—— 1702–4 ; I. 31.
articles of the treaty with, 1704 (?) ; I. 26.
battle on the coast of ; I. 23.
King of, Denis, letter of, 1399 ; II. 21.
—— Pedro II., autograph letters of ; I. 30.
—— ratifies treaty with Holland, 1703 ; I. 20.
Queen of, Catharine, autograph letters of ; I. 30.
Maria, daughter of Emanuel, King of, letter from, to Princess Mary of England ; II. 151.
Portuguese treaty, letter relating to the, 1703 ; I. 18.
Post-rider, a (1585) ; II. 149.
Potsdam, letters dated at, 17th cent. ; I. 37.
Poulet, Lord ; I. 21. See Powlet.
Poulle, Benjamin, to Lord ——— ; I. 27.
Poultney, Elizabeth, charter of ; II. 88.
Powel, Mr., M.P., 1684 ; I. 24.
Powell :
Thomas, "Brettanno-Belgicus" by ; I. 63.
——, "The Attorney's Academy" and "Attorney's Almanacks," by ; II. 89.
Powle, Stephen, letters of ; II. 45.
Powlet, Sir Amias, letter to, 1588 ; II. 41.
—— an address signed by ; ib.
—— ambassador to France, instructions to, 1576 ; II. 97.
Powlesrth, Adam of, charter by ; II. 166.
Powys, Ernald de, charter of ; I. 14.
Praers, persons named ; II. 69.
Prague :
the taking of, 1620 ; I. 58.
Jerome of, protest by the nobles of Bohemia and Moravia touching the burning of ; I. xii. ; I. 121.
Pratt, J. (?), to John Ousley ; I. 27.
Prayer Book :
introduction of the, into Scotland ; I. 118.
the Scotch, a design to print (1712) ; ib.
Prayer Books, Irish ; II. 233.
Prayers :
a volume of, Latin and English, 15th cent. ; II. 31.
Latin, before and after meals (15th cent.) ; II. 80.
Preachers :
licensing of, letters touching the [temp. Jac. I.] ; I. 43.
a project for increase of the number of ; II. 43.
Precedence :
list of (of officers in the Royal service) ; I. 31.
Comparisons of, between England and Spain ; I. 32.
Abstract of the Question of, between English and Spanish ambassadors, by Sir R. Cotton ; I. 32 ; II. 90.
order of ; I. 49.
order of, papers relating to the, 17th cent. ; II. 31.
contract between two Scottish Earls respecting ; II. 168.
patent of (Scotch) ; II. 188.
Precedent book, a ; I. 110.
Precedents, a book of, concerning the rights of the Baronage of England ; II. 6.
Preferments, ecclesiastical, 1649–54 ; II. 79.
Prerogative Court, seal of the, temp. Cranmer ; II. 94.
—— note of fees received by the, [in Ireland] ; II. 156.
Presbury, account of ; II. 81.
Presbyterian ministers, in Ireland, a bounty for, inserted in the civil list of Ireland, 1691 ; II. 217.
Presbyterians :
the Scotch, Burnet's letter against ; I. 113.
—— and the Episcopal Church ; II. 203, 204.
in Ireland, letters relating to the, 1690, sq. ; II. 232, 233.
in the North of Ireland ; II. 235.
Presbytery and Independency, in Scotland ; II. 188.
Prescott, Mrs. : collection of ; II. xii.
report on the MSS. of ; II. 97.
Prescriptions, medical ; I. 95, 98, 30.
—— 15th cent. ; I. 45. See Recipes.
Presentations, registers of, in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich ; I. 86.
Presentments :
parcels of, from 1693, at Norwich ; I. 103.
of a jury, 1312 ; I. 103.
of jurors, 17 Eliz., at Nottingham ; I. 106.
a book of, at Hythe ; II. 92.
Presgrave, Tabitha, to Mrs. Jones ; I. 37.
Preshome, in Banffshire, the collection of MSS. at ; I. 119.
President, the Lord, 1691 ; I. 19.
—— 1695 ; I. 16.
Presland, Mrs. Eliz., letters of ; II. 106.
Preston, battle of, account of the, 1745 ; II. 28.
Preston :
Lord, letters of, 1682–4 ; I. 56.
—— ——, 1688 ; II. 10.
—— —— (17th cent.) ; II. 15.
—— copies of papers taken with, 1690 ; II. 12.
Richard, letter of ; II. 48.
T. (one of the Irish leaders of 1642), signature of ; II. 219.
Thomas, Ulster, King-at-Arms, papers in the handwriting of ; II. 156, 157.
family of, of Whithill, papers touching the case of the ; II. 205.
Preston, Little, Laird of, accounts of the ; II. 191.
Pretender, the Old (James, son of James II.) ; II. 190.
letter to the King of Poland, 1696 ; I. 35.
movements of, 1716 ; II. 182.
letters touching, 1710 ; II. 24.
—— 1715–6 ; II. 25.
a royal pardon for levying war on the son of, 1715 ; I. 126.
papers and letters relating to the, 1715–22 ; I. 117, 118.
memoirs addressed to, about 1717–20 ; II. 201. See James.
Pretender, the Young, Charles, son of the preceding :
declaration of, 1743 ; I. 53.
letters touching the, 1743 ; II. 88.
letters concerning his invasion of Scotland, 1745 ; I. 115.
musters against, 1745 ; I. 13.
orders of Captain Martin touching the escape of, 1746 ; II. 24.
Price :
F., of Overton, letters to ; II. 68.
Lewis, of Gogerthan, letter to ; II. 106.
Mr., letters to ; II. 68.
Norris, letters to ; ib.
Dr. R., of Overton, letters to ; ib.
T., letters to ; ib.
Uvedale, letters of ; I. 35.
Prices of commodities in olden times ; I. 101, (bis) 127.
14th cent. ; I. 110.
15th cent. ; II. 118, 120, 121.
temp. Hen. VIII. ; I. 105.
16th cent. ; I. 50; II. 149, 150, 260, 262.
17th cent. ; II. 32.
Prichard, Sir Wm., elected Lord Mayor of London ; I. 22.
Prickard, Henry, letter of ; I. 27.
Prideaux :
Humphrey, to the Earl of Nottingham ; I. 27.
John, to Lord ——— ; ib.
John, rector of Exeter College, Oxford, letter of ; I. 100.
Jonathan, letters of ; I. 52. See Prydeaux.

Digitized by Google

Priest, Catholic, form of profession of obedience by a, to Charles II.; II. 156.
Priests:
Discovery of, [by Thomas Norton, temp. Eliz.]; II. 42.
and Romish recusants (names of) apprehended by Capt. James Wadsworth and others; I. 22.
continual apprehension of, 1684; I. 24.
in Ireland, 1702; II. 234.
Missionary, collections for a History of the Sufferings of, 17th cent.; I. 91, 92. seminary, search for; I. 14. See Jesuits.
—— documents concerning; I. 103.
Primrose, D., letter of; I. 22.
Prince, the "proceeding to the Christening" of the, 1630; II. 79.
"Princes' Extremities beyond the ease of their peoples by reason of Wars," a book entitled; I. 32.
Princes, marriages, christenings, and funerals of, (a book); I. 31.
Printed book, a, 1606; II. 151.
Printed papers, in the Hatton collection; I. 30.
Printing, in England and Ireland, letter on, 1687; II. 232.
Prior, Matthew, the poet; I. 25:
letters of; I. ix., 13; II. 71.
—— from Paris, 1713; II. 12.
letter touching a portrait of; II. 14.
poems of; II. 71.
ambassador to France; II. 188.
Priories, alien, dissolution of; I. 68.
Privateers; I. 18:
acting under James II.'s commission, 1692; II. 79.
Privilege, petitions and orders of the Court regarding; I. 34.
Privy Council, the:
letter relating to 1678; I. 21.
Act of, 1643; II. 169.
addresses by the, touching recusants; 1569; II. 154.
agreement by the, touching Edward VI.'s limitation of the descent of the Crown; ib.
entries of letters of, 16th & 17th cent.; I. 61.
instructions by, temp. Eliz.; II. 97. 1605; II. 181. letters of, 1538 et post; I. 89.
—— 1549; I. 11; II. 4.
—— temp. Edw. VI.; II. 151, 152, 155.
—— 1590; II. 88.
—— 1591; I. 100.
—— 1599; I. 108.
—— 1602; II. 158.
—— temp. Eliz.; I. 47; II. 18, 43, 44, 45, 73, 86, 87, 97, 153, 155, 156.
—— temp. Jac. I.; I. 41, 100, 102; II. 18, 86, 87.
—— 1605; I. 58.
—— 1606–8; I. 43.
—— 1617–34; I. 57, 58.
—— 1625; I. 46.
—— temp. Car. I.; II. 86, 87, 99, 108.
—— 1676; I. 47.
—— 1679–80; II. 79.
—— temp. Jac. II.; II. 32.
—— 1689; II. 78.
—— 1690; I. 52.
letters to (no date); I. 28.
—— 1549; II. 4.
—— temp. Edw. VI.; II. 40.
—— temp. Eliz.; II. 44, 49, 50.
—— 1605; II. 181, 182.
—— 1606–8; I. 43.
minutes of, 1710–13; II. 12. oath of members of the, temp. Eliz.; II. 124.
order of, 1613; I. 57.
—— 1688; II. 11.
orders of, temp. Car. II.; I. 51.
petition to, 1635; I. 57.
warrant of, 1606; I. 53.
of England, volumes of State papers formerly belonging to, at Hamilton Palace; I. 113.
Privy Seal:
keepers of the, list of; I. 32.
Lord, Lieutenant of the West parts, letters to the, temp. Edw. VI.; II. 152.
Lord (Duke of Bedford), docquets of the, 1762–3; II. 2.
docquets, duplicates of, 1688–1712; I. 54.
warrants, by Hen. VIII.; I. 12.
Privy Seals:
calendar of all the, in the county and city of Chester; I. 46.
copies of; I. 30.
forms of, 1542 and 1625; I. 46.
petitions for; II. 42.
Probates; II. 94.
Proclamation of Nov. 1591, a Treatise against the; I. 14.
Proclamations:
printed, bundle of, temp. Car. I.; II. 48.
1660; I. 47.
warrants for; I. 34.
made yearly in the town of Cambridge; I. 100.
at York; I. 108.
Scotch, printed; II. 43.
Proctors' Book, a, 15th cent. (Cambridge); I. 73.
Profane oaths, conviction for swearing; I. 103.
Prognostications, a paper of; II. 84.
—— of events from the Weather; II. 66.
Project (a), how to increase 200 sayle of shipps, &c.; I. 63.
Prophesy, a, in verse (early); II. 80.
"Prophesy men," a sect; II. 153.
Propinquities, register of, at Aberdeen; I. 122, 123.
Protection against creditors, letters of; I. 34.
Protestant:
agents, the second proposition of the, exhibited to his Majesty, 1644; I. 27.
Church, French, in Ireland; II. 234, 243. churches in Rotterdam, South Carolina, and the Plantations; II. 234. convent, scheme for a; I. 118.
garrisons at Hull, York, &c., 1685; I. 24.
Intelligencer, the [a newspaper, temp. Car. II.?]; I. 44.
Protestants in Ireland, papers relating to the, 1689–90; II. 226, 227.
—— 1689 sq.; II. 233, 233, 234.
French, in arms, 1703; I. 20 (bis).
letter of the Privy Council for favour to; II. 153.
Provence, a representation of the state of, 1743–8, by Wm. Mildmay; II. 3.
—— supplement to the same; ib.
Proverbs:
books of; I. 33.
list of (15th cent.); II. 80.
Provision, commissions of, for the King's household; I. 34.
Proxy, a, in matters of law; II. 125.
Prussia:
particulars of an embassy from England to, 1388; I. 109.
instructions to the English plenipotentiary in, 1719; II. 190.
"Idée de la personne, de la manière, et de la cour du roy de Prusse," 1752; II. 28.
letters touching the projected alliance with, 1779; II. 30.
Scotch settlers in; I. 132.
King of, a relation touching the secret treaty between England and the, 1719; II. 190.
—— letter to the Duke of Hamilton, 1728; I. 115.
—— —— to the secretary of the (18th cent.); II. 37.
Prince Frederick of, letter of Louise, wife of; II. 13.
Prydeaux, Henry, letters of; I. 59. See Prideaux.
Pryaulx:
Pierre, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
William, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Prynne:
excerpts from; II. 125.
Mr., extracts from; II. 1.
William (the celebrated), his catalogue of the documents at Dunster Castle; I. x. 56.
—— and others, information against, in the Star Chamber; I. 31.
—— account of the mutilation of; I. 51.
—— letters of; I. 100.
Psalter:
a, 9th cent.; I. 14.
a, 12th cent.; I. 11.
a, 12th cent., with full page illuminations; II. 33.
a, 13th cent. (glossed); II. 84.
a, 13th cent.; I. 89.
a, 13th cent.; II. 202.
copies of the, 15th and 16th cent.; II. 34.
a Latin, illuminated; II. 144.
and service book, a; II. 81.
Psalterium, cum Hymnis, secundum morem Abendonensis monasterii (printed, black-letter, 1528); II. 127.
Psalters:
account of, 15th cent.; II. 208.
in the Advocates' Library; I. 125.
Public-houses, licensing of, 1693; I. 24.
Pudsey, Thomas, letters of; II. 47.
Puleston, Sir Richard, Bart.:
MSS. belonging to the Trustees of the late; II. xi.
report on the MSS. of the trustees of, at Worthenbury, co. Flint; II. 65.
Pulestons, family of, documents relating to the; II. 65, 67, 68.
Pulkins (or Pulkin), Mr., letters to; I. 24, 30.
Pulkyn, Robert, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 27.
Pulleyn, Octavius, to Lord and Lady Hatton; ib.
Pulteney, D., letters of; II. 71.
Purbeck, quarry at, letter dated from the; I. 95.
Purchaser, Rules for a [by Sir John Fortescue]; II. 80.
Puritans; I. 58.
Purrell, John, to Mrs. Gildon; I. 30.
Purveyance for the Royal Household, letters touching, temp. Eliz.; II. 87. See Provision.
Puttenham, George, his discourse touching the full execution of the Queen of Scots; II. 41.
Puxbini, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 27.
Pye, Sir Robert, letter of; II. 58.
Pyers, Wm., letters of; I. 45.
Pykering, Gilbert, to Lord E. Montague; I. 27.
Pym, John, II. 143.
—— – articles against; I. 51.
—— – autograph of, with a letter; I. 67.

Digitized by Google

Pym, John—cont.
—— two portraits of ; I. 63.
—— his report of the proceedings against the Earl of Strafford ; I. 44.
—— his speech against Strafford ; II. 7.
—— —— in Parliament, 1640 ; I. 51 ; II. 88.
—— speeches of ; I. 62.
Pynne, convent of St. Mary's ; I. 70.

Q.

Quakers :
catalogue of, in Cheshire ; I. 47.
prosecutions of ; I. 103.
Quarles, Francis, admission of, into Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge ; II. 117.
Quarr abbey, grant to ; I. 11.
Quarry, Robert, to ——— ; I. 28.
Quarter Sessions documents, at Norwich ; I. 102, 103.
Quebec, Journal de l'expédition contre (1759) ; II. 30.
Queensberry :
Duchess of, Catharine, letters of, 1750–60 ; II. 25.
—— letter of, 1770 ; II. 24.
Duke of ; I. 16.
—— letters of, 1703 ; I. 28.
—— James, letters of ; II. 15.
—— letters of the, 1733, sq. ; II. 190, 191.
—— —— 1760 ; II. 29.
Quency, "Seer" de (Earl of Winchester) ; I. 56.
Quetterville :
He. (?), to Chr. Hatton ; I. 28.
Nicholas de, to Lord Hatton et al. ; I. 28.
Quietism, account of ; I. 205.
Quintiliani Orationes (MS., A.D. 1404) ; II. 5.
Quintinus, Johannes, sermons by ; I. 60.
Quo Warranto proceedings, in Cheshire ; I. 46.
Quo Warranto Roll, a, temp. Edw. II. ; I. 69.

R.

Raby, Dr., letter of ; II. 71.
Racanati, Antonio Condulmarii da, letters of ; I. 124.
Radcliff :
Dr. John, to John Rogers ; I. 28.
Robert, of Jesus College, Cambridge, three dialogues by, dedicated to Henry VIII. ; II. 85.
Radmore, abbey of, a history of the ; II. 49.
Radnor, Earl of, letters of the ; 1676–86 ; I. 56.
Ragland, letter of Charles I., dated at ; II. 170.
Rainoldi, Johannis, ultima prælectio, 1593 ; II. 78.
Ralegh :
Adam, letter of, 1545 ; II. 21.
G. W., to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Raleigh, Sir Walter :
engraged in an expedition against the Spaniards ; II. 87.
conspiracy of, 1603 ; II. 3.
his "Considerations touching the marriage of the Prince with the house of Savoy" ; I. 47.
his tract about the marriage of Prince Henry ; II. 85.
his discourse of the Invencion of Shippes ; II. 4.
treatise by, on war with Spain ; II. 43.
the letter of James I. to the Commissioners for the trial of ; II. 49, 54.
two papers touching the trial of ; I. 31.
accounts of the trial of ; I. 47 ; II. 85.
Queen Anne's letter in favour of ; II. 8.
a pamphlet entitled, "Sir Walter Raleigh's Ghost" ; I. 61.
—— letter touching ; II. 56.
letters of ; I. 39, 57 ; II. 85.
—— to James I. ; I. 42.
letters to ; II. 36, 43.
letters and papers of ; I. 48.
—— —— relating to ; I. 43 ; II. 17, 83, 54, 55.
letter touching a portrait of ; II. 14.
notices of ; I. 57.
Ramsay :
Lord William, letters of, 1632 ; II. 185.
the artist, portrait by, of the Prince of Wales, 1760 ; II. 205.
—— letter to ; ib.
Bishop of Dunblane, letter of ; II. 205.
David ; II. 194.
—— proceedings in the Court of Chivalrie, between Donald Lord Reay and, 1631 ; I. 48 ; II. 3.
Randolphe, Thomas, envoy to Mary Queen of Scots, instructions to ; II. 26.
—— envoy to France ; II. 27.
Ranelagh : II. 24, 38.
Countess of, letters from the [temp. Car. II.] ; II. 15.
Lord, to Lord Hatton, 1686 ; I. 30.
Rankeillor, Laird of, letter to the, 1570 ; II. 184.
Raphoe, Bishop of. See Leslie, John.
Rapparees, legislation against, 1714 ; II. 234.
Rashleigh, Jonathan ; I. 51.
Rastell's Treatise against Bishop Jewel, Notes upon ; II. 77.
Rates :
parish, a book of valuation for assessment of ; I. 33.
lists of, 1662 ; I. 51. See Poor's Rates.
Ratisbon :
letters dated at, 17th cent. ; II. 83.
monastery of St. James of (a Scottish house), charters and papers of the ; I. 112.
—— history of the ; II. 201.
—— charters, bulls, &c. of the ; II. 202.
Scottish College at, papers relating to the ; I. 120.
Rattray, Bishop :
letters of ; II. 204.
a MS. of ; II. 205.
Raunds, manor of ; I. 31.
Rawlings, John, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Raymond :
Anne, to Lord Hatton and another ; I. 28.
Robert, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Raynsford, Richard, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Reade, Rowland, his History of the priory of Little Malvern ; II. 73.
Reading :
church of, charters to the ; I. 71.
priory of, documents relating to the ; II. 46.
Reay, Lord :
in service of the King of Denmark, 1626 ; II. 195.
"certain speeches" between him and the Master of Forbes, 1630 ; II. 194.
Donald, proceedings in the Court of Chivalrie between him and David Ramsay, 1631 ; I. 48 ; II. 3.
letters of, 1715 ; II. 128.
—— 1733 sq. ; II. 190, 191.
—— 1745–6 ; II. 179.
(first). See Makky, Sir Donald.
Rebellion, the Great :
papers relating to the ; I. 113.
printed tracts of the time of ; I. 62.
See Civil War, the.
Rebellion of 1715–6, the :
letters and papers relating to ; I. 122, 123 ; II. 24, 25, 26, 27, 176, 189, 234.
pamphlets relating to ; II. 63.
in Scotland, Memoirs of, by John, Master of Sinclair ; II. 192.
Rebellion of 1745–6, the :
account of soldiers raised during ; I. 110.
letters and papers relating to ; I. xi., 13, 44, 51, 122 (bis), 123 ; II. 24, 25, 27, 28, 187.
pamphlets relating to ; II. 63.
Rebus insignitis, De, a paper headed ; I. 31.
Recantation, copy of a ; II. 83.
Receipts :
bundles of, in the Hatton Collection ; I. 30, 33, 34.
at Newbattle ; I. 116.
Recipes ; I. 30, 62.
a book of ; I. 33.
for hawks and horses, 15th cent. ; II. 66.
medical ; II. 73. See Prescriptions.
Receivers' accounts :
at Norwich ; I. 103.
at Wells ; I. 108.
Recognizances at York ; I. 108.
Record Office, the Public, collections forwarded to, and examined and inventoried by the officers of ; I. viii.
Records :
report of the Master of the Rolls on the, 1705 ; II. 125.
in the Chapter House, reports by John Lowe and Peter Le Neve respecting the ; ib.
old, abbreviations and law terms in, explained by Dugdale and Petyt ; II. 122.
copies of, Hen. III. to Hen. VI. ; II. 44.
extracts from ; I. 31, 33, 43 ; II. 1, 5, 6, 87, 125.
—— showing how the King may levy money ; I. 31, 56 volumes of extracts from the ; I. 32.
miscellaneous, lent to Lord Hatton ; I. 24.
miscellaneous collections of, by Thomas Innes ; I. 118.
Recusant, licence to a, to go beyond five miles from his house, 8 Car. I. ; I. 45.
Recusants :
names of, arrested by Capt. James Wadsworth and others ; I. 92.
letters and papers touching, temp. Eliz. ; II. 153, 154, 155.
a Council letter touching, 1599 ; I. 108.
Council letters about, 1625 ; I. 46.
a Council letter for seizing the arms of, 1612 ; II. 86.
letter touching, 1621 ; II. 59.
Considerations for repressing, by Sir R. Cotton ; II. 86.
commissions to compound with ; I. 34.
abstract of the book of compositions for the lands and goods of, 1629–32 ; I. 82.
Popish, petition of Parliament against, to Charles II. ; II. 83.
Popish, at Kilkenny, 1673 ; I. 130.
registration of the estates of ; I. 92.
Rec, Isle de :
a volume concerning a landing in the ; I. 60.
relation of the fight at the ; II. 18.

Digitized by Google

Reed:
Edward, letters of; II. 93.
Judith, (at Philadelphia), letters of; II. 12.
Regency, letters about a, 1789; II. 29.
"Regiam Majestatem," copies of the code known as; II. 43, 209.
Regiments raised in 1678, with the names of officers belonging to them; I. 28.
Register:
of the see of Canterbury, extracts from the; II. 89.
a, of inquisitions or deeds chiefly relating to Cheshire; II. 66.
a, of births, marriages, and burials at Aberdeen; I. 122.
a, of baptisms and marriages of town of Leslie; II. 143.
Register book, a, of Ely; I. 55.
Registers:
at Aberdeen; I. 121, 122, 123.
at Abingdon; I. 28.
at Belvoir Castle; I. 11.
at Brechin Castle; I. 119; II. 186.
of the town of Cambridge; I. 109.
among the Carlisle Cathedral MSS.; II. 125.
in Countess Cowper's Collection (extracts); II. 5, 7.
at Edinburgh; I. 126.
in the Hatton Collection (extracts); I. 32.
at Kilkenny; I. 131. See Rothe, Robert.
of the Dean and Chapter, Norwich; I. 87, 88, 89.
at Queen's College, Oxford; II. 138.
in the Bishop's Registry, Wells; I. 92, 93.
among the Chapter records, Wells; I. 94.
in Westminster Abbey; I. 93.
in the Chapter Archives, York; I. 97.
at York; I. 108, 110.
of Colleges; I. 69–73, 75, 77; II. 117, 127, 131, 134, 135, 136, 142, 148, 149.
episcopal and monastic, of Scotland; I. 111.
parish, in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich; I. 86.
of courts of justice, at Aberdeen; I. 122.
Registrum:
a, of 14 Edw. III.; I. 31.
S. Mariæ Farnesii; I. 114.
civitatis S. Andreæ; II. 208.
Relics:
I. 96 (bis), 97; II. 73.
indulgence to persons bringing, from Jerusalem; I. 96.
inventories, &c. of, 15th and 16th cent.; I. 67; II. 6, 135, 208.
Relief, Act touching the, granted to Edw. VI.; II. 67.
Religion:
device for alteration of, I Eliz.; I. 42; II. 42. collection of papers on matters of, temp. Eliz.; II. 43.
tracts on, in Italian, 16th cent.; II. 44.
Articles of, signature of the, 1629; II. 78.
Religious matters:
letters and papers on, temp. Eliz.; II. 40, 45.
letters on, 1773–1800; II. 14.
Remembrancer, The, [a newspaper?]; I. 51.
Remembrancer, the King's, a treatise on the office of; II. 20.
Remington v. Allen (in the Star Chamber); II. 3.
Remission, a grant of, by several cardinals, 1467; II. 66.
Renouf, Robert, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Rent rolls in the Hatton Collection; I. 30.
Rental accounts in the Hatton Collection; I. 31.
Rentals:
at Aboyne Castle; II. 180.
at Belvoir castle; I. 11.
at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; I. 65, 66.
at Queen's College, Cambridge; I. 72.
at St. John's College, Cambridge; I. 77.
at Capesthorne, Cheshire; II. 80.
among the Carlisle Cathedral MSS.; II. 125.
in the Library of the Catholic Bishop of Edinburgh; I. 121.
among the Gordon papers; I. 115.
among Mr. John Guthrie's papers; II. 197.
in the Hatton Collection; I. 33.
at Kilkenny; I. 130.
at Little Malvern Court; II. 72.
at Mount Edgcumbe, Cornwall; II. 20.
at Norwich; I. 102.
at New College, Oxford; II. 136.
at Queen's College, Oxford; II. 138.
in the Shrewsbury Collection; I. 50.
in Lord de Tabley's Collection; I. 46.
at Wardour Castle; II. 34.
at Waterford; I. 132.
at Worthenbury, co. Flint; II. 66.
at Wrottesley (Staffordshire); II. 48.
Scotch; II. 196, 197, 198.
of Scotch altars; II. 208.
Rents due at certain feasts, lists of; II. 89.
Requests, Court of, extracts from books of the, temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 41.
Reresby, Sir John, letters of; II. 15.
Restenet, in Angus, priory of, charters of the; I. 111.
Reston, John, prebendary of St. Pancras, obit of; I. 75.
Restoration, the:
letter relating to; II. 216.
letters and papers about the time of the; II. 82.
a narrative of affairs from, to the accession of James II.; II. 213, 214.
"Retin. pour servir le Roy," a book endorsed; I. 31.
Revenue: of the Crown, papers relating to the, temp. Jac. I. & Car. I.; I. 81.
the King's, 1661–2; I. 56.
Commissioners of the, an appearance to a summons of the, 1690; I. 19.
public, statement of the, temp. Guil. III.; II. 70.
abstract of the Queen's, 1702–9; I. 54.
Revenues of courts and fees, lists of, temp. Eliz.; I. 60.
—— of foreign princes, abstract of (1636); II. 99.
Réveur, The (an address to the King or the Prince, 1738); II. 30.
Revolution, the (1688):
remarks on; I. 41.
Lord Halifax's journal during; II. 18.
letters and papers relating to; II. 8, 9, 10, 36.
—— about the time of; II. 87.
in Ireland, papers relating to; I. xii., xiii.
Père d'Orleau's account of (translation); II. 80.
Reyllie, Philip, letters of; II. 210.
Reynell, Sir Thomas, property of; I. 50.
Reynolds:
Dr., letter to; I. 53.
Mrs., letter to; II. 98.
Mr. (afterwards Sir Joshua), letter concerning; II. 28.
Sir Joshua, Burke's behaviour on the death of; I. 55.
Rheims:
college at, two orations at the, respecting the proposed marriage of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Anjou; I. 42.
English college at, papers relating to the; I. 120.
Archbishop of, Falco, his letter to King Alfred; II. 75.
Rhetoricam scholæ Rhemensis, Annotatiuncule in; II. 201.
Rhodes, Master of the House of; II. 126.
Rialpe, Marquis de:
at Vienna, letter to; II. 212.
letters from and to the, 1719–20; II. 217.
Rich (or Riche):
Lord (1562); II. 142.
Lady; I. 32.
—— letter from, to "Her Majesty" (Queen Elizabeth); I. 47.
Charles, letter of; I. 28.
Diana, to Mr. Hatton; I. 28.
Edmund, Archbishop of Canterbury, Speculum Ecclesiæ by, (Englished); II. 106.
Sir Robert; I. 33.
Richard I.:
charters of; I. 11, 70, 102.
letter of, to Pope Clement; II. 85.
letters of the time of, ib.
Richard II.:
an engraved portrait of; I. 63.
ordinances, &c. to be holden by, and others; II. 8.
account of the proceedings touching the deposition of; II. 9.
account of the deposition of; II. 49.
Richard Duke of York:
grant by, 27 Hen. VI.; II. 38.
his title and claim to the crown, and his agreement with Henry VI.; II. 42.
Richard III.:
plate pledged by, to an alderman of London; I. 50.
grant by; I. 73.
letter of; I. 100.
writ or proclamation by; II. 91.
the Play of, in Latin; I. 32.
Richards:
J., letters of; II. 47.
Jacob, of Gillingham, letter of; II. 10.
Richardson:
John, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Serjeant, his treatise on Parliament; II. 79.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Richardsoune, Lord, inquiry concerning feast days likely to be put down by; I. 57.
Richart, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Riche. See Rich (or Riche).
Richebel, or Rizebel, Jaeques, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Richier, A., to Chr. Hatton; I. 28.
Richmond:
Duke of, the Gordon Papers belonging to the; I. xii.
—— report on the Gordon Papers and other records belonging to the; I. 114.
earldom of, grant of the, 1333; I. 70.
Duchess of, Kath., letter of, 1680; II. 185.
Duke of; I. 16.
—— letters of the, 1702; I. 28.
—— —— 1742, sq.; II. 191.
—— correspondence of the, 1744–6; I. 115, 116.
Richmond and Derby:
Margaret, Countess of, her grant to Christ's College, Cambridge; I. 63.
—— foundress of St. John's College, Cambridge, books and accounts of; I. 74, 75, 76, 77.
—— her will; I. 77.
—— funeral sermon; I. 77.

Riddell, John, the late Mr., his collections; I. 125.
Rider's British Merlin; II. 2.
Ridley, Nicholas, his appointment as Bishop of London; I. 26.
—— injunctions for uniformity by, 4 Edw. VI.; II. 125.
Rievallensis abbas, Ailredus; II. 146.
—— his "Speculum Caritatis"; II. 147.
Rievaulx abbey, list of furniture in; I. 11.
Rigby:
R., to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
—— letters of; II. 18.
Richard, M.P., letters of; I. 127; II. 13.
Riley, Mr. H. T.:
Inspector for the Historical MSS. Commission; I. vii., xi.
reports by; I. 63–89, 92–94, 97–110; II. 101, 102, 110–128, 136–143, 149–156.
Ring, Matthew, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Rivers, Earl, Thomas, deeds belonging to, 1669; I. 49.
Rivoli, battle of, account of the (1797); II. 29.
Roads and paths, regulations touching; II. 78.
Roane, Mary, to Lord and Lady Hatton; I. 28.
Robert I., King of Scotland, grants by; I. 112.
Robert III., King of Scotland, charter by; II. 147.
Robert the Bruce. See Bruce.
Robert, Jean, to Lord ——; I. 28.
Robethon, Mons., letters of; I. 189.
Robin Hood, a play of, 13 Hen. VII.; I. 107.
Robin Hood's well, at Nottingham; I. 105.
Robinson:
Frederic, the Hon., letters of; II. 9.
—— letters to, ib.
Ja., to Lord ——; I. 28.
John, to Lord and Lady Hatton; I. 28.
John, Bishop of London, letters of; II. 232.
Mr., at Vienna, letters of; II. 213.
Roche Fitz David, Richard; II. 217.
Rochefort expedition, papers relating to the, 1757; II. 30.
Rochelle:
the state of, at the King's entrance, 1628; I. 60.
troops raised in Scotland for relief of, 1628; II. 125.
Rochester:
monastery of St. Andrew, seal of the; II. 24.
Bishop of, John [temp. Car. I.?], letters of; I. 67.
—— to the Lords Commissioners of the Ecclesiastical Court (no date); I. 28.
—— letter to the (? date); I. 52.
—— See Fisher, John; Story, John.
Earl of, Lawrence Hyde, letters of, 1677–9; I. 55.
—— letters of [temp. Car. II.]; II. 18. See Hyde, Laurye.
—— copy of his speech to the King of Poland (? date); I. 28.
—— state of the case betwixt him and the Duke of Leeds concerning some grants, 1702; I. 28.
—— letters of the, 1702–3; I. 28.
—— Henry, letters of; II. 15.
—— Wilmot, letters of; II. 20.
a pro memoria for the (circ. 1750); II. 3.
Rochford, Lord:
letters of; 1768–72; II. 26.
letter of, 1769; II. 28.
Rockingham Forest; I. 19, 21, 33.
Rockingham, Lord:
to Lord Hatton (undated); I. 28.
[letter of], 1771; I. 28.
letters of; I. 127; II. 38.
—— Lady Anne, to Lady C. Hatton (undated); I. 28.
Rockwood, R., letters of; II. 82.
Rodney:
Lord, letters of; II. 38.
Sir Edward, letters of; I. 107.
Roe or Rowe, Sir Thomas, letters of; I. 67; II. 61, 62.
Roehampton, Lord, letter of, 1782; II. 18.
Rogers:
J. J., Esq., of Penrose (Cornwall), collection of; II. 12.
—— report on the MSS. of; II. 69.
Charles and John, letters of; II. 98, 99.
Daniel, instructions to, 1575; II. 27 (bis).
John, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
—— letter to; I. 28.
Tim., to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Rohan:
Chevalier de, La conjuration du; II. 82.
Duke of, letters of the, 1614; II. 81, 82.
Madame de, letter of; II. 80.
Roland:
E., to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
J., to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Rollo, Lord, examination of the collection of; II. viii.
Rolls, two, 15th cent., containing a history of the world, &c.; I. 61.
Rolls. See Accounts; Charter Rolls; Close Rolls; Parliament Rolls; Vascon Rolls.
Roman:
inscriptions, collection of; II. 125.
medals; I. 18.
pavement, drawing of a; I. 38.
Roman de la Rose, Le (15th cent. copy); I. 45.
Romanee, MSS. of, in the Advocate's Library; I. 125.
Romans, collecting touching those who inhabited Westmoreland; II. 125.
Emperor of the, Rudolph; letters to; II. 34.
King of the, instructions to the English ambassador to the, 1587; II. 96.
Rome:
court of, expenses of a monk of Westminster at the; I. 26.
diary of a journey to, 1570; II. 41, 42.
sketches of statuary at, 1655; I. 118.
a diary kept in, 1710; II. 91.
accounts of journeys to and from, 1717–19; I. 117.
the French occupation of, 1798; II. 14.
Dimande del Popolo Romano fatte pervenire privamente a Pio IX. Pontifice, 1847; II. 4.
St. Peter's, an indulgence to contributors for the defence of, 1414; II. 99.
—— Computus "de introitu et exitu fabricæ," 1464; II. 125.
English college at, journal of a student in the, 1773–9; I. xi. 90.
Scottish college at, papers relating to the; I. 120.
letters dated at, 1530–2; II. 42.
—— 17th cent.; II. 16, 79.
—— 18th cent.; II. 14, 25, 26.
newsletter from, 1614; II. 52.
Romesey et Wherwell, injunctiones abbatissæ et monasterio de; II. 133.
Romstall, deeds belonging to; I. 46.
Ronchin, Pierre, et al. to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Ronstins, Alexander, his oration in answer to the Earl of Northampton, 1604; II. 152.
Ronquillo, Don Pedro, ambassador from Spain, in London, letters of, 1684; I. 56.
Rooke:
Sir George, Admiral; I. 99, 25, 27.
—— fleet of; I. 15, 17.
—— depositions of, 1702; I. 25.
—— letters to; I. 26.
—— to the Earl of Nottingham, &c.; I. 28.
George Henry, to Lord ——; ib.
Sir S. (George?), letters of; II. 16.
Roope, Ambrose, et al., to ——; I. 28.
Roos:
barony of; I. 11.
Lord; ib.
Lord and Lady, letter touching, 1669; II. 99.
Lady Anne, her petition to the House of Lords; I. 28.
Rooth, Richard, to Lord Hatton; ib.
Roque, M., an antiquary at Avignon, letter of; II. 122.
Rosamond's "herbarium" at Oxford; II. 137.
Roscommon, powers to grant protections in, 1691; II. 217.
Roscommon, Lord, essay of; II. 70.
Rose, Alexander, Bishop of Edinburgh, letters of; II. 203, 204, 232.
Rose, Major, of Kilravock, MSS. of, to be inspected; I. 112.
Rose Castle, Cumberland, survey of; II. 125.
Roseberie, Earl of, letters of the; II. 130.
Rosewell, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Rosni, Mr. (afterwards Duke de Sully), letter of; II. 152.
Ross:
ecclesiastics of; II. 180.
Bishop of, David Panter, correspondence of; I. 124.
—— See Lesley, John.
the Man of; II. 71.
Ross:
Alex., letters of; II. 190.
George (of Castle Lyrn, Ireland), letters of; II. 68.
Rosse:
Earl of, his MSS. at Birr Castle, Parsonstown; I. xii.; II. xx.
report on his MSS.; I. 127.
second report on his MSS.; II. 217.
Rossi Sutherlandiæ Comitum Annales; II. 179.
Rosslyn:
Earl of, MSS. of the, at Dysart House; I. 112; II. xviii.
report on his MSS.; II. 191.
Earls of, papers and correspondence of; II. 192.
Rosy Cross, "Discovery of the landable Order" of; I. 43.
Rothe, Robert:
his account of the family of Butler; II. 224.
report on his Register of the antiquities and statutes of Kilkenny; II. 257–262.
Rothes, Earl of:
his "True narration of proceedings concerning the Kirk of Scotland;" I. 123.
letters of the; I. 116.
John, letters of, 1627–40; II. 185.
letter of the, 1640; II. 178.
—— 1679; II. 203.
letters of the, 1738 sq.; II. 191.
Rotterdam, newsletters from; I. 25.
Rotuloram, Custos (Master of the Rolls), appointment of, 1688; I. 17.
Rouen, English convent at, letters of inmates of the; II. 73.
Rous, Capt. John, relation of the Cadiz voyage by; II. 45.
Rousham (near Oxford), report on Mr. Cottrell Dormer's MSS. at; II. 82.

Digitized by Google

Rousseau, J. J., letter to, from Count Orlow, with his reply; II. 19.
Rousel, ——, letter of; I. 28.
Row's History of the Church of Scotland; I. 123.
Rowallan. See Mure of Rowallan.
Rowe:
Jacob, of London, inventor of an engine for recovery of wrecks; II. 178.
Sir Thomas, M.P., his report on the Earl of Bristol's declaration, 1640; I. 62.
Rowley:
Mr., letters of; II. 189.
William, to the Earl of Winchilsea; I. 30.
Rowney, Thomas, to Ric. Langhorne; I. 28.
Rows Roll, the; I. 13.
Rowse, Mr., speeches of, in Parliament, temp. Car. I.; I. 61.
Roxburgh:
Earl of, letters of the, temp. Car. I.; I. 116 (bis).
—— Robert, letters of, 1626–48; II. 185.
Duke of, nine letters of the, 1715; I. 28.
—— letters of the, 1715–6; II. 178.
Royal family:
letters touching the, 1733–49; II. 88.
—— of members of the, 1791–1800; II. 29.
—— concerning the, 1793; ib.
Royalists in Scotland, projected rising of the, 1645–6; I. 115.
"Royaliste undone, or Rebellion rewarded," an account of affairs in Ireland after 1660, by F. N.; I. 53.
Rubi, Marquis de, letters of the; II. 217.
Rucket, Mrs., letters from Alexander Pope to; I. 92.
Rudborne's Historia Parva, extracts from; II. 152.
Rudkin, Edward, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Rudyere (or Ruddyard), Sir Benjamin, speeches of, in Parliament, temp. Car. I.; I. 61, 63.
Ruffin, Jo., to Lord Hatton and another; I. 28.
Ruffinus, Valerius, treatises by; I. 11.
Rugge, Robert, of Holy Island, letter of; II. 185.
Ruiter, De (Dutch captain); I. 51.
Rumball, Mr., letter of Charles II. to; I. 128.
Runic letters, with their meanings, I. 60.
Rupert, Prince; I. 51 account of his escape from a trooper; II. 38.
accounts of naval engagements under, 1673; II. 10.
letter of, and instructions to; I. 47.
letters of; I. 107; II. 9, 10, 19, 86.
—— to the Marquis of Montrose; II. 173.
letter of Charles I. to; II. 49, 63.
Russell:
family of, papers relating to the; I. 55; II. 1, 2, 4.
—— correspondence of the; II. 73.
Lord, correspondence with the Privy Council, 1549; II. 4.
—— letter to, 1683; II. 18.
—— papers connected with his attainder; II. 1.
Lord and Lady, letters and papers of, &c., 1658–1701; II. 1, 4.
Lord J., letters to, 1787; II. 30.
Lord William, papers touching his mission to Belgium, 1831; II. 2.
Marquis; I. 24.
Lady, letters of, 1591; II. 50.
Lady Elizabeth, pardon to, 1603; II. 1.
Lady Katharine, letter of; II. 98.
Lady Margaret, letters of; II. 15.
Lady Rachel, letters of; ib.
—— letters and papers of, 1679–1717; II. 1, 2, 4.
—— letter to, 1685; II. 114.
Admiral, letters of; II. 2.
Dr. C. W., one of the Historical MSS. Commissioners, report by; II. 103.
Sir Francis, letters of; II. 98.
Harry, letter of, &c., 23 Hen. VIII.; II. 72.
Henry, grant to, &c.; II. 72.
—— household book of, ib.
—— letters to, ib.
John, secretary to the Council of Catharine of Aragon, letter of; ib.
Sir John, letters to; ib.
—— papers of, ib.
Rowland; ib.
Thomas, of Little Malvern; II. 73.
Sir William, Lord Deputy of Ireland, instructions, correspondence, and journal of, &c.; II. 1.
Russia:
instructions to the English ambassador to the Emperor of, 1575; II. 97.
letters relating to, 1719; I. 41.
a squadron sent against the Czar of, 1719; I. 41.
Czar of, Peter II., history of his election to the throne; II. 216.
correspondence between French ministers touching secret negotiations with, 1732; II. 212.
first treaty of commerce between England and, 1733; II. 211, 213.
letters to the English ambassador in, 1733; II. 212.
diary of the English envoy to, 1733–4; II. 215, 216.
account of, by the Earl of Granard, 1734; II. 216.
Russia—cont.
memorial with regard to the trade through, to Persia, 1740; II. 3. treaty with, 1755, copy of the; II. 2. letterbook of an English ambassador to, 1762–5; I. 14.
memoranda touching visits to, 1768–72; II. 28.
two papers touching the reception of ambassadors in, [18th cent.]; II. 26.
mem. on the retreat of the French army from (1842); II. 4. commerce of, papers on the; II. 213.
notes on the succession of the Czars of; II. 57.
See Muscovy.
Rutherfords, the; I. 116.
Ruthin, Lord, letter of, 1697; II. 63.
Ruthoy, Lord, his discourse on the troubles in Scotland (Mary Queen of Scots' affair); I. 42.
Ruthven, Earl of, and others, bond by [1569?]; II. 183.
Sir Patrick, letters of; II. 188.
Rutland:
Duke of, his collection at Belvoir; I. x.
—— report on his MSS. in Belvoir Castle; I. 10.
Lord, the Earl of Essex's letters to; I. 48.
Earl of, J., letter of, 1652; I. 28.
—— to the Earl of Nottingham, 1703; I. 28.
Earls of, household books of the; I. 11.
Duke of, letters of the; I. 127.
county of, miscellaneous collections relating to the; II. 80.
—— documents relating to the, temp. Edw IV.; II. 94.
sheriff of, Council letters to the, 1689; II. 78.
Ryffin (Kyffin ?), John, letter of; II. 73.
Ryland, Mr., letters from and to; II. 20.
Ryley's Placita Parliamentaria; II. 46.
Rymer, Thomas, excerpts by; I. 125.
Ryswick, treaty of, 1697, letters relating to the; I. 34.

S.

S——, P——, "Considerations touching Entercourse" by, 1630; I. 32.
Sabbath, registers of punishments of breakers of the; I. 122.
Sabins, Bishop of, William, brief of; I. 74.
Sacheverell:
Dr.; II. 245.
Ferdinando; II. 131.
Henry, of Ballintagorte, co. Armagh; II. 217.
Henry, of Ratelyff; I. 105.
Clause, debates on the; I. xiii.
Sackville:
Lord George, his narrative of the battle of Minden; II. 28.
Mr., letter to; I. 17.
Wm., certificate of his knighthood by Henry IV.; II. 88.
Sacrament, certificates of having received the, 1676–7; I. 105.
Sadler, Thomas, to Lord ——; I. 28.
Sadlyer, Sir Raffe, instructions by Henry VIII. to; II. 96.
Saffig, Baron de, to George Stepney; I. 36.
Sagas, Icelandic and other; I. 125.
Sage, John, Bishop, letters of; II. 204.
Sailing problems, 1709; II. 46.
Sainct Gilby, —— de, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
St. Alban's:
monastery of; II. 144.
"an old ledger book" of, mentioned in the Register of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge; II. 117.
Lord, letter of; II. 1.
—— letters of, 1666; II. 15.
—— —— 1742, sq.; II. 191.
Viscount. See Bacon.
St. Amant, Mons., poem by, addressed to Charles I. and his Queen; II. 143.
S. Andreæ, Catalogus Episcoporum (16th cent.); I. 121.
St. Andrew's:
University of, records of the; I. 112; II. xx.
—— report on the records of the; II. 206–9.
—— (and colleges) documents relating to the, 16th cent.; I. 124.
—— Royal Commission appointing visitors of the; II. 204.
Castle of, letters touching the, 1570; II. 183, 184.
Chamberlain of, letter to the, 1570; II. 183.
city of, "Registrum" of the; II. 208.
colleges at, records of the; II. 207, 208, 209.
New College and St. Leonard's College at; II. 204.
priory of, chartulary of the; I. 119; II. 186.
Archbishop of, John, Papal Legate, dispensation by, 1555; II. 177.
—— letters to the, 1568; II. 183.
—— letter of the, 1623; II. 197.
St. Asaph, Bishop of:
William (Lloyd), to Lord Hatton; I. 15.
W., letters of, 1685; 87, 88.
Drummond, letters of; II. 106.
St. Bartholomew's Close, compotus of rents in, Hen. VIII.; I. 13.
St. Bennett-in-the-Holm, abbot of, complaint of the; I. 103.

Digitized by Google

St. Clair:
Henry, charters to; II. 191.
Sir James, Bart., General, letters of; II. 192.
Lady Janet, letters of; II. 179.
St. David's (Menevens.), diocese of, "extract" of First Fruits in; II. 89.
—— Bishop of. See Lyndewood.
St. Esprit, list of Knights of the Order of; II. 63.
St. George, Fort, siege of; I. 20.
St. George:
Chevalier; I. 49.
Sir George, letter of; II. 211.
M. de, letter of; II. 38.
Sir Oliver, letters of; II. 211.
St. Germain, letters dated at; II. 170, 172, 173.
St. German:
Father; I. 54.
M., confessor to the Duchess of York, 1675; I. 52.
St. Germans, Earl of:
his collection at Port Eliot; I. x.
report on his MSS. at Port Eliot; I. 41.
St. Hellier, account of the naval expedition to, 1757; II. 30.
St. James's:
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 32.
—— 18th cent.; II. 189, 217.
St. John:
Sir Oliver, letters of; I. 100; II. 52, 53, 54, 55, 57, 58.
—— the case of, 1660; II. 98.
St. Andrew, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
St. John's argument on Ship Money; II. 3.
St. John's of Jerusalem:
in England, Prior of, E. Docwra, letter of; I. 95.
Order of, letters of publication of a Papal bull in favour of the; I. 96.
in Scotland, Lord of; II. 196.
St. Leger:
Anthony, temp. Hen. VIII.; I. 12.
Sir Anthony, and the Privy Council of Ireland, instructions to; II. 94.
Sir John, Baron of the Exchequer (of Ireland), letters of; II. 282.
St. Leonard's:
prior of, accounts of the; I. 89.
Hospital, computi of; I. 97.
Saintlowe, Sir John, letter to; II. 153, 155.
St. Malo and Brest, notes of the intended attempt on, 1694; II. 3.
St. Marie, ——, to Madame ——; I. 28.
St. Martin-le-Grand, an old register book of; I. 95.
S. Martino, Leander de, treatise by; II. 109.
St. Mary's Isle, monastery of, register of the; I. 111.
St. Michael, Fort; I. 20.
St. Neot's, prior of; I. 83.
St. Omer:
(Jesuit College at), relation of a journey of 12 English students from, to Seville; I. xi. 61.
St. Osyth, monastery of, MSS. of the; I. 61.
St. Osythes, Essex, manor of; II. 151.
St. Paul, hospital of, accounts of the; I. 89.
St. Paul's Cathedral:
letter under seal for repair of, 9 Car. I.; II. 88.
funeral charges at; II. 89.
St. Petersburgh:
accounts of visits to, 1768–72; II. 25.
English ambassador at, Lord Cathcart, letters to and from, 1768–72; II. 26; his instructions, &c., ib.
letters dated at, 18th cent.; I. 14; II. 38, 190, 213, 216, 217.
St. Pol, Conte de, notes of debts and demands between him and Edward III.; I. 70.
St. Ruay, Sir William; I. 17.
St. Saphorin, M. de, letters of; II. 189, 190.
St. Valery, abbey of, deeds and rentals of the; II. 136.
St. Vincent, Lord, letters of, 1799; II. 192.
Saints, a collection of the lives of (13th cent.); I. 45.
Sale. See Gale.
Salesbury, Wm., letters of; I. 45.
Salisbury:
church of, MSS. relating to the; I. 90, 91.
ordinatio hospitalis S. Nicolai Sarum; I. 90.
Bishop of, letter of, 1622; II. 60.
—— Seth Ward, letters from and to, 1680; II. 114.
dean of; II. 178.
see of, a collection relating to the; I. x.
See Sarum.
Salisbury, Earl of:
William de Montacute, Lord of Man, charters of the, with seals (temp. Edw. III.); 12; II. 23.
Robert Cecil; I. 31.
his speech to Queen Elizabeth, concerning the Jesuit's School, &c.; I. 54, 61, 62.
his treatise on "The State of a Secretary's place, and the Peril"; I. 54, 61.
his "Dialogue between two friends, servants of His Majesty" (Jac. I.); I. 62.
letters of (beginning of 17th cent.); I. 75.
letters to, 1605–7; I. 43.
Salisbury, Earl of—cont.
letter to (temp. Jac. I.); II. 121. See Cecil, Sir Robert.
Charles I.'s letters to the; I. 43.
his speech to the Lower House; I. 48.
Salisbury:
Colonel, letter to; II. 87.
Owen, letter of; II. 86.
Salmon, Peter, his letter from Padua; I. 67.
Salom, prior of. See Bonhor.
Salomon, Pierre, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Salop. See Shropshire.
Salt:
licence to boil and sell, 10 Hen. V.; II. 69.
documents relating to, temp. Eliz.; I. 50.
rates of duty on; I. 131.
Salt-works, grant out of, 12th cent.; II. 119.
Saltoun, Lord, MSS. of the, to be inspected; I. 112.
Sampford Courtenay, Devon, manor of, survey of the; I. 69.
Sampson:
Thomas, Dean of Christchurch, Oxford, his letter against the wearing of the surplice, and Notes in vindication of Bishop Jewel; II. 77.
Thomas, Dr., letter of; II. 155.
Samwell:
Anthony, to Chr. Hatton; I. 28.
Arthur, to Lady Hatton; I. 28.
Thomas, et al., to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Sancroft, Archbishop, letter of; I. 52.
Sanctuary, a document illustrating the law of; II. 178.
Sandby, Dr., prebendary of Worcester, letter to; II. 38.
Sanders:
Dr. (at Madrid), letter of; II. 41.
Mr., letters of; I. 52.
Sanderson, William, a journal kept by, on shipboard; II. 46.
Sandford:
—— his Description of Cumberland; II. 123.
Francis (Lancaster Herald), to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Sandilands, family of; II. 196.
Sands, Lord, inventory of his effects at the Vine, 1540; I. 11.
Sandwich:
mayor of, letter of the, 1656; II. 92.
Earl of, letter of the, 1672; I. 28.
—— letters to the; I. 14.
—— accounts of the death of the, 1672, with an elegy; II. 22.
Sandylandis, James, charter to; II. 196.
Sandys:
Bishop of London, letter to; II. 153.
Sir Edwin, his relation of the state of religion in the Western world; II. 31.
Thomas, letter of; I. 28.
—— letters of, 1691–4; II. 16.
See Sands.
Sandford:
John, to Lord Hatton, et al.; I. 28.
R., to the Lords of the Privy Council; I. 28.
Sanquer, Lord, Bacon's speech at the arraignment of; I. 31.
Sant Voort, Jan Van, a Dutch carver; II. 185.
Saphorin, M. de, letter to; II. 189. See St. Saphorin.
Sardinia, Viceroy of, letters of the, 1715–18; II. 212.
Sark, island of; I. 18 (bis).
Sarum:
Miscellanea et Statuta quoad (a bundle of MSS. so entitled); I. 90, 91.
a consuetudinarium of the Church of, 13th cent.; II. 105.
"Sarum MS. Breviary," a (14th cent.), at Drummond Castle; I. 118.
Sasines:
records of, at Glasgow; I. 126.
register of, at Aberdeen; I. 122.
Satires, collection of (MS. 18th cent.); II. 180.
Saumur, expenses of students at, 17th cent.; I. 116.
Saunders, Clement, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Saunderson:
Robert (afterwards Bishop of Lincoln), letter of; II. 113.
—— Fellow of Lincoln College, Oxford (the eminent divine); II. 192.
Saussmares:
E., to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
H., to Lord Hatton and another; I. 28.
Jaquinne de, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Mathieu, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Thomas de, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Savage:
—, execution of; II. 41.
Sir Arthur, letter of; II. 56.
Ralph, charter of; I. 106.
Savile (or Savill):
(Lord?), letters of, 1676–86; I. 56.
Lord W., letters to, 1690–7; II. 15.
Sir George, letters to; II. 17.
—— See Halifax, Marquis of.
Henry, envoy extraordinary at Paris, 1679–82, letters of; I. 56.
—— letters from, to his brother George, Marquis of Halifax; II. 15.
—— other letters of; ib.

Digitized by Google

Savile (or Savill)—cont.
Henry, George, and William, letters from, to their father, the Marquis of Halifax; II. 16.
Sir Thomas, letter of; II. 53.
"Will," holograph letter of Charles I. to; II. 17.
Savoy:
ambassador of, relation of the; I. 37.
Duke of, letters touching the, temp. Jac. I.; II. 52, 54, 56, 59.
—— Charles Emanuel, letter of, 1624–5; II. 62, 63.
—— autograph letters of the; I. 30.
Dukes of, "nihil juris habent in Genevam;" II. 151
House of, letters from the, to Mary of Guise; I. 124.
—— See Henry, Prince.
Saxon:
book, fragment of a (the Rules of St. Benedict); I. 94.
charters; I. 71.
deeds and charters in the Liber Albus, at Wells; I. 94 (bis).
documents in; I. 97.
verses; II. 144. See Anglo-Saxon.
Saxony:
Elector of, answer by the, to the King of Denmark's letter [temp. Eliz.]; II. 151.
—— Stepney's negotiations with the, 1695; I. 35.
Crown Prince of, account of an embassy from the, to Dresden, 17th cent.; I. 124.
Say:
Walter de, of Stoke, and others of that family, deeds by; II. 77.
William, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Say and Sele, Lord, letter of, 1623; II. 61.
letter to, ib.
Sayer (or Layer), Thomas, letter to; II. 154.
Scaglia, Abbate de la, letter of; II. 63.
Scarborough Castle, articles of capitulation of, 1645; I. 45.
Scarlet, Philip, letter of; I. 67.
Schaub, Mons. L., letters of; II. 188, 189, 190.
Schoenborn, Baron de, letters to George Stepney; I. 35, 36; to the Elector of Mentz; I. 36.
Schomberg:
M., letter of [1615?]; II. 52.
Marshal, letter of, 1624; II. 62.
Schomberg and Leinster, Duke of, his dragoons; I. 16.
—— letters of the, 1703; I. 28.
—— Frederick, letters of; I. 55.
Schonenberg, F., to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 28.
School:
suggestions for establishing a, at Dublin, 1692; II. 233.
charity, erection of a, in Ireland; II. 235.
free, charter of Queen Elizabeth to a; II. 125.
grammar, list of lands and tenements for support of a; I. 46.
grant to a, by Edward VI.; II. 81.
Schoolhouse, payments for a, 16th cent.; II. 149.
Schoolmaster, payments to a, 16th cent.; II. 149, 150.
Schoolmasters:
oaths of; I. 103.
Popish, in Ireland; II. 157.
Schools:
in Aberdeen; I. 121.
in Cambridge, temp. Edw. 3; II. 111.
free, in Ireland; II. 157.
Schwerdnitz, Journal du siége de; II. 30.
another account; ib.
Scilly, fort at; II. 99.
Scone:
the Book of (a copy of Fordun's Scotichronicon); I. 121.
monastery of; II. 208.
—— charters of the; II. 202.
Scotch:
order to raise men against the, 1501; II. 47.
the, in France, (Privileges et Naturalité des Escossois en France, 1558); I. 118.
remonstrance of the; I. 31.
affairs, memoirs of, 1637–49, by H. Guthry, Bishop of Dunkeld; II. 197.
army, the, against the Covenanters; I. 55.
bishops, catalogue of; II. 186.
clergy, lists of, at the Revolution; II. 204.
—— collections in Ireland for, 1702; II. 233.
College, extracts from papers in the; II. 8. See Colleges, Paris, Ratisbon, Rome, Valladolid.
Commissioners, accusations and articles of the, against the Archbishop of Canterbury; I. 32.
—— declaration of what passed between the English and, at Ripon, 1640; I. 62.
—— the preamble to their demand concerning their losses and charges (temp. Car. I.); I. 62; II. 7.
Commonwealth, the State of the, written by Sir Robert Cecil; I. 32.
conspiracy, the; I. 27.
Guards in France, French commissions in the, 17th cent.; I. 115.
—— [in France], a volume relating to; I. 125.
history, miscellaneous collections of; II. 45.
laws, extracts from the; II. 5.
—— a "compend" of the; II. 186.
Scotch—cont.
laws, copies of the old; II. 42.
Lords, Henry VIII's charge to the, 1543; I. 124.
mission in France, Low Countries, and England; II. 202.
monasteries. See Erfurt, Ratisbon.
peerage, Balfour's account of the; II. 200.
Peers, proposed Act to empower Queen Anne to call them to the Upper House "by request;" I. 117.
—— memorial of, to Queen Anne; II. 195.
—— letter about their introduction by writ [into the House of Lords], 1711; II. 189.
—— letters of, soliciting votes at elections, 1742–4; II. 191.
Rolls, extracts from the, Hen. III. to Edw. IV.; I. 32.
settlers, in Ireland, 1690; II. 232.
ships in the Thames; I. 19.
war, the, 1640, papers relating to the; I. 62, 63.
Scotiæ:
Extracta e variis Chronicis; I. 123; II. 186.
Historiæ, 1726; II. 200.
Scotland:
Reports on materials for history in; I. 110–126; II. 165–208.
a volume touching the right of the Kings of England to the homage of, (15th cent.); II. 5.
documents touching lands in, temp. Edw. II. & III.; II. 93.
truce between England and, 1357; II. 6.
letters relating to, temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 17.
—— 16th cent.; II. 42, 45.
instructions to English ambassadors to, temp. Hen. VIII. & Eliz.; II. 96, 97.
a letter from the professors of Christ's Evangell in, to the Queen and Regent, 1559; I. 119.
instructions to the English ambassador in, 1589; II. 104.
James I's letters respecting offenders on the Borders of, 1607; I. 62. See Borders.
letter touching King James's visit to, 1617; II. 37.
Charles I.'s progress to, to be crowned, 1633; I. 62.
newsletters relating to, 1639; I. 27.
papers relating to the civil war in, 1644–9; II. 175, 176.
Observations on the Civil War in, by H. Guthry, Bishop of Dunkeld; II. 186.
a Journal of actions in, 1650, after Charles II.'s arrival from Holland; I. xii., 128.
famine in, (1689); II. 125.
papers relating to the divisions in, 1702–3; I. 29.
the Union between England and; I. 20.
papers relating to the Act of Union with; I. 30. See Union.
the cess in, 1703; I. 15.
memoirs concerning affairs of, from Queen Anne's accession to 1707, with an account of the designed invasion in 1708; II. 179.
account of charges of forage in, 1709; I. 54.
scheme for a religious house in; I. 118.
insurrection in, 1715. See Rebellion of 1715–6. movements in, 1716; II. 189.
military operations in 1716; II. 234.
memoranda relating to, from the Public Records in England; II. 125.
papers relating to; I. 30, 33.
Act of Council of; II. 168.
Admiral of, appointment of Montrose as, 1649; II. 173.
bishopries of, records of the; I. 125. See Chartularies.
Bishops in, rules and directions for the, by Charles II.; II. 203.
Chancellorship of; II. 168.
Chronicle of, 16th cent.; II. 209.
Church of, documents relating to the affairs of the, down to 1638; I. 124.
—— general assembly and synods of the, their petitions against adherents of Montrose, 1645; II. 175.
—— MSS. relating to the history of the; I. 128.
—— a volume of papers relating to the; II. 45.
Church courts of, papers of the, 1650–60; II. 197.
Commissioner-general in, 1604; II. 168.
Commissions of Justiciary and Lieutenancy in, from 1479; I. 115, 116.
Commissions of Deputy-Admirals of; I. 16.
Committee of Estates of, resolution by the, to go into England with the army, 1640; I. 175.
—— transactions of the, 1640–1; I. 121.
—— decrees of the, 1643–4; II. 169.
Constable of, charter by the, 1160; II. 191.
Council of, letters from and to the, temp. Jac. VI. & Car. I.; I. 124.
—— letter to the, from James VII., with their answer; II. 8.
ecclesiastical history of, an immense collection relating to the, at Buckie; I. 120.
episcopacy in, settlement of; I. 55.
Episcopal Church in, collection of MSS. belonging to the; I. 112.
—— letters and papers touching the; II. 203, 204, 205, 234.
Estates and General Assembly of, questions to be resolved by the, 1597; I. 47. See Assembly.

Digitized by Google

Scotland—cont.
families of, collections about; I. 125.
—— account of, 1728; II. 201.
—— documents relating to great historical; I. 55.
families of the North of, their correspondence; I. 126.
Great Chamberlains of, their accounts; I. 111.
Great Seal of, (1180); II. 166, 168.
—— records of the; I. 111.
—— (Registrum Magni Sigilli); II. 186.
history of, MS. materials for the; I. xii.
history of the affairs of, chiefly ecclesiastical, 1659–73; I. 121.
Judge Advocate of, letters of the, 1745–6; II. 179.
Kings of, chronology of the, from 1056 to 14th cent.; I. 118.
—— an account of the, ending in 1300; II. 104.
—— Traites entre les Roys de France et les Roys d'Escosse; II. 186. See Alexander; Bruce; David; James; Malcolm; Robert; Steward.
Lieutenant-governor of, commissions to the Marquis of Montrose as, 1643–9; II. 173, 178.
Lord Chancellor of, letter to the, 1577; II. 184.
—— 1702–3; I. 28.
Lord High Steward of, papers about the office of; II. 192.
Lord High Treasurers of, their accounts; I. 111.
Lord Justice Clerk of, letters of the, 1715–6; II. 178.
—— —— 1745–6; II. 179.
Lords of, letter from the, to Queen Elizabeth, 1569?; II. 183.
Lords of Session of, letter of the; II. 197.
Mareschalate of, The, by Bishop Keith; II. 205.
nobility of, letters from the, to the Duke of Alva, 1568; II. 183.
—— a declaration of the just causes moving them to abide with the King when religion was opposed (1582); II. 41.
—— commissioners for ranking the, 1606; II. 168.
North of, charters and rolls connected with the history of the; I. 120.
offices of master of the King's hawks, chief huntsman, &c. in, 1682; II. 187.
Parliament of, decreet of the, 1374; II. 167.
—— 1612; I. 57.
—— Charles I.'s proclamation for calling a; II. 172.
—— petitions to the, 1641; II. 168.
—— notes of proceedings of the, 1641; II. 175.
—— address by the, to Charles II., 1649, with his answer; II. 172.
—— letter from Louis XIV. to the, touching Montrose; II. 177.
—— its Act concerning Presbyterian government, 1702; I. 17.
—— proceedings in the, 1702; II. 234.
—— letters relating to the, 1703; I. 15.
—— minutes of the proceedings of the, 1706–7; I. 114.
—— copies of certain Acts of the; I. 126.
—— collections from the records of the; II. 186.
peers of, letter of, touching measures against Charles I.; II. 178.
Presbyteries and synods of, records of the; I. 111.
President of the Session in, memorial for the, 1714; II. 188.
Privy Council of; II. 183.
—— President of the, 1626; II. 168.
—— minutes of the; II. 186.
—— records of the; I. 111.
Privy Seal of; II. 167 (bis), 168.
Queen of. See Margaret (Tudor); Mary of Guise; Mary Queen of Scots.
Regent of, James, letter of; II. 183. See Morton, Earl of.
—— John, letter of; II. 183. See Mar, Earl of.
religious houses of, records of; I. 125 (bis). See Chartularies.
royal burghs of, records of the; I. 111.
sheriff courts of, records of the; I. 111.
synodal statutes of; II. 209.
synods of, modes of procedure in; II. 209.
early thanes and thanages of; II. 193.
universities of, MSS. in the; I. 111.
Scotorum, Brevia de Cronicis (16th cent.); I. 121.
Scott:
of Bonnington, letters touching a pardon for, 1619–21; II. 56, 59.
Captain; I. 19.
Edward, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
James, the Rev., his extracts from the records of Perth; I. 123.
Sir John, his "Staggering State of Scotish Statsmen;" II. 186.
Sir John, of Scotstarvit, letters of; II. 185.
Robert, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Thomas, his "Vox Populi, or news from Spain;" I. 43.
Sir Walter, letter of; II. 24.
Sir Wm., of Balwery; II. 184.
Scougal, Henry, his Manual of Moral Philosophy; II. 200.
Scripture History, a vellum roll of, 13th cent.; II. 86.
Scroggs:
Chief Justice; I. 29, 33.
William, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Scrop, Sir Henry Le, petition of, temp. Hen. VI.; II. 94.
Scrope:
Lords, Wardens of the Marches, papers connected with; II. 123, 124.
Lord, letter of, 1619; II. 55.
Scrymgeour, John, of Dudop, letter of; II. 185.
Scudamyre, Richard, letters to Sir Philip Hobye; I. 124.
Sculpture, 16th cent.; I. 114.
Scutages, two, granted by Parliament, 1318; I. 88.
Seabury, Samuel, Dr., of Connecticut; II. 205.
Seafield, Earl of:
MSS. of the, to be inspected; I. 112.
examination of the collection of the; II. viii.
Lord Chancellor of Scotland, letters of the, 1702–3; I. 28.
Seaforth, Earl of:
certain speeches concerning the, 1630; II. 194.
letter to the; II. 197.
truce by, 1715; II. 178.
Seal. See Great Seal; Privy Seal.
Seals:
mediæval; I. 110.
14th and 15th cent.; II. 94.
copies of; I. 49.
at Eaton Hall, Cheshire; II. 69.
in the Hatton collection; I. 14, 33.
among Earl Spencer's MSS.; II. 20.
Seamer, James, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Secretaries, Some points to be noted for (tracts, 17th cent.); II. 85, 86.
Secretaries of State:
letters of, 18th cent.; II. 38.
—— 1709 sq.; II. 188, 189.
Secretary, Instructions for a principal, by R. B. (Robert Beale?); II. 45.
Sedbergh School, letters from, 17th cent.; I. 75.
Segrave, Lords of, evidences of the; II. 5.
Selby, William, et al., to Chr. Hatton; I. 28.
Selden, John:
On the baronage of England; I. 31.
his book on the office of Lord Chancellor; I. 32.
recommended to be master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge; II. 122.
letters of; I. 43.
speeches of, in Parliament; I. 43.
Selkirk:
Earl of, MSS. of the, to be inspected; I. 112.
—— letters of the, 1733 sq.; II. 190.
heir of; II. 255.
Sempill, Lord, papers connected with his mission to Spain, 1599; I. 125.
Semple, H., of Castle Semple, letter of; II. 185.
Senescallus Angliæ (a treatise); II. 81.
Sequestratio fructuum Decanatus Sarræ; I. 90.
Sequestration of Papists and Delinquents, proceedings of the Committee for; II. 73.
Sequestrations; I. 30. of the property of Charles I.'s adherents at York; I. 109.
papers touching, 1645–6; II. 19.
committees of, orders by; 1652–9; II. 67, 68.
inquiry touching, 1662; I. 47.
See Papists.
Serjeant, John, account of his disputes in vindication of the Catholic faith; II. 203.
Sermon, a, 1643; I. 63.
Sermones in Evangelia Dominicalia, in the "Liber Sanctæ Mariæ de Kynlos" (14th cent.); I. 121.
Sermons; I. 31.
early English; I. 60 (ter); II. 5.
13th and 14th cent.; II. 109.
15th cent.; II. 34.
17th cent.; I. 46, 52; II. 1, 80.
18th and 19th cent.; II. 205.
probably by John Erskyne of Dune; I. 119.
Servanus, or Serf (St.), the great saint of Fife; II. 191, 192.
Service-book, a, 15th cent.; I. 89. See Missals; Psalters.
Service-books, leaves and fragments of; I. 65, 99, 107, 119; II. 138, 179, 192.
Sessions minute book, 1547, at Nottingham; I. 106.
Sessions rolls, 1467–1841, at Nottingham; I. 105.
Seton:
Sir Alex., of Pitmedden, his "Observations and Minutes of the Privy Conneil;" II. 186.
Marie de, attendant on Mary Queen of Scots, letter of; I. 55.
Settlement, Act of, 1663, an original debenture under the; II. 217, 221.
Sévigné, Madame de, original letter of, to her daughter; II. 19.
Seward, Mr., letter of; I. 55.
Seymour:
Brigadier; I. 16.
Edward, a note of the christening of, 1567; II. 5.
Sir Edward; I. 23.
—— letter of; I. 38.
—— copy of his patent as Viscount Beauchamp; I. 32.
Mr.; I. 23.
Shadwen, Joan, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.

Digitized by Google

Shaftesbury, Earl of :
his horses ; I. 22.
case of the, 1677 ; II. 83.
speech of the, 1679 ; ib.
letters of the, 1733, sq. ; II. 190.
Shakerley, Peter, to Lord — ; I. 28.
Shakespear :
a drama, with notes, supposed to be in the handwriting of ; I. x.
probability of his having played at Aberdeen ; I. 122.
Pope's scheme for publishing ; II. 71.
Theobald's edition of ; ib.
William (? the dramatist), grant of a cottage inhabited by, 1597 ; II. 78.
Shales, John, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Sharp :
Archbishop, a collection of official and other documents relating to the murder of ; I. 121.
—— letters and papers of ; II. 203, 205.
Sir Wm., letters to ; II. 205.
Shaw :
George, letters of ; II. 27.
Sir John, of Greenock, M.P., letters from and to ; II. 26, 27.
Lady, letters to ; II. 26 (bis), 27.
—— letters of ; II. 27.
Wm., letters of ; I. 56.
Sheafe, Henry, to Stephen Montesge ; I. 28.
Sheffield, Lord :
Governor of Brill, instructions to, 1598 ; II. 104.
letters of, 1618 ; II. 54.
letter of, 1639 ; II. 58.
Shelburne, Lord :
letter to, 1766 ; II. 30.
letter to, 1782 ; II. 18.
account of the duel between him and Mr. Fullerton, 1780 ; II. 14.
Shelburne Papers, at Lansdowne House ; II. viii.
Sheldon :
Archbishop of Canterbury, letters of ; II. 19.
Mary, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
W., and another, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
W., letter to ; I. 29.
Shelley, —, instructions to, 1557 ; II. 96.
Sherborne, church of, list of relics in the ; I. 97.
Sherborne :
Edward, et al., to Mr. Poole ; I. 28.
—— letter of ; II. 12.
Shere, Sir Henry, to Lord —— ; I. 28.
Sheridan :
R. B., letter of ; II. 14.
Wm., Bishop of Kilmore, letters of ; II. 232, 234, 244, 246.
—— —— case of ; II. 233, 234, 240, 241, 242.
Sheriffmuir, battle of, narratives of the ; I. 117 ; II. 204.
Sheriffs, high, warrants for appointments of ; I. 34.
Sherlock, Patrick, treatise by ; II. 40.
Shiffner, Henry, M.P. for Minehead, letters of ; I. 56.
Shinn, Mr. ; I. 17.
Ship Money :
arguments and judgments in Hampden's case ; I. 14.
arguments in the case of ; II. 98.
the referees for assessing ; I. 31.
arguments of the judges concerning ; I. 31.
orders of sessions for payment of ; I. 55.
raised in Warwickshire, a book touching (11 Car. I.) ; I. 101.
St. John's argument on ; II. 3.
Noy's projects, 1634 ; II. 8.
instructions for levying, 1635 ; II. 79.
Shippen, Wm., letters of ; II. 84.
Shipping, schedule of [temp. Car. I.] ; II. 97.
Shipton, Samuel, parson of Alderley ; I. 49.
Ships :
furniture of, 1573–4 ; II. 44.
journals of, 1672–3 ; II. 10.
list of ; I. 30.
orders for making, 1719 ; I. 41.
a book of ships, shipping, and navigation ; II. 4.
Sir W. Raleigh's "Discourse of the Invention" of ; ib.
of war, a book on the building of ; I. 33.
Shipwrecked persons, letter of S. Pepys touching amendment of common law respecting ; I. 52.
Shire, Instructions for a lieutenant of a [16th cent.] ; II. 95.
Shirley, Sir Thomas, treasurer of the forces in the Low Countries, instructions to, 1586 ; II. 104.
Short, Richard, mandate of James II. for him to be Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford ; II. 147.
Shotbolt, John, letter of ; II. 39.
Shovell, Sir Cloudesley ; I. 22, 27. to the Earl of Nottingham, et al. ; I. 28.
journal by ; II. 10.
Shrewsbury :
School, a box of documents relating to ; I. 75.
Loton Park near, report on Sir B. Leighton's MSS. at ; II. 64.
Papers, the, in the custody of the executors of the late Earl of Shrewsbury ; I. xi.
—— report on the ; I. 50.
Shrewsbury—cont.
Countess of, and her descendants, Memoirs of the, with letters, 1584–1609 ; II. 15 (bis).
Earl of ; I. 15.
—— letter of the [? temp. Hen. VI.] ; I. 95.
—— letters of the, to Q. Elizabeth ; II. 43.
—— instructions to the ; II. 43.
—— letter of the, 1588 ; II. 41.
—— an address signed by, touching Mary Queen of Scots ; II. 41.
—— present to the, 1604 ; I. 105.
—— to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
—— letters to and from the, 1658 ; II. 14.
Duke of ; I. 23.
—— letters of the, 1690–1702 ; II. 15 (bis).
Shropshire :
grant of lands in ; II. 39.
deeds relating to lands in ; II. 77.
Shute, Robert, letter of ; II. 59.
Sibbald, Sir Robert, collections of ; I. 123, 124.
Sicily, the Superior of a convent in ; II. 195.
Sidney. See Sydney.
Sieffhigen, Baron de, to George Stepney ; I. 39.
Signed Bill, a, temp. Edw. IV. ; I. 96.
Silvester, Daniel, envoy to Russia, instructions to ; II. 97.
Simmons, Giles, to — Ellis ; I. 28.
Simpson :
John, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Sarah, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Sinckler, Sir Anthony, letter to ; I. 27.
Sinclair :
Sir David, a Norse charter to ; II. 191.
John Master of, his Memoirs of the Insurrection in Scotland, 1715 ; II. 192.
Sir John, letter of, 1807 ; II. 24.
Sinkler, Henry Master of, sale by ; II. 191.
Sinzendorf. See Zinzendorf.
Skeffington :
J., letter of ; II. 47.
Thomas, to Lord — ; I. 28.
Skelton :
Sir Bevil, letters of, 1676–87 ; I. 56.
Jo., to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Skene :
(Scotland), barony of, court books of the ; II. 197.
Geo., Major, letters of ; II. 189.
George, "Cursus Logicus" by ; II. 200.
Slander, a register of convictions for ; I. 122.
Slayner, Captain, relation of the taking of Spanish ships by ; II. 83.
Sloane, Hans, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Small-pox, letter touching the, 1683 ; II. 82.
Smarna fleet, the ; I. 23.
Smeaton, —, letters, papers, and estimates of ; II. 29.
Smith, Smyth, or Smythe :
Admiral (at Hagley), letter to ; II. 38.
Bishop, letters of ; II. 204.
Edmund, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Edward, Bishop of Down and Connor, letters of ; II. 232.
Erasmus, charities of ; 234.
J., aide-de-camp to Lord G. Sackville, letter of ; II. 28.
Jo., to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Sir John, ambassador to Spain, instructions to, 1576 ; II. 97.
Captain John, travels, &c. of, in Europe, Asia, Africa, and America, 1593–1629 ; II. 4.
Mr., letter to ; I. 30.
Richard, to Lord Hatton and others ; I. 28.
Robert, et al., to Mr. Jones ; I. 28.
S., letter to ; I. 25.
Sir Sydney, letters of ; II. 14.
Sir Thomas, letter from, to Queen Elizabeth ; I. 42.
—— his imputations against the Duke of Somerset ; I. 42 ; II. 45.
—— his device for alteration of religion, 1 Eliz. ; I. 42 ; II. 42.
—— ambassador to France (for the restoration of Calais,) 1566, his instructions ; I. 42.
—— his discourse "on the marriage of the Queen of England" ; I. 42 ; II. 43.
—— his treatise on the Commonwealth of the realm of England ; I. 42 ; II. 43.
—— Secretary of State, notes given to ; II. 41.
—— "The manner of government or policy of the realm of England," by ; II. 43.
—— negotiations of, for the restitution of Calais ; II. 44.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
—— Bishop of Lismore, letters of ; II. 232.
Smitheby, James, letter of ; II. 22.
Smithfield :
cattle market ; I. 23
customs of ; II. 69.
Smithsby, J., to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Snape, Dr. ; II. 234.
Sneyd :
Rev. W., examination of the collection of ; II. viii.
Mr., deeds of ; I. 49.

Digitized by Google

Sobieski, Clementine, Queen, letters and papers respecting the relics of; II. 73.
Social subjects, letters on, 18th cent.; II. 12.
Socrates, Apologie for [temp. Car. I.?]; I. 43.
Sodor and Man, Bishop of. See Wilson, Thomas.
Soissons, Count of, letter from James I. to the; II. 51.
Soldiers:
price of coats of, temp. Hen. VIII.; I. 12.
clothing of, temp. Hen. VIII.; I. 105.
payments to, 16th cent.; II. 142, 150.
maimed, letters about relief of, 1595; II. 86.
note of the furniture of, 16th cent.; I. 46.
accounts and correspondence touching the raising of, 18th cent.; I. 110.
papers concerning; II. 40.
Solicitor General, letter to the (no date); II. 223.
Solicitors (legal), a debt to, 15th cent.; II. 112.
Some (?), —, to Mr. Horton; I. 28.
Somers:
John, of Trinity College, Oxford, afterwards Lord Chancellor; II. 143.
Lord; II. 70.
—— letter from, to William III.; I. 55.
—— letters of; II. 15 (bis), 71.
—— —— 1707–8; II. 172.
Somerset:
collections relating to; I. 94.
charters and deeds relating to lands in; I. 56; II. 35, 36.
decay of cloth manufacture in, 1617; I. 37.
ecclesiastical affairs in; I. 24.
musters in, letter touching, 1606; I. 62.
papers relating to; I. 57, 58.
Duke of; I. 15, 37.
—— Edward, Lord Protector, his covenants with the Earl of Hantly; I. 114.
—— letter of; I. 100; II. 151, 152.
—— letter to; II. 152.
—— imputations against the (out of a book of Sir T. Smith's); I. 42; II. 42.
Earl of, marriage of the, 1613; II. 18.
—— letter to the, 1614; II. 51, 52.
—— letters of the, 1614; II. 52.
Earl and Countess of, letter touching the, 1615; II. 87.
—— arraignment of the, 1616; I. 31, 42.
Earl of, Robert, and his Countess, a book of poetry addressed to; I. 32.
Lord C., letters of (? date); II. 192.
Duke of, Charles, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 28.
—— letters of the, 1703; II. 71.
Son Lieu, Alexandre de, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
Songs, collection of (MS. 18th cent.); II. 180.
Sophia, the Electress:
letters of; II. 79.
account of her death; ib.
letters of, 1654–1706; II. 83. See Hanover, Electress of.
Sophia, Princess, at Tunbridge Wells, letters relating to, 1773; II. 99.
Sorcerer, life of a, (burnt 1591); II. 201.
Sotowane, Hugh de, his History of York Cathedral, (12th cent.); I. 87.
South Sea Bubble, letters and papers on the; I. 54, 126; II. 71, 190, 235.
Southampton:
hospital of St. Julian or House of God at, chartulary of the; II. 138.
—— computi of the; II. 142.
mayors of, list of; II. 139.
rental books of houses and lands in; II. 138.
Countess of, M., letters of, 1591–2; II. 89.
Earl of, letter about the affairs of the late, 1581; II. 82.
—— surrenders himself to Queen Elizabeth at Essex House; I. 47.
—— account of his trial, 1600; I. 47, 55.
—— his Ciphers and Characters, (temp. Eliz.); II. 2.
—— letter of the, (temp. Jac. I.); I. 57.
—— —— 1621; II. 60.
—— and Lady Rachel his wife, 1634; II. 1.
—— letters from the, 1661–2; I. 55.
—— letter to the, (? date); II. 1.
Southcote, Sir Edward, memoirs of; II. 147.
Southeby:
fishery in the water of; II. 167, 168.
Earl of, James, letter of, 1668; II. 185.
Southwark:
prior of, charter to the; I. 71.
St. Thomas's, injunctions to the master and brethren of; II. 133.
Southwell:
Lord, letters of; II. 232.
Lady Dowager; II. 235.
the Chevalier, propositions of, 1699; I. 37.
Edward, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 28.
—— letters of; II. 16, 17.
Sir Edward, Secretary for Ireland, letters of; II. 232, 234, 235, 255.
Robert, to Lord Hatton; I. 28.
—— letters of; II. 221.
Southwell—cont.
Sir Robert, letters of; I. xiii., 56.
—— —— Secretary for Ireland, letters of; II. 232, 233, 236, 242.
—— —— observations addressed to; II. 235.
Southwold Bay, battle of; I. 55.
Southworth, "Blessed" Mr., speech of; I. 45.
Spalden, Nicholas, to Mr. Streethay; I. 28.
Spain:
war in, 4 Ric. II.; I. 11.
a relation made to the Council of State of, by the Duke of Alva, 1579, (about Portugal); I. 61.
the Earl of Salisbury's speech against a league with, to Queen Elizabeth; I. 54, 61, 62.
papers regarding truce between England and, (temp. Eliz.); II. 42.
English ambassadors to, instructions to, temp. Eliz.; II. 97.
question of precedency between ambassadors of England and, temp. Eliz.; I. 32 (bis). documents touching its relations with England, temp. Eliz. & Jac. I.; II. 151, 152.
treaties and papers concerning, (16th cent.); II. 41.
treatises on war with, temp. Jac. I.; II. 43. journal of negotiations between England and, 4 Jac. I.; II. 46.
journals, letters, and papers relating to, temp. Jac. I.; I. 42, 43.
ambassador of, conference between him, the Friar Confessor, and Father Baldwin the Jesuit, at Ely House in Holborn, 1621; I. 64.
papers touching negotiations with, temp. Jac. I.; I. 123.
list of Prince Charles's attendants in, 1622; I. 57.
Parliament advises James I. to break off the marriage with; I. 43. See Spanish Match.
"Vox populi or news from"; I. 43, 61; II. 58.
"A Remonstrance of the Treaties of Amitie and Marriage before tyme and of late of the howse of Austria and Spaine," etc. (by Sir R. Cotton); II. 91.
English ambassador in, Sir Walter Aston, 1624; I. 15.
a pamphlet touching a project of, against England, addressed to Charles I.; I. 124.
peace between the Dutch and, 1678; I. 21.
war between France and, 1684; I. 23.
ambassador from, in London, letters of the, 1684; I. 56.
letter relating to, 1698; I. 55.
papers relating to [17th cent.]; II. 42.
English consul in, 1702; I. 25.
Junto of the Three Estates, arms and ammunition for the, 1702; I. 12.
letters relating to, 1702–4; I. 31.
King of, conference between his and English commissioners at Bruges, 1565; II. 97.
—— a Latin letter of the, 1571; I. 42.
—— a spy of the, arrested by Queen Elizabeth; I. 60.
—— papers touching his plots against Queen Elizabeth; II. 40.
—— a discourse touching his designs on England, 1589; II. 97.
—— letter touching great preparations of the, 1596; II. 82.
—— letters to the, from James I.; II. 46.
—— letter to the [1612?]; II. 51.
—— instructions to the Nuncio to the, to treat of his sister's marriage with the Prince of England [Charles]; II. 8.
—— letter from Gregory XV. and the Inquisitor-General to the; I. 54.
—— memorial of the English ambassador to the, 1624; I. 15.
—— an answer by a subject of the, to the manifesto of the King of France, 1635; I. 33.
—— his letter touching Jesuits in England, 1678; I. 23.
Kings of, pedigrees of; II. 6.
Queen of, letter from Queen Anne to the; II. 217.
—— letter of the, 1710; II. 217.
Spaniards:
papers touching conspiracies of, against Queen Elizabeth; II. 41.
confessions of various; II. 42.
proclamation by James VI. against the, 1595; II. 43.
account of [naval] engagements with the [1598?]; II. 87.
Spanish:
affairs, letters on, temp. Jac. I.; I. 61.
ambassador, letter from the, to James I. against the Duke of Buckingham; I. 15.
ambassador in London, 1674; I. 18.
Armada, letters concerning the, 1587–90; II. 87, 88.
—— a, 1627; I. 58.
dominions, a vindication of William III. and the States in the partition of the; I. 41.
galleons; I. 28.
match, letter to the Marquis of Buckingham against the; I. 48, 54.
—— "A short view of the 20th of July" concerning the, 1623; I. 54.
—— letters from Madrid relating to the, 1622; I. 57.
—— copy of Sir R. Phelips' diary in Spain while on the business of the; I. 59.

Digitized by Google

Spanish match—cont.
—— letters and papers relating to the ; II. 18, 42, 79.
—— tracts against the ; II. 85.
—— letter against the ; II. 86.
money ; II. 142.
papers, sent by Colonel Napier to the Commissioners; I. x. 57.
Plate ships, relation of the taking of, 1656, by Capt. Slayner ; II. 83.
politics, letters on, 18th cent. ; II. 189.
ships, relation of the destruction of, at Tenariffe, 1657 ; II. 83.
miscellaneous papers in ; I. 30.
Sparry, Mr., pastor of Mostley, letters to ; I. 47.
Spanbolt, Berks ; II. 139, 140 (bis).
Speculum Universi, or Universal Mirror; II. 8.
Speculum Sacerdotum (in English, temp. Hen. VI.) ; II. 80.
Speculum humanæ salvationis (a German work, 15th cent.) ; II. 81.
Speculum Ecclesiæ, in English ; II. 106.
Speculum Christiani, auctore J. Watton ; II. 145.
Speeches:
copies of, temp. Eliz. ; II. 43.
volumes of, temp. Jac. I. & Car. I. ; 62, 63. See Commons, House of ; and Parliament.
Spellysbury, manor of, court rolls of the ; II. 31.
Spelman, MSS. by ; I. 31.
Spencer :
Earl, MSS. of ; II. ix.
report on the MSS. of; II. 19.
Baron, Robert (1st), memoir of, temp. Jac. I. ; II. 15.
Countess, letters of, 18th & 19th cent. ; II. 13, 14.
—— letters to, 18th & 19th cent. ; II. 13, 14.
—— papers of ; II. 20.
Lord ; I. 24.
—— papers touching his mission to the Duke of Wurtemberg, 1603 ; II. 20.
—— letters to, 1633 ; II. 18.
—— John, letters to, 1726, 1742–3 ; II. 12.
Lady, letters to ; II. 18, 19.
Edmund, letters from Ireland, 1743 ; II. 66.
John, of Wormleighton, petition of ; II. 18.
Spenceers, letters of the, 17th cent., II. 18.
Spinckes, Bishop, letters of ; II. 204.
Spinola :
letters relating to ; II. 38, 59.
Privy Council letter touching his army in Cleveland, 1624 ; II. 87.
Spirits, evil, a book touching the exorcising of ; II. 198.
Sponging-house, the ; I. 20.
Sports, at Aberdeen ; I. 121.
Spottiswoode, Archbishop :
letters of ; I. 116 ; II. 61.
his History of the Church of Scotland ; I. 123.
Sprot, Thomas, Chronica ; II. 6.
Spynie, Lord, Alex., letter of, 1627 ; II. 185.
Squier, Ar., to Mr. Streethay ; I. 28.
Staeyons of Rome, The, (a poem, 15th cent.) ; II. 84.
Stafford :
letters from officers at, 1645 ; II. 48.
county of ; II. 138.
—— charters and documents relating to lands in the ; I. 50 ; II. 47.
—— list of bailiffs for the, 1581 ; II. 47.
—— list of trained horse for the, 1634 ; II. 48.
—— subsidy roll for the ; II. 49. Erdeswick's Survey of the, ib.
—— visitation of the, 1583, (copy) ; II. 80.
Lord, the Lords' votes upon the trial of, 1680 ; I. 45.
—— Edward, and Ursula his wife, conveyance by ; II. 69.
Edmund, letter of ; I. 28.
Stair :
Earl of, MSS. of the ; II. xviii.
—— report on his MSS. ; II. 188.
Lord, letters of ; II. 212.
—— letters to, 1704, sq. ; II. 26.
—— —— 1721, ib.
—— letters of, 1715–30 ; II. 27, 28.
—— —— 1744–7 ; II. 27. See Dalrymple, Sir John.
Lords and Earls of, papers of the ; II. 188, sq.
Staley, ——, hanged in 1678 ; I. 23.
Stamford, Earl of, to Lord Hatton, 1697 ; I. 28.
Standen, Sir Anthony, his Memoirs of a Turkish voyage, 1578 ; I. 61.
Standish Papers, (sent by F. Peake, Esq.), sorted and repaired at the Public Record Office ; II. ix.
—— report on the ; II. 92, 93.
Stanford Court (Worc.), Sir T. Winnington's MSS. at ; I. x. report on the same ; I. 53.
Stanhope :
Earl, letters of, 1716 sq. ; II. 189, 190.
—— letters to, 1718 sq. ; II. 189, 190.
—— letters of, 1718–9 ; II. 217.
—— letters to, 1719 ; ib.
Lady Mary, letter to ; I. 61.
C., letter of ; II. 71.
Charles, the Hon., letter to ; II. 23.
Stanhope—cont.
Colonel, letters of ; II. 189.
—— letters to ; ib.
Edward, letters to and from ; II. 50, 51.
James, letters of ; II. 189.
Sir John, letter to ; I. 61.
Philip, letters of ; I. 41.
Secretary, letters of ; II. 178, 188, 189, 212.
—— letters to ; II. 188.
family of, papers relating to the ; I. 55.
Stanlawe (Cheshire), abbey of ; II. 144.
Stanley :
Lady Anne, Prince Charles's recommendation of a suitor for, 1621 ; I. 116 (bis).
Lord, of Latham, verses concerning ; I. 49.
Thomas Lord, marriage settlement by, 22 Edw. IV. ; I. 77.
—— (first Earl of Derby), steward of the King's house, award by ; II. 93.
of Alderley, deeds belonging to ; I. 46.
II., letters of, 1764–78 ; II. 14.
Thomas, to Mr. Hatton ; I. 28.
Sir William, Cardinal Allen's letter in defence of his betrayal of Deventer ; I. 61.
—— lands forfeited by ; II. 72.
Stannaries (Cornwall), transcripts of charters relating to the ; II. 91.
Stannary courts, the ; I. 51 (bis), 53.
Stanton :
Hervey de, Justiciar of England, will of ; I. 82.
William, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Stanwell, parson of the church of, charter to the ; I. 71.
Stanyan, Abraham, letter of ; II. 71.
Mr., letters of ; II. 189.
Staple, John Johnson's discourse touching the ; II. 40.
Star Chamber, the ; II. 154.
records of a suit in, 34 Eliz. ; II. 36. reports of cases in, 38 & 39 Eliz. and 17 Jac. I. ; II. 42.
proceedings in, 43 Eliz. ; I. 47.
—— 1606 ; I. 48.
a bill preferred in, 1612 ; I. 58.
trials in, 1615 ; I. 47.
letter touching proceedings in, 1619 ; II. 55, 56.
proceedings in, 1619–34 ; II. 3.
—— reports on, 1, 2, 3 Car. I. ; II. 43.
an information in, 1629 ; II. 1.
a sentence in, 1631 ; I. 57.
Lord Keeper Finch's speech to the judges of, 1639 ; I. 63.
reports of proceedings in, temp. Car. I. ; I. 61 ; II. 79.
a treatise on the Court of ; II. 3, 43.
proceedings, speeches, &c. in ; I. 31.
papers on proceedings in ; II. 41 (bis), 42.
State letters, transcripts of, 16th cent. ; I. 74.
State Paper Office :
letters dated at the, 1619 ; II. 55.
account of its condition, 1703 ; II. 125.
State papers :
at Hamilton Palace ; I. 113, 114.
1702–9, in the Hatton collection ; I. 25.
1683–1706, in the Hatton collection ; I. 27.
Scottish, in the Advocates' Library ; I. 124, 125.
States General, the : letter to the Elector of Brandenburg, 1699 ; I. 37
original letters from, to Queen Elizabeth ; II. 45. letter to, from Queen Eliz. ; ib.
letter of the deputies of, 1589 ; II. 30.
letter from James I. to ; II. 51.
treaty with England and Denmark, 1701 ; I. 54.
—— with the Emperor, 1701 ; ib.
—— with Sweden ; I. 55.
papers relating to ; I. 30.
See Holland ; United Provinces.
Stationers' Company ; II. 70.
Statistics, Scottish ; I. 123.
Statuary, 17th cent. ; II. 185.
Statuta, Nova, Edw. III. to Edw. IV., in French ; I. 53.
Statutes, the :
in French, Edw. III. to Hen. VI. ; I. 49.
two early MSS. of, to the end of Edw. I. ; I. 61.
to the 9 Hen. VI., in French ; I. 61.
from Edw. III. to 23 Hen. VI. ; I. 61.
copies of, relative to York cathedral ; I. 97.
index to the ; II. 6.
Edw. III. to Hen. V. (MS. vellum) ; II. 46.
early, collection of the ; II. 105.
Statutes and obligations, a book of, temp. Phil. & Mar. ; I. 32.
Staunton, Long ; I. 30.
Stearne, John, Dean of St. Patrick's, Dublin, &c., letters of ; II. 239, 245. See Sterne.
Steele :
Richard, letter of ; II. 71.
Sir R., letter concerning ; II. 71.
—— writings of ; II. 234.
Stella (Mrs. Johnson). See Swift.
Stephen, King, charters of ; I. 90 ; II. 39.
Stephens, William, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.

Digitized by Google

Stepney :
G., to the Earl of Nottingham ; I. 28.
George, correspondence of ; I. ix.
—— ambassador to Germany, &c., correspondence of, 1694–1707 ; I. 34–40.
—— specimen of a proposed calendar to his correspondence ; I. 39, 40.
—— letters of : II. 71.
Sterne, Mr. :
prebendary of York, author of Tristram Shandy ; I. 51.
the Story of Le Fevre by ; II. 20. See Stearne.
Stevenson, Mr. Joseph :
Inspector for the Historical MSS. Commission ; I. vii., xi., xii.
reports by ; I. 45, 46, 50, 61, 69, 89, 90, 91, 92, 120, 121 ; II. 38, 68, 69, 72, 73, 76, 77, 109, 110, 125, 126, 143–149, 201–203.
Steward, form of the charge to be given by the, at the holding of a Court of Survey ; II. 89.
Steward, Robert the, of Scotland, charters of ; II. 167.
Stewardship, the High, of England, discourse on ; I. 32.
Stewart :
Sir Archibald, of Blackhall, trial of, temp. Car. I. ; II. 168, 169.
James (afterwards Earl of Murray), letters of ; II. 183.
John, of Phisgill, letters of ; II. 190.
Sir Lodowick, of Kirkhill, collections of ; I. 125.
Sir Robert, letter of ; II. 211.
Walter, of Rayliston, charter of ; II. 167.
William, letters of ; II. 26, 134.
Sir Wm., proclamation of the King of Scots concerning ; II. 43.
—— See Mountjoy, Viscount.
Stiles, S., to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Stillingfleet :
Ed., to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Bishop of Worcester ; II. 233.
Stillyard :
papers relating to the ; I. 28.
Merchants of the, papers relating to the ; II. 44, 45.
Stirling :
Castle, an Act of Convention at, 1577 ; II. 184.
Chapel Royal of, register of the ; I. 111.
charters relating to ; II. 186.
shire of, lands, &c. in ; II. 187.
Earl of, William (Sir W. Alexander), letters of ; II. 185.
Sir George, of Keir, trial of, temp. Car. I. ; II. 168, 169.
Stirlings of Keir, volumes relating to the, presented by Sir W. Stirling Maxwell to the Commissioners ; II. ix.
Stobhall (Scotland), account of a visit to ; I. 118.
Stock :
Arthur, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Captain ; I. 15.
Stockholm, letters dated at, 18th cent. ; II. 213.
Stoke, manor of (Salop), documents connected with the ; II. 77, 78.
Stokesley, John, Bishop of London, oath of, repudiating the Papal Supremacy ; II. 153.
Stokys, ——, registrar of Cambridge University, 1538, books compiled by ; I. 73, 74.
Stone :
Andrew, letters of ; I. 115 ; II. 191.
George, Lord Primate of Ireland, letter of ; II. 2.
Stonehouse, description of a subterranean cavern at ; II. 24.
Stoneleigh Abbey, two MSS. relating to ; I. xi.
Stoneley-in-Arden, monastery of, letter-book of the ; II. 49.
Stonor, Bishop, collections made by, relative to occurrences between 1607 and 1770 ; I. 90.
Stonyhurst College, MSS. at ; II. xiii.
report on MSS. in the library of ; II. 143.
Stormont, Lord :
letter of [1731] ; I. 117.
letters of, from Vienna [1768–72] ; II. 26.
Story :
Dean, letters of ; I. xiii.
Edward, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
George, Dean of Limerick, letters of ; II. 232.
Dr. John, will of ; II. 154.
John, Bishop of Rochester, letter of ; II. 155 (bis).
Stourton, Lady, letter to, 1645 ; II. 147.
Stowell, Sir John, his disputes with Sir R. Phelips ; I. 58.
Strachan, John, his Observations of harbours on the English coast ; II. 83.
Stradling, Edward, letter of ; II. 6.
Strafford, Earl of :
Wentworth, his kindness to the Church in Ireland ; I. 20.
charges against ; I. 30.
articles against ; II. 7.
remonstrance of the Irish House of Commons to ; ib.
his reply to the articles against him ; I. 46.
letter of Charles I. concerning his attainder ; I. 9, 10.
memorandum by C. Just. Heath, of what took place on his impeachment ; II. 79.
letters and papers relating to the trial of ; I. 44 ; II. 47.
letter of ; II. 183.
letters touching ; II. 99.
petition to [as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland] ; II. 157.
See Wentworth, Sir Thomas.
Strafford, Earl of—cont.
letters of the, 1681–94 ; II. 16.
Wm. Wentworth, letters of, 1746 ; II. 24.
Strange :
Lord, computus of his receiver, 4 Eliz. ; I. 19.
Robert, letters of ; II. 205.
Strangford, Lord, letters of ; I. 127 ; II. 192.
Stranraer, magistrates of, letter of the, with an address to George I. ; II. 188.
Strathern :
Count Palatine of, charter by the ; II. 167.
Earl of, Fereth, charter to Malise, son of ; II. 166.
—— Malise, charters by ; II. 168.
—— William, letters of, 1632 ; II. 185.
Strathmore, Earl of ;
MSS. of the ; I. 112 ; II. xviii.
report on his MSS. at Glamis Castle ; II. 185.
Strathnaver, Lord :
letter of, 1689 ; II. 178.
letter to, 1716 ; II. 178.
letters of, 1745–6 ; II. 179.
Stratton, manor of, copy of a decree touching the ; II. 45.
Streame, Henry, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Street, Sir Thomas, letter to ; I. 33.
Streeter, Mr., letter to ; I. 29.
Strethay, Stretehay, Strethey, Streteye, &c. :
Mr., letters to ; I. 16, 20, 24, 25, 26, 28, 29, 30.
Jo., to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
John, letters to ; I. 25, 27, 29, 30.
Thomas, letter to ; I. 30.
Streets, ancient laws and customs touching the cleansing of ; I. 104.
Strickland :
Charles, letter of ; I. 28.
Sir Roger, instructions to, 1688 ; II. 10.
Thomas, to the Countess Dowager of Thanet ; I. 22
Strode :
W., articles against ; I. 21.
William, to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Strongbow, Richard, and his daughter Isabel ; II. 258.
Stuart :
Dr. John, Inspector for the Historical MSS. Commission in Scotland ; I. vii., xii.
—— his survey of collections in Scotland ; I. xii.
—— reports by ; I. 111–119, 121–126 ; II. 177–201, 203–209.
family, a sermon against the, 1672 ; I. 18.
—, a painter, letter touching, 1745 ; II. 23.
Arabella, letters from and to ; II. 13.
See Stewart.
Stubbs :
Th., his History of York Cathedral ; I. 97.
W., a printed tract by ; II. 41.
W., petition of, to Queen Elizabeth ; II. 44.
Stuckey, Sir Lewis, an answer to the petition of ; I. 48.
Sturges, Jo., to Lord Hatton ; I. 28.
Style, Philip, to Lord Hatton ; I. 29.
Suabia, John of, a treatise (15th cent.) derived from his "Orologium Sapientiæ ;" II. 84.
Subscriptions :
a volume of (on admission to university offices and fellowships) ; I. 74.
register-book of (in accordance with the Act of Conformity), in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich ; I. 86.
Subsidies :
levies for (or books of estreats) 15th to 17th cent. ; I. 109.
four, granted, 43 Eliz. ; I. 33. payment of, in Ireland, 1641 ; II. 217.
commissioners for assessing, instructions to the, 1663 ; II. 221.
a book of, for Northampton ; I. 31.
a book of, from the Conquest to Henry VIII. ; I. 32.
Subsidy :
taxation of the, 27 Henry VIII. ; II. 72.
a, 1643–4 ; II. 73.
roll, a, 7 Henry VII. ; II. 42.
a "remonstrance" in favour of a ; II. 222.
Suckling, Sir John, letter of ; II. 60.
Sueur, M. Le, letter of ; II. 80.
Suffield, Lord, letters of, 1796 ; II. 192.
Suffolk :
county of ; II. 138.
gentlemen in, letter from, to the Privy Council ; II. 153.
deeds relating to ; I. 55.
letters relating to ; I. 61.
Lady A., to Lord, Lady, and Mr. Hatton (undated) ; I. 29.
Countess of, Katharine, letter of, 1580 ; II. 82.
—— to Sir Chr. Hatton, 1614 ; I. 22.
—— letter of, 1625 ; I. 63.
—— Barbara Villiers, letters of ; II. 184.
Duke of, William De la Pole, a roll of charges against ; II. 94.
—— Charles Brandon, autograph letters of ; I. 29, 30.
—— grant by, 13 Hen. VIII. ; II. 94.
—— his auditor, 1541 ; I. 23.
—— accounts of the lands of the late, 4 Eliz. ; II. 19.
Earl of, letters of the, 1617–19 ; II. 53, 54, 55.

Digitized by Google

Suffolk, Earl of—cont.
—— letter to the, 1619; II. 55.
—— and Lady Katharine his wife, in the Star Chamber, 1619; II. 3.
—— letters touching the trial of the, 1619; II. 56.
—— T., to Sir Chr. Hatton (? date); I. 29.
—— letter of the, 1622; II. 60.
Lord; I. 17.
Duke of, letters of the, 1714–15; II. 178.
Earl of, letters to and from the, 1768–72; II. 26.
—— letter to the, 1777; II. 29.
Sultan, the, translation of his letter to Queen Elizabeth; II. 44.
Summa Summarum (a commentary on the Decretals); II. 140.
Summers, Robert; I. 29.
Sumptuary laws, proposed, in Edward VI.'s handwriting; II. 154.
Sunderland, Earl of; I. 24.
Henry (1st) (born 1620), memoir and letters of; II. 15.
—— letters of the, 1679–88; I. 56.
—— letters to and from the, 1680; II. 15.
—— letters of, 1680, sq.; II. 15, 16.
—— —— 1685; II. 78, 217.
—— Lord President, letter to [1687]; I. 52.
Robert, letters of, 1696–1702; II. 15.
letters of the, 1706–7; II. 178.
Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1714, letters of the; I. xiii; II. 232, 234, 247, 248.
letters of the, 1716; II. 189.
Charles (3rd), memoir of, written 1780; II. 15.
letters from Venice and Vienna to the (? date); I. 13.
Lady, "A copy of what (she) wrote about the House;" I. 29.
Supremacy, oaths of; I. 103. See Papal supremacy.
Surat; I. 20.
Suretyships:
entries of, at Coventry; I. 101.
a register of, temp. Eliz.; I. 110.
Surgeon, hereditary office of, to early Kings of Scotland; II. 181.
Surinam, the case of the proscripts from (no date); I. 28.
Surplices:
14th cent.; II. 140.
letter [of a clergyman] touching a decree for the wearing of [temp. Eliz.]; II. 77.
letter for the wearing of, in Ireland; II. 157. See Vestments.
Surrey:
county of; II. 138.
charters touching lands in; II. 35.
Earl of, Thomas, his letter of challenge to James IV.; II. 6.
—— account of his defeat of the King of Scots at Flodden Field; I. 32.
Surveys:
of parsonages and church livings, co. Worcester, 1655; I. 53.
of lands, in the Hatton collection; I. 32.
of lands, in co. Northampton (a fragment); I. 33.
of manors (Cheshire), 17th cent.; I. 46.
of all the churches and chapels in Cheshire; I. 48.
at King's College, Cambridge; I. 69.
of Lincolnshire lands; I. 31.
at Stonyhurst College; II. 145.
at Wardour Castle; II. 34.
Sussex:
—, letter of; I. 29.
Earl of, Thomas, Lieutenant General in the North, articles by, 1570; II. 124.
Duke of, Augustus Frederick, letter of, 1794; II. 13.
—— —— 1795, II. 192.
—— H.R.H., the protocol of a statement made by command of, 1830; II. 192.
county of; II. 138.
Sutherland:
Duke of, his collection at Dunrobin Castle; I. 112; II. xvi.
—— report on his MSS.; II. 177.
earldom of, Sir Robert Gordon's History of the; II. 179.
Countess of, Elizabeth, letters of, circ. 1745; II. 24.
Earl of, letter of the, to Charles II.; I. 116.
—— letters of the, 1716; II. 189.
Earls of, papers of the; II. 177 sq.
—— genealogy of the; II. 186.
Sutherlandiæ Comitum Annales (Rossi); II. 179.
Sutton, persons named; II. 59.
Sutton Hospital, state of the expenses of, 1754–63; II. 4.
Sutton Marsh, a short relation of the case of; I. 63.
Swanmoote, a paper concerning the; II. 40.
Swearers, registers of punishments of; I. 122.
Sweden: treaty between France and, 1698; I. 36.
letters concerning, 1719; I. 41.
Scotch settlers in; I. 122.
King of, undertaking of the Marquis of Hamilton to aid the, 1631; II. 178.
—— letters to the, 1701; I. 38.
—— treaty with the States General, 1701; I. 55.
—— his letter to the "Cardinal Primate," 1702; I. 38.
—— treaty between the Emperor and the, 1742; II. 190.
—— Sigismund, conditions offered by, to the Poles, &c.; II. 151.
—— See Gustavus Adolphus.
Sweden—cont.
Kings of, negotiations with, temp. Jac. I. & Car. I.; I. 125.
Queen of, grant by the, 1651; II. 195.
Swedes; I. 19.
Swerford, A. de, archdeacon of Salisbury, his "expositiones" of Magna Charta; I. 88.
Swift, Jonathan:
installed in the Deanery of St. Patrick's; II. 234.
negotiations with, as Dean of St. Patrick's, for church livings; II. 234.
seizure of Jacobite papers addressed to; II. 234, 249.
letters of; II. 37, 84.
poems written by, 1711–22, in the handwriting of Stella, Mrs. Johnson; II. 4.
letters relating to; II. 68.
Swiss Canton, letter of a, to the Pope, 1606; II. 151.
Swithin, St.; I. 87.
Switzerland:
letters relating to, 1614; II. 51, 52.
embassy of Sir Isaac Wake to, 1627; II. 44.
Sydney or Sidney:
Lord, letters of; I. xiii.
—— letters of, 1681–94; II. 16.
Viscount, Lord Justice and Lieutenant of Ireland, letters of; II. 232.
—, letters of, temp. Eliz.; II. 8.
Algernon, letter of; II. 16.
Colonel, his beheadal at Tower Hill, 1683; II. 82.
Sir Henry, letters of, temp. Eliz.; II. 60.
—— Deputy of Ireland, instructions to; II. 94, 95.
—— President of the Marches of Wales; II. 155.
—— —— instructions to; II. 64.
Sir Henry, letters of (? temp. Car. I.); II. 36.
Henry (afterwards Lord), letters of, 1680–1; I. 56.
—— letters from and to, 1680; II. 15.
—— letters of, 1690; II. 16.
Mr. (afterwards Lord Romney), letter of; II. 15.
Mrs., letters to; II. 51.
Sir Philip, the Manner of the Death of, by Lord Brooke; I. 63.
—— a volume containing information relating to; II. ix.
Philip, Esq., ambassador to the Emperor, instructions to, 1576; II. 97.
Sir P., to his brother Robert, "about travell"; I. 47.
Sir Philip, to Queen Elizabeth, concerning her marriage with Monsieur; I. 48.
—— letters of, 1580–91; II. 82.
R., letter of; II. 49.
Sir R., letter of; II. 51.
Thomas, letter of; II. 50.
—— letter to; ib.
Sydrac, questions of (an English version); II. 4.
Syms, John, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Synge, Samuel, letters of; II. 229, 233.
Synodal statutes of Archbishop Formax; II. 209.
Synodals, among the Carlisle Cathedral MSS.; II. 125.

T.

T. C. to ——; I. 29.
Tabley, Lord de:
his collection at Tabley House; I. ix.
report on his MSS. at Tabley House, Cheshire; I. 46.
Tailor, John, letters of; II. 18.
Tain:
burgesses of; II. 180.
ecclesiastics of; II. 180.
Talbot:
Lord, letter of [temp. Hen. VI.?]; I. 95.
family, rentals, &c. of the; I. 50.
Catharine, correspondence of; II. 9.
Colonel; II. 214.
G., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Sir Gilbert, Deputy of Calais, temp. Hen. VII. & VIII., papers of; I. xi., 20.
John, letter of; II. 82.
Robert, his Annotations to the Itinerary of Antoninus; I. 33.
W. (?), to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Talbot de Malahide, Lord:
documents in possession of; I. xii.
report on his MSS.; I. 128.
Tales, Gaelic; I. 126.
Taming of the Shrew, an epilogue to [by Sir P. Leycester]; I. 49.
Tangiers:
papers relating to, temp. Car. II.; I. 44; II. 9, 10.
Governor of, Lord Bellasyse, instructions to, 17 Car. II.; I. 54.
Tankerville, Earl of, letter of the (undated); II. 192.
Tanner:
Bishop, copy of a MS. given by, to the Bodleian Library; II. 8.
Thomas, Archdeacon of Norfolk, his collections for the history of the diocese of Norwich; I. 87.

Digitized by Google

Tannion, P., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Tapestry, inventories, &c. of, 14th, 15th, and 16th cent.; I. 75, 76, 77, 114; II. 111, 129.
Tarbat, Viscount, to the Earl of Nottingham (23 letters, 1702–3); I. 29.
—— letter to; I. 19.
Tartars, 40,000 slain, 168 3; I. 23.
Tascher, L., to Lord —— and another; I. 29.
Tate:
Mary, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Mr.; I. 24.
Tatham (Lanc.), church of; II. 144.
Taurnars (?) —, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Taverner, R., letter of; II. 34.
Taxatio Ecclesiastica Nicolai Papæ IV., 1291; II. 145.
Taxation, a, in the diocese of Coventry and Lichfield, 1370; II. 49.
—— of the archdeaconry of Worcester (29 Edw. III., a roll); II. 39.
Taxations of the bishopric of Carlisle, 1291, 1292, and 1318; II. 125.
Taxes; I. 33.
temp. Guil. III., statement of; II. 79.
Taylor:
Dr., of St. John's College, Cambridge, letters to (temp. Hen. VIII.); I. 75.
Jeremy, Bishop of Down, to Lord Hatton; I. 20.
—— to Lord and Chr. Hatton; I. 29.
—— dispensation to, 13 Car. I.; I. 33.
John, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Templars, the Knights, in Scotland, papers connected with; II. 126.
Temple:
Lord, letters from and to, 1782 sq.; II. 30.
—— letters of [18th cent.]; II. 38.
D., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Henry (first Lord Palmerston), letters of; I. xiii.
Jo., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Nugent, letters of; I. 127.
Us., to Lord ——; I. 29.
Sir William, letters of; I. 56.
—— letter concerning; II. 114.
Temple, the:
members of (recusants), interrogatories to; II. 135.
revels in; I. 44.
great fire in, 1678; I. 44.
fire in, 1685; I. 24.
Inner, report on the Petyt MSS. in the; II. 131.
—— papers relating to; I. 34.
—— "Anncientes" and Benchers of the, an address to, from members of the Privy Council, 1569; II. 154.
Temple lands, in Aberdeenshire, lists of; I. 122.
Temples, the two, money disbursed by, on the marriage of Elizabeth, daughter of James I.; I. 57.
Ten Wives Tale, The (15th cent.); II. 84.
Tenison:
Richard, Bishop of Clogher, letters of; II. 252.
Thomas (afterwards Archbishop), letters of; II. 115.
—— Archbishop of Canterbury, letters of, 1697–1703; I. 18.
Tenths, absolution for non-payment of, 1278; I. 95.
a summary collection of Statutes touching the King's right to; II. 89.
of Bishops and Deans; II. 89.
in the diocese of Carlisle; II. 125.
note of, payable to the clergy of Ireland; II. 156.
See First Fruits and Tenths.
Tenures:
demands in the matter of, 1610; I. 48.
treatise on, by Sir T. Lyttelton, first edition; II. 39.
Terrars:
at Clare College, Cambridge; II. 113.
at Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge; II. 117.
at King's College, Cambridge; I. 69.
at Pembroke College, Cambridge; I. 70.
in the Hatton collection; I. 30.
in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich; I. 86.
Test Act:
reasons against repealing the, 1687; II. 82.
opposition to the, 1716; II. 234.
opposition to the repeal of the, 1719; II. 235.
Testa de Neville, excerpta from; II. 125.
Testamentum Nichodemi; II. 144.
Teviott, Earl of, articles of peace between him and Gaylau; I. 24.
Teynham, Lord, letters from and to, 1618; II. 54.
Thackeray, George, Provost of King's College, Cambridge, his interment in the chapel there, 1850; I. 69.
Thames, the:
Il Consiglio delle Muse; il Tamigi Giollvo [circ. 1700?]; II. 4. documents relating to; II. 69.
Thanet:
Earl of, Thomas, to Lord Hatton, 1684–1703, (19 letters); I. 29.
—— to Lord Hatton, (undated); I. 29.
Thanet—cont.
Countess of, letters to; I. 18, 20, 22 (bis), 24, 26, 26, 27, 29.
—— M. (?), letter of, (undated); I. 29.
Countess Dowager of, Margaret, her will, 1676; I. 29.
Lady; I. 23.
Lady E., to Lady C. Tufton, (3 letters, undated); I. 29.
Lady, letters of; II. 13.
Thanksgiving, a form of, [temp. Eliz.]?; II. 135.
Tharente, psalterium B. Mariæ super; II. 144.
Theatrical representations, dresses for; I. 72.
Thelwall, Colonel, letter to; II. 86.
Theobald's Shakespear; II. 71.
Theobalds, housekeepers' and wardrobers' fees at; II. 81.
"Theodulus" (printed by Wynkyn de Werde); I. 66.
Theological and religious books and papers; I. 31.
—— MSS. in the Advocates' Library; I. 125.
—— treatises; II. 144. See Tracts.
Theology, books of the faculty of, lists of, 15th cent.; II. 135.
Thevett, Andrew, report of, touching an unknown country; II. 45.
Thirlstane, Lord, John, Chancellor of Scotland; II. 168.
Thoison d'Or, Chevaliers de l'Ordre du (arms and portraits); II. 3.
Thomas:
Sir Anthony, letter of; II. 58.
Hugh, his "Golden Grove Book;" II. 31.
Rowland, letters of; I. 43.
Thomond, Earl of:
answer of the gentry of Clare to the proposals of the, 1642; II. 195.
Irish poem on his persecution of poets; II. 224.
Thomson (the poet):
criticism by Voltaire on; II. 37.
letters by and relating to; II. 38.
verses by; ib.
Thorkelin, G., letters of; I. 127.
Thorne, W., extracts from the Chronicle of; II. 45.
Thorney, abbey of St. Mary, charter to the; I. 71.
Thonne, Nicholas, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Throckmorton (or Throgmorton):
—— letter from Mary, Queen of Scots to; I. 124.
Mr., chamberlain to the Duke of Lorraine; I. 18.
Clement, letter to; II. 79.
George, letter of, temp. Hen. VIII.; I. 100.
J., to his cousin Arthur; II. 79.
Job, of co. Warwick, a work by; II. 43.
Sir John, letter to, 1555; I. 100.
Sir Nicholas, the order of the arraignment of, 1554; II. 60.
—— his letter to Queen Mary; I. 60.
family of, correspondence of the; II. 73.
Thunderstorm, account of a, in 1633; I. 13.
Thurloe:
Lord, letters of, 1796–7; II. 192.
Secretary, letter to; II. 36.
—— letters from and to; II. 98.
Thursby, Chr., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Thursto (Thurso or Thurston), documents dated at; II. 176, 177.
Thynne:
Edward, execution of the murderers of; I. 44.
H., letters of; I. 56; II. 15.
Henry, letters of; II. 19.
J. F., to Lord ——; I. 29.
Sir Thomas, letters of; II. 19.
Tiberius, Life of; II. 85.
Tichborne, Chidiock, execution of; II. 41.
Tillage, petitions touching the putting of land to, temp. Hen. VIII.; II. 18.
Tilliéres, Count Levenenr de; letters of; II. 57, 58, 60.
Tillotson, John, letters of, as Fellow of Clare Hall, Cambridge, and as Dean and Archbishop of Canterbury; II. 18, 113, 114.
Tilson, George, to Lord ——; I. 29.
Tindall, John, a Master of Chancery, letter touching; II. 88.
Tipperary, county, lands in; II. 217.
Tisbury (Wilts.), survey-book of; II. 145.
Tithe accounts, a book of, 1577–1697; I. 101.
Tithe suit, remarks on a, 1672; II. 48.
Tithes:
accounts of receipts of, 1388–9; I. 78.
a grant of; I. 70.
the Historie of; I. 1.
leases of (Colchester abbey); II. 7.
treatise on, 15th cent.; II. 46.
in Ireland; II. 235.
impropriate, in Ireland, proposed legislation on, 1692; II. 235.
—— bill for resumption of, 1699; ib.
Title-deeds in the Hatton collection; I. 33. See Deeds.
Titles of Honour, a Discourse on; II. 125.
Titley, Mr., letter to; I. 26.
Tobacco:
licences for selling; I. 34.
an annuity out of the impost on, 1637; I. 34.
pipes, petition touching the monopoly of making; II. 59.
Tobolsk; II. 213.
Toft of Toft, family of, genealogy and arms of the; I. 49.

Digitized by Google

Toleration Act, the, for the Episcopal community in Scotland; I. 117, 118.
Toleration Bill, opposition to the, 1718–9; II. 235.
Tollemache:
John, Esq., M.P., collection of; I. x.
—— report on his MSS. at Helmingham Hall; I. 60.
Lionel, MSS. collected by; I. 61.
Tolls, lists of, at Waterford; I. 131.
Toun Tell Troth, the tract called; II. 43.
Tombs, inscriptions on; I. 32.
Tomkins:
Mr., his "Observations of Worcestershire;" I. 55.
Toby, to Lord ——; I. 29.
Tonson:
Jacob, founder of the Kit-Cat Club, correspondence of; II. 69, 70, 71; his portrait, 69; his will, &c. 71.
Jacob, junior, receipt by; II. 71.
—— letters from and to; ib.
Tonstall, Cuthbert, Bishop of London, oath of, repudiating the Papal Supremacy; II. 155.
Tooke:
Benjamin, bookseller; II. 233.
—— correspondence with; II. 232.
Chrix., his translation of Herrera's Description of the West Indies; I. 60.
Topography, Scottish, materials for; I. 123; II. 196, 197, 198, 199, 201, 208.
Tories:
in Ireland, 1689; II. 232.
—— 1718; II. 234, 255.
outcry of, 1715; II. 234.
confederation of, 1716–20; II. 234, 235.
Torphichen:
Lord, collection of, at Calder House; I. 112; II. xix.
—— report on his MSS.; II. 196.
—— letters of, 1733, sq.; II. 190, 191.
preceptory of; II. 196.
Torre, James, his collection of extracts; I. 97.
Torre Martini, Vincentius de (provincial in England), order by; II. 79.
Torrens, W. T. M., Esq., M.P., MSS. of; II. xv.
report on his MSS.; II. 99.
Torrington, Viscount:
correspondence of, while ambassador at Brussels, 1782–92; II. ix., 30.
notes from letters of, 1787; II. 3.
Tory, Character of a, in answer to that of a Trimmer (1684); II. 8.
Touche, M. de la, letters of; I. 124.
Touchet, Christiana, daughter of Earl Castlehaven (a nun), memoir of; II. 147.
Touchett, Colonel, to Lord Hatton; I. 16.
Toulouse:
heretics at, a treatise concerning; I. 11.
Comte de; II. 30.
Tour, diary of a, in foreign parts, 1763–9; II. 19.
Tour, Count de la, letter from; I. 25.
Tournay, letters dated at; II. 188.
Tower of London:
documents relating to the liberty of the; II. 12.
Keeper of Records in the, memoranda touching the; II. 125.
instructions how to search for records in the; I. 23.
extracts from records in the; I. 32. See London, Tower of.
Towers, William, to Lord ——; I. 29.
Townsend, Townshend, or Townesend:
Lord, letters from and to, 1709–10; II. 79.
—— letters of, 1709–14; II. 188.
Viscount, letter to, 1723; II. 64.
Heyward, his Journal of Debates in Parliament, 1601; II. 2.
Thomas, to Lord ——; I. 29.
Tractatus de Pœnitentia, fragment, 12th cent.; II. 201.
Tracts or Treatises:
early English; I. 60; II. 80, 106.
13th cent.; I. 11.
14th cent.; II. 73, 103.
15th cent.; I. 46, 60, 61; II. 33, 39, 40, 43, 46, 66, 84, 109.
—— (religious); II. 66.
16th cent.; I. 32, 42; I. 60; II. 6, 7, 31. 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 78, 151, 152, 154.
16th and 17th cent. (legal); II. 89, 90.
16th cent. (printed); II. 41, 44.
17th cent.; I. 32, 42, 46, 58, 62, 63; II. 1, 3, 4, 6, 8, 43, 44, 85, 109, 110.
—— (printed); I. 63.
printed, chiefly of the time of the Great Rebellion; I. 62.
satirical, printed, 1647–8; I. 63.
Irish; II. 223.
a French, "The Arbor of Battailes," by II. Bonhor; I. 14.
on the state of England, temp. Eliz.; I. 14.
a philosophical (by James I.?); I. 43.
a political (17th cent.?); II. 79.
a, touching the government of Charles I.; II. 104.
a Scotch, 1535; II. 200.
Trade: complaint of Parliament to Charles I. on the decay of; I. 43.
records relating to; I. 122.
a booke of severall matters of; II. 4.
a discourse of, by Sir Walter Cope, 1632; ib.
free, a "discussion" by the Merchant Adventurer touching a Bill in Parliament for; II. 18.
between England and foreign countries, 13th to 16th cent., (several MSS. touching); II. 39, 40.
collections relating to, 16th cent.; II. 40.
in England, Italian accounts of; II. 44.
papers about, 16th cent.; II. 45.
"A discourse of the first beginning and continuance of the traffique of the subject of the realm with forrayn nations" (17th cent.); II. 85.
the Board of, 1780; I. 41.
Trades:
bye-laws of, at Norwich; I. 104.
pageants of various, 1613; I. 107.
the history of, illustrated; I. 109.
Tradesmen, contracts with, 17th cent.; II. 185.
Trading, regulations for; II. 78.
Traffic and Exchange, treatise on, 16th cent.; II. 40.
Tragedy of Amurath, third tyrant of the Turks, presented to the University of Oxford, 1618; I. 49.
Tragi-comedy, a, entitled "The Royall Slave;" II. 4.
Trained bands; I. 47.
—— temp. Car. I. et II.; I. 51.
Training (of soldiers), instructions for (16th cent.); II. 95, 96.
Tramalier:
Joshua, to Lord ——; I. 29.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 29.
William, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Transcripts:
of the Earl of Macclesfield's papers, to be made and placed in the Public Record Office; I. ix.
of papers relating to the Gunpowder Plot, placed in the Public Record Office; II. ix.
Transubstantiation, forms of oaths against, 1673–84; I. 103.
Trapps, Richard, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Traquair, Earl of:
letters of; I. 116 (bis).
John, letters of, 1605–36; II. 185.
Traveller, short instructions for a; I. 47.
Traveller's Journal, a (France, Italy, &c.), 1606; II. 4.
Travelling expenses, accounts of, Edw. I. and II.; I. 96.
—— temp. Ric. II.; II. 34.
—— 14th cent.; I. 85; II. 129, 140.
—— 1547 and 1561; I. 106.
—— 16th cent.; II. 126, 150.
—— 17th cent.; II. 199.
—— 1699–1700; I. 118.
Travels:
in Europe, Asia, Africa, and America, of Captain John Smith, 1593–1629; II. 4. observations and journals touching, 17th cent.; I. 53, 54.
in Europe, notes of, 1688–9; I. 62.
Travers:
II., to Mr. Stretehay; I. 29.
Walter, letter from, to the Privy Council; II. 78.
Trespe, William, to the Countess of Thanet; I. 29.
Treason, or misprision of treason, trials of peers and peeresses for, 17th cent.; I. 12.
Treasurer, the Lord High:
An advertisement written to a Secretary of, 1592; I. 14.
letter by, in defence of his gentry and nobility, intercepted, published, and answered by the Papists, 1592; I. 14.
letter to [from abroad]; ib.
letter to, 1595; II. 45.
—— [1598?]; II. 87.
James I.'s speech to the Lords on his behalf; I. 43.
1684–5; I. 34.
1703; I. 19, 20.
letter to, 1703; I. 26.
See Godolphin; and Osborne.
Treasury, Lords Commissioners of the:
letter of the, 1620; II. 57.
—— 1670; I. 20.
Observations by the, 1693; I. 31.
Treasury Office, accounts of receipts and payments in the, 1756–60; II. 3.
Treaties:
between England and foreign powers, 15th and 16th cent. (copies); II. 39, 40, 41, 43.
between foreign Sovereigns (copies), 16th cent.; II. 41.
of peace between England and France, 1526–7; II. 42.
temp. Eliz. and Jac. I.; II. 151, 152.
copies of, between England and foreign powers (16th and 17th cent.); II. 45.
1689–1704; I. 22.
1701; I. 54, 55.
translations of, 1701; I. 54, 55.
conventions, &c. (copies), 1749–66; II. 3. between England and Scotland; II. 123.
Treatises. See Tracts.

Digitized by Google

Treaty:
a, of friendship, between Henry V. and Charles of France (in English); II. 40.
between England and France [temp. Hen. VI.]; II. 44.
copy of a, between England and France, 1572; I. 42.
of marriage between Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Anjou; I. 42.
notes for a, between England and France, 1596; II. 42.
and League, notes of a, between England and France (temp. Eliz.); II. 44.
"de Treve," Act of guarantee of the, 1698; I. 36.
copy of the, between England, Sweden, and Holland, 1701; I. 29.
copy of the, between the Emperor, the King of England, and the States, 1701; I. 29.
Treby:
Sir George, Judge of the Common Pleas, letter of; II. 22. M., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Trees, a treatise on grafting and planting, 15th cent.; II. 84.
Trelawny:
Sir John Salisbury, Bart., his collection at Trelawne, Cornwall; I. x.
—— report on his MSS.; I. 50.
family, papers relating to the; 50–52.
Bishop, a box of letters and sermons of; I. 52.
Charles, Capt., letter of; II. 22.
Tremouille, Madame de la, letter of; II. 62.
Trenchard, Sir John, Secretary of State, letters to; II. 2.
Trent, the river (in England), a document relating to; I. 106.
Trent (Italy), newsletter from, 1703; I. 39.
Tresham, G., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Trevet, Nicholas, Chronicle of; II. 6.
Trevill, Sir Richard, merchant in Rochelle; I. 50.
Trevisa:
John, Fellow of Queen's College, Oxford; II. 128, 129.
—— mentioned in the accounts of Queen's College, Oxford; II. 140, 141.
—— his translation of Barth. de Glanville; I. 60.
Trevor:
Sir John, letter to; II. 63.
Mr., letters to; II. 190.
Triennial Bill, debates on the; I. xiii.
Trigonometry, logarithmetical (1621); II. 201.
Trimmell, Charles, Bishop of Norwich, letters of; II. 232.
Trojana, Historia, auctore Guidone de Colonna; I. 45. See Troy.
Trotman, Sam., to Lord ——; I. 29.
Troutbeck, family of, papers relating to the; I. 50.
Troy, Destruction of, a work by Guido de Columna (Lydgate's translation); I. 60. See Trojana.
Trumbull:
William, letters of, 1619–22; II. 55, 60.
Sir William, Secretary of State; I. 17.
—— his correspondence with George Stepney, 1694–8; I. 34–40.
—— account of his receptions at Leghorn, Pisa, and Florence, 1687 and 1690; II. 83.
—— letters of; I. 29, 56; II. 82.
Tryon, Sam., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Tuam, see of; II. 234.
Tucker:
——, letter to; I. 38.
J., to Mr. Warre and Mr. Ellis; I. 29.
Tuckett, Mr., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Tufton:
Lady C., letters to; I. 21, 29.
John, to Lady C. Tufton; I. 29.
Sackville, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Tuileries: "Relation de ce que s'est passé au Palais des Tuileries," 26 Aug. 1718; II. 30.
Tuke, Lady M., to W. Sheldon, 1702; I. 29.
Tully, de Naturn Deorum, abridgment of [circ. 1740?]; II. 4.
Tunbridge, letters dated at, 18th cent.; II. 190.
Tunbridge Wells, letters dated at, 18th cent.; II. 29.
Tungland, abbey of, register of the; I. 111.
Tupholme, monastery of, charters of the; I. 45.
Tupper, J., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Turf, account of expenses for; I. 83.
Turin:
letters dated at, 17th and 18th cent.; II. 56, 59, 61, 62, 189.
count of, memorandum respecting the ceremonial of the (circ. 1750); II. 3.
Turkey:
treaties and papers concerning (16th cent.); II. 41.
agent in, letter from an [temp. Eliz.?]; II. 151.
Turkish:
mares; I. 22.
voyage, memoirs of a, 1578, by Sir A. Standen; I. 61.
"Turkish Spy." The (a work); I. 51.
Turks, the:
fleet against, 1476; I. 96.
treaty between Henry VIII. and Francis I. against; II. 104.
defeat of, 1678; I. 16.
Venice about to declare war against, 1683; I. 23.
volunteers against, 1686; II. 215.
Turner:
W. H., Esq., of Oxford, a volume belonging, to, purchased by the curators of the Bodleian Library; II. viii.
—— report on the MS. belonging to; II. 101.
Sir E., Speaker of H. of C., letter to; II. 79.
John, et al., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Turreff, hospital of, charters of the; II. 202.
Turville's fleet; I. 23.
Tuscany:
Grand Duke of, a discussion of the question whether Pope Paul V. should allow a marriage between the Grand Duke's sister and the King of England's son; II. 45.
—— in England, 1669; II. 21.
—— credentials of the English ambassador to the [1697]; I. 13.
—— letters to the, 1703; I. 28.
a Relation of the State of, 1585; I. 61.
Tutshell, Col., pass for, by Charles I.; II. 87.
Tweeddale, Marquis of, letter of the, 1734; I. 29.
Twiselton, Geo., letter of; II. 87.
Twyne, Bryan, of Corpus Christi College, Oxford; II. 126.
Twynham, convent of, charter to the; I. 12.
Twysden, John, to Lady Hatton; I. 29.
Tyderleigh, Na., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Tyrconnel:
Earl of, creation of Rory O'Donnell as, 1603; II. 157.
—— letters of the, 1686–7; I. 56.
Lord; II. 214.
—— heads of matters to be discussed between him and Lord Granard; II. 217.
Duke of, Richard Talbot, Lord Deputy of Ireland, 1689; II. 222.
—— papers connected with, 1688–9; II. 226.
—— James II.'s instructions to, as Deputy of Ireland; I. 128.
Tyrone, Earl of, his petition to the Earl of Essex; I. 48.
Tyler, Wat, a curious document relating to the insurrection of; I. 65.
Tyrringham, Sir Thomas; I. 33.
Tyrler, Wm., letters to and from; II. 201.
Tywardreth, monastery of, documents relating to the; II. 34.

U.

Ubaldini, ——, letters of; I. 124.
Udall, John, papers about, with his letter to Sir W. Raleigh; II. 43.
Ulloa, Julian Sanchez de, letters of; II. 56.
Ulster:
description of, 1586–7; I. 156.
fisheries in; II. 211.
Ulster King of Arms; II. 157.
Ulster Tables, the (of fees and tenths); II. 156.
Uniformity, injunctions for, 4 Edw. VI.; II. 155.
Union:
of England and Scotland, King's speech for the; I. 48.
—— papers of the Commissioners for the; I. 55.
letters and papers relating to the Act of, between England and Scotland; I. 30; II. 46, 189, 233, 234, 244.
a tract on the [temp. Eliz.]; II. 44.
objections against the name or style of Great Britain; I. 32, 48; II. 85.
letter touching the proposed dissolution of the, 1713; II. 24, 25. of Great Britain and Ireland, letters and papers concerning the; I. 127; II. 192, 233, 234, 244.
United Provinces:
treaty between Queen Elizabeth and the; II. 152.
a tract on the Politie of the; I. 62.
—— by Clement Edmonds, 1615; II. 46.
credentials and instructions of the English ambassador to the States General of the, 1742; II. 190.
See Low Countries.
United States, letter touching the; II. 30.
Universities:
orations by members of one of the (Hen. VIII. to Eliz.); I. 60.
Parliamentary committee for regulating the, its correspondence; II. 132.
foreign, Scotchmen at; I. 122.
University Commission (37 Hen. VIII.) a statement of college property, &c. prepared for the; I. 75.
—— matters, letter on, 18th cent.; II. 78.
"Upton on Arms;" I. 31.
Upton, John, to Mr. Cole; I. 29.
Urban VIII., Pope, pamphlet touching the election of; II. 90.
Urines, an early English treatise on; II. 80.
Urose, the; II. 71.
Urry, William, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Urryberge, ——, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 29.
Ushaw College (near Durham):
papers in the library of; I. xi.
report on the same; I. 91.
Usher, Archbishop:
his "Book of Letters;" I. 22.
his speech before the Great Assembly at Dublin Castle, 1627; I. 62.

Digitized by Google

Uter Pendragon, collections about; II. 125.
Utrecht:
journal of the diet or conference at, 1473; II. 39.
letter dated at, 1638; I. 51.
treaty of, memorandum about an article of the; II. 188.
Uvedale, family of, correspondence of the; II. 73.

V.

Vair, Mons. de, Lord Chancellor of France:
discourse of; I. 48.
the speech of, when he delivered the seals to the King; I. 29.
Valaresso, A., letter of; II. 62.
Vale Crucis:
abbey of, an award concerning the; II. 105.
monks of, grant to the; II. 66.
Vale Royal, abbot of, grant to the; II. 69.
Valentinois, Duchesse de, Diane de Poictiers, letters of; I. 124.
Valladolid:
Scottish college at, papers relating to the; I. 120.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; I. 43.
Vallance, Richard, to Lord ——; I. 29.
Vallancey, Charles, letters of; I. 127.
Valoignes:
family of, register of the, by H. Maule; I. 119.
their charters; ib.
Valors, in the Bishop's Registry, Wells; I. 93.
Valuation, a book of, for assessment of rates; I. 33.
Vanbrugh, Sir John, letters of; II. 71.
Van de Velde de Oude, William (a painter), letter of; II. 12.
Vandermark, an engraver; II. 71.
Vandyke, Matthew; I. 34.
Vane, Sir Henry:
letters of; I. 116.
letters relating to, 1659; II. 114.
Vanlore, Sir Peter, his petition to the House of Commons against Dr. J. Littleton; I. 29.
Van Male, Mr., letters of; II. 57, 58.
Vannes, Peter, Latin secretary to Hen. VIII., receipts for Peter's Pence by; I. 76.
Vascon Rolls, extracts from the, Hen. III. to Edw. IV.; I. 32.
Vatican Emerald, the; II. 90.
Vaudemont, Count of, letters from James I. to the; II. 51, 53, 55.
Vaudois:
account of the money remitted for relief of the, 1655–6; II. 98.
clergy, collections in Ireland for the, 1702; II. 233.
Vaughan:
——, letter of; I. 51.
Sir John, letter of; II. 60.
Lady, letter about; II. 1.
Rowland, letter of; II. 86.
Vaus, John, grammarian; II. 200.
Vauxhall; II. 24.
Velutello, Acerbo, and his oil, a Council letter touching; II. 45.
Venables, Thomas, of Kinderton, charters belonging to, 1600; I. 49.
Venetia, Origine di, a play by C. Cremonini; I. 32.
Venetian ambassador:
letter touching the chaplain of the, 1619; II. 54.
letters of the, 1620; II. 57, 58.
Grimani, letters to and from (1710 vel post); II. 83.
See Inghilterra.
Venetians:
letter touching their desire to hire ships and troops out of England; II. 45.
a treatise in favour of, addressed to Pope Paul IV.; II. 151.
Venice:
papers concerning merchants trading with; II. 45.
a précis of negotiations at, 1560 to 1670; I. 13.
Arma Gentilicia, sive Insignia vera Nobilium civitatis Venetiarum viventium A.D. 1561; II. 3.
an address to James I. touching its relations with England; II. 43.
letters from the English ambassador at, Sir Dudley Carleton, 1614; II. 51, 52.
embassy of Sir Isaac Wake to, 1627; II. 44.
English ambassador extraordinary at, Viscount Fielding, letter to the [1642]; II. 36.
Senate of, about to declare war against the Turks, 1683; I. 23.
Republic of, letter of James II. to the; II. 188.
account of a journey to, 1693; II. 71.
English embassy to, with the ambassador's correspondence, 1697; I. 13.
notarial act of hiring a palace at [1697]; I. 13.
letter touching the Buchentour and other things taken from, 1761; II. 13.
letters dated at (1530); II. 42.
—— 17th cent.; I. 13, 23, 57; II. 55, 64.
—— 18th cent.; II. 38, 188, 189, 190.
people and revenue of; II. 212.
Doge of, letters to the, 1485–7; II. 44.
—— Leonardo Donato, his declaration against the bull of Paul V.; II. 151.
—— credentials and letter to the, &c. [1597]; I. 13.
Venlo, taking of, 1702; I. 20.
Vera Cruz, French expedition to, 1702; I. 22.
Verdun:
John de, exchange by, of lands in Ireland for lands in England; II. 77.
——, lord of Stoke, grants to; ib.
Vere:
Sir Francis, discourses by ("The Calais Journey," &c.); I. 13.
—— a memorial for, to deal with the States; II. 45.
—— the commentaries of; II. 46.
II., to Sir Chr. Hatton; I. 29.
Sir Horace, letter of; II. 60.
family of, papers relating to the; I. 55.
Vereharnus, report of, touching an unknown country; II. 45.
Vergerio to Queen Elizabeth (copy); I. 29.
Verney, John, to Lord Hatton; ib.
Vernon, James, Secretary of State:
letters to; I. 13.
to Lords Nottingham and Hatton; I. 29.
his correspondence with George Stepney, 1698–1702; I. 34, 36, 37.
letters to, 1698; I. 29.
correspondence of, 1698; I. 55.
letters of; I. 56; II. 15.
newsletters of, 1670–89; I. 56.
Verona:
city of, letter from the, to Brescia; II. 151.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 16.
Veronica, painting of the; II. 146.
Verruc, Count of, letter of the; II. 62.
Versati, Sertorii, Commentarius de Notis Romanorum; II. 125.
Vesey, John, Archbishop of Tuam, letters of; II. 232.
Vestments (church), inventories, &c. of:
14th cent.; I. 66; II. 110, 111, 140, 141.
15th cent.; I. 66, 96, 97; II. 130, 131, 134, 135, 207.
temp. Hen. VI.; I. 69.
temp. Hen. VII.; I. 66, 74, 75.
temp. Edw. VI.; II. 81.
for chantries; I. 108. See Surplices.
Vesuvius, Mount, letters touching eruptions of, 1767 and '94; II. 14.
Vetus Codex, copy of the, certified by Ryley; II. 46.
Vice-Chamberlain, Mr., account of his reception in Spain (temp. Jac. I.); I. 43.
Vickarie, Samuel, to the Commissioners of the Customs; I. 29.
Victoria Tower (Westminster):
proposed removal of documents to the, from the House of Lords; I. 1.
Acts of Parliament in the; I. 4.
Victuallers, names of, in co. Northumberland; I. 31.
Vienna:
Court of, account of a residence at the, 1659–60; I. 124.
newsletters from, 1701–2; I. 38.
Abbé at, letter to the, 1718; II. 212.
English ambassador at, copies of despatches from the 1806–7; II. 3. declaration of the Court of, to the Court of France, 1809; II. 3.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; I. 13; II. 16.
—— 18th cent.; I. 37, 38, 39; II. 71, 188, 189, 190, 217.
Vigors, Barth., Bishop of Ferns, letters of; II. 232.
Villa Dei, Alexander de, a copy of his "Doctrinale"; I. 90.
Villare Anglicum (a book); I. 32.
Ville-aux-Clercs, M. de, letters of; II. 62.
Villeinin, Le Baron de, letters of (from Naples); II. 16.
Villeroy, Mons. de, French Secretary of State, his "première apologie" touching the Huguenots; I. 13.
Villettes, Mr., memorandum by; II. 3.
Villiers, Lord, letter to; I. 35.
Anna, Lady Dalkeith, letters of; II. 184.
Barbara, Countess of Suffolk, letters of; II. 184.
Christopher, papers relating to his suit for Sir S. Harvey's daughter; II. 56, 57.
Sir George (and as Viscount), letters of; II. 52.
—— letters to, ib. See Buckingham, Duke of.
Sir John, letter of; I. 67.
M. de, letter of; II. 52.
Thomas, letters of; II. 191.
Vintners, the book touching; II. 40.
Violet, Thomas, the case of; II. 9.
Violetti, the dancer (afterwards Mrs. Garrick); II. 24.
Viponta, family of, collections respecting the; II. 125.
Virgil's Æneid, translation of three books of, into English verse, by Lord Maitland, 1691; II. 202.
Virginia:
copy of James I.'s patent for; I. 54.
letter touching the customs of, 1620; II. 57.
professors for; II. 235.
Virtues and Vices, treatise on, 14th cent.; II. 73.
Vision in a traunce, a, by John Neuton; II. 80.
Visitation, a, made by order of Protector Cromwell; I. 53.
Visitation Articles, Ridley's; II. 155.
—— Laud's. See Laud.
Visitation books:
in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich; I. 86.
of Cork and Cloyne; I. xii., 129.

Digitized by Google

Visitations : forms of ; I. 11.
Salisbury diocese, 15th cent. ; I. 91.
of the Dean and Chapter of York ; I. 97.
in the diocese of Carlisle, excerpta relating to ; II. 125.
injunctions on the occasion of, 14th cent. ; II. 133.
of the abbey of Whalley ; II. 145.
heralds' ; II. 7, 83.
Visitors, the :
of Edw. VI. and Eliz. to Cambridge University ; I. 69.
of Queen Mary ; I. 70.
of Monasteries, extracts from their letters ; II. 37.
See Oxford, University of.
Vitry, M. de, letters from Jas. I. to ; II. 53, 55.
Vocabularium Latino-Anglicum (15th cent.) : II. 144.
Vocabulary, a, of the Latin language, 15th cent., II. 142.
Voltaire, letters of ; II. 37.
Voters. See Landlords.
Vowell, alias Hoker, John :
his "Desplayenge of the gulye Lyon of Berewcke yn Durins," &c. ; II. 1.
his treatise on Parliament ; II. 40.
his translation of the Modus tenendi Parliamentum ; II. 41. See Hooker, John.
Vowells, the family of the, of Wells, Somerset ; I. 106, 107.
Vox Populi, or news from Spain, (a tract, temp. Jac. I.) ; I. 43, 61.
letter touching the pamphlet entitled ; II. 38.
Voyage by sea, licence to take a, 3 Car. I. ; I. 34.
Voyages, accounts of [temp. Eliz. ?] ; II. 45
Voysin, ——, letters to ; II. 32.

W.

W. F., to Lord ——; I. 30.
Waeberbeche, Count, letters of ; II. 212.
Wade, Daniel, to Mr. Hoomes ; I. 29.
Wadsworth, James :
letters of ; I. 57.
his "English-Spanish Pilgrime" ; I. 61.
Captain, names of recusants apprehended by ; I. 92.
Wages, rates of :
14th cent. ; I. 110.
15th cent. ; II. 121.
1498–1575 ; I. 101.
1507–15 ; I. 68 (bis).
temp. Hen. VIII. ; I. 105.
1631–1700 (of servants and labourers) ; I. 11.
17th cent. ; II. 179, 199. order touching the, 1560 ; II. 18.
of mariners (Hen. VIII.) ; I. 12.
Wake :
Sir Isaac, papers connected with the embassies of ; II. 44.
—— letters of ; II. 53, 55, 56, 59, 61, 62.
Wm., Archbishop of Canterbury, letters of ; II. 232, 234.
Wakeman, John, grant to ; II. 217.
Wales ; I. 34.
account of the Duke of Beaufort's progress through, 1604 ; I. 54.
account of the rebellion in, during the Commonwealth ; II. 104.
letters relating to, 17th cent. ; II. 86, 87, 88.
commissioners of array in, letters to, temp. Car. I. ; II. 86.
Council in, Queen Elizabeth's instructions to the President of the ; II. 73.
genealogies of families in North and South ; II. 84.
history of, collection for the (H. Lloyd's) ; II. 44.
Kings and Princes of, history of the ; II. 73.
Lord President in. See Sidney, Sir Henry.
Marches of, proceedings before the King's Council in the, 4 Edw. VI. ; II. 62.
—— letters from the Commissioners for the pacification of the (temp. Hen. VII. ?) ; II. 72.
—— orders for reformation of the Court in the, temp. Eliz. ; II. 95.
—— address to the Council in the, [1600] ; I. 47.
—— book concerning the ; I. 31.
Marches Court, a volume of proceedings in the, 16th cent. ; II. 64, 65.
—— records of suits in the, temp. Eliz. & Car. II. ; II. 67.
Marches of, Vice-president of the (Bishop John Whitgift), letters to ; II. 135, 136.
—— Council of the, letters to the ; ib.
miscellanea about ; II. 40.
North, President of the Council of, petitions to the ; II. 105.
—— chamberlain of, accounts of the, 12 Hen. VIII. ; ib.
Prince of, son of James II. ; I. 16.
—— letter touching his birth, 1688 ; II. 10, 17. See James, son of James II.
principality of, collection of MSS. relating to the ; I. x.
—— See Doddridge, Sir John.
tenure of land in, illustrations of the ; II. xi., 66, 67.
Walker :
Sir Edward, Garter King-at-arms, his journal of actions in Scotland, 1650 ; I. 128.
G., to Lord Hatton and another ; I. 29.
Walker—cont.
J. C., letters of ; I. 127.
John, report of, touching an unknown country ; II. 43.
Thomas, to Lord —— ; I. 29.
Wallachia, Prince of ; I. 23.
Waller :
E., letter of ; II. 71.
Edmund, to Lord Hatton ; I. 29.
J., to Mr. Stretchay ; I. 29.
W. [Wathen Waller ?], letters of ; I. 68.
William, to Lord Hatton ; I. 29.
Wallinger, Ant., to Lord Hatton ; I. 29.
Wallingford priory, seal of ; II. 20.
Wallis, John, letter of ; II. 71.
Wallons congregation, of Canterbury, instructions concerning the ; I. 29.
Wallop, Sir John, letter to ; II. 42.
Walmer Castle, letter dated at, 1797 ; I. 42.
Walmoden, Count, letters of ; II. 29 (bis).
Walpole :
Horace, letters of ; I. 127 ; II. 37.
—— letters of, to G. Montague ; I. 13.
—— Earl of Orford, his notes to the list of portraits at Woburn Abbey ; II. 2. See Orford, Lord.
R., letters of, 1709 sq. ; II. 188 (ter.), 189.
Hon. Robert (at Paris), letters of ; II. 26.
Sir Robert, letters to ; II. 26, 28.
Walsh :
J., to Lord Hatton ; I. 29.
W., letter of Dryden to ; II. 63.
Walsingham, prior of ; I. 103.
Walsingham, Sir Francis, Secretary of State :
his negotiations in France (a volume of instructions and letters) ; II. 43.
instructions to, 1570 ; II. 2.
—— touching marriage between Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Anjou ; II. 86.
—— as ambassador to France ; II. 97.
letter-books of ; I. 12, 31.
to Mons. Cretoy, principal secretary to the French King ; I. 61.
letters of ; II. 2, 8, 41, 43, 45, 82.
letters to ; II. 41, 43, 44, 45, 49, 50.
papers signed by ; I. 57.
Walter Archdeacon, the Book of, (a memorandum respecting it, temp. Jac. I.) ; II. 104.
Walter, William, to Lord Hatton and another ; I. 29.
Waltham :
Abbey of Holy Cross, grants to and by the ; II. 13.
—— seal of the ; II. 20.
canons of ; I. 89, 85.
Forest ; I. 83.
Walthew, Edmund, Fellow of Clare Hall, Cambridge, royal letters concerning ; II. 115.
Walwyn, family of, correspondence of the ; II. 73.
Wandell, Eliz., to Mr. Stretchay ; I. 29.
War, list of persons able for, 34 Hen. VIII. ; I. 110. See Wars.
Warbeck, Perkyn :
papers relating to ; I. xi., 50.
and other rebels at Taunton ; I. 107. order by Hen. VII. touching the rebellion of ; II. 20.
Warburton :
—, letters of ; II. 37.
Sir J., copies out of the evidences of ; I. 46.
of Ailey, genealogy and arms of the family of ; I. 49.
Ward, sale of a, by indenture ; II. 125.
Ward :
Lord, of Dudley ; II. 233.
Edward, to Lord —— ; I. 29.
G., to Lord —— ; I. 29.
Ja., to Lord —— ; I. 29.
R., of Chester, letters to ; II. 68.
Wardlaw, Sir Henry, of Pitreavie, letters of ; II. 185.
Wardmote Court Book, a, at York ; I. 109.
Wardour Castle ; II. 145.
report on Lord Arundell's MSS. at ; II. 33.
articles of surrender of, 1643 ; II. 34.
Wardrobe accounts, temp. Hen. VII. ; I. 75.
Wards and Liveries : ordinances for inquisition of ; I. 31.
Court of, grants out of the ; I. 33 (bis).
—— annuity out of the ; I. 34.
—— papers relating to the ; I. 34.
—— instructions for the Master of the (? date) ; II. 4.
—— Master and Council of the, instructions to the, 1610 (printed) ; II. 89.
Wardships :
copies of ; I. 46.
Irish ; II. 211.
Warkeworth's continuation of Caxton's Chronicle ; I. 77.
Warner :
John, to Mr. Streeter ; I. 29.
Rebecca, "Epistolary Curiosities" by (1818) ; I. 55.
Richard, to Lord Hatton ; I. 29.
Warrants ;
in the Hatton collection ; I. 34.
by Kings of Scotland ; II. 166, 167, 168.

Digitized by Google

Warre:
Mr., letters to; I. 17, 22, 29.
Richard, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 29.
Warren, free, a printed broadside touching; II. 48.
Warren, Dr. Richard, letters of; II. 14.
Warriston, Lord, letters to, 1646; II. 176.
Ware, a discourse of the, by Mr. W., 1574; I. 42. See War.
Warsaw:
letter dated at, 1698; I. 36.
newsletters from, 1699; I. 37.
letters dated at, 1733; II. 213.
Warton, Anthony, letter of; II. 57.
Warwick, borough of, translation of charters of the; II. 80.
county of; II. 138.
—— deeds relating to places in the; I. 12.
—— deputy lieutenants of the, letters of, 1623; I. 100.
—— a book touching ship money raised in, 11 Car. I.; I. 101.
—— families of the, pedigrees of; II. 79.
—— deeds relating to lands in the; II. 72. 78.
—— plans of property in the; II. 46.
—— a list of bailiffs for the, 1581; II. 47.
Duke of, death of the [1461?]; II. 80.
Earl of, charter of; I. ix., 14.
—— 1550. See Lisle, Viscount.
—— relation of his passage through the Spanish Armada, 1627; I. 58.
—— letters of the, temp. Car. I.; I. 116.
—— letters to the, 1757–68; II. 103.
Washbourne, William, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Wastfelde, Mrs., letters to; II. 9.
Water, the supply of [in London], 1724; II. 235.
Water-Bailiffs' accounts, at Bridgwater; I. 99.
Waterford:
Corporation of, records of the; I. xiii.
—— report on the records of the; I. 131.
affairs of, 1715; II. 234.
a ship of; I. 15.
Bishop of. See Marlay.
Waterhouse, family of, correspondence of the; II. 73.
Waterland, Bishop, work of; II. 235.
Watkins, Richard, to Lord ——; I. 29.
Watson:
——, imprisoned for Popery; II. 97.
II., to Mr. Stretchay; I. 29.
Wm., priest, letter of; II. 154.
Watt, James, a printed paper and letters by, touching the navigation of the Forth and Devon; II. 29.
Watton, convent of, charters to the, 12th cent.; I. 12.
Watton:
Captain, depositions of; I. 25.
J., Speculum Christiani auctore; II. 145.
Watts, John, letter of; II. 73.
Wauchope, Mr., of Niddrie, MSS. of, to be inspected; I. 112.
Wauchtom, Laird of; II. 176.
Weadley, Jo., letter of; II. 17.
Weather:
entries respecting the, in an early calendar; I. 87.
prognostications of events from the; II. 66.
a tract on the, 15th cent.; II. 84.
Weavers, rules and regulations of the, at Norwich; I. 103.
Webb, John, to Chr. Hatton; I. 29.
Webber, Robert, to Mr. Stretchay; I. 29.
Weber, Mons. (at St. Petersburg), letter of; II. 190.
Webster, Mr. of Aberdeen, examination of the collection of; II. viii.
Wedderburne, the poet; I. 123.
Wedgwood (the celebrated), letter of, 1786; II. 30.
Weekes, William, to ——; I. 29.
Weldon, Great and Little; I. 30, 33.
Weldon, Sir Anthony, his "Court and Character of King James I."; I. 53.
Wellensis, Chronicon sive Annales ecclesiæ cathedralis; I. 94.
Wellesley:
family of, deeds relating to the; I. 108.
mention of a (1405–6); II. 134.
Arthur. See Wesley.
Wellington:
Duke of (1st); II. 192.
—— letters of the; ib.
Wells:
the Bishop's Registry at, records in; I. xi.
—— report on records in; I. 92.
Dean and Chapter of, records of the; I. xi.
—— report on the records of the; I. 93.
Corporation of the, records of the; I. xi.
—— report on the records of the; I. 106.
the Vicars Choral of, a book relating to; I. 93.
See Wellensis.
Wells:
family of, papers relating to the; I. 30.
William, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Welsh:
a book of homilies in; II. 65.
dictionary, a, 16th cent; II. 84.
genealogical notes in; II. 73.
genealogies; II. 31.
—— volumes of; II. 106.
Welsh—cont.
gentlemen, letter to [1646]; II. 87.
heraldry; II. 84, 104.
MSS., belonging to Mr. Wynne, at Peniarth; II. 104 sq.
poems, 17th cent.; II. 42.
poetry; II. 106.
—— volumes of; II. 84, 88.
Princes and Kings, genealogies of; II. 73.
princes, genealogies of, in Celtic; I. 31.
—— arms and pedigrees of; I. 49.
proverbs; II. 84.
rental, a; II. 66.
a volume in, 16th cent.; II. 84.
Wemyss:
Mrs., of Wemyss Castle, examination of the collection of; II. viii.
Earl of, John, letters of, 1628–43; II. 185.
David; II. 184.
John, letter of; II. 185.
Wendling (Norfolk), abbot of; I. 103.
Wendover, Roger de, a portion of his Flores Historiarum; II. 6.
Wenn, George, to ——; I. 29.
Wentworth:
Mr., his exhortation to Queen Elizabeth to establish her succession; II. 2.
Sir Thomas (afterwards Earl of Strafford), autograph of; II. 217.
—— his letter touching his resignation of the office of Custos Rotulorum; II. 49, 53.
speeches of, in Parliament, temp. Car. I.; I. 61.
Viscount, Lord Deputy of Ireland; I. 57.
—— commission by; II. 137.
—— letters of; ib.
—— petitions to; ib.
—— See Strafford, Earl of.
Thomas, to Lord Hatton (1701); I. 29.
Werden, Jo., to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 29.
Wesley:
John, letter of, touching the war with America; II. 12.
Mr. (Wellesley, afterwards Duke of Wellington), letter relating to; II. 48.
West, Miss, letter to, 1751; II. 38.
Westley, Thomas, "scholar," death of, 1718; I. 69.
Westmeath:
county of, instructions for the Governor of the; II. 212.
powers to grant protections in, 1691; II. 217.
Westminster:
Abbey, report on the MSS. in; I. 94–97.
—— extracts from an old book formerly belonging to, called "Diadema Monachorum"; II. 5.
—— account of a mob on the removal of the big bell from, to St. Paul's; I. 45.
abbot of, grant by the; II. 72.
Assembly of Divines at, letter to the procurator and assessors of the, 1644; I. 67.
bishopric of, letters patent dissolving the; I. 96.
city of; II. 138.
College, an Estimate of the state of, 1619; II. 89.
—— letters dated at, temp. Jac. I.; II. 59, 60, 61, 62.
collegiate church of, "Regulæ et Institutiones" of the, by order of Queen Elizabeth; II. 6.
courts at, offices and fees in the, 17th cent.; I. 49.
—— tracts relating to the; II. 89, 90.
Dean and Chapter of, an account of the documents in their muniment room; I. ix.
election at, 1727; II. 235.
—— 1784; II. 14.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 184.
School, letters relating to; II. 48.
Westmoreland:
county of; II. 138.
Lord Warden, &c. of, Council letter to the; II. 18.
documents and MSS. relating to; II. 123, 124, 125.
Earl of, to Lord Hatton, 1662–89 (19 letters); I. 29.
Weston:
——, subdean of Exeter, letter to; II. 34.
Catharine, a poem addressed to; I. 61.
Westphalen, Mons., Danish ambassador in Russia, a Mémoire by; II. 216.
Westphalia, letters about, 1795–6; II. 29.
Wetenhall, Edward, Bishop of Kilmore, letters of; II. 232.
Wetherall (or Wederhal) Abbey, collections out of the register book of; II. 125 (bis).
Wexford, affairs of, 1715 sq.; II. 234, 235.
Weymouth, Viscount:
sent to the Prince of Orange, 1688; I. 16.
letters to the Earl of Nottingham, 1702–3; I. 29.
letters of; I. xiii.; II. 15.
——, 1682–1700; II. 17.
——, 1768–72; II. 26.
Whaddon (Bucks); II. 94.
Whale Fisheries:
1614; I. 13.
letter of James I. touching the; II. 54.
Whalley, monastery of, Act Book of the Commissary of the; II. 145. See Stanlawe.
Whalley, Peter, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.

Digitized by Google

Wharton:
Lord, Warden of the Marches, papers connected with; II. 123, 124.
—— letters of, 1640, sq.; II. 9.
—— —— (1703?); I. 29.
Duke of, letter touching a quarrel of the; II. 88.
—— letter touching his frolics, 1722; II. 26.
—— proposal by the, 1726; II. 235.
Mr., Comptroller of the Tower, letters of; II. 10.
T., to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 29.
Thomas, letters of; II. 17.
Whately, Thomas, letters of; II. 38.
Wheelock, Abraham (Saxon scholar); II. 113.
Wheler, William, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Wherwell. See Romesey.
Whicheote:
Sir Christopher, Governor of Windsor at the burial of Charles I., letters of, 1660–1; I. 55.
Dr. James; I. 67.
Whigs, the; I. 24. See "Mock Poem."
Whiston, William, Fellow of Clare College, Cambridge; II. 116, letters of; II. 115.
Whitaker. See Whittaker.
White:
Edward, to Lord ——; I. 29.
Isaac, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Jn., to Mr. Stretchay; I. 29.
Mr., of Magdalen College, Cambridge; I. 17.
Roland, letter of; II. 87.
Sir Thomas, founder of St. John's College, Oxford, letter of; I. 100. See Whyte and Wyte.
White's Chocolate House, letters from; II. 23.
Whitefoord, John, letters of; II. 190.
Whitehall:
housekeepers' and wardrobers' fees at; II. 81.
inventory of papers at, Edw. III. to Eliz.; I. 12.
letters dated at, 17th cent.; II. 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 59, 60, 169, 170, 211, 212, 216, 217.
—— 18th cent.; I. 38; II. 188, 189, 191, 217.
Whitehaugh, Mr. J. F. Leith's MSS. at; II. xix.
report on the same; II. 198.
Whitfield, Rev. Mr., letter to, 1765; II. 12.
Whitgift, John:
vice-chancellor of [Oxford], Mr. Cartwright's refusal to dispute with; II. 153.
Bishop of Worcester, letters to; II. 153, 155, 156.
—— certificates by, of names of recusants; II. 153.
Archbishop of Canterbury, letters of; II. 153.
Whitgreave, Mr. Francis, of Burton Manor, near Stafford: papers of; I. xi.
report on his MSS.; I. 61.
Whithorn, priory of, register of the; I. 111.
Whittaker (or Whitaker):
Captain; I. 19.
John, the antiquarian, letters of; I. 42.
Whittell, Joseph, et al., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Whittingham, George, to Lord ——; I. 29.
Whittington College; II. 153.
Whitwell, William, to Lord Hatton and another; I. 29.
Whitworth:
—, letters of, 1699; I. 37.
Charles, letters of; II. 189, 190.
—— letters to; II. 190.
—— instructions to, as plenipotentiary in Prussia; II. 190.
Whyte, Lieutenant-General, letters of; II. 192.
Wiat. See Wyat.
Wich, ——, letter to; I. 38. See Wyche.
Wick, J., to Lord ——; I. 29.
Wickes:
F., to Chr. Hatton; I. 29
William, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Wickham. See Wykeham.
Wicklow, county of, a commission touching composition for cess in, 1616; I. 131.
Wicliff, John:
translation by, of Clement of Lanthony's Harmony of the Gospels; I. 60.
five volumes of translations and original works by; II. 4, 5, 6, 7.
list of books by; II. 6.
his translation of the Gospels of St. Matthew and St. Mark, with commentaries in English (MS. 14th cent.); II. 31.
his translation of the New Testament (MS. circ. 1400); ib.
Waldene against (a MS.); II. 131.
a treatise or Confessio ascribed to; II. 155.
John (not the Reformer?), mentioned in the accounts of Queen's College, Oxford, 1363 sq.; I. 141, 142.
Wickliff, Mr., goldsmith, London, notes on coining by; II. 40.
Widrington:
Lord, trial of; I. 92.
Lady Alethea, account of the life and death of; I. 92.
Wife's Advice to her Daughter, The (a poem, 15th cent.); II. 84.
Wight, Isle of:
grant by the Lady of the; I. 11.
letters dated at the (temp. Car. I.); II. 185.
number of soldiers at the review in the, 1702; I. 29.
Wigmore abbey, a treatise on the foundation of; II. 6.
Wilberforce, Thomas; I. 109.
Wilberfosse, Alan, sheriff of York; I. 108.
Wilbraham:
Roger, letters of; I. 55.
Sir Roger, commissioner touching the Gunpowder Plot; I. 58.
Wilcox, R., to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
Wilde, Mr., of Edinburgh; II. 192.
Wilford, Sir James, commission to; II. 95.
Wilkes:
—, letters from, to the Earl of Leicester [temp. Eliz.]; II. 8.
John, trial of, 1763; I. 57.
—— letters relating to, 1769; II. 29.
—— pamphlets relating to the political career of; II. 63.
Margaret, to Mr. Streetway; I. 29.
See Wilks; Wylkes.
Wilkinson, Rev. ——, a curious letter from; I. 30.
Wilks (actor), licence to, 1720; II. 71.
Will, an Anglo-Saxon; II. 105.
Will, a, temp. Hen. III.; II. 77. See Wills.
Willes:
Mrs., of Goodrest, Berks, MSS. of; II. xxi.
—— report on the MSS. of; II. 103.
Chief Baron, his Letters and Observations on Ireland; II. 103.
Willett, Humphrey, to the Earl of Nottingham; I. 29.
William I., King of England:
Life of, composed temp. Henry II.; II. 104.
charter of; I. 71, 95.
seal of; I. 91.
William II., charters of; II. 88 (bis).
William Prince of Orange, husband of Princess Mary, eldest daughter of Charles I., letters from, to Montrose, 1648; II. 173.
William, Prince of Orange:
his marriage with Princess Mary, daughter of James Duke of York, 1675; I. 54.
his letter to the army, 1684; I. 23.
letter of, 1685; I. 56.
requested to undertake the government of England; I. 16.
letters of, to Lord Dartmouth, 1688–9; II. 11, 12.
letter touching his doings, Jan. 1689; II. 88.
his commission to Sidney Godolphin, 1689; I. 22.
an address to, 1689; II. 195.
a conversation with; II. 1. See Halifax, Marquis of.
letters of; II. 1, 14.
William III., King of England:
accession of; I. 44, 52.
account of his reception in London; I. 45.
treaty with Denmark and the States-General, 1701; I. 54.
letters of; I. 13.
to the Elector Palatine; I. 36.
to Lieutenant-General Ohr; I. 36. to the Earl of Portland; I. 55.
letter from the King of Poland to; I. 37.
autograph letters of; I. 30.
letters to; I. 55.
order by; II. 222.
warrant by, touching Kilkenny; I. 130.
William the Lion, King of Scotland, charters of; I. 121; II. 166.
Williams:
Sir Abraham, his account of the Queen of Bohemia's demands on England; 1651; II. 83.
Sir C. H., letter of; II. 8.
John, Bishop of Lincoln, Lord Keeper, speeches of; I. 62.
—— letters of; I. 67; II. 59, 60, 61, 62.
—— letters to; II. 60. See Keeper, Lord; York, Archbishop of.
John, Bishop of London, letter of; I. 67.
of Holywell, Flintshire, papers of the family of; II. 73.
Williamson:
George, to Lord Hatton; I. 29.
J., to Secretary Vernon and the Earl of Portland; I. 29.
John, letter of; II. 36.
Ralph, to Lord ——; I. 29.
Willis, Mr., letter to; I. 30. See Willys.
Willoughby:
Lord, letters of, 1588–90; II. 45.
—— letters of (beginning of 18th cent.); I. xiii.
Charles, M.D., letters of; II. 232.
Philip, 62 letters and papers from the Earl of Northampton, Christopher Hatton, and Secretary Nicholas, et al., concerning some charges made against them by the said P. W.; I. 29.
Wills:
at King's College, Cambridge; I. 67.
—— (extracts, 16th cent.); I. 69.
among the Carlisle Cathedral MSS.; II. 125.
at Drum Castle (Scotch); I. 198.
in the Hatton Collection; I. 33.
—— (copies and extracts of); I. 32.
at Limerick; I. 131.
in the charter chests of the family of Neville of Holt; II. 94.

Digitized by Google

Wills—cont.
and registers of wills in the Bishop's Registry, Norwich ; I. 87.
in the registers of the Dean and Chapter, Norwich ; I. 88.
in the Shrewsbury Collection ; I. 50.
in Lord de Tabley's Collection (copies) ; I. 46.
a volume of, 1321–1493, at York ; I. 97.
notes of, at York ; I. 97.
and Administrations, pamphlet concerning ; II. 89.
Willys, William, to Lord Hatton ; I. 29. See Willis.
Wilson :
Dr., instructions to, 1576 ; II. 97.
Edward, to Lord Hatton ; I. 29.
E., to John Stretehay ; I. 29.
George, letter of ; II. 71.
Thomas, a MS. by ; II. 90.
Thomas, Bishop of Sodor and Man, letters of ; II. 232.
Sir Thomas, letters of ; II. 55.
Wiltshire :
charters touching lands in ; II. 35.
letter touching musters in, 1606 ; I. 62.
journal of a journey through, 1722 ; II. 25.
Winchelsea :
decay of rents in, Edw. III. ; I. 33.
muster roll for ; II. 32.
and Nottingham, Earl of, MSS. of the, sent to the Public Record Office ; I. viii.
—— Countess of, Mary, letter of, 1741 ; I. 30.
Earl of ; I. 29.
—— letters of the, 1702–5 ; I. 30.
—— notes by the, 1723 ; I. 33.
—— letter to the, 1774 ; I. 17.
—— —— (undated) ; I. 20.
—— —— 1757 ; I. 30.
Winchester :
petition to the Pope touching the observance of Lent at ; I. 77.
church of St. Peter, charter to the ; II. 39.
College ; I. 61.
Dean and Chapter of, letter from Charles II. to the ; II. 87.
hospital of Holy Cross near, documents relating to the ; II. 133.
prior and convent of the cathedral church of, the Bishop's injunctions to the ; II. 133.
Roll, the (in Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge ; II. 116.
Winchester, Bishop of :
Master John Gerveys, "Synodus" of (MS. 15th cent.) ; I. 61.
letter of Henry VIII. to the ; II. 42.
Robert Horne, Council letter to, on the observance of the Book of Common Prayer, 1573 ; II. 153.
letters of the (temp. Jac. I.?) ; I. 43.
George (Morley), to Lord Hatton, 1673–82 ; I. 30.
—— letters of ; II. 19. See Morley.
letter respecting canons made by the, 1688 ; I. 17.
P[eter Mews], letter of, 1689 ; I. 30.
Winde :
Captain, letter to ; I. 18.
W., to Lord Hatton ; I. 29.
Windebank :
Sir F., letter of ; I. 34.
Francis, Secretary of State, letters of ; I. 57, 67.
Windham, W., the Hon., letter of ; II. 192.
Windsor :
vicar of, petition against his being made a Fellow of Eton College ; I. 67.
letters dated at, 17th cent. ; II. 32, 170, 185, 217.
Lord, William, letter of, 35 Henry VIII. ; II. 72.
—— Thomas, to Lord and Chr. Hatton, 1656–82 (33 letters) ; I. 30.
—— letters of, 1681, &c. ; II. 15.
[Lady] A., to Chr. Hatton, 1666 (two letters) ; I. 30.
Wine :
licences for selling ; I. 34.
an opinion touching the "alteration" of, 1626 ; I. 54.
royal grants of ; I. 69.
expenses for ; II. 199.
Wingfield, Robert, of Brantham, his Life of Queen Mary ; II. 44.
Winnington :
Sir Thomas, Bart., his MSS. at Stanford Court ; I. x.
—— report on his MSS. ; I. 53.
Sir Francis, fee book of, temp. Car. II. ; I. 53.
Salwey, Commissioner for Public Accounts ; I. 54.
Winter, George, instructions to, 1577 ; II. 97.
Winterton, Ralph, signature of ; I. 67.
Winton :
Earl of, George (3rd), book of accounts of, 1627–51 ; II. 199.
—— letter of, 1633 ; II. 185.
Andrew, Chronicle of ; II. 186.
Wiot, Hugh, petition of ; II. 80.
Wiser, Baron de, to George Stepney , I. 35.
Wit, F. de, painter, contract by ; II. 185.
Witch :
the Kilkenny (14th cent.) ; I. 130.
letters touching a, 1637 ; II. 48.
Witchcraft, trials of 27 women burnt for, at Aberdeen ; I. 122.
Withers, George, letter of ; II. 154.
Woburn Abbey :
calendar of the Duke of Bedford's collection at ; I. ix. II. 1.
lists of paintings at ; II. 2.
Wodnoth, Mr. ; I. 49.
Wodrow, Rev. Robert, collections of ; I. 123, 125.
Wogan, Richard, royal pardon to ; I. 128.
Wolf, payment for killing a, 1621 ; II. 179.
Wolfe :
E., letters of ; II. 191.
General, abstract of the regiments of marines sent to, 1744–6 ; II. 3.
—— orders given by, in America, 1742 ; II. 216.
See Woolfe.
Wolfgang, Count, letter from, 1702 ; I, 38.
Wolryche, Ursula, letters of ; II. 48.
Wolsey, Thomas, Cardinal of York :
an appointment by ; I. 91.
inquisition on the lands of ; I. 45.
character of ; II. 90.
Bishop of Bath and Wells, registers of the time of ; I. 92.
letters of ; I. xii., 50, 100 ; II. 34.
letters to ; II. 34.
copy of a letter from, to the ambassadors at Rome (1523 ?) ; II. 2.
negotiations of (a volume of letters) ; II. 43.
Cavendish's Life of (copy in MS.) ; I. 33.
——, with two other papers about him ; II. 43.
Fiddes' Life of ; I. 51.
Women :
an address to Queen Elizabeth touching "the usurped authority and regiment" of ; II. 153.
question as to the baptism of ; II. 153.
Wood, Mr., sent to France, instructions by Queen Elizabeth to ; II. 41.
Wood's copper money, assay of ; II. 235, 255.
Woodchester (near Stroud), report on the MSS. in the Library of the Monastery of Dominican Friars at ; II. 146.
Woodcocke, Peter, to Mr. Jones ; I. 30.
Woodford, Robert (at Hamburg), letters of ; II. 26.
Woods, the King's, surveyor general of ; I. 15.
Woodward :
—, letters of ; II. 212.
Robert, list of Papists by ; II. 41.
Wool :
rules for the warranty of ; I. 103.
proclamation against the adulteration of, 3 Edw. IV. ; II. 94.
Woolcombers, of Norwich, petition of the ; I. 103.
Woolfe, Jo., to Lord and Chr. Hatton ; I. 30.
See Wolfe.
Woolley, Thomas, to Lord Hatton ; I. 30.
Worcester :
abbot of, grant by the, &c. ; II. 72.
archdeaconry of, roll of taxation of the temporalities of the, 29 Edw. III. ; II. 39.
county of ; II. 138.
—— charters, &c. touching lands in the ; I. 50 ; II. 38, 72.
—— —— papers relating to the, at Stanford Court ; I. 53, 54, 55.
—— —— during the Civil War ; II. 36.
—— orders relating to the, 1642 ; II. 48.
Bishop of, Richard Pates, obit of, 1565 ; II. 127.
—— letter of the, 1710 ; II. 234, 245, 246.
—— letter to the, 1716 ; I. 52.
—— John Hough, letters of, 1740 sq. ; II. 12.
—— —— letter of ; II. 38.
See Lloyd ; Stillingfleet ; Whitgift.
Bishops of, grants by ; II. 72.
E. [Lord], letter of, 1603 ; II. 19.
Earl of, John Tiptoft, Constable of England, ordinances of, 6 Edw. IV. ; II. 31.
H., letter of, [temp. Hen. VII.] ; II. 72.
Worden, Sir John, letter of ; II. 9.
World, the :
History of, in French ; I. 14.
two rolls containing an history of the ; I. 61.
Worms, letter of Geo. II., dated at ; II. 191.
Worsley, R. E., his prize poem on the execution and death of Lady Jane Grey ; II. 4.
Worsted yarn, inspectors of, 1791 ; I. 103.
Worth, Edward, letter of ; II. 157.
Worthenbury (co. Flint), report on the MSS. of the Trustees of Sir R. Puleston at ; II. 65.
Wotton :
Dr., instructions to, 1565 ; II. 97.
Sir Edward ; II. 45.
Sir Henry, ambassador to Venice ; I. 13.
—— letters of ; I. 67 ; II. 53, 55, 57, 60.
—— Provost of Eton, letters of ; I. 67.
Wrath, Sir Thomas ; II. 95. See Wroth.
Wratislaw, Le Comte, I. 22, 27.
—— two letters of, 1703 ; I. 30.

Digitized by Google

Wratten, Thomas, to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Wren:
Matthew, Bishop of Ely; I. 70.
Bishop, petition to; II. 70.
Mr., his "Origin and progress of the troubles in England;" II. 8.
Wrest Park, Beds, report on the MSS. of the Countess Cowper at; II. 4.
Wrexham, rolls of Quarter Sessions at, 17th cent.; II. 73.
Wright:
Abraham, volume of sermons by; II. 80.
—— documents connected with; II. 78, 79.
An., to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
J., to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
James (barrister), MSS. written by; II. 79, 80.
—— poems by; II. 80.
—— historical collections by, ib.
N., to Lord ——; I. 30.
Nicholas, to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Writs:
in the Hatton Collection; I. 34.
forms of; I. 110; II. 209 (bis).
legal, forms of (Hegistrum Brevium); II. 7.
Wroth, Lady Mary, letter of; II. 60. See Wrath.
Wrottesley:
Lord, collection of; II. x.
—— report on the MSS. of, at Wrottesley (Staff.); II. 46.
family of, documents relating to the, with their correspondence; II. 47, 48, 49.
Wroughton, Thomas (at Warsaw), letters of; II. 26.
Wulstan:
part of a Homily of, in Saxon; I. 97.
St., Life of (MS., 13th cent.); II. 105.
Wurtemberg, Duke of:
papers touching his investiture with the Garter, 1603; II. 20.
letters from James I. to the; II. 51, 55.
letter of the, 1620; II. 57.
letters of the, 1694–6; II. 178.
Wyat (or Wiat):
Sir Thomas, his declaration of his innocency (in reply to the accusation of Bonner); II. 40.
—— the elder, letters concerning; II. 152, 153, 155.
Wyat's rebellion; II. 154, 156.
Wyatt, Richard, to George Mortimer; I. 30.
Wyche, Sir Peter, letters of; I. 56. See Wich.
Wycherley; II. 70, 71.
Wygetone, William de, his poem, "Manuel des Péchés;" I. 45.
Wykeham:
Master John (rector of Crundale); II. 133, 134, 135.
Master Nicholas; II. 133.
William of, deed of settlement by, on his kindred; II. 93.
—— letter of; II. 132.
—— Bishop of Winchester, injunctions by, &c.; II. 133.
—— books given by to New College, Oxford; II. 135.
William, mayor of Bristol, temp. Ric. III.; II. 39.
Wykes, M., to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Wylkes, Thomas, letters of, 1588; II. 45. See Wilkes.
Wyndham:
—— speech of, in Parliament, 1762; I. 57.
C., to Lord ——; I. 30.
Edward, letters to; I. 58.
Sir Edmund, letters of; I. 107.
Thomas, Chancellor of Ireland, letters of; 232.
Wynne:
Wm. W. E., Esq., of Peniarth, co. Merioneth, MSS. of; II. xii.
—— report on his MSS.; II. 103.
Sir J., his history of the Gwydor family; II. 84.
Mr., letter from Charles I. to; II. 86.
O., letters of; I. 56; II. 88.
Sir Richard, letter to; II. 88.
Robert, letters of; I. 45, 75.
Sir W. W., letters of; II. 68.
—— letters to; ib.
Wyntown's Cronikil, copy 16th cent.; II. 208.
Wyseman, Richard, to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Wyte, Richard Le, letter of; I. 95.

Y.

Yalden, Mr.; II. 69.
Yard, Robert, newsletters of, 1670–89; I. 86.
Yarington, Captain, letters to; I. 47.
Yarmouth:
papers relating to; II. 41.
letter concerning Hythe and; II. 92.
Great, prior of, accounts of the; I. 89.
Year Book, a, 2 Edw. II.; I. 53.
Yelverton:
Barry, letters of; I. 127.
C., to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Sir Christopher, speeches of; II. 44.
—— treatise dedicated to; II. 44.
Fr., to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Henry, commonplace-book of; II. 46.
—— See Grey de Ruthin, Lord.
Sir Henry, letter of; II. 53.
M., to ——; I. 30.
O. (?), to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Yelverton Manuscripts, the, in possession of Lord Calthorpe; II. 39.
Yentil, ——, to Lord Hatton; I. 30.
Yorick, sermons said to be by; I. 51.
York:
Dean and Chapter of, records of the; I. xi.
—— report on the records of the; I. 97.
Corporation of, records of the; I. xi.
—— report on the records of the; I. 108.
Company of Merchant Adventurers, report on the MSS. of the; I. 110.
travelling expenses between London and, temp. Edw. I. & II.; I. 96. account of household expenditure at, temp. Edw. II.; ib.
the Great Council at, letter from, to the citizens of London, 1640; I. 63.
abbey of St. Mary's, books of the; I. 45.
—— a computus of the; I. 110.
abbot of St. Mary's, certificate by the; II. 94.
Cathedral of, a History of, by "Hugo Cantor Ebor.," (12th cent.); I. 97.
Church of, a service book written for the, 15th cent.; I. 89.
recorder of the City of, his speeches to Charles I.; I. 62 (ter.).
St. Leonard's Hospital, extracts from the registers of; I. 32.
royal letters dated at, 1642–3; II. 170.
Archbishop of, letters of the [temp. Hen. VI.?]; I. 95.
—— letters to and from the, 1623; II. 18.
—— John Williams, articles of high treason against [1645], by Sir John Owen; II. 86.
—— —— extracts from Hacket's Life of; ib.
—— —— counterchange by; ib.
—— —— letters of, 1646; II. 87.
—— —— agreement by; ib.
—— John (Sharp), letters of, 1702–3; I. 30.
—— —— letter to the, 1702; I. 22.
—— —— register of the (abstract); I. 32.
Archbishops of, lists of; II. 89, 125. See Grindall, Lee, Wolsey.
Duke of, letter of the, 1761; II. 13.
—— letters of the, 1795–6; II. 29.
—— See James; Richard.
Duchess of, Anne, attack by her confessor on the Sorbonne Doctor, 1675; I. 52.
—— —— letters of her secretary, 1675; I. 54.
—— —— her secretary. See Coleman, Edward.
—— —— letters of; I. 115; II. 15, 17.
Yorke:
Charles, letter to; II. 8.
Sir John, and others, a bill against, in the Star Chamber, 1612; I. 58.
Sir Joseph (at the Hague), letters of; II. 26.
Yorkshire:
deeds relating to places in; I. 12.
articles of the commissioners of, 1469–86; II. 42.
Philosophical Society, report on the MSS. of the; I. 110.
Young:
Arthur, letters of; I. 127.
Patrick, letter of; II. 56.
Sir Peter, of Setoun, his embassy to Denmark; II. 187.

Z.

Zealand, States of, letter from James I. to the; II. 54.
Zell:
ambassador from Wm. III. to; I. 40.
letters dated at, 17th and 18th cent.; I. 40, 41.
Zetland, Earl of:
the collection of the; I. xi.
report on the MSS. of the; I. 44.
Zinzendorff, Le Comte de, Imperial prime minister:
letters of; II. 189.
letter to, 1718; II. 217.
Zouche:
Lord, letter of [temp. Jac. I.]; I. 67.
—— —— 1620; II. 58.
John, to Mr. Hasilwode; I. 30.
Richard, his "Juris fecialis sive Juris et Judicii inter gentes explicatio"; II. 46.

Digitized by Google

LONDON:
Printed by GEORGE E. EYRE and WILLIAM SPOTTISWOODE,
Printers to the Queen's most Excellent Majesty.
For Her Majesty's Stationery Office.

Digitized by Google

375

THE THIRD REPORT

OF THE

DEPUTY KEEPER

OF THE

PUBLIC RECORDS IN IRELAND.

[15TH MARCH, 1871.]

Presented to both Houses of Parliament by Command of Her Majesty.

DUBLIN:
PRINTED BY ALEXANDER THOM, 87 & 88, ABBEY-STREET,
FOR HER MAJESTY'S STATIONERY OFFICE.

1871.

[C.—329.] Price 2s.

Digitized by Google

CONTENTS.

Page

REPORT, ... 5

APPENDIX.

1. Report of Sir J. Bernard Burke, Ulster, Keeper of the State Papers, 31
2. Instructions in relation to Deeds and Muniments of Title of Public Departments, ... 38
3. Extract from Report of J. O. Overend, esq., on the transfer and part removal of the Records of the Court of Exchequer, . 40
4. Memorandum of the Right Hon. the Master of the Rolls transmitted to Her Majesty's Judges in relation to duties consequent on removal of Records, ... 52
5. Plan of Record Repositories of the Court of Exchequer, to face 53
6. Report of W. M. Hennessy, esq., on J. F. Ferguson's Exchequer Collections, ... 53
7. Plan of Record Repositories of the Court of Common Pleas, to face 54
8. Extract from Report of J. Mills, esq., on the transfer and part removal of the Records of the Court of Common Pleas, . 55
9. Extract from Report of H. F. Berry, esq., on the Records of the Court of Queen's Bench (civil side) removed to the Public Record Office, ... 71
10. Extract from Report of H. F. Berry, esq., on removal of Records of Court of Equity Exchequer from offices and vaults of Receiver Master of the Court of Chancery, ... 75
11. Map of District Registries of Court of Probate, . to face 76

Digitized by Google

377

THE THIRD REPORT

OF THE

DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS

IN IRELAND.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HONORABLE EARL SPENCER, K.G., LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,

1. In reporting the proceedings had in execution of "The Public Records (Ireland) Act, 1867," I shall continue to use the classification adopted in my previous Report, of work pending at the close of the past year (post, 2), and of work since commenced (post, 34), under the heads respectively of extern and intern operations.

2. The operations in progress at the close of 1869 comprised—

Extern.

a. Preparation for transfer and removal of the Parliamentary Collection from Record Tower, Dublin Castle, post, 3, 4.

Intern.

a. Erection of fittings in north-east section of Record Treasury, post, 5, 6.

b. Internal arrangements of Record House, post, 7.

c. Preparation for intern transfer and deposit of Chancery Pleadings, post, 8–13.

d. Preparation for intern transfer and deposit of Chancery Rolls, post, 14–17.

e. Disposal of Deeds affecting rights of the Crown, post, 20–22.

f. Assortment of Inventions-Patents, post, 23.

g. Indexing and Calendaring, post, 24–33.

Removal of Parliamentary Collection from Record Tower.

3. The Records deposited in the Record Tower, Dublin Castle, under the care of Sir J. Bernard Burke, C.B., the Keeper of the State Papers, consisted of three principal classes, viz., the Bermingham Tower, the Parliamentary, and the State Paper Collections. The Bermingham Tower Records, consisting chiefly of the more ancient Rolls, judicial and administrative, were removed to this office in 1869. The removal of the Parliamentary Collection has been effected during the year 1870. To prepare the State Paper Collection for removal, an extensive process of arrangement has been undertaken by the Keeper, and is still in progress.

Digitized by Google

Some account of this labour, which will afford material for the historical student, will be found in the Keeper's Report for 1869; and I have now the honour to direct your Excellency's attention to Sir J. Bernard Burke's further account of this work of preparation in his Report for the past year, which will be found in the Appendix.

Appendix I.

4. The Parliamentary Collections now deposited here comprise the original Statute Rolls, public and private, the draft and fair manuscript copies of the Journals of the Houses of Lords and Commons of Ireland, and the Sessional Papers of both Houses. No improvement can be made in the classification, calendaring, or indexing of this important collection, which is all in perfect order; but the pieces will have to undergo, to some extent, a re-formation to adapt them to the change of fittings in their present repository.

Erection of fittings, with further elimination of combustible material in 3 A, 3 B, 3 C, for Chancery Pleadings;

5. The fittings for the reception of the Chancery Pleadings and Rolls have been continued through bays 3 A, 3 B, and 3 C. The only wood now employed for a tray does not exceed seventy cubic inches, of which about fifteen inches only are exposed. When it is considered that a press-shelf of the old construction, affording less available space, contained upwards of 4,000 cubic inches of wood, it will be seen that the elimination of inflammable material from the new fittings has been carried out to an extreme extent. By the employment of non-ignitable material, such as whale-bone, for the book-supports, the fire-proof character of the process might be rendered absolute; but it is conceived that this portion of the collection is now so effectually placed beyond all possibility of injury from fire that further precaution in this direction would be superfluous.

and for Chancery Rolls, in 3 D.

6. Like fittings have been set up throughout bay 3 D, with the modifications necessary to adapt them to the reception of the Rolls of Chancery.

Internal arrangements of Record House.

7. The internal arrangements of the Record House have been completed. One of the apartments on the eastern side of the Public Room has been rendered fire-proof by the introduction of a concrete ceiling.

Safe-room for Indexes.

Here are deposited the Bill Books, which form the only Index to the Pleadings of the Courts of Chancery and Equity Exchequer: these books, being open to the inspection of the public, could not conveniently be deposited in the Treasury, and as their loss by any accident would be almost irremediable, it had from the first establishment of the office been an object to remove them from the Public Room to some place of security accessible from it; but owing to the continued occupation of part of the building for the purposes of the Vice-Chancellor's court and offices, this arrangement could not be earlier effected.

Serialization of the Chancery Pleadings.

8. The process of re-casting the Pleadings of the Court of Chancery into one continuous date-series, begun in the preceding winter, has been carried on without interruption during the year. This arrangement includes the process of re-distributing the several bundles of Pleadings filed by the respective Six Clerks between 1726 and 1837, so as to eliminate the names of the Clerks from the search-indications. It also involves the re-folding of all Pleadings exceeding the regular dimensions, and the making up of the instruments into fasciculi of uniform size, labelled in date-sequence, and adjusted to their respective supports. The number of bundles opened and re-cast during the year was 2,006, comprising the series of Answers back to the year 1735.

Digitized by Google

Misplaced Pleadings recovered.

9. One of the results of this process has been the discovery of a large number of misplaced Pleadings. One hundred and sixteen Bills have been found amongst the Answers so opened during the past year. These records may be regarded as having been practically lost since the time of their first misplacement. In like manner Answers out of place have been found, as well in the Answers bundles of the wrong Six Clerks as amongst the bundles of Bills; and many more of both classes will probably be discovered during the remainder of the operation.

Fasciculi deposited.

10. The number of fasciculi made up as described, and deposited during the year 1870, was 16,515, estimated as containing about 110,000 Pleadings, and extending back from the date where the deposit of 1869 left off, to the 10th January, 1759. They are all of the Answer series, and are distinguished by labels printed in red, as the Bills are by labels printed in black. The necessity of substituting a place-docket for each Pleading withdrawn for purposes of search or copying, and of cancelling the docket on the return of the Pleading, will, it is conceived, afford sufficient security against further misplacements until the deposit of the whole collection shall be complete, when a series of current numbers in distinguishing colours may be applied, which will exclude all probability of such losses in the future.

Precautions against further misplacements.

Fasciculi prepared for deposit.

11. In addition to the fasciculi so deposited, there were at the close of the year 396 fasciculi, containing the series of Answers back to the 15th January, 1757, prepared for deposit. The number of Answers being greater than that of Bills, and the number and bulk of both decreasing rapidly for the period prior to 1750, it may be considered that nearly one half of the Chancery Pleadings Collection was arranged in its final place of deposit in perfect consultable order at the close of the year 1870.

Repairs of injured Pleadings.

12. Besides liability to misplacement, the old method of searching was attended with risk of injury to the Pleadings. Many of these have been found torn, probably from the difficulty of extracting them from their bundles. The repair of these torn Pleadings has proceeded pari passu with their deposit.

"Long" Pleadings, formerly in separate repositories, cast into the series.

13. The Rolls Collection contained a separate division of Pleadings of unusual size, some of them, when spread out, extending to more than 100 yards in length, called "Long Pleadings." These not being receivable into the ordinary bundles, occupied a separate place in the Rolls Record room, and were searched for by a particular indication in the Bill Books. They have been folded uniformly with the other classes, and cast into the common category, so that one set of search indications now suffices for all Equity Pleadings indifferently. Some of the Answers of this class, with their schedules, constitute several fasciculi: in such cases the several books are so attached as to preserve the unity of the Record.

Digitized by Google

Intern transfer and deposit of Chancery Rolls.

14. The Close and Patent Rolls of Chancery of earlier date than the reign of James I., being of small size (some of them not exceeding an inch in diameter), had been kept in pigeon-holes in closed presses. These presses, with their contents, were brought to the Record Treasury, and the Rolls in question, 219 in number, continued to occupy their former places in them until the fittings in bay 3 D were sufficiently advanced for their reception. On unrolling them for the purpose of introducing the axes on which they are now suspended, it was found that, owing probably to want of air, the parchment in many of them had become dry and brittle, and that they were generally in want of repair. To have executed these repairs before proceeding with the intern transfer would have involved an inconvenient delay, and it was deemed more advisable to remove them in their existing condition to their places of final deposit, where abundant ventilation exists. Their condition, however, is such that it has been considered unsafe to allow them to be handled by any but officers or servants of the department, until the necessary repairs shall be executed.

Earlier Rolls in want of repair.

Precautions against further injury.

Rolls fittings.

15. The fittings designed for the reception of this class of Rolls are divided into vertical spaces of three and a half inches apart. In a few instances, when the diameters of the Rolls exceeded the space so provided, they were reduced by being rolled from both ends. The division allotted to the residue of the Close and Patent Rolls, both of the ribbon and book kind, is arranged in vertical spaces of seven inches apart. When the diameter of any of those of the ribbon kind exceeded that measure, the process of double-rolling was resorted to, and was found conveniently applicable. Greater difficulty was experienced in the case of the Book Rolls. When these exceeded the assigned dimensions, the book had to be divided, and the separated portion re-backed and made up as a distinct Roll, with new endorsement and corresponding entries in the several Indexes. Altogether, fifty-seven Rolls had to undergo this latter process, by which means the uniformity of the receptacles has been preserved; and the whole collection of Close and Patent Rolls of Chancery, consisting now of 1,255 Rolls, reduced to a very compact arrangement in 135 trays, occupies one-fourth only of bay 3 D, whereas, in its previous temporary deposit on the shelving of the original fittings, it occupied the whole of one bay and portion of another. In estimating the economy of space thus attained to, it may be considered that every cubic foot of tray-room available for purposes of deposit, excluding the spaces occupied by halls, ambulatories, and means of approach, represents an ultimate outlay of about four shillings. There being in one bay about eighteen hundred cubic feet of such space, a saving of three-fourths represents in money results upwards of £250. Space is left for the probable accretions of a century in continuation. Although these Rolls are not executed in duplicate, their material contents could be supplied from other collections deposited in different parts of the building.

Adjustment of larger ribbon and Book Rolls.

Consequent economy of space.

Room for accruing Rolls.

Deed Rolls of Chancery.

16. The Deed Rolls of Chancery form a separate deposit in the same bay. These being the assurances of title substituted for Fines and Recoveries are Records of the highest importance. They extend from 31st October, 1834, when the Fines and Recoveries Act came into operation in Ireland, to 1850, and comprise thirty-two Rolls, occupying seven trays. The residue of these Rolls remains at the Record and Writ Offices of the Court of Chancery. Ample room has been provided for these, and the probable accretions, of a century, as they shall be transferred on becoming of the age of twenty years respectively hereafter. They are of the book-roll kind, but, so far, of irregular sizes. The great advantages of uniform size are now fully appreciated at the department in which these Rolls are made up, and care will be taken hereafter in the binding both of these, and of the Patent Rolls, not to exceed the limits of size for which the fittings have been adapted. There are no duplicates of these very precious records. The Book-Roll form is not favourable to the preservation of the writing.

Digitized by Google

Precautions for future uniformity of size.

17. The Statute Rolls of the Court of Chancery are also destined for deposit in the same bay, and were in process of being placed at the close of the year. These Rolls contain the transcripts of the Public and Private Acts of the Parliament of Ireland. The Acts themselves constitute part of the Record Tower collection, deposited in a different part of the building. This being a complete series, the deposit has begun from the latest Roll in date, and is being carried backwards, so that the series may fill a definite space conterminous with the fittings. These Rolls are all of the ribbon kind, and generally in good order. One hundred and eleven Rolls of this series, occupying fourteen trays, were in their places at the close of the year. After the deposit of the entire series, room will remain for the reception of all the other Rolls of Chancery—recognizance, convert, &c., with adequate provision for current accretions.

Statute Rolls of Chancery.

Deposit commenced.

18. The late Landed Estates Record Office was used as a place of deposit for several classes of instruments affecting the rights of the Crown. Of these the principal are Conveyances to Purchasers of Quit and Crown Rents disposed of by the Commissioners of Woods and Forests; conveyances, leases for terms of years, and licences from the Crown, and miscellaneous instruments of title to premises occupied for the purposes of Public Departments, as the Customs, Excise, Post Office, and Board of Public Works.

Deeds affecting the rights of the Crown.

Several classes.

19. The two former classes being of uniform size were bound from time to time in volumes of fifties, the accruing series being kept in portfolios. Since the transfer to this office, the cost of binding has been dispensed with, the instruments being well adapted for deposit in trays, similarly to the Chancery Pleadings.

The Quit and Crown Rent, and Crown-grant series, ready for deposit.

20. The disposal of the miscellaneous instruments of title has been less easy. These are of various sizes, and were made up in eighty-two bundles, kept in twenty-three drawers. In view of the probability of this office having ultimately to take in very much larger deeds-collections from other over-crowded repositories, it was considered advisable to make trial of the method of tray-deposit in the case of this class of instruments. A space in bay 3 D was allocated for this purpose, and provided with fittings of the same dimensions as those employed for the Chancery Pleadings. The deeds were opened, and re-folded to Miscellaneous Public Title Deeds, in part arranged and placed in tray-deposit.

Digitized by Google

the prescribed size, and made up into books similarly to the Pleadings. One tray was found capable of receiving forty-five of these fasciculi, containing three hundred deeds. The operation of folding and preparing a large collection would involve a considerable expenditure of labour, but the economy of space would much more than countervail that outlay.

Advantages of uniformity of size.

21. All expenditure of this nature would be avoided in the future, and the process of transferring the Records to their ultimate place of deposit would be one of the greatest ease and simplicity, if the instruments themselves were of uniform dimensions. Highly beneficial rules for this purpose have been prescribed in respect of large classes of modern Records by the Superior Courts of Law and Equity, and are now in operation; but the system is capable of advantageous expansion, and might be made to comprise almost all instruments of whatever nature destined for ultimate deposit at this office.

Appendix II.

22. Seeing the facility with which such uniformity might be secured in the case of documents prepared for Public Departments, the Right Honorable the Master of the Rolls was pleased on my recommendation to issue a memorandum, dated the 7th of May, 1870, for the information of the Solicitors of the several Departments desiring to use the Record Treasury here as a place of deposit for Deeds affecting the rights of the Crown, prescribing the dimensions of all Deeds of that nature to be executed after the 1st of August last; and I have to thank the heads of the several Departments who received his Honor's circular for their obliging co-operation in this desirable measure.

Inventions-Patents, in completion of 1868, bound.

23. The Assortment of Inventions-Patents has proceeded uninterruptedly. The increments during the last year, so far as they complete the portion of the series up to the end of 1868, have been interpolated into the places reserved for them in the previously unbound bundles for that year. These bundles have been bound uniformly with the earlier portions of the collection, in forty bound volumes of Specifications, and forty volumes of Drawings, comprising 3,999 Specifications, with the corresponding Drawings. It will be borne in mind that the process of patenting an Invention involves several successive stages, which may be extended over a considerable range of time at the discretion of the applicant, so that the preliminary steps alone may be taken in some, where the whole process will have been completed in others. Hence it results that a year's collection cannot in general be made up in a complete form of deposit until about the second year after. The receipts during the year 1870 having completed the volumes for 1868, there remained the rest of the current increment for 1869, 1870, comprising 3,991 Specifications with their Drawings. These have been cast into their series and made ready, as soon as the accruing receipts shall complete the sets, for the process of deposit, now substituted for the former and more expensive process of binding.

Causes of delay in completion.

Residue of Patents received in 1870 serialized for future completion and tray-deposit.

Indexing and calendaring Chancery Reports.

24. In indexing and calendaring, the work in progress at the close of 1869, has been prosecuted in the intervals of other engagements, and is still in progress. The Draft Index to the Chancery

Digitized by Google

Reports, arranged in years, according to the initial letters of their causes, has been proceeded with as far as the year 1826 of the letter C, and refers to 6,336 Reports. The documents themselves have been numbered according to their years, and placed in dictionary order up to the end of the letter L.

Chancery General Index.

25. The general detailed Index to the Records of the Court of Chancery has been completed to page 602.

Equity Exchequer Bill Books.

26. Fifty-five volumes of the Equity Exchequer Bill Books (1727–1783), which were falling to pieces, have been re-bound. In forty-eight of these, paper has been introduced for new Indexes, the old ones being now much torn, and nearly obliterated from constant use. The new Indexes have been transcribed into the volumes for 1782, and for 1779, Easter, to Hilary, 1780. Twenty-five of these volumes, which were more or less torn, have been carefully repaired with transparent paper, and they have all been bound in rough calf, with cloth sides.

Equity Exchequer Maps.

27. The maps connected with the Awards of the Equity Exchequer have been cleaned, flattened, and arranged in portfolios; and an index has been made to them in the names of their causes.

Equity Exchequer Decrees.

28. The Draft Index to the Equity Exchequer Decrees has been collated with the originals, and fairly engrossed for public use down to the year 1820.

Manuscript materials for Indexes in the Irish Record Commission Collection.

29. At the time of the termination of the Irish Record Commission, there were in course of preparation several manuscript indexes, the materials of which have been transferred to this office from the Record Tower. These have been carefully examined with a view to ascertain how far they may be utilized in facilitating access to the contents of the unindexed printed calendars and MSS. transcripts left by the Commissioners.

To what extent available for Calendar to Rolls of James I.

30. The Calendar to the Patent and Close Rolls of Chancery of the reign of James I., prepared and printed by the Commissioners as far as page 372, and continued to the end of that reign by the late Mr. George Hatchell, was printed without any index, a want that materially detracts from the value of this very useful work. This want has been, in part, supplied by the MS. index prepared by Mr. Lestrange, and copied for this office; but, as the larger land denominations only are included, that index affords only a partial and circuitous key to the information most in request. It is found that the late Commissioners have left the materials in manuscript of a Draft Index Nominum as far as page 102, and a Draft Index Locorum, including all names of places, as far as page 167 of this Calendar, on the same plan as the Index to the first volume of their Calendar of Patent and Close Rolls. There are also like Draft Indexes of names and places to the transcripts of some of the Inquisitions which had been of record with the Chief Remembrancer of the Exchequer, comprising Nos. 1 and 2 of "The County of Connaught," No. 1 to 61 of the County of Galway in the reign of Elizabeth; and No. 1 to 107 of the County of Galway in the reign of James I. These, although not complete or perfect in themselves, render the transcripts left by the Commissioners somewhat more accessible, but will require careful collation if they be included in a general index to be made public.

For transcripts of Inquisitions from office of Chief Remembrancer.

Continuation of Index to Calendar of Rolls of James I. recommended,

31. The continuation of the Index to the Calendar of James I. is a work which I would respectfully submit should be prosecuted with a view to being printed and incorporated with the remaining unbound copies.

notwithstanding defects in Calendar,

32. I make this recommendation, although aware that the names of places in this Calendar (although not practically misleading) cannot, in all instances, be relied on as exact transcripts of the names on the Rolls. On a careful comparison of an average folio (73) with the original, twelve names of places were, in an early examination conducted by Mr. La Touche and Mr. Hennessy, found in a greater or less degree erroneously transcribed, without counting mere misprints. Nevertheless, although the general character of the words has been so far preserved as not to detract appreciably from the working value of the Calendar as a means of reference, the detection of these discrepancies has led to what I trust will prove a beneficial precaution. It appearing that the errors in question had arisen mainly from ignorance of the meanings of the words, as local designations, in the Irish language, it was thought advisable by the Right Honorable the late Master of the Rolls, that, in qualifying for admission to this office, some knowledge of the Irish language—enough, at least, to inform the transcriber of certain laws of orthography, affording a clue to the right reading of ambiguous groups of courthand characters—should be secured in the officers of this department whose duty it is to make and give certified copies of instruments containing such matter. On his Honor's recommendation an elementary knowledge of Irish, to the extent of understanding the rules which govern the composition of nouns in local names, was required as one of the conditions of examination for this office. Since then, a uniform course of examination has been assigned for all departments, in which, of course, this exceptional qualification does not appear; but provision has been made for the acquisition of exceptional branches of knowledge required in particular departments by subsidiary examinations, under which the requisite information in this respect may be secured in future admissions to this branch of the service.

resulting from want of knowledge of the Irish language.

Precautions to secure the necessary knowledge in future appointments.

Calendar of Disentailing Deed Rolls.

33. The increase of business in the Search Room, and the necessity for the continuous presence there of the officer to whom the continuation of the Calendar of the Disentailing Deed Rolls had been first committed, has caused that work to proceed slowly. It has now been brought down to Deed 1350, enrolled 20th March, 1843.

Work undertaken in the year 1870.

34. The work undertaken within the year may be arranged as—

Intern.

a. Construction of bays and erection of fittings in north-western section of Record Treasury, post, 35, 36.

b. Arrangement of Equity Exchequer Documents out of series, post, 37.

Extern.

a. Preparation for the transfer and part removal of the Records in the charge of the Master of the Court of Exchequer, post, 38–45.

Digitized by Google

305

b. Preparation for transfer and part removal of the Records in the charge of the Master of the Court of Common Pleas, post, 46.

c. Preparation for transfer and part removal of the Records in the charge of the Master of the Court of Queen's Bench, post, 48–50.

d. Preparation for transfer and part removal of the Records in the charge of the Receiver Master of the Court of Chancery, post, 51.

e. Removal of accruing Records from office of Registrar of Court of Chancery, post, 52.

f. Preparation for transfer and removal of the Testamentary Collections in the charge of the District Registrars of the Court of Probate at Cavan, Tuam, and Ballina, and in the charge of the Diocesan Registrar for the Diocese of Meath, post, 53–67.

Internal division of Record Treasury into 120 bays, completed by construction of 24 bays in north-west section.

35. At the time when the Record building was delivered to the Right Honorable the Master of the Rolls for the purposes of the Act, the internal construction of the bays had been carried through six-tenths of the interior only. The remaining space was divided into four vertical sections at each side by iron lattice-bar partitions. During the year 1869 the flooring of perforated iron was introduced into the partitions, so as to complete the frame-work of twenty-four bays at the eastern side. It remained to introduce similar flooring into the corresponding western divisions. This operation was performed in a satisfactory manner during the early part of the past year, and completes the full number of one hundred and twenty bays, accessible from the ground floor and the five tiers of galleries surrounding the hall.

Four of best lighted bays allotted to Testamentary Collection.

Fittings for wills commenced in 4 R.

36. The fourth and fifth stages from the ground being those in which the window-space is largest, it was thought desirable to select the fourth floor, comprising 4 R, 4 S, 4 T, and 4 U, for the deposit of the Testamentary Collections, as requiring the greatest amount of light in the process of searching. The fittings for the reception of the Wills, &c., from the District Registries already transferred, were commenced during the winter; and at the close of the year had been completed through one-half of 4 R, affording space estimated for the deposit of about one hundred and fifty thousand testamentary instruments, and about six hundred volumes of Will Books, Act Books, &c.

Arrangement of Equity Exchequer documents out of series commenced, and still in progress.

37. Amongst the documents of the Equity Exchequer brought from various depositories are several collections still requiring arrangement, before they will be in a condition for introduction among the other parts of the series to which they belong. It was necessary that all should be brought together, and reduced to sizes uniform with the bulks of their respective sets. This labour was undertaken in the spring, and has been continuously in process during the year. The documents, being first cleaned and sorted, have been flattened and folded to uniform sizes, and made up in portfolio-bundles. Eight hundred and eighty-one such pieces, containing about two hundred and eighty thousand separate instruments, have been so arranged. The principal classes are Affidavits, Affidavits of Service, Barons' Reports, Chief Remem-brancers' Reports, Consents, Costs, Decrees, copies of, House of Lord's Orders, Injunction Orders, Notes on Hearing, Orders, Petitions, Petitions for Receivers, Reports of Sale, Submissions.

Digitized by Google

Preparation for transfer and part removal of Records of Court of Exchequer.

38. The preparation of the Records in charge of the Master of the Court of Exchequer was commenced in April last, under the superintendence of Mr. Overend, formerly of the Exchequer Office. It is a large collection, and was distributed through 364 presses in thirteen rooms, including a very complete vaulted record-room, over the arched passage of the eastern quadrangle of the Four Courts. I refer to Mr. Overend's Report of the progress made, which would have comprised the removal as well as the preparation for transfer of the whole collection, but for the circumstance to which I beg leave to solicit your Excellency's particular attention.

Appendix III.

Operation not completed, owing to difficulty as to performance here of duties consequent on removal; required in course of ancient practice, or by particular statutes.

39. The Act contemplates the removal of all the ultra-vicesimal Records of the several Courts. The arrangements made for transferring the Exchequer and Common Pleas collections would have sufficed to complete their removal during the last autumn; but owing to a difficulty as to the performance here by the Court Officers of certain duties in respect of particular classes of those Records, the operation of removal has been left incomplete.

40. These duties principally affect the Judgment Rolls, and are either at common law, as incident to the ancient course of practice, or statutable. When a judgment has been satisfied, or in part paid, or revived by suggestion, an entry is made on the Roll, of such satisfaction, part payment, or revival, in the ancient regular course of practice. When a judgment has been duly assigned, an entry of such assignment is made upon the Roll, under the 9th Geo. II., c. 3, the officers being bound to see that the requirements of that and the amending Act of the 25th Geo. II., c. 24 have been complied with. Recourse to the Roll must again be had under the Act 11 and 12 Vic., c. 120, in cases of certificates authorizing the Registrar of Judgments to make memoranda of satisfaction, &c., in his books, the Officer examining the Rolls for this purpose having to satisfy himself of the validity of the satisfaction. In these and other similar cases—especially in verifying the title in cases of assignment and satisfaction—repeated access to the Rolls is necessary. Other Rolls and Records require the performance of like duties from time to time.

For which no authority in officers of this department.

41. There being no authority in any of the officers of this Department, to alter a record or to judge of its legal effect or operation, it was foreseen that on the removal of this class of Records last referred to, officers should attend from the several Courts, for the purpose of performing the duties in question, at the Record House, and a suitable apartment was prepared for their reception. With the same view, an order prescribing the duties of the officers of this Department in producing the Records, permitting the necessary entries to be made upon them, and keeping the record of such proceedings, was prepared by the Right Honorable the late Master of the Rolls, but as already reported, that order remained unperfected. The Right Honorable the now Master of the Rolls having resumed the consideration

Provision made for reception of officers attending on such duties.

Digitized by Google

387

of these arrangements, and re-considered the form of order for the guidance of this office, was pleased on the 14th of May, 1870, to transmit copies of it to the several learned Judges, with a view to having provision made for the performance here of the duties of entering satisfaction, giving certificates, &c., by the officers, or an officer of the several Courts.

Appendix IV. In expectation of arrangements being made for their attendance here.

42. No arrangements having been as yet made for the performance of these latter duties, it has appeared to the Right Honorable the Master of the Rolls that although inconvenience to this department would arise from a separation of the Records in question, yet that in presence of a more serious inconvenience to the public, it would be inexpedient at present to remove them; and, accordingly, although they have been duly entered, labelled, and marked with their destinations here, they remain in their former repositories. One of the resulting inconveniences is, that large classes of the Records removed are here without any index; the Final Judgment Books which constitute their indexes being also the indexes to the Judgment Rolls, and necessarily remaining with them.

Arrangements not having been made, Rolls left in their former repositories.

43. In the case of this, as of every other large collection, a chart or plan of the repositories, indicating by numbers the position of the several presses, was prepared as a preliminary step to the transfer. Each piece being labelled with the number of its press and shelf, these plans in effect constitute Records of the local position of the several contents, prior to removal; and in this respect have been found of considerable utility in tracing the new places of deposit of exceptional lots and documents included in larger pieces. They have also served as progressive Records of the work of transfer and removal, the labelled and emptied presses being marked off as the operation proceeded. The Plan of the record repositories of the Court of Exchequer, in the Appendix, is reproduced from the original drafts prepared by Mr. Overend on commencing the work of transfer in those rooms. The tinted portion represents the extent to which the removal of the contents had been effected at the close of the year.

Plans prepared showing progress of work.

Appendix V.

44. In the deposit of this collection, it has been necessary to interpolate in several of the series brought from the office-presses other parts of the same series which had been deposited in the sacks brought from the vaults of Benchers' Building. The contents of 305 of these sacks had been carefully bundled, labelled, and indexed by the late Mr. James Frederick Ferguson, so as to render the task of introducing them into their respective series comparatively easy of accomplishment. But there remain 45 sacks of fragmentary pleadings and documents, the arrangement of which cannot be undertaken until the officers shall be more at leisure. The process of interpolation and supplementing at the close of the year had been effected in the case of 2,122 pieces.

Deficiencies in Law Exchequer series supplied from sacks brought from Benchers' Building.

45. Thirty-eight volumes of MS. compilations, by the late Mr. James Frederick Ferguson, supposed to contain, amongst other valuable matter, complete indexes to the Memoranda Rolls, formed part of the collection. On examination, their value appears to

Digitized by Google

Appendix VI. have been over-estimated. The detail of their contents will be found in Mr. Hennessy's Report.

Removal of Records of Court of Common Pleas.

46. The principal repositories of the Court of Common Pleas occupy the floor above those of the Court of Exchequer, and present a like arrangement of a vaulted record room, separated by a

Appendix VII. corridor from the principal offices. The annexed Plan, reproduced from the original drafts prepared by Mr. Lopdell, exhibits the general arrangement and the extent to which the presses had been cleared at the close of the year.

Contents of vaults of Common Pleas.

47. Besides these repositories, there were two vaults in the basement, and one upper apartment: in the vaults were deposited 160 sacks of other Records of the Court of Common Pleas. These sacks contained about 2,500 bundles belonging to series of which the residues existed in more or less continuous order in the office presses. On their removal it was found necessary to expose them for some time to the open air. The contents were found in some instances altogether decayed, and in many cases injured by damp. Eighty-six of these sacks have been emptied, and their contents, comprising 1,319 bundles, have been catalogued and spread on the temporary flooring of the newly-constructed bays, from which Mr. Mills has begun the process of transferring them to their places in, and supplementary to, the corresponding series This operation has been facilitated by an Index to the contents, prepared, under the direction of the Master of the Court of Common Pleas, who had caused the contents to be bundled and labelled. At the close of the year, 237 pieces had been interpolated, so completing the continuity of the series deposited from the office presses. The residue belong in general to earlier portions of the several series, but have still to be brought into

In part interpolated in their series.

Appendix VIII. continuity among themselves. The detail of these operations will be found in the Report of Mr. Mills on the Common Pleas Collection.

48. The same causes which occasioned the non-removal of the Records remaining in the repositories of the Courts of Exchequer and Common Pleas, have also led to the continuance in their former places of deposit of a large part of the Judgment Rolls of the Court of Queen's Bench. These have been prepared for transfer, and provision has been made here for their reception since the month of May, 1869. In September, 1870, in order to expedite certain internal alterations, a portion of the collection consisting of 336 Case, and 115 Memorial Rolls, was, at the request of the officers in charge, received here on the understanding that such duties as might arise in respect of them, would be performed here by the proper officers provisionally. The class of Records in question does not require any but very rare reference for purposes of this kind.

Rolls of the Court of Queen's Bench not removed, save certain Case Rolls.

Part of the Records and Pleadings Collection of the Queen's Bench removed.

49. The same pressure for space which led to the removal of the Case Rolls, induced the officers of this Department to proceed with the removal of the portion of the Records and Pleadings collection of the Court of Queen's Bench contained in the offices in the western quadrangle, the residue of which are deposited in the dome over the hall of the Four Courts. It had been considered more expedient to leave the collection in bulk, until the completion of arrangements for performing the duties consequent on removal; but in this, as in other cases, the convenience of the officers in charge has been consulted in preference to the general scheme of removal.

Digitized by Google

50. The collection so removed comprises 1,415 pieces, and is fully analysed and described in the detailed report of Mr. Berry, by whom the operation was conducted. I am also indebted to Mr. Berry for Reports on the further transfers effected under his direction from the offices of the Receiver Master, and of the Registrar of the Court of Chancery respectively. Appendix IX. Appendix X.

Equity Exchequer Records from offices and vaults of Receiver-Master in Court of Chancery.

51. The offices and vaults of the Receiver-Master of the Court of Chancery served as one of the five several sets of repositories of the scattered Records of the Court of Equity Exchequer. By the transfer and removal effected during the last autumn, the lately dispersed series have now been substantially re-united and completed in material, though not yet fully serialized, in this office. The collection includes a considerable mass of Exhibits and documents lodged in Court in the progress of causes which will be dealt with as the like series, coming from the offices of the other Masters of the Court of Chancery. It is observable in these as in the other similar collections, that there rarely exists any indication on books of account, of which there are now several tons weight in the Treasury, to show to whom they belonged or in what cause brought in. No authority exists warranting their destruction; and when it is considered that every cubic foot of space which they occupy, represents a considerable money outlay, the expediency of providing some uniform rule for their labelling on first deposit in Court, and for their return to the depositors on the winding up of the Causes will be apparent.

Want of indications of ownership on books of account and other exhibits, from various offices.

52. The accretions for the years 1869-70, from the late Registrar's office of the Court of Chancery, have been removed and deposited in continuation of their respective series. The system introduced in a great degree by Lord St. Leonards, of requiring the Records to be written on material of uniform size, capable of being bound in books or portfolios, has given greatly increased facility to the operations of this office, on collections of modern date.

Accruing Records from office of Registrar of Court of Chancery capable of easy deposit.

53. The transfer to this office of the Testamentary Records, from the Central and District Registries of the Court of Probate, has been entered on and in part completed. The Act vests in the Master of the Rolls, for the purposes of preservation here, all the ultra-vicesimal Records of the Court of Probate, and late Court of Prerogative, and all original Wills of which probate may have been granted for more than twenty years. Under the conjoint operation of these enactments, all the ultra-vicesimal Records, Books, and Documents in testamentary causes and matters of whatever kind, (except, perhaps, unproved original Wills), appear to be included, and this office became chargeable with their removal and deposit. A further duty is cast on this office, by the prospective operation of section 4 of the Act, which vests in the Master of the Rolls for like purposes, the Records of all Courts and offices thereafter ceasing to exist. On the passing

The Testamentary series; under "Public Records (Ireland) Act, 1867."

Prospective custody from 1st January, 1871, of Diocesan, and other ecclesiastical Records, save those relating to Church property during continuance of Church Commission; with further exception of Records of Causes and Matters Matrimonial.

of the Irish Church Act, this enactment attached the several Diocesan and Official Ecclesiastical Records, as from the first day of the present year, with the exception of those relating to Church property, which, although destined ultimately to be deposited here, are for the present placed under the control of the Irish Church Commissioners.

54. The range of duty so extended has again undergone a contraction under the provisions of "The Matrimonial Causes and Marriage Laws (Ireland) Amendment Act, 1870," by which (s. 22) all Records, &c. relating to causes matrimonial are to be transmitted from the several Ecclesiastical Courts to the principal registry of the Court for Matrimonial Causes and Matters.

Difficulties of detail arising on the new enactments.

55. This tripartite division as to places of deposit, with its subordinate division into ultra-vicesimal and infra-vicesimal, as to the ages of the Records, involves some discrepancies in detail which will render a literal compliance with the directions of the legislature difficult in practice. The same books in many cases contain matter matrimonial and testamentary, and matter infra-vicesimal as well as ultra-vicesimal. In some cases the different classes of entries are not capable of separation; in others the separation would involve the breaking up and rebinding of the volumes. I have no reason however at present to apprehend difficulties so arising which may not be adjusted by mutual arrangement among the several officers charged with the new custody, or by exercise of the powers reserved to your Excellency and the Judges by the Irish Records Act, 1867.

Record Office, during 1870, charged only with Testamentary series,

56. None of the enactments in question, save those relating to the Testamentary Collections, having been in operation during the past year, it would have been premature, prior to 1871, to take any steps in respect of other than Testamentary Records. These, at the time of the coming into operation of the Public Records Act (Ireland), 1867, were governed as to their custody and disposal by the provisions of the Court of Probate Act, 20th and 21st Vic., c. 79. By this enactment the ancient ecclesiastical course of testamentary jurisdiction was abolished, and new divisions of a civil character, partaking partly of county and partly of barony boundaries, were substituted for the former Diocesan Registries. The Diocesan Registries, as then existing, had themselves been substituted for older and more numerous ecclesiastical divisions of the same nature. Each Diocesan Registry had thus the records of its own administration, subsequent to the passing of the Irish Church Act of 3 & 4 Wm. IV., c. 37, as well as the records of each of its constituent Registries, previous to that date. These Records having been kept according to the course of practice in each diocese, and with different degrees of care, were at the passing of the Probate Act, much wanting in uniformity of arrangement, and were of very different degrees of completeness in themselves.

previously regulated by Probate Act, under which District Registries substituted for Diocesan Registries.

Wills, &c., in Diocesan Registries kept in various modes of deposit, and with more or less care.

57. The change from the ecclesiastical to civil divisions effected by the creation of the District Registries of the Court of Probate, was accompanied by a transfer of the United Diocesan Records into the custody of the District Registrars. To avoid the inconvenience of dividing the Diocesan collections, these transfers District Registries the depositories of Diocesan Collections.

Digitized by Google

were made irrespectively of the new divisions, where these happened to be non-conterminous with the ecclesiastical boundaries. It has thus happened that in some of the District Registries were to be found the earlier Wills made in extern localities, while other Wills of inhabitants of the included localities, had to be sought for in an adjacent District Registry. The District Registrars, then, beginning a new administration not conterminous with either of the preceding, the several collections in their new places of deposit have come to comprise a variety of arrangements, representing distinct epochs of jurisdiction, and affecting three or more several civil and ecclesiastical divisions.

Diocesan arrangement preserved where areas non-conterminous. Resulting anomalies.

58. To obviate the confusion likely to arise from these divergences in the areas of jurisdiction, a map of the District Registries of the Court of Probate has been prepared, which shows in distinguishing colours the County, Diocesan, and District Registry divisions; so that the date and locality being given, the inquirer may know under what head of a District Registry or United Diocesan or ancient Diocesan Registry, the Record should be searched for.

Appendix XI.

59. It was deemed necessary before entering on a uniform plan of transfer, that the collections in their respective places of deposit should be inspected, and their bulk, modes of arrangement, and adaptability to the Record Treasury fittings, ascertained. It was also desirable to know how far each collection was secured from fire, so as to judge of those which it might be expedient to remove in the first instance. The several District Registrars were apprized of the intention to make such inspection by circular of the 21st May, 1870.

Inspection of District Registries.

60. As regards the collections at Londonderry, Belfast, and Armagh, it was considered that such inspection, having regard to previous knowledge of their condition, might be deferred, and the inspection was confined to the Midland, Western, and Southern Districts. It was found that in all cases excepting the Diocese of Meath, the old Diocesan and sub-diocesan collections of Testamentary Records, with a few exceptions, had been brought into the new Registries. These exceptions existed in the case of mixed documents of the character above adverted to, which in some cases were retained by the Diocesan Registrars as comprising other Consistorial matter, besides Testamentary. The abolition of the Ecclesiastical Courts has removed this ground of difficulty, and any outstanding Records of this character will, it is expected, be brought in without objection. In the case of the District Registry of Mullingar, it appeared that the transfer intended by the Probate Act had not taken place. This arose from the peculiar local situation of the Diocese of Meath, which in the allocation of the District Registries had, so far as it embraced King's County and Westmeath, been given to the Mullingar Registry; but, so far as it included Meath County, was part of the Principal Registry. To have separated the Wills according to the local residences of the Testators, would have been an operation of great labour and nicety; and to have transferred all to either Registry would have occasioned a more extensive anomaly save Londonderry, Belfast, and Armagh.

Collections in their proper registries, save in case of Diocese of Meath; with exceptions, where entries mixed.

District Registry of Mullingar alone found without the earlier Collections, owing to peculiar position of Meath diocese.

than in any of the other cases where that mode of reconciling the divergent areas had been adopted. At Mullingar, accordingly, are to be found the Testamentary Records for Westmeath and King's County, from 1858 only, those for the previous period, as well for these counties as for the residue of the Diocese of Meath, having remained in the custody of the Diocesan Registrar. These latter had been deposited in the Sessions Court House at Navan, until recently, when their longer continuance there being objected to, the Registrar had them removed for preservation to his private residence at Clongill Rectory. With this exception, the intentions of the Probate Act appeared to have been substantially carried into execution under regular warrants in the several District Registries.

Wills, &c., of Diocese of Meath brought from former repository at Navan to Clongill Rectory.

61. It is unnecessary to particularize the different modes of deposit, indexing, and arrangement, especially in the earlier portions of the collections, in use in the different Registries. The Records found in these repositories fall under the principal heads of—

1. Original Wills, and vouchers for such as have been transmitted to the Central Registry or other lawful place of deposit.
2. Renunciations, Inventories, and Administration Bonds.
3. Act Books, recording grants of Administration and Probate.
4. Will Books, containing transcripts of Probates granted.
5. Citations, Monitions, and other proceedings in Testamentary causes, included under the general head of "Cause Papers."

Intermixed with these, and often inseparable from them, were found matrimonial, baptismal, and miscellaneous matters in causes ecclesiastical. In all, the Records were found in good present preservation, and consultable order, and capable of being brought into a uniform course of preparation for transfer. The observations made have led to concerted action on the part of this office and the Court of Probate, which will probably result in considerable simplification of future transfers.

Wills, &c., in all the Registries inspected, found in consultable order. Steps taken to secure future uniformity.

62. Strong rooms exist in Londonderry, Belfast, Armagh, Kilkenny, Waterford, Cork, Limerick, and Tuam. Ballina and Cavan alone are unprovided with these necessary places of security. At Tuam, the recent construction of the strong room had not admitted of the removal into their new receptacles of the contents of the presses. It was therefore considered expedient to proceed in the removal of the three last-mentioned collections, and of that at Clongill, in the first instance, and without waiting for the erection of any special fittings for their reception.

Strong rooms at the several District Registries, save Ballina and Cavan.

63. The Cavan collection includes the Testamentary Records of the Dioceses of Kilmore and Ardagh, which, although ecclesiastically united for a long period, had preserved their separate Registries. It included original Wills from 1682, with Will Books and Act Books in broken series, from 1693. It was removed to this office on the 12th November, and has been temporarily deposited on the wooden shelving of 4 Q, pending the erection of special iron fittings in 4 R. It had only recently Removal of Cavan District Collection.

Digitized by Google

come to the hands of the present Registrar, and bore marks of former exposure to damp.

Removal of the Clongill Collection, including the infra-vicesimal portion.

64. The Testamentary Records of Meath Diocese, preserved at Clongill, under the circumstances above mentioned, were in a state of more completeness. The Wills extended from 1664, and the Will Books, in continuous series, from 1667 to 1858. The last seven years of the series being within the age of twenty years, and the removal of the entire collection being a matter of urgent expediency, the Judge of the Court of Probate, in exercise of the power conferred by the 14th section of the Records Act, requested that the infra-vicesimal portion should be removed to this office, whereupon the Right Honorable the Master of the Rolls issued his warrants for the removal of both series respectively, by virtue of which the entire collection was brought from Clongill, and deposited here.

Removal of the Ballina Collection.

65. At Ballina, the collection had but recently come into the hands of the present Registrar. It had previously been in a state of great disorder, and some of the older Wills were considerably injured. These injuries are supposed to have been sustained during the French occupation in 1798, of Killala, where the collection had been originally deposited. The Wills commence from 1698, the Will Books from 1799, and the Grant Books from 1798; but in irregular sequence, and intermixed with various other matter, matrimonial and consistorial. The current Will Book, commencing in 1823, was left in the hands of the Registrar.

Removal of the Tuam Collection.

66. At Tuam, the collections for Tuam, Clonfert, and Elphin, were found in good order in separate series, for the respective dioceses. The Wills and Will Books (the latter in imperfect series), commence from 1641. Many of the Records in this collection comprised mixed testamentary, matrimonial, and general consistorial matter. The current Will Book, commencing in 1861, was left in the Registry.

All provisionally deposited, pending completion of fittings.

67. These several collections having been removed to this office were temporarily placed in 4 Q, adjoining to which the fittings for the reception of the general Testamentary Records had been commenced. These fittings were completed through one-half of 4 R, and were in progress throughout 4 R, 4 S, 4 T, 4 U, at the close of the year.

Tabular abstract of pieces removed.

68. The general nature and extent of the collections removed to, and placed in consultable order in the Record Treasury during the year 1870, will appear from the following Table. The quantity of work, of this nature, falls short of that performed in 1869. This is accounted for by the increased work of intern transfer and searching, and by the more desultory course of operation imposed on this office by the delay in arranging for the performance of duties consequent on transfer. In addition to these drawbacks, I have to observe that during the whole of the year, one vacancy, and during the last quarter two vacancies existed in the staff of the office; and that the practice of allowing gratuities to extern workmen, stated in my former Reports, has been discontinued.

Former Repository.	Classes of Documents.	Number of Pieces.
RECORD TOWER, DUBLIN CASTLE.	Journals of the Houses of Lords and Commons of Ireland, . vols.	149
	Statute Rolls, Public, . . rolls,	1,992
	,, Private, . . ,,	331
	Sessional Papers, . . bundles,	1,635
Offices of the COURT of EXCHEQUER.	Connaught Certificates, . . rolls,	7
	Adventurers', ,, . . ,,	27
	,, ,, (Repertory), book,	1
	Decrees for Innocents, . . rolls,	9
	,, ,, (Repertory), book,	1
	The Forty-nine Lots, . . rolls,	2
	Pipe, ... ,,	2
	Originalia, ... ,,	10
	Memoranda, ... ,,	301
	Decree (Continuation of Memoranda Rolls), . . . ,,	70
	Repertories and Indexes to Mem. and Decree Rolls, books,	12
	Communia, ... rolls,	156
	,, (Repty. and Index), books,	2
	Inquisitions, . . . portfolios,	32
	Repertories and Indexes to Inquisitions in Portfolios, books,	8
	Quit-rent Reducements, . . rolls,	7
	Memorial, ... ,,	100
	Memorials, . . . bundles,	142
	Negative Searches, . . books,	31
	Bail, ... ,,	8
	Docket, ... ,,	28
	Satisfactions, . . . bundles,	53
	,, (Indexes), . books,	9
	Warrants, . . . bundles,	62
	,, . . . books,	7
	Inquisitions, . . . bundles,	27
	Recognizances, . . books,	68
	Crown Bonds, . . . ,,	40
	Informations, . . . bundles,	15
	Writs of Appraisement, . ,,	10
	Petitions, . . . ,,	41
	Exemplifications, . . ,,	8
	Scire facias, . . . ,,	10
	Declarations, . . . ,,	52
	Pleas, ... ,,	64
	Posteas, ... ,,	13
	Consents, ... ,,	89
	Pleadings, . . . ,,	48

Digitized by Google

Former Repository.	Classes of Documents.		Number of Pieces.
Offices of the COURT OF EXCHEQUER—con.	Pleadings (Indexes),	books,	87
	Executions,	bundles,	119
	„ (Indexes),	books,	19
	Affidavits Redocketting,	bundles,	18
	„ Debt,	„	54
	„ in Ejectment,	„	105
	„ Common,	„	65
	„ of Service,	„	202
	„ (Indexes),	books,	28
	Cognovits,	bundles,	297
	Judgment Pleadings,	„	251
	Miscellaneous Rolls,	rolls,	25
	„	books,	106
	„	bundles,	133
COURT of COMMON PLEAS,	Judgments,	rolls,	451
	Deeds and Recoveries, 1821–1834,	rolls,	25
	Remembrance Rolls of Recoveries,	„	19
	Indentures of Fines,	portfolios,	202
	„ (Duplicates),	bundles,	40
	Writs of Covenant, Precipes, and Concords,	„	172
	Certificates of Acknowledgments of Deeds,	portfolios,	32
	Summaries of Judgments,	„	6
	Affidavits,	„	38
	Memorials of Assignments of Judgments,	bundles,	33
	Memorials of Assignments of Judgments,	portfolios,	109
	Memorials of Assignments of Judgments,	rolls,	37
	Cognovits,	bundles,	306
	Bonds and Warrants of Attorney to satisfy Judgments,	„	23
	Warrants of Attorney to confess Judgment,	„	24
	Satisfactions,	„	38
	Declarations,	„	118
	Pleas,	„	58
	Copied Pleadings,	„	79
	Ejectments,	„	131
	Interlocutory Judgments,	rolls,	29
	Judgments in Dower &c. (Filazers'),	„	2
	Writs of Entry and Warrants of Attorney,	bundles,	48
	Quare Impedit Declarations,	„	7

Former Repository.	Classes of Documents.	Number of Pieces.
COURT of COMMON PLEAS —continued.	Quare Impedit Pleas, . bundles,	5
	Replications and Pleas, . „	1
	Non Pros Judgments, &c., „	5
	„ Executions, . „	1
	„ Affidavits, . „	1
	Pleadings of Final Judgments, „	264
	„ Ejectments and Scire Facias, . „	76
	„ Scire Facias and Inquisitions, . „	95
	„ Issues and Judgments by Default, „	72
	„ Issues, . . „	22
	„ Interlocutory Judgments, . „	30
	Posteas, ... „	64
	Posteas and Inquisitions, . „	22
	Inquisitions, . . . „	4
	Affidavits (Common), . „	187
	„ in Ejectment, . „	192
	„ to ground marked Writs, . „	83
	„ of Service of Process, „	104
	„ in Outlawry, . „	29
	„ Redocket, . „	27
	Writs returned, . . „	124
	Scire Facias, . . . „	3
	Outlawries, . . . „	20
	Process to outlaw, . . „	12
	Ca. Sa. to outlaw, . . „	7
	Exigents, . . . „	23
	Capias Utlagatum, . . „	68
	Writs of Entry, . . „	14
	Writs of Dedimus and Warrants of Attorney, . „	2
	Writs of Error, . . „	4
	Records in Error, . . . roll,	1
	Essoigns, ... bundle,	1
	Venire Facias and Panels, bundles,	76
	Writs and Executions, . „	26
	Rule Books, Peremptory, books,	226
	„ Judicial, . „	86
	Court Books, . . . „	65
	Requisitions for Entry of Rules, ... bundles,	24
	Consents, . . . „	7
	Notices of Motion, . . „	6
	Certificates of no Appearance, „	7
	Issues and Verdicts, . „	14
	Judges' Fiats, . . . „	18

Digitized by Google

Former Repository.	Classes of Documents.	Number of Pieces.
COURT of COMMON PLEAS —continued.	Insolvent Papers, . . bundles,	3
	Rule Books for Insolvent Matters, . . . books,	2
	Counsels' Certificates, . bundles,	4
	Attorneys' Petitions, . „	6
	„ Register, . books,	32
	Entries of Attorneys' Apprentices' Indentures, . . „	1
	Indentures of Apprentices, bundles,	2
	Appearance Bail and Defence Books, . . . books,	102
	Appearances, . . . „	49
	Fines and Applications, . „	2
	Submissions and Awards, bundles,	21
	Judges' Reports, . . „	9
	Requisitions to mark Judgment, „	7
	„ to enter Judgment on Cognovit, „	1
	Bills and Writs against Peers, &c., „	12
	Certificates of sum due, . „	8
	Office Account, . . books,	18
	Incidental Expenses, . „	117
	Judgment Books, . . „	44
	„ Interlocutory, . „	32
	„ Docket Books, . „	33
	Indexes to Recoveries and Deeds, „	26
	„ Fines, . . „	24
	„ Certificates of acknowledgments, „	2
	Commissioners' Names, . . „	1
	Receipts for Deeds, . . „	1
	Pleadings, . . . „	87
	Postea, ... „	3
	Index to Warrants of Attorney, Assignments and Satisfactions, . . . „	13
	Index to Consents and Submissions, . . . „	6
	„ (Clerk of Juries), . „	3
	„ to Affidavits, . . „	41
	Writs and Seal Books, . „	73
	Outlawry Books, . . „	33
	Clerks of Errors' Index Book, „	1
	Writs of Entry Book, . „	1
	Summons Books, . . „	2
	Seal Books, . . . „	2
	Miscellaneous, . . . bundles,	10
	„ . . . books,	7
	Attorney Oaths and Others, bundles,	3
	Sacks, ... sacks,	169

Digitized by Google

Former Repository.	Classes of Documents.	Number of Pieces.
	Tipperary Records.
COURT of COMMON PLEAS —continued.	Writs, Pleadings, &c., . bundles,	35
	Records of Recoveries, . „	3
	„ of Fines, . . „	2
	Rule Books, . . . books,	25
	Appearances and Entry Books, „	8
	EQUITY EXCHEQUER RECORDS.
RECEIVER-MASTER'S OFFICE.	Affidavits, . . . bundles,	198
	„ of Service, . „	64
	Receivers' Accounts, . „	43
	„ Statements, . „	13
	Draft Conveyances, . „	16
	Charges and Discharges, . „	49
	Cause Papers, . . . „	86
	Reports, ... „	32
	Depositions, . . . „	21
Vaults, . .	„ (Sealed), . sacks,	34
Office, . .	Cant Books, . . . books,	30
	Ch. & 2nd Rem.s' Summons Books, „	25
	„ Entry Books, „	12
	Miscellaneous, . . . „	43
	„ . . bundles,	33
Vaults, . .	„ . . sacks,	5
	Deeds, ... boxes,	35
	Estreats, . . . bundles,	63
	Fines and Sheriffs' Accounts, „	18
QUEEN'S BENCH: (Civil Side).	Judgment Rolls (Case), . . rolls,	336
	Memorial Rolls, . . . „	115
	Warrants to enter Judgment, bundles,	73
	Satisfactions, . . . „	50
	Memorials, . . . „	108
	Affidavits (Common), . „	102
	„ (Ejectment), . „	109
	„ (Redocketting), „	17
	Cognovits, . . . „	219
	Indexes to Warrants, . . vols.	14
	Satisfaction Entry Books, . „	11
	Indexes to Affidavits, . . „	18
	Interlocutory Judgment Books, „	57
	Requisitions, Writs, &c., . sacks,	10
	Miscellaneous, . . bundles,	176

Digitized by Google

Former Repository.	Classes of Documents.	Number of Pieces.
RECORD AND WRIT OFFICE.	Accounts (Receivers'), . . vols.	45
	Attachments, ... „	2
	Certificates, ... „	5
	Consents and Consent Motions (Rolls), ... „	13
	Decrees, ... „	9
	Deeds Rolls, ... rolls,	6
	Exceptions, ... vol.	1
	Hearings Books, . . . vols.	7
	Incumbered Estates, Certificates for sale, ... „	3
	Motion Books, ... „	27
	Order (or Full Entry) Books, . „	37
	Patent Rolls, ... rolls,	5
	Petitions, ... vols.	23
	Petition Hearings (Rolls), . „	11
	Reports, ... „	34
	Rule Books (Side Bar), . . „	6
DISTRICT REGISTRIES OF COURT OF PROBATE :— Cavan.	Original Wills of Dioceses of Kilmore and Ardagh, bundles,	73
	Inventories, Bonds, Renunciations, &c., ... „	37
	Will Books, Grant Books, Indexes, &c., ... vols.	17
Ballina, .	Original Wills of Dioceses of Killala and Achonry, . bundles,	38
	Inventories, Bonds, Renunciations, &c., ... „	20
	Will Books, Grant Books, Index Book, ... vols.	4
Tuam, . .	Original Wills of Tuam Diocese, bundles,	34
	Inventories, Renunciations, &c., „	30
	Will Books, Grant Books, and Indexes, ... vols.	10
	Original Wills, Diocese of Clonfert, . . . bundles,	14
	Inventories, Renunciations, &c., „	17
	Registry Book and Index, . vols.	2
	Original Wills, Diocese of Elphin, ... bundles,	27
	Inventories, Renunciations, &c., „	30

Digitized by Google

Former Repository.	Classes of Documents.	Number of Pieces.
DISTRICT REGISTRIES—continued.	Original Wills, Diocese of Meath, bundles	22
	Index, ... vol.	1
Clongill, Navan, .	Unproved Wills, Diocese of Meath, and Index, . bundle,	1
	Documents in Intestacy (without Index), . . „	1
. .	Will Books, Court Books, Note
. .	Books, &c., ... vols.	19
. .	Mixed Administrations and Marriage Licences, . . vol.	1 15,277

69. I append a similar table of the number of pieces deposited, in the way of intern transfer, during the past year:—

Late place in Record Treasury.	Description of Documents.	Number of Pieces.
2 M, 2 N, 2 O, 2 P, 3 M, 3 N, 3 O, 3 P.	Answers in Chancery, fasciculi, .	16,515
2 L, 3 L,	Rolls, Close and Patent, . . .	1,255
	„ Deed, ...	32
	„ Statute, ...	111
	Public Title-deeds, fasciculi, . . (Transfers from sacks included in first table.)	45
		17,958

70. I annex, as in my former Reports, a printed diagram, representing the lower part of the Record Treasury in plan, and the north and south sides of the upper hall in section. The work completed up to the beginning of 1870 is shown in black; the work performed during 1870 in red ink. A reference to the corresponding diagram for 1869 will show the general nature of the internal changes which have taken place during the past year.

71. The fees received in the Search and Transcribing Department of the office during the year 1870 amount to £281 17*s.* 6*d.* The details of the work appear by the annexed Table, the charges at 1*s.* per folio, indicating the transcription of documents of dates prior to the reign of George III. It will be seen that while the amount of transcription has not been so great as in 1869, the number of inspections shows a considerable increase, due to the influx of new classes of documents.

Digitized by Google

State of Bays on East Side of Record Treasury, 31st December, 1870.

(Work since last Report shown in Red.)

6 A Vacant.	6 B Vacant.	6 C Vacant.	6 D Vacant.	6 E Custom House. Collectors' Accounts Deputations.	6 F Custom House. Collectors' Accounts Miscellaneous.	6 G Custom House. Collectors' Accounts Audit Drills, &c.	6 H Vacant.	6 I Vacant.	6 K Ex. Exchq. Affidavits, &c., from Chancery Masters' Offices.
5 A Do.	5 B Do.	5 C Do.	5 D Do.	5 E Benchers' Receipts of Revenue Exchequer.	5 F Law Exchq	5 G	5 H	5 I	5 K Vacant.

Digitized by Google

To face page 28.

STATE OF BAYS

ON

EAST AND WEST SIDES OF RECORD TREASURY,

31ST DECEMBER, 1870.

Digitized by Google

FEES RECEIVED in the YEAR to 31st DECEMBER, 1870.

Date.	Inspections.	Traces.	Folios at 1s.	Folios at 6d.	—	—
					£ s. d.	£ s. d.
1870.
January, .	21	–	–	–	1 1 0
	–	–	280	–	14 0 0
	–	–	–	671	16 15 6
						31 16 6
February, .	57	–	–	–	2 17 0
	–	3	–	–	1 7 6
	–	–	67	–	3 7 0
	–	–	–	409	10 4 6
						17 16 0
March, . .	33	–	–	–	1 13 0
	–	2	–	–	0 15 0
	–	–	234	–	11 14 0
	–	–	–	403	10 1 6
						24 3 6
April, . .	29	–	–	–	1 9 0
	–	–	55	–	2 15 0
	–	–	–	278	6 19 0
						11 3 0
May, . .	41	–	–	–	2 1 0
	–	2	–	–	1 7 6
	–	–	365	–	18 5 0
	–	–	–	457	11 8 6
						33 2 0
June, . .	68	–	–	–	3 8 0
	–	2	–	–	1 15 0
	–	–	73	–	3 13 0
	–	–	–	499	12 9 6
						21 5 6
July, . .	33	–	–	–	1 13 0
	–	1	–	–	0 5 0
	–	–	601	–	30 1 0
	–	–	–	321	8 0 6
						39 19 6
August, . .	23	–	–	–	1 3 0
	–	–	113	–	5 13 0
	–	–	–	101	2 10 6
						9 6 6
September, .	19	–	–	–	0 19 0
	–	–	38	–	1 18 0
	–	–	–	140	3 10 0
						6 7 0
October, .	22	–	–	–	1 2 0
	–	–	75	–	3 15 0
	–	–	–	372	9 6 0
						14 3 0
November, .	77	–	–	–	3 17 0
	–	3	–	–	0 17 6
	–	–	122	–	6 2 0
	–	–	–	1,340	33 10 0
	–	–	(1 Attendance.)		2 2 0
						46 8 6
December, .	75	–	–	–	3 15 0
	–	2	–	–	0 12 6
	–	–	201	–	10 1 0
	–	–	–	476	11 18 0
						26 6 6
	498	15	2,224	5,467	—	£281 17 6

72. The literary inquiries during the year embraced:—Documents of Genevan Commission, Philadelphia State Papers, Acts relating to the Irish Church, Patent Roll, 7th Edward VI., Down Literary inquiries.

Digitized by Google

Survey, Books of Enrolments of Deeds of Auditor-General's Office, Convert Rolls previous to 1734, Roll of Statutes, Documents connected with the Families of Alexander and MacCarthy, Exchequer Inquisitions, Certificates of Court of Claims, and under Acts of Settlement and Explanation, Documents connected with Coinage in Ireland, Books of Survey and Distribution, Transcripts of Carte Papers, Roll of Adventurers.

Donations. I have to acknowledge the following donations during the year 1870, to the Department :—

From the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury—
Transcripts of Carte Papers. Three volumes.
National MSS. of Scotland, Part II.
From the Master of the Rolls, England :—
232 volumes of Record Publications.

73. The office of Keeper of the Public Records in Ireland, vacated by the demise of the Right Honorable John Edward Walsh, was filled by the appointment of the Right Honorable Edward Sullivan, to the office of Master of the Rolls in Ireland, on the 12th January, 1870.

74. I beg leave to express my continuing obligations to the Commissioners of Public Works, and their Architect, and my satisfaction generally, in the zeal and assiduity of the officers of this Department.

All which is humbly submitted to your Excellency.

Dated at the Public Record Office of Ireland, Four Courts, Dublin, this 15th day of March, 1871.

(Signed), SAMUEL FERGUSON,
Deputy Keeper of the Public Records in Ireland.

I humbly certify to your Excellency, that this Report is made by the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records in Ireland, under my direction, pursuant to the Statute.

(Signed), EDWARD SULLIVAN, M.R.

Digitized by Google

405

APPENDIX.

Appendix 1.

To the Right Honorable the Master of the Rolls.—The Third Report of Sir John Bernard Burke, C.B., Ulster, Keeper of the State Papers in the Record Tower, Dublin Castle, dated 1st February, 1871.

Sir,—I proceed to place before your Honor my annual statement of the work that has been done in this Department during the past year, from 1st February, 1870, the date of my second Report.

I will classify my remarks under the three divisions observed in that Report, viz. :—

1. Transfer of documents.
2. Reception of State Papers.
3. Arrangement, classification, indexing, &c., of the State Paper Department.

I.—Transfer of Documents.

1. The Parliamentary Records contained in "Parliamentary Record Room," described as "No. V" in the Record Commissioners' printed Report, have been transferred to the Public Record Office.

This collection comprises 149 volumes of original fair manuscript copies of Journals of the Houses of Lords and Commons, 1,992 Original Statute Rolls (Public), commencing 1634, and ending 1800, and 331 original Statute Rolls (Private), commencing 1660 and ending 1800.

Before these documents were transferred they were arranged, papered, labelled, and adjusted to the spaces in the Record Treasury, Public Record Office.

2. The Parliamentary Records contained in "Parliamentary Record Office," described as "No. 6" in the Record Commissioners' printed Report, have also been transferred. This collection comprises 1,635 bundles of Accounts, Appeals, Bills, Public and Private, Committee Books and Papers, Original Journals of the House of Parliament, Oaths and Declarations, Orders, Patents and Grants, Claims to Peerages, &c., Petitions, Proclamations, Reports, Returns, Suffering Loyalists' Books, &c., and various other subjects of public interest. These documents have been arranged, labelled, adjusted to the spaces in the Record Treasury, and removed to the Public Record Office.

II.—The Reception of State Papers.

1. A quantity of Miscellaneous Papers, as well as some MS. Books of Entries, have been transferred to this Department from the Council Office.

The Papers principally consist of Miscellaneous Letters, 1839 to 1852 (with the exception of 1851, not included), of Unions of Parishes, &c., Lists of Fees of various years, Quarantine Papers, Returns to Orders of Parliament, &c., &c.

Digitized by Google

The Books are chiefly Money Warrants, Entries, &c. One, however, is entitled a "List of persons professing the Popish Religion who have taken and subscribed the Oath of Allegiance, 1775."

This mass of documents has been papered, endorsed, and placed in presses preparatory to being carefully examined, classified, and catalogued.

III.—ARRANGEMENT, CLASSIFICATION, INDEXING, &c., OF STATE PAPER DEPARTMENT.

1. A CHRONOLOGICAL SERIES OF KINGS' AND QUEENS' LETTERS has been formed. These important Letters were found in this Tower, dispersed amongst the masses of documents herein deposited, and have been supplemented by additions from the Chief Secretary's Office. These Royal Letters, heretofore scattered about, useless for reference, and unavailable for public purposes, are now for the first time brought together. They have been repaired, arranged chronologically, numbered, placed in cartons, and carefully catalogued and indexed. The series extends to more than 6,000 Royal Letters, commencing in the year 1649, and ending in the year 1852. Previously to the year 1697 the Letters are few, but from the latter date (1697) the series appears to be continuous.

These documents form a most important body of State Papers for public, historical, genealogical, and other purposes.

The first of what may be considered the continuous series of Royal Letters is a Letter of the King's, dated at Kensington, 22nd April, 1697 (Carton 159, No. 11), granting a free pardon to James [Power] Earl of Tyrone, grounded on the Report of the Attorney-General (dated 21st May, 1696), on the Earl's petition. The Report finds that His Majesty, on the Earl's coming over to His Majesty at the surrender of Waterford, had promised him a pardon, and that the Earl is a Protestant, not indicted or outlawed, and then (A.D. 1696) Governor of the county and city of Waterford. The Report further sets forth two certificates, dated 4th October, 1690—one, of the Bishop and Dean of Waterford, the Mayor and Corporation, and several gentlemen of the county of Waterford, testifying to the Earl's kindness during King James's Government; the other, of the magistrates, clergy, and gentry of the city and its neighbourhood, dated 18th November, 1693. Also the Duke of Ormonde's Letter, stating that the Earl, at the surrender of Waterford, quitted the enemy, and came over to His Majesty, though his father and regiment went to Cork and continued in King James's service; that the Earl was forced into that service by the severity of his father, but always had an inclination to desert them.

The next Royal Letter is one dated 23rd April, 1697 (carton 159, No. 12), granting William Spencer [grandson of Edmund Spenser, the poet] the forfeited estate of Hugolin Spencer [another grandson of the poet's], outlawed for high treason, to whom the petitioner was next Protestant heir.

A few numbers on is a Royal Letter, dated from Loo, 25th September, 1697 (Carton 159, No. 15), granting to William [Bentinck] Earl of Portland, the forfeited estate of Donogh, late Earl of Clancarty, reserving a portion of the revenues to the Countess Dowager of Clancarty, and Margaret Countess of Fingall [the Earl's aunt], for their lives.

These extracts from a few of the early Letters are characteristic of this portion of the series. In later years the Royal Letters refer more especially to appointments, ecclesiastical, legal, and civil; creations of Peers, Baronets, and Knights of St. Patrick, changes of name, appointments of Bishops, Deans, &c.; charters of incorporation to various institutions and societies, pensions, pardons, grants of pre-audience at the Bar, inventions, &c., &c.

Digitized by Google

The whole collection being now easy of reference, will, I have no doubt, prove of considerable advantage to the public.

2. THE CALENDAR OF THE BRITISH DEPARTMENTAL CORRESPONDENCE, being the correspondence of the Departments in England with the Lord Lieutenant's and Chief Secretary's Departments in Ireland, commencing in 1683, to which I referred in my last Report as having been continued to the year 1721, has during the past year been carried down to the end of the year 1727; and a portion of it, 1712 and 1713, has been fair-transcribed, which completes the first Volume of this Calendar.

3. A COMPREHENSIVE INDEX to the Council Books of the Commonwealth, a list of which was appended to my second Report, has been begun, and will, when completed, render the collection much more available for general reference. I have recently discovered among the State Papers a volume of this series entitled "Money Issues, 1656–57," and marked "A 23" by the Record Commissioners, which was missing at the date of my last Report.

The whole series of the Books of the Commonwealth and the Books of Entries (Miscellaneous) of Charles I., Charles II., James II., and William and Mary, comprises seventy volumes.

4. LICENCES TO CARRY ARMS, 1692–1780, have been arranged and placed in a carton.

5. LISTS AND RETURNS, MISCELLANEOUS, 1626–1813, have been arranged and placed in cartons.

6. MAGISTRATES ELECTIONS, CERTIFICATES, and other papers connected therewith, 1711–1816, have been arranged and placed in cartons.

7. MEMORANDA, &c., MISCELLANEOUS, 1685–1815, have been arranged and placed in a carton.

8. ORDERS OF THE IRISH PARLIAMENT, 1705–1799, have been arranged and placed in cartons.

9. PETITIONS, MISCELLANEOUS, and other papers connected therewith have been arranged and placed in cartons.

10. PRISONERS' CERTIFICATES and other papers respecting them, 1702–1789, have been arranged and placed in cartons.

11. RACE COURSES' PAPERS, 1712–1777, have been arranged and placed in a carton.

12. REVENUE CORRESPONDENCE, 1701–1800, has been arranged and placed in cartons.

13. SALVAGE CLAIMS, 1783–1804, have been arranged and placed in a carton.

14. SHERIFFS' NOMINATIONS, 1701–1764, have been arranged and placed in a carton.

15. SPECIAL STATE PAPERS, 1702–1797, have been arranged and placed in a carton.

Besides the foregoing Documents, the following, being unsuitable for the cartons, have been papered and indorsed, and are now ready for transfer to the Public Record Office, viz.:—

1. ROUTES, MILITARY, 1727–1764.
2. ACCOUNTS OF PRINTING AND STATIONERY, 1702–1793.
3. TRADESMEN'S ACCOUNTS, and other papers connected therewith, 1702–1795.
4. DRAFTS OF LETTERS OF IRISH PARLIAMENT, transmitting Bills to England, 1725–1800.

Digitized by Google

5. Heads of Bills of Irish Parliament, 1711–1782.
6. Miscellaneous Papers respecting Bills, &c., of Irish Parliament.
7. Transmisses of Bills of Irish Parliament, 1753–1780.
8. Accounts of Public Works, State Messengers, &c.

Your Honor will perceive, from the foregoing report, that I have this year completed, as required by the Public Record (Ireland) Act, 1867, the transfer to the Public Record Office of the contents of the three depositories, viz. :—

I. The Bermingham Tower Record Room.
II. The Parliamentary Record Room, No. V., and the Parliamentary Record Office, No. 6.
III. Record Commission Department.

The transferring of these Records was greatly facilitated by the arrangements made for the reception of the documents at the Public Record Office by Dr. Ferguson and by a system of Transfer Books he has designed.

Having thus accomplished the removal of the contents of these depositories, I will add a few general remarks with reference to the State Papers.

The Carton System, as applied to the proper keeping of these important papers, has to the fullest extent answered expectations. By it I have been enabled to remove the documents from darksome recesses, where they were kept tied up in dirty and inconvenient bundles, and to place them in layers in chronological series—each paper numbered in the cartons, and each carton having also its own proper number. By this means the several documents are readily accessible, and having been thoroughly cleaned and dusted, will be for the future kept in good and safe condition.

The Kings' and Queens' Letters, which I have already described, fill forty-two cartons.

Carrying out this system I have had the room No. V. (lately used for the Parliamentary Records), re-adjusted for the reception of cartons, in which I am now arranging a very important collection of miscellaneous State Papers, heretofore placed in parcels, four rows deep, most inconvenient for reference. When the classification in the cartons is accomplished, this inconvenience will be wholly removed, and easy access afforded.

This collection concerns the late and present centuries, and contains a vast number of papers of the greatest importance, referring as they do to almost every subject of public interest.

Another work of importance—the Cataloguing and Calendaring the State Papers—has occupied much of my attention during the past two years, and the first folio volume of the Calendars begun in 1868, is now completed. It comprises—

A Calendar of Church Papers, Miscellaneous, together with an Index of names; and also

A Calendar of the British Departmental Correspondence, beginning with a letter of the Duke of Ormonde, dated 3rd of March, 1683/4 [Carton 2, No. 1], and ending with a letter of Edward Southwell to Joshua Dawson, dated London, 23rd March, 1713/14 [Carton 6, No. 2,104].

In this collection will be found letters from James, second Duke of Ormonde; Francis Gwyn; Right Hon. Edward Southwell, Secretary of State for Ireland; Sir William Robinson, bart.; Henry St. John,

Digitized by Google

Viscount Bolingbroke; the Lord Treasurer Godolphin; the great Duke of Marlborough; Brigadier Cadogan; Laurence Hyde, Earl of Rochester; Isreal Fielding; Richard Powys; Sir Stephen Fox; Sir Cyril Wyche; Charles, Earl of Sunderland; Thomas, Earl of Pembroke; George Dodington; Right Hon. Joseph Addison; Robert Harley, Earl of Oxford; Sir John Stanley; Brinsley Butler; Samuel Dopping; J. Pulteney; Agmondisham Vesey, &c., &c.

Many of these letters, though written on public affairs, have the character of private correspondence, for they deal fully as much with the ordinary occurrences of the day as with public business. The correspondence between the Right Hon. Edward Southwell, Secretary of State, and Joshua Dawson, Secretary to the Lords Justices, is continued throughout many years, and contains some very interesting public intelligence, and a great number of traits of social life and manners. The same remark applies to the correspondence of Mr. J. Pulteney, Mr. George Dodington, Mr. Brinsley Butler, and Mr. Dering.

Throughout the correspondence there are continued references to and description of the events of the wars in Flanders and Spain.

Edward Southwell when re-building the house at Kingsweston, in Gloucestershire (purchased by his father, Sir Richard Southwell, about the year 1680), after the plans and under the inspection of Vanbrugh, writes frequently to Joshua Dawson, who had been some time before engaged upon his Mansion House in Dawson-street, since occupied as the residence of the Lord Mayor of Dublin.

From the following letter of Edward Southwell, dated 5th March, 1712/13 [Carton 6, No. 1,870], it would appear that Mr. Dawson's house was amongst the first to bring the south side of Dublin into fashion. "I am very glad" (says Mr. Southwell) "to see your side of the water begin to take; and if you have so fundamental a reason as a dry foundation, you certainly must carry it if you could add the conveniency of a wooden bridge at Vanhumrys [Ferry, qy.] for coaches to go over; it would carry everything to your [side]." In the same letter is the following passage:—"I am solicited by the Elector Palatine's Minister for a pair of moose deer's horns for the Elector; and I wish I knew where to get them, I would willingly pay for them."

Several of the letters refer to the obtaining of French wine from Dublin. French wine imported into Ireland seems to have been an object of great desire amongst the official persons in England, and there are constant requests from Addison, Francis Gwyn, and others to Mr. Joshua Dawson to contrive to send hogsheads of it to England—Irish usquebaugh was also in requisition.

In a letter of Mr. Pulteney to Joshua Dawson (dated 16 September, 1712) [Carton 6, No. 1,763]. He informs him that fifty bottles of Irish usquebaugh are required for a friend of his at the Court of Denmark, who sends £20 to be laid out in the purchase. If it cost less (and the best as I am informed are sold for six shillings per bottle), you are to buy as many more bottles as shall come within that sum of £20, to be consigned to Hamburg, Elsinor, or Copenhagen. Enclosed in this letter is a scrap of paper with the following words:—"The William of Dublin, George Russell, master, for Hamburg, shipped five dozen and four bottles of usquebaugh on board y^e^ above ship, and consigned to Mr. Charles Gore, merchant in Hamburg, for Daniel Pulteney, esq., Envoy to Denmarke, this 27 November, 1712."

The following extracts from this volume of the Calendar will explain not only the system of the Calendaring, but also the nature of the documents.

Digitized by Google

EXTRACTS FROM CALENDAR NOW IN PROGRESS.

Carton 2, No. 184.—Duke of Ormonde to Lords Justices.—Designs in France as to invasion of Scotland or Ireland—Privateers taken by the Seafort—Trim prisoners to be reprieved and transported—Great number of privateers on the western coast: Admiralty's precautions: negligence of the "Feversham"—Half-pay officers—Charges of Parliament not fully set forth—Embarkation of clothing. London, 2 May, 1704.

Carton 2, No. 206.—Sir William Robinson to Mr. Dawson.—Refers to his not having been lately with Sir John Temple—Still declines to pay the charge of £12 16*s.* for the postage of Van Homrigh's book—Complains that Lord Walden has been disobliged by the frigate's not being sent to receive him, and that "our mighty speaker and Lord Blessedtown" have been given the warrant instead. London, 24 June, 1704.

Carton 2, No. 210.—Sir William Robinson to Joshua Dawson.—The book of Van Homrigh released from Posthouse for moiety of the demand—Irish Accounts—Disinclination of "people of money to meddle with any security in Ireland, especially towards Ulster, it being, as they say, too nere Scotland"—Sir William's approaching visit to "Que" [Kew]. London, 4 July, 1704

Carton 2, No. 287.—R. Warre to Joshua Dawson.—Encloses letter from Lisbon; no news received from Gibraltar—English troops preparing to march into Alentigo—Dutch letters give accounts from Paris, which confirm the success before Gibraltar in the action of the 17th, wherein the French and Spaniards were repulsed with very great loss, and further that there was a report in Paris that the siege was raised.—No progress made by the French before Verrue. Whitehall, 1 March, 1704–5.

Carton 3, No. 336.—J. Burchett to Joshua Dawson.—Convoy asked for the Unity Flyboat laden with stores for Her Majesty's naval service from Milford to Kinsale; afterwards from Kinsale to Dublin, where "she is to go for a lading of black Irish marble for St. Paul's Cathedral," and finally back to Milford or Bristole. Admiralty Office, 25 August, 1705.

Carton 3, No. 391.—Duke of Ormonde to Lords Justices.—Death of Lord Ch. Baron Donellan: The Lord Treasurer leaves the new appointment entirely to the Duke; the Duke's suggestion thereon: Baron Echlin too infirm of body: Mr. Attorney-General having a great estate and married into a titled family, might accept the title of Baron and Peer of Ireland, but if not he cannot be refused the vacancy, and then Sir R. Levinge would be Attorney-General, and Mr. Bernard Solicitor-General; a favour might be done to Baron Echlin's son: Mr. Keightly to act in the matter confidentially and intermediately. London, 5 January, 1705

Carton 3, No. 562.—R. Powys to Joshua Dawson.—Warrant ordered to be prepared as to a matter between the Countess of Dorchester and Lady Russell, as to their several Letters Patents as "Lady Russell is too powerful a Teizer" to be delayed—Memorial of his Grace [Duke of Ormonde] to be referred to Commissioners of the Revenue, desiring his contract of £3,500 a year for the Butlerage to be made up fifteen years—Union passed the Scotch Parliament. Whitehall, 23 Jan., 1706-7.

Digitized by Google

Carton 3, No. 600.—R. Powys to Joshua Dawson.—Refers to a subject on which Mr. Southwell having offered a letter of the Lords Justices to the Duke of Ormonde, his Grace said it would be time enough for doing "that matter" when he was in Dublin: surprised at Mr. Southwell's hesitation on this affair: Neither his Grace ("great a general as he is") or Mr. Southwell, nor the Lords Justices "had courage enough to attack soe formidable an enemy as my Lady Dorchester." Whitehall, 20 March, 1706-7.

Carton 3, No. 780.—Sir W. Robinson to Joshua Dawson.—(Seal, a chev.: between three bucks trippant. Crest, a stag's head erased)—Lord Ranelagh's thanks—Downfall of Vanburgh, the banker, in London—The Upper House and the Commons engaged with Lord Peterborough's business: "some people of opinion that my lord is like to have but y^e^ second best, as any may judge when they say that Spaine was rather lost by the transactions of 1706 rather than in 1707: that party called the Whiggs are his enemyes, and the other party his friends: there's a paradox for you and your Royal Society to unfold." London, 17 January, 1707–8.

Carton 3, No. 796.—B. Butler to Joshua Dawson.—Alterations at Court: the chief manager thereof, Mr. Secretary Harley: "it was some time before the Duke of Marlborough got the better of him" . . . "'tis sayd her Majesty is very uneasy, and that her indisposition proceeds more from her minde than body"—Details of the ministerial changes: Harley will come into play again before long, "for the elections will certainly be more with the Torys than Whiggs."—Mr. Escourt's play—Her Majesty's birth-day celebrated with more pomp at the Castle of Dublin than in London—Ministerial surmises—"There is a story in town, how true I can't tell, you shall have it; that at the councill, when Ld. Marl [borough] sayd he could not serve any longer, severall of the lords gave their opinions that if my ld. layd down his commission, that we had none able to command the forces, nor none that had such interest with they allies as his Grace, on which Lord Wharton shud say that he thought there was one as able and every way as well qualified to head the English army, and one who he thought should be better known to the English, and that he was not ashamed to name him, which was the Elector of Hanover: this they say made everybody there mute." London, 14 February, 1707–8.

Carton 4, No. 863.—George Doddington to John Pratt.—Details of the battle of Oudenarde, with "some circumstances of this truly great and glorious victory, which are not in the prints, but are such as I have very good authority for"—Captain William Maritt, a French pensioner, to be one of the captains to serve in y^e^ Spanish establishment. 6 July, 1708.

Carton 4, No. 936.—Charles Dering to Joshua Dawson.—Death of the Prince [George of Denmark]—Particulars of his dying moments; "dyed in his chair; his face as black as a sloch two hours before he expired: the Queen upon her knees kissing his hand till she was put away, a quarter of an hour before his death by Lady Marlborough and Admiral Churchill into another room, that she might nott see him breath his last, and when he was actually dead they carried her down the back stairs, and putt her into Lady Marlborough's coach, the Duchess and Lady Hyde with her, and brought Her Maty to St. James's: H. M. has been mighty averse to the opening his body, butt the physicians assuring her that he could not keep without it she has att last consented to it"—Mr. Pulteney and allowance to Mr. Dawson his deputy—Squire Palmer. London, 29 October, 1708.

Digitized by Google

Carton 5, No. 1,478.—Edward Southwell to Joshua Dawson.—Guiscard's attempted assassination of Mr. Harley: This being the inauguration day there was a great deal of company at Court: the Queen had a touch of the gout, and did not see the company, only her own servants: Monsr. Guiscard, who was present, having been arrested, it is supposed for correspondence with France, drew a penknife and stabbed Mr. Harley; it pleased God that it hit against the middle bone of his stomach, so that the penknife broke short off, and left the piece in; the Lords drew their swords, and Mr. St. Johns "run him into the belly," and the Duke of Newcastle gave him another wound: Guiscard, who owns he meaut the stroke for Mr. St. John, and is sorry it happened to Mr. Harley, is sent to Newgate. London, 9 March, 1710-11

Carton 5, No. 1,601.—J. Williams to Joshua Dawson.—Prince Eugene arrived here on Saturday, and had on Sunday a private audience: our Court bent and resolved on a peace; believes it is out of the power of Prince Eugene, even with the Emperor's interest, to persuade Her Majesty to carry on the war, especially since Spain or any part of it seems so irretrievable by any other means than by a treaty —The "D. of M." in disgrace: is informed that the Elector of Hanover is to command the forces in Flanders; if so, it is hoped the Whigs will be contented, since they grumble much at the thoughts of the D. of Ormonde being sent thither. London, 8 January, 1711.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed,) J. Bernard Burke, Ulster.

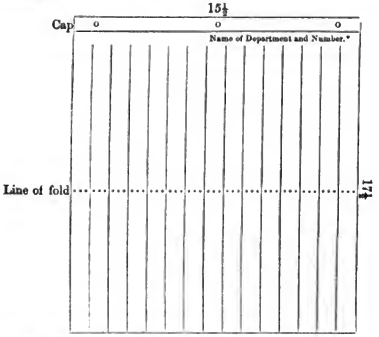
Record Tower, Dublin Castle,
1st February, 1871.

Appendix No. 2.

Public Record Office of Ireland.

Instructions by the Right Honorable the Master of the Rolls, as to the duties to be performed in the Public Record Office, in relation to Deeds and Muniments of Title of Public Departments.

Deeds and Muniments of Title of Public Departments in Ireland may be received and kept at the Public Record Office, subject, unless by special order of the Master of the Rolls, to the following regulations:—



As to such Deeds and Muniments executed after the 1st of August, 1870;

They must be on parchment.

The sheets not to be less than 17 inches, nor to exceed 17½ inches in length, by 15 and not exceeding 15½ inches in width; to be engrossed lengthwise, as in diagram.

Where any Instrument consists of more sheets than one, it is to be capped across the width, as in diagram.

Each Instrument must bear the name of the department from which it comes, written or impressed, together with its current consecutive number at the top left hand corner (* in diagram) as, "Customs, Ireland, 1,"

A Specimen Deed may be inspected at the Public Record Office.

No Deed or Muniment lodged under this Order shall be taken out of the Public Record Office without the written order of the Master of the Rolls; nor shall the same be opened to inspection otherwise than on order of the Master of the Rolls, or on written requisition from the Head or Secretary of the Department to which it may belong.

A receipt shall be given by the Deputy or Assistant Deputy Keeper for each Instrument, in the following form:—

Received from the Department of Ireland, an Instrument, No. , for deposit in the Public Record Office, subject to the Regulations in the Instructions of the Master of the Rolls of the 7th of May, 1870.

Dated this 7th day of May, 1870.

EDWARD SULLIVAN, M.R.

Appendix No. 3.

Extract from the Report of John O. Overend, Esq., on the Transfer and Part Removal of the Records of the Court of Exchequer.

In conjunction with Mr. Berry, from whom I received the greatest assistance, I commenced, on the 5th of April, 1870, the actual arrangement and preparation of the Records and Documents of the Court of Exchequer for removal to this department. The collection was contained in thirteen rooms. Three of these were used for the purposes of the Consolidated Writ Office; but as there was a large number of Law Exchequer Records stored in them, I had the presses therein numbered consecutively with those contained in the other rooms. I continued the series from the Queen's Bench offices, commencing with press No. 1,205, and ending with No. 1,569, being in all 364 presses. For further facility of reference, I have had the names of the several offices given in the Transfer Book. The offices or rooms in which the Records were deposited were named, respectively,

The Rules office, two rooms; Record office, two rooms; Master's office, two rooms; Chief Clerk's office, one room; Pleadings office, one room; Revenue office, one room; Stamp office, one room; Consolidated Writ office, three rooms.

The Records which I have transferred from these repositories chiefly consist of the Law Exchequer collection, and some Records that were formerly preserved in the Equity side of the court, and placed in the custody of the Master of the Exchequer by order of 9th December, 1852. Mention is made, and a list given, of this latter class in the Appendix to your second Report, page 91.

There were also removed some documents belonging to the Revenue side of the Exchequer, but which must not be confounded with the casual Revenue Records, reported on in Appendix No. 9 to your last Report.

The Law Exchequer Records may be placed under three heads, namely:—The Pleadings, the Record, and the Rules departments.

The Pleadings department had the custody of all documents prior to the marking of judgment. The arrangement and removal of the Records connected with this department occupied a considerable time, as I had to dovetail the collection with the portion of the Pleadings brought from the vaults and rooms of Benchers' Building, and placed temporarily in the Treasury vaults. The most of the collection so removed had been arranged and labelled by the late Mr. James F. Ferguson, according to terms and years, tied in brown-paper parcels, and placed in sacks. The work of interpolation was very tedious, and cost a good deal of time and labour, as the contents of no less than 305 sacks were examined and interpolated. In Appendix No. 7 of your second Report, further information will be had with regard to these sacks.

The Record department had the charge of all documents consequent upon and dealing with Judgments. The Records belonging to this department were generally in good order, and easily removed. Although I have entered, labelled, and made all arrangements for transferring the Debt and Case Judgment Rolls, I have not yet actually removed them, as no arrangement has been come to with regard to assigning and satisfying the judgments entered thereon, and performing the other duties connected therewith, after removal, by the officers of the court. The Final Judgment Books—the indexes to these Rolls—have consequently not been transferred; and as they contain the references to the Judgment Pleadings, as well as to the Enrolments, the Judgment Pleadings remain here without Indexes.

Digitized by Google

The Records belonging to the Rules department were removed in the year 1869. A list of the collection was given in your second Report, page 15.

The documents of the Revenue department were in much disorder. Enrolments of "Deeds of Exchange of Glebe Lands," "Exemplifications," "Deeds," &c., that will require further arrangement, were found amongst them, and will be treated of in a future report. A number of affidavits that appeared to belong to the Equity side of the Exchequer, were brought from the Revenue office; I have handed them over to the Equity collection.

The Records connected with the Equity side of the Exchequer were in excellent order, having been carefully arranged and labelled by the late Mr. James F. Ferguson; these I have also handed over to the Equity collection.

I proceed to enumerate the principal classes of documents removed, in dictionary order, noticing under each head how far indexed.

Affidavits are of five classes, viz.:—Common Affidavits, Affidavits of Service in Ejectment, Redocketing Affidavits, Affidavits of Service of Writs, and Affidavits to Register Warrants of Attorney.

Affidavits Common, 1737–1850, form a very regular series, H. 1744 only being missing. Under the other classes will be given the dates at which different series were from time to time placed under this head. Indexed in Affidavit Books, 1808–1849. The book for 1850 was not transferred, as it contained later dates.

Affidavits, Contempt in, 1760–1806, from which latter date they were kept as Common Affidavits, except for Hil. 1837, when they were kept on a separate file, but with what object I am unable to state. No Index.

Affidavits of Debt, M. 1803–1840, Indexed in the Affidavit Books from 1808.

Affidavits for Redocketing Judgments, 1828–1844. The Redocketing of Judgments was abolished by the 7th & 8th Vic., c. 107. The Indexes to these are kept in the Judgment Registration Office, and have not been transferred.

Affidavits to register warrants of Attorney, 1840–4. There is only one file of these. The warrants in some instances are attached to the Affidavits. The Affidavits filed subsequently to 1844 have not been removed as they are on the same file with others of a later date than 1850. No Index.

Affidavits of service in Ejectment, 1733–1850. There are several files wanting prior to 1746, from which year they are arranged in terms. A paper copy of the Declaration served, is in all cases attached to the Affidavit. Indexed from 1808 in Affidavit Books.

Affidavits of service of Notices of persons tendered as bail at bar for Defendants; only one bundle, 1794–1801. No Index.

Affidavits of service of Rules for Judgment, 1793–1823. A regular series, Indexed from 1808 in Affidavit Books.

Affidavits of service of Subpœnas, 1760–1840. Irregular to 1805. From 1810 to 1832, they were filed along with the Affidavits of service of Writs: the series was continued in 1832. These were the proceedings against members of Parliament, &c., by Common Law Subpœna—Indexed from 1808 in Affidavit Books.

Affidavits of service of Writs, M. 1803–1850, of Capias ad Respondendum: attached to each affidavit is the Writ of Capias, and an affidavit made by the Plaintiff or his attorney, stating his knowledge of the Defendant, and that he believed him to be personally served. Indexed from 1808 in Affidavit Books.

Digitized by Google

Affidavits of Witnesses' Expenses, 1807–14. A solitary file. Indexed from 1808 in Affidavit Books.

Attorneys, Documents relating to the admission of, 1767–1850; were handed over to the custody of the Master of the Exchequer, on the abolition of the Equity Exchequer in 1850. They are made up in yearly bundles, and consist of the Stamp office certificate, certificate from Queen's Inns and other papers necessary for admission. There are a few gaps. From 1835 they contain the Petitions of Apprentices for admission. No Index.

Attorneys, Petitions of Apprentices to be admitted, 1713–1835, from which latter year they are placed with the Documents relating to the admission of Attorneys. No Index.

Roll of Oaths of 1776–1837. There is a gap from 1801 to 1829. The Roll subsequent to 1837, containing the oaths after 1850 has not been removed.

Yearly lists of 1734–1825 are in volumes. There are many missing.

Appearance Books, Rev. Ex. 1764–1850, 2 vols. containing the entry of Appearances of Defendants at the suit of the Crown.

Awards, see Consents.

Bail Books, 1802–1839.

Briefs, 1830–1849, lodged in cases along with other papers, for the purpose of facilitating the making up of orders of the Judges, &c. They properly belong to the parties leaving them, but never have been called for.

Case Judgments consist of all Final Judgments other than Debt. Up to the year 1835, they were arranged in the various classes mentioned below. From 1835 to 1844, they were entered in the following manner. The Attorney coming in to mark Judgment, lodged with the chief Clerks a sum of money necessary for stamp duty and fees. The officers then made up the Judgments, and at the end of the term, each officer gave in the Judgments marked by him for enrolment. The Pleadings were then labelled with the clerk's name, sending them in as "Stewart's Judgments," "Maguire's Judgments," &c. This system caused considerable confusion in their arrangement during that period. From the year 1844 the Judgments were all placed on one file, irrespective of class, and simply entitled Judgment Pleadings. In marking a case Judgment, all the Pleadings in the cause are taken off their respective files, and attached to the summary or certificate of Judgment, and an entry is made in the Pleadings Book of the date of their being taken off. Judgment Pleadings were enrolled at length up to 1850. Under this class fall Judgments—

On Confession and in Ejectment, 1764–1792. A gap from 1764 to 1786; from which year to 1792 they are tolerably regular. Indexed in the Final Judgment Books.

On Confession, H. 1769—H. 1835; are in very regular order, 1825 being the only year missing since 1800. Indexed in the Final Judgment Books.

By Default and on Confession, T. 1740–1830 run in very irregular order, a great many years and terms being wanting. Indexed in Final Judgment Books.

In Ejectment, H. 1756—H. 1835. These do not include Judgments where trial was had. (See Judgments on Postea.) Nor Judgments in Ejectment on Consent. (See Judgments on Confession.) Though the first file we have is for H. 1756, they don't commence as a regular series until 1790, from which year there are but a few terms missing. These Judgments were formerly indexed in books called "Plaintiffs' Books" afterwards, and until 1844, in the Interlocutory Judgment Books: from 1844 they are indexed in the Final Judgment Books. But at all times when the Defendant took defence, and Judgment was had on Postea or Consent, they were Indexed in the Final Judgment Books. None of these Indexes has yet been removed.

Digitized by Google

On Inquisition, E. 1771–1835. From E. 1771 to 1790 there are many years and terms wanting. From 1790, with the exception of 1823 and 1833, they are in regular order. Indexed in Final Judgment Books.

On Nil Dicit, 1745–1833. There are several breaks up to 1766, from which year to 1819 they run regularly. 1820–1, 1824–1827, 1829–30 are missing. Indexed in Final Judgment Books.

On Postea and Inquisition, 1753–1802. There are only occasional terms in existence prior to 1782: from that year to 1792 they are tolerably regular; there is one term for 1794, and one file for 1802: after this year they were kept on the Postea Files. Indexed in Final Judgment Books.

On Postea, 1743–1835, are the Judgments marked on the finding of a jury. They commence with a solitary term for 1743, from which year till 1794 there are only a few isolated bundles: from 1794–1810, they remain in an almost unbroken series; but from 1810 to 1815, there is a complete gap, as well from 1815 to 1817: 1824 is also missing: another hiatus occurs between 1825 and 1828: they finish as a separate series in 1835. They include Judgments in Ejectment where trial was had. Indexed in Final Judgment Books.

On Sci. Fa., H. 1743–T. 1846: commence with one Term for 1743; the next is for M. 1769: from 1771–1846, they are fairly regular, some terms being wanting; but 1837 is the only year absent. Indexed in the Final Judgment Books.

Case Judgment Pleadings, E. 1835–1850.—The Judgment Pleadings from E. 1835 to 1843 were placed together, under the names of the respective chief clerks in the office, by whom the Judgments were prepared. From 1844, when the offices were reconstituted under the 7th & 8th Vic., c. 107, all Judgments marked, with the exception of Judgments on Sci. Fa., were kept together according to terms, each Judgment being numbered as it was entered. Judgments on Sci. Fa. were kept separately. Indexed in Final Judgment Books.

Certificates to Plead Double Matter, 1822–1849.—Made up in yearly bundles. No Index.

Cognovits, H. 1750–1850.—The Cognovit was the first step towards marking Judgment on Bond; which Judgment was afterwards enrolled, and all subsequent action thereon, such as assignment, satisfaction, &c., taken upon the Roll, so that the Cognovit is seldom or ever referred to. They are indexed in the Final Judgment Books, the references to them being the same as to the Rolls.

Common Affidavits, 1737–1850. See Affidavits.

Consents, 1742–1850, form a very regular series, and are in good condition. They are arranged in yearly bundles. Submissions and Awards are kept and indexed with the Consents. There is no Index previous to 1840. The Index Book after 1847, containing entries subsequent to 1850, has not been removed.

Court Books, 1798–1850. See Rule Books.

Crown Bonds, Rec. Ex., 1715—14th May, 1850, are in fair condition; they are kept in guard books. Vol. I., containing the first forty-nine Bonds, is not forthcoming. They are indexed from 1731 to 1836. As the book from 1836 contained references to Bonds subsequent to 1850, it has not been removed.

Digitized by Google

Declarations, H. 1740–1850.—There are several years missing prior to 1784. From 1785 the series is complete. These are the Declarations in causes where judgment has not been marked; they do not include Declarations in Ejectment. See Ejectments. Indexed in Pleadings Books.

Declarations in Ejectment. See Ejectments.

Declarations, Second, in Ejectment, H. 1786–1849.—In causes not continued to judgment. From 1833 they are indexed in the Second Declaration Books, which are of a similar nature to the Pleadings Books, and contain the references to all defences and pleas filed to the Second Declarations. The indexes from 1845 to 1848 are not forthcoming.

Demurrers and Exceptions in Special Cases, 1830–1834.—No Index.

Demurrers. See Pleas.

Depositions, 1842–1849, of witnesses examined under a Commission, who were either unable from illness or distance to attend trials. Unindexed.

Deputations to Sub-Sheriffs, 1836–7, Rev. Ex.—From the High Sheriffs. No Index.

Ejectments, 1744–1850.—This series, though called and labelled "Ejectments," consists properly of "Declarations in Ejectment" where judgment has not been entered. In good order and sequence from 1782. A paper copy of the Declaration is attached to the Affidavit of Service in Ejectment. See Affidavits. Ejectments are indexed in Ejectment Books from the year 1822. Pleas to Declarations in Ejectment are entered in the Second Declaration Books. See Declarations, Second, in Ejectment.

Ejectment, Pleas in. See Pleas.

Ejectment, Affidavits in, 1733–1850. See Affidavits.

Estreat Book, Rev. Ex., 1849–1851, showing the fines imposed by every Court in each county.

Executions, returned, 1760–1850. The return of the Sheriff is on the back of each Writ. The Writs of Habere issued on Judgments in Ejectment were kept on these files, with the exception of those for 1838–1844, which were kept separately. See Haberes. They are indexed from 1825–1850.

Final Judgment Books.—Not yet removed.

Haberes, 1838–1844, with the return of the Sheriff on the back. They were kept on the Execution files before and after the above dates. See Executions. Indexed in Execution Books from 1825.

Indenture Books, 1770–1819, contain the entries of the Indentures of Attorneys' Apprentices. Unindexed.

Informations, Rev. Ex., 1828–1849, made at the suit of the Crown. Indexed from 1828.

Inquisitions, Rev. Ex., 1800–1850, taken in Revenue matters; they are not in very good order, and there is no Index.

Inquisitions, Rev. Ex., taken under the 14th Geo. III., c. 95, "An Act to provide for the defence and security of the realm." These Inquisitions refer to the purchase of various sites for the erection of Forts, Martello Towers, &c. They are principally for Donegal, Cork, and Galway. There is no Index.

Inquisitions, 1742–1850, returned to writs of inquiry issued upon Interlocutory Judgments for the purpose of assessing damages. From 1816 Scire Facias were kept with these Inquisitions. See Sci. Fa.

Digitized by Google

Judge's Reports and Counsel's Certificates, 1823–1849, lodged sometimes with other documents in the Rules Office in new trial motions, prior to the argument of cases in term. No Index.

Judgments, Case.—See Case Judgments.

Judgments on Confession and in Ejectment; on Confession; by Default and on Confession; in Ejectment; on Inquisition; on Nil Dicit; on Postea and Inquisition; on Postea; on Scire Facias.—See Case Judgments.

Judgment Pleadings—See Case Judgments.

Judgments, Debt—See Cognovits.

Memorials, 1749–1850, of Indented Deeds of Assignments of Judgments. When a judgment was assigned, the deed of assignment was brought into the office along with the memorial. The deed and memorial were compared with the enrolment of the judgment to be assigned. The memorial was retained as a record in the office, but the deed was returned. A memorandum of the assignment was placed at the foot of the enrolment of the judgment, along with the date, term, and number of the memorial. A person making a search for a memorial must first search the Final Judgment Book for a reference to the judgment; and then, referring to the enrolment of the judgment, he will find the reference to the memorial. The earliest memorials are for the year 1749. There are occasional gaps down to 1770, from which year there are not any files missing. They were recently bound in book shape, which makes them much more easy of reference. For the enrolments of memorials see Memorial Rolls.

Memorial Rolls, 1736–1850, are the enrolments of the Memorials of Indented Deeds of Assignments of Judgments. They commence in the year 1736, while the original Memorials are in existence only from the year 1749. The only roll missing is that for the year 1788. The references to these enrolments are obtained in the same manner as to the memorials themselves; the number of each memorial on the roll being identical with that of the original. In a return made by the Clerk of the Alphabets of the Court of Exchequer to the Record Commissioners, which will be found in vol. i., p. 180, of their Reports, it is stated "that the enrolment of memorials commenced in 1736, but was discontinued in 1766, and that no reason could be given for such discontinuance." As I found the Memorial Rolls from 1766 in a different place from the rest, I apprehend they must have escaped his observation.

Negative Searches, prior to the year 1844. They are unindexed.

Nil Scire Facias, H. 1753–1822.—Process to reviving Judgments: very irregularly preserved. Unindexed.

Non Est Inventus, 1753–M. 1820.—Writs so returned, several gaps between 1753 and 1797. No Index.

Notices of Motion, H. 1835–1849, lodged with the Clerk of the Rules. Unindexed.

Office Books, 1811–1848.—See Rule Books.

Pleadings Books, E. 1715–1850. The volumes for the following dates are missing:—1724–1728, 1732, 1736, 1741–1746, 1750–1752, 1756–1758. For the years 1840–1 there are special books for the cases brought by Lewis & Co. ("Topographical Dictionary"). The Pleadings in each suit, with the exception of cases on Scire Facias and in Ejectment, which are entered in other books, are all indexed in these volumes. The declaration is entered first, the plea next, and the other documents filed in the nature of pleadings in the order of their dates. Posteas and Consents have always been entered in separate books.

Pleadings, 1741–1850, a miscellaneous collection, consisting of Declarations, Pleas, Defences, and other Pleadings, in cases where judgment was marked as well as where judgment was not marked. There are many gaps, and the whole series has been very irregularly preserved. The Pleadings in cases brought by Lewis & Co. are kept separately. There are some parcels labelled "Pleadings off," which means Pleadings that were taken off the proper Pleadings File, for the purpose of having judgment marked, and judgment not having been entered were never returned. In many cases there are several series for the same period. The indexes to these Records are in the Pleadings Books above mentioned, except in cases where judgment was had, when the Final Judgment Books are the proper indexes.

Pleas to Declarations, 1835–1850.—The first year in which this series was kept separately is 1835, from which year they continue with regularity to 1850, when the procedure was altered. These contain only the Pleas to Declarations where judgment has not been marked, and do not include Pleas to Declarations in Ejectment. For indexes see Pleadings Books.

Pleas in Ejectment, 1776–1850, consist of all Pleas and Defences filed to Second Declarations in Ejectment; in fair order. There are but few years missing. Indexed in Second Declaration Books.

Pleas of Confession, 1744–1850; form a regular series from 1791.

Pleas to Scire Facias, 1696–1850.—A very irregular series. The only indexes are the Scire Facias Books from 1840–1850.

Posteas and Inquisitions, 1771–E. 1786.—There are only a few files of these. There are no indexes.

Posteas, 1745–1850.—Posteas are generally written on, or attached to the "Abstract for Nisi Prius." This series consists of the Posteas where judgment has not been entered. The earliest is for the year 1745, from which year they continue in reasonably good order, there being few gaps after 1781. They are indexed from the year 1825–1846. The index book from 1846 to 1850 has not been transferred, as it contains the references to Posteas filed after 1850.

Posteas, Rev. Ex., 1815–1850.—In Crown cases. There are no Indexes.

Recognizance Books, Rev. Ex., 1663–1788, contain the entries of Recognizances entered into by order of the Court, conditioned for the payment of rent to the Crown out of lands, on a custodiam, made out by the Clerk of the Pipe. Indexed.

Recognizance Books.—See Sheriffs.

Redocketing Affidavits.—See Affidavits.

Requisitions to enter Rules, 1846–1849.—Before a rule could be entered, the party concerned had to lodge a requisition on a stamped form. They are useless and fill two sacks.

Reports, 1804–1850.—On orders to tot; commence in 1804; there are many gaps to the year 1837, from which time they extend regularly to 1850. Unindexed.

Records issued and made out, 1826–1844, for trials at Nisi Prius; made up, generally in three or four parcels for each year. No index.

Rule Books, Rev. Ex., 1704–1850.—In cases at the suit of the Crown, there are some gaps to 1779, from which year to 1850 they are complete, and are indexed.

Rule Books, Law, consist of three classes, viz., the Court Book, E. 1798–1850; the Rule Book, 1658–1849; Office Rule Book, 1811–1848.

The Court Book is that in which the orders are taken down shortly in Court by the officer, as they are made by the Judge. The earliest is for E. 1798, there are some years and terms missing up to 1850. They are indexed.

Digitized by Google

The Rule Book is that in which the orders are entered at length, on payment of stamp duty. Between 1638 and 1780 there are some gaps; from 1781 there is a volume for each term. They are indexed.

Office Rule Books contain the side bar orders of the court. They commence with one volume for 1811; from 1821 to 1844 they are in perfect order; and end with solitary books for 1846 and 1848. They are indexed.

Scire Facias, 1789–1802.—These are the writs in actions of Scire Facias not carried to judgment. From 1816 they were placed with the Inquisitions—see Inquisitions. During the interval between 1802 and 1816 they were kept with the "Pleadings"—see Pleadings. The only Scire Facias Books found, commence from 1840, and come down to 1850.

Second Declarations in Ejectment, 1786–1849—See Declarations, second, in Ejectment.

Sheriffs' Recognizance Books, Rev. Ex., 1789–1821, contain the entries of Recognizances to be accountable entered into by High Sheriffs.

Satisfactions, 1768–1850. The earliest is for 1768; they run in regular chronological order from 1814 to 1850. A memorandum of the satisfaction is placed at the foot of the enrolment of the judgment, and signed by an attorney. The indexes to them, being necessary for consulting the rolls retained, have not yet been removed.

Submissions and Awards—See Consents.

Suggestions, 1781–1850, of revivor, &c. Not indexed.

Warrants of Attorney, E. 1834–1850.—They commenced to be filed in E. 1834, under the 39th General Order of that year. Formerly the bond and warrant were merely produced by the attorney on entering judgment, who retained both in his custody. They are bound in volumes, and are indexed up to 1849. The book for 1850, containing references to warrants filed subsequently to that year, has not been transferred.

Writs and Indentures of Appraisement, Rev. Ex., 1828–1850.—Taken at the suit of the Crown previous to informations being made. No index.

Attached to this Report is a list of Miscellaneous documents, forming no regular series, a list of the Equity Exchequer Records, and a list of the MSS. collections of the late Mr. James F. Ferguson. I also beg to refer to the schedule annexed, showing the number of sacks emptied, and of pieces interpolated with those brought from the Benchers' Building.

I am very much indebted to the officers of the Court of Exchequer for the assistance and courtesy I received from them during the work of removal.

The following is an alphabetical list of miscellaneous documents removed, forming no regular series:—

Aghavoe Parish, Papers relating to, 1821–3.
Allegiance, Oaths of, under 13th and 14th Geo. III., 1820–8.
Attorneys, Roll of, 1762–6.
Attorneys, Roll of Oaths of, not to employ Popish Barristers or Apprentices under 7th Geo. II., 1777–1792.
Bond Book, M. 1691–M. 1730.
Deeds, 1 bundle, circa 1730, connected with Lord Palmerston, when Chief Remembrancer.
Docket Book, 1829–1830.
Estreat Book, 1849–1851.
Fine Books, 1797–1824.

Digitized by Google

Judges' Report, Jagoe v. Hungerford.
Leading Orders, Book of, 1734–1739.
Letters, 1 bundle, belonging to Lord Palmerston, when Chief Remembrancer, circa 1730.
Law Arguments, Lists of,
Memorandum Books, 1821–1850—28 vols.
Oaths, Roll of, 1784–1843, taken by Public Officers.
Petitions for Reducement of Fines and Recognizances.
Records (special) Minchin v. Allen.
" " Lewis v. Dunne.
" not compared, 1 file.
Reducement of Fines, Entry Book of, 1812–37.
Rule Book, Ch. Rem., 1835–50.
Rule Book in Insolvent Cases, 1820–1.
Scire Facias and Levaris, on which renewals have gone out.
" on which judgments have been entered, 1775–8.
" Writs, 1697–1796.
" William IV.
" One file not acted on.
Sequestration Accounts, one file.
Sheriffs, Lists of, who have been sworn in at the Court of Exchequer from 4th February, 1786–1803.
" Abstracts of Writs issued to, 1849–50.
" Nominated, a List of, 1732–77.
" Account Book, 1844–50.
Special Jury Lists (struck by Master).
Summons Books, 1835–49.
Writs, Entry Book of, Rev. Cases, 1844–50.
" New Book of, H. 1732.
" Returned, Book of, 1722.

The following is a list of the Records connected with the Equity side of the Exchequer, transferred from the Master's office :—

Rolls of Adventurers' Certificates.
" Connaught Certificates.
" Decrees of Innocents.
" "Forty-nine Lots."
" Quit-rent Reducements.
Pipe Rolls, 45 & 46 Henry III.
Memoranda Rolls.
Decree Rolls (continuation of the Memoranda Rolls).
Communia Rolls.
Originalia Rolls, 35 Elizabeth to Charles II.
Originalia Writ, James II.
Estreat of Inquisitions, William III.
Inquisitions.
Repertory to Inquisitions, Henry VIII., Edward VI., Mary, Philip and Mary, Elizabeth (Ex. p. Rem.)
" to Inquisitions, James I. and Charles I. (Ex. p. Rem.)
Calendar of Inquisitions in Ch. Rem.'s office, 14–25 Henry VIII.
Repertory to Mem. Rolls, Edward I., II., III.
" " Edward VI., Philip and Mary, 30–7 Eliz.
" " 1–29 Elizabeth.
" " James I. and Charles II.
" " Charles II.

Digitized by Google

423

Book of Sheriffs' Accounts, 1655–6.
Repertory to Com. Rolls, 1605–27.
Repertory to Originalia, indexed, 1603–26.
" " 1627–36.
" " 1637–41.
Alphabet of Decrees of Innocents and Certificates of Adventurers, Soldiers, &c.
Alphabet of Claimants' names, 1654–5.
Alphabet of Reducement of Quit-rents and of Connaught Certificates, 1690.
Book-Orders of Court of Claims, 6 June, 1654–10 March, 1654.
Book of Orders in Exchequer on Claims and English Pleadings, H. 1655–November, 1657.
Book Decrees of Court of Claims, 25 July–14 October, 1654.
" " 1655.
The fourth Journal of Commissioners under Act of Settlement (Ex. P. R.), 11 March 1666–13 December, 1667.
Order Book of Commissioners of Reducement, 1669–1709.
" " " 1679–97.
Book of Homage Fines, E. 1610–M. 1612.
A book of lands passed on surrenders of Connaught chargeable with respite of Homage, 1612–1632.
Book of Homage fines, E. 1627–T. 1629.
Part of Book of Homage Fines, 1629–32.
Book of Homage Fines, 1629–32.
Book of Respite of Homage Fines, 1625–6.
" " 1635–8.
" " 1639–41.
Book Entries of Acquittances for Homage, 1632–9.
Book of Lands for which Fines for respite of Homage were paid during the reign of James I.
Book of Fines and Amerciaments, 1656–65.
Inventory of Utensils in Custom Houses, 1663.
Appearances on Sci. Fa., 1690.
Book of Attainders (William and Mary), Ex. P. Rem.
Book of Subsidies, 1661–70.
Sheriffs' Accounts, 1666–93.
Valor Beneficiorum (Ex. p. Rem.)
Registers' Book: Commission of Ecclesiastical Causes, 1570–73.
"A Booke of Orders with the true answeringe of the Quene's Mat'. Revenue, 10th, in the Realme of Ireland, 1574"—16th Elizabeth.
Book of Entry of King's Letters and Orders of Council, Charles II.
Ancient Statutes and Ordinances, Tr. Rem.
Red Book of the Exchequer.
Black " "
Inquisition Indenture and Commission (Henry VI. and Charles I.)
Liber Tenurarum, Ultonia.
" " Momonia.
" " Lagenia.
" " Conacia.

The following is a list of MSS., collections of the late Mr. James Ferguson, transferred from the Master's Office with the above-mentioned Records.

Exchequer Records, Edward III.–Anne.
Eq. Exchequer Orders, 1604–1618.
" " 1618–1638.

Digitized by Google

Eq. Exchequer Orders, 1638–1673.
Rev. Exchequer Orders, 1592–1657.
" " " 1657–1666.
Repertory, Mem. Rot., Edward III.–Richard II.
" Henry IV.–Henry V.
" Henry VI.
" Edward IV.–Henry VIII.
" Edward VI.–Elizabeth.
" Elizabeth.
" James I.–Cromwell.
" Charles II.
Index, to Mem. Rot., No. 1.
" " 2.
" " 3.
" " 4.
Repertory, Com. Rot.
Index, "
Repertory to Exchequ. Inquisitions, Counties, A–G.
" " G–L.
" " L–
Index to Exchequ. Inquisitions, Co. Dublin.
" " No. 1.
" " " 2.
" " " 3.
" " " 4.
Repertory, Adventurers' Certificates.
" Decrees of Innocents.

The eight volumes next mentioned were purchased by the Government from Mr. J. F. Ferguson's executrix, as appears by a printed memorandum pasted on the fly-leaf of the first volume:—

"These collections from the Remembrance Rolls of the Exchequer, in eight volumes, made by James Frederick Ferguson, esq., Secretary to the late Commission for arranging the Records of the Exchequer, were purchased at his decease, in the month of December, 1855, from his executrix, by means of a grant from the Lords of the Treasury, together with a complete series of Indexes to the Ancient Records of the Court, compiled by him. These collections comprise also some extracts from the Rolls by the late William Lynch, esq., author of 'Feudal Dignities in Ireland,' to whom Mr. Ferguson was some time assistant.

"(Signed), "Robert Hitchcock, Master, Exchequer.

January, 1858."

Vol. 1. Edward I., II., III.
" 2. Richard II., Henry IV., and V.
" 3. Henry VI., Edward IV., Richard III., Henry VII.
" 4. Henry VIII.
" 5. Edward VI., Philip and Mary.
" 6. Elizabeth, No. 1.
" 7. " " 2.
" 8. James I., Charles I. and II., James II., William III., Anne.

Digitized by Google

425

LIST of the NUMBER of PIECES taken from the SACKS brought from the BENCHERS' BUILDING, and interpolated with the RECORDS brought from the Offices of the COURT of EXCHEQUER.

Sacks.	Documents.	Pieces.
8	Judgments on Postea,	53
16	„ on Inquisition,	101
9	„ in Ejectment,	90
7	„ on Sci. Fa.,	108
5	„ on Postea and Inquisition,	36
19	„ on Confession,	93
3	„ by Default and on Confession,	22
2	„ on Confession, and in Ejectment,	11
25	Nil Dicits,	183
3	Venires,	38
38	Declarations,	192
23	Pleadings,	151
1	Posteas and Inquisitions,	5
1	Inquisitions,	12
11	Ejectments,	126
9	Posteas,	64
2	Second Declarations,	11
9	Non Ests,	78
1	Levaris,	19
1	Nil Sci. Fa.,	9
1	Sci. Fa.,	11
1	Affidavits of Debt,	12
1	„ of Service of Subpœnas,	23
1	„ „ Rules for Judgment,	10
3	„ „ Capiases,	16
7	„ in contempt,	115
1	Writs,	12
1	Capiases,	10
16	Injured Filings (miscellaneous),	102
80	Unlabelled, containing Cognovits,	201
	Posteas,	25
	Ejectments,	22
	Nil Dicits,	26
	Judgments on Inquisition,	11
	Inquisitions,	17
	Common Affidavits,	60
	Ejectment,	38
	Miscellaneous,	9
305	Total	2,122

Digitized by Google

APPENDIX No. 4.

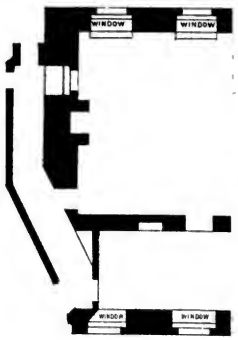
Rolls Chamber, Dublin,
14th May, 1870.

The Master of the Rolls begs to call the attention of Her Majesty's Judges of the Courts of Common Law to the circumstance that many of the Common Law Records now about to be removed to the Public Record Office will, after their lodgment, from time to time, be liable to have entries made thereon; and that, inasmuch as the officers of the Public Record Office have no authority to alter any Record, provision will have to be made as to the mode in which necessary entries may hereafter be effected by the proper officers or officer of the respective courts.

The Master of the Rolls has power to make orders regulating the management of the Record Office; but it would appear to him that for framing a satisfactory order touching alterations in the Records of the Common Law Courts, the joint action of the Judges would be eminently desirable. The Master of the Rolls begs to enclose Draft Instructions (red ink), which would appear to him to be sufficient to insure the all-important object of having such alterations authoritatively made.

This Draft has been framed in analogy to the order of the late Master of the Rolls, regulating the practice as to the entry of vacates, &c., on Records of the Court of Chancery, which the Master of the Rolls is informed has been found to work satisfactorily, and of which a copy (black ink) is enclosed.*

It would appear to the Master of the Rolls that it will be for the Judges to determine who shall be the officer or respective officers of the courts whose duty it will be to attend at the Public Record Office, and make such authorized entries; and that this point being determined by the Judges, the suggested instructions might be adopted. A suitable apartment has been prepared at the Record Office for the reception of officers attending on such business.



The urgency of this matter has been pressed on the Master of the Rolls by a most influential deputation of the Incorporated Law Society, who have pointed out the necessity of provision being made to ensure a regular practice in this respect, before the Records in question, now ready for removal, shall leave their present places of deposit.

INSTRUCTIONS, until further order, by the Right Honorable the Master of the Rolls in Ireland, as to the duties to be performed in the Public Record Office, in relation to entries on and fee-free Inspections of Records of the Superior Courts of Law.

When, in any of Her Majesty's Superior Courts of Common Law in Ireland, it shall be necessary to make any entry in writing upon any Record or other document of such court, deposited in the Public Record Office, on the proper officer of such Superior Court attending at the Search Department of the Public Record Office, and delivering to the officer there in charge an Entry Docket, in the form annexed, signed by or on behalf of the Master of such court, and on his signing the usual Office Requisition for such record or other document, the same and all proper books in relation thereto shall be produced to him, and he may thereupon make such entry, and also every proper entry connected therewith in any Index or other Book of Reference in said department; and books shall be kept in the Public Record Office, containing lists of all such entries, with the dates thereof, under proper heads. And also,

* See Appendix No. 4 to Second Report.

Digitized by Google

PLAN OF RECORD
COURT OF EXCH

TINT. Marks.—Presses emp

Digitized by Google

when and so often as any person shall desire to inspect any such record or document, which, by the practice of Her Majesty's said courts, might, if not removed, have been inspected free of charge in the record department of such court; on such person delivering an Inspection Docket in the form annexed, signed as aforesaid, and signing such requisition, the officer in charge of said Search Department of the Public Record Office shall permit such inspection to be had free of charge.

ENTRY DOCKET.

Court of

To

The Deputy-Keeper of the Public Records:

Mr.
the proper Officer of this Court is authorized to enter on

Master.

Dublin, of 187

INSPECTION DOCKET.

Court of

To

The Deputy-Keeper of the Public Records:

Mr. is authorized to inspect free of charge.

Master.

Dublin, of 187

APPENDIX No. 5.

PLAN of RECORD REPOSITORIES of the COURT of EXCHEQUER.

APPENDIX No. 6.

REPORT of WILLIAM. M. HENNESSY, Esq., on the MS. Collections of the late JAMES FREDERICK FERGUSON.

These collections, at present retained in the Search Room for purposes of reference, comprise altogether thirty-eight MS. volumes of various sizes.

Of these, eight large folio volumes consist of collections, extracts, and notes taken from the Memoranda Rolls of the Exchequer.

The greater portion of these volumes is in the handwriting of Mr. Ferguson; but it is stated in a printed memorandum, prefixed to each volume, by authority of the late Master Hitchcock, that they also comprise extracts from the same Rolls by William Lynch, author of "Feudal Dignities." The value of these compilations is diminished by the want of an index.

Digitized by Google

Three small folio volumes are lettered on the back, "Equity Exchequer Orders from 1604 to 1673;" but on comparing them with the "Order Books, ex parte Chief Remembrancer," included in the Revenue Exchequer Collection (vide your Second Annual Report, p. 99), I find they are only a collection of extracts from the latter volumes. They are not indexed; and do not comprise any selections from the Order Book for 1604–5.

Two volumes of the same size as the last are entitled "Revenue Exchequer Orders, 1592–1666." These constitute a complete, but not very full, calendar to the "Order Books, ex parte Second Remembrancer," for the period in question. They are not indexed.

Eight volumes of a similar size, but bound in white linen, are devoted to a "Repertory to the Mem. Rolls from the reign of Edward III. to that of Charles II. But this Repertory is merely a fragmentary collection of extracts.

Four volumes consist of indexes to the Memoranda Rolls. But they do not altogether constitute anything like one complete index. They seem to have been made up from notes taken by the compiler at different intervals, as the chronological order which is followed in some portions of the lists is inverted in others. They do not seem to include any names appearing in the Rolls previous to the middle of the reign of Edward III.

One volume, is entitled "Repertory to Communia Rolls." But it is incomplete, consisting only of various extracts from the Originalia and Communia Rolls from 1606 to 1734.

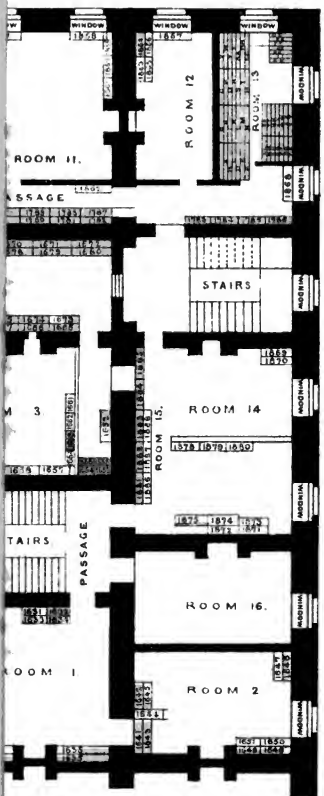
One volume, lettered "Index to Communia Rolls," is also incomplete.

Three volumes consist of a brief calendar to the Exchequer Inquisitions, divided into counties in alphabetical order. It is not continued after Meath. The names of persons and places mentioned in the calendar are arranged in alphabetical order in the margin, which renders it a cause of regret that the calendar was not finished.

Four volumes of indexes to Exchequer Inquisitions. These volumes contain a general index to persons and places, under the heads of counties, arranged acording to the numbers of the inquisitions in the list published by the Commissioners of Public Records; and are very useful, in the absence of a more perfect and comprehensive index.

One small quarto volume, lettered "Exchequer Inquisitions, Dublin," seems to have been intended as a kind of commonplace book, in index order. It contains entries and notes from the Memoranda Rolls, as well as from the Inquisitions.

One volume, lettered "Adventurers' Certificates," contains a list of persons, in index order, to whom certificates were given by the Court of Claims. It is imperfect; but is valuable so far as it goes, in giving the quantity and denomination of the lands set out to each person.



One volume of "Decrees of Innocents." The same observations used in reference to the last volume are applicable to this.

One volume, large folio, lettered "Exchequer Records from Edward III. to Anne," seems to have been kept as a sort of commonplace book, in index order.

Appendix No. 7.

Plan of Record Repositories in the Court of Common Pleas.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

433

APPENDIX No. 8.

EXTRACT from REPORT of JAMES MILLS, Esq., on the RECORDS removed from the COURT of COMMON PLEAS, 1870.

The transfer of the Records of the Court of Common Pleas, already to a considerable extent prepared for removal, partly by Mr. Lopdell and myself, and partly by Mr. Moloney and Mr. M'Ghee, was commenced on the 23rd August, 1870.

The Records of the Court were contained in 258 presses distributed through a large fire-proof Record Room, two passages and seven offices; and on open shelves in another room on the top floor of the eastern wing of the Four Courts Building, and in sacks in two vaults in the basement of the same. The transfer was commenced with these sacks. A list of their contents existed; but in the then state of the sacks, reference to them would have been impossible, as they were crowded together without any reference to their order, and several which had lain upon the floor had rotted from contact with the damp stone. The list showed 162 sacks, but Nos. 11, 13, 18, and 67 were not found. Two unnumbered sacks (whose contents do not agree with the missing ones) made the number to be removed 160.

These sacks have been removed, cleansed, the contents of decayed sacks replaced in new ones, and the whole deposited in order in Bays 3 R, 3 S, 3 T, 3 U, and 2 S, not yet fitted up. Since their transfer 86 sacks have been opened, and their contents (1,319 bundles) catalogued; 239 bundles have been restored to their places with the Records removed from the offices. The following list shows the classes of documents thus treated:—

86	bundles of	Cognovits,	extending from	1720 to 1797
14	„	Declararations and Copied Pleadings,	„	1804 „ 1806
13	„	Pleas,	„	1802 „ 1806
9	„	Issues and Judgments by Default,	„	1804 „ 1811
9	„	Interlocutory Judgment Pleadings,	„	1794 „ 1831
1	„	Final Judgments,	„	1806
5	„	Ejectments and Scire Facias,	„	1801 „ 1806
50	„	Declarations in Ejectment,	„	1786 „ 1806
33	„	Posteas,	„	1733 „ 1821
12	„	Posteas and Inquisitions,	„	1791 „ 1818
5	„	Outlawry Affidavits,	„	1790 „ 1799
2	Filacer's Rolls of Judgments,		„	1714 „ 1726
			„	1814 „ 1816

The documents in the Record Room and Offices were, for the most part, in good order, with sufficient Indexes. In many cases however, from the crowded state of the repositories, the minor series of Records had been much deranged. Several important classes, too, are without sufficient or any reference. The Recoveries of the Palatine Court of Tipperary have no Index whatever; Judgments in Ejectment against the Casual Ejector want reliable Indexes before 1821; two ineffectual searches have been made for documents of this class since the removal of the Common Pleas Records. The Indexes to Fines and Recoveries require completion—those to the Fines throughout, and those to the Recoveries from 1760 to 1821, supplementally to the existing references, which comprise only the term and year. The Fines, too, when being bound in portfolios have been in many instances disarranged, so as to make reference more inconvenient. The Court Rolls before 1661 are also (except as regards the Recoveries) without Indexes; but as a large number of the older Common Bench Rolls are contained in the collection transferred from the Bermingham Tower it may be advisable that the few of ancient date brought from the offices should be treated with them.

Digitized by Google

We subjoin an alphabetical list of the classes of Records removed and placed in Bays 3 E, 3 F, 3 G, and 3 H, indicating the periods over which they extend, and the means of reference to them, with such notes as appear necessary.

Account Books.

From Rules Office, 1784–6 and 1790–1821.

Prothonotarys' and Masters' Books of Incidental Expenses of the Court, one for each quarter, 1821–50.

Acknowledgments of Deeds,

Mich. 1834 to 1850. Index, 1834–45. Certificates by a Judge or by Commissioners of the acknowledgment by married women of their voluntary consent to the Deeds in substitution of Fines and Recoveries enrolled in Chancery, with affidavits by persons acquainted with them as to their willingness and capacity, filed under 4 & 5 W. IV., c. 92, sec. 70 and 71. Bound in portfolios. Indexed in names of the women acknowledging, with number on file, date of Deed, date of acknowledgment, and locality of tenements affected by the Deed.

Affidavits (Common),

Easter 1804 to 1850 (irregular, 1679–1803). Index, 1804–50. Affidavits to ground motions, of service of notices, &c., on term files. Index Books entered alphabetically under the title of the cause, with number on file.

Affidavits in Ejectment,

1790–1850 (irregular, 1696–1789). Index, 1812 to T. 1850. Original Declarations in Ejectment with notice from Casual Ejector, and affidavits of service on the parties concerned. On term files. Indexed in the name of lessor of plaintiff with number on file.

Affidavits to ground marked Writs,

1803–50. Index, 1803–42. Affidavits of amount of the cause of action for which defendants might be held to bail, pursuant to 43 Geo. III., c. 53, 10 Geo. IV., c. 35, and 3 & 4 Vic. c. 105. On files. Index entered alphabetically under title of cause with number on file.

Affidavits for Orders to Tot,

1808–1841 (1810 wanting, and after 1828 very imperfect). Affidavits stating cause of action, and that Interlocutory Judgment had been obtained, with a Judge's fiat for the order to Tot annexed. See Reports.

Affidavits of Outlawry,

1790–1850. Index, 1808–34. Affidavits of service of writs for "Proclamation to the Outlawry," as process to enforce appearance, on files, for irregular periods. The files for 1804–5, 1807, 1843–6 are wanting. Index Books entered in name of defendant with number on the file.

Digitized by Google

435

Affidavits (Redocket),

1829 to T., 1844. Filed pursuant to 9 Geo. IV., c. 35, to obtain re-entry of Judgments. Bound in portfolios. Redocket Books removed to Office of Registrar of Judgments by 7 & 8 Vic., c. 90.

Affidavits of Service of Process,

1804–49. Index, 1812 T., 1844. Filed under 43 Geo. III., c. 53. On files. Indexed in title of cause in same books as the Affidavits in Ejectment.

Appearance Books,

1714–1850. Rough Books of Appearances, 1822–47. The Appearance Books contain entries of the appearances of defendants by their attorneys or otherwise, of special bail, and of defences in ejectment. Each book is indexed in names of causes from 1724, except 1750–5. From 1720–74 the entries of Bail were made at the end of each book, and usually with a separate Index. Books for 1730–9, 1759–66, 1774–8, 1788–91, and 1797–9 not found.

Attorneys.

Register Books of Licences, 1806–47, contain alphabetical lists of the names of Attorneys licensed to practise each year, their residence, and whether of more or less than three years' standing; 1809–10 and 1815–16 are wanting.

Petitions to be admitted, 1792 and 1820–50, with certificates where already admitted in King's Bench or Exchequer. Partly in portfolios and partly in irregular bundles.

Rolls of Oaths subscribed by Attorneys on their admission, 1714–1803 (the roll commencing 1804, extending to the present time, with Index Book from 1820, not removed).

Entries of enrolments of Apprentices' Indentures, 1801–15. One volume containing apprentices' names alphabetically, with masters' names, terms of service, and date of Indenture.

Indentures of Apprenticeship, 1799–1829. One bundle original indentures.

Stamp Office Certificates of payment of duty on apprentices' indentures, 1816–48, on one file.

Assignments of Judgments,

1736–1850. See Memorials of. There are also original Deeds of Assignment of Judgment, dating from 1781 to 1821, bundled according to the first letter of assignor's name. The letters F, G, K, L, R, and S only have been found.

Receipt Book for Deeds of Assignment of Judgment, 1834–42.

Assizes, Lists of Records at, 1820 and 1825, left in the office by Registrars.

Awards.

See Submissions and Awards; Partition, Writs of.

Bail

entered in Appearance Books, 1720–1850. Before 1774 these entries signed by persons becoming bail.

Digitized by Google

Bail pieces that have not been confirmed, 1848–50. One bundle containing bail pieces and affidavits of service of notice of persons tendered as bail.

Bills and Writs against Peers and privileged persons, 1807–23 and 1829–49. In bundles, each for two or more years.

Certificates of Acknowledgments of Deeds.

See Acknowledgments.

Certificates (Counsels'),

1820–50. Certificates by counsel of necessity to plead double matter, for special juries, &c., filed in Rules Office to obtain entry of rules. In bundles, in bad order and very imperfect.

Certificates of Costs,

1848. Officers' Certificates of Taxed Costs. One file.
1821–32. Same on Outlawries. One file.

Certificates of no Appearance,

1804–43. Filed to obtain rule for entering Parliamentary Appearance, 43 G. III., c. 53. In bundles; very imperfect.

Certificates of no Plea,

1845, for rules for Judgment by Default. One file.

Certificates of Sum due,

1782–1835, 1838–40, and 1845–7. Filed by Attorneys when obtaining execution. On files.

Certificates of Parties' Names.

Certificates of the correctness of names and descriptions of parties attached to Judgments. One bundle, 1837–41, not filed.

Certified Copies and Negative Searches,

1814–21. One bundle.

Cognovits,

Trinity 1800 to 1850 (irregular, 1720–99), Declarations with memorandum that defendant has confessed the action (cognovit actionem—whence the name) upon which Debt Judgments, or Judgments on a Bond and Warrant of Attorney were marked. For the period during which they are complete they may be found by the reference numbers in the Judgment Books.

Commissions,

one volume entries of Commissions to take affidavits and Special Bail, 1806–44, with a few of earlier date re-entered. (A Roll of these Commissions from 1821 not removed.)

A Book of Entries of all Documents which received the great seal of the Court, i.e., Exemplification of Recoveries and Commissions, 1821–42. One bundle original Commissions with great seal attached.

Consents for Judgment,

1788–1806, and 1838 to Trin. 1850. Index, 1784–1848. The first file of original Consents found is for 1802–6, but this is supplemented by a book containing full transcripts of Consents for Judgment from 1788–1804. The reference numbers in the Index Book do not agree with those in this volume, but a Consent may be found without much difficulty by its date. The entries are made alphabetically in defendant's name. The indexes are in defendant's name, with dates of filing and of the rule for Judgment, and number on file.

Digitized by Google

Consents for Rules,

1796–1844. In bundles, imperfect, and requiring arrangement.

Copied Pleadings,

1811–1850. Indexes, 1835–50. Declarations removed from their own file to be copied. The Indexes appear to contain, besides the contents of the files, lists of all Documents copied each term in the Pleadings Department, with number of folios. On term files. The files for T. 1831; H. M. 1837; T. M. 1838; T. 1839; H. E. 1840; T. 1841, not found.

Costs.

See Certificates; also Nisi Prius.

Declarations

not proceeded on, 1804–50. Copied Pleadings, 1811–50. Index, 1800–50 (irregular, 1630–1709). The Plaintiff's Declaration or statement of the cause of action, filed upon the Defendant's appearing to the process. If removed from the file to be copied, was replaced on file of copied Pleadings for same term. When Judgment was marked or Issue joined, the Declaration was taken from the file, marked "off" in the Declaration Book, and with the other pleadings in the cause placed upon the Judgment or Issue file.

Declarations in Ejectment on separate files. See Ejectments.

Term files of Declarations for M. 1805, T. 1806, M. 1819, E. 1820; M. 1837, E. M. 1838, E. 1839, H. 1840, E. M. 1842, H. 1843, not found.

Index Books from 1800 entered alphabetically in Plaintiff's name, contain number on file, Defendant's name, nature of action, Attorney's name, date of filing, subsequent proceedings with reference, and date of removal from the file.

For Index, 1630–1709, see Pleadings.

Deeds,

leading uses of Recoveries, 1656–1834, enrolled on same Rolls as Recoveries.

Entered in Judgment Books, 1661–E. 1821; in Case Roll Indexes, 1760–E. 1821, with reference numbers; those for T. & M. 1821 in a Judgment Book improperly lettered "Issues, 1821," only; and in one volume Index to Deeds, 1822–34. A few of the Commonwealth are entered in the first volume of Indexes to Recoveries.

Certificates of Acknowledgments of Deeds, 1834–50. See Acknowledgments.

Dockets,

1826–41. Two bundles, lodged with Clerk of Rules for entry of Rules.

Ejectments.

Ejectments not proceeded on, 1806–1849 (irregular, 1789–1805). Index, 1800–49. Affidavits in Ejectment, 1790–1850 (irregular, 1696–1789). Index, 1812–50. Files of Judgments in Ejectment, 1800–50.

The Declaration in Ejectment was filed by a nominal party, as lessee of the interested proprietor, against a supposed trespasser—the Casual Ejector—also a nominal party. The engrossed Declarations constitute the files of "Ejectments." The original Declarations, with a notice explaining their meaning, and Affidavits of Service on the persons sought to be ejected, containing names and other particulars, form the files of Affidavits in Ejectment. Judgment by Default might be marked against the Casual Ejector, and was final against such of the parties served as did not take defence. There are entries of the Defences in the Appearance Books, but no original Defences or Pleas in Ejectment have been found. If any of the parties took defence, Plaintiff filed his second Declaration against such party or parties; these second Declarations are also on the files of Ejectments. After issue joined proceedings were substantially the same as in any other action. See Judgments in Ejectment.

Digitized by Google

In the Ejectments H. 1839, was wanting. For 1800–1, the Ejectments are entered in the ordinary Declaration Books; from 1802 they form a series by themselves. Entered alphabetically in the name of the lessor of the Plaintiff.

Two paper-bound books contain a return of the number of Ejectments brought in this Court for 1841–3, with particulars in tabular form.

Error, Writs, and Records in 1716–1845, on four files. Clerk of Errors Index Book, 1716–1849, entered in name of Plaintiff in original suit. One Roll, Enrolments of Records in Error from Inferior Courts for the reign of Geo. II.

Essoigns, or excuses for parties not appearing. In early Rolls, tantamount to Day-Rules. One small file, 1751–1829.

Exchequer Chamber.

Writs and Pleas in Error. One bundle, 1798–1838.

Executions

on files of Returned Writs. Issue of, entered in Seal Books. General Clerks' Execution Books, 1835–44, two books.

Fiats (Judges'),

for Orders to Tot, annexed to Affidavits.

Filacer's Rolls,

1714–26, Enrolments of Judgments in Dower, Non pros., &c.
1763–1815, Judgments in Dower.
1814–16 and 1819–50, Non pros. Judgments.

There is an Index to Non pros. Judgments from 1815–50 in Plaintiff's name. 1815–21 is at the back of the first volume of Indexes to Outlawry Affidavits.

Fines.

Feet or Records, 1576–1834. Writs of Covenant, &c., 1611–1834. Duplicate Indentures, 1786–95 and 1803–34. Index, 1512–1834. Enrolments, 1590–1, 1595–6, and 1610–11.

The files of Writs of Covenant, &c., contain—the Writ of Covenant commanding the persons levying the Fine, the Deforciants or Conusors, "to perform their covenant with" the Plaintiff or Conusee; and the Concord or Agreement between the parties acknowledged and signed by the Conusors before one of the Judges of the Court, or before Commissioners, in which case the Writ of "Dedimus potestatem" is attached. An office return without date describes the files of this series as "imperfect to 1648; from 1649 to 1654 wanting; part of 1655; 1656 to 8 perfect; part of 1659 imperfect, Trinity, Michaelmas, and Hilary wanting. From 1660 to 1835 all perfect, except the following Terms—Trinity, 1664; Michaelmas, 1666; Easter, 1673; Trinity, Michaelmas, and Hilary, 1690, and Hilary, 1766."

The Feet, Indentures, or Records of the Fines are stated in the return of the chirographer in 1811 to be "irregular to 1665." Since that year the only chasms appear to be Easter 1689, to Michaelmas 1690, and Hilary 1766. Till Easter 1667, each Fine is indorsed with the proclamations: since then the practice was to enter the proclamations upon two or three at the end of the term, and merely mark the others "proclaimed."

Digitized by Google

Claims to Fines, one file, 1771–1801.

There are also Notes of Fines contained upon the two oldest Court Rolls. See Rolls. Fines and Recoveries now abolished by 4 & 5 Wm. IV., c. 92.

The principal Index consists of three vols. Vol. I., 1705–38, is entered chronologically by counties, with names of parties and tenements. Vols. II. and III. extend from 1739 to 1835, one containing the counties from A to K, the other from L to W, with alphabetical lists of the persons levying Fines in each county, and reference to the year and term, but without the number on the file. There are ten vols. of Fine entry books, 1512–1835, entered by counties to the end of Elizabeth's reign, thence to 1758, chronologically, and from 1758 to 1835, by counties. These entry books contain county, names of all parties, nature of tenement, and principal denominations. An additional book contains a chronological list by counties of persons levying Fines for the entire period of the foregoing series of entry books. It contains page references down to 1812. The first page of the County Dublin list is wanting. This volume contains also a list of Fines in the Palatine Court of Tipperary. Eight books containing entries Fines extending from 1738–1835 were also found.

Fines and Applications,

1816 and 1822. In two paper bound books. Fines imposed on sheriffs, and rules and proceedings relating thereto.

General Clerks'

Execution Books, 1835–44; two concurrent volumes containing alphabetical entries of the Executions issued by the clerks by whom they were respectively kept.

Judgment Book, 1835–6.

Habere.

See Returned Writs, Ejectments.

Inquisitions,

1811, 1813, 1818, and 1821. From 1821–1844 with Judgments on Scire Facias. From 1844 to 1850 with Final Judgments. Index to Writs of Scire Facias and Inquiry, 1821–51.

Insolvents'

Petitions, M., 1778.

Receipts for Insolvents' Papers handed to Insolvent Court under 1 & 2 Geo. IV., c. 59. Two bundles, A to L, and L to Z.

Books of Orders in Insolvent matters, M., 1815–1821. Two volumes. Previous to former date in Peremptory Rule Books, in which committals of Insolvents continued to be entered till 1821, when Insolvent Court was established.

Index to Insolvents, 1810–21. Alphabetical lists of Insolvents, with prisons in which detained, and the dates of their discharges.

Digitized by Google

Issues,

1800–43. Index, 1800–43. When in the progress of a suit issue was joined all the pleadings were gathered from their respective files for the purpose of copying the Record, fastened together, and then placed upon the file of Issues. 1800–3—they are upon the same file as the Final Judgments. From 1804 to 1820—there are term files of Issues and Judgments by Default; of these T. 1804, H. 1805, T. 1806, H. M. and part of T. 1817, were not found. For 1821–43 they form a class by themselves, H. 1821, and H. 1822, to E. 1825, being wanting. There is a roll of Issues for 1821–2.

Reference is supplied by the Index to Pleadings, 1800–21, and a separate "Issue Book," 1821–43.

Issues from Chancery. See Rule Books.

Issues and Verdicts,

1790–2 and 1801–38. Bundles containing the issues sent to juries, with the verdict signed by the foreman. They are imperfect.

Judges' Reports, &c.

Nine bundles, from Rules Office, without any arrangement.

Judgment Books,

1661–1850 (removed only to 1760); Duplicate, 1661–1850; Docket Books, 1730–1738 and 1813–44; Interlocutory Judgment Books, 1821–44.

In the Duplicate Series 1693–1717, 1818, and 1841, and in the Docket Books 1814 are wanting. The regular and Duplicate Judgment Books and the Docket Books are all similar, containing alphabetical entries of the Judgments, with amount of Judgment and costs, date of marking, and number on the roll, except those on case rolls from 1760 to 1821. These entries are till 1844 in the name of the person against whom Judgment was marked, i.e., in the name of the defendant, except in a non pros., non-suit, or verdict for defendant. Since 1844 the entries are in the plaintiff's name. The reference numbers to the case rolls 1760–1821 are supplied by the Case Roll Indexes. The older books contain, besides Judgments, entries of Recoveries, Deeds, Memorials, and Recognizances.

The Interlocutory Judgment Books contain entries of Interlocutory Judgments, Judgments on Scire Facias and in Ejectment. After 1844 the latter two classes are entered in the Final Judgment Books, but before 1821 there seems to be no regular entry of them, though the Case Roll Index includes lists of those enrolled.

Judgments on Cognovit.

Judgments entered upon Bond and Warrant of Attorney to confess Judgment. The enrolments of these Judgments form a distinct series of rolls from 1760, which, to facilitate the entering of Assignments and Satisfactions, has not been removed. Frequent reference is made to the Warrants of Attorney, which see.

Requisitions to enter Judgments on Cognovit. Four files. 1844–50.

Judgments by Default.

Filed with Issues 1800–20. See Interlocutory Judgments.

Digitized by Google

Judgments in Ejectment against Casual Ejector, 1800–50. 1800–21 on files with Judgments on Scire Facias, of which M. 1801, T. 1802, H. 1803, E. 1805, E. T. 1806, and E. 1810, not found. 1821–50 with Final Judgments. 1800–21 reference in Index to Pleadings. For reference to enrolments, see under Judgment Books. The Judicial Rule Books might also be searched for this class of Judgment, at least before 1800. Judgments in Ejectment after issue has been joined were filed and entered as Final Judgments. See Ejectments.

Judgments (Final),

1800–50. On files one or more for each term. From T., 1850, in portfolios indorsed Summaries of Judgments. These files contain all the Pleadings in each cause in which Final Judgment has been marked with the Judgment Docket, and Attorney's certificate of correct description of parties. Reference in Index to Pleadings, 1800–21. Entries of marking of Final Judgment in the Judgment Books, 1661–1850. Reference number to enrolments, 1760–1821 in Case Roll Index, 1821–50 in Judgment Books. Requisitions to mark Judgment, 1844–50.

Judgments (Interlocutory),

1800–50, enrolments, 1813–46, are those which establish the plaintiff's right, but leave the question of amount for further proceedings. Filed with Issues, under the name of Judgment by Default, 1800–20. 1821–50—they form a series of themselves, from which 1847 is wanting.

The Interlocutory Judgment Books contain marking of these Judgments, 1821–44, together with those in Scire Facias and in Ejectment. The Index to Pleadings contains the reference to the files 1800 to 1821, and a separate volume continues the list to 1844.

The Rolls of Interlocutory Judgments extend from 1813–46. Many, however, are unbound and without covers or indorsement. An Index in one volume extends from 1813 to 1844.

Judgments (Non pros.).

See Filacer's Rolls, also Non Pros.

Judgments on Scire Facias,

1800–20, on files with Judgments in Ejectment, reference in Index to Pleadings. 1821–44, with Inquisitions, entered in Interlocutory Judgment Books. 1844–50 filed wih Final Judgments, and entered in Judgment Books. Index to Writs of Scire Facias and Inquiry, 1821–51. For reference to enrolments of Judgments on Scire Facias see under Judgment Books. When a year and a day passed after Judgment without the issue of execution, and in some other cases, a Judgment, upon a Writ of Scire Facias, was necessary before execution could be obtained.

Juries.

Index Book of Clerk of, 1784–1850. Jury Process, 1784–1850. See Venires.

Maps.

Two of lands of Grocers' Company in county Londonderry, and Donnybrook, county Dublin.

See Partition, Writs of.

Memorials

of Assignments of Judgments under 9 Geo. II., c. 5, Ir. Originals, 1744–1850. Enrolments, 1736–E. 1761 and 1786–1850. Index, 1736–50 and 1800–38 (the subsequent volume still in Common Pleas).

Digitized by Google

The files of Original Memorials for 1749, 1750, 1753, 1756–9, and 1761 wanting. Bound in portfolios from 1785. Enrolments to 1761 on separate skins at the beginning or end of the ordinary rolls for each term. From H., 1760, to E., 1761, on Case Rolls. No enrolments found between 1761 and 1786.

Index Books entered alphabetically in the name of defendant in the Judgment, with names of plaintiff and parties to Assignment, and reference numbers. Also entered in Judgment Book, 1736–7.

Nisi Prius,

several small books containing lists of Records and Costs at, 1819–25.

Non Pros.

Judgment (non prosequitur) might be obtained by defendant if plaintiff failed to proceed within limited time after appearance or other step in defence. Files for 1811–12, 1813, 1815–16, and 1848. Enrolled on Filacer's Rolls, 1714–26, 1814–16, and 1819–50.

Index to Non Pros. Judgments, 1815–50 in plaintiff's name. 1815 to 1821 at back of first volume of Index to Outlawry Affidavits.

Non Pros. Executions, 1809–20. One file.

Non Pros. Affidavits, M., 1806. One file.

Notices of Motion,

1808–44, in bundles, very imperfect especially after 1821.

Oaths, Rolls of,

1714–1820 and 1829–36, contain subscriptions of Attorneys and others to the oaths of allegiance, supremacy, and abjuration. The roll of attorneys oaths from 1804 extending to the present time not removed.

Outlawries,

used as Process to Grants in Custodiam as well as to enforce appearance.

A large portion of the records relating to Outlawries is in the sacks and unarranged. The following have been removed from the offices :—

"Ca sas to Outlaw," 1808–32.
Capias utlagatum, 1793 and 1800–35 (several files wanting).
Exigents, 1793, 1798, 1800, 1802, 1804, 1807–12, 1822–5, 1827–32.
Outlawries, 1817–31, 1833–5.
Process to Outlaw, 1815, 1817, 1821–2, 1824, 1835–42.

Filacer's Outlawry Books, containing entries of Writs of Outlawry, 1685–1850. 1751–73 and 1781–9 not found. There are also series of similar books for 1665–1711, 1739–1817, and 1847–50, and Indexes to Outlawries, 1743–51, 1773–81, and 1817–35 (with one entry of 1839).

Partition, Writs of, 1767–96. One portfolio containing Writs of Partition, with Inquisitions thereon, and Maps.

Peers and Privileged Persons,

Bills and Writs against, 1807–23, and 1829–49, in bundles.

Pleadings.

See Declarations, Pleas, Issues, and Judgments.

Filing of all pleadings entered in Declaration Books.

Index Books to Pleadings, 1800–21, contain reference to files of Issues and Judgments for that period.

Digitized by Google

The following six books appear to contain entries of filing of pleadings with reference to the file and roll, extending from 1630 to 1709 :—

1630–1637	No. "3" 1677–81 (imperfect).
"No. 1" 1667– 72	"5" 1690– 5.
"2" 1672– 7	1704– 9

Pleas, Demurrers, &c.,

not proceeded on 1804–50, on term files. They contained all pleadings subsequent to the filing of the Declaration, until removed to the Issue or Judgment files. Reference numbers and date of filing in Declaration Books, with the entry of the declaration to which they belong.

Files for T. 1813, T. 1831, M. 1835, E. 1837, H. E. 1838, T. M. 1839, H. E. 1840, M. 1841, T. 1842, & M. 1844, not found.

Posteas

not proceeded on, next process after verdict, 1834–50 (irregular 1733–1833.) Index 1821–47.

Files for T. & M. 1835, H. & E. 1839, H. & E. 1840, T. & M. 1846, wanting.

Posteas and Inquisitions

1791–98, 1800–6, 1816–18, 1822–3, 1825–6, 1827–8.

Quare Impedit.

Files of Pleadings 1815, 1829, 1844–8.

Recognizances

for the payment of damages and costs, one file, 1791–1821.

There are also many enrolled Recognizances, entries of which will be found in the Judgment Books.

Recoveries, enrolments, 1663–1834 (irregular 1590–1661) Index, 1590–1834, Remembrance Rolls, 1715–27 and 1746–1834 Index 1746–1834, Writs of Entry and Warrants of Attorney, 1786–1834, (irregular 1759–84.) Enrolments on the general rolls of the Court to 1759. On Case Rolls 1760-1821, and on Recovery and Deed Rolls, T. 1821–1834.

The first document connected with the Recovery was the Deed by which the party suffering the Recovery appointed a Tenant of the freehold to answer the Writ of Precipe, and limited the estates which should lead the uses of the Recovery. These deeds are usually enrolled from 1656. See Deeds. The tenant, sometimes created by a Fine, became the defendant in the nominal action; and against him the Demandant sued the Writ of Entry, or Precipe quod reddat, which occupied in the Recovery a position similar to that of the Writ of Covenant in a Fine. The Remembrance Rolls contain abstracts of the Writs of Entry, with the names of persons called to warranty by the tenant, whether they vouched in person or by Attorney, and, where the proceedings were perfected, "Suffered at bar." Warrants of Attorney to appear for Vouchees, with Writs of Dedimus potestatem to the persons before whom they were to be acknowledged are filed with the Writs of Entry. There are also two files of Writs of Dedimus and Warrants of Attorney 1809–15.

Recoveries were abolished by the Act 4 & 5 Will. IV., c. 92.

The Indexes in general use to the Recoveries consist of three volumes: Vol. I. 1590–1738, contains chronological entries of the Recoveries by counties, with names of Demandant, Tenant, and party suffering, principal denomination, and number on the roll. Vols. II. & III. 1739–1834, contain the counties from A to K, and from L to W, respectively, with alphabetical lists of persons suffering in each County, the year and term, and the reference number except between 1760 and 1821, when the numbers on the rolls are contained only in the Case Roll Index Books; but as these latter have several times been found incorrect, it is very desirable that the numbers in the Recovery Books should be completed. The Recovery Entry Books, from 1684 to 1797 contain names of Demandant, Tenant, and persons suffering, and principal denominations, entered chronologically by counties. From 1797 to 1834 the names of Demandant and Tenant were not entered. Two most inconveniently large volumes contain chronological lists for each county of the recoveries on the Remembrance Rolls, 1746–1834 with name of Demandant, Tenant, person suffering and Attorney, principal denomination, and (when perfected) "drawn at bar," with reference number to Remembrance Roll. Another volume, Index to same, from 1746 completed to 1788. There are other books containing lists of Recoveries from 1744 to 1821,—irregular. The Index Book to files of Writs of Entry 1786—E. 1821, contains merely a list of the contents of each term file. A similar book extending from 1780–1809 contains also alphabetical lists of Recovery Deeds, and entries of Recoveries 1810–21. A book for entry of such documents as passed the great seal of the Court contains entries of the sealing of exemplifications of Recoveries 1821-35.

Reports

on orders to Tot, of amount due on Interlocutory Judgments 1821–45 (subsequent file extending to 1852 not removed). Prothonotary's and Master's Reports to the Court on various matters referred to them with some Charges and Discharges. One portfolio, 1827–50.

Requisitions for entry of Rules,

M. 1844–50 on term files. E. 1845 not found.

Requisitions to mark Judgment.

1845–50 on files.

Requisitions to mark Judgment on Cognovit.

T. 1844–50 on files.

Requisitions to satisfy Judgment.

T. 1844–6 & 1848–50 on two files.

Rolls.

The series of Rolls of this Court are complete from 1663, and contain Judgments, Common Recoveries, Deeds, Memorials, and Recognizances. From 1760 they form two series—Case and Debt. The Debt Rolls contain Judgments on Cognovit, and the Case all other enrolments. In 1821 the Recoveries and Deeds were separated from the Case Rolls, forming a third class, which ends in 1834. The Debt from 1760, and the Case Rolls from 1836 have not yet been removed. See Judgments on Cognovit. Before 1663 there are the following seven only, which may be considered as supplemental to the Plea Rolls of this Court brought from the Record Tower.

I. "Miscellaneous Roll of Elizabeth," containing the enrolments for the 33rd year (1590–1), and for H. 38th to H. 39th (1595–6).

II. "Miscellaneous Roll, James I.," is the Roll for the 8th year of James I. (1610–11). It has been injured by fire, and Hilary Term is almost destroyed.

Digitized by Google

C145

The two foregoing rolls contain, at the end of each term, Notes of Fines, and Warrants of Attorney.

III. 16th James I., 1618. Indorsed "1617."
IV. 17th ,, 1619.
V. 1656 } The entries on these rolls are all in English.
VI. 1658 }
VII. 1661, with some skins of 1662.

With the exception of the Recoveries these Rolls are unindexed.

In a return made by the Prothonotary in 1723, and printed by the Record Commissioners, that officer specifies 55 rolls of earlier date than 1660, as then in his possession. Some of the earlier of these may, perhaps, be identified with Plea rolls removed from the Record Tower. But of 26 named, from the accession of James I. to the Restoration, only 5 now remain. The others, probably, were lost before 1791, as in a report of the Prothonotary in that year no mention is made of any roll older than 1660.

Rule Books.

Judicial, 1698–E. 1821. Peremptory, 1711–1850. Court Books, 1821–50.

The Judicial Rule Books were kept by the Prothonotary, and contain all rules for Judgment (whence their name), committals for contempt and want of bail, and in some instances Decretal Orders in extenso of the Lord Chancellor directing issues from Chancery to be tried in this Court. By 1 & 2 Geo. IV., c. 53, the duty of entering these rules was transferred to the Clerk of the Rules, and henceforward there is but one series of Books. Volumes for 1723 to T. 1730, M. 1744 to E. 1748, and 1755–62, are wanting. They are unindexed before 1738; M. 1738 is indexed in plaintiff's name; H. 1738–1754 in defendant's; and 1763–1821 in plaintiff's. From 1769 the date of marking Judgment is entered in the margin.

All other rules were entered in the series called till 1821, Peremptory Rule Books, and kept by the Clerk of the Rules. From 1821 they are styled Rule Books, and contain rules of all kinds. Rules in Insolvent matters entered separately from 1815. See Insolvents. This series appears complete, and from 1725 is indexed in causes.

Court Books are rough Books kept in court from which entries were made in the Rule Books.

1823–4, 1828, 1831, 1834, H. & T. 1837, M. 1838, H. 1839, H. to T. 1841, H. 1843, not found.

Rules and Orders for the Regulation of the Court.

A book containing a collection of, with precedents for writs, &c., and lists of costs allowable. Compiled, apparently, in the reign of Queen Anne.

Satisfactions,

1819–50 (irregular 1791–1818). Entry Books 1821–50.

Warrants of Attorney to acknowledge Satisfaction of Judgments; bound in portfolios from 1819. The books contain chronological entries of the filing of Satisfactions, with defendant's name, plaintiff's name, amount, date, and number of Judgment, and number of Satisfaction, but have no indexes. There are duplicates of these books from 1821–43, and from 1837 to 1844.

Scire Facias.

See Judgments on. Files of writs of, from 1803 to '29 imperfect, and from T. 1844 to 1846.

Digitized by Google

Seal Books,

1802–44 (irregular 1772–93), contain entries of all writs issued from the Court as sealed each day, with county, plaintiff's and defendant's names, nature of writ, day for return, and amount marked (if any).

Since 1844 kept in Writ and Seal Office.

Search Books.

Several old books containing particulars of searches made for Judgments.

Sheriffs.

A book for entering fees on Sheriffs' Warrants of Attorney, 1694–1772.

Fines against Sheriffs, 1816 & 1822. See Fines and Applications.

Submissions and Awards,

1790–1843. Index 1790–1843. Deeds of Submission to Arbitration, Awards thereon, and affidavits of their due perfection, on files. The subsequent file and index book extend beyond 1850. See Partition.

Summaries of Judgments.

T. and M. 1850. See Judgments (Final).

Summons Books,

1822–50. Two volumes, containing entries of summons to attend the Prothonotary or Master when engaged on references, &c. They are entered in Plaintiff's name, and contain date of issue of summons, for what purpose, and at what time to attend.

Tipperary, Records of Palatine Court of 1663–1715. Documents relating to Fines, 1664–1715; to Recoveries. 1675–1715; Rule Books, 1692–1715; Appearance and Entry Books, 1691–1712. Pleadings Book, 1694–1715.

The Royalties and Liberties of this county were restored by patent 14th Ch. II., confirmed by Statute 14 and 15 Ch. II., c. 20, Ir., conferring upon the Duke of Ormond the right, amongst others, to hold "a Court of Record to try and determine all actions, to levy Fines, suffer Common Recoveries, and to perform all other acts appertaining to a Court of Record."

The Court consisted of a Seneschal or Chief Justice, and a Second Justice, and held four sessions in the year about April, July, October, and February, respectively.

By the Statute abolishing the Palatine privileges, 2 Geo. I., c. 8 Ir., the Common Law documents of this Court of Record were removed to, and to remain of record in, the Court of Common Pleas, in Dublin; the Equity Records being transferred to the Rolls Office, and the Criminal to the Crown Office. Those in the Common Pleas consist of the following:—

35 bundles of Records, Writs, and Pleadings, with a very imperfect chronological arrangement, 1663–1715. If properly arranged, the book of Pleadings, containing alphabetical entries of Declarations, 1694–1715, would be an index to the pleadings for that period.

5 bundles, records of Fines and Recoveries requiring arrangement. A list of Fines, containing parties' names and principal denominations is in the book containing the general lists of Fines, in the Search Room; but there is no means of reference to the Recoveries. The Fines levied in this court, of tenements in the county Tipperary, were validated by a special Statute, 7 W. III., c. 20, Ir.

Digitized by Google

24 Rule Books, apparently quite regular.
1 Rough Book duplicate of part of one of the foregoing.
7 books containing entries of Appearances and Bail.

Venires.

1784–1850. 1788 and 1847 wanting. Writs of Venire Facias or Jury Process, with panels attached. Clerk of Juries Index Book, 1784–1850. There is one file of Panels for 1753 without Venires.

Warrants of Attorney to confess Judgment, 1834–50. Index, 1834–43 (subsequent volume not transferred). Warrants of Attorney to have Judgment marked on Cognovit, filed under 39th General Rule, 1834. They are frequently referred to as specifying the interest when other than the legal 4 p.c. 3 & 4 Vic., c. 105. Index entered in defendant's name, with date of filing and number on file.

Warrants of Attorney

by vouchees for suffering Recoveries, 1786–1834, filed with Writs of Entry. See Recoveries.

Writ Books,

1787–1844. These are day books containing entry of the issue of all process for appearance, with county, plaintiff's and defendant's names, amount marked (if any), day for return, and Attorney's name. 4th May, 1794, to 2nd May, 1796, wanting. Since 1844 in Writ and Seal Office.

Writs of Covenant,

1611–1834. See Fines.

Writs of Dedimus and Warrants of Attorney,

1809–15. Two files belonging to the succeeding.

Writs of Entry and Warrants of Attorney,

1786–1834. See Recoveries.

Writs, Enrolments of of Capias Pluries, 1844–50. One roll.

Writs (Returned),

1800–50. Index, 1800—50. They contain executions and other writs on term files.

The index books contain number of writ on file, plaintiff's and defendant's names, nature of writ, and Attorney's name. The first four, to 1837, are entered by terms, with alphabetical indexes; the remainder are entered according to the first letter in the title of the cause.

Writs.

An irregular series, thus labelled, extend from 1787 to 1837, containing writs of Capias with non est returns.

A general digest of the several Indexes, included under the respective heads above, is subjoined.

Affidavit (Common) Index,	from	1804	to 1850,	15 volumes.
„ in Ejectment and of Service of Process, Index,	„	1812	„ 1850, 12	„
„ to Ground marked Writs Index,	„	1803	„ 1842, 12	„
„ of Outlawry Index,	„	1808	„ 1834, 2	„
Assignment of Judgment Books,	„	1736	„ 1838, 4	„
Attorney's Register,	„	1806	„ 1847, 32	„
„ Apprentices' Indentures Index,	„	1801	„ 1815, 1	„
Consent Books,	„	1784	„ 1848, 4	„
Copied Pleadings Books,	„	1835	„ 1850, 5	„
Declaration Books,	„	1800	„ 1850, 44	„
Deeds enrolled, Index,	„	1822	„ 1834, 1	„
„ in Judgment Books,	„	1661	„ 1760, –	„
„ in Case Roll Index,	„	1760	„ 1821, –	„
„ in Small Book of Writs of Entry,	„	1810	„ 1821, –	„
„ Certificate of Acknowledgments of, Books,	„	1834	„ 1845, 2	„
Ejectment Books,	„	1802	„ 1849, 19	„
Errors, Clerk of, Index,	„	1716	„ 1846, 1	„
Fine Index Books,	„	1705	„ 1834, 3	„
„ Entry Books,	„	1512	„ 1834, 10	„
„ General List,	„	1512	„ 1834, 1	„
Insolvents, Index to,	„	1810	„ 1821, 1	„
Interlocutory Judgment Books	„	1821	„ 1844, 16	„
„ „ Duplicates,	„	1821	„ 1844, 16	„
„ Enrolments Index,	„	1813	„ 1844, 1	„
„ Judgments Index,	„	1821	„ 1844, 1	„
Issues, Index to,	„	1821	„ 1843, 1	„
Judgment Books,	„	1661	„ 1760, 6	„
„ „ Duplicates,	„	1661	„ 1850, 55	„
„ Docket Books,	„	1730	„ 1844, 39	„
„ Case Roll Index,	„	1760	„ 1821, 9	„
Juries, Index,	„	1784	„ 1851, 3	„
Non Pros, Judgment Books,	„	1815	„ 1850, 2	„
Outlawry Books,	„	1685	„ 1850, 12	„
„ „ irregular,	„	1665	„ 1850, 20	„
Pleadings Books,	„	1630	„ 1709, 6	„
„ in Declaration Books,	„	1800	„ 1850, –	„
„ Index Books,	„	1800	„ 1821, 6	„
Postea Books,	„	1821	„ 1847, 3	„
Recovery Index,	„	1590	„ 1834, 3	„
„ Entry Books,	„	1684	„ 1834, 7	„
„ Remembrance Rolls Index,	„	1746	„ 1834, 2	„
„ „ „	„	1746	„ 1788, 1	„
„ Entries of Exemplifications,	„	1821	„ 1835, 1	„
„ Writs of Entry Book,	„	1786	„ 1821, 1	„
„ „ „	„	1780	„ 1809, 1	„
Satisfaction Books,	„	1821	„ 1850, 4	„
„ Duplicates,	„	1821	„ 1844, 4	„
Scire Facias and Inquiry Books,	„	1821	„ 1851, 4	„
Submission and Award Index,	„	1790	„ 1843, 1	„
Warrants of Attorney Book,	„	1834	„ 1843, 1	„
Writ (Returned) Books,	„	1800	„ 1850, 7	„

Digitized by Google

APPENDIX No. 9.

EXTRACT from REPORT of HENRY F. BERRY, Esq., on the RECORDS of the COURT of QUEEN'S BENCH (Civil Side) REMOVED to the PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE.

On the 13th September, 1870, I received instructions to have removed to this department that portion of the Records of the Civil Side of the Queen's Bench contained in the offices belonging to that Court, situate in the western quadrangle of the Four Courts.

The Rules Office Collection had been transferred in the previous year (Second Report of the Deputy Keeper, pp. 7 and 15).

The collections brought over from this section of the Queen's Bench repositories, namely, those of the Record and Pleadings Departments, were contained in three rooms and a passage on the first landing, and in four rooms on the second. The contents of these rooms had been already entered in four transfer books. Everything so entered was removed to the Record Treasury, except the following:—

Judgment Rolls (Debt) and the Final Judgment Books (their Indexes).

Also the Indexes to—

Affidavits (up to 1824), Declarations, Defences, Consents, Pleadings, Postea, Replevins, Scire Facias, and Writs.

The Debt Judgment Rolls were not transferred, as no order had as yet been made by the judges for the entering of satisfactions, &c., on these Rolls, when they should have been removed from the custody of the Master of the Court.

As by far the larger portion of the Records of the Plea Side, Queen's Bench, is stored in the dome of the Four Courts, and still in charge of the officers of the Court, it was of course necessary that the proper Indexes should be left with those who had the care of it, and through whom the public made searches therein; this will account for the exception made at the time of removal in the case of the Index Books enumerated above.

I shall now proceed to give a concise list (explanatory where necessary) of the Records actually transferred in September last, which will suffice as an ad interim report, until the entire of the Records of the Court can be treated of together.

Account Book (Office), 1808–1822, shows the amount of Fees received, and how same was expended; as in fees to Judges on signing Documents and in paying the Patentees of the Court, &c., &c.

Affidavit Books, H. 1825 to H. 1851.—Both the Ejectment and Common Affidavits are alphabetically indexed in the titles of their causes in this series, each Affidavit being referred to by its number on the file for the Term in which it was made.

Affidavits (Common), H. 1825 to M. 1849.—The parcels for each Term, which vary in number, are tied up together, and each is plainly labelled with the first and last general file number (for the Term) which it contains.

Affidavits (Ejectment), H. 1825 to M. 1850.—These are kept in the same way as the Common Affidavits.

Affidavits for Redocketing Judgments.—These Affidavits, made by the Attorney for the party interested in the Judgment, commence in December, 1828, pursuant to 8 & 9 Geo. IV., c. 35, and end 28th

October, 1844, when the Act 7 & 8 Vic., cap. 90, substituted another mode of procedure in place of the Redocketing of Judgments. As by this Act all books connected with the practice abolished were to be handed over to the newly-appointed Registrar of Judgments, Indexes to these Affidavits are to be found in the Judgment Registration Office.

Affidavits with Warrants of Attorney.—Affidavits by Attorneys, pursuant to 3 & 4 Vic., cap. 105, that Warrants were duly executed, with copies of same annexed. They extend from November, 1840, to May, 1850, and are numbered from 1 to 600. There is an Index to these, but as it extends beyond the year 1850 it is to be found in the Queen's Bench Office.

Assignments of Judgments, Deeds of, 1800–1814.—A few Deeds that appear to have been left in the office when the Memorials were being perfected.

Assignments, Index to, 1844–1849.—One volume, so labelled, which is, of course, an Index to the Memorials.

See Memorials and Index to.

Assignments, Receipt Books for, 1816–1836.—Office Books, containing acknowledgments of Receipt of Deeds of Assignment, after they had been compared with the Memorials.

Attorney, Assignments of Indentures of.—Two volumes—the first from 1733 to 1777, and the second 1777 to 1850—containing the substance of Articles of Attorney's Apprentices. Each volume is indexed.

Attorneys' Petitions, 1821–1837.—Petitions of persons seeking to be admitted Attorneys.

Attorneys, Rolls of.—One Roll (1821 to 1850), indorsed "Roll of Attorneys," containing the subscriptions to the necessary oath of those admitted Attorneys; it also contains subscriptions by Barristers and others to the oaths of allegiance, supremacy, and abjuration. A second Roll, from 1785 to 1864, which is an alphabetical List of Attorneys, chronologically arranged, and may be considered as a means of reference to the oath Roll above, for the period over which it extends, as far as the Attorneys who subscribed it are concerned. There is a third small Roll, indorsed "Roll of Attorneys," which is merely a transcript of the last from 1785 to 1829.

See Oaths of Qualification, Rolls of.

Attorney, Warrants of. See Warrants.

Bail Pieces, Rolls of Entries of.—7 Geo. IV., Wm. IV., and Vic. (up to 1840).

Bonds or Writs, 1762–3.—One volume of printed forms, filled up with the nature of the Bond, &c., in particular cases. Indexed.

Cognovits, 1800–1850.—These are almost perfectly regular from 1814; before that date the files for several Terms are missing.

Commissioners for taking Affidavits, Names of.—By an order of Easter Term, 1804, all Commissioners were obliged to bring in their Commissions to be enrolled, and these are books containing their names, entered up by counties. There is one volume from 1804 to 1858, and two others—the one extending from 1804 to 1826, and the other from 1804 to 1838—copies of the first for their respective periods. There are a few original Commissions, with the Seal of the Court attached.

Coolock, Valuation of.—This volume is a Registry of Freeholders in the barony of Coolock, county Dublin, for 1796–7.

Depositions.—A few parcels; various dates.

Error, Transcripts of Records in. These are six enrolments of the proceedings in Error in the following important cases:—

Digitized by Google

457

1. Clanrickarde, Earl of, v. Henry, 1736.
2. Devonshire, Duke of, v. Corporation of Youghal, 1822.
3. Disney, v. Butler, 1826.
4. Downes v. Earl of Drogheda, 1687.
5. On Quare Impedit, Attorney-General v. Bishop of Down, concerning the Deanery of Dromore.
6. The like as to Clonfert, Attorney-General v. the Bishop and Edward Purdon, Clerk. 10 Geo. I.

Error, Transcripts of Records in ; parcels.—These extend over the period 1810–41, and each parcel is indorsed with the title of the cause to which it belongs. There are a few Bills of Exceptions for about the same period.

Fee Book.—A schedule of Fees allowed to each officer of the King's Bench under the Commission for the reformation of Fees. 10 Chas. II.

Fiats (Judges') for Writs of Capias ad respondendum, grounded on Affidavits which are annexed. 1847.

Judgments (House of Lords) in special cases, cir. 1830–40.

Judgments, Requisitions to enter Case.

" on Cognovit, Requisitions to enter.

" Requisitions to enter Satisfactions on.

Each of the above series extends from T. 1844 to M. 1849.

Judgment Books (Final), 24 vols.—Duplicate copies—some of them unbound, and in bad condition. They extend over the period 1814–49. There are also two bundles of portions of Final Judgment Books, cir. 1739–44.

Judgment Books (Interlocutory), T. 1798 to M. 1850.—There is a second set of these from 1821 to 1844. They are the Indexes to the Interlocutory, Ejectment, and Scire Facias Judgments entered on the Case Rolls, and are searched in Defendants' names to the end of Trinity Term, 1844, after which they are indexed in the names of Plaintiffs.

Judgment Rolls (Case), H. 1770 to M. 1850.—These form a perfect series, there being a Roll for each Term. The Interlocutory, Ejectment, and Scire Facias Judgments entered on them are indexed in the series of Interlocutory Judgment Books. There are also the following Rolls :—

1. Case and Debt Judgments, T. 1657.
2. Case Judgments (different Terms), Jas. II.
3. Case Judgments, 32 Geo. II., and
   An Issue Roll, 4–6 Geo. III.

Judgments on Sci. Fa., H. E. M. 1829.—With the exception of these three files, all the Judgments on Sci. Fa. are in the dome of the Four Courts.

Memorials of Assignments, 1736 to 1850.—The files for the years 1737, 1739, 1740, 1742 to 1745, 1757, 1766, 1770, and 1848 are missing.

Memorials, Index to, 1844–1849.—This volume is alphabetically indexed in the names of Assignors; it also gives the date of Assignment, name of Assignee, and Term and Number of Judgment.

Memorial Rolls, which contain the enrolments of Memorials of Assignments of Judgments, commence in 1736, and have been transferred up to 1850; the Roll for the year 1757 is alone missing.

Miscellaneous.—Under this head may be classed some draft papers belonging to the Master's Office, arranged alphabetically in the titles of their causes; they include Charges, Discharges, Consents, Bonds, Reports, &c.

Digitized by Google

Oath of Allegiance, Names of Persons who took, 1 vol., 6th November, 1778 to 1785.—An Alphabetical List, stating name, residence, and calling of each person who came in to subscribe the oath of allegiance.

Oath Book (Roman Catholic), 1793–1851.—An Alphabetical List of Barristers and Attorneys who took the oath of allegiance.—See also Attorneys, Rolls of.

Oaths of Qualification, 1691 to 1819.—Six Rolls so indorsed, containing the subscriptions by Barristers, Attorneys, &c., to various oaths. The Roll of Attorneys, 1821 to 1850, appears to be a continuation of this series.—See Attorneys, Roll of.

Oath Roll (Sheriffs'), 1790–1794.

Outlawries, Roll of proceedings in, 2 Wm. and Mary.

Pleadings, A miscellaneous parcel of old.

Pleadings, Book of, 1663 to 1669.—An Alphabetical Entry Book of Pleadings kept in titles of causes.

Recognizances, Roll of, 1821–1837.—Enrolments of Bail Recognizances by which parties became bail in suits.

Rolls.—See Attorneys.
- „ Bail pieces.
- „ Error.
- „ Judgment.
- „ Memorial.
- „ Oath.
- „ Outlawries.
- „ Recognizances.

Satisfactions, or Warrants to satisfy Judgments, 1801 to 1850. A bundle for each year.

Satisfaction Entry Books, 1822 to 1853. There is a Duplicate set from 1822 to 1847.

Satisfactions, Requisitions to enter, T. 1844–1849.—See Judgment.

Seal Book, 1846.

Searches, Some parcels of Negative.

Search Books (Negative), 1817–1844.—Thirty volumes of Requisitions for Negative Searches.

Sci. Fa., Judgments on.—See Judgments.

Stamp Books (Interlocutory), 1818–1821.—These appear to be transcripts of those columns in the Interlocutory Judgment Books that give the names of Plaintiffs and Defendants, class of Judgment, and date of Entry; but instead of giving the number of each Judgment on the Term Roll, they give the amount of the Stamp.

Summonses against Peers.—A parcel of Writs from 1816–1818.

Warrants of Attorney to enter Judgment.—These commence Easter, 1834; and there is a portfolio of them (in some cases two or three) for each term up to M., 1850. The warrants for each term are numbered consecutively, and they are perfectly indexed.—See below.

Warrants of Attorney, Indexes to, 1834–50, entered in Defendants' names.

Warrants of Attorney, with Affidavits. November, 1840, to May, 1850. —See Affidavits, with Warrants.

Writs.—Miscellaneous.

The transfer of the above-mentioned Books and Documents was completed on the 27th September, and the collection has been placed in bays 2 E and 2 F of the Record Treasury, except such necessary Index Books as have been lodged in the Search Room for the convenience of the public.

Digitized by Google

Appendix No. 10.

Extract from Report of Henry F. Berry, Esq., on Removal of Records of Court of Equity Exchequer from Offices and Vaults of Receiver Master of the Court of Chancery.

On the 9th September, 1870, I received instructions to proceed with the preparations for transfer of the Equity Exchequer Records deposited in the offices of the Receiver Master of the Court of Chancery. They had previously been inspected by Mr. Mills, who had had the presses numbered, and had also made such an inventory of their contents as was possible in their then very dusty condition. These offices consist of six rooms in the south-west corner of the Four Courts building, two of which, I was informed, contained no Equity Exchequer Documents, the one being Master Fitzgibbon's Chamber, and the other an office for the Audit of County Treasurers' Accounts. The Records in the four remaining rooms were contained in forty-nine presses, the greater number of which were packed to the fullest extent, the documents, in most cases, being put up in pigeon-holes. Many of the presses were found open, and this will account for the dusty state of the Records, which was so extreme that it was necessary to have them thoroughly cleansed before they could be entered in the Transfer Book.

Some of the presses were exclusively devoted to Chancery papers connected with cases before the Master, while in others both Equity Exchequer and Chancery were mixed; and in such cases it was necessary to separate each class of Documents.

There were, in addition to the offices, two vaults filled with Exchequer Records, one of which was cleared after the transfer from the offices had been completed; but in consequence of the extreme severity of the weather at that particular time, operations had to be suspended, and the contents of the remaining vault, which consist principally of Writs, Files of Replications, and Papers belonging to the Clerk of Estreats, still await removal.

The Documents transferred will undergo the same process of sorting, &c., to which those already brought over, and likewise belonging to the Equity side of the Exchequer, are being subjected, under the direction of the Assistant Deputy Keeper. Until this shall be completed, Mr. La Touche cannot make his final General Report on the Records of that Court; meantime, I give a List of that portion of them removed from the custody of the Receiver Master, to serve as a supplement to the schedule of the other portions previously transferred.—(Second Report of the Deputy Keeper, p. 87).

Accounts (Receivers'),	cir. 1784 to 1850
Accounts, Indexes to Receivers',	1828–1850
Affidavits,	1695–1800
Affidavits of Service,	cir. 1824–1850
Attorney, Powers of,	cir. 1790–1840
Cant Books,	1729–1845
Cause Papers,	cir. 1800–1850
These include Draft Charges, Discharges, Reports, Orders, &c., &c.
Charges and Discharges,	cir. 1780–1829
Conveyances (Draft),	1757–1850
Costs (Bills of).
Deeds (lodged during the progress of Causes).
Deeds (in Boxes).

Digitized by Google

Depositions (Draft),	cir. 1800–1850
Depositions (sealed),	cir. 1700–1809
Deposition Books,	1725–1779
Engagement Books (Ch. Rem.),	1831 & 1835
Entry Books (Ch. Rem.),	1844–1850
Entry Books (2nd Rem.),	1847–1850
Fee Book (2nd Rem's. Office),	1835–1842
Leases (Draft) (Ch. Rem.),	cir. 1820–1850
Letting Book,	1844–1853
Order Book (Ch. Rem.),	1844–1850
Order Book (2nd Rem.),	1845–1846
Receipt Books,	1744–1758
Receivers' Books (Orders appointing Receivers),	1784–1850
Rentals (of Lands sold by Ch. Rem.),	cir. 1830–50
Reports,	cir. 1782–1850
Reports of Sale,	cir. 1755–97
Rule Book (2nd Rem.),	1844–1845
Statements (Receivers'),	cir. 1830–1850
Summons Books (Ch. Rem.),	1834–1851
Summons Books (2nd Rem.),	1844–1850
Taxation Book,	1828–1844

In addition to the above, there are about 150 vols. of Merchants' Account Books, Letter Books, &c., lodged as Exhibits in suits. In some cases the title of the Cause is marked on them; but generally there is no means of knowing in what suits they were lodged. Among these is one vol. entitled "Survey of the Estate of Garrett Moore, made in 1720," which is stated to have been lodged in 1837.

In the vault under the offices, with the Equity Documents, were the following, belonging to the Revenue side of the Exchequer; they are labelled in the handwriting of the late Mr. J. F. Ferguson, and they fill up gaps in the series of the same titles brought from the Benchers' Building:—

	K.–W.
Estreats (arranged by Counties),
Estreats,	1773–1835
Estreats from K. B., C. P., and Ex.,	1708–95
Estreats from Chan., K. B., and Ex.,	1792–1835
Estreats of King's Silver,	1823–1829
Fines in Com. Pleas,	1821–1823
Fines in Exchequer,	1695–1833
Fines, Schedules of,	1751–1769
Sheriffs' Accounts on Commission.—Cork and Waterford,	1684–1834

APPENDIX No. 11.

MAP of DISTRICT REGISTRIES of COURT of PROBATE.

DUBLIN: Printed by ALEXANDER THOM, 87 & 88, Abbey-street,
For Her Majesty's Stationery Office.

Digitized by Google

MAP of IRELAND,

Districts, and Places of District Registries throughout Ireland.

No.	Districts.	Place of District Registries.	No.	District.	Places of District Registries.	No.	District.	Places of District Registries.
1	Donegal, Londonderry, and the Baronies of Strabane and Omagh, in the County of Tyrone .	Londonderry.	5	Cavan, Longford, and the Baronies of Leitrim, Mohill, and Carrigallen, in the County of Leitrim	Cavan.	9	Waterford, Wexford, and South Riding of Tipperary	Waterford.
2	Antrim and Down.	Belfast.	6	Roscommon and Galway	Tuam.	10	Limerick, Clare, North Riding of Tipperary, and the Baronies of Clanmaurice and Irraghticonnor, in the County of Kerry . . .	Limerick.
3	Armagh, Louth, Monaghan, Fermanagh, and Tyrone, except the Baronies of Strabane and Omagh	Armagh.	7	King's County and Westmeath	Mullingar.	11	Cork and Kerry, except the Baronies of Clanmaurice and Irraghticonnor, in the County of Kerry	Cork.
4	Mayo, Sligo, and Leitrim, except the Baronies of Mohill, Carrigallen, and Leitrim . .	Ballina.	8	Carlow, Queen's County, and Kilkenny . .	Kilkenny.

Digitized by Google

453

THE

THIRTY-SECOND ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

DEPUTY KEEPER

OF THE

PUBLIC RECORDS.

[23 FEBRUARY 1871.]

VOL. I.

REPORT AND APPENDIX I.

Presented to both Houses of Parliament by Command of Her Majesty.

LONDON:
PRINTED BY GEORGE E. EYRE AND WILLIAM SPOTTISWOODE,
PRINTERS TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.
FOR HER MAJESTY'S STATIONERY OFFICE.

1871.

Digitized by Google

CONTENTS.

REPORT.

	Page
Introductory Statement	iii
I. Records of the Duchy of Lancaster	iii
II. Records of the Palatinate of Durham	iii
III. Fac-similes of National Manuscripts, &c., by Process of Photozincography	iv
IV. Calendars	xii
V. Carte and Carew Papers	xiv
VI. Chronicles and Memorials of Great Britain and Ireland during the Middle Ages	xv
VII. New Block of Record Repository	xvi
VIII. Fees: Government and other Business: &c.	xvi
IX. Transfers and Removals	xvii
X. Arrangement, Repairs, Binding, and Similar Operations	xxi
XI. Inventories	xxvi
XII. Calendars and Catalogues	xxvii
XIII. Indexes	xxviii

APPENDIX I.

No.
1. Carte Papers: Final Report of the Commissioners for Selecting the Carte Papers for transcription	1
2. Calendarium Genealogicum: Calendar of Heirs, 1 & 2 Edw. II.	237
3. Durham Records: Calendar of Cursitor's Records: Chancery Enrolments (continued)	264
4. Duchy of Lancaster Records: Calendar of Rolls of the Chancery of the County Palatine	331
5. Additions, in 1870, to the Lists of Calendars, Indexes, &c., in the Public Record Office	366
6. Calendars of State Papers, &c.	376
7. Chronicles and Memorials of Great Britain and Ireland during the Middle Ages	378

APPENDIX II.

1. Charities: Calendar of Trust Deeds enrolled on the Close Rolls of Chancery, subsequent to 9 Geo. II. c. xxxvi. 1

Digitized by Google

-161

THE THIRTY-SECOND REPORT

OF

THE DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,

I RESPECTFULLY beg leave to submit to Your Majesty my Annual Report of the proceedings in the Public Record Office, for the year 1870.

I. RECORDS OF THE DUCHY OF LANCASTER.

I had the honour to state, in my Thirty-first Report (§ I.), that Your Majesty's valuable gift to the nation of the Records of Your ancient Duchy of Lancaster had been placed in the Lancaster Tower of this Office, and that the documents had been properly arranged. A Calendar of the Royal Charters in the collection, from William II. to Richard II., was annexed thereto; and the first portion of a Calendar of the Rolls of the Chancery of the Palatinate will be found in the Appendix to this Report (App. I. No. 4.).

II. RECORDS OF THE PALATINATE OF DURHAM.

It was mentioned in the Thirty-first Report (§ II.), that the Calendar of the Durham Records would be continued, and a portion would be annexed to each Annual Report of the Deputy Keeper. The Calendar compiled during the year 1870 is in the Appendix to this Report (App. I. No. 3.).

It was also mentioned that an examination of the Documents brought from the Auditor's Office at Durham was about to take place, with a view of giving up to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners such Papers as were considered to be the private muniments of the See of Durham, and necessary for the management of the estates under their control. This examination has been commenced, but is not completed.

Digitized by Google

Copies of such Awards, under the Inclosure Acts, as are enrolled in the Palatinate Chancery of Durham, are being prepared, to be deposited in the Office of the Clerk of the Peace for the County of Durham for public use.

III. FAC-SIMILES OF NATIONAL MANUSCRIPTS, &c., BY PROCESS OF PHOTOZINCOGRAPHY.

This operation has been continued during 1870, at the Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton, and progress has been made in the third part of the Scottish Series of Historical Documents. Mr. Sanders, the Assistant Keeper of Records in charge of Documents sent to Southampton, has given, in his annual Report, an account in detail of his proceedings. He has, in addition, superintended for the Ritual Commissioners the photozincographic fac-simile of the Book of Common Prayer of 1636, as well as a portion of the "Parker Register." An original Saxon Charter of King Edgar, dated in 974, presented to the Public Record Office by Mr. Henry Garling, of Southborough Hall, Kent, has also been copied by photozincography. The Report of Mr. Sanders is as follows :—

Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton,
January 17th, 1871.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to submit to you the following Report upon the work performed at this office under my superintendence during the past year.

The second part of the series of fac-similes of the National Manuscripts of Scotland, which I mentioned in my last Report as nearly completed, was published in July last. The contents of this volume are of great historical interest, especially those portions of it which illustrate the rise of constitutional government in Scotland, and the first use of the Scottish dialect both in prose and verse. Excellent examples of this latter are to be found in the exemption granted by the Earl of Menteith and Fife in 1389 to the monks of Melrose from the payment of customs upon their wools; the extract from the record of the Scottish Parliaments, known as the "Haddington Manuscript," in 1398; the letters from the Earl of March and James Douglas to King Henry IV. about 1400; the letter of pension by Archibald Earl of Douglas to Alexander Home in 1406; the indenture between the Duke of Albany and Sir Gilbert Kennedy in 1408; the holograph charter of King James I. of Scotland to Sir William Douglas in 1412; and the extracts from Wyntoun and Barbour, all of which are written in Scots.

In my last Report I also stated that some of the documents selected to form Part III. of the Scottish Series had been placed in my hands by the Lord Clerk Register of Scotland, and photographed. Since that, many others have been added to the list, the whole of which have also been photographed, and some of them transferred to zinc. The scheme of arrangement according to which they are to be published has not yet been definitively settled, so that I must reserve my usual chronological list of abstracts of the contents for a future report. As in the case of the preceding volume, some of the fac-similes contained in this are those of manuscripts not in my custody, negatives of them having been taken at Windsor Castle, the British Museum, and the Libraries of Magdalen and Trinity Colleges, Cambridge, where the originals are preserved.

Digitized by Google

Among the documents contained in this volume is an ancient Map of England and Scotland, which is so curious that it is a pity more is not known of its history. It belongs to the Bodleian Library, to which it appears to have been bequeathed by the eminent antiquarian Richard Gough, with the rest of his collections bearing on British topography in 1795. I cannot fix the date of its having been made, but from internal evidence it may be assumed to be of the period of Edward I.; though Gough in his "British Topography" says that in 1768 it was shown to the Society of Antiquaries by Mr. Thomas Martin, who supposed it to be of the time of Edward III. This map Gough purchased at a sale of Martin's Manuscripts in 1774, and at page 77 of the first volume of his Topography he gives an engraving made of it by Basire, which he illustrates by copious remarks. The principal places are distinguished by churches with spires, or castellated buildings, those of less importance by simple houses, and in each case the buildings are coloured red. The surrounding seas are coloured green, and so are the rivers. The names of counties and tracts of country are enclosed in parallelograms with looped corners, and these as well as all the principal names are written in red, with the exception of London and York, which appear in characters of gold. The names too are all written along the length of the map, or from north to south, instead of west to east, as is usually the case. The principal roads are coloured red, and the distances from town to town are marked by figures also in red, forming, as Gough remarks, the greatest merit of this map, as being the first wherein the roads and distances are laid down. It is, however, perhaps needless to remark that the distances so laid down are not to be relied on as correct. The county of Sutherland is distinguished by the figure of a wolf, with the legend "Hic habundant lupi;" and a place called Colgarth, which is probably the extensive forest between Badenoch and Athole, by that of a stag, with the legend "Hic maxima venacio." The only one of the Scottish lakes distinctly named is Loch Tay, on the borders of which is inscribed, "In isto lacu tria mirabilia. Insula natans. Pisces sine intestinis. Fretum sine vento," miracles generally ascribed by Scotch writers to Loch Lomond. The pass over the Grampian Hills from Murray and Banffshire, now known as the Cairn o' Mounth road, is marked under the name of "Monthe colli;" and another, which is conjectured to be the passage through the Grampians which enters the mountains of Castletown of Brosemar and comes out at the chapel of Glenshie in Angus, and is called the Glenshie road, is named "Monthe Capella." The ferries across the Forth at Hales and Dripp are also specified, and so are the bridges at Perth and Achmore; but no mention is made of the bridge over the Don built by Bishop Cheyne of Aberdeen in 1329. The Earldoms of Ross, Caithness, Moray, Sutherland, Mar, Buchan, Athole, Fife, Strathern, Lennox, Menteith, and Carrick are prominently displayed. The absence of any mention of those of Douglas and Crawford would seem to limit the date of the map to a period prior to the creation of the Earldom of Douglas. Off the north-east of Orkney is a drawing of a vessel lying high and dry on a reef of rocks or sand bank, with the wreck of its mast and gear hanging over the side. What appear to be two cushions are hove overboard, clinging to one of which is a female figure, while that of a man is depicted near at hand, apparently rowing to her assistance in a boat. Although this picture may be intended merely to point out the dangers of the coast about the Orkney Islands and the stormy nature of the seas which surround them, yet it is difficult to avoid thinking that more is meant by it, and that it represents some important event in connection with the history of Britain, to illustrate which may have been one of the objects for which the map was made. I think it not beyond the bounds of reasonable conjecture to imagine that the subject of the drawing is the fatal end of the calamitous voyage undertaken by the young "Maiden of Norway," Queen Margaret of Scotland, to England, to be married to the Prince of Wales, and that it may help to clear up the mystery that has always shrouded her death. Hardly anything appears to be known of this memorable episode in English history. No report of the Scottish Knights, Sir Michael Wemys and Sir Gilbert Scot, who were despatched to conduct the Princess to Scotland, remains to describe the event; and the letter of the Bishop of Durham to King Edward I. deals only with the "dolorosus rumor" that had reached his ears at Perth, first that the lady was dead, and then that she was recovering.

Digitized by Google

Rapin and the few historians who mention her death say that it occurred in Orkney about September 1290, and that it was occasioned by the hardships of the voyage. But Chalmers says that, although if she had died in Orkney, she must undoubtedly have been buried in the Cathedral of St. Magnus, yet that he had caused every inquiry to be made in Orkney for some monumental stone or some traditional memorial of the time, place, and circumstances of the demise of Margaret, and that he had inquired in vain.

In that part of the Cathedral, however, where divine worship is celebrated are four or five graves covered with white marble, or rather Norway granite, which tradition asserts are the burial places of some Danish nobles. No inscription, mark, or figure exists on either of these stones, but it is not unlikely that the bodies covered by them are those of some of the Princess' escort that had been washed ashore from the wreck, and that she herself had never reached the land either alive or dead.

The floating figure in the drawing appears to be that of a girl with a very child-like and gentle expression of countenance, and, with the exception of the hands, which are greatly exaggerated as in the act of clutching at the cushion, of a graceful shape. The cushion may be one stuffed with cork and intended to be used as a life buoy. The wreck is depicted as between Orkney and a line of coast marked "Norway" in large characters, and lies exactly in the track that a ship sailing between the two coasts would steer. I may add that at the northern end of the Island of South Ronaldsay is a deep bay or inlet, at the head of which stands the village of St. Margaret's Hope, so called, as Macpherson conjectures in his Geographical Illustrations of Scottish History, from the young Queen Margaret.

On the North Sea itself is inscribed "Mare aquilonare sine termino," and in the middle of it is a gigantic representation of the Whale engaged in mortal combat with its natural persecutors, the Thrasher and Swordfish. The forests of Inglewood and Dean, and the New Forest, the last of which is distinguished by a drawing of a large oak tree, are the only forests distinctly specified in England; but Sherwood Forest is probably intended to be represented by the tree drawn in the map north-east of Nottingham. The Channel Islands are represented by three islands with names, Gersey, Gernesey, and Ancrowe.

Digitized by Google

4165

What the latter means I am at a loss to determine. It is in about the same relative position with regard to Jersey that Sark would be, but the difference between the ancient name of that island, "Arica," and "Ancrowe," seems too great to admit of the supposition that they can be identical. I can only suggest the possibility of its being intended for the "Ecrehou" rocks, a large reef lying between Jersey and the coast of France, on which are now a few small houses, and which might have been partially inhabited at the time when this map was drawn. Besides these three islands with names, there are two others without names, which from their position are probably intended for Alderney and The Caskets. On the sea off the south coast of Devonshire, opposite Dartmouth, is written, "Hic Brutus applicuit cum Trojanis," the legendary invasion of Albion, which King Edward in his letter to Pope Boniface recapitulating his claims to the kingdom of Scotland thus mentions :—

" Sub temporibus itaque Ely et Samuelis Prophetæ, vir quidam strenuus " et insignis, Brutus nomine, de genere Trojanorum, post excidium urbis
" Trojæ, cum multis nobilibus Trojanorum, applicuit in quandam in" sulam, tunc Albion vocatam, a gigantibus inhabitatam : quibus suâ
" et suorum devictis potentiâ et occisis, eam nomine suo Britanniam,
" sociosque suos Britones appelavit ; et edificavit civitatem quam
" Trinovantum nuncupavit, quæ modo Londonia nominatur."

Bardsey Island is distinguished by the inscription, "Bardsey ubi sunt Britonum vaticinatores," which again furnishes a clue to the date of the map. This island is supposed to owe its name to its having been the refuge of the last of the Welsh bards, and as the Order of Bards may be said to have been extinguished at the subjugation of Wales by Edward I. in 1284, the map is probably not many years later than that period.

Basire's engraving of the map is well done as far as outline is concerned, but the names are very badly executed and often meaningless, from the fact of the engraver being apparently imperfectly acquainted with the letters he had to copy. This defect does not exist in the zincograph, which furnishes an excellent fac-simile of the original.

I have been able to add many names to those contained in the engraving, but some still remain undeciphered, though provokingly near legibility. This I attribute to an attempt that has been made at some time or another to renovate the map by re-writing the names, and this has been so clumsily done as to have made some of them quite undistinguishable. In some cases only half the name has been written over, and the other half has been left untouched, as the village of Chiddingfold, in Sussex, of which only the first two syllables have been revived. The outline of the buildings and other prominent features of the map are all pricked out in pinholes, which at first raised some doubts in my mind as to its originality ; but from Gough making no allusion to it in his account, I suppose they were made by Basire while engraving it, though Basire's engraving is on a considerably reduced scale.

Of the two Roman walls, that known as "Adrian's Wall," in the map called "Murus Pictorum," extending from Bowness to Wallsend, is alone represented. The more northern, or "Agricola's Wall," called in Scotland "Graham's Dyke," extending from old Kilpatrick near Dunbarton to Carridan near Borrowstowness, in Linlithgowshire, is unnoticed. The size of the map has been reduced, to enable it to appear in the volume, but a few copies will be printed of the full size for separate disposal.

It seems to me to be the work of more than one hand ; the outline and smaller names being by that of a person comparatively unskilled in drawing and writing ; the larger names, the ornamentation, and the picture of the stranded vessel, by that of one more proficient in both. And with all its faults it is very far superior, both as a work of art and a specimen of map making, to any of the maps attributed to Matthew Paris, while nearly equal to them in point of antiquity.

Digitized by Google

The very rare and remarkable Saxon Charter of King Edgar, A.D. 974, so liberally presented to the nation by Mr. Henry Garling, has been copied and the fac-similes sent to the Record Office; and I now beg to append a translation of it. In making this translation I have deviated a little from that made by Mr. Furman in 1777, and read before the Society of Antiquaries in 1792, but I submit my alterations with deference, owing to the doubtful style in which the original, especially the Latin portion of it, is written. Indeed the language employed in this ancient record and the beauty of the handwriting in which it is expressed, form very curious features in themselves.

The fac-simile of that portion of the "Parker Register" relating to the Election, Confirmation, and Consecration of Archbishop Parker to the See of Canterbury, which was undertaken by Sir Henry James by order of Her Majesty's Government at the request of the Ritual Commission, was completed last May, and has been published by Mr. Bailey, in his "Ordinum sacrorum in Ecclesiâ Anglicanâ defensio." The original volume of the Register was returned to the library of Lambeth Palace by Sir Henry James personally on the 30th of March.

I now come to what may perhaps be considered the most important work performed here during the year, namely, the completion of the fac-simile of the Black Letter Prayer Book of 1636, with the Manuscript notes and alterations made in 1661, out of which was fairly written the Book of Common Prayer subscribed, on the 20th of December 1661, by the Convocations of Canterbury and York, and annexed to the Act of Uniformity, 13 & 14 Charles II. I have already mentioned the circumstances under which this work was entrusted to Sir Henry James, and have now only to add that the first negative was taken on the 9th of August 1869, and the first copy bound on the 9th of August 1870. The fac-simile was therefore completed in one year, and is as satisfactory in the goodness of the work as in the expedition with which it has been accomplished. I think it would be difficult to carry the art of fac-simile making to a greater point of excellence than has been obtained in copying this volume. It contains 516 folio pages with copious manuscript marginal and other notes and alterations, all of which, with the exception of the four pages containing a list of the alterations and additions, appear to be in the handwriting of William Sancroft, at that time Chaplain to Bishop Cosin of Durham, and afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury. The book as it now is, appears to have been made up from two copies, judging from the title pages, of which there are three; the first, at the commencement of the volume, is dated 1636; the second, at the beginning of the Psalms, is struck from another block and bears date 1639; and the third, which prefaces the form of making and ordaining bishops, priests, and deacons, is again entirely different from both the preceding in design, and is also dated 1639.

A separate title page has been made for the fac-simile, and a certificate of the authenticity of the copy, signed by Sir Henry James and myself, is appended to it. A preface also has been added to it by the Dean of Westminster, wherein he gives the particulars of the search for the manuscript copy originally attached to the Statute Roll 13 & 14 Charles II., but which had been supposed for many years to have been lost, and its ultimate discovery together with this corrected Black Letter Book from which it had been copied and whose existence had been previously unknown.

Digitized by Google

I have had no opportunity of collating this volume with either of the "Sealed Books," but I fancy it will be found to differ from them throughout, both in the body of the book and in the rubric, in punctuation and the employment of capitals. An illustration of this is afforded by the Apostles' Creed, which I accordingly give here, side by side, as it appears in the Black Letter Book and the Sealed Books of the Tower and King's Bench.

From the BLACK LETTER BOOK.

I Beleeve in God the Father Almighty, maker of heaven and earth: and in Jesus Christ his onely Son our Lord, who was conceived by the holy Ghost, born of the virgin Mary, suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead and buried, he descended into hell. The third day he rose again from the dead. He ascended into heaven, and sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty. From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead. I beleeve in the holy Ghost, the holy catholique church, the communion of saints, the forgivenesse of sins, the resurrection of the body, and the life everlasting. Amen.

From the SEALED BOOK.

I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth: And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord, Who was conceived by the holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary, Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried; He descended into hell. The third day he rose again from the dead, He ascended into Heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty; From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the holy Ghost; The holy Catholick Church; The Communion of Saints; The forgiveness of sins; The resurrection of the body, And the life everlasting. Amen.

The same differences exist in the Lord's Prayer and all through the Litany as well; and as it is evident, by the alterations made by them in this respect, that the Commissioners appointed to examine the Sealed Books with the original MS. copy, attached great importance to punctuation, the inference would appear to be that the MS. copy is not a true copy, at any rate as to punctuation and capitals, of the Black Letter Book. In spelling, the Sealed Books differ from the Black Letter Book throughout. In other respects the differences that have come under my notice are few and unimportant; such as the occasional substitution of "the" for "that" and "which" for "who;" the omission of the marks of parenthesis, and one or two trivial omissions in the directions for reading the proper lessons.

The revisions, however, made in the Black Letter Book itself, are not always consistent. For instance in the Litany to be read or sung after Morning Prayer, in the verse where it is written "We sinners do beseech thee to hear us (O Lord God), and that it may please thee to rule and govern thy holy Church universally in the right way," the word "universally" is altered to "universal;" but in the second Litany which is included in the service for the ordering of Deacons, the original reading is allowed to stand. And again in the Communion Service. The first MS. rubric to the prayer of Consecration directs the priest, so to order the bread and wine that he may with the more readiness take the cup into his "hands;" while a subsequent MS. rubric directs "here he is to take the cup into his hand."

The Gospels and Epistles being ordered to be "all corrected after the last translation" differ greatly from those printed in the Black Letter Book, and sometimes the more modern word seems hardly to convey the same meaning as that for which it has been substituted. In the Gospel for the 15th Sunday after Trinity for instance, the old version of the concluding sentences runs thus, "Care not then for the morrow, for tomorrow day shall care for itself. Sufficient unto the day is the travell thereof." The modern version is "Take therefore no thought for the morrow; for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself: sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

Digitized by Google

A curious alteration is also to be found in the 4th verse of the 68th Psalm where "Praise him in his Name, yea, and rejoice before him" is now changed to "praise him in his name Jah, and rejoice before him." In the Sealed Book, however, the original reading is preserved.

The omission of the marks of parenthesis, which I have already noticed as occurring in the Sealed Books and modern editions of the Prayer Book, is especially remarkable in the Psalms, where they are now only used once throughout the whole, though of constant recurrence in the Black Letter Book. The note of admiration on the contrary is used much more frequently in the modern editions than in the Black Letter Book.

Thinking a collation of the MS. copy with the Black Letter Book would be of use to the Ritual Commissioners, as well as of importance in other respects, I offered to undertake it; but though the Commissioners were kind enough to thank me for my offer, there were difficulties in the way, and the idea was abandoned.

The Black Letter Book was returned to the Library of the House of Lords by Sir Henry James, who took it up with him on the 16th of last August; it having remained in my custody for a year and nine days.

On the 22nd of July, Mr. Cosmo Innes made over to my charge a case containing many additions to the third volume of the Scottish Series, all of which have been photographed.

On the 12th of November I returned into the Record Office the Charter of King Edgar A.D. 974; together with the Liber Munimentorum A.D. 1290, a letter from Gawain Douglas to Cardinal Wolsey, dated December 24, 1521, a letter from Donald Earl of Ross to Henry VIII. dated August 5, 1545, a plan of the Debateable Ground between England and Scotland, A.D. 1552, and a project of an accord for compounding the controversies of Scotland, dated February 26, 1572, which Mr. Tabrum had deposited in my custody in the previous August, and which had also been photographed to form part of the third volume of the Scottish series.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient Servant,
(Signed) WILLIAM BASEVI SANDERS,
Assistant Keeper of Her Majesty's Records.

Sir THOMAS DUFFUS HARDY,
&c. &c.
Deputy Keeper of H. M. Records.

TRANSLATION of a GRANT of LAND in DEVONSHIRE written in LATIN and SAXON, and made by KING EDGAR to his THANE ÆLFHERE, A.D. 974.

[Latin.]

Our Lord Jesus Christ reigneth for ever. It is advisable that every deed of gift should be made under the testimony of writing, lest the succession of posterity be swallowed in the whirlpool of rapine and the clouds of ignorance. Therefore I, Edgar, having by Divine Grace obtained the preeminence of royal rule over all Britain, being willing to endow with perpetual freedom a certain part of the country under my jurisdiction, do in reward of his devoted service grant unto Ælfhere my faithful servant three plots of ground [mansas] in the place which is called in common parlance Nymed, that he may hold it, as we have above said, in perpetual inheritance with all fields, woods, and meadows thereunto of right appertaining. Moreover the aforesaid land is to be free of all secular tribute and royal service excepting only going to the wars and the building of bridges or castles. Whosoever, therefore, moved by a benevolent and sincere disposition, shall trouble himself in amplifying this aforesaid grant, may the Parent of All increase and amplify his life in this present world and may he and all his family happily experience the unclouded joys of that everlasting one to come. But may they who shall diminish or unjustly violate the same, which God forbid should enter into the minds of the faithful, make part with those of whom on the other hand it is pronounced "depart from me, ye wicked, into everlasting fire," unless they shall have made lawful satisfaction beforehand. This said land appears to be enclosed about by these bounds.

Digitized by Google

[Saxon.]

This is the land-meer of the three hides at Nymed. First to Copelanstan [the stone of Copela]; from that stone westwards on to the high road at Eisandune; then therefrom westward to the high road at Red Flood; therefrom to Sedgbrook's head; therefrom down Sedgebrook to where the lake [stream] strikes west; therefrom out on Heathfield to the gutter-head; from the gutter down on Hane; therefrom adown along stream to where Rushbrook strikes on Nymed; therefrom eastward on Rushbrook to Shipbrook; then up Shipbrook and so back to Copelanstan.

[Latin.]

Moreover this aforesaid grant was made in the year of the Incarnation of our Lord DCCCCLXXIIII. In the second Indiction. These are the witnesses of this grant whose names are here written.

✠ I, Edgar, King, have confirmed the aforesaid grant.		I, Ælfthryth, Queen have consented.
✠ I, Dunstan, Archbishop of Canterbury, have corroborated it.		✠ I, Ælfhere, Duke.
✠ I, Oswold, Archbishop of York, have strengthened it.		✠ I, Æthelwine, Duke.
✠ I, Athelwold, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Ælfric, Abbot.	✠ I, Byrhtnod, Duke.
✠ I, Ælfstan, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Æsywig, Abbot.	✠ I, Oslac, Duke.
✠ I, Alfwold, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Osgar, Abbot.	✠ I, Ælfwerd, Minister.
✠ I, Ælfstan, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Æthelgar, Abbot.	✠ I, Æthelwerd, Minister.
✠ I, Cynewerd, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Ælfnod, Abbot.	✠ I, Eanulf, Minister.
✠ I, Ælfstan, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Sigar, Abbot.	✠ I, Ælfsige, Minister,
✠ I, Eadelm, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Ælfhen, Abbot.	✠ I, Æthelmer, Minister.
✠ I, ———, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Byrhten, Abbot.	✠ I, Leofwine, Minister.
✠ I, Sideman, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Godwine, Abbot.	✠ I, Æthelwerd, Minister.
✠ I, Athulf, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Leofric, Abbot.	✠ I, Wulfstan, Minister.
✠ I, Theodred, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Æthelsige, Abbot.	✠ I, Byrhtmer, Minister.
✠ I, Wulfsige, Bishop, have strengthened it.	✠ I, Oswerd, Abbot.	✠ I, Æthelsige, Minister.

Digitized by Google

On the dorse.

[Latin.]

This charter is entitled below.

[Saxon.]

Copulastane's deed.

This is the deed of the three hydes at Nymed, which King Edgar bestowed upon Ælfhere his thane in perpetual inheritance.

[Latin.]

This is the charter of the land which is called Copulastan which the reverend priest Brihtric gave for the relief of his soul and the souls of his parents to the Monastery of Saint Mary, which is in Crydiatun, for the maintenance of the canons serving God therein. If any one therefore shall take it away from the aforesaid place or in anywise diminish it, may he be stricken with a perpetual curse and perish everlastingly with the Devil unless he strive by due reparation to make atonement.

N.B.—It is worthy of remark that the cross which is prefixed to the name of each witness is omitted before that of Queen Ælfthrith.

IV. CALENDARS.

In my Twenty-sixth Report to Your Majesty (§ VII.), I mentioned that Mr. Roberts, then Secretary of this Department, had, with the assent of the Treasury, compiled for publication and sale a Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions for the reigns of Henry III. and Edward I. The work was published in two volumes, under the title of "Calendarium Genealogicum," and is of great value for elucidating the early history of the nobility and landed gentry. Mr. Roberts had continued the Calendar for a small portion of the reign of Edward II., but his retirement from the Office prevented his completing that reign. He has placed his materials, so far as collected, at the disposal of this Office, and I annex them to this Report (App. I. No. 2.), as affording considerable assistance in genealogical inquiries of that period.

Another volume of the Calendar of the Foreign Series of State Papers, for the years 1564 and 1565, edited by Mr. Stevenson, was published during the year. It especially treats of the differences between the Courts of France and England, arising chiefly from the struggles between the Huguenots and the House of Guise, which were settled by the Treaty of Troyes, 11th April 1564. Very graphic details are given of a pestilence in France, especially in Lyons; but the chief interest of the volume consists in the Documents throwing light upon the history of Mary Queen of Scots, and her marriage with Darnley.

Mrs. Green has finished another volume of the Calendar of the Domestic State Papers, coming down to the end of the reign of Queen Elizabeth; it contains also the Papers which were omitted in the first volume of this series, extending from 1547 to 1565, and comprising the reigns of Edward VI. and Mary, and the first six years of the reign of Elizabeth. It is expected that the addenda yet to be published will occupy two more volumes, and will extend to the end of the reign of James I. In addition to a large number of Border Papers, the principal contents of the present volume are the proceedings against the adherents of the Earl of Essex, the controversy between the Jesuits in England and the secular priests, and minute details of the illness and death of Elizabeth.

Digitized by Google

A Calendar of Irish State Papers of the reign of James I. has been commenced. It will comprise all Papers relating to Ireland of that reign in this Office, the Public Record Office of Ireland, the British Museum, the Bodleian Library, &c. It is hoped that the first volume will be published early in the year 1871. The Calendar is edited by Dr. Russell and Mr. Prendergast, the Commissioners lately employed on the Carte Papers.

Don Pascual De Gayangos, to whom has been entrusted the calendaring of the Spanish Series of State Papers, in the room of the late Mr. Bergenroth (as mentioned in my last Report), has commenced his researches in the Archives of Simancas, and in other places in Spain. He has visited Brussels and Vienna, and has collected manuscripts and materials for the Calendar.

Among other works in preparation, the following were nearly ready for publication at the end of the year: The third Volume of Colonial Papers, relating to the East Indies, China, and Japan; the Second Volume of Treasury Papers, to the end of the reign of William III.; and the First Part of the Fourth Volume of Letters and Papers of the reign of Henry VIII. A Volume of Venetian State Papers was also on the eve of completion; and, in connexion with this, Mr. Rawdon Brown has forwarded to the Public Record Office, during the past year, seven additional Manuscripts of valuable Transcripts of Venetian Documents, making a total of 37 volumes so deposited.

A Calendar of the Earl of Macclesfield's Letters is in progress for the Historical Manuscripts Commission.

In the Appendix (App. I. No. 6.), a List is given of the Calendars of State Papers published in 1870, and of those in progress. The sale of the series had amounted on 31 December 1870 to 6,505 volumes.

A List of the additions in 1870 to the Calendars, Inventories, Transcripts, &c., in the Search Office, to which the public have access, has also been compiled (Appendix I. No. 5.).

On 20 March 1868 (as mentioned in my last two Reports), a Return was ordered, by the House of Commons, of the number of Enrolments in Chancery, effected to the end of 1865 in pursuance of the Statute 9 Geo. II. c. xxxvi. entituled "An Act to restrain the dispositions of Lands, whereby the "same become unalienable." In order to make a satisfactory Return from this Office to the House of Commons, it became necessary, for the reign of Your Majesty, to search through the Close Rolls themselves, as the indexes did not afford sufficient information. A senior Clerk (Mr. Kingston), and three junior Clerks were employed on the Return from April 1868 to June 1870; the number of entries carefully perused amounted to 34,977; the whole number referring to gifts for charitable and religious purposes. Mr. Kingston utilized the materials on which the officers were working, by making a Calendar of all Trust Deeds relating to Charities, for the period from 9 Geo. II. to 1865. I have the honour to submit this Calendar to Your Majesty, in the present Report (Appendix II. No. 1.). Although it extends to a considerable length, yet I trust that the valuable information which it conveys with respect to two of the prominent political questions of the present time, Education and Public Charities, fully justifies the expense of printing the Calendar. Its preparation is very creditable to Mr. Kingston and the officers employed under his direction.

V. CARTE AND CAREW PAPERS.

Carte Papers.

In my Thirty-first Report (§ VI.) I stated to Your Majesty that the Commissioners appointed to select Irish Official Documents for transcription from the Carte Papers in the Bodleian Library, Oxford, had completed their duties, and that they were preparing a General Report upon the Carte Manuscripts. The Report has been completed, and the Lords of Your Majesty's Treasury requested the Master of the Rolls to convey to the Carte Commissioners (Dr. Russell and Mr. Prendergast) their Lordships' satisfaction and approval of the manner in which they had discharged their Commission.

The information which their Report contains respecting the Carte Papers, as well as the History of Ireland, is of such great interest and value as to render it necessary to annex it to my present Report (Appendix I. No. 1).

The transcription of the selected Carte Documents has been continued during 1870; and other volumes of the Transcripts have been received at this Office in duplicate. One set has been forwarded to the Public Record Office of Ireland according to the direction of the Treasury.

Carew Papers.

The Calendar of these Papers, preserved in Lambeth Library, has been continued. The fourth volume, extending from 1601 to 1603, with an appendix from 1561, was published in April. It comprises many documents relating to the conduct of the Earl of Essex while commanding in Ireland. The letters of Sir Robert Cecil here calendared represent him in a more engaging light than any hitherto published; and there are many interesting particulars in the volume relating to the manners of

Digitized by Google

473

Elizabeth's court, the discontents of her courtiers, the siege of Kinsale, and other subjects. The fifth volume is passing through the press; the Book of Howth and the Chronicle of Thomas Bray form the first two portions. The remaining portion will consist of a Calendar of the Miscellaneous Papers collected by Carew, from the reign of Henry II. to that of Henry VII.

VI. CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

The publication of this series, illustrating the History of Great Britain and Ireland, from the earliest period to the end of the reign of Henry VII., has been continued during the year. Four volumes were published, and several others were on the point of completion at the close of the year. 104 volumes of the series have been already issued, and 22,653 volumes have been sold. 925 copies were sold during the year. I have mentioned in previous Reports that these works continue to maintain their value and reputation, not only in this country, but on the Continent of Europe and in America. In the course of last year, on the application of Mr. J. L. Motley, the American Minister and Historian, a grant of them, and of the Calendars of State Papers, was made to the State Historical Society of Wisconsin, United States. It is gratifying to find that the reception of these volumes has been mentioned in the following manner in the Seventeenth Annual Report of the Society; after an allusion to them, and to some of the same series previously received, it is observed that "Whatever relates "to early English history, her colonies, her primitive manners "and customs, and the genealogy of her families, has an inti- "mate relation with American history, genealogy, and habits of "thought. In all our American history there is so intimate, "a blending of our own with the annals of the fatherland, that "our growth and progress cannot be properly delineated without "constant reference to these blending relations.

"To trace these to their original sources we must necessarily "resort to these Record Publications of Great Britain, pub- "lished and disseminated by her munificent liberality. These "records extend as far back as the fifth century, and relate to "English history, public records, ancient laws and jurispru- "dence of England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales, domestic habits "and customs of the people, early chronicles and ecclesias- "tical records, colonial affairs, and upon almost every subject "of public policy pertaining to all the great historic periods "of Great Britain. We cannot sufficiently express our high "appreciation of these invaluable records, and of our gratitude "to the British Government for them."

Digitized by Google

VII. NEW BLOCK OF RECORD REPOSITORY.

Since my last Report to Your Majesty (§ IX.), the East Wing and other portions of the building have been completed under the direction of Sir James Pennethorne, the Architect of the New Repository. A contract for the iron presses and other fittings required therein was entered into by the First Commissioner of Your Majesty's Works, in August 1870, and it is expected that the building will be ready for occupation before Lady Day 1871.

The necessary notices have been given by the First Commissioner to enable him to apply to Parliament in the coming session for powers to purchase a blacksmith's shop and other buildings in close and dangerous proximity to the Record Office, especially to the Domesday Tower; near which buildings a fire has actually occurred, as mentioned in my last Report.

VIII. FEES: GOVERNMENT AND OTHER BUSINESS: &c.

The amount of business in the Search Office, and of Fees received, in 1870, is as follows:—

	£	s.	d.
831 Copies - - -	468	10	0
143 Attendances - -	132	1	6
	£600	11	6

The total amount of Fees received, and paid to the account of the Consolidated Fund, from 1840, is 24,247*l.* 10*s.* 9*d.*

The amount of work (except office-copies) performed specially for Government Departments during 1870, is as follows:—

NUMBER of SEARCHES, INSPECTIONS, ISSUES, and RETURNS of GOVERNMENT PAPERS, for GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS, in 1870.

Departments.	Number of Searches or Applications.	Number of Inspections, Issues, Returns, &c.
Treasury - - - - - -	44	200
„ (Solicitor) - - - -	6	14
Colonial Office - - - - -	69	837
War Office - - - - -	182	3,052
Admiralty (Whitehall) - - -	33	537
(Somerset House) - - -	29	209
Exchequer and Audit Department - -	15	158
Patent Office - - - -	44	65
Total - - - -	422	5,072

Digitized by Google

475

The preceding table does not give an adequate idea of the extent of business for the Government Departments, as searches on references from them often occupy several days.

The Commissioners of the Board of Trade have consented to throw open their Records to the public to the end of the reign of George III.

The examination into the documents belonging to the late Masters of the Court of Chancery (Thirtieth Report, § III., Thirty-first Report, § XII.) has been continued.

The Letters which had been taken from the volumes formerly in the possession of the Philadelphia Library Company, and purchased as stated in the Thirty-first Report, have been transmitted to the Public Record Office of Ireland, for insertion in the volumes to which they belong.

Some of the Officers of this Department continue to render assistance to the Historical Manuscripts Commission, in calendaring, arranging, and reporting on the documents intrusted to the Commissioners. Many of these documents have also been arranged, flattened, repaired, and bound in this Office.

IX. TRANSFERS AND REMOVALS.

In the Fourteenth Report (I. § 3), it was stated that the Queen's Remembrancer in the Exchequer thought it necessary to retain in his possession certain documents required for carrying on the business of the Office, instead of transferring them to this Office, pursuant to the Public Records Act. Most of these documents have since been so transmitted, but seven of the volumes called "Tot Books," "Foreign Apposer's Books," and "Abstracts of Charters," were transferred by the Queen's Remembrancer, by direction of the Treasury, to the Examiners of Sheriffs' Accounts, pursuant to the Statute 22 & 23 Vict. c. 21. s. 39. In the course of last year, the ancient and valuable Record called the "Liber Rubeus" was removed to this Office. The only documents mentioned in the Fourteenth Report now remaining in the custody of the Remembrancer are—

2 folio volumes called "Minute Books," being Minutes of Orders of Court, 1795–1833.

1 vol. of Statutes, 1 Edw. III.–39 Hen. VI.

1 vol. containing the Proceedings upon the trials of the Pix Juries, 1734–1851.

With respect to the Minute Books, and the volume of Statutes, the Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer certified to the Master of the Rolls, 11 May 1870, that in his opinion it would be conducive to the due performance of the business of the Court of Exchequer, that they should still remain in the custody of the Remembrancer. This certificate will permit the Remembrancer to retain them for another year. The book relating to the Pix Juries was not of sufficient age for transfer, all the entries therein not being twenty years old.

Digitized by Google

The Historical Manuscripts Commissioners have deposited in this office three volumes, and an Index volume, of a Heraldic and Genealogical Collection relating to Wales, and to the settlers therein, known as "The Golden Grove Book," placed in their care by the Earl of Cawdor; they are deposited under the following conditions:—

That the public may have access to them; that the volumes are to be properly preserved and taken care of; and that the Earl of Cawdor or his heirs may at any time hereafter remove them from the Record Office upon giving a receipt for them.

The Commissioners have also deposited in this office, for public use, Transcripts of certain Papers belonging to W. Phelips, Esq., of Montacute House, Somersetshire, relating to the Gunpowder Plot.

The details of the Transfers in 1870 are as follows:—

1. TRANSFERS INTO THE PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE.

CHANCERY:—

- Accountant-General's Certificates, 1726–1799; 210 bundles.
- Affidavits, 1700–1842; 576 bundles.
- Ditto, Registers, 1615–1746; 53 volumes.
- Ditto, Indexes, 1781–1842; 27 volumes.
- Awards and Agreements, 1694–1799; 10 bundles.
- Bill Books, 1801–1842; 70 volumes.
- Bills, Answers, Depositions, &c., 1801–1842; 3193 bundles.
- Decrees and Orders, A., 1751–1799; 58 volumes.
- Decrees and Orders, B., 1751–1799; 57 volumes.
- Decrees and Orders, Indexes A., 1751–1799; 49 volumes.
- Decrees and Orders, Indexes B., 1751–1799; 49 volumes.
- Leases, &c., 1697–1797; 1 bundle.
- Masters' Reports, &c., 1751–1799; 16 bundles and 341 volumes.
- Masters' Reports, &c., Indexes, 1751–1799; 49 volumes.
- Masters' Reports, &c., Exceptions to, 1716–1799; 7 bundles.
- Miscellaneous Papers, 1660–1790; 1 bundle.
- Wills, &c., 1669–1799; 1 bundle.

From Clerks of Records and Writs; 22 to 24 February 1870; Pursuant to Warrant dated 10 February 1870.

- Close Rolls, 1867; from Enrolment Office; 5 January 1870; 140 rolls.
- Decrees, and Dockets; from Clerks of Records and Writs; 119 Decrees, and 119 Dockets.

Digitized by Google

477

CHANCERY—continued.

Recognizance Rolls, 1867; from Enrolment Office; 5 January 1870; 8 rolls.

Specification Disclaimers; from Enrolment Office; 5 January 1870; 1 roll.

EXCHEQUER OF PLEAS:—

Accruing Records, 1843–1849; 24 February 1870: pursuant to Warrant dated 8 February 1870, as follows:—

Affidavits, General, (used on motions), 1843–1849; 530 bundles.

Declarations in Ejectment, 1843–1849; 32 bundles.

„ Indexes, 1830–1852; 2 volumes.

Judgment Rolls, 1843–1849; 28 rolls.

Ditto Books, „ „ 28 volumes.

Ditto Ditto, Indexes, „ „ 14 volumes.

Proceedings in Outlawry, with Index, 1832–1849; 1 volume.

Rule Books, 1843–1849; 7 volumes.

Rules to Plead, „ „ 7 volumes.

Term Papers, „ „ 28 bundles.

Warrants of Attorney and Cognovits, „ „ 27 bundles.

EXCHEQUER:—

Queen's Remembrancer:—

Accruing Records, to 1850; 22 June 1870; pursuant to Warrant dated 17 May 1870, as follows:—

Liber Rubeus, or, The Red Book of the Exchequer.

Revenue Prosecutions' Department.

Book of Entries, 1828–1840, and 1840–1842; 2 books.

Books of Orders, Hilary 1843–Mich. 1850; 8 books.

Commission of Partition; Lister v. Lister, 1838 (in the late Equity Side of Exchequer); 1 parcel.

Escheat, Maria Serena Lowe; 1849; 1 Escheat.

Excise Informations, Index, 1798–1830, and Mich. 1830; 2 books.

Excise Writs and Posteas, Index; 1 book.

Exemplifications of Judgments, 1841–1845; 4 Exemplifications.

Informations, Hil. 1843–Mich. 1850, Nos. 1 to 1174; 8 bundles.

Memoranda Rolls, Mich. 1842, 6 Vict. to Trinity 1850, 13 Vict.; 8 rolls.

Memoranda, Addenda; Trinity 1837 to Trinity 1848, 1 to 11 Vict.; 1 roll.

Memoranda, Agenda Book, Hil. 1843, 6 Vict. to Easter 1849, 12 Vict.; 1 book.

Special Commissions and Inquisitions as to Duty on Coals, 1838–1846; 29 parcels.

Writs and Postea, 1 January 1843 to end of 1850, Nos. 1 to 1450; 11 bundles.

Digitized by Google

EXCHEQUER—Queen's Remembrancer—continued.

Sheriffs' Department.

Claims of Lords of Liberties to Fines, &c., 1843–1848; 1 parcel.

Excise Accounts, 1844–1849; 7 parcels.

Originalia Rolls, 8 to 14 Vict.; 1 parcel.

„ Index; 1 roll.

ADMIRALTY (Whitehall):—

Correspondence, 1830–1839; 1331 volumes, bundles, &c., 17–23 May 1870; pursuant to Admiralty Letter of 2 April 1870.

HOME OFFICE:—

Alien Certificates, &c.; 14 November 1870; 157 volumes, bundles, &c.; pursuant to Home Office Letter of 1 November 1870.

COLONIAL OFFICE:—

New Brunswick Despatches, 1784–1867; 7 November 1870; 62 volumes: pursuant to Colonial Office Letter of 5 November 1870.

WAR OFFICE:—

Discharge Documents, 1869; 22 April 1870; 135 bundles: pursuant to War Office Letter of 12 April 1870.

Recruiting District Pay Lists, 1863–March 1867; 12 August 1870; 198 volumes: pursuant to War Office Letter of 29 July 1870.

Regimental Pay Lists, 1863–4 and 1864–5; 12 July 1870; 442 volumes: pursuant to War Office Letter of 2 July 1870.

2. TRANSFERS FROM THE PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE.

TO GENERAL REGISTER OFFICE:—

Registrars of the Ionian Islands, 1818–1864; 19 July 1870: pursuant to Colonial Office Letters of 5 and 18 July 1870: as follows:—

No.

1. Baptisms, Island of Corfu, 1835–1855.
2. Births, „ „ and Ionian Islands, 1818–1863.
3. Births, Island of Cephalonia, 1848–1864.
4. Marriages, Notices of, Corfu, 1860–1864.

Digitized by Google

479

To GENERAL REGISTER OFFICE—continued.

No.

5. Marriages, Notices of, Cephalonia, 1861–1864.
6. „ „ Ste Maura, 1860–1864 (unbound).
7. „ „ Paxo, 1864.
8. „ Register of, Ionian Islands, 1861–1864.
9. „ Certificates of, „ „ , 1818–1859.
10. „ „ „ „ „ , 1859.
11. „ „ „ „ „ , 1861–1864 (unbound).
12. Burials, Register of, Corfu, 1836–1855.
13. Deaths, „ Corfu and Ionian Islands, 1845–1863.
14. Deaths, Register of, Cephalonia, 1863 and 1864.
15. Births, Register of, Cerigo, } Blank Books of Forms pursuant to Act 23 & 24 Vict. cap. 86.
16. „ „ Paxo, }
17. Marriages, Notices of, Cerigo, }
18. Deaths, Register of, „ }
19. „ „ Paxo, }

X. ARRANGEMENT, REPAIRS, BINDING, AND SIMILAR OPERATIONS.

CHANCERY:—

Accountant-General's Certificates, 1726–1799; 210 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Affidavits, 1700–1842; 576 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Affidavits (Registers), 1615–1746; 53 volumes numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Affidavits (Indexes), 1781–1842; 27 volumes numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Awards and Agreements, 1694–1799; 10 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Bill Books, 1801–1842; 70 volumes numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Bills and Answers, &c., 1801–1842; 3193 bundles numbered, ticketed, indorsements re-sewed, and placed in presses; List.

Charities; 23,975 slips of Calendar to, mounted alphabetically on cartridge paper for binding.

Close Rolls; 140 rolls numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; 1 roll (Chas. I.) partly repaired: 44 membranes repaired and sewed; 8 covers repaired; List.

Decree Rolls; 38 rolls ticketed.

Decrees; 615 membrances sewed, and made into 11 rolls.

Decrees and Orders, 1751–1799; 213 volumes numbered ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Fine Rolls; 6 covers repaired.

Inquisitions; 5 membranes sewed.

Digitized by Google

CHANCERY—continued.

Leases, &c., 1697–1797; 1 bundle numbered, ticketed, and placed in press.

Masters' Reports, &c., 1751–1799; 390 volumes and 23 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List; 2 sewed; 1 volume, binding repaired.

Miscellaneous; 1 bundle numbered, ticketed, and placed in press; List; 11 plans mounted on cloth.

Parliament Rolls; 1079 rolls ticketed; 2 membranes repaired; new List of 5364 rolls printed.

Patent Rolls; 19 rolls ticketed, 6 membranes, and 3 covers repaired; 1 membrane flattened and repaired: 2 sewings.

Petitions to Parliament; 1 membrane repaired.

Placita Forestæ; 1 membrane repaired.

Recognizance Rolls, 1867; 8 rolls numbered, ticketed, and placed in press; List.

Specification Rolls; 1 roll numbered, ticketed, and placed in press.

Masters' Office:—

Books, Bundles, &c.; examination continued.

QUEEN'S BENCH:—

Crown Side:—

Controlment Roll; 1 cover flattened and repaired.

Coram Rege Roll; 1 cover flattened and repaired.

Plea Side:—

Accruing Records, 1843–1848; 17 volumes and 81 rolls and bundles dusted, ticketed, arranged, packed, numbered, &c.; List; 5706 membranes flattened.

Petitions and Affidavits; 42 bundles opened and flattened; 2 membranes repaired.

COMMON PLEAS:—

Feet of Fines; 26 bundles sorted and arranged; 297 membranes repaired, guarded, and filed; 342 membranes flattened, repaired, and re-filed; 170 membranes repaired; 2 volumes, binding repaired; Hen. III.–Rich. III., marked, numbered, and arranged; Rich. I.–Rich. III., Norfolk and Northampton, 5568 documents arranged chronologically.

EXCHEQUER OF PLEAS:—

Affidavits, General, 1843–1849; 530 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Declarations in Ejectment, 1843–1849, and Indexes, 1830–1852; 32 bundles and 2 volumes numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Judgment Rolls and Books, 1843–1849; 28 rolls and 42 volumes numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Digitized by Google

EXCHEQUER OF PLEAS—continued.

Outlawry Proceedings, 1832–1849; 1 volume numbered, ticketed, and placed in press.
Rule Book, 1843–1849; 7 volumes numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.
Rules to Plead, 1843–1849; 7 volumes numbered, ticketed, and placed in press; List.
Term Papers, 1843–1849; 28 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in press; List.
Warrants of Attorney and Cognovits, 1843–1849; 27 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

EXCHEQUER:—

Queen's Remembrancer:—

Alien Priory Accounts; 11 bundles arranged; slips prepared for binding.
Army Accounts; 10 volumes of slips prepared for binding.
Church Goods; 141 membranes, flattened, repaired, and guarded; 1 sewing; 4 volumes of slips prepared for binding.
Claims of Lords of Liberties to Fines, &c., 1843–1848; 1 bundle numbered, ticketed, and placed in press.
Commission of Partition, 1838; 1 bundle numbered, ticketed, and placed in press.
Conventual Leases; 144 documents identified with slips.
Depositions taken by Commission, Chas. I.; 1113 files arranged and ticketed; 3 membranes repaired.
Entries, Book of, 1828–1842; 2 volumes numbered, ticketed, and placed in press; List.
Equitium Regis; 11 bundles of slips numbered, and prepared for binding.
Escheat, 1849; numbered, ticketed, and placed in press.
Excise Accounts, 1844–1849; 7 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in press; List.
Excise Informations, Index, 1798–1830; 2 volumes numbered, ticketed, and placed in press; List.
Excise Writs and Posteas, Index; 1 volume numbered, ticketed, and placed in press.
Exemplifications of Judgments, 1841–1845; 4 documents numbered, ticketed, and placed in press; List.
Forest Accounts; 19 bundles of slips numbered, and prepared for binding.
Household and Wardrobe Accounts; 29 bundles; documents numbered, compared with slips, and prepared for binding.
Informations, 1843–1850; 8 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in press: List.
Memoranda Rolls, 1837–1850; 9 rolls numbered, ticketed, and placed in press; List.

Digitized by Google

EXCHEQUER—Queen's Remembrancer—continued.

Memoranda Rolls (Agenda Book), 1843–1849; 1 volume numbered, ticketed, and placed in press.

Ministers' and Receivers' Accounts, Hen. VIII. and Eliz.; rolls ticketed and arranged; List and descriptive slips in progress.

Mint Accounts; bundles and slips arranged and numbered.

Miscellaneous; arrangement, sorting, and describing, continued; 1 membrane repaired.

Navy Accounts; bundles and slips arranged and numbered.

Nuncii, Documents relating to; arrangement in progress; bundles and slips numbered.

Orders, Books of; 8 volumes numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Originalia Rolls, 8–14 Vict., and Index: 1 bundle and 1 roll numbered, ticketed, and placed in press; List.

Particulars for Grants; 1 membrane repaired.

Pipe Leases, Jas. I.–Commonwealth; List in progress.

Red Book of the Exchequer; ticketed and placed in press.

Ships, Clerk of the, Documents relating to; slips, &c., numbered and arranged.

Special Commissions and Inquisitions as to duty on Coals, 1838–1846; 29 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Subsidies; in continuation; numbered, identified; slips sorted, arranged, &c.; new slips made; 113 leaves mended.

Writs and Posteas, 1843–1850; 11 bundles numbered, ticketed, and placed in presses; List.

Treasury of the Receipt:—

Scottish Documents; 9 seals repaired.

COURT OF STAR CHAMBER:—

Proceedings of; sorted, preparatory to calendar; 128 membranes numbered and stamped.

DURHAM, PALATINATE OF:—

Cursitor's Records; documents in 472 bundles stamped; 30 membranes flattened; 24 membranes repaired; 4 membranes sewed; 1 new cover.

Kellawe's Register; rebound.

Records; arrangement continued; Lists.

LANCASTER, DUCHY OF:—

Charters; continued; 493 identified with Calendar, arranged, numbered, and stamped; 264 seals cleaned, placed in wadding, &c.; List.

Digitized by Google

LANCASTER, DUCHY OF—continued.

Decrees and Orders; 47 volumes numbered.

Inquisitions post mortem; 30 volumes numbered; 3 volumes, binding repaired.

Ministers' Accounts; 378 Accounts ticketed, indorsed, and packed in 23 bundles; 9729 membranes stamped, tied up, and ticketed.

Miscellaneous; 56 bundles and boxes, contents identified, dusted, packed, and ticketed; 1471 documents labelled and indorsed; 9 volumes bound; 21,533 membranes stamped; 127 membranes sewed.

Parliamentary Surveys; 92 files flattened, dusted, identified, and numbered; 989 membranes stamped, packed in bundles, and ticketed.

Proceedings; 213 volumes numbered; 168 bundles arranged, re-tied, and numbered.

WELSH:—

Depositions (Denbigh), Eliz.; 3 membranes flattened and mended.

Plea Rolls (Chester); 3 covers repaired.

ADMIRALTY:—

Correspondence, 1830–1839; 1331 volumes, bundles, &c., arranged, ticketed, placed away, &c.; List.

AUDIT OFFICE:—

Declared Accounts; 39 rolls, 48 bundles, and 50 volumes dusted; 86 bundles arranged under titles of Accounts; List.

Declared Accounts (Irish); 2910 rolls dusted, numbered, and tied up in 144 bundles; List.

Declared Accounts, Excise; 803 rolls dusted, numbered, arranged, and tied up in 17 bundles; List.

Miscellaneous; classified, arranged, &c.; Lists; 120 leaves sized.

Salt and Stamp Accounts; 492 volumes dusted and arranged.

COLONIAL OFFICE:—

Correspondence, &c.; 143 volumes arranged, placed away, ticketed, &c.; List.

FOREIGN OFFICE:—

Correspondence, Eliz.; 16 volumes repaired, guarded, and bound; 1390 documents identified with printed Calendars, numbered, &c., previously to binding; 4677 leaves sized, guarded, and repaired; 6 leaves separated and flattened.

Denmark; 222 leaves separated, sized, repaired, and guarded.

German States; 2263 membranes numbered and stamped.

Holland; 31 volumes and 189 bundles, 60,318 leaves, numbered and stamped.

Digitized by Google

HOME OFFICE:—

Alien Certificates, 1836–1846; 157 volumes arranged; List.

Domestic, Chas. I.; 1 volume bound; 24 volumes, leaves sized, repaired, &c.;—Geo. II.; 211 leaves sized, guarded, repaired, &c.

PATENT OFFICE:—

Specifications; 23 Plans re-annexed.

TREASURY:—

Registered Papers; chronological arrangement and incorporation continued; 496 bundles tied up, ticketed, &c.; 54 bundles incorporated with regular series, and numbered; 2604 leaves sized, repaired, flattened, tied up in bundles, and ticketed; 25 documents separated and flattened; 23 leaves repaired.

WAR OFFICE:—

Discharges, 1869; 135 bundles arranged, tied up, placed away, ticketed, &c.; List.

Militia Papers; 81 bundles examined, dusted, arranged in numerical order, tied up, and ticketed.

Monthly Returns, to 1800; 183 bundles arranged, tied up, and ticketed.

Papers; 930 bundles examined, dusted, arranged in numerical order, tied up, and ticketed.

Recruiting District Pay Lists, 1863–1867; 198 volumes arranged, tied up, placed away, ticketed, &c.; List.

Regimental Pay Lists, 1863–1865; 442 volumes arranged, placed away, ticketed, &c.; List.

Binding: — 22 volumes bound or repaired; 2 volumes flattened; 4 leaves repaired; 2 volumes lettered; Lists sewed, &c.

Search Offices:—65,500 membranes stamped on production to Inquirers.

HISTORICAL MANUSCRIPTS COMMISSION:—

Abingdon, Corporation of; Manuscripts repaired and bound.

Golden Grove Book; 4 volumes stamped.

Standish Papers; sorted; 55 parchment Deeds, Edw. III., flattened and mended.

XI. INVENTORIES.

CALENDARS, INDEXES, &c., IN PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE:—

Additions to Inventory (see Appendix I. No. 5).

DURHAM, PALATINATE OF:—continued.

LANCASTER, DUCHY OF:—continued.

Digitized by Google

XII. CALENDARS AND CATALOGUES.

CHANCERY :—
Charities, Trust Deeds relating to ; (see Appendix II. No. 1.).
Close Rolls ; continued to 39 Hen. III.
Decrees, Vict. ; 8 Rolls, 145 Decrees.
Patent Rolls, 4 Edw. I., completed, 2226 more entries ; 5 Edw. I., in progress, 2291 entries.

EXCHEQUER :—
Queen's Remembrancer :—
Church Goods ; additions to Calendar.
Depositions by Commission, Chas. I. ; commenced.
Miscellaneous ; in progress.

DURHAM, PALATINATE OF :—
Chancery :—
Cursitor's Records ; Bishop's Rolls, continued ; (see Appendix I. No. 3).

LANCASTER, DUCHY OF :—
Chancery Rolls ; (see Appendix I. No. 4).

WELSH :—
Recognizance Rolls, 1–20 Hen. VIII., continued ; 495 entries, 1782 cross references, in alphabetical arrangement.

LETTERS AND PAPERS, FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC :—
Hen. VIII., continued ; in manuscript to 1530 ; printed to March 1527.

COLONIAL OFFICE :—
Colonial ; East Indies, China, and Japan ; concluded to 1621

FOREIGN OFFICE :—
Foreign, Eliz. ; continued in manuscript to end of 1568 ; printed to end of 1566.

HOME OFFICE :—
Domestic, Eliz. and Jas. I., continued ; Addenda printed to 1580.
Domestic, Chas. I. ; continued ; printed to March 1639.
Irish, Eliz. ; continued ; printed to April 1586.
Irish, Jas. I. ; in manuscript to 1605.

TREASURY :—
Registered Papers ; printed to March 1702 (end of Will. III.).

HISTORICAL MANUSCRIPTS COMMISSION :—
Earl of Macclesfield's Papers, in progress ; 14 bundles, 1640 documents, done.

Digitized by Google

XIII. INDEXES.

CHANCERY:—
Petitions to Parliament; continued.

COMMON PLEAS:—
Feet of Fines, 1–8 Will. III.; continued:—also, Edw. I.–Rich. III.; divers counties, 2786 documents.

EXCHEQUER:—
Queen's Remembrancer:—
Affidavits, 1836; in progress.

STATE PAPERS:—
Domestic, Geo. I.; 219 instruments.
„ Geo. II.; 1446 instruments.
„ Geo. IV.; 1365 instruments.
Indexes to Printed Calendars.

TREASURY:—
Registered Papers; Index to Calendar.

All which is humbly submitted to Your Majesty.
Dated this 23rd day of February 1871.

(Signed) T. DUFFUS HARDY,
Deputy Keeper of the Public Records.

I most humbly certify to Your Majesty that this Report is made by the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, under my direction, pursuant to the Statute.

(Signed) ROMILLY, M.R.

Digitized by Google

APPENDIX I.

TO

THE THIRTY-SECOND REPORT OF THE DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS.

No. 1.—CARTE PAPERS. FINAL REPORT of the COMMISSIONERS for Selecting Official Papers for transcription from the CARTE PAPERS in the Bodleian Library.

The FINAL REPORT of C. W. RUSSELL, D.D., and JOHN P. PRENDERGAST, Esq., engaged under the terms of the Treasury letter to the Master of the Rolls, dated 30th May 1865, in selecting Official Papers for transcription from the Carte Papers at the Bodleian Library, Oxford, for the year 1869; in continuation of their former Reports of 1865, 1866, 1867, and 1868.

CONTENTS.

INTRODUCTION.

	Page
Instructions to Commissioners for Selection of Papers	3, 4
Letter to Lord Romilly, and his Answer	4, 5

PART I.

HISTORY OF THE FORMATION OF THE CARTE COLLECTION.

Carte's Life and Literary Undertakings. A.D. 1715–1754	5, 6
His Will, with Bequest of his Collections to his Wife. 20 July 1752	7
Her Will, bequeathing them to the Bodleian Library after her second husband's death. 22 Sept. 1764	8
Carte before his Death deposits the Ormonde Papers at the Bodleian.	ib.
Seemingly by Earl of Arran's orders	9
Carte's searches for Papers illustrative of Ormonde's Life	9–13
Sir George Lane's Papers. Sketch of his Life	14
Sir Robert Southwell's Papers. Sketch of his Life	15–17
Papers found in Ormonde's Red Box at his death	18–21
"The Fitzwilliam Papers"	22
"The Chichester," "Sandwich," "Wharton," "Huntingdon," and "Nairne" Papers	23–26
Miscellaneous Ormonde Papers	26

PART II.

CONTENTS OF THE CARTE COLLECTION.

Catalogue of the Collection (272 Vols.). Short Notices of the several Vols.	30–67
The Ormonde Volumes arranged chronologically	69
Historical Outline: the War of 1641; the Protectorate; the Restoration; the Settlement; Ormonde's later Lord Lieutenancies	70–71

1.—ORMONDE'S ENTRY BOOKS (EXTRACTS AND SPECIMENS), A.D. 1644–1647.

Passes and Protections	73
Warrants for coining Gold Trinkets into Money	75
Commissions to Confederate Commanders on Peace of 1646	76

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

CONTENTS—cont.

2.—ORMONDE'S ENTRY BOOKS (EXTRACTS AND SPECIMENS), A.D. 1649, 1650. Page

(a.) As Lord Lieutenant of King Charles II. among the Irish; his civil Appointments - - - - - - - 77
(b.) His Military Commissions to Irish - - - - - - ib.
(c.) His Letting of Absentees' and Delinquents' (Protestants') Lands - 78
(d.) His Administration of Justice - - - - - - 79
(e.) His Orders for distressed Proprietors and inhabitants of Towns - 80
(f.) His Orders for Relief of pillaged Protestant Clergy - - - 83
(g.) His Orders on Claims of Catholic Secular Clergy - - - 83, 84
(h.) His Orders on Claims of Regulars to Old Abbeys - - - 84
(i.) His Orders for Relief of Abbesses, with their dispersed Nuns - - ib.
(j.) Orders for Relief of oppressed Wandering Creaghts - - - ib.
(k.) His Orders for Relief of those pillaged by the Ulster Army - - 85
(l.) Order concerning Lands deserted and waste through the War - - 85, 86

3.—ENTRY BOOKS (EXTRACTS AND SPECIMENS), A.D. 1660–1685.

Custodiams of Connaught Lots of restored Transplanters - - - 86
Custodiams of Retrenchments of Adventurers and Soldiers - - - 87
Custodiams for Relief of disappointed Nominees - - - - ib.
Petition of Barnaby Lord Upper Ossory, for parts of his Queen's Co. Estate retrenched by Soldiers - - - - - - 87, 88
Case of John Cantwell of Ballynacady, co. Tipperary, a Nominee (A.D. 1660), still unrestored in A.D. 1682 - - - - - - 89
"Discoveries" and Purchases of Deficiencies by despoiled Irish Proprietors 90
Commission of Grace (A.D. 1684) - - - - - - 91
The Pursuing, Setting, and Slaying of "Little Rebels" called Tories - 92
Their Origin from the Cromwellian and Restoration Settlements - - ib.
Captain Dudley Costello and the Connaught Tories - - - 92, 93
Dudley Costello's Letter of Defiance on being proclaimed - - - 94
His retreats in Leitrim and Mayo - - - - - - 94, 95
Ormonde's Warrant to imprison all the Connaught Priests - - - 96
Costello shot dead in fight - - - - - - - 97
Kincogus Warrants against the Septs and the Tories - - - 97
Forfeitures of 1688, and their supplement, the Penal Laws - - - 99–102

PART III.

HISTORICAL VALUE OF THE CARTE PAPERS.

I. POLITICAL PAPERS.

Ormonde's Church Policy. His relations with, (1.) The Protestants; (2.) The Presbyterians; (3.) The Catholics.

(1.) The Established Church.

Parliament Commissioners (1647) introduce Presbyterian Directory - 104
The Established, if they decline it, are told they can enlist - - 105 Ruined state of Churches at the Restoration - - - - ib.
The Cromwellian Army subscribe to rebuild what they had destroyed - 106
Primate Bramhall, on the Consecration (January 1661) of 12 Bishops - 107

(2.) Presbyterians and Independents.

Cromwellian outrage at Waterford (A.D. 1660) upon the Bishop - - 110
Shocking insults (A.D. 1666) to his successor - - - - ib.
Presbyterian Recusancy and Prelatical Persecution - - - - 111
Letters of the Bishops of Down and Derry. - - - - - 111–113

(3.) The Catholics.

The Queen's desire (A.D. 1647) to replace Ormonde by a Catholic Lieutenant 117
Viscount Fitzwilliam of Merrion's Letter (9 Feb. 1647) from Her Court at Paris ib.
Ormonde makes Sir Phelim O'Neil (A.D. 1649) a Commander - - 118
Letters between Ormonde (1649–1650) and Sir Phelim and Owen R. O'Neil 119–122
Ormonde's relations with Father Peter and Colonel Richard Talbot - - 122, 123
Ormonde's relations with Father P. Walsh (A.D. 1660–1685) - - 124
Ormonde's payments to Walsh. Walsh's dying Letter (March 16, 1683) - 125, 126
Essex's Letter (Nov. 17, 1673) on creating divisions among the Catholic Clergy 126

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

CONTENTS—cont.

Supplemental Illustrations.

	Page
State of Waterford while besieged by the Irish led by Ormonde's Brother (Dec. 1641 to March 1642)	127–131
Sir Arthur Aston's defence of Drogheda against Cromwell, Sept. 1649	131–134
Viscount Claneboy before the Court for Construction of Articles at Westminster (A.D. 1651–1654)	134–139
Examinations of each Soldier's merit in betraying Cork (Dec. 1649) to Cromwell, A.D. 1654	139–145
Decree of the Court of Transplantation at Athlone, A.D. 1655	145–150
Minutes of First Court of Claims, A.D. 1662–1663	151–159
Second Court of Claims, A.D. 1666–1669 (Lord Wharton's Claim as Adventurer), A.D. 1666–1669	160–169
Second Court of Claims (Duke of York's Claims in respect of Regicides), A.D. 1666–1669	170–180

II. DOMESTIC PAPERS.

Earl of Ossory's Marriage, A.D. 1659	181, 182
Ormonde's Palace on Oxmantown Green, A.D. 1663	183–185
Ormonde's Horses	185–187
Ormonde's Hawks	187–190
Ormonde's Hounds	191–192
A Naval Allegory, by the Register of the Admiralty in Ireland, A.D. 1677	192–194

APPENDIX.

A.—Lord Gormanston's Cabinet captured at Lord Fingal's, in county of Cavan, opened 17 April 1643	195–198
B.—Catalogue of King's Letters in Volumes XLI., XLII., XLIII. of the Carte Papers	199–231
Alphabetical Index to the King's Letters	231–236

To the Right Honourable Lord Romilly, Master of the Rolls.

MY LORD, 1st October 1870.

DURING the four years in which we have been engaged in selecting for transcription the official papers contained in the collection of Carte MSS. in the Bodleian Library at Oxford, we have had the honour to present to your Lordship a series of reports detailing our progress during each successive year. Having at length brought our examination to a close, and having now under view the whole of this great historical collection, we think it our duty to lay before your Lordship a general report on the entire collection, together with such observations as to its historical value, and particularly as to its bearing upon the history of Ireland, as have occurred to us during the progress of our survey.

For this purpose it will be necessary that we enter at some length, first, into the history of the formation of the Carte collection; secondly, into the general nature of its contents; and, thirdly, into its bearing upon the history of Ireland and the special illustrations which it affords of the political, religious, and social condition of that country in the 17th century.

Before, however, we pass to the detail of our final report, it is right that we should recall to your Lordship's recollection, as well the tenor of our original commission from the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury "to select for transcription "the official papers contained in the Carte collection of manuscripts in the Bodleian "Library, Oxford," as the instructions and explanations by which we were guided in the execution of our task.

Along with the notice of our appointment as Commissioners for selecting official papers for transcription from the Carte collection, dated May 31st, 1865, we received the following letter of instructions from your Lordship:—

"Instructions to the Commissioners appointed by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to select such papers as are of an official character among the Carte collection in the Bodleian Library, Oxford.

"One of the Commissioners is to select from each volume of the collection, such papers as are of an official character, and to give a list thereof to the other Commissioner, who is also to go through each volume and to make any addition to the list, or object to any paper selected that he may deem advisable.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"The Commissioners are to arrange who is to make the selection; or, if they prefer making it simultaneously, such arrangement may be adopted.

"All letters and papers addressed to the Lord Lieutenant, Lord Deputy, or Governor of Ireland, in his official capacity, are to be considered official.

"Also all royal letters and warrants under sign manual; orders in Council of England and Ireland; warrants from the King, Lord Deputy, and Lords Justices; orders by the Lord Deputy and Lords Justices; proclamations, ordinances, petitions, fiants for grants.

"Political letters (unless of an official nature), letters relating to family matters or private affairs, and papers and letters printed in Carte's Life of Ormonde, or in Carte's Ormonde Papers, are not to be selected.

"Any difference of opinion between the Commissioners is to be submitted to the Master of the Rolls.

"When the list has been settled, it is to be signed by the Commissioners, and delivered by them to Mr. Herbert Hore,[1] who has been appointed by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to copy those papers which the Commissioners have selected to be transcribed.

"JOHN ROMILLY."

As regards a large class of the original documents contained in the collection, these instructions defined with great precision the principle by which the work of selection is to be guided; but there is another and still more numerous class, regarding which, during the progress of the work of selection, a doubt arose, which, in accordance with the penultimate clause of our instructions, we thought it our duty to submit to your Lordship in the following letter:—

"MY LORD, Bodleian Library, Oxford, 17th August 1867.

"In interpreting the instructions for selecting papers for transcription from the Carte collection, which accompanied your Lordship's letter of 31st May 1865, we feel some doubt as to that part which concerns letters to and from the Lord Lieutenant.

"All letters and papers addressed to the Lord Lieutenant, Lord Deputy, or Governor of Ireland in his official capacity are to be considered official.

"A very considerable part of Lord Ormonde's correspondence on the most important affairs of state passes between him and the chief and subordinate ministers of Government and others, alone, without the intervention of the Council, comprising of course much that is historically very important, often more important than the contents of papers in strictly official form.

"Up to the present we have proceeded on the supposition that such letters, being addressed to Lord Ormonde by reason of his being Lord Lieutenant (and vice versâ), and on public business, should be considered official.

"But a doubt having occurred to us, whether according to the terms of the instructions, the selection ought not to be confined to letters which are not merely on public business but also in official form, we think it our duty to submit our doubt, and ask your directions regarding it.

"We remain,
"Your Lordship's
"Most obedient faithful servants,
"C. W. RUSSELL. JOHN P. PRENDERGAST."

"To the Right Hon. John Lord Romilly, Master of the Rolls."

To this letter we received the following reply:—

"GENTLEMEN, Tanhurst, Dorking, 23rd August 1867.

"In consequence of my absence from London and moving about in the country, I was unable to answer your letter of the 17th inst. till this day.

"In consequence also of my absence from London, I have been unable to refer to the letter of instructions of 31st May 1865, to which you refer, but my present opinion is that the whole of the correspondence which passes between Lord Ormonde and the ministers of the Government, or between him and any other persons, though without the intervention of the Council, but relating to public business, ought to be transcribed. Of course there may be merely trivial letters relating to nothing public, yet addressed to Lord Ormonde as Lord Lieutenant, which ought not to be transcribed, but this

[1] In consequence of the lamented death of Mr. Hore, the duty of transcription was transferred to Mr. H. S. Harper of the Bodleian Library, Oxford.

Digitized by Google

C 31

must be left to your discretion, which ought in my view to be liberally exercised, so as to include every thing which can have directly or indirectly historical value.

"Judging from your letter, therefore, I think that you have acted judiciously in the course you have hitherto adopted, and that the selection of letters to be transcribed ought not to be confined to letters in official form, but ought to be extended to all letters on public business, and even beyond this, if the contents of the letters have an historical interest or value, of which circumstance no persons can be more competent to form an accurate opinion than yourselves.

"When Mr. Hardy returns from his continental excursion, I will show him your letter and a copy of my answer, and if, after consulting with him, we think that any modification of this letter is desirable, I will communicate with you again. In the meantime you will be good enough to act upon the instructions contained in this letter.

"I am, Gentlemen,
"Yours very sincerely,
"ROMILLY."

The Revd. Chas. Wm. Russell, D.D., and
John P. Prendergast, Esq.

This just and liberal interpretation of our commission has enabled us to conduct our selection with much more satisfaction to ourselves, and, we feel assured, with infinitely more advantage to the interests of historical inquiry. For the rest, we have followed your Lordship's instructions in their most rigorous form, having every year made, each after a separate examination of every paper, separate lists of the papers which each judged proper to be transcribed. These lists we have, at the close of each year, carefully compared, number after number, and framed therefrom a final list, which we have placed in the hands of the transcriber; and we are happy to add that no difference of opinion has arisen which we have not been able to adjust without availing ourselves of the assistance provided in our instructions, by referring the doubt to your Lordship's decision.

PART I.

HISTORY OF THE FORMATION OF THE CARTE COLLECTION.

From the explanation given above, it will be seen that the commission, in reference to the Carte MS. with which we were honoured by your Lordship, was confined exclusively to papers relating to Irish affairs. But the affairs of Ireland, although the principal, are by no means the sole subject of the Carte manuscripts.

The collection is called from the name of its collector, the Rev. Thomas Carte, the well-known author of the "Life of James, Duke of Ormonde," the "History of England," and many other works; and although the bulk of the contents of the collection were gathered together by him to serve as materials for his "Life of the Duke of Ormonde," yet a very large proportion of the papers is entirely unconnected with that subject, and was the growth of a long series of literary and historical undertakings in which the collector was engaged, both before and after the completion of the Ormonde biography. The influence which these undertakings must have exercised on his labours as a collector will be best understood from a short account of his literary life.

Thomas Carte was born in April 1686, at Clifton, in Warwickshire, of which place his father, the Rev. Samuel Carte, was vicar. He matriculated in University College, Oxford, in 1698, at the unusually early age of 12 years, and took his degree of Bachelor in January 1702, before he had completed his 16th year. Some years afterwards, having entered into holy orders, he was appointed reader of the Abbey Church at Bath; and a sermon which he preached in that cathedral on the Commemoration of King Charles the Martyr, and in which he took occasion to vindicate the conduct of Charles in connexion with the Irish Rebellion, may be regarded as an indication of the direction which his studies had taken even at this early period. This sermon having been severely criticised, Carte thought it expedient to vindicate his views by a special essay; and although it would be too much to say that the essay (which is reprinted in Somers's Tracts) bears evidence of being based upon original materials, or to infer from its contents that the author had already begun to form what afterwards developed into the great historical collection known by his name, yet it is impossible not to be struck by the manifest love of original research and the rare appreciation of the true principles of historical investigation, based upon original documents, which even this early essay evinces.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Soon after this, his maiden controversy, an opportunity offered for the indulgence of his tastes as a collector, the fruits of which are more plainly discernible in the present collection. On the accession of George I., Carte, whose Jacobite prepossessions were of the strongest, refused to take the oaths, and in consequence was deprived of his preferment at Bath; and being, moreover, seriously compromised, as well in the Rebellion of 1715, as by some proceedings in connexion with the Atterbury conspiracy, he was compelled to leave England, and constrained to live abroad for several years under the assumed name of Phillips. During his residence in Paris he enjoyed opportunities of free access to the State archives, and engaged in a project for an English edition of "De Thou's History of his own Times." With a view to this publication, he formed a large collection of State Papers, as well as of private letters and memoirs illustrative of the period.

Most of the materials for this edition, and especially the original documents, Carte transferred to Dr. Meade, by whom they were used in the well-known edition of Thuanus, in seven volumes folio, published in 1733. But a large mass of notes and transcripts in Carte's own hand, manifestly designed for this intended publication, are still to be found among the volumes preserved in the Bodleian Library.

About the year 1728 Carte was permitted to return to England. Very soon after his return, he undertook to write the life of James, Duke of Ormonde,[1] a subject for which his early studies, as well as his political prepossessions and associations, had especially prepared him. His energy and perseverance in the collection of further materials were almost unexampled; and how remarkably he was favoured by circumstances in some of the opportunities which he enjoyed, will be seen from the detailed account to be given hereafter of the various sources from which the strictly so-called "Ormonde Papers" of the collection were obtained.

Next after the papers bearing on the life of Ormonde, the largest place in Carte's collection is filled by those which he brought together with a view to the general History of England, which he undertook immediately after the completion of the biography of the Duke of Ormonde. In the collection of these materials he was assisted by yearly subscriptions from the Common Council and several of the civic companies of London, from the Universities, and from various other public bodies, amounting in the whole to above 600*l.* a year; and he spared no pains in procuring, both in England and upon the Continent, original papers and transcripts, as well bearing on domestic history as illustrating the relations of England with foreign countries. The preparations for this work were carried on for nearly ten years; but on the appearance of the first volume, in 1747, almost all the public support which the author had hitherto received was withdrawn in consequence of a note which he was imprudent enough to insert, and in which he shocked the sensibilities of the friends of the Hanoverian succession, by ascribing to the Pretender the preternatural cure of one Christopher Lovel at Avignon, in 1716, by touching him for the king's evil. This indiscretion drew upon Carte the withdrawal of the subscriptions of the London Corporation and the City companies; and although he persevered, even with resources thus seriously diminished, so far as to complete the publication of three volumes of the history (reaching to the year 1613), and to carry the fourth in manuscript down to the Protectorate of Oliver Cromwell (1654), yet there can be no question that his progress in the collection of original materials, especially from foreign sources, must have been seriously affected by the withdrawal of the funds, which on the commencement of the undertaking had been supplied with unprecedented liberality, and which he had used with equal intelligence and industry.

In the course of his preparations for this general work on English History, Carte engaged in several collateral or kindred undertakings;—such as a collection of Gascon, French, and Norman rolls, relating to the French Provinces formerly subject to the Kings of England; in various incidental controversies on particular incidents or periods; in researches into local and general antiquities; in ecclesiastical, constitutional, legal, and social history; and in genealogy, heraldry, biography, and family records. These studies, pursued with the characteristic energy and perseverance of this remarkable man, will be found, each and all, to have left their traces in the vast and miscellaneous mass of manuscripts which bear his name. Many of the volumes are entirely in his own handwriting, and all, with hardly an exception, present evidence of having been digested, arranged, revised, or noted by him. Besides the documents collected by himself, and for the purposes of his own literary undertakings, there is a considerable body of less easily assignable origin;—as family corre-

[1] The Life of James, Duke of Ormonde, containing an account of the most remarkable Affairs of his Time, and particularly of Ireland under his Government, with an Appendix and a Collection of Letters serving to verify the most material facts in the said History, 3 volumes folio. London, 1735-6.

Digitized by Google

spondence, common-place books, extracts, transcripts, manuscripts of the author's own publications and of other works published and unpublished, manuscripts of his father and of other literary friends, and other literary fragments of a most miscellaneous character.

At his death, 2nd April 1754, all the papers then in his possession passed into the hands of his wife, who was the daughter of Colonel Brett, and who afterwards married a Mr. Jernegan or Jerningham, a member of the Roman Catholic family of that name. It is stated by the author of the Memoir of Carte in Kippis's Biographia Britannica, vol. iii., p. 269, that his widow, by her will, bequeathed the papers to her second husband Mr. Jernegan, during his life, and after his death to the University of Oxford; and that Jernegan, having first given the perusal of the entire to the Earl of Hardwicke for a sum of 200*l.*, and to Mr. MacPherson for 200*l.*, finally delivered them for a valuable consideration to the University of Oxford in 1778. The same account in substance is given by Nicholls in his Literary Anecdotes of the Seventeenth Century.

This narrative, however, although in part correct, is very far from being a complete account of the circumstances under which the Carte collection became the property of the great library in which it is now deposited. The transaction, as represented by these writers, would reflect little credit on the memory of Carte. Whatever may be said of other portions of the collection, it is by no means clear from Carte's correspondence in reference to the Ormonde Papers, that these papers at least were placed absolutely at his disposal. On the contrary, everything throughout the whole proceeding seems to suppose that the Ormonde Papers were merely communicated to Carte to be examined by him for the purposes of the Ormonde biography; nor is it easy to understand by what legal or moral title Carte, under all the circumstances, could have transferred to his widow such property, at least in the Ormonde portion of the collection, as would have warranted her in disposing of it by will.

In order to remove all uncertainty as to Carte's own share in the transfer, we have thought it advisable to procure from the proper office a copy of his will; and as this document has never before been published, and is not without interest for its own sake, we are induced to transcribe it.

It is as follows:—

"In the Name of God. Amen. I, Thomas Carte of Caldecot, in the parish of Sutton Courtney, in the county of Berks, Clerk, do make this my last will and testament in manner and form following:—Whereas, in my last journey to Paris, I made an agreement with Abbé d'Estrées for a translation of the three volumes of my History of England already published, and of the fourth volume, which I am now writing of the said History, into French, and for the publishing of the said translation, with a royal privilege, I do hereby give and bequeath to my wife Sarah Carte, all the profits and emoluments arising and to arise in my behalf from the said agreement, the original whereof is in the hands of Mr. Jas. Roettiers, the King of France's goldsmith at Paris. I do likewise by these presents give and bequeath to my said wife all my estates, whether real or personal, whether in possession or reversion, whether acquired or to be acquired within the kingdoms of Great Britain, Ireland, and France, or in any other country whatever, with all my rights in copies of books, and privileges for the impression of books, and all other my effects of what nature soever, to have and enjoy the same in as full and ample a manner, and with as absolute power of disposing thereof as I do now or shall hereafter enjoy in relation to the same. I desire that my corpse may be interred in the vaults in the Chancell of Tettendor, where that of my wife's father, the late Arthur Brett, Esquire, now lies, and may be carried thither without any ostriche feathers, or other unnecessary pomp, little becoming a mortal in the lowest state of humiliation. Item, I make and appoint my said wife Sarah, sole executrix of this my last will and testament, revoking all other wills and codicils by me heretofore made. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand (and) seal this twentieth day of July, in the year of our Lord seventeen hundred fifty-two, Thomas Carte. Signed, sealed, published, and declared (the word in the fourteenth line being first inserted), to be the last will and testament of the above-named testator, in the presence of us, Benj. Hill, William Birch, Thomas Spindler."[1]

It will be seen that in this will Carte makes no specific mention of his collections of MSS. Nevertheless it is certain that under the terms of the will, all his papers would pass to his widow, being plainly included in "all other his effects of what nature "soever."

[1] "Proved at London before the Worshipful Arthur Collier, Doctor of Laws and Surrogate, 7th November 1754, by the oath of Sarah Carte, widow, the relict and sole executrix, to whom administration was granted, having been first sworn duly to administer."

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

The fact is, however, that at the time of Carte's death the Ormonde Papers no longer formed any part of his collection of manuscripts, having been already not merely assigned, but actually handed over by him in possession, to the curators of the Bodleian Library. The circumstances of the transfer are very clearly detailed by Mr. Macray in his learned and interesting "Annals of the Bodleian Library," published last year. In the year 1753, the first portion of the Irish series, viz., the chronologically arranged volumes which relate to the Life of Ormonde, were handed over. Early in the following year, 1754, a second instalment of twenty-six volumes relating to Irish affairs was added. Carte died on the 2nd April in that year, and in 1757 nine additional volumes were handed over to the library by his widow, seemingly in virtue of some private instruction, since there is no reference to them in Carte's will.

It is plain, therefore, that, since the Ormonde Papers had become the property of the Bodleian Library during the lifetime of Carte, they could not have passed into the hands of his widow, nor have been included among the manuscripts which she at her death bequeathed to her second husband, Mr. Jernegan. It was only the residue of Carte's collection, most of the volumes of which had been acquired by Carte through purchase or gift, and which were in the strictest sense his personal property, that came into his widow's possession on his death; and it is only of this residue that we are to understand the statement of Nicholls, and of the author of the Memoir, that she bequeathed it to her second husband for his use for life, with reversion to the Bodleian Library at his decease. We shall see hereafter that in that residue were included the "Nairne" and other collections of papers, which formed the subject of Mr. Jernegan's negotiation with MacPherson and with Lord Hardwicke, alluded to above; and it was not until 1778, 24 years after the death of Thomas Carte, that Jernegan, for a present consideration of 50*l.*, gave up the entire into the hands of the curators of the Bodleian.[1]

With a view to remove all uncertainty, we have thought it expedient to procure a certified copy of Mrs. Carte's will, which we shall subjoin. From this will it appears that Mrs. Carte, before her second marriage, with Mr. Nicholas Jernegan, entered into an agreement, in virtue of which she retained the power of disposing of all her property by will, subject to a life use to her husband. Accordingly by her will made on the 22nd September 1764 (probably shortly after her marriage), Mrs. Jernegan left her prebendal lease of the glebe land and tithes of Tachbrook (adjacent to Leamington in Warwickshire) after the decease of her husband, to her sister Rebecca Orton, widow, for her life, and upon her death between her two nieces Sophia and Elizabeth Docker, the lapsing of the legacy of either under 21 in Mrs. Jernegan's lifetime, to be for the benefit of the other, and in case of both so dying, then her interest in Tachbrook to go to their brother Arthur Brett Docker. Mrs. Jernegan made her sister Mrs. Orton her residuary legatee and executrix, but gave all the manuscripts of her late husband to the University of Oxford, and enjoined her executrix to see them delivered accordingly. Although this will is dated in 1764, Mrs. Jernegan's death did not take place till 1770.

The following is a copy of Mrs. Jernegan's will:—

"Whereas, I the underwritten Sarah Jernegan, wife of Nicholas Jernegan, Esq., by virtue of an agreement in writing between us, have power by my last will, notwithstanding our marriage, to give, devise, or dispose of the estate and effects we are possessed of or intitled unto to or for such person or persons, or to such uses as I shall thereby direct or appoint; subject nevertheless to the use thereof during the lifetime of my said husband for him in case he shall survive me. Now in pursuance of the said power and of all other powers vested in me, I do hereby give, direct, and appoint the prebendal lease of the glebe lands and tithes of Tachbrook, and all the estate and interest therein which I have power to dispose of, from and after the decease of my said husband to my sister Rebecca Ortou, widow, for so long as she shall live, [and] the renewing the said lease as often as there shall be occasion, and from and after her decease I give the said lease and leasehold premises in manner following; that is to say, to Sophia Clementina Docker, my niece, two-third parts of the rents and profits thereof, and the remaining third part I give and appoint to Elizabeth Docker and her sister. And in case either of them shall die in my lifetime or before the age of 21 years, then the part of her so dying I give and appoint to the survivor of them, and if they should happen to be both dead under the said age of 21 years, then I give and appoint the same to their brother, my nephew, Arthur Brett Docker, for his use and disposal. And I do hereby also give and appoint the residue of my goods, chattels, and effects to my said sister Orton, and appoint her my executrix, hereby directing [1] Annals of the Bodleian Library, Oxford, A.D. 1598-1867. By the Rev. W. Dunne Macray. 1868. pp. 165-7.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

and appointing all the manuscripts of my late husband, Mr. Thomas Carte, or which did belong to him, to and for the use of the University of Oxford, which I desire my said sister will take care may be dellvered accordingly. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 22nd day of September 1764. S. Jernegan. (Seal). Signed, sealed, published, and declared by Mrs. Sarah Jernegan, as and for her last will, in the presence of us, John Pierce, Richard Balshaw."[1]

We have not been able to discover any express record of the nature of Carte's gift to the Bodleian Library. But as, at the time of his transferring the Ormonde Papers, the Earl of Arran was still alive, and indeed was Chancellor of the University of Oxford, there seems good ground to believe that the transfer was not made without his direction, or at least his sanction and approval. No record, however, is preserved which in any way connects Lord Arran's name with the presentation of the collection to the library. We may add as a very remarkable circumstance, that there is not in the entire of Carte's collection a single letter of the Earl of Arran, although Carte has carefully preserved two or three letters of the Earl's brother, the attainted Duke, then in exile in France, thanking Carte for the work he had undertaken.[2]

But his transferring the Ormonde Papers only to the library and this in the Earl of Arran's presence, as it were, and leaving the others to his wife's disposition, is strongly suggestive of his having received the Earl's directions for this transfer.

In the detailed account of the contents of the collection, to be given in the second part of our Report, the various sources from which the several portions were obtained will be explained sufficiently for the general purposes of this Report. But, inasmuch as our duties of selection under your Lordship's instructions have lain almost exclusively among the "Ormonde Papers," strictly so called, it will be proper to enter with more minuteness into the history of the formation of that portion of the Carte collection, as well as of certain other collections of documents, whether originals or transcripts, which, although not bearing upon the life of Ormonde, came into the possession of Carte at the same time with the special materials of the Ormonde biography.

A.

ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS.

(1.) Ormonde Collection.

On this subject a great deal of information is supplied by Carte himself in the preface of his Life of Ormonde, but we have been enabled in the progress of our lengthened examination of the Carte MSS. to gather many additional incidental notices which supply various particulars of great interest, and which may be found not without value, even at present, as a means of directing further inquiry, perhaps under the direction of the Historical Manuscripts' Commission, into other more general sources of the history, not explored even by this indefatigable collector.

It is hardly necessary to say that the great body of the Ormonde papers in the Carte collection consists of the papers, official, private, and miscellaneous, of James, the first Duke of Ormonde, brought together by Carte from various quarters, with a view to the compilation of the biography of that distinguished statesman.

It must have been in the year 1728 or 1729 that Carte was engaged by the Earl of Arran on this work, as Carte says, in his preface to the first volume of his Life of Ormonde, published in 1735, that it was near six years before that date that the Earl of Arran delivered to him one hundred and fifty-three bundles of his grandfather, the first Duke of Ormonde's, papers. Carte's first work was to digest these into proper order. They make up the first twenty-nine volumes, marked by Carte with the letters of the alphabet, and carried down by double letters to DD; but as these only reached to the year 1651, Carte obtained liberty from Lord Arran to make search for more at Kilkenny Castle. He accordingly came over to Dublin in the year 1732, before the 2nd August, and took up his lodgings in Mrs. Pearce's, in Abbey Street; and he returned to London before 25th November in the same year. He had applied, either directly or through some friend, to the keeper of the papers at Kilkenny Castle the year before his arrival. Mr. Edward Cooke writes:—

"Sir, "Castletown, August 3rd, 1731.

"I have the favour of yours of the 25th July last. As to the materials for the life of the old Duke, perhaps there may be some in the Evidence room at Kil-

[1] Proved at London, 29th July 1776, before the Worshipful Thomas Bever, Doctor of Laws and Surrogate, by the oath of Rebecca Orton, widow, the sister of the deceased, and sole executrix named in the said will, to whom administration was granted, having been first sworn duly to administer, Nicholas Jernegan, the lawful husband of the said deceased, first consenting.

[2] Duke of Ormonde to Thomas Carte, dated January 16, 1738-7 (xxxvi. 178); same to same, July 24, 1736 (ibid. 176).

Digitized by Google

kenny, but I know nothing certain, nor ever met with any. There are four or five large bushels full of papers of long standing, which, as I have heard, contain some transactions of his when he was in the Government here. If the person employed about the Life, or any friend of his, think it worth his while to search that load of papers, they have nothing to do but get Lord Arran's orders, and then be sure of all the assistance in the power of "Your humble servant,

"ED. COOKE."[1]

Instead of three or four bushels full, Mr. Carte found in the Evidence chamber at Kilkenny Castle about fourteen wicker bins, each "large enough to hold an hogshead "of wine;" and, there being no bookbinder in Kilkenny, he was forced to transfer them on three Irish cars to Dublin.[2] While he was thus employed, he received a letter from Mr. Alexander Clayton, giving him the Earl of Arran's permission to bring over the papers to England, if necessary. It is dated Bagshot, 23rd September 1732, and shows that there was originally no intention of giving the papers to Mr. Carte. He was only to make collections from them in Ireland. The letter is as follows:—

"SIR,

"I HOPE by this time you have finished your labour, and that we shall soon see you in England. I suppose you intend binding up all the papers you sent to Dublin. I have authority to tell you that if it will take up too much of your time to stay to make up your collections in Ireland, you may direct them to be sent to England in boxes; but if any of them relate to any titles you are desired to give them to Mr. Robert Harrison, to be placed in the Evidence Room.

"Yours, &c.,

"A. CLAYTON."[3]

But this large collection obtained at Kilkenny Castle did not prevent Carte from trying every source likely to yield further materials in Ireland. From Mr. George Mathews, of Thomastown, grandson of Ormonde's half brother, George Mathews, he sought for any papers concerning Ormonde, but Mr. Mathews had none.[4] From Richard Butler Mountgarret he looked for some memoir or materials for his ancestor, Richard Lord Mountgarret, who had been the first Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate forces of the Irish.

Mr. Butler, unable to furnish him with any, gives him the following introduction to Lord Barrymore:—

"MY DEAR LORD, "Ballecorn, August 3, 1732.

"You have often heard of Mr. Carte, who will have the honour of waiting upon you and will deliver this. He is now writing the old Duke of Ormonde's life at the request of his grandson, and has had access to all the papers at the Castle of Kilkenny by Lord Arran's directions. I find he has a promise from my Lord Orrery of his assistance, and is now going to that end. I am in hopes I have put him in the way of getting a view of the Marquis of Clanricarde's papers, and if your Lordship can give him any insight into any of the affairs of that time, it will be very gratefully acknowledged.

"When your Lordship passed through Kilkenny I told you of the worthy Bishop of Ossory, when my wife desired to be admitted into the church by law established. The week before last I sent my attorney, who is a proctor in his court, to demand his certificate, which he readily sent me, and as it is extraordinary in its kind, I send you a copy of it, and two or three letters that since passed between us. I happened to be with Lords Mount Alexander, Athenry, and Howth when I received it, at Ballysallan Spaw, who are of opinion I ought by no means to register it in the form it now is, but return it and have it amended, which, if he refused to do, they declared they would complain to the House of Lords.

(Signed) "RICHARD BUTLER MOUNTGARRET."

"To the Right Hon. the Earl of Barrymore, at Castlelyons."[5]

It is strange to hear of such a collection of company at a place, now a decayed village called Johnstown, on a hill side seven miles west of the city of Kilkenny. Yet Dean Swift celebrated its praises. Thither it appeared Carte also went; for Mr. Richard Butler, writing on the 16th August 1732, says, "The enclosed letter (to Lord "Barrymore) I sent after you to Kilkenny the morning you left it, but the servant I

[1] CCXXVII. 69. [2] Preface to Life of Ormonde. [3] CCXXVII. 27.
[4] Letter of George Mathews, dated Thomastown, Sept. 10, 1732, CCXXVII. 57.
[5] CCXXVII. 52.

Digitized by Google

" ordered to go with it, proving I suppose drowsy, did not get thither time enough " to overtake you. He had no better success in following you to the Spaw, but was " blockhead enough to put the packet I designed troubling you with into the post " office, so I believe my Lord Barrymore has paid two or three shillings postage to " learn the particulars of an impertinent quarrel between the Bishop of Ossory and " me. If your stay in the county of Kilkenny will allow of your coming to Ballecourra, " (the seat of his father, Viscount Mountgarret), you may be sure it will be a great " pleasure to, and very much oblige,

" Yours, &c.
" Richard Butler Mountgarrett."[1]

There are three or four letters of Lord Orrery's to Carte in this volume, which show that Orrery had been in communication with him during his visit to Ireland concerning the papers of his grandfather, Roger Boyle, who played so distinguished a part under Charles I. and Cromwell, as Lord Broghill, and under Charles II. as first Earl of Orrery.

Lord Orrery acknowledges that he has large quantities of his papers in his possession at his seat at Charleville in the county of Cork,[2] and on 19th April 1733 he sends Carte copies of a great number of letters that passed between his grandfather and Primate Boyle his cousin, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, one of Ormonde's most trusted friends[3]. These are to be found in vol. 68 of the collection.

Carte's two principal friends in Ireland appear to have been Francis M'Namara of Moriask in the county of Clare, and Thomas Sheridan of Dublin. In 1730, Carte must have written to M'Namara, and have given him hopes of a visit, news which the latter receives with the greatest delight, and wants to know the day he may be expected at Cork, that he may come to meet him on his arrival. He promises him every assistance in his search for persons and papers, and says,—

" There is an intelligent old lawyer of my name in this country, of 90 years of age, who is very well versed in the affairs of this kingdom, whose memory is excellent to this day. I am sure he can give you very useful lights into the affairs you mention, viz., what passed in this kingdom from the year 1610 to 1688. I have built me two small offices lately, and I live in one of them and my horses in the other. I can furnish you and the old lawyer with each of you a bed, a bottle of good wine, and some beef and mutton, &c. He will, I am sure, be useful to you, for he was once minded to write upon the subject you mention, and as your company would afford me very great comfort and pleasure, I hope you will not refuse it to,

" My dear Thom,

" To the Reverend Mr. Thomas Carte, " Yours, &c. at Mr. Clayton's in Kilkenny." (ccxxvii. p. 58). " Francis M'Namara."

When Carte arrived two years later, the memory of this old gentleman, then ninety five years of age, was gone (same to same, 18th Sep. 1732); but Mr. M'Namara introduced him to Mr. Sylvester Lloyd, of the county of Clare, as one deeply versed in the history of the country (same to same, 1st September 1732, clii. 116). He described him as Mr. Lloyd, whom he (Mr. Carte) saw at Paris in company with Captain Bowning, Matt. Fitzgerald, and others; and when Mr. M'Namara told him of Carte's design, Mr. Lloyd expressed satisfaction, adding, however, that if Mr. Carte followed the example of Clarendon and the rest that have written on the subject, he would leave the world in the dark as much as they did; but that if he were sure that Mr. Carte would write very impartially, and not pay or offer more incense to a certain family than they had a right to, he would direct him where to find out all the helps that were necessary and useful, all the kingdom over. Mr. M'Namara was in hopes Mr. Lloyd would go to him (Mr. Carte) to Dublin, " for (he concludes) there is no man in this " kingdom, without exception, so clever, Swift excepted," (same to same, ibid).

Mr. Lloyd, unable to meet Carte, wrote him a letter of many pages, with his general view of the different interests and parties prevailing in Ireland during the war and convulsions of the era of 1641, which exhibits ability to justify the character Mr. M'Namara gave of him. " I am so thoroughly convinced," says Mr. Lloyd, " of the " integrity of your heart and abilities for the useful work you have undertaken, that " it grieves me beyond expression that the loss of my sight disables me from waiting " on you and giving you all the assistance in my power in your enquiries into the " truth of the history of that unhappy country, particularly that which regards the " troubles that preceded and followed the fatal year 'Forty-one;' but I shall freely do

[1] ccxxvii. 53. Ballecourra was the seat of his father Viscount Mountgarret.
[2] His residence is not further described.
[3] ccxxvii. 46.

" all in my power at this distance by directing you to such as may make authenticated " discoveries to you of many things that have been hid or been concealed, either " because of the peevishness of the times ever since, or for complaisance to a certain " great name and family which prevailed, or rather reigned in that kingdom, from " the Restoration to the year Queen Anne dy'd." (Sylvester Lloyd to Carte, dated Rehill, 6th October 1732, cciii. 98.) Through Mr. Lloyd's introduction of him to Mr. Henry M'Niel of Church Street, Mr. Carte had access to the papers and collections " of his (Mr. M'Niel's) kinsman and Mr. Sylvester Lloyd's lamented and dear friend " deceased Tully O'Neil, Esquire, a most curious, zealous, and indefatigable searcher into " the history of those dreary times," [1] and amongst them the diary or journal of Owen Roe O'Niel, written by an officer that served under him,[2] and a manuscript history or collection of transactions of those times, written by a famous antiquary of Ireland, and collected as the expense of Mr. Tully O'Neil.[3] He refers him also to various other sources. From Mr. Lloyd, Carte probably derived also his knowledge of "Plunket's Memoirs," on which he placed so high a value, as to make an abstract of the entire,[4] and which he has largely used in his work. It would make, says Carte, a very large volume in folio, and was a collection of a vast number of relations of passages that happened in the Irish war, made by a society of gentlemen who lived in that time and were eye-witnesses of many of those passages.[5]

The remains of this manuscript are now in the hands of the Right Honourable General Francis Plunket Dunne, of Brittas, in the Queen's County, the representative of Mr. Henry Plunket. It is unfortunately only a fragment, consisting of 324 pages. More than 900 pages of the earlier part of the work have been lost, as the paging commences with page 911, and ends with page 1235, and there are pages wanting at the end. Carte's next most zealous friend in Ireland in collecting information for him seems to have been the Reverend Thomas Sheridan, friend and correspondent of Dean Swift. There was one person possessed of papers that Carte was most anxious to see, namely, Mr. Jeffrey Browne, of Castle McGarrett, grandson of Jeffrey Browne, a leading member of the Catholic Confederacy, who had been employed by the Supreme Council on an embassy to the Pope and the Court of France. Lord Athenry applied to him on Carte's behalf. He answered that he had too much business upon his hands of his own, his children's, and his grandchildren's, to lay out his time in rummaging old papers.[6] Sheridan writes concerning Lord Athenry's ill success, that " Mr. Browne confesses he has letters and memoirs for Carte's purpose, but he is such " a lazy Irish brute that he refuses to give himself the trouble of a search. They had " cost him a whole winter to look them over, and although he was at that pains he was " not ashamed to own (adds Sheridan) that he never put them in order."[7] In a subsequent letter Mr. Sheridan says he had not known what "Browne" was meant, or he could have got his memoirs long since for Carte, but he little imagined it was a gentleman called "Ha'penny Browne," one of their musical society, who had made many advances to him, but he would not be acquainted with him because of an unlucky character given of him by the Drapier.[8] Lord Mountjoy, representative of Sir William Stewart, of the county of Londonderry, a distinguished leader of the King's forces in 1641, had promised Dr. Sheridan between 300 and 400 letters (some of them originals) of King Charles I. He had made several appointments with Carte to meet him at his lodgings, but "he was as hard to catch as a wagtail."[9] He had got for Carte two letters of the Blaney family.[10] Lord Massareen (representative of Sir John Clotworthy) had no papers of moment but his rent roll; and the late Earl of Antrim was a man so insignificant and so very illiterate that Carte might be assured all such materials as were left by his ancestors underwent the fate of waste paper.[11] Thus from the time Carte was engaged by the Earl of Arran he was collecting all original materials for his work; but even before this engagement he seems never to have omitted any opportunity of obtaining information concerning original letters and memoirs that might throw light on Charles I.'s conduct in the affairs of Ireland. He has left in his collection a very curious and interesting memorandum book, fair

[1] Id. ibid.
[2] Since printed under the title of "A Journal of the most memorable transactions of General " Owen O'Neil and his party, from the year 1641 to the year 1650, faithfully related by Colonel " Henry McTully O'Neil, who served under him," in Desiderata Curiosa Hibernica, or a Select Collection of State Papers. Two volumes, 8vo. Dublin, 1772.
[3] Preface to Life of Ormonde.
[4] This abstract is to be found in Carte Papers, vol. lxiv.
[5] Preface to Life of Ormonde.
[6] cciii. 100.
[7] T. Sheridan to Carte, 24th December 1732, ccxxvii. 38.
[8] Same to same, June 21, 1733, ibid. 29.
[9] T. Sheridan to Carte, December 24, 1732, ccxxvii. 38.
[10] Id. ibid. [11] Id. ibid.

Digitized by Google

499

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

copied in his own handwriting, of notes made by him during his exile in France, of conversations with his Jacobite friends, such as George Granville, Lord Lansdown, Dr. Robert Lesley, Lady Sandwich, Mr. Dillon, and others, principally touching the secret history of the Restoration and the designs of the Jacobites at the close of Queen Anne's reign, and their various plots afterwards to restore the Pretender.[1] But it contains also such accounts as he got of historical collections.

Thus :—

"December 26, 1723.

"R. L. [Robert Lesley] told me in company at L. L. [Lord Lansdown's] that Dr. Friend was sent for down to Mr. Wentworth in Yorkshire, when sick of the small pox, and staying there some days diverted himself with several folios of memoirs of the first Earl of Strafford, containing several letters wrote to and by him to King Charles, Archbishop Laud, Secretary Windebank, and two other persons (which five were his correspondents), and that it was impossible to conceive he was so great a man as in reality he was. That all his opinions were oracles.[2] He said also the same time (Dec. 26) that the present Earl of Clanrickard had in a chest in Ireland all his great uncle's papers containing an account of the insurrection in Ireland till he quitted it, when he refused to make terms for himself."[3] In the year 1731 Carte is in correspondence about these papers with Ulick Burke, brother to the Earl of Clanrickard, as appears by Ulick Burke's letter from Paris, promising to write to his brother for permission for Carte to see them;[4] as no doubt he did, for Carte had a copy made, which is now in his collection, vol. 99, folio.[5]

Carte was particularly interested of course in the history of the Marquis of Antrim, as it was through Antrim that the king communicated that message to the Irish which is supposed to have caused the insurrection.

That he made inquiries for his papers appears from the following memorandum in the same volume :—

"R. Butler, of Mountgarret, son to ye Viscount.

"Feb. 18, 1724. He told me the Dutchess of Buckingham [he means Rose, Marchioness of Antrim, the Marquis's second wife] married his wife's grandfather (Mr. Blondel, of Lanesshire), by which means all the papers of the Marquis are now come into his hands, and he has 'em at his house of Mountgarret; and being obliged a few years ago to look 'em over to justify his title to some fee farm or quit rents that are claimed under the Marquis's title and by descent from the Dutchess [Marchioness] he has 'em in good order."[6]

Carte renewed his acquaintance with Mr. Richard Butler during his visit to Ireland in 1732, but, as there is no notice in their correspondence of any letters or papers of Antrim, it seems probable that the collection at Mountgarret consisted of law papers only.

Concerning Colonel Richard Talbot's (afterwards Duke of Tyrconnell) papers, there is the following entry :—

"Duke of Tyrconnell. Dec. 26, 1723. Lord Lansdown told me that Mr. Southwell, coming to visit him last October, told him that he had papers by him (which his father when Secretary of State for Ireland had put into his hands) of the Duke of Tyrconnell's, that were intercepted by the Prince of Orange's troops, and that they contained the fullest and most satisfactory vindication of King James government in Ireland, and showed undeniably the Duke's attachment to his country, his admirable foresight in all events and judgment in all cases, and withal how vilely they were treated by the French."[7]

He applied to Lord Castlehaven for any papers of his uncle's.[8] To Mr. William Domvile for those of his father, Sir William Domvile, who was Attorney-General for Ireland from the Restoration till 1687, being only two years before his (Sir W. Domvile's) death.[9]

Lastly, from the Earl of Egmont, representative of Sir Philip Perceival, who was a member of the Privy Council of Ireland from 1641 till 1647, and always zealous for

---

[1] The volume is ccxxxi. quarto.
[2] ccxxxi. p. 8.
[3] Dated 12th May 1731, ccxxvii. 62.
[4] This work was afterwards published in one volume folio, entitled "The Memoirs and Letters of Ulick, Marquiss of Clanricarde, &c. Printed from an authentic manuscript, and now first published by the present Earl of Clanricarde." London, 1757. One volume in folio.
[5] Ibid. p. 90.
[6] Ibid. p. 184.
[7] Ibid. p. 25.
[8] These have been since published.
[9] Ibid. p. 51.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

the King's interests, he obtained a large body of very important papers. Amongst others[1] Sir Philip Percival's "Vindication of the Cessation," which he has inserted nearly at length in his history.[2]

Carte of course, in his search for materials for the Life of Ormonde, did not omit to look for the papers of the two men of all others most intimately concerned in the transactions of Ormonde's public and indeed private affairs; we allude to Sir George Lane and Sir Robert Southwell. In 1732 we find a draft of a letter of Carte's to some one intimate with Sir George Lane's representatives, in which he says:—

"Sir George Lane was secretary to the old Duke of Ormonde, from 1660 to 1677, when he was made Viscount Lanesborough. Upon his death Mr. Denny Muschamp married his widow and had a great number of his papers."

"Mr. G. Fox who married Lord Bingley's daughter, is descended from this Lord Lanesborough, and (as I am informed by Sir Redmond Everard) has great numbers of the old Duke's letters and papers in those times. I want (he adds) to be assured of this fact, because as I am writing the old Duke's life I could get Lord Arran to desire the use of them for me. Lord Lewisham might know this from Mr. Fox, and you would do me a favour by speaking to his Lordship about it."[3] It does not appear how far Carte had any success, but it seems probable that he had none, for there is nothing except a copy of a folio of Sir George Lane's, containing the minutes of the proceedings of the Privy Council at Whitehall, at the various meetings concerning the bills for the settlement of Ireland, and the proceedings before the King and Council there in 1670, about the obtaining the commission of inspection through the agency of Colonel Richard Talbot, with the aim of reviewing and reversing many of the decrees of the Commissioners of the Court of Claims.[4] The original had been sent by Mr. Muschamp to Sir Robert Southwell in 1694, when Sir Robert intended to write the Duke's life, and it was from Sir Robert's son, the Right Hon. Edward Southwell, Secretary of State for Ireland, and not from Sir George Lane's representatives, that Carte got liberty to make the copy. In 1732, when Carte was seeking to obtain access to Sir George Lane's papers, he was evidently quite uninformed of his history and services. So far from commencing to serve Ormonde in 1660, Sir George Lane became private secretary to him in 1642, and the most onerous and important of his duties were performed during the course of the rebellion or war in Ireland from 1642 to 1650; and in France and Holland during the Marquis's exile there, between 1650 and 1660, when the King made him clerk of his Council there. His services are well recorded in the King's letter of November 24, 1660, as the grounds of his grant to him of the estates of John Cook (who had been Chief Justice of Munster under the Commonwealth) and Philip Hore, of Kilsalahan (seven miles north of Dublin), both attainted. This letter recites that Sir George Lane had served the Marquis of Ormonde for 18 years past, was privy to all transactions between Ormonde and King Charles I., "and had likewise for ten years past served ourself as clerk of our Privy "Council, and had also done us particular good services in foreign parts."[5] He continued to act as clerk of the Council at Whitehall, until removed through the jealousy of the English courtiers. In some manuscript collections of Sir Robert Southwell, concerning the Duke of Ormonde, Sir Robert says of Sir George Lane, Ormonde's secretary: "Of whom I may here note, that on his arrival with the Duke "in London in 1664, he was fain to be hid for a time by reason of the clamours in "court; but he afterwards appeared and parted with his place of clerk of the "Council to be the less exposed."[6] And then Sir Robert adds, "the credit he had "with his master was not for any great parts, but a kind of superstitious care in "keeping all papers in order and at command."[7] But this is rather a depreciating view of Sir George's merits. Ormonde had the most implicit reliance on his fidelity, his good temper, courage, and sagacity. His pen was that of a ready writer, as the Ormonde papers abundantly testify; whole reams of paper are covered with his writing. Nor does Sir Robert state that it was he himself that succeeded him in his post at the Privy Council. But in a letter to Dr. Floyd, Bishop of St. Asaph, relative to the purchase he made of Sir George Lane's place of clerk of the Council, in the circumstances already mentioned, he says, the purchase was not effected till Sep-

[1] It was from this source he obtained the very interesting body of papers, seized in Lord Gormanston's cabinet at the capture of Lord Fingall's house in Cavan, in April 1642. Carte, with his usual industry, made a calendar of those papers, which will be found in Appendix A. The papers themselves probably still exist in the Percival collection.

[2] Life of Ormonde, vol. I. p. 45a.

[3] T. Carte to [ ]. Dated 1732. A draft of a letter. Name of correspondent not given. vol. ccxxvii. (quarto), p. 67.

[4] This mass of papers is to be found in vol. lxix. pp. 195-220.

[5] Enrolled in Chancery in Ireland in 1660.

[6] Thorpe Catalogue of the Southwell Papers, p. 214. 8vo. London, 1834.

[7] Ibid.

tember 1664; that the salary was 50*l.* a year, and fees 150*l.* more. For this Sir Robert was to give Sir George Lane 1,000*l.* in hand, and another 1,000*l.* at the end of the first year. But in January following, says Sir Robert, the clerks' salaries were raised to 200*l.* per annum, "at which Sir George bit the lip."[1]

After giving up this post he still continued for many years private secretary to Ormonde, and maintained a constant reverence and friendship for him to the last, a friendship which was reciprocated by Ormonde. In 1650 (6 July) he purchased from Thomas Datton, Esq., the manor of Ratheline, in the county of Longford,[2] beautifully situated at the northern end of Lough Ree. And in 1664–5 (3 March) he purchased from Sir George Villiers, son and heir of Sir William Villiers,[3] (grantee of the lands by Patent dated 5 September 1629), the lands of Dromahair, in the English plantation of the county of Leitrim, as appears by the King's license for Sir William Villiers to alienate them to Sir George.[4]

Sir George Lane, though no longer secretary, kept up a frequent correspondence with Ormonde. In 1675 (26th January) he reminds Ormonde of his promise to bestow some deer towards stocking his park at Ratheline, which he says is now finished. "My servant tells me (he adds) he has had 20 brace from my Lord "Clanrickarde's park. But what your Grace will please to order for me will be "more acceptable; for I shall be prouder of my park when some of your deer are "in it."[5]

In the year 1683 his health declined; Arran writes to Ormonde in June 1685, that Lord Lanesborough was able to creep about, but he had death in his face;[6] and for a short time there was a slight cloud over his friendship with Ormonde, owing to his son James Lane's pressing for Ormonde's aid towards a transfer of his father's pension to him,[7] and for an earldom for his father, which Ormonde declined, "having "got too much envy (he writes to Arran) for the honour he obtained for the family "to undertake this promotion."[8]

On 2d June 1683, Arran having heard from Dr. Dun (so well known since as the founder of "Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital") that Lord Lanesborough could not live long, went to see him. But he ("or his lady for him"[9]), says Arran, excused his coming up to him; and added that he had heard that his lady said, Lord Lanesborough wished when he died that the letter his son writ him might be buried with him, "that no one might know your unkindness to him."[10]

Ormonde, in reply, declared to Arran that Mr. Lane's letter must have had something in it beyond what anything Ormonde had said to him could give ground for: "However," (added Ormonde), "I am really much troubled that a man so meriting "of, so esteemed and obleeged by me should go out of the world with a belief of my "being unkind to him," and in conclusion earnestly desired Arran, "if he recovers "strength enough to bear discourse, to take pains to put him at rest in that point, by "assuring him I have all the value and affection for him that a man can have, for "such a man as he would trust his life and honour with."[11] It would be painful to those who have seen in the Carte papers the long and faithful services of Lord Lanesborough on the one hand and Ormonde's unvarying regard for him on the other, if their last parting had been thus clouded. But on the 9th November 1683, Doctor Dun came with a message to Arran from Lord Lanesborough, to say that he looked upon himself as a dead man, and to let the Duke know that he was not sorry for going out of the world upon any account, but that he could not live longer to serve him, and further to let the Duke know that after his death his gratitude to him would appear, and that he died his faithful servant. He wished Dr. Dun to give him an account of his delivering this message; but the doctor told Arran he thought he might linger a few days yet.[12] And in a few days before the month of November was out he died.

Next after Sir George Lane there was no one of greater intimacy and trust with Ormonde than Sir Robert Southwell; and the Carte collection shows what abundant materials the Duke of Ormonde's biographer obtained from the Southwell papers. The Southwells were connexions of Ormonde's through the Poyntz's of Acton, in Gloucestershire. Of this family was Elizabeth Poyntz, Lady Thurles, mother of James, Duke of Ormonde. Mary Giffard, niece of this Elizabeth, married Anthony

---

[1] Thorpe Catalogue of the Southwell Papers, p. 507.
[2] His petition to Ormonde (6 July 1650) that one of the tenants who had attorned to him might be compelled to pay him the rent. Vol. clvii. p. 196a.
[3] Vol. cxiv. p. 132. [4] Vol. clxv. p. 54.
[5] cexiii. (quarto), p. 92. [6] June 16, 1683, clxviii. p. 28.
[7] Arran to Ormonde, September 29, 1683. ccxix. p. 831.
[8] Ormonde to Arran, December 27, 1683. Ibid. 856.
[9] A second wife. [10] clxviii. p. 118. [11] ccxix. p. 388. [12] clxix. p. 28.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Southwell.[1] The Southwells settled in Ireland originally in the county of Cork, and had lands at Kinsale, which Sir Robert's father increased at the Restoration by adding to them the forfeited lands of Barryoge, adjacent to that town. In 1679 Sir Robert purchased Kingsweston, seated on the Bristol Channel, near Bristol.[2] Ormonde, in a letter to James, Earl of Ossory, his grandson, not long before his death, recommendatory of Sir Robert Southwell to him as a faithful friend, upon the fidelity and prudence of whose advice he could always rely, says that there had been an intimacy between the Ormondes and the Southwells of three generations, both Sir Robert and Sir Robert's father and grandfather being affectionate friends to his (Ormonde's) father and grandfather, and that his mother, at her first coming into Ireland, was entertained at the house of Sir Robert's grandfather for a long time; "for there," (he adds) "my sister Clancarty was born."[3]

Sir Robert's father was well known to Ormonde for above forty years, and some of them (says Ormonde) were years of trial. His acquaintance with his son, Sir Robert, he adds, was of about twenty-three years' standing, and begun upon his return from travel in foreign parts.[4] Sir Robert, after some study at the Inns of Court in London, went to Italy to travel shortly before the Restoration, and continued on the continent from 1659 till 1662.[5] "But finding travel to be but a stain of idleness well excused,"[6] and determining to apply himself to business, he was admitted in September 1664, by the intercession of the Duke of Ormonde with the King, as clerk of the Privy Council at Whitehall in the place of Sir George Lane,[7] a post which, as has been already seen, he had purchased from him. In this situation he continued for sixteen years, discharging (to use Ormonde's language to his grandson, Lord Ossory) all the parts given him with remarkable fidelity, and with such indefatigable application that, having almost destroyed his health by that labour and the variety of climates he was sent into,[8] he was compelled to retire from business with the leave and favour of the King.[9] In the various changes that affected Ormonde's fortunes in this long course of time, he never found any (he says) in Sir Robert's friendship; but, on the contrary, his affection for him and care of his interest appeared to be more warm when others thought him under a cloud and quitted him, than when the sun shone more conspicuously upon him.[10]

A letter of Ormonde's to Sir Robert, giving an account of his visit to his house at Kinsale on occasion of his inspecting the forts there, presents a pleasing view of the Duke's friendship for him, and for his father and mother. On the 19th of August 1678 the Duke writes from Kilkenny, "I am taking coach for Carrick this morning, "not to return till I have eaten pilchards at Kinsale and oysters at Cork. It is "like you may hear from me again."[11] Sir Robert's father ("honest Robin," as the Duke styled him), had established a pilchard fishery there; and "in '69" he took "£1,300's worth of fish in one pull of a nett."[12] This old friend of Ormonde's died in April 1677.[13] Alluding to this occurrence and his own decline, Sir William Petty, writing to Sir Robert, says (Sept. 27, 1677):—"Methinks I see the same horse bridled "and saddled that carried away your father."[14] On the 30th August 1678 the Duke writes to Sir Robert from Kinsale, whither he was accompanied by Sir George Lane (Lord Lanesborough), and where Sir Robert's mother and Mr. Hyde, the steward, received him;

"According to my promise, I got hither last night, and wanted nothing but the good old gentleman that entertained me here much about this time 12 years. He has left behind him good marks of his industry; and better of his memory in the good word of all his neighbours."

He then describes his visit to the new forts, and says that in doing so he had rounded Sir Robert's territory, "which (he adds), with such a port, would make a "great Italian principality."

---

[1] Thorpe Catalogue of the Southwell Papers, p. 201.
[2] Ibid, p. 384.
[3] Life of Ormonde, vol. i., Appendix, p. 119. Duke of Ormonde to James Earl of Ossory, Cornbury, Feb. 16, 1684/5.
[4] Letter to James Earl of Ossory. Ibid.
[5] Memoranda by Sir Robert Southwell. Thorpe Catalogue, p. 514.
[6] Sir Robert Southwell to Mr. John Ellis, Dec. 13, 1684. Thorpe Catalogue, Southwell Papers, p. 184.
[7] Sir Robert Southwell to Mr. Pace, Oct. 1, 1664. Ibid, p. 507.
[8] Sir Robert was sent ambassador to the King of Portugal.
[9] Duke of Ormonde to James Earl of Ossory, Cornbury, Feb. 16, 1684/5. Life of Ormonde, vol. i., Appendix, p. 119. The King's letter giving Sir Robert Southwell leave to retire is dated Dec. 5, 1678. Thorpe Catalogue of Southwell Papers, p. 509.
[10] Letter to Earl of Ossory, as above.
[11] Vol. ixx., p. 129.
[12] Sir Robert Southwell to Mr. Reeves at Rotterdam, to induce Dutch curers to come over. Dated June 14, 1672. Thorpe Catalogue, p. 195.
[13] Thorpe Catalogue, p. 504.
[14] Ibid, p. 560.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"I mean (be contines) to see the old fort and the Old Head [of Kinsale], if your good cheer and your very sufficient substitute will allow me daylight for the latter. We have here as long a table as you have seen at the consecration of a Bishop, the inauguration of a Lord Mayor, or a leader's feast; yet there wants room, though not meat, after the rate of Irish hospitality and Irish liberty, and, perhaps my Lord Buckingham will say, 'Irish understanding.' But you will be able to defend yourself against the reproach as well as his Grace will his late sally into France, which I was informed of by one letter of the 17th inst.

"To-morrow morning I am to breakfast at Lt.-Col. Meade's, to collation at my sister's,[1] and return to the Bishop of Cork's. On Monday I pursue my journey to Limerick, and design to be at Kilkenny the 9th of next month, there to attend commands out of England."[2]

After his retirement from office, Sir Robert's company and his pen were ever at Ormonde's service. When the Earl of Anglesey, after the friendship of almost a lifetime, turned upon Ormonde at the time of the Popish Plot, and attacked him in print, ripping up the story of the Cessation made with the Confederate Catholics by the King's orders in 1643, and the two peaces of 1646 and 1648, Sir Robert Southwell wrote an answer to the Earl of Anglesey in vindication of the Duke of Ormonde's conduct in these (and other) transactions. It was intended for publication; but a few years having gone by before it was ready, Ormonde was too fond of quiet days (which he said he began to find were his only happy ones) to allow it to be published. Sir Robert wrote a preface full of curious particulars, accounting for Anglesey's motives, which he sent (as appears by an endorsement) with a short letter to the Duke of Ormonde, on 26th August 1685.[3] This vindication is corrected and altered throughout in the handwriting of Mr. Henry Gascoigne, the Duke's secretary, evidently by the Duke's directions, thus authenticating it as the Duke's own representation. It consists of 130 pages folio, and is to be found in volume 98, under the title "An Answer to the Earl of Anglesey's Objections to the Duke of Ormonde; or, "Some of the Earl of Anglesey's Errors detected in reference to the Affairs of "Ireland." On 28th May 1687,[4] Sir Robert sends the Duke twelve additional sheets to be introduced into this work, after 60 pages there spent in confuting Lord Anglesey, and they are accordingly inserted in the fair draft. These, he says, could not be omitted without leaving Lord Anglesey's sharpest assertion (and for which he lost his place) unanswered. His Lordship had said, "The Irish rebellion was hatcht at "Whitehall." Accordingly, to absolve the Court (says Sir Robert) "it was neces-"sary to place it elsewhere," and he had therefore fairly divided it between the King's different enemies.

In compiling this vindication he had the command of the Duke's papers. On 25th September 1686 he appriaes Henry Gascoigne that he had received at King's Weston the large box of papers weighing 1½ cwt., which Mr. Gascoigne had sent him from Kilkenny by order of the Duke.[5] But he was still demanding more. On 7th April 1687 he asks Mr. Gascoigne for a manuscript, being (he says) the account of the Irish Rebellion which Sir Edward Hyde writ at Cologne in 1656.[6] Mr. Gascoigne answered that it was perhaps in "Lord Lanesborough's book," which had been lent to the Bishop of St. Asaph when the Bishop intended to write of Irish affairs. But Sir Robert replied that it could not have been "Lord Lanesborough's book" that was lent, for the Duke would not lend that book to any. "It was his Magna Carta, "the history of his estates, and all that related to their settlement."[7] There is thus a very large amount of Sir Robert Southwell's writings among the Ormonde Papers. For besides these political papers in defence of the Duke of Ormonde, the Duke had engaged him to compile a memorial of his life. Volume 69 comprises much which Sir Robert had collected about the Duke's career. There are here some loose notes (some of them in pencil) of particulars gathered in conversation with the Duke, and noted on the moment.[8] Also copies of a set of papers found in the Duke's red box at Kingston Hall, after his death there on 21st July 1688, which his grandson, the second Duke, immediately after his decease, had commissioned Sir Robert to examine and report upon. For Sir Robert commences a letter thence to the Duke of Ormonde, "Your grandfather's hearse had hardly left this place on its way to Westminster, "when I proceeded to examine the contents of the red box."

---

[1] Countess of Clancarty, at Blarney Castle.
[2] Vol. lxix., 101.
[3] cxviii. 133.
[4] Sir Robert Southwell to the Duke of Ormonde, Kingsweston, 28 May 1687, cxviii., 110.
[5] cxxxi. (quarto), p. 182.
[6] Since published under the title of "A Short View of the State and Condition of Ireland."
[7] Sir Robert Southwell to Henry Gascoigne, Kingsweston, April 11, 1687. Vol. xi. 291.
[8] Vol. lxix., p. 13, &c.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Unable for want of leisure to do more than open the papers, he brought them with him from Kingston Hall to Badminton, whither he escorted the young Duchess and her infant in the absence of the Duke at the funeral. And the day of that solemnity (4th August 1688), he wrote from Badminton, asking liberty of the Duke, as the papers were too numerous to read through while he was there, to take them to Kings Weston for that purpose.[1] Copies of these papers and of Sir Robert Southwell's remarks as to the time of their being composed by the Duke, and the object of them, are to be found in volume 69.[2] As an interesting unpublished memorial of the Duke of Ormonde, and a fitting conclusion of our notice of the Ormonde portion of the Carte MSS., the following note of these papers, with Sir Robert's remarks, is here given:—

SIR ROBERT SOUTHWELL'S REPORT on the PAPERS found in the DUKE of ORMONDE'S RED BOX.

The following papers were copied from the originals found in the Duke of Ormonde's red desk after his death at Kingston Hall in Dorsetshire, which was on July 21, 1688:[3]—

I.

Draught of a letter by his Grace in the name of Captain Mathews as to debts and acquisitions.

This may refer to the letter which follows (p. 37), and perhaps both enter in that of p. 43.

"Having received authority from your Grace during some six years time that you were last in England to manage your estates in this kingdom, I have had opportunity to be acquainted with what your debts then were; how they were contracted, and what funds there were to discharge them, and how you came by them. And now it is come in my thoughts that besides the small service I have been able to do you in the management of your fortune, &c. . . . . ." ending with "a duty and justice "to your, &c."[4]

II.

A paper with the heads following, either for a memoire of the affairs of Ireland or of his own life.

"A troope of horse.

"Lieutenant-General of the horse in the intended war in Scotland.

"Lieutenant-General of the army under the Earl of Leicester uppon the breaking out of the Irish Rebellion.

"Who never coming to his government, I commanded the army in that quality.

"The cessation compassed with difficulty; the reasons.

"The succours sent to his Majestie on making the cessation.

"My being made Lieutenant; the dangers and difficulties of undertaking it.

"The peace of 1646.

"The infamous breach of that peace by the instigation of the Nuncio and Irish clergy.

"The several offers of the Parliament rejected by me.

"The breach of faith of Preston and the Leinster army.

"My attempt to induce the Scots in the North of Ireland to a conjunction with me when his late Majesty was in the hands of their countrymen at Newcastle.

"How long I held Dublin and the remaining garrisons after his late Majesty was given up by the Scots to the English army, and had no place that held for him but Jersey and Scilly.

"The necessity of giving up to the [Parliament] or to the Irish.

"The motives inducing the rather to surrender to the Parliament than the Irish."

---

[1] Sir Robert Southwell to Duke of Ormonde. Dated Badminton, 8th August 1688.
[2] Vol. lxix., pp. 230-236.
[3] Sir Robert Southwell's heading.
[4] Occupies one page and a half foolscap, and appears to be an introduction or opening, the rest left unfinished.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

III.

Introduction to memoire for his life, which 'tis supposed he began at Cornbury in Feb. 1650–1; for he then discoursed to Sir R. S. of such a thing, and wrote a letter to the Earl of Ossory which imports as much.

"Though I do not intend or am able to make a complete history of my life, or to trouble any one else to compose one for me, yet it is some satisfaction to me and may be to you and my nearest relations and friends, that I call to mind and set down and leave with you the most remarkable passages of it, which being recommended only to you and to such relations and friends as you may believe may have kindness enough for me to bestow reading upon it, I shall not, I hope, incur the imputation of vanity nor call up detractors and calumniators. Besides I am further secured against such objections and such a sort of people in that there is nothing really to be found in the course of my life to be proud of or that could give any ground of ostentation to a man of complete judgment or modesty.

"As there is nothing in my birth or parentage but which is common to me with many others . . . . . ." [His family always faithful to the Crown, and their posterity always delivered for what they suffered for it, which mainly confirmed him in those principles.] "And I confess the undutiful and insolent treatment which King Charles the First received from a pack of his ungrateful and ambitious subjects, and the indignation it raised in me to see so good a prince so unworthily used, made me resolved to venture all in his cause, though I was very little personally known by him, and not at all obliged by him, otherwise than that, by the representation of the Earl of Strafford, I was sworn of the Privy Council of Ireland at the age of about 23. On the contrary I thought my family and myself had received hard measure from King James and him, and most uninterested persons were of the same opinion.

"This perhaps might come in hereafter in a more proper place in this discourse; but I set things down as they come to my head, and so you find them anywhere. I have my end, having been so unfortunately bred that methodical writing is not my talent if the subject be various and the discourse of any length. But this leads me naturally enough to speak of my education."[1]

IV.

The introduction and some progress as far as 1647 into the Affairs of Ireland. 'Tis uncertain when it was wrote.

"In what state the kingdom of Ireland was in January 1643–4, when his late Majesty made me Lieutenant, is proper for history to relate.

"I shall only presume to say that when I was chosen for that place it was so unprofitable and dangerous a post that I received the honour without any competition; that I maintained it above three years upon my own credit and fortune; that I kept footing in the City of Dublin and some other garrisons against the English, Scotch, and Irish Rebels, above a year after his late Majesty put himself into the hands of the Scotch at Newcastle, and after Oxford was surrendered. Notwithstanding that he was soon after in their power, they obtained his Majesty's command to me for the delivery of all the places I held for him to the House of Parliament then sitting at Westminster (and that, after I had been blockt up at sea by the Parliament ships and at land by two armies, the one commanded by Preston, and the other by Owen O'Neil (the Pope's nuncio countenancing their attempt by his presence after he had by his instigations and excommunications prevailed with them to break the public faith of the nation). After all these hardships and hazards undergone, the quarters that might have maintained the men I commanded being utterly destroyed by the land armies, and by the necessity put upon me to demolish a great part of Dublin and to lay waste the next adjacent villages, and having twenty barrels of powder left, then I surrendered Dublin and all the other garrisons to Mr. Arthur Annesley and others commissioned by the House of Parliament to receive them, his Majesty judging it to be more agreeable to his interest and profession for the maintenance of the Protestant religion to put those places into the hands of the English than the Irish rebels.

"Judging likewise that though both had broken their faith and natural allegiance by raising a rebellion, yet the English who would have no peace with him but upon intolerable conditions, and so could not break it, were preferable for that and many other reasons, to the Irish who had made as solemn a peace as it was possible to stipulate, and yet perfidiously broke it by uniting their whole force against his lieutenancy, and the only party under him that owned his authority in Ireland.

[1] With the exception of a small portion contracted (to be found within brackets) the above is the whole of this paper.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"When Dublin was surrendered, I passed into England and remained there upon my articles until, from the Isle of Wight I received his Majesty's command from my brother-in-law, Sir George Hamilton, to meet with the Chancellor of Scotland, Loudon, the Earl of Lanerick, and the Earl of Lauderdale, to consult what might be done for his service by the power of Scotland, and by the interest I might have in Ireland.

"It belongs to history to give an account of the unsuccessful attempts that were made in that time, to which may in some measure be attributed that the several engagements could not be or were not so timed as to distract and divert the forces of the rebels.

"I was kept in France in expectation of some assistance from thence, and till matters might be agreed upon between the Earl of Inchiquin and the Supreme Council of the Irish."

V.

To his late Majesty, showing how the bounties made him were not so vast, but that he should leave his family more in debt than they were in 1641.

This was parcel of some other writing, and perhaps enters into the long narrative that follows, written in 1675.

"Having I hope satisfied your Majesty that I have been no ill husband of your revenue during the time of my government in Ireland, &c." [1]

VI.

Introduction to a memoir about the affairs of Ireland from 1641.

This was wrote with care for so much, and perhaps at Corubury, 1686–7, as intending to proceed in the narrative, and to be given to the Queen.

"The condition of Ireland is strangely unfortunate. It was in a flourishing and improving condition when the rebellion began, and that at a time when ye difference between the King and his subjects of England and Scotland were such that his Majesty had no means by force to suppress it, nor could he by any way of treaty compose it. His treasure was wholly exhausted by the army he was forced to raise against the Scotch Covenanters, nor was it safe for him to offer at reducing his Irish rebells by treaty, because his disaffected subjects of his two other kingdoms made his pretended favour of Popery to be the principal ground of their dissatisfaction, and the creditt that calumny gained was the only means by which it was possible for the rebellious Parliament to raise forces able to resist the King's; so that if his Majesty had gone about by treaty, or if he had not concurred with the Parliament in all the ways they could propose for suppressing of it by force of arms, his least scruple or delay would have given countenance to the aforesaid calumny, and it is probable he had never been able to have disputed his just rights as long as he did.

"In consequence of this state of affairs his Majesty gave commission to raise and transport forces out of England and Scotland to subdue the rebells of Ireland. And to pay these forces he gave the Royal assent to an Act of Parliament to invite and secure adventurers out of the confiscations of the Irish rebells. And care was taken by the then Governmeut of Ireland (who most of them favoured the then disaffected party in England, or for that they only could supply the forces, sent and to be sent into Ireland) to make them, as many as they could out of cities and towns not surprised by the Irish in the first eruption of that rebellion.

"It is true that at first the Lords Justices and Courts were so alarmed and frightened with daily notice out of the north of Ireland of places, castles, and towns, and of troops and companies of the small army surprised by the rebels, and were confirmed in the belief of it by many of the English who had escaped the cruel fury of the rebells and gott to Dublin, that they endeavoured by fair means and seeming trust to keep the most considerable of the Irish nobility and gentry (especially those of the Pale, their next neighbours), from joining with the rebells; but when some regiments of English were landed at Dublin, and others of Scotch in Ulster, they took heart and instigated the officers and soldiers to all the cruelty imaginable, not only against those who had undeniably committed barbarous outrages and bloody murthers upon the English and Protestants that fell into their hands, but against the whole nation of the Irish, and that that poore kingdom became one field of blood and

---

[1] Consists of two pages foolscap.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

desolation. Who being thus surrounded with enemies, found it necessary to form a Government to manage their affairs, especially in some orderly way to raise contributions to pay their forces. And to this Government they bound themselves, and all that were within their power, to adhere and be obedient by an oath of association, and never to lay down arms till they obtained the conditions mentioned in that oath."

VII.

The following was wrote in 1674, when he was going into Ireland, being part of a letter to his Majesty:—[1]

"It is but a year since I begged your Majesty leave to go into Ireland, &c."[2]

VIII.

Discourse of his comportment in his Majesty's service, supposed to be wrote in 1675.[3]

"Having had the honour to spend much the better part of a longer life than most men in the service of the King your father, and of your Majesty, I thought I could not better employ some of that leisure which by your permission I lately enjoyed in Ireland, than in calling myself to as strict an account as was possible for me, how I had discharged myself of those duties which by the obligations of loyalty, service, and gratitude, I ought to the Crown, and trust reposed in me, &c."[3]

The second Duke, upon his grandfather's death, engaged Sir Robert Southwell as his adviser and counsellor. He also urged Sir Robert to continue the narrative he had compiled of the Duke of Ormonde's conduct and management of public affairs in answer to the Earl of Anglesey's libel printed in 1680, wherein he had proceeded as far as the year 1648, as he had been informed, and had the Duke's approbation on perusal of what he had writ several times, "and particularly the last parts (he continues) when you was here (at Kingston Hall) with him in April last.[4] He also "requested him in conclusion, to complete that domestic account of his grandfather, "which Sir Robert had shewed him, and when fairly entered in a book, to send it to "him."[5] This work was entitled, "Some Domestic Informations touching the life "of James late Duke of Ormonde, who died at Kingston Hall in Dorsetshire, on "Saturday the 21st day of July 1688, in the 78th year of his age, and was interred "at Westminster on Saturday the 4th of August following. Also a few notes of "some ancestors who preceded his Grace, as of his children and posterity. Taken "by one who was honoured with a long acquaintance, and with his Grace's discourse "about familiar things."[6]

On the 3rd of September 1688, Sir Robert sent it to the Duke, together with a letter commencing thus:—"This goes to accompany a little map of a great country; "I mean some short memorials of your grandfather, which yet take in the travels, "employments, and some accidents of his whole life," adding that he knew that no man could fully write of what he acted and suffered without engaging in a chronicle; for, says Sir Robert, "he was 55 years in Councils and business, and it sometimes "requires a new age to speak truth of the old."[7]

Sir Robert set about collecting materials from among the Duke's papers for the continuation of his narrative, from 1648, of his management of public affairs. He was very urgent with the young Duchess to remind her husband to get the late Duke's papers properly catalogued and preserved. "Papers, Madam (said Sir "Robert), are the jewels of a family."[8] The Revolution, however, interfered with Sir Robert's purpose, and he died on 11th September 1702, without having gone farther than to collect the materials. In 1732, Carte applied to his son, the Honourable Edward Southwell, who lent Carte many papers from his stores at Kings Weston, and amongst them the Duke's letters to his father, which Carte copied or abstracted with his wonted diligence.

These are to be found in volume 69, and, although for the most part copies, form not the least valuable portion of the Ormonde collection.

---

[1] Sir Robert Southwell's statement.
[2] Occupies three-fourths of a page.
[3] Printed in Carte's Life of Ormonde, vol. i., Appendix of Letters, No. xcii.
[4] Duke of Ormonde to Sir Robert Southwell, August 1688, vol. xl., p. 294.
[5] Vol. lxix.
[6] Vol. lxix. p. 34.
[7] Sir Robert Southwell to Duke of Ormonde, dated Kings Weston, 8th September 1688. Vol. lxix., p. 34.
[8] Sir Robert Southwell to Duchess of Ormonde, dated Kings Weston, 8th September 1688. Vol. ccxvii., p. 144.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

(2.) Fitzwilliam Collection.

Next in importance after the Ormonde, is the Fitzwilliam Collection, which occupies volumes 55, 56, 57, and 58, and comprises a large body of the papers of Lord Deputy Sir William Fitzwilliam, within the five several periods during which he held the office of Lord Deputy, between 1560 and 1594.

Besides the letters and despatches which passed between the Queen and Council and Sir William Fitzwilliam, the collection contains those that passed between him and the President and Councils both of Munster and Connaught; the latter giving some very curious and important information concerning the internal state of Ireland.

Among these is Sir John Perrot's original letter of 16th November 1571, from Kilmallock to the Earl of Ormonde (Perrot being the President of Munster), announcing that he had appointed a meeting with James Fitzmaurice for a kind of duel to decide the Desmond war or rebellion.

Sir John Perrot proposed to Fitzmaurice that Fitzmaurice and he should present themselves in the field with twelve chosen cavaliers each, and let the event of the day rule the fate of the war. This letter Ormonde forwarded to the Lord Deputy, declaring that he was at his wit's end at Perrot's madness (vol. 57, pp. 98 and 101).

Though the number of papers selected from these volumes is not very large they will be found, it is believed, very important.

It is worthy of note that another volume of these papers is stated by the Irish Record Commissioners of 1810 to be in the possession of the Earl of Annesley, in their report upon the papers and books relating to the Act of Settlement, which they examined by order of the Lords of the Treasury in the year 1826 (Appendix to the 16th Report, p. 15).

It does not appear from their report how the volume came into the possession of the Annesley family. There is, however, a very clear account of the way in which these volumes in the Carte collection came to the Duke of Ormonde.

One of the great difficulties of the Duke's life was to disabuse the ill-informed and prejudiced public of the imputations constantly made against him of being a favourer of the Irish, in consequence of the two Peaces he had concluded with them in 1646 and 1648, by order of King Charles I.; imputations the more readily believed because he was called an Irishman, and because his father, mother, brother, sister, and all his relations, were of the Roman Catholic religion.

He took great pains to answer these charges in 1667, as appears by the papers he composed at this date, in which he enters fully upon every separate charge.

As to that which charges him with being an Irishman, he says he has been strangely mistaken these 40 years and upwards if he is not by birth, education, religion, and affection a perfect Englishman; adding, however, with his characteristic polished humour,—"But if having a good estate in Ireland change the case, many "English are, and many more would become, Irish." (Ormonde to Ossory, 21st January 1667–8, vol. 48, p. 163.)

And he further insists upon the continued loyalty of his house, and particularly of Thomas, Earl of Ormonde, his next immediate predecessor but one, who served Queen Elizabeth most faithfully in the three successive rebellions,—first, of a considerable number of the noblemen of the Pale, headed by the Earl of Baltinglass; secondly, of his own brothers, the Butlers; and, thirdly, of the Earl of Desmond.

These charges were revived towards the close of his life by the Earl of Anglesey. They gave infinite pain to Ormonde, and set him upon leaving a true account of himself to posterity, being fully determined (to use his own expression to Sir Robert Southwell, to whom he committed the task of compiling a memorial of him) "to lie "well in the 'Chronicle.'" He now employed himself to furnish materials to Sir Robert Southwell by conversing upon the events of his life, and collecting all papers bearing upon the history of himself and his ancestors; and remembering, it would seem, how important it would be in this view to have Lord Deputy Fitzwilliam's papers to authenticate the deeds of his ancestor Thomas, Earl of Ormonde, he sent Sir Robert Southwell, who attended him as far as Warwick on his last journey to Ireland, from thence to the Earl Fitzwilliam's house in Yorkshire, for whatsoever papers he had of what had passed in Ireland while Sir William Fitzwilliam, his ancestor, was Lord Deputy of Ireland.

These were generously furnished by that family to the Duke, and, being sent over to him in Ireland, were by him committed to Matthew Barry, Clerk of the Council, to be sorted and set in order. After the Duke's death these papers were obtained from Matthew Barry on the information thus supplied to his grandson, the second Duke, by Sir Robert Southwell, in order to be used by him in framing the account of his grandfather's life.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report o Commissioners—continued.

The following is the old Duke of Ormonde's letter to Sir Robert Southwell:—

"Dublin, Sept. 5th, 1684.

"THREE of yours came hy one post. That of the 23 August gives an account of the good success of your pains and search into my Lord Fitzwilliam's papers, and of the nine bundles now in Mr. Heryot the goldsmith's hands, to be transported hither, of which he shall be put in mind, and order given for their reception at Chester. I think myself so much obliged to that Lord for his frank parting with them to me that I shall take care that anything that may be for the honour or interest of his family shall be returned to him.

"I do not think there will be much found for instruction in point of government, the world having changed very often since those times; and for history I believe Camden took as much pains to be truly informed in the writing of his as he could bestow upon it, but with what sincerity he related what he found I cannot say. He writt so near the time of the transactions that betwixt the veneration that age had for Queen Elizabeth and the fear he might have of displeasing King James, who rather suffered than loved the exaltation of that Queen; and yet, though these papers should not serve to either of these ends, they will be of great divertisement in the discovery of the spirit, style, and conduct of the men in play in that age. However, your part has been as obliging to me as it has been troublesome to you.

"I was not surprised at my Lord Rochester's remove from the Treasury.'

"ORMONDE."[1]

Ten years afterwards his grandson, the second Duke, writes the following letter to Mathew Barry; it is dated London, 29th January 1694–5:—

"SIR,

"I AM informed by Sir Robert Southwell that he attended my grandfather as far as Warwick when he went last for Ireland, and that his Grace sent him from thence to the Lord Fitzwilliam's to gather some old papers of what had past in Ireland while Sir William Fitzwilliams, his ancestor, was Lord Deputy of Ireland; which papers, being sent over in a deale box, Sir Robert says my grandfather told him when he returned into England, that he had lodged those papers in y^r keeping to be sorted and set in order for him.

"My desire is that you would seale them all up and deliver them to the bearer hereof, Valentine Smith, whom I have directed to send them over to myself, or in my absence to Sir Robert Southwell, he having other like papers of myne which my grandfather left in his custody.

"I am y^rs,

"To Mathew Barry, Esq., in Dublin."[2] "ORMONDE."

It may be proper to note, in connexion with the Fitzwilliam papers, that in 1667 the Duke of Ormonde, in writing to the Earl of Arlington concerning the proposed marriage of the Earl Fitzwilliam to Lord Arlington's sister-in-law, says he "could "be highly bribed to it if the young gentleman could recover the Council Books of "Ireland to Henry the Eight's time, which an ancestor of his, returning from the "government of this kingdom, carried with him into England."[3] Now we know from Sir John Davys that the earliest Council Book in Ireland in his day was the 32nd of Henry VIII., and if Sir William Fitzwilliam did indeed carry away these books (a fact, however, nowhere else mentioned, so far as we are aware), they might, perhaps, still be looked for amongst the family papers of the Earl Fitzwilliam.

(3.) Chichester Collection.

Another series of papers of hardly less importance than the Fitzwilliam is that contained in volumes 61 and 62, which may be called the Chichester collection, though it comprises some few documents connected with the government of Lord Deputy St. John.

The Chichester papers, one would be tempted to believe, formed part of the Huntingdon collection. This collection Carte obtained from the Earl of Huntingdon, whose great grandfather married Sir John Davys's sole daughter and heir, as likely to throw light on the history of Ireland during Sir John Davys's attorney-generalship, which lasted from 1603 till 1616. It was chiefly from the Huntingdon papers and [1] Vol. lxx., p. 160.

[2] Endorsed "Draft of the Letter from the Duke of Ormonde to Mathew Barry for the papers "procured from the Lord Fitzwilliams." Vol. lxviii., 226. Drafted, probably, by Sir Robert Southwell.

[3] Ormonde to Arlington, Dublin, 29th January 1666-7 Carte Papers, vol. 31, p. 192.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Lord Chichester's book of the Plantation of Ulster which he had from Mr. Barry of Finglass, that Carte took (as he says) the account of the plantation of Ulster, and the state of affairs in Ireland before the time of Lord Stradford's government. But as the Huntingdon papers, properly so called, contained in volumes 76, 77, 78, throw no light on the affairs of Ireland, and contain none of Sir John Davys's papers, while several private papers of Sir John Davys's are to be found at the end of volume 62, and all the documents in this volume and volume 61 concern the period of Sir John Davys's attorney-generalship and Sir Arthur Chichester's government, it almost follows as a necessary conclusion that these volumes are "Huntingdon papers," as well as the other volumes so called, and that they contain the very papers that Carte tells us he used for elucidating this period of his history.

The first paper in volume 61 is the original Journal of the Parliament of 1585, and is unquestionably the earliest journal of Parliament in Ireland known to be extant, those in the printed journals commencing only in the reign of Charles I.

It is probable that this journal was made use of by Sir Arthur Chichester for the purpose of regulating the proceedings of the Parliament called in 1613, a book of precedents of Parliamentary proceedings having become necessary, as no Parliament had been held in Ireland in the long interval from 1585 to 1613. This journal is unfortunately more concerned with entries to show the proper adjournments and continuance of Parliament, than with the more material business.

(4.) Sandwich Collection.

The Sandwich papers have but little direct relation to Ireland.

They comprise the correspondence and other papers of Sir Edward Montagu, who played an important part under the Commonwealth, being appointed by the Rump Parliament on 3rd March 1659–60, one of the Generals at sea, Monk being the other, in which capacity Montagu was mainly instrumental in securing the adhesion of the fleet to the cause of the Restoration, a service for which Charles II. conferred upon him the title of Earl of Sandwich, the name he is best known by in history. These papers occupy the 73rd and 75th volumes, and although chiefly valuable for the history of the navy and the Admiralty, they yet throw a great deal of light upon the general history of the period.

Amongst their few contents relating to Ireland are some orders of Lord Deputy Fleetwood and the Council for the affairs of Ireland, and some petitions with orders of reference with the autograph of the Lord Protector Cromwell. One of these papers is the case of Viscount Montgomery of Ardes, pending before the committee at Westminster for the construction of Articles of War, which will be found referred to in the case of Lord Claneboy before the same committee, given among the historica. illustrations of Part III. of this Report.

(5.) Wharton Collection.

The Wharton collection chiefly concerns English affairs.

Philip Lord Wharton was a firm adherent of the Parliament during the Civil War; also a great personal friend of Oliver Cromwell. It appears by the following letter from Cromwell that he wished a match between one of his sons and Lord Wharton's daughter:—

"MY DEERE LORD, [June 30, 1652.]

"INDEED I durst not suddenly make up any judgment what would bee fitt for mee to doe, or desire, in the businesse you know off, but beinge engaged to give you an account upon our last conference, I shalbe bould to doe that, and add a word or two therewith.

"For the estate I mentioned, I cañott now (by reason my steward is not heere) bee soe exact as I would, but the lands I designd for this occasion are, Burlye, Ookam, and two other little things not far distant, in all about 1,900*l.* p. añn; moreover, Dalby and Broughan, 1,600*l.* p. añum. Burlye hath some charge upon itt, w^ch will in convenient tyme be removed. This is neare twice as much as I intended my sonn, yett all is unworthye of the honourable person.

"My Lord give mee leave to doubt that the lady hath soe many just scruples, w^ch if not very freely reconciled, may bee too great a tentation to her spirit, and alsoe have after inconveniencyes. And although I knowe your Lord'p' reallitye, yett I believe you may have your show of difficultyes to conflict with, which may make the businesse uneasie.

"Wherefore good my Lord I begg itt (if there bee not freedom and cheerfullnesse in the noble person,) lett this affaire slide easilie off, and not a word more bee spoken about itt, as your Lord'ps thoughts are, soe hushe all, and save the labor of little

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Mall's foolinge, least shee incurr the losse of a good freind; indeed my Lord I write my hart plainlye to you as becomes my Lord.

"Your most affectionate servant,

"June the 30th, 1652." "O. CROMWELL."[1]

"For the Right Honble. the Lord Wharton, Theise."

Endorsed.

"June 30th, 1652.—My Lord Generalls to mee, about his sonne."

But though the Wharton papers principally concern English affairs, there are found amongst them some papers connected with the court or committee at Westminster for the interpretation of Articles of War, before which came in 1654 the case of Lord Claneboy, one of the Protestants of Ulster. Lord Wharton does not appear to have been a member of that court or committee, but Lady Claneboy was his cousin, and to him she applied in her husband's suit, on account of his influence with the Lord Protector.[2] She no doubt sent copies of the decree of the court of articles, and of the Protector's letter in Lord Claneboy's favour to Lord Wharton; and thus they are found among these papers. There are here also a series of papers and correspondence which, though they altogether concern Lord Wharton's private affairs in connexion with Ireland, throw a remarkable light both on the Cromwellian and Restoration settlements. As illustrative of these very important eras, they will be found in the third part of this Report.

The Wharton collection contains much interesting information for the general history of the time, especially during the latter years of Charles II.'s reign in England; among which we may particularize a number of letters concerning the occurrences of the times of the Popish Plot, and the proceedings of Oates, Dangerfield, and their confederates.

There is also a large amount of private letters and correspondence of the period of the Revolution concerning the war in Ireland. Thomas Wharton was at that time comptroller for King William and Queen Mary, and Colonel Henry Wharton, his brother, was in their army in the campaign in Ireland.

There are letters to the comptroller from the camp at Dundalk, Kilkenny, Golden, Athlone, and Limerick. On 2nd November 1689 he is informed of his brother Colonel Henry Wharton's death at Dundalk, and of its being followed next morning by that of Sir Thomas Gore, both from disease, as also that they were both deposited in the one vault under the church at Dundalk, being Lord Bellew's.[3]

After "the break of the Boyne," Colonel R. Brewer gives an account of Colonel Wharton's body being removed from Lord Bellew's vault, where it was laid with Sir Edward Dering's as well as Sir Thomas Gore's, to be sent to England. The coffin was opened to recognize him.[4] There is an account of the assault and taking of Athlone,[5] and of the surrender of Limerick.[6] There are a large number of spirited letters from Colonel Brewer from the army, and from his brother George Brewer, about the same period, with lively letters giving the gaieties and gallantries of the town. There are letters also from Colonel Trelawney and General Kirke, during the campaign, to Comptroller Wharton.

(6.) Huntingdon Collection.

The circumstances under which the Huntingdon papers originally came into the Carte collection have already been incidentally mentioned. They are found in vols. 76, 78, and contain a large proportion of purely family papers, among which are several autograph letters of Cardinal Pole. Probably the most valuable of these papers is a series of news letters, as well English as foreign, arranged in chronological order and occupying a considerable part of the 76th volume.

(7.) Nairne Collection.

On the Nairne collection, which now forms part of the general Carte series, we are relieved from the necessity of reporting at any length, by the detailed account as well as the copious selections which are contained in MacPherson's State Papers. This collection, properly speaking, consists of eleven volumes, two in folio, and nine in quarto. They are not numbered continuously, nor do they appear in the series as forming one distinct collection. Seven of the volumes, two in folio and five in quarto, are described as "Nairne Papers;" the remaining four being lettered respectively "Middleton Letters" and "Lettere di Gualterio." The contents of all are summarily

[1] Vol. ccii., p. 77.
[2] See her letters in September and October 1654 to Lord Wharton, ccxxviii. pp. 2 and 7.
[3] lxxix. 210. [4] Ibid. 256. [5] Ibid. 297. [6] Ibid. 324.

Digitized by Google

described by MacPherson, and will also be found in the Second Part of this Report. They are occupied almost exclusively with the affairs of the exiled Stuarts, and have little connexion with the domestic history, whether of England or of Ireland.

We may mention, however, among the "Nairne Papers," properly so called (vols. cxviii.-xii.), one curious correspondence about certain Irish ecclesiastics, who had been recommended to the sacred congregation De Propaganda Fide, for nomination to vacant Irish sees. These letters, in which the qualifications of the several candidates are very freely discussed, will be read with much interest by those who are curious in the history of Ireland, religious and social, as well as political, during the obscure and almost unknown half century which followed the Revolution.

The "Middleton Letters" (vols. cclxxvii. and cclvi.) are the correspondence of the Earl of Middleton, the Secretary of State of the exiled Royal Family, and their great organ of communication both with foreign courts and with the heads of the Jacobite party in England and abroad.

The "Lettere di Gualterio" contain the correspondence of Cardinal Gualterio, for a long time representative of the Stuarts at the Roman Court. These papers are chiefly in Italian and French, with some Latin documents, relating for the most part to ecclesiastical affairs.

(8.) Miscellaneous Ormonde Papers.

Interspersed with these collections are several volumes, 59, 60, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, and 72, which plainly belong to the regular Ormonde series, being papers which were evidently brought together by Carte, chiefly from the archives of the family, with a view to the preparation of his Life of Ormonde. Many of these and many similar papers are of incalculable value to the historical student, as for example, those of the 64th volume, which contains a large portion of the letter book of the Confederate Catholics at Kilkenny, and of the correspondence of their agent at Paris, Father O'Hartigan.

The general contents of these volumes as a whole may be referred to as a monument of Carte's care as a collector, and of the unwearied industry and extensive research of that most laborious historian.

We may specially particularize under this head the 67th volume, which consists altogether of copies made of papers relating to Ireland from the collection of Dr. Williams, President of King's College, Cambridge, who got possession of Dr. Nalson's large body of historical papers; copies of the minutes of the proceedings of the Commissioners of the Court of Claims, made by Carte with his own hand for the purpose of his history; and of numberless other copies, made either by Carte or by his orders.

B.

TRANSCRIPTS AND NOTES.

(a.) Relating to the History of England.

With the volumes comprised under the second head, namely, those which mainly consist of transcripts, extracts, summaries, notes, &c., our commission is not directly concerned. Nevertheless it is impossible to pass them over without notice. Although their interest for historical purposes has been much diminished since the death of Carte, by the publication, complete or partial, of a considerable proportion of them, yet the collection, as left behind by him, is a rare monument of research, industry, literary enterprise, and intelligent appreciation of the true principles of historical investigation.

Of those volumes which bear directly on the preparation for Carte's History of England, some are of a general character, and regard collateral subjects, as history, topography, antiquities, sacred and profane, heraldry, biography, and family history; some belong to particular periods or events; some emanated from special sources of information. Among these is a series of despatches of French ambassadors in England, addressed to their court at various periods from London, and not only relating to the particular objects for which they were severally accredited to England, but also illustrating the general course of English affairs at the time. These papers, which occupy volumes lxxxii.-lxxxviii., and which, although not arranged in the order of time, relate to different periods, extending from 1552 to 1649, are evidently transcripts from the originals in the French archives, to which, through the influence of his Jacobite friends in France, Carte, during his long exile abroad after Bishop Atterbury's conspiracy, appears to have had free access. The first of these collections in the order of time (vols. lxxxvii., lxxxviii.), the memoirs of the embassy of Antony de Noailles and of that of his brother Francis in England, from December 1552 to May 1561, is full of interest for the secret history of the reign of Queen Mary (especially of the various negociations about her marriage), and of the first years of Elizabeth. But this correspondence was published soon after Carte's copy was made, by the Abbé Vertot.[1] Next in order come the despatches of Christopher de Harlay, Comte de Beaumont, from 1602 to 1605 (vol. lxxxii.), and those of M. de La Boderie from 1606 to 1610 (lxxxv., lxxxvi.). The latter series likewise has been published in five vols. 8vo. At this point the sequence of time is interrupted, the next correspondence in order of time being that of M. d'Effiat (vol. lxxxii.), who was sent by the French Court as ambassador extraordinary to conduct the negotiations regarding the marriage of Charles I. with Henrietta Maria. M. d'Effiat's letters, which extend over July—September 1624, contain a most minute account of these difficult negociations, complicated by so many delicate questions of religion and of nationality. They are followed by the despatches of M. de Chastillon in 1637, of M. de Subran in 1644–5 (vol. lxxxiv.), and finally of M. de Montreuil (vol. lxxxiii.) from 1645 to 1649, thus covering the most important and critical years of that eventful history.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

In some of these despatches a kind of conventional cypher is employed; and the De Boderie correspondence has a key annexed to it, explaining the conventional appellatives of the several characters. Some of these are sufficiently amusing. The Pope is called "Le Chanoine;" the Emperor "L'Elephant;" the King of Denmark "La Mouche;" the Elector of Brandenburg "L'Escorpion," &c.

(b.) Relating to the Life of Ormonde.

Among the similar collection of transcripts made or collected with a view to the Life of Ormonde, we have already alluded to the copies which Carte obtained from Dr. Williams's (of Cambridge) collection of Dr. Nalson's papers relating to the affairs of Ireland. There are two or three volumes of a different class, which appear to us to call for a more particular description. One of these volumes is a transcript of Archdeacon Lynch's unpublished treatise, "De Præsulibus Hiberniæ, potissimis "Catholicæ Religionis in Hibernia acerudæ, propagandæ, et conservandæ Authoribus." Great part of the transcript is by Carte's own hand. The manuscript concludes with the section De Præsulibus Duacensibus. [Kilmacdnagh.]

Vol. xcvii., although entirely destitute of official character, in the sense of our instructions, is of the very highest historical interest, especially as bearing upon the Roman Catholic side of the history of the war, 1641–50. This volume consists of notes and extracts, as also criticisms, of a MS. entitled "De Hæresis Anglicanæ Intrusione "et Progressu, et de Bello Catholico ad Annum 1641 incepto, exindeque per aliquot "Annos gesto, Commentarius." The volume is nearly all in Carte's writing.

Many of the papers which in the original work had been rendered into Latin, have been reproduced by Carte in the English form in which they had first been written, and may be found in the appendix or the text of his Life of Ormonde. The extracts in vol. xcvii. are uniformly accompanied by references to the pages of the MS., the last page so referred to being 3,689.

The author of this highly interesting history, whose name is not attached, was an Irish priest. He states, that, having come to Florence in September 1661, while Father Richard O'Ferral was engaged in the supervision of the history of Irish affairs compiled by Massari, Dean of Fermo and secretary of the Nuncio Rinuccini, he was appointed by the general of their order as Father O'Ferral's associate in the preparation of this history. Massari died in 1664.

In addition to the extracts and notes from this contemporary history (which occupy 415 closely written pages), volume xcvii. also contains a number of documents of the same period, and bearing on the same side of the Irish affairs of the period, chiefly relating to the transactions between the Nuncio and the Supreme Council. Many of the documents are to be found in Belling's "Vindiciæ," or Burke's "Hibernia Domini- "cana," and a large proportion of the rest, in the "Nunziatura in Irlanda" of Rinuccini, published at Florence in 1844. Nevertheless, as a whole, volume xcvii. is of the utmost value for the history of the Irish Catholics from 1641 to 1660. It is full of minute personal and local details. The dates, in which the other scanty contemporary narratives are for the most part lamentably deficient, are most carefully noted; and the narrative is accompanied by explanatory observations which only a contemporary, and almost an eye-witness, could have supplied. The MS. from which these extracts are made is seemingly a transcript of the original work, which is still preserved in the library of the Marchesa Trivulzi, the last representative of the Florentine family of Rinuccini, now residing at Milan, and to which Burke had access in 1770, before he published the invaluable appendix of his great work, the "Hibernia Dominicana." We ought to add that the history possesses an additional value from the fact that it is continued after the break-up of the Irish party, both as to the events in Ireland and also as to the fortunes of the Irish exiles on the continent, more especially in relation to the subsequent discussion and controversies at Rome.

[1] Paris, 1763, 3 vols., 8vo.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

The transcript of the original from which Carte made the copious extracts which fill volume xcvii. was lent to him by Lord Lovel, ancestor of the Earl of Leicester, and is still preserved in the library at Holkham. When lent to Carte, it was in four enormous volumes; but it has since been rebound, and now forms eight thick folio volumes, paged consecutively throughout, and containing no fewer than 3,689 folio pages. Among Carte's literary papers we found the memoranda of the engagement given by him, on his borrowing the several volumes, to return them within a specified time. We are tempted to transcribe these memoranda, as an evidence of the Herculean powers of this indefatigable student; merely observing in addition that the volume of extracts and notes which he elaborated from Lord Lovel's transcript is all in his own neat and minute handwriting, and that the volume contains 467 folio pages, each page containing on an average 45 lines of 15 words.

"April 13th 1733. Borrowed of the Right Honble. the Lord Lovel, the first volume of a Latin manuscript, in folio, entitled "De Hæresis Anglicanæ intrusione et progressu, et de Bello Catholico ad annum 1641 incepto, exindeque per aliquot annos gesto Commentarius," containing 594 fols., which I promise hereby to restore in the same case and in two days. Witness my hand,

Tho.-Carte."[1]

"May 7th 1733. Borrowed of the Right Honble. the Ld. Lovel, the 2d volume of the abovesaid manuscript from fol. 595 to fol. 1531 inclusive, which I promise hereby to restore in the same case in 14 days. Witness my hand,

Tho.-Carte."

"May 31st 1733. Borrowed of the Right Honorable the Lord Lovel, the 3d volume of the abovesaid manuscript, from fol. 1532 to fol. 2634 inclusive, which I promise hereby to restore in the same case in 20 days. Witness my hand, Tho.-Carte."

"June 26th 1733. Borrowed of the Right Honorable the Lord Lovel, the 4th vol. of the abovesaid manuscript, from fol. 2635 to fol. 3889, being the last volume, which I promise hereby to restore in the same case in twenty days. Witness my hand, Tho.-Carte."

It thus appears that, supposing Carte (as indeed the successive erasures of his signature seem to attest,) to have fulfilled his engagements, and to have returned the volumes in succession at the time specified, he must have completed his 467 pages of copy or abstract within the space of 56 days, or at the rate of nearly nine of these gigantic folios per day.

Another manuscript of great interest for the same view of Irish history, is found in vol. cexxix., in company with manuscript copies of several other tracts. But unhappily this important work is incomplete. The MS. to which we refer is the last in the volume, and is entitled "A Light to the Blind, whereby they may see the Dethronement "of James the Second, King of England, with a brief Narration of his Wars in Ireland, "and of the War between the Emperor and the King of France for the Crown of "Spain." It is hardly necessary for us to say, that the work described under this title is the same of which a complete copy is in the possession of the Earl of Fingal, and from which Sir James Macintosh made extracts extending to 160 quarto pages, which were used by Lord Macaulay in his History of the Revolution in Ireland. The copy in Carte's collection contains but two of the three books into which the work was divided. The last sentence of the second book in this copy contains an allusion to the third book, and that the MS. must have been actually completed, is clear from the circumstance, that, in an Appendix of additions which were designed to be made to the text of the work at page 1173, whereas the MS. actually ends at p. 740, a subsequent addition is given, which was intended to be attached to page 1282. The deficiency is of the less importance since the copy in the possession of the Earl of Fingal is complete, containing not alone the narrative of James II.'s war in Ireland, but also the subsequent and entirely independent narrative of the war of the Spanish succession on the Continent; in which narrative, however, are interspersed allusions to Ireland and Irish personages and affairs, some of which are of such importance as to have been deemed by Sir James Macintosh deserving of being extracted. As regards the historical value of this work no second opinion exists. With the exception

[1] These receipts were returned to Carte, with the name cancelled, to show that he had restored the borrowed book.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

of Kelly's "Macarise Excidium," it is the only extant narrative of the war from the Irish point of view, and although it thus is naturally a partisan narrative, yet the author has all the characteristics of a truthful and honourable man, whose statements, although not to be accepted implicitly, nevertheless deserve to be carefully weighed, and to be contrasted critically with the conflicting, but equally partisan narratives, on which the current histories of the Irish Revolution have almost exclusively been based.

PART II.

Contents of the Carte Collection.

The above history of the formation of Carte's collection at once suggests an explanation of the miscellaneous character of its contents. The number of volumes amounts in the whole to 270, of which 206 are in folio, 59 in quarto, one in octavo, four in duodecimo, and one in 16^mo^.

The contents of these volumes appear to have come into Carte's hands in very various forms and conditions; some had been already arranged and bound into volumes, some came to him in loose and disorderly bundles, some in single papers, and often in a mutilated and fragmentary condition. Availing himself of so much of the work as had already been done, Carte reduced the whole to a kind of rough uniformity, by causing the unbound papers to be bound in volumes, in doing which, however, he consulted more for security than for regularity of form. He thus arranged the whole into a consecutive, though irregular, series of volumes, the order of which he distinguished by the letters of the alphabet, first singly, then doubled, then trebled, quadrupled, and otherwise varied according to the exigencies of the numeration, in a manner, as will easily be imagined, extremely troublesome and inconvenient for the purpose of citation.

Of the Ormonde Papers, properly so called, the first volumes are arranged in chronological order; some of the rest are collected into classes according to their subject and import, and others are found at irregular intervals in the series, distributed, perhaps, according to the order in which they were acquired, and mixed up consequently, in many instances, with papers with which they have no natural connexion. The whole collection has now, through the enlightened care of the Curators of the Bodleian Library, been judiciously and uniformly rebound, the volumes being numbered consecutively, but without any attempt at a re-arrangement, which might be inconsistent with the order followed by Carte in the "Life of Ormonde" and in his various other publications.

Messrs. Hardy[1] and Brewer's Report, dated 9th November 1863, contains a very good account of the principal contents of 201 volumes of the Carte series. We gratefully acknowledge the important assistance which we have received during the whole progress of our labour from this able report. The summary of the contents of the several volumes, contained in Appendix A. of that Report, proved for us in all instances a most useful guide, as well to the general nature of the subject-matter of each volume as to the most striking and characteristic papers contained therein. Having now passed through our hands every document contained in the entire collection, we are enabled to bear unequivocal testimony to the accuracy of the descriptive notice of the papers contained in the several volumes which was given by our predecessors in the examination; and when we remember that these documents are to be numbered, not by thousands, but by tens of thousands, and that the survey on which the report of 1864 is founded was completed within a space of six weeks, we cannot conceal our high admiration of the minute acquaintance with the history of the period, the familiarity with other sources of its materials, printed and manuscript, and the skill in detecting at a glance the import as well as the value of obscure and difficult historical documents, which are exhibited in all its pages.

At the date of Messrs. Hardy and Brewer's report, however, the work of the rebinding and consecutive numbering of the volumes was only partially completed. Hence no fewer than 71 volumes of the collection, as it now stands, are entirely unnoticed in their report, being for the most part, indeed, of little value for the purposes of their inquiry; and, as the modern numeration of the volumes had at that time only proceeded as far as the 130th, the remaining volumes are described by them under the old denomination by letters, which Carte had employed. We think, therefore, that we shall best consult, as well for the convenience of future readers of the Carte manuscripts, as for the completeness of the descriptive account of the series which we desire to lay before your Lordship, by reproducing Messrs. Hardy and Brewer's catalogue, introducing into it in their proper order similar notices of the [1] Now Sir Thomas Duffus Hardy.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

volumes included in the collection which were not noticed by these gentlemen, and supplying the present numeration of those volumes which in their notices are described under the old inconvenient designations adopted by Carte. We shall reproduce their notices without alteration, distinguishing by brackets the notices of the remaining volumes of the collection in its present form, which we have ourselves supplied in order to the completeness of the description.

We shall afterwards describe with somewhat more minuteness certain of the more important portions of the Ormonde collection, strictly so called.

NOTICES OF CARTE'S MSS.

Folio Series.

Vol. 1, formerly marked "A," folio.

Copies of Grants and other formal documents, temp. Hen. III., Edw. I., Edw. II., Edw. III., Ric. II., and Hen. V.

James Earl of Ormonde's speech to the parliament of Drogheda, 1444, and other papers relative to his creation as Earl of Wilts and attainder.

Letters from Thomas Earl of Ormonde to Thomas Archer, 1577 to 1612.

Orders of the Councils of England and Ireland.

Letters from Queen Elizabeth to the Council of Ireland, and one from Cecil to the Earl of Ormonde, general in Ireland (1597).

Letter from Sir Francis Bacon to George Duke of Buckingham, when the latter became the favourite of James I., without date.

Warrants.

Letters, mostly original, and chiefly addressed to the Earl of Ormonde, from 1633 to 1641, from the King, Archbishop Laud, Lord Strafford, Lord-Deputy Wandesford, the Lords Justices of Ireland, the Earls of Cork and Holland, Secretary Coke, Sir William Saintleger, Sir Charles Coote, Sir H. Bruce, Sir H. Vane, Sir J. Temple, and others. They chiefly relate to the affairs of Ireland. Some of these letters are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 27–38, and in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 1–5.

A number of miscellaneous papers dated in the reigns of James I. and Charles I. Amongst them are:—A letter of news from an Alderman of Newcastle to a friend in London. A paper concerning the Novations in Religion complained of by the Scots, signed "Ad. Blair." A Plan of the Way leading to Dunbarton Castle. A Narrative of what passed at King John of Portugal's naming his Bishops at Rome. Demands of the Scots in order to a peace.

Vol. 2, formerly marked "B," folio.

Letters, mostly original, and generally addressed to the Earl of Ormonde, from October 1641 to March 1642, from the King, the Lords Justices of Ireland, the Officers in the North of Ireland, the Earls of Leicester and Cumberland, the Marquis of Clanricarde, Lords Montgomery, Muskery, Upper Ossory, Moore, Montgarret, Ranelagh, and Broghill; Sir H. Tichborne, Sir H. Vane, Sir W. Saintleger, Sir J. Temple, Sir James Montgomery, Lieutenant-Colonel Byron, Sir Patrick Wemys, Sir Philip Percival, Sir Thomas Wharton, and others. They chiefly relate to the Rebellion and other Irish affairs. Many of them are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 37-69, and p. 117. There are also a few drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters.

Miscellaneous papers relating to various subjects:—Proclamations. Depositions. Appointment of a Committee to confer with the Rebels (in print). An Account of the Insurrection in Tipperary. Petitions from the Lords of the Pale to King Charles I, and Queen Henrietta Maria. Their Apology for taking Arms. Papers concerning a murder at the Silver Mines. Petition from the Officers of the Army to the King on the breaking out of the Rebellion (original, on parchment). The King's commission to hear the Rebels' propositions (Jan. 11, 164⅛). The declaration of the Lords and Gentry of Munster as to their intentions towards the Protestants, &c.

Vol. 3, formerly marked "C," folio.

Letters addressed to the Earl of Ormonde, mostly original, and dated from March to October 1642, from many of the same persons as in Vol. 2, and from Lord Gormanston and the Supreme Council of the Confederate Catholics, Secretary Nicholas, Speaker Lenthall, the Duke of Richmond, Lords Esmond and Claneboy, the Marquis of Argyle, Lords Wharton, Conway, Barrymore, Grey of Wark, Valentia, Ieshiquin, and Grandison, Sir W. Parsons, Sir Robert Poyntz, Sir R. Grenville, Sir Hardress Waller, Mr. Tempest, Sir Arthur Loftus, Sir Robert Stewart, Sir W. Gilbert, Sir Fulk Hounckes, Sir J. Giffard, Sir Francis Willoughby, Sir Lucas Dillon, Sir Michael Ernle, Sir G. Radcliffe, and others. Also drafts and copies of Ormonde's letters to many of the above-mentioned persons. Some of these letters are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 70–106.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Interspersed among the above are a number of other papers, such as the following:—Depositions. Orders by the Lords Justices of Ireland. An Order of the House of Commons for a jewel to be sent to Ormonde, and vindicating him from false reports (printed in the "Life of Ormonde," iii. 71). A Proclamation sent to the Sheriff of Yorkshire, ordering him to forbid the militia (in print). Proclamation for gentlemen to appear at York for the King's guard. Declaration by the Parliament of Ireland of the distressed condition of the Protestants, and Address to the Parliament of England. Petition of the Officers of the Irish Army to the King. Dates of Articles of the Treaty for reducing Ireland, between the Scotch Commissioners and those of the Parliament of England (29 Nov. 1643 and 20 Oct. 1646). An Ordinance of Parliament for issuing money for Ireland. Relation of Edgehill fight (printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. p. 9).

Vol. 4, formerly marked "D," folio.

Letters, mostly original, and chiefly from persons already mentioned, addressed to the Marquis of Ormonde, from October 1642 to March 1643. Also drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters, and the correspondence between the King's Commissioners and the Supreme Council of the Confederate Roman Catholics, touching a Cessation of Arms. Many of these letters are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 73–145.

Also miscellaneous papers, such as Orders concerning Mr. Jerome and his lecture. Depositions. Bull of Pope Urban VIII. to the Irish (copy, on vellum). Discourse between an English and Irish Councillor of State about the causes of the insurrection. Petitions of persons who submitted to Ormonde and were kept prisoners in Dublin Castle. Protest by the Bishops of England against the proceedings of the House of Lords during the tumults (in print). A Petition from Kent to the House of Commons. Letter from the Officers of the Irish Army to the English Parliament. "Pythias and Damon," a dialogue about the conduct of Irish affairs and the cruelties on both sides, with a project for peace. Declaration of the King to the County of Galway against the Rebels (printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. p. 119). Letter from the Officers of the Army to the King (printed ib. p. 129). Resolutions of the Lords in England on the propositions for peace brought up by the Commons. The King's answer. Reasons against the Cessation of Arms offered to the Lords Justices of Ireland by the Houses of Parliament. "Remonstrance" of the Irish Roman Catholics (printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. p. 136).

Vol. 5, formerly marked "E," folio.

Letters, mostly original, and generally addressed to the Marquis of Ormonde, between March and July 1643, from many of the same persons as in the preceding volumes; also from the Irish Commissioners for the Cessation of Arms, from Lord Antrim, Cromwell and Lambert, General Preston, Colonel Crawford, Sir G. Hamilton, Sir Frederick Hamilton, Sir Luke Fitzgerald, Arthur Trevor, Owen O'Neil, and others. They relate to Irish and English affairs, but chiefly to Irish. Also drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters.

Miscellaneous papers.—Depositions. Petitions. Representation to the King of the wants of the Irish Army. Proclamation for Papists to depart from Dublin. The King's Commission to Ormonde to treat with the Irish. Orders by the Lords Justices of Ireland, &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 150–165, and one in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. p. 19.

Vol. 6, formerly marked "F," folio.

Letters, dated from July to September 1643, mostly original, and generally addressed to the Marquis of Ormonde, from Prince Rupert, the Irish Commissioners for the Cessation of Arms, and many of the same persons as in the preceding volumes. A few are in cipher, but decipbered.

Drafts and copies of Ormonde's letters.

Miscellaneous papers, such as—Letter from the Speakers of both Houses of Parliament to Ormonde and Lord Lisle. Covenant established in the General Assembly at

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Edinburgh, 17th August 1643 (copy). Proclamation by the King for standing by the Covenant and arming the kingdom of Scotland, 18th Aug. (in print). Letters from the Estates of Scotland to the Army in Ireland. Letter from General Monro and Officers to the Estates of Scotland about the Cessation of Arms. Propositions of the Irish Commissioners about the "Quarters." Instrument of the Cessation of Arms signed by both sides (original). Proclamation by the Supreme Council for observing the Cessation of Arms (in print).

Some of the above-mentioned letters and papers are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 166–174.

Vol. 7, formerly marked "G," folio.

Letters (mostly original) addressed to Ormonde, and dated in October and November 1643, from many of the persons already mentioned, and from Queen Henrietta Maria, Lord Digby, Lord Thomond, Colonel Barry, Sir R. Barnewall, N. Plunkett, Sir R. Talbot, R. Bellings, Colonel Trafford, Sir Lucas Dillon, Edmund Butler, &c.

Drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters.

Correspondence of Ormonde with Lord Muskery and other Irish Commissioners. Proclamation by the King against the Solemn League and Covenant, 9th Oct. "Grounds and motives" inducing the King to a Cessation of Arms. Instructions from the Committee of the Estates to the Committees of War in Scotland. Propositions agreed upon by the Scotch and English Commissioners at Edinburgh; &c.

Some of the above letters and papers are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 175–213.

(N.B. A letter from the Lords Justices—printed in the "Life of Ormonde," iii. 183—is not now in the volume.)

Vol. 8, formerly marked "H," folio.

Letters (nearly all original) addressed chiefly to the Marquis of Ormonde, and dated in December 1643 and January 1644. They relate to Irish affairs for the most part, and are from the King, Queen Henrietta Maria, Prince Rupert, the Archbishop of York, the Bishop of Downe, Lords Moore, Montgomery, Clanricarde, Digby, Inchiquin, Cork, Esmond, Byron, and Strafford; Sir Edward Nicholas, the King's secretary; Sir Robert Stewart, Arthur Trevor, Sir R. Barnewall, Sir Hardress Waller, Sir Henry Tichborne, Sir Luke Fitzgerald, R. Bellings, Sir John Giffarde, Sir Rob. Newcomen, Sir James Montgomery, Colonels Owen O'Neil and Rob. Byron, and other officers of the army in Ireland. A few in cipher.

Drafts and copies of Ormonde's letters to the King and some of the persons above mentioned.

Ormonde's correspondence with Lord Muskery and other commissioners for the Cessation of Arms. Copies of orders and letters from the Lords Justices and Council of Ireland. Remonstrance of the English Parliament against the Cessation of Arms. Letter from Irish Officers to the Committee of both Houses of Parliament in Scotland (copy). Proclamation by the Lords Justices against the "Solemn League and Covenant" (printed, two copies), with a copy of the "Covenant" and many papers respecting it. Petition from the Protestants in the North of Ireland to the Estates of Scotland. Declaration of the kingdoms of England and Scotland. Letter from the Committee of the House of Commons and Adventurers in England to the Officers in the North of Ireland. Declaration of the kingdom of Scotland concerning the expedition to England. Petitions addressed to Ormonde. Letter from Lord Dillon, &c., accusing Sir W. Parsons and others of treason. Forms of oaths denouncing the Covenant and the Rebellion in England. Coat of arms (Ormonde's); &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 206–232, and in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 23–34.

Vol. 9, formerly marked "I," folio.

Letters (nearly all original) addressed mostly to Ormonde, from January to March 1644, relating principally to Irish affairs, from the King and Queen, Prince Rupert, the Bishops of Derry and Cloyne, Lords Derby, Thomond, Antrim, Pagett, Howth, and Roscommon, the Marquis of Newcastle, Lady Clancboy, John Bowen, Sir Lucas Dillon, Sir W. Stewart, Sir Francis Willoughby, Sir W. Parsons, Sir Rob. Newcomen, General Monroe, Colonel Arthur Chichester, Torlogh O'Neil, Sir William Cole, Sir Philip Percival, Rob. Thornton, Mayor of Londonderry; Sir Maurice Fitzgerald and other commissioners in Kildare; Daniel O'Neil, Richard Spencer, and others before mentioned. Some are in cipher.

Digitized by Google

No 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters to some of the above persons, and his correspondence with Lord Muskery and other Irish Commissioners. Letters and resolutions of Lord Montgarret and other members of the Supreme Council of the Confederate Catholics. Petitions to the King and Ormonde. Letter from the Chairman of the Committee (of the Commons) for Irish affairs to the Army in Ulster. Copy of a letter from the Speakers of both Houses of Parliament to the King. Instructions given by the Irish Protestants to their Agents sent to the King. Propositions of the Irish Roman Catholics. Other papers relative to Ireland, and the sending of Irish troops to England in aid of the King.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 233–263; and one in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. p. 40.

Vol. 10, formerly marked "K," folio.

Letters (nearly all original) dated from March to May 1644, and addressed chiefly to Ormonde. They relate for the most part to Irish affairs, and are from the Duchess of Buckingham, the Countess of Tyrconnel, Lords Taaffe, Blancy, Montrose, and Bulkley, Sir Th. Wharton, Sir G. Wentworth, Sir J. Sherlock, Sir G. Radcliffe, Major Beesley, Patrick Archer, and others previously mentioned, with some from the Supreme Council of the Confederate Catholics. A few are in cipher. Also many drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters.

Petitions to the King and Ormonde. Latin oration to Ormonde. Propositions of the Supreme Council to the Earl of Antrim. Letter from the Chancellor of Scotland to the Officers in the North of Ireland (copy). Propositions of the Roman Catholics (two copies). Petition of the Agents for the Protestants of Ireland (copy). Letter from the Speakers of the Irish Parliament to the Army, concerning the "Solemn League and Covenant" (copy). Letter from the British Officers in Ulster to the English Parliament (copy). Protestation by Scotch Lords and others against the Rebellion in England and Scotland. Declaration of the Gentry of Leinster and Munster that they intend no harm to Protestants who will take the oath of obedience to the King.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 264–308.

Vol. 11, formerly marked "L," folio.

Letters (nearly all original) dated from May to July 1644, and addressed chiefly to Ormonde, from the Archbishop of Armagh, the Earl of Kildare, Lords Jermyn Castlehaven, Dillon (president of Connaught), and Broghill, Majors Jones and Scafoule Gibson, Dr. Loftus, Colonel Hugh Byrne, Lieut.-Col. Edward Mathew, Col. Audley Mervyn, Sir Robert Poyntz, P. Wemys, and many other persons before mentioned. Some are in cipher.

Drafts, duplicates, and copies of Ormonde's own letters. Petitions to the King and Ormonde. Orders, &c., of the Lord Lieutenant (Ormonde) and the Council of Ireland. Form of Oath of Allegiance to the King. Depositions. Letters from the Supreme Council of the Confederate Roman Catholics. A Petition to the Supreme Council. Copy of its printed Proclamation against the Scotch Army in Ulster. Letter from the Earls of Thomond and Clanricarde and others to the King, on the state of Ireland. Copy of letter from Lord Inchiquin and other Protestants of Munster to the King. Copies of several of Inchiquin's letters. Petition of Gentlemen of Kerry for their Governor Sir Piers Crosby to be continued in his office. Orders made at the General Assembly at Kilkenny as to the proceedings of the Judicature appointed by it.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 309–340; and in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. p. 48–55.

Vol. 12, formerly marked "M," folio.

Letters (nearly all original) dated from August to November 1644, addressed to the Marquis of Ormonde, from Lords Derby, Kilmallock, and Clancboy, Lady Moore; Lord Muskery, Lambert, Nicholas Plunkett, and other Roman Catholic Commissioners; the Mayor and Sheriffs of Cork, Sir Charles Coote, Sir John Mennes, Dr. Fennell, Endymion Porter, George Carr, Humphrey Galbraith, Mortogh O'Hartegan, Edmund Seaman, and others before mentioned. They relate to Irish affairs, occasionally alluding to passing events in England. Some are in cipher.

Drafts and copies of Ormonde's letters.

Original Letters of the Lord Lieutenant and Council. Orders by Lord Inchiquin at Cork (copies). Inchiquin's Declaration as to the Covenant. Depositions. Abstract of a Declaration of the Protestants of Munster, with their Petition. Daniel O'Neil's

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Propositions respecting Irish affairs. The King's Answer. Order of the House of Commons for a Meeting of the Adventurers (printed). Order by the Commissioners of the General Assembly of Confederate Catholics. Narrative of the Defeat of the Rebels in Cornwall, by Edward Walker. Propositions of the Roman Catholics. Debate on them between the Lord Chancellor of Ireland and the Irish Commissioners. Answers of the Catholics to Ormonde's demands. Agreement between Ormonde and the Catholic Commissioners as to the "fourth sheaf" demanded from protected lands in the "quarters" of the Catholics. Proclamation by the King for proroguing the Parliament at Oxford (printed). Copy of the King's Proclamation "for settling speedy peace," dated at Exeter, 30th September 1644. Letter of Mr. Byrne, a Scotch minister in Ireland, complaining of a letter of the Mayor of Londonderry. The Mayor's justification of his letter. Letters from George Lane, Ormonde's secretary, to various persons. Proclamation for the continuance of the Cessation of Arms (printed). Form of an Oath (taken in Munster) to aid the King against the Earl of Essex's army. Form of an Oath (tendered in Connaught) not to surrender a fort without consent of the Parliament at Westminster; &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 341–360; and in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 60–67.

Vol. 13, formerly marked "N," folio.

Letters (nearly all original) dated in December 1644, and January 1645; addressed mostly to Ormonde, from the Supreme Council of the Confederate Catholics, Lord Brabazon, William Vaughan, Charles Townley, Edward Billingsley, Worsley Batten, R. Swanley, Captain John Bartlett, and others before mentioned. They relate chiefly to Irish affairs. A few are in cipher (deciphered).

Drafts and copies of Ormonde's own papers.

Petitions. Copies of Letters of Mr. George Lane. Correspondence concerning the continuance of the Cessation of Arms. Papers concerning Lord Inchiquin's proceedings at Cork. Information from the Governor of the Isle of Man of a design of the Parliament forces against Dublin. "Causes of a solemn Fast and Humiliation" to be kept in Scotland. Letter from London, Chancellor of Scotland, to Lord Ardes and his regiment in Ireland. A Tract on Queries said to be propounded by the Protestants. "Disquisition touching that great question, whether an Act of Parliament "made in England shall bind the Kingdom and People of Ireland," &c. Petition of the Protestant Forces and Subjects in Munster. Narrative of the King's affairs in the West of England since the defeat of the Earl of Essex in Cornwall. Papers respecting a Plot to betray Drogheda. Agreement between Ormonde and the Catholic Commissioners for adjourning the conclusion of the treaty (printed). Copy of the Order of the Scotch Convention for the return of their Army from Ireland.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 361–374, and one in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. p. 96.

Vol. 14, formerly marked "O," folio.

Letters (nearly all original) to the Marquis of Ormonde, from the King, Prince Charles, Prince Maurice; Lord Balkeley, and other Commissioners in Anglesea; Lord Grandison, Lord Claneboy, Sir James Gallaway, General Monroe, Patrick Darcy, Captain John Possonby, Captain Humphrey Burrough, Robert King, Edward Hyde, and many other persons before mentioned. They are dated between February and May 1645. A few are in cipher (generally deciphered).

Drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters. Papers of News from England and Scotland. Depositions. Petitions. Correspondence of Ormonde with the Catholic Commissioners and the Supreme Council. "Reasons presented by Don Francisco "Poissett, Agent for His Catholic Majesty with the Confederate Catholics in Ireland, "for seizing of the ships and goods brought into Galway by Captain John Brooke." Printed Copy of a Bull in favour of the Friars Minors in Ireland. Orders of the Lord Lieutenant and Council. Letters from the British Army in Ulster to the two Houses of Parliament in England (copy). The Supreme Council's Commission to Lord Montgarret and others to treat for Peace or a further Cessation of Arms. Names of the Irish Gentlemen who have subscribed to the "Vow and Covenant." Demands of the King and the Protestant Party from the Confederate Catholics. Answers of the latter. Concessions of the King to the Catholics. Declaration of the British Army in Ulster that they will do nothing prejudicial to the Covenant. Order of the General Assembly of Confederate Catholics for the apprehension of marauders; &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 376–412, and in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 73–90.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 15, formerly marked "P," folio.

Letters (nearly all original) from June to September 1645, addressed chiefly to the Marquis of Ormonde, from the Catholic Commissioners, the Earls of Peterborough, Westmeath, Glamorgan, Bath, and Brainford, Lords Ardglass, Taaffe, Lady Esmond, Henry Bishop of Elphin, Luke Taaffe, Sir Francis Hamilton, Sir George Hamilton, Sir Nicholas Byron, Sir Maurice Eustace, Sir Edmund Verney, Sir Mar. Langdale, Captain Francis King, Robert Clarke, and many of the persons already mentioned. They relate principally to Irish affairs, and some are in cipher (deciphered). There are also drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters. Orders of the Lord Lieutenant and Council. Petitions. Many Papers concerning the proposed Peace with the Confederates. Depositions. Letter from the King after the Battle of Naseby ordering Ormonde personally to convey as many troops as possible to England (copy). Letter written by the King's order to the Catholic Commissioners, censuring their immoderate demands in his extremity. Letter from the Irish Bishops answering two queries of the Catholics. Propositions for fitting out ships for the King's service, to bring 5,000 soldiers from Ireland to England. Articles of Agreement between the Earl of Glamorgan, the King's Commissioner, and the Catholic Commissioners (copy). Papers relating to the garrison of Jamestown. Order by the General Assembly of Confederates that the Oath of Association be binding till the Peace be ratified by an Irish Parliament (two copies). Relation of the surrender of Elphin Castle to Lord Dillon, President of Connaught. Propositions to Ormonde for the Relief of Carnarvon, &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 413–427 and p. 479, and in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. p. 90.

Vol. 16, formerly marked "Q," folio.

Letters (nearly all original) dated from October 1645 to March 1646, and addressed mostly to Ormonde, from the Duke of Lorraine (at Brussels), the Bishop of Raphoe, Lord Ranelagh, W. Cadogan, Du Moulin (resident Ambassador of France in Ireland), Sir Fulk Hounoks, Major Richard Perkins, Colonel George Monck, Captain Edward Trevor, Edward Crofton, and others before mentioned; some are in cipher.

Drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters. Papers relating to the proposed Treaty with the Confederate Catholics (disputes about statutes of Elizabeth, &c.). Petitions. Correspondence of Mr. George Lane, Ormonde's chief secretary. Latin Oration before Ormonde by Angell Goulding. Ormonde's Instructions to some one he sends to the King, wishing to resign the Lieutenancy. Instructions to Rinuccini, Nuncio in Ireland (Italian). Letters of "M. M." at Paris for "S. G." Letters from the Supreme Council and the Catholic Commissioners. Copy of an Order by the Irish Council for the Earl of Glamorgan's imprisonment. Interrogatories put to him, and other papers. Long Letter from the Council to Secretary Nicholas respecting him (copy). Orders by the General Assembly of Confederates concerning the Revenue for maintaining the Army, &c. Depositions. Order by the General Assembly as to the forces going to England, with Glamorgan's Declaration as to the state of affairs (printed). Copy of the Articles of Agreement between Glamorgan and the Catholic Commissioners. Supreme Council's Order requiring all military and civil officers to aid Glamorgan in raising troops for the King's service and the expulsion of the parliamentary forces which have landed in the Shannon. "His Majesty's Message to "both Houses of Parliament at Westminster, sent from Oxford, 23th Martii, 1645; "to be read in all Churches and Chapels, whereby the people may rest satisfied how "great a desire His Majesty hath to ease them of the burthen of the War" (copy).

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 428–450.

Vol. 17, formerly marked "R," folio.

Letters (mostly original) dated from March to June 1646, from the Roman Catholic Commissioners, Lord Castlestewart, Sir Charles Coote, Sir J. Borlase, Sir Piers Crosbie, Captain J. Crowther, Edmund Magrath, Patrick Netterville, and Robert Monlton, and from many persons already mentioned. They relate for the most part to the affairs of Ireland, and are generally addressed to Ormonde. Some are in cipher.

Drafts and copies of Ormonde's letters. Petitions. Printed copy of a letter from the King, declaring his intention to put himself into the hands of the Scotch army lying before Newark (Oxford, 3 April 1646). "His Majesty's Message to the king-"dom of Scotland" (copy). Copy of his Letter to the Speaker of the House of Lords. Lane's correspondence. Letter from the Commissioners of the Scotch Parliament to the Commissioners of the English Parliament, announcing the King's sudden coming into their army (5 May). Correspondence of Ormonde and the Council with the English and Scotch Commissioners in the North of Ireland. Narrative of the manner in which the King was brought into Newcastle by General Leslie. Supreme Council's Instructions to Mr. Plunkett. The King's Message to the Parliament at Westminster and the Commissioners of Scotland. Letters from the Lieutenant and Council to the King, the Privy Council, and others. "A Perfect List of the many Victories by "God's Blessing upon the Parliament's Forces under the command of His Excellency "Sir Thomas Fairfax" (from June 1645 to April 1646), with a portrait of Fairfax (printed). Printed copy of a letter from Lieut.-Col. John Lilburne to the keeper of Newgate, protesting against his being tried before the House of Lords. "Some of "the Reasons which necessitated the Stay of the Ten Thousand Men agreed on the "Treaty to be sent to England." Order by Ormonde respecting the King's grant to Mr. Edward Walsingham of "the benefit of making two baronets." "Arguments "proving that we ought not to part with the Militia to the King, nor indeed to "any other but the Honourable House of Commons," dated at London, June 1646 (printed), &c.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 451–486; and in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 95 and 109.

Vol. 18, formerly marked "S," folio.

Letters (mostly original), from July to September 1646, addressed chiefly to Ormonde, from various persons, most of whom have already been mentioned. Some are in cipher, but generally deciphered. Also drafts and copies of the Marquis's letters. Printed Proclamation of the General Assembly as to protestations lately made against the Peace. Papers concerning the Peace with the Confederate Catholics. Orders of the Lord Lieutenant and Council (copies). Depositions. Petitions. The Bishop of Meath's paper approving the Peace, endorsed by the rest of the Bishops. Papers respecting the Condition of the Province of Leinster. "Remon-"strance" of the Bishops and Clergy of Ireland to Ormonde, thanking him for his efforts for their welfare, signed by 11 Bishops and about 80 of the Clergy (original and copy). Sentence of Excommunication by the Nuncio and Irish Clergy against the favourers of the Peace (printed). Ormonde's Proposals to the Parliament Commissioners for prosecuting the War against the Irish Rebels (copy). Order of the Congregation at Kilkenny to the Confederate Forces not to plunder the Roman Catholics in the English Quarters (printed); &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 488–503.

Vol. 19, formerly marked "T," folio.

Original letters and copies of letters from October to December 1646, addressed chiefly to Ormonde and relating to Irish affairs. They are from the King, the Queen (at St. Germain), the Prince of Wales, Lady Jophson, Sir Maurice Eustace, and many others whose names have been previously given.

Drafts and copies of the Marquis's own letters. His correspondence with the Council of Ireland, and with the Parliament and Scotch Commissioners. Numerous papers relative to his negotiations with the Parliament's Commissioners, who offer assistance against the Rebels, &c. Petitions. Letter from the King of France to the Confederate Catholics of Ireland (copy, in English). Votes of the English House of Commons. Powers given by the Committee at Derby House to their Commissioners. Correspondence of Ormonde with the Scotch Army. General Preston and his Officers' Declaration to conform to the Peace (copy). Reasons for delivering up Dublin to the Parliament. Papers respecting Lord Clanricarde's Negotiations with the Nuncio and Supreme Council. State of Ireland, by Sir W. Parsons, sent to the Committee of Derby House. Order by the Supreme Council and Congregation for those of the adverse party to be put to death, the Cessation of Arms having expired (two copies). Letter from the King to the Officers in the North of Ireland; &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 503–535.

Vol. 20, formerly marked "U," folio.

Letters (nearly all original), from January to April 1647, addressed chiefly to the Marquis of Ormonde. They relate to Irish affairs, and are chiefly from persons already mentioned. Also drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters, one to the King of France. Petitions. Proposition of the Irish Bishops to the General Assembly at Kilkenny. M. du Moulin's Memoir to Ormonde. Overtures for an Accommodation by the General Assembly. Du Moulin's Memoirs to the General Assembly. Letter from the Parliament Commissioners to the Committee at Derby House. Order by

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Ormonde and the Council of Ireland for applying to the English Parliament in order to quit the Government. Excommunication by the Nuncio of Mr. Edmund Butler. Articles for a Cessation of Arms. Commission to Lord Digby to treat with Foreign Powers. Condition of the part of Ireland subject to the King, to be represented by Digby to the King and Queen (signed by Ormonde and the Council). Ormonde's correspondence with the Committee at Derby House. Letters from the Committee at Derby House to their Commissioners. Petition of the Distressed Clergy in Dublin to the Parliament. The King's Answer to the Petition of the Army in England, &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 536–550, and one in vol. ii., Appendix, p. 14.

Vol. 21, formerly marked "V," folio.

Letters (chiefly original), from May to December 1647, addressed generally to the Marquis of Ormonde, from the Marquis of Worcester, Lord Strufford, Lord Cavan, Dr. Dudley Loftus, Winter Grant, and many of the persons already mentioned, with drafts and copies of Ormonde's letters. A few are in cipher. Petitions. Correspondence of Ormonde with the Committee at Derby House and with their Commissioners. The King's Answer to the Propositions of the two Houses, sent to him at Newcastle. Paper for procuring a happy Peace in England. Agreement of the Commissioners to pay 13,000*l.* Petition of the Clergy against the proposed discontinuance of the Common Prayer. Instructions for M. de Bellievre, Ambassador in England. Draft of an Engagement to the King of France. Proclamation by the Parliament Commissioners. Petitions of the Distressed Clergy in Dublin. Considerations for preserving Ireland during the distractions in England, presented to the Committee by Mr. Slingsby. Declaration of the House of Commons upon the King's being carried from Holdenby. Summary Relation of the Affairs of Ireland from the Peace till the time Dublin was given up to the Parliament. Proceedings of the newly-moulded Army from its formation in 1645, till the King's going into the Isle of Wight, by Colonel Wogan. Letter from the King to Sir Kenelm Digby, authorizing the Queen to stipulate for him. Memoir for Cardinal Mazarin, in Ormonde's hand; &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 552–574, and in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 126–159, and vol. ii. p. 349.

Vol. 22, formerly marked "W," folio.

The correspondence of the Marquis of Ormonde, chiefly with persons already mentioned, from January to November 1648; some of the letters being in cipher. Decrees of the General Assembly and Supreme Council of Catholics. Private Instructions to Winter Grant by the Queen and the Prince of Wales. Orders of the Committee of Derby House and their Commissioners. Propositions presented to the Queen and Prince in behalf of the Confederate Catholics. Speech of Captain Oliver French, agent of the Supreme Council, to the States General of the United Provinces. Articles of Agreement between Lord Inchiquin and the Supreme Council. The Nuncio's Excommunication of the Adherents to the Cessation of Arms. His Letter to the Pope. Papers about Sir M. Eustace and other Prisoners in Dublin. Account of the Battle of Preston. Declaration of the General Assembly against the Nuncio. Resolutions of the States General as to the Irish Roman Catholics. The King of France's Pass for the Marquis of Ormonde. Propositions by King Charles I. to the two Houses for an Accommodation. The King's Answers to the Propositions about the Church, when he was at Newport. Extract from a Letter of the King to the Queen. Articles of a new Address from the Parliament to the King. Papers relative to the negotiations between Ormonde and the Commissioners of the Confederate Catholics. Messages from the Scotch Parliament to Lord Inchiquin and to the King. Declaration by Ormonde. Memorials about the Prince of Wales's coming into Ireland. News letters. Agreement of the Marquis of Ormonde and Sir R. Blake to continue the Cessation of Arms; &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 574–595, and in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 159–194, and vol. ii. pp. 351–358.

Vol. 23, formerly marked "X," folio.

The correspondence of the Marquis of Ormonde with many of the persons whose names have been already mentioned, from December 1648 to February 1649. Papers relative to the negotiations of Ormonde with the Commissioners of the General Assembly for Peace. Orders of the Assembly. Acts for prolonging the Cessation.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Ordinance of Parliament for bringing the King to Trial. Lord Inchiquin's Queries to the Protestant Clergy. Their Answer. King Charles I.'s Speech before the High Court of Justice. News letters. Prince Rupert's Proposals to Ormonde, with the latter's Answers. Proclamation declaring Ormonde Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. Papers concerning Owen O'Neil. Declaration of King Charles II. confirming the Peace; &c.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 596–608, and in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 197–213.

Vol. 24, formerly marked "Y," folio.

The letters contained in this volume are chiefly originals and original drafts. They form the correspondence of Ormonde with persons already mentioned and others, between February and May 1649. Some are in cipher. News letters from home and abroad. Letter from the Marquis of Ormonde to the Committee of Derby House. Letter from Ormonde to the Scotch Commissioners. Paper delivered by the Lords of the King's Council to the Deputies of the States General, 29 March 1649. Ormonde's Commission to Lord Ardes to be Commander-in-Chief of all the British Forces in Ulster. The King's Instructions to Colonel W. Legg sent into Ireland. Depositions. The King's Instructions to Sir Robert Stewart; &c.

Some of the above are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 217–289, and in vol. ii. pp. 353–379.

Vol. 25, formerly marked "Z," folio.

Letters (nearly all original) addressed chiefly to the Marquis of Ormonde, dated from June to October 1649, from King Charles II., Queen Henrietta Maria, Prince Rupert, the States General of Holland, Secretary Long, Sir Edward Nicholas, Lord Byron, Clanricarde, Moore, Jermyn, Clanbrazil, Ardes, and Ardglass, John Wandesford, De Brune (the Dutch Agent), R. Fanshaw, the Mayor of Wexford, Daniel O'Neil, Lieut.-Col. Acheson, M. Trevor, Sir A. Aston, the Bishop of Cloyne, and others previously mentioned. They relate to public affairs, chiefly to those of Ireland; some are in cipher. Drafts and copies of Ormonde's own letters to some of the same persons. Intelligence about Cromwell's design on Munster or Dublin. Letter from the Parliament of Scotland to the King. Ormonde's Proclamation that the Protestant Clergy do not intrude into the Churches of the Roman Catholics. Instructions for the Bishop of Raphoe and Colonel Mervyn in their negotiation with Owen O'Neil. The King's Instructions for Father Talbot sent to Ireland. Oliver Cromwell's Summonses to Drogheda and Ross. Earl of Castlehaven's Orders to Sir Edmund Butler, Governor of Wexford, and to W. Bagnal, to raise their forces. Papers concerning Owen O'Neil. Letter from Cromwell to the Commander in Wexford. Major Birne's Relation of Cromwell's Army; &c.

Some of the above are printed in vol. i. of "Carte's Ormonde Papers," pp. 290–326, and in vol. ii. pp. 383–407.

Vol. 26, formerly marked "AA," folio.

The correspondence of Ormonde with many of the persons already mentioned, from October 1649 to February 1650. The letters are chiefly original and original drafts. Some are in cipher. Papers relative to the siege of Waterford. Letter from the King to his Ambassador in Spain about a Supply for Ireland. Narrative of Events after the Defeat at Rachmines. Treatise, entitled "No Papist nor Presbyterian; "but Moderate Desires and Proposals of some Well Affected and Free Born People, "offered to the General Council of the Army," &c. Declaration of the King of France against the most horrid Proceedings of a Rebellious Party of Parliament Men and Soldiers in England against the King and Country. Letter from Cromwell to Major-General Hugh O'Neil, Governor of Clonmell. Depositions. Letters from Colonel Tickle to Cromwell. Cromwell's Declaration. Answer of the Gentry of Ulster to Lord Clanricarde's Proposals. Letter of Salmasius about the Murder of King Charles I. Letter from Cromwell to the Parliament Commander at Dungarvan. Cromwell's Summons of Cahir; &c.

Some of the above are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 331–358, and in vol. ii. pp. 413–424.

Vol. 27, formerly marked "BB," folio.

Letters (nearly all original), dated from March to June 1650, and mostly addressed to the Marquis of Ormonde, from the Princess Royal, the Duke of Lorraine, the

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Commissioners of Trust, the Abps. of Cashel and Tuam, the Bps. of Clogher and Derry, Dean Boyle, Lords Muskery, Inchiquin, Dillon, Castleconnel, and Roche, the Mayor of Limerick, Sir G. Mouro, Sir G. Grenville, Sir H. de Vic, Sir J. Preston, Sir Lewis Dyve, Sir R. Everard, Dr. Fennell, Colonel Symot, J. Walsh, Hugh Rochfort, and others already mentioned. They relate chiefly to Irish affairs.

Drafts of Letters from Ormonde, one to Oliver Cromwell. Colonel Hewson's Considerations offered to Cromwell. The King's Instructions to Ormonde. Letter from H. Ireton to Major F. Bolton. Propositions of Lord Clanricarde to the Bishops at Limerick. The Queen's Instructions to Lord Byron. Remedies to remove the Discontents and Mistrusts of the People, proposed by the Clergy and the Commissioners of Trust. Letter from the Citizens of Cork to Ireton. Letter from Lord Broghill to Cromwell. Letter from Cromwell to Ireton, President of Munster. Declaration of the Bishops at Limerick, presented to Ormonde. The King's Instructions to Sir H. de Vic and Mr. Rochfort. Letter from Robert Sterling to Dean Boyle, with Cromwell's Pass. Letters between the Bishop of Clogher and Sir G. Mouro. Cromwell's Protection to Lady Mary Hamilton. Cromwell's Pass for Ormonde. Letter from Dean Boyle to Cromwell. Cromwell's Pass for Lady Inchiquin. A few Letters to George Lane, Ormonde's secretary. Instructions for Lord Taaffe; &c.

Some of the above are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 359–378, and in vol. ii. pp. 365 and 426.

Vol. 28, formerly marked "CC," folio.

Correspondence of the Marquis of Ormonde with persons before mentioned, and others, from June to November 1650. The letters are mostly originals and original drafts. Instrument of the city of Limerick to give free passage to the King's forces. Instructions to Lord Taaffe and others to treat with Colonel Symot. Ormonde's Commission to them. Instructions to Hugh O'Neil and J. Walsh to treat with Limerick. Relation of the Unlawful Proceedings of the Young Men of Galway. Letter from Lord Clanricarde to the Bishop of Cashel and Prelates at Limerick. Papers concerning affairs in Galway. Letter from the Duke of York to the Duke of Lorraine. Letter from Bankers at Rouen to a Banker at Middleburg. Declaration of the Prelates at Jamestown against Ormonde. Remonstrance of the Officers of the Army to the Estates of Scotland. Lord Autrim's Declaration. Cadwell's Relation of the Battle between the Scots and Cromwell. Declaration of Lords and Gentry with respect to the Clergy's Excommunication. Proposition to the Spanish Ambassador by Daniel O'Neil. Dean King's Relation to Ormonde of the King's condition in Scotland. Narrative of the King's Conferences with Dr. King. Address of the Jersey Soldiers to the King; &c.

Some of the above are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 380–399, and in vol. ii. pp. 427–445.

Vol. 29, formerly marked "DD," folio.

Correspondence of the Marquis of Ormonde with persons before mentioned, and others, from December 1650 to January 1652. The letters are chiefly originals and original drafts. Letters to the Marchioness of Ormonde and Lady Isabella Thynne, at Paris. Letters to and from George Lane. Draft of Ormonde's Commission to Lord Clanricarde. Lord Clanricarde's Propositions to the General Assembly before taking the Government. Letters from Clanricarde to Sir R. Blake, Chairman of the General Assembly. Powers given by the Duke of Lorraine to the Abbé S. Catherine. Articles that His Majesty is desired to grant the Roman Catholics. Instructions for the Archbishop of Tuam and Sir L. Dillon, sent to Limerick. Intelligence of Ireton's Designs. Letter from the King to Don Juan, for confining Sir Robert Walsh. Papers about the Treaty with the Duke of Lorraine. Letters from Perth. List of the Committee of Estates chosen at the Parliament at Perth. Letter from the Duke of Lorraine to the Pope. The King's Instructions to Dean King. "Articuli Transactionis inter Lotaringiæ Ducem et Theobaldum V. Taaffe, &c., Deputatos Regni et Populi Hiberniæ; &c."

Some of the above are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 397–472, and in vol. ii. pp. 1–45, and 446–464.

Vol. 30, formerly marked "EE," folio.

The contents of this volume are nearly all originals.

A few deeds of early date; one being a conveyance from Roger, son of Miles Porver, to Sir Edmund Butler, dated 12 Edw. II. An account of Thomas, son of Gerald, Earl of Kildare, with a letter to him, 1535. Papers relating to several Earls of Ormonde, temp. Hen. VI., Hen. VIII., and Eliz. Letters from Queen Elizabeth, King James I., and the Councils of England and Ireland, principally addressed to the Earl of Ormonde. A number of letters and papers relating to Irish matters during the reigns of James I. and Charles I. Letters from Lord Falkland, Sir W. Parsons, and others, to the Duke of Buckingham, 1623–1625. Papers respecting the Ormonde estates. Letters from Prince Rupert, Prince Charles, the Duke of York, the Duke of Newburg, Sir H. de Vic, Lord Chancellor Hyde, Lord Mordant, Lord Jermyn, Father Talbot, Abraham Cowley, Mary Kuatchbull, Abbess of Gand, Diana de Moll, and many others, to James Marquis of Ormonde, with a few to the King, during the time of the Civil War and the Commonwealth.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Some of the letters are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," 8vo, vol. ii. pp. 52–347.

Vol. 31, formerly marked "FF," folio.

Original and holograph letters, dated from July 1660 to September 1662, generally addressed to the Duke of Ormonde, or to his Secretary Sir George Lane, from the King, the Duke of Albemarle, Lord Chancellor Eustace, Lords Montrath, Ardes, Clanricarde, Aungier, and Kildare, Sir Paul Davys, Sir Audley Mervyn, Sir Edward Nicholas, Sir G. Hamilton, and others. They relate principally to public affairs, and interspersed among them are papers relative to various subjects. A few letters from Ormonde, one of which, addressed to Sir J. Temple, Speaker of the Irish House of Commons, is printed in the Appendix to the second volume of the "Life of Ormonde," page 20.

Vol. 32, formerly marked "GG," folio.

Original and holograph letters from September 1662 to August 1663, addressed principally to the Duke of Ormonde and Sir George Lane, from the King, the Duke of Albemarle, Lord Chancellor Clarendon, the Lords Justices of Ireland, the Bishops of Corke and Kildare, Lords Berkeley and Conway, Sir Francis Dodington, Sir G. Hamilton, Sir James Shaen, Sir Arthur Forbes, Daniel O'Neil, Don Pat. Muledy, Colonel Gorges, and many others. They relate to public affairs—the Act of Uniformity, conspiracy against the King's life, plots in Ireland, and Colonel Blood (with a letter from Blood to Mr. G. Chamberlain), &c. &c. Mixed with the above are many papers relating to the events of the time.

Vol. 33, formerly marked "HH," folio.

The contents of this volume are chiefly original and holograph letters, addressed to the Duke of Ormonde and Sir George Lane, from December 1661 to December 1664. They are from many of the persons mentioned in the description of vol. 32, and also from the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland, the Lord Chancellor Eustace, Archbishop Boyle, Lord Dungannon, Lord Massarene, Sir Thomas Clarges, Sir Rob. Forth, Sir Paul Davys, Sir Henry Tichborne, Sir Allan Broderick, J. Thompson, Sir W. Temple, and J. Walsh. They relate mostly to Irish affairs. Among the miscellaneous papers are Orders from the Council in England.

Vol. 34, formerly marked "II," folio.

This volume consists chiefly of original and holograph letters relating to Irish affairs, from January 1655 to June 1666, addressed to the Duke of Ormonde and Sir George Lane, from many of the persons already mentioned, and from the Duke of York, the Duke of Buckingham, Prince de Ligne, the Earls of St. Albans and Carlingford, Sir Robert Southwell, Sir Theophilus Jones, Sir Robert Byron, Sir Oliver St. George, Sir G. Carteret, &c. Interspersed among them are Petitions to Ormonde, Depositions, Orders of the Council in England, and other papers, one containing "Reasons why the Patent of the Canara Company of England should not extend to "Ireland."

Vol. 35, formerly marked "KK," folio.

Original and holograph letters, dated between July 1666 and November 1667, and relating principally to Irish affairs, with occasional notices of events in England, the Great Fire, &c. They are mostly from persons already mentioned, and are addressed to the Duke of Ormonde and Sir George Lane. Amongst them is a letter from the States General of Holland to Ormonde, in French. There are a few copies of letters. Petitions to the Duke of Ormonde. A few letters from the Duke to several persons, generally drafts or copies. Copy of a letter from the King of France to King Charles II. Depositions. The King's Speech to the English Parliament, January 1667. Letter from the King of France to M. d'Estrades. Orders of the Lord Lieutenant and Council. Declaration of the French King as to the rights of the Queen of France, published in the Low Countries (French). Proclamation for dispersing the unlawful assemblies near Chichester House, August 1667 (copy). Heads of the charge against Lord Clarendon. Narrative of the proceedings in Portugal for discharging the Conde de Castelmether (Aug.—Nov. 1667).

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 36, formerly marked "LL," folio.

Original and holograph letters, from persons already mentioned, and others, to the Duke of Ormonde and Sir George Lane, from December 1567 to December 1668, relating for the most part to Irish affairs and to Ormonde's impeachment. Copy of a Memorial presented by Sir Robert Southwell to the King of Portugal, 12 Dec. 1667. Lord Bristol's Articles of High Treason against Lord Clarendon, with other papers concerning the latter's impeachment. Letters and Orders from the Lord Lieutenant and Council of Ireland, 1662-1668. Petition of the Farmers of Hearth Money. In addition to the above there are many papers relative to various matters, dated from 1661 to 1668. Some relate to the Irish revenue.

Vol. 37, formerly marked "MM," folio.

A number of original and holograph letters, from 1661 to 1674, addressed chiefly to the Duke of Ormonde and the Earl of Ossory, from the Duke of Florence, the Lords Justices of Ireland, Lords Strafford and Ranelagh, the Earls of Winchelsea and Donegal, Sir W. Domville, Sir J. Temple, G. Mathews, and others already mentioned.

Papers relating to the dispute between the Earls of Meath and Arran, and to Meath's accusations against the Duke of Ormonde. Papers relative to the dispute about the quartering of soldiers. Copies of orders and letters of the Councils of England and Ireland. Drafts and copies of Ormonde's letters and papers, with many other papers, dated from 1660–1676, some referring to the negotiations with the Dutch (1672).

Vol. 38, formerly marked "NN," folio.

The contents of this volume are chiefly original and holograph letters, from 1673–1679, addressed chiefly to the Duke of Ormonde and relating to the public affairs of the period, from the Queen of Bohemia, Chancellor Boyle, the Earls of Essex and Carlingford, Sir T. Wharton, Sir G. Lane, Sir W. Temple, Sir J. Temple, Sir J. Cuffe, Sir R. Southwell, J. Walsh, and others. Letters from the King to the Earl of Essex, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. Orders of Council. Letter from the King to the University of Cambridge, for the election of the Duke of Monmouth to be its Chancellor. Duke of Monmouth's Petition to the King, September 1675. Depositions. Papers relative to the proceedings and accounts of the Farmers. Terms of Peace offered by the King of France (1678).

Vol. 39, formerly marked "OO," folio.

The contents of this volume are letters and papers, nearly all original, dated from 1679 to 1682. Ormonde's Correspondence with Sir R. Southwell. Letters with the King's sign manual. Letters to the Earl of Arran, Lieutenant-General of Ireland; many from the Commissioners of the Treasury. Correspondence between the Bishop of Meath and Colonel Maunsell. Letters addressed to the Duke of Ormonde, one from Mr. T. Sheridan. Depositions. Notes and Memoranda by the Duke of Ormonde. Papers relative to the Farmers. Petitions to Ormonde; one from the French Protestants for a settlement. Orders of Council. Answer of Ormonde to the Bishop of Ferns, written when he was in France (draft). Ormonde's Petition to the King against the Earl of Anglesea, with other papers respecting their dispute.

Vol. 40, formerly marked "PP," folio.

Letters and papers, some original and some copies, from 1662 to 1688. Letters to the Earl of Arran, many from the Commissioners of the Treasury. Petitions, Projects, Depositions, &c., &c. Letters to H. Gascoigne. Orders of the Lord Deputy and Council. Letters to Ormonde, one from W. Penn, dated at Philadelphia, 11 Jan. $168\frac{3}{4}$, very characteristic and giving an account of the country (11 pages); another from the Prince of Orange, dated at Abingdon, 12 Dec. 1688. The Duke of Ormonde's report concerning the Earl of St. Alban's, 11 Nov. 1682. Paper prepared by the King, signed by the Duke of Monmouth, and read in Council, 12 Dec. 1683. Letters from the Commissioners of the Revenue in Ireland to the Commissioners of the Treasury. Two Letters to the Earl of Ossory from the King of Spain and the Prince of Portugal, 1678 and 1679. Papers respecting a dispute between the Treasury and the Duke of Ormonde about an annuity to the latter of 3,000*l.*, &c.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 41, formerly marked "QQ 1," folio.

A collection of King Charles II.'s letters under his sign manual, appointing persons to bishoprics and offices in the government and army of Ireland, granting lands, &c. They are dated from June 1660 to March 1661.

Vol. 42, formerly marked "QQ 2," folio.

A collection of the King's letters between March 1661 and September 1662, nearly all originals under the sign manual, relative to Irish matters, granting offices, privileges, pensions, restitution of estates, &c., &c. They are mostly addressed to the Duke of Ormonde and the Chancellor of Ireland, and are enrolled on the Patent Rolls of Ireland in the years to which they severally belong.

Vol. 43, formerly marked "QQ 3."

A collection of King Charles II.'s letters under sign manual, dated from 1660 to 1669, and nearly all addressed to the Duke of Ormonde. They grant offices, pensions, lands, restitution of estates, &c., and are generally enrolled in the Chancery of Ireland.

Vol. 44, formerly marked "RR," folio.

Papers and letters, some originals, others drafts, relative to the settlement of Ireland, dated between 1660 and 1673. Petitions, Orders of Council, &c. &c. Amongst the few letters are two from the Queen Mother, Henrietta Maria, to the Duke of Ormonde. There are also a few papers of earlier date, and three letters from Lord Strafford to Sir Harry Vane in June 1639. Two of the papers in this volume, containing speeches by Ormonde to the Irish House of Commons, are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. ii. App. pp. 31 and 32.

Vol. 45, formerly marked "SS," folio.

Correspondence of the Duke of Ormonde with several Irish Bishops and the Archbishop of Canterbury, and many other letters and papers respecting the Church and Secretaries in Ireland. The letters are very curious and valuable, nearly all being holographs or drafts. The period embraced is from 1660 to 1687.

Vol. 46, formerly marked "TT," folio.

A collection of very curious and valuable letters from Lord Arlington and Sir H. Bennet to the Duke of Ormonde, from 1660 to 1671, relating to the public affairs of that period, conspiracies in Ireland and England, declaration of war by France, the war with Holland, the fire of London, the treaty of Breda, the treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, &c. There are also a few letters from King Charles II., and one from the King of France.

Vol. 47, formerly marked "UU," folio.

A large number of original and holograph letters, dated from 1652 to 1683, and addressed for the most part to the Duke of Ormonde, chiefly from the Duke of York, Lord Chancellor Clarendon, Lords Cornbury, Anglesea, and Ossory, Sir W. Temple, Sir E. Nicholas, Sir W. Coventry, and Mr. H. Coventry; with a few letters from the Duke of Ormonde. The letters of Lord Clarendon are all holographs, and some of them are in cipher, which has been deciphered. There are also some depositions and other papers.

Vol. 48, formerly marked "WW 3," folio.

The contents are chiefly copies of letters from the Duke of Ormonde to Lords Ossory, Clarendon, and Orrery, from 1660 to 1669, with a few to other persons. There are also a few miscellaneous papers among them.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. ii. Appendix.

Vol. 49, formerly marked "WW," folio.

Copies of the Duke of Ormonde's letters, from June 1660 to December 1668, to the following persons:—Louis de Haro, M. de Witt (Pensionnaire of Holland), the Earl of Montrath (President of Connaught), the King of Denmark, the Lord Deputy of Ireland, Prince de Ligne, the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, Archbishop of Armagh, Lord Orrery, the Lords Justices of Ireland, the Princess Royal of Orleans, the Prince de Condé, the Duke of Hamilton, the Bishop of Clogher, the Bishop of Winchester, the Bishop of London, Lord Conway, the Portuguese Ambassador, Lord Ossory, Lord Chancellor Hyde, the Duke of Buckingham, Secretary Morrice, Sir W. Coventry, Lord St. Alban's, Duke of Albemarle, the Earl of Carlingford, Sir A. Broderick,

Digitized by Google

529

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Colonel Cooke, Colonel Legg, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Lord Kingston, Captain G. Mathews, Sir G. Carteret, and others. There are also some letters from the King, George Lane, the Countess of Devon, and others.

Some of the above are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. ii. Appendix, pp. 34–61.

Vol. 50, formerly marked "WW 2," folio.

Copies and original drafts of the Duke of Ormonde's letters, from 1669 to 1687, to the following persons:—Captain G. Mathews, Lord Clanricarde, the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, the Constable of Castile (Governor of the Low Countries), Sir J. Temple (Solicitor General), Lord Ossory, Lord Kingston, Lord Arran, Lord Aungier, Lord Derby, Lord Strafford, the Prince of Orange, Sir G. Lane, Sir W. Temple, the King, Lord Arlington, Lord and Lady Burlington, Colonel Fitzpatrick, Sir Robert Southwell, Sir W. Coventry, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Primate of Ireland, Lord Sunderland, Lord Coventry, the Earl of Rochester, the Earl of Longford, and others. There are also some miscellaneous papers, among which are the following:—Instrument of the University of Oxford, making Lord Clarendon High Steward. The Duke of Ormonde's Speech in the Cause between Hyde and Emerton. Letter to the King after Major Warren was sent over in 1642, with a memorandum about transporting the Forces to England (Feb. 1643). A prayer of Ormonde's. Patent of Precedence of Lord Ossory's children. Settlement proposed on the Marriage of James Earl of Ossory and Lady Hyde. Account of Ormonde's Debts, &c. At the end of the volume is a collection of ciphers of the following persons:—Sir H. de Vic, the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, the Lord Chancellor of England, Lord Arlington, Sir E. Nicholas, the Earl of Orrery, Sir W. Coventry, Lords Anglesea, Ossory, Carlingford, Kingston, Conway, Longford, and Arran, Sir T. Clarges, Sir G. Carteret, Captain Barrington, Colonel W. Legg, Sir Robert Southwell, Sir G. Lane, J. Walsh, Dr. Gorges, Sir Robert Booth, and P. Alden. They are dated from 1662 to 1682.

Vol. 51, formerly marked "WW 4," folio.

Copies of letters from the Duke of Ormonde to Lords Anglesea, Arlington, and Coventry, from 1665 to 1667, with other papers, the whole embracing the period between 1662 and 1675.

Vol. 52, formerly marked "XX 1."

Letters and papers relative to the Revenue of Ireland from 1641 to 1693. The letters are chiefly from the King, the Council in England, the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland, and the Commissioners of the Treasury, addressed for the most part to the Duke of Ormonde; and there are a few from Ormonde to Mr. Secretary Williamson. Among the papers are orders of the Councils of England and Ireland, and petitions to the King, the Duke of Ormonde, and the Irish Council.

Vol. 53, formerly marked "XX 2."

The letters and papers contained in this volume almost entirely relate to the fiscal matters of Ireland, and are dated from 1678 to 1683. The most important are the following:—

The Duke of Ormonde's correspondence with the King, the Council of Ireland, the Commissioners of the Treasury, the Commissioners of Accounts, Archbishop Boyle, and others. Orders by the Duke of Ormonde. Orders of Council. Petitions to the King and Ormonde. Papers showing the state of the Farmer's Accounts from 1678 to 1682. Mr. Sheridan's paper about the Revenue; with a letter from the Duke of Ormonde to him.

Vol. 54, formerly marked "XX 3."

Papers relating to the Revenue and Army of Ireland from 1660 to 1687. Letters from the Commissioners of the Revenue to the Lords of the Treasury, the Earl of Arran, and the Duke of Ormonde. A few letters to Ormonde. Correspondence of Lord Arran with the Commissioners of the Treasury and of the Revenue; &c. At the end there is a "Discours sur la Fortification de M. le Comte de Pagan, par M. de "Visaucour."

Vol. 55, formerly marked "Y 1, Ireland, temp. Eliz."

The correspondence and papers of Lord Deputy Fitzwilliam, between the years 1567 and 1595, relating to the affairs of Ireland. The letters are original—a large number of them holographs—and are from Lord Fitzwilliam, Lord Burleigh, Thomas Earl of Ormonde, the Council in England, Sir Francis Walsingham, the Earl of Sussex, Lord Delvyn, Sir John Perrot, Lord Howthe, and others; they form a very valuable collection.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 56, formerly marked "Y 2, Ireland, temp. Eliz."

Original letters and papers connected with Lord Deputy Fitzwilliam's government in Ireland, between 1564 and 1576. Among them are many holographs of Lord Fitzwilliam, Lord Burleigh, Lady Burleigh, the Earl of Leicester, Sir H. Sidney, Sir F. Knollys, Thomas Earl of Ormonde, the Earl of Sussex, Sir F. Walsingham, and others, and about forty-five with the sign manual of Queen Elizabeth.

Vol. 57, formerly marked "Y 3, Ireland, temp. Eliz."

Original letters and papers connected with Lord Deputy Fitzwilliam's government of Ireland, from 1569 to 1574. Many holographs are among them; also some letters with the sign manual of Queen Elizabeth.

Vol. 58, formerly marked "Y 4, Ireland, temp. Eliz."

Original letters and papers respecting Lord Deputy Fitzwilliam's government of Ireland, from 1560 to 1575. Among them are several papers with the sign manual of Queen Elizabeth, and holograph letters from Secretary Cecil and others.

Vol. 59, formerly marked "DO, Ireland, 1," folio.

Papers between the years 1641 and 1684, nearly all copies of documents relating to the public and private affairs of the Duke of Ormonde. Among them are a few original deeds on parchment, and some copies of deeds of an early date; a few original writings, such as the Duke of Ormonde's will, dated 1 Sept. 1642; a number of warrants dated from 1576 to 1662; printed proclamations and a printed poem on the death of Lord Ossory in 1681 (pp. 1 to 16).

Vol. 60, formerly marked "Ireland, 2," folio.

Warrants from the King and from the Duke of Ormonde, some few original, but the greater number copies. Original petitions to the Duke of Ormonde with his fiat. Memorials to Ormonde. Cases for adjudication. Opinions of cases. Original letters, and copies of letters from the King and other persons, nearly all relating to public matters, but a few to the private transactions of the Duke of Ormonde. Miscellaneous papers.

The above are of various dates between 1628 and 1690; very many are undated.

Vol. 61, formerly marked "Ireland, V."

Original papers and copies of papers relative to the public affairs of Ireland from 1585 to 1615, consisting for the most part of warrants issued by the Lord Deputy Chichester. These warrants are for the incorporation of towns, and for grants to corporations of fairs, markets, and other privileges, and to private persons of pardons, offices, licences to alienate lands, &c.

Vol. 62, formerly marked "Ireland, VI."

Original warrants and copies of warrants from Lord Deputy Chichester, incorporating towns, and granting fairs, markets, and other privileges to corporations, and offices, lands, pardons, &c. to private persons. Among others there is one to the Provost, Fellows, &c. of the College near Dublin and their successors, to elect and send two Burgesses to Parliament for ever (12 May 1613). Also licences given by the Lord Deputy; petitions to him; King James I.'s grant to Sir William Uvedale of all fines levied on persons who plough their ground with horses drawing by their tails; original letters from Lord Chancellor Ellesmere and Sir Francis Bacon to Sir John Davis, Attorney General of Ireland, &c. &c.

The period comprised in this volume is from the year 1604 to the year 1618.

Vol. 63, formerly marked "Ireland, VIII."

Most of the letters in this volume are copies, but nevertheless very curious and important for the history of the period to which they relate (1613–1671). They are from Charles I., Lord Deputy Wandesford, the Marquis of Clanricarde, Cardinal Mazarine, Lords Digby, Jermyn, Inchiquin, and Taaffe, the Earl of Glamorgan, Sir Edward Nicholas, Sir William Saintleger, Sir Robert King, Secretary Long, and others, principally addressed to the Marquis of Ormonde. One of them, a letter from Lord Digby, is printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. p. 548. There are also some letters from Ormonde to many of the above persons, and some deciphers of ciphers, which are valuable. Among the miscellaneous papers is a Speech made by Ormonde to the General Assembly of the Confederated Catholics, which is printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. ii. App. p. 13.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 64, formerly marked "Ireland I."

Copies of papers between the years 1613 and 1666, relating to Irish affairs. There are copies of printed tracts—extracts from the journals of the Houses of Peers and Commons in Ireland—copies of proceedings in the Irish House of Convocation—copy of the register book of letters of the Supreme Council of the Confederate Roman Catholics at Kilkenny, &c.

Vol. 65, formerly marked "Ireland II."

Most of the papers in this volume are original, and many of the letters are in cipher. They refer to public affairs between the years 1636 and 1652—the Irish Rebellion—the negotiation for a Cessation of Arms—the Solemn League and Covenant in Scotland—the Civil War in England, &c. The letters are generally addressed to the Marquis of Ormonde, and are chiefly from the following persons:—The King and Queen, Prince Charles, Cardinal Mazarine, the Lords Justices of Ireland, Lords Digby and Clanricarde, Sir Edward Nicholas (the King's Secretary), Sir H. Vane, Speaker Lenthall, and Secretary Long. There is also a considerable number of Ormonde's own letters to the above-mentioned persons and the Assembly of the Confederate Roman Catholics. There are also a few letters from O'Hartegan to the Supreme Council of the Confederates, a Relation of the Battle of Edgehill, a printed copy of the Solemn League and Covenant, with other printed papers, &c. &c.

Vol. 66, formerly marked "Ireland IV."

Original papers and letters, with some copies, relative to the affairs of Ireland between the years 1634 and 1684. Some of the papers are printed. There are eleven letters from Lord Strafford to the King, dated from 1635 to 1638, which are, with one exception, printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 14–26; and there are two letters of Vice-Treasurer Loftus, one printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. p. 27.

Vol. 67, formerly marked "Ireland X."

Copies of letters and papers from 1613 to 1679, of which the greater portion is taken from Dr. Williams's Collection of Papers relating to Ireland.

Vol. 68, formerly marked "Ireland VII."

Original letters to and from Lord Ormonde, the Earl of Ossory, the Earl of Essex, Lord Ranelagh, Primate Boyle, the Earl of Longford, the Earl of Leicester, the Earl of Northumberland, Lord Chancellor Clarendon, and others. Also a considerable number of letters from the Lords Justices and Council of Ireland to various persons, and many important papers (some printed) respecting the disputes between the Roman Catholics and Protestants in Ireland. The period comprised is from 1641 to 1683.

A letter from Lord Digby to the Marquis of Ormonde, contained in this volume, is printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. p. 475.

Vol. 69, formerly marked "Ireland III."

The period embraced by the papers in this volume extends from 1646 to 1697. Some of the letters contained in it are original, others copies. There are also extracts from printed books; memoranda concerning the life of the Duke of Ormonde (curious); copies of pedigrees and family papers of the Duke; an original letter from the celebrated Colonel Blood to the Duke of Ormonde, without date; &c.

Vol. 70, formerly marked "Ireland IX."

Nearly all the letters and other papers in this volume are copies, but are important for the history of the period to which they relate (1604–1688). Many of the papers refer to the pedigrees and private affairs of the Ormonde family. There are some original letters from John Antis, the Herald, to Thomas Carte.

Vol. 71, formerly marked "Ireland XI."

Copies of commissions, grants, and Acts of Parliament of no great value. A very large collection of proclamations, orders, and ordinances, all in print, seemingly very rare, and perhaps unique; many during the Commonwealth.

Vol. 72, formerly marked "ZZ," folio.

This volume consists of news letters, both from home and abroad, proceedings and speeches in Parliament, originals and copies of papers relating to Ireland, France, and Germany. The period embraced is from 1642 to 1685.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 73, formerly marked "AAA," folio.

Original letters and copies of letters to and from General Montague (afterwards Earl of Sandwich), commander at sea, from the Montague Collection. The letters to Montague are from Oliver Cromwell, Charles II., Secretary Thurloe, Samuel Pepys, Sir Gilbert Pickering, General Monck, William Penne, Sir William Wheeler, General Blake, Admiral Stoakes, and others. Among the papers are some relative to the Cadiz fleet, the Dutch fleet, the siege of Mardyche, &c. The period embraced is that between 1656 and 1661.

This volume is indispensable for the history of the Navy during the Commonwealth. Many of the papers are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. ii. pp. 96–208.

Vol. 74, formerly marked "BBB," folio.

The contents of this volume comprise the period between the years 1604 and 1683. Letters and papers from the collection of Edward Montague, afterwards Earl of Sandwich, chiefly connected with the Navy and Army. Among them is a paper headed "Memoria de las Pinturas que se vendiéron al S^r^ Embax^or^ de España en el Palacio de Somerset, y que eran del Rey y de la Reyna;" private letters from his family; papers relating to the public revenue, and other matters; petitions, &c.; keys to ciphers before and during the Rebellion.

Some of the above are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. i. pp. 46–48, and vol. ii. pp. 87–92.

Vol. 75, formerly marked "CCC," folio.

The contents of this volume relate to the period between 1662 and 1671. Papers and letters about Tangiers, from the Earl of Peterborough, Lord Teviot, Lord Bellasis, Colonel Fitzgerald, Colonel Norwood, Sir J. Lawson, Sir Charles Harbord, and Consuls of Spanish ports. Articles of peace made with Cidcader Guilon, the Moorish Chief. Letters, orders, and instructions from the Duke of York, Lord High Admiral of England, to the Earl of Sandwich, Vice-Admiral of England, chiefly about the Dutch fleet; letters from Sir W. Coventry to the Earl of Sandwich, relative to the same. Account of the destruction of Chatham Dockyard by the Dutch. Letters of the Duke of Albemarle, Lord Culpeper, Sir Thomas Clifford, and Sir William Penn. Letters from Charles II. to the Duke of York. Papers and letters during the Earl of Sandwich's embassy to Spain to conclude a treaty with that Crown; his speeches to the Queen of Spain; letters of instructions about the treaty from Lord Arlington, Lord Chancellor Clarendon, the Earl of Manchester, and others. Papers and letters relative to the Treaty of Breda (August 1667). Letters to the Earl of Sandwich after his departure from Madrid; one from the Duke of Medina. Letters and papers relative to Queen Christina of Sweden. Public and private papers, especially relative to naval affairs.

Vol. 76, formerly marked "DDD," folio.

Papers between the years 1643 and 1715, principally news letters (all original), to the Earl of Huntingdon, from August 1690 to 1695, and some from 1695 to 1715, relative to occurrences both at home and abroad, particularly to the settlement of Scotland and Ireland after the Revolution—the wars in Flanders, Italy, and Germany, and with the Turks—naval affairs, sea fights and captures during those wars—the death of Queen Mary, consort of William III. There is a letter from the siege of Buda in 1686—an account of the action at Brentford (1643)—letters from F. Salisbury to the Earl of Huntingdon, 1663–1670—notes made at the council table at Hampton Court when Keeling was examined about the Rye House Plot, 23 June 1683.—The above papers are seemingly from the Huntingdon collection.

Vol. 77, formerly marked "EEE," folio.

"Modus coronandi Regis," translated from an old vellum roll, temp. Ric. II. by the Earl of Huntingdon, according to King James II.'s order. Letter from Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Shrewsbury, about Mary Queen of Scots. Doughty's Narrative and Charge against Sir Francis Drake. Letter from the Earl of Essex to the Council, on his departure for Plymouth. Papers of the reign of Queen Elizabeth and of James I., particularly about the treasons imputed to Sir Walter Raleigh and Lord Grey of Wilton. Papers relating to occurrences in Parliament, and the King's speeches there from 1603 to 1620. Papers relative to the charge against, and sentence upon, Lord Chancellor Bacon; a letter from the Lord Keeper to the Earl of Essex, with the latter's answer and speeches against him in the Star Chamber. Papers connected with parliamentary proceedings from 1620 to 1631. News letters (original) to the Earl of Huntingdon in 1634 and 1635, relating to affairs at home and abroad.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Papers concerning the Duke of Buckingham's relation of the battle of Lutzen. Letters relative to ecclesiastical affairs, chiefly about Dissenters, from 1663 to 1695. Miscellaneous papers from 1601 to 1732.

Vol. 78, formerly marked "FFF," folio.

Copies of papers relative to the families of the Earl of Huntingdon, Lord Hastings, Lord Loughborough, Lord Hungerford, the Earl of Derby, and others. Cases of law and equity, with counsels' opinions. Extracts from the Pipe Rolls and Public Records, and copies of private deeds. They extend over a period from the reign of Edward III. to A.D. 1731, and seem to belong to the Huntingdon collection of papers. Among them are a few letters from Cardinal Pole to the Countess of Huntingdon, his niece, in 1555.

Vol. 79, formerly marked "GGG," folio.

This volume contains a paper respecting a design on King Charles I.'s life when he was in the Isle of Wight, and an apology for Lord Wharton's concealment of it. Prince Rupert's Narrative of the Engagements of the Fleets. Papers in connexion with Parliamentary affairs, from 1673 to 1700. News letters (original) to Mr. William Wharton, relative to foreign and domestic occurrences from 1677 to 1694. Letters to Mr. Thomas Wharton, Comptroller of the Household of William and Mary, from officers in the Irish Army, dated from 1688 to 1691. Letters to the same from Mr. James Vernon, relative to domestic and foreign occurrences, from 1691 to 1698; &c.—The volume was part of the collection of papers of Philip Lord Wharton.

Vol. 80, formerly marked "HHH," folio.

Papers relative to proceedings in both Houses of Parliament, from 1640 to 1679. A collection of papers of the proceedings of the Scotch and English Commissioners, from 1643 to 1648, relative to the Scotch invading England under pretence of preserving peace. Papers concerning Osborne's discovery of a design upon King Charles's life by poison while he was in the Isle of Wight, and Lord Wharton's concealment of it. Papers and letters from Lord Grey of Wilton to his mother, during his confinement in the Tower on Raleigh's and Cobham's plots. A very interesting letter from Winchester, 27 Nov. 1603, giving a full account of the trials of the priests, Lord Cobham, Sir Walter Raleigh, and Lord Grey, and of other occurrences. Another from Salisbury, giving a full account of what passed at Winchester on their being brought to the scaffold for execution, &c. Papers relative to affairs in the years 1610, 1611, 1613, 1631. Letters to Sir Rowland Wandesford relative to affairs in Ireland from 1633 to 1646. Among the miscellaneous contents of this volume are:—A grant of augmentation of arms to Thomas Lord Wharton and his heirs, for his services against the Scots at Soleuness, Saint Katharine's eve, 34 Henry VIII., dated 23 April, 7 Edw. VI. Answer given by Queen Elizabeth to the Polish Ambassador's oration. An Association for the Preservation of Queen Elizabeth's person. A holograph letter of Edmund Waller (accused of being concerned in a plot) to Colonel Goodwin, 1642. Lord Grey of Wilton's letter to his mother, sending his translation of Cyprian de Patientia.—The volume was part of the collection of Philip Lord Wharton's papers.

Vol. 81, formerly marked "III," folio.

The contents of this volume are dated from 1640 to 1695. Papers on ecclesiastical affairs, such as the Act of Uniformity and the Conventicle Act. Papers relative to the Popish and Oates's plots, and to the trial of Lord Stafford; about the trials of Peers, and Bishops sitting in criminal causes; about the Fifth monarchy men's plot; Parliamentary matters (especially as to Lord Wharton's not having kissed the book on taking the oath); the impeachment of Lord Danby; and about the Colonies (particularly New England, Connecticut, and Virginia). Papers especially relating to Lord Wharton. Papers relative to naval affairs, &c. &c.—The volume formerly belonged to Lord Wharton's collection of papers.

Vol. 82, formerly marked "KKK," folio.

It contains the correspondence of Marquis d'Effiat, ambassador of Lewis XIII. to England for the marriage of Henrietta Maria to Charles I. Extracts from the "Histoire de Marguerite d'Anjou, Reine d'Angleterre," and from "La Vie, etc., de Cardinal Wolsey." A paper respecting M. de Chastillon's embassy in England, December 1537 to March 1539. Extracts concerning the negotiations of M. de Christople de Harley, 1603; with many other papers in French. Extracts from and catalogues of the works of ancient chroniclers; among them is "Elenchus contentorum in MS. S. Victoris Parisiensis, 419," mentioning, inter alia, the following:—

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers : Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

" Chronica Franciæ et Angliæ ab anno 1139 ad 1238, auctore Ricardo Hagulstadensi " (f. 133).
" Chronica brevis et compendiosa Ducum Normanniæ " (f. 42).
" Historiæ Normannorum libri 8, per Guil. Gemeticensem " (f. 68).
" Tractatus de pace inter S. Ludovicum et Henricum Angliæ Reges " (f. 179).
" Consuetudines Regni Angliæ et persecutio Thomæ Cantuarcen " (f. 193).

Vol. 83, formerly marked " LLL," folio.

Catalogue of public instruments in France relative to England, and Notices of Treaties between England and France, and other papers concerning England in France, from 1200 to 1625. " Traité d'alliance " between Charles VI. and Owen Prince of Wales ; Paris, 14 July 1404. " Traités entre les Rois d'Angleterre et les " Rois de Castille." M. de Puy's justification of De Thou against Cardinal de Richelieu. Extracts concerning the negotiations of the Comte de Marest and of M. de Mongreuil in England. " Negotiations de M. de Montreuil en Angleterre depuis le " 10 Août 1645 au 4 Sept. 1648."

Vol. 84, formerly marked " MMM," folio.

" Livre des Négotiations de M. Sabran, envoye resident en Angleterre pour le service du Roy Très-Chrétien depuis le 17 jour de Mai 1644 au 8 Septembre 1648."

Vols. 85 and 86, formerly marked " NNN," folio.

Vol. 85 contains letters from M. de la Boderie, ambassador in England, dated from May 1606 to Dec. 1607.
Vol. 86 contains letters from the same, from January 1608 to January 1611.

Vols. 87 and 88, formerly marked " OOO," folio.

Volume 87.—Letters of M. Antoine de Noailles, Ambassador in England, dated from December 1552 to May 1556 ; with a letter from Wollray to T. Carte.
Volume 88.—Letters of M. Gilles de Noailles, dated from June 1556 to January 1559, with Mons. l'Abbé de Lisle's (Gilles de Noailles) instructions and negotiations in Scotland, from January 1560 to June 1561.

Vol. 89, formerly marked " PPP," folio.

This volume contains copies of treaties and papers relative to negotiations between England and France, from 1193 to 1612.

Vol. 90, formerly marked " QQQ," folio.

This volume contains copies of treaties and papers relative to negotiations between England and France, from 1294 to 1617.

Vol. 91, formerly marked " RRR," folio, on vellum, in the original binding in wood of the 15th or 16th century.

The contents of this volume are very miscellaneous ; many of the papers relate to the foundations of French monasteries. Amongst the papers is one entitled :—" Sen- " suit la maniere et ensaignement darpenter, cordeler et mesaurer terres ; et la maniere " de nombrez et prisaiges icelles terres, jardrins, vergieres, boys, virgues, prez, landes, " estangs garannes, coulombiers et aultres chouses heritaux ; scelon la situacion et " assiete des lieux, des pais et des ressors dicculx." The period comprised by these papers is from 1204 to 1503, and they all relate to France.

Vol. 92, formerly marked " SSS," folio.

This volume consists of notes on French manuscripts, all in Carte's handwriting.

Vol. 93, formerly marked " TTT," folio.

Extracts from Journals of the House of Lords in 1572, 1575, 1605, and 1606. Copies of Acts of Parliament, temp. Hen. VII. et Hen. VIII. Extract from Year Book 1 Hen. VII. of the case of John Flouredewe, concerning Writs of Error in Parliament, that the Lords only by counsel of the Judges shall correct errors, and not the Commons, &c.

Vol. 94, formerly marked " UUU," folio.

Copies of Patents of creation of Peers, from the Empress Maud to King Richard III., taken from the Patent, Charter, and Parliament Rolls.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers : Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 95, formerly marked "VVV," folio.

Journal of the House of Commons on January 16th, 18 James I., with an account of the King's speech, and with the speeches of members and debates till 28 November 1621.

Vol. 96, formerly marked "WWW," folio.

Treatises and other papers concerning the relations of England and Spain in the reigns of Elizabeth and James I.; among them a discourse addressed to Sir E. Montague by Sir Robert Cotton, showing that the House of Commons has equal judicial power with the House of Peers (1621).

Vol. 97, formerly marked "XXX," folio.

Extracts out of Lord Lovel's MS. History of the Irish Rebellion in 1641, compiled out of the Nuncio Rinuccini's papers by an Irish priest, entitled "De Hæresis Anglicanæ intrusione et progressu, et de Bello Catholico ad annum 1641 cœpto, exindeque per aliquot annos gesto Commentarius."

Vol. 98, formerly marked "YYY," folio.

An answer to the Earl of Anglesea's objections to the Duke of Ormonde; or, "Some of the Earl of Anglesea's errors detected in reference to the Affairs of "Ireland."

Advertisement.—"The reader of this discourse will soon be informed from the 3 "following letters between the Duke of Ormonde and the Earl of Anglesey that the "Earl is charged with mistakes in his book writ against the Earl of Castlehaven's "memoirs touching the wars of Ireland, and that his late Majesty and his servant the "Duke of Ormonde are therein much misrepresented to the world in reference to the "Cessation made with the Irish rebels in 1643, and the two peaces of 1646 and 1648 "which afterwards ensued."

Vol. 99, formerly marked "ZZZ," folio.

Copies of the letters of the Marquis of Clanricarde, from October 1641, when the Irish rebellion broke out, to August 1643, when he was going to treat for the Cessation.

Many of these letters are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. iii. pp. 39–171.

Vol. 100, formerly marked "AAAA," folio.

"Avis, censures et lettres sur l'histoire de M. le Président de Thou." Miscellaneous papers on literary subjects, extracts from various authors, &c. A catalogue of old chronicles in the Cotton Library. Several letters to and from Thomas Carte. Lists of manuscripts in the Dean and Chapter's Library at Durham.

The period embraced in this volume is from 1640 to 1727.

Vol. 101, formerly marked "BBBB," folio.

Letters of M. de Thou, notes upon the "Thuani Historia," and papers relative to De Thou's works. "Projet pour perfectionner le gouvernement des Etats," given to T. Carte by the Abbé de S. Pierre. Letters of Thomas and Samuel Carte about records and English ordinations, especially in reference to the "Nags-head story." List of MSS. in the Library of St. Victor, at Paris. Catalogue of the Petyt MSS. in the Inner Temple Library. Papers on literary subjects.

The period comprised is from 1615 to 1726.

NOTE.—After the above volume the manuscripts are not numbered on the outside, and No. "102" seems to have been omitted, the next number being 103, in pencil.

Vol. 103, formerly marked "CCCC," folio, rebound, but not numbered outside.

The period embraced in this volume is between the years 1542 and 1737. Original letters and papers during the Rebellion in England, from Lord London, Sir Philip Stapleton, Colonel Arthur Goodwin, the Earl of Essex, Lionel Copley, Arthur Jephson, J. Hampden, the Council of War, Lord Digby, Oliver Cromwell, and others, with a full relation of the campaign in Flanders under General Morgan. These seem to be from the Wharton Collection of Papers. Dean King's Account of Affairs in Ireland to the King and Council at Paris; and other papers relative to public affairs. Papers relative to the Duke of Buckingham's expedition to Rochelle (1627). Letters on private subjects to T. and J. Carte; a great number from Dr. Baynes. Letters from

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Mr. Anstis, Mr. Woolhouse, Dr. Rawlinson, and others. Letters from and to Sir Robert Southwell; one from Sir W. Dugdale. Extracts from various books. Letters to General Morgan; one from Oliver Cromwell, signed by him.

Vol. 104, formerly marked "FFFF," folio, rebound, but not numbered outside. Inside the cover it is numbered "104."

Miscellaneous papers between 1680 and 1741, consisting of copies of letters relative to the negotiations of Lord Middleton during his embassy at Vienna in 1680. Letters between Lord Middleton and Sir Leoline Jenkins, from the Elector of Brandenburgh to the King of Spain, and from Lord Bodmyn, Sir Robert Southwell, and Lord Conway. Letters and papers on private and literary matters and other subjects unconnected with Irish affairs. Papers relative to the late King James II., in 1692.

Vol. 105, formerly marked "HHHH," folio, rebound, and numbered "105" in pencil.

Letters and papers of the reign of Elizabeth relating to the succession to the Crown, the Bishop of Ross's book on Queen Mary of Scotland's right to the English Crown, &c.; with an Advertisement from a loyal subject to his Sovereign James I. Little or nothing having reference to Ireland.

Vol. 106, formerly marked "IIII," folio, rebound, and numbered "106" in pencil.

Principally notes from Dugdale's Baronage, Monasticon, and History of Warwickshire, &c., with Indices to his Baronage and Monasticon. Excerpts from MSS. in the Bodleian and Cottonian Libraries. Catalogue of Alien Priories, &c. All unconnected with Ireland.

Vol. 107, formerly marked "KKKK," folio, rebound, and numbered "107" in pencil.

A miscellaneous collection of papers, chiefly relating to the offices of Earl Marshal and High Constable of England; notes from Sergeant Trimpet's Diary, temp. Edw. IV. and Hen. VII.; papers relating to the trial of the Earl Castlehaven, 1631, the arraignment of Robert Earl of Essex, 1600, &c.

Vol. 108, formerly marked "LLLL," folio, rebound, and numbered "108" in pencil.

Chiefly collections relating to Wales. Catalogue of Vaughan Library (165 MSS. described), and of Sir John Sebright's Library. Extracts from and copies of Chronicles—among others of the "Annales Britanniæ:" Incip. Introductio: "Temporum "summam lineamque descendentem ab exordio Mundi." Expl. Introductio: "Vita "detestando Deum timere et amare nos admonet." Incip. Lib. I. c. i. "Formatus "itaque Adam homo primus de limo terræ." Expl. Lib. VIII. c. xv. "Et Humfridus Dux Glouecstriæ Protector Angliæ, et vicesimo quarto anno Regni sui accepit in uxorem Margaretam filiam Ducl Andegaviæ, [ex qua genuit unicum filium "suum Edwardum;] et tunc Dominus Ricardus Dux Eboracensis Regens erat "Regni Franciæ."

Vol. 109, formerly marked "MMMM," folio, rebound, and numbered "109" in pencil.

Miscellaneous papers referring to matters between 1587 and 1743, such as extracts from printed books, &c.; the Duke of Ormonde's preface to his Answer to Lord Anglesea, and other papers respecting the Duke; papers and letters of the Carte family; news letters; original letters and copies of letters, many to Archbishop Sancroft; notes by Philip Lord Wharton, and other papers respecting the Wharton Family; account of Irish MSS. in the Bodleian Library.

Vol. 110, formerly marked "NNNN," folio, rebound, and numbered "110" in pencil.

This volume chiefly consists of extracts from printed books and manuscripts, chiefly upon topographical and ecclesiastical matters, curious in their way, but of little account with reference to Ireland.

Vol. 111, formerly marked "OOOO," folio, rebound, and numbered "111" in pencil.

This volume consists for the most part of extracts from books and notes on various subjects. A list of them has been made, but as the papers have no reference to Ireland they are not introduced here.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 112, formerly marked "PPPP," folio, rebound and numbered "112" in pencil.

This volume contains copies of papers concerning the relations between England and France, from 1190 to 1625, evidently prepared for Carte's General History of England, but having no relation to Ireland.

Vol. 113, formerly marked "QQQQ," folio, rebound, and numbered "113" in pencil.

Copies of Papers on French and English affairs, from 1190 to 1625. 56 Irish Petitions, 1696–1701.

Vol. 114, formerly marked "RRRR," folio, rebound, and numbered "114" in pencil.

A number of papers concerning the relations between England and France, from 1399 to 1667. A considerable collection of printed papers on literary subjects. Sir W. Dugdale's Additional Sheet in his Baronage for the Huntingdon Family (Hastings), pp. 579–582. Almanacks from 1660 to 1692.

Vol. 115, formerly marked "SSSS," folio, rebound, and numbered "115" in pencil.

Manuscript clean copy of Dr. Brady's Treatise on the Parliament of England.

Vol. 116, formerly marked "TTTT," folio, rebound, and numbered "116" in pencil.

Transcript of Dr. Brady's Treatise on the Parliament of England.

Vol. 117, formerly marked "UUUU," folio, rebound, and numbered "117" in pencil.

Extracts from MSS. and printed books. Pedigrees. Order of Council. Warrant by Lord Deputy Wandesford. A sign manual of Charles II., granting a pass for five of Lord Wharton's children to France, 1662, and other papers concerning Lord Wharton. Papers of the Carte family. Letters of Speaker Lenthall and others. The Duke of Monmouth's Speech and Confession in Council, 12th Dec. 1683. The Concordate of Nonjurors. Other papers relating to public and private affairs; very little relating to Ireland. The period embraced is between the years 1396 and 1739.

Vol. 118, formerly marked "VVVV," folio, rebound, and numbered "118" in pencil.

Papers of J. Carte and T. Carte. Among them is one headed "Papers remaining" of Lord Egmont, which Mr. Carte is desired to return," from 1627 to 1685. Letters to and from Sir Robert Southwell. Letters and papers relating to Ireland. Correspondence between the Duke of Ormonde and Lord Orrery. Correspondence of Ormonde with Secretary Coventry, Lord Danby, Sir Edward Nicholas, King Charles II., the Duke of York, Lord Arran, the Earl of Rochester, and others. The letters from Ormonde are chiefly copies or drafts in his own hand. Some of these papers are printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. ii. App. pp. 111–117. Correspondence of Primate Boyle and the Earl of Orrery.

Vol. 119, formerly marked "GGGG," (same as "WWWW,") folio, rebound, and numbered "119" in pencil.

Tracts in print and manuscript. Speeches by the King, the Lord Keeper, and the Speaker of the Parliament, in April 1640. Speech of Sir Robert Cotton at the Council Table, about alteration of the coin, 1626. Papers relating to the history of Parliament and the Star Chamber.

Vol. 120, formerly MS. marked "XXXX,"[1] folio.

A common-place book of J. Carte's.

[1] The volume marked "YYYY," folio, described in an old inventory at the Bodleian as "Book of Aydes, Grand Serjeanties, and Baronies, temp. Edw. I., kept in Sir T. Fanshaw's office in the Exchequer," is not now among the Carte Collection; nor is the volume marked "ZZZZ," folio, described as "a common-place book of J. Carte's."

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 121, formerly marked "A a," folio.

A collection of miscellaneous papers of the time of James I. and Charles I., viz., papers relating to King James's general pardon—two reports signed by Sir Francis Bacon—papers relative to licences and compositions for alienations, privileges of Baronets, and the revenue—petitions—list of noblemen's sons, of Ireland, to be sent into England, &c. &c.

Vol. 122, formerly marked "A b," folio.

A short Compendium of all the Offices and Officers, their duties, and proceedings, in the Exchequer.

Vol. 123, formerly marked "A c," folio.

Letters of James I. and Charles I., mostly addressed to the Earl of Suffolk, Lord Treasurer. Orders of Council, chiefly concerning the Army; with a few orders of the Commissioners of the Admiralty. Most of the papers are original, some bearing the sign manuals of James I. and Charles I., and they embrace the period between 1614 and 1638.

Vol. 124, formerly marked "A d," folio.

A miscellaneous collection of legal papers, containing, inter alia, a manuscript treatise on the antiquity of the Common Law and of Tenures before the Conquest, by Sir Walter Raleigh (imperfect, containing 349 pages)—extracts from Parliament Rolls, Escheat Rolls, temp. Hen. III., Edw. I., and Edw. II., &c.—inquisition p. m. on John Duke of Norfolk at Bakke in Suffolk, 16 Jan., 11 Hen. VI.—notes of records relating to Shropshire, &c. Nothing relating to Ireland.

Vol. 125, formerly marked "A e," folio.

A collection of miscellaneous papers:—letters from the Privy Council to Lord Chancellor Ellesmere—a letter from King James I. to Lord Chancellor Verulam—Thomas Earl of Strafford's defence against the articles of his impeachment, 1715—extracts from Lord Grey's letters to his mother—extracts from printed books and manuscripts—papers relating to the Wharton family—Archbishop Usher's discourse about the reception of the Civil Law in Ireland—extracts concerning Bishop More's embassy to Spain, 1523, from MS. 234 of his collection—excerpta from ancient chronicles, &c. The whole comprises the period between 1523 and 1742.

Vol. 126, formerly marked "A f," folio.

It contains a copy of those parts of Domesday Book which refer to the counties of Cornwall, Norfolk, Huntingdon, and Devon, and other matters connected with the Domesday Survey.

Vol. 127, formerly marked "A g," folio.

This volume contains extracts from the collections of Mr. John Anstis, Garter-King-at-Arms, principally relative to heraldic, legal, and ecclesiastical matters. Little or nothing relating to Ireland.

Vol. 128, formerly marked "A h," folio.

This volume consists of miscellaneous papers, the most important of which are the following:—A Catalogue of Treaties, Letters of Ambassadors, Instruments, &c., in the Paper Office—Catalogues of Papal Bulls, the Kings Charters, &c., relating to Durham—extracts from Records, the Fine Rolls, Pell Rolls, printed books and manuscripts—Sir Robert Howard's Report, 11th June 1684, concerning the Lords affirming the judgment against Mr. Oates, &c.—Letters from Mr. Hume and Mr. Lewis Morris to Thomas Carte—Letters of the Duke of Ormonde to his relations on the death of the Earl of Ossory, Lady Hamilton, &c. (printed in the "Life of Ormonde," vol. ii. App. pp. 121–126). Very little relating to Ireland.

N.B. Some of the papers, mentioned in the catalogue as being contained in this volume, have not been found.

Vol. 129, formerly marked "A k," folio.

This volume contains miscellaneous extracts and papers on literary subjects. Many refer to Durham. There are also some London Gazettes for August 1745; copies of records, &c. Nothing relating to Ireland.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 130, formerly marked "A l."

A curious collection of papers and letters, many of the latter holographs. The most important of them are the following:—Extracts from printed books and manuscripts; one concerning the embassy of De Noailles; another about Queen Mary of Scotland—a considerable number of letters, amongst them is one from Salmasius to King Charles II.; one from the Queen Mother to the same—letters to and from Secretary Long—one from Charles II. to Prince Condé—one from Charles II. to the Emperor of Morocco—several from the Privy Council to Lord Herbert—a few from the Duke of Ormonde—very many from Robert Price—a few from King James II.—letters to and from Colonel Ellis, &c. Miscellaneous papers concerning public affairs, embassies, King Charles II.'s residence in Holland, &c. &c.

They are dated between 1631 and 1749.[1]

Vol. 131, lettered "Ireland."[2]

Original letters and papers, most connected with Lord Deputy Fitzwilliam's government in Ireland, from 1561 to 1575, many holographs amongst them; several from the Earl of Ormonde, Cecil, the Countess of Desmond, O'Neil, O'Carroll, Lord Barrymore, the Earl of Bedford, the Earl of Desmond, &c. Another series of papers from 1655 to 1690, containing original letters of the Marquis of Ormonde, from Sir Edward Hyde, Peter Talbot, Sir H. de Vic, and others, with papers relating to various subjects, among them a declaration of Oliver Cromwell for a Council of State, dated 30th April 1653. Some of this series are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. ii. pp. 63-89.

Vol. 132, lettered "Pipe Rolls."

Collectanea ex Magnis Rotulis Pipe in Scaccario Domini Regis remanentibus. Per Rogerum Dodsworth, Eboracensem, 1648.

"Incipit annus quintus Regis Stephani Rotulo Pipe." The volume contains 200 rolls, from 5 Stephen to 34 Hen. II.

This volume, as well as the five which follow (132–137), is the work of the well-known antiquarian and collector, Roger Dodsworth.

Vol. 133, lettered "Pipe Rolls," II.

The volume contains 119 rolls, beginning with the 1 Rich. I. and extending to the 9 Rich. II.

Vol. 134, lettered "Pipe Rolls."

The rolls in this volume, 245 in number, extend from the 1st to the 17th year of King John.

Vol. 135, lettered "Pipe Rolls."

Containing 434 rolls of Henry III. The rolls of the 1st year of Henry III.'s reign are wanting, the series beginning with the 2nd and ending with the 56th Henry III.

Vol. 136, lettered "Pipe Rolls."

The volume contains 188 pages, and comprises the rolls from 1 Edward I. to 30 Edward I.

Vol. 137, lettered "Pipe Rolls, VI."

The rolls contained in this volume fill 206 pages, and range between 13 Edward II. and 14 Edward III.

Vol. 138, lettered "Gascon and French Rolls."

The original of the collection published by Carte at Paris in 1743, under the title, "Catalogue des Rolles Gascons, Normans, et Francais conservés dans les archives de "la Tour le Londres, tiré d'apres celui du Garde des dites Archives." The volume contains 700 pages, and embraces the period from 13 Edw. I. to 51 Edw. III.

---

[1] At this point in Messrs. Hardy and Brewer's catalogue of the Carte MSS. occurs an entry:—

"MS. marked "DDDD," folio, consisting of two volumes.

"Catalogue des Poinçons et des Carrés de Medailles et de Jettons dans le Bureau de Medailles "du Roy de France."

This entry was made on the faith of the old and, so far as it extends, very valuable catalogue of the Carte MSS. (one vol., folio) preserved in the Bodleian Library. But the volumes no longer exist in the Bodleian, nor is there any record of their having at any time been in that library. We have therefore omitted this notice.

[2] This volume is described by Messrs. Hardy and Brewer as a quarto, and is found in their report as the first of the quarto series.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 139, lettered "Historical Notes, vol. I."

This singularly laborious volume, and the two which immediately succeed it, formed part of Carte's preparatory studies for his History of England. They are arranged in the order of years, and were intended as a permanent receptacle for the historical notes and memoranda to be collected in the course of the author's reading, distributed in their proper chronological order, and thus ready to his hand for use in their several places in the history. The memoranda, as might be expected, occur irregularly, some years being almost blank, and others crowded with notes.

The first volume (139) comprises the years 1065–1335.

Vol. 140, lettered "Historical Notes, II."

This volume contains the years 1304–1624.

Vol. 141, lettered "Historical Notes, III."

Historical notes upon the years 1625–1653.

Vol. 142.

Ormonde's letters of the years 1649–1650.

Vol. 143.

Letters of 1662–1664.

Vol. 144.

Letters of 1662–1669.

Vol. 145.

Letters of 1664–1668.

Vol. 146.

Letters of 1677–1680.

Vol. 147.

Letters of 1667–1684.

Vol. 148, lettered "Carte's Life of Ormonde, vol. 2."

The Autograph MS. (fair copy) of the Life of James Duke of Ormonde, vol. i.

Vol. 149.

MS. of "Carte's Life of Ormonde," vol. ii.

Vol. 150.

MS. of "Carte's Life of Ormonde," vol. iii.

Vol. 151.

MS. of "Carte's Life of Ormonde," vol. iv.

Vol. 152.

MS. Journal of the Houses of Lords and Commons, from 8th July to 19th September 1645.

Vol. 153.

Benedictionarius Roberti Gemmeticensis (Jumiege). The service-book entitled Benedictional, or Benedictionary, of Robert of Jumiege [Gemmeticum]. It is a modern transcript. The name Gemmeticensis, although lettered upon the back of the volume, is not found in the title. But the "Robert" who was the author of this Benedictional was a monk of the Abbey of Jumiege, and was Archbishop of Canterbury in 1050.

Vol. 154, folio; rebound (no old title); entitled "Army Orders in Ireland, 1660, and Irish Petitions, 1665–1669."

The Army Orders commence 16th July 1660, and end 7th December 1660.

The Petitions begin 23rd November 1665, and end 29th July 1669.

Each Petition has its answer at the end of it. There is an alphabetical list of the Petitions.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 155, small folio; rebound (no old title); entitled "Irish Petitions, 1648–9."

Commences 9th March 1648, ends 28th May 1649; with an alphabetical index. Each Petition has its answer annexed.

Vol. 156, small folio; rebound (no old title); entitled "Irish Petitions, 1649–50."

Commences 8th August 1649, ends 8th March 1649–50; with an alphabetical index. Each Petition has its answer annexed.

Vol. 157, folio; rebound (no old title); entitled "Irish Petitions, 1650."

Commences 12th March 1649–50, ends 25th October 1650. Each Petition has its answer annexed. An alphabetical index of Petitions at the beginning and another at the end.

Vol. 158, folio; rebound (no old title); entitled "Irish Warrants and Petitions, 1660–1662."

Commences 4th January 1660, to 10th March 166$\frac{1}{2}$. The Warrants are by the Lords Justices; with an alphabetical index of persons.

Vol. 159, folio; rebound (no old title); entitled "Irish Petitions, 1662–1664."

The Warrants commence 31st March 1662, and end 31st July 1662; they are by the Lords Justices.

The Petitions commence 28th August 1663, and end 27th April 1664. Each Petition has its answer annexed.

There is an alphabetical index of persons to the volume.

Vol. 160, folio; rebound (no old mark); "Irish Warrants and Petitions, 1668–1687."

Commencing 26th May 1668, and ending 22nd December 1685; followed by Warrants from the Lord of the Regality of Tipperary, 10th May 1687.

Vol. 161, folio; rebound (no old title); entitled "Irish Petitions, 1682–1685; and Portsmouth Prize Office, 1672–1673."

Petitions to the King (relative to Ireland), 21st June 1682 to 12th July 1684, and one to the Duke of Ormonde, 6th February 1685.

At the end of the volume are some accounts belonging to the Portsmouth Prize Office, which are followed by Petitions to James Duke of Ormonde relative to the County Palatine of Tipperary, from 11th August 1683 to 27th June 1684; followed by a list of Final Orders signed in England in 1684.

Vol. 162, small folio; rebound; old mark "B, Aug. 1, 1649, Nov. 1650;" entitled "Warrants by the Duke of Ormonde, Aug. 1649—Nov. 1650."

Commence 6th August 1649, end 20th October 1650; with an alphabetical index at the end.

Vol. 163, small folio; rebound (no old mark); "Warrants by Ormonde and Ossory, 1660–1669."

Commence 26th June 1660, end 15th September 1669; with an alphabetical index at the end.

Vol. 164, rebound, not numbered; old title "C, 1645–6–7."

Warrants by the Duke of Ormonde, October 1645 to 13th May 1647.

Vol. 165, large folio; rebound (no old title); "Irish Warrants, 1662–1666."

Commence 8th March 1661, and end 14th May 1666; they are by the Lord Lieutenant-General of Ireland.

Index of persons at the end.

Vol. 166, small folio; rebound (no old mark); "Irish Grants, 1685."

Fiants for grants, commencing 6th April 1685, and ending 20th November 1685.

Vol. 167, folio; rebound (no old title); entitled "Irish Grants, 1685."

Fiats or Fiants for Grants in 1685.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 168, folio; rebound (no old title); "Letters of Lord Arran, 1682-3."

Commence 2nd May 1682, end 18th August 1683; nearly all addressed to the Lord-Lieutenant; some few to the Lords of the Treasury on public business.

Vol. 169, folio; rebound (no old title); "Letters of Lord Arran, 1683-4."

They commence 21st August 1683, and end 16th July 1684. They are nearly all addressed to the Lord-Lieutenant on public business.

Vol. 170, folio; rebound; old mark "110;" entitled "Letters of the Lords Justices of Ireland, 1693 to 1695."

Commence 12th August 1693, and end 29th January 169⅘. The Lords Justices were "Capell, Cyril Wich, W. Duncombe."

Vol. 171, small folio; rebound (no old mark); "Irish Wool Licences, 1677-9."

Licences for transporting wool into England from 29th August 1677 to 14th October 1679; and an account of the money received by the Lord-Lieutenant for such Licences.

Vol. 172, folio; rebound (no old title); entitled "De præsulibus Hiberniæ, Lynch."

715 pages; imperfect at the end.

Vol. 173, folio; rebound, not numbered; entitled "Irish Ecclesiastical Preferments, 1662-1669."

Significations, Licences, Presentations to Churches, and Nominations to Bishopries. Commences 12th August 1662, and ends 10th August 1669, during the Lord-Lieutenancy of Ormonde and Ossory.

Vol. 174, small folio; rebound (no old mark); "Lambarde's Archelon, 1591."

A manuscript of the 16th century.

Vol. 175, folio; rebound (no old mark).

Relative to Carte's proposal for publishing a History of England, with the original list of subscribers, &c.

Vol. 176, marked "A;" rebound, and lettered "Documents relating to Ireland." It is not numbered.

This volume contains Depositions, Petitions, Letters, Orders of the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland; Articles with the Irish Rebels for continuing the Cessation of Arms from time to time; Commissions from the Marquis of Ormonde; and other papers relating to Irish matters, dated from 1428 to 1650. They are nearly all original, and on parchment.

Vol. 177, large folio; rebound (no old mark); "Tabula Cartarum Dunelmensium."

A manuscript on vellum, 13th century, or perhaps 14th century, beginning (rubric): "Hec est Tabula Bullarum Papalium." It contains 78 pages, and two leaves marked "60" and "69."

Vol. 178, folio.

A manuscript volume containing a few pages of a Treatise on Elementary Geometry, together with a portion of a Treatise on Fortification.

Vol. 179, large folio, in old vellum binding; "Ireland Establishment, 1682, Tanger included."

It contains the sign-manual of Charles II., and also the signatures of L. Jenkins, Rochester, J. Ernle, Ed. Dering, J. Godolphin, and Ste. Fox on each page. It is a list of all payments to be made for civil affairs; to begin from the Christmas of 1682; payments for military affairs from 25th December 1682, with the signatures of the King and others above mentioned on every page. Also, an establishment for Tanger, signed as above. Also, an establishment for ships to attend the service of Ireland and Tanger, signed as above. Also, an establishment or list, containing pensions paid out of the revenue of Ireland, signed as above.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 180, folio, lettered "Nairne's Papers," vol. i.

This volume and volume 181, together with the quarto volumes to be described later, contain the well-known collection of Stuart Papers left by David Nairne, who held the post of Under Secretary to three successive ministers of the exiled Stuart Kings, down to the year 1713. They came into Carte's possession a short time before his death, and were intended by him to be used in the Revolution period of his History of England.

A very brief notice of these volumes was printed in the Appendix of MacPherson's Original Papers containing the secret history of Great Britain from the Restoration to the Accession of the House of Hanover. We shall enumerate the principal papers contained in the several volumes.

The papers in volume 180 range from 1690 to 1739. They comprise papers relating to the life and virtues of James II. Memorial on the conspiracy of Simon Frazer. Correspondence of Sir Toby Bourke with Lord Caryll during his embassy at Madrid in 1705–6. Letters of the Earl of Middleton, M. de Torcy, Marechal Villars. Manifestos of James III. Petitions. Copies of speeches in the Parliament of England. Memoranda of public events. Letters of Lord Lovat, and papers regarding him. Account of Sir William Gedolphin's legacies to the Colleges of St. Omer and Liege. Papers relating to Scotch colleges abroad, and to the penal laws affecting Catholics. Petitions and claims of Jacobite exiles. Summons of privy councillors to be present at the accouchement of the Queen at St. Germains. Account of a conspiracy against William III., and of various indictments and trials for treason. Acts of Parliament, proclamations, addresses, and other similar papers, printed and MS.

Vol. 181, folio, lettered "Nairne's Papers, vol. ii."

The contents of this volume relate almost exclusively to the years from the Revolution down to the death of James II., but have been already turned to account by the historians of the period.

They comprise Army lists and Military orders; journals and relations concerning James II.'s proceedings in Ireland; the siege of Londonderry, and other incidents of the Irish war; similar narrations of affairs in Scotland. Letters of Lord Melfort, his credentials as envoy to the Court of Rome, his instructions and proceedings, together with his letter of recall. James II.'s manifestos to the people of England and Scotland, and letters to the Parliament. Projects of a descent on the coast of England. Correspondence and negociations with Lewis XIV. Memoirs and reports on public affairs in England, and on the affairs and prospects of James II. Correspondence regarding the peace of Ryswick; protestation of James II., and other papers relating to that treaty. Correspondence about the dowry of the Queen of James II. Papers relating to the death of James II. Draft of the will of James III., and his son's release to the Queen's mother, as executrix of will of James II. There are also a few printed papers.

Vol. 182, folio.

An English translation, with remarks, of Cicero's Letters, Books IX.–XV.

Vol. 183, folio.

The first three books of a work entitled "Memoires Historiques de l'Irlande." It comes down to the fifth century.

Vols. 184–189, folio.

Six volumes of the MS. of Carte's "History of England."

Vol. 190, folio.

Duplicate of a portion of the MS. of Carte's "Life of Ormonde" and "History of England."

Vols. 191, 192, folio.

Transcript of the Marquis de Feuquière's (Antoine du Pas) Treatise on the Art of war. "Memoires sur la Guerre (par M. le Marquis de Feuquière, Lieutenant-General "des Armées du Roi), contenant des Maximes et des Reflexions appuyées d'Exemples "sur toutes les Operations de l'Art Militaire, dans lesquelles on trouvera ce que s'est "passé de plus remarquable dans les Guerres que se sont faites depuis 1666 jusqu'en "1710." 2 vols.

Vol. 193, folio.

This volume contains "An Introduction to the History of the County Palatine and "Bishopric of Durham," in 102 pages, and a transcript of Aymon's (Jean) Actes des

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Synodes Nationaux des Eglises Reformées du Royaume de France." 2 vols., 4to. Published at the Hague in 1710.

Vol. 194, folio.

A collection of the various ciphers employed in the correspondence of the Duke of Ormonde.

Vol. 195, folio.

Historical and chronological notes, and extracts from books and MSS., made by Thos. Carte in preparation for his History of England, up to 1650 or thereabouts.

Vol. 196, folio.

Carte's autograph MS. of a letter in reply to the "Inquiry into the Share which "Charles I. had in the Transactions of the Earl of Glamorgan." Together with a fair transcript of about one half of the letter.

Vol. 197, folio.

A collection of miscellaneous fragments, containing a portion of the Translation of Cicero's Letters, copies of State Papers, letters, &c. &c.

Vol. 198, folio.

Miscellaneous papers, notes, and extracts, chiefly designed for the History of England. Many of the transcripts and notes are in the autograph of Thomas Carte.

Vol. 199, folio.

Fair copies of the Ormonde Correspondence, as prepared for publication in the Appendix of Carte's "Life of Ormonde" (the third volume), and also in his "Collection "of Original Papers concerning the Affairs of England from 1641 to 1660." 2 vols. 8vo. 1739.

Vol. 200, folio.

Proceedings of the Conference of the Houses of Lords and Commons regarding the Petition of Right, in the Parliament of 1628.

Vol. 201, folio.

A Treatise on the Military Art (imperfect).

Vol. 202, folio.

A Grammar of the French Language (imperfect).

Vol. 203, folio.

A thin folio containing "Claims on the Estate of the Duke of Ormonde from his "creditors after his attainder in 1715." These papers, although part of the Ormonde collection, relate not to the Great Duke of Ormonde, but to the second Duke, his grandson. There are thirty petitions (one of which is printed), and drafts of petitions, from the Duke's creditors on occasion of his attainder, after his flight to France on the accession of George I. Their chief interest is of a local character.

Vol. 204, folio.

A miscellaneous collection, but chiefly consisting of Ormonde documents, with some papers relating to Sir Leoline Jenkins, Secretary of State under James I., and founder of Jesus College, Oxford.

The principal contents are a Decree in Chancery in the matter of Sir Leoline Jenkins's bequests to Jesus College, Oxford, and to Cowbridge School, Glamorganshire; Sir Leoline Jenkins's will and codicils; order of the Supreme Council of Confederate Catholics for payment of certain sums; examination of Henry White, a priest, June 18, 1642, about the rebellion; do. regarding Richard Hope, of Westmeath, 1646; answer to complaints of grievances touching execution of the laws against Popish Recusants, Deprived Ministers, &c.; orders of the Supreme Council in the affair of John Hope and others; examination of John Smyth, of St. Johnston, Longford; elections and return of Knights of the Shire for Westmeath, and of Burgesses for the town of Fowre, Aug. 21, 1648; Depositions relating thereto; copy of the Duke of Ormonde's Act, and a series of inquisitions taken in the reigns of Elizabeth and James I.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 205, folio.

Inquisitions taken after the attainder of Lord Grey, Earl of Wilton, January 18, 1604, together with other papers relating to the family of Lord Grey of Wilton.

This volume doubtless formed part of the Huntingdon Collection, and was probably connected with the volume numbered 77, and already described.

Vol. 206, folio.

Miscellaneous papers and fragments, including Carte's Catalogue of the Percival Papers (1627–1640); Bishop South's sermon on Comprehension; and letters on various subjects of controversy.

Vol. 207, folio.

The contents of this volume are printed papers, chiefly Parliamentary Papers, relating to authors' copyright. They were probably collected by Carte, while he was occupied in devising means to frustrate a projected piratical edition of his "Life of "Ormonde," which was projected by certain Dublin publishers immediately after the completion of the work, but which was successfully resisted by Carte.

Quarto Series.

Vol. 208, 4to; lettered "Nairne's Papers.

[1692–1718.]

A considerable part of the contents of this volume consists of printed papers in English, French, Italian, and Latin. The manuscripts comprise the correspondence of the Earl of Middleton from 18 April 1698 to 26 July 1702; the letters of Sir John Lydert, envoy at Rome in 1692, to the Earl of Melfort; negotiations with Rome, partly on ecclesiastical affairs, as for example, the right of the Irish Franciscans to possession of the Abbey of Saint Isidore, the distribution of England into vicariates apostolic, the appointment of vicars apostolic for England, the recommendation of bishops to Irish sees; partly on the political prospects and pretensions of the Stuart family.

The correspondence regarding the persons proposed for Irish sees is curious, and it includes a list of the recently appointed occupants of several sees in 1694, with the dates of their nomination. There are also some papers relating to other colleges and convents abroad, at Antwerp, at Ghent, Brussels, and elsewhere. Several of the papers refer to the private and domestic affairs of the Chevalier, as a declaration as to the right of the King to certain "rents passed at the Hotel de Ville, Paris, in 1708;" an authority from the Chevalier to the Hon. James Murray to open letters addressed to him, and to act as his proxy in the solemnization of the marriage with the Princess Clementina Sobieski, dated 2 Feb. 1719. A medical report by Dr. Wood regarding the illness of the Princess, with the criticism of his treatment of her by certain French physicians, and Dr. Wood's replies thereto. Some relate to passing events in England and Ireland. The latter part of the volume consists entirely of printed papers.

Vol. 209, 4to; lettered "Nairne's Papers."

[1689–1706.]

The second of the quarto volumes of the Nairne's series. Its principal contents are papers relating to the naturalization of the Duke of Berwick in France; credentials and instructions of James Porter as envoy to the Pope; letters and reports on occurrences during the stay of James II. in Ireland; plans and projects for a descent on Scotland and on England; an interesting correspondence of Cardinal Howard from Rome, 23 Dec. 1692–1 Sept. 1693; letters and instructions on the subject of non-jurors and other secret instructions, 1692–3. Letters of Bishop Ellis from Rome, 1694, to the King, to Lord Melfort, and to Secretary Carey; the documents relating to the claims of the Prince of Orange and to the Hanoverian succession. Letters of Lord Melfort and the Earl of Perth, addressed to Nairne in 1692 and 1695. Papers on the subject of the Queen's dowry, and on an amnesty. List of the Queen's charities. Constable's narrative of Charras' alleged offer to assassinate the Prince of Orange. News letters. Instructions to secret agents in England. The volume ends with Sir Toby Bourke's letters during his extraordinary mission to the King of Spain, 15 May 1705–19 Oct. 1706.

Vol. 210, 4to; lettered "Nairne's Papers."

[1707–1716.]

The third volume of the quarto series is chiefly occupied with correspondence of the Earl of Middleton, and comprises an autograph letter to him from King James III.,

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

from the Earl of Perth, the Duc de Beauvilliers, Cardinal de Noailles, Sir William Ellis, and from various adherents of the Stuart family, Maxwell Bloomfield, Richard Barry, &c. There is a series of letters from Charles Booth, groom of the bedchamber, 16 May–8 Sept. 1710, detailing the King's campaign in Flanders under Marechal Villers.

The volume concludes with a number of printed papers, reports, narratives, Acts of Parliament, and other documents of but little historical interest.

Vol. 211, 4to; lettered "Nairne's Papers."

[1712–1719.]

The fourth of the quarto volumes contains letters and other documents relating to the years 1712–16. The first part of the volume is occupied with letters detailing the progress of events, addressed to Lord Middleton, Nairne, and others, by various correspondents, especially John Leninger, Mr. Plunkett (who writes under a variety of names, as Rogers, Thomson, &c.), Sheridan, Sir William Ellis, Clinch, Dicconson, Mrs. White, "Ned" Wingate, and others. There are also some letters from Irish officers in foreign service, Colonel O'Callaghan, Colonel Bourke, Major S. Simon O'Haugherne, complaining of ill usage from his Lieutenant-Colonel. Some of the correspondence is on the occasion of the Chevalier's withdrawal from France at the Peace. Among the writers are Marshal Villars, MM. de Puysieux, Sillery, de Thiborgeau, Cartigny, the Bishop of Toul, &c., and finally there is a considerable number of letters, some of them autograph, of the Chevalier himself, addressed to Lewis XIV., to the Duke of Lorraine, to Lord Drummond, the Earl of Breadalbane, to the Bishop of Edinburgh, and to Madame Royale on occasion of the death of Lewis XIV. Several of these letters, although wholly or in part autograph, were not sent to their destination.

Vol. 212, 4to; lettered "Nairne's Papers."

[1709–1713.]

The letters contained in the fifth volume of the quarto series of Nairne's Papers are exclusively copies. They are from Lord Middleton and Nairne to two agents in England named Abram and Berry, and range between 1709 and 1713. They relate almost altogether to political designs and intrigues on behalf of the Stuart family; and the style in which they are written may be said to be a sort of cipher, from the mysterious and allegorical language which they employ, and the covert allusions in which they abound. None of these letters relate in any way to Irish affairs.

Vol. 213, marked "A," 4to; rebound, but not numbered.

Original and holograph letters between the years 1650 and 1660, being the correspondence of the Marquis of Ormonde with Lady Ormonde, the Queen Mother, Sir Edward Hyde (Lord Chancellor), the Countess of Bristol, the Countess of Roscommon, Charlotte de Chata, Lady Diana de Moll, the Abbess of Gand, Cardinal de Retz, the Earl of Norwich, Lords Ossory, Byron, Digby, Jermyn, Crofts, Castlehaven, Mordant, and Inchiquin, M. de Schomberg, Dr. Barwick, Sir Edward Nicholas, Sir George Radcliffe, Sir G. Hamilton, Daniel O'Neil, Father Peter Talbot, Sir H. de Vic, and others. Some are in a cipher, which has been deciphered.

These letters relate to the affairs of Charles II. and his adherents till the time of his Restoration.

The volume also contains the following:

The Complaint of Sir G. Downing to the States General of Holland, that Charles Stuart and the Earl of Ormonde have been in their dominions, that Sir E. Hyde is at Breda, and Lord Taaffe, O'Niel, and other rebels at the Hague. Dated 10 Sept. 1658.

A paper containing the opinion of Cardinal de Retz as to the King's voyage to Spain.

Letters from the King to the Princess of Orange, the Queen to the King, Cardinal Mazarin to the King, and from the King to Turenne.

Memoranda sent to Mazarin.

Many of the above letters and papers are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," 8vo, vol. i. p. 365, and vol. ii. pp. 69–317.

Vol. 214, marked "B," 4to; rebound, but not numbered.

Original and holograph letters, chiefly to the Duke of Ormonde and his Secretary Sir George Lane, from Queen Catherine, the Dukes of York and Albemarle, the Prince of Orange, Lord Clarendon, the Earls of Devonshire, Pembroke, Litchfield, and Dover, Lords Strafford, Arran, Ardes, Aungier, Clancarrie, Ranelagh, and Dillon, M. de Caracena, Sir T. Wharton, Colonel Vere Cromwell, Mr. R. Bellings, and others mentioned in the account of the preceding volume. There are also a few from the

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Duke of Ormonde to several of the same persons. They relate to the important events of the period between March 1660 and December 1665—the King's Restoration and marriage, the Bill of Settlement for Ireland, the delivery of Dunkirk, &c. Some are in cipher. Interspersed among them are many papers relating to various subjects. The most important are the following:—Reasons of the Marquis of Ormonde for the King's stay at Breda. Clause for the Act of Oblivion. Paper of Lord Broghill and Sir G. Clotworthy, containing a proposition for the Settlement of Ireland. Grounds for suspecting the Irish of intending a fresh Rebellion. A Design for planting lands in Ireland. Prisoners in Dublin Castle for a Plot. The Discovery by Mr. Wyers of Blood's lurking. Account of suspected persons in King's County.

A few of the documents in this volume are printed in "Carte's Ormonde Papers," vol. ii. (8vo), pp. 319–343.

Vol. 215, marked "C," 4to; rebound, but not numbered.

Original and holograph letters between January 1664 and December 1668, chiefly addressed to Ormonde and Sir George Lane. They are from Archbishop Boyle, the Bishop of Killaloe, the Earls of St. Alban's, Burlington, and Falmouth, Lords Ossory, Fitzharding, Carlingford, Dungannon, and Kingston, Lady Clanricarde, Lady Thurles, Lady Clancartie, Sir A. Broderick, Colonel Cooke, and many of the persons already mentioned in the descriptions of the preceding volumes. They relate principally to Irish affairs. A few letters of intelligence from Brussels and Rome.

Vol. 216, marked "D," 4to; rebound, but not numbered.

Original and holograph letters, addressed for the most part to the Duke of Ormonde, and dated from March 1679 to May 1684. They are chiefly from the Earls of Arran and Rochester, Lady Mary Cavendish, Lords Longford, Hyde, Mountjoy, and Sunderland, Secretary Jenkins, Sir Robert Walsh, Sir William Stewart, Sir Cyril Wyche, Sir Robert Reading, Colonel Fitzpatrick, and W. Bridgman. They relate to public affairs: the marriage between Prince George of Denmark with Anne, daughter of the Duke of York; the Rye House Plot; the proceedings of the Duke of Monmouth; a French plot in Ireland; &c. &c. The following papers are interspersed:—A Proposition for the Settlement of French Protestants in Ireland. The Common Serjeant's Account of the Poll for a Lord Mayor. The Conditions on which the French King will accommodate his difference with the King of Spain. Abstract of the Revenue of Ireland. Petition of the Bishop of Downe to the Duke of Ormonde for a new licence of absence.

Vol. 217, marked "E," 4to; rebound, but not numbered.

Original letters and holographs, addressed chiefly to the Duke of Ormonde, from the same persons as in the last volume; with a few of the Duke's own letters to various persons. They are dated from May 1684 to January 1690, and relate to the affairs of England and Ireland: the Duke of Ormonde's removal from the office of Lieutenant-General; the Duke of Monmouth's Rebellion; Argyle's Rising in Scotland; the remodelling of the Irish Army by Tyrconnel; the presence of King James II. in Ireland, &c. &c. Letter from King James to the Lord Primate against duels. List of Officers dead or discharged, and of new ones put in. Certificate by Ormonde of the loyalty of Valentine Smith's father. Dr. Littleton's funeral sermon on the death of the Duke. An Essay written on the same event. A large number of letters from Lord Anglesea to Ormonde, dated from August 1662 to September 1668, and relating to the public affairs of that period—the Great Fire in London; the entrance of the Dutch Fleet into the Thames; the Peace with Holland; the Impeachment of Lord Clarendon, &c. &c. A few letters from Lords Clarendon and Ranelagh to the Duke and Duchess of Ormonde.

Vol. 218, marked "F," 4to; rebound, but not numbered.

Original letters and papers relating for the most part to the fiscal matters of Ireland between the years 1662 and 1687. The letters generally are addressed to the Duke of Ormonde, from the Earls of Southampton and Longford, Lords Aungier and Ranelagh, Sir Charles Meredith, Sir J. Temple, Lord Chief Justice Keating, T. Sheridan, Sir R. Southwell, and others; with Ormonde's letters to many of the same persons.

Vol. 219, marked "G 1," 4to; rebound, but not numbered.

Original letters and copies of letters from Ormonde, dated from 1660 to 1688, to the following persons:—Mons. de Witt, Lady Clanricarde, M. de Bonterville, the Duchess de Chastillon, Lord Montrath, Count de Fuensaldanna, the Earl of St. Alban's, Prince de Ligne, the Lords Justices of Ireland, Lord Clanricarde, Lord Clancarty,

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Mr. O'Neil, King Charles II., Lord Chancellor Clarendon, the Archbishop of Dublin, the Marquis de Traisny, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, the Lord Primate, the Countess Dowager of Devon, Lord Keeper Bridgman, the Marquis of Worcester, the Bishop of Meath, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, Sir T. Wharton, Lord Hanelagh, Lord Strafford, Lord Arlington, Sir G. Lane, the Earl of Ossory, the Earl of Arran (a great number), Lord Devonshire, Lord Derby, Trinity College, Dublin, the Duke of Grafton, and others. They relate mostly to public affairs. There are also a few letters from Sir George Lane and others.

Vol. 220, marked "G 2," 4to; in the original binding.[1]

Original letters and copies of letters from the Duke of Ormonde to the Earl of Arran and others, relating to Arran's public and private affairs, dated from 1st January 1684 to 2nd April 1687. Holograph letters from the Earl of Ossory to Ormonde, dated from 16th June 1664 to 18th March 1675.

Vol. 221, marked "G 3," 4to; in its original binding.

Original and holograph letters and copies of letters, addressed chiefly to the Duke of Ormonde, the Earl of Ossory, and Sir George Lane, between the years 1660 and 1684, from the Archbishop of Armagh (Bramhall), the Earl of Mount Alexander, Lord Arlington, Cardinal Barbarini, the Internuncio Vecchi, the Nuncio Rospighari, Sir H. Bennet, P. Walsh, Sir G. Rawden, Anthony Gernon, and others; they relate mostly to the Church and Sectaries in Ireland. There are also interspersed among the above a number of papers relating to various subjects. At the end are a number of Ormonde's own letters to various persons.

Vol. 222, marked "H," 4to; in original binding, half calf, marble.

A valuable collection of news letters, dated from 1662 to 1684, and relating to occurrences both at home and abroad. A list of these papers has been made, but it is too long to be inserted here.

Vol. 223, marked "I," 4to; in the old half-binding.

Domestic letters to the first Earl of Sandwich (1662–1667) from W. Montague, Abbot of St. Martin's, chiefly about the education and travels of Edward Lord Hinchinbrok, son of Lord Sandwich; from Mons. de Jacquières and Mons. de Prau, Lord Sandwich's son's preceptors; and from Lord Hinchinbrok while on his travels. Also letters from Lord Sandwich, when at Madrid, to his son, from Lady Sandwich to her husband and son, from Edward Montague to his uncle (1643), from the Countess of Rutland to Colonel Montague (1651), from Lady Jemima Montague to her father (1661), from Lord Crewe (1662), Lady Burlington, and Lady Jemima Carteret. Letters and orders from Colonel Montague relative to naval affairs; letters from James Duke of York, from the Duke of Holstein (Christian Albert) to General Montague (1659), from the Duke of Manchester to Admiral Montague, from the Earl of Lauderdale, from Sir J. Lawson, Lord Arlington, &c.

Vol. 224, marked "K," 4to; in the original binding.

Miscellaneous papers referring to matters between the years 1561 and 1717, and consisting principally of extracts from printed books on ecclesiastical matters and history, biography and general history; with copies of letters and papers relative to Mary Queen of Scots.

Vol. 225, marked "L," 4to; in the original binding.

Extracts from letters to M. de Thou; extracts relative to Froissart, the Concilia, Grotius, &c.; and copies of letters and papers on various subjects of little or no value. There are some original letters on literary matters.

The contents refer to the period between 1581 and 1726.

Vol. 226, marked "M," 4to; in the original half-binding.

Private letters to Mr. T. Carte between 1728 and 1737, from M. de Targny, librarian to the King of France, M. de Camuzat, Abbé de Grosat, Père le Quien, M. d'Hozier, Abbé de Thou, M. Tabaric, M. Clairambault, Abbé des Fontaines, Père Montfaucon, M. Gibert, Abbé Granet, Mark Perrot, Mr. Woolhouse, Charles Count Richler (relative to a MS. of Froissart in la Bibliothèque de R. Elizabeth à Breslau), T. Salkeld, Marquis d'Aubaix, Abbé Macdonagh, De Vere, the Duke of Ormonde (in 1713), and others.

[1] This description of the condition of the 220th and following volumes is no longer accurate. They have all, with the exception of a few small volumes, been uniformly rebound.—C.W.B., J.P.P.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 227, marked "N," 4to; in the original half-binding.

Private letters to Mr. T. Carte, from 1728 to 1736, very characteristic of their writers, such as those from T. Sheridan and T. Hearne. Notes of manuscripts borrowed by Carte.

Vol. 228, marked "O," 4to; in the original half-binding.

In bad condition, nearly all the papers loose.

It embraces the period from 1625 to 1701, and contains the following papers:—News letters to Lord Wharton, 1666–1701. Petitions and Reports concerning Lord and Lady Claneboy, in Cromwell's time. Papers relating to Lord Wharton's committal to the Tower, &c. A Bill of Mortality, 1625, from 21 April to 15 Dec.: of all diseases, 49,881; of the plague, 35,283. Dangerfield's Discovery of a Plot for assassinating the King, 1679. Taft's Narrative of the Lancashire Plot in 1695. Papers relating to the Huntingdon Family.

Vol. 229, marked "P," 4to; in the original half-binding.

It contains the following pamphlets in manuscript:—

1. The Improvement of Ireland; pp. 1–61.
2. The Title of Protestants to Lands in Ireland; pp. 1–45.
3. A letter on the Act of Repeal; pp. 1–30.
4. State of the Nation in 1712.
5. The Horrid Injustices done by Protestants since the Beginning of the Pretended Reformation in England unto the Catholics of Ireland: taken chiefly out of that Author called a Lover of his King and Country, and printed in the year 1695; pp. 1–50.
6. The State of Ireland in brief, from the 14 last years of Queen Elizabeth's reign unto the year 1703; pp. 1–30.
7. A Speech, before Justice sitting in her Tribunal, against the Breach of Public Faith which is resolved upon by the present Parliament, or Assembly of the Protestant States of Ireland in this year 1704, to the destruction of the Catholics of that kingdom; pp. 1–43.
8. For the Reinthroned King, a Method of governing England, Ireland, and Scotland; pp. 1–4.
9. A Light to the Blind, whereby they may see the Dethronement of James the Second, King of England, with a brief Narrative of his War in Ireland, and of the War between the Emperor and the King of France for the Crown of Spain; pp. 1–740.

Vol. 230, marked "Q," 4to; in the original half-binding.

A portion of "An Enquiry into the Ancient and Present State of the County "Palatine of Durham," pp. 1–24; a very scarce tract. Also a miscellaneous collection of letters to Carte on literary matters, and extracts made by him for his History of England, with notices of manuscripts in the Duchy of Lancaster Office.

Vol. 231, marked "R," 4to; in the original binding; in a very dilapidated state.

Extracts from various authors by J. Carte; letters and anecdotes by him.

Vol. 232, marked "S," 4to; in the original half-binding.

Original letters and papers, and copies of letters and papers, between the years 1597 and 1741, chiefly relating to Ireland. The letters are mostly from and to the Duke of Ormonde.

N.B. A number of letters to T. Carte seem to have been removed from this volume.

Vol. 233, marked "T," 4to; in the original rough binding.

"A la main" news letters to Lord Wharton, from July 1696 to August 1698. Letters from the Duke of Shrewsbury, Lord Somers, the Archbishop of York, Lord Halifax, Lord Cowper, and others, to Lord Wharton. Papers between 1693 and 1720. There are also two letters to Archbishop Sancroft. The above form a portion of the Wharton Papers.

Vol. 234, marked "U," 4to; in the original rough binding.

This volume is in a very dilapidated state. Several letters have been removed from it, as they related to the private affairs of T. Carte and his family. It is a sort of common-place book, containing extracts and papers relating to matters between

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

1306 and 1738. Amongst other papers there is a petition from the Common Council of London to Parliament against the South Sea Directors.

Vol. 235, marked "V," 4to; in the original rough binding.

It contains only extracts by T. Carte from printed books, chiefly relating to ecclesiastical and controversial matters.

Vol. 236, marked "W," 4to; in parchment covers, unbound.

Abbé de St. Pierre's "Abregé du Projet de Paix perpetuelle inventé par Henri IV., "apprové par la Reine Elizabeth et Jaques I., par les Republiques et divers Poten- "tats de l'Europe, appropriè à l'Etat present des Affaires generales de l'Europe."

Vol. 237, marked "X," 4to; no covers.

A copybook of letters, chiefly from Lord Middleton, from April 1693 to March 1695.

Vol. 238, marked "Y," 4to; in the original binding in paper.

Copies of letters from 1703 to 1712, principally from Lord Middleton, in French; with explanations of several ciphers. They are of no great public interest.

Vol. 239, marked "Z," 4to; in the old binding.

News letters sent through Mr. James Vernon to Lord Wharton, extracts from printed books, lists of manuscripts in libraries at Rome and in France, and other miscellaneous papers relating to matters between the years 1445 and 1730. Among the lists of manuscripts there are references to Relations of Embassies to England from Italy in 1551 and 1557; also to the "Historia Reductionis Normanniæ per Car. "VIII., par R. Blondel" (MS. Reg. 935, and MS. Baluz, 428). "Relacion del am- "bassade de Loys de Bourbon, etc. en Aug^re vers le Roy H. 6," July 1445 (MS. Baluz, 22, p. 171).

Vol. 240, marked "AA," 4to; in the original binding.

Chiefly copies of printed books and some original letters to T. Carte on literary subjects, some from the Earl of Orrery, the Bishop of Worcester, Lord Ross, &c. The period embraced is between 1660 and 1742.

Vol. 241, marked "BB," 4to; old binding.

History of the Dukes of Normandy and the Conquest of England in French verse, by Robert Wace, entitled "Le Roman de Rou et des Dues de Normandie." The MSS. of M. du Chesne, MS. Bibl. Reg. (at Paris) 4 C. 9, and MS. Bibl. du Roy Cotté, 7567, collated.

Vol. 242, marked "CC," 4to; in the old binding.

Miscellaneous papers, consisting of extracts from printed books, notes of books and manuscripts, &c., by J., S., and T. Carte, referring to matters between 17 Edw. II. and their own times. There is also the correspondence of S. Carte with Edmund, Bishop of Lincoln, 1720–1725; with other private papers of S. Carte.

Vol. 243, marked "CC," 4to; rebound, but not numbered.

Original and holograph letters, from January 1669 to January 1681, chiefly addressed to the Duke of Ormonde, from the King, the Privy Council, the Earls of Essex, Derby, Strafford, Clanricarde, and Mount Alexander, Sir George Lane, Sir James Cuffe, Sir Maurice Eustace, R. Bellings, and others; they relate principally to Irish affairs. Articles against the Duke of Ormonde, obtained from Mr. Offley, secretary to Sir T. Littleton's cabal. A caveat to the Clerk of the Signet to let no letter pass to Sir George Lane's prejudice, with respect to his salaries as Secretary of State and War. Information about the Popish Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction. Will of Peter Talbot, Archbishop of Dublin. Speeches of Lawrence Hill and Green at Tyburn. Copy of the King's letter to the Duke of York, sending him abroad. Letters from the Earl of Longford to the Earl of Arran.

Vol. 244, marked "DD," 4to; in the original binding.

Private letters and papers of S., J., and T. Carte, relative to matters from the reign of Henry III. to 1744. Letters from Mr. Mount Wood (1709–1719). Bishop Chandler to S. Carte, and from the Earl of Shrewsbury to Earl Wharton.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 245, marked "EE," 4to.

A transcript of Bacon's "Maxims of Law."
It consists of 82 leaves, and is probably a contemporary transcript.

Vol. 246, marked "FF," 4to.

A thin volume containing a transcript of a treatise in Italian, entitled "Arcani "svelati di tutti li Principi d'Italia con la Relatione del loro Stato e Governo Politico "dall' Anno 1665."

Vol. 247, marked "GG," 4to.

A similar volume containing a transcript of a treatise in Italian, entitled "Relatione "della corte di Germania del Cav. Battista Nani, Ambasciatore per la Serenissima "Republica Veneta appresso la Maestàe di Leopoldo Primo."

Vol. 248, marked "HH," 4to.

Transcript of Heylin's "Helps to English History."

Vol. 249, 4to.

Manuscript of Mr. Samuel Carte's "Treatise on the Steps and Process of a Cause "in the Spiritual Courts." Rev. Samuel Carte was the father of Thomas Carte, and many of his MSS. passed into the latter's hands.]

Vol. 250, marked "KK," 4to; without covers.

A common-place book of Samuel Carte, father of Thomas Carte, containing extracts from various authors.

Vol. 251, marked "NN," 4to.

Manuscript of a treatise, entitled "Chronological Account of extraordinary Events "in all Parts of the World, from the earliest Times to the beginning of 1700."
This MS. also is by Rev. Samuel Carte. It is a thick volume, not paged and not following the order of time. It is of the same miscellaneous character as the volumes already noticed.

Vol. 252, 4to.

A manuscript "Index to British Topography and History, with an Alphabetical "Index of Saints."
The volume is lettered on the back as by Samuel Carte; but it is in the handwriting of Thomas Carte, and was manifestly prepared as an alphabetical common-place book of materials for Carte's History of England. It contains 238 pages, but is evidently incomplete.

Vol. 253, marked "OO," 4to.

A manuscript of an Exposition of the Catechism by Thomas Carte. The volume also contains copies of sermons, and of theological and philosophical essays, by the same author. It contains 300 pages.]

Vol. 254, marked "RR," 4to; unbound.

A common-place book of Carte's.

Vol. 255, marked "SS," 4to; in old vellum covers.

A manuscript of Sir W. Dugdale, containing extracts from printed books, the Patent and Close Rolls, &c.; with lists of the Officers of State in England (some of their arms pricked).

Vol. 256, marked "XX," 4to.

A letter-book containing copies of the Letters of the Earl of Middleton.
This volume belongs to the Nairne series, and might more conveniently have followed volume 212 in the numeration. The letters are all dated from St. Germains, and range from 16th April 1693 to 28th March 1695. They relate exclusively to the affairs of James II.

Vols. 257 and 258, quarto; lettered "Lettere del Cardinal Gualterio."

These volumes also formed a portion of the Nairne Papers, and contain the correspondence of Cardinal Philip Anthony Gualterio, Bishop of Imola and agent of the Chevalier de St. Georges at Rome. The papers consist of letters, memorials, reports, negociations, and narratives, in Italian or French (chiefly the former); the letters being addressed to the Pope, to the Chevalier, to the ex-Queen, and a still larger proportion to Nairne. Those addressed to the Pope are principally on the condition of

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Catholics in England, the oaths of allegiance, and other Catholic affairs. The other letters for the most part relate to projects for the restoration of the King, and negociations for that end with Spain, Rome, and private individuals.

In some of the letters a sort of cipher is affected, by the use of private names and designations; but in most cases the explanation is supplied or is easily discoverable.

The first of the two volumes embraces the years 1716–17; the second those of 1718–19.

Vol. 259, 4to.

Transcript of an Italian MS. entitled "Guerre de Ludovico XIV., Re di Francia. "descritte da C. de Caignou." The history is divided into four books.

Vol. 260, 4to.

MS. of "The Full Answer to the Bystander," compared with the history of the "Life of James Duke of Ormonde," written by the same author; together with some instances of the fidelity of his quotations in the Full Answer from the Journals of the House of Commons, particularly with regard to the charges of the Dutch in the expedition for England in 1688, in the account of which he has given the world a bill of millions sterling for florins; and a comparison of his representation of some remarkable facts with those in other writers unsuspected of any prejudice to the memory of King Charles II.

This is a criticism of Carte's reply, published in 1742, to the strictures on his "Life of Ormonde" contained in a work entitled "A Letter to a Bystander," by Corbyn Morris, Esq. The volume also contains letters from the Rev. J. Boswell, vicar of Taunton, regarding subscriptions to the "Life of Ormonde."

Vol. 261, 4to.

Miscellaneous extracts, mainly historical, from books and MSS.

Some papers also refer to Carte's "History of England," and to the transactions connected with the subscriptions of public bodies and private personages in furtherance of that undertaking.

Vol. 262, 4to.

Documents and extracts, chiefly relating to French history and topography and to ecclesiastical history. Collected with a view to the History of England.

Vol. 263, 4to.

A most laborious collection of extracts, summaries, notes, and abstracts, chiefly in Carte's own hand, on miscellaneous historical subjects.

The latter portion of the volume is occupied with a copy, in Carte's hand, of the "Declaration of Hannah Lovel, of Bristol, about Christopher Lovel's being cured of "the king's-evil, A.D. 1716." This was doubtless intended as a vindication of the unlucky note in the first volume of the History of England, the appearance of which cost Carte the support of the main body of the original subscribers to the publication.

Vol. 264, 4to.

This curious volume contains a copy of the catalogue of M. Roettier's medals: as also a MS. entitled "Description of a most curious artificial Pocket-watch, whose "hand moves by sympathy, showing the exact time of the day; mounted and made "by John Carte, watch-maker. With a History of the Art of Clock-making."

Vol. 265, 4to.

A thin volume containing a collection of fragments, chiefly devotional and ascetical, notes for sermons, pious and polemical common-places, &c.

None of these papers are in the handwriting of Thomas Carte.

Vol. 266, 8vo.

Notes and extracts, in Thomas Carte's handwriting, made by him in preparation for his "Life of James Duke of Ormonde," and for other intended works.

Vol. 267, 4to.

An alphabetical Glossary and Vocabulary, compiled by Thomas Carte, and designed to serve as an aid in his studies for his History of England.

Vol. 268, 12mo.

Abstracts of the Revenue in the reigns of Charles II. and James II.; with an Abstract of the Expenditure in the reign of James II.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. 269, 12mo.

A volume of Transcripts and Notes in the handwriting of Edward Lloyd, formerly keeper of the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford, viz., extracts from Kirkwood's "High-"land Rites and Customs;" a "Book of French Dialogues;" and miscellaneous translations from Gaelic and Welsh.

Vol. 270, 12mo.

MS. entitled "Remembrances for Order and Decency to be kept in the Upper House "of Parliament by the Lords, when His Majesty shall not be there."

Vol. 271, 12mo.

MS. Journal of a Voyage to the East Indies, Persia, &c., from the year 1626 to 1629.

Vol. 272, 16mo.

A Manuscript or Collection of Godly Prayers to be used before and after receiving the Sacrament. By a Person of Honour. Written by Benjamin Carpenter. 1621.]

It will be easily observed from this outline of the contents of the several volumes that, as the whole series now stands, with its modern numeration, the volumes of the various collections are by no means uniformly grouped together, much less that they follow each other in consecutive order. On the contrary, both in the original distribution of the volumes by Carte and in the recent re-binding of the collection, volumes of the same series are found widely separated from one another, and even papers which originally belonged to different collections are occasionally found in the same volume. In some cases it is extremely difficult, if not impossible, to determine with certainty the source from which the volumes came into the hands of the collector. The following classification, however, will, we think, be found sufficiently exact for all the purposes of historical inquiry. It is in part founded on the information furnished by Carte himself in the preface of his "Life of Ormonde," or his correspondence; partly on statements and allusions scattered through the documents themselves; partly, in fine, upon a comparison of the contents of the several volumes with the various literary undertakings in which Carte is known to have been engaged.

The whole may be roughly divided into two classes, original papers and transcripts or extracts.

Under the first head may be arranged seven principal collections—the Ormonde, the Fitzwilliam, the Chichester, the Sandwich, the Wharton, the Huntingdon, and the Nairne.

Under the second head we have distributed the volumes—being guided chiefly by their subjects—into nine series; viz., collections and extracts for the "Life of Ormonde," including transcripts of Dr. Williams's (of Cambridge) Papers on the affairs of Ireland; collections for the History of England; News Letters; collections for the edition of De Thou's "History of his Times;" printed papers and transcripts of books and manuscripts; manuscripts of Thomas Carte's own works, published or designed for publication; miscellaneous notes and extracts by Thomas Carte; common-place books of Thomas Carte, mainly historical; collections of Rev. Samuel Carte, father of Thomas Carte. With these may be joined Carte's Domestic Papers, including his Literary Correspondence.

The following table will serve to show the distribution under these heads of the several volumes of the Carte MSS. according to their present arrangement or distribution.

I.

ORIGINAL PAPERS.

(1.) Ormonde Papers.—Vols. 1–54; 59, 60; 63–66; 68–71; 118; 128; 130, 131; 142–147; 154–171; 173; 176; 179; 194; 203, 204; 213–221; 232; 243. —109 vols.

(2.) Fitzwilliam Papers.—Vols. 55–58.—4 vols.

(3.) Chichester Papers.—Vols. 61, 62.—2 vols.

(4.) Sandwich Papers.—Vols. 73–75; 223.—4 vols.

(5.) Wharton Papers.—Vols. 79–81; 103; 109; 117 (probably 113); 125 233; 239.—9 vols. (probably 10 vols.).

(6.) Huntingdon Papers.—Vols. 76–78; 205; 228.—5 vols.

(7.) Nairne Papers.—Vols. 180, 181; 208–212; 237, 238; 256–258.—12 vols.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

II.

Transcripts, Extracts, and Notes.

(1.) Transcripts, Extracts, and Notes made by Carte for his "Life of Ormonde," including copies of Dr. Williams's (of Cambridge) Papers on the Affairs of Ireland.—Vols. 67; 97; 99; 268.—4 vols.

(2.) Carte's Collection for his History of England.—Vols. 82–91; 93–95; 104–108; 110–112; 114; 119–121; 123, 124; 129; 152; 175; 198; 200; 224; 229, 230; 261, 262; 267; 270.—39 vols.

(3.) News Letters.—Vols. 72; 222.—2 vols.

(4.) Carte's Collection for the edition of De Thou's History of his Time.—Vols. 100, 101; 225, 226.—4 vols.

(5.) Printed Papers, and Transcripts of Books and MSS.—Vols. 115, 116; 122; 126, 127; 132–137; 153; 173; 174; 177, 178; 182, 183; 191–193; 197; 201, 202; 209; 236; 240, 241; 245–248; 255, 256; 259, 260; 264, 265; 269; 271, 272.—41 vols.

(6.) Manuscripts of Carte's Works.—Vols. 98; 138; 148–151; 184–190; 196; 199.—15 vols.

(7.) Notes and Extracts by Carte.—Vols. 92; 231; 234, 235; 242; 253; 266.—7 vols.

(8.) Common-place Books of Carte, mainly historical.—Vols. 120; 139–141; 195; 252; 254; 263.—8 vols.

(9.) Papers of Rev. Samuel Carte.—Vols. 249–251.—3 vols.

(10.) Domestic Papers, and Literary and Antiquarian Correspondence.—Vols. 227; 244.—2 vols.

It is only necessary to glance at this summary view of the Carte collection in order to see that our duties in respect of selecting official papers for transcription have lain entirely among the volumes enumerated in the first class, namely, the collections of original Papers. Even among these original collections it may be said that not a single paper has been ordered for transcription from the Sandwich, Huntingdon, or Nairne collections. The great sources have been the Fitzwilliam, the Chichester, the Wharton, the Sandwich, and, above all, the Ormonde collection.

We have thought it convenient to draw up a table exhibiting as well the number of papers selected for transcription from each volume as the special collection to which each of these volumes may be referred.

Table showing the Number of Papers selected for Transcription from the several Volumes, with the Collection to which each Volume is referred.

Volume.	Collection.	Number of Papers selected for Transcription.	Volume.	Collection.	Number of Papers selected for Transcription.
1	Ormonde collection	47	29	Ormonde collection	94
2	Do. do. -	56	30	Do. do. -	64
3	Do. do. -	55	31	Do. do. -	104
4	Do. do. -	65	32	Do. do. -	131
5	Do. do. -	79	33	Do. do. -	144
6	Do. do. -	69	34	Do. do. -	146
7	Do. do. -	62	35	Do. do. -	101
8	Do. do. -	44	36	Do. do. -	102
9	Do. do. -	103	37	Do. do. -	46
10	Do. do. -	89	38	Do. do. -	45
11	Do. do. -	44	39	Do. do. -	67
12	Do. do. -	54	40	Do. do. -	76
13	Do. do. -	102	41	Do. do. -	101
14	Do. do. -	59	42	Do. do. -	108
15	Do. do. -	153	43	Do. do. -	132
16	Do. do. -	126	44	Do. do. -	46
17	Do. do. -	146	45	Do. do. -	92
18	Do. do. -	151	46	Do. do. -	100
19	Do. do. -	102	47	Do. do. -	67
20	Do. do. -	161	48	Do. do. -	60
21	Do. do. -	96	49	Do. do. -	127
22	Do. do. -	204	50	Do. do. -	53
23	Do. do. -	257	51	Do. do. -	180
24	Do. do. -	230	52	Do. do. -	25
25	Do. do. -	264	53	Do. do. -	4
26	Do. do. -	243	55	Fitzwilliam collection.	113
27	Do. do. -	255
28	Do. do. -	209	56	Do. do. -	203

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Volume.	Collection.	Number of Papers selected for Transcription.	Volume.	Collection.	Number of Papers selected for Transcription.
57	Fitzwilliam collection.	111	146	Ormonde collection	26
58	Do. do. -	51	154	Do. do. -	32
59	Ormonde collection	7	155	Do. do. -	59
60	Do. do. -	88	156	Do. do. -	74
61	Chichester collection.	169	157	Do. do. -	44
62	Do. do. -	233	159	Do. do. -	98
63	Ormonde collection	2	160	Do. do. -	8
65	Do. do. -	5	161	Do. do. -	50
68	Do. do. -	1	162	Do. do. -	26
70	Do. do. -	3	163	Do. do. -	10
74	Sandwich collection	3	164	Do. do. -	28
80	Wharton collection	2	165	Do. do. -	25
103	Do. do. -	1	168	Do. do. -	14
113	Do. do. -	113	169	Do. do. -	5
130	Ormonde collection	2	214	Do. do. -	8
131	Do. do. -	63	215	Do. do. -	7
142	Do. do. -	65	219	Do. do. -	12
144	Do. do. -	104	221	Do. do. -	19
145	Do. do. -	37		Total -	7,897

Thus the total number of papers selected by us for transcription from the entire series is 7,897. It will be seen, however, that they are very unequally distributed among the collections. The Fitzwilliam supplies 477; the Chichester, 404; the Wharton (supposing that volume 113 is to be referred to that collection), 116; the Sandwich, 3; while the Ormonde Collection alone contributes no fewer than 6,897, or about six-sevenths of the entire number.

NOTICES of some of the more important VOLUMES of the ORMONDE COLLECTION, strictly so called.

From the above comparison it will be seen that the great mass of official papers relating to Ireland which have been selected by us, acting under your Lordship's instructions, for transcription, are drawn from the collection formed by Carte as the foundation of his Life of James, Duke of Ormonde. It has often been said that the history of the Life of the Duke of Ormonde is in effect the history of Ireland from the Rebellion to the Revolution.

(1.)—Ormonde Volumes chronologically arranged.

The Ormonde collection begins with documents, almost all copies, illustrative of the early history of the Butler family in Ireland, from the reign of Henry III. downwards. The original papers relating to Irish affairs may be said to commence with the government of Strafford. The most important of these early documents have been printed in the "Life of Ormonde," and need not be referred to by us.

The full interest of the collection begins with the second volume, which, with most startling and dramatic effect, opens with a proclamation from the Lord Justices, dated 23 October 1641 (the date of the discovery of the plot to surprise Dublin and seize the Castle), ordering, under penalty of death, that all strangers shall leave the city within an hour from the posting of the Proclamation. This startling paper is followed by a letter from the Lords Justices to Ormonde, then at his house in Carrick-on-Suir, summoning him to Dublin. From the date of this letter, 24 October 1641, Ormonde becomes in some sense the centre around which the various interests range themselves, whether in sympathy or in conflict. For although it was not till the 21st of January 1643–4 that he was sworn in as Lord Lieutenant, yet from the date of his appointment as Lieutenant-General of the Army in Ireland (11 Nov. 1641), his influence in public affairs, and especially in all that regarded the relations of political parties, was far greater than that of the Lords Justices, the nominal Governors of the kingdom. In all the early operations of the war—the advance of the insurgents upon Drogheda; Sir Charles Coote's expedition into Wicklow; Lord Mountgarrett's campaign in Munster; Lord Clanricarde's defensive position in Galway;—the original letters addressed to Ormonde by Sir Faithful Fortescue, Sir Henry Tichbourne, Sir Patrick Wemyss, Lord Moore, Sir Philip Percival, Lord Mountgarrett, Lord Muskerry, Lord Broghill, Lord Clanricarde, and many others, contain the minutest particulars, fresh from the very occurrences which they relate, and many of the original drafts of Ormonde's own letters or replies still remain to be confronted with these communications.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

The communications addressed to Ormonde during the period antecedent to his appointment as Lord Lieutenant derive special importance from the political position which he occupied. At that time he represented in Ireland, as will be seen in the third Part of this Report, a policy not alone independent of that of the Lords Justices, but directly antagonistic thereto.

From his appointment as Lord Lieutenant in January 1643–4, his correspondence becomes, almost down to the very end of his life, a record of the progress of public affairs in Ireland. From this date until his surrender of Dublin to the Parliament and withdrawal from Ireland, 28 July 1647, the sole direction of the Government was in his hands, and the papers still preserved contain the official record of his acts. During the year of his temporary exile in England and France, the letters addressed to him from his home correspondents, although not official, are of much interest; and those of the period between his return to Ireland, 29 September 1648, and his second flight on 11 December 1650, furnish a most curious picture of the mixed government which then existed in the country, and in which Ormonde held his authority in some sense in common with the body which, under the title of Commissioners of Trust, represented the Confederate Catholics. During the period of Ormonde's final struggle in Ireland and the triumph of the Parliamentary arms, every incident will be found detailed in this correspondence, day after day, with a vigour and a freshness beside which the most picturesque historical narrative might almost appear inanimate. We can follow every step of Cromwell's campaign in Munster, and of that of Coote and Venables in Leinster and Ulster; the defection from Ormonde to the Parliament of the Munster garrisons entrusted to Inchiquin's troops; the fall of Kilkenny; the retirement of Ormonde and the members of his Government into Connaught; the negociations with Cromwell for the retiring of the English regiments in Ormonde's service to their homes, as no longer trusted by the Irish after the betrayal by their comrades of so many garrisons to the Parliament; Ormonde's negociations with the Assembly of Notables met at Loughrea in November 1650, and his withdrawal upon their failure to France; then the almost hopeless warfare carried on by the Irish at the King's desire with the Parliament forces under Ireton in the year 1651, as a diversion to prevent Ireton's army from joining that campaign in England which ended in the final overthrow of the Royalists on 3rd September 1651, at Worcester.

Moreover, although Carte in his "Life of Ormonde" has given the outlines of this series of events, he has made it always subservient to the portrait of Ormonde, which was, of course, his main design. Consequently many very important papers are omitted in his narrative. Among the papers omitted by Carte which we have selected for transcription will be found the correspondence of Ormonde with the Marquis of Clanricarde, with Inchiquin, Castlehaven, Sir George Monroe, General Preston, Owen Roe O'Neil, Sir Phelim O'Neil, with Nicholas French, Roman Catholic Bishop of Ferns, Emer McMahon, Roman Catholic Bishop of Clogher, and various other leaders, besides his correspondence with the Commissioners of Trust, who were by the Peace of 1648 associated with him in the Government.

The series of Clanricarde's letters to Ormonde from 1641 to 1651 seems complete, and they are of the highest value. Those of Inchiquin display equal boldness and ability, and express his views with remarkable energy and clearness. In the period of the Republic and the Protectorate, the Ormonde papers contain nothing official, and whatever of historical value Ormonde's correspondence during his exile at this period possesses has been already turned to account by Carte in his collection of original papers, in two volumes 8vo. So far, therefore, as regards purely political interest, the papers of this period are of little importance, as Ormonde retired to France in December 1650, after resigning his powers to Clanricarde, who himself quitted Ireland in the spring of 1652. The number of official papers therefore in the collection during the Commonwealth era is comparatively very limited. They are confined to copies of the orders of the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland regulating the Marchioness of Ormonde's enjoyment of Dunmore House and portion of the Ormonde estates in the county of Kilkenny, during which period she was forbidden to correspond with her husband, as appears from her letter dated from Dunmore, 11th May 1660.

"My dear Lord (she writes), I believe it will seem strange to yon to receive an avowede address from me, whose misfortune has bene such, as besides by 8 years absence from you, it was made penable for me to write or reseve letters from you. Thus by the great and goode providence of God, the bondage under which the three Kingdoms as well as myself has suffered should be now by his mercy removedd, and our long wisht-for blessinge of the King's Restoration at the length be established to us, is such a motive of admiration and joy to all, and particularlie to mee, as is in expressible and hardly to be contagned within moderate bounds, sor as I suspect myself not to write sense." [1]

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

At the Restoration all the political interest of the Ormonde papers is renewed. Although Ormonde remained for the first two years at the Court of Whitehall as Lord Steward, the Duke of Albemarle and Lord Robartes being Lords Lieutenant, Mountrath and Orrery being Lords Justices, he was still the chief referee in all matters relating to Ireland; and in 1662 he himself came over as Lord Lieutenant thither, to superintend the passing and execution of the Act of Settlement.

The papers which passed between him and Sir Maurice Eustace, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, the Earl of Clarendon, Angiesea, Arlington, Orrery, the Commissioners for executing the Act of Settlement, and others, explain the struggles of the conflicting interests in the settlement of Ireland. Ormonde, in fact, was the centre to which the King, the adventurers and soldiers, the Protestant and Roman Catholic cavaliers who served the King in Ireland, the ancient native Irish proprietors, and the Commissioners of the Court of Claims themselves, had incessant recourse.

For by the last clause in the Act of Settlement, Ormonde and his Council were authorized to suspend the execution of the decrees of the Court of Claims, and retrench and disallow such of them as he might deem inconvenient for the general settlement intended by the Act. Hence may be formed some conception of the amount of public matter that came into discussion and correspondence.

To this are to be added papers relating to the many conspiracies and plots of "phanatiques, Papists, and sectaries" (to use the language of the time) that continued to occupy the Government during nearly all the period from the Restoration to the Revolution of 1688–9.

Ormonde was in truth himself almost the Government, so that it has been said that "the history of Ireland, from the recall of the Earl of Strafford (in 1640) to within "four months of the landing of William III. in England, is little less than the life of "this distinguished man"

During these years the actual insignia of office passed through various hands. Ormonde himself held the place of Lord Lieutenant from 1662 till 1669, being relieved at two intervals, in 1664 and 1668, by his son the Earl of Ossory as his Lord Deputy. In 1669 and 1670, the Earl of Berkeley and Lord Robartes held office successively for short periods. In 1671 the Lord Chancellor Boyle, Archbishop of Dublin, and Sir Arthur Forbes served as Lords Justices; and from 1672 to 1676 the Earl of Essex was Lord Lieutenant, with an interval in 1675, during which the Sword of State was held by the same Lords Justices. Ormonde returned in 1676 as Lord Lieutenant, and from that date, either by himself or by his second son, the Earl of Arran, as Lord Deputy, he continued to exercise vice-regal authority till the second year of James II. Even during the Lieutenancy of Lord Clarendon under the new King, Ormonde's connexion with Irish affairs continued with little alteration; nor was it until the total change of Irish policy which was inaugurated by Richard Talbot, the Duke of Tyrconnell, as Lord Lieutenant in 1686, that the veteran administrator, then drawing near the end of life as well as of public affairs, can be said to have ceased altogether to influence the course of political events in Ireland.

Of all these troubled and important years the volumes of the Ormonde papers, as far as volume 40 inclusively, may be regarded as the personal record, authentic in every particular, in great part strictly official, and arranged in exact chronological order.

(2.)—Ormonde Volumes not in chronological Sequence.

The volumes of the Ormonde series which follow the 40th, although they belong to the same period, are not arranged in the same chronological sequence. Some of them are put together without any clearly intelligible principle of connexion; but a considerable proportion are distributed into special collections consisting of particular classes of papers, or papers bearing on particular subjects.

Volumes 41–47 consist exclusively of royal letters written during the years 1660–1669. They bear mainly upon grants of offices, pensions, pardons, restitution of estates, and similar acts of royal prerogative. For the personal and family history of the period, and above all for the history of the practical working of the Restoration Settlement, these letters are of the very highest value; and we have felt that we could not better supply to your Lordship a means of testing the historical importance of the collection as a whole, than by laying before you as an appendix to this Report a catalogue and index of this entire series of King's letters.[2]

[1] Vol. XXI. p. 463.

[2] See Appendix.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Volume 44 is occupied with papers relating to the Settlement of Ireland; and vol. 45 with documents of great interest on the religious affairs of Ireland, as well of the Established Church as of the Roman Catholics, and the Presbyterians and Independents, of which a more particular account will be found in the Third Part of this Report.

Volume 46 contains a most important collection of letters addressed to Ormonde by Sir Henry Bennet, afterwards Lord Arlington, and 47 is occupied with a similar collection of letters, generally autographs and often wholly or partly in cipher, of Clarendon, Anglesea, Sir W. Temple, Sir Edward Nicholas, Sir W. Coventry, and others.

The four volumes 48–51 contain drafts or copies, very many autograph, of Ormonde's own letters, and in volume 50 is a collection of the various ciphers (with their respective keys) employed by Ormonde and his several correspondents.

Volumes 52, 53, and 54 are entirely occupied with letters and papers, including accounts and extracts from accounts, relating to the revenue of Ireland at different periods from 1641 to 1683.

Of the distribution of the Ormonde papers in the volumes which follow at intervals after the 54th, it is difficult to offer any intelligible explanation. It is not improbable that they were arranged by Carte in the order in which they came into his hands. Some of the volumes form series in themselves;—as the letters of Lords Ossory and Arran, which were addressed to Ormonde by his sons, during the periods of their tenure of the office of Lord Deputy in Ireland. Others are made up of his miscellaneous correspondence, originals or copies, in which the most important letters, and those from personages of the highest rank and gravest political complexion, are found side by side with the Court gossip of Jack Barry or the town and country news of Colonel Legg or Daniel O'Neil. Without entering into details, it will be enough to say that by far the most valuable and important portion of the later volumes are those now numbered 154–171, and again in the quarto series, 213–221.

In selecting papers for transcription from these, and indeed from all other parts of the collection, we have been careful to exclude from our lists, not only all those papers which have been published by Carte, but also all documents of whatever class which our knowledge of contemporary histories or collections enable us to recognise as already printed in a form accessible to the public.

We have also thought it in accordance with the spirit, if not the letter, of our instructions to exclude from our list of papers for transcription all documents which are marked "enrolled on the Patent Rolls of Ireland," and which thus are already accessible in the Rolls Office at Dublin.

We were more embarrassed by a doubt as to a numerous class of papers which are marked "entered at the signet office," and of which we believed that authentic copies must have been preserved. On making inquiry, however, we found that no such copies are deposited at the Public Record Office; and although it is not unlikely that copies of some of them, or at least a record of their purport, may be preserved at the Home Office, nevertheless, seeing that in any event it would be necessary to have one set of copies made for the Public Record Office of Dublin, we have thought it inexpedient to depart from your Lordship's general instructions. Accordingly we have directed two copies to be made even of the letters marked "entered at the "signet office."

(3.)—Ormonde's familiar Correspondence.

Among the mass of papers and correspondence which, as not being "official," do not fall within the terms of our commission, are the letters and correspondence of Ormonde with many friends whose care it seems to have been to keep him informed of occurrences at the Court or of the state of parties in Parliament.

They convey a lively image of the manners and events of the time. Colonel Daniel O'Neill, Colonel Edward Vernon, Colonel Legg, Colonel Cooke, and others detail some of the scandals of the day. Sir Robert Southwell, Sir William Temple, Sir George Lane, and others apprise him of the political occurrences at Whitehall, or describe practices and designs of the parties and the intrigues at Court or in Parliament from Oxford or Westminster. Many of these letters would be of more interest probably to general readers than many of the papers to be transcribed.

In a letter of Sir George Lane's to Ormonde, dated 29th December 1674, there is found an account of the death of the Earl of Clarendon at his place of exile in France, and as his latest biographer would seem to have been unable to obtain particulars of the last hours of this most distinguished statesman and historian, we venture to give it here, especially as the letter is not amongst those to be transcribed.

After referring to the Earl's death, Sir George Lane adds, "I find by Mr. Knight, "the chirurgeon, that upon the dissection of the deceased Earl, his body was found to "be the firmest he ever saw, noe corruption appearing in his interior partes or in his head,

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

" soe that his death was by all the dissectors attributed totally to his appoplexy; the last " fitt whereof was soe violent that his tongue being caught between his teeth they pierced " it thorough, insomuch as when he came to himself, as he did for a while before he died, " he could hardly make use of it for sorenesse, whereof he complained very much, but his " phisitians kept him in ignorance how it happened, least the knowledge of it should " administer discouragem[t] unto him. One passage I have heard is very extraordinary " and remarkable, which is that about a month before his death, writeing in his closet, his " pen fell suddenly out of his hand, and being in no discomposure at all, endeavouring " to resume it, he found himself for a good while unable; which they say he reflected " upon as an omen of the shortnesse of his life, and therefore from that moment neglected " all the concearns of this life, and betook himself to the serious thoughts of that which " is eternal." [1]

(4.)—Ormonde's Entry Books.

The volumes placed by Carte at the end of the folio series are Ormonde's Entry Books. There are six of the period before the Restoration, and fifteen subsequent to 1660.

Of his first Lieutenancy, which commenced in 1644 and ended by his surrender of Dublin to the Parliament in July 1647, there is only one volume, cxliv., endorsed " Warrants by the Duke of Ormonde, October 1645 to 13th May 1647." The absence of these public records of his administration may be accounted for by a memorandum of Sir Robert Southwell's in a paper entitled " Some loose hints about Ormonde."

These " hints " are apparently notes of conversations with the Duke, when Sir Robert Southwell was collecting materials for his life. The note is as follows :—

" Books, Acton.

" That when he came in 1646,[2] and fled thence, many of his Books of Entries were " then hid, and quick spoiled." [3]

Acton in Gloucestershire was the residence of Ormonde's uncle, Sir John Poyntz, his mother Lady Thurles being Poyntz's sister, and thither Ormonde retired after surrendering Dublin; but after some short stay there, having reason to fear a design of the Parliament for his arrest, he fled to France.

This volume, cxliv., contains for the most part entries of protections and passes given by Ormonde; of orders for quarters in the city of Dublin for persons of distinguished quality; of commissions granted on the concluding of the peace of 1646, to the commanding officers of regiments of foot and troops of horse levied by the Confederate Catholics in 1642, but now employed by the King; a few miscellaneous orders, and some Custodiams of Rebels' lands. During the earlier part of this period, there was a Cessation of Arms or Truce, which ended in a Peace proclaimed on 29th July 1646. But this Peace was almost instantly rejected by the Irish Clergy and the body of the people, as not securing the national liberties and religion, and the war was renewed by Owen O'Neil and General Preston marching on Dublin in October and November following.

The protections given during the cessation are curious as showing the kind of intercourse that prevailed between the Confederates and the King's representative in their respective quarters. The protections given after the breaking of the peace are, as in the case of Sir Henry Talbot of Templenge, to save the lives, dwellings, and goods of loyal Catholics from the natural fury of the King's army. The following extracts will serve as specimens of the entries :—

" S[r] Geo. Hamilton, Geo. Mathews.

" A warr[t] to the Cl'ke of the store to del[r] them 2 backs & 2 breasts of arms of proofe, taking their hands. Dated the 24th of August 1646." (clxiv. p. 248.)

" Lady Onora Bryan.

" A warr[t] to the Shirriffes to presse for her five horses w[th] carrs strudles and lead[rs] for carrying her goods to Tursey, shee paying them reasonable hyre. Dated the 20[th] October 1646." (clxiv. p. 299.)

" Daniell Kavanagh, James Enos.

" A pass for them to kill fowle for my Lo[rs] use in any parte of the country & to returne. Dated 8[r] 10[ber] 1643." (clxiv. p. 43.)

" Cormucke ô Gallaghan a pass for him to repaire into severall p[rts] of the North & to returne Dated 16[r] 8[ber] 1645.

" Patricke Warde imployed by Jacob Lambarte march[t] to Galway, a pass for him to pass & repass. Dated 16[r] 7[ber] 1645.

[1] xxxviii. 140. [2] Correctly 1647. [3] lxix. 13.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

" A warr[t] to the Lieutenant of the ordnance to cause to bee del[d] [to] Jo[n] Bartlett for the use of his Maj[ties] shipp the Swan, two demy culverin ship carriadges & as much timber or planckes as shall make three ship carriadges for demy culverin & saker. Dated 14° 8[ber] 1645.

" Wm. Fleming, a passe for him to carry l'res into some p[ts] of Munster not in the Lo[d] of Inchiquin's q'ters w[th]ont molestac'on. Dated the 16th of October 1645.

" Sr. Faythfull Fortescue, Kt.

" A warr[t] to Capt. Paine, Quartermaster Generall, to quarter him in the howse on the Merch[ts] Key wherein Henry Parry dwelt & now in the possession of John Loftus. Dated 18° 9[ber] 1645." (clxiv. p. 27.)

" S[r] Faithfull Fortescue. Lycence of absence.

" Whereas upon humble suite made unto us by S[r] Faithfull Fortescue, Knight, wee have been pleased to lycence him to rep're into France, there to remaine during the space of three yeares next ensueing the date hereof. These are therefore to will & require all & every his Ma[ties] officers, ministers, & loveing subjects whom y[e] same may any way concearne, not onely to take due notice hereof, but alsoe to affoard him the full benefitt of this our lycence w[th]out any prejudice to bee incurred by him eyther in his estate or imployment from his Ma[tie] by reason of his absence during the said tyme; and we likewise require all his Ma[ties] said officers, ministers, & loveing subjects to permitt him the said S[r] Faithfull Fortescue, with his servants, necessaries, & travelling armes, quietly to pass & travell by them into France aforesaid without any let or molestac'on, he & they behaveing themselves as becometh. Given, &c. 29th of March 1647." (clxiv. p. 420.)

" The Lady Brabazon with her daughter Miss Jane, two women servants and five men servants for to go into England and to London with her trunks and goods. 24th Oct. 1645.

" Ulick Wall, a pass for him to carry to Portumna, for the use of the Lord Marquis of Clanricarde, a trunk containing wearing apparel and a box of grocery. 12th Nov. 1645.

" Walter Bagnal, Esq., a pass and protection for him (by reason he pays contribution), to come to his city and other parts of the English quarters during the space of six months. 11th June 1646.

" Whereas Catherine Darey, mother of Sir Maurice Eustace, Knt., doth live in the English quarters and payeth contribution, these are to require all officers and others of H.M.'s army, not to molest her in her person, estate, or servants, but to suffer her to live peaceably at her now farm of Duddingstown, or any other farm within the English quarters. 24th September 1646.

" The Lord Viscount Fitzwilliam, a pass for him, with his two sons, Richard & William Fitzwilliam, and their wives, servants, retinue, and goods, to go to Leixlip, Lutrelstown, Howth, and Turvy, without molestation. 2nd November 1646.

" The guardes leading to Oasmanstowne to permitt Mr. James Butler to goe w[th] his 4 trunckes w[th]out molestac'on. Dated 18° 8[ber] 1645.

" Henry Batman, a pass for him to goe to Elphinn & to returne w[th] his wife, children, goods, & cattle. Dated 18° 8[ber] 1645.

" Col. Oliver fiz Wms. A warr[t] to the L[d] of the ordnance to cause to bee del[d] him out of the stoare for the guard of the Lo. V. fiz W[ms] howse at Meryon tenn musketts, receiving his hand, &c. Dated 18° 9[ber] 1645." (clxiv. p. 24.)

" S[r] Hen. Titchborne's quarter of Dunsoghly, &c., to be freed from other billett.

" Whereas wee have appointed y[e] castle & mannor of Donshogly, Newtowne, & Braghans in y[e] county of Dublin to be a quarter for S[r] Henry Titchborne, Knight, &c. & such of his troope as he shall from tyme to tyme bring along w[th] him when his occasions call him to this citty. These are therefore to will & require you to forbeare quartering or billetting eyther officers or sould[rs] on the above named places without further direc'ons in that behalfe. Given, &c. 12 March 1646.

" To y[e] Quarter Master Generall of horse & foote & all other whom it may con-
" cearne." (ibid. p. 391.)

" Warrant for coining of gold trinkets, &c. into money.

" Whereas the extreame necessity of the sould[rs] in the city of Dublin & other guarrisons neere adjacent is extraordinary great, & wee, willing to sustaine their present indigencyes, haveing taken into o[r] tender comiserac'on their greevous distresses, and haveing in o[r] custody some bullion of gould being of diverse uncertaine values, have thought good that it should be moulten downe together to make thereof certaine peeces or pledges for the releefe of the s[d] distresses of the sould[rs]; and therefore have required & comaunded & by these presents doe require & comaund Peter Vaneynthoven & Gilbert Tongues of the citty of Dublin, gouldsmiths, to take the said gould into their custody & the same to melt downe (& noe other of any other mens), & the same soe melted downe & bring unto a standard of 19 carrotts & because they want meterialls heere for the exact tryall thereof, wee doe allowe unto them the remedy of two graines under or over in the finenesse, & the same being brought unto that finenesse, to cutt one into pecces or pledges, the one sort weighing eight peny weight & fourteene graines & the other sorte weighing four peny weight seven graines, or in each peece w^ch^in two graines under or over for the remedy in cutting, & they shall stampe on every peece the said weight thereof in figures: and the said Peter & Gilbert shall receave for their labour twelve pence & out of every twenty shill^ worth of bullion of gould by them wrought. And moreover y^e^ said Peter & Gilbert shall by those presents have power to call any other workmen gouldsmiths for the speedy expediting of the s^d^ work, giveing them allowance for their worke. All w^ch^ faile not to doe upon yo^r^ perill, and for soe doeing this shalbee yo^r^ sufficient warrant. Dated und. o^r^ hand & seale at his Maj^tie^s Castle of Dublin, this 29 of July, anno Dom^i^ 1646." (clxiv. p. 221.)

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"Warrant for coining gold triukets, &c. into money.

"Whereas the extreame necessity of the inhabitants of this city of Dublin & the gnarrisons neere adjacent have been & are such as they have been forced to coin their plate, & now as their last refuge are enforced to make away the gold rings, chains, & broken gold they have left, the w^ch^ if they be enforced to sell to merchants they will be carried away into other countryes, to the great loss of their respective owners & the exhausting the treasure of the kingdom; wee being humbly moved in prevenc'on hereof & for the publick good that they who have any such rings & may have some small pledges, rings, &c., may have some small pledges made thereof, such as wee were induced lately to cause to be made for the releafe of his Maj^tie^s armyre, doe hereby authorize Peter Vaneynboven & Gilbert Tougues of Dublin, gouldsmiths, to receive from the parties that shall voluntarily bring them any gold of that kind in specie & melt it down & cutt & stampe itt into the like pledges as for weight as they lately made for the use aforesaid, & for alloy betwixt 20 & 22 carrotts, the parties respectively paying them for their labour as we formerly allowed unto them. Given, &c., 1 Feb. 1646." (clxiv. p. 360.)

After the breaking of the peace in October 1646, the protections ran thus:—Sir Henry Talbot, Knt., a protection for himself and his tenants at Templeogue, near Dublin, not to have their corn, houses, or goods, or cattle burnt, pillaged, or taken away, or he or their families killed or slayed, &c., any former directious to the contrary notwithstanding. 3 Nov. 1646.

William Fitzwilliam, a pass for him to go to his father in the country, and return without molestation in his person, servants, or horses. 12 Nov. 1646.

Another warrant for him to preserve his family, houses, goods, and cattle at Dondrom from burning, or slaying, or killing, they behaving themselves as becometh. 17 Dec. 1646.

There are a number of entries of military commissions in this volume. Those granting chief commands to Confederate Catholics follow. Between the 31st August and 7th September 1646 Lord Ormonde signed commissions to officers to command regiments to be thenceforth in his Majesty's pay, who had up to that time been commissioned by the Confederate Catholics. To Colonel Edmund Butler, to be colonel of the regiment of foot then under his command, consisting of 10 companies, each company of 100 men besides officers;[1] to Sir James Dillon a similar commission;[2] to Sir Theobald Burke the like;[3] to Colonel Richard Butler (Ormonde's brother), the like;[4] to Colonel William Warren the like;[5] to Sir Piers Crosby the like.[6]

There are five volumes of entries of the period between September 1648 and December 1650, numbered respectively cxlii., civ., clvi., clvii., clxii.

Three of them (clv., clvi., clvii.) are endorsed, and properly, "Irish Petitions." The other two volumes are entitled,—the one, No. cxlii., "Ormonde's Letters, 1649, 1650;" the other, No. clxii., "Warrants by the Duke of Ormonde, August 1649 to November 1650," though both are in fact of a similar character, and concern the administration of military affairs, with entries, however, of some civil appointments. The three volumes entitled "Irish Petitions," have regard to the civil administration of the kingdom, and will be first trented of. They disclose a most curious coalition of public affairs during the joint administration of Ormonde and the "Interval Commissioners," regarding which very little is generally known.

[1] clxiv. 220. [2] Ibid. 240. [3] Ibid. 267. [4] Ibid. 262. [5] Ibid. 258. [6] Ibid. 267.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

It was on the 17th January 1648–9 that the peace known as the peace of '48 was concluded, and that Ormonde commenced his new administration; acting until the 30th January 1648–9, when Charles I. was beheaded, under his commission as lieutenant from that king, dated January 1645, thenceforth as lieutenant of King Charles II., his new commission being dated 17th February 1648–9; but now assisted according to the terms of the peace by a council of twelve formed of members of the late assembly of Confederate Catholics, intrusted with a certain amount of joint power with Ormonde, during the interval between the dissolving of the Confederate government and the conclusion of a final settlement of the kingdom with a free parliament. These commissioners were familiarly called sometimes "Interval commissioners," other times "Commissioners of trust."

The Earl of Roscommon held the King's great seal, and was also his Majesty's treasurer and treasurer at war. But upon his death, by falling down a stone staircase in Limerick at Bishop Bramhall's lodgings, on the evening of the 5th November 1649, it does not appear to whose keeping it was committed. (Sir Richard Fanshaw to Ormonde, Limerick, 6th November 1649, vol. xxvii. p. 79.) It is plain that it was only used for the sealing of patents, for the courts of judicature were not established, but the whole civil and legal business of the country was carried on by petitions presented to Ormonde as Lord Lieutenant. His practice in involved cases of law or fact seems to have been to refer to two or three persons;—of whom some were lawyers, as Sir Nicholas Plunket, Mr. Patrick Bryan, Mr. Geoffrey Browne, and others, men of quality,—for their report and opinion; which he either confirmed or ordered to be executed, or in simple cases made an order "Nisi," requiring the defendant either to comply with the complainant's demand, or to appear and show cause to the contrary before himself. If the matters were of higher moment, he referred the case to the council already mentioned, called the "Commissioners of trust." The consequence of this is that these three volumes of petitions present a very accurate picture of the social state of the country at this supreme hour of the conflict between the advancing cause of the Parliament in Ireland, and the declining cause of the King, attempted to be sustained by Ormonde, now acting with the Irish. These petitions were presented, and orders made, not only at Kilkenny Castle, and (when he was driven over the Shannon) at Loughrea, Athlone, Portumna, Ennis, and other places where he made residence, but also at his camp at Finglas, Rathmines, Castle Jordan, and elsewhere. These volumes moreover nearly cover the whole period of his administration after the conclusion of the peace of 1648, as they begin in March 1649, and end in November 1650, and in the following month the Marquis sailed from the bay of Galway to France.

A few instances of the principal heads of public business that came before Lord Ormonde at this period, may perhaps give a more striking view than a larger dissertation, and the instances are accordingly arranged here under the following classes:—(a.) Civil appointments. (b.) Military appointments. (c.) Letting of enemies', absentees', and delinquents' lands. (d.) Ordinary administration of justice between party and party. (e.) Petitions for relief by banished landed proprietors. (f.) Petitions of Protestant clergy. (g.) Petitions of Roman Catholic secular clergy. (h.) Petitions of regulars. (i.) Petitions of nuns. (j.) Petitions of banished Creaghts. (k.) Petitions concerning the ravages of the Ulster army. (l.) Petitions concerning waste and deserted lands.

Most of these orders will be found to explain themselves, but a few words may be necessary concerning the Ulster Creaghts, as those groups of families wandering Tartar-like after their herds of cows were called. In a discourse concerning the settlement of the natives of Ulster, written about 1630, to be found in the Carte papers, it is declared that "whosoever doth know Ulster, and will deal truly with his Majesty "must make this report of it, that, in the general appearance of it, it is as yet no other "but a very wilderness. The habitation of the new planters in all the province "is scarce visible. For the Irish, of whom many townships might be made, do not "now dwell together in any ordinary form, but wander with their cattle all the summer "in the mountains, and all the winter in the woods" (vol. xxx. 42). But when the war of 1641 broke out, the Creaghts were at once expelled from the counties of Antrim and Down, as the old Scottish planters of those counties, and the invading army of new Scots, were unwilling to have any of their enemies' race amongst them. The royal army of six regiments quartered about Derry, called "the Lagan forces," did the same. And in consequence numbers of these Creaghts accompanied the Ulster army with their herds, which acted as a kind of commissariat to these forces. (Ormonde to the Council, dated Siginstown, 11 October 1646, vol. xix. 81.) The other provinces beheld with astonishment and dismay the Tartar-like hordes of Owen O'Neil's army; and the farmers and yeomen of Kilkenny, driven from their tillage and plundered of their goods, flocked into Kilkenny in 1646, ringing their plough-irons in the street in token of despair, and to convey to the Confederate Assembly a sense of their distress. But peaceable Creaghts fixed themselves in all parts of the country, and were not unwelcome, as they helped to lighten the burden of the neighbourhood, by being contributory to the ever-increasing assessments.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

(a.)—Civil Appointments.

On the death of the Earl of Roscommon, Sir George Hamilton was made his Majesty's treasurer, and to him or his deputy all orders for payments are directed.[1] On 16th November 1649, Sir Lucas Dillon is made his Majesty's vice treasurer at war, vice Earl of Roscommon, deceased;[2] 19th September 1649, Francis Lord Athenry, his Majesty's muster-master-general;[3] 21st January 1649–50, George Blackney, his Majesty's auditor-general during the absence of Sir James Ware;[4] 6th November 1649, James Cusack, his Majesty's attorney-general and chief judge of his Majesty's court of admiralty; 2nd April 1650, Captain George Lane, of Tulsk in the county of Roscommon, is made high sheriff of that county, and custos rotulorum of the county of Clare, while Thomas Clanchy is made clerk of the Crown, and James Preston clerk of the peace of the same;[5] 6th May 1650, Lord Athenry, Sir Lucas Dillon, Sir Ullick Burke, Sir Dermot O'Shaughnessa, Hubert Burke, Captain John Kelly, Captain Richard Lane, and Feagh Flin, are appointed sequestrators for seizing enemies', absentees', and delinquents' lands in the province of Connaught, and letting them by open cant for the public use;[6] 17th June 1650, Sir Edward Fitzharris and three others are appointed to a like office for the county of Limerick;[7] and on same date, others are appointed for the counties of Tipperary, Clare, and Kerry.[8]

(b.)—Military Appointments.

Among the military commissions issued by Ormonde as Lord Lieutenant to members of the late confederate party, are the following:—

Lord Athenry is made (19th September 1649) muster-master-general of his Majesty's army.[9]

Captain John Bellew (11th August 1650) is appointed lieutenant of the ordnance.[10]

Colonel Hugh Byrne (23rd January 1649–50) is made governor of the county of Wicklow, and of all the forces and inhabitants there.[11] Having been already (9th September 1649), commissioned to distress the enemy on the Wicklow side, and to demolish all places of strength likely to fall into the enemy's hands.[12]

Major-General William Dungan (30th August 1649) has a commission to raise and command 200 dragoons.[13]

Captain Thomas Dungan (18th May 1649) was quartermaster-general.[14]

Sir Walter Dungan (13th August 1650) was commissioned to raise and command as many horse and foot for his Majesty's service as he could, and to nominate inferior officers, to whom commissions should be duly issued.[15]

Sir Thomas Esmond, knight and baronet, (2nd September 1650) to be a colonel of a regiment of foot in his Majesty's pay, to consist of 10 companies, each of 100 men.[16]

Colonel Myles McSweeny (21st December 1649) to be the colonel of a regiment of foot of like number, with commission (23rd December 1649) to hold and maintain Tory island and the rest of the islands about Killybeg; and the regiment of foot he commands as colonel in his Majesty's service, are to have their winter quarters in Donegal.[17]

Captain Roger Moore (12th August 1650) was commissioned to raise a troop of 60 horsemen besides officers, unconnected with any regiment, and 200 dragoons,[18] and had a commission to execute martial law in the King's and Queen's Counties, both the latter dated 12th August 1650.[19]

Major-General Hugh O'Neill (28th August 1650), had commission to raise and command a regiment of 1,000 men besides officers;[20] and

Colonel Hugh Roe O'Neill (8th August 1650), the like.[21]

These volumes last described have not been cited by Carte, nor do they seem to have been used by any other writers upon Ireland.

As they contain a vast number of official entries of civil and military appointments, of warrants, orders, and petitions, with indexes (or alphabets of names), they will prove a source of knowledge to the historical and genealogical inquirer concerning families that soon afterwards disappeared, and will throw fresh light upon the general history of Ireland.

---

[1] clxii. 367. [2] Ibid. 63. [3] clvi. 410. [4] Ibid. 277. [5] clxii. [6] Ibid 160.
[7] Ibid. 201. [8] Ibid. [9] clxii. 63. [10] Ibid. 294. [11] Ibid. 118. [12] Ibid. 64.
[13] Ibid. 58. [14] clv. 161. [15] clxii. 326. [16] Ibid. 108. [17] Ibid. 109. [18] Ibid. 323.
[19] Ibid. 328. [20] Ibid. 335. [21] Ibid. 330.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

(c.)—Letting of Absentees' and Delinquents' Lands.

The nature and conditions of sequestration will be best understood from the official instructions of the Commissioners.

"Ormonde.

"Instructions to be observed by the Com^rs of sequestration for the county of .

"Degrees & qualifications of Delinquents lyable to sequestrac'on.

1. "All such persons as haveinge any estates in this kingdome, and are absent from hence without lycense from his Ex^cie the L^d Lieutenant had & obtained since the 17th of January 1648, & of those especially,

2. "Such as have been actors in or consented to the execrable murther of the late Kinge, or have been of the Committee for his tryall, or having given their votes thereunto, or endeavor to justifye in practize, writing, or language those whoe have perpetrated that murther or their abettors.

3. "Such as have listed themselves in the Rebells independ^t army since the conclusion of the last Peace in the Isle of Wight with his late Ma^tie, or doe continue in that service.

4. "Such as have been officers or members of this army, or any others resident here have acted for & concurred with the designes of the Rebells party in England or Ireland, or hold, or have had or shall have correspondence with them or who stand now sequestered for such offence.

5. "Such as being absent out of this kingdome & have not returned hither by or before the time or times in the Proclamation limited & set forth for that purpose, & in their persons & goodes estates really contribute & adhere to the condic'ons of the Peace lately made by his now Ma^ties direction & confirmation between us & the Roman Catholique party, & be aydinge & assistinge thereunto & to the cause we have undertaken.

6. "Such as in this kingdome, shall adhere to & willingly relieve any party in opposic'on to his Ma^ties authoritie entrusted with us or hold intelligence with them.

7. "Such as shall villifie & deprave the condic'ons of peace lately made with the Roman Catholiques in such sort as the comon people shall be alienated from their affections, discouraged & drawen into jealousie in relac'on to those who were the actors, or instrumentall therein to the prejudice of the comon cause, or to an hinderance of a necessarye contribu'on thereunto.

8. "Item, yo^u shall accept, take, comprehend, & repute all such persons whatsoever to be delinquents, as yo^u shall find, know, or prove to be within y^r compasse of any the degrees or qualifications of the offence above mentioned, & proceed to a sequestrac'on of their lands, tenements, hereditaments, goodes & chattles, both reall & personall respectively, & the same to let, sett, & seize & dispose of for the use of his Ma^tie for the tearme of 3 yeares or under, as you shall in your judgement find of most advantage for his Ma^ties service, reserving such rent as you shall agree upon over and above all country charges."

The course of procedure was by petition such as the following:—

"The petic'on of S^r Ullick Bourke, Kn^t & Bar^t.

"Humbly shewing y^t yo^r pet^r dureing these warres have in his owne person w^th what power hee was able to mayse most faithfully & cheerefully to y^r hazard of his life, & losse of worldly fortune contributed to his Ma^ties service & interest in this kingdome, & by his fidelity therein y^r losse & devastac'on of his estate by y^r cruelty of his Majestie's enemies, & y^t Edward Ormsby & his son Robert Ormesby w^ch their adherents, bearing especial mallice to yo^r pet^r, have ben principall instruments in y^r destruce'on of his estate by frequent depredations, the slaughter of his tenn^ts, burning his habitac'on, in soe much a little or noe p'te of the sd. estate yeilds any kind of profitt unto yo^r pet^r. And the s^d Edward Ormsby & his son continuing still in rebellion ag^st his Ma^tie & being heretofore possessed of y^r undernamed lands in y^r county of Roscomon & now to be disposed of as enemyes estate,

"It may please yo^r Ex^cy, for yo^r pet^rs incouradgement & in recompence of y^r destruce'on comitted by them upon his estate, to graunt him a custodiam or sequestrac'on of y^r s^d lands & &c.

"Tobbervaddye	-	-	-	1 q^r.
"Grange	-	-	-	4 q^rs.
"Casbellane	-	-	-	1 q^r.
"in Ballyglass	-	-	-	2 q^rs.
"Shrinoe	-	-	-	1 q^r.
"Lissenabe	-	-	-	1 q^r.
"Kinitie	-	-	-	2 q^rs."

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"Kilkenny Castle 22° 7ber 1649.

"Wee recommend the pet' unto y' Com" appointed for setting delinquents estates in y' county of Roscomon to be preferred to y' tenancy of y' lands within menc'oned at a yearly rent, provided y' same be not already sett. "ORMONDE."

And thus we find Ormonde, on 20th April 1649, on the petition of Sir Nicholas Plunket, making an order directed to the Commissioners of sequestration, that Sir N. Plunket be preferred tenant to the manor of Tounduffe, the estate of Sir Walsingham Cooke, in the county of Wexford.[1] Again on 14th May 1649, Enesa Kenaley, tenant from the public of all the enemies' estates in the Irish baronies of the county of Wexford, at the yearly rent of 1,073*l.* 11*s.*, alleges that he has fully paid the same on orders or assignments from the late Confederate Government, and petitions for a reference, and Ormonde refers it to the Earl of Roscommon for his report.[2] On 5th May 1649, Captain Balthazar Nugent, in his petition, alleges that his brother James Nugent, clerk, sometime minister of Mullingar, has an estate in the county of Westmeath, and that said James Nugent is a pernicious enemy and inveterately bent against his Majesty; and the petitioner being continually obedient to the government, and in actual service under his Excellency's orders, prays to farm it at a yearly rent according to the articles of peace, and Ormonde directs the Commissioners for letting delinquents' estates in that county to admit him to the tenancy of the estate.[3] On 8th May 1649, Colonel John Trenchard alleges by his petition that he had at the beginning of these troubles a good estate of inheritance of his own, and was possessed of goods and stock in right of his wife, the widow of Sir Richard Southwell, knight, deceased, to the value of 10,000*l.*, yet he lost all by the insurrection, and had also forsaken a good estate in England, now sequestered by the Independent party, which he was willing to lose rather than decline his Majesty's service; he prays therefore (and is ordered by the Marquis of Ormonde) to have, from the Commissioners for letting of enemies', absentees', and delinquents' lands, the tenancy of Lord Herbert of Castle Island's estate; also the lands and impropriations that belong to the Lord Borohill (Broghill), in the county of Kerry.[4] On the 18th May 1649, Captain Oliver Dungan obtains the tenancy of Castle Dermot, belonging to the Earl of Kildare, as enemies' estate, and Captain Thomas Dungan the Earl's lands of Grany, both lying in the county of Kildare.[5]

"The humble petition of Edmund Tute sheweth that the town and lands of Killowly in the King's County are to be sett for the publique use by the delinquency of Sir John Sherlock, Kn', now in arms against his Majesty, and prays to be admitted tenant at a reasonable rent.

"And by order made by Ormonde at Kilkenny Castle, 2d April 1649, addressed to the Commissioners for setting Delinquents' estates in the s^d King's County, is to be preferred tenant thereto." (clv. p. 88).

By a strange historical retribution, Captain Thomas Caryll is "preferred tenant by "the Commissioners to Sir William Parsons's estate at Dunshaughlin in the county "of Meath. Kilkenny, 1st August 1649." (ibid. p. 90.)

Finally, Charles Itchingham, by his petition, sheweth that by order of the late General Assembly, dated 10th January last [1648–9], he was to receive 320*l.* out of 7 ploughlands and a half of Donbrody, in the county of Wexford, lately enjoyed by the Lady Dowager of Clanmaleer as her dower, but now in the hands of the public by her death, and having entered on one ploughland called Ballevelick, and made fallow and gardens, all since destroyed by daily incursions of armies from Duncannon fort, and lately of Glengary's troops, he prays to be preferred to the tenancy of Ballyvelick, and is ordered it as part of a delinquent's estate, by order made at Kilkenny Castle, 30th May 1649. (clv. p. 208.)

(d.)—Ordinary Administration of Justice between Party and Party.

The suspension of the ordinary forms of procedure in this department was still more remarkable.

22nd March 1649–50, Oliver Deane of Galway, merchant, by his petition shows that the under-named persons are truly indebted to petitioner in the several sums to their names annexed, and prays an order to mayor and recorder of Galway to summon such of the parties as are resident within the town and liberties to answer upon oath, and to give satisfaction, and that Colonel Riecard Bourke, and Sir Richard Blake,

[1] clv. 13. [2] Ibid. 157. [3] Ibid. 110. [4] Ibid. 126. [5] Ibid. 161.

Digitized by Google

knight, and James Davocke, esquire, or any two of them, do judge between petitioner and such of them as reside in the county at large, and that for what shall appear due they be compelled by the cesse of horse and foot to make your suppliant satisfaction. The names of 13 debtors are annexed, with debts alleged, varying from 30*l.* to 300*l.* The order made is as follows:—

"Loughreagh, 22nd March 1649.

"The parties above complained on are hereby required to give the petitioner present satisfaction of his just demands, or otherwise to appear forthwith before us to show cause to the contrary.[1]

"ORMONDE."

On 23rd March 1649–50, Richard Lynch Fitzwilliam and Mary his wife, and Margaret French and Ellice French, sisters and heir, administrators of Walter French Fitzhenry, late deceased, petitioners, and Meyler Burke, respondent. This is a regular petition of revivor by the administrators, who pray execution of a former order of his Excellency against the body, goods, and lands of respondent. The following is the order of his Excellency:—

"Loughreagh, 23rd March 1649.

"We pray Jeffrey Browne, esquire, to take this petition and the annexed proceedings [some already had before his Excellency in the lifetime of said Walter French] into consideration, and to certify us his opinion what he conceives fit to be done thereupon."

Then comes Jeffrey Browne's report or certificate, and thereupon the following order:—

"Loughreagh, 27th March 1650.

"Upon consideration had of the above certificate, and for the reasons therein expressed, we require the defendant within three days after sight or notice hereof to show cause (if any he can) why the petitioners should not have the benefit of our former order of the 6th of this month, otherwise such further order shall be given herein as shall be fitt.[2]

"ORMONDE."

(c.)—Petitions for Relief Extraordinary.

Mixed up with these curious anomalies, come applications arising out of the special circumstances of the times.

Thus, Lord Viscount Fitzwilliam having retired, as he states, under date 19th September 1649, from his seat at Meryon, pursuant to his Excellency's proclamation of the 27th August 1649, for all liege subjects inhabiting within 15 miles of the city of Dublin to withdraw into the adjacent counties with all their goods and cattle, in order to deprive the rebels in the city of Dublin of the benefit of any traffic with them, now petitions his Excellency for lands proportionable to his quality and the estate he has deserted, as promised by the proclamation. Ormonde refers the petition to Lord Athenry, Sir Lucas Dillon, and the other Commissioners of trust, and by his order made at Kilkenny Castle on 2nd October 1649, upon their report, directs that, forasmuch as the petitioner, the Lord Viscount Fitzwilliam of Meryon, hath not wherewith to stock waste lands, and that such lands as his Lordship has pitched upon are previously assigned to others, his Lordship shall have for his present subsistence 100*l.* a year.[3] On 1st March 1648–9, Roger Moore of Ballyna, in the county of Kildare, esquire, states that his whole estate is in the enemies' hands, having been preyed upon by the garrison of Ballynakill under the command of Lord Mountgarret, and petitions for subsistence. He is recommended by the Commissioners of Trust, to whom the petition was referred, to the tenancy of Ballynekill, in the Queen's County; but Lord Ormonde, by his final order made at Kilkenny Castle, 19th May 1649, declares that the tenancy of Ballynekill cannot be granted the petitioner, but if he shall pitch upon any other fitting place he will take it into consideration.[4]

On 22nd December 1649, Philip Martell, one of the banished inhabitants of the city of Cork, being just expelled, as he states, a second time by the revolt of the English garrison to Cromwell, sets forth in his petition that he and all those of his friends and natives were stripped and plundered of all that ever they had, insomuch as for the space of 24 hours the one did not know the miseries of the other, by which means the said poor inhabitants have a greater sense of the last than former plundering (when they were driven out by Iochiquin on his revolt to the Parliament in 1644); and he now petitions, for the relief of himself, his wife, and six young children, that,

[1] clvii. 23. [2] Ibid. 27. [3] clxii. 51. [4] clv. 176.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

inasmuch as one Robert Little enjoys petitioner's house, garden, and shops in Cork, and has a house in Limerick in the possession of one Henry Price, though inferior in value and building, petitioner may be preferred to the tenancy of said house in Limerick, and by Ormonde's order nisi, made at Limerick, 16th February 1649–50, his petition is granted.[1]

In like manner, "the humble petition of William Luttrell in most humble manner sheweth unto your Excellency, in relation of his loyalty to his late Sacred Majesty, your petitioner, with his wife and children and family, were by Colonel Jones baniaht out of the city of Dublin, and forced to desert his house, goods, and all that he had; by means whereof he hath not wherewithal to relieve himself, his wife, and children. So that your petitioner is like to perish if not relieved by your Excellency's conferring some employment upon him; the premisses considered in humble request is that your Excellency will be pleased to grant unto your petitioner to be only Commissioner of the town of Athy," &c. &c. Ormonde, by order dated Kilkenny Castle, 26th May 1649, "especially recommends the petitioner to the Commissioners authorised by us "in pursuance of the Articles of the Peace, to be preferred to the employment above "mentioned."

Again, Captain John Whitney's petition sheweth, that by the incursion of the Ulster forces under Owen Ro. O'Neil he was forced to forsake the manor and lordship of Shian, in the Queen's County, and fly for refuge to his Excellency at Dublin; and upon his expulsion the possession of the premises were conferred [by the Confederate Council] on Colonel Lewis Moore, who now enjoyeth them. And forasmuch as the petitioner hath submitted to the late peace, and hath come out of Dublin to serve his Majesty, he prays that he may be restored to his estate, and Colonel Lewis Moore be removed. And by order made at Kilkenny Castle, 25th May 1649, he is ordered, in pursuance of the said peace, the repossession of his estate.[2]

Another class is represented by "the humble petic'on of Edward Magher, most humbly shewing y^t y^r pet^r, being an estated man in y^e counie of Wiekloe to y^e value of 150*l.* p. ann., was most unjustly turned out of his e^d inheritance by the late plantac'on made in y^e Earle of Strafford's tyme; and y^r y^e warr coming soone after, & especially in y^t county, & yo^r pet^r being none of y^r ancient natives of y^t p^rts, was suddenly pilladged of all his meanes & personall estate to y^e value of 1,200*l.* ster^l, & left charged with a wife & six small children, whose wife soone after dyed for meare want & greafe; and y^r ever sithence yo^r pet^r & y^e s^d six children were & are almost famished for want, & will doubtlesse starve unles suddenly relieved by yo^r Ex^cy in yo^r most gratious & charitable favo^r towards y^e banished & y^r distressed. Yo^r pet^r humbly prayeth yo^r Ex^cy, for God's cause, to graunt unto him & his s^d children, by way of subsistence, some reliefe, as other banished men received since these troubles," &c. &c. This petition was referred by Lord Ormonde to the Commissioners of Trust, and they, by their order dated at Kilkenny, 16th May 1649, ordered him 7*s.* 6*d.* per week by the Receiver of Weekly Excise in Kilkenny, which was confirmed by Lord Ormonde at Kilkenny Castle, 22nd May 1649."[3]

Some of the petitions are from public bodies.

Thus "the humble petition of y^e Soffraigne and Commons of Thomastown in all humbleness sheweth unto your Excellencie, that the pure Corporation of Thomastowne, besides their proportion of the winter quarter, are charged with 84 souldiers & their officers, of Captain Archer's company, 25 souldiers of the Lord Ivengh's regiment, and 15 troopers of Sir Walter Butler's troope, with a lieutenant, quartermaster, & corporal, being also appointed to get lodging there as their head-quarters, their full means being taken up and duly paid out of the county. Yet, notwithstanding, they take meat and drink and lodging in the said poor Corporation, and pay nothing for the same; and such as do absent themselves do exact for every soldier nine pence per week for their lodging; and some, not therewith content, but by stealth & otherwise, do take from the inhabitants of the said poor Corporation all such goods as they can light on; and some of Captain Bryan's company, on the 2^d of this instant, at night time, took away one barrel of hearin of the goods of Michael White of the said town, valued 24*s.*, and broke and carried with them the most of 3 other barrels, and wasted and consumed all the roots & herbage of the said town, to the utter ruin & undoing of the said inhabitants. Two troops of Captain Shee being there quartered, and disbanded on the 7th day of Feb^r last,

[1] civi. 499. [2] civ. 195. Ibid. 182.

having received full satisfaction during their continuance in pay, notwithstanding, on the 3d of this instant, distrained upon lands of the said town, exacting & demanding means after this disbanding. The means of which souldiers & troops for lodging, fire, and candle light only, though not therewith content, amounts to 7*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, besides their officers. So, as the said poor Corporation is disabled to maintain themselves or entertein others, and are like to be utterly undone unless relieved by your Excellencie, to require the said soldiers, troops, & officers to remove out of the said town into their quarters, and compel their officers to make satisfaction unto your petitioners of their past damages, and to require the said two troops to restore the said distress by them wrongfully taken, and not to exact more means within the said Corporation. And your petitioners, otherwise are like to be undone, shall ever pray."

Whereupon Ormonde, Carrick, 9th March 1648, makes order:—

"We require the several within-named officers to see that satisfaction be forthwith made unto the petitioners of what shall appear by proof to have been exacted from [them] by the said souldiers within mentioned beyond their dues; and likewise to take order that the petitioners in future may have no just cause to complain, and thereof not to fail at their perils.

"Ormonde."[1]

Again, "the humble petition of the miserable inhabitants of the town of Gouran, humbly sheweth, that the said town of Gouran of all other towns within the county of Kilkenny is most poor and distressed, and that occasioned by the thoroughfare of armies, cesses, and billetting of soldiers. That now lately 74 cavaleers for the space of six weeks were (upon your Excellencie's orders) freely & cheerfully entertained by your petitioners in hope of satisfaction; yet so it is that notwithstanding your petitioners proved upon account that the sum of 30*l.* was due to them for the entertainment aforesaid, yet your petitioners could obtain no more payment than 8*l.* 12*s.*, as by a tickett signed by Colonel Wogan may appear. It may therefore please to order that your petitioners shall be put into a present speedy way of payment for the residue of the said sum, or otherwise to order that your petitioners by way of deduction may be allowed in the next & immediate applotment the sum of 20*l.* expressed in said tickett to be in arrear." And, &c.

On the 7th of June [1649], Ormonde gives judgment in the case as follow:—

"Upon consideration had of this petition, we are pleased to order that the sum of 20*l.* ster. mentioned in the annexed tickett be allowed unto the petitioners out of their next applotment. And do therefore hereby require the Receiver General to take due notice thereof and to give them allowance of the same accordingly.

"Ormonde."

The following is the "tickett" referred to.

"These are to witness to all men that the gentlemen quartered in the Town of Gouran have satisfied the said town in 8*l.* 12*s.*, so there remains due to the said town upon their own account 20*l.*

"Edward Wogan."[2]

Again we find a specimen of a different class of grievance:—

"The humble pet[n] of Mahon McCruttin.

"Most lamentably & grievously complayneth unto yo[r] Lop[p] yo[r] poore & distressed suppl[t], that whereas yo[r] s[d] suppl[t] was flying away with his cattle least he should be plundered by Colonell Finnies men, & by chance he met Colonell Woogane & his company & tooke from him the number of 7 milch cowes & 2 dry cowes, being all the releife he had to manteigne his wife & family, his croppe of corne being all eaten by the armyes horses. The premisses considered, may it please your Ex[cy] to consiserate the pet[n] distressed condic'on by comanndinq the s[d] Colonell Wogan to make present restitue'on unto him of his said cattle, otherwise he & his wife & children shall begge from doore to doore." And, &c.

"Clare, 6[o] 7bris 1650.

"The pet[r] prooving by sufficient witnesses the contents of this petic'on to be true, we require Colonell Wogan to deliver unto him the cowes in the petic'on menc'oned.

"Ormonde."[3]

---

[1] civ. 2.
[2] Ibid. 218.
[3] Carte Papers, civii. 380.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

(f.)—Petitions of Protestant Clergy.

Before this mixed Government the clergy of both Churches appear for the first time upon an equal footing. We subjoin specimens of the petitions of the Protestant clergy.

4th April 1649, Richard Butler, clerk, states that before the commotions he was beneficed in the diocese of Tuam and county of Galway, but was at the general insurrection pillaged and deprived of his benefice, and fled with his wife and two orphans, who are on his hands, first to Galway, and there lived for one year in great poverty, and thence to Loughreagh, where, ever since, under the protection of the Marquis of Clanricarde, he exercises his functions among the Protestants there and at Portumna, though in very necessitous condition. By his petition he prays relief, and is ordered a salary of 40*l.* per annum.[1]

18th May 1649, Richard Underwood, clerk, coming from Dublin destitute, prays relief, and is recommended by Ormonde to the Bishop of Cloyne and Dean Boyle, who have the disposing of church revenues in Munster for relief of the Protestant clergy.[2] Mr. Underwood in the following year appears again. By his petition of 18th February 1649–50, he states that he marched as chaplain with his Excellency's regiment of foot to Drogheda, and remained there till the town was taken, was stripped, and with great difficulty escaped with his life; he prays by his petition, and is ordered, immediate payment of his arrears.[3]

(g.)—Petitions of Roman Catholic Secular Clergy.

The grievances of the Catholic clergy were of a different kind.

On 12th May 1649, John Russell, priest and chanter of Cloyne, and Morris Ruane, priest and vicar of the same, by their petition show that they have been in the possession of the cathedral for five years last past, and they with the other dignitaries of that cathedral have frequently celebrated mass there, that they hold the keys, and on the very day of the concluding of the late peace were in clear and actual possession thereof, and celebrated mass there that day, and yet the Lord President of Munster (Inchiquin), contrary to the tenor of the late peace, issued his warrant for apprehending the petitioners' persons for saying mass there. They therefore pray inquiry as to how the possession of the said church has been enjoyed, being the sole point in question, pursuant to those articles which ought inviolably to be observed. The order thereon follows:—

"Kilkenny Castle, the 13th May 1649.

"We do appoint the 11th of June next, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, there to hear this difference, at which time both parties by themselves or their agents sufficiently authorized and entrusted, are required to appear and produce all such witnesses as they have for the manifestation of the truth of the difference. In the meantime the petitioners are to give the adverse party timely notice of these our directions, to the end they may come prepared as aforesaid."

21st May 1649, the Protestant dean and chapter of Waterford, and the clergies of the baronies of Upperthird and Middlethird and Gaultier, in the county of Waterford, complain of a disturbance given them in their livings; the Marquis of Ormonde refers it to Sir Richard Osborne, baronet, Captain Joshua Boyle, John Power of Kilmedan, and Thomas Porter, esquire, to call all parties before them, and to ascertain in whom the possession was at the time of the proclamation of the peace, being 17th January last, or at the time of the cessation with the Lord Baron Inchiquin, that he may thereupon give such order as is just.[4]

In pursuance of this peace, the Marquis of Ormonde, on 6th September 1649, issued a commission to Henry Warren and Gerald Fitzgerald, esquires, to ascertain what church livings were on 17th January last possessed by either Protestant or Roman Catholic clergy in the diocese of Kildare, and to settle them according to the articles of peace; and for such livings as were not then possessed by either of them, it was ordered that the profits of them be converted towards the maintenance of his Majesty's army. Given at Castle Jordan, the 6th of September 1649.[5]

The petition of David (Roth), Lord Bishop of Ossory (21st April 1649), shews that his tenants of the see lands, taking advantage of the distempers of the times, and well knowing that petitioner is old and bedrid, and unable to proceed by distress, neglect to pay him their rents; he therefore prays a renewal of the order of the late General Assembly and Supreme Council for Captain John Bryan to cess them with a competent number of foot soldiers until they shall pay; for his lands are so waste, they yield not as much as may maintain the church in any beseeming manner, and petitioner himself for want of maintenance must be forced to break up house, and live obscurely and meanly.[6]

[1] clv. 68. Part I. [2] Ibid. 180. [3] clvi. 309. [4] clv. 172.
[5] clxii. 73. [6] clv. 98a.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Father Thomas Talbot petitions (5th of May 1649), that being appointed chaplain major-general of the horse of this kingdom, his Excellency may issue his order (which is accordingly done) for all commanders, officers, chaplains, and others to permit him to execute his office.[1] And (29th March 1650), his Excellency gives order to Captain Terence Coughlin, commissary of the stores, to issue ont unto him, from the magazine of his Majesty's provisions remaining in his hands, 10 barrels of wheat, taking his acquittance for the value thereof in money in part payment of his arrears.[2]

(h.)—Petitions of Regular Clergy.

Still more curious was the position of the Regulars during this interval.

28th January 1649-50, Walter Wale, of the convent of the Augustinians in Tulla, Carlow, shows that he and his predecessors, long before the establishing of the peace, and for a good while after, were in the possession of the gardens, park, and other the precincts of the said abbey of Tulla, till, on or about the 17th March last, James Butler of Tulla, esquire (by what pretence the petitioner knows not) hath dispossessed petitioner, being the only relief which the said poor convent had; and as by the peace the friars-mendicants were to enjoy the respective precincts anciently belonging to their abbeys, he prays by his petition that he may be re-established in the possession; which the Marquis of Ormonde accordingly orders, unless cause be shown before him to the contrary.

"The humble petition of William Malone & father William St. Leger of the Societie of Jhesus.

"Sheweth that by a grant from the Corporation of Kilkenny their order is interested in the Monastery of St. John's; and that they are appointed to oversee the colledge which for education of youth and the encrease of learning is to be erected in this city in pursuance of several orders granted to that effect by the Assembly of Confederate Catholicks. Yet they are disturbed within the precincts of their monastery by some who oppose them in the enjoying the full benefit of this grant and the Articles of the Peace." Ormonde thereupon refers the matter to the Mayor of Kilkenny and Sir Nicholas Plunkett, Doctor Gerald Fenuell, and Mr. Walter Archer, or any three of them to compose the difference if they can by consent, otherwise to certify what they shall find. Dated Kilkenny Castle, 24th April 1649.[3]

(i.)—Petitions of Nuns.

Even the nuns were encouraged by the presence of friends in the Government to present their petitions.

The humble petitions of "the poor inclosed nuns residing in the city of Kilkenny" show (of 19th May 1649), that of 40*l.* a year allotted to them by the late council and government of the Confederates, 26*l.* was charged upon a house in Kilkenny which has now failed, and the 14*l.* charged on the excise is kept back from them, and they are thereby reduced to such poverty as to be in great danger, for want of means, to break up their inclosure and to disperse, God knows where. The following is the Lord Lieutenant's order:—

"Kilkenny Castle, 19th May 1649.

"Upon consideration of the petition we do hereby pray and require our very good Lord James Earl of Roscommon, out of such of his Majesty's treasure as now remains under his charge, or shall next come to his hands, to pay unto the petitioners 27*l.* 10*s.*, whereof this and petitioners' acquittance shall be a sufficient warrant.

"Ormonde."[4]

On 18th January following (1649-50), "the mother abbess and the rest of the poor "Clares late residing in Wexford," state that they have been driven out of Wexford and banished from their convent, where they continued their prayers, and have no place left them in their country (being dispersed) to remain together, nor maintenance to relieve them; and the mother abbess and their friends being unable to help them, they pray relief, and on the report of the Commissioners of trust made in pursuance of the Lord Lieutenant's reference, Lord Ormonde directs Sir George Hamilton, knight and baronet, to pay them 20*l.* per annum monthly.[5]

(j.)—Petitions of Banished Creaghts of Ulster.

Phelim Magennis by his petition (21st April 1649) shows that his father, lately deceased, always adhered unto this government, and left petitioner of tender years, since whose death he and his Creaghts are very much impaired, as well by the [1] civ. 111. [2] civii. 179. [3] civ. 39. [4] civ. 167. [5] civi. 309.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers : Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

thoroughfare of soldiers as by excess of country charges, and are like to suffer extraordinarily for want of his Excellency's protection to go as true subjects under the present government within his Excellency's quarters. Ormonde accordingly grants them his protection.[1]

On 27th March 1650, the same Phelim shows cause against the Lord Lieutenant's order "Nisi" made in the suit where the Lady Ellinor McDonel, his mother, relict of Ever McGenis, esquire, deceased, was petitioner, and the said Phelim respondent. The Lady Ellinor, it appears, claimed the thirds of the rents or profits of the said Creaghts depending upon respondent, by virtue of her marriage settlement; he alleges that the said Creaghts for these many years past have not lived upon the petitioner's or respondent's lands, and are not tied to pay him any rent, and what they do pay him for his relief is by way of charity or benevolence.[2]

Hugh Magenis and Edward Magenis (9th July 1649) complain of Viscount Mountgarret for seizing by strong hand the cows whereon 60 poor people depended; and it appears by the report of Sir Nicholas Plunkett and Jeffery Browne, to whom the petition was referred by Lord Ormonde for their report, that one Captain Magenis of Lord Iveagh's regiment, but unconnected with the petitioners, took 12 cows from Viscount Mountgarret's tenants at Polecopple in the county of Wexford, and that Viscount Mountgarret thereupon sent a company of foot soldiers to petitioner's Creaghts, supposing they were partners with the said captain, and swept off 92 cows and 20 goats; and one of the petitioners being informed that their prey was taken for pretence of said 12 cows, went to the captain's abode, and finding the captain out, but his wife and the cows at home, he took up eight of said cows, and received back all the said prey but 33 cows: the defendant is required, by order dated at Kilkenny Castle, 17th September 1649, to restore them.[3]

(k.)—Petitions regarding Ravages of the Ulster Army.

Maguire Lord Baron of Inniskillen by his petition prays that Phillip Reilly should deliver up to him Crom Castle. The respondent answers (20th March 1649–50) that his Lordship has no title; that Colonel Rory Maguire about six years ago repaired the castle, and put a garrison into it; and when the forces of the counties of Cavan, Monaghan, Longford, and Leitrim marched to the field, the said warders of the castle, calling to them all the thieves, rogues, and vagabonds of the county of Fermanagh, seized great preys of cows, pillage of churches and houses, and when the owners followed their goods they were not only refused restitution, but divers were murdered; and Colonel Maguire being confessedly unable to controul them he yielded up the castle at the request of the gentry of the said counties to petitioner to garrison.[4]

Lady Mary Hamilton of Roscren, sister of the Marquis of Ormonde, and wife of Sir George Hamilton, sets forth in her petition (21st December 1649) the ravages done in two days and nights by McMahon's regiment of horse passing through Roscren on their march. Every trooper, assuming the name of an officer, had under his leading 200 horse, with 100 garsons, with 100 stolen garrons and horses which they took out of gentlemen's castles. Every trooper, besides excess of meat and drink, took whole ricks of oats, hutches full of beare and oaten malt, and not content with houses or stables, filled the barns with their horses, nor would they leave their quarters till every trooper had 3*s.* for himself, 1*s.* for his garson, and 8*d.* for his captain's means; and the officers threatening to undo the town, petitioner gave them 7*l.* besides what they took from the town, as liveries, saddles, bridles, horselocks, pots, pans, gridirons, brandirons, ploughirons, spades, &c., bedding, carpets, women's gowns and petticoats, in a word, whatever came in their way, and there was no restoring of it unless the owners would buy it again from them.

(l.)—Petitions regarding Waste Lands.

Captain Richard Lane of Tulske, county of Roscommon, shows (25th September 1649) that the two parishes of Kilcowley and Ogulla, being a divident, is altogether waste and uninhabited and deserted, only a small habitation petitioner hath in the town of Tulske, yet is charged as if the whole divident were inhabited, and obtains Lord Ormonde's order to the Commissioners of applotment not to charge petitioner and his tenants with any more than according to the habitation and visible substance of the parishes and divident above mentioned.[5]

The portrifie and inhabitants of the town of Innistеage declare (18th September 1649) they have been so overcharged that all the inhabitants deserted the town last winter except eight.[6]

The mayor and sheriffs of Waterford (16th October 1649), being cessed with [1] civi. 22a. [2] civii. 33. [3] civi. 16. [4] civii. 4. [5] civi. 153. [6] Ibid. 34.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Captain Charlton's troop of horse, as delinquents for not paying their applotments, show that divers estated men, constant resident dwellers in the city, have withdrawn themselves into the county, taking with them their goods, to avoid the payment of the applotments; and according to the prayer of their petition his Excellency orders that the troopers shall follow the fugitives, according to a list to be furnished them by the mayor, and cess themselves upon them till the applotment be made.[1]

Four gentlemen of the name of Farrel represent the territory of Moytra in the county of Longford as so ruined and wasted by the Leinster and Ulster forces that whole families of them died through famine and hunger, and that in that whole territory there is none living but themselves, that they have been tenants to the public of the lands in the schedule, but fear that some great persons might thrust them out of their holdings, wasted though they are. They obtain his Excellency's order to the Commissioners for letting delinquents' estates in the county of Longford, that they be preferred tenants, paying as much out of the same as any other.[2]

But besides these books of entries concerning the period between 1645 and 1650, there is a series of official books concerning Ormonde's various lieutenancies during the reign of Charles II., commencing with his first lieutenancy in 1662, and ending only with his last, which expired with the decease of that king in 1684.

They consist of 15 folio volumes not of consecutive numbers, and (with the exception of three volumes of Ormonde's letters, and two of Lord Arran's while acting as his deputy) contain petitions, orders, warrants, embracing such a vast variety of subjects as would be a long task to classify.

We have consequently thought that the best mode of conveying a knowledge of the contents of these volumes would be to present instances, as in the case of the foregoing series, of the most important classes of business contained in them. We shall commence with those petitions which relate to temporary tenancies of vacant lands.

Custodiams.

Chief among these were applications concerning lands, arising out of the execution of the acts of settlement. For though it was competent only to the commissioners of the Court of Claims to remove any Adventurer or Soldier from his possession, yet whenever any land became temporarily vacant, any one seeking to possess it until such time as the commissioners should make a decree, was bound to apply to Ormonde as Lord Lieutenant, representing the King (in whom all the forfeitures were vested by the acts of settlement as a trustee), for an order to the Court of Exchequer to grant the applicant a custodiam or tenancy at will under the Crown, at a moderate rent, till further order. Accordingly, when some proprietor who had been transplanted into Connaught or Clare was restored to his ancient estate, his Connaught assignment became temporarily disengaged, and was free for Ormonde's disposal by custodiam, until such time as the lands should be finally disposed of by a further decree of the Court of Claims and when the Adventurers and Soldiers retrenched their lots and gave up one-third (as in the instance already given in Philip Lord Wharton's case), the retrenched parts became temporarily disengaged. Thus the Marquis and Marchioness of Antrim being restored to their ancient estate, the estates they had lately held in Connaught on account of the transplantation, became disposable; and Francis Lord Athenry (21st October 1663) prays a custodiam of them to enable him to prosecute his restitution to his ancient estate.[3]

Viscount Dillon of Costello's restoration to his ancient estate in Connaught, displaced of course the transplanters that had been removed thither in Cromwell's time. Among these was one John Nolan, whose lot or final assignment, in consideration of a considerable estate in Leinster, was 1,100 acres, being composed of 800 acres of Lord Dillon's lands, and 300 acres of Lord Mayo's. The latter was taken from him, and restored to Lady Mayo as her jointure lands, and he lost the rest upon Lord Dillon's restoration, so that the whole is exhausted from him to his utter undoing; he therefore prays (22nd October 1663) a custodiam of some Connaught lands late in the possession of Sir John Bellew, restored to his former estate in Louth as an innocent papist.[4]

Another fruitful source of applications for custodiams was for lands retrenched by the Adventurers and Soldiers under the provisions of the Act of Explanation passed in 1665.

Under the Act of Settlement (passed in 1662) they had lost a considerable proportion of land by the decrees of the commissioners of claims, directing the restoration of innocent Papists, and were liable to lose much more, inasmuch as the widows and children of those proprietors whose life estates were forfeited, were yet entitled to respectively claim the provisions by way of jointure, remainders, or portions as younger children, secured for them by marriage settlements made before the rebellion of 23rd October 1641, if they themselves were innocent.

[1] clvi. 248. [2] Ibid. 273. [3] clix. 28. [4] Ibid. 34.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

In this respect the Act of Settlement differed from the Cromwellian acts, for by them not only the proprietor and his wife and children, but the remainder men and next heirs, lost their rights and were transplanted; yet by the instructions for executing the King's declaration for the settlement of Ireland, afterwards embodied in the Act of Settlement, the qualification of "innocence" was fenced with so many bars by the contrivers, that they hoped not above half a dozen would pass them. 500 Irish however proved their innocence within the seven months employed by the commissioners in hearing claims of innocence, and got decrees, being principally widows who claimed their jointures, remainder men their estates in remainder, and younger children their portions, and 7,000 claimants were unheard when the year of hearing was expired.

In May 1663 the Soldiers, discontented at losing their lands to Innocents, organized a rebellion. Although it failed of its direct object through the vigilance of the Duke of Ormonde, yet such was the sympathy of all those possessed of power in Ireland with the objects of the conspiracy, that it was resolved to yield to its demands, and the Act of Explanation was passed, enacting that no further decrees of innocence should be given. But the King's assent to this great gain to the parties in possession under Cromwell's grants, was purchased by allowing him to name in the body of the act 54 persons of the dispossessed Irish (hence called Nominees), to be restored to their chief mansions, and 2,000 acres next adjacent, to be chosen within two months after the passing of the act. These selections, called "the contiguities of the Nominees," were duly made, and the Nominees were in hopes to be immediately restored to their ancient mansions and demesnes; but the act having declared that the Adventurers and Soldiers were to be first provided for, and all their deficiencies computed, and a reprise of equal value, worth, and purchase, be set out for any of them before he should be removed, it was found that the Nominees must go without. The Adventurers' and Soldiers' deficiencies were in fact more than enough to exhaust the whole of the land disposable for reprises. Accordingly, at the end of 13 years from the passing of the Act of Explanation, and 18 years from the King's restoration, that is to say in 1678, only a few of the Nominees were restored. Meantime, whenever any Adventurer or Soldier happened by his retrenchment to throw away any portion of a nominee's contiguity, the nominee applied to the Lord Lieutenant for a custodiam of it, at a moderate rent.

The following, dated 1st July 1667, will exhibit the nature of these petitions:—

"The petition of Edmond Nugent of Carlanstown, in the county of Meath, esquire, humbly sheweth that, through your Grace's favour, his father was one of the 36 persons named in his Majesty's Declaration of the 30th November 1660 to be restored without further proof, and likewise one of the 54 persons named in the Explanatory Act (of 1665) to have his principal seat and 2,000 acres; of which the petitioner nor his father have had any benefit, though his father was at great charges in England and Ireland prosecuting the said provisions, by which the petitioner is brought to a very indigent condition, and therefore humbly prayeth your Grace's order for possession of the retrencht lands in the annexed schedule mentioned, same being part of the petitioner's 2,000 acres, and that he may have the said lands since they were retrencht in order to his future relief." The Adventurers retrenching were Dr. Samuel Winter and Colonel Thomas Pigott.

Barnaby Lord Upper Ossory was another of the Nominees in the Act of Explanation. He had been also named in the King's Declaration of 30th November 1660, afterwards embodied in the Act of Settlement, but obtained no relief. In his petition he states that not having wherewith to sustain nature, or to maintain his wife, who was sole heiress of Lord Dunboyne, deceased, (who neither during the usurper's time, or since his Majesty's restoration, enjoyed any part of his estate, nor his daughter after him,) the petitioner by the charity and assistance of friends undertook a small farm during his father's lifetime to weld on with. For a time he lived, but afterwards negociated to sell his small stock so acquirvd, to maintain himself in his attendance at parliament as a peer of the realm, and to fee counsel and to bear other charges in this city, in expectation to have been restored to his estate, according to the Declaration and Act of Settlement, or at least to get the pittance of livelihood of 2,000 acres by the Act of Explanation; but receiving no benefit herein the petitioner was forced to break up house and family, and betake himself to this city, where he hath nothing to maintain himself or his credit. Unable to address his Majesty, he prays Ormonde as Lord Lieutenant to take some course for his subsistence (lx. 370).

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

But on 11th March 1666, divers Soldiers having retrenched some parcels of his estate in the Queen's County, he presents the following petition :—

"The petition of Barnaby Lord of Upper Ossory sheweth, that divers Soldiers in possession of your petitioner's estate in the Queen's County have retrenched several parcels, which are in his Majesty's disposal at present; that he had no lands in recompense of his estate, nor any part thereof, in his possession, though provided for in the Declaration and the Act of Settlement and Explanation as a nominee; may it therefore please your Grace to give order for a custodiam of the said parcels in the annexed schedule, to be granted the petitioner from May last, under such reservation as your Grace shall think fit. And your petitioner, &c."

"Dublin Castle, 11th of March 1666–7.

"If it shall appear unto our very good lord the Lord Chief Baron, and the rest of the barons of his Majesty's Court of Exchequer, that the lands desired by the petitioner are in his Majesty's disposal, they are to grant a custodiam thereof to the petitioner, to continue during his Majesty's pleasure, at such rent as they shall think fit.

"Ormonde, V."[1]

It was by means of these custodiams that some of the Nominees probably were restored. For though the possession was only precarious, and was liable to be defeated in order to supply the deficient Adventurers and Soldiers, yet the nominee being in possession when the Court of Claims closed their sittings two years afterwards, in January 1669, he remained undisturbed.

Discoverers.

Another great source of applications for custodiams was the trade (as it has been called by Sir William Petty) of discovery, or the pointing out of lands liable to seizure by the King, the discoveror being induced sometimes by a reward of one-fourth part of the concealed lands, sometimes of the whole, under a previous grant from the King, as in the case of court favourites. At other times the discovery was made by some poor dispossessed proprietor seeking temporary relief.

The following is an instance of the last-mentioned nature :—

"The petition of James Cowley (27th February 1663–4) shows that, reduced to the sad condition he now stands in, no course having been taken touching his claim before the commissioners to lands of considerable value, though recommended to his Grace by his Majesty, and rendered inquisitorial by the present distress of his poor family, the petitioner has found out several parcels of land concealed from his Majesty, some in the county of Kilkenny, some in Connaught; the latter lands fraudulently obtained in the petitioner's name, without his privity or allowance, by one Richard Walcot, an attorney in the late pretended Courts of Transplantations at Athlone and Loughreagh, for his own ends, making use of them as his own for six or seven years past, receiving the rents in petitioner's name, without any profit to petitioner.

"The premises considered, and because it is very injurious that the petitioner being in distress, others should make use of what should help to maintain him and his poor family, he prays a custodiam."[2]

After the closing of the Court of Claims (on 3rd January 1668–9), the only channel of relief open to the unsatisfied Nominees and other distressed Irish, was a direct application to the King or Lord Ormonde for a grant of some concealed forfeited land, claimed in the form of a discovery. But the deficient Adventurers and Soldiers (of whom there were many) having a prior right to be satisfied with two-thirds of their original lots, the only mode of obtaining a secure title was to purchase up deficiencies of Adventurers and Soldiers, enough to cover the amount of lands sought for. There is to be found in volume clxi. a series of petitions presented to the King in 1684, and by him referred to Ormonde, then in London, from some of the Nominees and others praying relief, exhibiting the practice in this respect. Thus Edward Tyrrell, son of Thomas Tyrrell, deceased, formerly of Barnan in the King's County, shows that his said father was seised of a considerable estate, until dispossessed by the usurpers. That his Majesty granted the said Thomas Tyrrell his letter of 20th December 1661, to be restored in consideration of his services and sufferings, but that he had no benefit from the said letter, nor had petitioner after his decease. That his estate, which has been granted by his Majesty to some Soldiers formerly serving the said usurpers, yields to his Majesty a considerable quit rent. He therefore prays a grant of 2,000 acres of undisposed or concealed lands such petitioner can find out and ascertain his Majesty's title to.

The petition being referred by the King to Ormonde for his report, he certifies [1] clx. 79. [2] clix. 144.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

the petitioner's merits, and his father's, his father having been imprisoned by the Nuncio's faction for his adherence to the peace of 1646, and having given such testimonies of his zeal and industry upon the conclusion of the peace of 1648 to advance his Majesty's interest, he (Ormonde) thought fit to employ him as one of the judges of the kingdom. But if his Majesty shall please to grant him 2,000 acres of concealed lands in lieu of his said father's sufferings, he humbly conceives the petitioner ought to place satisfiable debentures thereon, according to the rules of the Acts of Settlement and Explanation, and that no new commissions of inquiry do issue for discovering such lands, to the disturbance of the country, and that he produce a list of such lands as he shall discover to be in your Majesty's disposal, to your Majesty's Lieutenant, deputy, or other chief governor.

St. James' Square, 19th July 1683. ORMONDE.[1]

This series of petitions is particularly valuable, as not merely setting forth the petition at full length, but Ormonde's report, and thereby are often exhibited the occurrences of many years.

Such is the case of John Cantwell, one of the nominees, whose petition is as follows:—

"To the King's most excellent Majesty.

"The humble petition of John Cantwell, grandson and heir of John Cantwell of Ballymacady, in the county of Tipperary.

"Sheweth,—

"That your Majesty was graciously pleased by your letters, bearing date the 24th day of January 1660–1, to require the then justices of Ireland to put your petitioner's said grandfather into the immediate possession of his former estate, upon consideration had of the eminent services performed by him to your Majesty and royal father of ever blessed memory, part of which are particularly set down in your said royal letters, a copy whereof is hereunto annexed.

"That your petitioner, nor his father, or his said grandfather, have been restored to the possession of a foot of the said estate, contrary to your royal intentions, though the same contains 30,000 acres of profitable land, plantation measure, in the counties of Tipperary and Limerick, and have been in their family above 400 years past, and is worth 4,000*l.* sterling per annum, nor have they ever received any benefit by the clause contained in the explanatory act in the behalf of the nominees, whereof your petitioner's said grandfather was one.

"Now your petitioner being an object of your Majesty's charity, doth with all humility presume to offer his present condition, and the services and sufferings of his said grandfather and father, unto your royal consideration, praying that your Majesty will be graciously pleased to grant unto him your royal letters for an effectual grant unto him and his heirs to the clear yearly value of 500*l.* per annum, which your petitioner shall make out and discover to be forfeited unto and concealed from your Majesty, and in the interim that he shall receive some competent annuity out of your Majesty's revenue in Ireland.

"And your petitioner shall for ever pray, &c."[2]

The King's letter of 24th January 1660–1 referred to, is grounded upon the report of Lord Chancellor Eustace and Sir Richard Kennedy, made on the petition of James Cantwell, the grandfather, and they certified among other things that it appeared by the testimony of the Earl of Inchiquin and Lord Kerry that the said James Cantwell at the head of a body of horse and foot, under the commission of Sir William St. Leger, Lord President of Munster, deceased, and the council of that province in the year 1641 (as was testified by the letters of the said Lord President), did protect the Protestants, and the said president assured him of a gracious recompense from his Majesty, and desired that Mr. Cantwell's services to the English might not be forgotten to succeeding ages.[3]

The present petitioner's case being referred to Ormonde for his report, he confirms its truth, and conceives him to be a fit object for his Majesty's bounty.[4]

The report is dated 12th August 1682, so that 22 years after the King's letter and two Acts of Parliament in which James Cantwell was specially named for restoration, this nominee was still unrestored.

"To the King's most exc[t] Ma[tie].

"The humble petic'on of Walter Butler.

"Most humbly showeth,—

"That your pet[r] & his ancestor, being possessed of a considerable estate for above 500 yeares past in Ireland, & never acted any thing against the Crowne which [1] clxi. 35. [2] Ibid. 5. [3] Ibid. [4] Ibid.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

is well knowne to the Duke of Ormond, to whose peace in forty-eighte y^r pet^r his father submitted and lent money for his Ma^tie of blessed memory

I paid Mr. Secer'y at home the fees of this.

his use, yo^r pet^r being dispossessed of the said estate by Cromwell, and his father killed at the head of his company in your Ma^ties his service left y^r pet^r & his two sisters in a most deplorable condition incapable to sue for his said estate in the Court of Claymes for want of money to prosecute his claime, though nothing could be objected against him, being born the first yeare of the Rebellion of Ireland.

" Y^r pet^r tenderly considered doe most humbly pray your Ma^tie out of your wonted clemancy & goodness to commiserate your poore pet. & his two sisters, having nothing to live upon since they lost their estates, to grant them some competency out of the treasury of England or Ireland, or out of Walcot his estate in Ireland, or out of sume of the rest of rebells estates, and in duty bound he will ever pray."

" Whitehall, 1^o August 1688.

" His Ma^tie, haveing a regard to the loyalty of the pet^rs & his family, is graciously pleased to refer this petition to his Grace the Duke of Ormond to consider of the pet^rs pretention & prayer, & to report his opinion thereupon to his Ma^tie, who will then declare his further pleasure.

" L. JENKINS."

" May it please your Ma^tie,

" In obedience to yo^r Ma^ties reference of the first of Aug^t last, I have considered of the petic'on of Walter Butler, and doe humbly certifie that the pet^rs ancestors were seized of a considerable estate in the county of Kilkenny, and that his father submitted to the peace concluded in Ireland in the yeare 1648, and was afterwards killed in the service of your Ma^tie at Drogheda as I am informed by a certificate hereunto annexed, signed by St. Edward Sutton, & I doe believe the pet^r & his relations are now in a poore & indigent condition, & that he was soe in the late Court of Claymes so as not able to prosecute his claimes as he shuldgos. How farr your Ma^tie shall be pleased in tenderresse of them to afford your bounty is most humbly submitted to your Ma^ties good pleasure.

" ORMONDE."

" St. James's Square, 4th September 1688."

The grave tenor of this series of petitions is somewhat relieved by the marginal remarks of the entering clerk, by name Will. Wogan, who has left the following entry in the cover of the volume. " Memorandum, I came to serve in the office " under secretary Gascoigne on my Lord Duke of Ormond's last coming into the " government of Ireland in the year 1677, since which time till now is seven years, " this being 1684.

" Loudini, 10th May. " W. WOGAN." [1]

His duty appears to have been, besides entering the petitions and reports, to take look after, and record the payment of the fees of his master the Duke of Ormonde's secretary. Thus, in the margin of Robert Arthur's petition, " Mr. Arthur owes " Mr. Secretary for the report, and Will. Wogan too."

In Sir Maurice Hurley's case, " The fees of this was lost at the fire time in Suckville " Street." On Captain Robert Purcell's, " He paid Mr. Secretary himself at my Lord " Duke's."

As a specimen of his humour may be mentioned his remarks upon the margin of the petition of William McBrien of Aberlo in the province of Munster, who prays a grant of 5,600 acres of concealed lands, rough and mountainous, formerly the petitioner's until expelled by the late usurped power, when it passed to Adventurers since satisfied elsewhere, and now applicable to petitioner as his discovery, he having purchased up claims of deficient Adventurers to that amount. He is loud in proclaiming his poverty, being not worth 5*l.* of wordly substance, and nothing left to maintain himself and family, save what interest he hath in the premises as aforesaid, and he and his family will be for ever ruined, if not soon relieved by a grant of the said lands.

" All of which said concealed lands and crown interests so vested in your Majesty will prove advantageous to your Majesty and successors for the satisfaction of the said deficient persons and the Dutchess of Cleaveland, wherein neither H.R.H. the Duke of York or his Grace the Duke of Ormond are interested." [2]

---

[1] cixi., on the cover of the volume. [2] cixi. 23.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

He concludes by asking his Majesty for some yearly provision or maintenance towards the recovery thereof, for his present charges, and support of his said distressed wife and five small children.

The first of Mr. Wogan's characteristic remarks on this petition is opposite to the opening clause. "Memorandum, an esquire not worth one farthing, but has a good gift of prayer, and has promised me that while he lives. W. W." Elsewhere he writes "Pauper." And opposite to the petitioner's prayer for a pension, "A right Irishman "by my faith. W. W." In the margin of Margaret Thickness' petition he writes "Pauper, and a d——d troublesome woman."[1]

The fear of these practices of discoverers kept the possessors of estates under doubtful title in such disquiet that Lord Ormonde and the Council of Ireland in the year 1678 had prepared a bill for the general and final settlement and security of estates.

The scheme was to empower the King by Act of Parliament to issue a commission for securing defective titles on the payment of fines by the parties in possession, but this of course would for ever disappoint those who were in pursuit of relief by these discoveries. "Of all those whose pretensions would be concluded and they deprived of any hopes from the provisions made for them by the acts of settlement and explanation, the case of the Innocents of Connaught, and of the totally deficient Nominees, appears to me (says Ormonde) to be the hardest; and the council thought that the product of what should be raised by the commission of defective titles should be appropriated to their satisfaction. And the truth is, that the commission was first thought of and calculated for that sole use. But on debate it was found that many other interests interposed for satisfaction with or before them, as his Royal Highness the Duke of York, the '49 men, and some deficient Adventurers and Soldiers, who all perhaps had preferable pretentions in all respects, but in that of the sadness of the conditions of these poor gentlemen, and the compassion due to it." Dublin, 31st July 1678. (Ormonde to Secretary Sir William Coventry.)[2]

The result was that the bill was laid aside: indeed no Parliament was called in Ireland after the dissolution (in 1666) of the Parliament that passed the Acts of Settlement and Explanation. In 1684, however, the King proceeded to do without an act of Parliament, what had hitherto been deemed beyond his power, namely, to issue a commission empowering commissioners to bar in fact the claims of the deficient Adventurers and Soldiers and the unsatisfied Nominees derived under the Acts of Settlement, by which the lands were vested in him as their trustee.

This commission was styled the Commission of Grace, and bore date the 14th March 1684.

In vol. lxvi. of the Carte collection there is a very valuable paper entitled "Some "general (but imperfect) hints of Ireland for above 40 years past, A.D. 1684," giving a very intelligible account of the nature and purpose of the Commission of Grace. The treatise is evidently by one versed in the public business of Ireland, probably a member of the council board. It is as follows:—

"For many years after the closing of the Court of Claims, those who had favor in Court got commissions of inquiry to look after concealed lands, and in the execution of such commissions there was much vexation and harassing to the subject; however, this rule was still observed, that they who found out such concealed lands thought they were due unto the ends of the Acts, for the Acts had promised satisfaction to all, not only to the reprizable English lately dispossessed by the Innocents, but to those who were either unsatisfied or deficient from the beginning (not to mention the case of the disappointed Irish). And therefore those favourite grantees bought up unsatisfied debentures (which they might buy for a song), and so entered as it were regularly by satisfying so much of the public debt. But of late it had been held for law that all the periods of those Acts were expired, and consequently that all concealed or forfeited land to be found was no longer in his Majesty as a royal trustee to the uses of the Acts, but in his own right, and therefore he hath lately issued a commission (styled the Commission of Grace) to free the subject from such former vexatious inquiries, and to encourage those possessed under a doubtful title to purchase a confirmation at a moderate fine, the produce whereof to the Crown some persuaded his Majesty would bring in 100,000*l.*, but others only half that amount. It were to be wished (he adds) that a considerable part of such money were distributed to those Irish families as have been notoriously disappointed of the good intended them by the acts, and by which their condition is most miserable, many of the English allowing some sort of gifts or poor subsistence to the old proprietors, who evermore haunt and live about those lands they were dispossessed of, and cannot forbear to hope and reckon upon a day of re-possession."

[1] clxi. 16. [2] clxvi. 118.

The funds, however, instead of being applied to the relief of the miserable families of the disappointed nominees, would seem to have been granted to the notorious Mrs. Jeffry Palmer, now become Duchess of Cleveland. (Duchess of Cleveland to Ormonde, 17th March 1683–4. D. 4to., 227.)

There are two small folio volumes (clxvi. and clxvii.) endorsed "Irish Grants, 1685," the first of them being fiants or warrants for some letters patent made in pursuance of the Commission of Grace, the other volume containing the short statement always made by the attorney-general of the purport of the patent, to convey the sense of it to the Lord Lieutenant and council. But we have not directed any transcripts from these volumes, as a calendar of all the patents passed under this commission has been published ("Abstract of grants of lands and other hereditaments under the Commission of Grace, 36–37 Chas. 2, and 1–4 James 2, 1684–1688; compiled from the original inrolments in the Rolls Office by George Hatchell, clerk of the inrolments in Chancery, being a supplement to the 3rd volume of the Irish Record Commission Reports, 1820–1825. Folio. Dublin, Alex. Thom, 1839").

Tories.

The "Tories" furnish another extensive heading in this series of petitions, orders, and warrants.

The Tories were bands of outlaws, for the most part headed by some dispossessed proprietor, rendered furious by poverty and despair. Sometimes regular conditions were entered into with them, agreeing to grant them pardon, they on their part undertaking to transport themselves to foreign parts.

Sometimes an English gentleman was authorized to pursue them with his armed retainers and slay them.

Sometimes the sheriff and soldiers of the neighbouring garrisons; oftener spies were employed to pretend to be of the Tories' party, to discover them or to lead them into some ambush, to be there taken or killed.

Thus, on the 16th of February 1668–4, Henry Gilbert, high sheriff of the Queen's County, has a warrant against some rebels and Tories, namely,

John Costigan (who is elsewhere mentioned as "the famous Tory"), Gregory Costigan, brother of said John, Hugh Ro Kelly, and several others abroad in the King's and Queen's Counties on both sides of the mountain of Slieve Bloom, and in and about the bog of Moneely in the county of Tipperary, with liberty to the said Henry Gilbert to employ such persons as he shall think fit to be frequently conversant among the said Tories in order to the setting them; and by warrant of same date the officers of the several garrisons of Maryborough, Birr, and Roscrea were to furnish the said sheriff such parties of their soldiers as he should desire to assist him.

Yet at the end of two years and a half from this time Costigan was still untaken, for Colonel Richard Grace having solicited a pass for a Tory, one James Dwiggin, to quit the kingdom, Ormonde refused, but authorized Colonel Grace to assure him of his Majesty's pardon if he would bring in the head of the Tory Costigan or some others of that crew.[1]

On 6th March 1665–6, Thomas Sadlier, esquire, high sheriff of the county of Tipperary, was empowered by Ormonde to parley with Laurence Butler, Nicholas Croke, now rebels in action, and other rebels of like kind, and to give them safe conduct and protection, and to assure them and every of them that shall be serviceable, and shall bring to justice any other rebels, not merely pardon but reward.[2]

On 17th March 1665–6, Colonel William Warden was empowered to treat with one or two of the bands of Tories abroad in the Queen's County and the counties of Kilkenny, Tipperary, and Waterford, to betray the rest, and to discover their accomplices, harbourers, and relievers.[3]

17th February 1666, Sir Arthur Forbes has warrant to treat with the Longford and Leitrim Tories, and promise them such conditions as may be necessary for the good of the country.[4]

One of these gentlemen was Captain Dudley (or Dualtagh) Costello. He and his ancestors had owned the baronies of Costello and Gallen in the county of Mayo, until expelled by the wars and confiscation of 1641. At the end of the war (in 1652) he retired to Flanders and became a captain in the Duke of York's regiment of Irish, and gained great distinction for his gallant conduct at the siege of Betune in French

[1] clxiv. 84. [2] clxv. 355. [3] Ibid. 387. [4] clxiii. 59.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Flanders. His name is found specially mentioned in the King's Declaration of 30th November 1660 (embodied in the Act for the Settlement of Ireland) among the 232 gentlemen who are to be restored to their former estates "as having faithfully served "under the King's Ensigns abroad," with this qualification, "a reprize being first set "out to the soldier or adventurer in possession of equal worth and purchase."

This made their restoration almost hopeless; but the Act of Explanation passed in 1666 extinguished every chance of restoration.

Dudley Costello, now desperate, joined Cornet Edmund Nangle, a man in like condition, who soon afterwards fell in a mad attack on the barracks at Longford. They were driven out of Leinster and Connaught and betook themselves to the discontented in Ulster.

The first intelligence of them there, is early in June 1666, in a letter from Sir Mathew Appleyard, Governor of Charlemont fort, to the Duke of Ormonde, giving his account of his pursuit of them and driving them back towards Connaught. Sir Mathew took Lord Charlemont's troop and some foot and dragoons, and marched at night to Dungannon, and thence proceeded with the horse only to Fintona, so as to be there (where they heard Costello and Nangle were) before the sun was up. But they were gone the night before about the time Sir Mathew Appleyard was beginning his march. They were all drinking in an old Scotchman's house in Fintona, when the market people and a scout they had abroad called to them to fly, for the troops were coming.

Again they were seen drinking aqua vitæ in a wood within a mile of Sir Mathew's force, but they had a scout upon a hill, who viewed and counted the troops. The following is Sir Mathew's despatch:—

"Major Appleyard to Ormonde.

"May it please y^r Grace, "Charlemont, June 16, 1666.

"I durst not take upon me to stay the last post so long until I could acquaint y^r Grace with my resolution as soon as I could get the officers together & communicate the sense of that letter I sent to your Grace. They all thought they were not to be suffered to continue together. I immediately sent for my Lord Charlemont's troope, & with 24 foote & 12 dragoons (all I could in so short a time mount upon their own & their officers' horses, our townsmen having nothing worth anything) & marched to Dungannon, 5 miles, & finding Fintona to be 20 or 21 miles from thence, ill & mountainous way, dismissed the foote & marched with the horse & dragoons, & gott thither before the sun was up. But they were gone the night before about the time we were beginning our march (tho' they gave out they would fight us), nor could we gett any intelligence of them but that they were gone to the mountains of Cavan or Monaghan. They threaten that if they cannot get their pardon they will do all the mischef they can. But I am of belief that if they were once proclaimed Rebells, people would be fearful to entertain them, & if I had money I could get them lodged.

"Some say they were 6 or 8, but an old Scotchman avouchetn there were 12 of them at once all in his house, about dressing Neale oge Oneale's head, hurt in a private quarrel among themselves, when the market people & a scout they had abroad called to them to fly, for the troops were coming.

"Yet Major Windesor says he saw 8 of them exceeding well mounted, but they hasted to the mountains, & that James Steward told him that they were in a wood drinking aqua vitæ within a mile of us, & had a scout upon an hill, who viewed & counted us. Major Windesor went for me (after we could get no intelligence of them) to see Mr. Mervyn; & herein if I have done any thing contrary to your Grace's sense or pleasure, &c. &c. "MATH" APPLETARD."[1]

Nangle and Costello were now driven back into Connaught, and were proclaimed Tories and Rebels, and given a day to come in and surrender or be deemed outlaws and traitors, the preliminary step to setting a price on their heads. The country to which Dudley betook himself was the baronies of Costello and Gallen, in the eastern part of the county of Mayo. It was his own country; but his own no longer. It was a country in that day of wood, mountain, lake, and bog. The streams flowing down the western slope of the hills unite at Strad and flow thence in a straight course northwards to that estuary which has the town of Ballina on the river Moy at its head, and the bay of Killalla at its mouth, so regular in form that it represents a pair of gently opened compasses.

Viscount Dillon of Costello and Gallen had his mansion house at Lough Glyn in the county of Roscommon, contiguous to the barony of Costello and Gallen, where his [1] xxxiv. 439.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

estate principally lay. He was a Roman Catholic and had been President of Connaught under the Catholic Confederates from 1646 to 1649; but was of the old English race, a royalist, and a trusted friend of Ormonde. He had been restored by Ormonde's influence to his great estates. It was to him Ormonde looked for the bringing down of Costello. Lord Dillon warned all his tenants against giving Costello aid or shelter on pain of being treated as traitors and rebels themselves. Lord Dillon however, and Ormonde had been his comrades in the war in Flanders, and Lord Dillon seems to have had some compunction about killing him. For he wrote (23rd June 1666) to Costello and assured him if he came in on his protection he would intercede for him with Ormonde. (cexv. 142.)

But Costello knew too well what terms would be proposed in order to his pardon. "For Dudo Costello," writes the Duke of Ormonde to Lord Dillon on 7th July 1666) "unlesse he will undertake to bring to justice some of his fellows, especially one Hill "and one Plunket who lately committed great outrages in the north and are come "into Connaught, if he can draw these men into a trap and deliver them to justice, I "will undertake his pardon, but on no other terms."

These Costello scorned, and wrote the following defiant letter to Lord Dillon:—

"My Lord, "Gortlaghane, the 18th August 1666.

"My being proclaimed traytor without questioning or sum'oning mee to my vindication, is so rare a practise that it could not be done but upon men of hono[rs] [honour's?] relation and information; was [is] so false, that a man of extrinsicall hono' could hardly appeare in it. A man of intrinsick hono' would dye sooner. Yet be the informers qualified with what hono' they please, they have wittingly & cunningly sought & composed my destruction upon the stage of theire owne disadvantage. Now y[t] they have acted their part of that tragedy, it is time I should come & act mine, which I intend in another guised manner then they acted theirs; though [they?] going under a vayle in their maske; I naked in my own collo', & made [making?] use of no actors in my part of the tragedy of their destruction, but such as will openly owne it. My Lord, I have so much of honor yet left me, which my adversaries know very well though they will not owne it, as I will not unawares seeke their destruction as they did mine; but do declare by these presents that I will by killing, & burning both corne & edifices act my part of their destructive tragedy; let them prevent it the best way they may, now that they have timely notice. If they had dealt thus generously with me, I would have prevented their designe of obtaining my being proclaimed traytor, by the vindication of my innocency in what was layd to my charge. My Lord, some part of the reason why I give your Lo'p the trouble of this letter is, that I know the greatest number of my misrepresenters & informers are in yo' neighbourhood where now you are, & that you might intimate the contents thereof to them to put them upon their guard, as being of your Lo'p's relation. I understand (my Lord), though you had not a hand hitherto in the matter, your Lo'p approves very much of the Act, & that withall you threaten a generall destruction to both these barronies of yr's for their relation to me. If you really intend it your Lo'p cannot fix upon a more befitting instrument or a man that will be humbler & more willing to effect it then my Lord,

"Yo' Lo'ps most obedient servant,

"For the Right Hon[ble] the Lord "Dud. Costellor."[1] Visc[t] Dillon of Costelloe, These."

In the month of August following, Lord Dillon had no sooner quitted the country than Dudley Costello with 17 or 18 lusty kernes well armed appeared, and apprised all Lord Dillon's tenants of the baronies of Costello and Gallen to quit, or he would burn both them and their corn together in autumn when in haggard.[2] Captain Tibbot Dillon and Cornet Philip Ormsby, who had the charge to watch Costello in Lord Dillon's absence, finding at Michaelmas that he and his band had been in their neighbourhood for a week past, attempted to get the country to raise the hue and cry; but not one of them gave obedience. It was in all their mouths, "Let his Lordship "defend his own country." (Philip Ormsby to Lord Viscount Dillon at Kilfaghny, Castlemore, September 24, 1666.)

The country was full of Costello's friends and kindred, and they harboured and supported him. There were several also abroad in arms with him. Captain Dillon advised that the parents should be seized to force their sons to come in. He concludes his letter to Lord Dillon: "My Lord, there is hardly a Costello, a Grady, or "a Heney with their followers in this barony but will go forth in this rebellion if "speedy course be not taken to prevent it." (Id. ibid.)

[1] xxx. 26.

[2] Captain Philip Ormsby to Viscount Dillon; dated from Lough Glyn, 28th August 1666 (cxlv. 140 b.)

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Lord Kingston, Lord President of Connaught, came himself in October to Boyle, and met Lord Dillon's steward, and urged that Costello residing among his Lordship's tenants, some of them might sett him or betray him to his purseers. To this they answered (writes Lord Kingston) that he was so beloved of the people that it was impossible to effect either. That they had tried both ways, and that the men they intrusted had become his instead of their intelligencers. "I have sent (continues Lord Kingston) to seize the chief inhabitants and his relations who have furnished him with victuals or lodgiug since his coming amongst us. I have sent to all the Romish clergy in those baronies, that if they do not excommunicate him and his party and any person who shall know the place of his abode without giving speedy notice to the next garrison, I will not suffer one of them to live in the country. And I shall endeavour (he concludes) by those spies I have some assurance in, to apprehend him; but I find it more difficult than I believed to make one Irishman betray another." (Lord Kingston to the Duke of Ormonde; dated Boyle, 6th October, 1666. xxxv. 61.)

Meantime Costello was not idle, and on the 8th of December 1666 the President of Connaught, who had retired to his estate at Michelstown, in the county of Tipperary, was apprised of an event of some moment by Captain Thomas Caulfeild, of Dunammon, in the county of Roscommon, Vice-President of Connaught, and brother of Viscount Charlemont. "Costello and his band of about thirty men (writes Captain Caulfeild) some three hours before day on 27th of November, burnt Castlemore, having entered by means of a turf stack placed against the outside of the bawn (or fortified curtilage), burnt Mr. Ormsby's house and barns; only the new tower was defended by two soldiers (the rest of the party being abroad with Sir Francis Gore), who killed two of the enemy, who thereupon marched away; and on Monday last they burnt Ballibeham. Since which time they have done nothing." (Captain Caulfeild to John Lord Kingston; dated Dunamon, Dec. 3, 1666. xxxv. 105.)

The Earl of Kingston made light of this event to Lord Ormonde, saying he knew Castlemore to be but a lamentable thatcht cabin without any defensible wall, and that Costello took his opportunity of firing it when there was not a man near it. A fresh commission was now issued to Colonel Garret Moore and Major John Browne of the Neale, and an additional reward of 100*l.* offered to whosoever should bring in Dudley Costello or his head to the Lord President of Connaught, and H. M.'s gracious pardon for all offences except notorious murder. (Dated 8th December 1666.)

He was now pursued by Sir Arthur Gore's, Sir Francis Gore's, Captain Dyas's, and that which was lately Captain Taylor's companies of foot soldiers, who had been on extraordinary hard duty the last six weeks before the 18th of December, and by the barrenness of the country and unseasonableness of the year reduced to great necessities. He was indeed hard to be come at. "He lies not at night (writes Lord Dillon) "within two miles of where he supe; and lies not two nights together in the same "place."

In spite of all the efforts of the army, Costello escaped through the favour of the country. They had driven him, however, out of Connaught, and the night before he retired they nearly captured him, having seized the arms and clothes of fifteen of his men, who never exceeded thirty. Whether he had fled into Leinster or Ulster was uncertain; but Captain Caulfeild informed the Lord President he thought Dudley intended to keep his Christmas in Leitrim.

But Dudley, it seems, was bent on keeping his promise before he kept his Christmas.

"Captain Tibbot Dillon to the Lord Viscount Dillon, of Costello and Gallen, These.

"My Lord, "Dry Mill, December 20, 1666.

"This day about two of y^e^ clocke in the afternoon I mette a letter heere from Philip Ormsby importing that Dudley Costello ere yesternight burnt three townes of my farme in Gallen, as Tollemacecorra, Tollanehan, and Fazyneys, and four villages in Costello, as parte of Coylemorelorga, Tawnogna, and Areneagh, in the parish of Killeogh, and resolves to burn all these two baronies.

"Your Lordships, &c.

"THEOBALD DILLON."

"P.S.—The messenger tells me they give out he is three score strong."[1]

Same to same.

"My Lord, "Loughglin, y^e^ 21^th^ December 1666.

"Hither I came last night, and doe finde that Dud. Costello the night before has burnt the village of Killmovee, Ardchville, and Coyleeashel, and last night was burning each side of the Moy about Leughmackerkan and Newcastell, and resolves to runn that course through both baronies unless speedily prevented. And as soon as he has done burning, threatens to hough and hew their cattle. Whereupon severall has already parted and most of the rest preparing to goe, soe I was fearing you will have but a sadd account of this halfe yeares rent, unless your Lordship come to the country and raise men of your owne for the preservation of it. As yett I had no returne from the Vice-President, nor none of the Bellamo men come as I expected. There is one Tory, by name Richard Flanagan, taken by those of Fort Dillon.

[1] xxxv. 115.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"P.S.—My Lord, let no consideration keepe you, for heere and att Fort Dillon you may be secure whilst you are in the country. I desire you will bring or send a dozzen or two of peike heads, for heere wee can gett none, nor so much of Spanish iron either at Roscommon, the Boyle, or Ballintobber, as would make them." (xxxv. 114). Lord Dillon came, for in a letter to Will. Summers, dated from "Killfaghnie, " on the 22nd December," commencing "Honest Will," and addressed "For my worthy "friend Mr. Wm Sumers, att Dublin Castle," he gives him for the Duke of Ormonde the results of a council of war he had held at Dunamnon with the Vice-President Caulfeild, and concludes thus: "And tell his Grace if it were not for Magna Carta "and his Grace's displeasure, I would subdue all the rebels in Connaught in ten days. "I wish you a merry Christmas." (xxxv. 117).

Ormonde now issued the following orders:—

"To the Lord Kingston, Lord President of Connaught or (in his absence) to the Vice-President.

"After our hearty commendations to your Lordship. We cannot but be very sensible of the extreme boldness and insolencie of those Tories that now infest some parts of that province of Connaught, and therefore, although we have given direction for the prosecution of some of them by some of H.M.'s Army, and afterwards (when that way proved ineffectual) resolved that souldiers be placed on their septs, kindred, and relievers until those malefactors were either brought into justice or otherwise cut off: yet now, as a further means against the said Tories, and considering that we find reason to believe that the Popish titulary clergy, residing in those parts so infested by those Tories, do rather animate and encourage them in their wicked courses to the annoyance of H.M.'s good subjects, than admonish them to the performance of that duty & loyalty to his Majesty, which by the laws of God and Nature they owe to him; we thereupon pray and require your Lordship forthwith to cause all and every the Popish titulary clergy that shall be found in those parts where those Tories do haunt, to be apprehended and committed to prison, there to remain until further direction from us. And that you send us the list of the names of all such as shall be apprehended, that we may thereupon give such further directions concerning them as shall be fit. And so we bid you heartily farewell, from H.M.'s Castle of Dublin. The 8th day of January 1666-7.

"Your loving friend,
"ORMONDE."[1]

On the 1st of January 1666-7, the Duke gave orders to Captain Caulfeild, Vice-President, at his request, to have the Bawn and old piece of a castle at Ballyclare to be made tenable, and manned against Costello, and directed that Captain William St. George should seize upon all the boats and cots upon the Shannon from Camine island to the head of the river, and send them to Carrickdramrusk,[2] to be there secured till further order, as he was informed that Costello, and his complices and adherents, was drawing to the parts about the Shannon. (cxliv. 92.)

Orrery, Lord President of Munster (once Broghill), a man thorough-paced in all the measures of Cromwellian rule, now appears upon the scene to assist by his advice his neighbour, the Lord President of Connaught.

Lord Kingston writes (1st January 1666-7) from his Castle of Michelston in the county of Tipperary, that Orrery has furnished him with a spy from Munster, who undertakes to bring in the head of that uncircumcised Philistine that hath given Lord Dillon so much trouble in Connaught.

His aspect was such that Lord Kingston thought it were not much difference whether he brought in Costello's head, or Costello his.

On the 3rd of March 1666-7, Captain Theobald Dillon having got notice that Dudley and his party were in Culecorney on the other side of the Moy, marched thither in pursuit. The following letter tells the result:—

[1] cxliv. 94. The like as the above to the Lord Viscount Dungannon, for the province of Ulster.
[2] Now known as Carrick-on-Shannon.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Captain Theobald Dillon to the Viscount Dillon.

"[ ] Croghan, ye 3d of March,

"My Lord, att tenn of y^e^ clocke att night.

"After my letter to your Lordship this afternoon, I vaded the Moy watter, and came hither with an intente to beate up all this parte of the countrey; and having no intelligence of the rebbels being neare us any where, I had dispersed my men in two little villages to eat, who were all to meete here, where was six or seven of my men proved a Courte de garde for us, upon whom the rebbels came betwixt 7 and 8 of y^e^ clocke, and after some dispute of shott went to the sword; in which encounter, one Walter Jordan, an old souldier of mine, was lost, three more wounded.

"With that I happened to fall in with fifteen or sixteen fresh men, the rest of our men, being not so many more, following. Dudley and the rebbels, being as it seemed to us forty men, rallied together, and stayed until we came within pistol shott. There the two first ranks of our partie gave fire, whereupon Dudley was shott stone dead, and all the rest routed, whom we have dispersed, to two parties, and pursued for two miles of mountaine all in the darke, but could not overtake any. But certain I am there is some of these desperately wounded. His whole head and body I shall (God willing) convey to-morrow morning to the Church of Killeghendiffe, where I shall expect your Lordship's commands.

"Your Lordship's faithful, &c.

"Theob. Dillos."[1]

Dudley Costello became a victim at last to his own error of judgment, or rather his mistake. He became assailant when he might have retreated. He supposed that Captain Dillon's men were raw soldiers newly raised, (wrote Lord Dillon,)but the party that were with him were reformed officers and soldiers of Captain Charles Dillon's.[2]

In the same letter Lord Dillon informs the Duke of Ormonde that he had set Dudley Costello's head on Castlemore, and had the body brought to Fort Dillon, and had sent to the Vice-President Caulfeild to know what he would have done with the ordering of his quarters, to be placed where he might think best.

Lord Ormonde, however, by an immediate despatch (dated 9th of March 1666-7) after thanking Lord Dillon, and all others engaged in destroying the rebel Dudley Castello, directed that Costello's head should be taken down from Castlemore, and sent up to his Majesty's Castle of Dublin, where probably for several months it was to be seen on the battlements of the prison tower or over the entrance gate of the castle.[3]

Kincogus.

Part of the system of war against the Tories was the practice of "Kincogus," and there is in these volumes a whole series of Kincogus warrants.

This proceeding, which was originally the calling upon the head of the sept to bring forth any one of the sept guilty of an offence against a member of another sept, or else the whole sept of the offender should be answerable, was of ancient Irish origin, and was perfectly reasonable between independent tribes, and, indeed, is to this day the law of nations, where each nation stands towards every other in the position of an independent tribe, and is bound to punish or be answerable for acts of war or plunder by its own citizens. But it seems to be scarcely justifiable unless the party called upon claims or is allowed a command over those he is called upon to produce, as is remarked by Edmund Spenser on the statute of Edward the Fourth called "the statute of Kincogish," which he therefore objects to, as it was contrary to the policy of the English to acknowledge the power of the Irish chieftains over their septs where English law prevailed. (View of the State of Ireland by Edmund Spenser, Esq., in the year 1596, p. 451. Collection of Irish Tracts by Alexander Thom, 8vo., Dublin, 1860, vol. I.)

The demand was still more unreasonable at the period now in question, for it called on a population disarmed to act against a set of desperate men desperately armed, though it is true they were expected to act only as traitors and spies against them. But the consequences of informing were the having their houses burned or themselves slain, or their tongues cut out, of which latter we met with more than one instance.

The following is headed "Kincogus warrant," and is dated 12th January 1666-7:—

"Whereas Dudley or Dudlagh Costello, Donagh O'Dowd, Tiege McDonagh McNamara, Walter Shoaugh, John Phillips, Dudley Costello fitz Richard, Terence

[1] cxliv. 149^b^. [2] xxxv. 207. [3] cxliv. 98.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

McDonnell, Æneas McDonnell, Edmund Jordan, (and 16 others all named,) appear in arms against his Majesty's authority, do stand on their keeping, and are not amenable to his Majesty's laws, several of them having committed burglaries, robberies, stealths, murder, and divers other outrages, to the terror and annoyance of his Majesty's good subjects, and to the disturbance of the peace of the kingdom;

"We, therefore, in pursuance of an act of council made at the council board, dated 31st December last, do hereby require the chief officer resident and commanding the horse troop or foot company of his Majesty's army next to the place where the said malefactors do usually harbour, that such officer do take the advice of the high sheriff of the county of Mayo for the numbers of horse and foot, and for the persons of the septs and kindreds of the said malefactors resident in the county of Mayo on whom the said horse and foot are to be charged; and that such officer or officers, with such number of horse and foot as shall be advised as aforesaid, do march to the several houses or places of abode of such of the said septs and kindreds, relievers, and harbourers of the said rebels, until the said rebels shall be apprehended and brought to justice, or otherwise be cut off by the sword; and the said officer or officers commanding such soldiers to be placed as aforesaid are to take great care that under countenance of this our warrant the said soldiers commit not any extorsion or oppression of his Majesty's subjects not intended by the said act of council or by this our warrant to be charged, but that they content themselves in their passage with competent meat and drink, paying ready money or giving ticket for the same. Given at his Majesty's Castle of Dublin, the 12th day of February 1666."[1]

There are similar warrants of the same date for the counties of Leitrim, Sligo, Londonderry, Down, and Tyrone for laying soldiers on the septs and kindreds, harbourers, and relievers in Leitrim, of Francis O'Ruarc, Brian Mollohery, and 12 others, by the advice of Captain Robert Parke, Captain Owen Wyane, and Captain Henry Crofton, or any two or more of them.[2] In Sligo, of Thige McNamee, Connor O'Dowde, and others, by the advice of the President of Connaught, the high sheriff of the county of Mayo, Sir Francis Gore, Major Robert Edgeworth, Francis King, Edward Nicholson, and Thomas Crofton, or any two or more of them.[3] In Londonderry, of John McCormack, Dermot O'Cahan, Laurence Ro O'Cahan, Manus O'Cahan, and Dermot Inchy O'Cahan, by the advice of the high sheriff and Sir Tristram Beresford, Dudley Philips, Esq., George Philips, and Dr. Ralph King, or any two of them.[4] In Down, of Art Oge Magennis, Conn Magennis, Hugh McManus O'Fagan, Thorlegh Ro O'Doran, Patrick O'Hanlon, Bryan Duff Magennis, Cormock Bawn McGee, and others, with the advice of the high sheriff Cole, Vere Cromwell, Sir George Rawdon, Bart., William Hill, Esq., Captain John Magill, or any two or more of them.[5] In Tyrone, of Neile Oge O'Neill and Conn O'Neill, sons of Captain Turlogh O'Neill, (and other O'Neils and McDonnells,) with the advice of the high sheriff, the Lord Viscount Chichester, Sir Arthur Chichester, Lieutenant-Colonel William Hamilton, and Captain Thomas Gonborne, or any two or more of them.[6]

The following petition prays for a grant of a manor, and charter for erecting a village into a borough, for the service rendered to the state by Tory hunting:—

"To the King's most Excellent Majesty.

"The humble petition of Francis Lucas, of Castle Shane, in the county of Monaghan, esquire, in the kingdom of Ireland.

"Sheweth,—

"That your petitioner and his family have been always true and loyal subjects to your Majesty and your royal ancestors, and your petitioner hath done signal service against Tories and robbers in the rebellion in the said kingdom, and hath a desire that by your Majesty's most gracious favour and license the said village of Castle Shane may be made a borough corporate, and your petitioner's estate in the said county and in the annexed schedule mentioned may be brought into one manor.

"May it therefore please your Majesty to grant unto your petitioner your Majesty's letters patent for the same. And your petitioner as in duty bound shall ever pray, &c."

And the petitioner being referred to Lord Ormonde, he certifies by his report, which is dated at St. James's Square, 1st August 1683, that said Francis Lucas hath been active and done good service against Tories and robbers that infested the county of Monaghan, where his estate lay, and he humbly conceived that his Majesty might grant him his desires.

---

[1] clxiii. 22. [2] Ibid. 20. [3] Ibid. 31. [4] Ibid.
[5] Ibid. 24. [6] clxviii. 22.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Volume cxliii., the second of those called "Ormonde letters," contains copies of a very important body of letters written by Ormonde between 16th August 1662 and 16th May 1664, to the King, to the several secretaries of the day, to the Lord Chancellor Clarendon, and to a few other official personages. The volume is in fact the letter book of the Lord Lieutenant during this period, and contains the official copies of the correspondence made by Sir George Lane, the Lord Lieutenant's secretary. Such copies could not but be considered as of an official character; and, as they regard matters of the highest importance, chiefly in relation to the Act of Settlement and the Explanatory Act, we determined that it would be our duty under your Lordship's instructions to place them on the list for transcription, unless it should appear that the originals of these letters were still extant. A partial opportunity for putting this question to the test presented itself in the collection of Clarendon MSS. in the Bodleian Library. Accordingly we examined a bundle of Clarendon's letters, dated in the years 1662, 1663, and 1664, which are deposited in the Curators' Room; and we had the satisfaction of finding among these papers a considerable number of the original letters of Ormonde to Clarendon, which are copied in this Ormonde letter book. In the same bundle we also found original letters of several others of Clarendon's Irish correspondents during the same years,—of Lord Anglesey, Lord Orrery, Audley Mervyn, Sir Alan Broderick, and Sir George Lane, all or nearly all relating to matters of high public interest. But on the other hand, there are several of the letters to Clarendon preserved in the letter book which do not appear in the bundle referred to; although it is quite possible that they may yet be found elsewhere in this most important and valuable collection of papers.

Encouraged by this discovery, we proceeded to complete the inquiry by examining the State Papers of Charles II. for the same period, in the Public Record Office; and, having made a catalogue of the letters of Ormonde, as entered by Lane in the letter book, we proceeded to test that catalogue by the actual collection of original papers from 1662 to 1664. The result of this examination, we rejoice to say, was even more satisfactory, and we are enabled to congratulate your Lordship and the public on the completeness and the perfectly satisfactory condition of this portion of the Public Records which it discloses. Not only did we succeed in identifying, in the series of domestic papers for 1662 to 1664, the originals of almost every single letter in the Ormonde letter book, but we had the further gratification of discovering a considerable number of original letters of Ormonde during these years, of which no copy is found in the letter book. Some of those letters, though uncopied, are of importance; but the non-appearance of the copies in this letter book seems to be explained by the circumstance that most of those letters bear date from Kilkenny, or some other provincial locality, and were dispatched while Ormonde was at a distance from the office in which the regular official copies of his correspondence were ordinarily made.

While we cannot refrain from bearing testimony to the excellence and the convenience of the chronological arrangement of this portion of the Public Records, as well as to its completeness so far as regards the subject of our inquiry, our direct object in these observations is to explain the course which we have thought it our duty to follow in carrying out this portion of your Lordship's instructions. Having thus satisfied ourselves of the existence and accessibility of the originals, we abstained from giving instructions that the copies, although official and authentic, should be transcribed from the letter book.

Petitions of the grantees of the Irish forfeitures against the Act of Resumption, 11 & 12 William III., and the reports of the trustees for sale.

The 113th volume contains a series of petitions presented to the House of Commons in the month of May 1701, as well by the grantees of the estates forfeited after the victory at the Boyne, as by the English purchasers and lessees from the grantees, whose interests were all made void by what is commonly called the Act of Resumption, the 11th and 12th of William III. (English), and by the Irish who were pardoned and restored, the lands being directed to be sold by public auction, discharged of all these claims and interests.

The prodigal donations of Irish forfeited lands made by William III. to his favourites and to foreigners created so much discontent that a commission of inquiry was appointed by the House of Commons in England. The commissioners in their report, dated 15th December 1699, specified 76 royal grants which had passed the Great Seal after the battle of the Boyne. The following table exhibits eight of these grants:—

1.	1

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

	Acres.
To Lord Woodstock (Van Bentinck) - -	135,820
To the Earl of Albemarle (Van Keppel) - -	100,633
To Countess of Orkney (Miss Elizabeth Villiers) -	25,649
To Lord Romney (Sidney) - - -	49,517
To Earl of Rochfort (de Zuliestien) - -	30,871
To Earl of Galway (de Ruvigny) - - -	36,146
To Marquis de Puizar - - -	30,312
To Earl of Athlone (de Ginkle) - - -	26,480
In all, - - -	522,630

Violent debates about these grants arose on the naturalization bill for naturalizing the Dutch generals, of which there is an account in the letters of a Mr. Robert Price, a barrister of Lincoln's Inn, and a member of the House, to his friend and patron the Duke of Beaufort, at Badminton, extending over a period of a few years before and after the Revolution, to be found in vol. CXXX. As the second Duke of Ormonde had married a daughter of that family, these letters were probably forwarded to him for his information, and thus become part of the Ormonde collection. In one of the debates, a member said that the "naturalization bill ought to be kicked out "of the House, and the foreigners after it out of the kingdom." (Robert Price to the Duke of Beaufort, 1st March 1693–4, vol. CXXX., 255.)

The Act of Resumption was accordingly passed, and thereupon the persons injured presented petitions setting forth their grievances under the act, and prayed to be excepted by some legislative provision from its operation, all which petitions were referred to Sir Henry Shere and the other commissioners for sale named in the act, to report to the house matter of fact.

The petitions in this volume have each of them the draft report of the commissioners in their own hand annexed, being the dominical or original from which the fair drafts for signature were prepared.

Among the Rawlinson collection of MSS. in the Bodleian Library there is another copy of the petitions (A. 253), but without the reports.

Proposals, however, were first presented on the part of the Irish in a body, praying that the forfeited estates might be restored (except to the most obnoxious) on the payment of fines. "The petitioners and their posterity (they urge) must for ever continue in their native country, for in what manner soever they are or may be treated they have no other place to fly to, such of their countrymen as unhappily chose to take their fortune in a foreign service not having being so treated as to leave the petitioners any hope of refuge abroad, and they will be better subjects (they add) if restored, than if they and their posterity be thrown into a state of for ever being mere hewers of wood and drawers of water. If ten years wandering (they add) without house or home, and the payment of the proposed fines, be not sufficient to instruct them and their posterity, it may be concluded that nothing else than cutting off root and branch will restrain them."[1]

On the part of the Protestant purchasers under the several grantees, it was urged that it was always the policy of Parliament to encourage the English Protestant interest of Ireland; but to ruin these purchasers will be a great discouragement to that whole interest.

Their purchases and leases, though they gave the highest value for them, are made void. When the war was ended, the country was desolate and ruined, the towns and dwellings burnt, all stock destroyed, and such a famine ensued, that many thousands of poor creatures through the kingdom lost their lives, and numbers in the streets of Dublin itself, and these consequences England was freed from by fixing that long war in Ireland.

The King and the grantees at first let but from year to year; but, as no tenant would lay out money thus in improvements, longer interests were granted at considerable fines, or purchases were made, and having done so, and laid out their all in improvements, which alone have raised the estates to their present value, all is now taken away, as if they had been guilty of a crime in endeavouring to plant Ireland again, and make it more serviceable to the Crown of England. If they must lose their improvements, they ought at least to be allowed their purchase money, for the right of

[1] cxviii. 68.

Digitized by Google

action against the vendors, the King's grantees, who are foreigners, either resident abroad or without visible estates in this kingdom, is vain. (Rawl., A. 253, p. 49.)

Among the petitioners is Maurice Annesley, esquire, who states that King William III. granted him 3,000*l.* out of such discoveries of concealed forfeited lands as he should make, in consideration of 30,000 oak saplings, cut down in a wood of his, of 40 years growth, for hutting and firing for the army when encamped near Dundalk. He also took a lease from the Earl of Rochfort (de Zulestein), on which he expended 1,300*l.*, now lost to him by the Act of Resumption.[1]

Charles Earl of Abercorn, and Katherine Countess of Abercorn his wife, relict of William Lenthall, esquire, deceased, state that Claudius late Earl of Abercorn, eldest brother of said Charles, promised the petitioners on their intermarriage to settle the manor of Strabane, the ancient inheritance of the family, on them in case of his death without issue, in confidence whereof the petitioner Charles became bound to several persons in 7,000*l.* for his said brother.

That petitioner Charles, sometime after his marriage, becoming a Protestant, did so offend his brother, that he gave away the said estate from the petitioner, though he died without issue, and left him liable to 7,000*l.* debts.

That the said Earl Claudius, after the battle of the Boyne, was outlawed for treason and rebellion, and endeavouring to go into France he was killed at sea, in the service of the late King James, but King William and the late Queen granted petitioner the said estate, obliging him to pay the said 7,000*l.* debts, and all other debts affecting the said estate. That the petitioner Katherine Countess of Abercorn, in order to pay off these debts, sold her jointure of 600*l.* a year in Oxfordshire, and accepted a settlement of the said estate in lieu of her said jointure, which is now made void by this Act of Resumption.[2]

On the part of the forfeiting Irish there are many petitions. Maria Euphemia, relict of William Dongan of Castletown, in county of Kildare, Earl of Limerick, states that her husband going over to France, after the battle of the Boyne, she accompanied him thither, and attended him there through a long illness till his death in December 1698, during which time the petitioner was outlawed in Ireland for having gone into France, of which outlawry she had no notice till all outlawries were confirmed by an Act of Parliament. That the petitioner being rendered incapable of claiming her jointure by the Act of Resumption, she is reduced to extreme want in her old age, though she brought 30,000*l.* portion out of Spain, her native country.[3]

Thomas (Dongan) Earl of Limerick was entitled in remainder to the estate of his eldest brother William, late Earl of Limerick, under a settlement of 1684. Petitioner has spent the greater part of his life in foreign countries, and for the most part in the service of England. He petitioned Parliament for 17,000*l.* owing to him by the Government for his disbursements against the French and Indians of Canada in America, and for arrears of a pension of 500*l.* per annum granted him by the late King Charles II. in consideration of his losses by leaving the service of the French King and entering into the service of England. That the deed of settlement being mislaid during the late war, petitioner applied to Parliament setting forth his innocence, his services, and his claims, and the Parliament by a particular clause in the act relating to the Irish forfeitures, in consideration of his unhappy circumstances, left him at liberty either to claim the estate or to have 8,000*l.* out of the moneys to be produced by the sale thereof, which the petitioner thankfully acknowledged, though the debt due to him, exclusive of his losses, amounts to 17,000*l.* and upwards. Having recovered and proved the settlement of 1684 before the trustees, he prays his whole debt of 17,000*l.* out of the produce of the estate, or the estate itself.[4]

John Bourke Lord Bophin, son of the Earl of Clanricarde, states that he was taken prisoner at the battle of Aughrim. He claimed to be within the articles of Galway, which, however, he did not establish, the reasons inducing him not to prosecute his claim being, according to the deposition of the Right Honourable John Lord Methuen, Lord Chancellor (annexed to the report of the trustees), that he had the prospect of being restored to his land and estate by an Act to be passed in Parliament, whereby my Lord Bophin was to be obliged to breed his children Protestants, and let his estate to Protestants only by freehold leases for three lives. Lord Bophin states in his petition that, as an everlasting proof of his family's adherence to the interest of England, he has sent his two eldest sons to be brought up Protestants at Eton College, and that he and his family, consisting of a wife and nine children, have now nothing left for their support, and are in the lowest want. He therefore prays that the House, in mercy and compassion to the unspeakable wants of him and his family, in regard to his right to articles, and in remembrance of the many eminent services done by his ancestors to the Crown of England, and because this is the first time that any of the family appeared against its interest, they will restore him the estate which has been 400 years in his family, to enable him to pay such fine as they shall think reasonable, and by a bill or a clause in a bill to restore petitioner accordingly.[1]

[1] cxiii. 17. [2] Ibid. 16. [3] Ibid. 69. [4] Ibid. 70.

This case is accompanied by the notes on hearing before the trustees, and the depositions and statements of great interest, and the case is besides of very great importance, as having given rise to one of the most afflictive measures in the penal laws.

The House of Commons yielded to the prayer of Lord Bophin, and a private Act, commonly called "the Bophin Act," was passed in the 2nd of Queen Anne, restoring him to his estate on the conditions of bringing up his children Protestants and letting his estate to none but Protestants. This was only consistent with the Act for the sale of the forfeited estates made in the previous year; for the lands vested in the trustees for sale could only be purchased by Protestants; no Papist could even occupy as tenant more of them than a day labourer's cottage with land not exceeding two acres.

All other interests to be acquired by them in the forfeited estates were declared void.

But in the 7th of Queen Anne, an Act entitled "For the Relief of the Clanricard "Family" was passed, enacting, among other things, that if any of the Clanricard estate should be let to Papists contrary to the Bophin Act, the land so let should become the prize of the first Protestant discoverer, and the person in possession should be bound to discover against himself upon oath.

The discovery clauses in the Act of 8th Anne "against the further growth of "Popery" were taken from it. (French against Daly, in Chancery, 26th June 1772, p. 27. Several special cases on the laws against the further growth of Popery in Ireland, by Gorges Edmund Howard, esquire. 8vo. Dublin, 1785.)

By the first general Act against the growth of Popery, passed in the 2nd of Queen Anne, the interests acquired by Papists contrary to that Act were merely void; but by the second general Act in the 8th of Anne they were granted to the first Protestant discoverer, and the party charged could not refuse to answer. "The Clanricard Act "passed in England," says Mr. Justice Robinson, in giving judgment in McCarty v. Hanly, "gave a discovery, and from that Act the Irish Legislature thought that the "inserting the discovery clause in the 8th Anne would animate our Popery laws. "Between 1703 and 1709," he adds, "there were only 36 conformists in Ireland. In "the next 10 years the conformists were 150." (Lessee McCarty against Hanly, King's Bench, Hillary 1771. Howard's Popery Cases, p. 195.) In other words, landed proprietors, for fear of this new class of discoverers brought into life by the discovery clauses of the 8th Anne, and to preserve their estates to their families, conformed outwardly and had their names entered in the Convert Roll.

PART III.

Historical Value of the Carte Collection.

By a student weighing the historical worth of the Carte collection, and of the new lights which it throws upon the course of public affairs in Ireland during the period to which it relates, it might not unnaturally be supposed that, since the collection was originally formed with a view to the biography of the Duke of Ormonde, and since it was actually turned to account with rare industry and skill by Ormonde's biographer for the materials of his voluminous memoir, all the freshness, and perhaps all the real value of these materials, had already been anticipated. And perhaps, so far as regards the facts of the life of the Duke of Ormonde, this supposition is well founded. Nevertheless, even for the biography itself, there are to be found, amongst the vast mass of materials which Carte accumulated in preparing for his design, numberless letters, memoranda, notes, and other papers of Ormonde and his correspondents and others, which are of the highest interest as illustrating his personal character, the tendencies of his mind, and his habits of thought; and as bringing up again in life-like reality that whole presence of the man which it is the triumph of modern biography to have devised. And, on the other hand, if we pass beyond the mere biography and look into the character of the time as well as of the man, the Carte collection, entirely [1] cxiii. 38.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

apart from the mere materials of Ormonde's life, is replete with most graphic and instructive memorials of the period, and throws, from numberless independent quarters, floods of light upon its policy, its religious characteristics, its various party divisions, together with the views by which each was animated, its social habits, and, in a word, its entire every-day life, general and individual, public as well as private.

By far the largest proportion of the documents to which we refer, and which may be characterised as secondary materials of Carte's biography of Ormonde, are of an unofficial nature, and consequently have been excluded by us from the list of papers selected for transcription under your Lordship's instructions; but any estimate of the historical value of the Carte MSS. from which these papers should be omitted, would be in the last degree fallacious; and we have thought it our duty in this General Report to place before your Lordship some evidence of the great importance of many portions of the MSS. of which no trace will be found in the transcripts deposited or to be deposited in the Public Record Offices of London and Dublin.

The interest as well as the value of historical documents is, generally speaking, best understood from the documents themselves. The relations of Ormonde to particular classes or particular interests in Ireland; the practical working of the measures of policy adopted and the judicial procedures put in action from time to time; the political and social results of various enactments; the connexion or sequence of particular events;—are best seen, at least for the purposes of history, from the original documents which record them; and, instead of confining ourselves to a mere descriptive summary, we shall in many cases lay before your Lordship the original papers or series of papers to which we may think it desirable to invite attention. We shall have the less hesitation as to this course, inasmuch as the great body of the papers in question belong to that portion of the Carte MSS. which have not been selected by us for transcription, and which otherwise would remain undistinguished in this vast historical repository, and practically inaccessible to the great body of historical inquirers.

We have thought it desirable to add some papers illustrative of the private life and domestic habits of Ormonde—a not unacceptable contribution, we trust, to the social history of the period.

I.—Political Papers.

Ormonde's Church Policy in Ireland.

The Kilcash branch of the Butler family to which Ormonde belonged, and of which the representative, Sir Walter Butler, succeeded to the earldoms of Ormonde and Ossory on the death of Thomas Earl of Ormonde in 1614, was Roman Catholic; and Ormonde himself, during his early years, was brought up in that religion under the care of his mother, Lady Thurles. Upon Lady Thurles, indeed, the sole care of the boy Ormonde had devolved in 1619, when his father, Viscount Thurles, was drowned upon a voyage to England; and in the following year the young Viscount was placed at school at Finchley, near Barnet, under the care of a Catholic preceptor named Conyers. The King, however, soon interposed; Earl Walter, grandfather of the young Viscount, was arbitrarily imprisoned, and his grandson, being declared a ward of the Crown, was removed from Finchley, placed at Lambeth under the guardianship of Archbishop Abbot, and, like his contemporary and hereditary rival, George Earl of Kildare, under similar circumstances, brought up in the Protestant religion. To that profession he adhered through life, although his mother and the other members of his family remained faithful to the old religion.

There is a curious letter of the famous Father Peter Walsh, addressed to Ormonde a few months previous to the death of both, in which this fidelity of Ormonde's family to the Church of their ancestors is strongly urged as a motive to induce the Duke himself to return thereto. Father Peter urges it the more strongly inasmuch, he says, "as neither books nor arguments, be they never so persuasive, can any ways "prevail without the special assistance of God's grace;" and this grace he confidently anticipates for Ormonde through the prayers of his family and friends. "You may "receive benefit," Walsh writes, "of those daily prayers ponred forth for you by an "infinite number of your Roman Catholic friends and relations, amongst which "you have had, and still have, advocates which, shining like stars of the greatest "magnitude, are admired in the brightness and lustre of the pious and virtuous.

"By these you may easily imagine that I name Colonel Butler, of Kilcash, your "brother, and the Lady Thurles, his and your mother. The first, who is esteemed a "meer saint by all that have either known or heard of him, makes it his principal "work with the several great pious families which he does influence, to intercede for "you day and night; and the other, who was accounted the Monica of her age, and

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"who is now reputed a more glorious citizen of heaven, made it her constant employment whilst she lived to solicit the celestial powers by her incessant prayers and tears, by her extraordinary devotion and charities, to mediate for your conversion, and still I do not doubt but she ceases for you to Jesus Christ, the only propitiatory Mediator of our salvation, without whom there is no salvation.

"Thus, my dear Lord, will you infinitely delight that most holy man, your brother, rejoice extremely your friends and relations, render most happy the noble remains of your children, grandchildren, and their posterity; thus will you prove, not only an heroic example to the nobility and all others, but an assistance and comfort to your prince, who always so infinitely esteemed you."[1]

But from Ormonde's reply, which is highly characteristic, and in which he expresses some good-humoured surprise that a friend so zealous as Walsh should have delayed to the very close of life an exhortation of such vital import, it may be inferred that while he respected the convictions of his Catholic friends, he had no sympathies with their religion. The excited condition of religious parties during Ormonde's administration in Ireland necessitated the frequent interposition of his government, and a whole volume of the Carte collection (XLV.) is occupied with papers relating to "the Church and Sectaries." We shall take them in the order in which they are arranged by Carte.

(1.) The Established Church.—In the conflict of religious party among Protestants, Ormonde, like the great body of Royalists, was a steadfast churchman, and it was mainly to his influence that the reorganization of the Irish establishment at the Restoration was due. In this and the rest of his church policy his most efficient co-operator was the Primate, Bramhall, with whom we find him maintaining close relations during their common exile. Bramhall writes to him from the Hague, 1st October 1648,[2] and in a subsequent letter[3] he expresses his "infinite longing to see the smoke of his own chimney." From the date of the Restoration, their correspondence, both on public and private affairs, becomes more frequent. Bramhall writes, 27th April 1660, "to ask a troop of "horse for Sir James Graham," who has married his daughter Isabella, and he makes a similar request on his behalf in April 1664; but the bulk of his letters is on church matters; and the 45th volume of the Carte collection contains, together with these letters, a series of very important papers illustrating the progress of the re-organization, continued down to the very date when the Primate, who had a suit in the Court of Claims with Sir Audley Mervyn, was seized with apoplexy in the court, and died on the following day.

At the date of the Restoration the work of Laud and Strafford had in great measure fallen to pieces. No sooner had Ormonde surrendered Dublin and the Sword of State to the Parliament than their Commissioners (amongst whom was Colonel Michael Jones, Governor of Dublin, brother to Doctor Henry Jones, Bishop of Clogher, who then dwelt with him at Dublin) superseded the Book of Common Prayer by the Presbyterian Directory (itself soon to be superseded by the Independent form of worship), as appears by the following order:—

"By the Commissioners from the Parliament of England.

"For prevention of inconvenlences that may arise by continuing the Common Prayer Book and Ceremonies in the churches of this kingdom, we have thought fit and do hereby require that the same for the future be discontinued;

"And that in lieu thereof the Directory herewith delivered, be observed by the several ministers of congregations, and others officiating in the several churches and chapels in and about this city, whereof they may take notice, and not faile. Given at Dublin, this 24th of June 1647.

"Arthur Annesley.
"Robert King.
"Robert Meredith.
"Michael Jones.
"John Moore."[4]

The Protestant clergy deemed themselves unable, consistently with their clerical vows, to yield obedience, and when they came after the next following Sunday to ask for their usual weekly allowance of bread, granted them by the Marquis of Ormonde,

---

[1] lxix. 540.
[2] xxiv. 46.
[3] xxii. 189.
[4] xxi. 153.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

they were met by a refusal and the insulting remark, that they might join the ranks of the Roundheads as common soldiers. The following is their petition:—

"To the Honourable the Commissioners for the Affairs of Ireland.

"The humble petition of the Banished Clergy.[1]

"Humbly shewing,—

"That your petitioners have formerly had weekly a certain proportion of Bread allowed them for their relief, which your Honours have lately been pleased to continue to us, which we thankfully acknowledge; and now the said Bread will not be delivered to us till further order given by your Honours.

"May it therefore please your Honours to look upon your petitioners wants and to give order that the same may be weekly given out unto us, till some other livelihood be acquired that we may not be troublesome to your Honours by continual suit & petition, and they as in duty bound shall pray, &c."

The Commissioners pointedly reply:—

"Dublin, July 2d, 1647.

"If the petitioners be preaching ministers they did ill not to bestow their pains in such churches as wanted the ministry of the Word last Lord's day, and render themselves thereby unworthy of relief. But if they find themselves not qualified for the ministry they may betake themselves to some other calling, and inlist themselves if they will in some companies or troops, where, doing service, they shall be provided for equally with others.

"By command from the Commissioners from the Parliament of England.

"WILLIAM ROWE."[2]

When Cromwell became supreme, he seized all the tithes and church lands for the benefit of the State's disposal, reserving them from being set out (like other forfeited lands and rents) to the Adventurers and Soldiers. The Bishops were, some of them (like Bramhall, Bishop of Derry) banished,—the others, driven from their see houses, sought safety in silence. The cathedrals and churches were ruined by the war, and the timber, lead, iron, and glass were seized by the Adventurers and Soldiers for their private uses.

At the Restoration, the church lands which, for the most part had been only leased from year to year or for short terms, were restored without difficulty to the Bishops; but the churches lay long in ruins. An order of the Lord Deputy and Council, even eight years after the Restoration (31st of May 1669), states,—

"It is observed that in most parts of this kingdom the parish churches by the confusion of the late Rebellion and usurpations before his Majesty's happy restoration to his Crown & kingdom, were utterly broken down, ruined, and demolished, and have not been as yet repaired, so that in many places the people are enforced (for want of parish churches) to repair for the service & worship of God to inns, barns, and other places."[3]

The Convention in the first instance, and the Parliament afterwards, both composed for the most part of men of Cromwell's army and principles, were now bent on ingratiating themselves with the King and the Church whom they had so much injured, by conceding as much as possible to their supposed humours.

In the instructions from both Houses to their agents to the King, they proposed that church spoilators should be excepted from the Act of Indemnity in Ireland as had been done in England.[4]

And those who pretended to speak for the Army undertook that they should subscribe ten thousand pounds to build up the cathedral of St. Patrick's in Armagh, and St. Patrick's in Dublin, and St. Peter's Church in Drogheda, which they had destroyed at the taking of the town by assault in 1649.

The following are Primate Bramhall's letters, announcing the gratifying fact to Sir George Lane, Ormonde's secretary:—

"Sir George . . . . . Now I will tell you a piece of news, which I desire you to communicate to my Lord Steward (the Duke of Ormonde) and our friends there.

[1] That is, banished by the Irish from their former cures.
[2] xxi. 176.
[3] Domestic Correspondence, 1668. Record Tower, Dublin Castle, p. 54.
[4] Abstracts of Proceedings concerning the Acts of Settlement. Vol. M., fo. 416. Record Tower, Dublin Castle.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

The army in Ireland will suffer none to have the honor to build or repair St. Patrick's Church in Armagh, and St. Patrick's Church in Dublin, and St. Peter's Church in Tredagh,[1] but themselves, having designed ten thousand pounds for the work. Many of them have subscribed, and a committee is appointed by the Commissioners to take the subscription of the rest, wherein your friend Sir Theophilus Jones, and his brother, Clogher, have been very active. They think for Tredagh it is a just expiation because some of them helped to blow it up. So God bless us.

"Your assured friend & faithful servant,

"Jo. [Bramhall.] Derrensis, Elect: Armach."

"Dublin, Nov. 21, 1660."[2]

On 27th November 1660 he adds:—

"I writt to you formerly that the army here have given 14 days pay ont of their "arrears towards the building & beautifying of three churches. Since my last, the "committee of the army have confirmed their act, and have made up the 14 days "21 days."[3] How costly would be the repairs of these and other churches might be judged, said the Primate, 1st June 1661, from this: "I am going in three days to "Terfeckin. The carriage of wood alone by sea for repairs there will cost 150*l*. "Judge what Tredagh, and Armagh, & all the rest will cost."[4]

But not only were the cathedrals and churches in ruins at the King's Restoration, but the sees, during the twenty years of war and usurpation, had many of them become empty.

No less than twelve bishops had died, and their successors were to be consecrated, and Primate Bramhall's letters are full of details of this remarkable spectacle. There was considerable doubt among the Bench of Bishops whether Doctor Henry Jones, Bishop of Clogher, should be allowed to take part in the consecration. He had thrown off his episcopal character during the usurpation, had adopted Presbyterianism, and had even joined the army, having become Scout-master General to Cromwell.

In this period, however, of general satisfaction (to all but the Irish nation), such difficulties were not allowed to stand in the way; and there will be found something of a "galliard" tone in the terms the Primate uses in announcing that he had absolved Bishop Jones, in the presence of all his brother Bishops, from his offences:—

"Sir (he writes to Sir George Lane, 21st January 1660–1), after the general conse- "cration is done to-morrow, and so many of the public affairs despatched, I hope I "shall have a little more leisure. I send you herein enclosed the intended form of "our consecration. The Lords Justices, Council, Convention, will all be present.

"Your father is a good Protestant,[5] and you are beholden to no man for his con- "version but my Lord Chancellor (Sir Maurice Eustace) and Lord Ranelagh. It "seems he had[6] animum reverentiæ.[7] "We have had some exceptions against the "Bishop of Clogher and the Lord Elect of Killaloe, but I have ended them all with "a general consent, and in the presence of all the Bishops absolved the Bishop of "Clogher from his irregularity."[8] And in three months time the Primate even recommended him for the Bishopric of Meath.

"I know (writes the Primate to the Duke of Ormonde, 7th April 1661), your "Lordship hath heretofore some just exceptions against the Bishop of Clogher. But "there is an Act of Indemnity past since. And he hath been as instrumental as "any man whatsoever in the restitution of his Majesty and all of us; and under- "stands the present state of this part of Ireland better than any of us, and being "qualified at the late consecration by some of the Bishops, he behaved himself so "modestly and discreetly, and gave so much satisfaction, that he gained ground in "the judgment of his adversaries themselves."[9]

In the Primate's letter to Lane he enclosed the printed form of "The order of the "proceeding to Church, upon the Consecration of the Bishops in Ireland, the 27th "of January 1660–1," of which the most remarkable part was the anthem:—

---

[1] Termonfeckin, about five miles east of Drogheda, was at this time, and for long before, the place of residence of the primates of Ireland.

[2] "To my very worthy friend Sr George Lane, att his chambers in Whitehall." ccxxi. 78.

[3] Same to same. Ibid. 79.

[4] ccxxi. (quarto), 105.

[5] He had probably adopted Presbyterian or Independent principles.

[6] Bramhall to Lane, Dublin, 26 Jan. 1660–61. ccxxi. 88.

[7] ccxxi. 95.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"Anthem after the Consecration.

"Treble.

"'Now that the Lord hath réadvanced the Crown,
"'Which thirst of spoil and frantic zeal threw down.'

"Tenor.

"'Now that the Lord the Mitre hath restored,
"'Which with the Crown lay in the dust abhorred.'

"Treble: 'Praise him, ye Kings.'
"Tenor: 'Praise him, ye Priests.'
"Chorus, all sing: 'Glory to Christ, our High Priest, highest King.'

"Treble.

"'May Judah's royal scepter still shine clear.'

"Tenor.

"'May Aaron's holy rod still blossoms bear.'

"Treble and Tenor.

"'Sceptre and Rod rule still and guide the land,
"'And those whom God anoints feel no rude hand.
"'May love, peace, plenty wait on Crown and Chair,
"'And may both share in blessings as in care.'

"Chorus.

"'Angels look down, and joy to see
"'Like that above a Monarchy;
"'Angels look down, and joy to see
"'Like that above an Hierarchy.'"[1]

The Primate was greatly pleased with the success of the ceremony, which "was "done so nobly (he writes to the Duke of Ormonde) that it will be an hard task to "find out another equal to it in Europe, where twelve Bishops were consecrated at "one time, and all the orders of the kingdom, Justices, Council, Convention, Army, "City, graced it with their presence."[2]

"All the Bishoprics in Ireland (he writes to Sir George Lane, 16th March 1660–1) "are now full, and every one of them, excepting two, placed in his own candle-"stick."[3]

But the more serious business was the new endowment of the Church out of forfeited lands. The Convention, consisting of officers of Cromwell's army, acting on their plan of ingratiating themselves with the King and Church, proposed to the King that all such lands and tithes in Catholic hands should be restored to it. And both Houses of Parliament of Ireland, in their instructions to their agents sent to Whitehall, repeated the suggestion which was afterwards enacted in the Act of the Settlement of Ireland. The effect of this was of course to interest another powerful body in the maintenance of the Settlement.

Many of the most ancient Catholic families, however, of English descent in Ireland were ruined by this measure alone, being deprived of church lands and impropriate tithes which their ancestors, or those from whom they had purchased, had derived under grants from King Henry VIII. and Queen Elizabeth.

The following is Primate Bramhall's letter to the Duke of Ormonde acknowledging the grant:—

"May it please your Excellence,

"The Bishops here residing have thought fitt to present the inclosed petition to his Majesty. It was occasioned by a letter of the Lord Elect Bishop of Corke to me. There is nothing in it which we are not both able & ready to justifie; since it was subscribed, we have received a copy of his Majesty's most gracious letter of [1] xiv. 35, 36.

[2] Bramhall to Ormonde [ ] Feb. 1660-1. ccxxi. 87.
[3] ccxxi. 90.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Novemb. 20th, touching the settling of impropriations, tithes formerly invested in the Crowne, or forfeited lately to the Crowne, upon the respective incumbents, reserving to his Majesty the old rents, & likewise the settling of such forfeited lands as were held of the Church, upon those Bishops or Churches of which they were held. By the Grace of God we shall mesnage his Majesties bounty with as much prudence & advantage to him & his subjects as is possible.

"These were the maine requests we had to make by our agents. The next being of lesser moment, will admitte little debate, as the union of lesser benefices to make a competency, some little glebes where there are none, a free school to be erected in every diocess where there is not one allready, & one uniform order or table of tything to be established throughout the kingdome. Now the maine requests being granted allready, whether it will be necessary to send express agents for the rest I leave to your Lordship's evidence. One bishop & one clerke were designed; either my Lord Elect of Downe, or of Corke for the bishops; & either Doctor Loftus or Mr. Underwood for the clerkes.

"They have one request more, that in respect benefices are of so small value for the present, & their churches & manse houses either demolished or ruinous, that as in like cases hath bene used, his Majestie would be graciously pleased to remitte the first fruites to such persons as are or shall be admitted to any benefices or ecclesiasticall promotions, since the beginning of this rebellion, until the Feast of the Nativity of Christ, which shall be in the yeare of our Lord 1661, that is, for one yeare yet to come, & in lieu thereof they do oblige themselves to settle an equal & perfect taxe of all ecclesiasticall benefices & dignities throughout the kingdome (which hitherto hath bene neither equall nor perfect), to the greate increase of his Majesties Revenue in his 20th parts & first fruites. Thus much I dare undertake that the Crowne shall be a great gainer by this now necessary favour.

"These things are yet but barely purposed, & if there be any of them which do not reslish well, upon the least intimation they shall be quickly expunged.

"Your Excellency seeth that the clergy in Ireland know no mediator to his Majesty but yourself. You will scarcely find a staffe so hard to drive them away. S^r^ James Graham lives in hope untill he receive his doome. That you may Live long & Give much, & Die holy, & Inherit heaven, is a Dutch proverbe & our praier. So God bless us. Dublin, Decemb. 5, 1660.

"Your Excellence most humble
"& faithfull servaunt,
"Jo. [Bramhall] Derensis, Electus Armachensis."[1]

The following characteristic letter is from the Primate to Sir George Lane:—

"Sr,

"I writte unto you by the last post, & therewith sent you a draught of a letter from his Majesty for the Church of Ireland. We have allready a draught of a letter from his Ma^ty^ to the same purpose. But this forme is judged by the King's Counselle here both more full & more effectuall, & less subject to the least exception. And therefore, in the name of the whole Church, I desire to get it signed & sent with all speed.

"I sent you likewise a bill of Exchange upon John Sharpe for an 100*l.*, which I doubt not will be punctually observed.

"The money is not collected, but I shall do that when they come up to the Parliament & reimburse myself. Fifty pounds of it is as a free-will offering of the Church to you to buy a piece of plate, & the other 50*l.* is to pay for letters & defray other charges which you may have occasion to lay out for them. And when that summe is done you shall have a new supplie.

"The Church hath other requests to his Majesty, which I have dilated in my letter to my Lord Steward. The most & greatest of them are graunted allready by his Lordship in his Ma^ties^ name. The next will be no cause of any demurre in our proceedings. I know his Excellence vouchsafing to make himself agent for the Church, will acquainte you with them, whom he hath made our solliciter, & therefore I forbeare to scribble any more about them.

---

[1] "To his Excellence the Marquis of Ormond, "Lord Steward of his Majesties household, at Whitehall."
Endorsed.
"Lord Archbpp. Elect of Armagh. Dat. 5 / Rec^d^ 19 } Dec. 1660."
Vol. cexxi. (quarto), p. 81.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"All the bishoprieks in Ireland are now full, & every one of them (excepting two) placed in his own candlesticke. The same judgement I made allwaies of this church I hold still, that we shall overcome all impediments quickly & quietly if we have no impediment out of the East. I have led them all the dance in the first visitation, successfully enough. Yet have I as many fanaticks in my diocese as any man. But the surest way to take a popularcy is by the ear. So God bless us.

"Your old freind & faithfull servaunt,

"March 16, 1660–1. Stilo loci."[1] "Jo. [BRAMHALL.] ARMACHANUS."

But while the Settlement was pending there seems to have been a fear that the King had designs of retracting, which produced the following letter to Sir George Lane:

"SIR,—I rec[d] y[rs] of Ap. 2[d] with the enclosed.

"You prophecy that it w[d] not like me. Therein you mistake, for I cannot mislike any thing which is done by that hand. But to deal clearly with you, it doth not satisfy me; and I verily conjecture that you will have another supplication from the clergy one & all; and perhaps another from the Parl, if the fanatics who have jumped into elections do not hinder it. For the sober men of the Convention are not pleased that H. M's. graces to them sh[d] be retracted, whereof this was one. I pray you observe the strength of the clergy.

"First, they have King James' grant, & an Act of State made upon it inserted into the Great Office, which was held evermore here as inviolable. Secondly, they have King Charles the 1[sts] grant which was executed in Meath & divers other counties. Thirdly, they have the King's grant of this grace to the Comm[rs] of the Convention. Fourthly, they have the King's grant of it to themselves in one letter, & the same allowed & confirmed in another letter. All these copies I will send you as soon as my coronation sermon is past, for they are now with the rest of my papers at Tredagh.

"Fifthly, by his concession of them to the clergy he will be a gainer. For he shall have from them not only his old rents, which is all he shall have from the laiety, but, moreover, an increase of XX[th] parts & first fruits, & larger subsidies; besides that influence which they have upon his people to make them loyal & orthodox, whereas lecturers have undone us. But, suppose there were no advantage in it, do you think that H. M. would recede from the examplar of his grandfather & father; yea, move from his own act, when he is rightly informed. God forbid we should think so! We are confident that when he is fully informed he will make good his former grant, unless somebody could shew some fraud or inconvenience in it, which we know they cannot do.

"We have already wished & prayed for a remedy of former sacrilege. Now is the time when it may be done without any loss or prejudice to H.M., & if we make not this appear we deserve nothing. You impute this change to letters from hence. Truly, Sir, if it be so, somebody here is not to be trusted. One of our Justices is now indisposed, but I have as much confidence in him as any man. And so soon as Sunday is over, by the grace of God I will speak with him about it. Another of the three told me he w[d] joine with me for the Church in it heart & hand; and I believe him. The third you know promised to be a friend to the Church & approved of H. M's. former letter, & hath professed that he hath written nothing against it, but for it: yet acknowledgeth that he hath written to Mr. Secretary about it & sent him some copies of former letters. If he have, it is well: if not, by God's grace, I shall do it. If there be no prejudice to H. M. any way, but much advantage every way, I cannot fear the retracting of it. If H. M. would gratify every man with a lease, we are ready to obey his commands or to do any thing that can be reasonably imposed upon us.

"But while this letter was procuring here are two other letters come for passing over of tythes: one for my old friend Mr. Legg for some impropriations, & some of my own lands of Termonfeckin. I wish I had been by him to put him on a nobler acquisition.

"In my last letter I writt to my Lord Duke about the Bishopriek of Meath for the Bishop of Down if he desired it. Now so it is that he desireth rather to hold Down

---

[1] Addressed, "To my Hon[ble] Freind S[r] George Lane, " att his Chambers in Whitehall, London. These present."

Endorsed.

" Lord Primate of Ireland, Dat. 16 / Recd. 23 } March 1660."

Vol. cccxi. p. 99.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

& Dromore united if he may obtain it. For proof whereof I send you inclosed two of his letters. Whatsoever his Grace approveth shall please me. I have no aim but the good of the Church. If he require my judgment, it is this: To remove him from Down to Meath w[d] hinder the reformation of that schismatical part of the country: and to keep him at Down without an union of Dromore to it, would be a poor encouragement to him; and, therefore, my humble advice is that he be continued Bishop of Down with the Bishoprick of Dromore united to it pro hâc vice, which two will be worth well 1,500*l.* a year. And that the Bishop of Clogher be removed to the Bishoprick of Meath.

"He is a prudent man, but will get nothing by it but a higher rack; and that the Bishop of Kilmore & Ardagh be removed to Clogher; & the Bishop of Dromore to the Bishoprick of Kilmore & Ardagh; which will content all parties & be for the good of the Church.

"But whatsoever his Grace shall think fit to do in it shall please me. So God bless us.

"Your assured friend to love & serve you,

"Dublin, April 13, 1661."[1] "Jo. [BRAMHALL] ARMACH."

It is unnecessary to add that the Act of Settlement, passed in the following year, put an end to all these doubts and fears by conferring on the Church the property in question.

(2.) Presbyterians and Independents.—Throughout these proceedings Ormonde manifests a very decided antipathy to the Puritan party and to the principles of Presbyterianism in church government.

Some notion of the virulence of that party in Ireland, and of their hatred of Prelacy, may be formed from their conduct in Waterford at this period. On the occasion of the Bishop's first re-appearance in the cathedral after the Restoration he found his "pulpit foully defiled with excrements (so as must not be named), and the font in "like manner." His successor a few years subsequently, on his going to solemn prayers, attended by his clergy, found the way that he must walk towards his throne strewn with the same abominable filth.[2]

This and similar proceedings of the party may perhaps have given rise to some of the proposals to which we find reference in the correspondence.

Amongst other proposals, shortly after the Restoration, for the improvement of Waterford, described as "a place inhabited with persons for the generality unaccus-"tomed to conformity," is one, that a smaller number of disaffected and nonconforming English and Papists be permitted to inhabit that city, and that the rules in the Act for encouraging foreign Protestants to plant be observed.

And the proposals go so far as to suggest "that all or most of the disaffected "English now in Waterford be constrained to plant themselves in the open country, "and not in corporate towns, especially Waterford, Ross, Kilkenny, and Clonmel."[3]

The result was a very severe civil and ecclesiastical persecution of the Puritans.

In a petition to the House of Commons the Nonconformists complain that their Gospel ministers are removed from them, and several of them imprisoned, whilst the Romish priests (as they say) are seemingly tolerated. That many hundreds of them are excommunicated by the bishops, others of them upon several penal statutes indicted at the assizes and quarter sessions in regard of nonconformity.

An observer writes, as the consequence that the generality of the vulgar Protestants seemed to be in a greater distemper, in greater despair, in less hopes of comfort, than they were the first year of the Rebellion; and amongst those so dispirited in their minds, he found the common soldiery, who served his Majesty faithfully and never took arms with the usurper, in regard they had not been provided by his Majesty, whereas the common soldiers, both dead and alive, that fought against the King under the usurper and deprived them of all means of livelihood, are well paid for their rebellion.[4]

It is curious to find gentle Jeremy Taylor mixed up in this angry conflict.

"To Sir George Lane.

"Honoured Sir, "Dublin, December 19, 1660.

"I wrote to you the last week and took the boldness to give you an account of the seditious and insolent preachings of the Scotch Presbyters against his Majesty's

[1] cexxi. 96.

[2] "The Bishop of Waterford's case with the Mayor and Sheriffs of Waterford Stated and Vindicated." Published by command. 4to. Dublin. By Benjamin Tooke, H.M.'s Printer. 1670. pp. 181.

[3] xxxii. 173. [4] Ibid. 174.

Digitized by Google

537

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Government ecclesiastical, their infinite railings against me, their stirring up the people to tumult and rebellion, their intent of petitioning his Majesty to remove me from that diocese, and many other things which I should not so much as hint to you again, but that we have some fears that the vessel miscarried which carried the packet. But these Presbyterian Scots get heart and confidence by the great delay of the Justices coming over and the Bishops consecration. Sir, we all know your great love and zeal for the Church of Ireland (and I have had experience of your particular favour to me), and therefore I am bold to entreat your assistance that we may receive encouragement and aid from the secular power. They call me Arminian, Socinian, and I cannot tell what monsters of names, which they neither understand, nor care they whether they be true or no; but no man being more zealous for the religion of the Church of England than myself, they hate me because they expect from me such vigorous opposition against and discovery of their evil ways. I beg your favour in this affair. It concerns all the bishops in Ireland.

"Honoured Sir,

"Your most humble and affectionate servant,

"JER. [TAYLOR] DUNENSIS, Elect."[1]

The following appears to have been an enclosure in the above letter:—

"A PARTICULAR of such DOCTRINES as are usually preached and taught by the SCOTCH MINISTERS in the North of Ireland, in the Diocese of Down and Connor.

"That the Covenanters first drew the bloody sword; and before they would submit to those oaths, viz., of allegiance and supremacy, and to these Popish ceremonies, they would draw it again.

"That times of persecution are coming on, worse than in Queen Mary's days.

"That they should do well to get the Bible by heart, because they will not be suffered to keep a Bible in their houses.

"That the times are now at hand when it should be safer to break the Sabbath than a holy day.

"That the King's concessions in his Declaration [from Breda] are a little mite of favour, but no more.

"That the service book and the mass book were both hatched in hell by the Devil.

"That we have got a King, and the King hath brought the bishops, and they will bring in Popery, and then farewell all: And yet ye, without, be valiant for the truth.

"They pray that the Lord, although he suffered those wolves the bishops to come into his kirk here on earth, yet that he would never let them come into his kirk in heaven.

"And many more seditious and more ridiculous, not fit to trouble any person of honour with."[2]

Two Presbyterians of the name of Robert Ross and George Ross, for themselves and many other persons in the county of Down and Antrim, in their petition to the Lord Lieutenant and Council on 25th March 1663, set forth that many hundreds in those counties who are ready to lay down their lives for his Majesty's service were at the last assizes presented and indicted, some for not coming to hear the Common Prayer, and others for resorting to the ministry they have been long partakers of, little suspecting that in so doing any crime would have been laid to their charge, and allege that the consequences of these indictments, if prosecuted, will be their ruin, rendering them unable to pay their public taxes.[3]

One George Philips (writing to the Duke of Ormonde on the 21st February 1662–3) says:—

"I observe the people generally to persist in their obstinate contradiction to the ecclesiastical Government, and I saw a great number of men lately receive the sentence of excommunication with no more trouble or remorse than a martyr would the stake. And I hear daily from the rebound of common discourse that they suffer all with no less patience than assurance that they shall shortly be redeemed by the resurrection of their crucified Presbytery."[4]

---

[1] xlv. 29. Endorsed "For y'selfe. Ld B^p^ of Downe. Dat. 19 Decd. 26 } 1660."

[2] xlv. 28. [3] xxxi. 261. [4] xxxii.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Such persecution naturally led to remonstrance, of which the following is a specimen:—

"REASONS why the petitioned Indulgence should be granted to the People of the North of Ireland.

"The people of the North of Ireland have been faithful to his Majesty's interest in the time when it was most disclaimed, as may appear in these particulars following:—

"1°. The Ingagement to the Commonwealth of England without King or House of Lords, when it was pressed upon Ireland they did generally refuse it, especially those who now seek the present Indulgence; as Doctor Antony Morgan, Colonel Hill, and Dr. Jones, now Bishop of Meath, who did urge the same Engagement, can testify, if they were put to it.

"2°. They refused that Ingagement upon grounds that did stick with their consciences, for (1st) before those who did press the same ingagement, because they now render an oath to the King's Majesty to maintain his authority; (2d) Though threatened to be removed all of them to Tipperary, yet did they continue this refusal; (3d) Yea some of them now outlawed upon that very account, and could not have the benefit of their own leases for two years together, as shall be particularly instanced if required, yet did they continue refusing it.

"3°. They are not a few number who seek this Indulgence, but a considerable number of people, whom to prosecute with all rigidity, and that for their conscience (of all things most tender) is not good policy, seeing the wise man saith that oppression will make a wise man mad.

"4°. The Indulgence desired would inable them the more cheerfully and with the greater ease to pay the great taxes that are at present lying upon them or may hereafter be called for, because the withholding of this Indulgence makes them a prey to the Bishop's Courts and to the officers who attend the Judges of Assize, which courts and officers have already much impoverished many, and taken great sums from the subjects.

"5°. That the cause of Excom'unication (which by the desyred Indulgence will be taken off) hath such penalties annexed to it, as will in a verie short tyme make whole families goe a begging, yea & the number who shall be apprehended by writts following upon Excom'unication shall be so great that there cannot be prisons in Ireland that can hold them.

"By the Indulgence desyred the great pressures that at present lye upon their bodies & estates will be taken off, such as is fyning, copies, constables pursuing them that they can hardly sometimes keepe in their beds, abyde in their houses, or be about their calling & employment, as also the trouble they are put to by the Bishops Courts & consequences of Excom'unication, which being taken off & the libertie desygned granted, what an Ingagement will it be upon them (who for conscience sake cannot submitt to the way of worship & discipline established by law) to continue faithfull to his Majestie & those sent by him, seeing even fathers to whom children owe obedience by the light of nature are yet bound to keepe up & incourage that obedience & subjection to them, by dealing kindly & gently with them. Eph. vi. 4; Colos. iii. 21.

"6°. And finally, his Majestie's gracious declaration of the 26th December last hath given assured hopes to the petitioners that they shall be granted this indulgence, & in very ded hath beene the ryse of their attempt to petition his Grace for this Indulgence.

"This also may be added, that the Indulgence desyred, if not granted, will constraine a great many to remove to some other part of the world, & so the land of many landlords may be layde waste."

"Reasons why Indulgence should be given to the Nonconformists of the North, 1st April 1663." [1]

The bishops were not inactive, as appears by some letters of George Wild, who succeeded Bramhall in the bishopric of Derry, on Bramhall's translation to the primatial see of Armagh.

"May it please your Grace,

"In obedience to your Grace's commands, I am ready to give your Grace an account of these parts, & how I find them at present, which is beyond all expectation tacking about to obedience, and to an outward conformity (whatever the inward

[1] xlv. 77.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

be), which I humbly conceive is much owing to the prudent authorities & managing of our assizes by the Judge of this circuit, Sir Jerome Alexander, whose coming among us a second time (for which great favour I am especially most humbly bound to the Earl of Orrery) hath struck such an awe among my non-conforming Scots, that if now they do not love him and the Government, yet they begin to fear both.

"And I doubt not but if your Grace will be pleased to continue him once or twice more this circuit (for which his presence is most necessary, though he deserve a better), your Grace will shortly see our remoter Ulster of a pretty sound complexion.

"As soon as the Judge was gone hence the Bishop began his visitation, and if your Grace will pardon the boldness of this account to your Lordship which I owe to my Primate, my heart is much lightened by seeing such full appearance of church officers who all readily and (it seemed) cheerfully took their oaths and the Bishop's articles for conformity. Yet I dare not commend this county and my diocese over fast; Judge Alexander is but newly gone; and the assizes & visitation sound yet in the ear.

"However we have now two good standing companies of foot in this city, which are commanded by two good special officers that have a long while given me proof & testimony of their loyalty & zeal to the King & the Church (Captain Case & Lieutenant Evelyn).

"And besides we have a troop in this county (I cannot say any part of it in this city, 'tis so ill an horse quarter), all which are and will be ready (the more upon any the least orders from your Grace) to assist the Bishop in suppressing those night conventicles still among us, and those unlawful assemblies which use to grow from schism in the Church to sedition in the State.

"The blessings of Almighty God be ever upon your Grace, and upon your illustrious family.

"I most humbly take leave.

"May it please your Grace,

"Your Grace's most obedient dutiful servant,

"Derry, August 22, 1662."[1] GEO. [WILD] DERENSIS."

It only remains to observe that these repressive measures failed to secure permanent conformity. On the 24th of October in the same year the Bishop again regrets that Sir Jerome's vigorous proceedings are but temporary in their effects.

"May it please your Grace,

"I received your Grace's of the 16th instant, and with all humility return your Grace my thanks for the honour you have done me under your Grace's own hand.

"My most noble Lord, it is the joy of my soul to find these parts so much in your Grace's thoughts and princely care; which (with all submission be it spoken) I think are as great concern at present as any corner in the three kingdoms.

"I acquainted your Grace in my last, what hopes I had upon Judge Alexander being here, of this county & diocese, that they would return to their obedience.

"But I find since (I beseech your Grace to forgive me my misfortune that I have no better news to send) it was but a fit and qualm of loyalty & conforming that takes us once in half a year against an assize; but as soon as the Judge is gone we are as we were,—I wish at present not worse. For libels have been scattered about, and a large one set up at a market place in ugly (Scotch) rhymes, a copy whereof I sent to my Lord Primate. It seems they depend much upon their agents (as they call them) at Dublin, and do more than whisper their hopes of a change. But I bless God for your Grace's vigilant eye over us.

"As for the officers and soldiers of which your Grace requires a free & impartial account from me, truly my Lord I think the two commanders of them here, Captain-Lieutenant Case and Lieutenant Evelyn, are very loyal persons and very well bred gentlemen. I have had great proofs of them. And I have heard them say (I know to whom I speak the secret) they can command their company, every man of them, to march for the King and the Church, though their Colonel (no friend I am sure to bishops) and Lieutenant-Colonel should stand by and command the contrary."

The Bishop concludes with the character of the Governor, who he thinks is no other but a loyal very honest gentleman, and withal being so much an Englishman as he is, not to be feared to side with the Scotch faction.[2]

---

[1] xlv. 68. Addressed to "The most illustrious James Duke of Ormonde, Lord Lieut. General of Ireland, most humbly."

[2] xlv. 70. Dated Derry, Oct. 24, 1662. Endorsed by Ormonde, "Bp. of Derry. Dat. 24 Oct.) Recd. 8 Nov.) 1662."

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

(3.) The Catholic Church.—Ormonde's relations towards the Catholics are not so easily understood. They are complicated by a greater variety of interests and associations; nor does his correspondence throw so much light on them as might have been expected.

The Catholic population of Ireland at the rising of 1641, although broken up into many minute sections, may, as far as regards public policy, be broadly distributed into three principal classes.

Of these by far the largest numerically, although immeasurably the weakest in political position and influence, were the Catholics of the native Irish race. On them, with few exceptions, had fallen and still continued to press the heaviest consequences of the Conquest, confiscation, loss of rank, impoverishment, and the other evils inseparable from a foreign ascendancy. In more recent times they were the sole sufferers by the plantations at Ulster, and by those in Longford and Leitrim. They were the chief victims of the Desmond and other contemporary confiscations. Even of the small remnant on which these confiscations had fallen least heavily, many had lost under the Commission of Defective Titles the little which had been saved from direct forfeiture; and it can hardly be doubted that to the native Irish Catholics as a body, whatever may have been for each the original object of the struggle, it now presented but one appreciable issue, the restoration of a free national parliament, the recovery of the native inheritance, and the rehabilitation of the native race. At the same time, while their interest in the conflict of English parties and in the struggle in Ireland, so far as English parties were engaged therein, lay mainly in its bearing upon what was to them the vital import of the contest, it is impossible to doubt that as well from sympathy as from a sense of what they believed to be their own interest, they were loyal to the Royal cause in this as in the later Stuart war in Ireland. In church matters, it is needless to say, their fidelity to their religion amounted to chivalry; every religious grievance pressed upon them with special severity, and indeed the cause of the Catholic church in Ireland was essentially identical with that of the ancient Irish race.

By far less numerous than the native Irish Catholics, but much superior in wealth and in social and political rank, were the Catholics of English descent, whose seat lay chiefly in the Pale, in the principal cities, and in the maritime towns of the south and west. They had suffered heavily from the Commission of Defective Titles, from the operation of the Court of Wards, and in general from many oppressive and arbitrary judicial procedures of which they had been in various ways the object. All the strictly religious grievances of Irish Catholics, moreover, were of course common to them with the old Irish. But for the rest their interests were fundamentally different. The Catholics of English descent for the most part held their lands by the same title with the old Protestant English. Not one of them had been dispossessed in the Ulster, and very few, if any, in the other recent Plantations. Not only therefore had they no direct interest in the reversal of the recent confiscations, but, on the contrary, although their sympathies lay with their plundered co-religionists in Ulster, nevertheless every revolution involving a disturbance of the existing settlement of property was not unnaturally a subject of suspicion and alarm to them, as tending at least remotely to call in question the title upon which their own tenure was originally founded.

Distinct in principle from both these classes, although numbering many of its members in both of them, was a third and purely religious interest, consisting partly of the clergy and partly of the more zealous and enthusiastic of the laity, with whom the freedom of the Catholic religion and the rights of the Catholic church formed the first consideration, and to whom no settlement of political, social, or proprietorial claims would be satisfactory, unless accompanied by securities for the free exercise of religion and for at least a certain recognition of the ancient rights of the Catholic church in Ireland.

The Confederation of the Catholics at Kilkenny was formed by a union of all three parties, and the objects for which it was associated were common to them all; but it is plain that while such a conflict of secondary interests existed within their ranks, it was almost hopeless to look for harmonious action or unity of counsel.

The relation of Ormonde himself to the Catholic Irish during the war was peculiar, and entirely different from that of the Lords Justices during the early part of his public career in Ireland. It is plainly shown by Ormonde's biographer, Carte, and is abundantly evident from the papers in the Ormonde collection, that the policy of the Lords Justices, of the Irish Committee in the House of Commons in England, and of their various partisans of all grades in England and in Ireland, was to involve the whole Catholic party alike in the guilt, not alone of the rising of the North, but of all the imputed enormities of the alleged massacre of English and Protestants by the insurgents. Carte distinctly charges the Lords Justices with the design of drawing upon them all in common the penalties of attainder, and of thus supplying grounds to justify a general measure for the confiscation of all Catholic property in Ireland. But it was very different with Ormonde. In common with many Anglo-Irish Protestant Royalists, Ormonde was connected by hereditary sympathies and interests with the Catholics of the Pale. But, in addition, far beyond most others of his class, he was connected by blood and by affinity with the Catholics of ancient English descent, and with those of the Irish race who, from circumstances or upon grounds of prudence or expediency, made the policy of the Catholic Pale their own. It has been said already that with the Catholic religion as such he had few sympathies; with the ancient Irish race, and especially with the scarce concealed policy of the insurgent Irish, still fewer. But the cause of the Catholic proprietors of the Pale was in many respects his own; and even the purpose with which they had taken up arms and on the basis of which their confederation with the northern Irish was founded, was one which he professed himself willing to further, so far as it was in his judgment practicable in the circumstances of the times and in the existing state of parties in England, and so far as it was possible to do so without compromising the essential interests of the King, which for Ormonde were in all things the very first consideration.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

But, though it is plain from many circumstances in Ormonde's correspondence that he was secretly not imbued with the same hatred to the Irish of the Pale as the Lords Justices and the Parliamentary leaders in England, yet at first he dared not show any mercy, and assumed the only tone that would then be tolerated. He undertook, at the orders of the Lords Justices, as General-in-Chief of the King's forces, in March 1642, the burning of the Pale, burning all the country for seventeen miles in length and twenty-five in breadth, including in this destruction noblemen's houses as well as poor villages.[1] "This night," he writes to Sir Philip Percival on 3rd March 1642, regarding one of the Lords of the Pale, "he is a guest with the Constable of the Castle "of Dublin by the justice of the State, where he is likelier to turn rebel than I, for I "never mean to come near traitors, unless on the field, when we shall have very little "discourse. On Friday morning I mean to go with part of the army to the Pass in "the Pale, from whence I hope to send ill-favoured love tokens to my good Lords "there. When that quarter is beat, I will remove to some other, and before I come "home I may perhaps persuade their Lordships that, if I be of their party, I dis-"semble it notably well, and act my part to the life; nay, to the death of so many of "them as come in my way."[2]

But as the conduct of the rebels in England grew worse, Ormonde's tone towards those of Ireland somewhat moderated; and when it became at length the King's interest to seek the aid of the Irish, and when he employed Ormonde to conduct the negociations, Ormonde naturally renewed his association with the gentry of the Pale and their supporters in the Confederate Assembly, as being the old English interest of Ireland, and inclined both by principle and policy to maintain the King's power, especially as this party was opposed by the native Irish party and the more ardent of the clergy. But anxious as the gentry of the Pale were to return to their obedience, and eager to agree to a peace, they could not accept the only terms that Ormonde thought it to be consistent with the King's interest to grant, considering the religious feeling in England.

From this period, therefore, the fundamental principle of Ormonde's Irish policy seems to have been to aim, in the interest of the King, at a union with the Catholics of the Pale; nor was he unwilling, so far as was possible, without abandoning the settlements of Elizabeth and James, to consider the admitted grievances of their northern allies. But his correspondence contains abundant evidence that, even giving him credit for a certain amount of sincerity and good faith, his main design in courting the alliance of either party was that he might use the influence and strength thus acquired in Ireland, as an instrument for the restoration of the King's fortunes in England.

With this view we find him resorting to every expedient to avoid a positive breach with the Pale Catholics, and when the breach had taken place, to prevent it from becoming irreconcilable. Hence we find him at issue with the Lords Justices as to receiving submissions, as to sentences under martial law, and as to many measures suggested or undertaken in furtherance of the Cessation and of the Peace. The origin and progress of this conflict may be traced with much interest in the original correspondence of Ormonde during the period which preceded his appointment as Lord Lieutenant; and the persistent opposition to his own moderate policy subsequently maintained by the same party, formed one of the greatest difficulties of his administration, both in itself and in the impediments which it threw in the way of his all important negociations with the Confederate Catholics.

[1] Carte's Life of Ormonde, vol. i. p. 363. [2] Southwell Papers. Thorpe Catalogue, p. 374.

Digitized by Google

But on the other hand, while, during the war, Ormonde was willing to conciliate the Catholics, and even to favour their claims up to a certain point, his correspondence proves him to have been beyond this point irreconcilably opposed to the demands put forward on their behalf. He seems to have been in this respect influenced not by any personal hostility, but simply by motives of expediency. The outburst of popular feeling in England produced by the disclosure of Glamorgan's negociations, made it plain that any alliance of the King's friends with the Irish Catholics upon the religious basis on which the high Catholic party insisted, would be fatal to the King's interests in England; and it was Ormonde's manifest policy to discourage the growth of these demands, and to throw every obstacle in the way of the consolidation of that formidable unanimity in asserting them, of the various conflicting interests already described, which had resulted in the Confederation of Kilkenny.

And thus the correspondence is full not alone of angry denunciation of the "exaggerated" claims of the clergy, and especially of the party of the Nuncio Rinuccini, but of suggestions and appeals to every element of disunion by which the two parties might be divided. Of direct communication of Ormonde or Ormonde's friends with Rinuccini, the Carte collection contains but few traces; and indeed it may be said that as regards any representation of the views and feelings of that party, it is almost an entire blank. It contains very few original papers from the Nuncio or in his interest; and of these there is hardly one which is not already known from the publications of the time, such as Belling's Vindiciæ, Walsh's History of the Remonstrance, or from later narratives of these events, as Burke's "Hibernia Dominicana." In the interest of scientific historical inquiry, it must be confessed that even with this vast mass of original materials before us, we obtain but slender insight, we do not say into the actual proceedings, but even into the views and feelings of a party which influenced so vitally the course of events in Ireland. To turn from the Ormonde letters and narratives of events to the scanty and fragmentary records or representations of the same events emanating from purely Irish and ecclesiastical contemporary sources, is to pass into a completely new world; and it is only thus that we understand how wide was the gulf by which the two classes were still separated from each other, and how diametrically opposite and almost mutually inappreciable the points of view from which each in turn regarded the political, social, and religious incidents of the time, and the principles, the feelings, and the interests which these incidents involved.

It is much to the credit of Carte's sense of the responsibilities of a scientific historian that he made the remarkable effort to neutralize this manifest one-sidedness of his materials which has been described in a former page, by extracting largely from the manuscript history of the war of 1641, entitled "Commentarius de Bello Catholico ad "Annum 1641 cœpto," then in the possession of Lord Lovel, and still preserved in the library of the Earl of Leicester at Holkham. Of the importance of this manuscript as a means of enabling the historian of the Irish war of 1641 to strike the balance of truth between the conflicting narratives, it is impossible to speak too strongly. It may be said that it is the work of an avowed partisan, that it is founded in great part on partisan authorities, and that it is written entirely from the author's own point of view; but it is equally certain that the narratives of all the contemporaries on the other side are strongly partisan; and it must be remembered that Carte himself, although in many respects more free from the reproach of partisanship, drew the mass of the materials out of which his narrative is constructed, from the very stronghold of the party most directly in conflict with the Nuncio Rinuccini, of whose policy the author of the Commentarius de Bello Catholico is the accredited exponent. We would respectfully suggest that, although it belongs to a later period than those hitherto printed, it might with great propriety be selected for publication in connexion with the series of "Chronicles and Memorials of Great Britain and Ireland," published under your Lordship's direction. In addition to the Holkham transcript of the original, it is satisfactory to know that a second very complete and careful copy has been recently made from the same original, now in the library of the Marchesa Trivulzi at Milan, and is in the possession of the very Reverend Dr. Moran, secretary of his Eminence Cardinal Cullen, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Dublin.

We have said that Carte's collection comprises but a very small proportion of original documents from native Irish sources. Of those which it contains, some are evidently intercepted papers or documents seized in the possession of prisoners. The examples of direct correspondence between Ormonde and the native Irish are so few, that we think a specimen may prove not uninteresting; and we have selected for the purpose the papers bearing on an incident of the Irish war, which is involved in considerable obscurity, and of which Carte has sketched little more than the rough outlines. We allude to the junction of Ormonde with Sir Phelim O'Neil and Owen O'Neil in 1649.

Digitized by Google

603

During the negociations of the Peace of 1646, Ormonde had persistently repudiated, and refused to adopt as a basis, the conditions which had been guaranteed by Glamorgan. It is unnecessary for us to enter into the question how far these conditions had been authorised by the King; but that the sentiments of the Queen and the Prince were fully in unison with these concessions (which indeed were virtually yielded by Ormonde himself, in little more than a year afterwards at the Peace of 1648), is plain from the following important letter never before published, written by Oliver Viscount Fitzwilliam of Merrion from the Queen's Court at Paris, and by the direction of her Council:—

"To the Right Hon. the Supreme Council,—These.

"May it please your Honours,

"After many long debates at our English Court, & great expectation that demands should be sent you from thence at full, I find by our Queen's Councill that the Marquis of Ormonde's power to treat with you is by the going of Mr. Grant from his Ma^tie^ to his Ex^cie^ to be renewed, & assurance is by the s^d^ Council given to Dr. Tirrell & me by word of mouth, that you shall have Dublin with all the towns, & forts & garrisons in the Marquis of Ormond's & in the English hands put forthwith into yours, but as for displacing the Marquis of Ormonde there is no power here for so doing. Yet the said Council avers they will hold his Ex^cie^ no loyal subject if, soon after your being possessed of what is said, he sues not for surrendering up his place as Lieutenanship. Only one church in Dublin hath been pressed for here for the use of the Protestants, which I conceive fit to be given, if you so approve, in regard to Prince's intention (on your uniting & all quietness established) to settle himself there as it is thought, if so be that the going of this messenger from the Queen unto Ormonde's occasions appear to your content in general. Truly it would (through Christendom) be esteemed a worthy memorable act, if your Honours would contrive a means, either out of the monies coming to you from Italy hence or from elsewhere to furnish our Prince with a competent sum, his necessities having compelled his Highness to demand (as I am informed) some help of most Christian Princes. I partly promised in your behalf that if your demands be granted both King & Queen & Prince & theirs, should be as gratefully accepted by their Irish Catholic subjects in Ireland as ever they were in England. Notwithstanding all the treaties here, & the daily promises of this agent's going to you from his Majesty, if herewith he shall arrive with you, if he affirms not all what here I have said touching the Queen's Council's words abovesaid to Dr. Tirrell & me to be true, you are to give no credit to whatsoever he shall say; all which I told the said Council I would intimate to your Honours. If you can have the aforesd offers forthwith made good unto you, in my opinion I would for the present not insist too much for the displacing of the Lord Lieut^t^. Yet howsoever lose not a day's time for any treaty, but let your armies prepare whilst you treat to take by fair or foul means, Dublin, &c. for his Majestie's use; for, believe it, you may safely do it, & delays breed danger.

"It is thought our English Court would heartily wish you had taken Dublin when you attempted it; but lose no more such opportunities, but go on roundly with your work, for it is thought the Presbyterians & the Independents will (by their disunion) give sufficient time [to] use your wills, & it is yet hoped the Scots will not give up their King to the Parliament; for the King hath absolutely refused to come [to] Holmby unless he may come to London, saying that if he be a free man he may go where he pleases; if not, but a prisoner, he is not nor cannot be treated with. It is most probable that the wars are not yet ended in England. Still it is most requisite to keep in your mind great supplies for the Marquis of Antrim, by which you will keep Ireland from ever being the seat of war. I writt to your Honours desiring as now your pleasure touching frigates which are at Dunkirk, whether you would be willing or not to take 10 or 12 or more or less of them as you shall think fit for moneys, if any be granted you hence. I hold them most necessary for you. Your Honours will be pleased I hope to see my houseless friends righted & relieved; & him who hath been the cause of their sufferings & his own in shewing himself as he ever intends to continue.

"Your Honours most obedient & most faithfull servant,
"FITZWILLIAM."

"9 Feb. 1646–7."

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"P.S.—My Lord John Somerset, who arrived here five or six days since, affirms that General Preston (contrary to what was believed) is as much & as faithfully your servant as ours; & that amongst yourselves you are all united (which Heaven continue!) So, I hope you shall make the King's dominions happy. The Council to be composed of such as you shall nominate, to be with Ormonde, in case you come to an agreement with him, which hath been partly promised us here, in regard the Queen's Council saith that Ormonde's power shall not extend to prejudice you."[1]

Rather than adopt this course, Ormonde had delivered up Dublin and the Sword of State to the Parliament in 1647. He had thence come to England, and after a short stay there and visit to the King at Hampton Court, where the King was virtually a prisoner, had proceeded to the Court of Queen Henrietta Maria and the Prince of Wales, at Paris.

They enjoined him to return to Ireland, to concede the principal demands of the Irish, to conclude a peace with them, and thus to effect a union between the Protestant, Presbyterian, and Catholic Royalists of Ireland, in other words, the English, Scotch, and Irish of that country, in an endeavour to save the King from the fate which the Queen and Prince now feared for him. Ormonde accordingly returned to Ireland in or about September 1648, and taking up his abode at his ancient seat at Carrick-on-Suir, at being near Kilkenny, he entered into a negociation with the Confederate Catholic Assembly, which ended in a peace, signed in January 1648-9 (thenceforth known as the peace of 1648 to distinguish it from the peace of 1646); but all too late to save the King. King Charles II., however, upon his accession appointed Ormonde Lord Lieutenant, and desired him to continue his efforts to unite as many as possible in his favour, in order to preserve Ireland at least for his service, as he intended to retire thither and make it his abode. Sir Phelim O'Neil had already yielded a ready and willing obedience to the King on Ormonde's return, and had been so zealous for the peace that he was presented to Ormonde by the Confederate Assembly as worthy of the King's especial favour, and was received by him at Kilkenny Castle and entrusted with high commands, being made by the King's commission, colonel of a regiment of foot, and Governor of Charlemont Fort.

The following is the letter signed by Sir Richard Blake, Chairman of the Assembly, by its order, in Sir Phelim's favour:—

"May it please your Excellencie,

"Soe faithfull & loyall for advancement of his Ma^ties^ service, & soe faithfull & meritting in assistance to the conclusion of the now happy peace agreed upon, have this Assembly found the endeavours & reall acc'ons of S^r^ Phelym O'Neill, that they have given me in commaund to pray yo^r^ Excellencie no way to give ear to any misrepresentation to be made of him, but that still he be continued in your Excellencies favour as a man of noble extraction & highly ambitious to forward his Ma^ties^ service, allways conformable & obedient to government & capable & worthy of his Highness's especiall favour, & upon distribution of places & preferments of honour & trust in this kingdom, the Assembly do recommend him in an especiall manner to yo^r^ Lo'p to preferr this noble gentleman to a place suitable to his merritts & abilitiyes, which as their comaunds is humbly offerred by,

"Yo^r^ Ex^ties^ most humble servant,

"Kilkenny, 17 January 1648-9." "Rt. Blake."[2]

"To his Ex. the Marq. of Ormond."

But though Sir Phelim thus readily joined with Ormonde, Owen Ro O'Neil and the Ulster Irish for a long time held off, unable to pardon Ormonde his delivering over to the Parliament the Castles of Dublin, Trim, Dundalk, and all other garrisons in his power,[3] believing also that there could be no true union between the English and Irish, as was soon after made evident by the revolt of the Munster garrisons to Cromwell, and their betrayal to him of so many forts. At length, however, Owen O'Neil, warned by the successes of Cromwell's arms, that there was no means of safety but a union with Ormonde, did agree to a junction with him, and was on his march to join him at Kilkenny, when fell mortally sick at Cavan, and there died in November 1649.

Between him and Sir Phelim O'Neil there had long been family and political rivalry, and now they were commanders of hostile forces, Sir Phelim holding the King's [1] Books of the Council for the Affairs of Ireland, A. 30, p. 331. Record Tower, Dublin Castle.

[2] xxiii. 174.
[3] Declaration by Eugenio O'Neill, Generall of the Confederat Catholicks of Ireland of the Ulster forces, and by the commanders of the same forces, dated at Athlone, June 18, 1648, declining the Truce made by the Confederate Assembly with Inchiquin, preliminary to Ormonde's return. Vol. lxvii. p. 156.

Digitized by Google

605

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

commission, Owen O'Neil acting under no recognised government since the dissolution of the Confederate Assembly. Sir Phelim showed considerable activity and bravery, and his forces had the luck (to use his own expression) "to stumble on a bishop," no less an one than Emer MacMahon, considered the ablest general of the Ulster forces after Owen O'Neil himself.

In the following letter he announces that event to Ormonde:—

Sir Phelim O'Neil to Ormonde.

"May it please your Excellencie, Kilkenny, March 2, 1648-9.

"I received a letter from my Lieutenant-Colonel last night by an express, advertising me, that as the regiment were on their march through the country of Monaghan, they stumbled at Castleblayney on Ever MacMahon, Lord Bishop of Clogher, whom they conveied and have now prisoner at Charlemounte. I am confident Colonel Owen O'Neill will not be wanting, by using the best of his power and diligence, to work the Bishop's enlargement.

"Wherefore I thought it my dutye herein to acquaint your Excellencie, to the end you may give in commande unto Lieutenant-Colonel Stamforde, or other officer commanding in chief at Charlemounte, to secure and dispose of the said Lord Bishop's person as to your wisdom shall seem best. Soe I humbly take leave, being anxious to be approved,

"My Lord,
"Your Excellencie's most humble servant,
"PHE. O'NEIL."[1]

Sir Phelim was not mistaken concerning the efforts he expected Owen O'Neil to make for the Bishop's release, as appears by the following letter, which also exhibits his rivalry and jealousy of that great commander:—

Sir Phelim O'Neil to Ormonde.

"May it please your Excellencie, [April 1649].

"Having gotten notice of a most dangerous plott compassed by the Bishop of Clogher on the fort of Charlemont, by corrupting the officers and souldiers in offering them large sums of monies, which was brought to passe had I stayed two days longer.

"By much adoe I did come safe, the ways were soe besett for me, and at my coming here was Owen O'Neill all his armie at Blackwater within a mile of this town, for to bring the plott to passe. And my Lord Primate sends an excommunication on the whole regiment and garrison, that noe priest should celebrate Masse to them nor on any part of all my lands formerly held, a purpose to waste the lands which hitherto since the warres did yield some profitt. But a worse excommunication did follow my land and poor tenants.

"The armie hearing of my coming, a mutinie did rise amongst them, on which the Major-General and chief officers marched away to my town of Kynard, and camped there that night, preyed all the tenants that they could light on, and in spite of me, burnt what was left unburned of my house by the Parlement, and did cutt all my trees and orchards about it. I did send out a good partie in the rere of them, which brought me two captains and several under officers, & many souldiers, which I released on parole, after giving them private instructions in his Majesty's behalf and your Excellencies. The next day the whole armie did scatter, and two of the best colonels and regiments did fall away from them and sent to me. And soe will they all, if they can see any head or any men put in a posture for the good of this province and nation. All the gentrie of Tyrone and Armagh were here, and in your Excellencie's name I did protect them & all their creats. I hope they will be in time a good help towards the maintenance of the armie. My Lord, your Excellencie gets no true information concerning this Province. You give such credit to one man of this Province that is neere your Excellencie and in favour with you, that others are loath to intrude themselves to give a true character of any man's deserts, means, and birth, and what they may or can do in forwarding the King's service. Owen O'Neill is not in kindred nor fortune, himself nor friends, so considerable a man as is given out of him, yet noe man goes the ways he goeth, but may for a while get men to follow him, and specially when no man appears against him. Most of all the garrisons of the British forces of Ulster will declare for the King. I had this verie day a Scotch commander to know whether your Excellencie had sent anie directions by me to them or not, and they were all ready to assist my men in case Owen O'Neill's army would besiedge this fort. If your Excellencie give me the power to protect and

[1] xxiv. 11.

Digitized by Google

to offer reasonable conditions for officers and some assistance and help of means, I will quiet this Province for anie Irish partie that will oppose the government. My Lord, let me tell your Excellencie in giving Owen O'Neill anie such conditions as he expects may breed more jealousie in the armie of this kingdom than your Excellencie is aware of; yet I leave all to your Excellencie's grave consideration to think of it what is best.

"As for my parte, I will build my fortunes upon your Excellencie's favour to deal with me as you think best, for while I live I will ever goe your ways and will be as faithful to your Excellencie as any kinsman or servant you have in the world.

"My Lord,

"I am your Excellencies most humble servant,

No date. "PHE. O'NEILL."[1]

Endorsed by Ormonde, "Rec^d 17 April 1649."

During the whole time that Sir Phelim was under Ormonde's command he seems to have earned his respect. In the month of August 1649, Sir Phelim, being under the impression that he had been maligned to Ormonde, the following letter passed between them:—

Sir Phelim O'Neil to Ormonde.

"May it please your Excellencie, "Charlemont, August 28, 1649.

"According to your commands, I have sent the Bishop of Rapho to Armagh safe.

"I am informed that some misinformation is given of me to your Excellencie by many of my ill-wishers, whereunto (I hope) there is no credit given. For I do protest unto the Almighty, what I promised to your Excellencie in the presence of the Lord Muskerry I will make it good during my life, and will be ever true to you and your ways; for I am sure, and do well know it, that your father's and grandfather's child will be constant in maintaining this poor nation in its rights. I can give as fair an account of my carriage for his Majesty's advantage since my coming to this Province as might be expected at my hands.

"Your, &c.,

"PHE. O'NEIL."[2]

Ormonde to Sir Phelim O'Neil.

"7 September 1649.

"We received your letter of the 28th of last month. I do assure you that we had no information that might occasion our varying from the good opinion by us retained for your fixedness to what you professed unto us in reference to his Majesty's service; so we shall, when time serves, send you our orders to draw into the field to that end, and remember your constant faithfulness thereto unto your advantage.

"Your affectionate friend,

"ORMONDE."[3]

As a military commander he maintained the fort of Charlemont with the greatest courage, though at last overwhelmed by the forces of Coote and Venables; not, however, until he had repulsed their assault in the breach three several times, as described in the following despatch of the commanders of the Ulster forces to Ormonde. The best proof of his stubborn defence is perhaps to be found in the terms he obtained of marching out with the honours of war when the capture of a man so odious to the Parliament and English nation would have been so acceptable.

"The Roman Catholic Bishops of Armagh, and Down and Connor, and other Commanders, to Ormonde.

"May it please your Excellencie, [Cloughaughter, August 18, 1650.]

"Being informed of the proceedings at Charlemounte, we thought it our duty to inform your Honour thereof, which happened as followeth:—

"The enemye having long continued about the same with a close siege, made a great breach with their artillerie in the works about the castle, wherein they did enter three several upon the 6th of this month, and were forced back (after long dispute) to their loss of men and arms. They were so violent in the prosecution of the breach that they caused their horsemen to serve afoot, who were lost in great numbers with [1] xxiv. 265. [2] xxv. 237. [3] cxiii. 30.

armour & pistols. After they were beaten from the walls, the besiedged had of the enemye's arms 350 musketts, 600 pikes, pistolls, and armour for 100 horse. It is assured unto us that the enemy lost fourteen captains with other officers, and upwards of 800 men. But Sir Phelym being necessitated by the want of ammunition and provision, having lost the most of his chief officers and souldiers to a very few, was forced to take quarter, to march away with bag and baggage upon Tuesday last, which he did the next day following. And although the said place hath been lost, and notwithstanding the disaster at Tyrconnel, we doubt not by God's help and your Excellencie's assistance to appear shortly considerable in the field for the advancement of his Majestie's service, which assistance with other favours is confidently expected by

"My Lord,
"Your Excellencie's most humble servants,
"H. Ardmach.
"Dunens, et Connor.
"Phil. Relt.
"Ed. MacMahon.
"Faughna MacMahon.
"Phillip Relt."[1]

"Cloughaughter, August 18, 1650."

This correspondence gives cause to question the popular account of Sir Phelim O'Neil's character, as it is scarce possible that the Confederate Assembly would have recommended so bloody a person as he is usually described to be (consisting as the Assembly did so largely of noblemen and gentlemen of English descent) to Ormonde and the King, nor would Ormonde have treated him with the respect he did if he had believed it, or have promised him his countenance with the King. It is to be remarked also that he was tried for High Treason; and for the High Treason committed by rebellion, and not for murder, he was sentenced and hanged. And though Sir Gerard Lowther, in his address to him when sentencing him to execution, says there was a charge against him for the murder of Lord Caulfeild, he mentions no other,[2] and that charge is now known to be false. Sir Phelim trusted Lord Caulfeild and his family with kindness after the surprise of Charlemont on the 23rd October 1641; and the murder was committed by the guard that escorted him on his way to Cloughoughter in December 1641, at a distance from Charlemont, and in Sir Phelim's absence; and he was so indignant at the crime that he caused his foster brother and three more to be hanged for the murder.[3]

His son and heir Henry O'Neil, in 1664 petitioned the King for a proviso in the Act of Settlement to restore him to his father's estates, relying upon his father's compliance with the Cessation in 1643, and his using his utmost power to suppress all who denied their necessary condescension to the Peace of 1648, especially by opposing the Nuncio, Owen O'Neil, and all other accomplices, and supplying the Marquis of Clanricarde, then Lord Deputy, with munitions and other relief. The King, 20th October 1664, referred his claim to Ormonde and those appointed to assist him in considering the Bill of Settlement,[4] but it need scarcely be mentioned that nothing came of it.

Ormonde, as has been already mentioned, endeavoured to get Owen Ro O'Neil to unite with him. He had a high opinion, as well of his honour when once he engaged himself, as of his military skill. It is very evident from his letters in the Carte Collection, that the popular notion that he was contending absolutely for the independence of Ireland is erroneous. He was a Royalist in the strict sense. On one occasion, in the early part of the war, when Sir Robert Stewart, Governor of Culmore Fort and some of the King's forces, addressed him in a letter as being in rebellion, he promptly replied: "Sir, in that particular you may understand we imagine we are in no "rebellion ourselves; but do really fight for our Prince in defence of his Royal "Crown and Prerogative, wherein we shall continue and die to the last man."[5]

And this language he maintained throughout his whole career, and in the letter he wrote to Ormonde "upon his dying bed," which we give here, closes this remarkable correspondence.

"May it please your Excellencie,

"Seeing now on my death-bed (without any great hope of my recovery) I call my Saviour to witness that (as I hope for salvation) my resolue'on and wayes and intentions from first to last in these unhappy warrs tended to no particular ambic'on or privat interest of myne owne (notwithstanding what was or may be thought to the

[1] xxviii. 223.
[2] Address of Sir Gerard Lowther, 3rd March 1652-3. Harris MSS., Roy. Dub. Soc., vol. ii. p. 238.
[3] A Relation of the Present State of Ireland. 4to., London, 1646.
[4] Collections relating to the Act of Settlement. Record Tower, Dublin Castle, vol. C. p. 169.
[5] Owen O'Neil to Sir Robert Stewart, 18 June 1643. Vol. v. 273.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

contrary), but truly and sincerely to the preservac'on of my religion, the advancement of his Ma^ties^ service, and just liberties of this nac'on, whereof and of my particular reality and willingness to serve your Excell^ie^ (above any other in this kingdom), I hope (if God will permitt me) to give ample and sufficient testimony in the view of the world, ere it be long. However, if in the intrim, God pleaseth to call me away, I do most seriously recommend to your Excell^ies^ care my son & heere Collonel Henry O'Neill, praying and desiring that your Ex^ie^ may be favourably pleased, not only to prescribe a present course that he may participate of the late peace, but alsoe of the benefitt of such condic'ons, concessions, and creac'on as his Ma^tie^ intended for mee, and was assured for mee by your Ex^ie^ in his Ma^ties^ name, by an iustrument bearing date at Kilkenny, the 29th of September last. And that (in case of my death) your Ex^ie^ will not only assure him thereof under hand and seale, but likewise be ayding and assisting him in the timely procurement thereof.[1] And in soe doing your Ex^ie^ will highly oblige mee, my said son, and the posterity of "Your Ex^cies^ most humble servant,

"OWEN O'NEILL."[2]

But whatever were Ormonde's private feelings towards the Catholic party, whatever his public efforts to conciliate them, so long as the war continued, it is impossible not to be struck by the contrast of the policy which he pursued after the Restoration. From that time the Catholic alliance, far from being necessary or even useful to him, was a source of suspicion and danger in England, while in Ireland the claims of Catholics for services rendered to the King were a formidable embarrassment to the Protestants interested in the settlement of that kingdom. To them nothing was thenceforward so desirable as to break up the united action of the Catholic party. In itself the inveterate antipathy of the two races in Ireland—the inevitable conflict of their interests which presented itself in almost every new situation of affairs, was, as is well known, a lasting and fatal source of disunion; but we doubt whether even the best informed scholars will be fully prepared for the evidences which exist in the remains of the Ormonde correspondence, to show how industriously these elements of disunion between the parties were turned to account by the common enemies of both.

The connexion of Ormonde with the divisions of the Catholics after the Restoration had often been suspected, and indeed is not concealed by Carte in his life of the Duke. The plainest traces of it however are to be found in the papers bearing on the secret history of the well-known "Remonstrance," and in all Ormonde's dealings with the opposite parties in this memorable controversy, but particularly with their several leaders, Archbishop Talbot and Father Peter Walsh.

Archbishop Talbot, as well as the other members of his family, appears very early in the Ormonde correspondence, even anterior to the Restoration period; and that correspondence contains frequent references to him down to the date of his death.

We find Father Peter Talbot and his brothers Thomas, Gilbert, and Richard, all in the most intimate relations with the King during his exile. On the 14th April 1656, Father Thomas Talbot writes to the King from Paris, concerning Mazarin's abandoning "the Roman negociation in behalf of the distressed Irish nation;" he laments the "infamous peace" between the French and Cromwell. "The clergy of France," he says, "hath declared their sense of the sad constitution of the Irish at home and "abroad, and are resolved, upon the least intimation from the Pope, notwithstanding "any opposition by the Cardinal, to afford their contributions in a very large mea- "sure, insomuch that one Bishop of Amiens doth undertake to procure in Paris "upon that score 400,000 crowns." He hopes the King will now treat with the Spaniard to destroy Cromwell, evidently expects to be employed, and asks his Majesty's commands in this particular, and "whether it be not fit for him to bring the authority "of the nation along with him, and thus H.M. may assure the Spaniards that in a "short time he will have as gallant an army on foot as any for the number in the "world."[3]

Gilbert Talbot, 15th December (1655) writes to Ormonde from Antwerp that "he is "coming to Cologne to make Ormonde and the King privy to a design he has in hand "for the King's service, and was in trouble till he had borrowed 10*l.* for his journey."[4]

The relations of Father Peter Talbot with the King were so intimate that he and the King had a cipher, which is still preserved.[5]

He writes from Antwerp, 21st March 1655–6, to H.M. at Cologne, how Sexby had told him that H.M. had said he would rather live in exile on 200*l.* a year, than return to his kingdom on some conditions said to have been offered on the part of the Presbyterians.[6]

His brother Colonel Richard Talbot, Colonel Halsey, and Robin Dungan had

[1] The promise alluded to was that he should have the title of Earl of Tyrone. [2] xxvi. 49.
[3] Carte Papers, vol. 181, p. 176. [4] ccxiii. 19. [5] cxxii. 176. [6] Ibid. 174.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

(in 1656) gone to London, apparently to assassinate Cromwell; but the plot was betrayed and Dungan and Halsey seized, Richard Talbot escaped, and was then accused of having betrayed the plot through design or indiscretion. Thereupon Peter Talbot writes to Ormonde from Antwerp (3rd February 1655–6), that he cannot believe it, but thinks that Gilbert's business gave some occasion to this blemish of his brothers, and says, "Gilbert came this night to me from Brussels, and is mad, swears, "and damns himself, wondering how people can as much as admit any just thoughts "against him."[1]

On 3rd January 1659–60, we find Father Peter employed by the King as his agent to the Court of Madrid for obtaining for the King and Ormonde their promised pensions. He writes to Ormonde of his progress with Don Luis and Escobedo, and of certain suggestions of Sir H. Bennett, H. M.'s authorized ambassador, in whose house he dwelt. He tells (as the news) of the King of Spain and his daughter being to begin their journey the 1st of April following; and how the livery coats which his guards of horse and foot will wear cost 200,000 crowns, of 500 horse and 600 foot. "My "Lord Bristol (who has lately become a Catholic) will soon get some ayuda de coste, "and Don Luis thinks he will return for Flanders, which (continues Father Peter "Talbot) I think he will." "His Lordship and I live very peaceably in Sir Henry "Bennett's house (he adds), all which the King attributes to good nature, but others "to God's grace infused by the sacraments of confession and communion.[2] I do "not forget H.M.'s commission for the Spanish music."[3]

By these and many similar services from himself and from his family, Father Peter Talbot had merited well of the King during his exile. Some recognition of these merits was accorded at the Restoration. On Charles's marriage with the Infanta of Portugal, Father Talbot was appointed one of the Queen's Almoners. It is plain, however, that he had many enemies among the members of the Court. His earnestness in the cause of the church was specially distasteful to those statesmen who stood in constant dread of a Puritan reaction; and as early as 22nd June 1660, we find him complaining to Ormonde,[4] that umbrage is taken at his being in London, and expressing his intention of retiring. His chief enemy appears to have been Clarendon, in whose correspondence with Ormonde there are many traces of hostility to Father Talbot. There is a letter of the Father,[5] dated Chester, 18th December 1662, claiming to be allowed to justify himself before Clarendon, and to be restored to his place at Court. With Ormonde himself he was involved in suspicion upon an unfounded and malignant charge of being privy to the imputed design of his brothers against the Duke's life.

It is not until after his elevation of the See of Dublin in 1669, that Talbot's history connects itself with public affairs in Ireland. But for several years before this period, in connexion with the well-known affair of the "Remonstrance," the secret action of Ormonde for the purpose of creating division, and thus weakening the Catholic party, is plainly discernible.

On the 5th of February 1663 Ormonde writes from Dublin to Mr. Secretary Bennett:—

"Since mine of the 27th of the last noe letters have arrived heere, but I have since received the originall of the inclosed coppy from the Lord Primat and the Archbishop of Dublin, who had often made verball complainte to mee to the same purpose. But as I suppose they find themselves necessitated for their owne discharge, and by the continuance & encrease of the indiscrete and arrogant deportment of the Romish clergie, to make this kinde of application for redresse, which yet they have done with great secresy & discretion, being in truth very prudent persons, & farr from peevishnesse or violence in their nature or opinions.

"Being well acquainted with the boldnesse & ill conduct very many of that clergie are apt to acquire & fall into from the least countenance or connivance that is afforded them, I am persuaded they will at length draw upon themselves, & upon some better & more sober men of that profession, that which they will then more reasonably call a persecution than they now doe the endeavours that are used to secure only those of them that are & have been avers to the King & his Government, & misleaders of the people, who are commonly more ready to receive the ill impressions of the turbulent than the good ones of more sober spirrits. As it is not, I think, just, soe I think it is not prudent, that both these sortes of them should be promiscuously or equally prosecuted or favoured. I was therefore glad that such a test as that of a declaration subscribed at London by many of that clergy & laity was sett on foote, which was the most proper way to distinguish betwixt them; & since it is most probable that one tyme or other his Ma^tie will find it necessary to lessen the prodigious

[1] cxxxi. 35.
[2] He had just mentioned that Lord Bristol had lately become a convert to the Catholic faith.
[3] ccxiii. 371. [4] viii. 78. [5] xii. 250.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

number of that clergie that dayly flock hither & are ordained heere[1] (as well to prevent the mischiefe they may leade the people into as to save the burden they are to the people), I doe conceive that those who will not subscribe to that declaration (which noe understanding good subject will refuse) are fitted for a sharp proceeding to be held with them, by which meanes, if it be seasonably taken in hand, connivance & favour may be afforded those that shall subscribe, with more safety to the Government & with lesse scandall to the Protestants; & thus alsoe may more severity be used towards the other nonconformists when it shall appeare that they are not soly singled out for persecution, whilst others, conforming noe more than they doe, are permitted with impunity to have their meetings & to introduce & exercise a forraigne jurisdiction, though the lawes by which they suffer were provided against those that are spared, & had noe aspect towards those that are punished, which is already matter of much seditious discourse amongst the Presbiterians in the North, & all sortes of sectaries all the kingdome over.

"This way (by warrant of an instruction from his Mat[ie])[2] I was falling upon, till he thought fitt to inhibit it; & this way, I conceive, will the paper I send be best answered, the prosecution rightly placed, & the well affected amongst the clergie encouraged to procede in their good principles & to imbue the people with them, who, since they must have Romish clergie whylst they are Papists, it will, I conceive, conduce much to the King's service that they be such as shall have given some engagement for their loyalty. Hereupon I humbly desire to receive his Ma[ties] pleasure with what convenient speede may bee.

"And soe I remaine,
"Sir,
"Your most affectionate humble servant,
"ORMONDE."

Ormonde's support of the party which he thus favoured was not confined to public policy. One of the most damaging charges against the leaders of the "Remonstrants" at the time was that they were in the pay of the Government. On this point much light is thrown by the Carte papers.

---

[1] The following list was probably one of a series of returns obtained with a view to some such repressive procedure:—

A NOTE of the NAMES of all the DOMINICAN PRIORS of IRELAND.

Linster.		Conaght.
Kilkenny	- Edmond Pendergrast.	Portumna	- Christopher Walsh.
Achaboe	- Patrick Dulehanty.	Athenry	- Thomas Burke.
Athy	- Redmond Moore.	Galloway	- Nicholas Hallam.
Mallingare	- Gerratt Dillon.	Strade	- William Burke.
Trime	- Gerratt Ferrall.	Irlare [Urlaur]	- Dominick Phillibin.
Lougford	- Richard Maddin.	Borrisule [Borrisnoole]	William Burke.
Munster.		Rathtrany	- Anthony Henegan.
		Sligoe	- Phelix Connor.
Limbrick	- John Burke.	Roscoman	- John Bern.
Killmallock	- Henry Burgate.	Ulster.
Youghall	- Constantin Kyffe.	Thredath [Drogheda]	John Reynolds.
Cashell	- Patrick Henbery.	Newtown	- Clemens Bern.
Lortha	- Tiady Biragra.	Coolrahan	- James Crilly.
		Goula	- Thomas Mahun.

Sum'a, 24.

The NAMES of such MONASTERIES of the DOMINICAN ORDER wherein PRIORS are not named at the present.

Linster.
Dublin.
Nanse.
Arclow.
Rosse.
Munster.
Waterford.
Corck.
Glenmire.
Tralee.
Clunmell.
Ulster.
Carlingford.
Dery.
Conoght.
Tullek.

The draft of this instruction, in the autograph of Ormonde, is found in vol. xlv. p. 164.

Digitized by Google

G11

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Ormonde had written from Dublin, 27th December 1662, to Lord Chancellor Clarendon :—

"I am very desirous to show my kindnesse to Father Carou in the assistance of his poore friends, but none of them make any application to me, & I cannot divine what their case is or how capable of help from me. I find by a letter of his to his fellow, P. Walsh,[1] that he is in want, & begins to apprehend that having made himselfe odious to the Court of Roome he may be neglected heere, & fall to much misery. Something should be done for his constant support there, as I will heere for his compasion. There may certainly good use be made of such men if they be encouraged, & those of more dangerous & irreconcileable principles pursued & driven from amongst us; & that distinction will be a good part of the other's encouragement. The Bishop of Dromore is a man more changeable than either of the other two, & alsoe more chargeable; besides, the admission of a Bishop would make more noyse then that of obscurer persons, soe that till I see how the countenance given to these men will be taken I doe not wish him heere, but sure it will not be amis to give him wherewith to make good cheere."[2]

From an acknowledgment in the hand-writing of Peter Walsh, written in August 1662, it appears that a regular allowance of 300*l.* yearly was made to him by Ormonde.

"Monies received att several times since May 1662 from my Lord Duke of Ormond by Father Peter Walsh to this present August 1666.

"Att several times and by several summes the sayd year 1662, receaved by me - - - - -	£300
"In the year '63 - - - - - -	300
"In y^e^ year '64 - - - - - -	320
"In y^e^ year '65 by several summes - - - -	105
"In all - - -	1,025

"I saye receaved so much att such times and in or for such yeares by me,
"PETER WALSH.

"So that now remains behind of what your Grace promised to allow me yearly 300*l.*, wanting five. As for the od 20*l.* in the yeare '64 it was added by your Grace for Father Geurson's journey to Flanders from London.

"And to mind your Grace more particularly how I receaved no more, for this whole last yeare and three months, but a hundred twenty-five pounds; for what I receaved att Loudon and Moore Park last yeare or this summer was due before.

"I had about last Christmas 1665 by Denis - - -	£15
"This last Whitsuntide by Denis, but for y^e^ said yeare -	50
"Given to myself lately in two little bags - - -	40
"In all - - -	105"

It seems certain that this subvention was continued to Father Walsh during the rest of his life. The following letter written from his death bed is at least an evidence of the continued favour and patronage of the Duke:—

"MY LORD, "London, March 13, 1688.

"Now being just come to a period of life which is the inevitable end of man, [I] thought it (though in the agony of death) an incumbent duty to intimate to your Grace due thanks for your manifold and bountiful favours at all times since ever I had the happiness of your Grace's acquaintance. I hope the remunerator of all good works will largely remunerate you with a full and condign reward.

"In not a time for mee to bragg (notwithstanding the great oppositions I have had and censures I laid under) that I have been to the utmost of endeavours a true, sincere,

[1] The following passport to Peter Walsh made in virtue of the articles agreed on at Kilkenny, in 1662, although unconnected with the transactions referred to in the text, is worth transcribing:—

"11 Sep. 1652. These are to license & authorine the bearer hereof, Mr. Peter Walsh, with his servant, their two horses, and travelling arms, to reside under the protection of the Parliament's arms & forces in Ireland, for the space of 28 days, from the 14th of this instant September, in order to his transportation fo Spain or other foreign parts in amity with the Commonwealth of England, in pursuance of the articles lately made at Kilkenny with the Irish party: Provided that, in the meantime he use not any priestly function, nor that they act anythine prejudicial to the Commonwealth.

"Dated at Tredagh. 11 April 1652."

Egerton MSS., No. 1762. Brit. Museum, Plut. DXX.

[2] cxiii. p. 57.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

and constant servant of your Grace, and now seeing violent sickness and age conspire to deprive mee of life and of being any more serviceable in this world, I finally seal my candid friendship, desiring my God to crown you and yours with all temporal and spiritual rights and blessings, and withal conjuring your Grace, "Visceribus Christi," to grant me those two requests as an indelible mark and crown of all your obligations.

"The first is, that your Grace may be pleased to give the poor Fryers of my order the Convent of Kilkenny, formerly belonging to them, where I lived and to which I was son and superior, which will be an act worthy of perpetuating your greatness and piety.

"The second is, to take to your Grace's consideration to protect and help a poor nephew of mine who has charge of eleven children. His name is Andrew Laborne of Cloghinisk, in the county of Catterlogh.

Being what offers now from a dying person with my blessing to you and yours. This being (though weak and unable) my own dictation, written by the Lord Nuncio's chaplin, who absolved me by full power from all incumbrances to which I was subject this long space of time, as will appear to your Grace my last protestation.

"This I signed by my own trembling hand, assuring your Grace that I am to the last breath

"My Lord, your Grace's most obliged & devoted servant,
"Fr. Peeter Wailsh."

The signature, which is autograph, and indeed "in a trembling hand," fully bears out what the writer says of his "unable condition." It contrasts most strikingly with the elegant Italian character by which his letters and those of his great adversary, Archbishop Talbot, may almost be distinguished from all the contemporary papers of the Carte collection.

This policy of "dividing the Irish" was not peculiar to Ormonde. There is a very remarkable letter of the Earl of Essex, written during his Lieutenancy, to Ormonde, which distinctly avows the same policy, and with which this portion of the subject may not inappropriately be closed.

"My Lord, Dublin Castle, November 17, 1673.

I have lately received two letters from your Grace concerning the titular Bishop of Clogher, the first delivered by himself, the latter wherein you were pleased to discourse over freely concerning him, was brought on by this gentleman, Sir Bernard de Gomez. 'Tis a great advantage both to myself in particular and to his Majesties affairs in general, that your Grace is pleased to communicate with me so plainly the knowledge you have of persons in the kingdom. I desire you to continue this correspondence as often as there is anything necessary for me to know, and that you have the opportunity of conveighing it by a safe hand.

"The execution of the late address will, I think, put an end to all relating to these titular Bishops, who now must quit the country; and I know they are all preparing to be gone in obedience to it. One thing I have of difficulty lying upon me in regard to this article of the address, which I do not make known to any of my friends in England except your Grace, soon after my coming.

"Moloony, the titular Bishop of Killaloe, whom I looke upon as the most dangerous (because the wisest) man of all the clergy, made a composure of all the differences which were amongst the men of their religion, particularly of the disputes which were between their Primate and Peter Talbot; as also the dissentions between Colonel Talbot and Colonel Fitzpatrick, and had upon the matter well nigh made an union among them all. I soon found that if this proceeded I should have no intelligence of any of their practices or actions. I believe it to be one of the most important things I could do, both for his Majestie's service and for the security of his Protestant subjects here, either to keep those men divided, or, if they were united, to break them again. I made some of their friers, who alwaise have their little wrangles with the secular clergy, to set up faction against their Bishops, and by encouraging their little animmositys amongst themselves, I at length brought them to that pass that they openly accused one another of exercising ecclesiastical jurisdiction contrary to the laws of the land. Several examinations were taken, and the Bishops brought to swear one against another, which have renewed their divisions to that degree as I believe they are now irreconciliable. By the address of the House of Commons all the regulars are to be banished; and should I put this exactly in execution I must send all these poor friers abroad, who have done us this service, & expose them to great severitys there; indeed, I believe some of them acted so far as they will certainly loose their lives should they be sent beyond seas. There are but very few, not, I am sure, beyond six or eight, who have been principally instrumental in this affair; and for these, though I will not give them any publique protection, yet my intention is to connive at them, and give some gentleman in the country charge to take care that they be not troubled, for doubtless in all these cases 'tis impossible but something must be understood to be left at the discression of a governor."[1]

Digitized by Google

613

SURRENDER OF WATERFORD TO THE IRISH, MARCH 1642.

We have said that, in addition to the elements of disunion between the Irish Catholics of English descent and those of ancient Irish blood, arising from diversity of race, there was a further and perhaps more formidable cause of division in the direct conflict which arose between the political, and still more the proprietorial interests of the two races.

The following account of the occurrences at Waterford between 24th December 1641 and 18th March 1642, conveys a more lively representation of this conflict of interests than many a set narrative; and it may be accepted as presenting a not unfaithful picture of what took place in most of the old walled towns of Ireland at the commencement of the war or Rebellion of 1641.

The standing forces, consisting only of a company for the most part, are found to withdraw to the citadel, or retire to the neighbouring garrison, and then the conflicting views of the old English inhabitants of the Roman Catholic religion, always hitherto adherents to the Crown of England, and the Irish of the lower classes, who inclined towards the insurgents, kept up a contest within the town concerning the opening of the gates to the Confederates. In the case of Waterford, it would seem that the garrison withdrew to Duncannon fort, a few miles down the river, then and long after maintained by Laurence, Lord Esmond, for the English. Captain Evelin, to whom the account is addressed, had probably commanded a company of the standing army in Waterford, and the account which is furnished to him of the state of affairs in Waterford has an additional interest in being from a lady. His energetic correspondent is Mrs. Bryver, wife of Francis Bryver, the mayor, a loyal adherent of the English, as is evident, not only from her account, but from the complaints made against Bryver by the Confederates. Edmund Butler, son and heir of the Lord Mountgarret, addressed a strong remonstrance against Mr. Bryver to the Recorder and Sheriffs of Waterford, urging them, on behalf of the gentlemen in arms, to displace him, because of his refusal to open the gates to them.[2]

"Jesus. Marya.

"Written on the 14th day of March, in the year of our Lord God 1641-2.

"Good Kaptaine Evelinges, I protest to God I had rather than a hunder-d pounds of the best money that ever I handled in my days, that you had been here this day to witness what an affront and horrible abuse was done to the Maire in his own house by Elexander Lennard, a base Turk of a fellow, and an unchristian-like boor, in my opinion, in presence of John Hore and Paul Carew. I am glad to have so good a witness to testify what I write unto you.

"Now I will express unto you the cause betwixt them. There was a conclusion concluded by the Mayor, Recorder, Council, and Committee of the Commons, that three-score pounds worth of broad cloth should be sent by John Hore to the master of the ship to make up the freight, with what money he had besides. The broad cloth is to be given out of Mr. Cooper's goods by Mr. Cooper's directions, to relieve the poor distressed English that came from the county of Kilkenny, and from Ross, and from other foreign counties. God Almighthie comfort them, and send them well, I would to God. I pity them; and if I were able to do them a pleasure I would 'a done it with all my heart. And you know, gentle Kaptaine, how ill I am beloved in town and country, both myself, my husband, and children, to be so favourable to the English as we have been hitherto, that I vow to God what I write to you is true:—my household servants do hear when they go about my business up and down the city that the gentlimen of the country do say that if they get the Maire out of the gates they would cut off his head, because that he has been so gratious to the English. Let all men in this city witness that if the Maire could command them he would let all their means go with the English; also with as free will as he would sleep this night. For he conceives, and is of this opinion, that any man that doth take away any Englishman's goods shall never fare the better for it. And the best and discreetest men of his Council are of that opinion. But, for the rude multitude, it is hard to rule them. Neither Maire nor Council cannot govern them. For example's sake, let Mr. Ling and Mr. Bruidist tell you what an abuse John Baily has committed in the Maire's house, & to the Maire's person; and to Mr. Ling, in the presence of the Maier, that if my Lord President had left martial law to the Maier, he would hang at least fortie of the madd, wild menn of this town. Judge you whether they deserved hanging that drue sixteene swoordes upon the Maier on St. John's day, in Christmas holy days. Likely Mister Ling his wife saw them out of her window. As God wud have it, the Maier had never a swoorde about him. I doubt not if he had a swoorde there might be much blod spilte in that day's quarrel, they all were so furiously given.

[1] lxviii. 67. [2] ii. 147.

"The Maier was very angry with all of them, because they shud offer to search the Inglishmen's goods at all. They in like manner were more angry because he crast their designs that day.

"When I harde that so many swoordes weere drawen att the markett cross against my poore husband, and he having nothing to defend him, I ran out [into] the strite without either hatt or mantell, and laide my handes about his neck and brought him in whether he wud or noe. But for that I brought him from them I dout not but there had been a great mutany in towne.

"All this and much more the Maier has suffered seeking to let their goods go with the Inglish. But all cud not prevail; the stronger hande allwaies carry the greater swaie. I pray, good Kaptaine, tell Mr. Cooper that his goods are as well kept here for him as if he were here himself; and I hope to see him recover his goods with comfort hereafter. Let not any man despair that has given his goods to the protection of the Corporation, for, I hope in God the Corporation will be able to discharge their goods, still rendy at a call.

"And those in the Maier's absence, when he has been sick for a whole senight, and without his privity, has rifled the Inglish, their goods and lives must be answerable for't, in graice of God the Maier live. As soon as the Maier recovered his sickness, he shente his drom about to command everie man that tuk awaie Inglishman's goods, that they shud restore them to the parties in paine of a hundred pound, or else their goods to be given under the protection of the Corporation, and the Corporation to be answerable for them.

"And I pray, good Kaptaine, show this letter to my Lord Esmond, to Mistris Gesop, to Mistris Ling, and Mister Benedict.

"Now, this is to declare Elexander's passinge. When the Maier sent the Sheriffe Wndlock, and Paul Kary and John Hoore for the broad cloth to be given to the master, according to Mister Cooper's directions, Elexander Linard came into the rome where they were, and told them that he wud not for Maier or Sherife let the brode cloote out of the place, he thinking that he and his confederates cud do more than the Maier and Shirifis. But I thank God, the Maier was in belte, and better able to meete him. If it had been God Almigbtie's will that the Maier had been sicke, I dout not but Elexander and his confederates wud 'a baffilde the whole sitty, thinking to have the clodes to themselves. But I hope in God the Maier will see them hinde forst, before they shall have such strinte in Waterford. The Maier sent for Elexander to come before him to give an account of those wilde sections. He came. The Maire asked what was the reason he shud offer to gainsay any thing that was done by an act of Council? Hee answered that he wud not obey Maier or Council.

"The Maier commanded him to go with the Shirif to be committed to the Marshalsey. Hee said hee wud not, Maier or Shirif. The Maier commanded he shud give up his wespun. Hee wud not give it. With this the Maier perclosed with him, to take away from him his wespun. I toke wan hand and my norse toke the other hand. John Hoore helde him faste. The rest that was at the rome dare not steir. In the meun time the Maier toke away his swoorde and long knife.

"And when the Maier was taking them away from Elexander, Elexander most basely bites the Maier's three fingers with his tith, and toke awaie three pieces of the Maier's flesh from his fingers with his tith, that the Maier's hand was all redd with blode running from his sore fingers.

"This Elexander, you must imagine, is the Recorder's man, and the ringleader in all the mischiefs committed in this town. God knows, if I were Maier, he wud be the first man I shud hang at the markett crosse. This Recorder's man did abuse the maier on St. Stephen's day, at the key; he did so vex the Maier, saying that he wud search the English.

"The Maier was so vexed that he was driven to draw Elexander Briver's sword to slay Elexander Linard. The evening drew near. The Maier come to his house; then Elexander Linard followed him to the Maier's house. When the Maier taxed him, what was the reason he was so madd at the key, Elexander tould the Maier plainlie that he wud use him wors. "What," says the Maier, "doe you come heer "to treaten mee in my own house?"

"When I harde these wordes I sent for the Recorder, and I desyred him by all means to tye this Elexander to the peace & good behaviour. The Recorder wud not. If Elexander Linnard had bin tide to the peace and good behaviour that night, the mutany had not happened the next day at the markett cross; that he was the first man that drue at the Maire upon St. John's day. So the Recorder and Elexander and all their confederates have conspired against the poor Maier.

Digitized by Google

615

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"When the Maier wud command that the gates shud be kept shut for fear that forces shud come in more than the toun cud bear, the Recorder wud give strait chardge & command that the gates shud be broken up to let in as pleased them. I will make good before the world that it is not for the good of the toun he is so busie to bring them in, but for his own privat ends, which I will tell publicly hereafter, how well he wud keep fast the gates till he wud get his will, and he wud not help the Maier to preserve the city. I pray tell Mr. Aston that I keepe his white horse for him. I pray remember my love and best respects to my Lord Esmond, and the rest of my good friends there, and especially yourself.

"I rest, &c."

"Jesus. Marya.

"Now Kaptain Evelings, I will declare unto you what answer I gave unto the Recorder when he said he wud break the gates of Waterford.

"I said unto him "Presume it not, Mr. Recorder. For I wud to God, if anie "man in toun shud offer to break the gates of the citty, he shud be runn "torrow with powder & bullets trow his barre." He axte me had I been the partie wud 'a doe it? I answered him, "If I knne how to doe it I wud 'a don it." I tonld him I wud hire those wud 'a don it. The Recorder's ambition was that all the gentillmen shud come into the sitty to surprise the town, because the Maier and his Council wud not join with the Irish and doe as he did. Seeing he was ingaged to the Irish, he wud have the town to do as he did. God knows it was hard to resist him.

"My cause of knowledge that he wud have them cum in is this:—One William Fennell eame into this sitty as a spy from the Irish to see whether they cud com into the sitty here or not. The Recorder told him plainly they shud be admitted into the town. Nicholas Poor of Kilballykilty is my author for this. Now this William Fennell tould my Lord of Ormond's brother that he and his forces may come into Waterford, and to do what pleyse themselves, building upon the Recorder's word. Upon this, my Lord of Ormond's brother, Mister Richard Butler, came to the gate. But I kept a spy above the gate, to tell when he had seen force to come that he shud command the gates to be shut presently. This spy lived in my house for five weeks together. When news come to the Maier that Mister Richard Butler was without the gates, the Maier & his Conneil went to the gates and tould to Mister Richard Butler that those forces shud not eom into the toun at all. Upon this Mister Richard Butler went from the gate, he and his forces. My spy tould me that the batter was full of horse and foot, and what was beyond the batter he cud not see them. My spy tould me that when they were going from the gates one Kaptaine Fennell swore if he had the Maire without the gate, he wud kill him because they were not admitted into the sitty. Mr. Nicholas Poor tould me that Mister Richard Butler said that he did wish his legs had been broke before he come to that jurney.

"This Nicholas Poor was suffered into the sitty for to parly with the Maier & Commons from Mr. Richard Butler. He got the privilege to come in because he was a sworn freeman of Waterford. This passage of Mister Richard Butler happened the day before Twelve day. But for the town kept such good watch & ward, I doubt not but it had been surprised.

"The Irish attempted it three times from Christmas day to Twelve day, that the town was driven to strike the 'larm twice in Christmas time, and to strike the drom at two o'clock after midnight to preserve the bark that Mr. Kristy [ ] in for Ingland, Mister Liscom, and Mister Boyle and Mistris Cooper that there came so many bot [boats] from Granah to take away the goods that was in the ship, but when they herde the drom they flide away. I am sure as much money or plate as the Inglish had in this town they sent it in the barke that my Lady Cokly went in for Ingland and Mistris Cooper.

"Anie other goods that was wort the luking after, the Inglish gave them to their private friends to be kept for the Inglish. When peace eom, in grace of God they shall have their goods. I know no goods the Inglish gave to be kept and the protection of the Corporation, but only Mistris Cooper's goods, and I hope they shall have these goods without any doubt hereafter. In my opinion, Mr. Aston was far to blame to write to the noble Counties of Ormonde that the Maier did sease upon the goods that Aston shud send to my Lady Counties. Aston said not true. I am content to luse my life if the Maier did sease upon any Inglishman's goods, or did ever give a warrant under his hand to stay their goods.

"God knows how hard it was for the Maier and Council to keep the town from rifling since Hollortide last till Christmas. Then with too much greef and labour of mind and body and long watching and going in his rounds to see whether the watchmen kept their sentries as they ought, the Maier fell sick. When the people saw the Maier was sick indeed, then they did what pleased them. Let their goods & lives be answerable that did it.

"I expressed in my other letters to you that the Maier when he recovered sent a drom about to command everie man that took away Inglishmen's goods to be restored on pain of one hundred pound.

"Pray Kaptaine Evelyngs caul to Mistries Liscome and let it be upon her consains to witness how the Maier went to defend her from John Baly and Edward Lince;—that she saw the Maier was reddy to slash them with his naked sword for offering any abuse to her in her husband's absence; and cause her to shew how in the paper I gave her that was laid upoo my father's door. The contents of it was that I got two hundred pound from the Inglish.

"I defie anie Inglishman or woman to say that ever I received a peese or half a peese of their goods either in mooey or moneys worth, but this that I'le tell you: a quoife and croose clot my Lady Cocley sent me. My Lady Esmond send me one side of beef from ling. There is all that ever I saw."

"Jesus. Marya.

"The self same day that Mister Richard Butler went from St. Patrick's gate, there came news to the Maier & Counell, they being parleying with Nicholas Poor that came from Mister Butler, that the Sheriff of the county of Wexford with six of the primest gentilmen of that country were without St. John's gate seeking to come to parley. They were admitted to come to parley. The Maier and the Council sought then "What was the reason that they stopt the four ships that was coming to this town? Or why they stayed in Ballyhack? Or what was the reason you took our lead from the Fort of Passage? And why did you abuse the Maier's house in Passage, that you took out of that house one great furness worth twenty pound, that those that were there left it to the Maier for his rent? You took with you all the iron & glass that was on the windows; you broke up the planks that were under foot; you tore all the doors, and took away the locks and keys." All this they did to the Maiers house in Passage, of malice, because the Maier wud not let them into the sitty upon New Year's day,—that there came 300 men to the gates thinking to come into the sitty . . . . Within a senight after this there came a letter from Mister Richard Butler by Jeffry Barron, to the Maier and Council, desiring of ordnance: that if they wud not give the ordnance they shud have so many thousand men to come into the sitty to take away the ordnance in spite of the town. Now Kaptaine Evelings, you may see that this did affiright the townsmen by reason the town had no pouther to defend themselves against so much forces. But for all this the townsmen wud not give this ordnance but for the Recorder and these gentilmen's procuring of voyces to give them. Because they were engaged in the matter themselves, they wud fain have the townsmen to be of their side. Here are all their names:—The Recorder, Sir Nicholas Walsh, Poor of Kelmeadon, Poor of Quilfiog Poor of Adamstoun, Tom Wadding, [ ] Woodlock, Nicholas Wyse, Jeffey Barron, Francis Wyse, Nicholas Poor of Kilballyquilty.

"This is that I may remember toward these points at large in a letter when I am at leasure.

"The 1st point, that very day the sheriff of the county of Wexford. The second, of my Lord Mountgarret's was one Fennell. The third, for stopping of four ships. The fourth, Pearce Butler's coming from Ballyhack in for to parley. The fifth, how Dick Moyler spoke to me for the keys. Sixth, of Richard Butler's coming in the time that the Recorder did compel the town to let in 300 men of his company. The seventh, how the Recorder procured so many voyces to give the ordnance. The eighth, when the Inglish were all turned into one house, the Maier commanded James Aylward to go to the seven Kaptaines, and every Kaptaine to look well to the Inglish of his own parish, to have them in their own parish, every one of them to be in one house. The ninth, how ill the Maier was spoken of for to let my Lord President's troops out of the town. The tenth, that Mistris Gessop shall witness of, how stoutly I spoke to Jeffey Barron, and wished them out of my house. The eleventh, to declare that the men of this town was fully resolved to hold a long siege, but for the Recorder, Sir Nicholas Walsh, Nicholas of Kilballyquity, Pearce Poor of Kilfine, John Poor of Kilmeadon, Jeffry Barron, and his father-in-law, Nicholas Wyse, Thomas Wadding, & Francis Wyse. All these could not be at rest either day or night, but at people to join with the Irish; seeing they were engaged themselves, they were very willing that the town should do as they did; and it was these procured voyces to give the ordnace out of the town. I am sure the Maier never gave his consent, nor James White, nor Tom Porter. It was but to strive against the stream for them three to oppose the whole sitty. Tom Porter said thus; "If you will needs be so madd, I pray get good security, and very good conditions." That when the Maier, James White, and Tom Porter would but speak together, then the whole town would condemn these three, saying they kept a kabinet council. When this Council failed the Maier, he sent Jasper Lombard to the commons to desire them not to give consent to give the ordinance at all, and James Lawrence with Jasper. The twelfth, how Pearce Morgan tould me that we stood in our own light, because I wished them to keep his fort from to be surprissed, and that he and Pearce Shard, and John Baly, that Elexander and John Skiddy, they all commanding my spy from the Castle above Saint Patrick's gate. Thirteenth, how a council of war stood in James Woodlock's house, questioning the Maier for to let out the troops on the Lord President's letter. Fourteenth, how Elexander Linnard did write to my Lord of Mountgarret's son that he drew them to this town with 1,000 men. After him Elexander did write thus, that the Maier was an enemy to the common cause, and that the Maier should let in my Lord President and his forces into the sitty, and the Irish were not sure of the town while the Maier had the fort. The fifteenth, how Nick Wyse would not do me justice when I went to swear the peace against Elexander because I feared for my life. The sixteenth, how the Maier commanded the Sheriff Poor not to open the gates till he wud get a strong guard to guard the keys, for fear that any shud take the keys from him. The seventeenth, that the Maier sent a strait charge and command to the Kaptain the fort, James Woodlock, to have all their companies in the fort, which was three score men full; that I went myself in person to the fort and tould James Woodlock's soo, Clement Woodlock, that his life, lands, and goods should be answerable for the fort, and James Woodlock was well able to go to Linch's house to drink three pints of wine. In their drinking their conclusion was that I should go live to my father's house, because I should presume to James Woodlock for the fort. When John Lea saw that James Woodlock was able to go to drink wine to taverns, he left the fort, trusting to Mr. Woodlock, because he was appointed Kaptain of the fort by the Lord President of Munster when he was here in Waterford last.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"But at long runoing the fort was surprised, the locks of the fort broken up, the keys of St. Patrick's gate was taken from Shirif Poor (unless the Shirif was willing to give the keys). He wud be ruled by the Maier to carry a strong guard towards his keys, because they were brothers. I think they joined together, for they both were very earnest with the Maier to open the gate the night before, to let in my Lord Mountgarret's son and his troops. The Maier aoswered the Shirif and the Lieutenant of the fort, if it pleased them to assemble the commons and go to voyces, where the most voyces goes, ther he would give his voyce. "For I will do nothing of myself, "for you know I must be ruled by my Counell." This was the Maier's answer before Colonel Barry, he was present that night past.

"Next day, when John Allward come with news that the keys was taken from Shirif Poor, and the fort surprised, the Maier went out to the markett cross in a fury, and sent so many droms about the town to gather all the kaptaines and companies of the sitty to help him to drive ont of the fort those that were in. The Maier did not have either kaptain or company to follow him, but five and twenty: First, Francis Butler, Thomas White, William Lombard, Elexander Briver, Michael [ ], James White & his men, Tom Porter and his men, John [ ] and his men, Mathew Porter & his men; I forget the rest. James Fitch Lawrence was their leader, seeing none wud appear. When those of the fort saw the Maier at the markett cross demanding of powder, bullet, and match, he and Docter Gifferd standing together, they gave a volley of shot at the Maier, but it missed the Maier, & Doctor Gifferd was killed and a handsome man that was standing by them; and the Maier's constable that stood by the Maier was not fully killed off, but he will never recover. Good Kaptaine Eveling, I pray shew these papers to your friends, and let them judge of all this carriadge."[1]

THE SIEGE OF DROGHEDA BY CROMWELL IN SEPTEMBER 1649.

Passing over the eventful years between the first outbreak of the Irish Rebellion in October 1641, thus photographed by Mrs. Bryver, so far as Waterford was concerned, we come to some passages illustrative of the closing scene which may be said to have commenced with the siege and capture of Drogheda, the first great stroke struck by Cromwell in Ireland.

On the 3rd August 1649, just eleven days before Cromwell's landing at Ringsend, adjacent to Dublin, Ormonde's army then investing Dublin was totally routed by a sally of Colonel Michael Jones, Governor of Dublin, brother of the well-known

[1] iv. 184.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Dr. Henry Jones, Bishop of Clogher. Ormonde retired to Kilkenny to collect and organize his scattered forces, and took the field again before the end of the month.

Cromwell's design to besiege Drogheda soon became known. Ormonde entrusted the command of it to Sir Arthur Aston. He was an old soldier, of an ancient Catholic family in England, but allied to Viscount Drogheda, who resided at Mellefont Abbey, three miles to the west of the town. He had served in the wars of Germany and other countries, and had returned from beyond seas to England at the breaking out of the Civil War, with as many soldiers of note as he could bring with him to the aid of the King. He commanded the dragoons at Edgehill, on 23rd October 1642, and did good service, and on the King's taking up his quarters at Oxford, after the battle, and making it his temporary capital, he made Sir Arthur Aston Governor of the city and garrison. He continued in command there until he unfortunately broke his leg by a fall from his horse, on 25th December 1644, at Bullingdon Green, near Oxford, which obliged the amputation of the limb and the substitution of a wooden leg. He was on this occasion discharged from his command, and Colonel William Legg placed in his room, who was succeeded by Sir Thomas Glemham. When Sir Arthur Aston recovered his health and was in a posture to do his Majesty further service, he went with the flower of the English veterans into Ireland.[1] He assisted Ormonde in fortifying Dublin in 1646 against the expected attack of the Confederate forces, under General Preston and Owen Ro O'Neil. On Ormonde's return to Ireland in 1648 he made Sir Arthur Aston Governor of Drogheda, and strengthened his body of veteran English forces by regiments of Irish, late under the command of the Kilkenny Confederates, but now commissioned by the King. Ormonde remained in Drogheda with Sir Arthur Aston till nearly the last moment, making arrangements for the defence of the town. But as Commander-in-chief of all the King's forces and Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, he could not of course suffer himself to be shut up there, unable to give commands to his other forces. He accordingly withdrew, but remained in the neighbourhood and continued to correspond with Sir Arthur till the latest minute.

The letters that passed between Ormonde and this gallant old soldier during the closing hours before the investment of the doomed town have for us a solemn interest, knowing as we now know the dreadful fate of the garrison and inhabitants.

There was resident in Drogheda just before the siege of 1649, the Lady Tichborne, wife of Sir Henry Tichborne, who had been Governor of the town at the outbreak of the Irish Rebellion in October 1641, and defended it during its four months' siege by Sir Phelim O'Neil and his Ulster forces, finally routing them in the month of March 1642. Sir Henry Tichborne, being a steadfast Royalist, was for that cause removed by the Parliament Commissioners, after Ormonde's surrender of Dublin in 1647. But his wife continued to reside there until Cromwell's approach obliged her to retire. Ormonde apprehended so much danger to her from the violence of the Parliament forces against anything having even the name of "Irish," that he counselled her to seek refuge with the Earl of Derby, in the Isle of Man; and one of the last letters he wrote from Drogheda was a recommendation of her to the Earl's care. This letter was dated Drogheda, 24th of August 1649.

"My Lord (he writes to Lord Derby), this noble lady, the Lady Tichborne, in the unsatisfiable malice of the rebels to the King's friends, being particularly threatened with ruin, is forced for safety to betake herself into that island, the last refuge of the distressed of that stamp, to whom I shall desire your Lordship's favour in the best manner that it can be afforded to a lady of so great virtue & honour, being now separated from her husband, and both distressed for the only cause that makes us all sufferers. I need not much intreaty to your Lordship in a thing to which you are so frequently accumstomed, but remain your Lordship's affectionate servant,

"ORMONDE."[2]

But there were other ladies in Drogheda who had less reason to fear Cromwell's approach than Lady Tichborne, some of them nearly allied to Sir Arthur Aston. One of these was Aston's grandmother. Yet she was ready to betray him and the town to Cromwell.

After writing the letter for Lady Tichborne, Ormonde seems immediately to have quitted the doomed place. For on the 25th of August, the day after the date of that letter, Sir Arthur Aston thus writes to Ormonde:—

"My Lorde," he says, "your Excellencie was no sooner out of town but I meete with some people who I believe know not well my constitution. Your Excellencie will by thees small enclosed copies perceave what inclination me Lady Wilmott hath

[1] Wood's Athenæ Oxonienses, vol. 2. Fasti, p. 44. 2 vols. Folio. London, 1721.
[2] cxliii. 26.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

to doe mischief if itt lay in her power. By her commande these papers were to have been sent to Dublin; her owne boye was the bearer of them, who I fear is too small to bee hanged. The Lord Blayney's daughters writt twoe of the papers, and me Lady Wilmott herself the thirde. I have put me wies unckle Franck Moore in a reste, for I cannot well digest sutch knaveish fooling. As for the ladies, I say nothing to them until I have your Excellencie's possetive orders how to prosseede against them. As for the other two named with Kerkham and Owins, I will examin the business, and with your Excellencie's permission will prosseed with them accordingly. This Kerkham is ne Lord Moore's shurgion. Some halfe an houre before I sawe the boye (butt he was alredy taken) the Lady Wilmott sent unto mee to desire leave to send a messinger to Dublin. I answered I had no commission to do it, but it seems she had notiss that the boye was then a bringing to mee, which occasioned this motion of hers. I beseecth your Excellencie's express commandes to turn her and her malignant family out of the towne, for though shee bee me grandmother, I shall make pouther of her else if shee playe me sutch foule playe. I humbly crave your Excellencie's speedy commandes herein, for they are very dangerous company as the case stands with me, who is,

"Ever, my Lord,

"Your Excellencie's faithful and most humble servant,

"Drogheda, the 25th of August, in the evening." "Arthur Aston."

But a sudden thonght seems to have struck him of a use to which he might turn these intriguing and traitorous ladies; for he adds as a postscript:—

"My Lorde, if they should now keepe me wife, I have femalles inowe to release her."

Attached to the foregoing letter are three small slips of paper, being the documents referred to in Sir Arthur Aston's letter:—

1st paper.

"Sir,—I must beg one favour from your Excellencie, which is to send me a protection for Mr. Cercome [Kirkham], who I will confidently engage myself would have been att Dublin long since had not his goodness taken great pitty on mee in this sadd condition that I am now in, which you will see when you see mee.

"I must beg the same favour for my poore coozen Owins, who on my word is as much a servant to that cause as any one can be. And had not his greate chardge hindered him he would have bin there, for on my credit his heart is there. And I hope you will consider him. And it shall alwayes owne as an especiall favour to him who is most really your faithful servant, A.B.

"My sarvice to all, Col. Coote and Capt^n. Edmons."

Endorsed:—"Mr. [ ] to Lieut.-Col. Foulke."

2nd paper.

"Sir,—I am nowe to crave your advice and Colonel Jones's, and what I shall doe, ffor I am in a very great strate and sadd condition. Therefore lett me hear from you speedilie. I am your faithfull friend. Poor Francis and I are in one condition.

"M. W[ILMOT]."

3rd paper.

"Sir,—The hearing of your coming this way is a great joy to all, but it has driven all the Lordes away. And my Ladie Moore. I have more to write, but I leave you to the boye to learn more news. Sir, I heere there is one Captain Kitely who intends to come to this partie, with manie more of his comrades; and my unckle is desirous you should know it. Sir, I must nou give you thanks for your token I received by Mr. Backster, and desire you to be assured I am the same you left me; and will be. I am your faithfull servant, A.B.

"My service to Captain Edmons."

Endorsed by Ormonde:—"Mrs. Blayney to Lieut.-Col. Foulkes."[1]

Not receiving Ormonde's answer, he becomes very anxious to be relieved from his female spies, and writes the following letter, which also announces the approach of Cromwell. It is dated,

"Drogheda, Augt. 27, 1649.

"May it please your Excellencie,—This morning a gentleman, a near neighbour here, tells mee that Jones having summoned all his forces of divers adjacent quarters with whatt Cromwell brought with him, and all he had before the muster, amounted to 8,000 foott and 4,000 horse, and that it is generally believed they intend their martch either to-morrow or at farthest on uppon Tuesdaye. It is reported they intend to divide their armys, part to martch towards Kilkenny, and the rest to cleare (as they call it) these quarters. In the meanetime I wish I were well cleared of these female spies that are here, the which I beseech your Excellencie's express order for. If the aulde Lady were nott so neare in relation with mee as shee is, I should have beene very spareing of anie cerrymonious proceedings with her.

[1] Sir Arthur Aston to Ormonde, xxv. 234.

"Yesternight there came hither from Dundalk tenn barrels of poather, but verry little match, and that is a thing most wanting here. And for round shott, not any at all. I beseetch your Excellencie to bee pleased to give speedie orders for some, as also for the sudden coming of men & moneys. Belly food I perseave will prove scarse amongst us, bnt my endeavours shall never bee sparing to approve meself,

"Mr Lord,

"Your Ex.'s, &c.,

"Trogedagh, this 27th August 1649. "ARTHUR ASTON."

"Just now my wife is arrived, and just now I wish she were at Athlone."[1]

Ormonde, with his characteristic gallantry towards the fair sex, informed Sir Arthur that though the correspondence he had discovered between Lady Wilmot and the enemy might give just occasion to her imprisonment, he thought it would be sufficient, out of the consideration and respect that he retained for her years and quality, to confine her to Lord Moore's country seat at Mellefont, and thither she was accordingly sent. But poor Sir Arthur was no sooner relieved of these "female spies" than he found himself troubled with an invasion of "spying fryers."

"May it please your Excellencie," he writes on the 1st of September 1649, "last night, late, I received your Excellencie's letter.

"The Bishop of Dromore writt unto Colonel Warren (which he shewed mee) that there was coom into this towne twoe fryers whoe intended noe good. It may bee me fortune to light upon them, which if I doe, uppon me credit wee shall have a rubbers worse than I have had with me grandmother, whoe with much adoe hath yeelded yesternight to leeve this place and goe to Mellifont with her deare sonne Francke. Yesternight I had intelligence that the rebbels have putt some great cannon a ship board to bring along with them heether. They bring eight shipps along with them. And their cannon and mortar peeces they intend to bring by land. They have provided skaling ladders to bring with them.

"Your Ex's, &c.,

"Trogbedagh, Sept^r 1^st 1649." "ARTHUR ASTON."[2]

The siege followed almost immediately, and the gallant Sir Arthur with all his English veterans and the inhabitants of both sexes and all conditions and ages were cut to pieces by Cromwell's conquering forces on the capture of the town.

Anthony Wood, from whom are taken the particulars of his services here given, relates a curious circumstance concerning Sir Arthur's death; and as Wood had a brother among the soldiers of Cromwell at the siege, it was probably from him he obtained the account. The soldiers, it appears, had got an impression that Sir Arthur Aston kept his gold for security in his wooden leg, which they accordingly seized as a prize when he fell; but finding nothing, they knocked out Sir Arthur's brains with it, and hewed him in pieces.[3]

COURT AT WESTMINSTER for the CONSTRUCTION of ARTICLES.

A.D. 1651–1654.

The Scottish Covenanters of Ulster, after supporting the Parliament against the King from 1644, fell off in 1649. They could not tolerate the King's execution. The Solemn League and Covenant secured the King's right to the throne, and its aim was to establish the Presbyterian discipline; but the Independents overthrew this form of worship. For these causes the Ulster Scots, and the Scottish army there under the command of Sir George Munro, now joined Ormonde in support of King Charles II. But they were defeated by Sir Charles Coote and Colonel Venables, commanding the Parliament forces, near Lisburn.

---

[1] XXV. 273. [2] XXV. 272.

[3] Anthony Wood's Athenæ Oxonienses, vol. 2. Fasti, p. 44. 2 vols. Folio. London, 1721.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

They now endeavoured to make their peace with Cromwell; but he insisted on their taking the engagement to the Commonwealth without King or House of Lords, which was pressed upon them by Doctor Henry Jones[1] (late Bishop of Clogher, but now the opponent of Monarchy and Prelacy); and on their refusal he ordered their transplantation from Down and Antrim to the counties of Kilkenny, Waterford, and Tipperary. In pursuance of this design the Commissioners for settling the Province of Ulster published lists of those required to transplant, on or before the 30th June 1653, from the several districts named, to the number of 258 families.

From the Lord of Ardes's quarter, Lord Ardes and his family headed the list of transplanters; from the Lord Claneboy's quarter, Lord Claneboy and his family. This declaration was dated at Carrickfergus, 23rd May 1653, and was signed Robert Venables, Arthur Hill, William Allen, Henry Jones, Anthony Morgan.[2] Lord Claneboy, who was thus included in the order for transplantation, had much to urge against his being removed.[3]

From the outbreak of the Rebellion in Ulster, he had constantly adhered to the Parliament. He had raised a regiment of foot and troop of horse and maintained them for eight years in the Parliament's service.

It was no doubt true that he had fallen off from the Parliament in 1649; but he had very soon laid down his arms and submitted to Sir Charles Coote on the terms of the Articles granted to Ormonde's Protestant forces by Cromwell.

These were Articles granted at Fethard in the county of Tipperary, on the 25th of April 1650, to Commissioners employed thence to Cromwell by the forces under Ormonde in Connaught. It was no voluntary desertion of their commander by these officers and soldiers, but Ormonde was compelled to dismiss them by the Commissioners of Trust, as that body of councillors of the lately dissolved Catholic Confederacy were called, who, by the terms of the Peace of 1648–9, had been associated with him to some extent in the exercise of his office of Lord Lieutenant for the protection of Irish interests.

On the 27th of March 1650 they declared their fellow countrymen the Irish had been very jealous of the English regiments associated with them under Ormonde's command since the betrayal by their comrades of the Munster garrisons of Cork, Youghal, Kinsale, and Baudon to Cromwell. They now found those that remained praising Cromwell, and they reminded the Marquis of Ormonde that Lord Inchiquin had admitted in his presence that the men under his command were not to be trusted. They accordingly (22nd March 1649–50) requested his Excellency to dismiss his English forces.[4] The only resource for these forces now was to obtain liberty, if possible, from Cromwell, to lay down their arms, and to retire to their homes. They accordingly sent commissioners to Cromwell, then resident at Fethard, and by articles signed there on 20th April 1650, by Sir Robert Stirling, Michael Boyle, and Colonel John Daniel, as the agents for Ormonde's Protestant forces, such of these forces as would, were to be at liberty to come in and give up their horses and arms, those of Colonel John Daniel's party at Doneraile, Lord Montgomery of Ardes' party at Enniskillen, and Sir Thomas Armstrong's party at Trim.

For their real estate they were referred to the Commissioners of the Revenue of the Precinct where their lands lay, for the present enjoyment of them, it being left to the Revenue Commissioners to restore them or not, and on such conditions as they might deem fit, until the pleasure of the Parliament should be declared concerning them, or rules for their compounding settled.[5]

Lord Claneboy, who had submitted to Sir Charles Coote on the terms of being allowed the benefits promised by those articles, finding himself included in the Order for Transplantation from Ulster, appealed to the Court of Articles, and the Commissioners made the following decree for his relief:—

"Exchequ. Chamber, Westminster,
"Monday the 22th of August 1653.

"By y^e^ Com^rs^ appointed for releife upon Articles of Warre.

"Whereas James Viscount Claneboy, in Ireland, hath exhibited his petic'on to this Court, whereby (amongst other thinges) setting forth that he rendered himself

[1] "Reasons why the petitioned indulgence should be granted to the people of the North of Ireland, April 1, 1663." xiv. 77.

[2] Broadside, in the Haliday Library, Royal Irish Academy.

[3] This transplantation was not carried out. See "Adair's Narrative," in the Hamilton MSS. containing an account of the settlement of Upper Clandeboye, Great Ardes, and Dufferin, in the county of Down, by Sir James Hamilton, knt., created first Viscount Clandeboy. Printed from the original MSS., and edited by Thos. Kennedy Lowry, LL.D., Q.C., p. 271. Belfast. 4to. 1867.

[4] Commissioners of Trust to Ormonde. Loughreagh, March 22, 1649–50, xxvii. 114.

[5] "Declaration or promise of Cromwell on the address and overtures of Sir Robert Stirling, &c., in the behalf of the Protestant party under the Marquis of Ormonde." xxvii. 344.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners— continued.

to S^r^ Charles Coote, Lord President of Connaught, within y^e^ time lymitted by the articles given by his Excye y^e^ Lord Generall Cromwell to y^e^ Protestant partie in Ireland, under the com'and of y^e^ Lord of Ormond, dated y^e^ 26^th^ of Aprill 1650. And y^t^ he is comprised in and actually intituled to the benefit of the same as appears by a certificate off y^e^ s^d^ Generall. By vertue of w^ch^ s^d^ articles he is to be admitted to enjoy his estate upon such terms as y^e^ Com^rs^ of y^e^ Revenue in Ireland should consider of, till y^e^ Parliament should establish Com^rs^ & rules for composic'ons: Yet notwithstanding (after fower yeares sequestration), he finds himselfe inlisted to be transplanted & to have his estate taken from him & other lands sett out for their residence. By w^ch^ meanes his tenants refuse to have any dealing w^th^ him touching his estate, he is disabled to raise money to pay his composic'on & shalbe disinherited & destroyed, contrary to y^r^ meaning of his s^d^ articles. And therefore prayes y^t^ this Corte will award him y^r^ benefitt of his articles, & that he may enjoy his estate without transplantation, under such fine & composic'on as ye Commissioners in Ireland, shall thinke meete with reguard to his qualitie of delinquencies, and prayes y^r^ order of this Court in y^r^ premisses. To w^ch^ petic'on Mr Attorney Gen^ll^ on y^r^ behalfe of y^e^ Com'onwealth, put in an answer, wherein he saith he knows not y^t^ the pet^r^ is comprised in y^e^ said articles & to enjoy y^r^ benefitt thereof, and that if he bee comprised therein, yet y^e^ said articles (being not confirmed) y^r^ Court by y^r^ Act of y^e^ 29^th^ of September 1652, hath only a qualified power to stopp sale of lands & to stay suites at law till the Parliam^t^ be consulted touching such ar'cles. And further also saith that by an Act of Parliam^t^ of the 12^th^ of August 1652, power is given to y^e^ Com^rs^ for the affaires of Ireland (if they see cause) to transport any persons w^thin^ the qualifications menc'oned in y^e^ said Act, notwithstanding articles by the s^d^ Act may appeare. Upon which petic'on & answer the cause coming this day to hearing before the Court in presence of Mr Attorney Gen^ll^ & Mr Hurt, Counsell to the Com'onwealth, it appearing unto this Court by a certificate under the hand & seale of y^e^ Lord Generall Cromwell, that S^r^ Charles Coote, Lord President of Connaught, had certified him, that the Lord Viscount Claneboye did render himselfe within the tyme limitted by y^e^ said articles & performed what was by him to be done according to the s^d^ artc'les, & therefore ought to have y^r^ full benefitt of y^e^ same to all intents & purposes, and there being no proofe before this Court, nor any suggestion thereof that the Lord Viscount Claneboye hath lost or forfeited the benefitt of his s^d^ articles by an open hostility or secret councells ag^t^ y^e^ Parliam^t^ & people of England since y^e^ s^d^ ar'cles, or by any neglect or default of his owne; the Court upon serious considerac'on of the whole matter, are of opinion for any thing yet appearing to them to the contrary, did order & adjudge accordingly, that the s^d^ pet^r^, James Viscount Claneboy, ought to have & be permitted to enjoy the rents, issues, & profitts of his estate reall & personall in Ireland of any kinde whatsoever without any further seisure or intermedling, till the Parliam^t^ shall think fitt to give their rules & directions for composic'ons w^th^ the persons included in y^e^ ar'cles, hee giveing good security to answer y^e^ profitts of his estate in y^e^ meane tyme as y^e^ Com^rs^ for managem^t^ of y^r^ affaires of Ireland shall direct, who are hereby desired, if they find not, nor know of any breach of ar'cles on y^e^ pet^rs^ parte, to take notice & give effectuall direction that the declarac'on & judgm^t^ be observed & performed accordingly'ye. And touching the transplantac'on complayned of, if the same be as is allea'ged, this Court conceaves the same to bee in diminue'on of his s^d^ ar'cles. By y^e^ expresse words whereof y^e^ pet^r^ submitted to fine & composic'on as y^r^ Parliam^t^ should direct (w^ch^ by y^r^ s^d^ petic'on hee averrs himselfe to bee ready alwaies & now to doe, nor is the same denied), is to enjoy his estate reall & personall w^th^ the same immunitie, protecc'on, & right, as any other people under the authoritie of y^e^ Parliam^t^ not obnoxious to any delinquencie at all. And, therefore, this Cort upon deliberate considerac'on of the Acts constituting this Court, & of the power & trust thereby com'ited unto them for doeing justice in cases of this & of the like nature touching breach of articles in England, Scotland, Ireland, or elsewhere, & that the faith of the army is engaged & the hono^r^ & justice of Parliam^t^ & nac'on are very much concerned in the making good of articles, & that no violac'on thereof bee permitted, are of opinion & doe conceive it just & reasonable, that the s^d^ orders for transplantac'on bee noe further prosecuted to y^e^ prejudice of y^r^ s^d^ pet^r^ & y^r^ derogac'on of his articles, unlesse some further warrant or matter be made appeare to them then is knowne, or so much as is allea'ged to the Court for doing the same, untill manifestac'on whereof & further order of this Court a stay of further proceedings is declared and adjudged accordingly; and to the end this Court may be fully ascertained of y^r^ grounds & causes of such remouvall, & how farr y^r^ publique safetie of that nation may be therein concerned, it is lastly ordered y^t^ a letter be written to y^e^ afores^d^ Com^rs^ for Ireland in y^r^ behalfe, recom'ending the premisses to their

Digitized by Google

623

considerac'on, and that a coppie of this order be transmitted to them, together with the same letter.

" Owen Roe.	Jo. Bradshaw.
" Tom Underwood.	Edw. Whalley.
" Math. Sheffard.	Clem. Oxenbridge.
	Edw. Cooke."[1]

But as the Commissioners of Parliament for the government of Ireland were not inclined to pay much regard to the Court of Articles, having contested their right to interfere in behalf of the Irish, and were now apparently meditating the removal of Lord Claneboy (notwithstanding the decree of the Court of Articles in his favour), among the rest of the Scots, from Ulster, Lady Claneboy found means to influence Cromwell in her husband's behalf. Cromwell accordingly wrote the following letter to his son-in-law, Fleetwood, Lord Deputy of Ireland:—

" Sir,

" Upon the President of Conaught's and Coll. Venables accounte of the Lord Claneboye, and of his sufferings for a long time in the service and cause of the Parliament, and of his early returne & submission after his having joyned with the Earl of Ormonde, I did write back unto the President for his lawfull favour to him and to his mother, of whom I had a good report, of which I have formerly acquainted you. And being informed that there were some thoughts of his being transplanted from his habitation and land, I did also by the same letter to yourself in July last, desire a stop thereof; since which time I perceive by Lord Claneboy's petition to the Commissioners heere for releafe of persons upon Articles, they have adjudged that his transplantation is in diminution of his articles, and that stay be made therein till their further order.

" I have also had such perfect information and from such hands which I dare trust concerning the person of the Lord Claneboy, and of the worth of his mother, and in a special manner of his ladye, and of the interest and relations which are like to prevail with him and his familye, that for my own part I have good cause to believe that his not transplanting is not like to be hazardous or prejudiciall to the publicke peace, and therefore I doe purposely write these to you, that they may prevaile with you, to use some effectual course that the general rule of transplanting may not be extended as to him, his case in many things varying so much from most in that nation that what is done in his behalfe cannot be drawne into president for very few, if any. And therefore upon the whole matter I do seriously commend him herein unto your particular case, and intreate you to manage it the best way you can, both for success and expedition, because till his condition in this respect be settled he will be disenabled any way to deale with his tenants for raising money to pay his composition.

" Your loveing father,

" Dated the 12th of December 1653." " O. Cromwell."[2]

But though Lady Claneboy had thus obtained her husband's dispensation from being transplanted to Munster, he was still liable to such terms of composition as the Commissioners of Parliament for the Affairs of Ireland might think fit to impose upon him. She accordingly again appealed to her powerful protector by the following petition, that Lord Claneboy might be suffered to compound on easy terms:—

" To his Highnesse, Oliver Lord Protector of y^e^ Com'onwealth of England, Scotland, & Ireland.

" The humble petition of Anne Viscontesse of Claneboye,

" Shewing,—

" That yo^r^ pet^rs^ husband, herself, & children, having long wrestled under very many straights & foure yeares sequestration, are now reduced to the uttermost extreamities, & by reason of great debts contracted in raising & maintaining a regiment of foote & a troope of horse for eight yeares in the Parliament's service, their difficulties are so increased, that unlesse yo^r^ Highnesse in compassion of his long sufferings, & in consideration of his case, differing from most of that nation, do of your goodnesse give some favourable rule for his composition, in regard to his great losses, & debts contracted before his delinquency, hee & his must inevitably perish.

" In tender consideration of y^e^ premisses yo^r^ pet^rs^ most humbly & earnestly prayeth, that yo^r^ Highnesse will be pleased to declare yo^r^ pleasure, that according to y^e^ order of y^e^ Com^rs^ of Articles hereunto an'exed, yo^r^ pet^rs^ husband may enjoy the proffits of his estate, giving good security to answer for the same. And that (yo^r^ pet^rs^ husband's just debts before his delinquency being allowed for y^r satisfaction of his creditors according to justice & conscience) a composition may be appointed out of y^r residue of his estate as shall best agree with yo^r Highnesse goodnesse & y^r nature of yo^r pet^rs husband's delinquency, w^ch is well known to your Highnesse; that so he may apply himselfe w^th expedition to obey yo^r orders therein; & may at last, after so long a time of trouble, arrive at such a settlem^t as it shall please God by yo^r Highnesse favo^r to make him partaker of.

[1] xxiv. 54. [2] cxxviii. 6.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"And yo^r pet^r (as in duty bound) shall pray, &c^a.

"ANNE CLANEBOYE."

"I referr the considerac'on of this petic'on to Collonall Monatague & Coll. Mackworth, whome I doe hereby authorize to examine the matter consarned therein & to certifie unto me theire opinion thereupon.

"7th March 1653." "OLIVER P."[1]

The following is the report of Colonel Montagu and Colonel Mackworth:—

"In obedience to your Highness's commands we have considered the petition of the Lady Viscountesse Claneboy, and we find that the Commissioners for Articles have by their order and judgement, dated 22 August 1653, declared that the Lord Viscount Claneboy is comprehended within the Articles given by your Highness to the Protestant party in Ireland in 1650, according to which they have adjudged that the said Lord ought not to be transplanted, and that his estate there should be by him enjoyed till such times as a fine bee sett for his composition, he giving security to answer the profits thereof; to the first part of which Order against Transplanting we are informed that obedience is given by the Commissioners in Ireland to whom it was directed, and no cause by them signified to the contrary why the Lord Clanaboy should not also have the benefit of the latter. We are also credibly informed by Generall Moncke that the said Lord Clanaboy was one of the last that went out from us and the first that came in to us again, his whole time of being out not exceeding a month or six weeks. Upon the whole matter we humbly offer to your Highness that we think it reasonable that the Lord Clanaboy should be admitted to a favourable composition and enjoy his estate in the mean time. And in regard the sufferings of the said Lord are affirmed to be very urgent by reason of his great debts and the sequestration of his estate, and in regard there is as yet no rule sett for any compositions in Ireland whereupon the Commissioners might proceed, we humbly offer to your Highness that if in this particular you shall please to declare the proportion of fines which you shall judge reasonable, the Commissioners for Management of the Affairs of Ireland may then be authorised and required to examine the condition & particulars of the said Lord's estate, & the debts for which it shall be really engaged, and according to the proportion by your Highness declared, to proceed to a speedy imposition of a fine.

"E. MONTAGU.

"H. MACKWORTH."[2]

Acting upon this report, Cromwell ordered an Ordinance to be prepared for Lord Claneboy's easy composition, to be presented for the signature of himself and the Council of State.[3] But here new troubles arose for Lady Claneboy, as appears from the following letter which she wrote to Lord Wharton, then at Winchester, for she endorses it with this direction: "I desire this may be sent with speede from Alesbury "to his Lo^p's house."

"My Lord (she begins), it is God's pleasure again to check the fair hopes I have had of obtaining a good issue of my long attendance here. For hearing last night that my husband's Ordinance was presented to my Lord Protector, I went presently to my Lord President Lawrence to enquire what was done in it; and he told me that he had presented it, but the Protector told him he was unsatisfied in some particular about the Delinquents of Ireland, and therefore he would refer them back to Ireland. The President said also that the Councell was to make an Ordinance whereby the Lord Deputy of Ireland was to be authorised to compound with the Delinquents of that nation, but for not less than two years' purchase. This is a very sad case. We shall be involved into as new a sea of troubles as if we had never begun to petition. Pray, my Lord, be pleased to consider in my behalf, whether there be any possibility yet to divert this stroke; that I may not return with a sad heart back again after all the pains and charges this long journey hath put me to.

"Your Lordship's

"Most obliged & affectionate cousin till death,

"Saturday morning, 6 o'clocke." "A. CLANEBOY."[4]

---

[1] xxiv. 55. [3] ccxviii. 8.

[2] "Last draught of the Ordnance for L^d Claneboy." lxxi. 473. [4] ccxviii. 7.

625

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

An Ordinance such as Lady Claneboy mentions did pass on 12th September 1653.[1] By another letter to Lord Wharton, dated 4th October 1653, speaking of this Ordinance, she says, she finds by it that she had no reason to fear (as she feared a fortnight before) that her Lord's estate would be disposed of to the soldiers and adventurers before his composition was settled, yet if the Lord Deputy and Council keep to the letter of the law, they should be broken, being utterly unable to pay such a sum, as according to that rule would be imposed upon them. And she entreats his help.[2] What occurred does not appear; but Lord Claneboy was probably left to the common rule, which may be easily understood by the following.

Thus Henry Lord Viscount Moore, of Drogheda, having, on 10th January 1654–5, petitioned the Commissioners for the Affairs of Ireland, touching a composition to be made by him for his real and personal estate under the Ordinance, dated 12th September 1654, for admitting Delinquent Protestants to compound, and the Commissioners General of the Revenue, to whom the petition was referred, having reported that the annual value of the said Lord Moore's estate was 4,087*l.* 15*s.*, subject to a quit rent of 611*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, which being deducted made the annual value to be 3,476*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.*, and that at two years' purchase the same amounts to 6,953*l.* 3*s.*, the Commissioners for the Affairs of Ireland, by their Order of 5th February 1654–5, directed that the said Lord Moore be admitted, in pursuance of the said Ordinance, to compound for his real estate, at the said sum of 6,953*l.* 3*s.*, and for his personal estate reported to be worth 300*l.* only at a fine of 20*d.*, the whole amounting to 6,973*l.* 3*s.* And they directed that he should pay 2,000*l.*, part of the said composition, on the 1st August following, 2,000*l.* more, other part thereof, on the 1st February 1655–6, 2,000*l.* more on the 1st August 1656, and 973*l.* 3*s.*, the balance, at or before the end of two years from 1st February instant. Dated, Dublin, 5th February 1654–5. Signed, Thos. Herbert, Clerk of the Council.[3]

Rendition of the Munster Forts and Walled Towns by the Protestant Garrisons to Cromwell, A.D. 1649.

The success of Cromwell at Drogheda inclined the garrisons of Cork, Youghal, Kinsale, and Bandon, then under the command of Inchiquin in the King's interest, to revolt to the Parliament. Cromwell had already engaged Colonel Richard Townsend, of the garrison of Cork, to betray that garrison, and he drew in Colonels William Warden, Thomas Hodder, John Hodder, William Ryves, and others, to join him in his revolt. Cork revolted on 16th October 1649. Youghal immediately followed the example of Cork. This garrison intended to begin their revolt by seizing Lord Inchiquin's person, then absent from the town at a friend's in the neighbourhood. But the plot being betrayed and some of the accomplices seized by Inchiquin, the revolters at Youghal agreed to restore the town to be at Inchiquin's command, on condition of obtaining the freedom and indemnity of the prisoners; but Cork still remained in the hands of the revolters of that garrison. About a fortnight after this restoration of the town of Youghal to Inchiquin's command, a party of the Cork revolters appeared late one evening in November 1649 before the gate of the town of Youghal, and Youghal revolted again. These are the two revolts, "the securing of Youghal "the first and second times," spoken of in the Depositions which follow. But the benefit thus rendered to Cromwell and the Parliament would not have entitled them under the Act for satisfaction of arrears to receive lands for the arrears of pay accrued due in the Parliament's service from 1644 to 1648, because of their return in the latter year to the King's side, though they left it again for Cromwell's in October and November 1649. Accordingly, in 1654 an Act of Indemnity was passed by the Parliament for the officers and soldiers under Ormonde's and Inchiquin's commands,[3] and in consideration of their voluntary rendition of Cork and the adjacent garrisons, "and that at a time," says the Act, "when the army under the command of his Highness "the Lord Protector, then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, was at a great distance from "them, and the winter season rendered his access unto them improbable," it was enacted that such of them as could prove themselves active in the rendition should be allowed to state their arrears accrued due before 3th June 1649, and receive lands in satisfaction as if they had never lapsed from their obedience to the Parliament. These were called shortly Forty-nine arrears. The rest of the army were then obliged to assign or give up to them the three counties of Donegal, Longford, and Wicklow, and Cromwell

[1] Entitled "Indemnity to the English Protestants of the province of Munster." Passed 27th June 1654. Scobell's Acts and Ordinances.

[2] "For the Right Honble. the Lord Wharton, at Yorke House in the Strande, London:" dated "From Mr. Carne's house, a lynnner in Castle Street, over against the signe of the Horse Shoe in Dublin. 4 Oct. 1654." cxxviii. 2.

[3] Late Auditor General's Records, vol. xviii., p. 9. Public Record Office of Ireland.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

added Leitrim, taken from what had been allotted to the Irish, with the Mile Line or military belt encircling Connaught. And for the purpose of enabling them to prove their share in the rendition of these garrisons, a commission was issued by virtue of the Act of Indemnity to take depositions. The depositions taken by these commissioners afford a most detailed account of the conduct of every officer in betraying these garrisons, which was considered their great merit. But before the lands were set out to them the Restoration ensued, and the King came back from exile, accompanied by a crowd of officers who had been driven out of Ireland by Cromwell for their loyalty, these having faithfully served the King till 5th June 1649, when Cromwell arrived. These men were known in the Act of Settlement as the Protestant Royalist officers who served the King before the 5th June 1549, or shortly, the '49 officers. By the Act of Settlement they were granted the lands that had been assigned by the Commonwealth for the '49 arrears of the Cromwellian officers and soldiers; and these depositions were now used to bar the Munster revolters of their claims.

"Youghall,
"Ensign Munckton. February the nineteenth, 1654.

"The examination of Ensigne Nicholas Munckton, aged thirty years or thereabouts, English Protestant, now resident at Ballingarry in the county of Limerick, and at the securing of Youghall both first and second times for the Parliament of England and the then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in the months of October and November 1649, then an ensigne in the said towne, being duly sworne, saith:—

"That some few days before the first declaring of Youghall as above said, Captain Henry Smithick acquainted this examinant with a resolution of severall officers then in Youghall to secure the said towne for the Parliament of England and the then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; and further saith that he well remembereth that the same night which they did declare as aforesaid Captain John Widnham, Lieutenant Thomas Smyth, Ensign Richard Dashwood, John Smith, their towne Major, did meet at one Jonas Clove's, in the said towne, to consider of the best way for the prosecuting the aforesaid designe, and to informe themselves what their expectations might be of Colonel Warden who had promised to come in with a party of horse to their assistance; and this examinant further saith that notwithstanding they had certain information that Colonel Warden with others were taken prisoners by the Lord of Inchiquine, yet they prosecuted their former resolutions in securing the said town for the interest aforesaid; and this examinant further saith that he saw and did observe Captain John Widnham, Capt. Henry Smithick, Capt. Vere Hunt, Capt. Jacob Sayers, Lieutenant Thomas Smyth, and Lieut. Henry Smyth and Ensigne Richard Dashwood to be very active and forward in the securing the garrison of Youghall for the English interest; and this examinant further saith that the next morning after the declaring as aforesaid the Lord of Inchiquine came before the said towne with a party of horse, and sent a messenger into the said town to desire that some might be sent forth to treate with him, as this examinant verily believes; and that Capt. Widnham and Capt. Thos. Graham went forth accordingly to treat with him, and that on the second and third day after there were conditions made between the Lord of Inchiquine and Capt. Widnham and Capt. Thomas Graham, as commissioners on the behalf of the garrison (as he believeth); but what the conditions were this examinant knoweth not; only he saith that Sir Piercy Smyth, formerly governor by the Lord of Inchiquine's appointment, was then restored to his command; and this examinant further saith that about a fortnight after Cork had declared for the English interest, Colonel Gifford and Col. Warden came with a party of horse to secure the garrison of Youghall for the Parliament of England. And this examinant further saith that about seven or eight o'clock at night he, this examinant, with Lieutenant Thomas Smyth and Ensigne Richard Dashwood were drinking a pint of wine at the White Hart, there come in a little boy or a maid, and told them that Colonel Warden and Col. Gifford were come with a party of horse, whereupon they immediately ran down to the iron gate, where they found Sir Piercy Smyth, then Governour, and Col. Manhood, with some of their servants, having drawn the chain of the iron gate with an intent (as he conceives) to secure it until they had made some conditions; but this examinant, with the said Dashwood and Smyth, observing Capt. Widnham to be come with his company to the other side of the gate and calling to have the gate open, sent away Sir Piercy Smyth and Col. Manhood to their houses (where they were immediately secured) and immediately opened the said gate to the said Capt. Widnham and the men that were there with him, with whom were some of the horse that came with Col. Gifford; and immediately Col. Gifford was admitted in at the other gate with a party of horse under his command; and this examinant further sayth that (to the best of his remembrance) all the officers before mentioned in this deposition who were active in the first declaring, were all then present in the towne, and (as he verily conceives) gave their best assistance to Col. Gifford in the settling and securing of the said towne; and further sayeth not. NICHO. MOUNCKTON." [1]

Digitized by Google

" This examination taken before us the day and yeare above written,

" PETER WALLIS. BRY. SMYTH.

" H. HODDEN."

Major Jasper Farmer, described as about 31 years of age, English Protestant, and then resident at Garmoore in the county of Cork, and produced on behalf of Lieut. Colonel Francis Foulke and other persons whose names follow, said:—

" That he was acquainted with the full design of Youghall's declaring for the Parliament, which was thus made known to him. Major Francis Foulke, then living at Camphier, where he then also lived, told him that his brother, Lieut. Robert Foulke, was sent by Colonel Phaier from Dublin to him, that he might engage as many English then of Inchiquine's army to do their utmost in securing the chief garrisons in Munster for the then Parliament and Lord Lieutenant Cromwell, and amongst the rest the said Francis Foulke engaged him, Major Farmer, to use his interest and endeavours in the work; whereupon he acquainted Colonel Richard Townsend and several others who were ready to yield their assistance. Major Foulke told him that he would go to Youghall to engage the officers there, which he accordingly did. And some small time after (how many Major Farmer did not well remember), there was a day appointed (by Major Foulke, Col. Townsend, Colonel William Warden, and himself, with Lieutenant George Prater and several others who were acquainted with the design), to meet at Tallow, and there to make what party of horse they could, and intended from thence to have marched to Youghall in order to have joined themselves with those there who had engaged to secure the town; but so it was that one Johnson (who had taken his oath to be faithful in the business), discovered the same to the Lord of Inchiquine, and by that means Inchiquine sent a party to Tallow and apprehended Col. William Warden, Col. John Gifford, Lieutenant George Prater, and so prevented the bringing of horse to Youghall; but Major Farmer with Major Foulke, Colonel Townsend, and some others, made their escape into the country where they lived, but the next morning Colonel Townsend was apprehended in his own house by Lieutenant Francis Bettridge; and likewise another party of horse was sent to apprehend him and Major Francis Foulke, who hid themselves in the stump of an old castle, by which means they were not taken. But the party not finding him and Major Foulke, plundered their houses and also took some of Major Foulke's cattle. But by this time the town of Youghall had actually declared for the then Parliament of England and Lord Lieutenant, which he and Major Foulke hearing of, took a cott and went down by water to Youghall, and having joined themselves with the officers there at a council of war, resolved to maintain the town for the English interest. Being asked how the town was delivered back into the power of the Lord of Inchiquine, Major Farmer said, that the next day after the town declared, Inchiquine came with force and encamped before the town, after which there was a council of war called in the town, and it was by the council resolved the town should be defended against Inchiquine, then before it. That the souldiers upon the works cryed out the town might be defended against Inchiquine and the Irish; but after some jealousy of Capt. Widnham and Capt. Graham, articles were agreed upon by consent of the officers for the redelivering of the said garrison to Inchiquin upon conditions that none of the English might be drawn out of the said town, nor Irish put in.

" Taken before us, " JASPER FARMER." [2]

" JOHN DENISON. BRY. SMYTH.

" H. HODDEN."

" Youghall.

" Lieut. Col. Widnham. February 19th, 1654-5.

" The examination of Lieut. Col. John Widnham, aged 30 years or thereabouts, English Protestant, now resident at Adare in the county of Limerick, and at the time of securing of Youghall both first and second times for the Parliament of England and the then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in the months of October & November 1641, then a Captain in the said town, being duly sworn:—

" Said, that he well remembreth that at the time of the first declaring of Youghall for the Parliament of England, Captain Henry Smithick was very forward in the contriving of the securing of the towne, and that he and Captain Smithick had frequent meetings and consultations about the securing of the town; and that this discourse was some days before the design was effected. He said that Captain Smithick was also very active in the securing of the town, which was effected in the month of November 1649. And that which moved and occasioned the discourse and action was the sense that Captain Smithick had of the danger the town was then in and the English interest, for that the Lord of Inchiqueen had not only joined with the Irish but also intended (as Captain Smithick was informed) to place an Irish garrison in the town, and to draw out the English then in the town. And Colonel Widenham further said that Nicholas Munckton, Lieut. Thomas Smyth, Capt. Thomas Graham, Capt. Vere Hunt, Ensign Richard Dashwood, Lieut. William Smyth, Lieut. Henry Smyth, Ensign Henry Smithick, Capt. Joshua Boyle, Quarter-Master Henry Widnham, Lieut. John Tench, and Ensign George Warr, were all active in the first securing of the said town.

[1] lxvi. 239. [2] lxvi. 24.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"And that at the second securing of the said town for the Parliament of England, which was in the month of November 1649, the day of the month he did not then remember, but well remembered that Capt. Henry Smithick was with Col. Gifford as soon as Colonel Gifford came into the town with his party of horse, but did not know what manner of assistance he gave to the entrance of the horse; but is sure he did not oppose the same.

"Colonel Widenham further saith that he saw and observed Lieut. Nicholas Munckton, Lieut. Thos. Smyth, Quarter-Master Henry Widnham, Lieut. Robert Kent, Capt. Thos. Graham, Lieut. George Warr, Capt. Jacob Sayers, Capt. Vere Hunt, to be free to and well satisfied with the coming in of the said horse, and securing of the town. And that Ensign Nicholas Munckton was within the iron gate when the gate was opened to let him in with his company and some of the party of horse which came from Cork.

"And further said that all of the above named persons, to the best of his knowledge and that he ever heard of, had continued faithful and lived peaceably under the protection of the Commonwealth of England."

"This examination was sgoed by Colonel John Widnham and taken the day and year above written before,
"PETER WELLIS. BRT. SMYTH.
"[HT. HODDEN.][1]

The following Deposition and Examination of Lieutenant-Colonel Henry Smithick is an instance where the officer of a regiment came forward to testify in behalf of the non-commissioned officers and privates under his command. The list had been checked, as appears by the asterisks affixed to the names.

"Youghall.
"Lt. Col. Henry Smythicke. "March 10, 1654-5.

. . . . . .

"Lieut.-Colonel Henry Smythicke of Turcullen begg aforesaid further deposeth and sayth for and on behalf of the persons whose names ensue, being all of them employed as non-commissioned officers and private souldiers under his command att the rendition of Youghall aforesaid in the nights of the first and second declaring there for the English interest, viz.:

Serjeents.

× Nicholas Lucas.
× John Geppic.
× Thos. Brothers.
× Robt. Winter.
× George Winter.
× Willm. Cory.
Thos Browne.
× William Hooper.
Symon Greene.
Richard Griffin.
× John Wigmore.

Corporalls.

× Robert Jacob.
× Archd. Waner.
× Richard Winter.
× William Ellis.
× Walter Williams.
× Joseph Gibson.
Edward Barrey.
William Donest.
× John Foster.
× Jonas Loveredge.
× Wm. Judd.
× Richard Palmer.
× Thos. Tuckey.

Drummers.

× Edwd. Jones junior.
× Sam. Griffin.
× Henry Bartlett.
Wm. Tallon.
× Charles Lover.
× Robert Jones.

Souldiers.

× Mihil Glanfeild.
× Edward Walters.
× John Browne.
× Abra Elliott.
[and 150 more.]

[1] Inliv. 249.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"All the within named persons, being eleven serjeants, thirteene corporalls, six drummers, one hundred and fifty private soldiers, three gunners and quarter-master under command as aforesaid, did duly & diligently give assistance in the respective places in both nights of the said declaring as aforesaid for the then Parliament of England. And further saith that above one hundred of the said persons have since been employed in the service of the Commonwealth as officers and soulders. And the rest have been in and near Youghall quietly and peaceably paid contribution to the Commonwealth, whereof some are [ ] both of the soulders and inhabitants; and he doth not know nor hath att any time heard that the said persons or any of them have assisted or countenanced any of the enemies of the Commonwealth. And further saith that Lieut. Henry Gee, being in Youghall the night of the last declaring or rendition, did give assistance readily and voluntarily thereto. And further saith that one Captain Lieutenant John Smyth, then Town Major there, did readily yield & deliver the keys of the gates there unto Lieutenant Dashwood (as this examinant then understood), but what assistance he gave att that time touching the said rendition, he this examinant knoweth not. And further saith not.

"HENRY SMITHICKE."

"This examination taken before

"HEN. HODDEN.
"BRY. SMYTH."

The following examinations give the history of the betrayal and rendition of the City of Cork by the garrison to Cromwell:—

"Cork.

"Major Robert Myhill. February the 22d 1654-5.

"The examination of Captain Robert Myhill, aged one and thirty years or thereabouts, English Protestant, now resident at Ballymaconnrick in the barony of Imokilly, and at the declaring of Cork for the Parliament of England on the 16th day of October 1649, then a Captain in Colonel Stirling's regiment in the said towne, being duly sworne, sayth:—

"That about six weeks before the declaring of the city of Corke for the Parliament of England and the then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, this examinant, considering within himself the sad condition that the English interest was then brought into, cast about in his own thoughts what was best for him and other English Protestants to doe in order to the freeing of himself and them, and at the time aforementioned this examinant went into the shop of one Captain Thos. Boles in the citty of Corke, with whom he was very intimate, and to whom he opened his mind and told him, Boles, that he thought it advisable to use some means for the delivering of himself & others from the bondage they were then in (the Lord Inchiquine having joined with the Irish, and they having a great influence upon him). And Major Myhill further sayth that he put Captain Boles to his oath not to reveale or make known anything of what he had said or should say unto him, and then he told the said Boles that he had full resolution to attempt the securing of the city of Corke for the Commonwealth of England and Lord General Cromwell, and gave him to understand that he had about eight good men of his own company which he was sure would stand by him on such an enterprize, and also desired the said Boles to afford him his best assistance in the undertaking by using his interest in the townspeople, which the said Boles faithfully promised to do. He further sayth that about a fortnight after the engaging [of] Captain Boles, he acquainted Captain Cary and Captain Richard Burnell with the aforesaid design, and having sworn them to secrecy, they engaged to afford him their utmost assistance and manifested themselves very forward therein. And further sayth that about four days before the execution of this design, he acquainted Colonel William Reeves therewith (having first sworn him to secrecy), the said Colonel William Reeves readily embraced and consented to the said design and promised his best assistance. And sayth that about three days before the said declaring, he acquainted Colonel Richard Townsend (who then was a prisoner), with the aforementioned design, and the said Townsend made known the same to Col. John Gifford and Col. William Warden, who were prisoners at the same time with Colonel Townsend, who were all very well pleased (as he heard), with the designe. And further sayth that upon the aforementioned 16th of October, at ten o'clock at night, he saw and did observe Captain Peter Cary, Captain Lieutenant Richard

[1] lxvi. 245.

No. 1.—Carte Papers : Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Burnele, Lieutenant Colonel William Reeves, Colonel Gifford, Colonel Warden, Colonel Townsend, Colonel Charles Blunt, Lieutenant Thomas Huett, Ensigne Samuel Pomery, Lieutenant George Mihill, Ensign Ledwitch, Captain Henry Rogers, Ensign Peter Grenecne, Captain George Bell, Serjeant Hugh Buckland, Ensign Milton, Col. John Hoddor, Mr. Thomas Berger, and Captain Thomas Boles to be very active the said night in the securing the said town for the Commonwealth. And that when several of the officers above mentioned had secured the maine guard and the two parts of the city and placed a guard upon the Governour, Colonel Sterling, and upon Francis Bowerman, then Town Major, with several others whom they durst not trust, he with fourteen private souldiers, about 12 o'clock of the same night, went to surprise the fort, which he soon effected by going in at a port hole of the same, where a centinel was wont to be set, but he had the day before consulted with one Serjeant Hugh Buckland, then belonging to the fort, and promised him fifty pounds in case he would take the said centinel from the said port hole the night following, and yield him what further assistance he could to the taking of the fort, which the said serjeant promised and accordingly performed. And further sayth that he surprised in the fort Lieutenant Rosington and about thirty-four souldiers (the Governor thereof, Lt. Col. Agmondisham Muschamp, being that night at his farm). And further sayth that the said Muschamp had no knowledge of the said design, neither durst he acquaint him therewith, for he is persuaded had the said Muschamp known anything of the design he would have done his utmost to have prevented it. And further sayth that the said Muschamp was generally lookt upon to be a great enemy of the English interest.

"This examinant further saith that one Lieutenant Maurice Murphy, Lieutenant to Captain St. Leger in Inchiquine's regiment of foot, about a fortnight before the towne declared was by him made acquainted with the designe (the said Murphy being then in the said town), but had not one flic of his company with him, the rest of his company being then in the army about twenty miles from Cork; yet the said Murphy being very forward to assist the said design, he swore him to secrecy; but being confident of the faithfulness of the said Murphy, this examinant with other officers who were acquainted with the aforesaid design earnestly persuaded Murphy to go to his company and privately to engage them to come with him to Cork with what expedition he could, and accordingly Murphy did go and brought his company consisting of about fifty men to Cork, the said city having declared some few days before he could possibly return, and that the said Murphy was very active and serviceable in the securing the said town for the Commonwealth. Examinant further sayth that Thomas Stevins, Serjeant Walter Grace, Drummer Henry Blatchford, William Oldish, Thomas Bell, Robert Watson, James Davis, William White, Hugh Wilkins, Thomas Stroker, with three or four more (whose names at present he remembereth not) were very active with this examinant in the securing the aforesaid town and fort. And further saith that none of the aforesaid persons were since in service with the enemy, but have bin faithful to the interest of the Commonwealth of England to the best of his knowledge or for aught that ever he heard. And farther sayth not.

"Robt. Mihill."

"This examination taken before us the day and yeare above written.
"John Denison. Bry. Smyth.
"H. Hodges."[1]

"Cork,
"Coll. Robert Phaier. March 24th 1654-5.

"The examination of Col. Robt. Phaier, now Governor of Corke, aged thirty-five years or thereabouts, being duly taken, sayth that about the latter end of August 1649, which was presently after the landing of the Lord Lieutenant Cromwell, he knew divers prisoners of his old acquaintance who were of the Lord Inchiquin's army, and taken at the route before Dublin, which prisoners he knew to be honest hearted towards the English interest, and some of them stayed by this examinant's advice in the said Inchiquin's army on purpose to doe service for the English interest when they should have an opportunity, or otherwise they had gone with him for England, and therefore he made it his request to the Lord Lieutenant Cromwell and Lord Ireton that such of the said prisoners as he should choose might have parroules to come down into Munster to procure their ransome or exchange, which was only a disguise for their employment into the county of Corke, and had at that time instructions from him to severall well affected persons there to informe them of the Lord Lieutenant's designe and intention to redeeme the English inhabitants of the county from the bondage that Inchiquine had brought them under; and the said persons were to return within a moneth's time to give an account of their proceedings therein, in which service all the under-named persons did perform accordingly, except Captain Eames, who was betrayed in his designe, and thereupon imprisoned, and was like to be hanged. The names of the persons imployed were Captain John Eames. Lieut. Robert Foulke, Captain Robert Townsend, and some others whose names at present this examinant cannot remember . . . . . .

[1] lxvi. 143.

"ROBERT PHAIER."

"Taken before us,
"JOHN DENISON.
"H. HODDEN."[1]

THE COURT OF TRANSPLANTATION AT ATHLONE.[2]

A.D. 1655.

It was before a Court for Relief upon Articles of War, at Westminster, that Protestants claiming the benefit of articles of surrender and submission, as in the case of Lord Claneboy, were to proceed. For other Protestants having any claims to lands in the possession of the Commonwealth, there was set up a Court for the adjudication of claims at Dublin. But for the Irish there was established a Court of Claims and Qualifications at Athlone.

The Irish carried on the war with the Commonwealth forces for nearly three years after the arrival of Cromwell and his army on 14th August 1649. At length, on 12th May 1652, the Leinster army of the Irish surrendered on articles signed at Kilkenny on 12th May 1652, which were adopted successively by the armies of the other provinces, between that time and the September following, when the Ulster forces surrendered.

By these Kilkenny Articles, all except those who were guilty of the first blood, were received into protection on laying down their arms; those who should not be satisfied with the conclusions the Parliament might come to concerning the Irish nation, and should desire to transport themselves with their men to serve any foreign State in amity with the Commonwealth, should have liberty to do so.

But the Commissioners, signing on the part of the Commander-in-chief of the English army, undertook faithfully and really to mediate with the Parliament to their utmost endeavours, that they might enjoy such a remnant of their lands as might make their lives comfortable who should live amongst them, or for the maintenance of the families of such as should go beyond the seas.[3]

On 12th August 1652, there passed an Ordinance of Parliament for "Settling "of Ireland."[4] It deemed the entire nation guilty of the Rebellion, and classed the inhabitants into eight qualifications of guilt. By the first six, death, or confiscation of lands and banishment, were declared against all the chief nobility (some of them Protestants, as the Earl of Ormonde, Bishop Bramhall, and others), and all the gentlemen of Ireland who had held commissions of colonels or any higher rank in the army raised by Ormonde, as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, in 1649 and 1650, against Cromwell and the Parliament. Swordmen under that rank fell under the 7th qualification, and forfeited two thirds. Noblemen and gentlemen, being Catholics, who had borne no part in the war, but remained quietly at home, fell under the 8th qualification, and, as not having manifested a constant good affection to the Parliament by outward demonstration of affection, forfeited one-third. But all these were to transplant and receive their proportions in Connaught. Those only escaped confiscation of estate and transplantation who had manifested a constant good affection to the Parliament of England. By order of the Commissioners for the Affairs of Ireland, dated 14th October 1653, the Irish were ordered to transplant. The strongest and ablest were to proceed immediately after Christmas 1653, to Commissioners at Loughreagh,

[1] Ixvi. 196.

[2] The Commissioners of this Court were Miles Corbet, John Cooke, William Allen, and Philip Carteret. They were appointed by a Commission, dated 26th May 1654, and they sat at the Inns of Court, Dublin, in the Court of Wards there. Their first sitting was on 6th June 1654. "Book of Orders of the Commissioners for the Adjudication, of Claims and Entry by Com- "missioners, beginning June 1654, and ending October 1655." Late among the Records of the Court of Exchequer.

[3] Books of the Council for the Affairs of Ireland. Record Tower, Dublin Castle, A. 90, p. 103.

[4] Scobell's Acts and Ordinances, part ii. p. 1197.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

who were to set them out lands sufficient to support their stock of cattle; these transplanters were to prepare housing for their families. Their wives and children were to follow with the cattle before the 1st of May.[1] But the Irish were informed that another set of Commissioners would follow, to discriminate their degrees of guilt, and ascertain the extent and value of their estates that had been seized and confiscated, which, for the haste required for their transplantation, could not be done before their removal. These Commissioners (commonly called the Athlone Commissioners, from their place of sitting), were correctly styled The Court of the Commissioners for the Claims and Qualifications of the Irish. They were appointed, as appears by their commission and instructions, on the 28th December 1654.[2] As the whole nation was declared guilty of rebellion, it lay on each claimant to prove both the extent and nature of his estate, and "the series of his carriadges," or his course of conduct during the ten years' war or rebellion. To check the claimants, the Commissioners were furnished with the Civil Survey, which set forth the names and estates of all the proprietors in 1641, who had then, or since, taken part in the war; with the depositions taken in 1642, of Protestants complaining of robberies and outrages committed at the outbreak. These were duly alphabeted and indexed, and made up into books of provinces and counties. They were also supplied with books of the late government of Confederate Catholics. These books, as used in evidence against the Irish, were called the Books of Discrimination, but more popularly The Black Books.[3] In the proceedings of the Commissioners for the Adjudication of Claims at Dublin, there are entries showing the use they were put to. For though the Commissioners, by their circular to the Revenue Commissioners of the several precincts, ordered them to give public notice in each barony in Ireland of their appointment, and the opening of their Court, they concluded thus: "We shall only add that "hereby is not intended that any persons who by Act or Ordinance are liable to transplantation, should present any claims till further orders,"[4] yet the Irish inhabiting the counties near Dublin, did for a short time get liberty to present their claims to constant good affection to this Court. Upon so doing, an order was immediately made to search these books for proof of the claimant's delinquency. Thus, upon reading the petition of Elizabeth Humphreys, alias Roper, it was ordered, that it be referred to Mr. Wickham to state and report the case to us, the Commissioners; and that Mr. Solicitor do search the Books of Leinster, remaining in the hands of Mr. Thos. Warren and Mr. Henry Burston, touching the delinquency of the Whites mentioned in the papers of Mrs. Humphreys.[5] But it was soon ruled that no Papist could be heard here. Thus, Sebastian Clinton was dismissed to seek his remedy in Connaught, the Court being satisfied that James Clinton, his father (by and from whom he claimed), was a Popish recusant, and died since the rebellion began.[6] So Walter Johns, an infant (for his claim entered by Patrick Comerford), was likewise dismissed, to receive satisfaction for what should appear due to him in Connaught, it appearing, on the testimony of one John Cantwell that Nicholas Johns, father of the minor, (from and by whom he claims), was in the time of these wars frequently seen at mass.[7] Upon information this day (24 Feb. 1654–5), that the said claimant, Margaret Barnwell, is a Popish recusant, it is ordered that her said claim be transmitted to the Court of Qualifications, being the proper Court for Popish recusants to enter their claims in.[8] And in George Clerke's claim, "it is ordered that "what right he hath to the said annuity, he make the same appear unto the Court

[1] Order of the Commissioners, dated 14th October 1653, prescribed at Kilkenny Castle.
[2] A. 20, p. 53.
[3] "Sheweth,
"That your petitioner had the charge & custody of the Books of Discrimination (commonly called the Black Books), with all the Kilkenny Books, Rolls of Association, & other proceedings of the Supreme Councell, & all the Claims & Decrees of Athlone, & several other books relating to the Transplanted Interest in Connaught & Clare, for seven years last past, without making any charge for the same, & hath constantly paid a yearly rent of 15*l.* to Richard Reynell, Esq., for an office to keep the said books & papers from loss & embezzlement, supposing the same might at some time or other be of use to H. M's. service, & be of advantage to your petitioner. That in obedience to your Excellency's order of the 7th of November instant, your petitioner hath prepared perfect inventories of all the said books, rolls, papers, & writings, & hath delivered to the Clerk of the Council all the said books, &c., with the said inventories, &c., as by the said order he is required, &c.
" 15th day of June 1670."
"Concordatum Orders," unbound, late among the Auditor-General's Records, Custom House Buildings, Dublin.
[4] Books of the Court of Adjudication of Claims, 7 June 1654, p. 8. Exchequer Records, Public Record Office, Dublin.
[5] Ibid. p. 2.
[6] Ibid. 1 July 1654, p. 17.
[7] Ibid. 16 July 1654, p. 39.
[8] Ibid. 24 Feb. 1654–5, p. 314.

Digitized by Google

633

" newly erected for the Adjudication of Irish Papists' Titles and interests out of " forfeited lands, and that his said claim be dismist out of this Court."[1]

It was before the Court at Athlone that Henry O'Neil's (claim and qualification) was heard. In the first instance will be found the extent and annual value of his lands, for by these were to be measured the lands he was to receive in Connaught, and either in fee for life, or for term of years, according to the estate he held in them in Armagh. He claimed and proved his title to 10,000 acres (exact 9,305 acres) in fee, of which 2,000 acres (exact 1,994) were unprofitable. That he held them by letters patent of King James I., dated 16th September 1603, and of King Charles I., dated 19th December 1625, made to his father Sir Turlagh O'Neil, knight, and by the rent of a hawk, or 40 shillings, Irish; and that on his father's death in 1639, they descended and came to him. And this claim and title was allowed by the Court at Athlone. But touching his qualification, evidence was tendered on the part of the Commonwealth, of his delinquency, from the Books of Discrimination, to bar his claim. The Attorney-General produced the depositions of Charity Chappel, of the city of Armagh, and of George Littlefield of Loughgall, in the county of Armagh, and others, taken 13 years before, i.e., early in 1642, just after the outbreak, who alleged that said Henry O'Neil, Arthur his brother, and Turlagh his son, and others, on 23rd October 1641 had stripped Sir Henry Spottiswood of all that ever he had in the counties of Monaghan and Armagh, being over 4,000*l.* in value, and that they had robbed and despoiled her, and her husband, deceased, and said George Littlefield, of all their goods. The claimant begged to be allowed to call some of the witnesses, who were still alive, and to produce and re-examine them viva voce to their former depositions, and this being granted, he called said Charity Chappel. She was thereupon demanded her cause of knowledge of what she had sworn in her deposition in 1642 against said Henry O'Neil. She said she heard, when she was in prison in Armagh in the first year, that he was in rebellion, and what induced her to believe it was that all the country generally was in rebellion. And George Littlefield being re-examined viva voce to his former deposition, said that he heard said Henry O'Neil was out in action, but not a plunderer. But neither of them knew any such matter to be true of their own knowledge. On the contrary, Charity Chappel knew him of her own knowledge to be a great friend of the English, and it was proved by one Richard Lee, that the persons who so robbed Sir Henry Spottiswood were tenants to the said Henry O'Neil. For proof his good affection, O'Neil produced the depositions of several witnesses on his behalf, that at the beginning of the rebellion he saved the lives of Mr. Thomas Taylor of the city of Armagh, his wife and family, and six more families of that town, who fled to him for protection, and sent them away to the English quarters. He saved the lives of Mr. Fitzgerald, a minister, and Mr. Edward Trevor of Monaghan, and the wives and families of both of them. He had kept altogether 200 persons in his house from the violence of the rebels until he could send them to Dundalk and other English quarters, and as often as he heard of the approach of the rebels into his country he sent intelligence to the Governors of Dundalk or Newry, or the adjacent garrisons.

For giving such intelligence, General Owen O'Neil sent a party of horse, and took the claimant prisoner, and sent him to Kilkenny, where he was kept prisoner for three months, till the army was gone out of the county, and then he escaped.

He had himself been robbed by the rebels of his horses and cows, and those at Glasdromin had been burned by order of Sir Phelim O'Neil.

It was also deposed that he could not endure any of his sons to come near his castle. Once he shot at one of them, who was with a party coming to his house, because he was in rebellion. And he had been seen " with weeping tears to bemoan himself," saying, what would be thought of him, his sons being gone into rebellion, he having been ever faithful to the crown of England. Upon this state of facts the Court found that he did not aid or promote the rebellion in the first year.

It might perhaps be supposed that Mr. O'Neil would be entitled to a restoration of his estate and to escape transplantation. But this would prove a very imperfect conception of the strictness of the rule of transplantation. Of course the Commissioners could not find that he had aided or promoted the rebellion in the first year, or was ever in arms since, and they accordingly acquitted him of this. He had also exhibited much good affection to the English, but he must prove a constant good affection to be spared from transplantation; and by contributing money or victuals, not taken by actual force, and the payment of taxes and levies in the rebels' quarters (where no person dared to refuse them), he lost his claim. Mr. Henry O'Neil was probably in this latter predicament. He was adjudged to transplant, but (being within the Eighth Qualification), to have two-thirds of his estate in Connaught. The value of the depositions taken shortly after the outbreak of 1641 is strikingly illustrated in these proceedings.

[1] Ibid. 27 Jan. 1654-5.

Digitized by Google

Though taken on oath, they were taken in the absence of the party incriminated, and without cross-examination. The examiner was desirous of the most terrible tales of blood and plunder. He sifted nothing; he rejected no hearsays. Peter Walsh states that by reason of their exaggerations and other defects, they came, even in the Cromwellian courts, to be considered of little value. They are to be found still preserved, in forty volumes, in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, and it only needs an inspection of them to perceive that in general they deal in such exaggerations that they are nearly valueless to prove the circumstances of what they allege, though there may be found a little truth. The decree which follows is believed to be the only example to be found of the Decrees of the Court of Athlone.

"By the Com" for adjudicac'on of Claymes and qualifications of the Irish.

"Whereas Henry O'Neile of Glasdroman in the county of Arilmagh, esq., on the thirteenth day of June one thousand six hundred & fifty-five exhibited his claime into this Court, & in & by the same did sett forth that he is seized in his demeasne as of fee by descent of inheritance as soun & heire to S' Tirlagh McHenry O'Neile, kn', of, & in the country called the flews, the mannor of Glasdromanie, & all the castles, messages, lands, tenements, & her'itaments, (viz.) The country or territory comon'ly called or knowne by the name of the flues & the mannor of Glasdromanie, a court barrou to be held from three weekes to three weekes, & a courte leete or view of ffranckpledge to be held within the said mannor & county, a weekely markett & two fayres to be held yearly within Glasdromanie aforesaid. All & singular the profitts, fines, amerciaments, issues, forfeitures, perquisites, & comodities, casualities, & emolments of the said courts, fayres, & markett's, waifs, strayes, & fellons goods, happening within the said country, all worth, communibus annis, one hundred pounds, a tanuhouse & tanyyard withiu Glasdromanie aforesaid, a free chase & warren, & a parke consisting of two thousand acres within the said country or territory called the flues, yearly worth in proffitt [ ]. The castle, towne, & lands of Glasdromaine containing by estimac'on one hundred acres arable land, ten acres of meadow, twenty acres of pasture, twenty acres of tirluing (sic) worth p ann' twenty pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Dunrery sixty acres arable, ten acres meadow, thirty acres pasture, ten acres turberry and bogg, a mill and six acres wood, p ann' worth twenty three pounds sterling. The towne of Bellinaghy, sixty acres arable land, tenn acres meadow, forty acres pasture, ten acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' twenty foure poundes sterling. The halfe towne of Corneonagh, seuenty acres arable land, thirteene acres meadow, sixty acres pasture, ten acres turberry and bogg, p ann' ten pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Calderry, sixty acres arable land, ten acres meadow, thirty acres pasture, five acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' tenn pounds sterl'. The halfe towne of Drumbally, seauenty acres arable land, flue acres meadow, forty acres pasture, six acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' twelue pounds sterl'. The towne of Gorrantullinboy, one hundred acres arable land, six acres meadow, sixty acres pasture, twenty acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' twenty foure pounds sterl'. The towne of Carnaley, one hundred acres arable land, ten meadow, sixty acres pasture, twenty-foure acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' twenty two pounds sterling. The towne of Drumill al's Tullinavale, one hundred and fifty acres arable land, ten acres meadow, sixty acres pasture, thirty acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' thirty two pounds sterl'. The halfe towne of Dereey, one hundred and fifty acres arable land, ten acres meadow, eighty acres pasture, twenty acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' thirty six pounds sterl'. The towne of Aghmuiskyn, one hundred acres arable land, twelue acres meadow, sixty acres pasture, twenty acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' twenty two pounds sterl'. The towne of Tullyrallan, eight hundred acres arable land, forty acres meadow, foure hundred acres pasture, one hundred acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' one hundred pounds sterling. The towne of Ballynaria, three hundred acres arable land, thirty acres meadow, seuenty acres pasture, thirty acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' thirty eight pounds sterl'. The halfe towne of Sernachlea, one hundred and fifty acres arable land, twenty acres meadow, eighty acres pasture, thirty acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' twenty six pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Sytrim, one hundred and fiftie acres arable land, ten acres meadow, fifty acres pasture, ten acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' twenty fine pounds sterling The towne of Culekernagh, three hundred acres arable land, thirty acres meadow,

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers : Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

one hundred acres pasture, twenty acres turbery and bogg, worth p an' forty two pounds sterl'. The towne of Mesdagh, two hundred acres arable land, tenn acres meadow, forty acres pasture, twenty acres turberry and bogg, worth p an' twenty one pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Claghogg, eighty acres arable land, six acres meadow, forty acres pasture, tenn acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' fourteene pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Crogranduff, seuenty acres arable land, foure acres meadow, eighty acres pasture, twelue acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' fourteene pounds sterl'. The halfe towne of Clavenagh, forty acres arable land, three acres meadow, forty acres pasture, ten acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' ten pounds sterling. The two Sesriaghes of Annamarra and one Sesriagh of Clounly called both a towne land, one hundred acres arable land, tenn acres meadow, fifty acres pasture, twenty acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' twenty-two pounds sterling. The towne of Killaghbane, one hundred acres arable land, ten acres meadow, forty acres pasture, ten acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' eighteen pounds stirling. The towne of Tire, eighty acres arable land, ten acres meadow, forty acres pasture, turberry & bogg six acres, worth p ann' fifteene pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Tulehard, forty acres arable land, six acres meadow, twenty acres pasture, three acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' ten pounds sterl'. The halfe towne of Cluliffe, forty acres arable land, ten acres meadow, twenty acres pasture, foure acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' ten pounds sterling. The towne of Clare and Rakillane, one hundred acres arable land, ten acres meadow, seaventy acres pasture, turberry and bogg fine acres, worth p ann' twenty two pounds sterl'. The towne of Creakill, sixty acres arable land, fiue acres meadow, forty acres pasture, fine acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' fourteene pounds sterling. The towne of Crewkerrine, fifty acres arable land, six acres meadow, forty acres pasture, eight acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' fourteene pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Cornacary, thirty acres arable land, foure acres meadow, thirty acres pasture, foure acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' ten pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Lissary, fifty acres arable land, fine acres meadow, thirty acres pasture, foure acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' ten pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Mongillagh, forty acres arable land, foure acres meadow, twenty acres pasture, six acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' ten pounds sterling. The halfe towne and mill of Corkimore, fifty acres arable land, fine acres meadow, thirty acres pasture, six acres turberry and bogg, worth twenty two pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Meaghban, fifty acres arable land, fine acres medow, thirty acres pasture, eight acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' ten pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Leaghsealeldy, forty acres arable land, three acres medow, thirty acres pasture foure acres turberry, worth eight pounds sterling p ann'. The towne of Glassdrumniaghy and Ennaghgad, one hundred acres arable land, ten acres meadow, thirty acres pasture, eight acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' twenty pounds sterl'. The towne of Carin, eighty acres arable land, ten acres meadow, thirty acres pasture, tenn acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' eighteene pounds sterl'. The towne of Drunleckra, one hundred and thirty acres arable land, tenn acres meadow, sixty acres pasture, twelue acres turberry and bogg, worth thirty pounds sterl'. The halfe towne of Crosse, fifty acres arable land, fiue acres meadow, forty acres pasture, foure acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' ten pounds sterling. The halfe towne of Mounogg, fifty acres arable land, foure acres meadow, twenty acres pasture, six acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' ten pounds sterl'. The towne of Orcher, eighty acres arrable land, foure acres meadow, thirty acres pasture, seauenty acres turberry, worth ten pounds sterling p ann'. The halfe towne of Drumack, forty acres arable land, three acres meadow, twenty acres pasture, six acres turberry, worth eight pounds sterling p ann'. The halfe towne of Drumackvale, fifty acres of arrable, foure acres meadow, thirty acres pasture, seauen acres turberry and bogg, worth eight pounds sterling p ann'. The towne of Drumby, one hundred and twenty acres arable land, ten acres meadow, one hundred acres pasture, ten acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' two and twenty pounds sterl'. The towne of Lisragh, one hundred acres arable land, ten acres meadow, fifty acres pasture, eight acres turberry, worth p ann' twenty pounds sterl'. The towne of Tullidonnell al's Ballaghmore, one hundred acres arable land, ten acres meadow, eighty acres pasture, seauen acres turberry and bogg, worth p ann' twenty eight pounds sterl'. The towne of Legmolin, one hundred acres arable land, ten acres meadow, one hundred acres pasture, foure turberry, worth p ann' twenty two pounds sterling. The halfe towne Jmarycame, one hundred and fifty acres of arable land, twelue acres meadow, one hundred and fifty acres pasture, twenty acres turberry, worth thirty pounds sterl' p ann'. The towne of Camoly, one hundred acres arable land, fiue acres meadow, fifty acres pasture, ten acres turberry, worth twenty one pounds sterling p ann', and for many years possessed the same and rec'd the rents, issues, and proffitts thereof which was the claimants title to the p'misses, who did desire an allowance thereof, and that he might

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

enjoy the p'misses by decree of this Court; which said clayme was by order of this Court of the fifteenth of June one thousand six hundred & fifty five aforesaid, referr'd unto Tobias Wickeham, esq., one of the Councill for the Com'onwealth, to state the matter of fact & to give to this Court an account of the substance of the said claymant's title & what else should be produced unto him, as well on the behalf of the Com'onwealth as of the said claymant; who having thereupon examined the premisses the thirteenth of August one thousand six hundred & fifty five aforesaid, did make this Report unto this Court, & the Court having granted a comission unto the said Henry O'Neile, to examine such witnesses as he should think fitt for the proveing & making good his title to the lands before menc'oned, which said com'ission being executed & returned into this Court, & publication being thereupon granted, & considerac'on being there upon had, & all due meanes used to discover & find out the truth in the premisses, & the cause being appointed to bee heard this day, the Court accordingly did enter into a full & deliberate hearing thereof, as well in the presence of the Councell for the Com'onwealth as of the said Councill of the said claimant, & having considered of the said Report & depositions, & Councell on both parts haveing beene fully heard as aforesaid touching the title of the said clamant, whereby it doth appeare that S^r^ Tirlogh M^c^Henry O'Neile, the clamant's father was seized & possessed to him, his heirs, & assignes for ever of the severall lands, tenements, & hereditaments in the claime menc'oned by Pattents from King James, dated the sixteenth day of September, in the first year of his raigne of England, & from King Charles by his Pattent, dated the nineteenth day of December, in the first yeare of his raigne, upon the yearly rent of a horse, a hawke, or forty shillings Irish, & dyed thereof so seized, in the yeare one thousand six hundred thirty & nine, after & by whose death the premisses descended & came to the clamant as son & heire of the said S^r^ Tirlogh; that the claymant accordingly became seized & received the rents, issues, & profitts thereof untill the Rebellion; that the lands containe, according to the survey thereof, nine thousand three hundred & five acres, whereof nineteen hundred ninety four acres is unprofitable, so that upon the whole matter it then appeared to this Court that the clamant hath made a good & legall title to the lands in his said clayme mentioned; & touching the Qualification of the said Henry O'Neile, it appeared by the evidence produced on behalf of the Com'onwealth & by the general oaths of John Corren, of Drumboote aforesaid, Charity Chappell, late wife of Richard Chappell, late of the towne & county of Armagh, & George Littlefield, late of Loghgall, in the county of Ardmagh, that on the twentieth day of October one thousand six hundred & forty one, S^r^ Henry Spotswood, knight, was stripped & dispoyled of all his goods, ready money, & chattells that ever he had in the severall counties of Monoghan & Armagh, to the value of above foure thousand one hundred sixty nine pounds by Henry O'Neile, of Glasdromine, esq., Arthur O'Neile, his brother, Tirlagh O'Neile, his sonn, & divers other Rebells; that the said Charity Chappell & her late husband & the said George Littlefield were in the first yeare robbed & dispoyled of all their goods, &c. by the parties then in the present Rebellion, to witt, Henry O'Neile of Glasdromine, esq^re^, & divers others; and whereas it was alledged by the Councell on behalf of the said clamant that some of the deponents were yett liveing who deposed against the said clayman (to witt), Charity Chappell & George Littlefield, & therefore prayd a com'ission to re-examine them touching theire former depositions against the said claymant, & the Court being desirous fully to be informed of the truth thereof, gave liberty to the claymant to produce them viva voce in Court, which accordingly he did, & this day being appointed for the re-hearing of the said cause, the Court haveing entered into a full & deliberate hearing thereof; and the said M^rs^ Chappell, being demanded upon oath the cause of knowledge of her former depositions against the said S^r^ Henry O'Neile, said she heard he was in Rebellion the said first yeare when she was in prison at Armagh, & the reason then inducing her to believe the same was that all the country was generally in Rebellion; & the said George Littlefield deposed upon oath that he heard the said Henry O'Neile was out in action, but not a plunderer; but neither of them of their owne knowledge did knowe any such matter to be true, but on the contrary the said Charity Chappell did affirme her knowledge of him to bee a great friend to the English; and by the oath of Richard Lee it appeared that S^r^ Henry Spotswood was robbed in the first evening of the Rebellion, the persons that so robbed the said S^r^ Henry were tennants to the said Henry O'Neile, & the osthes of the said John & Samuell Corran being too generall & uncertaine to amount to convinceing proofe; and touching the good affec'on of the said claymant, it appeared to this Court by depositions of severall witnesses taken in behalfe of the said claymant, that the said Henry O'Neile at the beginning of the Rebellion secured & saved the lives of M^r^ Thomas Taylor of Armagh, his wife and family, & six more

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

famillies of the said towne which fled unto him for safeguard, & sent them away to the Englisb quarters, & did likewise save the lives of M^r^ Fitz Garrett, a minister, his wife & familly, & one M^r^ Trevors, a minister, & M^r^ Edward Trevors of Monohan, & both their wives & famillies, with severall other Englisb to the number of two hundred, all which persons he kept in his house from the violence of the rebells untill he found conveniency to send them safe to Dundalke & other places of the Englisb quarters, & from time to time as often as he heard of the approach of the rebells into the country, the said Henry O'Neile did send intelligence to the Governo^r^ of Dundalke or Newry or the next adjacent garrisons of the Englisb, & that for giveing such intelligence Generall Owen O'Neile sent a party of horse & took the said claymant prisoner & sent him to Kilkenny, where he was kept prisoner untill the army was then gone out of the country, being about a quarter of a yeare after, at which time he made his escape, & the rebells did at the same time take a great number of horses, mares, cowes, & other cattle from the said claymant; that the said claimant's cattle & horses at Glasdromine were burned by S^r^ Phillim O'Neile's order; that the claymant could not endure any of his sonns to come neare his castle; that he once shot at one of his sonns, who was with a party comeing to his house, because he was in Rebellion, & did oft with weepeing teares bemoane himselfe saying, what would be thought of him, his sonns being gone into Rebellion; hee haveing been ever faithfull unto the Crowne of England; so that comparcing the evidence of the said claymant with the evidence against him, upon the whole matter, the Court is not juditially satisfied that the said Henry O'Neile did not aid & assist or otherwise promote Rebellion in the first yeare, nor was in armes since.

"The Court doth therefore think fitt & adjudg the said Henry O'Neile to be comprised & doth fall under the eight quallification of the Act of Settlement of Ireland, beareing date the twentieth day of Augnst one thousand six hundred fifty two. And it is further ordered, adjudged, & decreed that the said Henry O'Neile shall have & enjoy two thirds parts of his said estate to him, his heires & assigns for ever, in Connaght or Clare, according to the true intent of the said eight qualification of the said Act of Settlement.

"Saveing to his Highnesse the Lord Protecto^r^ & Com'onwealth of England all right & title which at any time heareafter may appeare to belong or appertaine to his said Highnesse or the said Com'onwealth; and saveing to all other person & persons all right & title which at any time hereafter may appears to belong or appertaine to them or their heires into or out of the lands or estate claymed by the said Henry O'Neile, or into or out of any part thereof in any wise.

"Dated at Athlone, the fifth day of November one thousand six hundred fifty five.

"ISAAC DOBSON. "W. FRANKLAND.
"J. SOUTHEY.

"Ex^d^ Rich. Cowse, Reg^r^."

"Compared with the originall, the 29^th^ of December 1663,
"JOHN TAYLOR, Reg^r^." "WM. COOPER."[1]

MINUTES of the FIRST COURT of CLAIMS.
A.D. 1662-1663.

There were three Courts of Claims, after the Restoration, concerned in the Settlement of Ireland. The first was the Court of Commissioners for putting in execution the King's Declaration: The second was the Court for executing the Act of Settlement: The third was a new commission for executing the Act of Explanation. The Commissioners for executing the King's Declaration of 30th November 1660 for the Settlement of Ireland commenced their sittings in the beginning of the year 1661. There were 36 commissioners named in the Declaration, and others were added from time to time.[2] They consisted in great part of adventurers, soldiers, and others interested in the Cromwellian settlement. But this commission was superseded and a new set of five commissioners appointed to execute the Act of Settlement passed in 1662. The proceedings of the first commissioners were so partial that none of the Irish would appear before them. They protested against them, as interested in the lands to which they sought to be restored, and prayed the King to revoke their commission, because being parties, they ought not to be judges.[3] The claims of the Irish were to be put

[1] lxiv. 466.
[2] Their names are given in the Act of Settlement, which embodies the Declaration. 14 & 15 Chas. II. chap. 5.
[3] Presented to the King in Council, 10th July 1661. Sir George Lane's Minutes as Clerk of the Council; Collections relating to Act of Settlement, vol. vii.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

in by the 1st May 1661, but few had put them in.[1] The persons in possession were to be reprised before they were put out; and the restorable Protestants were to have priority of the restorable Catholics. The fund for reprizals was already exhausted in three months, so that Lord Colooney could not be reprized for 1,500 acres of restorable Protestant lands, which he had been forced to give up.[2] If this brother of Sir Charles Coote (now made Earl of Mountrath, and one of the Lord Justices,) could not get relief, it was in vain for an Irish Catholic to hope for anything by an appeal to such a court. Francis Lord Aungier, himself one of the Commissioners, writes to Ormonde that self-interest and partiality, not justice, is the rule for judging there, and wishes that some other judges who were not parties might determine the causes. "For Sir Audley Mervyn (says Lord Aungier), who always gives the rule in "the Court of Claims, is the most partial judge on earth;" all the lands for reprizals were already given out to four or five persons, and Lords Mountrath, Massereene, and Kingston had got into their own hands most of Louth, Dublin, and Kildare for "cautionary reprizals," a word (says Lord Aungier) not mentioned in the Declaration.[3] Besides, the King's Declaration was only an Act of State, and no safe rule for the judges to walk by. The Act of Settlement therefore was passed embodying the King's Declaration and instructions for its execution, with alterations and additions, and the proceedings of the commissioners of the Declaration were annulled, and all parties were to appear and claim before the new commissioners.[4] The Commissioners were five in number, Sir Richard Rainsford, Sir T. Beverly, Sir Allan Broderick, Sir Winston Churchill, and Sir Edward Dering. The first duty of the Commissioners was the restoring of Innocents, that is, Irish proprietors (to use the language of the Act) who had been dispossessed of their estates and transplanted into Connaught merely for being Papists.[5] As the adventurers or soldiers thus displaced from the lands of the restored Innocents were to be forthwith reprized, the other interests had to wait, as they were only to be supplied out of the balance of the fund of land for reprizals. Near 8,000 persons now put in claims of Innocence; and the adventurers and soldiers with dismay saw the Commissioners giving decrees of Innocence to 700 persons where they had thought there would not be twenty.[6] For when the King's Declaration was published, and it was found that the Innocents were to be restored at once, it was like a terrible thunderbolt (says one well conversant with the circumstances of the day) to the soldiers and adventurers:[7] and to defeat it they framed "Instructions" to the Commissioners, whereby eleven qualifications were required to make an Innocent. Their strictness may be judged of by an instance. By one qualification none were to be restored as Innocent Papists who had enjoyed their estates, real or personal, in the rebels quarters:[8] and this was held to extend to such as lived in the English quarters, but received the rents of their lands lying in the Irish quarters. So that an Irish Catholic, even dwelling all the time of the Irish Rebellion in England, or being with his Majesty King Charles I. at Oxford, and serving in his army, was not to be allowed to receive his rents from his tenants in Ireland; or if he did receive them, must be held Nocent, and be kept out of the repossession of his estate. Thus they made it (passionately exclaims this advocate of his countrymen) a crime for an Irishman to eat his own bread to support his life even in a state of Innocency, i.e. serving his King.[9] But the framers of the Declaration forgot or were unable to exclude jointresses, children under age or born since the rebellion, and entitled to remainders or portions under settlements made before the War. The Commissioners could not refuse them decrees of Innocence. The loudest outcries were now raised against the judgments of the Court of Claims. In the former Court of the Commissioners for executing the King's Declaration, Francis Lord Aungier found himself called "a friend "to Teig and an enemy to the English interest" for soliciting the cases of those the King wished to see speedily restored to their estates, and that were named for that purpose in the Declaration.[10] Four of the Commissioners of the Court for executing the Act of Settlement were now aspersed for their conduct, though only performing their sworn duty, in like manner as "friends of Teig," and styled "McRainsford, O'Beverley, McChurchill, and O'Broderick."[11]

[1] Francis Lord Aungeir to Ormonde. Dated 27 April 1661. xxxi. p. 95.
[2] "The Irish, their objections to the King's Declaration for Settlement of Ireland being passed into a Law." Delivered 12 March 1661-2. lxviii. paper 17.
[3] Francis Lord Aungeir to Ormonde. Dated Dublin, 26 July 1661. xxxi. p. 167.
[4] 14 & 15 Chas. II. c. 2.
[5] Clause xvi. of King's Declarstion embodied in the Act of Settlement. 14 & 15 Chas. II. c. 2.
[6] "Ireland for above Forty Years past." [A.D. 1690.] lxvi. pp. 1-11.
[7] "Light to the Blind," sec. 45, part i. cexxix. 4to.
[8] Clause x. of Instructions for executing His Majesty's Declaration. 14 & 15 Chas. II. c. 2.
[9] "Light to the Blind," A.D.1711, part i. sec. 45. cexxix. 4to.
[10] Lord Aungier to Ormonde. Dated Dublin, July 10, 1661. xxxi. 147.
[11] "Treatise or Account of the Warr or Rebellion in Ireland since 1641," styled by Carte Plunket's History. See 746, lxiv. pp. 418–431.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

The decree given by the Court of Claims in favour of the innocence of James Allen, son of Sir Thomas Allen of St. Wolstan's, and his mother Lady Allen, increased the commotion. The Allens were descended from Sir John Allen, Master of the Rolls in Ireland at the time of the confiscation of the priory of St. Wolstan's, and obtained a grant of it from King Henry VIII., and from him it had descended to the claimants. The priory was seated on the right bank of the Liffey, beside the Salmon Leap at Leixlip, about seven miles to the west of Dublin, and formed a most desirable possession. Hugh Montgomery, Earl of Mount Alexander of Ardes in the county of Down, who had suffered much in the King's cause from the Commonwealth Government, got a clause inserted among the instructions to the Commissioners for executing the Declaration, to deliver St. Wolstan's to Lord Mount Alexander, if it should be found forfeited.[1] But Allen and his mother obtained a decree of Innocence even from these partial Commissioners. Lord Mount Alexander thereupon addressed the Duchess of Ormonde (11 January 1661-2,) beseeching her to urge the King to order a re-hearing of the claim, on the ground of some intercepted letters of Colonel Richard Talbot to his brother and Sir Bryan O'Neil proving fraud and corruption in the obtaining of that decree.[2]

In May 1662 the Act of Settlement was passed, which virtually annulled the proceedings of these Commissioners, and the Earl of Mount Alexander was put into possession by the Irish House of Lords by virtue of their privilege in favour of a fellow peer.[3]

But James Allen and Lady Allen, on 28th February 1662-3, obtained a decree of Innocence from the new Court. Ormonde, giving Lord Clarendon an account of the discontents raised by this decree amongst the English, new and old, says that they conclude themselves utterly lost in consequence of it. Such a judgment against such direct evidence as they pretend was made against the Allens, could not have been given but upon some private directions from the King; and the false and scandalous suggestion gained the more credit because it was said that my Lord Berkeley and Colonel Richard Talbot had purchased Allen's interest in his estate, which was worth, they said, 1,500*l.* a year.[4] That Allen had the aid of Lord Berkeley and Colonel Talbot is plain; Lord Berkeley acting it would seem out of pity (for he said that the poor Irish would be destroyed by the number and malice of those that sought their ruin unless H.R.H. the Duke of York undertook their protection),[5] and Colonel Talbot on a promise of part of the lands for his soliciting Allen's cause.[6] The House of Commons now took fire and proceeded in a body, headed by their speaker, Sir Audley Mervyn, and presented an address to Ormonde as Lord Lieutenant, praying him to issue a set of rules and instructions to the Commissioners accompanying their address, that would have made every Irishman incapable of restoration. They also reflected on the conduct of the Commissioners.

Ormonde, writing on this subject, in answer to Michael Boyle, Bishop of Cork, who had warned Ormonde of the discontents of the English of Cork, says very pointedly: "Who can believe that the Commissioners are partial to the Irish "Papists, or that they design the destruction of the English interest, seeing that they "are Englishmen and Protestants, men of good reputation for parts and integrity, "without any relation to Ireland, and that the Act by which they judge was framed "and passed without the advice or concurrence of one Irishman or Papist? Are they "to judge all Irish nocent? And none innocent?"[7] The truth was, he said, when any person of credit among the adventurers or soldiers found himself to be pinched in his interest by a decree of the court, he caused a cry to be raised that all was lost to the English, and that the Irish would be their masters, whilst some that favoured the cry (he added) got good bargains both of the cattle and land of those who, frightened by this stratagem, were led to return to England.[8]

The time limited for hearing claims of Innocence was to expire on 21st August 1663. Of about 7,000 claims, six-sevenths were still unheard. Those in the English interest were opposed to any extension of the time. Others were sensible

---

[1] Instructions: Clause LXII. 14 & 15 Chas. II. c. 2.
[2] Earl of Mount Alexander to Duchess of Ormonde. Dated 11 Jan 1661-2. xxxiv. p. 7.
[3] "Return of Persons put into possession by the House of Lords." lxiv. p. 306.
[4] Ormonde to Earl of Clarendon. Dublin, 8 Jan. 1662-3. Clarendon Papers, unbound, Bodleian Library.
[5] Same to Same. Dated 19 Nov. 1662. cxliii. p. 80.
[6] Act of Explanation (17 & 18 Chas. II. c. 2. A.D. 1665), which confirms the Decree of Innocence, and recites the purchase of part of the estate by Colonel Talbot. See clxvi.
[7] Ormonde to the Bishop of Cork. Dated 2 June 1663. xlix. p. 139.
[8] Ormonde to Earl of Clarendon, 12 Nov. 1662. Clarendon Papers unbound, Bodleian Library.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

of the injustice of the opposite course. Ormonde said, "the period for hearing "claims must be extended, let it trouble whom it will."[1] But the insurrection of the Cromwellian planters put an end to this just design.

In spite of all remonstrances the time was not enlarged, and hundreds of well-born people died broken hearted, or starved, their claims to innocence unheard. The injustice was strongly felt at the time, both by the English who profited by it and the Irish who were ruined by it. It was declared on the part of the Irish that a settlement founded in wrong could not be lasting; right never dies; and the eye of reason would one day find out the force which begot it, and would interrupt its growth to a permanent state; it would produce disquiets and animosities in the minds of both gainers and losers, so that they would never grow up into one people.[2] And Lord Orrery, champion of the new English interest, protested that every claimant of innocence should be heard, "God forbid (said he) that any innocent should be precluded for want "of time to hear him. If any Englishman, were he my brother or my son, desired one "foot of an Irishman's land that should be found innocent, I wish he might be buried "in it. And from my soul I declare if Ireland should be settled on any foundations "but those of justice, I think it will never prosper, but moulder to nothing."[3]

The Court of Claims for executing the Act of Settlement commenced its sittings on 20th September 1662, and ended on 22nd August 1663.[4] The Commissioners sat at the Inns of Court in the room where the Court of Wards had been usually held, being the same where Cromwell's Court of Claims had sat from 1654 to 1656. They had as their room for sitting together out of court the room where the judges were used to meet at the Inns.[5] Their time was altogether taken up in hearing claims to innocence. The minutes of these hearings are important historically.

When Carte in the year 1713 entered into the controversy with Dr. Chandler concerning the share King Charles I. had in the Irish Rebellion, he employed his brother-in-law, Dr. Thomas Brett, to transcribe the minutes of the hearing of the Marquis of Antrim's claim taken by Sir Edward Deering, Commissioner of the Court of Claims, preserved among his papers at Surrenden-Dering, in the county of Kent. But on being afterwards employed by the Earl of Arran to write the life of James Duke of Ormonde, he sought access for himself to these minute books, from Sir Edward Deering, great-grandson of the commissioner. Sir Edward seems to have been unaware of the contents of his library, for he could not find them, and meeting Dr. Brett he asked him about them. Dr. Brett thereupon applied to Carte in much surprise at their being lost, and anxious to relieve himself of any responsibility, as appears by the following letter:—

"DEAR BROTHER, "Spring Grove, March 3, 1732-3.

"WHEN you desired me some years ago to transcribe the Minutes of the Marquis of Antrim's trial, as taken by Sir Edward Deering, great grandfather to the present Sir Edward, I having no acquaintance with Mr. William Deering, Sir Edward's uncle and guardian, and Fellow of some College in Oxford (I think All Soul's), who then resided at Surrenden, applied myself to Mr. Edward Deering, vicar of Charing, a relation and neighbour of the family, who procured the book for me. The book I remember was a quarto, bound in parchment, containing about two quires of paper. And Mr. Edward Deering told me there were a great many (I think he said twenty), all relating to the Irish affairs, and that he and Mr. Deering took down many of them before he found the Marquis of Antrim's case. I was not therefore so much as at the house on this occasion, but received the book from Mr. Edward Deering at his house and returned it to him again. But I kept no copy of what I transmitted to you. Last summer Sir Edward Deering came to visit a gentleman where I happened to be, and he then asked me about these MSS., and I gave him the same account I now send you. There is no good understanding between Sir Edward and his uncle, and therefore I suppose he has not written to his uncle about them. It is certain these MSS. were in the library under Mr. A. Deering's care. I am glad to hear you are safely returned from Ireland, and am,

"Dear brother, yours, &c.
"THO. BRETT."[6]

[1] Letter to the Bishop of Cork, 3 June 1663. xlix. p. 129.
[2] "Considerations on His Majesty's Declaration of Settlement," (A.D. 1662). vol. xliv.
[3] Earl of Orrery to Earl of Clarendon, 12 March 1663. Clarendon Papers, unbound, Bodleian Library.
[4] "Collections relating to the Acts of Settlement," vol. iii. p. 59, Record Tower, Dublin Castle.
[5] "Abstract of Letters concerning the diet and lodging of the Commissioners for executing the Acts of Settlement." xliv. p. 35.
[6] Addressed, "These to Mr. Thomas Carte, at Mr. Hughes's, a stationer in Inner Temple "Lane, London, present." ccxxvii. p. 32.

Digitized by Google

641

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Carte subsequently got access to these books, and with his usual diligence proceeded to copy largely from them. From the following extracts a very good conception may be formed of the nature of the claims made and the proceedings of the Court. It will be observed that there were "Innocent Protestants" claims. For by the Act of Settlement all lands forfeited or sequestered, or set out by the Commonwealth Government, on account of the War or Rebellion, were vested in the King as a trustee for the purposes of the Act, and could only be divested by decree of the Court. The Protestant Royalists therefore, whose lands had been confiscated, were to apply. As to them the proceeding was formal, and the decree or certificate certain. But it was otherwise with the Irish. There were eleven bars to innocence, and for defeating their claims there were kept in the Discrimination Office the depositions concerning Delinquency, the Roll of Association of the Assembly of Confederate Catholics at Kilkenny, and their Books of Entries. Witnesses were also examined vivâ voce in the Court. The evidence in the former case is set in the notes under the head "Discriminations."

Innocents who sued out no decrees at Athlone were to be restored forthwith; those who took out decrees were to be postponed, and only to be restored after a reprize of equal worth and purchase should be found for the Adventurer or Soldier who had possession of the Innocent's estate. This is the explanation of the term "Postponed." For their houses and lands in corporation, Innocent Papists were not to be restored in specie, but to be reprized in the neighbourhood, all forfeited property of Papists in corporations being granted to the Protestant Royalist ('49) Officers, as a strengthening of the English Interest.[1] This is the explanation of another term used in the Commissioners' minutes.

The following are from Sir Edward Deering's Minutes:—

"12th August 1663.

No. 345. George Bishop of Waterford, Pltff. By consent of Council adjudged Innocent Protestant, and left to law to recover.

346. Henry Connell of Tipperary, Pltff. Claimes as heire, as an Innocent Protestant.

———.) Brian the father lived in the county of Longford. He died a year and a half in the war. It was the Irish quarters; but he was a Protestant and 80 years old.

Kearns, Irish.) Bryan the father, Henry Connell the son, Innocent Protestants.

347. More Purcell, Pltff. Claims 2 jointures.

McMahon.) To prove her coverture from 1641 to 1651. Knows not that her husband was ever absent from her.

Contrà Querentem.

W. Thomsy.) She governed the house, and she had some soldiers, and she sent some provisions voluntarily to the Irish against the English, and sent some baskets to the Irish at Liscarrol.

She sent this witness to fetch her share of the plunder of Castletown, and he did bring it to her, and her husband was not at home; and she paid her proportion to maintain soldiers at the Shannon side.

He saw other plunder brought thither from another castle, and she received it, and her husband was not at home.

All this was the first year of the war.

Patrick Purcell was at home fourteen days after the plunder was taken out of Castletown. Mr. Purcell was coming and going.

Stephen Toms.) Saw some soldiers in her house, and they were maintained by them. The husband was sometimes at home. The baskets were made for the Irish in her house to be sent to Liscarrol. The husband was not at home.

Thomas O'Hagan.) She sent provisions to the Irish at Castlehaven and Askeaton. She paid her proportion towards maintaining the soldiers at the river. Her husband was sometimes at home. She received the rents before the war. He saw her receive some clothes from Castletown; she sent her people for them.

W. Toms and his son were in the castle of Castletown when it was besiedged.

Pro Querente.

Mathᵉ McMahon.) Saith the husband was constantly at home, and was at the siege of Castletown.

---

[1] Act of Settlement, 14 & 15 Chas. II. c. 2; clause xviii. of Declaration.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Dan M'Nemarragh.) He is son to the Pltff., saith that Pat^k Purcell raised a company of the Irish the first year of the war, and was at the siege of Castletown.

The Pltff. adjudged Nocent.

348. Dominic Daly, Pltff. Not appearing, is put sine die.

349. Edmund Coglan, Pltff. By consent.

Daniel, the father, guilty of the Rebellion. Edmund the son, an Innocent Protestant, and left to recover by law.

350. Richard Ellward of Clinga. Claims as an Innocent Protestant.

Michael Barry.) The pltff. is and was an Innocent Protestant. He was 13 years old, 1641.

Contrà Querentem.

John Butler.) Nothing.

Rob^t M'Mahon.) As much.

Adjudged Innocent Protestant.

*For a mortgage made to Walter Roch; the Court would not allow it because the pltff. saith he made it by duress. But—

1st. One witness proveth the whole money paid.

2d. Another proves that possession went accordingly; &

3d. It doth not appear that he was at that time either a prisoner or Protestant in 1647, which is the time of the mortgage.

351. John Exham, Pltff.

Admitted on all hands an Innocent Protestant, and left to the law to recover.

352. John Daly, Pltff. Objected that there is a decree in Athlone.

Art. Melaghlin.) The pltff. was born in 1637. To prove the pltff's. father did continually relieve the English and was plundered by the Irish.

Nothing objected to his innocence.

Adjudged Innocent.

353. John Maccabe, Pltff.

Resorts to articles.

354. James Mortimer and his wife, Pltffs.

James, adjudged Innocent Protestant.

Ellen, his wife, Innocent Papist.

Nota.

James is a Protestant; Ellen, a Papist. They claim in right of Ellen; and the question is, whether they shall be restored to what is in the corporation of Clonmel.

Adjudged, they shall not be restored in specie for what is in corporations.

Qu. If he had been a Papist, and she a Protestant,—and he had claimed in her right?

355. David Howlin, Pltff.

Comerford.) The pltff. is distracted and cannot speak a word in a manner; is an idiot; hath been so 7 years before the war, and so continually to this day.

James Butler.) The pltff. is distracted, and was so 3 or 4 years before the war. He runs away sometimes weeks together and eats grass.

Nothing objected.

Adjudged Innocent.

356. Peter Tyrrell. Claims by descent from Walter, his brother.

———.) Thomas lived at his own house in Westmeath the 1^st and 2^d years of the war. It was the Irish quarters. He was preyed by the Irish the 3^d year, and then removed to Trim the second May after the Rebellion. Castle Jordan was two miles and a half from him, and he had a correspondence with the garrison.

Edmund Tyrrell.) Thomas paid contribution to Castle Jordan and was within their quarters, and gave them intelligence; and he assisted Sir J. Gifford in the recovering of his castle which was taken by the Irish.

Nothing objected.

Adjudged Innocent.

Digitized by Google

643

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

357. Henry Dermot, Pltff. He waves the land claimed by the Bishop of Elphin, by Owen Lloyd, being content to be left to the law for them; and time given (2 days) to Sir Oliver St. George to produce a final settlement, and the pltff. waves Arglass.
Adjudged Innocent.

358. John Dungan, son of the late Baron Dungan, and the wife of [ ] Blunt. Claim as executors of the Lady Alice Hamilton, a statute of 1,600*l.* acknowledged by the Marquis of Antrim. The statute not extended.
All adjudged Innocent Protestants, and left to law to prosecute their rights.

359. Lawrence Cruice of Cruicetown. Claims by conveyance as 2d son of his father, but eldest by the 2d venter.
Objected: That he hath a Connaught decree.
Answer: He proved that he took it by lease from his father and paid 20*l* for it, and a yearly rent.
Major Ormsby.) That the pltff. did enter into a bond to him to secure the purchase made by Major Ormsby from his father, of land in Connaught. But the decree was made only to Christopher, the father, and the sale made only to him.
Adjudged: The pltff. is not to be postponed, in regard he had an interest in the ancient lands which was not claimed at Athlone, and he had no interest in the land set out at Athlone, because they are set out to the heirs of Christopher, whom the pltff. is not; the eldest sone by the first venter having left issue.
Nothing objected to his innocence.
Adjudged Innocent.

360. Gerald Farrell, Pltff.
He did not appear, and it is said there are two of the name, and the '49 men concerned in them all, and they had moved that the claimant might be ascertained before they proceeded to a hearing. But none at all appearing at the day, this Gerald Farrel, whoever he is, is to be put sine die.

361. Roger Bealing of Drogheda, Pltff.
Adjudged Innocent Papist, and inhabitant of Drogheda; but left at law to recover Casackstown.

362. Henry Plunket, Pltff.
Confesseth he obtained a decree at Loghrea and final settlement, but never had any lands set out.
Adjudged: he is to be postponed.

363. Valentine Cruice.
Alexander Linch.) He having not summoned the parties till Friday last, the 7th of August, he is put down the last [for hearing on] August 20th."

"Tuesday, 18th August 1663.

No. 414. Arthur Molloy, Pltff. Claims in fee from his father William.
Raly.) William lived in his own castle of Ballybois, and defended himself against the Irish and tendered his castle to Mr Parsons (who was governor of the county), for the English to put soldiers in it, who had no soldiers to spare, but bade him shut up his gate and look to himself. William was assisting to the English to guard their ammunition. This was about three months after Allhallowtide. He lived in his castle about half a year and then went into Connaught, and came not back till after the Cessation. The Burre [Birr in King's County] was about 6 miles from him. His cattle were preyed.
Mary Daly.) Mr Parsons came to William's castle, and William desired to have a commission from the King to keep it, upon which Mr P. desired him to look to it well in the mean time, and that he knew him faithful to the English. He did curse his son that went to the Irish and all those that should assist them, and said that for 300 years they had been faithful to the

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

English; and his son being wounded he would not suffer him to come in his castle nor give him any relief, saying, he had dishonoured him as soon as he went to the Irish, whereupon his son died not long after of his wounds. He relieved the English that were stript, with the clothes from his own back, and the stockings and shoes from his feet, and the Irish took away his horse for having done so. All these good deeds are about the latter end of November 1641. He was 75 years old. The pltff. is but 17 years old now. He went away in May 1642, from his castle into Connaught. He kept two English and one Protestant in his house. He had no stock abroad after the war.

Mr Molloy, a Protestant.) He was often during the first half year in William's castle, and was then a Protestant, and was welcomed by William and protected; and William declared that if his son died he would make one Molloy, a Protestant in Dublin, his heir.

Contrà Querentem.

Discriminations:—

John Robinson.) That all the Molloys, from the greatest to the least, were in rebellion, and the women and children as malicious as the men.

Anthony Stockdales.) William M'Cahir Molloy of Ballyboy, gent., despoiled him of his goods.

Hodson.) Despoiled by the servants and tenants of William M'Cahir of Ballybois.

This is sworn 9th April 1642.

Vicd voce.

Thomas Taylor.) He saw William at the taking of the Burre by General Preston. He lived in the castle of Ballybois. This was the second year of the war. This witness was in a party of English that was beaten back by a party of the Irish, which were said to come out of the castle of Ballibois. He took Ballibois to be of the Irish.

An indictment against William Molloy, found by the jury of their own knowledge in 1643, but no outlawry. (The whole country being in rebellion, the Sheriff could not execute the writ).

Lord Colooney.) Was upon the party that was scattered by the Molloys. The prisoners of the English that were taken were carried to Ballybois, and kept there till they were redeemed by exchange. This was about Christmas, 1641. One of the Molloys, son of William, was wounded there and received by his father into his castle and there died. William, the father, was then at home.

Chidley Coote.) Agreeth with the former concerning the prisoners and the being at home of William; but not of the son's being received into the castle, but into the castle or some houses of the village. It was the Irish quarters. And that Mr Parsons demanded the castle of Ballibois of William Molloy by writing a letter to him, and conveyed in a potato; but William would not give any answer. The woman was kept prisoner awhile.

William Clarke.) The castle Balliboys was fortified. He saw him there in August 1642. He was about 60 years old, or more. He hath seen him at some meeting of the country in 1643. The castle was kept for the Irish, and they had constantly resort to the castle. This was about All-Hallowtide, 1642. He had cattle and corn. He married a sister of Art. Molloy, who was commander-in-chief of three baronies for the Irish. He married her after the war.

Antony Ennes.) Heard of one Westbury hanged a quarter of a mile of Ballybois. He was sent from his son, being wounded, to desire William to take him unto the castle, that his father refused, saying, "where he had "got his wounds there let him look his cure," and that he would not be questioned for his son's fault, and so he died about two miles from thence.

G. Crosby.) Nothing.

Richard Fleming.) Ballyboia was a castle for the Irish, and he was there himself. He saw him lead 30 or 40 soldiers with muskets, pikes, and swords from the castle to the church.

Digitized by Google

615

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

The witness had ammunition out of the castle, and William was then at home. This was in harvest, the second year of the war.
The witness was then of Preston's company.

Pro Querente.

Mary Daly.) Swereth that Captain Chidley Coote was with M^r^ Parsons at the time of his speaking with William Molloy, when he was offered the possession of the castle of Ballybois.

Chas. Conan. Caer Thurlough.) Was present when William offered the castle to Mr. P. It was about three weeks after the rebellion began.

Dan^l^ Raley.) Was present then. He was told then that Col. Chidley Coote was there, but he did not know him.

Col. Chidley Coote.) Acknowledgeth that he was with William soon after the rebellion began in Ulster, with Mr. Parsons; but knows not that there was any discourse about tendering the castle to the English, nor was there any occasion to do so, the rebellion not being then begun nor suspected in Leinster.

John Burke.) He keeps the pltff. out of charity, but hath no interest. William went to Connaught in May 1642, and returned not till 3 years afterwards. This gentleman lived constantly in the house with him. He was aged above 70, and sickly also. He hath seen a letter from Mr. Parsons giving him thanks for his care, and taking notice of his refusing to admit his wounded son into his house.

Thurlough Irish.) He was with him every day during his stay in Connaught, which was three years.
Adjudged Nocent."

"Tuesday, 20th August 1663, Post Meridiem.

461. Hugolin Spenser, Pltff., son of Peregrine Spenser, son of Edmund Spenser, the Poet.
Peregrine, the father, died in 1641.
Richard Conway.) The father lived in the county of Cork in the English quarters. Died at Candlemas, 1641. The claimant was then about 8 years old.
Adjudged the Pltff. Innocent; and Peregrine, the father, Innocent; and Eleanor, his wife, Innocent; and restored.

468. Lanrence Holywood et Uxor.
———.) Saw Laurence upon a horse to meet Sir Charles Coote.
———.) Saw him with the Irish in the Navan. He went with them to Kells. He had an horse and sword. The wife gave Captain Rely two bags of powder the first year of the war.
Mackabe.) Saw the pltff. at the Navan with the Irish near May,—the first May.
He saw him with a Council of Officers.
Katherine, the wife, came with a cow to Colonel Manon, which was killed there. It was then an Irish camp. She entertained Irish soldiers. Once he was there.
Mac Richard.) Saw the pltff. with the Irish at the Navan; afterwards at Kells; and at Trim. He was amongst the Irish when they were beaten.

Pro Querente.

M^r^ Wallis.) Saw Laurence here in April 1642, and frequently during that summer.
Tho^s^ Ball.) Saw him here in 1642. He kept an house here, and paid rent for it till 1645.
M^r^ Ash.) Saw him constantly in Dublin, and saw him, May 1642. He was a merchant. He had an house in Dublin, and thinks he did put it off in 1642.

Adjudged Lawrence, Nocent.
Katharine, Innocent.
Edward Evers, admitted Nocent."

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

The Second Court of Claims. A.D. 1666–1669.

The Court of the Commissioners for executing the Act of Settlement (passed in May 1662), commonly called the First Court of Claims, was altogether consumed in hearing claims of Innocence. The Court of the Commissioners for the execution of the Act of Explanation (17 & 18 Charles II. c. 2., passed in December 1665), commonly called the Second Court of Claims, was almost exclusively employed in hearing the claims of Adventurers and Soldiers. Two years from the day of the first sitting of the Court was allotted to the Commissioners to put the Act in execution, but this time might be enlarged by the Lord Lieutenant, for additional periods not exceeding in the whole another year.[1]

They began their sittings on 4th January 1665–6, and (the time having been enlarged) ended them on 3rd January 1668–9.

The case of Philip Lord Wharton, adventurer for lands in Ireland, exhibits the proceedings of both courts.

In the first he appears in the character of defendant, opposing the claim to innocence of the former proprietor of the lands set out to him by the Commonwealth for his adventure; in the second we find him as a plaintiff claiming his allotted lands.

Philip Lord Wharton was made Commander-in-chief of a private army of 5,000 foot and 500 horse raised by the adventurers in 1642, and destined for the invasion of Munster, and the subduing the Irish, and conquering lands for themselves. On the breaking out of the Rebellion on 23rd October 1641, the King, being absent in Scotland, directed the Parliament to make provision for its suppression. The popular party in Parliament pretended to understand this message as giving the Parliament the entire controul of the war, to the exclusion of the King. They extorted his assent to an Act passed in February 1641–2, commonly called The Adventurers Act, or Act of Subscription, by which a joint stock fund was subscribed for putting down the Rebels of Ireland, the subscribers to be satisfied their "Adventures," or sums adventured, out of Irish rebels' forfeited lands, whenever the Lords and Commons in Parliament assembled (not the King), should declare the rebels to be subdued, and the war appeased and ended.[2]

An army of 5,000 foot and 400 horse was to be raised, officered, and paid by the adventurers, of which Lord Wharton was made Commander-in-chief and Lord General for Ireland. The officers were all named by the adventurers, but were to receive commissions from the King.[3] This army was assembled at Bristol in the month of August 1642, ready to embark for the invasion of Munster, and only waited for their commissions to be signed by the King according to his promise. But they were ordered to march to Edge Hill against the King, and bore their part in that battle on 23rd October 1642 (the first anniversary of the outbreak of the Irish rebellion), and then proceeded to Ireland. Lord Wharton does not seem to have been a subscriber to the adventurers fund. His name is not found in the list of the 1,364 original adventurers.[4] But he may have purchased some of their shares. "Dame "Philadelphia Wharton, Dowager," his mother, appears as a subscriber for 200*l.* Besides he had married Miss Goodwin, sole daughter and heir of Arthur Goodwin, Esq., and seems to have become entitled in her right to the joint adventure of John and Robert Goodwin, Members of the Long Parliament, for 600*l.*

On Lord Wharton's marriage with her, this Adventure was settled on the children of the marriage. In a "Memorandum concerning Lord Wharton's lands in West-"meath, in Ireland," evidently made when Lord Wharton was preparing for the first Court of Claims, there is the following statement, viz.:—

"His Lo'pp hath an estate for life in the said lands, in right of his lady, deceased, the inheritance being in his eldest son, who is motherless and under age."[5]

Doctor Temple appears as a subscriber for 200*l.* His lot and Lord Wharton's both fell to be satisfied in the county of Westmeath. Thus they had a common interest. The following is the division made of the lots of the adventurers in the Barony of Kilkenny West, in the county of Westmeath:—

---

[1] 17 & 18 Chas. II. (A.D. 1665), cap. 2. sec. 160.
[2] 16 & 17 Chas. I. (A.D. 1642), English.
[3] The list of the officers of this army, dated 15th June 1642 (printed), is to be found in vol. cxvii., p. 67.
[4] This List or Roll is given in "The Cromwellian Settlement of Ireland," by John P. Prendergast. Second edition. 8vo. Longmans, London. 1870.
[5] Vol. cxvii. 77.

Digitized by Google

647

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

" The Division of the overplus lands of the 11 lotts formerly set out in the Barony of Kilkenny West, in the county of Westmeath, as admeasured and sett out by me the 22th of March 1656, as followeth :—

Denomination of Lands.	Profitable Lands. A.	R.	P.	Unprofitable Lands. A.	R.	P.
The 1st Lot. Sir Mat. Brand.
Killaney - - - - -	294	2	16	10	3	14
North p[te] of Bryan Moore next to Killaney -	174	1	04	10	0	00
Ardnagragh - - - - -	330	1	10	127	0	00 com. bogg.
Ballinasinagh, p[te] of Ardnagragh - - -	151	2	30	—
On the east by an east & west lyne to Bryan Moore, he is to have - - - -	49	0	20	7	0	00
In all - -	1,000	0	0	154	3	14
The 2d Lott. Lr Fiynes & Henry Pitt.
The remaind[r] of Walterstowne - - -	369	2	16	comonage to boge & lough.
Out of the east part of Kilkenny, by a north & south lyne.	630	1	24	—
In all - -	1,000	0	0	—
The 3d Lott. Dr Temple & Mr Baber.
The west p[te] of Kilkenny - - -	317	2	16	com. to boge & lough.
Out of the south of Waterstowne by an east & west lyne.	309	0	28	boge.
Bunowen - - - - -	279	0	00	55	0	00
The remaining p[te] of Listilleene con[t] - -	94	0	36	—
In all - -	1,000	0	0	—
The 4th Lott. Mr. Woodward.
Annagh - - - - - -	182	2	00	—
Caldragh - - - - - -	70	0	00	—
Ballakerin - - - - -	143	2	00	—
The remaining p[te] of the Waterstowne con[t] -	142	0	28	Whereof 24 is arable, w[ch] in unprofit. shrub, w[ch] is unprofit.
In all - -	567	0	28	106	0	00
The totall found of the said lands in Kilkenny West, is of p'fit - - - -	3,347	0	28	Irish measure.

" Robert Newcomen."

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

" The particulars of the division of 5,452A. 3R. 12P. w^ch is taken out of the overplus lands in the Barony of Moyashall & Magheridarnan to make up the whole in Kilkenny West Barony, 9,000A. as followeth :—

Denomination of Lands.	Profitable Lands. A. R. P.	Unprofitable. A. R. P.	Parish Names wherein they lye.
And first the odd 452A. 3R. 12P. w^ch make up y^e 4^th lott in Kilkenny a 1,000, as followeth :—
Glaskenagh, 2 p^ts -	428 0 00	55 0 00	All in Mullingar parish.
Out of y^e west of Garrestowne, by a north & south lyne.	24 3 12	—
In all - -	452 3 12	—
The 5^th Lott. Mr. George Fyarmer.
1. The first whole 1,000 as being p^te of y^e 5,000 set out in the barony as followeth :—
Rathnamodagh -	661 0 00	—	——
Out of the south of Dizart 3 p^ts by an east & west lyne - -	339 0 00	—	Dizart parish.
In all - -	1,000 0 00	—
The 6^th Lott. Lt. G. Hamond, Mr. Js. Temple, Mr. Jessop, Mr. Hussey.
2. The 2^d 1,000A :
The remaining p^te of Dizart 3 p^ts w^ch con^t -	605 0 00	20 0 00	} Dizart parish.
Ballebrinie Glanloghmone	364 0 00	—
Out of the southerly p^te of Stockestowne next to Dizart by an east & west lyne.	31 0 00	—	In Mullingar parish.
In all - -	1,000 0 00	—
The 7^th Lott. Lord Wharton.
3. The 3^d 1,000 :
*The remainder of Stockstowne.	369 0 00	—
*The remainder of Ledwithtowne, Carlestowne, & Coultetowne lyeing on the north of it.	144 2 27	—
*The remainder of Ballenagh, which lyeth on the south-west of it.	129 0 00	—	} All in Mullingar.
*Stratenstowne, 4 p^t -	146 0 00	—
Out of the southerly p^te of Tuitestowne, by an east & west line.	211 1 13	com. bogg to it.
In all - -	1,000 0 00	—

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Denomination of Lands.	Profitable Lands. A. R. P.	Unprofitable. A. R. P.	Parish Names wherein they lye.
The 8th Lott.—
Ld. Wharton - 444
Mr. Gardiner - 100
Rob. Pren Goodwin - 50
Mr. Jessop - 6
600
4. The 4th 1,000:
Brodanstowne, ½ pt -	110 0 00	20 0 00
Dromlostie, ½ pt -	111 0 00	—
Balleigney, ½ pt -	101 0 00	—
*The remainder of Garretstowne, lying on y^e east of it.	212 0 28	—	All in Mullingar parish.
*The rem^r of Tuitstowne, lying on the north of it.	125 2 27	—
Clynstowne, ½ pt. -	135 0 00	—
Goodstowne, Old Balkiot, ½ pt.	84 0 00	—	In Templeoran parish.
Out of the south p^t of Slanistowne, by an east & west lyne.	121 0 25	—	In Mullingar parish.
In all - -	1,000 0 00	—
The 9th Lott. Robt. Pren Goodwin.
The 5th 1,000:
The north p^t of Slanistowne con^t - -	116 3 15	— bogg.	In Mullingar parish.
Slanen Moore, 1 p^t -	326 0 00	26 0 00	Templemore parish.
Slanen Beg, ½ p^t. -	173 0 00	—	——
Out of y^e west p^te of Malestowne, by a north & south lyne he is to have	384 0 25	bogg. 83 0 00	In Mullingar parish.
In all - -	1,000 0 00	109 0 00

" These are the severall lands with their no^bers of acres sett out in the Barronyes of Kilkenny West & Moyashall, p^t with the county of Westmeath, which in all amounts to 9,000 acres of profitable land besides unprofitable & com. bogg^s.

" As wittnes my hand this 22th day of March 1656.

" Robert Newcomen,
" Survayo^r."[1]

Endorsed.

" The surveigh & division of 9,000 a. of profitable land in the Baronys of Kilkenny " West & Moyashall, p^t in the county of Westmeath, by Mr. Newcomen.
" 22 March 1656."

It will be seen by the foregoing division, that the entire of the seventh lot fell to Lord Wharton's share, containing Stockstown and Tuitstown, and other lands amounting to 1,000 a. plantation measure, all in the parish of Mullingar. He had also part of the eighth lot of 1,000 a., containing the remainder of Tuitstown and other lands, formerly the estate of the Tuite family and Hope family, who gave him considerable trouble in the Court of Claims. Lord Wharton's first troubles, however,

[1] Carte Papers, vol. cxvii., p. 72.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

were concerning the lottery held by the Adventurers at Grocer's Hall, London, on 20th of July 1653,[1] where he urges Dr. Temple to guard their common interests as far as possible. Dr. Temple had informed him that 70,000*l.* adventure money was charged on the county of Westmeath, and there was not more land than would satisfy 40,000*l.*; consequently that he and Lord Wharton might have their lot to seek hereafter in some other county where they might get it, or else have the lot broken in pieces again, and be forced to divide and take the lands severally, which would be very prejudicial to them.[2]

After the Restoration, Lord Wharton's troubles commenced in the first Court of Claims.

The following is the list of lands claimed as his lot for his adventure by Philip Lord Wharton:—

"County of Westmeath. Barony of Moyashel and Magheradernon.

Proprietors' Names in 1641, who forfeited the Lands claimed.	Denominations.	Acres. Profitable.	Acres. Unprofitable.	—
Edward Tuite, Irish Papist.	Part of the town, villages, &c., and profitable lands of Strokestown, being (with the appurt').	369 0 00	—	—
	Part of the town, &c., and profitable lands of Ledwithstown, Carolestown, and Coblestown.	144 2 27	—	John Hope, and his son Rich[d] Hope and the widow Hope, claims Ledwithstown and her jointures; but no part hereof falls within your Lordship's lyne.
John Hope, Ir. Papist.	The town and profitable lands of Ballinagh.	129 0 0	—
Christ[r] Plunkett, Ir. Papist.	The town and profitable lands of Strationstown, being.	146 0 0	—	—
Edw[d] Tuite, & Tho[s] Tnite, Ir. Papists.	The castle, town, and lands of Tuitestown.	336 2 27	—	—
	Part of the profitable lands of Ballyclin, alias Clinstown.	124 2 26	—	—
	Acres, profitable	1,250 0 0	—

Endorsed.

"A particular of the old proprietors of my several lands in Ireland, and by whom "claime now may be made, sent me by Mr. Lucas, 10th April 1664."[3]

[1] "And to the end all Adventurers for Lands in Ireland may have knowledge and take notice "hereof, it is further ordered, that in Grocers Hall, London, upon the 20th day of July next en-"suing, being in the year 1653, by eight of the clock in the morning, this lottery shall begin." Order of His Highness the Lord Protector and the Council of State, dated 1st June 1653, confirmed by the Act of Satisfaction passed 26th September 1653. Scobell's Acts and Ordinances.

[2] Dr. Thos. Temple to [ ] his "Sweet Cosin," to be communicated to Lord Wharton. He subscribes himself, however, "Your affectionate Uncle." Dated Feb. 1653-4. lxxx., p. 466.

[3] ccxxvii. 11 b.

657

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

The widow of John Hope put in a claim to be satisfied her jointure out of the lands of Corstown, and part of Ledwichtown, as an Innocent Papist, and some of the Tuite family claimed as Innocents the lands of Strokestown, the rest of Ledwichtown, and Tuitestown.[1]

Lord Wharton had employed one Mr. Edward Lucas as his counsel in that court: "She is to be tried next week," writes this gentleman, "and I fear will carry it away. "However we are doing what we can against her: she was married till 1646, and there- "fore thinks that being under covert, will excuse her for that time. We can prove "that whilst she was a widow she did entertain willingly and did invite the rebels to "her house and sent them intelligence, but till we see the event, know not whether "that will be sufficient. If we conquer her jointure we can prove enough against "her husband, but our principal witness is old, blind, and lame, and lives 40 Irish "miles hence; and in expectation of his death (for we cannot get a commissioner to "examine him in rei memoriam) they defer the trial. Against Tuite of Tuitestown, "who is your principal proprietor, we can prove that in 1642, he being then high "sheriff of Westmeath, raised the county in opposition to his Majesty's army, and "was killed in a battle by them near Tieroghan."[2]

In April the widow Hope proved her innocency, and claimed her jointure under a deed of settlement bearing date before the rebellion, but alleged by Mr. Lucas in Lord Wharton's behalf to be forged. "Amongst other witnesses," writes Mr. Lucas, "she "produced a priest, but we put it so close to them, that the commissioners (though "indulgent to widows) dismissed her title to the common law. I think we are "thereby safe enough, for (adds Mr. Lucas) that deed that would not pass the Court "of Claims will never pass on a legal trial, especially after a dismiss there as presumed "forged."[3]

The jury however, though all English, found in her favour, "but" (writes Mr. Lucas) "your Lordship will suffer no present loss, for no part of your Lordship's lands "are in the forged deed (for doubtless it is no better though she now have a verdict "on it)." The other lands, however, were limited in remainder to Richard Hope, a minor, son of John Hope, then living, whose brother Richard made the settlement, "both active rebels" (says Mr. Lucas), and if Richard, the minor, might have time to come in as an innocent upon the deed, he would then (so Mr. Lucas informed Lord Wharton) recover part of his Lordship's lands, which in the meantime were untouched. "John Hope is poor, but (added Mr. Lucas) Tuite is gallant and perhaps "may find grace at Court." In the meantime he informs Lord Wharton, that Mr. Adams, who was then only concerned (holding Ledwichtown as an adventurer, for which the widow had a verdict), had sent for a writ of error to null the judgment if he could.[4] At the date of Mr. Lucas's letter (30th April 1664) the first Court of Claims had suspended its sittings. The time for hearing innocents had expired on 21st of August 1663, and the Commissioners declined to proceed on the claims of the various other classes provided for by the Act of Settlement, because of the difficulties and injustices to follow from such a course.[5] But no one at this time contemplated the excluding innocents (as was done by the Act of Explanation in 1666), and all were in expectation of the re-opening of the Court under some new Bill, and the proceeding with the claims of the innocents still unheard. In that event it was expected that Richard Hope, the minor, and the Tuites would put in claims to innocence, and against their claims Lord Wharton proceeded to collect evidence.

Some friend of Lord Wharton in Dublin informed Mr. Robert Kennedy, Chief Remembrancer of the Court of Exchequer in Ireland, of Lord Wharton's need; and he could not have had recourse to a better person; for John Hope had been Robert Kennedy's servant (probably assistant to him in the Court of Exchequer in the duties of his office), and in the time of the Rebellion had obtained his master's office of Chief Remembrancer from the Confederate Government, in those parts where the jurisdiction of the Confederates extended.

Mr. Kennedy was father of Sir Richard Keunedy, of Mount Keunedy, in the county of Wicklow, made second Baron of the Exchequer in 1661. Sir Richard was in London in 1664, and his father, who apparently bore a keen resentment against John

[1] See the List of Lands, with the Proprietors, in 1641, claimed by Lord Wharton, at p. 162.
[2] Edward Lucas to Lord Wharton. Dated Dublin, 4th March 1662-3. Addressed "These for "the Rt. Honble. Philip Lord Wharton at his House near St. Gile' Church in the Fields, "London." cxvii., p. 81.
[3] Same to same. Date: 15th April 1663. cxvii., p. 88.
[4] Edward Lucas to Phil :Lord Wharton. Dated 30th April 1664. cxvii., 79 r.
[5] "Reasons presented in writing to the Lord Lieutenant by H.M.'s Commissioners why they "conceived it not fit for them to proceed in the execution of the Act of Settlement after the "21st of August last, until the obstructions they mention should be removed by a new Act." Collections relating to the Act of Settlement. Vol. III. Record Tower, Dublin Castle.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Hope for having usurped his office during the Rebellion, and was perhaps desirous besides to serve so powerful a person as Lord Wharton, wrote to his son, with proofs of John Hope's delinquency, to be communicated by him to Lord Wharton. Accompanying his letter, he also forwarded proofs from the Discrimination Office (or Black Books) to be used as evidence against John Hope's claim and those of the Tuites.

The following is Mr. Robert Kennedy's letter to Sir Richard Kennedy:—

"Son Richard, "Dublin, Jan. 20, 1664.

"Upon the request of a friend here I was desired to signify to you my knowledge of John Hope, who before the Rebellion here was my servant; that in case the Lord Wharton (who has a considerable Adventure in Westmeath upon the said Hope's estate amongst others) should send to you to be informed concerning him, you should do it in as full a manner as may be, because he [Hope] expects to get in upon the Bill for a Nominee to be restored; for I am sure he could never come in upon account of Innocency, having had almost all the employments among the Rebells he was capable of, besides the several criminal acts he stands upon record for.

"He had my office of Chief Remembrancer among them; was Secretary to their Council; a captain of foot; besides several other things; and was indicted at the very beginning for a Rebell upon the Jury's own knowledge.

"You did not know much of him, as well I did, and what a false fellow he was ever taken to be both before and since.

"Therefore pray inform my Lord what concerns him that such a man may not pass undiscovered.

"Your Father,

"For Sir Richard Kennedy, "Robert Kennedy."

"These."[1]

[Proofs from the Discrimination Office of the Nocency of John Hope and Richard Hope.]

"Philip Lord Wharton is in possession of the following lands claimed by the persons following:—

"John and Richard Hope (y^e^ son of John), who claims in remainder as from his uncle Richard Hope, the brother of the said John, who died without issue male of his body and guilty of the rebellion of Ireland; both Richard the elder and John the father of Richard the younger were guilty of the Rebellion.

"Richard Hope the elder and John Hope his brother, father to Richard the younger, are thus discriminated; viz.:—

"1. They were indicted (the first year of Rebellion) on the jury's own knowledge, and had been outlawed thereupon but that the Sheriff was an Irishman and out too in action, as may be found on record with Mr. Savage in the King's Bench Office.

"2. They were Commissioners for the Irish Army in the county of Westmeath. Vide the bundle of new papers in the Discriminatory Office in Mr. Ralph Turner's deposition taken before the Earl of Roscommon. Liber D, page 8, and Liber L, p. 1472.

"3. John Hope (yet living) was a captain of foote for the Rebels, and kept a garrison at Ledwidgetown in Westmeath, being his brother's house, and so upon other parts of the land, as Ballinah, some of the Lord Wharton's lot. That he was a captain is proved by several depositions; by Henry White, a priest, vide y^e^ bundle of new Depositions in the Discriminations; John Wilde, Liber R, p. 341; and that he robbed the last person named, &c.

"4. The said John Hope was Controuler of Westmeath. Vide Lib. M; and a Member of the Confederate Assembly at Kilkenny. Vide file of Indentures (74 and 37).

"5. The said John Hope was Chief Remembrancer at Kilkenny, their chief place. Liber I, page 474; and Secretary to their Council there, with many other offices. Liber F, fol. 925; Liber R (741).

"6. The said John Hope was with his company at the burning of Judge Donn lan's and Dr. Donelan's houses at Killucan in Westmeath in the first year of the Rebellion. Liber R (791).

"7. Both the said John Hope and Richard the elder signed the Confederate Association of Kilkenny, which appears upon record in the Discriminator's Office, with many other things less material, though actual rebellion.

"William Tuite, of Tuitestown, esq., claims another part of the said Lord Wharton's lot, as for his father Edward Tuite, of Tuitestown.

[1] cxvii. 78.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"1. He was High Sheriff of the county of Westmeath the first year of the Rebellion amongst the Irish.

"2. He was at the fight of Cloncurry in the county of Kildare when the Duke of Albimarl fought with General Preston there, and was slain by General Monk's party in Preston's service, and carried dead to Tierroghan, an Irish garrison. ☞ No doubt but the Duke of Albimarl may remember it himself.

"John Hope and Richard Hope claim the lands following, all in the Lord Wharton's lot; viz.: Ballinah, Old Town, part of Kealstown, and part of Curstown, which are as is conceived five or six hundred acres of the said Lord Wharton's lot."[1]

But all this evidence proved unnecessary. By the Act of Explanation, passed 23rd December 1665, no person who had not been adjudged Innocent in the first Court of Claims by the Commissioners of the Act of Settlement, was at any time afterwards to be reputed Innocent, or to be admitted to the benefit of any future adjudication of Innocence, but all were to be for ever barred of their claims.[2] Consequently Lord Wharton was now freed from all trouble on the part of the Hopes or the Tuites: the door was shut on their claims to Innocence. But other troubles rose for him in the new Court of Claims established for carrying into execution the Act of Explanation.

The scope of this Act was, after shutting out the Innocent Papists, to provide a fund of land for the many deficient Adventurers. This was to be effected by all Adventurers cutting off or "retrenching" one third of their claims. It was thought the more reasonable as the first Act of Subscription in 1642, the only one passed while the King attended Parliament, provided for the Adventurers in English measure, and they had received Irish. Lord Wharton was already in possession of his allotment, and was required to retrench 716 acres, being considerably more than one third. For on a re-survey of his lot by Doctor Petty, it was found that the surveyors employed by the Adventurers had put him into possession of 300 acres more than his fair share, by giving him as unprofitable (and therefore not to be counted) lands profitable. And then after taking off 300 acres as over his share by re-survey, Lord Wharton had to retrench 416 acres as one third of the remainder. But there were schemes for preserving possession of the overplus. Lord Wharton instructed his lawyer, Mr. Cressett, and he not so familiar with Irish practice consulted an Irish lawyer, versed in Adventurers' and Soldiers' law, and here is his advice:—

"The Case.

"My L^d^ is possest of more lands than will be allowed him by y^e^ rules of y^e^ late Act for settling Ireland. So that part of what he now hath which is more than his share will be taken from him. This part is (in y^e^ letter) called a Redundancy. Some Adventurers are not possest of any land (in satisfaction of their adventure money), or not so much as y^e^ late Act designs for them. These are called Deficient Adventurers. And the Adventurers money yet unsatisfied is called a Deficiency.

"Now if y^e^ title to such Deficiency comes unto him who hath a Redundancy he may have preference to purchase his own Overplus or Redundancy with such Deficiency. And then no part of what he is now possest of can be taken from him.

"Whether it be advisable to purchase a Deficiency?

"This is to be resolved by considering whether the Redundancy (which is to be purchased) be worth more than the Deficiency will cost."[3]

This was the opinion referred to in the following letter of Mr. Cressett to Lord Wharton:—

"Right Honourable, "Chinkford Hall, Essex, Aug^t^ 3^d^ 1666.

"I received your Lordship's letter, and with it a portion of a letter from Ireland, to which the enclosed paper is an answer. I immediately went to Sir Anthony Morgan, who is a lawyer and Parliament man in Ireland, and now employed here in the management of all the Adventurer's concerns here in England. He was best able to resolve the questions proposed. I gave him 20s. for his fee. I had spoken with Mr. Tibbs, who is a very sober, honest man, and he doth know of some Deficiencies that are to be sold, and will do all in the favour he can to bring him that sells any to sell at a reasonable rate. Sir Anthony Morgan's opinion is (and really it is mine) that if you have a Redundancy of land which by this late Act you must part with, then you had better buy a Deficiency and apply it to your own land, and keep it all in your own hands, rather than suffer your lands to be divided, and (it may be) the best to be taken from you. In this or any other your Lordship's affairs I shall be glad to receive your commands, and shall observe them and gladly approve myself

"Your Lordship's, &c.,

"John Cressett.

[1] cexxviii., p. 11 g. [2] 17 & 18 Chas. II., chap. 2. sec. 3. [3] cexxviii., 4to, p. 8.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"[P.S.]—I forgot to write this morning at London, where I shall be again on Monday.

"A Deficiency in Leinster will cost 600*l.* for 1,000 A. In Munster you may buy for 450*l.*; but a Deficiency in Munster will not be allowed on a purchase in Leinster."[1]

Lord Wharton's attorney in Dublin, Major Bull, was now employed to look out for a Deficiency to purchase. On 4th July 1666 he writes to Lord Wharton from Dublin, "May it please your Lordship, your clayme is in the publique Lyst of Hearing to be "heard on Monday;" and he informs him that he had not yet purchased Deficiencies to place on his Lordship's thirds and overplus lands to be retrencht, but hoped to get longer time from the Commissioners of the Court of Claims for the doing of it. He had been on several conclusions for Deficient Adventures, but they had been such as had passed through several hands; and he had found the proving of the several assignments impossible without bringing witnesses on purpose from England. And thus he had hitherto been able to effect no bargain.[2]

The following letter details the progress of Mr. Bull's search for a Deficiency:—

'My Lord, "July 14, 1666.

"I have not yet agreed for a Deficiency. Mr. Samuel Byfield (who may be heard of at his brother Wiekins, att y^e^ 3 Horse Shoes, in Gratious Street, London), hath a Deficient Adventure to sell, if your Lordship can agree with him, for 10 shillings in the pound, and binde him to secure you from all that may claime or pretend any title or interest in it, or to any part of it. I wish you [may give] 450*l.* for it; but it fell to be satisfied in the Province of Munster, and your lands lie in y^e^ Province of Leinster, so that perhaps the Commissioners may scruple y^e^ placing it on your Lordship's Redundancy; and if your Lordship get y^e^ Solicitor General Sir Heneage Finche's letter to his brother, Sir Edward Deering,[3] it may effect your Lordship's desires. If your Lordship agree with Mr. Byfield your bargain must be cautiously made, for that the Adventure Mr. Byfield hath is part of a Joint Adventure of about 20 persons, and those who have not conveyed to him may, perhaps, come in hereafter for part of y^e^ satisfaction that may be obtained under Mr. Byfield's title. Mr. Tibs, y^e^ scrivener, in Paternoster Row, can inform your Lordship of other Deficiencies in the Province of Leinster.

"In greatest hast, I remaine

"Your Lordship's, &c.,

"Sam. Bull."[4]

He adds by way of postscript:—

"The reason why your Lordship is redundant 700 A. in the county of Westmeath, and yet claim but 1,250 A. there, and are by the Act to retrench but one third thereof,—I say the reason thereof is, that the survey by which your Lordship's lot was set forth made it no more than 1,250 A.; but Doctor Pettie's survey, commonly called The Down Survey (made the standard by the Acts) maketh the land in your Lordship's possession in Westmeath to be 1,550 A. Your Lordship must cast off for your lands in Westmeath, first, 300 A. as overplus, and then 416 A. for the third part."[5]

Mr. Bull's next care in Lord Wharton's behalf was to provide for the best parts of the lands to retrench, in case Lord Wharton should be driven to part with any; and the best, in this view, were of course the worst.

Unskilled himself, Mr. Bull applied to his client, Mr. Adams, the Adventurer already mentioned, in possession of Ledwichtown, the widow Hope's jointure lands, contiguous to Lord Wharton's.

"I received yours of the 23d instant (writes Mr. Adams to Mr. Bull), wherein you "desire an account of the quality of my Lord Wharton's lot, distinguishing the "parcels, which I shall do as faithfully as I can (and I know the lands pretty well), "but I dare not pretend skill in things of that nature." After some apologies for going so rudely out of town ere he kissed Mr. Bull's hand, without any expression of gratitude for his unparallelled care and scuse of his affairs in the Court of Claims, he proceeds to his promised report:—"The several parcels of Lord Wharton's lot (he "continues) are Tuitestown, Stockstowne, Ballinan, Corstowne, and Glinstown. Of "all the whole lot Tuitestown is the best. If I were to purchase (for my own share) "I would give an hundred pound more for it than for so many acres as it is in any [1] ccxxviii., 9. [2] ccxxviii., 10.

---

[3] Sir Edward Deering, one of the Commissioners of the Court of Claims.
[4] ccxxviii., 11. [5] ccxxviii., 13 E.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"other part of the lot, be it where it will; so that if it be for retrenching, you need "not much care to cut off any of the rest, that being secured. But, as I remember, "the Act saith it must be contiguous, and then the worst of the lot, as I consider, is "Glinstown, Ballinas, & Corstowne, which be contiguous, and then Stockstowne "lies next to Ballinas, a good part of which, viz., that next to Ballinas, must be off "too to make up your third, considering the over-measure which is made by Down "Survey; so that I think your third will near reach 700 A., if not full so much.

"Your very humble servant,

"Mullingar, Feb. 27, 1666–7."[1] "Jo. Adams."[2]

This, as it turned out, was very necessary; for although Lord Wharton purchased Mr. Byfield's Deficiency, hoping to cover and thus retain the 716 acres found Redundant in his Westmeath lot, the Commissioners of the Court of Claims allowed Lord Wharton to apply it to the 300 acres overplus by survey, but left him to retrench the one-third, or 416 acres, taken off by the Act of Explanation, as appears by the following letter:—

"May it please your Lordship," (writes Mr. Bull), "notwithstanding the progress formerly made, and the Commissioners' reference to Mr. Taylor in order to the placing of those Deficiencies purchased of Mr. Byfield on your Lordship's Redundancy, yet when I came to have Mr. Taylor's report (on the motion of Mr. John Temple) confirmed, the Commissioners would not permit your Lordship to place any more of the said Deficiencies than what will fill up the overplus admeasurement, that is to say, the difference between Doctor Pettie's and Captain Newcomen's surveys."[3]

The Commissioners of the Court of Claims now made their decree or certificate, on which a Patent was finally passed to Lord Wharton for his lands thus diminished by retrenchment.[4]

The following letter of Mr. Bull's, complaining of the Commissioners' decision, which he calls "their pitiful dealing," and "Irish tricks or Court knacks," closes the correspondence:—

"May it please your Lordship," "Dublin, March 3d, 1667–8.

"Your Lordship's letter of the 8th and 11th of February arrived here together last week. I doubt not but that long before this tyme Mr. Myles Cooke hath waited on you (by whom I wrote to your Lordship), and hath acquainted you with the reasons of the Commissioners' delay in satisfying your Lordship's Deficiency, though in truth they might have done it formerly; and they delt, in my opinion, but very pittyfully with your Lordship in putting you to so great expense and trouble in placing a good Deficient Adventure on your Lordship's own Retrenchment or Redundancy. I honour them for what they have done as Englishmen honourably and handsomly; but these Irish tricks or Court knacks, they do not become men of their character.

---

[1] Addressed "To Major Samuel Bull, at his chamber in the King's Inn, Dublin." cxvii. 81.

[2] Mr. Adams would seem to have been a settler at Virginia, in the county of Cavan, before the Rebellion, for in the same letter he refers to some claim pending before the Commissioners of Claims about lands there which he was jointly interested in with a number of poor planters. They were all driven out in 1641 by the Irish. The lands must have been usurped by the Cromwellians, and let out to the soldiers or Adventurers. Mr. Adams's reference to a map made of the lands before 1641 is curious. Sir Nicholas Plunket was agent for the Irish Catholics in 1666.

"Sr,

"I humbly crave one favour from you, & that is about my certificate for the poore inhabitants of Virginia, which now lies in Sir Edward Deering's hands on account of some opposition given by S^r Nich^s Plunket, who w^d seem to give us something just like nothing. We desire no more than the poor pittifull interests we had the 23^d Oct^r 1641, according to the Order of Councell [Court?] at hearing. Nothing in the world can better ascertain our interests than the very map it was, particularly before the Rebellion, laid out [by] to every freeholder, which the Sub-Commissioners drew their report by. The map is now with Mr. Lombard, Mr. Osborne's clerk, if there be any occasion to use it; as also the very commission is with him empowering such persons to lay it out according, which being done that map was made of the same. The commission is copied out in paper sheets. Pray let me entreat your assistance in getting the certificate completed for these poor people, which is charity, they having been so long out of it. In case it be necessary (pray let me know) that I may come to Dublin myself about it, though I conceive your interest improved that way, will be much more than mine can be."

[3] cexxviii. 13 g.

[4] The abstract of Lord Wharton's Patent will be found in 15th Annual Report of the Record Commissioners of Ireland, A.D. 1823, "Abstract of Grants under the Acts of Settlement and "Explanation," vol. iii. p. 213. Folio.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"The enclosed Constat sheweth your Lordship what lands of your's were retrenched, all which lands were granted to Mrs. King in Custodiam in June last, so that no profit thereof are lost from your Lordship ever since May last." [1]

THE DUKE OF YORK IN THE SECOND COURT OF CLAIMS.

A.D. 1666–1669.

By the Act for the Settlement of Ireland, passed in the year 1662, the estates of Cromwell, Ireton, Jones, Axtell, and all other regicides, in Ireland, were given to the Duke of York. (14 & 15 Chas. II. chap. 2. sec. 188.) These lands were for the most part the estates of those Irish officers and gentlemen who, with 40,000 of their countrymen, were transported by the Commonwealth Government to Spain for the service of that King, then in amity with the Commonwealth. No sooner, however, did Cardinal Mazarin espouse the cause of Charles II., than at his Majesty's orders they came over to join the King of France's forces, still continuing to bear the King's English ensigns, and acknowledging him as their liege Lord. It was this conduct that made the King say of them in his Declaration for the Settlement of Ireland of the 30th November 1660, that "he must always remember the great affection they "shewed him during the time of his being beyond the seas, when with all cheerfulness "they obeyed his orders, and betook themselves to that service which he directed as "most convenient and behoofeful to him at that time, though attended with inconvenience enough to themselves, and he promised them for this their demeanour, his "protection, justice, and favour." (Clause iv. of the King's Declaration embodied in 14 & 15 Car. II. c. 2.)

But the Cromwellians, according to their policy of buying up all powerful persons and giving them an interest in the Act of Settlement, which inflicted so much injury on the King's Irish friends, by that Act gave the Regicides' lands to the Duke of York.

"And lest he should be awakened with the outcries of his unfortunate fellow "soldiers & sufferers (for he commanded a regiment of them), they gave him all "the lands given to the Regicides as a reward for their iniquity. And by this con"trivance lopped off the hand of H.R.H. from giving them assistance, which they "might very well have hoped would be their sword & buckler too. And he gave "not one foot of it to the old proprietors, though several concluded that he purposely "got it to relieve those distressed soldiers that served under him in the Low Coun"tries."[2] So far from giving back any, he insisted on being reprised out of others of his poor fellow-soldiers' lands for any lands of the Regicides he lost by the King's pardon of their forfeiture. Thus the King having given Mr. Wallop's estate (though Mr. Wallop himself was kept prisoner for life in the Tower) to the Earl of Southampton, and two other trustees, in trust for the benefit of Mr. Wallop's wife and children, Mr. Wallop having married Lady Anne Wriothesly, the Earl's sister,[3] the Duke claimed, in reprisal for the loss of these 10,000 acres in Wexford, lands in the counties of Dublin and Louth. The Duke of Ormonde, Lord Lieutenant, in a letter to the Earl of Clarendon, Lord Chancellor (11th October 1662), urges him to move His Royal Highness to have compassion on these poor officers. He says, "It falls out that under countenance of the Duke of York's grant, many persons "that I am sure he would restore to their own, or at least make his tenants, "if he knew their case, will be absolutely ruined and their families. It is true, "if the grant were not the Duke's, it might so fare with them. But I should "think that those that fell into his hands should be in better case than those that "have to do with the most hard-hearted adventurer or soldier, especially if they "suffer by the severity of the Act, or only for want of reprizals; and it may be "worthy of your relation to him, and concernment in the prosperity of his posterity, "to propose some moderation in such cases." Instead of doing so, the Duke employed, through Dr. Gorges (a kinsman of the Earl of Clarendon), the manager of his Irish affairs, the most unscrupulous agents, chief of whom were Sir Jerome Alexander, second Justice of the Common Pleas in Ireland, and Captain Robert Thornhill.

[1] Addressed "To the Right Honourable Philip Lord Wharton, at his house in St. Giles's in "the Fields—These." cexxviii. 13 c.

[2] "Plunket's History." Carte Papers, vol. lxiv., p. 180–216.

[3] "Calendar of Domestic State Papers," Chas. II., 1660–1662, p. 70, and ibid. p. 94, and Act of Settlement, 19 & 14 Car. II. chap. 2. sec. 185.

[4] cxliii., 14.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Of these men, Lord Ormonde writes to Mr. Matthew Wren, the Duke's secretary, in a letter dated Dublin, 24th December 1668, as follows:—

"The truth is (and I am to ask the Duke pardon for not having said it sooner) the Doctor [Gorges] has all along managed H.R.H.'s concernments in this kingdom by the worst under-instruments he could well light on. And to be plain, I mean by advisers, Judge Alexander and Mr. Shapcott, and by under-instruments one Thornhill, Townly, Dunbavin, and others; fellows of notorious infamy even amongst those who had been of their own party; by whose means multitudes of all sorts of persons have been put to extraordinary vexation and charge without the least advantage or profit to the Duke, and with as much reflexion on his honour as it could receive by the abuse of his name against the known nobleness of his nature."[1]

Sir Jerome Alexander would seem to have been a most unamiable man. He left his estate to his daughter and heiress, but made the gift void if she married any Irishman, whether Archbishop, Bishop, or Temporal Peer, or any man born or bred there, or having his means of livelihood there.[2] He was an importunate suitor in his own behalf, and "a man full of custodiams and riches."[3] Upon occasion of his being sent to try some Tories, the Duke of Ormonde said of him that Sir Jerome had a special commission to try them and a very special inclination to hang them.[4] The Bishop of Derry says of him (22nd August 1662) that his coming Judge of that circuit twice running (for which great favour the Bishop felt especially bound to the Earl of Orrery) had struck such an awe among the Bishop's non-conforming Scots, that if they did not love him (Sir Jerome) and the Government, they began to fear both. The Bishop hopes that Ormonde will continue him once or twice more on that circuit.[5] He found, however, that it was but a fit and qualm of loyalty and conformity that took the Presbyterians once in half a year against Judge Alexander's approach, and as soon as he was gone they were as they were, if not worse.[6] A special instance of his malignity was the refusing the Ordinary's certificate in Court in favour of a convict for felony, of "Legit." This return was called the Benefit of Clergy, and saved a criminal from death for his first offence. But Sir Jerome tried the culprit with a Psalm instead of the Lord's Prayer, and because he could not read it, though he had learned some lines of the Lord's Prayer, he sentenced him to be hanged.[7]

Sir Jerome had been one of the most active of the Adventurers Committee in England in the beginning of the Rebellion.

Of the hardships thus caused by the Duke of York's agents, we may judge from the petition of a poor transplanted gentleman of the county Cork, who, driven from the pittance he had received as a Transplanter in Clare by the greed of the Duke of York's agents, sought shelter under the Duke of Ormonde in Kerry. The petition is addressed evidently to some one having influence with the Duke of Ormonde, and was probably enclosed in a letter now lost, so that the name of the petitioner is not disclosed. Its date was probably between the years 1666 and 1669. The petition was as follows:—

"1. You are to observe that for the most parte all my Lord Duke of Ormonde's estate in Kerry is sett to great and rich men abounding in plentifull estates and vaste territories of their own, besides offices and beneficial employments from the State.

"2. That other poor men, that is to say, the miserable natives of this country, who seek shelter under his Grace's wings in that county, are such as have through the permission of God, for their sins questionless, lost both estates and all temporal comforts, and are through their proper necessities inforced into that dungeon of this nation, all the best parts thereof being taken up and possest by the richest and ablest sort of people, and they unable to tenant any part thereof through disability, but expecting cheaper bargains in that remote barren country than in the fertile & fruitful places.

---

[1] xlix., 302.
[2] "The Cromwellian Settlement of Ireland." 2nd edition, p. 226.
[3] Cornet Edmund Nangle, Petitioner, against Sir Jerome Alexander, Respondent. 27 Feb. 1663-4. lvii., 246.
[4] Duke of Ormonde to Earl of Orrery. January 1665-6. xlvii., p. 52.
[5] George Bishop of Derry to the Duke of Ormonde. Derry, 22 August 1662. xlv., p. 68.
[6] Same to same. 24 Oct. 1662. Ibid., p. 76.
[7] Petition of Turlough Estee, Humbly sheweth that being accused of stealing a cow was, on his trial at Trim before Judge Alexander, found guilty, whereupon petitioner craved the benefit of Clergy, and being put to read the Lord's Prayer, did pronounce so much thereof as caused the Ordinary then attending the Court to express "Legit." Nevertheless the said Judge turned a Psalm to your petitioner, which, because he could not read, sentence of Death was given against him to be executed on Wednesday next." He prays Ormonde for the King's pardon. 12th Feb. 1665-6. clix., 19.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"3d. That though those poor pretenders to his Grace's protection are persons marked with the disfavour of the times (I pray God they be not of Heaven's), yett are they not fishes who can dive into the sea, or fowl that can inhabitt the ayre, but men who as long as they are permitted to live must do so upon some part of the habitable earth. And certainly had you known my Lord of Ormonde's share of that country, you would judge them hard-hearted souls that would grudge their fellow Christians a living in so sad and disconsolate a country. But 'much will have 'more.'

"4th. That among many unfortunate fellows I am one of this last sort of men, who never having sought anything of a transplanted interest in Cromwell's time, and therefore had none, yet was I transplanted, and with much ado got a barren mountain in Thomond which I was forced to inhabitt by some poor men of my own friends out of the county of Cork till we reduced it to some habitable condition, whereon we lived a poor contented life till by his Highness the Duke of York I was turned out of it last summer and my farm conferred before my face upon one that was of Cromwell's ministers.

"5th. That none of these powerful persons that tenant my Lord of Ormonde's estate live upon it, either themselves or their stocks, but sett it to others to make benefit thereof to increase their wealth.

"6th. From these premises I ask you the question, What shall become of me & many others in my condition if no man must inhabit the earth but rich men? You will perhaps answer me 'Habenti dabitur, et ab eo qui non habet auferetur quod 'habet.'

"7th. To conclude, I am told by some of my Lord's Commissioners and servants that if I have not speedily an order from my Lord, expressly charging his Commissioners to give me a lease of some certain and particular lands by name, all general orders and letters will do me no good. Therefore that which I shall seriously pray you to do, is to procure me an order from his Grace to his Commissioners to sett me the inclosed lands at May next or when they are setting it for the next year, as they have been sett the last year or as they use to sett them; and if his Grace shall think the farm too large, I can assure you that I know three ploughlands that have more profitable lands upon them than all those as I understand them to be; and that his Grace setts larger farms to rich men there than all these denominations come to; to inhabit which I have a great many poor fellows that through necessity are turned ploughmen and herdsmen." (lxx. 200.)

The following Abstract of Regicides' Lands shows the claims set up by the Duke of York for reprizals:—

"AN ABSTRACT of the REGISIDES' NAMES & the NUMBER of ACRES of their LANDS within the severall Countys of Ireland clamed by Robert Gorges in behalf of his Royall Highness, & controverted.

Regicides' Names.	Number of Acres allowed.	Number of Acres controverted.	A particular of some Reasons why the said Lands should bee allowed to his Royal Highness.
	County of Dublin.
Edmund Ludlow -	5,000 0 0	2,942 0 0	Edmund Ludlow was assigne to Owen Row by severall orders of titular parliament in 1648 (both Regicids), was to bee satisfied, £5,963. 17. 6. in lands at the rates the adventurers were satisfied in Ireland for so much money, & by the said orders there was due to him £3,062 17s. 6d., which at the act rates [given] 8,846 acr. & the Commissioners as yet have allowed only 5,469. 3. 11 a., so there rests due to his Royall Highness 2,941 acr.
John Jones - - -	3,000 0 0	2,193 0 0	John Jones by a grant of the late usurpers was possest of 5,000 acr. by a survey taken by himself on the common estemate, but the severall townes & lands which he was possest of contained by the Down survey 5,193 a., & out of the lands the said Jones was possest the Commissioners have decreed or restored to Innocent Papists 2,193 acr., of the which the Regicids was possest, & by the Commissioners decreed away. His Royall Highness ought to be reprised yet 2,193 acr.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers : Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Regicides' Names.	Number of Acres allowed.	Number of Acres controverted.	A particular of some Reasons why the said Lands should bee allowed to his Royall Highness.
County of Dublin—continued.
John Hewson Miles Corbet	6,440 0 0	726 0 0	It appears that Miles Corbet was possest by grant or gift or some other means of Mallohide, &c. 726 a. for severall yeares before his Majestie's Restoration, & laid out in buildings & improvements thereupon above £1,500, & being possest his Royall Highnesse ought to bee reprised by worth, value, or purchase.
Sr Hardress Waller		396 0 0	Sr Hardress Waller was possest of the foresaid lands by grant or guift or some other estate for many years before his Majesties Restorsation, & laid out in building & improvement above £500, & being possest by a Regicide his Royall Highnesse ought to be reprised in worth, value, & purchase.
County of Meth.
Daniell Axtell Edward Dendy Cornelius Holland Gilbert Millington Miles Corbet	3,712 0 0 2,076 0 0 1,611 0 0 3,750 0 0 1,350 0 0	1,376 0 0 1,000 0 0	It appeares by the originall bookes of the subscriptions & payments at Grocers' Hall, London, & coppies of the 5 scales returned into Ireland, that Miles Corbet subscribed & paid £350, which money being by him doubled, their was then due unto him 1,000 acr., but in that there was one Robert Moulsworth, esquire, his assigne in the subscription booke, the same is controverted, but the 5 scales being in Corbet's name, & the subscription & payment maid by him, his Royall Highness ought to have it allowed.
Edward Harvey Oliver Cromwell	444 0 0	5,235 0 0	Theis numbers of acres was set forth for part of Oliver Cromwell's own acres in the county of Meth, & by the Act of Parliament, they are confirmed to John Russell, of Chipnam, & to Dr. Jonathan Goddard, this being the Regicide estate & decreed away by the Commissioners uppon the proviso aforesaid, & therefore his Royall Highnesse ought to bee reprised by page the 111th of the first account.
John Lyle Isack Pennington by Daniel Waller.	1,000 0 0 500 0 0
John Temple John Allured Valentine Vallen, assigne to John Locke.	333 1 13 333 0 0 500 0 0
Limbricke County.
Sr Hardress Waller John Barrot, assigned to Isack Pennington.	2,319 0 0 333 1 30
Giles Harding, assigne to yr sd Pennington.	355 3 20
Tho: Andrews	40 0 0		Thomas Andrews by Stephen Estwicke, his assine, subscribes & payes 750 & doubles it, & by the coppie of the 5 scales lands was to have been sett out in Limbricke to the number of 3,000 acres, the Commissioners allow only 1,500 a., being the principle money, because it fell deficient, or that his Royall Highness agents as yet could not find the verry land sett out, it being promiscuous with others, but inasmuch as the money was subscribed & paid in the county sufficient of forfeit lands his Royall Highness ought to be reprised.
Thomas Andrews, Stephen Estwich, his assigne, undistinguished.	1,500 0 0	1,500 0 0
County of Cork.
John Hewson John Cooke Herkhius Hackey	851 0 0 804 2 20 7,117 0 0

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Regicides' Names.	Number of Acres allowed.	Number of Acres controverted.	A particular of some Reasons why the said Lands should bee allowed to his Royall Highness.
	County Waxford.
Edmund Ludlow - -	1,477 0 0	- - -
Henry Wallope - -	- - -	10,000 0 0	Henry Wallope, by estemate, had in this county 10,000, & by the Act of Parliament, page the 94th in the first Act, & confirmed in the second page of the 46th & 47th, the said estate is settled on the Earle of Southampton & others, but being Regicides lands, & by the Act otherwise disposed of, his Royall Highness ought to bee reprized as in page the 43d & 44th of 7th Explanatory Act.
Idem - - - - -	- - -	- - -	The said Wallope was allso possest of the tythes of severall parishes in the town & county of Waxford & worth by estemate £500 per ann.; the tythes are likewise by the Act setled uppon the Earle & others, & being the estate of the 8th Regicide, his Royall Highness ought to bee reprised.
			The reason why this is set in number of acres 10,000 is because at 4 yeares purchase of lands, being the usual rates land is sould at, £2,000 purchase the 10,000 acres.
	County of Kilkenny.
Daniel Axtell - -	3,945 0 0	2,074 0 0	This 2,074 a. not allowed by the Commissioners uppon hearing his Royall Highness claime was proved to bee in the possession of Axtell for severall yeares before his Majties Restauration, & that he received the issues & profits, & afterward several soldiers laid claime to the said lands, & the Commissioners gave them land away in allowing the thirds lost without ever making his Royall Highness party or giving notice to his agents they were lands decreed to Innocents or Provisomen restaured by graunt, & inasmuch as the Regicide was possest & the land decreed away by the Act from him, his Royall Highness ought to bee reprised.
Henry Ireton - -	6,669 0 0	2,317 0 0	There was due unto Henry Ireton for his parsonall arrears £6,669, which, as the Act rates at £800 for each 1,000 a., should produce 8,308 acr.; that it cannot at present bee found out that he was satisfied any more than 6,669 a., so there remains justly due to his Royall Highnesse from the debt 2,317 acr.
Henry Ireton - -	- - -	1,076 0 0	This 1,076 a. of lands was purchased by Colloneli Jerom Sancky, with the rents of the lands set out for Ireton's arrrares, & for his discoverie his Royall Highnesse was pleased to forgive the sd Sancky the remainder of rent due & a debt of £200 by bond due to John Cooke, a Regicid.
			But because it is lands purchased since Ireton's death, the Commissioners controverted that it ought to bee decreed. His Royall Highness is offerred first from the Act of Attainder & indemnity all estate, reall & personall of the Regicides, or any in trust for them or to their use, or their heires, executors, or assignes of them or any of them, or to their use, are vested in his Majestie from the 25th of March 1648 or any time since, & by letter pattents of his Majestie dated the 6th of September in the 13th Caroli Secundi, at the nomination of his Royall Highnesse, are granted unto the Lord Barkley & others with a habendum, all & singular the lands, tenements, rents, issues, & profits, &c., any wayes due & payable against all person or persons whatsoever that holds or any wayes enjoys the same, & if this is taken in the nature of

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Regicides' Names.	Number of Acres allowed.	Number of Acres contro-verted.	A particular of some Reasons why the said Lands should bee allowed to his Royall Highness.
	County of Kilkenny—continued.
			rents in specie, it is then his Royal Highnes trustees', for his Royall Highness use. Secondly, the lands is confest by Colonell Sanchy, the discoverer, to bee bought with the rents of Ireton's land; for his discovery he receives a valuable consideration, for which it is conceived his Royall Highness is intitled to the lands.
Tho. Wogan - - -	4,396 0 0	- - -
John Cooke - - -	251 0 0	- - -
	County Tipperary.
William Bowrell, assigne to Isack Pennington.	888 0 0	- - -
Francis Allen - -	888 0 0	444 0 0	This is controverted, in that the Subscription booke Coltman, Allen's sonne-in-law, is returned £300 with Allen. But it ought to bee allowed his Royall Highness in that by the 5 scales it appears Allen subscribed & payd that money, for that £600 paid the 1,332 nastned & sett out to him, & no mention of Coltman.
Andrew Broughton, executor to John Bigge.	222 0 0	- - -
Samuell Ball, assigne to John Bigge.	- - -	- - -	Controverted, because returned y^e^ Adventure of John Bigge, & he no forfitting person, this debt was due to John Bigge as the originall Adventurer, & Andrew Broughton, a Regicide, was his executour, therefore ought to be allowed his Royall Highnesse.
Henry Ireton - -	- - -	1,561 0 0	Controverted, because alledged to be purchased with money due to Ireton's children. It ought to bee allowed his Royal Highness for the reasons in the case of the lands in Kilkenny.[1]

The following letters of Colonel Edward Cooke, one of the five Commissioners of the second Court of Claims, which sat from the 4th January 1665–6 to 3rd January 1668–9, to the Duke of Ormonde, give a lively picture of the conduct of the Duke's agents and of the times. The other four Commissioners were Sir Edward Smythe, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas in Ireland, Sir Edward Deering, Sir Winston Churchill (father of John Duke of Marlborough), and Sir Allan Brodrick.

The Duke's "debt," so often spoken of in these letters, was the amount of land claimed by him; his "credit" meant the land applicable to satisfy it. The delays caused by his agents were ruinous to other claimants, for the Court could not sit after the 3rd January 1669, as the utmost limit for their sitting was three years from the time of opening their Court, which took place on the 4th of January 1665–6, consequently the 3rd of January 1668–9 was the last moment they could sit. Meantime the Duke of York's agents not merely seised lands to which the Duke had no claim, but also placed every delay they could to H.R.H.'s claim being brought to a final hearing; one object, among others, being that they might have the making of the letting from year to year during their custody of them, for the sake of the gifts and fees made to them as agents upon the lettings.

"My Lord (writes Colonel Edward Cooke to Ormonde), "May 19, 1668.

"We have spent this whole day in adjusting the Debt and Credit of H.R.H., and though we cannot say we have completed the whole, because there are some inconsiderable particulars, wherein Mr. Taylor (our Sub-commissioner) and Captain Thornhill differ in computations, yet we have so much fairly before us as to convince us what that Mystery of Iniquity is that hath occasioned all our delay and trouble. We find (as his own agents confess) H.R.H. hath already passed in three certificates above 77,000*l.*, and that his clear Debt requires no further satisfaction. That the only remaining controversial parts are on those two points, that in which by the order of the 4th of May 1666, H.M. hath been pleased so positively to interpose his authority, and which we cannot grant H.R.H. as being expressly against the text of the Act. Yet I find my brethern think it advisable once more to seek H.M.'s pleasure in the case; for though we cannot on that order judge anything to the Duke, yet we can respite the giving the land to any other person; which amounts to some 13,000A. (I speak with the most). The other is, that point of the Doubling Ordenance, in which case, that letter from the Council Board of England does not interpose their directions in H.M.'s name, only mentions it. Yet Sir Jerome Alexander affirms the King's letter to him positively requires his demanding the satisfaction for it, which amounts to about as much more, in all under 30,000A. So that should all this be respited (for which there is neither law nor reason), yet is there above 60,000A. that hath for above twelve months been in the possession of H.R.H.'s agents without any manner of reason or colour for it. Nor indeed can there be anything offered out of the accounts to so much as support a pretended right to any of those other 30,000A., save what is fetcht out of our Register's books, that it was once ordered H.R.H. should have reprisals according to the rules of the Act, which is called an Order. And an inference that all orders, judgments, and decrees of the Commissioners shall be binding. That such must needs be such judgments as are final, and so intended, which we have from the very beginning premised nothing should be, but a signed sealed certificate.

[1] From the Clarendon Papers, unbound.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"Nay, this very day many judgments to the disadvantage of H.R.H. have bin arraigned and set by, and the subject matter debated anew. So that how can we be said to act indifferently between party and party if we allow it so, but do not allow the same liberty against H.R.H.

"Nay, it were impossible for us to proceed did we not so. The merit of the case is wayd in both these particulars, either that the Duke can be reprized for Doubling Ordinanee Mony (these agents themselves waved 'Lapse money, which is the same case), as for lands the Act has otherwise disposed of. So that this vexatious appeal that hath given H.M. so much trouble, so delayed H.R.H.'s business, so obstructed the settlement of this nation, so persecuted the Commissioners, and so inflamed the Parliament, hath only bin for filthy lucre's sake; that H.R.H.'s agents might all the while scrape the benefit of above 90,000A. to their own use. For it is not on account of H.R.H., who hath but two titles to demand on account on, either his certificate or custodiams. By the latter of which, they hold other lands to stop his mouth with, and pocket this to their own use. Besides all this, one circumstance is very remarkable, they have delayed it till May day is past, because they might make leases for all the next ensuing year, they exacting at least 20*s.* each lease, which itself, for these 90,000A. will amount to at least 1,000*l.* And thus we are traduced, this poor nation worryed (by the worst of wolves that ever came into it), H.R.H.'s name prostituted, and his Sacred Majestie importuned into extremities, and all to enrich the arruntest miscreants of this nation (if not of the whole world)."

"And now I beseech your Grace am I not pardonable if I importunately beg to be enlarged from this slavery?"

[Concludes by asking leave of absence.]

"I remain your Grace's, &c.,

"EDWARD COOKE."[1]

In the next letter Colonel Cooke seems nearly wrought to madness by the cries and murmurs of the suitors delayed by the manœuvres of the Duke's agents. The time was now drawing to a close, and, if they could not be heard before the 3rd January 1668–9, they could not be heard at all. The following is his letter to the Duke of Ormonde:—

"MY LORD, "May 20th, 1668.

"SINCE my last to your Lordship we have been able to make but little way in our affairs. For what with H.R.H.'s counties and his list we are at a full point. For the major part of our number will not proceed without Sir Jerome will give consent, and he will not consent. Sir Jerome has been twice this week in person in our Court, on Tuesday in a concern of his own, and yesterday was with us on H.R.H.'s behalf. Both times and in both cases pressing so immodestly for unreasonable things that he put the Court in some heat, and himself broke forth into some flames of passion. Certainly never nay judge was made up of such a composition. He told my brother,[2] for nothing but modestly presenting his client's right, that if he had him in his court

[1] CCXV. 235. [2] Mr. Myles Cooke, a barrister.

Digitized by Google

663

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

be would make a public example of him. He is easily provoked, and very unsufferable when in his passion. He was here heard to forswear coming any more into the Court, but those are but words of course. I find the Barr (both clients and counsel) in very high dissatisfaction not only with him for delaying us and them, but also with us for permitting him to do it. For Monday was appointed peremptorily, and then put off till Tuesday. Then Sir Jerome appeared not, pretended indisposition. Yesterday he came, but had retained no counsel, pretended he could get none; and I am somewhat of that opinion, what with his indecent behaviour towards them, and the unreasonableness of the demands he would put them upon, and the niggardliness of his rewards for their pains. All the lawyers find excuses; even Colonel Shapcott himself. So that my Lord Chief Justice (to some of our dissatisfactions) did publiquely offer to assign him counsel (but that was too pauper-like for the quality of his master). But by that it may easily be inferred how very much the Duke's interest impairs by his agents' practices, which seriously may have a very fatal consequence.

"The murmurs and repinings daily encreese, that whole families are reduced to penury by the delays these agents put upon all causes they are concerned in, and in few but they will interweave themselves.

"Seriously, my Lord, it grieves my very heart to see such a pack of infamous persons so supported by their dependence on so honourable a person, whose honour, as much as in them lies they daily wound. As if H.R.H.'s happiness in this world, and in that to come, were concerned in a few Irish houses torn from necessitous persons, and to the endangering of perjury in those that shall judge it!

"The poor people insisting upon their titles, because the legality thereof is as clear as the sun, and out of which there is no other way to evict them, but either by tyring them out with delays or beggaring of them. I held myself bound in conscience, being wounded by the cries for justice to demand the question, Whether we should proceed, the day being peremptorily appointed (and that by Sir Jerome himself) without his consent? For we know the law in the case as well as they can tell us, and will be as tender of H.R.H. as they can justly desire us. But Sir Edward Deering and I were out-voted, and so I believe we shall always be.

"All that I desire is to bring it to that, that so I may discharge my own conscience."

[He concludes by praying that his Grace will obtain H.M.'s leave for their return to England after the 4th of June.]

"I remain your Grace's, &c.,

"Edward Cooke."[1]

These delays still continuing, some of the suitors bethought themselves of employing Sir Audley Mervyn, famed for scathing invective, to expose these unjust and ruinous practices. But the Duke's agents, especially Captain Thornhill, the most active of them, were impervious to shame. The following letter from Colonel and Commissioner Cooke to Ormonde, gives a good view of the discontents of the suitors, and the shameless character and conduct of Captain Thornhill:—

"My Lord, "Dublin, May 26, 1668.

"My last prostrated some humble complaints at your Grace's feet of the ill usage and tiresome delays imposed upon us by H.R.H.'s agents; I then bespeaking what there is now great symptons of, a great and grumbling discontent amongst all sorts of people at the delays and expenses those agents occasion in general. This morning, at our first meeting almost, we were saluted with these petitions from the subscribers by the hands of Sir Audley Mervyn, who backed them with a most pertinent speech, sufficiently setting forth the sufferings of the nation by the delays, and the causes of them. He came to the Tempters and the Tempted. Thornhill & his accomplices were the former, and the Commissioners the latter. The faults of the former were sufficiently blazoned as pride, insolence, oppression, &c., and indeed the latter are not spared; though their greatest fault (I should have said our's) was too much indulgence and lenity. My Lord Chief Justice, when he found him cruel upon Thornhill (who impudently outfaced all he said), cautioned him to be very tender lest through the agents he should wound their Royal Master. But Audley, having acknowledged the admonition as a very great favour, did assure him his mouth could not vent any such disrespects, much less dialoyalties, and that he was resolved to put what he said in print, and justify every tittle of it. He closed with a desire that he would hasten the small dispatch of the Duke's claim, and hasten the giving out of all the rest of the stock, that Ireland might be settled.

---

[1] ccxv. 234.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"This ended, the Captain (having what he wanted in eloquence made up in impudence) compared the joining together the Protestants & Papists to that of Herod and Pontius Pilate to crucifie Christ. But though others laughed at him, yet the gravity of the Court thought fit to check it. But this brought us upon a review of the Duke's Debt, and opened the mouths of many to revile the agents. Several came in and swore horrid misbehaviours against the Duke's agents not only exacting sums of those that took leases; but also of taking all lands they could lay hold on without any colour of title so much as a Custodiam: only the agents having agreed with persons to rent the land, clap it into their lists, and so become entitled to it. Nay! in many cases leasing the very retrenchments of the Nominees' Contignities, point blank against the rules of the Court. Nay! further and in some cases against the very decrees of the Court. I never since I was born heard so great and so just a murmur. And yet did the impudent fellow stand in the Court as [if] unconcerned at every detection of his and the rest of the agents ill practices. We did charge the Captain home concerning his letting leases of the stock lands,[1] which he shuffled off for some time; but testimony upon oath came in so frequently against him he was fain without a blush to confess what with very great severity we rebuked him for.

"I must crave leave to digress into another affair, my Lord Anglesey's concerns, wherein I find I am so variously accused, and not knowing in which sense I have been misrepresented to your Grace, before whom I would fain have my innocence appear, yet I know not very well how to manage my defences. I perceive my Lord Burlington and all H.R.H.'s Commissioners (or many of them) characterise me as one that have sacrificed my honesty to justifie my gratitude to my Lord Anglesey, being a means that he hath vast quantities of land against rhyme and reason. It is true my Lord hath great quantities of land, four whole baronies (that is, that suspected part of them that is in the stock) in the county of Wexford. But yet it was such land as scarce any one would take any part of it, but nobody would take all of. Wherefore, since no person would take it acre for acre according to quantity, we thought it best for the stock to put off great quantities of very bad land to preserve better for those that are to be reprized in value. And all this while all Lord Anglesey's friends complain of the barbarous usage that we have given him the worst of land. All I can answer is, that we judged it most advantageous for the stock (the only mistress we court) to dispose of such lands to reprize such persons as are to be reprised as he is.

"Besides we forced no land upon his Lordship. We had his own agents' claim to justifie us; and though we did not give his Lordship all they chose, yet we gave him nothing but what they chose.

"Had I room, I would clear the court and myself of the same kind of guilt in relation to my Lord Kingston, only we have obliged him indeed to take all he yet hath, in the worst land of his worst county.

"I remain, &c.,
"EDWARD COOKE."[2]

The Commissioners of the Court of Claims now made attempts to force the Duke of York's agents to bring his claim to a conclusion. They gave directions to Mr. Taylor, their Sub-commissioner,[3] to prepare lists of lands for the Duke's reprisal, whether H.R.H.'s agents would attend or not. But the letter is principally valuable for the lively account Colonel Cooke forwards to the Duke of Ormonde, of Captain Thornbill's visit to Sir Winston Churchill at his chambers, with the design of browbeating him, and forcing him to retract his charges. It will be seen with what spirit, with what passion even, Sir Winston, instead of retracting, repeated them, threatening to kick the Captain down stairs.

"MY LORD, "Dublin, June 6, 1668.

"THOUGH little hath happened since my last, yet some of that little I presume is my duty to present your Grace with an account. Notwithstanding the positiveness of our former orders in H.R.H.'s case that his agents should retrench sometimes a greater number of acres, sometimes a less, yet hath not one acre yet bin so. Nay! daily complaints come in (offered upon oath) that H.R.H.'s agents proceed to set leases of almost all the lands in the stock. But seeing all other expedients have proved frivolous, though we have reheard all pretensions and passed adjudications upon them that they are left without anything further to offer, as the Captain himself could not deny, & yet no one order is obeyed, we have this day directed our Sub-

[1] The fund for Reprisals. [2] CCXV. 237. [3] Ancestor of the Marquis of Headfort.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

commissioner Mr. Taylor, by Monday to bring us in a list of 30,000A. extracted out of the Duke's two lists which he can discover to be either incumbered or least valuable, and given direction that he shall be guided by Captain Thoruhill in the choice, if he think fit, to assist him. And against Wednesday morning he is to draw out 30,000 A. more; so that by Thursday morning all the Adventurers in Ireland will be completely satisfied, and as many of the Souldiers as there is valuable land to accomodate them with. One unlucky passage happened on Thursday morning on the Bench. Thoruhill's impudence having given some provocation to my Brother Churchill's passion, it vented itself on the Duke's agents in general, calling them all a pack of knaves and cheats that daily betrayed their master. And though this is bad enough, yet worse is to come, for the subtlety of the Judge (and of the serpent also I think), was joined to the craft of the Captain to provoke Sir Winston yet further into a kind of Premunire. And the Captain directed a visit to my Brother Churchill at his chamber in the afternoon, and desired to speak with him, and having audience told him how much he suffered by what he said in open Court, and desired to know who he meant by 'the Duke's agents'? The other hotly replied, 'What! Are you 'come to challenge and Hector me? I meant you!' The other replied, 'the words 'were the Duke's 'agents,'—that it could not be he only meant me.' 'No!' said Sir Winston,—'I intended you and Dr. Gorges—and the whole pack of you.' 'Sir!' said Thoruhill, 'Will you give it under your hand that I am a knave?' 'Alas'! replied Churchill, 'how long is it since you became so squeasy-stomached that you 'could not brook being called knave? You shall have it under my hand,'—and called his man to fetch pen and ink. But the whilst, the Captain took an occasion to proceed in temptation, and told him Sir Jerome was the Duke's chief agent. He presumed he durst not call him so. 'Yes!' in passion, replied the Knight, 'He's 'the chief knave, and so I can prove you all;' and with that directed the Captain to the stairs, who seeing the necessity of either running down the stairs or being thrown down, as the least of two evils elected the former. We expected hereupon that a public complaint would have followed, but on the contrary we find a far different and composed out-of-countenance temper in the man of war, by which I the more suppose mischief is brewing. For though yesterday and today many provocations were offered on Sir Winston's part in open Court, contrary to the late custom, all have bin borne with great patience.

"Your Grace's, &c.,
"EDWARD COOKE."[1]

This lively correspondent of the Duke's next furnishes him with an amusing account of the anger of Chief Justice Sir Edward Smythe, one of the Commissioners of Claims, and his brother Commissioner Sir Winston Churchill, against Colonel Cooke and Sir Edward Deering, their fellow Commissioners. The latter had obtained the Duke of Ormonde's leave of absence, but on condition of not making use of it till the state of business should permit of their going. Colonel Cooke gives an animated picture of their brethren, the Chief Justice and Sir Winston Churchill, at their dinner table at the King's Inns, and their reception of him and Sir Edward Dering. He ends with a fresh picture of Sir Jerome Alexander.

"MY LORD (writes Colonel Cooke), "Dublin, June 13, 1668.

"THIS presents your Grace with an account of the arrival of the King's license for Sir Edward Deering's return to England and mine, and our most humble thanks to your Grace for it. I also do hereby assure your Grace that it shall be conformed to in all its circumstances, so that neither your Grace shall have cause to repent the favour, nor any one in this nation to begrudge it. But it gave my brethren a furious alarm. Sir Winston's lady saluted him with such a tempestuous epistle, as if the only reason he sought not the same liberty was because he was more delighted with his divertizements than obliged by his business to continue here. Sir Edward Deering and I were informed by a false brother among them (Sir Allan) that the affront in asking the King's leave was so highly resented by my Lord Chief Justice (in which Sir Winston also concurred) that a resolution was taken to petition my Lord Deputy and Council to stop our passage, not knowing but that our leave was absolute, and we resolved to put it immediately in practice.

"Whereupon yesterday after dinner Sir Edward Deering and I directed a visit to his Lordship inthroned at the upper end of his table between the two Knights and environed with his Honour's irrational companions, where, through the door of other business, we let ourselves into the discourse of our going for England, which, pricking the bladder that was full blown with capriciousness, his Lordship vented himself very passionately at our unfriendly behaviour in seeking leave without having first obtained his leave. We gave his Honour rope, quietly hearing and patiently bearing all he thought fit to say, or rather all he said without considering whether it was fit or no. Our silence encouraged Sir Winston to second him.

[1] CCXV. 201.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"But at last I told them it was reasonable in me to prevent my ruin, and shewed them what the Duke of Albemarle had wrote would be the recompense of my longer stay from my Lord Norreys's estate.[1] And for asking their leave, I understood not the language: I took them for my fellow Commissioners, not my Masters, and ever considered them as too much concerned for themselves and their own honours to trust my safety to their mercy. In conclusion, as it always happens, it then was: after the storm came a calm. So went all brotherly together to attend the Council concerning some petitions are put in for prolonging our time, which the Lord Deputy and Council have directed us to consider what is fit to be done, and we on Monday are to reporte.

"Yesterday (an ill star I suppose reigning) Sir Jerome Alexander came into the Court and roughly told us he had been abused and all the Duke's agents. I told him every man had his share of injuries in this life, but by the place he had chosen to make his complaint in, I presumed it might be either directed against the Commissioners or some they had influence over, and desired him to speak out. He said they that served the Duke were all called too naughty. I asked him, by whom? He publicly acquitted me; whereon I diverted the discourse, and told him the work of that day was to receive out of the Duke's lists almost 40,000 A. and to distribute it. But he professed he was not able to do it on so short a time, but promising to do it by Monday, or Tuesday at the furthest; and to shew we had no other work to do, we adjourned till Monday. But since then we are told he will bring in but 1,000 A. he cares not to keep, and protest against us if we dispose of any of the rest.

"Your Grace's, &c.,
"Edward Cooke."[2]

The following letter brings this correspondence to a conclusion, and gives an account of the amount of land finally allotted by the Commissioners of Claims to the Duke of York, under his claim for the Regicides' lands, or for reprizals for such of their lands as the King had disposed of to others, his favourites. It amounted to no less than 100,653 plantation acres, being equal to 163,038 acres English statute measure:—

"My Lord, "Dublin, June 23d, 1668.

"I now present your Grace with an account that having spent most part of yesterday and all this day from 8 till 6 o'clock without stirring, we have at last perfected both the Duke's Debt and Satisfaction in presence both of Judge[3] and Captain. And though I can neither say nor hope they went away satisfied (for I think the horse-leech will sooner cry enough), yet I can assure your Grace they were both perfectly silenced. I am sure there was not anything that we could with a safe conscience allow H.R.H. that was denied him. So that now, he being fully satisfied, your Grace's controversy with him (or rather indeed with his agents) is fallen of course, which the Judge prest yesterday, might come to some determination when he saw your Grace's counsel absent.

"It was a universal joy to all people to see this work so well over, and no protesting in the case, nor indeed considerable wrangling, for we took this course, with all judgments, to give our reasons publicly and our votes too, which gave the Judge abundant satisfaction, who we always admitted to speak uninterruptedly as long & as often as he pleased, and luckily we had sundry opportunities to detect the Captain of gross mistakes (at best) before the Judge. So that he relieved us sometimes by rebuking him. Now I hope all things will be so fully ended, that with both his Excellency's leave and all my brethren's consents, I may that night begin my journey for England. I am sure no considerable business will be left unperfected, so that I may hope without a check to kiss your Grace's hands and be received into your good grace and favour as.

"My Lord, &c.,
"Edward Cooke."

[1] Colonel Cooke was probably steward to Lord Norreys. [2] ccxv. 249. [3] Sir Jerome Alexander.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"P.S.—The exact state of the Duke's Debt,—

	A.	R.	P.
"The whole allowed Debt amounts to - -	88,876	0	22
"Respited on the Order of the 4th of May 1666 -	11,777	0	7
"In all - - - -	100,653	0	29
"Of which already satisfied the number of -	77,419	0	20
"So that, admitting the Order of May, remain unsatisfied - - - - -	23,234	0	20

"To satisfy which there is 28,000 acres of the best land in the Stock out of which that proportion is to be chosen to-morrow morning."[1]

II.—Domestic Papers.

Earl of Ossory's Marriage. A.D. 1659.

Thomas, Earl of Ossory, Ormonde's eldest son, in his 24th year fell in love, in the year 1658, while resident at the Hague, with Emilia, daughter of Louis de Nassau, Sieur de Beverweert, natural son of Maurice, Prince of Orange. The Marquis of Ormonde was at this time at Brussels with the King; while Ossory's mother, the Marchioness, was resident at Dunmore, in the county of Kilkenny, in Ireland. As the great bulk of the Ormonde estate was hers, the Commissioners for Ireland during the Commonwealth allowed her Dunmore Park and lands, to the value of 2,000*l.* a year, for her maintenance there. The consequence of this dispersion is that the letters of all parties are forthcoming.

Ossory communicated to his father his passion for Mademoiselle de Beverweert, and on 24th October expresses his joy at finding that the Duke approves of his suit: "I had "never believed there was such a thing as love before, and that have so much jeered "at others for being in it, cannot but with much shame confess that I am so much "overtaken with it that if I faile in this I shall never have a concern for any other." From his mother (he continues) he had not heard for two months. The lady (he said) had other suitors, but he knew he was preferred. He asks for two band laces of the newest fashion, and concludes by referring to some lie of Dick Talbot's about him.[2] Next day he writes that he has been so accustomed to have his hopes frustrated ("though not in things of this kind," he adds in a parenthesis), as his fears much exceed his hopes. He is no further engaged, however, than that if his friends approve he has desired her not to oppose happiness, "which I am sure (he says) she will not."[3]

The Marchioness of Ormonde was opposed to the match. She did not think the rank of the De Beverweerts high enough, nor 10,000*l.* money enough, as there was 20,000*l.* mortgage to be cleared from the estate and two daughters unprovided for; and she hoped some of his friends would give a stop to his ruining his poor family.[4] As late as 19th January 1659, after she had given an apparent consent, she hopes Ossory will be argued with. "It is not himself (she says), but a whole posterity that "will be ruined by an unsuitable marriage portion."[5]

Mr. Thomas Page, who was Ossory's secretary, writes to Ormonde:—"About two "months ago my Lord sent word to my Lady (his mother) that in his next she "might happily hear of a match proposed to him, and that the young lady's fortune "was 10,000*l.*, and it may be more. My Lady, whether out of an umbrage of the "improvidence of young men in general, or touched by the example of some of our "nobility who have destroyed themselves and their family by rash engagements in this "very place, or dissatisfied with the dowry itself (because she made a 'but' of 10,000*l.*), "or intending my Lord for somebody else, or, lastly, upon presumption that this "county affords not a party parallel to your family, enjoined him to proceed no "further, under no pretence whatever, without her and his family's consent, since his "lady's portion must serve part to disengage the estate mortgaged, partly to marry "my Lady Elizabeth." Page adds: "Since I had the honour to be known to my "Lord I never saw him in so disconsolate a mood as he has continued ever since the "receipt of this letter;" and he advises Ormonde to address a little word of comfort to Ossory.[6] Page found it hard (he said) to disabuse Ossory of his hopes of getting Monsieur de Beverweert's assent to applying the marriage portion as his mother wished. He writes to Ormonde: "I have a thousand times represented unto him the difficulty,

[1] xxxvi. 982. [2] cexiii. 89. [3] Ibid. 91.
[4] Her letter to Ormonde, Nov. 26, 1658. Ibid. 24. [5] Ibid. 150.
[6] Nov. 8, 1658, Ibid. p. 113.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

" or rather impossibility, of obtaining the portion for the use of himself or kindred; " and if the father of the family deserve his character 'tis as easy to get 10,000*l*. out " of his hands as to fetch water out of a rock without a miracle."[1]

Meantime Ossory pursued his suit. He writes to his father: "I got so much " favour that the young woman has promised to speak herself to her mother."[2] And then: "This is to tell you of the success of the gentlewoman's discourse, which was, " I found, that her mother was somewhat displeased at her making so much an " advance as to take upon her to break the thing first. . . I spoke to the mother " myself" (Nov. 15, 1658, cexiii. 119.) He was therefore the more distressed at the Marchioness's continued opposition. As to his mother's saying "She might have " had more in England;—besides that she has often failed in her projects, she should " remember that people will not be ready to ally themselves with a family in such " disfavour with the ruling power in England." (Nov. 29, 1658, Ibid. 126.) He compares the present match with that proposed on the part of Mr. Treswell for his daughter; of that on Sir Walter Fy's behalf, who said he would disinherit his son and make his daughter worth 20,000*l*. "But there he overshot himself," says Ossory. He knew the girl, and would never dispose of himself that way for a reason he has which he could tell Ormonde, but not write it. (Jan. 17, 1659, Ibid. 148.) And one of Ormonde's household named Buck, having intermeddled, Ossory writes: "Littel " Buck, as you will see by his letter, is very officious, but I have desired him not to " undertake so much. It is my Lord of Southampton's daughter he means, whose " alliance I should more covet than any person's in England, if I could like the young " woman, whom I have seen often, or if I were not so absolutely given over to this " person as it is impossible for me ever to love another. I think it were an unworthi- " ness in me to marry any deserving person on skore of a fortune, which will not pre- " vent both of us being miserable if there be not a mutual kindness." (March 3, 1659, ibid. 160.) Thomas Page was employed by Ormonde to proceed to Ireland to try and soften Lady Ormonde. It shows the straits that the exiled Royalists were reduced to, that Page had not money to pay even the postage of the despatch he was sending to Ormonde. He had received 200 guilders for his journey. He said he did not know what Ossory would do to defray some trivial expenses. He (Page) could not part with any of the 200 guilders; "and for payment of this your Excellencie's packet I had only " one shift left, viz. an old gold ring which I casually found in a little box."[3]

Ossory still hoped that Monsieur de Beverweert might consent to the marriage portion being applied as his mother desired. In a letter to his father, after first treating of his passion, and saying "as I never had a virtuous love before, so I am sure I shall " never be capable of having one again," he adds a postscript, "I forgot to tell you " that one night the mother, talking with me of Tom Howard's marriage, laughed at " him for being duped in having bin shewed his portion and afterwards being put in " bank, which I am apt to believe was not said without design of letting me know " that I might expect the contrary." (March 18, 1659, Ibid. 167.) Lady Ormonde's assent was at length extorted, and on 17th November 1659 he was married. Shortly after his wife wrote, evidently at Ossory's dictation, a letter of compliment and affection to her new father-in-law (who certainly had stood much her friend), consisting of three or four lines in such a scrawl as a girl of five or six years of age might write.[4] Some desperate attempt being now on foot for the King's cause, Ossory expresses himself to his father as ready to engage in it. "I am very glad you are of my " mind in thinking past services not sufficient to keep up a posterity in reputation. . . . . " You may see that, for the most part, a rebel's condition that treats, is better than an " honest sufferer's. As to this world and the ordinary conveniences of it, I assure " you I would not change the condition your generous proceedings have brought " yourself and family into for all the advantages of the other. I cannot imagine " what commands I shall receive from you, but they shall not fail of success from any " negligence or want of venturing on my part. I shall be ready upon four hours " warning to go any journey." (March 12, 1660, Ibid. 473.) The married life of the Earl of Ossory and Mademoiselle de Beverweert was happy, but the Duchess of Ormonde probably judged right in thinking that a suitable connexion with some of the English nobility would have more strengthened the family influence of the Ormondes. The Duchess generally speaks of her in a tone of complaint, as if she still retained her regrets at the marriage. In 1668, the Duchess being then on a visit to Ireland, was at Kilkenny, and writes as follows to the Duke in London:—

"The last post brought me yours of 1st and 5th of this month, that mentions the receipt of some of mine sent you before and at the time of leaving Dublin. Since my

[1] Nov. 15, 1658, Ibid. 117. [2] Nov. 4, 1658. Ibid. 115. [3] June 17, 1659. Ibid. 197.
[4] Countess of Ossory to Ormonde, Dec. 19, 1659. Ibid. 340.

Digitized by Google

coming hither I have given you an account of Carrick and of your affairs here, which I hope is come into your hands. The rest I shall defer the discoursing of untill I see you, nothing staying me but till the yacht comes, which the contrary winds has hindered hitherto.

"I suppose my son Ossory (she continues) will now be convinced that it is not practicable what he did propose unto himself of having a command in Flanders, though at the same time I doubt he designs what will be almost as prejudicial unto him, and to his own and your interests, which is to carry his wife and family into England and live at London, at least leave her there where she has a mind to be, and go himself to Italy. For, in this place I find that neither of them has a mind to stay, though I assure you they have not wanted such encouragements as might abundantly satisfy any reasonable persons.

"I hear the house they pitch upon to live in there is the Lord Middleton's, and to take it ready furnisht. Who has put him on that choice I cannot tell, and should be loth to suspect Sir Arthur Forbes. This is kept a profound secret from me, but possibly James Clarke may know something of this from Mr. Page, who is the only counseller my son chuses, because he finds him complying with his humour in all things." [1]

The Duchess prophesied Ossory's ruin in six months from going thither "with the "charge of a helpless wife and a number of small children." The Earl of Ossory died in 1680, in the lifetime of his father and his wife.

ORMONDE'S PALACE ON OXMANTOWN GREEN. A.D. 1664.

In the Earl of Anglesey's accounts as Vice Treasurer of Ireland, rendered 20th January 1665-6, there appear the following items:—

	£
"For the purchase of Chapel Izod (in part) - -	5,000
"To Mr. Pooley for lands in the park - - -	500
"To Col. Daniel for lands there - - - -	100
"For building the park wall - - - -	7,890
"For deere for the park and other incident charges - -	334." [2]

It was Ormonde that formed the Phenix Park by a purchase of the manor of Chapelizod from Sir Maurice Eustace, and subsequent purchases of some neighbouring lots to the value in all of 10,000*l.* There was previously about 300 acres only appendant to the Priory of Kilmainham, the ground whereon stands the Royal Hospital, and Doctor Stevens's Hospital being part of it, the other part extending beyond the Liffey, and forming part of the present park. On this latter portion stood the King's Manor House of the Phenix, near the site of the present Star fort or magazine. Ormonde employed Colonel Jeffreys to purchase deer for stocking it in England. He also sent thither for partridges.

"MY LORD" (he writes to Lord Bulkeley, near Beanmaris, in North Wales),

"HAVING employed the bearer hereof, Captain Richd Kinaston into N. Wales to take partridges & bring them hither to store the parts hereabouts, and sent him with dogs and nets useful for the business, I desire your Lordship will take order that he may have liberty on the places about you without interruption to do the work committed to his care by your Lordship's most affectionate, &c.

"ORMONDE."

"Dublin Castle, 18th Feb. 1662-3." [3]

About this time Oxmantown Green, which seems to have extended from the front of St. Mary's Abbey to the Phenix Park, began to be laid out for building; and Ormonde took a plot of ground adjacent to the park to build a mansion house. On a map attached to a lease made to Sir William Ellis by the Corporation of Dublin, about 1664, of lands along the north side of the Liffey from Church Street to the Park gate, there appears near the site of the present Royal Barracks "The Duke of "Ormonde's Palace Gardens."

On 27th April 1665 he writes to the Mayor of Dublin, as follows:—

"SIR,

"I CONCEIVE it will be very convenient to have a handsome highway laid out from the street between Dublin Bridge and Young's Castle in Oxmantown to the ground set apart for me to build upon in Oxmantown Green; and I have therefore given Mr. Dodson directions to set one out in such place as he shall think fittest,

[1] ccxlii. 12. [2] xxxv. 21 [3] clxiv. 17.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

wherein I desire you to afford him your best assistance, as also to contribute your furtherance to him upon all occasions in the making of the new bridge over the Liffey at the island, wherein you will oblige.

"And so I remain, &c.

"Your affectionate friend

"ORMONDE."[1]

On 20th January 1665–6, Ormonde writes to the Trustees of the (1649) Officers, (who were granted by the Act of Settlement all the houses formerly belonging to the Irish in towns) :—

"SIRS,

"BEING informed by Mr. William Dodson that there is a piece of waste ground in Church Street near Roscommon House in Oxmantown, 50 yards [long] and 20 yards broad, or thereabouts, part of the security of the 'Forty-Nine Officers, which lieth convenient for a way from the said street into Oxmantown Green, where I intend to erect a mansion house, I make it my desire to you that you will put a value on that ground and set it out to be employed for such a way for my use, and Mr. Dodson will attend you and agree with you for the value, and when I understand what you are to have for it, I shall give order for your satisfaction.

"And remain your loving friend,

"ORMONDE."

In Ormonde's private accounts appear the cost for carriage of stones and building materials for this mansion. On 2nd April 1666, Dodson inquires if he is to proceed with the work.[2] It was never carried out. Had this design been executed, and had fashion followed in this direction, the Phœnix Park would have been surrounded by the habitations of the nobility and the wealthy, and it would have become to Dublin what Hyde Park is to London. In connexion with the rising character of this neighbourhood, the Corporation intended to establish a bowling green in this part.

Ormonde writes to the Countess of Tyrconnel, who had married Col. Oliver Fitzwilliam, Viscount Fitzwilliam of Merrion, created by Charles II., Earl of Tyrconnel :—

"MADAM,

"THE Mayor and Sheriffs of Dublin being about to make a public bowling place in Oxmantown Green, and the Mayor informing me that the sodds there, or in Stephens' Green are not fit for sodding it, but that others more fit are to be had on the lands of Meryong, I desire your Ladyship will give liberty to such as he shall appoint to cut & carry away as many sodds out of those lands where they may be best spared as shall be necessary, if your Ladyship consent, wherein not doubting.

"I remain, &c.

"Dublin Castle, 4 April 1664." "ORMONDE."[4]

And Ormonde gives liberty (9th March 1663–4) for the digging of stones in the quarry in the Phœnix Park, and of clay for making bricks to raise a wall about this bowling green.[5]

It was not only the Duchess of Cleveland that attempted to obtain a grant of the Phœnix Park from the King ;[6] Sir James Edwardes made a similar effort.

Ormonde thus writes to Secretary Coventry :—

"SIR, "Dublin, 30 Nov^r 1679.

"YOURS of the 22d sufficiently exposed the mystery of Sir James Edwardes's earnestness to pass his patent in England.

I hope such an endeavour to surprise his Ma^tie will make it harder to do hereafter. If that patent had passed and proved good, the park had been quite destroyed; future Chief Governors would not have ground of the King's to graze a horse on ; and we should have been prevented, in a suit his whole Army will make to him, for the site of that demolished priory and some acres about it to build an hospital upon, which will well consist with the subsistence of the park. The lands belonging to that priory which I conceive were demesnes to the Castle of Dublin (and are no more a concealment than the Castle) are not near 300 A. But whatever the number is, sure I am it could never be in custodiam to Colonel Hill or any body else, because the use of that land has been in the Chief Governors ever since the Dissolution of Priories. All this could not but be well known to my Lord Privy Seal and yet I find it passed his office."[7]

[1] calv. 196. [2] Ibid. 60. [3] cliv. 34. [4] cxiv. 46.
[5] Ibid. 273. [6] Life of Ormonde, vol. ii. p. 276. [7] calvi. 231.

No. 1.—Carte Papers; Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Oxmantown was the place of exercise for the guards, and for the militia of the county of Dublin when embodied, and being laid out for building, another place must needs be selected. Stephen's Green was chosen.

"St. Stephen's Green.

"After our hearty commendations to your Lordship; and forsmuch as by reason of the building lately made upon Oxmantowne Green near the city of Dublin, the companies of horse & foot soldiers that were usually exercised there cannot have such convenience for that purpose as was formerly. We especially recommend it unto your Lordship to take present and effectual order that the ground upon Stephen's Green lately walled in, be forthwith made smooth & plain, and a fit place for exercising H.M.'s regiment of guards and the militia company of the said city and the suburbs thereof; in which, expecting your readiness and a speedy account of your doings therein, we bid your Lordship heartily farewell. 11th August 1668.

"Your Lordship's very loving friend,

"Ormonde."[1]

A few months later the Earl of Ossory, Lord Deputy for his father the Duke of Ormonde, asks for a clean approach to St. Stephen's Green. His letter is addressed to the Lord Mayor, aldermen, commons, and citizens of Dublin.

"After our hearty commendations to your Lordship, &c. Whereas his Grace the Lord Lieutenant formerly writ to your Corporation, desiring that St. Stephen's Green might be levelled and the ways made good unto it, that so his Majesty's guards might be there accommodated in the room of Oxmantown Green, which is now taken up with building; we, taking notice that a considerable progress is made in that work, desire your Lordship to lay down a course in this your present assembly for the perfecting thereof, and making a good pavement to the green, which will be not only of use for the guards & militia, but of ornament to the city. So not doubting of your compliance herein, we remaine, &c.

"Your Lordship's, &c. very loving friend,

"From His Majesty's Castle of Dublin, the 16th day of October 1668."

"Ossory."[2]

Ormonde's Horses.

Ormonde took some interest in his stables. He even ventured to breed horses, but was too much engaged in public business to pay that attention to the subject that breeding requires, and accordingly he failed to obtain such fine horses as he expected. And at length (but late in life) he handed over all his breeding stud to his son, the Earl of Arran, in disgust at his failure.[3] One would be glad to think however that his care was not all lost, and that the fine blood of the Kilkenny horses is derived in some degree from the sires that Ormonde introduced. The following letters from the Earl of Ossory, who was at this time acting as Lord Deputy to his father, the Duke of Ormonde, then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and in attendance upon the King at Whitehall, gives some account of the Duke's stables.

"[Dublin] July 2d, 1664.

"I can give you an account of only two fillies that are fallen since your going away. The colts are well and very hopeful. Your Spanish horse is recovered and has covered those mares you appointed. Mr. Dodson tells me the park wall on the Phœnix side will be done at Michaelmas. Some of the deer are broke out and got to the mountain past recovery. The lurcher and greyhound were sent by me to Sir Richard Hastings, and both prove [ ]. Carrie, your French gardiner, is very laborious, and hath undertaken to make a fountain in the centre of the court-yard where the alleys meet at Kilkenny, which shall perpetually rise 24 foot high. My wife and little ones are all well, and she thinks herself most happy in the kindness you always honoured her withal, and in your remembering her. The guards, both horse and foot, are in very good condition; this morning I saw them.[4]

The following shows Ossory employed in looking for a sire, to be sent over to Kilkenny.

"Newmarket, 12 March 1674–5.

"My journey hither was upon the account of getting you a stallion, as well as my duty in waiting on the King. Upon the first news of your setting forth [from Ireland] or arrival, I shall not fail to move as you direct. And for a horse I have offered 110

---

[1] Endorsed, "To y^r^ Lord Mayor, Aldermen, Commons, & Citizens of y^e^ Citty of Dublin." Vol. cxliv. p. 86.

[2] cxliv. 122. [3] See his letter page 185, post, dated 1 May 1684. [4] cxxx. 102.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

guineas, which if not taken, I shal trust to Mr. Barton that served in Ireland, who has promised me his endeavours. Mr. Colt tells me my Lord Great Chamberlain intends to present you with one; but I will not on those hopes omit any opportunity. I have taken eare for laying in a small parcel of wine for your use, and I hope you will find your lodging[1] not very inconvenient. My letters hereafter shall be directed to my mother, believing that by the convenience of the ship of Kinsale they may not find you in Ireland, from whence I pray God send you a good voyage."[2]

The next shows Ossory nettled at Colonel Cooke for not estimating his horses at the value he set on them, and refusing to purchase them for his father, who had commissioned Colonel Cooke to purchase for him in England.

"[Whitehall] 24 September 1667.

"I have sprained my left arm by a fall I got this day a fox hunting. I offered Colonel Cooke a couple of horses for you at a hundred pounds, hearing he has a commission to buy some for you. One cost me fifty pieces in gold, and is known to be one of the best hunters in town, but has not shapes for thirty. The other is a Spaniard of seven years old (for which I have been offered fourscoure), and an admirable hunter; for I have tried him at the chase of the stag.[3] His objection to them is their leanness, being kept clean. If he bring you none, I will send you them at a venture. The controuller gives the King to supper immediately, and, [I] fear we shall have terrible doings."[4]

He returns again to the charge:—

"October 26, 1667.

"If Colonel Cooke has not skill in horses, yet he ought to have it, being a commissioner, in his reports. For it was neither of those I intended you that gave me the fall, and the bargain I offered was more in order to your service than my own profit; for I have parted with my Spaniah horse at the rate of threescore guineas, and will not take fifty for my gelding."[5]

In the following account by the Duchess of Ormonde of her visit to Carrick Park, there is a further notice of Ormonde's horses.

"Since I wrote last to you (writes the Duchess of Ormonde), I went to Carrick, where I had a view of a very ruinous house in the outward appearance of it, but preserved from any greater or more dangerous decays as to the falling of it. The orchard is not fine, but well planted with good fruit. But the park is, I think, the finest one of the bigness that can be seen anywhere, and the deer-wall the best of any that ever I saw, and all finisht, and the ground fully stocked with brave, large, tall deer.

"I had a sight also of five of your young colts, some three, some four years old; three fillies and two horse colts very handsome in others' opinions as well as mine; otherwise, perhaps, you would no more believe them to be so than you do the wine to be good that I commend, my skill in both being much alike.

"I lay one night at Kilcash,[6] and the next night at Thurles, where I found my Lady your mother well unto a wonder considering her age, and very inquisitive unto you."[7]

"Kilkenny, June 9 [1668]."

Ormonde was so anxious for sires to improve his breed that he was ready to make an attempt on the King's stables if he had been possessed of face enough to beg from his Majesty. But being too proud or too modest, he endeavoured to engage an old comrade in arms, Sir Nicholas Armorer, if he found himself furnished with a good face for begging, to undertake the office.

"Honest Claus (writes the Duke),

"Yours of the 23 of the last, writt in yo' hollyday hand, was given me some dayes after other letters of fresher date weare gotten over by the post. The young man for his owne sake as well as his Captain shall have all the furtherance I can give him without warrant from the King, & if I could from the Secretary be told it would not displease his Ma^tie, my assistance might be the more considerable.

"I am in great want of a couple of good stallions. I would have them large & such as had been good, rather than finely shapt & noe experience had of them. If

[1] Ossory's apartments at Whitehall. [2] CCXI. 338.

[3] He writes to his father, September 3, 1667, "I have been up before 5 this morning, and have "been out all day a stag hunting, by which I am so weary and sleepy as together with my "having nothing to inform my mother of, I presume here to beg her pardon for not writing "more" (CCXI. 192.) "I do often play with the King at tennis, by which I have now caught a "cold, &c." July 20, 1667. (CCXI. 182).

[4] In allusion probably to the night of dissipation to be expected. CCXI. 192.

[5] CCXI. 212. [6] The seat of Ormonde's brother, Colonel Richard Butler. [7] CCXIII.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

the King's stable can furnish me with such I could be content somebody would begg for me. If your face can bear the office I doe not doubt of your dexterity. If any can be bought yo' needs the lesse expose or doe violence to your modesty.

"Farewell good Claus,

"Yo^rs,

"ORMONDE."[1]

Ossory having taken up his abode in London, much to his mother's regret at his leaving Ireland, where he might live so nobly and preserve his father's interest and his own, whereas in London he would be in debt in six months if any body would trust him,[2] Ormonde had now to employ some one else to look after his stables. For this purpose he engaged Sir William Flower, and the following is the Duke's first letter to him on the subject:—

"S^r, "Whitehall, 25 March 1668.

"You and I have not often corresponded this way. . . . . I desire the Controuller and you would take a speciall care of my breed of horses, and this summer prepare for wintering of colts, without which no horse can be halfe what he would be. If there be any now coming five or four, I wish they may be kept in the house, and, if they are likely, sent over to race together with two or three summer nags, if they can be gotten, good and easy goers.

"Your faithfull old friend & servant,

"ORMONDE."[3]

The next shows Ormonde's care for his breed of horses. It is addressed to Sir William Flower:—

"S^r, "Whitehall, 3^d Aprill 1668.

"On Monday next a groome will go hence with an Arabian horse for a stallion for this yeare, but he must cover only the strongest and largest mares. The Spanish horse I had from my Lord Dungannon getts (as I am told by one who knows him) no likely colts; yett he may serve to help the neighbourhood to mend the ordinary breed; as also my great 'Crop,' who should be well kept for that use. My Lord Glenally tells me some disease is gotten into my stable at Carrick, where the hopefullest colts and fillies are. I presume there has been so much care taken as to separate the sick from the sound. If 'Lindsey' be living, I wish he may cover at least two of my best mares; and that I had from Ned Vernon for one. My Lord Power will not refuse it. I would have (beside the young horses at Carrick and such others as you find fitt for transportation) the nag I bought from Hill—old 'Fairfax'—and the mare which was Tom Harman's, sent me over when my groome returns with another honest groome to help them hither. The Spanish horse called 'Neale,' if my son Ossory will not have him, may likewise be sent, for I like him not for breed. This is all in addition to what I writt last. My wife will begin her journey on Munday in Easter weeke.

"Yours,

"ORMONDE."[4]

But at the end of near twenty years, Ormonde, annoyed at his want of success, handed over all his stud to his son, Arran. In a letter, dated 1st May 1684, he thus writes to him:—

"Whilst I can remember it, I am to tell you that I have bin so unlucky or so much cheated in the breeding of horses that I am resolved to be troubled no more with them if you will take them all,—stallions, colts, and mares."[5]

ORMONDE'S HAWKS.

Ireland from of old was celebrated for her breed of hawks; but the native Irish do not seem to have given themselves to this sport, nor to the training of the birds; though fond enough of the chase of the wolf and the deer. In Henry VIII.'s day one of the English statesmen in Ireland sends Cromwell a present of a hawk as one of the three good things of that country; viz., a hawk, a hobby (or Irish nag), and an Irish mantle. A rhyme of Queen Elizabeth's day thus describes the Irish hawks:—

---

[1] Endorsed, "A coppy of my Lord's to Sr. Nicholas Armorer, the 17 Dec. 1667."

[2] Duchess of Ormonde to her husband, 30th June [1668]. ccxlii. 10.

[3] Endorsed, "A copy of my Lord's to Sir William Flower, by Sir Oliver St. George." xlix. 330.

[4] ccxlix. 59. [5] ccxx. 35.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

" Of Hawks which retain sundry names
The country store doth breed;
Whose names if patience will abide,
In order shall proceed.

" The Goshawk first of all the crew
Deserves to have the name;
The Falcon next for high attempts
In glory and in fame.

" The Tarsell next ensueth on,
Good reason 'tis that he
For flying hawks in Ireland next
The Falcon placed should be.

" The Tarsell Gentle's course is next,
The fourth peer of the land,
Combined to the Falcon with
A lover's friendly hand.

" The pretty Merlin is the fifth;
To her the Sparhawk's next;
And then the Jacke, and Musket last,
By whom the herds are vext.

" These are the hawks which chiefly breed
In fertile Irish ground,
Whose match for flight and speedy wing
Else where be hardly found." [1]

The English settled in Ireland therefore, who no doubt followed the manners of England in their taste for hawking, always employed English trainers for their hawks, as Ormonde appears to have done. But this sport, with all others, of course fell with the monarchy in the time of the Great Rebellion, and remained in oblivion during the rule of the Puritans.

The taste for field sports and horse racing returned however with redoubled zest at the King's restoration. The Cavaliers sang—

" A hound and a hawk no longer
Shall be tokens of disaffection:
A cock-fight shall cease
To be breach of the peace,
And a horse race an insurrection."

There are many traces of this taste in the Ormonde papers in the Carte collection. In the accounts rendered by Mr. Page, his secretary, to Ormonde, for "Moneys "received for Wooll Licences," which Ormonde evidently dedicated to his personal expenses, the sums spent upon his hawks and falconers are considerable. Amongst items such as "50*l.* to Mr. Richards for 25 boxes at the theatre ending 18 February "1666–7,"—"to Mr. Andrew Butwell for a perywig for your Grace, May 11, 1667, "12*l.*,"—"paid for another perywig, July 18, 1667, to Mr. Morton, 10*l.*,"—" to Mr. "Ludlow for foxes & ringtayles heads, 22^{s} Feb^{y} 1665–6, 15*l.*,"—"to a footman that "came express with a letter to Kilkenny from Dublin, Nov. 18, 1666, 12*s.*,"—"to "Mr. Rathorne, 12 January 1666–7, to buy Deficient Adventures for your Grace, "30*l.*,"—are found the following concerning hawks: "Paid to Mr. Mathews, your "Grace's falconer, in full of his bills from 30th Dec^{r} 1666 to 17 June 1667, for "board wages and salary, 69*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.*;"—"March 26, 1666, to the same, a month's "dyet for himself and two men, and keeping three cast of hawks, 6*l.* 2*s.*" (and so periodically); "Gave to Angus Mchealy for bringing a cast of faulcons from the "Marquis of Antrim, 2*l.*"; "May 23^{d}, 1666, paid to Robert Wells towards his "charges in going to Mr. Browne, of the Neale, for an ayrie of hawkes, 1*l.*" [2]

On the 23rd July [1664] Ormonde writes to Mr. Mathew Harrison, his controller, and directs him to allow to Colonel Jeffreys all the middle story of the house at the [1] "Image of Ireland," by John Derrick, A.D. 1581. Somers' Collection of Tracts, vol. i. pp. 873–875.

[2] ccxviii. 7.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Phenix,[1] except a partition at the gallery, which I would have reserved for Mr. Beling. As for the rider and the falconers who are at present lodged there, you must remove them to the lodgings over the stables, and the bayliffs to Chapel Izod;[2] and Mr. Halsey, the housekeeper, must have the use of the old buildings.[3]

In a letter to Colonel Marcus Trevor, Lord Dungannon, made by Ormonde Ranger of Ulster, with the care of the woods and game, the Duke writes: "Let me know "how our game of all sorts do thrive, how our hawks fly, and in what state country "matters are."[4]

Sir Allan Apsley, the Duke's correspondent in the following letters, distinguished himself in the service of Charles I. during the Civil War, and at the Restoration formed part of King Charles II.'s household. He seems to have been a warm friend and admirer of the Duke of Ormonde, and had a taste for field sports. He sends the following letter to Ormonde, with "a cast of the best tarsell gentles" he could procure:—

"May it pleare your Grace, "May the 12th 1663.

"Understanding from y^r^ Grace's most obliged servant, S^r^ Allan Brodrick, that your Grace desyred a castt of tersell gentles for y^r^ cock,[5] I have presumed to send y^r^ Grace a castt of the best I could procure att this tyme, when all our prime hawkes are in the middle of their mewing. They are very hoapfull young hawkes which the Dutchmen brought over flying,[6] and were chosen for the Kyng. I have a tersell gentle in the mew which flyes very high. When bee is fitt to drawe, which will bee about Bartholomew tyde, if your Grace please to send for hym I will send hym to yonr Grace. I doe confess there are hygher flyers now in Englande, and doe wish your Grace were here to helpe take them down.

"May God Almighty bless your Grace & all y^r^ family with the same generous bounty you have obliged your King & country.

"My Lord,
"Your Grace's most humble, &c.,
"A. Apsley."[7]

Sir Allan writes again to Ormonde a few years later from Oxford, where, probably, Parliament was at this time assembled, and sends him another cast of "tersell gentles," and with the tersells a bockrell:—

"My Lorde, "Oxforde, Oct^r^ y^e^ 20^th^ [1666].

"By this bearer, Thomas Mathews, I have sente your Grace a cast of tersell gentles and a bockrell. The tersells are very good hawkes. The bockrell flyes heigh, butt whether shee proove as good as I wish her I am doubtfull. There is also a falcon of hys owne which he ses is a very goode hauke. Hee is as good a falkoner as any wee have, and will shew your Grace these hawkes flying. Your Grace may please to keepe hym as long as you shall have any use of hym, and then returne hym to my Lorde.

"Your Grace's, &c.,
"A. Apsley."[8]

Colonel Edward Cooke, one of the Commissioners of the second Court of Claims, was the Duke of Ormonde's principal purveyor of hawks and hounds for hunting, and beech-mast and mustard balls for planting, and a grand authority on all country affairs. He seems to have been steward or manager of Lord Norreys' estate and others in England; and Ormonde made him Ranger of the newly-formed Phenix Park. His letters enliven the more serious tone of the Duke's ordinary correspondents of the troubled period he moved in. The following letter of his to the Duke gives an agreeable picture of the preliminaries for a season of gaiety at Kilkenny Castle, whither he and Lord Dungannon were about to repair with hosts of hawks, spaniels, and hounds, when the news of the appalling fire of London caused Colonel Cooke to stop short, or, to use his own phrase, to "holt, heave:"—

---

[1] The King's Manor House of the Phenix stood in the Phenix Park where the Magazine (or Star fort) now stands.

[2] The Duke of Ormonde may be said to have made the Phenix Park. He induced the King to purchase the house and manor of Chapelizod from Sir Maurice Eustace and various other adjacent fields. The house of Chapelizod thenceforth was preferred by the Lord Lieutenants for a summer residence to the Phenix, which was old and dilapidated.

[3] calx. 15. [4] xlix. 190. [5] Woodcock?

[6] Fledged? [7] ccxiv. 305. [8] ccxv. 47.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"My Lord (he writes),

"Having receaved the honour of your Grace's orders of the 12th I intended immediately to have putt them in execution myselfe, and marche in the head of that glorious hoast of hawkes, spaniells, and bounds.

"But on the receipt of this dreifful London alarum,[1] not knowing what influence it might have on y^r Grace's purpose of soe long a day at Kilkenny, I resolved to rally together those various forces from severall parts, but holt heave till further orders. Lacy and his regiment, I understand, are compleately reddy; my Lord Dunganon [2] is hastening down to dispatch away his Ulster militia of harriers and spaniells; and myself am provided (if the common enemy of partridges and feasants appear anything numerous in the field) to bring down with me a goshawke, a falcon, and a tarcell gentle, such as have imbraed themselves pretty well in blood. . . . If your Grace makes any considerable stay at Kilkenny I will rather mutiny and run away from my Commissioner's colours [3] than delay my attendance on your Grace.

"Be pleased to command us all positively, and I dare say the obedience will be suitable. I am sure my own shall be so in this and all things else, for I am (without reservation),

"My Lord, your Grace's, &c.,

"Dublin, September 18, 1666." "Ed. Cooke." [4]

The following year the Duke writes to Colonel Cooke in terms suggestive of the pleasure he felt at the temporary lull in business which followed his arrival at Kilkenny, a kind of Halcyon period in the perpetual gale of public business he was constantly involved in:—

"I am gotten hither (he says), and am yet in the happiest calm you can imagine. Fine weather, great store of partridge, a cast of merlins, and no business; and this may hold for a week." [5]

Some years later, when Ormonde was temporarily removed from office, and was about to live among the trees at Kilkenny, he prepared to provide himself (as one of his resources against dullness in that, to him, unusual condition of life) with a proper establishment of hawks. And he had no sooner arrived in Ireland from London, than he writes to his house-steward, Mr. James Clarke, to see if he could engage a proper falconer.

"In twenty hours after you saw us set sail (writes the Duke to Mr. James Clarke in London), we arrived in y^e River of Waterford, and before and with us all the vessels that were loaden with our goods, as by y^r last post you may have bin informed from Duncannon. Mr. Nelthrip will I hope be punctually complyed with, as his civill and obleidging dealing with me very well deserves. Finding it probable that I shall winter here, I am taking the best care I can to provide for divertisements suitable to y^e place and season, of which I feare to be most defective in hawking; and therefore, I desire you would once againe make triall whether Robin Squier may not be prevailed with to come over with good hawkes and dogs upon y^r old accompt; or if his husbandry will not admit of his absence, whether he will not send one good falkner and an assistant with his hawkes & dogs; which shall content mee; he making his bargain as well as he can with them. It is true they will be more imployed than they were in England; but then in recompense it is certaine they will be at less charge to him here than there; especially if he come over himself to settle them."

"Kilkenny, July 1, 1674." [6]

The following letter, still on the subject of hawks, is to the young Earl of Derby, who had married his granddaughter, to whom he in the same letter communicates the approaching marriage between the young Earl of Ossory and the daughter of Lord Hyde, afterwards made Earl of Rochester. She, however, died in giving birth to her first child, and the Earl of Ossory (who succeeded his grandfather as second Duke of Ormonde) married soon after Lady Mary Somerset, daughter of the first Duke of Beaufort.

---

[1] The great fire of London.
[2] Lord Dungannon was Ranger of Ulster, with the care of the woods and game.
[3] He was one of the five Commissioners of the second Court of Claims, A.D. 1666-1669.
[4] xxxvi. 49.
[5] Ormonde to Col. Edwd. Cooke, Kilkenny, 19 August 1667. xlix. 272.
[6] cexix. 79.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

"St. James's Square, London, 15 July 1682.

"I AM much obleedged to your Lo'p for the offer you make me of a supply of hawks, after the disasters that have befallen mine.

"Your Lordship may be pleased to command that they put into a mew and fed there till a faulkner shall come to receive them, whom I send for by this post. If your Lordship can spare a cast of tassells they are the kind I desire. I am now to inform your Lordship that a match is concluded on betwixt my grandson James and my Lord Hyde's daughter, and that all circumstances are to my full satisfaction. I hope before I pass for Ireland your Lordship will see them at Chester. This account is due to you in many respects, especially because I know you, believe me to be,

"My Lord,

"Your most affectionate grandfather and most faithful,

"ORMONDE."[1]

Upon being removed from the Lord Lieutenancy of Ireland by King James II., in 1685–6, Ormonde bade adieu to public business and retired to Cornbury Park, the seat of Henry Earl of Clarendon, about 12 miles north of Oxford. There he resolved to compose his mind and his memoirs with the aid of Sir Robert Southwell before his departure from the world, which took place only two years later. Thither he was accompanied by his hawks, as appears by the following letter: It is written to Ormonde's step-brother, George Mathew:—

"St. James's Square, London, Oct' 5, 1686.

"I AM going to-morrow to Cornbury to take the air, and some exercise, which I hope may prevent winter diseases. I have borrowed hounds, and have hawks of my own." He adds, "They say (for I know no more than is said abroad,) that this Parliament will be prorogued, and that one will be called for Ireland."[2]

The following was written in the interest of the '49 officers. The name of Ormonde's correspondent does not appear:—

"S[R], "May 1666.

"THERE being several ayeries of goshawkes in the county of Leitrim, in the woods upon the lands belonging to the '49 men, which I understand are not far from your dwelling; I therefore desire your particular care of all those hawks which timber in those parts; and that you will send strict orders that none do presume to take or any ways meddle with them, I having given order to my Lord Dungannon to send a person to you who hath skill and judgment in bringing the said hawkes hither in order to their being disposed to his Majestie's pleasure.

"S', Yours, &c.

"ORMONDE."[3]

ORMONDE'S HOUNDS.

Colonel Edward Cooke, of Highnam,[4] was, as has been seen said, one of the five Commissioners of the second Court of Claims. He was evidently given to field sports and country affairs, and for this reason was appointed by the Duke of Ormonde, ranger or keeper of the newly-formed Phœnix Park, and employed by him for purchasing horses and hounds, and furnishing him with beech-mast, Tewkesbury mustard balls, &c., for his park at Kilkenny, and other similar commissions. His letters are full of notices of such matters. On 24th August 1667, he writes to Ormonde from Highnam, "that as his Grace has allowed him, a beggar, the liberty of being a chooser, he has "the confidence to desire that a frigate rather than the pleasure-boat may meet him at "Milford rather than at Holyhead by the end of September." He proceeds to say, "I "have no manner of news to present your Grace with out of these parts. Deane Forest "is the scene on which both the Marquis of Worcester and myself act our daily parts, "and as often recount our duty to your Grace. All the particulars I can remember "I have taken care for, as mustard balls, walnuts, acorns, beech-mast; and I have "great hopes to provide a suitable kennel of beagles to your Grace's liking, for "tongue, speed, and stoop hunting; size and colour."[5]

In a long letter concerning principally the business of the Court of Claims of 12th December 1668, he says: "As to other affairs within the compass of my capacity; "the old beagles are well, and run well; every play-day we meet together: the old "wall of the park is as decayed as Dodson is in honesty, but the new work is good.

---

[1] ccxix. 218. [2] ccxx. 89. [3] lii. 24.
[4] Query, Highnam Park, two miles west of Gloucester? [5] ccxv. 138.

"The deer thrive admirable well. The hares increase exceedingly. We keep the foxes under. But other game impair apace, because the ringtayles increase daily."[1]

On 25th November 1668, he writes from Dublin, "As to what relates to either of my capacities of keepership or commissionership, I shall humbly tender this short account. As for the fence of the park, it stands much better than formerly, the keepers taking the care on them to see it well mended where mending is needful. The does prove well; and all the deer look well. We almost daily kill foxes above ground, for all the earths are dug to such a shallowness that the foxes find no safety in them; but the common enemy, the ringtails,[2] begin to multiply amongst us; so that what with the Soldiers and them, there is scarce a partridge left about these parts. I hear trammels are carryed out every night under red coats."[3]

Sir Francis Aungier, Earl of Longford, writes (London, September 14th, 1680) to the Earl of Arran, the Duke of Ormonde's son, and Lord Deputy.

"This being Holyrood Day the King and Duke make an end of Buck-hunting at Mr. Secretary's lodge,[4] and to-morrow the Duke dines with the Artillery band. Adieu."[5]

The following year, on the same anniversary, Sir Nicholas Armorer writes to Ormonde from the same place.

"Enfield Chase, September 13, 1679. Mr. Secretary commands me to send you his service. We were to make this Holyrood Day because to-morrow is Sunday, but the rain has driven us home. The huntsmen are to bring home a brace of bucks to be hung up by the hornes upon the great tree before the door, and there, horns at least twenty, are to sound the mort;[6] and after to driuk the King's health out of these horns. The Irish folks come in course every day, and will not be forgot in this great day of ceriimonie."[7]

ALLEGORICAL ADDRESS TO ORMONDE.

We shall conclude this series of illustrative papers with an exceedingly curious poetical piece written on occasion of Ormonde's fourth Lord-Lieutenancy, entitled, "A NAVALL ALLEGORY, by the Register of the Admiralty in Ireland. Although many of the allusions (for the most part explained in the notes which we have thought it well to append) are obscure, the "Navall Allegory" contains a humorous summary of the political history of Irish Ormonde's career from 1641 to 1677.

"To his Grace James, Duke of Ormonde, as Grand Pilott of the good Shipp Ireland, upon his foweerth expedition in that Botome. [A.D. 1677.]

"What weather are wee like to have? Or what Long voyage are wee goeing that you're att
The helme this fourth tyme and take in hand
The whip s'tafe of the Sword and Cheife Command?
When first you took it Boreas, Rebellion, blew
An Ulster stress of winde which over threw Both Church and State untill you sailed close-hauled Into the smoothenys a Cessation called.
Next turne you tooke at Ireland's ticklish helme,
Was when the Pope and Nuncio plagued the Realme
With spiritual frauds and bugbear fulmination,
And when Rump reigned in carnall usurpation.
Then did you wisely lash the helme a lee,
And put the Shipp a Try till you could see
What saile to make. You spooned away before
The wind and sea untill the storm was oër.
Without a knott of saile you drove twelve yeare,
Tossed with the floods of hopes and ebbs of fears.
So drawn about with tides and currents motion
And having crossed a wide Atlantic Ocean,
You made the coast of Ireland, and then once more
You took the helme and bore in with the shore.
A noble pilotage! For though the weather
Seemed fair (the King restored) yet you had neither Compass nor Card nor Running Glass, nor line,
Yet stood the course your wisdom did divine

[1] ccxv. 274. [2] Kites. [3] ccxv. 271.
[4] On his retirement from the office of Secretary of State the King granted Mr. Secretary Coventry a lodge in Enfield Chase, for his occupation.
[5] ccxliii. 250.
[6] The air sounded at the death of the stag in hunting. [7] ccxliii. 250.

679

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued

Amidst a thousand rocks. Here lay a sand
Of Souldiers' Interest [1] (some in Command,
Some out). There a dangerous sheife
Of vext Adventurers [2] and men of peif.
Here a strange tide of Innocents did sett in
Which spoiled the fishing, Nocents were so thin.[3]
There Connaught purchasers [4] and Transplantees
Meeting a thousand sorts of bold grantees,
Made a growne sea. Here came a hazy fog
Of dark Provisos [5] which the Act did clog.
There arose clonds of several sorts of men (Whose names I can't remember one of ten).
Ensigne,[6]—Mero motu,—Men reprizable,
Nominees,—and such as never yet were able
To set their foot on land. All made a noise
Like sheet-flown sails. The Court-Claims swearing boys
With paraphrased oaths, steeled with pretence of clause
In Act Explanatory and other laws,
Beget a damned confusion fore and aft,
Whilst some rejoiced,—some fumed,—some cried,—some laughed.
Sometimes a flaw of wind (or angry vote
Of Parliament) would overset the Boat.

All this while you (I mean, Great Ormonde, you) Stood right in with the Land; kept the Ship to
The King's and Country's Interest; and when a puff
Of other wind did blow, you kept your Luff,
And got to windward. Thus we all, though late
Came to an anchor in Certificate.[7]
When, having stopped a tide, at length we went
All safe ashore in Letters called Patent.
Some of the fleet stayed in the Bay, Decree,[8]
Some hall'd in the open road of Letteree.[9]

Thus landed all, the freight and Cargo paid
Year's value,[10] Subsidie, and Chimney aid.
We went to sleep till the Exchequer bees
Woke us again, and stung us with their fees
And wild demands. Oh King! Is it your intent,
After these 'scapes, the hurricane quite spent
Should stave and sink us? Or that a local swarm
Of pilfering pieceroons should do us harm?

---

[1] The Soldier Interest was of two kinds, the Royalist or The (1640) Officers, all "In Command," i. e. Commissioned Officers: the Cromwellian, part Private Soldiers, or "Out" of Command.

[2] The Adventurers were "vexed" at being deprived by 17 & 18 Chas. II. ch. 2. sec. 5 (Act of Explanation passed in December 1665) of one-third of their lands.

[3] The new English interest were discontented at so many of the Irish being decreed Innocent by the Court of Claims.

[4] The English, concerned in setting out their Lots in Connaught in Cromwell's time to the Irish, which they purchased through fraud and force at under rates, but were confirmed to them by the Act of Settlement.

[5] Men of influence at Court and elsewhere got special Provisos, which much obstructed the general rules of Settlement to the vexation of the new English Interest in general who had not the same means of influence.

[6] "Ensignmen" were those who had ranged themselves under the King's Ensigns in the Army of Irish which was formed during his exile in France and Flanders, and were promised restitution by the King's Declaration, embodied in the Act of Settlement (Clause XXV.) "Mero-motu Men" were those Irish restored at the King's first return by Letters Patent, of which "mero-motu" is a phrase. Those patents obtained before 30 November 1660, the date of the King's Declaration of Settlement, were by the Act of Settlement made good; those after that date were voidable (sec. 128).

[7] The Commissioners of the Court of Claims were to "Certify" their Decrees to the Lord Lieutenant in order to the claimant's obtaining Letters Patent thereon (14 & 15 Chas. II. ch. 2. sec. 34.)

[8] Papists and Protestants who were decreed Innocent were thereby re-invested with their ancient title, and rested secure with their mere Decree. Perhaps, however, it may allude to those that rested on their Decrees without taking out Letters Patent.

[9] "Letterees" were such Irish as had obtained the King's Letters for restitution in the early months after his Restoration. But they were put out again by the Act of Explanation.

[10] The new English Interest paid a fine of a year's value to the King for confirming their Cromwellian title by the Act of Settlement (14 & 15 Chas. II. ch. 2. secs. 131, 132).

Digitized by Google

"No!" quoth the King, "I'le rather make James go
A fourth trip for Ireland." "Let it be so"
Cried one and all. Thus did with cheerful voice
The whole Ship's crew from stem to stern rejoice.

The Post Scrip.

The greater was their joy because they all
Hoped Ossory (their friend) father Admirll,
Ossory the Great, the honest, and the stout,
Might by his means at helm have t'other bout.
"Were he," quoth they, "but Boatswain, all were well;
He would'nt the cables nor the anchors sell;
Make stays and shrouds of rotten ropes, nor let Harl'd kenks into the running rigging get.
All sheaves should in their blocks run yare and clever.
Capstans gear true. The pumps of Justice never
Be 't fault, but always fit the hold to free
From what can dangerous or can noisome be.

Ormonde and Ossory don't sail for wages;
They have great cargoes of their own, and gages
For Ireland's Common Interest still to be true,
And make the highway to the Law be their due.
Let's drink their healths—Here's to 'em, my hearts of gold,
Ossory the young, and Ormonde never old."[1]

In respectfully submitting to your Lordship this account of the Carte Collection, we are sensible how very inadequate is the notion which can be formed of its richness, its variety, and its immense historical value, whether from our own description of its contents or from the original documents, interesting as many of them are, by which we have attempted to illustrate it. We can only venture to hope that what we have written may at least serve to invite the attention of historical students to this vast, but too long neglected, repertory of information regarding the history of one of the most important periods in our annals. To the original materials of the history of England, political and social, during the period of the Commonwealth and Restoration, it forms a most valuable supplement; for those of the history of Ireland during the same period it may almost be said to be the sole available repository.

In conclusion, we feel bound to repeat our warmest acknowledgment, more than once expressed in former Reports, of the uniform courtesy and ready kindness which we have experienced during our lengthened researches in the Bodleian Library at Oxford. To its distinguished head, the Reverend H. O. Coxe, and to every official of the Bodleian, we shall ever feel deeply grateful, and our association with this great Library will remain one of the most agreeable recollections of our lives.

We have the honour to remain,
My Lord,
Your Lordship's most obedient servants,
C. W. Russell, D.D. John P. Prendergast.

---

[1] lxix. 333.*

681

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Appendix A.

Contents of Lord Gormanston's Cabinet captured at Lord Fingal's, in the County of Cavan, 17th April 1643.

The following Calendar or Abstract made by Carte of the contents of Lord Gormanston's cabinet, seized in 1643, throws light on the early proceedings of the insurgent Irish, particularly those of The Pale. The originals were amongst Lord Egmont's papers, representative of Sir Philip Perceival, a prominent privy councillor in Ireland in 1641 and the following years, who no doubt got possession of them through the place he held at the Council Board. Lord Gormanston was made Commander-in-chief by the gentry of the Pale.—See tit. 12.

"Letters, &c., taken in Lord Gormanston's Papers, at Loughramer hard by Lord Fingal's house, in Co. Cavan, and delivered at the Council Board, by Lieutenant Hatcher, on 17 April 1643.

1. Lord Dunsany to Lord Gormanston, from Rathreagh, 1st Jan. 1641-2. That he had according to his directions sent as many men and in as good order as he could procure; had been in Westmeath and Longford to reconcile the factions, particularly Andrew Nugent of Donore; and intimated his Lordship the fittest to have the command of them. He was treating with Longford and hoped to prevail with them to march where Gormanston should please, though Roger Moore had sent to them also. He hoped his Lordship would think he was not slowest in his endeavours to do his dread Sovereign service: and intreats him "that as I have formerly written you would take "some present course whereby his Majesty may be informed of our proceedings. I "have also taken a course to get intelligence from most parts of the kingdom."

2. Lord Gormanston's order to Nicholas Dowdal, High Sheriff of Meath (4th Jan. 1641-2), to send him a schedule of the Names of the Collectors of the several baronies charged by Colonel McMahon for arrears.

3. Edward Dowdal of Monktown's speech to the Gentlemen in arms in Meath assigning the Causes to be—1st. For a free exercise of Roman Catholic religion; 2nd. Restitution of H.M.'s Prerogative invaded by the English; 3rd. Independency of this country oppressed by the Parliament of England.

4. Richard Butler, of Castlecomer, to his Cousin, 21st Dec. 1641. Come from Kilkenny where Lord Mountgarret was with great forces and had sent thence all the Protestants. Luke Byrne and Feagh McRedmond were with 2,000 men in Co. Carlow.

5. Pass from Thos. Barnewall to Thos. O'Carrol } 7th Dec.
Do. Lord Gormanston to Pk. Laughlin. } 15th „

6. Lord Gormanston to the nobility and gentry at Dulevk, 8th Feb. 1641-2. To settle among themselves a course for provisions.

7. Lords Justices and Council to Lord Gormanston. W. Parsons and J. Borlace; La. Dublin, Ant. Midens. R. Ranelagh, J. Dillon, Adam Loftus, J. Temple, T. Willoughby, Rt. Meredith; thanking him for his advertisements, desiring him to meet the nobility and gentry of Meath at Navan, and then to certify what they resolve on the Lords Justices letters that they may deliver arms for 500 men, such as the country should appoint, which with the arms already there they hoped would suffice for the safety of the country.—[2nd Nov. 1641.]

8. Desire of the gentry of Dublin that Lord Gormanston should continue in command, Lusk, 25th Jan. 1641-2. Luke Netterville, Jo. and T. Finglas, Peter Cruise, G. Blackney, Law. Belling, Phil. Hore, Thomas, James, and N. Russell, T. Fitzwilliams, James and Edward Bermingham, Alexr. Aylmer, Andrew Barnewall, W. Travers, T. and Walter Conron, Patrick Caddle, and Richard Pentany sign it.

9. Account of haggards about the Navan lately burnt, belonging to Protestants. By whom threshed off.

10. Robert Nugent to Lord Gormanston, proposing a meeting between him, Mountgarret, and Sir Phelim O'Neil, to make up all jealousies and differences between them, or at least to send some lawyers and clergy as their Commissioners to do it.

11. Richard Barnewall of Crickstown to Lord Gormanston, 27th Feb. 1641-2. Represents their case as desperate without a better course for provisions. That Lord Gormanston's uncle, Moore, was at Nass with 2,000 men and but 200 muskets.

12. Gentry of Meath appointing Lord Gormanston Commander-in-chief, 9th Jan. 1641-2. Signed, Fingal. Slane, Trimleston, R. Barnewall, Laurence, Nicholas, and E. Dowdal, Thos. Nangle, James and Peter Cusack, Pat. Bermingham, Valerian Wesley, Pat. Segrave.

13. Earl of Fingal to Lord Gormanston from Kilbrue, Sunday: That he had endeavoured to draw forces in those parts to Drogheda, but on General Byrne's letter had sent them to Kilsonghlan, where the enemy was to be on Monday morning.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

14. Lord Slane to Lord Gormanston, 16th April 1642. "My Lord, Sithence my coming home I have heard certain intelligence that there are 3,000 Scots landed with Colonel Munro, and 7,000 more daily expected. My Lord of Ardes hath 5,000 ready to join with them. Sir Phelim hath butt a firkin and a half of powder, so as unless you procure Terence Coughlan his sudden despatch of those letters to the State we are all undone. Therefore I shall earnestly desire that your Lordship delay no time, but instantly send for him and not alter, my cousin Plunket or Sir William Hill being the fittest men to go. Tirlagh O'Neil is of the same opinion, and thinks it most necessary, being assured his brother [Sir Phelim] will be very glad of it, and all those that are engaged in this unfortunate business. If you omit this opportunity I doubt not of sudden ruin, which I hope may be prevented by taking this course. It is fitter to employ them, than those that declared themselves; for if others be employed it will be known it is our request by reason of our weakness; whereas it will be supposed these men were sent without our privity. Thus not doubting of your Lordship's care therein, I remain, your Lordship's, &c.—SLANE. There are not above 800 about Dundalk, who do not intend to assault it, being not provided to do it, and [being] out of hopes to recover the same by reason of the fortifications made within the town lately."

15. Lord Gormanston to his wife, desiring her not to come to him, being wounded. 31st Jan. 1641.

16. Lady Gormanston to her husband. London, 8th June 1641. About the battle of Sedan, Count Soissons killed. The King passing the Bill for abolishing the Court of Star Chamber, High Commission Court, &c. Earl of Denbigh and his daughter, Lady Kinalmeaky overturned in a barge under London Bridge, but saved.

17. James Fleming to Lord Gormanston, from Syddan, expecting an attack the next morning, with receipt of 10 lbs. from his Lordship.

18. Emer McMahon, R. Bellings, Roger Moore, Gerald Fennel, Mor. Flaherty, Tibbot Burke, Peter Clinton, Barthw. Dillon, and James Cusack to Lord Gormanston, from Kilkenny, Thursday, 20th July 1642. That they had received his Lordship's letters that morning at 8 o'c.; they were two days in coming. Cars and horses should be sent to the county of Wexford [for] the powder and arms from Dunkirk, &c.; and desire him to leave there a competent provision for security of the place, which the council now enabled [by] this supply would effectually take care of, and keep the enemy at a further distance.

19. Inventory of Lord Gormanston's household stuff at his death in December 1629, taken 11th Jan. 1629-30.

20. Fr. Thomas Fleming to the Lords of Meath. Wednesday, sent by his brother James (as it seems) from Galway. He says that he had wrote abroad for help, presses an union among them, and says that the last merchant's (Mr. Darcy's nephew's) powder, all to three firkins is with friends, and he hoped to get some of it.

21. Richard Barnewall, R. Belling, Robert Nugent, and Piers Butler (too few to make a council) to Lord Gormanston, from Kilkenny, 23rd July 1642; advises him to return to Wexford, and get what powder he could from thence, leaving the least quantity he could prevail with the town to be content with. Complain of the stubbornness of the people.

22. Fr. Fleming to James Delinor or Joseph Sarsfield, &c. from Ardagh, 1642; that the Scots were as yet towards the Newry, and resolved to march towards Monahan.

23. Todd Netterville to Lord Gormanston, from Balleygan, 6th Feb. 1641-2; that he will not spare his men at present from defence of his house.

24 Patrick Segrave to John Roe at Waringston, from Killeglan, 1st Jan. 1641-2; threatening to come with 200 men if he did not send the cows.

25. Lord Trimleston to his cousin, 9th January 1641-2.

26. Warrant for Laurence Dowdal and Patrick Betagh for levying money, 29th July 1642.

27. Luke Netterville to Capt. Bartholomew Fitzgerald, to come with his men, and restore five or six musketts.

28. Protection of Lord Gormanston, Philip Reilly and Sir Phelim O'Neil to E. Bermingham's castle, 18th Jan. 1641-2.

29. Lord Gormanston to the Lords of Meath, for supplies from Gormanston. 27th Dec. 1641.

30 Earl of Fingal's order not to molest Richard Allen in threshing the vicar of Knockwarke's wheat. 14th Dec. 1641.

31. Lord Gormanston's pass for W. Cawan. 15th Dec. 1641.

32. N. Dowdal's order for levying 20 beeves, and 10 barrels of bread on the barony of Dunboyne, to be sent on Wednesday to Col. Reilly's regiment at the siege of Drogheda. 22nd Dec. 1641.

33. Do. do. on the barony of Skreene.

34. Do. do. on the barony of Dunboyne, for 20 beeves and 17 barrels of bread. 6th Dec. 1641.

35. Patk. Barnewall to his cousin, sending copies of the oath the gentlemen took yesterday and the declaration which Col. Byrne promised to send him.

36. Christr. Barnewell to his cousin, sending 10 beeves, 12th Dec. 1641.

37. Applotment of the barony of Mayfenragh, [Co. of Meath], putting 27 men on the parish of Ratheor, and the town of Longwood for month; bread for 10 days, &c. 17th Feb. 1641-2.

Digitized by Google

683

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

38. Petition of Patrick Sedgrave of Killeglan to the Lords Justices and Council, drawn by Nicholas Plunket and in his hand, representing his dutiful behaviour since the rebellion, being pillaged by 200 Irish, his house plundered, narrowly escaping with his life, his house fired by the King's forces. Desiring leave to dwell in peace in the remains of his house, &c.

39. Patrick Sedgrave to J. Rowe of Waringstoun, from Killeglan, Saturday, 1641; desiring him to meet the General of the barony of Dunboyne a Ratoath to-morrow at 1, and to bring the beeves and bread with him. He had also directions to speak with him about some business from the camp at Drogheda.

40. Lord Gormanston, Lord Trimleston, &c. appointing the Earl of Fingal General of the Horse. January 1641-2.

41. Lord Fingal's warrant to Richard Allen of Trim, to seize on corn, and thrash it for the maintenance of the army.

42. E. Beytagh's and Christopher Barnewall's warrant to ditto, on sight of the above warrant. 9th Dec. 1641.

43. Hugh Brady's receipt of 20 beeves from the collector of the barony of Skreen. 20th Jan. 1641-2.

44. Edw. Dowdal's warrant for 27 beeves on the said barony. 15th [Jan. 1641-2].

45. Summons of George Barnewall of Cookstown to meet at Skreen, and bring the last plot of beeves. 15th Jan. 1641-2.

46. Roger Moore and other commanders at the siege of Drogheda; their commission to Nicholas Sutton to be a colonel and raise a regiment. 15th Dec. 1641.

47. John Netterville to Ignatius Plunket. 4th March 1641-2.

48. The King's proclamation against the rebels.

49. R. Plunket to the gentry and Lords of the Pale, exhorting them to persevere as he had been a means to invite them to appear (in arms) in the blessed cause. Bewly, 28th February 1641-2.

50. To Patrick Barnewall, Abbot of Mellifont.

51. Lord Gormanston's warrant to block up the harbour of Drogheda. 30th Jan. 1641-2.

52. Indulgence of Pope Adrian VI. to the graines which he blessed at the request of Cardinal Laquirame Barbant, A.D. 1523, confirmed by Pope Paul V. in 1607, and by Urban VIII. 25th Jan.

53. Christopher Fitzgerald to the Earl of Kildare, 28th Dec. 1641; giving an account of his house of Taghton's being seized by Mr. Gaydon, G. Walshe, and Colonel Garret Talbot.

54. Nicholas Wogan to Earl of Fingal, from Mynalvy, 5th Feb. 1641-2, that the muskets his Lo'p ordained to be sent were left at Ratheoffy, to guard his house; what he had at Mynalvy were Lewis Dempsey's. He had sent his men to learn what would be concluded on at Taragh; desires his Lo'p to send him word what news from Drogheda. G. Aylmer, Thomas Ashe, and Higgins, a Dominican, carried prisoners to Dublin.

55. Roger Moore's warrant to James Helen to be captain and raise 100 men. 6th December 1641.

56. John Eustace to his cousin R. Barnewall.

57. Gentlemen of Kildare's Commission to assessors of the Barony of Naass, and te give account to Christopher Eustace, of Newland, and W. Eustace, of Cradockstown. Signed, Sir Andrew Aylmer, Sir Robert Talbot., Barnaby Britten, Nicholas Wogan, James and William Fitzgerald, Chr. Eustace.

59. Commissioners of Kildare appointing a market at Athy. 17th Jan. 1641-2. Signed, Andrew Aylmer, R. Talbot, G. Aylmer, Sir Robt. Talbot, Barnaby Britten, Nich Wogan, James & William Fitzgerald, Christ. Eustace.

60. Christ. Archbold's pass for Denis Dowling. 9th Jan. 1641-2.

61. Col. Piers Fitzgerald's commission to Capt. Oliver Fay, of Ballaghinrone. 23rd Dec. 1641.

62. Maur. Eustace to Col. Sutton, Castle Martyn. 2nd Jan. 1641-2.

63. Oliver Louth's order for several persons to attend on Thomas Roome for the King's service, with instructions to Capt. John Habbe. 28th Jan. 1641-2.

64. Peter Clinton to Jas. Plunket, of Keiserstown, Esq. 14th Feb. 1641-2.

65. ——— Warrant to Math. Penteny, of Ardee, to be Quartermaster. 5th March 1641-2.

66. Orders of Oliver Louithe, 29th Jan. 1641-2, for the town of [ ] to provide 120 soldiers.

67. Christ. Barnewall to Sir Christ. Bellew, Patrick Bellew of Vardenstown and Js. White, of Belregan, 5th Dec. 1641, inviting them to join him with their forces next day. The words are—

"I pray you to be here to-morrow with such forces of horse and foot as you can possibly make, wherof if you will fail there is a course to be taken for the ruin of yourself and your estate which I advise you to prevent. Even so, with my best wishes to yourself I rest,

"Your Worship's very loving cousin,

"CHRIST. BARNEWALL.

"From my Camp, 5th Dec. 1641.

"P.S.—Let Mr. Bellew, of Verdanstown, and Mr. White, of Belreegan, expect no better usage unless they shall give their attendance with their forces."

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

68. Christopher Barnewall's protection to Patrick Cashel, of Dundalk, for his goods. 18th Dec. 1641.
69. O. Louith's order to Captain Babbe to seize English goods, &c. 21st Feb. 1641-2.
70. Do. do. for levying 1 Soldier out of every £0 a. in the county. 13th Feb. 1641-2.
71. O. Louith's order to Captain Babbe to thresh an haggard, &c. 10th Dec. 1641.
72. O. Louith's pass to N. O'Down and Patrick Magrath. 24th Jan. 1641-2.
73. ,, order to Captain Babbe to come up with his forces and to bring Col. Brian O'Neil with him.
74. Christ. Barnewall's order to Mathw. Pontaine. 28th Dec. 1641.
75. O. Louith's, Christ. Barnewall, and Jas. Plunket's orders to collectors of the barony of Dundalk to take up 1 cow in each plough land, or 4 nobles in lieu thereof. Carrestown, 5th Feb. 1641-2.
76. Sir Phelim O'Neal's warrant to Capt. Thos. Kappock. 16th Feb. 1641-2.
77. Col. McMahon's pass to Fr. Patk. Taaffe and his garrons. Old Bridge, 30th Dec. 1641.
78. Philip O'Reilly to William Moore, Esq., 21st Oct. 1641, to borrow his black horse, Morocco saddle, good bridle, and his petronels, to be conveyed to him by the bearer, so that none may get a sight of them for fear of a discovery. To send also the piece he had from [ ], by Owen Brady, the bearer, at nightfall; and if he had any pikes to send as many as Owen Brady and O. McDonnell could carry; and give them directions not to take his way; and if he could send him another horse with the like saddle it were well; to send also the key of petronels (the pretence being that a trusty fellow had undertaken to inform him certainly where he might between that date and Sunday come upon three of the rebels, though he could not directly set down the night). He desired him to keep all this secret to himself; otherwise all the preparation would be in vain, for the rebels have so many friends near us that they will presently suspect the preparation. 21st Oct. 1641.
79. Malachi, Archbishop of Tuam, to Serjeant-Major Barrett, 1st July 1642, about measures for opposing the English advanced to Athlone.
80. Phil. Reilly's and Js. Fleming's pass to L. Fitzallen, of Trim. 6th Dec. 1641.
81. Sir Phelim O'Neil to Patrick O'Hagan, for account of cows he had seized in the Largy, 27th Dec. 1641, taken in Captain Neil's pocket.
82. Capt. Barnaby Byrne's, of Knockdriet, co. Wicklow, owning to serve under his brother, Brian Byrne, of Kilternan, for the destruction and banishment of Hercticks and Schismatics, &c. 27th March 1642.
83. Lord Gormanston's Commission to Philip Hore, of Kilsallaghan, to be Treasurer of the Catholic Army in the co. of Dublin. 12th Feb. 1641-2.
84. R. Caddel's orders to the Collectors of the Barony of Dunboyne to send 21 beeves and 11 barrels of bread to Harbertstown for the army at the siege of Drogheda. 5th Jan. 1641-2.
85. Warrants to Capt. Phil. O'Reilly to seize all plate in Belturbet. Signed, Phil. O'Reilly. 28th Feb. 1641-2; and 2nd March, signed Christ. Brady, for supplying Phil. O'Reilly with corne.
86. Do. for cessing 120 men till 120*l.* was paid out of the Lapsed Titles in the co. of Cavan. 24th March 1642.
87. Sir Phelim O'Neil's Commission to Capt. Fox to be Serjeant-Major of the Province of Meath, and third to him over the Catholic Army. 15th Jan. 1641-2.
88. Col. Roger Moore, L. Byrne, and J. Byrne to Serjeant-Major Felix Byrne to come and join them at the Naal.
89. Mathew Cusacke, Priest's Certificate of J. Huxley and his wife being Roman Catholics.
90. Hugh O'Byrne to Phelim Byrne: hopes good news from Drogheda. 19th Jan. 1641-2.
91. J. Morphy, Priest's Certificate of J. Huxley, of Rath, and Grace Salsbury, his wife, being Roman Catholics. 10th Dec. 1641.
92. Ph. Rely's Order to Capt. Dowdal to march to Kells, Navan, and Mornanstown. 18th Dec. 1641.
93. Patrick Segrave's receipt for 6 cows of the barony of Dunboyne in consideration of his loss. 19th Dec. 1641.

The end.[1]

[1] ciii. 163.

Appendix B.

Catalogue of Original King's Letters under Sign Manual and Privy Seal, addressed some few to the Lords Justices, but principally to the Duke of Ormond, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, from the year 1660 to the year 1669, contained in Volume 41, Volume 42, and Volume 43 of the Carte Papers.

[The letter R. in old English in the outer margin signifies that there is a memorandum on the Letter of its having been enrolled in Chancery in Ireland. The letter S. that it appears to have been entered at the Signet Office. The Letters A. G. that it had been enrolled with the Auditor General of Ireland.

The numbers on the inner margin give the pages where the Letters are to be found in the Volumes.

A running number in brackets has been added to the catalogue to make it easy to find any person named in a Letter by the Alphabetical Index.]

Vol. XLI.

		page
(1.)	Philip Carpenter, to be Serjeant at Arms to the Parliament. June 30, 1660	1
(2.)	William Molloy, to be Clerk of the Common Pleas. July 10, 1660	2	R.
(3.)	Oliver Jones, to be Clerk of Affidavits for Connaught. July 20, 1660	3
(4.)	George Rutledge, to be leather sealer of Leinster. July 20, 1660	4	R.
(5.)	Thomas Seele, B.D., to be Provost of Trinity College, Dublin	5	R.
(6.)	William Currer, M.D., recommendatory of him seeking to be Physician of Charitable Institutions	6
(7.)	Dr. William Currer, to be Physician to the Army in Ireland. July 30	7
(8.)	John Bramhall, D.D., Bishop of Derry, to be Archbishop of Armagh	8	R.
(9.)	Samuel Pullein, D.D., Dean of Clonfert, to be Archbishop of Tuam, and to have the Bishopric of Enaghdoin, in Commendam on account of its exility. August 3	9	R.
(10.)	Thomas Fulmar, Bishop of Ardfert, to be Archbishop of Cashel. August 2, 1660	10	R.
(11.)	James Margetson, Dean of Christ Church, Dublin, to be Archbishop of Dublin. August 3, 1660	11	R.
(12.)	Henry Lesley, Bishop of Down and Connor, to be Bishop of Meath and Clonmacnois. August 3, 1660	12	R.
(13.)	Edward Synge, Dean of Elphin, to be Bishop of Limerick. August 3, 1660	13	R.
(14.)	John Parker, B.D., Dean of Killaloe, to be Bishop of Elphin. August 6, 1660	14	R.
(15.)	Robert Price, Dean of Connor, to be Bishop of Leighlin and Ferns. August 6, 1660	15	R.
(16.)	George Baker, B.D., to be Bishop of Waterford. August 6, 1660	16	R.
(17.)	Michael Boyle, Dean of Cloyne, to be Bishop of Cork. August 6, 1660	17	R.
(18.)	Robert Lesley, to be Bishop of Dromore. August 6, 1660	18	R.
(19.)	Jeremy Taylor, D.D., to be Bishop of Down and Connor. August 6, 1660	19	R.
(20.)	George Wilde, LL.D., to be Bishop of Derry. August 6, 1660	20	R.
(21.)	Dudley Cooley, of Castle Carbery, Co. Kildare, to have Ardkill and Collinstown, Co. Kildare. August 6, 1660	21	R.
(22.)	Edward Worth, Dean of Cork, to be Bishop of Killaloe. August 7, 1660	22	R.
(23.)	Henry Hall, D.D., Dean of Cashel, to be Bishop of Killala and Achonry. August 7, 1660	23	R.
(24.)	Robert Lesley, to be Bishop of Dromore. August 10, 1660	24	R.
(25.)	Ancient native inhabitants of Cork City, to be forthwith restored to their former houses, lands, and freedoms. August 12, 1660	25
(26.)	Ancient native inhabitants of Cork City, their petition to the King, and his Majesty's Fiat thereon and Ormond's certificate. July 31	26
(27.)	Ancient native inhabitants of Cork City, report on their conduct signed Ormond, Valentia, G. Hamilton. February 13, 1660-1	27
(28.)	Earl of Clanbrassil, discharge to be given him according to his petition. August 16, 1660	28

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLI.—continued.

		p.
(29.)	Sir Faithful Fortescue, to be Governer of Carrickfergus. August 21, 1660	29
(30.)	Christopher Roper, recommendatory of him to the Lords Justices. August 31, 1660	30	R.
(31.)	William Davys, Esq., eldest son of Sir Paul Davys, to be Clerk of the Privy Council after the death of Sir Paul Davys. August 28, 1660	31
(32.)	John Lesley, Bishop of Rapho, to have the Deanery of Rapho in Commendam for having built a castle at Rapho which cannot be repaired under 300*l.* September 10, 1660	32
(33.)	Patrick Lambert, to be Feudatory and Escheator of Connaught. September 3, 1660	33
(34.)	Richard Power, Esq., to be Governor of Waterford. September 7, 1660	34
(35.)	James Durham, Major, to be Captain of Foot. September 18, 1660	35
(36.)	Sir Maurice Eustace, Lord Chancellor, to have a pension of 1,500*l.* a year above the profits of his office. September 18, 1660	36	R.
(37.)	John Westley, of the City of Dublin, Chief Examiner in Chancery, to be one of the Masters in Ordinary. September 18, 1660	37
(38.)	Sir Audley Mervyn, to be Principal Serjeant at Law. September 20, 1660	38
(39.)	Dr. Robert Mossom, to be Dean of Christ Church, Dublin. September, 25, 1660	39
(40.)	Richard Kennedy and Thomas Kennedy, to have the office of Chief Remembrancer of the Exchequer. September 27, 1660	40
(41.)	Mayor of Dublin, to have a Cap of Maintenance and a Collar of S.S. as the Lord Mayor of London. September 29, 1660	41
(42.)	Roger Earl of Orrery, to have the wardship of Folliott Wingfield. September 29, 1660	42
(43.)	Sir John Temple, Master of the Rolls, to have leave of absence to attend as M.P. in England. October 1, 1660	43
(44.)	Major James Durham, recommendatory for some means of support	44
(45.)	John Burdon, to have the Chief Surveyorship of Customs after the death of Thomas Maull. October 4, 1660	45
(46.)	Wm. Bayly, Bishop of Clonfert, to hold the parsounge of Granard, Co. Longford in Commendam. October 5, 1660	46
(47.)	Duke of Ormond: Sir W. Flower to have as his Trustee several small parcels of land late the property of Col. Wogan (a person excepted from pardon of life and estate) lying intermixed with Ormond's. October 12, 1660	47
(48.)	Robert Bishop of Kildare, to have the Bishopric of Ardagh in Commendam. October 6, 1660	48
(49.)	Duke of Ormond, to have all rents, &c., due out of lands, &c., held of him, and not paid into the Exchequer before April 25th, 1660, and that he be discharged of all debts due by same. October 6, 1660	49
(50.)	Thomas Price, to be Bishop of Kildare, vice William Goulbourne, dec. October 8, 1660	51	R.
(51.)	G. Barkley, to be Dean of Killalloe. October 9, 1660	52
(52.)	John Barkley, to be Rector of Kneckgraffon in County Tipperary. October 9, 1660	52	R.
(53.)	Sir Thomas Sherlock, of Butlerstown, near the City of Waterford, to be restored to his lands on the certificate of Sir Maurice Eustace, Annesley and others, that Sir Thomas Sherlock accompanied Cromwell to Dublin, and got orders from him that his lands should not (on account of his inoffensive behaviour) be set out to adventurers or souldiers. October 16, 1660	54 & 55
(54.)	Archibald Campbell, to be Clerk of the Docquets. October 16, 1660	56
(55.)	Capt. William Hamilton, to have the first vacant Captaincy of Foot for his loyalty and services, and for those of his brother Captain John Hamilton, slain in our service, whose debts he undertook. October 23, 1660	57
(56.)	Patrick Tallon, to be Escheator of Leinster and "the Pale," granted by Charles I in 19th year of his reign to Sir Maurice Eustace and Alexander Eustace, his brother. October 24, 1660	58
(57.)	Sir Patherick Weames, to have the houses, &c., in the City of Dublin, of James Bathe, late of Athcarne, of Philip Hore of Kilsalaghan, of Robert Arthur, of Dublin, and Christ. Chamberlain, of Dublin, and others granted in Custodiam by order of King Charles I. dated at Shrewsbury, Septembei 30, 1643. October 24, 1660	59
(58.)	John Lord Kingston, to have a house in George's Lane, Dublin, held for 6*l.* a year for a term of years from Mr. Arthur by Mr. Foord, felo de se, and another house which might serve for a stable, &c. held by one Quin, who became a Rebel. October 24, 1660	60

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLI.—continued.

(59.) Viscount Moore, to be Governor of Drogheda, of the Barony of Slane, and Co. of Louth. October 25, 1660 - - - - - p. 61

(60.) Rice Phillips, to have the wardship of Piers Lord Baron of Cahir confirmed to him, he having bought the Grant from Lord Inchiquin, which he had obtained in 1648. October 26, 1660 - - 62

(61.) George Dunn, to have restitution of his houses and lands in the hands of Adventurers and Soldiers who are to be reprized elsewhere according to our intended Declaration. November 1, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 63

(62.) Viscount Fitzwilliam, of Merion, to have restitution of his lands of Bagotrath, Mill of Donabrook, Cappock, Glanculleu, and some other lands, mortgaged by his late father, and now forfeited to us. November 1, 1660 - - - - - - - - 64

(63.) Nicholas Whyte, to be restored to the lands whereof Sir Nicholas, and afterwards his brother Arthur (whose heir he is), were seized, which are in our disposal and not in the hands of Adventurers or Soldiers. November 1, 1660 - - - - - - - 65

(64.) W. Sinyth and Peter Wybrants, Aldermen, to be Commissioners of Customs. November 3, 1660 - - - - - - - 66

(65.) Sir A. Aston, to be second Justice of the King's Bench, on account of his early and ready appearance for us. November 3, 1660 - 67 R.

(66.) Nicholas Darcy, rents of his lands in the hands of Adventurers and Soldiers to be stayed. November 3, 1660 - - - - 68

(67.) Earl of Mountrath, to hold the lands of Raghers in the King's County (granted him by the late pretended Lord Lieutenant and Council of Ireland) for a public debt of 750*l.* and for arms supplied by him and Sir Francis Hamilton in 1643, till the said debt be paid. November 3, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 69

(68.) Sir Arthur Forbes, to have the wardship of Sir W. Stuart, son of the widow of Sir Alexr. Stewart, now the wife of said Sir Arthur, the said Sir Alexander Stewart, decd., and his two brothers, having lost their lives in our service; and the said Sir Arthur having had to compound heavily for his said step-son's estate with the Usurpers. November 6, 1660 - - - - - - 70

(69.) Walter Plunkett, to be restored to his lands of Rickenhore and Sawerstown, County of Dublin, granted him by Letters Patents of King Charles I., and he is now to have a lease of them for 41 years, provided they are not in the hands of Adventurers or Soldiers. November 6, 1660 - - - - - - - 71 R.

(70.) Sir Richard Kennedy, to be 2nd Baron of the Exchequer. November 8, 1660 - - - - - - - - - - 72

(71.) Same, to be Attorney of our Court of Wards. November 8, 1660 - 73

(72.) Sir Robert Stewart, to have the licensing of the sale of ale and beer for 21 years. November 8, 1660 - - - - - - 74

(73.) George Carr and William Carr, his son, to be joint Clerk of the Court of Munster. November 9, 1660 - - - - - 75 R.

(74.) Pierce Viscount Ikerrin, to have restitution of his manors of Tullioe, Lismallin, and Clonomilchen, his grandfather having settled the estate in strict settlement on the marriage of said Viscount's father, James Butler, ... , who died before his said grandfather, before the Rebellion, and said Viscount is bred a Protestant. November 23, 1660 - - - - - - - 76

(75.) Pierce Viscount Ikerrin, the King's letter next above to be put in speedy execution. December 3, 1660 - - - - - - 77

(76.) Luke Gernon, 2nd Justice of Munster to be first. November 14, 1660 - - - - - - - - - - 78

(77.) Sir Rt. Stewart, to be Governor of the City and County of Londonderry at large. November 20, 1660 - - - - - - 79

(78.) Maurice Keatinge, in consideration of the sums spent by Edmund his father in gaining several estates in the manor of Narragh, to have Narragh, Boleyberg, Killeene, Inchiquire, Skerries, Ballimonty, November 20, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 80 R.

(79.) Edward Viscount Galmoy, to be restored, and the Adventurers and Soldiers in possession of his estate to be forthwith reprised. November 20, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 81

(80.) Sir Henry Talbot, to be restored to so much as is not in the hands of Adventurers and Soldiers, and for so much as is, that the said Adventurers and Soldiers be forthwith reprised. November 20, 1660 - - - - - - - - - - 82

(81.) Capt. Fulke Rokeby, to have a Lieutenant's place in the Army. November 20, 1660 - - - - - - - - 83

(82.) Robert Harpool, an infant son and heir of Captn. W. Harpool, is granted restitution of his estate, on the petition of himself and his mother, Martha Hartpool, setting forth that said Robert's

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLI.—continued.

		p.
	grandfather, Captain Robert Hartpool, were slain in H.M.'s service at the storm of Drogheda, and his father William Hartpool executed by Axtel. November 21, 1660 - - - - -	84
(83.)	Captn. T. Gifford, to be constable of Philipstown. November 22, 1660 - - - - - - - - - -	85
(84.)	Captn. John Fitzpatherick, to be restored on account of his loyalty in Ireland and services in foreign parts, and notwithstanding any acceptance by his wife or his agents without his directions of lands in Connaught. November 22, 1660 - - - - -	86
(85.)	Donogh Earl of Clancarty, to be forthwith restored to all whereof he hath been dispossessed, in consideration of his services and sufferings, having been questioned for his life in a high court of justice at Dublin and acquitted; and in consideration of the suffrages of the Convention in his favour. November 22, 1660 -	87
(86.)	Thomas Stockton, of Kiddington in the county of Chester, Counsellor at Law, to be 3rd Justice of the King's Bench. November 20, 1660 - - - - - - - - - -	88
(87.)	Philip Carpenter, Serjeant at Arms of Parliament, to be also Pursuivant of the Exchequer. November 23, 1660 - - - -	89
(88.)	Edward Cooke, to be one of the Masters in Chancery. November 24, 1660 - - - - - - - - - -	90
(89.)	Michael Boyle, Bishop of Cork, to have a lease of 61 years of 4 ploughlands of Carrigagunnel and Newtown, in Pubble O'Beien, co. Limerick, late in the possession of Sir Hardress Waller, and by him leased to Cornet J. Cooper. November 24, 1660 - -	91	R.
(90.)	Captain Garret Fitzsimons, recommended for signal services in the late war. November 25, 1660 - - - - - -	92
(91.)	Sir Philip Mainwaring, sent., to continue to receive his pension of 10s. per day, Principal Secretary of State in Ireland. November 25, 1660 - - - - - - - - - -	93	R.
(92.)	George Fitzgerald, son of Sir Luke Fitzgerald, to have restitution of his estate. November 26, 1660 - - - - - - -	94
(93.)	Robt. Boyle, wardship of Jane Itchingham, aged about 15, heiress of [ ] Itchingham of Dunbroly, in county of Wexford, decd. several years since in Ireland. November 30, 1660 - -	95	R.
(94.)	Arnold Power, a Protestant, to be settled in his lands. November 30, 1660 - - - - - - - - - -	96
(95.)	Sir Francis Boteler, to have confirmation of the grant made by Charles I., 31 May, 19th year, of all the goods, &c., forfeited by W. Archbold, Christr. Archbold, Richard Archbold, John Lee, and Jas. Flatsbury, in co. of Kildare. November 30, 1660 -	97	R.
(96.)	Edmond Mears, domestic physician to the late Marquis of Clanricard (on Lady Clanricard's certificate of his loyalty), to have restitution of his estate. November 30, 1660 - - - - -	98
(97.)	Richarde Earl of Cork, to have a grant of the College of Youghal, he having paid a composition of 1,500*l.* in 15th Charles I. for same. November 30, 1660 - - - - - - - -	99
(98.)	James Donnelan, to be Chief Justice of the Common Pleas. November 30, 1660 - - - - - - - - - -	102
(99.)	Sir Jerome Alexander, to be 2nd Justice. November 30, 1660 -	103	R.
(100.)	Patrick and Richard Netterville, younger sons of the Lord Viscount Netterville, to be restored to their lands not in the hands of Adventurers or Soldiers. November 30, 1660 - - - -	103A
(101.)	Duke of Ormonde, to have all mortgages of lands of him held, made by him or his ancestors, where the mortgagee has forfeited. November 30, 1660 - - - - - - - - - -	104
(102.)	Roger Earl of Orrery, to have the wardship of Mary Stuart, daughter and heir of , Baron of Castle Stuart. November 30, 1660 - - - - - - - - - -	105
(103.)	Robert Booth, to be 2nd Justice of Common Pleas. December 1, 1660 - - - - - - - - - - -	106	R.
(104.)	John Clarke, to be restored to his lands not in Adventurers or Soldiers hands. December 2, 1660 - - - - - -	107
(105.)	Lord Baltinglass, to have the next vacant Company of Foot. December 3, 1660 - - - - - - - - - -	108	R.
(106.)	Robert Harpool: To hasten the restitution of him and his mother Martha. December 3, 1660. See (82) supra - - - -	109
(107.)	Sir John Temple, to be Master of the Rolls "dum se bene gesserit" instead of "duramte bene placito." December 3, 1660 - -	110	R.
(108.)	Geoffery Hay, in consideration of the tyranny and oppression he has lain under for many years for his loyalty, to be restored. December 4, 1660 - - - - - - - - - -	111
(109.)	Thomas Kennedy, to be Register to Court of Claims. December 5, 1660 - - - - - - - - - - -	112

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

		p.
	Vol. XLI.—continued.
(110.)	Maurice Fenton and 8 others, to be Knights. December 6, 1660	113
(111.)	Robert Ward, to be Provost Martial General for Ulster. December 6, 1660	114	R.
(112.)	Francis Foulkes, to have the wardship of Henry Earl of Clanbrassil. December 6, 1660	115
(113.)	Robert Fitzgerald, to have the residue of a term of 101 years in 2,745 acres, of Tymoge and other lands in Queen's County, from 20th February 1585, granted by Gerald Earl of Kildare, to Gerald his base son forfeited to K. Charles 2, by the rebellion of Gerald Fitzgerald of Tymoge. December 10, 1660	116
(114.)	Sir Amos Meredith, recommended to Lord Justices by the Duke of Albemarle, Lord Lieutenant, for one of the Commissioners of Excise. December 10, 1660	117
(115.)	Sir Amos Meredith: Certificate of nine Gentlemen of Devonshire of the services and sufferings of the said Sir Amos Meredith of Powderham, co. Devon	118
(116.)	Sir Amos Meredith, King's letter recommending him. December 12, 1660	119
(117.)	Lieutenant-Colonel Francis Foulkes, to be the Governor of the town and citadel of Clonmel. December 12, 1660	120
(118.)	Oliver Keatinge, to be Captain of the first vacant Company of Foot. December 12, 1660	121
(119.)	Sir Timothy Tyrrel and Dame Elizabeth his wife, sole daughter of James Archbishop Usher, to have the residue of a term of years of some of the said James Usher's own estate, near Finglas, made to Sir Edward Bagshaw, which afterwards came to one Hewlett, who forfeited same for treason. December 12, 1660	122
(120.)	Robert Jones, to be the Major of Foot in Lord Ossory's Regiment. December 13, 1660	123
(121.)	John St. Leger, to be Captain of Foot. December 13, 1660	124
(122.)	Robert Sandys, do. December 13, 1660	125
(123.)	Sir W. Penn, do. December 13, 1660	126
(124.)	W. King, do. December 13, 1660	127	R.
(125.)	James Cuff, do. December 13, 1660	128	R.
(126.)	John Mayart, do. December 13, 1660	129	R.
(127.)	Francis Forbes, do. December 13, 1660	130	R.
(128.)	Randolph Clayton, do. December 13, 1660	131	R.
(129.)	John Brett, do. December 13, 1660	132	R.
(130.)	Richard Power, do. December 13, 1660	133	R.
(131.)	Richard Earl of Barrimore, Colonel of Foot. December 13, 1660	134	R.
(132.)	Chidley Coote, do. December 13, 1660	135	R.
(133.)	Lord Ossory, do. December 13, 1660	136	R.
(134.)	Lord Massareen, do. December 13, 1660	137	R.
(135.)	Sir Rt. Byron, do. December 13, 1660	138	R.
(136.)	Sir J. Coie, do. December 13, 1660	139	R.
(137.)	Captain Peter Courthrop, to the Governor of the Fort of Haulbouline, and City of Cork	140	R.
(138.)	Lord Ossory, to be Colonel of Foot. December 13, 1660	141	R.
(139.)	Wentworth Earl of Kildare, Colonel of Horse. December 13, 1660	142	R.
(140.)	George Lord Grandison, Captain of a Troop. December 13, 1660	143	R.
(141.)	Jno. Lord Roberts, do. December 13, 1660	144
(142.)	Lord Mountrath, do. December 13, 1660	145	R.
(143.)	Vere Essex Cromwell, do. December 13, 1660	146	R.
(144.)	Marcus Trevor, do. December 13, 1660	147	R.
(145.)	Sir Thomas Armstrong, do. December 13, 1660	148	R.
(146.)	G. Rawdon, do. December 13, 1660	149	R.
(147.)	Sir Theoph. Jones, Major of Ormond's Regt. December 13, 1660	150	R.
(148.)	Daniel Redman, Captain of a Troop. December 13, 1660	151	R.
(149.)	W. Meredith, do. December 13, 1660	152
(150.)	Sir O. St. George, do. December 13, 1660	153	R.
(151.)	Sir A. Forbes, do. December 13, 1660	154	R.
(152.)	Sir Francis Hamilton, do. December 13, 1660	155	R.
(153.)	Sir H. Tichbourne, do. December 13, 1660	156
(154.)	Il. Viscount Moore, do. December 13, 1660	157
(155.)	Arthur Viscount Valentia, do. December 13, 1660	158	R.
(156.)	Rd. Lord Coote, Major of Albemarle's Regt. of Horse. December 13, 1660	159
(157.)	Francis Lord Aunger, to be Captain of a standing Troop. December 13, 1660	160

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLI.—continued.

		p.
(158.)	Lord Caulfield, do. December 12, 1660	161
(159.)	Francis Viscount Shannon, do. December 12, 1660	162	R.
(160.)	H. Viscount Falkland, do. December 12, 1660	163	R.
(161.)	Viscount Montgomery, do. December 12, 1660	164
(162.)	Edward Viscount Conwey, do. December 12, 1660	165	R.
(163.)	Arthur Visct. Donegal, do. December 12, 1660	166
(164.)	Edward Earl of Meath, do. December 12, 1660	167
(165.)	James Maraquis or Ormond to be Colonel of Horse. December 12, 1660	168	R.
(166.)	Geo. Duke of Albemarl, do. December 12, 1660	169	R.
(167.)	Richard Goodwin, do. December 12, 1660	170	R.
(168.)	Robert Manley, Captain of Foot. December 12, 1660	171	R.
(169.)	Charles Blunt, do. December 12, 1660	172	R.
(170.)	John Read, do. December 12, 1660	173	R.
(171.)	James Dennis, do. December 12, 1660	174	R.
(172.)	James Marlow, do. December 12, 1660	175	R.
(173.)	John Hubblethorne, do. December 12, 1660	176	R.
(174.)	James Dee, do. December 12, 1660	177	R.
(175.)	W. Neve, do. December 12, 1660	178
(176.)	Sir T. Wharton, do. December 12, 1660	179
(177.)	Dl. Treswell, Captain of Foot. December 13, 1660	180
(178.)	Chas. Wheeler, do. December 13, 1660	181
(179.)	Carew Dillon, do. December 13, 1660	182
(180.)	Richard St. George, do. December 13, 1660	183
(181.)	Sea fould Gibson, Esq., do. December 13, 1660	184	R.
(182.)	C. Hamilton, do. December 13, 1660	185	R.
(183.)	J. Jephson, do. December 13, 1660	186	R.
(184.)	Arthur Gore, do. December 13, 1660	187	R.
(185.)	Geo. Ingoldsby, do. December 13, 1660	188	R.
(186.)	Hans Hamilton, do. December 13, 1660	189	R.
(187.)	W. Moore, do. December 13, 1660	190	R.
(188.)	Rd. Kairle, do. December 13, 1660	191	R.
(189.)	Sir J. Stephens, do. December 13, 1660	192	R.
(190.)	Nicholas Purdon, to be Lieutenant-Colonel of Foot. December 13, 1660	193	R.
(191.)	Thomas Coote, do. in Osory's December 13, 1660	194	R.
(192.)	Fs. Gore, do. in Chidley Coote's. December 13, 1660	195	R.
(193.)	John Gorge, do. in Massareen's. December 13, 1660	196	R.
(194.)	Thomas Fortescue, to be Major in Col. Cole's. December 13, 1660	197	R.
(195.)	Duke of Albemarle, Captain in his own. December 13, 1660	198	R.
(196.)	James Marquis of Ormond, Captain of Foot. December 13, 1660	199	R.
(197.)	Earl of Orrery, do. December 13, 1660	200	R.
(198.)	C. Lord Mountrath, do. December 13, 1660	201	R.
(199.)	J. Lord Roberts, do. December 13, 1660	202	R.
(200.)	Lord Follot, do. December 13, 1660	203	R.
(201.)	Cs. Lord Castlecoote, do. December 13, 1660	203A	R.
(202.)	Sir J. Ogle, do. December 13, 1660	204	R.
(203.)	T. Giffard, do. December 13, 1660	205	R.
(204.)	Sir Edw. Massie, do. December 13, 1660	206	R.
(205.)	Sir Robt. Sterling, Captain of Foot. December 13, 1660	207	R.
(206.)	Sir Robert Stuart, do. December 13, 1660	208	R.
(207.)	Sir P. Weymes, do. December 13, 1660	209	R.
(208.)	Sir Fs. Butler, do. December 13, 1660	210	R.
(209.)	Ralph Wilson, do. December 13, 1660	211	R.
(210.)	P. Courthop, do. December 13, 1660	212	R.
(211.)	Earl of Thomand, to have release by the King of his title to his lands as found for the King by Strafford's Inquisition, in the county of Clare, in order that the said Earl of Thomond may settle them on the marriage of his son, Henry Lord O'Brien, with Katherine, daughter of Charles Duke of Richmond. December 14, 1660	213	R.
(212.)	James Barnewall, of Bremore, an infant at the time of Rebellion, to be restored (Proviso for Adventurers and Soldiers). December 15, 1660	214
(213.)	Captain Jas. Annesley, to have the first vacant Company of Foot. December 15, 1660	215	R.
(214.)	Theobald Dillon, on account of his grandfather's loyalty and of his father having died in the King's service, and he himself having been an infant at the Rebellion, to be restored. December 17, 1660	216

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLI.—continued.

(215.) Artillery. Concerning Artillery and Ammunition in Ireland. December 17, 1660 - - - - - - - - p. 217

(216.) John Ogilby, to be Master of the Revels. December 17, 1660 - 218

(217.) William Halsey, to be Chief Justice of Munster. December 17, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 219

(218.) J. Wheeler, to be 2nd Justice of Munster. December 17, 1660 - 219

(219.) Daniel Witter, to be Dean of Ardfert and Parson of Tralee. December 17, 1660 - - - - - - - - 220

(220.) Lord Capel, to be satisfied 1,000*l.* (advanced by the late Lord Capel) in forfeited lands. November 18, 1660 - - - - - 221

(221.) John Porter, son and heir of Thomas Porter, to be restored, for his and his father's services and sufferings: the lands given him as a transplanter in Connaught having been disallowed by the late Government in Dublin. December 18, 1660 - - - - - 222

(222.) Captain Francis Coughlan, son and heir of Terence Coughlan of Kilcolgan in the King's County, to be restored. December 18, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 223 A.G.

(223.) Maurice Fitzgerald, of Osbardstown, in county of Kildare, for his innocence, loyalty, and faithfulness, to be restored. Proviso for Adventurers, &c. December 18, 1660 - - - - - 225

(224.) Sir James Barry, to be Lord Baron Barry of Santry. December 18, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 226 R.

(225.) Sir Faithful Fortescue. Duke of Albemarle, to the Lords Justices, that Sir Faithful F. be Constable of Carrickfergus. December 18, 1660 - - - - - - - - 227

(226.) Col. John Fitzpatherick. Queen Henrietta Maria recommends him to the Lords Justices. December 18, 1660 - - - - 228

(227.) Dudley Cooley, of Carbury, county Kildare, to have the first vacant Company of Foot, he having raised 8 companies at his own expense and exposed his person to danger, for which he was afterwards brought to trial for his life before a pretended High Court of Justice, and though acquitted was forced to compound for his estate. December 18, 1660 - - - - - - - - 229

(228.) Alexander Gray, petitions the Lords Justices, that being appointed, pursuant to H. M. Letter, commendatory, to the Customs, and having to go to Ulster, he may have 60*l.* directed by H. M. letters of December 19, 1660, to pay his creditors - - - - 230

(229.) Alexander Gray, to Lords Justices, setting forth that his ship full of merchandize was seized in 1648 for H. M.'s use; and setting forth also H. M.'s Letter for 400*l.*, he prays that they will submit their Report and H. M.'s Letter to Parliament - - - - 231

(230.) Richard Lawless, of the city of Kilkenny, for his loyal and inoffensive carriage, to be restored to so much of his estate as is not in the hands of Adventurers or Soldiers. December 19, 1660 - 232

(231.) Theobald Verdon, for his faithful service as Deputy Commissioner of the Army under the Marquis of Ormond, to be restored to his estate. December 19, 1660 - - - - - - - - 233

(232.) Carew Dillon, to have the next vacant Company of Foot. December 19, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 234

(233.) James Modyford, to be Receiver of First Fruits and Tenths, &c. December 20, 1660 - - - - - - - - 235

(234.) James Modyford: Duke of Albemarle, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; recommends him as his "worthy kinsman." January 14, 1660-1 236

(235.) Nicholas Sutton, for his loyalty and sufferings, to be restored (Proviso for Adventurers, &c.). December 21, 1660 - - - 237

(236.) Garret Sutton, of Richardstown, county Kildare, to be restored (Proviso for Adventurers, &c.). December 21, 1660 - - 238

(237.) Alexander Roch, to be restored to his lands in county Wexford, the Chancellor having reported that he took no lands in Connaught. December 21, 1660 - - - - - - - - 239

(238.) Colonel Thomas Long, to be Captain of Foot. December 22, 1660 - 240

(239.) W. Hamilton, to have possession of lands in King's County (jointly with Hugh Flattery) mortgaged to them by John Coughlan. December 22, 1660 - - - - - - - - 241

(240.) Hugh Flattery, to have possession (jointly with A. Hamilton) of lands in King's County, mortgaged to them by John Coughlan. December 22, 1660 - - - - - - - - 242

(241.) Piers Butler, of Callan, county Kilkenny, to be restored to his estate as an Innocent. December 24, 1660 - - - - 242 S.

(242.) Roger Earl of Orrery, to be Governor of Limerick City, Castle, and Citadel for life. December 24, 1660 - - - - - 243

(243.) Trevor Floyd, to have the first vacant Company of Foot. December 24, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 244 R.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLI.—continued.

(244.) James Wall, of Coolnemuckey, county Waterford, to be restored as an Innocent. His behaviour at all times was quiet and inoffensive; in 1648 he welcomed Ormond on his arrival at Cork from France, and lent money for H.M.'s service. December 24, 1660 - - p. 245 S.

(245.) Orphans of Christopher Love, provision for them, their father being put to death by the late usurpers. December 24, 1660 - - 246

(246.) Nicholas Comerford, of Wells, in county of Carlow, to have Wells, which he held under a lease from the Bishop of Leighlin, also Hamerstown and the Rectory of Cloadagh, all in county Carlow; to be restored for his loyalty and sufferings, and all parties to yield up possession. December 29, 1660 - - - - 247 S.

(247.) Marchioness Dowager of Clanrickard, to be restored to her jointure lands. December 29, 1660 - - - - - 248

(248.) Thomas Dongan, to be 2nd Baron of the Exchequer. December 29, 1660 - - - - - - - - 249

(249.) Earl of Orrery; county of Clare reannexed to the Presidency of Munster under the Earl of Orrery, Governor. December 29, 1660 250

(250.) Lord Howth, to be restored to Baldungan, freed from the lease made to one Fitzwilliams, forfeited. December 29, 1660 - 252

(251.) Martin Scurloge, to be restored to all his lands, &c. not in the hands of Adventurers, &c., we being satisfied of his loyalty and faithfulness. December 30, 1660 - - - - - 253

(252.) Randal Moore, youngest son of Charles Viscount Moore, to have pardon for the killing of Captain Tompson, as the killing was in heat of blood and through great provocation. December 29, 1660 254

(252.) Randal Moore; Certificate of Lord Chancellor Eustace in his favour, towards obtaining pardon for said manslaughter. December, 1660 255

(253.) Randal Moore, his petition setting forth the circumstances of his killing Capt. Tompson, and praying pardon. Fiat. December 18, 1660 - - - - - - - - 256

(254.) John Bryan, of Jenkinstown, in county Kilkenny, to be restored to his houses in the city of Kilkenny, as an Innocent within our Declaration. January 2, 1660-1 - - - - - 257 S.

(255.) Kinsale, Ancient Native Inhabitants of, to be restored. January 11, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 258

(256.) Edmund Walsh, to be restored. January 2, 1660-1 - - - 259 R.

(257.) Lieut.-Coll. William FitzGerald, to have the wardship of Edmund Poore, son of Edmund Poore, lately deceased in Flanders. January 11, 1660-1 - - - - - - - 260 A.G.

(258.) James Vaughan, to be Chancellor of Christ Church, Dublin. January, 13, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 261

(259.) Michael Barry, of Rathruah, county Carlow, son and heir of John Barry, to be restored, as being within the equity of the clause of our Declaration concerning Ensignmen, his father having been Captain of Foot in Ormond's Regiment in Flanders. January 15, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 262 S.

(260.) Sir Hercules Huncks, to be restored. January 17, 1660-1 - - 263 S.

(261.) Sir Patrick Waymes, to have his father's Company of Foot. January 17, 1660-1 - - - - - - - 264 S.

(262.) Henry Piers, of Tristernagh, to be a Baronet of Ireland. January 17, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 265

(263.) Captain Pennyfather, a notoriously disaffected person, to stop cutting the woods near Abbeyleix. January 19, 1660-1 - - - 266

(264.) Lord Castlehaven, to be restored as an Ensignman. January 19, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - 267 S.

(265.) George Parker, License granted in England to him to prosecute exporters of wool from Ireland to foreign parts. January 13, 1660-1 268

(266.) Earl of Clancarty, to be restored. January 19, 1660-1 - - 269

(267.) Sir Robert Stewart, to be Governor of Culmore, with 13*s.* 4*d.* per day, granted by King Charles 1st, on 3rd August 1642. January 19, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 270

(268.) Richard Manley, to be Captain of Foot. January 24, 1660-1 - 271

(269.) Captain Thomas Brown, to be restored. January 21, 1660-1 - 272 S.

(270.) Dudley Bagnal, to have the pension granted him by the late Usurped Power, when they sent him to Oxford University about two years since. January 21, 1660-1 - - - - - - 273

(271.) Charles O'Harn, of the county of Antrim, to be restored as an Innocent. January 21, 1660-1 - - - - - - 274

(272.) Marchioness Dowager of Clanricard, her tenants to pay her their rents. January 22, 1660-1 - - - - - - - 275

(273.) Earl of Mountrath, pardon for him and a long list of friends, and to have grants of their lots, and any lands settled on them by Cromwell's Parliaments. January 21, 1660-1 - - - - 276 R.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLI.—continued.

(274.) Hugh Hamilton, of Ballygawley, county of Tyrone, to be Baron of Glenally, county of Fermanagh. January 22, 1660-1 - - - p. 277

(275.) Arthur Viscount Iveagh, to be restored in consideration of his loyalty and sufferings in our service abroad and at home. January 23, 1660-1 - - - - - - - 279

(276.) Colonel Christopher O'Brien, to be restored. January 23, 1660-1 - 280

(277.) James Fleming, of Stabolmoc, to be restored, having cheerfully contributed towards the support of our Army, and after the peace of '48, submitted and constantly adhered to us, was never transplanted or took lands in Connaught. January 23, 1660-1 - 281 S.

(278.) D. Ferriter, to be restored. January 23, 1660-1 - - - 282 S.

(279.) Richard Bellings, to be restored. January 23, 1660-1 - - - 283 A.G.

(280.) Thomas Cheek, to be admitted tenant for 31 years to the Castle of Kilmannan, near Dublin, which hath been many years waste (for the benefit of the fishing in the Liffey, which runneth by the said lands). January 16, 1660-1 - - - - - - 284

(281.) Sir Robert Byron, to have Wallop's Estate (one of the Regicides) near Enniscorthy, Enniscorthy Castle, and other lands. January 29, 1660-1 - - - - - - - 285

(282.) Marquis of Ormond, to be restored to the lands of Sir Valentine Brown, of Ross, in county of Kerry, son and heir of Sir Valentine Brown, Bart., granted to Ormond in 16 Chas. I. January 29, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 286 S.

(283.) Ethelbert Morgan, to have a Foot Compy. January 29, 1660-1 - 287 R

(284.) Margaret Baroness Dowager of Brittas, daughter of Thomas Fitzmaurice Lord Kerry, to be restored, as well to her jointure in Kildare county, settled upon her by Walter Bermingham, her first husband, as those in Leinster by Sir John Bourke, Baron Brittas, her second husband. January 29, 1660-1 - - - 288

(285.) Henry Jones, Bishop of Meath, to have some vacant dignity of St. Patrick, being damaged 200*l.* a year by translation from the Bishoprick of Down to Meath. January 29, 1660-1 - - - 289 S.

(286.) Colonel Daniel O'Sullivan Bere, recommended for restoration if Ormond judges fit. January 31, 1660-1 - - - - 290

(287.) Edmund Poore, of Inchie, county of Cork, to be restored to his estate now in wardship of Lieut-Col. W. FitzGerald, if not in the hands of Adventurers and Soldiers. January 31, 1660-1 - 291

(288.) Sir Arthur Forbes, to have in the town of Mullingar, all forfeited houses, in satisfaction of his arrears, and if any Irish Papist be restored, then the said Sir Arthur to be reprized for so much in lands near adjoining. January 31, 1660-1 - - - - - 292 A.G.

(289.) John Cantwell, of Ballymakedy, in county of Tipperary, to be restored to the immediate possession of his lands in Tipperary and Limerick. February 1, 1660-1 - - - - - 292 S.

(290.) John Cantwell, of Ballymakedy, county Tipperary, urgently requiring his restoration. February 1, 1660-1 - - - - 294 S.

(291.) Thomas Butler, of Nicham, in the county of Kilkenny, son of Lord Galmoy, to be restored. February 1, 1660-1 - - - - 295 A.G.

(292.) Major John Dolben, for his services and sufferings to have a troop. February 6, 1660-1 - - - - - - - 296

(293.) W. Taylor, recommended for messenger to the Council Chamber. February 4, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 297 S.

(294.) Lieut. Richd. Barry, son of David B., to be restored. February 5, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 298 S.

(295.) Captain Daniel O'Keeffe, to be restored, having for the last 7 years been commanding a Foot Compy. in the Duke of York's Regiment in Flanders, and lost much blood. February 5, 1660-1 - 299 S.

(296.) George FitzGerald, of Ticroghan, to be restored, and the soldiers to be turned immediately out of the dwelling house. February 5, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - 300

(297.) Conly Geoghegan, of Donore, county W. Meath, to be restored, the Soldiers to be immediately removed from the dwelling house. February 5, 1660-1 - - - - - - 300

(298.) Lord Orrery, to be receiver (jointly with Lord Massareen) of the years' value and other sums to be paid by the Adventurers and Soldiers under H.M.'s Declaration for the settlement of Ireland. February 6, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 301

(299.) Francis Lord Aungier, to have the lands formerly set out to Sir Hardress Waller, lately found guilty of H. Treason; of Isaac Ewer, one of the late King's Judges, and of John Nelson, a Halberteer, in the county W. Meath and King's County. February 8, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 302 S.

(300.) Colonel Warden, to have a Company of Foot. February 8, 1660-1 - 303

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLI.—continued.

(301.) Sir Faithful Fortescue, to be re-established in the Constableship of Carrickfergus granted him by King James 1st. February 8, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - p. 305

(302.) Richard Archbold, to be restored to Kilmachud, in the co. of Dublin, a small living, which was late in the possession of John Hewson, a person convicted of that execrable treason against our Father of Glorious Memory, if nothing be found against him. February 10, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 306

(303.) Edmund Ludlow, goods of his to the value of 200*l.* already seized, search to be made for more. February 11, 1660-1 - - 307

(304.) Nicholas Bailey, to be Lieutenant of Horse. February 11, 1660-1 - 308

(305.) Wentworth, Earl of Kildare, to have Young's Castle, in the city of Dublin, late in the possession of Sir Hardress Waller, or some other fit dwelling house, and to have all forfeited lands held of his ancestors. February 12, 1660-1 - - - - - 309

(306.) Captn. W. FitzGerald, recommended for some employment on account of his distressed and low condition. February 13, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - 311

(307.) Jeffrey St. Leger, brother and heir of Captain James St. L., to be restored to Ballyno and Fennerstown, the said Captain James St. L. being within age at the Rebellion, and having enlisted in our Army in 1648, and served in Flanders till he died in our service, we do adjudge said Jeffrey St. L. to comprehended within our Declaration as an Innocent. February 13, 1660-1 - - 312 S.

(308.) Coll. Bryan McMahon, to be restored. February 12, 1660-1 - 313 S.

(309.) Sir Robt. Hannay, to have a Company of Foot. February 12, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - 314 R.

(310.) Sir James Shaen, to be Constable of the Fort of Mullingar. February 12, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - 315

(311.) Captain John Hamilton, to have the wardship of John Coghlan, of Streamstown, son and heir of John Coghlan, of the same. February 12, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 316 S.

(312.) Captn. P. Stuart, of Ramelton, a Foot Compy. February 13, 1660-1 318

(313.) Earl of Cork, being High Treasurer, with power to appoint Officers of Customs, the Chancellor is to issue Patents to his nominees. February 13, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 319

(314.) Sir James Shaen, to be Register-General to the Commissioners for putting in execution the King's Declaration for the settlement of Ireland. February 14, 1660-1 - - - - - - 320 S.

(315.) Signet Office. No King's letters concerning Ireland to pass without being first entered at the Signet Office. February 14, 1660-1 321 S.

(316.) Sir James Shaen, to be sole Register to the Commissioners for putting in execution H.M.'s Declaration for the settlement of Ireland, notwithstanding any Patent heretofore given to Robert Kennedy, Esquire. February 14, 1660-1 - - - 323 S.

(317.) Col. Robt. FitzGerald, of Ballymartyr, county Cork, to be restored (his services recited). February 14, 1660-1 - - - 325 S.

(318.) Viscountess Dowager Mayo, recommended for her jointure to the Lords Justices care. February 14, 1660-1 - - - 326

(319.) Lord Aungier, his troop to be established in the counties of Longford and W. Meath, of which he is Governor. February 14, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 327 S.

(320.) Robert Payne, to be Auditor of Excise Accounts. February 14, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - 328 S.

(321.) Sir Arthur Forbes, to be preferred before Geo. Marsh to the wardship of James W. Stewart. February 14, 1660-1 - - - 329 S.

(322.) Arthur Segrave, of Cabragh, county Dublin, to be restored to all not in the hands of reprisable persons. February 14, 1660-1 - 330 S.

(323.) Mary Corbet, wife of Miles Corbet, to have all her husband's forfeited personal estate in Ireland. February 15, 1660-1 - - 331 S.

(324.) Sir Jerome Alexander, to hold Kilcooley Abbey, in county Tipperary, in capite under the Crown, which he purchased from the Marquis of Ormond. February 16, 1660-1 - - - 332 R.

(325.) Sir Robt. Sterling, to have all fines for ploughing by horses by the tail. February 18, 1660-1 - - - - - - - 334

(326.) Mountifort Westropp, to be Comptroller of Limerick. February 13, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - 335

(327.) Col. Robt. Saunderson, to have the first vacant Company of Foot. February 19, 1660 - - - - - - - - 336, 337 R.

(328.) Edward Roberts, having surrendered the lands of Lord Strabane, and other restorable persons, he is to have one moiety of his reprizals set out in the Barony of Coolock, county Dublin, the other moiety in Barony of Imokelly, county Cork. February 19, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - 338 S.

Digitized by Google

695

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLI.—continued.

		p.
(329.)	W. Andrews, to be satisfied for a public debt in the county of Kildare by Michael Castell's lands there; proviso not to interfere with Col. Markham. February 19, 1660-1 - - - -	339	S.
(330.)	Sir Audley Mervyn (and Lord Massareen), to have the price of improvements payable to Regicides on the lands lately held by them being forfeited. February 19, 1660-1 - - - -	340
(331.)	Sir Thos. Stanley, now returning into Ireland to plant, to be favoured and encouraged. February 20, 1660-1 - - - -	341	S.
(332.)	Henry Earl of Thomond, to have the lands formerly set out to Colonel John Reynolds, whose widow Sarah he has married. February 20, 1660-1 - - - - - -	342	S.
(333.)	Lieut. W. Bourke, of Beallysymon, county Limerick, son of Edmond B., who served many years abroad in our service in the Duke of York's regiment, to be restored as an Innocent Papist. February 20, 1660-1 - - - - - -	343	S.
(334.)	Captn. Robt. Hamilton, to be keeper of our woods in Ulster (Ranger of Ulster). February 21, 1660-1 - - - - -	344	S.
(335.)	Earl of Strafford, rents payable to the Crown out of his estate (called the Byrne's country) to be suspended, in consideration of a debt due by H. M. to his father's estate for sums expended on the Castle of Dublin. February 22, 1660-1 - - -	345	S.
(336.)	Captn. John Paine, to be Director General of Fortifications and Plantations (as intended by the Marquis of Ormond) as fully as Sir Josias Bodley or Sir Thomas Rotheram or Captain Panner (Pynner) held the office. February 22, 1660-1 - - -	346	A.G.
(337.)	Wentworth Earl of Kildare, to be Governor of county Kildare and Queen's County. February 22, 1660-1 - - - - -	347
(338.)	Lord Digby, Baron of Geshil, to be Governor of King's County. February 22, 1660-1 - - - - - - -	348
(339.)	Sir Robt. Byron, his pay to continue during his absences. February 22, 1660-1 - - - - - - - -	349
(340.)	Duke of Albemarle, to have a lease of the ferry at Wexford in substitution of lease of a like term granted him in 1658, the latter being void. February 25, 1660-1 - - - - -	350	R.
(341.)	Theobald Viscount Mayo, for his father's services and sufferings, to be restored to all not in the hands of reprizable persons, "and "we shall the more willingly consent thereunto for that we are "informed he hath continued his loyalty unto us under the prin- "ciple of a Protestant." February 25, 1660-1 - - -	351	S.
(342.)	Theobald Viscount Mayo; his petition states that his father served the late King, and was shot to death. Petitioner lived with the Talbots of Bashall in Yorkshire, his relations, and has been brought up a Protestant by Doctor Roberts - - -	352
(343.)	Earl of Orrery, to be reprized in the Barony of Upper Cross, county Dublin, and in or near the islands of Barrymore alias Barrys Court and Inniscattery, in co. of Limerick (with various other provisoes). February 25, 1660-1 - - - - - -	353	S.
(344.)	John Latin, of county Kildare, a distracted person, to be restored as an Innocent Papist on the petition of Stephen Latin, his son and heir apparent. February 26, 1660-1 - - - - -	354	R.
(345.)	Margaret Stephenson, to be restored as an Innocent Papist for the constant and loyal services of her son, Lieut.-Gen. John Barry. February 16, 1660-1 - - - - - - - -	355
(346.)	Earl of Mountrath. All forfeited lands in the Barony of Nethercross, county Dublin (except the lands in possession of the heirs or relict of Colonel Hammond), to be reserved as reprizals for said Lord Mountrath. Also all such unrestorable forfeited lands in Connaught, as were set out upon Decrees to any restorable person. February 26, 1660-1 - - - - -	356	S.
(347.)	Dudley Bagnal, to be restored. February 26, 1660-1 - -	357	S.
(348.)	Sir Audley Mervyn, provisions for his reprisal; also a forfeited house (as one of the Commissioners of H.M.'s Declaration) in Dublin. February 27, 1660-1 - - - - - -	358	S.
(349.)	Sir George Lane, provisions for his reprisal; also a forfeited house (as one of the Commissioners of H.M.'s Declaration) in Dublin. February 27, 1660-1 - - - - - - -	358	S.
(350.)	Lord Kingston, provisions for his reprisal; also a forfeited house (as one of the Commissioners of H.M.'s Declaration) in Dublin. February 27, 1660-1 - - - - - - -	358	S.
(351.)	Lord Massareen, provisions for his reprisal; also a forfeited house (as one of the Commissioners of H.M.'s Declaration) in Dublin. February 27, 1660-1 - - - - - - -	358	S.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLI.—continued.

		p.
(352.)	Commissioners for executing H.M.'s Declaration; their Register, Sir Jas. Shaen, their Sub-officers named; provision for their reprizals in case any forfeited lands in their possession be restored or be found incumbered. February 27, 1660-1 - -	360	S.
(353.)	Col. Garret Moore, to be Captain of Foot. February 28, 1660-1 -	361	R.
(354.)	Earl of Donegal, to have the rent and reversion of a lease of Lough Neagh (otherwise Lough Sydney, otherwise Lough Chichester), granted by K. Charles I. to Lord Massareen at 50*l.* a year, being by him intended as an annuity for the Earl of Donegal. February 28, 1660-1 - - - - - - -	362
(355.)	Captn. W. Hamilton, of Lough Currine, county Tyrone, to be satisfied his '49 arrears in the Barony of Dungannon—the balance in the Baronies of Ardagh and Granard, county Longford. February 28, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - -	363	S.
(356.)	Sir John Brodrick, to have a Company of Foot. February 28, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	364	R.
(357.)	John Farrel, our servant, to have Cloonaghra, Lackdoonagh, Clooffoare, Knappog, and Cloonderath, in county Longford, if not in the hands of Adventurers or Soldiers, at a moderate rent, until a fee-farm can be made. February 28, 1660-1 - - - -	365	S.
(358.)	Wm. Lord Caulfield, to be Constable of Charlemont Fort with 15 warders, and 8*s.* 6*d.* per day fee for himself for life. January 29, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	366	S.
(359.)	Hugh Polden, to be searcher of the Port of Wexford. February 28, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	367
(360.)	Sir Theophilus Jones, to be Scout Master-General for life. February 28, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	368	S.
(361.)	Lords Justices, a new Commission for mitigating fines, &c. March 1661 - - - - - - - - - - -	369	S.
(362.)	Earl of Orrery, order to the Treasurer to pay him the fee of Governor of the county of Clare, lately annexed to the Presidency of Munster. March 2, 1660-1 - - - - - - - -	370
(363.)	Robert Griffith, Esq., to be one of the Serjeants-at-Law. March 4, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	371	S.
(364.)	W. Hamilton, for confirming to Hugh Flattery and W. Hamilton the leases in the Barony of Garricastle, King's County, made by Gregory Clements, lately executed for treason. March 1, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	372	R.
(365.)	Lieut.-Colonel Oliver Jones, to have a Company of Foot, in consideration of his faithful endeavours to effect the happy change of affairs in our return. March 5, 1660-1 - - - - - -	373	R.
(366.)	Earl of Roscommon, and Sir G. Hamilton, having obtained Acts of Parliament at W. Minster for their estates, are to be restored. March 5, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	374	S.
(367.)	Toby Bonnell, to be Accountant of the imported Excise. March 6, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	375	R.
(368.)	Earl of Donegal, being a '49 Officer, to have one fit and convenient forfeited house at his choice in the city of Dublin. March 6, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	376	S.
(369.)	Henry O'Neil, of Killileagh in county of Antrim, to be restored, though he had been in the Irish Quarters, and took lands in Connaught. March 6, 1660-1 - - - - - - - -	377	S.
(370.)	Sir Robert Roth, of Tullaghmain, county Kilkenny, on Ormond's certificate of his loyalty, to be restored. March 6, 1660-1 -	378	S.
(371.)	Sir Richard and Sir Henry Ingoldsby, to be quieted in the possession of their lands on the Mile line, and houses in Limerick city. March 6, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	379	S.
(372.)	Commissioners of H.M.'s Declaration; the Chancellor, the Presidents of Munster and Connaught for the time being, the Earl Kildare, and Randolph Clayton, to be of the Commission. March 7, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - - -	380	S.
(373.)	Robert Paine, to the Auditor of Excise. March 8, 1660-1 - -	381	S.
(374.)	Jacob Ableen, of Amsterdam; Lords of the Council of England direct payment to be made of a public debt due to him. March 8, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	382
(375.)	Thomas Bord, of Dublin; Lords of the Council direct payment of a public debt to be made to him. March 8, 1660-1 - - -	383
(376.)	Earl of Mountrath, pardon for him and 77 of his friends. January 21, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - - -	384	S.
(377.)	Sir Henry Talbot, to be restored to his estate at Templeoge and Crumlin, in county of Dublin. March 9, 1660-1 - - - -	386	S.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLII.

		p.
(378.)	Excise; Commissioners appointed to examine Excise Accounts. March 10, 1660-1	1, 2	S.
(379.)	Col. John Fitzpatrick, to be restored that part of his ancient patrimony now in possession of one Stubbers, a halbertier that assisted at that execrable murder of our Royal Father of blessed memory. March 11, 1660-1	3	S.
(380.)	Commissioners of H.M.'s a Declaration; Lords Justices are not to insert the Attorney and Solicitor General among Commissioners of H.M.'s Declaration. March 11, 1660-1	4	R.
(381.)	Earl of Meath, to have Captain Neve's Company of Foot. March 11, 1660-1	5
(382.)	Lieutenant-Colonel John Dolben, to be Captain of Horse, and his son Captain John Dolben to be a Cornet. March 11, 1660-1	6
(383.)	Cork City natives, to be restored to their ancient properties. March 11, 1660-1	7
(384.)	Luke Bathe, of Drumcondrath. To hasten the effect of H.M. Letters of 16 November, 1660 in his favour, still unexecuted. March 11, 1660-1	8	R.
(385.)	Robert Harpool, an infant, and Martha, his mother, to be restored, Captain Robert Harpool and Captain W. H. having died in our service. March 12, 1660-1	9	S.
(386.)	Col. Thomas Gower and others, removed from Ormond's estate, to be reprized in co. of Carlow. March 14, 1660-1	11	S.
(387.)	'Forty-nine Officers; no grants to be passed for the future to the prejudice of the '49 Officers; but Lord Kingston's and other grants already made to stand. March 1660-1	12	S.
(388.)	Sir Robert Parkhurst, to be at liberty to purchase up Sir Phelim O'Neill's estate with '49 arrears, the same being mortgaged to him by said Phelim. March 16, 1660-1	13	S.
(389.)	Adventurers' agents; Commissioners of H.M.'s Declaration, before making any final adjudication for any Adventurer, to see that he has paid his proportion of the Agents' Fund, not exceeding 2*d.* per pound. March 16, 1660-1	14	S.
(390.)	William Barry Oge, to be restored. March 16, 1660-1	15	S.
(391.)	Lord Dillon of Costello, the agents for the Convention concurring, he is to be restored. March 16, 1660-1	16	S.
(392.)	W. Maburghe, to have the first vacant Company of Foot. March 16, 1661-1	17	R.
(393.)	Sarah King, widow of Dean King, pension of 80*l.* per year for life in Ireland. March 16, 1660-1	18	A.G.
(394.)	James Fountaine, to be Surgeon of the Army and of the Royal Hospital, Dublin, with 6*s.* per day. March 16, 1660-1	19	R.
(395.)	'Forty-nine Officers, their Petition to the King. March 16, 1660-1	20	S.
(396.)	Patrick White, of Waterford, son of Alderman Thomson W., to be restored. March 18, 1660-1	21	S.
(397.)	Robert Brown, pardoned from death for killing C. Kinaston of Cork, apothecary, the same having been done in heat of blood. March 18, 1660-1	22	S.
(398.)	Daniel O'Neile. The farm of 5*s.* per ton on all ships entering the ports of the 3 kingdoms given to Daniel O'Neil and Sir George Cartoret. March 18, 1660-1	23
(399.)	Jane Carey, widow of Captain David Carey, taken and murdered before the castle of Gorin by Oliver the late usurper, to have a pension of 50*l.* per ann. March 18, 1660-1	24	R.
(400.)	Captain Hugh McGill, to be Comptroller of the Ordnance on account of his services and sufferings. March 19, 1660-1	25	S.
(401.)	Captain Robert FitzGerald to be Comptroller of the Musters. March 19, 1660-1	26
(402.)	Earl of Orrery, granted Court Macsherry, 2,592 A., in co. Cork, purchased by him from Captain Robert Gookin. March 19, 1660-1	27	S.
(403.)	Thomas Browne, of Dublin, to be a member of the King's Inns and Counsel at Law, to draw pleadings, &c. March 21, 1660-1	28	R.
(404.)	Simon Barnewall, son and heir of Patrick Barnewall, of Kilbrue, to be restored. March 22, 1660-1	29	S.
(405.)	John Long, of Mount Long, to be restored. March 23, 1660-1	30
(406.)	John Long, of Mount Long, to be restored (a fuller letter). March 23, 1660-1	31	S
(407.)	Lord Iveagh; Ormond's letter to Lords Justices in favour of Lord Iveagh. March 23, 1660-1	32
(408.)	Lord Iveagh; Duke of York's letter to Lords Justices for Lord Iveagh. February 27, 1660-1	33

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLII.—continued.

		p.
(408.)	Sir Edward Fitzharris, to be restored. March 27, 1661	34
(410.)	John Porter, to be restored. March 28, 1660-1	36	S.
(411.)	James Wall and Garret Wall, his son, to be restored. March 28, 1660-1	37	S.
(412.)	Sir Thomas Armstrong, to be Quartermaster General. March 25, 1660-1	38	H.
(413.)	Sir W. Usher, to be Commissioner of Excise. March 26, 1661	39	S.
(414.)	Sir Peter Pett, to be Advocate General. March 26, 1661	40	S.
(415.)	Captain Garret FitzGerald, married to Jane, only daughter and heir apparent of Philip FitzGd., of Allon in the county of Kildare, to be restored. March 27, 1661	41	S.
(416.)	Sir George Preston, granted the fishings in the Shannon and eel weirs; also the sea fishing over against the half county of Antrim. March 29, 1661	42	S.
(417.)	Captain Andrew French, to be Searcher. March 29, 1661	44	S.
(418.)	Sir Nicholas Plunket, to be restored to his estate in Sir H. Tichbourne's hands. March 29, 1661	45	S.
(419.)	Edmund Crafton, to be a Baronet of Ireland. March 30, 1661	47	S.
(420.)	Lord Kingston; cautionary reprisal granted him in the Barony of Coolock, co. Dublin; in default, in Barony of Imokilly, co. of Cork. March 30, 1661	48	S.
(421.)	John Povey, to be Chief Collector of Excise. March 30, 1661	49	S.
(422.)	Henry Viscount Moore, to be made Earl of Drogheda. March 30, 1661	50	S.
(423.)	Elizabeth Lady Willoughby, widow of Sir Francis W., to be satisfied her husband's '49 arrears. March 30, 1661	51	S.
(424.)	Lord Kingston, to be reprized for Sir Henry Talbot's land of Templeogue, near Dublin, in the Barony of Boyle and in the half Barony of Bellanoe, co. Roscommon. March 31, 1661	53	S.
(425.)	Richard Berford, to be restored. April 1, 1661	54	S.
(426.)	Michael Berford, to be restored. April 1, 1661	55	S.
(427.)	Sir H. and Sir Rd. Ingoldsby, to have liberty to purchase 4,500 A. on the Mile Line with '49 Debentures. April 1, 1661	56	S.
(428.)	Commissioners of H. M.'s Declaration; Sir Theophilus Jones and William Lord Caulfield to be Commissioners of H.M. Declaration for Settlement of Ireland. April 2, 1661	57	S.
(429.)	Commissioners of H.M.'s Declaration: W. Temple, Esq., to be one of the Commissioners for "the Irish Declaration." April 6, 1661	58
(430.)	Sir Edward Sutton, to have the lands of Cusack of Gerrardstown, co. Meath. April 6, 1661	59	S.
(431.)	F. Binkerton, to be reprized for a purchase in the city of Cork in Baronies of Barrymore and Muskerry. April 8, 1661	60
(432.)	Richard Butler, of Kilcash, co. Tipperary: 1,000*l.* out of lands now in our hands to be raised and paid him instanter. April 8, 1661	61
(433.)	Marchioness of Antrim, to have the rents of the Baronies of Dunluce, Carrick, Glenarm, and Chileonnuce. April 8, 1661	62
(434.)	Lord Ossory, to be General of Horse. April 8, 1661	63
(435.)	Sir Robert Stuart, to have the estate forfeited by Gregory Clements, Regicide. April 13, 1661	64, 65
(436.)	Trevor Lloyd, to have a Foot Company. April 9, 1661	66	S.
(437.)	Dame Margaret Bolton, widow of Chancellor Bolton, to be restored to her jointure, notwithstg. Dame Ann Harcourt's opposition. April 9, 1661	67	S.
(438.)	Lord Taaffe, to be reprized in cos. Limerick, Cork, and Louth for loss of his lands of Colooney in co. Sligo. April 9, 1661	68	S.
(439.)	Lord Taaffe, to be reprized in cos. Limerick, Cork, and Louth for Colooney. April 9, 1661	69	S.
(440.)	Lord Taaffe, to be reprized in cos. Limerick, Cork, and Louth for Colooney. April 9, 1661	70	S.
(441.)	Munster Corporate Towns; for renewing their Charters on the application of Earl of Orrery. April 1661	71	S.
(442.)	Sir Arthur Denny, to have a reducement of Crown rent. April 1661	73	H.
(443.)	Sir Arthur Denny, his petition for reducement of Crown rent. April 9, 1661	74
(444.)	Sir Arthur Denny; Case of Sir Arthur Denny. April 9, 1661	74A
(445.)	W. Healy, merchant, of Gowran, to be restored. April 10, 1661	76	S.
(446.)	Richard Archedekin, of Bannebalietnough, co. Kilkenny, gent., son of Peter A. of Rathpatrick, to be restored. April 10, 1661	77	S.
(447.)	Lord Dillon, of Costello, to be satisfied his '49 arrears out of the '49 security. April 11, 1661	78	S.
(448.)	T. Buttolph, D.D., and Nathl. Ward, D.D., recommended to the Lords Justices. April 11, 1661	79
(449.)	G. Rutt, to be Dean of Connor. March 23, 1660-1	80	S.

Digitized by Google

699

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLII.—continued.

(450.) Francis Marsh, Dean of Connor, to be Dean of St. Patrick's, in Armagh. March 19, 1660-1 - - - - - - p. 81

(451.) James Bulteel, to be Comptroller of Customs. April 11, 1661 - 82 S.

(452.) Ann Connock, widow of John Connock, recommended to the care of the Lords Justices. April 11, 1661 - - - - 82 S.

(453.) W. Neve, to have a Foot Company. March 13, 1660-1 - - 83 S.

(454.) Commissioners for H. M. Declaration. Commissioners added. April 12, 1661 - - - - - - - - 85 S.

(455.) Edmond FitzGerald, of Ballymalo, in co. of Cork, to be restored. February 18, 1660-1 - - - - - - - - 86, 87 S.

(456.) Dame Ellen FitzGerald, widow of Sir John F., deceased before the Rebellion, to have her jointure. February 4, 1660-1 - - 88 S.

(457.) 'Forty-nine Officers; no grants of preferences on the '49 security to pass for the future to any person not a '49 Officer. April 19, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 89 S.

(458.) Speaker of House of Peers to be appointed,—not the Chancellor. April 19, 1661 - - - - - - - - 90 S.

(459.) Marquis of Ormond; pardon for him and a long list of his friends (abstract). April 26, 1661 - - - - - - 91 S.

(460.) Marquis of Ormond; pardon for him and a long list of his friends. Original. April 26, 1661 - - - - - - - 95

(461.) Excise; Lords Justices to appoint to places in the Excise. April 26, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 95

(462.) Sir W. Penn, to be reprized for Lord Clancarty's lands surrendered in Barony of Muskerry. April 20, 1661 - - - - - 96 S.

(463.) Robert Lesley, Bishop of Dromore, to be Bishop of Rapho. April 29, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 97

(464.) Henry Jones, Bishop of Clogher, to be Bishop of Meath. April 29, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 98

(465.) Dr. John Lesley, Bishop of Rapho, to be Bishop of Clogher. April 29, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 99

(466.) Grants of Restoration; no more to be passed until the grantees of those already granted have been put in possession pursuant to them, or the outed persons reprized. April 30, 1661 - - 100

(467.) W. Hamilton and Hugh Flattery: report by Sir W. Domvile and John Temple, Attorney and Solicitor General, on their case. April 26, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 101

(468.) Captain John Baker; particular reprizals for him in the county of Cork. April 26, 1661 - - - - - - - - 102 S.

(469.) Sir Richard Butler, of Polestown, co. Kilkenny, to be restored. April 30, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 103 S.

(470.) Dr. Jeremy Taylor, to have the Bishopric of Dromore annexed to the Bishopric of Down. April 30, 1661 - - - - - 104 H.

(471.) Bishop of Meath: the Easter Rents of the Bishopric of Meath to go to the widow and children of the decd. Bishop. April 30, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - - 105

(472.) Lord Kingston, to be Commissary of Horse. January 30, 1660-1 - 106

(473.) McGillicuddy, to be restored. April 18, 1661 - - - - 107 S.

(474.) Nicholas Baily and Carey Dillon, to have Troops in the Army. March 18, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 108 S.

(475.) Captn. John Gorges, to be Governor of the city of Londonderry. May 7, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 109 S.

(476.) Marquis of Antrim; Lords Justices to send a true account of the Marquis of Antrim's estate; by whom possessed, &c. May 9, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - - 110 S.

(477.) Martin Noel; houses in his possession to be confirmed to him. May 10, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 111

(478.) Commissioners of H.M.'s Declaration; Earls of Meath and Drogheda to be of the Commission. May 10, 1661 - - - - - 112 S.

(479.) Edward Cooke, to be Chief Cramer of Dublin after the death of T. Hill. May 10, 1661 - - - - - - - 113 H.

(480.) Lord Mountgarret; H.M.'s Letters in favour of the Earl of Thomond not to prejudice Lord Mountgarret. May 11, 1661 - 114

(481.) Duke of Albemarle, to be Governor of Wexford. May 11, 1661 - 115 H.

(482.) Sir G. Hamilton; the lease of a term in the Mines of Munster purchased by him from the Patentees to be extended. May 13, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - 116 S.

(483.) Sir G. Hamilton; his rents in the tenants' hands to be staid. October 10, 1660 - - - - - - - - - 117

(484.) Earl of Cork, to have the first vacant Troop of Horse. May 14, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - 118 H.

(485.) Col. Wheeler; leave of Absence. May 16, 1661 - - - - 119 S.

(486.) Col. Bayley, recommended to Lords Justices' care. May 18, 1661 - 120 S.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

	Vol. XLII.—continued.	p.
(487.)	Sir James Graham, to have the first vacant Troop. May 22, 1661	121	S.
(488.)	Dudley Philips, to have the first vacancy Company of Foot. May 22	122	S.
(489.)	George Cawdron, a prisoner for debt, to be released from Waterford Jail. May 25	123	S.
(490.)	Sir Arthur Forbes, to have all forfeited houses in the town of Mullingar. May 25, 1661	124	S.
(491.)	Army Commissions: Lord Justices to issue Commissions in the Army under the Great Seal. May 25	125
(492.)	Army List: List of Field Officers of Foot. May 1661	126
(493.)	Sir W. Neale, to be Captain of a Troop, vice John Lord Roberts, made Privy Seal. May 26	127
(494.)	Sir Theophilus Jones, to be Governor of counties of Meath and Wicklow. May 27, 1661	128	S.
(495.)	Anne Jordan, widow of Col. John Jordan, a pension. May 27, 1661	129	R.
(496.)	John Segrave, of Cabragh, county Dublin, to be restored. June 4, 1661	130	S.
(497.)	Richard Belling, to be restored. June 5, 1661	130
(498.)	J. Farrell, to be restored. June 5, 1661	132	S.
(499.)	J. Smith and Son, to be Comptrollers of Excise. June 1661	133	S.
(500.)	Dame Margt. Bolton, her claim referred to the determination of Lord Chancellor Eustace. May 17, 1661	134	S.
(501.)	Gilbert Mabbot, to have a forfeited house in Dublin for sale of Wine Licences. June 7, 1661	135	S.
(502.)	Col. Hayward St. Leger, to be Deputy Provost Martial of Munster. June 10, 1661	136	S.
(503.)	Carey Dillon, to be continued in his Company of Foot. June 10, 1661	137	S.
(504.)	Sir W. Blakeston, recommended to the care of the Lords Justices. June 11, 1661	138
(505.)	Mary Bermingham and Anne B., daughters and co-heirs of Walter B., of Dunfert, co. Kildare, to be restored. June 11, 1661	139	A.G
(506.)	Sir Francis Hamilton, License to export Wool. June 11, 1661	140	R.
(507.)	Lord Grandison, to have his full entertainment allowed during the time he was absent in Charles I.'s reign. June 11, 1661	141	S.
(508.)	Henry Laurence, to have the first vacant Lieutenant's place. June 22, 1661	141	S.
(509.)	Colonel Hoyle Walsh, of Castle Hoyle, co. Kilkenny, to be restored. June 13, 1661	143	A.G.
(510.)	Nicholas Bayly. Grant in Custodiam. June 14, 1661	144	R.
(511.)	Sir John Stephens, new patent for the office of Customer of Waterford and Ross. June 14, 1661	145	S.
(512.)	Sir Richard Ingoldsby; 1,000*l.* to be paid to him out of Sir Hardress Waller's personal estate. June 14, 1661	146	S.
(513.)	Sir Robert Stewart; his Grant of Gregory Clement's estate to be allowed, notwithstanding the King's Letter about suspending execution of Grants contrary to the scope of the Declaration for Settlement of Ireland. June 17, 1661	147	S.
(514.)	Piers Butler, to be restored to his dwelling-house in Callan, co. Kilkenny. June 17, 1661	148	S.
(515.)	Thomas Luttrel, not to be disturbed in the possession of Luttrelstown by reason of our Grant to others of Hewson's estate. June 17, 1661	149	S.
(516.)	Lord Taaffe, to be Earl of Carlingford. June 17, 1661	150	R.
(517.)	Galway ancient Natives, to be restored. June 17, 1661	151	R.
(518.)	Edward Lake, of Carnew, co. Wicklow, LL.D., to be a Baronet of Ireland. June 18, 1661	152	S.
(519.)	James Blackwell, to be reprised in co. Carlow for lands of Ormond's in Iffa and Offa set out to him for his Adventure of 800*l.* January 1661-2	153	S.
(520.)	John Legaharn, merchant, to be restored to his houses in Dublin. June 18, 1661	154	S.
(521.)	Marchioness Dowager of Clanricard, to be restored to Portumna. June 20, 1661	155	S.
(522.)	Col. Francis Willoughby, to have the first vacant Troop of Horse. June 20, 1661	156	R.
(523.)	Lord Ardes, to be Earl of Mount Alexander. June 20, 1661	157
(524.)	Earl of Tyrconnell, to be restored, as before was commanded. June 22, 1661	158	S.
(525.)	Captn. Charles Farrel, recommended to the care of the Lords Justices. June 22, 1661	159	S.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLII.—continued.

		p.
(526.)	Sir James Shaen, to have Col. Lawrence's late dwelling-house in Dublin, and Malahide Castle with 1,000 A. adjacent. June 12, 1661	160	S.
(527.)	Athenry, ancient natives of, to be restored. June 26, 1661	161	S.
(528.)	Galway Gentlemen. Sir Lucas Dillon's heirs and other well-deserving Gentlemen of Galway, to be restored. June 27, 1661	162	S.
(529.)	Mary Lisle: 2,000*l.* to Mary Lisle, distressed sister of Sir George Lisle. June 28, 1661	163	R.
(530.)	Sir George Hamilton: Grant of all fines for ploughing by the tail. June 28, 1661	164	S.
(531.)	Sir John Stephens, to be allowed a good proportion of his discoveries of 4,000 acres in the county of Tipperary. June 29, 1661	165	S.
(532.)	Daniel O'Neil, to have a pension of 500*l.* a year out of the profits of the Hanaper. June 29, 1661	166	S.
(533.)	Lord Aungier, to have a reprise for Rahin, in the King's County, which H.M. had given him, but has since bestowed on Lord Taaffe. July 2, 1661	167	S.
(534.)	Earl of Orrery, to be President of Munster for life. July 2, 1661	168	S.
(535.)	Beverley Usher, to be Captain of the Field. July 5, 1661	170	S.
(536.)	Earl of Castlehaven, to be restored. July 5, 1661	171	S.
(537.)	Maurice Fenton, to be a Baronet of Ireland. July 6, 1661	172	S.
(538.)	Earl of Meath; provision for his 40 arrears. July 6, 1661	173	S.
(539.)	Earl of Cork, to have satisfaction for the Castle of Dublin Mill sites and ground attached. May 7, 1661	174	S.
(540.)	Lord Germanston, to pay 1,500*l.* to Lady Ann Sutton, widow of Sir Thomas Lucas, for his marriage and wardship granted to Sir Thomas Lucas, decd. July 10, 1661	175	S.
(541.)	Jephson McGuire; 40*l.* a year to J. McG., "the Blind Lieutenant," out of the rents of the liberties of Waterford. July 11, 1661	176	S.
(542.)	Edward Brabazon, to have the first vacant Company o Foot. July 13, 1661	177	R.
(543.)	Edward Segrave, to be restored, notwithstanding the Custodiams of his estate granted to Lord Mountcashel and Sir Edward Kennedy. July 15, 1661	178	S.
(544.)	Countess of Tyrconnel; her pension in Ireland renewed. June 11, 1661	179	S.
(545.)	Sir George Blundell, to be Collector of Customs. July 15, 1661	180	R.
(546.)	John Foster, son and heir of John Foster, of Ballydowd, county Dublin, to be restored. July 16, 1661	181	R.
(547.)	Lord Digby, to be Governor of Kildare county, July 17	132	S.
(548.)	Mathew Locke and Mathew Barry, to be Clerk of the Privy Council. July 17, 1661	183	S.
(549.)	Marquis of Antrim, to have an allowance of 10*l.* per week. July 19, 1661	184	S.
(550.)	Sir Francis Hamilton, license to transport 700 packs of Irish wool. July 19, 1661	185	S
(551.)	Lieutenant W. Neale, to have a Troop of Horse. July 26, 1661	186	S.
(552.)	Francis Lye, son and heir of John Lye, of Rathbride, co. Kildare, slain abroad, in our service, being restored, is to have Letters Patent. July 26, 1661	187
(553.)	Duke of Ormond, as guardian of Nicholas Purcell, of Loughmo, in coy. Tipperary, is to be restored to his ward's estate. August 9, 1661	188	R.
(554.)	Captain Rd. Dungan, to have a Corporation for making starch. August 9, 1661	189	S.
(555.)	Sir Philip Perceval, to be made a Baronet of Ireland. August 12, 1661	190	S.
(556.)	Viscount Tarah: H.M.'s holograph Letter recommending the orphan children of Lord Tarah and their aunt, Miss Warren, to the Lord Justices' care, and that they be restored out of hand, Lord Tarah having lodged him near a month at his house in Bruges, when he (the King) "was in a far from good condition." August 14, 1662	191	S.
(557.)	Captn. John Blackwell; Commission to issue to enquire into the alleged public debt he claims of 2,400*l.* August 15, 1661	192	R.
(558.)	Earl of Ossory, to have a Regiment of Foot. August 7, 1661	193	S.
(559.)	John Cole, of Newland, county Dublin, to be a Baronet. August 4, 1661	194	S.
(560.)	Richard Walcot, recommended for the loyalty of himself, all his brothers, and whole family, and their good affection in promoting the Restoration. August 20, 1661	195	S.
(561.)	Earl of Bristol, his letter recommendatory of Richard Walcot. August 28, 1662	196	S

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLII.—continued.

(562.) Pardons; all Letters of Pardon to pass the Great Seal of Ireland to be prepared by the Attorney or Solicitor General. August 21, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - p. 197 S.

(563.) Sir Francis Hamilton, to have license to transport 700 packs of Irish wool. August 23, 1661 - - - - - - - 198

(564.) Mary White, widow of Christr. White, to be secured her jointure for the sake of herself and her children, the said Christopher having sold a large estate called "The Druffen," county Antrim, to James Hamilton, Lord Claneboy, for a song, reserving only 40*l.* a year, and Christopher White being barbarously murdered by Cromwell at Drogheda. August 24, 1661 - - - - 199

(565.) Earl of Cork, by vote of the Trustees of the '49 Officers, to be satisfied his '49 arrears in forfeited houses in Youghal. August 28, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 200 R.

(566.) Colonel Marcus Trevor, to give licenses (as Ranger of Ulster) to cut timber, and none to be cut unless by his permission. August 28, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 201 R.

(567.) Sir Edward Massie, to have Water Castle, adjoining Abbey Leix, now in possession of Captain Pennyfather. August 28, 1661 - - 202 S.

(568.) Abraham Yarner, to be Muster-Master of Ireland. September 10, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - - 203 R.

(569.) Sir H. and Sir Rd. Ingoldsby; H.M. Letters of 2nd April continued for their benefit. September 10, 1661 - - - - - 204 S.

(570.) Dean of St. Patrick's; arrear of profits of the Deanery granted to the now Dean. September 14, 1661 - - - - - 205 S.

(571.) Earl of Strafford; order to stop cutting of timber of the wood of Shilelah, sold by the Earl to some merchants, on account of the want of timber for ship building, H.M. will arrange with the Earl. September 23, 1661 - - - - - - - 206

(572.) Edward Molesworth, to have a Company of Foot. September 24, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - - 207

(573.) Forfeited Bonds, for exporting wool. September 24, 1661 - - 208 S.

(574.) Colonel Charles Wheeler, to have 2,000*l.* out of bonds made to the usurpers and since forfeited, and by us granted to ——Parker, September 24, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 209 S.

(576.) Colonel Wheeler, grant to him of the wardship of John Lester, son of John L., of Kilcarmuck, in King's County. September 27, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - - 210

(577.) Prizes at Sea, concerning some taken by Evans and Reynolds. September 28, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 211

(578.) Sir Edmund Massie, to have Water Castle, and Captain Pennyfather to be reprieved. September 28, 1661 - - - - 212

(579.) Archibald Hamilton, a spy of Cromwell's, being detected and executed, his widow and children received from Oliver lands purchased from Adventurers, in county W. Meath, to the value of 5,000*l.* These now dealt with. September 28, 1661 - - 214 R.

(580.) Hawks: all patents for the future to reserve Great Hawks. September 30, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 214 R.

(581.) Earl of Roscommon, to have the next vacant Troop of Horse. September 23, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 215 S.

(582.) Alexander McDaniil, recommended to the care of the Lords Justices. October 4, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 216 R.

(583.) John Forrest to be Clerk of the Tallies - - - - - 217 S.

(584.) Charles Twigg, to have the first vacant Company of Foot in consideration of his having married Miriam Worral, widow of Henry Worral, only daughter of Will. Ireland, of Liverpool, merchant, slain for his services to H.M. August 3, 1661 - - - 218 S.

585.) Thomas Fortescue, to be Governor of Carrickfergus. October 14, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - 219 R.

586.) Rd. Jones, to be Constable of Roscommon Castle. October 15, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - 220 S.

587.) Lord Mount Alexander, to have St. Wolstons, county of Kildare, late W. Allen's. October 19, 1661 - - - - - 221 R.

588.) Mayors of Dublin, for the time being, for the future to have the first Foot Company, lately conferred on Robert Dee. October 21, 1661 - - - - - - - - - - 222 R.

589.) Charity Townley, widow of Major Charles Townley, to be restored to her estate. October 24, 1661 - - - - - - 223 R.

590.) Nicholas Rutlege, to be Yeoman Usher of the House of Lords. October 30, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 224 R.

(591.) Trevor Lloyd, as before commanded, to have the first vacant Company of Foot. October 31, 1661 - - - - - - 225 R.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLII.—continued.

		p.
(592.)	Duke of Ormond: Wardship of N. Purcell, of Loughmy, county Tipperary, stopped by abolition of Court of Wards, to be made by Patent to Ormond. October 31, 1661 - - - -	226	R.
(593.)	Colonel Carey Dillon, to be satisfied 200*l.* October 31, 1661 -	227	R.
(594.)	Carey Dillon, to have the benefit of a Letter of K. Charles I. dated July 14, 1641 (stopped by the Rebellion), by which 200*l.* a year in lands was intended to his father. August 31, 1661 - -	228	R.
(595.)	Carey Dillon, his Petition. August 31, 1661 - - -	229
(596.)	Mary Molloy, widow, daughter of Hugh O'Molloy, to have a pension of 32*l.* settled 2ds. Elizabeth on Hugh Molloy and his heirs. November 5, 1661 - - - - - - - -	231	S.
(597.)	Sir Arthur Hill, for erecting the manor of Hillsboro'. November 5, 1661 - - - - - - - - -	232	R.
(598.)	Col. Hans Hamilton, to be satisfied his '49 Arrears in the Towns of Kells and Navan. November 5, 1661 - - - -	234	R.
(599.)	Sir Maurice Eustace, Chancellor, to have a pension of 100*l.* a year for life granted him by his late Majesty K. Charles I. November 6, 1661 - - - - - - - -	234	R.
(600.)	Major Thos. Harman, to be restored to Terenure and Kimmage, in county of Dublin, demised to him by Richard Barnewall. November 7, 1661 - - - - - - - -	235	R.
(601.)	Sir Robert Forth, to have a Troop of Horse. November 8, 1661 -	236	R.
(602.)	Bishop of Meath, to have the rents of Ardbraccan towards repairing his house. November 9, 1661 - - - - - -	237
(603.)	Colonel Booker, to have 1,300 sheep and lambs, the goods of Sir Hardress Waller, forfeited. November 11, 1661 - - -	238	R.
(604.)	Gerald Fleming, of Castle Fleming, restored. November 11, 1661 -	239	R.
(605.)	Sir James Barry, to be Chief Justice of the King's Bench. November 17, 1661 - - - - - - - - -	240	R.
(606.)	John Hawkins and Katherine his wife, to be restored as Innocent Protestants to their lands in W. Meath, from which they were ousted by a Custodiam granted to Lord Colooney. November 19, 1661 - - - - - - - - -	241	R.
(607.)	Carey Dillon, to have a Troop of Horse. November 20, 1661 -	242	S.
(608.)	Thomas Dancer, to be a Baronet for gallant behaviour at the town of Waterford. November 20, 1661 - - - - -	243	R.
(609.)	Sir John Stephens: Erasmus Smith and Henry Paris complain that their lands are taken as concealed lands by Sir John Stephens. November 19, 1661 - - - - - - - -	244	R.
(610.)	Sir John Stephens: petition of Henry Paris against him. November 19, 1661 - - - - - - - - -	245	R.
(611.)	Sir John Stephens: Erasmus Smith's petition against him. (November 19, 1661) - - - - - - - -	245
(612.)	Sir Maurice Eustace to [Mr. Carrol Bolton] - - - - -	247	R.
(613.)	Earl of Castlehaven, to be restored. October 17, 1661 - -	248	R.
(614.)	Colonel Gore, of Newtown, county of Mayo, to be a Baronet. November 26, 1661 - - - - - - - -	249	R.
(615.)	Patrick French, of Monivea, county Galway, to be restored, or (if that cannot be done) to be reprized. December 10, 1661 -	250	R.
(616.)	Colonel Oliver Jones, to be Corporal of the Field. December 20, 1661 - - - - - - - - -	251	R.
(617.)	Captn. James Roch, to have a Custodiam for 51 years of lands in Barony of Duhallo, county of Cork. December 27, 1661 -	252
(618.)	Thomas Batty, Receiver in county Tipperary, to have respite of his balance. December 24, 1661 - - - - - - -	254	R.
(619.)	John Lord Berkeley, to be President of Connaught. December 24, 1661 - - - - - - - - -	255	R.
(620.)	Sir W. Dungan, to be Viscount Clane, with limitation of the honour to his brother in default of heirs male. December 30, 1661 -	257	R.
(621.)	Mrs. Stanton, recommended to the Lords Justices' care. January 13, 1661-2 - - - - - - - - -	258
(622.)	John Burmister, to have a lease of Sutton, near Howth. January 20, 1661-2 - - - - - - - - -	259	R.
(623.)	Robert Ward, to be Register General of Soldiers' Debentures. January 30, 1661-2 - - - - - - - -	260	R.
(624.)	Hercules Langrishe, for self and others, complains of Richard Talbot's seeking to turn them out of their lands. January 24, 1661-2 - - - - - - - - -	261	R.
(625.)	Earl of Orrery, to value lands set out to Adventurers and Soldiers, to ascertain the half year's rent. January 31, 1661-2 - -	262	R.
(626.)	Sir W. Petty, to be confirmed in his lands. February 1, 1661-2 -	263	R.
(627.)	Earl of Cork, to be Governor of Haulbowline. January 31, 1661-2	264	R.
(628.)	Harry Progers, for his domestic services. February 9, 1661-2 -	265

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLII.—continued.

		p.
(629.)	Lord Gormanston, to pay 1,700*l.* to Sir Edward Sutton and Lady Ann Sutton, widow of Sir Tho. Lucas, to be restored to Gormanston Castle, &c. February 12, 1661-2	266	S.
(630.)	Thomas Clarke, his petition concerning his purchase of a lease, made [ ] James L, of the Castle and lands of Moyry to Captain Anthony Smith, containing a non-alienation clause, confirmed. February 20, 1661-2	267	H.
(631.)	Thomas Clarke, his prayer recommended. February 21, 1661-2	268	H.
(632.)	Richard Bulkely, to have a fair at Dunlavin, co. Wicklow. February 25, 1661-2	269	H.
(633.)	James and Francis Wolverston, to have leases of their estates determinable on their restoration. March 1, 1661-2	270	H.
(634.)	Sir John Crosby and James Allen, to be restored. March 3, 1661-2	271	S.
(635.)	Sir W. Penn, his lease to be continued. October 28, 1661	272	S.
(636.)	Lord Taaffe, to be restored with the suffrages of the Commissioners, March 5, 1661-2	273	S.
(637.)	Thomas Southwell, of Castle Matris, county Limerick, to be a Baronet. March 10, 1661-2	274	H.
(638.)	Luke Bathe, of Athcarne, to be a Baronet. March 15, 1661-2	275	H.
(639.)	Sir James Shaen; ordering a grant to him of several houses and lands in satisfaction of Adventures to the amount of 12,000 a. The lands he selected are named. March 25, 1662	277	H.
(640.)	J. Burmiston, to have a Custodiam of lands in county Kildare	277	H.
(641.)	Sir Daniel O'Brien, of Carrigaholty, in county of Clare, made Lord Viscount Clare. March 27, 1662	278	H.
(642.)	King of Denmark to Ormond. March 29, 1662	279
(643.)	Hans Hamilton, of Monelly, county Armagh, to be a Baronet. March 29, 1662	280	H.
(644.)	Thomas Bramhall, son and heir of Primate Bramhall, to be a Baronet. April 2, 1662	281	H.
(645.)	Sir Thomas Parr, pardon for killing Thomas Bath. April 5, 1662	282	H.
(646.)	Bandon Corporation: Surveys of Barony of Imokelly, county Cork, to be viewed towards reprising Bandon. April 7, 1662	283	H.
(647.)	'Forty-nine Arrears; those of the Bishop of Limerick to be stated as Chaplain General of the Army in 1649-50. April 7, 1662	283	H.
(648.)	'Forty-nine Arrears; Bishop of Cork to be satisfied his '49 Arrears as Chaplain General of Munster, in Cork. April 7, 1662	285	H.
(649.)	Leather Trade. A paper about the Leather Trade. April 10, 1662	286
(650.)	Sir Thomas Alleyn, his petition to be made seizer of faulty leather. April 10, 1662	287
(651.)	Sir Thomas Alleyn, to be appointed leather seller. April 10, 1662	288	S.
(652.)	Sir Thomas Pigott and Sir W. Flower, to have lease of Charles Dunn's estate of Ballybrittas for 31 years. April 16, 1662	289	H.
(653.)	Lord Kingston, to be reprized in county Dublin or Kildare, in default in county Cork. April 16, 1662	290	H.
(654.)	Colonel Milo Power, to have forfeited lands to the value of 500*l.* a year. April 16, 1662	291	H.
(655.)	L. Dumoulin, 500*l.* out of the Customs to his nephew, to discharge 12,000 livres due. April 16, 1662	292	H.
(656.)	Colonel Marcus Trevor, to be Baron Trevor, of Rose Trevor, and Viscount Dungannon. April 21, 1662	293	H.
(657.)	Earl of Clarendon, to have the half year's value payable by the Adventurers for their lots in Meath, W. Meath, Wexford, and Kilkenny, to be collected by the Earl of Orrery. April 21, 1662	294
(658.)	Earl of Kildare, to be compensated for the customs of Strangford and Ardglass, granted to the Earls of Kildare by H. 8th, but seized into the Exchequer through the neglect of George Earl of Kildare. April 22, 1662	295	H.
(659.)	Sir George Hamilton, to have the fines for ploughing by the tail. April 22, 1662	296	H.
(660.)	Lord Howth, to have a lease of forfeited lands in Louth, late the property of Christopher St. Lawrence. April 23, 1662	299	H.
(661.)	Richard Butler, second son of Duke of Ormond, to be Baron Cloghgrennan and Tullo. April 24, 1662	298
(662.)	W. FitzGerald, to be sole Examiner under the Commissioners of the Act of Settlement (copy). April 23, 1662	292
(663.)	W. FitzGerald. Original of 662	299	H.
(664.)	Lord Kingston, to hasten the Custodiam ordered by letters of February 19, for Lord Kingston by way of cautionary reprisals in certain Baronies in county Dublin and county Kildare, till he shall be reprized according to the provision made for him by the Act of Settlement. April 24, 1662	301	H.

705

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLII.—continued.

		p.
(664a.)	'Forty-nine Arrears. For stating Earl of Inchiquin's '49 arrears. April 29, 1662	302	S.
(665.)	Thomas Earl of Strafford, deceased. Galway Jury to be released from the fines imposed by Strafford in 1635. May 1, 1662	303	S.
(666.)	Earl of Barrymore. The denominations of lands belonging to the manors of Barry's Court, Buttevant, Castle Lyons, Timoleague, Rathbarry, Shandon, granted by K. Chas. I. to David Barry, the Viscount Buttevant, to be inserted in a Patent, the same not having been particularly described in the original Patent. May 12, 1662	304	R.
(667.)	Earl of Barrymore. Petition on which the foregoing is founded. May 12, 1662	305
(668.)	Earl of Barrymore. Schedule, or long list of denominations of lands in his several manors. May 12, 1662	306	R.
(669.)	Countess of Mountrath, to be continued in her estate against restorable persons seeking to molest her possession. May 19, 1662	307	R.
(670.)	Polish Protestant Churches: Petition of Paul Hartman in favour of distressed Protestant Churches in Poland. April 30, 1662	308
(671.)	Polish Protestant Churches, Lords of the Council recommend Paul Hartman's suit for, to the Lords Justices. April 30, 1662	309
(672.)	Earl of Massareen, to have 1,000*l.* on surrendering his Patent for licensing ale, wine, &c. April 30, 1662	310	R.
(673.)	Earl of Orrery, allowance to be made for unprofitable lands in the lots set out by the usurpers to his troop. May 30, 1662	311	R.
(674.)	Wybrants and Demiuiere, their bonds due and forfeited to the late usurped power to be pardoned. May 31, 1662	312	R.
(675.)	Sir George Blundel, a pension of 6*s.* 8*d.* per day granted to his father, Sir Francis Blundel, continued to him. June 7, 1662	314	R.
(676.)	Lord Mount Alexander, to have the quit rents, barons rents, and lease rents payable by several Protestants and Innocent Papists out of forfeited lands of his discovery, reserving to us as shall be thought fit. (May 1662)	313	S.
(677.)	Sir Thomas Bramhall, granted 500*l.* a year out of the lands of Bewly and Termonfekin, and other lands lately belonging to W. Plunket, of Bewly, in consideration of his father's loyalty. (June 1662)	315	R.
(678.)	Earl of Kildare, to be paid 10,000*l.* for the Customs of Strangford; order of King in Council. June 8, 1662	317	R.
(679.)	John Bawn O'Kelly, pardoned for his supposed share in a fight on the lands of Ballyterskin under the command of the Earl of Inchiquin. June 10, 1662	317	R.
(680.)	Sir John Perceval, to have a term of years in the lands, of Kinsaly, county Dublin, forfeited by Richard Goalding, the lands being charged with a Corody of 12*l.* a year payable to Sir J. Perceval's father, deceased. June 10, 1662	319	R.
(681.)	Wool Bonds; pardon for certain forfeited wool bonds. June 12, 1662	320	R.
(682.)	Wool Bonds; compositions to be made. June 14, 1662	321	S.
(683.)	Lord Mountgarret, to have a pension till restored to possession of his estate. June 16, 1662	323	S.
(684.)	Lord Mountgarret, recommended to the Lords Justices' care. October 21, 1662	324	R.
(685.)	Lord Mountgarret, his petition. (October 1662)	325
(686.)	Dr. Robert Stearne, M.D., to have a pension of 60*l.* a year. June 18, 1662	236	R.
(687.)	Sir James Graham, to have a confirmation of the lease made to him by Primate Bramhall, of Glassdstil and Termonfekin, part of the See lands. June 16, 1660	327	R.
(688.)	Forfeited Recognizances. Lord High Treasurer to reduce forfeited recognizances. June 18, 1662	329	S.
(689.)	Alexander McDonnel, to have grant of concealed lands he may discover in Glenarm, county Antrim. June 18, 1662	330	R.
(690.)	Lord Orrery, and Lord Massareene, collectors of the moneys payable under H. M.'s Declaration for settlement of Ireland. June 18, 1662	331	R.
(691.)	Countess of Mountrath, to have the building and the tolls of Lighthouses. June 18, 1662	333	R.
(692.)	Earl of Cork, his allowances as Governor of Haulbowline fort. June 22	334	R.
(693.)	Lord Muskerry, son of Earl of Clancarty, to be recommended for sitting in the Lords House of Parliament. June 22, 1662	336	R.
(694.)	Earl of Orrery, to be Serjeant Major General. June 22, 1662	337	R.
(695.)	Lord Berkeley, to be a Privy Councillor. June 22, 1662	337
(696.)	Earl of Ossory, to sit in the House of Lords in Ireland. June 22, 1662	338	R.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLII.—continued.

(697.) Mr. T. Tilson, and the rest of the children of the Bishop of Elphin, to have 1,000*l.* out of the money due by the Adventurers. June 22, 1662 - - - - - - - - p. 339

(698.) Wexford Burgesses; petition for renewal of their Charters. All Protestants. June 22, 1662 - - - - - - 340

(699.) Wexford Corporation; additional privileges prayed for - - 341

(700.) Wexford Burgesses, names of the present burgesses. A.D. 1661 - 342

(701.) Countess of Mountrath, letter concerning the differences between her and her son, the present Earl. 1662 - - - - - 343 R.

(702.) Countess of Mountrath, for her having the same reprisals as were granted to Charles, late Earl of Mountrath. 1662 - - 344 R.

(703.) Lord Mount Alexander, to have St. Wolston's, co. Kildare, late the property of Jas. Allen. July 7, 1662 - - - - - 345 R.

(704.) Lord Mount Alexander, to have old useless ordnance without account. July 7, 1662 - - - - - - 346 R.

(705.) Cormac O'Neil, son and heir apparent of Art oge O'Neil, to have forfeited interests held under Sir Henry O'Neil, of Edinduff, Carrick. July 8, 1662 - - - - - - - 348 R.

(706.) Captain Owen McCartie, to be restored. July 8, 1662 - - 349

(707.) Owen McCartie, his petition to Ormond. (July 8, 1662) - - 350

(708.) Captn. Owen McCartie, petition to the King. (July 8, 1662) - 351

(709.) Commissioners of the Act of Settlement. Sir Edward Dering, R. Rainsford, and J. Beverly and others, made Commissioners - 352

(710.) Sir W. Carr, to have the petty tolls of Galway, subject to conditions. July 12, 1662 - - - - - - - 353 R.

(711.) Wool Bonds. Forfeited wool bonds disposed of. July 12, 1662 - 354 S.

(712.) Lord Falkland, to be a Privy Councillor. July 13, 1662 - - 355

713.) Sir John Bourke, of Derry McLagney, all lands mortgaged by him, his father or grandfather, now unredeemed, if forfeited for treason to be granted to Lord Richard Butler. (July 1662) - - 356 R.

(714.) Commissioners for executing Act of Settlement, provision for them. July 18, 1662 - - - - - - - 357 R.

(715.) Trinity College, Dublin, for mitigating their rent. July 24, 1662 - 358 R.

(716.) Sir James Shaen, to be a Baronet. July 27, 1662 - - - 359 R.

(717.) Earl Dover; Commission for discovery of concealed lands. July 31, 1662 - - - - - - - - 360 R.

(718.) Earl Dover, his petition. (July 1662) - - - - - 361

(719.) Earl Dover. Ormond's Certificate endorsed on his petition - 361

(720.) Lord Dillon of Costello, to have a garrison at Fort Cromwell (otherwise called Bellahy), of which said Viscount D. is Governor and owner by our Grant, dated 1 March 1660-1. August 2, 1662 - 362

(721.) Earl of Tyrconnel, petition to the King. (August 2, 1662) - 363

(722.) Earl of Tyrconnel, to be satisfied according to rule. August 5, 1662 365

(723.) Duke of Ormond; his engagement to Dumoulin, the French Envoy, in 1646 to provide 1,000 men for France. Kilkenny, Sept. 8, 1646 366

(724.) Duke of Ormond. Digby's engagement to repay Dumoulin 10,000 livres Tournois if Ormond should fail to pay. Kilkenny, September 8, 1646 - - - - - - - - 367

(725.) Duke of Ormond. Dumoulin's assignment of his interest in Ormond's engagement for 500*l.* August 5, 1662 - - - 368

(726.) Mary Cooper; pardon for Mary Cooper, heretofore widow of Connor O'Brien, of Leameneagh, county Clare, deceased, now the wife of John Cooper - - - - - - - - 369 R.

(727.) Lord Castleconnel, some money ordered for his distress. August 14, 1662 - - - - - - - - 370 R.

(728.) Lord Castleconnel, particulars of his estate. (August 14, 1662). 371, 372

(729.) Sir Terence Dempsey. Lease of 1,000 years granted to Sir H. Bennett of the reversion of Sir Tereuce Dempsey's and Owney Dempsey's estate expectant on the determination of their estate tail. August 6, 1662 - - - - - - 373, 374

(730.) Captain John Blennerhasset, to have a Custodiam to reprize him for part of Lord Clancarty's lands lost by Lord Clancarty's restoration. August 10, 1662 - - - - - - 375 R.

(731.) Lord Castleconnel, petition of Lord Castleconnel. (July 1, 1662). 376

(732.) Lord Kingston, recommended to Lords Justices for a reprize for lands given up at the King's desire. August 25, 1662 - - 377 R.

(733.) John Grace, recommended for the office of Registrar of Chancery, promised him in 1644. August 25, 1662 - - - - 378 R.

(734.) Sir James Shaen, to have the expense of his journey to England on H.M.'s affairs. August 25, 1662 - - - - - 379 R.

(735.) Receivers of Leinster. Lord Lieutenant to receive the surrenders of the Offices of Provincial Receivers of Leinster. August 26, 1662 - - - - - - - - 380 R.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLII.—continued.

(736.) Sir James Shaen; recommending him effectually for the Office of Register of the new Court of Claims. August 20, 1662 - p. 381 S.

(737.) Treleawny and Clifford, to have a lease for 31 years of all such arrears of concealed quit rents out of lands belonging to forfeiting persons, secretly held for them by Protestants, as they shall discover. September 4, 1662 - - - - - - 382 H.

(738.) Wool Bonds forfeited, disposal of. September 3, 1662 - - - 383 H.

(739.) Sir Nicholas Armorer, his petition about forfeited wool bonds. May 22, 1662 - - - - - - - - 384

(740.) Sir Martin Noel, being ordered to England from the Irish Parliament, care to be taken that his business shall not suffer by his absence. September 9, 1662 - - - - - - - 385 S.

(741.) Lisburn, made the Church of the See of Down and Connor, and the town to elect two members of Parliament. September 10, 1662 - - - - - - - - 386 H.

(742.) Sir W. Blakiston, recommended to the Lords Justices' care. September 10, 1662 - - - - - - - - 388

(743.) Plot. Orders to imprison Parker, Gladman, and Chafin, transported to Ireland in prevention of their designs. September 16, 1662 - 389 H.

(744.) Sir John Stephens. Erasmus Smith complaining of Sir John Stephens's grant. (September 19, 1662) - - - - - - 390 H.

(745.) Sir John Stephens. King's letter upon Erasmus Smith's complaint. September 19, 1662 - - - - - - - - 391 H.

(746.) Captain James Roche, to have a lottery called the Royal Oak. (September 1662) - - - - - - - - 392 S.

(747.) Sir George Blunden, to have a pension. September 22, 1662 - 393 H.

(748.) Commissioners of Valuation, 2,000*l.* to be paid them. September 22, 1662 - - - - - - - - - 394 H.

(749.) Piers Lord Cahir, confirming to him all the estates held by his grandfather. September 22, 1662 - - - - - - - 395 H.

(750.) Coll. Marcus Trevor; H.M. waives his power under the Act of Settlement, of revoking the grant made to Colonel Marcus Trevor, by letters of 6 December 1660, of 1,200 A. in the liberties of Dundalk, and 600 A. about Carlingford. September 22, 1662 - 396 H.

(751.) Colonel John Blount, offers to give up an order for 10,000*l.*, and to be thereupon released from 300*l.* per annum, rent payable at the Exchequer. September 22, 1662 - - - - - - 398

(752.) Daniel O'Neil and Sir George Carteret, to have 5*s.* per ton on all French ships discharging in England or Ireland for 21 years. September 23, 1662 - - - - - - - - 399 H.

(753.) Edward Vernon, to have all lead mines he can discover at Clontarf for 31 years, yielding a Royalty of one-tenth. September 23, 1662 400 S.

(754.) Colonel John Blount, to be satisfied as he proposes, or in some other way. September 23, 1662 - - - - - - - 401 S.

(755.) Robert FitzGerald, to have 20*s.* per day as Comptroller of Musters. September 27, 1662 - - - - - - - - 402 H.

(756.) Thomas Topham, recommended to the care of the Lords Justices. September 30, 1662 - - - - - - - - 405

Vol. XLIII.

(757.) Edward Vernon, to have the mines at Clontarf, notwithstanding Sir George Hamilton's general grant of all mines. October 2, 1662 - - - - - - - - - 1

(758.) Patrick Sarsfield, to be restored to Lucan, notwithstanding the claim of Sir Theophilus Jones. October 3, 1662 - - - - 2 S.

(759.) Excise; Lord Lieutenant and Council to appoint a salary for the Commissioners of Excise. October 3, 1662 - - - - 3 S.

(760.) Sir Richard Kennedy, Baron of the Exchequer, 800*l.* a year pension. October 3, 1662 - - - - - - - - 4 H.

(761.) Admiralty; Lord Lieutenant to secure the rights of the Admiralty. September 27, 1662 - - - - - - - - 5 H.

(762.) Edward Dowdal, recommended to Lords Justices' care. October 7, 1662 - - - - - - - - - 6

(763.) Edward Dowdal, his petition. October 7, 1662 - - - - 7

(764.) Bonds forfeited, Commission to moderate. October 7, 1662 - 8, 9

(765.) Galway and Roscommon rectories impropriate; schedule of rectories (impropriate) forfeited in co. of Roscommon and Galway, October 1662 - - - - - - - - - 10 H.

(766.) Galway and Roscommon rectories impropriate; schedule of rectories granted to Lord Berkeley of Stratton, president of Connaught October 11, 1662 - - - - - - - - 11 H.

(767.) Daniel O'Neill, 500*l.* a year granted to him out of the profits of the Hanaper office - - - - - - - - - 12 H.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLIII.—continued.

		p.
(768.)	Robert Manley, recommended. October 22, 1662	13
(769.)	Connaught Decrees; Commissioners appointed to ascertain and certify frauds in Decrees obtained at Athlone for lands in Connaught and Clare. October 21, 1662	14	R.
(770.)	Sir William Domvile, to have a grant of the estates of Patrick Bath, of Rathfeigh, co. of Meath, and Peter Cruise, of the Naule, co. Dublin, for such time as the Lord Lieutenant shall think fit. October 1662	15, 16	R.
(771.)	Marquis of Antrim, to have 40*l.* a year of the creation money of a Baron. October 24, 1662	17	R.
(772.)	Richard Earl of Arran, to have the farm of the ale and beer licenses jointly with James Earl of Suffolk. November 10, 1662	18	S.
(773.)	Patrick Magin and Con Boy Magenis, recommended. November 6, 1662	19
(775.)	Patrick Magin, to Ormond. November 10, 1662	20
(776.)	Con Boy Magennis, complains of Arthur Hill having usurped his lands of Kilwarlin. November 1662	21
(777.)	King's Bench, salary of the Lord Chief Justice to be encreased. November 6, 1662	22	R.
(778.)	Bonds forfeited, Lord Lieutenant to compound for. November 6, 1662	23	R.
(779.)	Lord Grandison, to be dispensed from attendance on his Troop of Horse. November 11, 1662	25
(780.)	Sir Nicholas Armorer, to be Register of wool bonds. November 11, 1662	26, 28	R.
(781.)	Clergy of Ireland, to have the Michaelmas rents of church lands. November 21, 1662	29
(782.)	Commissioners of Valuation, appointed to value the Adventurers' and Soldiers' lands. November 21, 1662	30	R.
(783.)	Marquis of Antrim, Ormond to transmit bill for the restoring of Antrim. December 8, 1662	31
(784.)	Sir John Stephens, to have a release of the rent of 8*d.* per acre payable out of the lands of Gaile and Ardmayle, in the county of Tipperary. December 11, 1662	32	S.
(785.)	John Talbot of Malahide, to be restored to the whole of his estate, and Susanna Bastwick to be otherwise provided for as to that portion which she has. December 15, 1662	34
(786.)	Colonel Wheeler, to have the benefit of Ormond's confirmation of his purchase of Captain Aland's lot. December 15, 1662	35
(787.)	W. Coventry and Colonel W. Legg, to have fractions of odd acres, and of odd pounds, shillings, and pence in grants under the Act of Settlement. December 16, 1662	36, 37	R.
(788.)	Sir John Stephens: additional allowance to Sir John Stephens as Governor of Dublin Castle, and to have the lands given by the late usurper to Sir Brice Cochrane in the co. of Cork. December 10	38	R.
(789.)	Sir John Stephens, memorandum of his appointment. December 1662	39
(790.)	Mrs. Anne Cormack, to be paid her pension. December 10, 1662	40	R.
(791.)	W. Aubrey, to be paid his arrears of pension. December 20, 1662	41	R.
(792.)	Commissioners of Valuation, to appoint sub-commissioners to value the Adventurers' and Soldiers' lots. December 20, 1662	42	R.
(793.)	Adam Lord Loftus: to revoke a letter for reversal of a Decree of the Council Board (A.D. 1637) against Adam Lord Loftus	45	S.
(794.)	Colonel Arthur Hill, to have his '49 arrears. December 24, 1662	45	R.
(795.)	Arthur Lord Donegal, to have the entertainment granted to his uncle by James I. December 29, 1662	48	R.
(796.)	Arthur Lord Donegal, letter for his entertainment as prescribed by K. Jas. I. January 7, 1662-3	50
(797.)	Baltinglas, borough of; Sir Maurice Eustace being about to build a parish church and school house, and a bridge over the Slaney at Baltinglas, the town is to be incorporated, and Cornet Pinson to be the first sovereign. January 1662-3	51	R.
(798.)	Viscount Taragh. H.M. urges the regular payment of Mrs. Warren's pension for the support of her and Lord Taragh's orphans. January 13, 1662-3	52	S.
(799.)	Captain Gerald O'Ferral, to be restored. January 20, 1662-3	53	R.
(800.)	Sir Allan Broderick, to be reprised for the loss of his grant of half the yearly value of the lands of Colonel Axtell and Colonel Hewson, Regicides, all Regicides lands being given to the Duke of York by the Act of Settlement. January 1662-3	54	R.
(802.)	Captain James Roche, recommended to Lord Lieutenant's care. January 27, 1662-3	55	R.
(803.)	Captain Richard St. George, to receive the pay of a Captain of Foot for life. January 27, 1662-3	56	R.
(804.)	Major Ellis Goodwin, to practise as a Barrister. January 27, 1662-3	56	R.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLIII.—continued.

		p.
(805.)	Viscount Dungannon, to vote as a Peer. January 28, 1662-3 -	58	H.
(806.)	Captain Edward Sarsfield, recommended. February 11, 1662-3 -	60	H.
(807.)	James Allen, of St. Wolstans, being decreed Innocent by the Court of Claims, he is to have Letters Patent for his lands. February 18, 1662-3 - - - - - - - - -	60	H.
(808.)	Court of Claims; for extending the period for entering claims of Innocence. February 21, 1662-3 - - - - -	62	S.
(809.)	Sir Edward Massie, to have a lease of Abbeyleix for a term of 99 years. February 28, 1662-3 - - - - - - -	63	S.
(810.)	Sir Audley Mervyn: H. M. letter to Ormond, Lord Lieutenant, reproving Sir Audley Mervyn for his speech as Speaker of the House of Commons, attacking the conduct of the Commissioners of Claims. February 28, 1662-3 - - - - -	64
(811.)	Colonel Edward Vernon. Katherine King, widow, and Edward Scurlog not to be allowed to put in any further claim to Clontarf against Colonel Edward Vernon, the time for claiming being elapsed. March 13, 1662-3 - - - - -	65	S.
(812.)	Earl of Inchiquin; his '49 arrears to be stated at 10*l.* per day. March 13, 1662-3 - - - - - - - -	67	H.
(813.)	Earl of Clancarty, to have a pension or annuity of 20*l.* to him and the heirs of his body. March 13, 1662-3 - - - - -	68	H.
(814.)	Deanery House, St. Patrick's, Dublin. Arrears of rents reserved by the Usurpers out of the Church lands belonging to St. Patrick's Church, and payable to trustees for the use of Trinity College, Dublin, due and unpaid to Mathew Barry, their agent, are to be applied to repair the Deanery house. March 17, 1662-3 - -	69	H.
(815.)	Roscommon Castle. Robert Jones, entertainment as Constable of Roscommon Castle. March 20, 1662-3 - - - - -	70	H.
(815a.)	Marchioness Dowager of Clanricard; to hasten her restitution. March 20, 1662-3 - - - - - - - -	71
(816.)	Patrick Lord Baron De Courcy, a yearly pension of 150*l.* with benefit to his son of his survivorship. March 20, 1662-3 - -	75	H.
(817.)	Earl of Cork, to have 20*s.* per day as Lord High Treasurer of Ireland. March 20, 1662-3 - - - - - - -	74	H.
(818.)	Dr. Robert Steare, M.D.; his pension of 60*l.* a year to be put on the establishment. March 20, 1662-3 - - - - -	74	H.
(819.)	Nicholas Purcell, of Loughmo, lately in wardship to Ormond, to have livery of his estates, having attained to his full age; subject to the jointure of his mother, now wife of Colonel J. Fitzpatrick. March 20, 1662-3 - - - - - - -	76	S.
(820.)	Nicholas Archbold, of Timolin: in favour of Nicholas Archbold. March 24, 1662-3 - - - - - - - -	77
(821.)	Sir Maurice Berkeley, to be of the Privy Council. March 26, 1663-4 - - - - - - - - -	78
(822.)	Sir Thomas Clarges, to be of the Privy Council. March 26, 1663-4	79
(823.)	Earl of Tyrconnell: H.M. to the trustees of the '49 Officers praying them to release the Earl of Tyrconnell's estates. March 26, 1663-4	80
(824.)	Earl of Strafford; for stating the debt due to the late Earl of Strafford. April 2, 1663-4 - - - - - - -	81
(825.)	Gerald Lynch, of the Knock, in co. Meath; the Commissioners are to be requested to hasten his hearing in the Court of Claims. March 26, 1663-4 - - - - - - - -	82	S.
(826.)	Francis Lye, to be Escheater of Leinster. April 10, 1663-4 - -	83
(827.)	Basil Brook, grandson of Sir Basil Brook; his claim to mines in Munster to be considered as set forth in the petition of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Vernon. April 15, 1663-4 - -	84
(828.)	Basil Brook; petition of Mrs. Elizabeth Vernon, his mother, setting forth his claim to mines in Munster. April 5, 1663 - -	85
(829.)	Sir Nicholas Armorer, to have the surplus of the lands of Artaine after supplying lands thereout to the value of 200*l.* a year to the children of Patrick O'Connolly. April 14, 1663 - - - -	86	S.
(830.)	Colonel Milo Power: Lands of the supposed value of 500*l.* a year having been ordered for Milo Power, but being found not to reach it, more ordered. April 14, 1663 - - - - -	87	S.
(831.)	Earl of Kildare, to have a pardon. April 14, 1663 - - - -	88	H.
(832.)	Thomas Amory: Queen Katherine (of Braganza), letter in favour of T. Amory. April 10, 1663 - - - - - - -	90
(833.)	Earl of Castlehaven, to have 4,000*l.* out of the half year's rent payable by the Adventurers and Soldiers. April 21, 1663 - - -	91, 92	S.
(834.)	Thomas Luttrell, of Luttrelstown; urging dispatch in restoring T. L., son of Simon Luttrell, to his lands, under his proviso in the Act of title mentioned. April 28, 1663 - - - - -	93

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLIII.—continued.

(835.) Marquis of Antrim, to have a Custodiam of so much of his estate as is within the King's disposal, not being in the hands of Adventurers or Soldiers. April 30, 1663 - - - - - p. 94 R.

(836.) Marquis of Antrim, his petition. April 30, 1663 - - - - 95 R.

(837.) Viscount Netterville: the younger children of Viscount Netterville to be allowed to put in their claim though the time limited is elapsed. May 1, 1663 - - - - - - - 96 S.

(838.) Sir Amos Meredith, to be added to the Commission of Appeal. May 2, 1663 - - - - - - - - - 97 S.

(839.) Lord Athenry; additional lands to be conferred on him to help to support the honour. May 2, 1663 - - - - - - 98 R.

(840.) Archbishop of Armagh, Lord Primate, to be directed to hold a Regal Visitation (such as Strafford directed in 1634), to arrange a union of parishes and a new taxation of livings. May 2, 1663 - - 99 R.

(841.) Earl of Drogheda, to have 3,000 a. in the Barony of Dundalk, co. Louth, given by the late usurpers to Robert Reynolds. May 2, 1663 - - - - - - - - - - 100 R.

(842.) Patrick Archer, merchant, to have 205l. per annum, in consideration of the many sums he advanced in Ireland in 1649. May 2, 1663 - 101 R.

(843.) Officers of Ordnance: allowances to the inferior Officers of Ordnance changed. May 2, 1663 - - - - - - 102 S.

(844.) Lord Berkeley. Overflown lands about Indrego (co. of Mayo) to Lord Berkeley, Sir S. Carteret, and Sir Maurice Berkeley. March 3, 1663 - - - - - - - - - 103

(845.) Earl of Cork; his salary of 20s. per day to be entered on the Establishment. May 2, 1663 - - - - - - - 104 R.

(846.) Earl of Anglesey; license of absence in order to come to England. May 25, 1663 - - - - - - - - - 105 R.

(847.) Doctor Currer, to have 10s. per day as Physician to the Army. May 26, 1663 - - - - - - - - - 106 R.

(848.) Mabel, Lady Tynte, to be satisfied 500l. due for provisions furnished to the Army of Munster. May 26, 1663 - - - - 107 R.

(849.) Commissioners of Court of Claims and House of Commons: to express H.M.'s satisfaction at the House of Commons vacating the Order reflecting on the Commissioners of the Court of Claims. May 26, 1663 - - - - - - - - - 108

(850.) Kilkenny City Innocents; for restoring certain citizens of Kilkenny to their houses and land in corporate towns if decreed Innocent. June 1, 1663 - - - - - - - - - 109

(851.) Colonel Shapcot, engaged in the late plot, to be sent before the King and Council. June 1663 - - - - - - - - 111

(852.) Colonel Randal Clayton, to have confirmation of his purchase of certain houses in the city of Limerick, set out to Soldiers by the late Usurped Power. June 5, 1663 - - - - - 112 R.

(853.) Fanatic plot. In view of the license taken in the gentle punishment of the late plotters, Ormond is to prepare new Articles of War. June 5, 1663 - - - - - - - - - 113 R.

(854.) Marchioness of Antrim. The benefit of any interests forfeited on Sir Henry O'Neil's estate of Edenduff. Carrick, to go to the Marchioness of Antrim, his daughter, and her heirs, and not to Cormac, son of Artoge O'Neill (as previously ordered). June 4, 1663 - - - - - - - - - - 114, 115

(855.) Fanatic plot. Gladman, prisoner in Dublin Castle, to be freed - 116 R.

(856.) Lapse money: Orrery to have one-third of the Lapse money. June 10, 1663 - - - - - - - - - 117 R.

(857.) Sir Arthur Forbes: the King releases in his, Sir Arthur Forbes' favour, and parts with his power to restore to Innocent Papists any lands of theirs in Sir Arthur's possession. July 2, 1663 - 120 S.

(858.) Duke of Ormond: Ormond's troop to have 1s. 3d. per day. July 3, 1663 - - - - - - - - - 122

(859.) John Carleton, to have a lease of New Haggard, in co. of Meath, the same being his mother's jointure, for such term as the Lord Lieutenant approves. July 1662 - - - - - - 123 S.

(860.) Sir Thomas Tempest. The Queen recommends Sir Thomas Tempest, late her Secretary, to the service of the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, and now to Ormond. July 4, 1663 - - - 124 (861.) Marchioness of Antrim. Revocation of the letter of June 4, 1663. July 11, 1663 - - - - - - - - - 125 S.

(862.) Earl of Strafford, to have the manor of Newcastle. July 15 - - 126

(863.) Earl of Clanbrassel, recommended to the Lord Lieutenant's care. July 25 - - - - - - - - - 128

(864.) Archbishop of Dublin, to be made Primate. July 25, 1663 - - 129 S.

(865.) Earl of Tyrconnel; in behalf of the Earl. August 4, 1663 - - 130

(866.) Earl of Arran, to be sworn of the Privy Council. August 15, 1663 - 131

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLIII.—continued.

		p.
(867.)	Duke of York, concerning the ship "Water Dog." August 18, 1663	132
(868.)	Robert Ward, to be Deputy Postmaster to Daniel O'Neil, and not S. Bathurst, put in by Thurloe. August 21, 1663 - - -	133
(869.)	Robert Ward. Attorney-General's opinion referred to in this case. August 21, 1663 - - - - - - - - -	134
(870.)	Colonel Pierce Lacy, recommended. August 24, 1663 - - -	135
(871.)	Archbishop of Dublin. Forfeited lands to be immediately set out to the Archbishop of Dublin in augmentation of the See, according to the proviso of the Act of Settlement. August 24, 1663 -	136
(872.)	Bishop of Limerick, translated to Cork. August 24, 1663 - -	138
(873.)	Michael Boyle, Bishop of Cork, translated to Dublin. August 24, 1663 - - - - - - - - - -	139	H.
(874.)	Sir Henry O'Neil; the allowance granted to him to be continued, August 26, 1663 - - - - - - - - -	140	S.
(875.)	Sir Henry O'Neil, license to transport 400 sacks of wool to France, September 5, 1663 - - - - - - - - -	141
(876.)	Sir Theophilus Jones, to have a reprise for W. Sarsfield's remainder in Lucan, and then to pay such rents as the Lord Lieut. shall think fit. September 5, 1663 - - - - - -	142	H.
(876a.)	Col. John Fitzpatrick, to be restored. September 14, 1663 - -	143
(877.)	Colonel Pigot, to have a pension of 200*l.* a year. September 21, 1663 - - - - - - - - - -	144	H.
(878.)	Sir Courtney Pole, Bart.; concerning his Adventure and Reprisals in the Barony of Skreene, county Meath. October 8, 1663 -	145	H.
(879.)	Lord Fitzhardling, to have 2,000*l.* per annum out of lands set out for arrears of service in England. October 11, 1663 - - 146,	147	H.
(880.)	Robert Ward, to be quieted in possession of the Office of Deputy Postmaster. October 10, 1663 - - - - - -	148	H.
(881.)	Colonel William Hamilton; his '49 arrears to be set out in the Barony of Dungannon, notwithstanding the opposition of '49 officers. October 27, 1663 - - - - - - - -	149	H.
(881a.)	J. Bulteel, to have the forfeited bonds at Galway. October 30, 1663 - - - - - - - - - - -	150
(882.)	Duke of Albermarle, to be reprized for houses given him in Galway, and lands found to be claimed by Sir Thomas Charges, part of Philip Fitzgerald's estate in county of Galway. October 24, 1663 - - - - - - - - -	152	H.
(883.)	Sir Robert Byron, to be Master of the Ordnance in lieu of Lord Mount Alexander, deceased. October 31, 1663 - - -	154	H.
(884.)	Luke Gernon, to have a pension of 100*l.* a year. November 2, 1663 - - - - - - - - - - -	155
(885.)	Archbishop of Armagh, to be Lord Almoner of Ireland. November 7, 1663 - - - - - - - - -	156	H.
(886.)	Earl of Inchequin, to have 3,750*l.* out of the half-year's rent payable by the Adventurers and Soldiers. November 7, 1663 - -	157	H.
(887.)	Archbishop of Armagh, to hold a Regal Visitation. November 7, 1663 - - - - - - - - -	159	S.
(887a.)	Gilbert Mabbot, Wine Licences. November 7, 1663 - - -	161
(888.)	Sir W. Domville, to have the lands of Jans, of Robert Preston and of Bath, of Rathfeigh, in the county of Meath. November 9, 1663 - - - - - - - - - -	163	H.
(889.)	John Bryan, of Bawnmore; his lands of Bawnmore, in the county of Kilkenny, confirmed to him. November 11, 1663 - -	165	H.
(890.)	Impropriate forfeited tithes and lands, being restored to the Church under the Act of Settlement, no grants of them are to be passed. November 17, 1663 - - - - - - - - -	167
(891.)	Lord Taaffe, lands in county Louth confirmed to him, as in the proviso in the Act of Settlement. November 18, 1663 - -	168	S.
(892.)	Marcus Fitzsimons: Queen Katharine of Braganza, for the son of Marcus Fitzsymons. November 26, 1662 - - - - -	169
(893.)	Captn. Andrew Hickey: Queen Henrietta Maria of Denmark, for Captain Andrew Hickey. December 5, 1663 - - - -	171
(894.)	Robert Lye: Hugh O'Connor of Ballintubber's lands to Robert Lye	172	H.
(895.)	Jno. Houston; lands of J. Knox, of county Longford, granted by King Charles I. (September 9, 1642) to J. Houston, his father, confirmed to him. December 17, 1663 - - - - - - 173-4		H.
(896.)	Thos. Baily, to the Bishop of Killala. December 17, 1663 - -	175
(896a.)	Lord Mount Alexander, to be reprized for the loss of St. Wolstons, through James Alien's being restored as an Innocent, out of lands of opponents of King's Restoration. December 18, 1663 - 176-8		H.
(897.)	Lord Fitzhardinge, to have a pension of 2,000*l.* a year. December 23, 1663 - - - - - - - - - - 179-80
(898.)	Sir Henry O'Neil, to have Custodiams of lands in King's disposal to 2,000*l.* a year. December 17, 1663 - - - - - -	181	H.

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLIII.—continued.

(899.) Inland Revenue; petition of Peter Harvey concerning his labour in improving the Inland Revenue. December 22, 1663 - - 182 S.

(900.) Earl of Carlingford and Viscount Dillon, to pay no larger quit rent than they paid before 1641 - - - - - - - 183 R.

(901-2.) Roger Jones, Earl of Ranelagh, to have a new Patent of confirmation of the Abbey, &c., of Roscommon granted by Queen Elizabeth to Sir Nicholas Malby, from him came to Edmund Middup, and from Middup to Sir Francis Annesley, and from Annesley to Roger late Viscount Ranelagh, and next to Arthur, and now to Roger. January 17, 1663-4 - - - - - - 184-7 R.

(903.) Sir John Temple, an annuity of 300*l.* per annum for life. January 19, 1663-4 - - - - - - - - 188 S.

(904.) Colonel Wm. Legg, to have 3,000 acres in lieu of impropriate tithes, &c., retrenched by the Act of Settlement. January 19, 1663-4 - - - - - - - - - 189

(905.) Duke of Ormond, to have a grant of the Fort of Passage in the county of Waterford. January 19, 1663-6 - - - - 190 R.

(906.) Samuel Bathurst, Deputy Postmaster, to come to England. January 29, 1663-4 - - - - - - - 191 S.

(907.) Patrick Archer, merchant, was to have payment of a debt of 2,600*l.* out of the Customs of Waterford, but these are granted to Sir Martin Noel. January 28, 1663-4 - - - - - - 192 S.

(908.) Sir Henry Bennet, to have 10,000*l.* out of the Adventurers Gift. January 30, 1663-4 - - - - - - - - 193 R.

(909.) Sir T. Wharton, to have a lease for life (of forfeited lands) not exceeding three hundred pounds per annum. February 5, 1663-4 - 193 S.

(910.) Daniel Gahan, to have Con. O'Ruare's lands of Modorah, in county Leitrim, who was mad at and before the Rebellion of 1641, and has died without heirs. February 10, 1663-4 - - - - 195 S.

(911.) J. Devilliers, recommended. February 10, 1663-4 - - - - 196

(912.) William Hamilton, of Lough Currin, county Tyrone, to have a grant of Sir Phelim O'Neil's estate. February 1663-4 - - - - 197 R.

(913.) Connaught Decrees; Archbishop of Dublin to have 1,000*l.* out of the sum (one year's value) to be paid us by the purchasers of Connaught Decrees from transplanters. February 18, 1663-4 - 199 R.

(914.) Duke of York, provision for his reprizal. February 25, 1663-4 - 200 R.

(915.) Duke of York, further provisions for his reprizal. February 25, 1663-4 - - - - - - - - - 200 R.

(916.) Sir Henry Bennett, to have a Custodiam of Lewis Dempsey's, Lord Clanmalira's, estate. February 25, 1663-4 - - - - 204 S.

(917.) Sir Luke Bath, recommended. February 25, 1663-4 - - - - 204 R.

(918.) Patrick Sarsfield, recommended for despatch of restitution. March 21, 1663-4 - - - - - - - - - 205 R.

(919.) Sir Henry Bennet, the despatch of his business urged. March 28, 1664 - - - - - - - - - - 206

(920.) Duke of York. In order to give effect to H.M's. Letter of 25 February 25,1663-4, providing reprizals for the Duke of York, all Custodiams heretofore made are to be revoked. April 7, 1664 - - 207 R.

(921.) W. Temple, Esq., to have the reversion of the Rolls after the death of Sir John Temple. April 7, 1664 - - - - - 208 R.

(922.) Sir W. Penn; Duke of York's letter in favour of Sir W. Penn. April 5, 1664 - - - - - - - - 209

(923.) Sir W. Penn, his Custodiams not to be taken from him unless by express revocation. April 7, 1664 - - - - - - 210 S.

(924.) Duke of Ormond, license of absence, he being Lord Lieutenant. May 6, 1664 - - - - - - - - - 211 R.

(925.) Tinekelly, in Queen's County; James Donnell to be restored to same. June 19, 1661 - - - - - - - - - 213 R.

(926.) Earl of Strafford, his claim set forth at length. July 20, 1664 214, 215 R.

(927.) Captain Roger Bamber, with Theresa his wife, sole daughter and heir of Mary Finglas, adjudged an Innocent Papist, are restored to their house property in Navan, county Meath, a corporate town, by the King's express warrant. August 18, 1664 - - - 216 R.

(928.) Robert Shapcot, his Letter of pardon. August 18, 1664 - - 217 R.

(929.) Captain James Roche, to have (jointly with Sir George Hamilton) the licensing of pedlars. September 20, 1664 - - - - 218 S.

(930.) Elizabeth Rochfort, otherwise Preston, daughter of Viscount Tarah, and widow of Henry Rochfort (who was decreed Innocent) on her petition praying H.M's. protection in behalf of herself, and the child she carrieth in her womb, is recommended to Lord Lieutenant's care. October 24, 1664 - - - - - 219

(931.) Robert Kennedy; his lands of Ballieyarny, &c., in the county of Wicklow, to be created into the manor of Newtown Mount Kennedy. September 28, 1664 - - - - - - 220

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLIII.—continued.

		p.
(932.)	Robert Kennedy, for his services and sufferings, made a Baronet. October 24, 1663	222	S.
(933.)	James FitzGerald, to be restored to the lands of Lackagh, county Kildare. October 24, 1664	222	S.
(934.)	Elizabeth Rochfort, her petition. (October 24, 1664)	225
(935.)	Revd. Dr. Wolley, Bishop of Clonfert. November 7, 1664	226	S.
(936.)	Revd. Dr. Wolley, to be created Bishop of Clonfert. November 5, 1664	227	R.
(937.)	Mathew Dowdal, to be restored (though a Papist) to his houses and lands in Dublin, Dundalk (and other places), having been "adjudged "Innocent." November 4, 1664	228	R.
(938.)	Doctor Richard Heaton, recommended to Lord Lieut. for his favour. November 23, 1664	229	R.
(939.)	Lapse money: lands set out by the Usurpers to the Adventurers who lapsed their day of payment, to be seized, one-third for the King, one-third for the Earl of Orrery, and one-third for Secretary Nicholas. November 23, 1664	230	S.
(940.)	Sir Wm. Montgomery: the rents reserved by the Usurpers out of Sir Wm. Montgomery's estate to be assigned to Captain Hugh Magill, who will release his demand against William M., son and heir of said Sir William M. February 8, 1664-5	232	S.
(941.)	Renné Mezandiere, to have a license for Sedans and Coaches for Ladies. February 10, 1684-5	233	R.
(942.)	S. Fleming of Edinburgh, merchant, recommended to favour as having had his ship seized (A.D. 1640) by Irish Frigates. February 15, 1664-5	234
(943.)	Colonel Richard Grace, to have his estate passed to him by patent, with power of creating manors. March 1664-5	236	S.
(944.)	Sir James Donnelan, to have the place of Chief Justice of the King's Bench or Chief Baron in reversion. March 6, 1664-5	235
(945.)	Margery Symes, widow of Major John Symes, recommended. April 28, 1665	238
(946.)	Richard Jones, to be paid 1,000*l.* public debt. May 1, 1665	239	R.
(947.)	Colonel Daniel Treswell, to be made a Baronet. May 13, 1665	240	R.
(948.)	Lord Berkeley and Sir George Carteret, to have some lands overflown by the sea at Indrigo in Connaught at 10*l.* fee farm. May 13, 1665	241	R.
(949.)	Lord Clanbrasil, to have 2,000*l.* May 25	242	R.
(950.)	Oblivion Bill: prosecutions upon Attainders of 1641 to be suspended till the Bill of Oblivion, with proper exceptions, shall pass. May 26, 1665	243
(951.)	Lord Brabazon, to vote as a Peer. June 28, 1665	244	R.
(952.)	College of Physicians: King's Letter for better establishing the College of Physicians. June 28, 1665	245	R.
(953.)	Sir Thomas Bramhall: in favour of Sir T. Bramhall. June 28, 1665	247	S.
(954.)	Lord Ranelagh, Patent to pass for better securing the Abbey of Roscommon to him. June 28, 1665	248	R.
(955.)	J. Jephson, 475*l.* to be paid to him as a consideration for his surrendering his patent for licensing sale of wines. June 29, 1665	250	R.
(956.)	Sir James Shaen, resigns all his grants except Erris in the county of Mayo, and a house in Athlone, for the purpose of enlarging the common stock of reprizals. July 24, 1665	252	S.
(957.)	Lord Colooney, to have a lease of the town of Street in the county of Westmeath (being his discovery of a concealment), to reprize him for 317*l.* per annum, old proprietors lands restored. July 25, 1665	254	R.
(958.)	Sir James Dillon; the goods of Mary Ridge, widow of John Ridge, and late the wife of Sir James Dillon, to be seized as having been forfeited by the said Sir James Dillon, but concealed by her to the time of her death. July 24, 1665	255	R.
(959.)	Michael Boyle, Archbishop of Dublin, to be Chancellor, vice Sir Maurice Eustace, deceased	256	R.
(960.)	W. Howard, to be admitted within the Bar to plead. July 25, 1665	257	R.
(961.)	Robert Reading, to have the erecting of light-houses according to report of the Committee of Council, and to have the tolls, &c., for erecting and maintaining them and the lights. August 7, 1665	260	R.
(962.)	Samuel Avery, his forfeited Adventure in the county of Limerick to be passed to W. Godolphin of the Middle Temple. August 12, 1665	261–3	S.
(963.)	Earl of Roscommon, to be sworn of the Privy Council. August 15, 1665	265

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLIII.—continued.

		P.
(964.	Mathew Harrison, to have the reversion expectant on the failure of issue in tail of W. Harpoole, of the lands of Shrewle, in the Queen's County. August 15, 1665	264
(965.)	Earl of Ossory, to have (with the Earl of Anglesey) 500*l.* a year, lands in fee farm, and 5,000*l.* August 15, 1665	266	S.
(966.)	Caotain W. Rosse, 200*l.* a year pension. August 16, 1665	267	R.
(967.)	Earl of Ossory, to be General of the Forces in Ireland. August 16, 1665	268	R.
(968.)	Lord Ranelagh, to be sent over under arrest, unless he agrees to the Earl of Warwick's proposals. August 18, 1665	269
(969.)	Earl of Anglesey, to have 600*l.* a year. August 20, 1665	270	R.
(970.)	Colonel Roger Burgess, to have all moneys not accounted for by T. Bowles, the Usurpers' Deputy Treasurer. August 31, 1665	271	R.
971.)	Price, Bishop of Bangor, to be Bishop of Ferns. October 19, 1665	272	R.
(972.)	C. Philips and George Jeffryes, to be Register to the Commissioners for executing the Act of Settlement, vice Sir John Perceval, dead. November 14, 1665	273	R.
(973.)	Lords of the Council of England to the Lord Lieutenant, to cause the young Lord Leigh, grandson of Sir T. Leigh, now in the hands of Mr. Gifford and Lady Leigh his wife, to be sent over. November 24, 1665	274
(974.)	Lords of the Council of England to the Earl of Orrery, to send young Lord Leigh, now in his custody at Charleville, county Cork, to England. March 7, 1665-6	275
(975.)	Edward Cooke and Sir Edward Dering, to have the rents of lands not set out to Adventurers and Soldiers, pending the delay. December 25, 1655	276
(976.)	William Lord O'Brien, son of Lord Inchiquin, to sit in the House of Peers. January 11, 1665-6	277	S.
(977.)	Foliot Wingfield, to be created Lord Powerscourt. January 11, 1665-6	280
(978.)	Lord Castlehaven, to have 5,000*l.* which was to be secured by proviso, but this mode was abandoned by him for the inconveniency of the example. January 23, 1665-6	280
(979.)	J. Brett, Adventurer's petition. (January 23, 1665-6)	281
(980.)	J. Brett; that the complaint in his petition be remedied. January 23, 1665-6	282	R.
(981.)	Adam Loftus, pardon for his killing John Bromley, the killing being done in heat of blood. January 24, 1665-6	283	R.
(982.)	Robert Reading, one-third of the profits of the office of the Register to go to Sir Peter Harvey, one-third to —— Bence, one-third to Rodert Reading. January 24, 1665-6	284	R.
(983.)	Connaught Presidency, Lord Berkeley to be President, and Lord Kingston, Vice-President of Connaught respectively. February 1, 1665-6	286	R.
(984.)	Gerald Aylmer, the King's power of retoking Letters Patent of lands passed by virtue of the Act of Settlement, to be released to Gerald Aylmer to make his title indefeasible. February 19, 1665-6	287	R.
(985.)	Plot, the Phanatic; pardon of —— Boyd, one of the conspirators in the Protestant Plot. February 19, 1665-6	289	R.
(986.)	War with France; the Lord Lieutenant to proclaim the war with France. February 20, 1665-6	290
(987.)	Sir Henry O'Neil, to be a Baronet. February 23, 1665-6	291	R.
(988.)	Parliament of Ireland; thanks to be passed to the Parliament of Ireland for passing the Act of Explanation. February 24, 1665-6	292
(989.)	Parliament of Ireland, to be dissolved. February 24, 1665-6	293
(990.)	Earl of Suffolk, for his grant. February 27, 1665-6	294
(991.)	Commissioners of Claims; a new Commission to them to pass, to empower them to execute the Act of Explanation. February 27, 1665-6	295
(992.)	Chancellor; Michael (Boyle), Archbishop of Dublin, to be Lord Chancellor. February 19, 1665-6	297	R.
993.)	Sir John Stephens, to have the lands of James Mandeville in the Barony of Iffa and Offa, in the county of Tipperary. March 22, 1665-6	298	R.
(994.)	Parliament of Ireland, to be dissolved on 20th April. March 24, 1665-6	299
(995.)	Captn. Toby Barnes, to have a lease of the lands of Sarney, in the county of Meath, late the lands of Thomas Blood, one of the conspirators in the Phanatic Plot. April 7, 1666	300	R.
(996.)	Dr. Richard Boyle, to be Bishop of Leighlin and Ferns. May 2, 1666	301

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLIII.—continued.

		p.
(997.)	Fridesweed Leigh, widow, late the wife of Captain Thomas Leigh, slain at the battle of Rathmines, to have a lease of lands for 41 years in county Westmeath. May 3, 1666	302
(998.)	Duke of Albemarle, his quit-rent of his lands to be apportioned. May 11, 1666	303, 304
(999.)	Plot, the Fanatic; Theophilus Sandford to have a pardon. May 16, 1666	305
(1000.)	Sir John Stephens; Rolls Certificate of Sir John Stephens to be Cranor	306
(1001.)	Mathew FitzGerald; Queen Henrietta Maria, in favor of Mathew F., brother of one of her Physicians. July 12, 1666	307
(1002.)	Parliament of Ireland; power to Lord Lieutenant to dissolve or prorogue, according to circumstances. May 16, 1666	308
(1003.)	Commissioners of Claims; the establishment to be 20*l.* per week for table, 25*s.* per week for lodgings, to the present Commissioners for executing the Act of Explanation. July 2, 1666	309	R.
(1004.)	Fraternity of Coopers: Letter for establishing a fraternity of Coopers. July 2, 1666	310	R.
(1005.)	Sir James Shaen; his affairs recommended to the care of Lord Lieutenant. July 4, 1666	312.	S.
(1006.)	W. Domvile, second son of Sir W. Domvile, to be Clerk of the Crown and Hanaper	313
(1007.)	John Tilson, to be Craner of Dublin. July 12, 1666	314	R.
(1008.)	Corporate Towns; for passing new Charters to incorporate towns. August 3, 1666	315	R.
(1009.)	Robert Harpool, to be restored. August 7, 1666	317	R.
(1010.)	Hugh Lord Glenawly, to be of the Privy Council. August 25, 1666	319
(1011.)	Lord Carlingford, to be allowed no more time to put in his claim. August 28, 1666	320
(1012.)	Duke of Ormond; pardon to be drawn. October 15, 1666	321	S.
(1013.)	Arthur Padmore, to be Puruivant jointly with his father, Arthur Padmore. October 31, 1666	322	R.
(1013a.)	Col. W. Purefoy, to have a Patent for his estate in the King's Co., Barony of Colestown. November 14, 1666	323
(1014.)	J. Scudamore; rents of Retrenched lands to J. Scudamore until his reprizals be set out. November 16, 1666	325	R.
(1015.)	Duke of York, H. R. H. discharged of the rents payable out of Regicides' lands. November 21, 1666	326
(1016.)	Year's rent; Surveyors to be appointed under the Act of Explanation for ascertaining the year's ren tpayable by the Act. November 21, 1666	327	R.
(1017.)	Thomas Maule, ordered a lease on surrendering an old one, with Impropriate rectories included. November 1666	329	R.
(1018.)	Robert Harpool; the order for his restoration contained in H. M.'s Letter of 7th August 1666, retoked. November 30, 1666	331	S.
(1019.)	Robert Harpool; petition of those interested in his estate on which the order for the revocation of his Order of restoration was grounded. November 30, 1666	332
(1020.)	Earl of Chesterfield; 6,000*l.* to be paid to the Earl of Chesterfield out of Wine Licences. January 4, 1666-7	333	R.
(1021.)	Captain Charles Farrel; letter in his favour. January 12, 1666-7	334	S.
(1022.)	Sir John Stephens, Patent to him for making pantiles. January 28, 1666-7	335	R.
(1023.)	Earl of Carlingford; for reprisals to be given (next after the Duke of York is reprized) to the Soldiers to be removed from the possession of Cookstown, county Louth, given to the Earl of Carlingford by the Act of Explanation	336-7	R.
(1024.)	Sir H. Bennet; Lord Arlington (Sir Henry B.) to have the lands of Lord Clanmalira, lying in the King's County, to be made the manor of Charleston, and those in the Queen's County made the manor of Portarlington. February 13, 1666-7	338-341	R.
(1025.)	Sir Daniel Bellingham, to be a Baronet. February 14, 1666-7	342	R.
(1026.)	Phœnix Park; power to Lord Lieutenant to let so much of the lands of Chapelizod as are not intended to be included in the Park. February 22, 1666-7	343	R.
(1027.)	Robert Nangle; pardon and restitution to Robert Nangle, son of Cornet Edmund Nangle, who was in company with his father lately killed in armed rebellion at the attack on the barracks of Longford, being a child of only 11 years old, and forced from school by his father. February 22, 1666-7	344
(1028.)	Duncannon Fort; Sir Nicholas Armorer, account of costs laid out in prosecuting for lands to be set out to Duncannon Fort. February 1666-7	345

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

VOL. XLIII.—continued.

(1029.)	Duncannon Fort; letter directing payment of Sir Nicholas Armorer's costs in prosecuting lands to be set out to Duncannon Fort. February 25, 1666-7	fp. 346
(1030.)	Duke of York: Reprizals for Duke of York, notwithstanding the Earl of Carlingford's letter. March 5, 1666-7	346	H.
(1031.)	The Earl of Anglesea, to be one of the Commissioners for ascertaining the year's value. March 7, 1666-7	348
(1032.)	Sir John Stephens, to be Craner and Packer of Ireland. March 22, 1666-7	349	H.
(1033.)	The Earl of Anglesay and Orrery, to have 500*l.* a year in lands, and 5,000*l.* in money. March 24, 1666-7	350	H.
(1034.)	Richard Lord Le Poer, to be of the Privy Council. March 27, 1667	353	H.
(1035.)	Denny Muschamp, to be Clerk of the Crown in Ulster. March 29, 1667	354
(1036.)	Duke of York, saving his priority of reprisal, the Earl of Carlingford to be reprized. April 12, 1667	355	H.
(1037.)	Revd. Dr. Ambrose Jones, to be Bishop of Kildare. April 20, 1667	357	H.
(1038.)	Walter Walsh, to be Craner. April 20, 1667	358
(1039.)	Sir Edward Dering, to be of the Privy Council. April 20, 1667	359	S.
(1040.)	The Earl of Arran, surrenders the house in Galway purchased from Robt. Clarke, who bought at the enforced sale, and obtains patent. April 20, 1667	266
(1041.)	Wm. Powel, to be Clerk of the Peace of the county of Meath. May 20, 1667	362	H.
(1042.)	Fanatic Plot; pardon for Philip Alden and two other late conspirators. May 31, 1667	363	H.
(1043.)	Chapelizod; 30*l.* a year to be settled on the Minister of Chapelizod. June 10, 1667	364	H.
(1044.)	Hierome Sankey; his forfeited Bond for 375*l.* to be cancelled. June 14, 1667	365	H.
(1045.)	Impropriate forfeited Tithes, to be restored to the Church. June 14, 1667	366	H.
(1046.)	Corporation of Felt-makers, to have a patent for felt making. June 22, 1667	369	H.
(1047.)	Phanatic Plot; pardon for Thomas Scot, one of the late conspirators. July 9, 1667	370	H.
(1048.)	Dr. John Hodson, to be Bishop of Elphin. July 17, 1667	371	H.
(1049.)	Sir Edward Sutton, assignee of Periam Pole, Adventurer. August 12, 1667	372	S.
(1050.)	Countess of Tyrconnel, her husband being lately dead, to be relieved of quit rent. November 6, 1667	374	H.
(1051.)	Lord Dungannon, to receive the same allowances as Field Marshal as Sir Henry Tichbourne, deceased. November 6, 1667	375	H.
(1052.)	Robert Fitzgerald, to be put on the Establishment as Controller of Musters. November 6, 1667	376
(1053.)	Sir Edward Dering, to be Auditor General. November 11, 1667	377
(1054.)	Lord Massareen, to be of the Privy Council. November 29, 1667	378
(1055.)	Rachel Lady Falkland, to have 3,000*l.* out of embezzled Prize goods. November 29, 1667	379	S.
(1056.)	Arthur Lord Ranelagh, to be of the Privy Council. January 11, 1667-8	381
(1057.)	Henry Earl of Thomond, to have 20*l.* a year Creation Money. January 15, 1667-8	381	H.
(1058.)	Henry Gascoin, to be Chief Chamberlain of the Exchequer. January 4, 1667-8	383	H.
(1059.)	Sir Walter Plunket, to be confirmed in his office of Prothonotary of the Common Pleas. March 4, 1667-8	384	H.
(1060.)	Alderman Hutchinson, pardoned his fine of 500*l.* for bailing one Shirley. March 17, 1667-8	385	S.
(1061.)	Henry Warren and W. Harvey, to have the reversion of the Remembrancer's office after the death of Gilbert Rawson. March 29, 1668	386	H.
(1062.)	Robert Leigh, of Rosegarland, to be quieted in his possession, who, though decreed Innocent, yet is sought to be ousted at law. April 4, 1668	387	H.
(1063.)	Peter St. John, to be Foreign Apposer. April 17, 1668	388	H.
(1064.)	Nominees: Ormond to transmit to the King a list of those he conceives fit to be named by H.M. for restoration to their chief mansions and 2,000 A. contigious, as Nominees in the pending Bill of Explanation. April 16, 1664	389	H.
(1065.)	Duke of Albemarle, to have a patent for lands, fairs, rents, &c. April 19, 1668	390	H.

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Vol. XLIII.—continued.

(1066.) W. Atkinson, great grandson and heir of Athony Atkinson, late of the Island of Kiltobret, in the King's Co., to have a patent. April 20, 1668 - - - - - - - p. 392 Rt.

(1067.) Don Patricus O'Muledy, to Ormond. Madrid, May 12, 1668 - 394

(1068.) Michael Hore and William Harman, to be Searcher. May 15, 1668 - - - - - - - 395 Rt.

(1069.) Revd. James Hierome, to have a lease for 19 years of an acre and a half of land at Chapelizod, whereon to build a dwelling house. July 14, 1668 - - - - - - - 396 Rt.

(1070.) Robert Leigh, of Rosegarland; in favor of said Robt. Leigh. August 8, 1668 - - - - - - - 397 Rt.

(1071.) William Powell and John Thomson, to have the Clerkship of the Crown and of the Peace of the co. of Kildare, Meath, and Wexford in reversion. September 26, 1668 - - - - - 398 Rt.

(1072.) Borough of Longford; for incorporation of the Borough of Longford. September 6, 1668 - - - - - - - 399 Rt.

(1073.) Lord Dungan, his estate to be freed of the new quit rent - - 401 Rt.

(1074.) Earl of Carlingford, his estate to be relieved of the new quit rent. November 27, 1668 - - - - - - 403 Rt.

(1075.) Colonel Richard Talbot, to have the reversion expectant on the estate tall in the lands (of St. Wolstan's, &c.) decreed to Jas. Allen. February 1, 1668-9 - - - - - 404, 405 Rt.

(1076.) Arthur Padmore, junior, to be Customer. March 26, 1669 - 406 Rt.

(1077.) Sir Edward Sutton, provision to be made for his deficiency. April 8, 1669 - - - - - - - - 408 Rt.

(1078.) Michael (Boyle), Archbishop of Armagh, his lands in the county of Wicklow, to be erected into the manor of Blessinton. May 3, 1669 - - - - - - - - 409 Rt.

(1079.) Colonel James Lane, 6,000*l.* to be given to the daughters of Col. James Lane. May 7, 1669 - - - - - - 414 Rt.

(1080.) Oliver Grace, after death of P. St. John, to be Transcriptor and foreign Apposer in Exchequer. May 28, 1669 - - 415 Rt.

(1081.) Captain Richard Rooth, of the Garland Frigate, to be Governor of Kinsale Fort, vice Penn, grown incapable by age. July 31, 1669 416 Rt.

(1082.) Colonel Carey Dillon, to have the fort of Bellamoe in Connaught. August 1, 1661 - - - - - - - - 417 Rt.

(1083.) Robert Leigh, of Rosegarland, to have his lands in the county of Wexford erected into the manor of Rosegarland. August 27, 1669 - - - - - - - - - 418 Rt.

ALPHABETICAL INDEX TO THE FOREGOING CATALOGUE OF KING'S LETTERS.

Ableen, Jacob, (574).
Admiralty, (761).
Adventurers' Agents, (389).
Albemarle, George, Duke of, (166), (195), (340), (481), (822), (998), (1055).
Alexander, Sir Jerome, (99), (324).
Allen, James, (807).
Alleyn, Sir Thomas, (650), (651).
Amory, Thomas, (832).
Andrews, W., (329).
Anglesey, Earl of, (846), (969), (1031), (1033).
Annesley, James, (913).
Antrim, Marquis of, (476), (540), (771), (783), (835), (836).
Antrim, Marchioness of, (433), (854), (861).
Archbold, Nicholas, (890).
Archbold, Richard, (302).
Archedekin, Richard, (446).
Archer, Patrick, (842), (907).
Ardes, Lord, (523).
Armagh, Archbishop of, (840), (885), (887).
Armorer, Sir Nicholas, (739), (780). (829).
Armstrong, Sir Thomas, (145), (412).
Army Commissioners, (491).
Army List, (492).
Arran, Richard, Earl of, (772), (866), (1040).
Artillery, (215).
Aston, Sir Arthur, (651).
Athenry, ancient natives of, (527).
Athenry, Lord, (839).
Atkinson, W., (1066).
Aubrey, W., (791).
Aungier, Francis Lord, (157), (299), (319), (583).
Avery, Samuel, (962).
Aylmer, Gerald, (984).

Bagnal, Dudley, (270), (347).
Baker, George, (15).
Baker, Captain John, (468).
Baltinglass, Lord, (105).
Baltinglass, Borough of, (797).
Bailey, Nicholas, (304).
Bamber, Capt. Roger, (927).
Bandon Corporation, (646).
Bangor, Price, Bishop of, (971).
Barkley, George, (51).
Barkley, John, (52).
Barnes, Capt. Toby, (995).
Barnewall, James, (912).

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Barnewall, Simon, (404).
Barry, Sir James, (224), (605).
Barry, Michael, (259).
Barry, Lieut. Richard, (294).
Barry, William, (396).
Barrymore, Earl of, (131), (666), (667), (668).
Bathe, Luke, (364), (638), (917).
Bathurst, Samuel (906).
Batty, Thomas, (618).
Batly, Nicholas, (474).
Bayly, Nicholas, (500).
Bayley, Dr. F. (896).
Bayley, William, (46).
Bayley, Col., (456).
Belling, Richard, (279), (497).
Bellingham, Sir Daniel, (1025).
Bennet, Sir Henry, (908), (916), (919), (1094).
Berkeley, Lord John, (619), (695), (765), (766), (844), (948).
Berkeley, Sir Maurice, (821).
Berford, Michael, (426).
Berford, Richard, (425).
Bermingham, Mary, (505).
Blackwell, James, (519).
Blackwell, Capt. John, (557).
Blakeston, J., (431).
Blakeston, Sir W., (504), (742).
Blennerhassett, Capt. John, (780).
Blount, Col. John, (751), (754).
Blundell, Sir John, (545).
Blundell, Sir George, (675), (747).
Blunt, Charles, (169).
Bolton, Dame Margaret, (437), (500).
Bonds, forfeited, (764), (778).
Booker, Col., (938).
Bonnell, Toby, (367).
Booth, Robert, (103).
Bord, Thomas, (375).
Botelier, Sir Francis, (95).
Bourke, Sir John, (713).
Bourke, Lieut. W., (333).
Boyle, Michael, (39).
Boyle, Michael, Bishop of Cork, (873).
Boyle, Michael, Archbishop of Dublin, (959), (992).
Boyle, Michael, Archbishop of Armagh, (1078).
Boyle, Dr. Richard, (906).
Boyle, Robert, (93).
Brabazon, Lord, (951).
Brabazon, Edward, (542).
Bramhall, Rev. Dr. John, (8).
Bramhall, Thomas, (644), (677), (958).
Bratt, John, (129), (979), (980).
Bristol, Earl of, (561).
Brittas, Margaret, Baroness Dowager of, (284).
Brodrick, Sir Allan, (800).
Brodrick, Sir John, (356).
Brook, Basil, (827), (828).
Browne, Robert, (397).
Brown, Capt. Thomas, (269).
Bruwne, Thomas, (403).
Bryan, John, (254).
Bryan, John, (889).
Bulkely, Richard, (632).
Bulteel, James, (451), (881a).
Burdon, John, (45).
Burgess, Col. Roger. (970).
Burniston, John, (622), (640).
Butler, Sir Francis, (208).
Butler, Piers, (241), (514).
Butler, Richard, of Kilcash, (432), (469), (661).
Butler, Thomas, (291).
Buttolph, T., D.D., (448).
Byron, Sir Robert, (135), (281), (339), (883).

Cahir, Piers, Lord, (749).
Campbell, Archibald, (54).
Cantwell, John, (289), (290).
Capel, Lord, (220).
Carleton, John, (859).
Carlingford, Earl of, (900), (1011), (1023), (1074).
Carpenter, Philip, (1), (87).
Carr, George and William, (73).
Carr, Sir W., (710).
Cary, Jane, (399.)
Castlehaven, Lord, (264), (536), (613), (833), (976).
Castleconnel, Lord, (727), (728), (731).
Castlecoot, Chas., Lord, (201).
Caulfeild, Lord, (158), (358).
Cawdron, George, (469).
Chapelizod, (1043).
Charter to corporate towns, (1008).
Cheek, Thomas, (280).
Chesterfield, Earl of, (1020).
Clanbrassil, Earl of, (28), (863), (949).
Clancarty, Donogh Earl of, (85), (266), (813).
Clanrickard, Marchioness Dowager of, (247), (272), (521), (315a).
Clarges, Sir Thomas, (822).
Clarke, John, (104).
Clarke, Thomas, (630), (631).
Clayton, Randolph, (198).
Clayton, Colonel Randal, (852).
Clergy of Ireland, (781).
Colooney, Lord, (957).
Cole, Sir John, (136).
Cole, John, (559).
Commissioners of Claims, (991), (1003), (849).
Commissioners of H. M.'s Declaration, (380), (428), (454), (478), (352), (429), (372).
Comerford, Nicholas, (246).
Connock, Ann, (452).
Connack, Mrs., (790).
Connaught Presidency, (988).
Connaught Decrees, (789), (913).
Cooke, Edward, (479).
Cooke, Edward, and Sir Edward Dering, (975).
Cooley, Dudley, (21), (227).
Cooper, Mary, (726).
Coopers, Fraternity of, (1004).
Coote, Chidley, (132).
Coote, Thomas, (191).
Coote, Richard Lord, (156).
Corbet, Mary, (823).
Cork, Earl of, (36), (484), (513), (97), (565), (627), (692), (845), (817).
Cork, ancient native inhabitants of, (25), (26), (27).
Cork, natives of, (388).
Coventry, W., and Colonel W. Legg. (787).
Court of Claims, (808).
Coughlan, Captain Frances, (222).
Courthrop, Peter, (137), (210).
Crafton, Edmund, (419).
Cromwell, Vere Essex, (143).
Crosby, Sir John, (634).

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Currer, Dr. William, (6), (7), (847).
Cuff, James, (125).

Darcy, Nicholas, (66).
Davys, William, (31).
Dawson, Thomas, (608).
De Courcy, Patrick Lord Baron, (816).
Dee, James, (174).
Dempsey, Sir Terrence, (729).
Denmark, King of, (642).
Dennis, James, (171).
Denny, Sir Arthur, (442), (443), (444).
Dering, Sir Edward, (1039), (1053).
Devillieres, J., (911).
Digby, Lord, (338), (547).
Dillon, Lord of Costello, (391), (447), (720).
Dillon, Carew, (179), (232).
Dillon, Carey, (503), (593), (594), (595), (607), (1082).
Dillon, Sir James, (958).
Dillon, Theobald, (214).
Dolben, Major John, (392), (382).
Domville, Sir William, (770), (888).
Domville, W., (1006).
Donegal, Arthur Viscount, (163), (354), (368), (725), (796).
Dongan, Thomas, (243).
Donnell, James, (925).
Donnelan, James, (98).
Donnelan, Sir James, (944).
Drogheda, Earl of, (841).
Dublin, Archbishop of, (864), (871).
Dublin, Mayor of, (41), (588).
Dumoulin, L., (655).
Duncannon Fort. (1029), (1028).
Dungan, Lord, (1073).
Dungan, Captain Richard, (554).
Dungan, Sir W., (620).
Dungannon, Viscount, (805).
Dungannon, Lord, (1051).
Dunn, George, (61).
Durham, James, (35), (44).
Dover, Earl, (717), 718), (719).
Dowdal, Edward, (762), (763).
Dowdal, Mathew, (937).
Doyle, Michael, (17).

Excise, (378), (461), (759).
Eustace, Sir Maurice, (599), (612).

Falkland, Henry Viscount, (160).
Falkland, Lord, (712).
Falkland, Lady Rachel, (1655).
Farrel, Captain Charles, (525), (1021).
Ferrel, John, (357).
Farrell, J., (498).
Felt makers, Corporation of, (1046).
Fenton, Sir Maurice, (110), (337).
Feriter, D., (378).
Fitzgerald, Edmond, (455).
Fitzgerald, Dame Ellen, (456).
Fitzgerald, George, (92), (296).
Fitzgerald, Captain Garret, (415).
Fitzgerald, James, (932), (933).
Fitzgerald, Mathew, (1001).
Fitzgerald, Maurice, (223).
Fitzgerald, Colonel Robert, (317), (401).
Fitzgerald, Robert, (755), (113), (1052).
Fitzgerald, Lieut.-Col. William, (257).
Fitzgerald, Captain W., (306).
Fitzgerald, W., (662), (663).
Fitzhardinge, Lord, (879), (897).
Fitzharris, Sir Edward, (409).
Fitzpatrick, Colonel John, (226), (379), (976a).
Fitzsimons, Garret, (90).
Fitzsimons, Marcus, (892).
Fitzwilliam, Lord Viscount, (62).
Flanery, Hugh, (240).
Fleming, Gerald, (604).
Fleming, James, (277).
Fleming, S., of Edinburgh, (942).
Floyd, Trevor, (243).
Folliet, Lord, (200).
Forbes, Sir Arthur, (68), (151), (288 (321), (400), (857).
Forrest, (583).
Fortescue, Sir Faithful, (29), (225), (301
Fortescue, Thomas, (194), (585).
Forth, Sir Robert, (601).
'Forty-nine Arrears, (647), (648), (664a
'Forty-nine Officers, (387), (395), (457)
Foster, John, (546).
French, Captain Andrew, (417).
French, Patrick, (615).
Foulkes, Francis, (112), (117), (127).
Fourtaine, James, (394).
France, War with, (986).
Fulmar, Thomas, (10).

Gahan, Daniel, (910).
Galway, Edward Lord Viscount, (79 .
Galway, ancient natives, (517).
Galway, well deserving gentlemen, (528).
Gascoin, Henry, (1058).
Geoghegan, Conly, (297).
Gernon, Luke, (76), (884).
Gibson, Seafould, (181).
Gifford, Thomas, (83), (203).
Glenawly, Lord Hugh, (1010).
Goodwin, Major Ellis, (804), (167).
Gore, Arthur, (184).
Gore, Colonel, (614).
Gore, Francis, (192).
Gorge, John, (193).
Gorges, Captain John, (475).
Gormanston, Lord, (629).
Gower, Colonel Thomas, (386).
Gormanston, Lord, (549).
Grace, John, (733).
Grace, Oliver, (1060).
Grace, Colonel Richard, (943).
Graham, Sir James, (487), (687),
Grandison, Lord George, (140), (597) (779).
Grants of Restoration, (466).
Gray, Alexander, (228), (229).
Griffith, Robert, Esq., (363).

Hall, Henry, (23).
Halsey, William, (817).
Hamilton, Archibald, (579).
Hamilton, C., (182).
Hamilton, Sir Francis, (563), (152), (506, (550).
Hamilton, Sir George, (659), (330), (483), (482), (366).
Hamilton, Hans, (186).
Hamilton, Colonel Hans, (598), (643).
Hamilton, Captain Robert, (334).
Hamilton, Hugh, (274).
Hamilton, Captain John, (311).
Hamilton, Colonel William, (881), (355).
Hamilton, W., (364), (239), (467).
Hamilton, William, of Lough Currin, Co. Tyrone, (912).
Hamilton, Captain William, (55).

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Hannay, Sir Robert, (309).
Harman, Major Thomas, (600).
Harpool, Robert, (92), (106), (385), (1019), (1009), (1018).
Harrison, Mathew, (964).
Hawks, (580).
Hawkins, John, (606).
Hay, Geoffry, (108).
Healy, W., (445).
Heaton, Doctor Richard, (938).
Hickey, Captain Andrew, (893).
Hierome, Rev. James, (1009).
Hill, Sir Arthur, (597).
Hill, Colonel Arthur, (794).
Hodson, Dr. John, (1048).
Hore, Michael, and Harman, William, (1003).
Houston, J., (895).
Howard, W., (960).
Howth, Lord, (250).
Howth, Lord, (660).
Huncks, Sir Hercules, (980).
Hubbiethorne, John, (173).
Hutchinson, Alderman, (1060).

Jephson, J., (183), (955).
Ikerrin, Viscount Pierce, (74), (75).
Ingoldsby, George, (185).
Ingoldsby, Sir Henry, and Sir Richard Ingoldsby, (371), (427), (569).
Ingoldsby, Sir Richard, (512).
Inchiquin, Earl of, (812), (986).
Jones, Rev. Dr. Ambrose, (1037).
Jones, Henry, (464).
Jones, Oliver, (3).
Jones, Lieut.-Col. Oliver, (365).
Jones, Col. Oliver, (616).
Jones, Richard, (946).
Jones, Robert, (120).
Jones, Roger, (586).
Jones, Roger, Earl of Ranelagh, (901-2).
Jones, Sir Theophilus, (147), (360), (494), (876).
Jordan, Anne, (495).
Iveagh, Arthur, Viscount, (275).
Justices, Lords, (961).
Iveagh, Lord, (407), (408).

Kairic, Richard, (188).
Kentinge, Oliver, (118).
Kildare, Robert, Bishop of, (48).
Kildare, Wentworth, Earl of, (139), (305), (337).
Kildare, Earl of, (658), (678), (851).
Kilkenny City, Innocents, (850).
Kinsale, (255).
Kennedy, Richard, (40).
Kennedy, Sir Richard, (70), (71), (760).
Kennedy, Robert, (931), (932).
Kennedy, Thomas, (109), (40).
King's Bench, (777).
King, Sarah, (393).
King, William, (124).
Kingston, John Lord, (58).
Kingston, Lord, (530), (420), (424), (472), (653), (654), (732).

Lacy, Col. Pierce, (870).
Lake, Edward, (518).
Lambert, Patrick, (33).
Lane, Sir George, (349).
Lane, Col. James, (1079).
Langrishe, Hercules, (624).
Lapse, Money, (856), (939).
Latin, John, (344).
Lawrence, Henry, (508).
Lawless, Richard, (230).
Leather Trade, (640).
Legaharn, John, (580).
Legg, Colonel W., (904).
Lesley, Henry, (19).
Lesley, John, (32).
Lesley, Dr. John, (465).
Lesley, Robert, (24), (468), (18).
Leigh, Frideswood, Widow, (997).
Leigh, Young, Lord, (974), (973).
Leigh, Robert, of Rose Garland, (1062), (1070), (1083).
Leinster, Receivers of, (735).
Lisburn, (741).
Lisle, Mary, (599).
Limerick, Bishop of, (872).
Lloyd, Trevor, (436), (592).
Locke, Mathew, (548).
Loftus, Adam Lord, (798).
Loftus, Adam, (981).
Long, John, (405), (406).
Long, Col. Thomas, (238).
Longford, Borough of, (1072).
Lowe, Orphans of Christopher, (845).
Luttrel, Thomas, (515).
Luttrell, Thomas, of Luttrestown, (834).
Ludlow, Edmund, (303).
Lye, Francis, (552), (826).
Lye, Robert, (894).
Lynch, Gerald, of the Knock, (825).

McDanell, Alexander, (582), (589).
McCartie, Owen, Captain, (706), (707), (708).
McGill, Hugh, Captain, (400).
McGillicuddy, (473).
McGuire, Jephson, (541).
McMahon, Bryan, Col., (308).
Mabbot, Gilbert, (501), (887*a*).
Mahurghe, W., (392).
Magennis, Boy, Con, (776).
Magin, Patrick, (773), (775).
Mainwaring, Philip, Sir, (91).
Manley, Robert, (768).
Manley, Richard, (369).
Manley, Robert, (168).
Margetson, James, (11).
Marlow, James, (172).
Marsh, Francis, (450).
Maule, Thomas, (1017).
Mayart, John, (126).
Mayo, Dowager Viscountess, (2128).
Mayo, Viscount Theobald, (841), (842).
Massareen Lord, (134), (351), (672), (1054).
Massie, Edward, Sir, (204), (567), (578), (809).
Mara, Edmond, (96).
Meath, Jones, Henry, Bishop of, (285), (471), (602).
Meath, Edward, Earl of, (164), (381), (538).
Meredith, Amos, Sir, (114), (115), (116). (338).
Meredith, W., (149).
Mervyn, Audley, Sir, (38), (330), (348), (810).
Mezandiere, Penne, (941).
Modyford, James, (233), (234).
Molesworth, Edward, (572).
Molloy, Mary, (596).
Molloy, William, (2).
Montgomery, Lord Viscount, (161).
Montgomery, Wm., Sir, (940).
Moore, Garret, Col., (353).

Digitized by Google

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Moore, Wm., (187).
Moore, Randal, (252), (253), (253).
Moore, Henry, Viscount, (59), (154), (422).
Mount, Alexander, Lord, (587), (676), (703), (704), (896a).
Mountgarret, Lord, (480), (683), (684), (685).
Mountrath, Earl of, (67), (142), (198), (373), (346), (376).
Mountrath, Countess of, (701), (702), (691), (669).
Morgan, Ethelbert, (283).
Mosom, Robert, (39).
Muschamp, Denny, (1035).
Muskerry, Lord, (693).
Munster Corporate Towns, (441).

Neagle, Robert, (1027).
Neale, Sir W., (493).
Neale, Lieutenant W., (551).
Netterville, Patrick and Richard, (100).
Netterville, Viscount, (837).
Neve, William, (175).
Neve, W., (453).
Noel, Martin, (477).
Noel, Sir Martin, (740).
Nominees, (1064).

Oblivion Bill, (950).
O'Brien, Colonel Christopher, (276).
O'Brien, Sir Daniel, (641).
O'Brien, Lord William, (976).
O'Ferrel, Captain Gerald, (799).
Ogilby, John, (216).
Ogle, Sir John, (392).
O'Hara, Charles, (271).
O'Keeffe, Captain Daniel, (295).
O'Kelly, John Bara, (679).
O'Mulcily, Don Patricio, (1067).
O'Neil, Cormac, (705).
O'Neil, Daniel, (398), (532), (752), (767).
O'Neil, Henry, (369).
O'Neil, Sir Henry, (874), (875), (898), (987).
Ordnance, Officers of, (843).
Ormond, Duke of, (47), (49), (165), (101), (196), (282), (459), (460), (553) (592), (723), (724), (725), (858), (905), (924), (1012).
Orrery, Earl of, (42), (102), (197).
Orrery, Roger Earl of, (242), (249).
Orrery, Lord, (298).
Orrery, Earl of, (362), (348), (402), (594), (625), (673), (680), (694), (965).
Ossory, Earl of, (133), (138).
Ossory, Lord, (434), (558), (696), (967).
O'Sullivan, Beere, Col. Daniel, (296).

Padmore, Arthur, (1013).
Palmore, Arthur, Jun., (1076).
Paine, Capt. John, (336).
Paine, Robert, (373).
Pardons, (562).
Parker, John, (14).
Parker, George, (265).
Parkhurst, Sir Robert, (388).
Parliament of Ireland, (988), (989), (994), (1002).
Parr, Sir Thomas, (645).
Payne, Robert, (320).
Penn, Sir W., (922), (923), (462), (635).
Pennyfather, Captain, (263).
Perceval, Sir John, (680).
Perceval, Sir Philip, (555).
Pett, Sir Peter, (414).
Petty, Sir W., (626).
Phenix, Park, (1026).
Philips, Dudley, (488).
Philips, G., and Geffryes, George, (972).
Philips Rice, (60).
Physicians' College, (952).
Pigott, Sir Thomas, (652).
Pigot, Colonel, (877).
Piers, Henry, (282).
Plot, Fanatic, (743), (853), (855), (985), (999), 1042), (1047).
Pe Poer, Lord Richard, (1034).
Plunket, Sir Nicholas, (418).
Plunkett, Walter, (69), (1059).
Polden, Hugh, (359).
Pole, Sir Courtney, Bart., (878).
Polish Protestant Churches, (671), (670).
Poore, Edmund, (287).
Porter, John, (221), (410).
Power, John, (421).
Powel, William, (1041).
Powell, Wm., and John Thompson, (1071).
Power, Arnold, (94).
Power, Colonel Mills, (654), (830).
Power, Richard, (34,) (130).
Prizes at Sea, (577).
Progers, Harry, (628).
Preston, Sir George, (416).
Price, Robert, (15).
Price, Thomas, (50).
Pulein, Rev. Dr. Samuel, (9).
Purcell, Nicholas, (819).
Purdon, Nicholas, (190).
Purefoy, Colonel Wm., (1013a).

Ranelagh, Lord, (954), (968).
Ranelagh, Lord Arthur, (1056).
Rawdon, George, (146).
Read, John, (170).
Reading, Robert, (961), (982).
Recognizances Forfeited, (688).
Redman, Daniel, (148).
Revenue, Inland, (899).
Robert John, Lord, (199).
Roberts, Edward, (328).
Roch, Alexander, (237).
Roch, Captain James, (617), (746), (802), (929).
Rochfort, Elizabeth, otherwise Preston, (930), (934).
Rokeby, Talk, (81).
Rooth, Captain Richard, (1081).
Roper, Christopher, (30).
Roscommon, Earl of, (366), (581), (963).
Roscommon Castle, (815).
Rosse, Captain W., (966).
Roth, Sir Robert, (370).
Rust, C., (449).
Rutledge, George, (4).
Rutlege, Nicholas, (590).

Sandys, Robert, (122).
Sankey, Hierome, (1044).
Sarsfield, Captain Edward, (806).
Sarsfield, Patrick, (734), (918).
Sanderson, Colonel Robert, (327).
Scudamore, J., (1014).
Scurloge Martin, (251).
Settlement, Commissioners for executing act of, (709), (714).
Segrave, Arthur, (323).
Segrave, Edward, (543).
Segrave, John, (496).

No. 1.—Carte Papers: Final Report of Commissioners—continued.

Seele, Thomas, (5).
Shaen, Sir James, (310), (314), (316), (526), (689), (710), (734), (736), (956), (1005).
Shannon, Francis Viscount, (159).
Shapcot, Colonel, (851).
Shapcot, Robert, (988).
Sherlock, Sir Thomas, (58).
Signet Office, (315).
Smith, J., and Son, (499).
Smith, William, (64).
Southwell, Thomas, (637).
Speaker of House of Peers, (458).
St. George, Captain Richard, (803).
St. George, Oliver, (150).
St. George, Richard, (180).
St. John, Peter, (1063).
St. Leger, Col. Hayward, (502).
St. Leger, Jeffry, (307).
St. Leger, John, (121).
St. Patricks, Dean of, (570).
St. Patricks, Deanery house of, (814).
Stanley, Sir Thomas, (381).
Stanton, Mrs., (621).
Stearne, Dr. Robert, M.D., (686), (818).
Stephens, Sir John, (189), (511), (531), (609), (610), (611), (744), (745), (784), (788), (789), (993), (1000), (1022), (1032).
Stephenson, Margaret, (345).
Sterling, Sir Robert, (205), (325).
Stewart, Sir Robert, (72).
Stewart, Sir Robert, (77).
Stewart, Sir Robert, (206), (267), (435), (519).
Stewart, Captain J., (312).
Stockton, Thomas, (86).
Strafford, Earl of, (335), (371), (665), (824), (962), (986).
Suffolk, Earl of, (990).
Sutton, Sir Edward, (430), (1049), (1077).
Sutton, Garret, (289).
Sutton, Nicholas, (235).
Symes, Margery, (945).
Synge, Edward, (13).

Taaffe, Lord, (438), (439), (440), (516), (636), (891).
Tarah, Viscount, (556), (798), (930).
Talbot, Sir Henry, (80), (337).
Talbot, John, of Malahide, (745).
Talbot, Colonel Richard, (1075).
Talon, Patrick, (56).
Taylor, Jeremy, Dr., (19), (470).
Taylor, W., (293).
Tempest, Sir Thomas, (860).
Temple, Sir John, (43), (107), (903).
Temple, W., Esq., (921).
Thomond, Earl of, (213), (342), (1057).
Tichbourne, Sir Henry, (153).
Tilson, Mr. T., (697).
Tilson, John, (1007).
Tithes, Impropriate, forfeited tithes and lands, (890), (1045).
Topham, Thomas, (756).
Townley, Charity, (589).
Trelawney and Clifford, (537).
Treswell, Daniel, (171).
Treswell, Col. Daniel, (947).
Trevor, Marcus, (144).
Trevor, Colonel Marcus, (566), (656), (750).
Trinity College, Dublin, (715).
Twigg, Charles, (584).
Tynte, Lady Mabel, (848).
Tyrconnell, Earl of, (524), (721), (722), (865), (925).
Tyrconnell, Countess of, (544), (1050).
Tyrrell, Sir Timothy, and wife, (119).

Usher, Beverley, (555).
Usher, Sir W., (413).

Valentia, Arthur Viscount, (155).
Valuation, Commissioners of, (748), (792), (782).
Vaughan, James, (258).
Verdon, Theobald, (291).
Vernon, Edward, (753), (757), (811).

Walcot, Richard, (560).
Wall, James, (244), (411).
Walsh, Edmund, (256).
Walsh, Col. Hoyle, (509).
Walsh, Walter, (1038).
Ward, Robert, (623), (111), (868), (869), (880).
Warden, Colonel, (300).
Warren, Henry, and W. Harvey, (1061).
Westley, John, (97).
Westrop, Mountifort, (926).
Wexford, Burgesses of, (698).
Wexford Corporation, (696).
Wexford Burgesses, (700).
Weymes, Sir Patrick, (261), (207).
Wharton, Sir Thomas, (176), (909).
Wheeler, Colonel, (485), (574), (576), (786).
Wheeler, J., (218).
White, Mary, (564).
White, Patrick, (396).
Whyte, Nicholas, (63).
Wilde, George, (30).
Willoughby, Lady Elizabeth, (423).
Willoughby, Colonel Francis, (522).
Wilson, Ralph, (209).
Wingfield, Foliot, (977).
Witter, Daniel, (219).
Wolley, Rev. Doctor, (935), (936).
Wolverston, James and Francis, (633).
Wool Bonds, (573), (681), (682), (711), (738).
Worth, Edward, (22).
Wybrants, Peter, (64).
Wybrants and Demimere, (674).

Yarner, Abraham, (568).
Year's rent, (1016).
York, Duke of, (807), (914), (915), (920), (1015), (1030), (1036).

No. 2.—Calendarium Genealogicum: Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions, 1 & 2 Edw. II.

* is prefixed to such Documents as are not noticed in the Calendar printed by the Record Commissioners in 1806, or have been added to the series since their publication.

† is prefixed to such Documents as are, in the same Calendar, placed in the wrong year, and are now removed to the right year.

‡ is prefixed to such Documents as are without date, or where the date is doubtful from obliteration or decay.

Anno 1° Edw. II.

1. Adam filius Walteri del Wodehuse alias de Wodehouse. Inq. p. m.
   "Willielmus filius ejusdem Adæ est propinquior hæres ejus, et ætatis viginti quatuor annorum." Ebor'.
   [Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 9.]

2. Johanna quæ fuit uxor Galfridi Cucku. Inq. p. m.
   "Johannes Cucku est filius prædictæ Johannæ et hæres ejusdem propinquior, et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Sussex'.
   [Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 5.]

3. Margeria filia et hæres Rogeri de Claverinʒ', defuncta. Inquisitio de harrede facta in præsentia Alani de Claverinʒ' qui in terris, &c., se asserit jus habere.
   "Johannes de Claveryng' est propinquior hæres prædictæ Margeriæ, filiæ et hæredis Rogeri de Claveryng', nuper defunctæ, de terris et tenementis prædictis, et est ætatis quadraginta annorum." Northumb'.
   [Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 1.]

4. Alicia quæ fuit uxor Willielmi Fromond, alias Le Fremon, quæ tenuit de harreditate ipsius Willielmi. Inq. p. m.
   "Ricardus Le Fremon est propinquior hæres Willielmi Le Fremon, et ætatis viginti unius anni et dimidii." Hereford'.
   [Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 12.]

5. Radulphus de Sonford', alias Sondford'. Inq. p. m.
   "Ricardus filius ejus est propinquior hæres ejus, et est de ætate triginta annorum." Salop'.
   [Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 9.]

6. Sabina Pecche. Inq. p. m.
   "Nicholaus Pecche filius prædictæ Sabinæ Pecche propinquior hæres ejus est, et est ætatis triginta trium annorum et amplius." Somerset'.
   [Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 8.]

7. Walterus Aungewyn, alias Aungewyn, qui obiit tempore Edwardi primi. De terris et harrede ejus, viz., si Willielmus filius ejus sit propinquior hæres, &c.
   "Terræ et tenementa prædicta sunt in manum domini Regis 'per mortem dicti Walteri et' ratione minoris ætatis prædicti Willielmi. * * * Præfatus Willielmus est propinquior 'hæres' ipsius Walteri, et fuit in festo Sancti Laurentii proximo præterito ætatis viginti et duorum annorum." [Inquisitio facta 11° die Aprilis.] Devon'.

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

8. Ricardus de Grymenhull', qui tenuit per legem Angliæ de hæreditate Agnetis uxoris suæ. Inq. p. m.

"Isabella una filiarum prædictæ Agnetis ætatis quadraginta quinque annorum, quam Willielmus Le Kyng duxit in uxorem, Amicia altera filiarum ipsius Agnetis ætatis quadraginta quatuor annorum, quam Simon Underhull' duxit in uxorem, et Margeria tertia filiarum ejusdem Agnetis ætatis quadraginta annorum, sunt hæredes ipsius Agnetis propinquiores." Salop'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 3.]

9. Matilda de Carrik'. Inq. p. m.

"Roulandus de Carrik' filius prædictæ Matildæ est propinquior hæres ejusdem Matildæ, et est ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Cumbr'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 4.]

10. Willielmus de Bodrigan, qui tenuit de hærede Jocei de Dynham infra ætatem existente. Inq. p. m.

"Henricus de Bodrigan miles et nepos ipsius Willielmi est propinquior hæres ejus, et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Cornub'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 15.]

11. Theobaldus filius Alani. Inq. p. m.

"Tenuit manerium suum de Stowe eodem die [quo obiit] ut liberum tenementum ad terminum vitæ suæ tantum ex dimissione Briani filii Alani fratris sui; * * cui quidem Briano et hæredibus suis spectat reversio prædicti manerii post mortem dicti Theobaldi. * * Matildis 'et Katherina' filiæ et hæredes prædicti Briani et neptes dicti Theobaldi, quibus spectat reversio ejusdem manerii, quæ quidem hæredes et neptes 'dicti Theobaldi' nunc sunt in custodia domini Regis per mortem dicti Briani, sunt propinquiores hæredes ejusdem Theobaldi; et prædicta Matildis est ætatis septem annorum, et dicta Katherina est ætatis quinque annorum." Cantebr'.

12. Petrus de Huntingfeld'. Inq. p. m.

"Hawisia de Leyham, soror prædicti Petri, est propinquior hæres ipsius Petri, et de ætate sexaginta annorum et amplius." Kanť.

"Petrus de Huntyngfeld' tenuit manerium suum de Saham in eodem comitatu [Cantebr'] per feoffamentum domini Willielmi de Sancto Georgio, prædicto Petro et Matildæ uxori ejus et hæredibus de corporibus prædicti Petri et Matildæ legitime procreatis." Cantebr'.

13. Matilda de Daggeworthe. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes de Daggeworthe filius prædictæ Matildæ est hæres ipsius Matildæ propinquior, et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Midd'.

14. Margeria quæ fuit uxor Willielmi Belet. Inq. p. m.

"Radulphus Bygod miles filius prædictæ Margeriæ propinquior hæres ejus est, et ætatis quinquaginta annorum et amplius." Norfolc'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 16.]

15. Robertus Le Bret. Inq. p. m.

"Simon filius prædicti Roberti est hæres ejus propinquior, et ætatis septemdecim annorum." Essex'.

16. Nicholaus filius et hæres Gilberti Urry, infra ætatem existens. Inq. p. m.

"Rodlandus de Merlawe, filius Roberti Rodlaund', consanguineus prædicti Nicholai est ejusdem hæres propinquior, et est ætatis viginti quatuor annorum et amplius." Essex'.

[Vide Rot. Fin. 1 Edw. II. m. 5.]

17. Henricus Le Waleys, qui tenuit de hæredibus Hugonis de Mortuo Mari de Castro Ricardi infra ætatem existentibus. Inq. p. m.

"Willielmus filius dicti Henrici Le Waleys est propinquior hæres ejusdem Henrici, et est ætatis quadraginta annorum." Wigorn'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 13.]

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

18. JOHANNES FILIUS HENRICI LE COUHERDE. [Breve datum est 7° die Junii a° 1°.] Inq. p. m.

"Johanna soror ejusdem Johannis est hæres ejus propinquior, et ætatis viginti sex annorum." [Inquisitio facta 14° die Junii a° 2°.] Warw'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 3 Edw. II. m. 16.]

19. RICARDUS DE BRADDELEGH' alias RICARDUS FILIUS WALTERI DE BRADELEY. Inq. p. m.

"Quidam Robertus est filius et propinquior hæres ejusdem Ricardi, et est de ætate viginti duorum annorum et amplius." Ebor'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 3.]

20. WILLIELMUS BATTE alias LE BAT. Inq. p. m.

"Galfridus Le Bat est filius prædicti Willielmi et hæres ejusdem propinquior, et ætatis sex annorum et amplius." Sussex'.

21. ROBERTUS DE ETON', qui tenuit de hærede Thomæ de Wodhulle infra ætatem existente." Inq. p. m.

"Simon filius prædicti Roberti est propinquior hæres ejus, et ætatis trium annorum." Bedford'.

[Bedford'.—Hawysia quæ fuit uxor Roberti de Eton' finem fecit cum Rege per quadraginta solidos pro licentia se maritandi cuicunque voluerit. Rot. Fin., 4 Edw. II. m. 3. sched.]

22. GRIFFINUS AP HOWEL, defunctus.

De terris ipsius Griffini quas Resus Ap Griffin petit tanquam propinquior hæres et plene ætatis.

"Prædictus Resus est filius ejusdem Griffini legitimus et propinquior hæres ejus, et ætate viginti quinque annorum." Wall'.

23. HENRICUS DE GASCRIK'. Inq. p. m.

In dorso Brevis 27° die Martii a° 1° Edw. II. "Nullam feci executionem istius Brevis quia consimile Breve mihi venit tempore domini Edwardi quondam Regis Angliæ patris Regis nunc, per quod Breve [20° die Junii a° 35° Edw. I.] cepi terras et tenementa quæ fuerunt Henrici de Gascrik' in manum Regis et feci inquisitionem quam vobis mitto una cum Brevi dicti Regis Edwardi huic Brevi consutam."

"Inquisitio facta coram Eschaetore domini Regis apud Barton' quinto die Julii anno regni Regis Edwardi 35°. * * Johannes de Gascrik' est filius dicti Henrici et hæres propinquior, et est ætatis viginti quatuor annorum et amplius." Lincoln'.

[Vide Inq. 28 Edw. I. no. 76.]

24. RANULPHUS DE THORNTON', qui obiit temp. Edw. I.

De terris ipsius Ranulphi quas Petrus de Thornton' petit tanquam propinquior hæres et plene ætatis.

"Prædictæ terræ et tenementa in manu domini Regis nunc existant ratione minoris ætatis Petri filii Ranulphi de Thornton'. * * Dictus Petrus est propinquior hæres ipsius Ranulphi, et fuit ætatis viginti unius anni in festo Sancti Marci Evangelistæ anno supradicto [1 Edw. II.]" Cestr'.

25. MARGARETA QUÆ FUIT UXOR JOHANNIS LE FYZ BERNARD', quæ tenuit de hæreditate Thomæ nepotis et hæredis Radulphi Le Fyz Bernard' infra ætatem existentis. Inq. p. m.

"Idem Radulphus dia ante mortem suam concessit prædictum manerium [de Adintone] præfatæ Margaretæ tenendum ad totam vitam ipsius Margaretæ; ita quod post decessum ipsius Margaretæ prædictum manerium cum suis pertinentiis integre reverteretur ad præfatum Radulphum et hæredes suos." Buckingh'.

Ibid. AGATHA QUÆ FUIT UXOR RADULPHI LE FYZ BERNARD' (patris prædicti Johannis Le Fyz Bernard'.)

De dote sua habenda in manerio de Adyngtone.

"Præfatus Radulphus præfatam Agatham desponsavit anno regni Regis Henrici avi domini Regis nunc quadragesimo, et eo tempore idem Radulphus tenuit manerium prædictum cum pertinentiis in dominico suo ut de feodo, eundem statum sic continuando in manerio prædicto post desponsationem prædictam per triginta octo annos et amplius quousque idem Radulphus manerium illud cum suis pertinentiis dimisit et concessit Margaretæ quæ fuit uxor Johannis Le Fyz Bernard' nuper defunctæ tenendum ad totam vitam ipsius Margaretæ. * * Per quod dicunt [jurutores] quod prædicta Agatha dotem suam de eodem manerio habere debet." Buckingh'.

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

26. Ricardus de Sandbache alias Sondbache. Inq. p. m.

" . . . . . filius Thomæ de Sondbache nepos dicti Ricardi de Sondbache propinquior h . . . . . ." Cestr'.

27. Jacobus de Pelle, qui tenuit de Johanna filia et hærede Hugonis de Tydryngtone infra ætatem existente. Inq. p. m.

" Reginaldus filius dicti Jacobi propinquior hæres est, et est ætate viginti sex annorum." Cestr'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 11.]

28. Johannes de Furneaus. Inq. p. m.

" Ricardus frater dicti Johannis est propinquior hæres ipsius Johannis, et ætatis quindecim annorum." Devon'.

Et etiam assignatio dotis Matildæ quæ fuit uxor ipsius Johannis.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 8.]

29. Robertus de Etox'. Inq. p. m.

" Nicholaus de Eton', filius prædicti Roberti de Eton', est propinquior ejus hæres, et fuit ætatis duorum annorum ad festum Annunciationis Beatæ Mariæ ultimo præteritum." [Inquisitio capta die Sabbati post festum Sancti Marci Evangelistæ.] Northampt'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 4 Edw. II. m. 3.]

30. Thomas Kaynes, alias de Katones. Inq. p. m.

" Johannes Kaynes, filius prædicti Thomæ, est hæres ejusdem propinquior, et ætatis quindecim annorum." Devon'.

Tenuit de hærede Jocei de Dynham in custodia Regis existente.

[Devon.—De fidelitate capta. Rex Waltero de Glouecestr' Eschaetori suo citra Trentam salutem. Quia accepimus per inquisitionem quam per vos fieri fecimus quod Thomas de Kaynes defunctus non tenuit de nobis in capite aliquas terras seu tenementa in balliva vestra die quo obiit, sed quod tenuit quasdam terras et quædam tenementa in Thorry in comitatu Devon', de hærede Jocei de Dynehum defuncti infra ætatem et in custodia nostra existente, per servicium reddendi eidem hæredi unam libram piperis per annum ad festum Sancti Michaelis, et faciendo sectam ad curiam ipsius hæredis de Herton', de tribus septimanis in tres septimanas pro omni servitio, quodque Johannes de Kaynes filius prædicti Thomæ est propinquior hæres ipsius Thomæ et ætatis quindecim annorum, ecpimus fidelitatem ipsius Johannis de terris et tenementis prædictis et ea ei reddidimus. Et ideo vobis mandamus quod, accepta securitate a præfato Johanne de rationabili relevio suo nobis reddendo ad scaccarium nostrum, eidem Johanni de terris et tenementis prædictis, quæ occasione mortis præfati Thomæ cepistis in manum nostram, plenam seisinam habere faciatis, salvo jure cujuslibet. Teste Rege apud Wyndesoram quartodecimo die Julii. Rot. Fin. 2 Edw. II. m. 16.]

31. Henricus de La Sale, alias de Aula, de Skipton' in Cravene. Inq. p. m.

" Quidam Willielmus est filius et propinquior hæres ejusdem Henrici, et est de ætate quinque annorum ad festum Annunciationis Beatæ Mariæ Virginis anno regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi primo." Ebor'.

32. Hugo de Gerounde. [Inquisitiones lacerate sunt.] Inq. p. m.

" Johannes filius prædicti Hugonis est propinquior hæres ipsius Hugonis, et ætate novem annorum et amplius."

[Vide Rot. Fin. 2 Edw. II. m. 7.]

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

33. Henricus de Edmundestrop', alias Edmundesthorp', dudum defunctus.

De terris, &c. dicti Henrici et de hæredе ejusdem.

"Post decessum ipsius Henrici quidam Malcolmus de Harlee tunc temporis escheator domini Regis cepit prædictum messuagium et prædictam virgatam terræ in Edmundesthorp' in manum domini Regis simul cum custodia ballivæ prædictæ forestæ de Withlingelee et parci prædicti de Fremantel. Et dicunt [juratores] quod Alicia uxor prædicti Henrici per finem quem fecit cum domino Rege habuit prædictum messuagium et prædictam virgatam terræ, una cum custodia ballivæ prædictæ forestæ et parci prædicti, usque ad legitimam ætatem hæredum prædicti Henrici' tunc infra ætatem existentium.' * * Et dicunt quod Alicia et Pavya filiæ prædicti Henrici sunt propinquiores hæredes ipsius Henrici. Et dicunt quod prædictæ Alicia et Pavya sunt plenæ ætatis prout probatum fuit coram Waltero de Gloucestria, escheatore domini Regis citra Trentam, anno regni Regis Edwardi patre Regis nunc tricesimo tertio."

Southampton'.

34. Patricius de Haselwell', alias Haselwelle. Inq. p. m.

"David de Haselwelle filius ejusdem Patricii propinquior hæres ejus est, qui fuit de ætate quinquaginta annorum die Sanctæ Mariæ Magdalenæ proximo præterito." [Inquisitio facta 7° die Octobris.] Cestri'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 15.]

35. David Upehull. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes filius dicti David est propinquior hæres ipsius, et ætatis quatuordecim annorum." Devon'.

36. Thomas de Bitton' Exon' Episcopus. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes de Bitton' nepos prædicti Thomæ est propinquior hæres ejusdem, et ætatis viginti et unius annorum." Devon'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 8.]

37. Thomas de Ireby. Inq. p. m.

"Thomas filius Thomæ de Ireby prædicti est propinquior hæres dicti Thomæ, et est ætatis viginti sex annorum et amplius." Cumbr'.

[Cecilia quæ fuit uxor ipsius Thomæ dotatur. Vide Rot. Fin., 3 Edw. II. m. 4.]

38. Willielmus de Erle, alias Erlee. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt [juratores] quod Johannes de Erlee est filius et hæres prædicti Willielmi, et quod est de ætate decem annorum et non amplius." Southampt'.

39. Ricardus Bekk', alias Beck'. Inq. p. m.

"Valentinus Beck' est frater et hæres propinquior prædicti Ricardi, et est de ætate viginti quatuor annorum et amplius." Southampt'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 9.]

40. Hugo Le Quoeynte, alias Queynte. Inq. p. m. lacerata.

". . . . . Hugonis et Margeriæ et hær' . . . . ." Southampton'.

41. Reginaldus de Argentein. [Breve deest.] Inq. p. m.

"Johannes de Argentein est filius ejus et hæres propinquior, et est ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Cantabr'.

"Johannes de Argentein miles filius prædicti Reginaldi propinquior hæres ejus est, et ætatis viginti septem annorum et amplius." Norfolc'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 4.]

42. Rogerus de Fraxinis. Inq. p. m.

"Lucia filia prædicti Rogeri proxima hæres ejus est, et est ætatis duorum annorum." Norfolc'.

43. Willielmus de Curzun, alias Curzon, qui tenuit de hæredibus Hugonis de Mortuo Mari in custodia Regis existentibus. Inq. p. m.

"Ricardus de Curzon est filius et hæres propinquior Willielmi de Curzon, et ætatis viginti duorum annorum et plus." Hereford'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 16.]

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

44. Walterus Jerounde. Inq. p. m.

"Prædictus Walterus tenuit die quo obiit in comitatu prædicto, per legem Angliæ de hæreditate Agnetis uxoris ejus defunctæ, tertiam partem manerii de Perndon', &c. * * Johannes Jerounde filius prædicti Walteri est propinquior hæres prædictorum Walteri et Agnetis, et ætatis viginti quatuor annorum." Essex'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 2.]

45. Gilbertus filius Thomæ de Clare. Inq. p. m.

"Ricardus de Clare, frater dicti Gilberti, est ejus hæres propinquior, et est ætatis viginti duorum annorum et amplius." Essex'.

"Ricardus de Clare, frater prædicti Gilberti filii Thomæ de Clare est ejusdem Gilberti hæres propinquior, et est ætatis viginti quatuor annorum et amplius." Dorset'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 9.]

46. Hugo Poynz alias Poynz. Inq. p. m.

"Nicholaus Poynz, filius prædicti Hugonis Poynz, est ejusdem Hugonis hæres propinquior, et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Somerset'.

"Nicholaus Poynz miles, filius prædicti Hugonis Poynz, est propinquior hæres ipsius Hugonis, et est de ætate viginti octo annorum et amplius." Kant'

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 9.]

47. Robertus de Bromleoh', alias Bromleye. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes filius prædicti Roberti de Bromleye est propinquior hæres ejusdem Roberti, et fuit ætatis viginti septem annorum ad festum Ascensionis Domini ultimi præteriti. [Inquisitio facta die Veneris in crastino Sancti Thomæ Apostoli.] Stafford'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II m. 10.]

48. Gilbertus de Umfranvyll alias Dumfranvyll Comes de Angos alias Daneous. Inq. p. m.

"Robertus de Unfranvyll', filius prædicti Gilberti Dunfranvyll', est propinquior hæres prædicti Gilberti, et est ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Northumbr'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 14.]

49. Edmundus Gascelyn. Inq. p. m. [Breve deest.]

"Edmundus filius Edmundi Gascelyn est propinquior hæres prædicti Edmundi, et est ætatis viginti sex annorum et amplius." Wiltes'.

50. Adam de Stubhuse, alias Stubhous', defunctus.

De terra et hærede ejus.

"Dicunt [juratores] super sacramentum suum quod prædicta terra et tenementa ejusdem Adæ defuncti fuerunt in custodia domini Edwardi quondam Regis Angliæ, patris Regis nunc, per minorem ætatem Ricardi filii et hæredis prædicti Adæ, ratione minoris ætatis Roberti de Insula filii et hæredis Warini de Insula infra ætatem et in custodia domini Regis adhuc existentis. * * * Et dicunt quod idem Ricardus est filius et propinquior hæres ejusdem Adæ. Et dicunt quod idem Ricardus fuit de ætate viginti unius anni in vigilia Omnium Sanctorum anno regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi primo." Ebor'.

[Vide num. 66; et Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 7.]

51. Johannes de Boltesham. Inq. p. m.

"Idem Johannes et Gundreda uxor ejus, conjunctim feoffati per Henricum de Pynkenye, tenuerunt die obitus ejusdem Johannis decem et novem solidatas et quatuor denariatas redditus. * * * Thomas de Boltesham, filius prædicti Johannis, est hæres ejusdem Johannis propinquior, et fuit ætatis quinque annorum ad festum Omnium Sanctorum ultimo præteritum." [Inquisitio facta 19° die Octobris.] Northampton'.

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

52. Galfridus de Liziniaco. Inq. p. m.

"Ignorant [juratores] de hærede ejusdem Galfridi et de ætate, quia alienigena est." Ebor'.

"Nesciunt, [juratores] ipsum alium hæredem habere nisi dominum Regem." Hibern'.

[Norffolk'.—Pro Drogone de Merton'.

Rex cepit homagium Drogonis de Merton', nepotis et hæredis Galfridi de Lizinïaco, de omnibus terris et tenementis quæ præfatus Galfridus avunculus suus tenuit die obitus sui de domino Edwardo quondam Rege Angliæ patre Regis, et ei terras illas et tenementa Rex reddidit. Et mandatum est præfato Eschaetori quod accepta securitate a præfato Drogone de rationabili relevio suo nobis reddendo ad scaccarium Regis eidem Drogoni de omnibus terris et tenementis prædictis, et de quibus præfatus Galfridus avunculus fuit seisitus in dominico suo ut de feodo in balliva dicti Eschaetoris die quo obiit, et quæ occasione mortis ejusdem capta sunt in manum Regis, plenam seisinam habere faciat, salvo jure cujuslibet. Teste Rege apud Wyndesore vicesimo sexto die Marcii'. Per Breve de private Sigillo.

Eodem modo mandatum est Nigello le Brun Eschaetori Hibernïæ. Teste Rege apud Wyndesore vicesimo sexto die Aprilis.

Eborum. — Eodem modo mandatum est Rogero Sauvage Eschaetori ultra Trentam quod, accepta securitate a præfato Drogone de rationabili relevio suo &c. eidem Drogoni de omnibus terris et tenementis, &c. ut supra. Teste ut supra. Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 4.]

53. Robertus Bertram de Bothale, dudum defunctus.

De terris et hærede ejus.

"Dicunt [jurati] super sacramentum suum quod terræ et tenementa quæ fuerunt præfati Roberti die quo obiit extiterunt in manu domini Edwardi quondam Regis Angliæ, patris Regis nunc, a tempore mortis dicti Roberti per quatuor septimanas. Et postea per lapsum quatuor septimanarum dictus dominus Edwardus dedit custodiam dictarum terrarum et tenementorum dominæ Margaretæ quondam Reginæ Angliæ usque ad legitimam ætatem Roberti Bertram consanguinei et propinquioris hæredis dicti Roberti Bertram defuncti. * * Et dicunt quod prædictus Robertus nunc petens, consanguineus prædicti Roberti Bertram defuncti, est propinquior hæres ejusdem. * * Item quisquisque juratorum per se diligenter examinatus et probatus super ætate prædicti Roberti nunc petentis dicit ut subsequitur. Primo, prædictus Johannes de Seton' juratus et diligenter inquisitus et examinatus super ætate dicti Roberti dicit quod prædictus Robertus fuit ætatis vigint et unus annorum die Martis in festo Sancti Georgii proximo præterito." [Inquisitio facta die Martis post festum Sancti Marci Evangelistæ.] Northumbr'.

54. Reginaldus de Grey. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes de Grey est filius prædicti Reginaldi, est propinquior hæres ejus, et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Essex'.

"Johannes de Grey est filius et hæres prædicti Reginaldi propinquior, et est ætatis quadraginta annorum et amplius." Gloucest'.

"Dominus Johannes de Grey est filius ejus et hæres propinquior, et est ætatis quinquaginta annorum." Huntingdon'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 8.]

55. Robertus de Tateshale (filius et hæres Roberti de Tateshale, dudum defuncti), qui dum infra ætatem fuit obiit.

Extenta feodorum militum et advocationum ecclesiarum.

Item, Partitio terrarum quæ fuerunt dicti Roberti filii Roberti facta 14° die Januarii a° 35° Edw. I., inter Thomam de Caylly, Johannam de Dryby, et Isabellam uxorem Johannis de Orreby, hæredes ejusdem Roberti.

56. Ricardus de Cerizeaus. Inq. p. m. [Breve deest.]

"Ricardus filius Johannis filii prædicti Ricardi de Cerizeaus est propinquio hæres ejusdem, et ætatis septem annorum." Cornub'.

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

57. Stephanus de Brokedissh'. Inq. p. m.
"Reginaldus filius prædicti Stephani est propinquior hæres ejusdem Stephani, et est ætatis decem annorum." Suffolc'.

58. Johanna de Valencia Comitissa Pembrok'. Inq. p. m.
"Adomarus de Valencia est hæres dictæ Johannæ de Valencia propinquior et de ætate viginti sex annorum et amplius." Wigorn'.
"Adamarus filius prædictæ Johannæ est hæres ejus propinquior et ætatis triginta septem annorum." Kant'.
"Almaricus de Valencia filius et hæres prædictæ Johannæ est propinquior hæres ejus, et est ætatis viginti quatuor annorum et amplius." Berk'.
[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 14.]

59. Matilda quæ fuit uxor Hugonis de Mortuo Mari de Castro Ricardi, quæ tenuit in dotem de hereditate herredum ipsius Hugonis. Inq. p. m.
"Johanna primogenita filia prædicti Hugonis est ætatis quindecim annorum et amplius, quam Thomas de Bykenouere duxit in uxorem; et Margareta altera filiarum ipsius Hugonis est . . . . . annorum et amplius, quam Galfridus de Cornwayle duxit in uxorem; et sunt hæredes ejusdem Hugonis propinquiores." Salop'.
"Johanna uxor Thomæ de Bykenore et Margareta uxor Galfridi de Cornwayl' sunt hæredes propinquiores prædicti Hugonis, et prædicta Johanna est ætatis quindecim annorum et quinque mensium, et prædicta Margareta est ætatis duodecim annorum et septem mensium." [Inquisitio facta 23° die Aprilis.] Essex'.

60. Baldewinus de Insula. Inq. p. m.
"Johannes de Insula est filius Baldewini de Insula defuncti et ejus hæres propinquior, et fuit de ætate quatuor annorum in festo Purificationis Beatæ Mariæ anno regni Regis Edwardi, patris Edwardi Regis nunc, tricesimo quinto." Southampton'.

61. Henricus Tyeys, alias Thyeys, alias Tiheys. Inq. p. m.
"Henricus filius prædicti Henrici est propinquior hæres ipsius, et fuit in festo Sancti Laurentii prætento ætatis viginti duorum annorum." [Inquisitio facta 3° die Novembris.] Cornub'.
[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 11.]

62. Johannes de Meriet. Inq. p. m. [Breve deest.]
"Johannes de Meriet est filius prædicti Johannis et ejus hæres propinquior, et est ætatis undecim annorum et dimidii." Lincoln'.
"Johannes de Meriet filius prædicti Johannis . . . . . et fuit ætatis die Mercurii proximo post festum Sancti Michaelis, anno regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi primo, decem annorum." Somerset'.

63. Thomas de Aldithelegh', alias Aldithelye, alias Audithley (filius et hæres Nicholai de Aldithelegh') qui obiit infra ætatem. Inq. p. m.
"Nicholaus filius Nicholai de Aldithelye est propinquior hæres Thomæ de Aldithelye, nisi ita sit quod uxor prædicti Thomæ sit pregnans, et est de ætate decem et septem annorum." [Inquisitio facta die Veneris post festum Sancti Petri in Cathedra.] Salop'.
"Nicholaus filius Nicholai de Aldithelye et frater prædicti Thomæ est propinquior hæres ejusdem Thomæ, et fuit ætatis octodecim annorum a festum Sancti Martini ultimo prætæritum." [Inquisitio facta die Lunæ post festum Sancti Ceddæ.] Salop'.
Sunt etiam inquisitiones de terris, &c., de quibus prædictus Nicholaus de Audithelegh' senior, (qui obiit tempore Edwardi primi), tenuit die quo obiit. Item, de terris quas Eva quæ fuit uxor prædicti Thomæ de Aldithelegh' tenet in dotem, quam quidem Evam Thomas Dufford' duxit in uxorem.
[De terris capiendis in manum Regis. Rex dilecto et fideli suo Johanni Abel Escheatori suo citra Trentam, salutem. Cum nuper concesserimus dilecto et fideli nostro Radulpho de Monte Hermerii id quod ad nos pertinuit de maritagio Johannæ quæ fuit uxor Henrici de Lacy nuper Comitis Lincolniæ defuncti, qui de nobis tenuit in capite, quæ sacramentum præstitit coram nobis, quod se non maritaret sine licentia nostra, ac

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

eadem Johanna jam se sine nostra aut prefati Radulphi licentia, maritaverit Nicholao de Aldithelegh', ut accepimus; Vobis mandamus quod omnes terras et omnia tenementa quæ iidem Nicholaus et Johanna tenent in dotem ipsius Johannæ sine dilatione capiatis in manum nostram, et ea salvo custodiri faciatis donec aliud inde a nobis habueritis in mandatis. Teste ut supra (Teste Rege apud Westmonasterium tertio die Maii.) [Rot. Fin., 6 Edw. II. m. 4.]

64. Isolda La Brune, alias Broune. Inq. p. m.

"Mauricius Le Brun, filius prædictæ Isoldæ, est hæres ejus propinquior et ætatis triginta annorum." Southampton'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 16.]

65. Guido de Brian, alias Briona. Inq. p. m.

"Guido de Briona, filius dicti Guidonis defuncti, propinquior hæres ejus est, et est ætatis viginti trium annorum. * * Summa exituum 56*l.* 11½*d.* et duæ libræ cere et una libra cimini, unde Johanna de Brian' uxor quondam Guidonis de Brian', avi Guidonis qui nunc est, habet tertiam partem in dotem." West Wall'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 16.]

† 66. Ricardus de Stubhuse, filius et hæres Adæ de Stubhuse, alias Stubhouse.

Probatio ætatis facta die Dominica post festum Decollationis Sancti Johannis Baptistæ anno, &c., 2°.

"Willielmus de Hetheris miles ætatis quinquaginta annorum juratus et examinatus super ætate prædicti Ricardi dicit in virtute sacramenti quod idem Ricardus fuit ætatis viginti unius anni in vigilia Omnium Sanctorum anno regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi primo, et natus fuit in Stubhouse in vigilia Omnium Sanctorum anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc decimo quarto, et baptizatus fuit in ecclesia de Harewod in dicto festo Omnium Sanctorum." Ebor'.

[Vide num. 50; et Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 7.]

* 67. Johanna filia et una hæredum Hugonis de Mortuo Mari. [Breve deest.]

Probatio ætatis facta 11° die Aprilis.

"Willielmus de Mortuo Mari de Ley de comitatu Hereford', ætatis sexaginta annorum juratus et diligenter examinatus super ætate prædictæ Johannæ, dicit quod nata fuit in Castro de Keirfilly et in capella ejusdem castri baptizata in Vigilia Sanctæ Katherinæ Virginis anno regni Regis Edwardi patris domini Regis nunc viccsimo incipiente. Requisitus qualiter hoc scit, dicit quod ipse et Henricus Le Waleys socius suus steterunt tunc in servitio cum Hugone de Mortuo Mari patre prædictæ Johannæ, et prædictus Henricus fuit patrinus prædictæ Johannæ. * * Et sic per istam examinationem et probationem fuit prædicta Johanna ætatis sexdecim annorum ad festum Sanctæ Katherinæ Virginis proximo præteritum. Hereford'.

* 68. Johannes Le Hauekere filius et hæres Simonis Le Hauekere. [Breve deest.]

Probatio ætatis.

"Ricardus Golene de Conyton' ejusdem comitatus ætatis sexaginta annorum dicit per sacramentum suum quod prædictus Johannes Le Hauekere, filius prædicti Simonis, nunc est ætatis viginti trium annorum et amplius. Et fuit natus apud Conyton' in comitatu supradicto die Sancti Clementis Papæ anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc tertio decimo, et baptizatus in ecclesia ejusdem villæ in crastino prædicti Sancti Clementis anno supradicto." Cantabr'.

* 69. Johannes filius et hæres Johannis Le Chaumberleyn.

Probatio ætatis.

"Johannes de Tunderley ætatis quinquaginta annorum, juratus et examinatus super ætate prædicti Johannis, dicit quod prædictus Johannes fuit ætatis viginti et unius anni die Dominica proximo post festum Sancti Lucæ Evangelistæ hoc anno, videlicet, anno regni Regis Edwardi primo, et hoc scit quia natus fuit apud Dangbur' in comitatu Essex' die Dominica proximo post festum Sancti Lucæ Evangelistæ anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc decimo quarto, et in crastino sequenti baptizatus in ecclesia de Dangbur'." Essex'.

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

† 70. DIONISIA DE ESSEX' DE HELVYNTON', alias DIONISIA DE HELLINGTONE DE ESSEX', dudum defuncta.

De terris et hæredc ejus.

"Dicunt [jurati] quod omnia tenementa prædicta cum omnibus pertinentiis steterunt in manu domini Regis post obitum dictæ Dionisiæ usque nunc, et obiit die Pentecostes anno regni Regis Edwardi vicesimo octavo. Et dicunt quod Willielmus filius prædictæ Dionisiæ est hæres ejus propinquior et ætatis viginti quatuor annorum et amplius." Wiltes'.

Anno 2° Edw. II.

1. JOHANNES DE BOYDEL. Inq. p. m. [Breve lacceratum.]

"Willielmus filius dicti Johannis propinquior hæres ejus est, et est ætatis viginti sex annorum. Cestr'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 11.]

2. JOHANNES DOMINUS DE MERIET, defunctus. [Breve est de a° 1°.]

Extenta feodorum militum, &c.

3. JOHANNES WOLVEHUNTE, alias LE WOLFHUNTE. Inq. p. m. [Breve est de a° 1°.]

"Johannes filius ejus est ejus hæres propinquior, et est de ætate triginta annorum.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 4.]

4. JOHANNES LAUNDRY. Inq. p. m.

"Philippus Laundry, frater prædicti Johannis Laundry defuncti, propinquior hæres ejus est, et de ætate quinquaginta annorum." Wall'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 14.]

5. JOHANNES DE KNOVILL', defunctus.

De terris et hæredc ejus.

"Terræ et tenementa quæ fuerunt prædicti Johannis in Wyswen in comitatu de Cardigan die quo obiit, per mortem ejusdem Johannis ratione minoris ætatis præfati Willielmi filii prædicti Johannis, in manum domini Edwardi quondam Regis Angliæ patris domini Edwardi Regis nunc capta fuerunt, et ea ratione in manu domini Regis nunc existunt, et in custodia Aliciæ quæ fuit uxor prædicti Johannis ex concessione domini Edwardi Regis Angliæ patris domini Regis nunc prædicti. * * Prædictus Willielmus, filius prædicti Johannis, est propinquior hæres ipsius et non alius, et est de ætate viginti duorum annorum." Cardigan'.

Est etiam probatio ætatis prædicti Willielmi facta 4° die Octobris a° 3°.

"Dicunt [jurati] per sacramentum suum quod idem Willielmus natus fuit vicesimo octavo die mensis Octobris anno regni Regis Edwardi patris domini Edwardi nunc quartodecimo apud Lanpadary in comitatu de Cardigan et in ecclesia ejusdem villæ baptizatus, et quod plenæ ætatis est ad terras suas et tenementa habenda. Et præfata Alicia summonita fuit quod esset ad prædictos diem et locum ad ostendendum si quid pro se habeat vel dicere sciat quare præfato Willielmo ut illi qui plenæ ætatis est terræ et tenementa prædicta reddi non deberent: non venit." Cardigan.

6. STOTTUS—STUTUS DE STUTEVILL', alias STOTEVILL'. Inq. p. m.

"Idem Stutus tenuit maneria de Barton' et Brademere in dominico sno ut de feodo die quo obiit de Alianora quæ fuit uxor Roberti de Stotevill' per servitium unius feodi militis, et post decessum ipsius Alianoræ maneria illa tenebuntur de hæredibus ipsorum Roberti et Alianoræ inter ipsos legitime procreatis. * * Quidam Nicholaus filius prædicti Stuti de Stutevill' propinquior hæres ejus est et plenæ ætatis." Nottingham'.

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

7. Ricardus filius Johannis, qui tenuit de hærede Rogeri filii Johannis infra ætatem existente. Inq. p. m.

"Willielmus filius dicti Ricardi filii Johannis est propinquior hæres ejusdem Ricardi, et est ætatis quinque annorum." Hereford'.

8. Patricius Comes de Dunbarre. Inq. p. m.

"Patricius de Dunbar est filius et hæres propinquior prædicti Patricii Comitis et est ætatis viginti quatuor annorum." Northumbr'

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 2.

9. Willielmus de Beuerth', alias Beuryth. Inq. p. m.

"Maurillius est filius 'et hæres' ejus propinquior, et est ætatis trium annorum." Ebor'.

10. Margareta Musard. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes 'filius Johannis' est filius ejusdem 'Margaretæ' et est propinquior hæres ejus, et est ætatis triginta sex annorum" Derb'.

11. Hugo filius Galfridi de Whtchecote, alias Wychcote. Inq. p. m.

"Hugo filius Hugonis prædicti est propinquior ejus hæres, et fuit ætatis viginti sex annorum et amplius ad festum Omnium Sanctorum proximo præteritum." [Inquisitio facta die Jovis post festum Sancti Valentini.] Salop'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 9.]

12. Agnes filia Margaretæ de Beaumeys, alias Beaumais, fatua in custodia Regis existens. Inq. p. m.

"Emma de Cotone est propinquior hæres, et est ætatis quater viginti annorum et amplius." Tenuit de Willielmo de Beaumais. Northampton'.

13. Johannes de Corone qui obiit temp. Edw. I.

De terris et hæredi ejus.

"Dictæ terræ et tenementa in manu Anabillæ quæ fuit uxor Simonis de Provincia existunt, ratione minoris ætatis Thomæ filii et hæredis prædicti Johannis, ex commissione dicti domini Regis patris Regis nunc. * * Prædictus Thomas propinquior hæres ipsius Johannis est, et est ætatis viginti unius anni et amplius." Cestr'.

14. Johannes de Distisleye, alias Distesleghi'. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes filius dicti Johannis propinquior hæres ejus est, et est ætatis decem annorum." Cestr'.

15. Ricardus de Leton'. Inq. p. m.

"Rogerus filius prædicti Ricardi est propinquior hæres ipsius Ricardi, et fuit ætatis viginti octo annorum in festo Sancti Michaelis ultimo præterito." [Inquisitio facta die Mercurii post festum Epiphaniæ Domini.] Salop'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 10.]

16. Robertus de La Felde. Inq. p. m.

"Robertus de La Felde filius prædicti Roberti est hæres ejus propinquior, et est ætatis quadraginta annorum et amplius." Gloucestr'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 8.]

17. Ricardus filius Willielmi de Bardeleye. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt [jurati] quod prædictæ duæ partes messuagii xiii. acræ et dimidium semper a tempore mortis prædicti Willielmi de Bardeleye fuerunt in manu domini Regis, nomine custodiæ, ratione minoris ætatis prædicti Ricardi, et nunc per mortem ejusdem Ricardi in manu Regis existunt. Et quod Alicia soror prædicti Ricardi est ejus hæres propinquior et ætatis viginti quatuor annorum." Salop'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 2.]

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

18. Adam de Elmbrugg', alias Elmebrugge, qui tenuit de hæredibus Hugonis de Mortuo Mari de Castro Ricardi infra ætatem existentibus. Inq. p. m.

"Rogerus filius prædicti Adæ est propinquior hæres ejus, et fuit ætatis viginti sex annorum in festo Sancti Michaelis proximo præterito". [Inquisitio capta die Lunæ post festum Sancti Matthæi Apostoli.]

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 14.]

19. Lewelinus Ap Owayn, alias Ab Oweyn. Inq. p. m.

"Et [dicunt jurati] quod dominus Rex post mortem ejusdem Lewelini habere debet de bonis ejusdem defuncti centum solidos nomine herieti quod vocatur Ebedin. * Et quod omnia tenementa prædicta secundum consuetudinem Walensium inter filios prædicti Lewelini proportionaliter participare debent. * Dicunt etiam quod Oweyn et Thomas filii prædicti Lewelini propinquiores ejus sunt hæredes. Et quod dictus Oweyn est ætatis undecim annorum, et prædictus Thomas est ætatis decem annorum. Nec dominus Rex de prædictis Oweyn et Thoma, licet minoris existant ætatis, wardam vel maritagium aliqualiter exigere potest. Wall'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 2.]

20. Rogerus de Burton, qui tenuit de hærede Laderana quæ fuit uxor Johannis de Bella Aqua infra ætatem existente. [v. Breve.] Inq. p. m.

"Rogerus filius Rogeri de Burton' est filius et hæres propinquior dicti domini Rogeri defuncti, et fuit ætatis duorum annorum ad festum Sancti Matthæi Apostoli proximo præteritum". [Inquisitio facta in Vigilia Sancti Andreæ Apostoli.] Ebor'.

"Rogerus filius ejusdem Rogeri est ejus hæres propinquior et est ætatis duorum annorum die inquisitionis captæ." [Inquisitio capta die Jovis ante festum Sancti Nicholai Episcopi.] Ebor'.

21. Thomas de Chaunc', super Baro de Skirpenbek." Inq. p. m.

"Willielmus Chauncy est filius et hæres Thomæ Chauncy et propinquior hæres prædicti Thomæ. * Dictus Willielmus Chauncy est ætatis triginta annorum." Ebor'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 3.]

22. Johannes Spigurnel. Inq. p. m.

"Edmundus Spygurnel filius prædicti Johannis Spygurnel est propinquior hæres ejus et ætatis viginti duorum annorum." Essex'.

"Edmundus Spigurnel est filius prædicti Johannis et hæres ejus propinquior et ætatis viginti et trium annorum." Nottingham'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 12.]

23. Johannes de Fratinge, qui tenuit de hærede Rogeri de Tany in custodia Regis existente. Inq. p. m. [Breve est de a°. 1°.]

"Alicia filia prædicti Johannis de Fratynge est hæres ejusdem Johannis propinquior et ætatis sex annorum." Essex'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 10.]

24. Simon de Leyburne. Inq. p. m.

"Prædictus Simon tenuit die quo obiit manerium de Berewyk' conjunctim cum Johanne filio ejusdem Simonis, ex feoffamento eujusdam Philippi de Say; qui quidem Philippus prædictum Simonem et Luciam uxorem ejus et Johannem filium ejusdem Simonis de prædictis tenementis feoffavit, ipsis et hæredibus prædicti Johannis de corpore suo legitime procreatis; ita quod si prædictus Johannes obiisset sine hærede de corpore suo legitime procreato, prædicta tenementa descenderent Matildæ sorori dicti Johannis et hæredibus suis de corpore suo legitime procreatis. Et si prædicta Matilda obiisset sine hærede de corpore suo legitime procreato, prædicta tenementa remanerent rectis hæredibus prædicti Simonis. * * Prædictus Johannes filius dicti Simonis qui cum prædicto Simone feoffatus est, ut prædictum est, fuit ætatis quatuordecim annorum die Beati Thomæ Apostoli ultimo præterito." [Inquisitio facta die Jovis in crastino Cinerum.] Salop'.

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

25. JOHANNES BARCOLF'. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes Barcolf' est filius prædicti Johannis Barcolf' et hæres ejus propinquior, et fuit de ætate septem annorum ad festum Assumptionis Beatæ Mariæ anno regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi secundo." Leicestr'.

26. THOMAS ALEYN, alias ALAYN. Inq. p. m.

"Ricardus Alayn filius et hæres prædicti Thomæ Alayn est propinquior hæres ejus, et est ætatis septem annorum &c." Oxon'.

27. WILLIELMUS DE KERDYF', alias KERDIF. Inq. p. m.

"Paulinus filius prædicti Willielmi de Kerdif' est propinquior hæres ejusdem Willielmi, et est ætatis triginta annorum." Wigorn'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 8.]

28. EVERARDUS FAUVEL. Inq. p. m. [Breve est de a°. 1°.]

"Quis propinquior hæres ejus sit, dicant [juratores] quod quidam Thomas Fauvell' est filius dicti Everardi et propinquior hæres ipsius. Item, et cujus ætatis, dicunt quod est de ætate quadraginta annorum." Ebor.'

29. ADAM LE KEU DE STAVELEY, qui tenuit per legem Angliæ de hæreditate Cecilie quæ fuit uxor ejus. Inq. p. m.

"Willielmus filius Adæ Le Keu de Staveley est propinquior hæres dictæ Cecilliæ, et est ætatis quadraginta annorum et plus." Ebor.'

[Vide Rot. Fin., 3 Edw. II. m. 15.]

30. HUGO DE GEROUNDE, defunctus.

Extenta feodorum militum et advocationum ecclesiarum.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 7. Licentia maritandi pro Margareta quæ fuit uxor ipsius Hugonis.]

31. WALTERUS DE ALETE. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt [juratores] per sacramentum suum quod prædictus Walterus nihil tenuit in dominico suo ut de feodo, die quo obiit, de domino Rege in capite in comitatu prædicto; quia dicunt quod præfatus Walterus obiit die Veneris proxima ante festum Omnium Sanctorum anno regni Regis Edwardi prædicti primo, tempore domini Petri de Gavaston' Comitis Cornubiæ de quo tenuit in dominico suo ut de feodo die quo obiit. * * Prædictus Walterus tenuit in dominico suo ut de feodo die quo obiit duas partes unius acræ terræ Cornub' apud Kilmonseg' de Willielmo Botereaus. * * Prædictus Walterus et Isota uxor sua conjunctim feofati tenuerunt die quo præfatus Walterus obiit tertiam partem unius acræ terræ ibidem. * * Margeria filia dicti Walteri antenata et Alianora filia sua postnata sunt propinquiores hæredes ipsius. Et prædicta Margeria est ætatis novem annorum et præfata Alianora est ætatis sex annorum". Cornub'.

32. FREMUNDUS DE ERDYNTON'. Inq. p. m.

"Reginaldus filius prædicti Fremundi est hæres ejus propinquior, et fuit ætatis sexdecim annorum in festo Nativitatis Sancti Johannis Baptistæ ultimo præterito." [Inquisitio facta die Jovis ante festum Sancti Gregorii Papæ.]

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 8.]

33. ROGERUS DE BACHEWORTH'. Inq. p. m.

"Duæ partes manerii de Childewyk' Soy, quæ fuerunt de hæreditate præfati Rogeri, fuerunt in manu domini Regis a die mortis Johannis de Bacheworth' patris prædicti Rogeri ratione fatuitatis ipsius Rogeri. Et sic prædictus Rogerus obiit seisitus de duabus partibus prædicti manerii, quæ quidam duæ partes, simul cum tertia parte quam Sibilla mater præfati Rogeri tenet in dotem, tenentur de Abbate de Sancto Albano. * * Ricardus de Bacheworth', frater prædicti Rogeri, est propinquior hæres ipsius Rogeri, et ætatis viginti duorum annorum et amplius." Hertford'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 8.]

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

34. MATILDA QUE FUIT UXOR ROBERTI CORBET. Inq. p. m.

"Thomas filius ejusdem Matildæ est propinquior hæres ejus, et fuit ætatis viginti quinque annorum in festo Sanctæ Trinitatis ultimo præterito." [Inquisitio facta die Veneris ante festum Nativitatis Sancti Johannis Baptistæ.] Salop'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 1.]

35. JOHANNES FOLEJAUMBE.

Inquisitio ad quod dampnum.

* Ibid. RICARDUS FILIUS RICARDI DE STIGETWYSIL.

Inquisitio ad quod dampnum.

36. ROBERTUS DE BEDINGFELD'. Inq. p. m.

"Idem Robertus et Johanna uxor ejus, die quo idem Robertus obiit, tenuerunt in comitatu predicto quasdam terras et quedam tenementa cum pertinentiis in Causton' de hereditate prædicte Johanne. * * Maria, Katherina et Elyzabet filiæ prædicti Roberti propinquiores hæredes ipsius Roberti sunt; et prædicta Maria est ætatis octodecim annorum, et prædicta Katherina est ætatis quatuordecim annorum, et prædicta Elyzabet est ætatis duodecim annorum et amplius." Norfolc'.

37. RICARDUS DE FURNEUS. Inq. p. m.

"Dictus Ricardus una cum Sibilla uxore ejus conjunctim feoffata, per finem levatum in curia domini Regis, tenuit manerium de Carleton'. * * Dicunt etiam [juratores] quod dictus Ricardus obiit die Mercurii proximo ante festum Sancti Luce Evangeliste proximo preterito, anno supradicto. Et quod Willielmus filius ejus propinquior hæres ejus est; et quod est ætatis viginti annorum et amplius." [Inquisitio capta die Jovis ante festum Sancti Valentini.] [Nottingham'.

38. ROBERTUS DE TUDENHAM, alias THUDENHAM, alias TODENHAM. Inq. p. m.

"Robertus de Thudenham est ejus filius et hæres propinquior, et est ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Cantebr'.

"Idem Robertus de Todenham et Eva uxor ejus, que adhuc superstes est, conjunctim tenuerunt die obitus ipsius Roberti manerium de Erigwelle. * * Robertus de Todenham filius predictorum Roberti et Eve est propinquior hæres ejusdem Roberti et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Suffolc'.

Est etiam finalis concordia facta anno regni Regis Henrici tertii 54° inter Robertum de Tudenham et Evam uxorem ejus et Robertum de Weston' et Hawisiam uxorem ejus de manerio de Eresewell', &c.

39. NICHOLAS LE ARCHER DE STOKES. Inq. p. m.

"Edmundus Le Archer, filius prædicti Nicholai, est hæres ejus propinquior, et est ætatis quadraginta annorum et amplius." Gloucester'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 3.]

40. RICARDUS DE FRETTEWELLE. Inq. p. m.

"Radulphus filius predicti Ricardi est propinquior hæres ejus, et est ætatis sexdecim annorum." Oxon'.

41. WILLIELMUS BODBRAN. Inq. p. m.

"Predictus Willielmus obiit seisitus de duobus messuagiis, duabus carrucatis terre cum pertinentiis in Boðbran et Trewalla per quendam finem levatum in curia domini Regis inter Robertum de Keverel querentem et predictum Willielmum deforcientem, videlicet, quod predictus Willielmus recognovit prædicta tenementa cum pertinentiis esse jus ipsius Roberti ut illa que idem Robertus habuit de dono predicti Willielmi; et pro hac recognitione, &c., idem Robertus concessit predicto Willielmo predicta tenementa cum pertinentiis et illa reddidit in eadem curia tenenda de capitalibus dominis feodi illius per servitia que ad illa tenementa pertinent tota vita ipsius Willielmi; et post decessum ipsius Willielmi predicta tenementa cum pertinentiis integre remanebunt Galfrido filio predicti Willielmi et Elizabet uxori ejus et hæredibus quos idem

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

Galfridus de corpore ipsius Elizabet procreaverit. * * Et si contingat quod prædictus Galfridus obierit sine hærede de corpore ipsius Elizabet procreato, tunc post decessum ipsorum Galfridi et Elizabethæ prædicta tenementa cum pertinentiis integre remanebunt rectis hæredibus prædicti Willielmi. * * Prædictus Galfridus filius prædicti Willielmi est propinquior hæres ipsius Willielmi et ætatis viginti trium annorum et amplius." Cornub'.

Cecilia quæ fuit uxor Willielmi habet dotem.

[Vide Rot. Fin. 2 Edw. II. m. 3.]

42. WILLIELMUS DE SAUSTON'. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes de Sauston' est filius et hæres propinquior prædicti Willielmi, et est ætatis decem et novem annorum et dimidii." Cantebr'.

43. JOHANNES LE SENESCHAL. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes filius dicti Johannis est propinquior hæres ejusdem et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Cornub'.

[Vide Rot. Fin. 2 Edw. II. m. 4.]

44. JOHANNES DE FORTESBURY, defunctus.

De terris et hærede dicti Johannis, qui tenuit, die quo obiit, de domino Edwardo quondam Rege Angliæ.

[Vide Cal. Geneal. II. 765.]

"Dicunt jurati quod Johannes de Fortesbury defunctus tenuit de domino Rege in capite die quo obiit unum messuagium et quatuor virgatas terræ cum pertinentiis in Westgrafton' per servitium decem solidorum annuatim ad castrum Merlebergiæ solvendorum, * et custodiendi quandam gravam domini Regis vocatam Suthgrave in foresta de Saverank'. * Et dicunt quod prædicta messuagium et terra existunt in manu domini Regis ratione minoris ætatis Petri filii prædicti Johannis de Fortesbury et non alia de causa; et dicunt quod prædictus Petrus est propinquior hæres prædicti Johannis de Fortesbury: et dicunt quod in festo Sancti Kalixti Papæ proximo præterito fuit ætatis viginti duorum annorum." [Inquisitio capta 31 die Martii.] Wiltes'.

"Probatio ætatis Petri filii et hæredis Johannis de Fortesburi defuncti, qui de domino Edwardo Rege, patre domini Regis nunc, tenuit in capite, capta apud Fortesburi coram Escheatore domini Regis 22° die Decembris anno regni Regis domini Edwardi nunc secundo, per sacramentum subscriptorum. * Willielmus de Lyllebon miles ætatis quinquaginta annorum juratus et diligenter examinatus super ætate dicti Petri filii Johannis de Fortesburi, dicit quod fuit ætatis viginti duorum annorum in festo Sancti Laurentii Martyris ultimo præterito; et hoc scit quia idem hæres nascebatur apud Fortesburi, in festo Sancti Laurentii Martyris in anno regni domini Edwardi Regis patris domini Edwardi Regis nunc quartodecimo, et in ecclesia Sancti Michaelis apud Sehaldeborne in crastino ejusdem festi baptizatus fuit. Et similiter hoc scit quia in festo prædicto prædictus Johannes de Fortesbury venit apud Middeltone ad domum ejusdem Willielmi et rogavit ipsum ut vellet esse compater prædicti Petri, et hoc ei non concessit propter nuptiarum solempnitatem in crastino festi prædicti celebraturarum inter matrem ejusdem Willielmi et Stephanum de Britmerestone apud Middeltone; et idem Johannes de Fortesbury rogavit ipsum perhibere testimonium de die et anno nativitatis dicti hæredis, et idem Willielmus incontinenti scribere fecit in pariete aulæ suæ diem et annum nativitatis hæredis prædicti, et per hoc scit quod tempus est elapsum." * * * Wiltes'.

Isabella quæ fuit uxor dicti Johannis de Foresbury nunc defuncta, habuit custodiam terrarum ex concessione Regis Edwardi primi.

45. WILLIELMUS BURDET. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes Burdet est filius ejus Willielmi Burdet et hæres ejus propinquior, et fuit de ætate octodecim annorum ad festum Purificationis Beatæ Mariæ anno regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi secundo." Leicester'.

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

46. Adam de Dounhale de Hanebergh'. Inq. p. m.

"Robertus filius prædicti Adæ de Dounhale est propinquior hæres ejus, et est ætatis viginti quatuor annorum et amplius." Oxon'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 3 Edw. II. m. 15.]

47. Henricus de Grey, alias Gray. Inq. p. m.

"Ricardus de Grey miles filius prædicti Henrici est propinquior hæres ipsius Henrici, et est de ætate viginti et sex annorum." Kant'.

"Ricardus de Grey est filius et hæres prædicti Henrici de Grey propinquior, et est ætatis viginti septem annorum. Leicester'.

[Vide Rot. Fin. 2 Edw. II. m. 13.]

48. Hugo de Chaunceus. Inq. p. m.

"Prædictus Hugo de Chaunceus tenuit de domino Rege in capite die quo obiit manerium de Uppeton' in comitatu Northampton' in dominico suo ut de feodo per servitium essendi eques armatus in exercitu Regis infra quatuor maria per quadraginta dies sumptibus suis propriis. * * Item, est ibi quoddam dominium habendi unum aprum et unum taurum in campo de Upperton' pro voluntate sua pascentes, quorum proficuum valet per annum 3*s.* 4*d.* * * Thomas de Chaunceus filius prædicti Hugonis de Chaunceus est propinquior hæres ipsius . . . . . ," et est ætatis sexaginta annorum et amplius. Northampton'.

Item, Assignatio dotis Julianæ quæ fuit uxor dicti Hugonis de Chaunceus.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 9.]

49. Willielmus de Staure. Inq. p. m.

"Idem Willielmus tenuit in dominico suo ut de feodo die quo obiit de domino Rege in capite unum messuagium et duodecim acras terræ in villa de Sancto Briavello per serjantiam essendi forestarius domini Regis in foresta de Dene et attachiandi tam de viridi quam de venatione, et illos sic attachiatos ducendi ad castrum Sancti Briavelli. * * Willielmus filius prædicti Willielmi est hæres ejus propinquior, et fuit de ætate viginiti sex annorum ad festum Sancti Michaelis proximum præteritum.' [Inquisito capta 22° die Januarii.] Glouces'r.

50. Philippus de Potyndene, alias Potyndenne, alias Putyndenne. Inq. p. m.

"Adam de Putyndenne, filius prædicti Philippi, est hæres ejus propinquior et ætatis viginti quinque annorum et amplius." Surr'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 5.]

51. Willielmus de Canti Lupo, alias Cantilupo. Inq. p. m.

"Inquisitio de terris et tenementis quæ fuerunt Willielmi de Cantilupo et Evæ quondam uxoris suæ die quo dictus Willielmus obiit. * * Prædicta Eva tenet manerium de Ravenesthorp' cum pertinentiis in dominico suo ut de feodo in capite de domina Johanna Wake, per servitium feodi unius militis, unde decem carucatæ terræ faciunt feodum. Et prædictus Willielmus de Cantilupo nihil tenuit in prædicto manerio de Ravenesthorp' nisi per Evam quondam uxorem suam, et nihil ibidem de Rege tenetur. * * Dominus Johannes de Walkingham est filius Alani de Walkyngham et filius dictæ Evæ, et est propinquior hæres ejusdem Evæ, et est de ætate viginti quatuor annorum." Ebor'.

"Dicunt [juratores] super sacramentum suum quod dictus Willielmus nihil tenuit de domino Rege in capite in comitatu Ebor' die quo obiit; sed dicunt quod tenuit quadragiuta marcatas anni redditus in comitatu Ebor' in villa de Bridlyngton' de hæreditate Matildæ quondam uxoris suæ per curialitatem et legem Angliæ. * * Et dicunt quod Willielmus de Erghum et Thomas de Outhenby sunt propinquiores hæredes ipsius Matildæ eo quod sunt consanguinei sui. Et idem Willielmus de Erghum est ætatis quadraginta annorum, et dictus Thomas viginti sex annorum." Ebor'.

"Dicunt [juratores] per sacramentum suum quod idem Willielmus de Cantilupo nihil tenuit de domino Rege in capite in dominico suo ut de feodo in comitatu Derb', nec de aliis, die quo obiit: sed dicunt quod dictus Willielmus de Cantilupo tenuit dictum manerium de Ilkeston' cum pertinentiis in prædicto comitatu ad terminum vitæ suæ de domino Willielmo de Roos de Ingmanthorp', et idem Willielmus de Roos tenet dictum manerium de hæreditate Eustachiæ quondam uxoris suæ, matris dicti Willielmi de Cantilupo, per curialitatem Angliæ, cujus hæres ipse Willielmus de Cantilupo erat. * * Et dicunt quod Willielmus est filius prædicti Willielmi de Cantilupo et ejus hæres propinquior est, et est de ætate sexdecim annorum." Derb'.

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

"Dicunt [juratores] per sacramentum suum quod Willielmus de Cantilupo, die quo obiit, tenuit tenementa subscripta in Wirlyngton' in forma subscripta; dicunt enim quod tenementa illa aliquo tempore fuerunt in seisina Petri de la Hay qui ea tenuit in dominico suo ut de feodo, post cujus mortem descenderunt Eustachiæ neptæ et hæredi ipsius Petri quam Willielmus de Ros duxerat in uxorem; qui quidem Willielmus et Eustachia inde seisiti fuerunt tota vita ipsius Eustachiæ, post cujus mortem feodum et jus eorundem tenementorum descendit prædicto Willielmo de Cantilupo tanquam filio et hæredi ipsius Eustachiæ, sed dominicum remansit in manu dicti Willielmi de Ros per legem Angliæ ratione prolis inter ipsum et dictam Eustachiam aliquando suscitatæ; et postea idem Willielmus de Ros dimisit prædicta tenementa præfato Willielmo de Cantilupo tenenda, utrum ad terminum vitæ vel annorum, qualiter, seu pro quanto, ignorant; a tempore cujus dimissionis idem Willielmus de Cantilupo seisinam suam de tenementis prædictis usque ad diem obitus sui continuavit. * * Dicunt etiam quod Johanna de la Hay tenet nomine dotis quædam tenementa in prædicta villa de Wirlyngton, quæ post mortem ejusdem Johannæ ad prædicta tenementa tanquam ad duas partes reverti debent, et valent per annum xl*s*. Dicunt etiam quod Willielmus filius prædicti Willielmi de Cantilupo est hæres ejusdem propinquior et ætatis quindecim annorum et amplius." Sussex'.

Eea quæ fuit uxor dicti Willielmi defuncti habet dotem suam in comitatu Buckingham'.

52. ROBERTUS DE HESELARTON', alias HESELERTON', qui de hæreditate Roberti de Tateshale tenuit. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt [juratores] per sacramentum suum quod dictus Robertus tenuit die quo obiit per legem Angliæ post mortem Ceciliæ uxoris suæ. * * Prædicta tenementa in Fynele, Museton', et Fordon' fuerunt dudum cuidam Rogero de Nevile qui illa tenuit de dominio Gilberto de Gaunt. Et de ipso Rogero descenderunt dicta tenementa quibusdam Matildi et Hawisiæ filiabus suis, inter quas dicta tenementa fuerunt partita. De Matilde descendit jus propartiæ suæ cuidam Ricardo de Malebys ut filio et hæredi: de ipso Ricardo cuidam Willielmo ut filio; de ipso Willelmo cuidam Ricardo qui nunc tenet. Et de prædicta Hawisia descendit jus propartiæ suæ cuidam Simoni ut filio: de ipso Simone cuidam Thomæ ut filio: de ipso Thoma quibusdam Margeriæ et Ceciliæ ut filiabus: et de Cecilia descendit jus propartiæ suæ cuidam Roberto filio Roberti de Heselerton' qui nunc tenet, et est ætatis sexdecim annorum. Et dicunt quod post mortem prædicti Rogeri de Nevile dicta Hawisia ac antecessores de homagio et servitio suo prædictæ Matildi sorori suæ antenatæ et in homagio suo obiit; per quod prædictæ Matildis, ratione minoris ætatis Simonis de Louthorp' filii et hæredis prædictæ Hawisiæ, seisivit tenementa prædictæ Hawisiæ quæ tenuit nomine propartiæ et ea tenuit usque ad legitimam ætatem prædicti Simonis nomine custodiæ. Et post decessum prædicti Simonis Willielmus Malebys, filius Ricardi de Malebis habuit custodiam prædictorum tenementorum, ratione minoris ætatis Thomæ filii Simonis prædicti. Et Ricardus de Malebys, qui nunc est, seisitus est de prædictis tenementis nomine custodiæ ratione minoris ætatis prædicti Roberti filii Roberti de Heselerton'. * * Et dicunt quod dictus Robertus de Heselerton' obiit die Jovis in prima septimana Quadragesimæ anno regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi primo. Et quod Robertus de Heselerton' qui est ætatis sexdecim annorum est filius et hæres Roberti de Heselerton'. Ebor'.

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

53. Stephanus de Bello Prato. Inq. p. m.

"Prædictus Stephanus tenuit in servitio die quo obiit quædam tenementa in manerio de Penalyn de domino Rege in capite in liberum socagium; * quæ quidem tenementa domina Johanna mater dicti Stephani tenet in dotem. * * Radulphus filius dicti Stephani est propinquior hæres ejusdem et ætatis novem annorum." Cornub'.

54. Ricardus de Arcubus. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt [jurati] quod Simon filius prædicti Ricardi est propinquior hæres prædicti Ricardi; et dicunt quod fuit ætatis viginti et unius anni per quindecim dies ante Gulam Augusti ultimo præteriti." [Inquisitio facta die Martis in crastino Sancti Matthæi Apostoli.] Buckingham'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 9.]

55. Alicia quæ fuit uxor Adæ Hertele, alias Hertlet. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes Ive filius prædictæ Aliciæ est propinquior hæres ejusdem, et est ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Somerset'.

"Dicunt etiam prædicti juratores quod Johannes Ywe filius prædictæ Aliciæ est propinquior ejus hæres, et quod est ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Dorset'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 9.]

56. Odo de Tregereyk', alias Tregeryek', qui tenuit de hæredе Ricardi de Cirecestre. Inq. p. m.

"Alicia filia prædicti Odonis, quam prædictus Johannes Scor junior duxit in uxorem, est propinquior hæres ejusdem Odonis, et ætatis viginti quatuor annorum et amplius." Cornub'.

57. Johannes de Hodeboville. Inq. p. m.

"Qui [juratores] dicunt quod prædictus Johannes tenuit die quo obiit per feodum talliatum quædam tenementa apud Ballsdene in villa de Aketone * ex dono et concessione Johannis de Hodeboville, patris prædicti Johannis, qui ipsum Johannem et Matildam uxorem ejus dudum defunctam per cartam suam inde feoffavit, habenda et tenenda eisdem Johanni filio Johannis et Matildæ uxori ejus et hæredibus de corporibus eorum legitime procreatis. * * Et dicunt quod Walterus de Hodebovile, filius prædictorum Johannis filii Johannis de Hodebovyle et Matildæ uxoris ejus, est propinquior hæres ejusdem Johannis filii Johannis, et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius. * Item dicunt quod prædictus Johannes de Hodebovyle jam defunctus et Hillaria uxor ejus conjunctim tenuerunt, die obitus ipsius Johannis, duas partes manerii de Aketone cum pertinentiis ex concessione Petri de Debenham et Rogeri de Hodebovyle * tenendas eisdem Johanni et Hillariæ uxori ejus et hæredibus ipsius Johannis. * Et dicunt quod prædictæ duæ partes, una cum tertia parte ejusdem manerii, quam Agnes de Sunderoft tenet in dotem de hæreditate prædicti Johannis, tenentur de domino Rege in capite ut de honore Peverell'. * * Prædictus Walterus de Hodebovyle, filius prædicti Johannis, est propinquior hæres ejus et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Suffolk'.

58. Agnes de Somery. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes de Somery filius prædictæ Agnetis de Somery est hæres ejusdem Agnetis propinquior, et est ætatis viginti octo annorum." Berk'.

59. Henricus de Chyvene. Inq. p. m.

"Alicia uxor Thomæ de Caunvile 'junioris' est filia et hæres prædicti Henrici propinquior et de ætate quindecim annorum et amplius." Kanť.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 1 Edw. II. m. 10.]

60. Matthæus de Campo Florido. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes filius prædicti Matthæi est hæres ejus propinquior . . . . . Somerset'.

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

61. ALIANORA QUÆ FUIT UXOR RICARDI AGUILLON, alias AGUYLLON, quæ tenuit de hereditate Thomæ filii et hæredis prædicti Ricardi. Inq. p. m.

"Prædicta Alianora die quo obiit tenuit ad terminum vitæ suæ de hereditate quæ fuit Thomæ Aguylon defuncti, * * Juliana filia prædicti Thomæ Aguylon est hæres ejusdem Thomæ propinquior et ætatis trium annorum et amplius." Sussex'.

62. BRIANUS DE BROMPTON', defunctus.

Extenta terrarum quæ fuerunt ipsius Briani, qui tenuit de Rege Edwardo primo die quo obiit, et quæ ratione minoris ætatis hæredum dicti Briani in manu Regis nunc existunt.

63. EDMUNDUS BARO DE STAFFORD'. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt [juratores] super sacramentum suum quod prædictus Edmundus nuper Baro Stafford' nihil tenuit in dominico suo ut de feodo die quo obiit in comitatu Stafford': sed dicunt quod idem Edmundus et Margareta uxor ejus conjunctim tenuerunt, die obitus ipsius Edmundi, maneria de Stafford', Bradleye et Madeleye cum pertinentiis in comitatu prædicto ex dono Rogeri nic Clungeneford' clerici qui ipsos Edmundum et Margaretam uxorem ejus per cartam suam ex licentia domini Regis conjunctim inde feoffavit, habenda et tenenda eisdem Edmundo et Margaretæ et hæredibus de corporibus ipsorum exeuntibus. * * Dicunt etiam quod Radulphus filius prædictorum Edmundi et Margaretæ est propinquior hæres ipsius Edmundi et est ætatis novem annorum." Stafford'.

"Radulphus filius dictorum Edmundi et Margaretæ est hæres propinquior eorundem et ætatis novem annorum et amplius die Sancti Dyonisii anno regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi primo." Warrewic'.

64. JOHANNA QUÆ FUIT UXOR JOHANNIS DE LA HAYE, alias HAY, quæ tenuit ad terminum vitæ de hereditate dicti Johannis. Inq. p. m.

"Prædicta Johanna die quo obiit tenuit quasdam terras et quædam tenementa in Burrewell', Anthorp', et Walmesgare cum pertinentiis, quæ de domino Rege tenentur in capite per servitium feodi unius militis, non ut de hereditate prædicti Johannis de la Haye, sed de jure Philippi de Kime. * * * Willielmus de Cantilupo est consanguineus prædicti Johannis de la Haye et hæres ejus propinquior de omnibus terris et tenementis de quibus dictus Johannes obiit seisitus in dominico suo ut de feodo, et non de terris et tenementis supradictis, 'et est ætatis quindecim annorum.'" Lincoln'.

"Dicunt etiam [juratores] quod Johanna filia Petri de la Hay, fratris prædicti Johannis de la Hay, est neptis ipsius Johannis et hæres ejusdem propinquior et ætatis viginti annorum. Dicunt etiam quod aliquo tempore prædictum manerium [de Middleton'] cum pertinentiis fuit in seisina Rogeri la Warre ex concessione præfati Johannis de la Hay. Et prædictus Rogerus præfatos Johannem et Johannam uxorem ejus li prædicto manerio cum pertinentiis de seisina sua feoffavit per quendam finem inter ipsos Rogerum et Johannem et Johannam in curia domini Regis levatum, habendum et tenendum prædictum manerium cum pertinentiis eisdem Johanni et Johannæ et hæredibus ipsius Johannis de corpore suo legitime procreatis; ita quod si præfatus Johannes sine hærede de corpore suo legitime procreato obiisset, tunc manerium prædictum cum [pertinentiis] post decessum utriusque prædictorum Johannis et Johannæ ad præfatum Rogerum et hæredes suos integre reverteretur. Et dicunt quod quia præfatus Johannes sine hærede de corpore suo legitime procreato obiit, reversio prædicti manerii cum pertinentiis ad prædictum Rogerum . . . . . pertinet virtute finis prædicti." Sussex'.

65. WILLIELMUS DE MORTUO MARI DE HAMME. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt etiam [juratores] quod hæredes Hugonis de Mortuo Mari sunt propinquiores hæredes ejusdem Willielmi, et quod Johanna uxor Thomæ de Bikenore una hæredum prædicti Hugonis est ætatis septendecim annorum, et Margareta uxor Galfridi Cornewalle altera hæredum prædicti Hugonis est ætatis quatuordecim annorum et dimidii." Wigorn'.

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

"Dicunt [juratores] quod Johanna et Margareta filiæ et hæredes Hagonis de Mortuo Mari de Castro Ricardi sunt propinquiores hæredes dicti Willielmi. Item dicunt quod dicta Johanna fuit ætatis decem et octo annorum in festo Sancte Katherine ultimo preterito; et prædicta Margareta est infra ætatem et in custodia domini Regis." [Inquisitio facta die Lune proxima post festum Beati Nicholai.] Salop'.

66. MARGARETA QUÆ FUIT UXOR STEPHANI DE PENECESTR', alias PENESHERST, alias PENNESHURST. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt [juratores] quod Johannes de Orreby clericus est filius et hæres propinquior præfatæ Margaretæ et de ætate triginta annorum et amplius. * * Item dicunt quod eadem Margareta tenuit die quo obiit manerium de Penneshurst, quod extenditur per annum ad 40 libras, in dotem de hæreditate Johannæ uxoris Henrici de Cobham de Rundale et Alicie quæ fuit uxor Johannis de Columbariis, ex dotatione prædicti Stephani quondam viri sui, de diversis dominis. * Et dicunt quod prædicta Johanna uxor prædicti Henrici de Cobham et præfata Alicia quæ fuit uxor Johannis de Columbariis sunt filiæ et hæredes prædicti Stephani propinquiores; et præfata Johanna est de ætate quadraginta annorum et amplius; et præfata Alicia est de ætate triginta annorum et amplius." Kant'.

67. LORA QUÆ FUIT UXOR GILBERTI DE GAUNT, quæ tenuit in dotem de hæreditate hæredum et participum ipsius Gilberti. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt [juratores] quod Rogerus de Kerdeston' fuit consanguineus dicti Gilberti et est unus hæredum ipsius, et est ætatis triginta sex annorum. Et Petrus de Mauley fuit consanguineus dicti Gilberti et est alter hæredum ipsius, et est ætatis viginti septem annorum. Et Juliana de Gaunt fuit soror dicti Gilberti et tertia hæredum ipsius, et est ætatis quinquaginta annorum et amplius. Item dicunt prædicti juratores quod prædicta Juliana de Gaunt dedit totam propartem suam eam de terris et tenementis supradictis contingentem, quas terras et quæ tenementa dicta Lora sic tenuit in dotem, 'simul cum omnibus aliis terris et tenementis, quas terras et quæ tenementa dicta Juliana habuit in manerio de Skendelby supradicto,' Priorissæ et Monialibus Beatæ Mariæ de Nune Cotum in puram et perpetuam elemosinam." Lincoln'.

68. ROBERTUS DE LA MARE. Inq. p. m.

"Petrus de la Mare, filius prædicti Roberti est propinquior hæres ejus, et est ætatis quatuordecim annorum et amplius a festo Purificationis Beatæ Mariæ Virginis proximo præterito." [Inquisitio facta 7° die Novembris.] Wiltes'.

"Petrus de la Mare filius ejusdem Roberti est propinquior hæres ejus et ætatis sexdecim annorum." [Inquisitio capta 12° die Novembris.] Devon'.

69. RICARDUS FILIUS RICARDI DE GEYTON'. Quod Justiciarius Hiberniæ certioraretur super modo et causa captionis terrarum dicti Ricardi in manum Regis Edwardi quondam Regis Angliæ.

"Mandatum fuit Vicecomiti Typerar', in cujus balliva tenementa in Brevi domini Regis contenta sunt, quod super modo et causa prædictis certioraret Justiciario Hiberniæ; qui ei misit quandam Inquisitionem quam inde fieri fecit, quæ consuta est huic Brevi. Et nihilominus inspectis Memorandis de Scaccario Dublin' compertum est quod post mortem prædicti Ricardi patris, &c., Willielmus de Estden' tunc Thesaurarius domini Regis Edwardi patris domini Regis nunc de scaccario prædicto cepit terras et tenementa prædicta in manum domini Regis. Et postea quidam Radulphus de Geyton, frater prædicti Ricardi patris, asserens se esse hæredem prædicti Ricardi fratris sui et quod ipse Ricardus obiit seisitus de tenementis illis, perquisivit tenementa illa extra seisinam domini Regis per prædictum Willielmum de Estden'." * *

"Inquisitio capta, super modo et causa captionis terrarum et tenementorum Ricardi filii Ricardi de Geyton' in Hibernia quæ capta sunt in manum domini Edwardi Regis Angliæ, patris domini Edwardi Regis Angliæ qui nunc est, apud Cassell' die Jovis proxima ante festum Sancti

Digitized by Google

743

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

Matthiæ Apostoli anno regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi tertio. * * Qui jurati dicunt super sacramentum suum quod Ricardus de Geyton', pater prædicti Ricardi, perquisivit diversa tenementa in partibus de Cassell' et Tiperar' de diversis hominibus, et tenuit nepteni domini Reymundi de Burgo, qui tunc fuit magnus in partibus illis, in concubinam; de qua procreavit prædictum Ricardum filium suum; et cum idem Ricardus fuit septem annorum prædictus Ricardus pater suus dedit ei duas carucatas terræ cum pertinentiis in Kilsegan quæ sunt in manum domini Regis, et valent per annum in omnibus exitibus 42*s.* Dedit etiam ei 160 acras terræ in Balibohill', &c. * * habendas et tenendas sibi et hæredibus suis et assignatis, et ipsum inde in plenam et pacificam seisinam posuit, et assignavit ei custodem, scilicet, prædictum dominum Reymundum, qui substituit ballivos ibi quosdam Mauricium filium David et Philippum Wayvile. Et dicunt præcise quod prædictus Ricardus pater plene se dimisit de tenementis illis et nunquam postea inde se intromisit. * * Hibern'.

70. Almaricus de Nodariis. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes filius ejusdem Almarici est propinquior ejus hæres, et fuit ætatis viginti trium annorum ad festum Sancti Martini in hieme ultimo præterito." [Inquisitio capta die Jovis post festum Translationis Sancti Thomæ Martyris.] Northampton'.

71. Henricus de Bodrugan, alias Bodrigan. Inq. p. m.

"Jurati dicunt quod Otthonus filius dicti Henrici est propinquior hæres ejusdem, et fuit ad festum Epiphaniæ proximo præteritum ætatis novemdecim annorum." [Inquisitio facta 18° die Februarii.] Cornub'.

"Dicunt [jurati] super sacramentum suum quod prædictus Henricus nullas terras vel tenementa tenuit in dominico [suo] ut de feodo die quo obiit in comitatu Bedford'; sed tenuit die quo obiit de hæreditate Sibillæ 'quondam' uxoris suæ 'defunctæ' quoddam tenementum in Luyton' in comitatu prædicto de domino Rege in capite. * * Et dicunt quod Johannes de Powers filius Sibillæ de Maundevill' est hæres propinquior 'prædictæ Sibillæ' et ætatis viginti trium annorum et amplius. De hærede prædicti Henrici nec de ætate ipsius nihil sciunt." Bedford'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 3.]

72. Robertus de Sancto Claro. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt [juratores] super sacramentum suum quod prædictus Robertus tenuit manerium de Stapelton' cum pertinentiis de domino Rege in capite per servitium tenendi unam tualliam coram domino Regina ad festa Paschæ, Pentecostes, Natalis Domini, et domini Regis coronationem. * * Robertus filius Roberti filii Roberti de Sancto Claro est propinq . . . . . Philippi et Jacobi ultimo præterito fuit ætatis quatuordecim annorum . . . . . " [Inquisitio facta 30° die Augusti.] Somerset'.

73. Rogerus de Carmino, alias Kaermino. Inq. p. m.

"Oliverus de Carmino, filius prædicti Rogeri, est propinquior hæres ejus et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Cornub'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 10.]

74. Willielmus de Brudeport, alias Brideport. Inq. p. m.

"Johannes de Brideport filius prædicti Willielmi de Brideport est hæres ejusdem Willielmi propinquior et ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Somerset'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 15.]

75. Galfridus de Caumvill', alias Campvyle, alias Camvyle. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt [juratores] per sacramentum suum quod prædictus Galfridus tenuit maneria de Tonstok', &c. * per legem Angliæ de hæreditate Matildæ de Campvyle quondam uxoris suæ defunctæ de domino Rege in capite. * * Et dicunt quod Willielmus de Campvyle filius prædicti Galfridi est ejus hæres propinquior, et est ætatis quadraginta annorum et amplius; et quod Willielmus Martyn est filius et propinquior hæres prædictæ Matildæ, et est ætatis quinquaginta annorum et amplius." Devon'.

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 13 et m. 10.]

76. Herbertus de Saltfleteby. Inq. p. m.

"Quidam Robertus de Saltefleteby est filius et hæres prædicti Herberti, et est ætatis decem annorum et amplius." Lincoln'.

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 2. Assignatio dotis Isabellæ quæ fuit uxor ipsius Herberti.]

77. Johannes de Orlaweston', alias Orlauston', defunctus. De terris et hæredе ejus, &c.

"Inquisitio de terris et tenementis quæ Johannes de Orlauston' tenuit de domino Edwardo quondam Rege Angliæ patre Regis nunc in capite die quo obiit in comitatu Kantiæ, videlicet, quantum tenuit de domino Rege patre Regis nunc et per quod servitium et quantum de aliis et per quod servitium, et quantum terræ illæ valeant per annum in omnibus exitibus, et an Willielmus de Orlauston' sit hæres ejus propinquior, an alius, et si idem Willielmus, tunc cujus ætatis sit, et si alius, tunc quis et cujus ætatis et qualiter et quomodo, et quis custodiam terrarum et tenementorum illorum nunc habet et quis eam habuit a tempore mortis ipsius Johannis, et quando idem Johannes obiit. * * Dicunt [juratores] super sacramentum suum quod prædictus Johannes de Orlauston' die quo obiit tenuit de domino Rege Edwardo patre Regis nunc quasdam terras et quædam tenementa in Orlauston' per servitium duorum militum, et est de honore de Perches. * * * Item dicunt prædicti juratores quod prædictus Johannes tenuit die quo obiit de terris de Gavelykende de sussenna terra quaterviginti quindecim acras et dimidium; et quinquaginta septem acras de Gavelykende in marisco de diversis dominis per servitium 13*s.* 4*d.*, et valet terra sussenna per annum 36*s.* 10*d.* pretium acræ 4*d.*; et terra in Marisco valet per annum 114*s.* pretium acræ 2*s.* * * * Item dicunt prædicti juratores quod Willielmus de Orlauston' prædictus est propinquior hæres dicti Johannis de Orlauston' et ætatis viginti annorum et amplius. Et dicunt quod Johanna quæ fuit uxor Rogeri de Bella fago, Magister Willielmus de Schirburn', Johannes de Trilloc, et Walterus persona ecclesiæ de Shersford', executores testamenti dicti Rogeri de Bella fago, habent nunc custodiam terrarum et tenementorum prædictorum. Et dicunt quod Willielmus Martin dictam custodiam cum maritagio habuit de dono et concessione domini Regis patris Regis nunc usque ad legitimam ætatem 'prædicti hæredis,' et illam custodiam tenuit cum maritagio quousque illam custodiam vendidit dicto Rogero de Bella fago; et tunc idem Rogerus eam tenuit ad totam vitam suam; et sic in manibus executorum. Et dicunt quod prædictus Johannes de Orlauston' obiit die Veneris proxima ante festum Paschæ anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc 26°. Item dicunt quod Isabella quæ fuit uxor prædicti Johannis tenet tertiam partem terrarum et tenementorum quæ prædictus Johannes 'tenuit' die quo obiit per servitium militare, et dotata fuit per Willielmum Martyn. Et Johannes et Thomas fratres prædicti Willielmi de Orlauston' tenent duas partes terrarum de Gavelkynde, et idem Willielmus tertiam partem." [Inquisitio facta 21° die Junii.] Kant'.

78. Thomas de Lucy. Inq. p. m.

Dicunt etiam [jurati] quod Anthonius de Lucy frater prædicti Thomæ est propinquior hæres ejusdem Thomæ, et quod est ætatis viginti quinque annorum et amplius." Northumbr'.

(Christiana quæ fuit uxor ipsius Thomæ habet dotem et licentiam maritandi.)

[Vide Rot. Fin., 2 Edw. II. m. 13 et m. 11.]

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

79. GRIFFINUS FILIUS ET HÆRES AUDOENI DE LA POLE infra ætatem et in custodia Regis existens. Inq. p. m.

"Hawisia soror prædicti Griffini [uxor Johannis de Cherleton'—vide Rot. Fin.] est propinquior hæres ejus, et fuit ætatis octodecim annorum in festo sancti Jacobi Apostoli ultimo præterito." [Inquisitio facta die Mercurii ante festum Sancti Laurentii anno 3°.] Salop.'

[Vide Rot. Fin., 3 Edw. II. m. 14 et m. 10.]

80. JOHANNES WALRAND, alias WALRAUND, alias WALROND; ET ROBERTUS WALRAND AVUNCULUS IPSIUS JOHANNIS, ET ISABELLA WALRAND MATER DICTI JOHANNIS. Inq. p. m.

"Dicunt etiam prædicti juratores super sacramentum suum quod Alanus Plukenet, filius Alani Plukenet filii Aliciæ sororis Willielmi Walround patris Johannis Walround qui obiit ultimo seisitus in dominico suo ut de feodo, propinquior hæres ipsius Johannis Walround est, ut intelligunt: et est idem Alanus filius Alani Plukenet ætatis triginta annorum et amplius." Norfolc'.

"Alanus Plokenet est propinquior hæres et de integro sanguine; et est de ætate viginti quatuor annorum." Hertford'.

"Inquisitio * de terris et tenementis ratione fatuitatis Johannis Walraund in manus domini Regis existentibus, et de 'quibus' terris et tenementis Robertus Walraund avunculus dicti Johannis fuit seisitus in dominico suo ut de feodo die quo obiit. * * * Item dicunt [jurati] quod Johannes Edworthe filius Aliciæ de Edworthe unius amitarum prædicti Johannis Walraund, Alicia de Everingham una filiarum Ceciliæ de Everingham alterius amitarum ejusdem Johannis, Bogo de Knovile filius Johannæ de Knovile alterius filiarum ejusdem Ceciliæ, et Matilda quæ fuit uxor Ricardi le Bret, et Cecilia de Helion quam Petrus de Helion duxit in uxorem, filiæ Ceciliæ tertiæ filiarum prædictæ Ceciliæ, sunt consanguinei et propinquiores hæredes prædicti Johannis Walraund, et omnes ætatis vigiti sex annorum et amplius." Hertford'.

"Dicunt etiam [juratores] quod Alanus de Plokenet, filius Alani de Plokenet filii Aliciæ amitæ Johannis Walraund', est propinquior hæres ejusdem Johannis, et quod est de ætate viginti octo annorum et amplius. Dicunt etiam quod ignorant si prædictus Johannes alios habeat hæredes, quin antecessores sui nec ipse parum vel nihil conversabantur in partibus prædictis." Hertford'.

"Inquisitio * * de terris et tenementis quæ sunt de hereditate Johannis Waleround defuncti, qui ratione fatuitatis suæ in custodia domini Regis extiterat, et de quibus Robertus Waleround avunculus prædicti Johannis fuit seisitus in dominico suo ut de feodo die quo obiit. * * * Johannes de Eddeworth' filius Aleisiæ unius amitarum prædicti Johannis Waleround, Alesia de Everingham una filiarum Ceciliæ alterius amitarum ejusdem Johannis, Bogo de Knovile filius Johannæ de Knovile alterius filiarum ejusdem Ceciliæ, et Matilda quæ fuit uxor Ricardi Bret, et Cecilia de Heliown, quam Petrus de Heliown duxit in uxorem, filiæ Ceciliæ tertiæ filiarum prædictæ Ceciliæ, sunt consanguinei et propinquiores hæredes prædicti Johannis Waleround. Et prædictus Johannes de Eddeworth' est ætatis triginta annorum, et prædicta Alicia est ætatis triginta annorum, et prædictus Bogo est ætatis triginta annorum, et prædicta Matilda est ætatis triginta annorum, et prædicta Cecilia de Helion est ætatis triginta annorum." Essex'.

"Dicunt etiam [jurati] quod Bugo de Cknovyle filius Johannæ de Cknovyle una filiarum Ceciliæ unius amitarum dicti Johannis Walrand, Alicia de Everyingham altera filiarum ejusdem Ceciliæ, Matillis la Bret et Cecilia de Helyon, quam Petrus de Helyon duxit in uxorem, filiæ Ceciliæ tertiæ filiarum prædictæ Ceciliæ sunt consanguinei et propinquiores hæredes prædicti Johannis de hæreditate ipsum contingente tam ex parte Willielmi Walrond patris sui quam ex parte Roberti Walrand avunculi sui fratris senioris prædicti Willielmi. Et dicunt quod Bugo de Cknovyle est ætatis triginta annorum, Alicia de Everyngham est ætatis quadraginta annorum, Matillis la Bret est ætatis viginti octo annorum, Cecilia de Helyon est ætatis viginti sex annorum." Wiltes'.

"Inquisitio de terris quæ fuerunt Isabellæ [Walrond] matter Johannis Walrond. * * * Dicunt [juratores] quod Johanna uxor Alexandri Frivyle, filia et hæres Mazeræ filiæ et unius hæredis Johannæ Marmion anuite prædicti Johannis Walraund, et Radulphus le Botiler, filius et hæres Matildæ alterius filiæ et hæredis prædictæ Johannæ Marmion sororis Isabellæ matris prædicti Johannis Walraund, sunt propinquiores hæredes prædicti Johannis Walraund de predicta terra et tenementis prædictis, et etiam de tota hæreditate ipsum contingente ex parte Isabellæ prædictæ matris suæ. Dicunt etiam quod prædicta Johanna uxor Alexandri de Fryvile est ætatis quadraginta annorum, et prædictus Radulphus le Botiler est ætatis triginta sex annorum."

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

Wiltes'.

"Inquisitio facta coram escheatore domini Regis apud Maydene Neuton' quinto die Marcii anno regni Regis Edwardi secundo, de terris et tenementis quæ sunt de hæreditate Johannis Walraund in comitatu Dorset', de quibus Robertus Walraund avunculus suus fuit seisitus in dominico suo ut de feodo die quo obiit. * * * Dicunt [jurati] per sacramentum suum quod prædictus Robertus Walraund nullas terras seu tenementa tenuit in dominico suo ut de feodo in comitatu prædicto die quo obiit solus; sed quod idem Robertus et Matilda uxor ejus, conjunctim feoffati, tenuerunt manerium de Wyndfred Egle in dicto comitatu de dono et feoffamento Johannis de Burgo, tenendum sibi Roberto et Matildæ uxori ejus et hæredibus de corporibus ipsorum Roberti et Matildæ legitime procreatis. Et quod Johannes de Burgo post lapsum temporis feoffamenti omnes terras et tenementa sua in diversis comitatibus existentia domino Regi Henrico avo Regis nunc concessit, tenenda sibi et hæredibus suis imperpetuum, cum universis reversionibus et eschaetis quæ sibi Johanni et hæredibus suis imposterum accidere poterunt quoquo modo. Et quod dominus Edwardus pater Regis nunc de dicto manerio habita plena possessione et pacifica seisina post mortem dictorum Roberti et Matildæ, ratione hæredum inter Ipsos Robertum et Matildam legitime procreatorum deficientium, manerium illud Johannæ Plogenet concessit tenendum quamdiu domino Regi placuerit pro sustentatione Johannis Walraund fatui et hæredis prædicti Roberti."

Dorset'.

"Dicunt [juratores] quod Willielmus Walraund pater prædicti Johannis Walraund defuncti habuit nisi unicam sororem de integro sanguine, nomine Aliciam, et quod Alanus Plukenet defunctus fuit filius ipsius Aliciæ. Et dicunt quod Alanus filius Alani Plukenet, qui nunc est, est propinquior 'heres' prædicti Johannis Walraund, et de ætate viginti trium annorum."

Wigorn'.

"Dicunt [juratores] quod prædictum manerium de Sistone cum prædictis quatuor libratis redditus reverti debet Alano filio Alani Plokenet filii Aliciæ 'filiæ Isabellæ' filiæ Thomæ de Rocheford' et Agathæ uxoris suæ, quia Rogerus de Berkeleye dedit dictum manerium cum predicto redditu præfatis Thomæ de Rocheford' et Agathæ filiæ suæ in liberum maritagium. Et dicunt quod prædicta Alicia filia Isabellæ 'filiæ' prædictorum Thomæ et Agathæ tradidit dictum manerium cum prædicto redditu Roberto Walraund ad terminum annorum ut supradictum est; et quod prædictus Robertus nihil aliud habuit in manerio prædicto 'die quo obiit.'" Glouestr'.

"Dicunt [juratores] quod Johannes de Eddeworth', Alicia de Everyngham, Hugo de Cnovill', Alanus Plukenet, Matilda de Cronpes et Cecilia Hulyon, quam Petrus de Hulyon duxit in uxorem, sunt propinquiores hæredes prædicti Johannis Walraund. Et dicut quod omnes hæredes prædicti sunt plenæ ætatis."

Southampton'.

81 ——— Extenta terrarum.

82 BARTHOLOMÆUS DE SAKEVILL' FATUUS ET IDIOTA. De inquirendo de statu suo.

"Dicunt [juratores] quod dictus Bartholomæus de Sakevil' fatuus et idiota extitit a tempore ætatis suæ octodecim annorum. Ita quod a dicto tempore usque in hunc diem nunquam gaudebat lucidis intervallis, neque ad sui ipsius aut terrarum et tenementorum suorum regimen sufficiebat nec adhuc sufficit. Dicunt etiam quod dictus Bartholomæus cepit illam infirmitatem eo quod dicto tempore cecidit in febrem acutam, et nunquam post illud tempus effectebatur compos mentis suæ." Suffole'.

Item, Breve huic inquisitioni consutum, &c.

"Rex omnibus, &c.:—Scintis quod concessimus Waltero de Sakevill' et Johanni fratri ejus custodiam Bartholomæi de Sakevill', qui per quendam ictum quem in capite recepit non compos mentis suæ jam efficitur, et terrarum et tenementorum suorum, tenendam eisdem Waltero et Johanni quousque ad memoriam redierit saniorem. Ita quod iidem Walterus et Johannes prædicto Bartholomeo et familiæ suæ necessaria sua de exitibus terrarum et tenementorum prædictorum inveniant, prout decet. In cujus, &c. Teste me ipso apud Devises 18° die Septembris anno regni nostri decimo nono."

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

83. Walterus Surdevale, defunctus. De terris et hærede ejus, &c., videlicet an Johannes de Surdevale fuit hæres, an alius.

"Item dicunt prædicti juratores quod Johannes de Surdevale supradictus fu it filius ejusdem Walteri, et est ejus hæres propinquior, et est ætatis viginti i nnius annorum et amplius. * * Et dicunt quod prædictus Walterus obiit circa festum Penteostes in anno regni Regis Edwardi patris prædicti Regis nunc 19°." Lincoln'.

[Vide no. 93 hoc anno.]

84. Nil.

† 85. Johannes frater et hæres Roberti de Derle.

Probatio ætatis capta die Dominica post festum Ascensionis Domini anno 2°.

* * "Simon de Hopton ætatis quadraginta et octo annorum, juratus et diligenter examinatus super ætate prædicti Johannis, fratris et hæredis prædicti Roberti de Derle, dicit quod idem Johannes fuit ætatis viginti duorum annorum die Veneris proxima post festum Purificationis Beatæ Mariæ ultimo præterito et quod natus fuit apud Aasbelehay in comitatu Derb' die Veneris prædicto viginti duobus annis elapsis, et in ecclesia de Wirkesworth baptizatus in crastino sequente. Requisitus qualiter hoc scit, dicit quod bene recolit eo quod Henricus de Hopton' pater prædicti Simonis extitit in societate prædicti Roberti de Dethek' et Henrici de Derle patris prædicti Johannis in itinere de Nottingham versus Derle die Sabbati proxima post festum Epiphaniæ Domini ultimo præteritum viginti duobus annis elapsis, quando idem Henricus pater prædicti Johannis præ multitudine frigoris infirmatur, qui quidem Henricus infra quindenam sequentem obiit, et eodem tempore Alicia quæ fuit uxor prædicti Henrici et mater prædicti Johannis de eodem Johanne fuit inpregnata et ipsum peperit die Veneris proxima post festum Beatæ Mariæ post obitum prædicti Henrici proximo sequente." * * * Derb'.

† 86. Bartholomæus Davelers filius et hæres Johannis Davelers.

Probatio ætatis capta die Veneris proxima ante festum Sancti Mortini anno 2°.

"Dominus Willielmus Visdelou miles juratus, ætatis quadraginta quatuor annorum et amplius, dicit quod prædictus Bartholomæus est ætatis viginti unius annorum et amplius, et fuit natus apud Everwartone die Veneris proximo post festum Sancti Matthei Apostoli anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc quintodecimo; et die Veneris proximo sequente in ecclesia ejusdem villæ baptizatus anno prædicto." Suff'.

† 87. Willielmus filius et hæres Johannis de Orlaweston'. Probatio ætatis capta vicesimo die Junii anno 2°.

"Nicholaus de Bominton ætatis quadraginta quinque annorum, juratus et examinatus super ætate prædicti Willielmi, dicit super sacramentum suum quod prædictus Willielmus fuit ætatis viginti duorum annorum in Vigilia Sancti Barnabæ Apostoli proximo præterita, et hoc scit quia vidit quod baptizatus fuit in ecclesia Beatæ Mariæ de Orlaweston' die Sancti Barnabæ Apostoli 'anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc quintodecimo.' Et similiter hoc scit quia habuit quandam filiam Agnetem nomine quæ nata fuit eodem anno in festo Pentecostes et illa fuit ætatis decem et septem annorum quando obiit, et dicit quod nunc sunt quinque anni elapsi quod obiit, et sic sunt completi viginti duo anni; et similiter hoc scit quia Willielmus de Bouington' pater suus obiit sexdecim annis elapsis, quo tempore prædictus Willielmus fuit ætatis sex annorum. Rogerus Hegham ætatis quadraginta quatuor annorum juratus et examinatus super ætate prædicti Willielmi dicit super sacramentum suum quod prædictus Willielmus fuit ætatis viginti duorum annorum in Vigilia Sancti Barnabæ Apostoli proximo præterita et hoc scit quia in ecclesia Beatæ Mariæ de Orlaweston' die Sancti Barnabæ baptizatus fuit; et similiter hoc scit quia habet quendam filium, Johannem nomine,

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

qui natus fuit ante prædictum Willielmum, qui fuit ætatis viginti trium annorum ad festum Pentecostes proximo præteritum; et similiter hoc scit quia dicit quod stetit cum Johanne de Oriawestoñ' et robas suas cepit ad totam vitam suam, et dicit quod dictus Johannes obiit undecim annis elapsis et in illo anno fuit prædictus Willielmus undecim annorum." * * Kant'.

*88. JOHANNES DE ODDYNGSELES MILES. Appretiatio et extenta bonorum et catallorum ejus." Warw'.

*89. JOHANNES DE NEUBURGH'. Breve de Diem clausit extremum. Dorset'.

*90. JOHANNA QUÆ FUIT UXOR JOHANNIS DE CRECKAUS defuncti. Breve de dote sua.

*91. MARGARETA FILIA ET UNA HÆREDUM BRIANI DE BRUMPTON'.

"Probatio ætatis Margaretæ filiæ et unius hæredum Briani de Brompton' defuncti qui de domino Edwardo quondam Rege Angliæ, patre Regis nunc, tenuit in capite facta coram Escheatore apud Salop' die Veneris in festo Sancti Nicholai anno regni Regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi secundo per sacramentum juratorum subscriptorum, videlicet, Ricardi de Leighton' qui est ætatis sexaginta annorum, jurati et examinati super ætate prædictæ Margaretæ, dicit quod prædicta Margareta fuit in Vigilia Apostolorum Simonis et Judæ proximo præterita ætatis quindecim annorum: Et quod nata fuit apud Huggeford' in Vigilia Apostolorum Simonis et Judæ anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc vicesimo primo, et in crastino baptizata in ecclesia de Stocton'. Et hoc bene scit quia in crastino Apostolorum Simonis et Judæ anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc vicesimo primo cepit seisinam de quadam terra in villa de Cardeston' quam emit de Roberto Corbet ubi nunciatum fuit quod Matilda uxor Briani de Brompton' deliberata fuit de prædicta Margareta in villa prædicta. Et per hoc bene scit quod tantæ ætatis est." * * * Salop'.

*92. EDMUNDUS FILIUS ET HÆRES ROGERI DE COLEVILE. Probatio ætatis capta apud Corby 14° die Februarii anno 2°.

"Thomas de Sancto Laudo miles ætatis quadraginta annorum, juratus et examinatus super ætate prædicti Edmundi de Colevile, dicit quod prædictus Edmundus est filius prædicti Rogeri et hæres ejus propinquior, et natus fuit apud Castelbitham in comitatu Lincoln' ad festum Conversionis Sancti Pauli anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc sextodecimo, et in ecclesia Sancti Jacobi de Castelbitham baptizatus; Robertus de Colevile et Willielmus de Bergh' levaverunt præfatum Edmundum de sacro fonte et nominaverunt eum Edmundum ob devotionem Sancti Edmundi de Pontiniaco, eo quod prædictus Rogerus pater ipsius Edmundi, in peregrinando versus Pontiniacum, vovit filium suum si contigeret nominari Edmundum. Et fuit ætatis viginti et unius annorum ad festum Conversionis Sancti Pauli ultimo præteritum. Et hoc bene scit quia dicit quod ipse eodem anno stetit in servitio cum domino Ricardo de Brewosa avo prædicti Edmundi. * * Johannes Broun de Castelbitham ætatis quinquaginta annorum, juratus et examinatus super ætate præfati Edmundi de Colevile, dicit quod idem Edmundus est filius prædicti Rogeri et hæres ejus propinquior, et natus fuit apud Castelbitham in comitatu Lincoln' in festo Conversionis Sancti Pauli anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc sextodecimo, et in ecclesia Sancti Jacobi de Castelbitham baptizatus; Robertus de Colevile et Willielmus de Bergh' levaverunt prædictum Edmundum de sacro fonte, et fuit ætatis vigintí et unius annorum ad festum Conversionis Sancti Pauli ultimo præteritum, et hoc bene scit quia ipse nunciavit domino Ricardo de Brewosa et dominæ Aliciæ uxori ejus, avis prædicti Edmundi, de natu ipsius Edmundi, ob quod ipsi contulerunt eidem Johanni jocalia ad valentiam centum solidorum." * * * Lincoln'.

*93. THOMAS FILIUS ET HÆRES JOHANNIS DE CORONA.

Probatio ætatis capta 4° die Aprilis.

"Hugo de Estilton' sexagenarius, juratus et examinatus super ætate dicti Thomæ, dicit quod idem Thomas fuit ætatis vigintí et unius annorum in festo Sanctæ Luciæ Virginis anno regni regis Edwardi filii Regis Edwardi secundo. Et hoc scit quia natus fuit apud Adelinton' in comitatu Cestriæ in festo Sanctæ Luciæ Virginis anno regni Regis Edwardi patris domini Regis nunc sextodecimo; et in ecclesia de Prestebury in crastino Sanctæ Luciæ Virginis baptizatus fuit." Cestr'.

Digitized by Google

No. 2.—Calendar of Heirs, extracted from the Inquisitions—cont.

*94. THOMAS FILIUS ET HÆRES WARINI MAUDET.

Probatio ætatis capta 17° die Novembris.

"Petrus filius Warini miles sexagenarius, juratus et diligenter examinatus super ætate dicti Thomæ filii Warini, dicit quod idem hæres fuit ætatis viginti unius annorum in festo Sancti Calixti proximo præterito; et hoc scit quia idem hæres nascebatur apud Monten Gomeri in festo Sancti Calixti anno regni Regis Edwardi patris domini Edwardi Regis nunc quintodecimo, et in ecclesia ibidem in crastino ejusdem festi baptizatus fuit; et similiter hoc scit quia præfatus Warinus pater dicti hæredis venit apud Wermenstr' 15° die post nativitatem dicti hæredis ad quem diem tenuit ibidem convivium, ubi dictus Petrus interfuit, et idem Warinus rogavit ipsum Petrum perhibere testimonium de die et anno nativitatis dicti hæredis cum 'idem hæres' ad plenam ætatem suam perveniret; et per hoc scit quod tempus est elapsum." Wiltes'.

*95. JOHANNES SOURDEVAL FILIUS ET HÆRES WALTERI DE SOURDEVAL.

Probatio ætatis capta 4° die Junii.

"Willielmus de Appelton' ætatis quinquaginta annorum, juratus et diligenter examinatus super ætate prædicti Johannis de Sourdeval, dicit quod idem Johannes fuit ætatis viginti unius anni die Purificationis Beatæ Mariæ ultimo præterito; et quod idem Johannes natus fuit apud Bothium in comitatu Ebor' eodem die et in ecclesia ejusdem villæ baptizatus in crastino sequenti viginti uno anno elapso." Ebor'.

[Vide No. 83 hoc anno.]

*96. RICARDUS DE DUMMER FILIUS ET HÆRES JOHANNIS DE DUMMER. Probatio ætatis facta 2° die Novembris.

* * * "Philippus de Biry de Watford' ætatis quinquaginta annorum Thomas Gerard ætatis quadraginta duorum annorum Johannes . . . . . ætatis quinquaginta et sex annorum et Walterus filius Hugonis de Watford' ætatis sexaginta et trium annorum, jurati et examinati super ætate Ricardi filii et hæredis Johannis de Dummer de Watford', dicunt quod prædictus Ricardus est filius et hæres prædicti Johannis de Dummer de Watford', et natus fuit apud Watford' in comitatu prædicto ad festum Sancti Lucæ Evangelistæ anno regni Regis Edwardi patris Regis nunc quartodecimo, et in ecclesia de Watford' baptizatus. Ricardus de Bringhurst ievavit prædictum Ricardum de Dummer de sacro fonte, et fuit ætatis viginti duorum annorum ad festum Sancti Lucæ Evangelistæ proximo præteritum, et hoc bene scit quia Oliverus quondam Lincolnienis Episcopus dedicavit ecclesiam de Watford' eodem anno quo prædictus Ricardus de Dummer natus fuit, et etiam quia Ricardus le Spenser de Watford' habuit quandam filiam, nomine Aliciam, natam eodem die quo dicta ecclesia dedicata fuit, et baptizata fuit in eadem aqua quæ benedicta fuit per dominum Episcopum Oliverum die dedicationis prædictæ. * Prædictus hæres maritatus fuit post mortem prædicti Johannis patris sui sine licentia domini Regis." Northampton'.

*97. Super modo et causa captionis et detentionis terrarum in Veteri Windesores.

"Dicunt [juratores] quod tempore quo Johannes de London' fuit Constabularius Castri de Wyndesore et habuit firmam de Veteri Wyndesore, Johannes Andreu qui tenuit tenementa prædicta obiit in Hibernia, et prædictus Constabularius intelligens prædictum Johannem esse tenentem domini Regis, cum non esset, tenementa illa seisivit in manum domini Regis. Et per seisinam illam adhuc remanent in manu domini Regis. Dicunt etiam quod prædictus Johannes Andreu tenementa prædicta tenuit in capite de Thoma Burnel, cujus statum Willielmus Asseeby tenet per factum ipsius Thomæ et non de domino Rege."

*98. ROGERUS DE KETLESTON' utlagatus. De anno et die qui ad Regem pertinent. Norfolc'.

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of the Cursitor's Records: Chancery Enrolments.

3. Roll of Thomas de Hatfield, Bishop of Durham.

(Pontificate extended from 8 May 1345 to 8 May 1381.)

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
1	Aske, Richard and John de, William Benet of Newsom, and Richard Gunnays.	Receive a grant of free warren for themselves and their heirs in their demesne lands in Herdewyk; but they are not to make use of the privilege during the lives of John and Margaret de Ogle without obtaining the license of the said John and Margaret. Richard de Aske also receives a grant of free warren in his demesne lands of Shirneton and Nesbit.	22
1 d'	Aske, Richard and John de - -	See Marton, William de (the) -	21
	Alverton, John de, Wright, to Alan de Shoirngton.	Recognisance - - - -	21
2 d'	Asshby, John de - - -	See Wessington, William de - -	24
4	Alayn, Robert, Master Cook of the Bishop's Hospital.	Receives a grant of a messuage in Alverton which had belonged to Ranulph de Smytheton, but had escheated to the Bishop.	23
	Alverton, messuage in - - -	See Alayn, Robert - - -	23
6	Ancroft manor - - - -	See Gray, Thomas - - -	22
	Allerdene manor - - - -
6 d'	Annotson, William, of Wakirfeld, and John son of Conan de Wakirfeld to William del Orchard.	Recognisance - - - -	23
7	Annotson, William - - -	See Graystans, William de - -	30
7 d'	Auckland, janitor of the manor of -	See Wyles, John - - -	30
	Alman, William, clerk, and John de Elvet, to . . . . . lby, chaplain.	Recognisance - - - -	31
8	Albon, John - - - -	See Durham, the chaplains, prior and convent of.	31
8 d'	Allerton manor and gaol - -	See Pott, Thomas - - -	33
9 d'	Aseby, William de - - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of John Macbare.	33
10	Auckland, North, messuage and land in.	See Sawsery, John del - -	33
	Alvertonshire, forester and warrener of.	See Notton, John de - - -	33
10 d'	Alverton, burgage in - - -	See Feucotes, Thomas de - -	33
	Auckland, place called "Le Wodhous" in the parish of.	See Popham, John de - - -	33
	Alman, Simon, to John de Rivet -	Recognisance - - - -	33
11	Auckland, Bishop, plot of land in -	See Yoman, Adam - - -	34
11 d'	Abirforth, John de - - -	See Brantyngham, William de -	34
12	Arowsmith, John, of Brauncepath, and William Boys of Brauncepath, to William de Bishopdale, Stephen de Muston, and Robert de Gaunelesston.	Recognisance - - - -	35
	Alverstonshire, office of bailiff errant of.	See Hatfield, John de - -	35
12 d'	Aspyre, Roger - - - -	See Hakthorpe, John de - -	35
	Alverton - - - - -	The office of janitor of the manor of, is granted by the Bishop to John de.	35
	Alwent, Henry, son and heir of Alan de.	See Carlele, William - - -	33
	Auckland Park - - - -	See Popham John de - - -	33
13	Aske, Richard de - - -	See Durham, the prior and convent of.	34
	Arlyf, messuage and land in - -
	Alman, William - - - -
	Aldynerige, messuage and lands in -
	Alman, Simon - - - -
14	Andreby, Richard de - - -	See Kyowe, William de - -	36
	Alverton, John de - - -	An outlaw at the suit of the Prior of Durham, receives a pardon.	36

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
14	Alverton, John de, of Bishop Auckland	An outlaw, at the suit of Thomas de Bernelby, Master of the Hospital of Shirburne, receives a pardon.	36
14 d'	Auckland Park - - - - -	See Burdeue, John de - - -	36
	Attesute, John - - - - -	See Burden, John de - - -	36
	Auckland, place called "Le Wodehous" near.	See Hornby, John de - - -	36
1	Barnard Castle, Richard de - -	See Merynton, John de - -	22
	Benet, William, of Newsom - -	See Aske, Richard - - -	22
	Boynton, John - - - - -	See Litster, Henry - - -	22
	Brytley, John de - - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	23
	Blaykeston, William de - -
	Ryshopton, Roger de - - -	See Newsom, Adam de - -	24.
1 d'	Benet, William, of Newsom - -	See Marton, Wm. de (bis) - -	21
	Bradley, Alice, widow of John de -	Releases to Hugh del Redhugh all her right and claim to the manor of Bradley-by-Medomsley, together with two cottages in the vill of Bradley, and a hundred acres of land, held by the said Hugh of the gift and feoffment of the said John.	21
	Burneton, John de, Burgess of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.	Grants to Hugh del Redhugh the manor of Holynside, with remainder to Thomas son of Alice de Shynnam, and the heirs of his body, with remainder to John son of Alice de Shynnam, and the heirs of his body, with remainder to Thomas de Hexham and Katherine his wife, and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to the said Katherine and her heirs for ever.	23
	Burneton, John de, Burgess of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.	Releases to the parties abovenamed all his rights past, present, and future in the manor of Holynside.	23
2	Bedale, Robert de, of Ingelton, to John Selwyn.	Recognizance - - - - -	24
	Bedale, Robert de, of Ingelton, to Isabella daughter of Adam de Hyndeley.	Recognizance - - - - -	24
	Bewelere, William de, to Roger de Fulthorpe.	Recognizance - - - - -	24
	Barnard Castle, Richard de - -	See Shepirdson, Robert - -	21
	Brunnynshill, Hugh de - -	See Claxton, Thomas de - -	24
2 d'	Bishop, John - - - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Richard Spenser, whom he had killed in self-defence.	23
	Beryere, William - - - -	Receives a grant of the office of forester of the ward of Hamsterley for life.	24
	Boner, Robert - - - - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Robert de Bardon of Darlington.	24
	Bardon, Robert de - - - -	See Boner, Robert - - -	24
3	Bille, John de - - - - -	See Menevile, Thomas de - -	26
	Ryshopdale, John de - - -	See Eston, Robert de - -	26
	Bishopdale, John de - - - -	See Hexham, Thomas de - -	27
	Bamburgh, John de - - - -	See Wolviston, Richard de - -	27
	Blaykeston, William de, and John Dogle, to John son of John Maudayt.	Recognizance - - - - -	27
	Boner, John, of Shirburne, to Simon de Lanerton.	Recognizance - - - - -	27
3 d'	Barton, Henry de, and William Daynill.	Receive a grant of the custody of all the lands and tenements formerly belonging to John son of John son of John Chaunud', knight, in Wallesworth, during the minority of Margaret and Jane his daughters and heiresses, together with a grant of the marriage of the said heiresses, and in the event of their death the wardship and marriage of successive heirs until one shall attain full age.	26
	Barnard Castle, Richard de - -	See Moubray, John de - -	26

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
5 d	Barnard Castle, Thomas and Lucy de, Middilton's burrage in "Neusate," in the town of.	See Middilton, Lucy de; see Middleton, Thomas de.	26
	Bras, Robert, miller - - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of William Garnet, miller, as well as for a theft of corn and malt belonging to John de Carrowe at Ecclesclyf mill, and for breaking out of gaol with other prisoners.	27
	Brynchestre, Robert de - - -	See Elmedene, John - - -	27
4	Bryan, Thomas, of North Shirburne -	See Tebbe, John - - -	27
	Brafferton, Thomas, son of Thomas de } Brafferton, lands in - - - }	See Heworth, William de - -	27
	Beverley, William - - -	Is, in a record of gaol-delivery, declared not guilty of causing the death of Hugh del Butrie.	27
	Butrie, Hugh del - - -	See Beverley, William - -	27
	Bowes, William de - - -	Having the Bishop's license to travel beyond sea, gives warrant of attorney to Hugh de Westwick, Walter de Hawik, and John de Rivet.	27
	Brakenbury, Thomas de - -	See Walton, Robert de - -	27
4 d	Bishopton, free warren in - -	See Coigners, John de - -	28
	Blakeston, Richard Stanlawman of -	See Stanlawman - - -	28
	Beneyt, Thomas, parson of Siggeston -	See Shoteleyngton, Alan de - -	28
	Belgrave, John de - - -	The Bishop's head forester of Werdale grants, on the Bishop's behalf, a lease of three vaccaries called "Wersheved," "Middleblakdene," and "Esseblakdene," with their meadows, pastures, &c., to Dame Alice de Nerille, for the term of her life and one year beyond, and the Bishop confirms the grant.	28
	Barnard Castle, Richard de - -	Receives a grant of free warren in his demesne lands of Kyley.	28
5	Barnard Castle, Richard de - - }	See Moubray, John de - -	28
	Bothe . . . . . }	See Ingelby, Thomas de - -	28
5 d	Belgrave, John de, and Nicholas Scot	See Heron, John de - - -	29
	Barnard Castle, lands in - -	Are commissioned to find workmen and carriers for the Bishop's coalmines at Quickham and Gateshead, and have power to punish by imprisonment or otherwise if they see fit.	29
6	Barnard Castle, Richard de - -	See Pattonson, Agnes - - -	29
6 d	Burnynghill, Hugh de - - -	See Gray, Thomas - - -	23
	Beneyt, Thomas, burgess of Newcastle-on-Tyne.	See Clayton, Thomas de - -	27
	Barker, Walter, of Framwelgate in Durham, Thomas de Pityngton, William de Shurneton, and Walter de Coben, to Thomas Roter, janitor of Durham.	See Wolston, Richard de - -	28
	Barker, Walter, of Framwelgate, Thomas de Petyngton of Durham, and William de Shurneton of Durham, to the Bishop.	Recognizance - - - -	28
	Barnard Castle, John de - -	Recognizance - - - -	29
	Bedlingtonwatirville, town of - -	See Heron, John - - -	29
7	Barnard Castle, R. de - - -	See Coigners, Robert - - -	2
	Blakdene, William de, and John de Sadberg, to Thomas de Stontley, clerk.	See Ingelby, T. de - - -	30
	Bowes, Thomas de - - -	Recognizance - - - -	30
	Billyngham, Alan de, to Richard de Barnard Castle, clerk.	Recognizance to him by Henry . . . . starde.	30
	Barnard Castle, Richard de - -	Recognizance - - - -	22
	Burnynghill, Hugh de - - }	See Billyngham, Alan de - -	22
	Billy, John - - - }	See Clayton, Thomas de - -	22
7 d	Brantyngham, William de - - }	See Lomley, Thomas de - -	30
	Broughton, John de - - - }	Receives from the Bishop a grant of	30
	Bertram, Helen - - - -	the herbage of the Park of Wastrepp for life.
	Barneton, William Robertson of -	See Robertson - - - -	31

Digitized by Google

753

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
7 d'	Bristall, William de, parson of the Church of Houghton.	See Oxenhall, Henry de	31
8	Barnard Castle, John de	See Sadbergh, John de	32
	Bishopdale, John de	See Hawyk, Walter de	32
	Billey, John de, Ralph de Maltby, Walter de Ethirlacres, and William de Coxhowe of Ludworth, to John de Bishopdale.	Recognisance	22
	Bishopdale, John de	See Billey, John de.
	Billey, John de	See Meneville, Thomas de	32
	Boynton, John de	See Tekemond, Robert	32
9	Broughton, John de, of Thornlawe, Chaplain.	See Lomley, Thomas de	32
	Bowes, William del	See Fulthorpe, Roger de	32
9 d'	Bowes, William de, Knight	See Fulthorpe, Roger de	33
10	Bello Campo, Thomas de, Earl of Warwick.	See Ingelby, Thomas de	33
	Bland, Thomas de	Recognisance	33
	Belgrave, John de, to John de Henlee, parson of the Church of Sedgefield, and William de Elmedene.
10 d'	Broughton, John de	See Neville, John de	33
	Bicheburne, Thomas de
	Bricesson, John	See Cornhale, Cuthbert, son of Christina de.	33
11	Bishopton, Henry Walker of	See Walker	34
	Belgrave, John, son of Roger de	See Neville, John de	34
	Blaykeston, Hugh, servant of William de.	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Gilbert Ingram, of Sedgefield.	34
	Baseley, William de, of Sedgefield	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of John Gretword, of Sedgefield.	34
	Bank, John de	See Mauleverer, Richard	34
	Bamburgh, John de	See Graystanes, William de	34
	Bermeton, Hugh de Coxhowe, of	See Coxhowe, Hugh de	34
	Brictinton, William	See Heron, John	34
11 d'	Bromhop, Robert, William, and Ranulph de.	See Heron, John	34
	Bruys, William, son of William	See Popham, John de	34
	Ratisford, John de
	Bervuham, Thomas de	See Henlee, John de	34
	Birthy, Thomas de	See Fyldyng, John	34
	Belgrave, John de, to the Bishop	Recognisance	35
	Brantyngham, William de, Keeper of the hospital of St. Edmund the King, at Gateshead.	Receives, for the benefit of the said hospital, a grant, in free alms, to himself and to successive Keepers, of two cottages formerly belonging to Juliana de Jarowe, and one cottage formerly belonging to John de Abirforth, all lying within the soil of the said Hospital, which cottages escheated to the Bishop in accordance with the Record following upon a writ of "cessavit per biennium."	34
12	Bowes, William del, knight	Is appointed Sheriff and Escheator of the county of Durham and Sadberge.	35
	Bowes, William del, knight	See Heron, John	35
	Britby, Alice, widow of Thomas de	See Fyldyng, John	35
	Brancepeth, John Arowswith of, and William Boys of	See Arowsmith, John	35
	Boys, William, of Brancepeth
	Bishopdale, William de
	Betonson, John, of Evenwode	Receives a grant for life of the offices of Parker, of the Park of Bedburne and sub-forester of the Forest of Werdale.	35
	Bedburne, Parker, of the park of	See Betonson, John	35
	Billey, John de, John de Morley, and John de Sadbergh, to Ralph de Maltby.	Recognisance	35
12 d'	Birtley, Thomas de	See Mortymer de	35
	Bower, Alan	See Haktherpe, John de	35
	Belgrave, John de	Surrenders the office of chief Master Forester of the Bishopric of Durham in favour of John de Popham.	35
	Birthy, Alice, widow of Thomas	Receives from the Bishop a lease for 50 years, of a lead mine, in the Forest of Werdale.	35

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
18 d'	Brantyngham, Walter de, yeoman of the Bishop's Kitchen.	Receives from the Bishop a grant for life of a cottage in the vill of Crayk, called "Dowcot Place," which came into the Bishop's hands on the death of Geoffrey de Brandesby.	35
	Brandesby, Geoffrey de - - -	See Brantyngham, Walter de -	35
	Belgrave, John de - - -	In consideration of his fidelity as chief forester of the Bishopric is released from all actions, real and personal.	33
	Bothe', Roger del, and William de Muryngton.	Receive a pardon for having acquired, without the Bishop's license, the manor of Twysill, and a license to enfeoff Gerard Heron, of the said manor.	33
	Billeston, John de, Vicar of the Church of Norton.	Receives protection during his residence in the Bishop's household.	35
	Brantyngham, Walter de, yeoman of the Bishop's Kitchen.	Receives a grant of the office of Sub-forester of the Ward of Chester, forfeited by Richard de Quitechreke.	35
	Birtlee, Gilbert Eglon of - -	See Eglon - - - -	35
13	Baumburgh, John de - - -
	Butterwyk, Roger de - - -
	Billyngham, messuages and lands in Burdon, Great, messuages and land in.	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Barnard Castle, Richard de -
	Baumburgh, John de - - -
	"Bellasiehand" in Wolveston -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Bylyngham, lands in - -
	Baumburgh, John de - - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	36
	Belasys, John de - - -
	Brantyngham, Ralph, William de Brantyngham, chaplain, and William de Kellawe, chaplain.	Receive a pardon for having acquired, without the Bishop's license, from William de Lambton, the manor of Lambton, and a license to enfeoff the said William de Lambton and Alice his wife, of the said manor, to be held by them for life, with remainder to Robert their son, and the heirs of his body, with remainder to William, brother of the said Robert and the heirs of his body, with remainder to Thomas, brother of the said William, brother of Robert, with remainder to John brother of the said Thomas, with remainder to Ralph, brother of the said John, and the heirs of his body, with reversion to the right heirs of the said William de Lambton.	36
	Brantyngham, William de, chaplain -	See Brantyngham, Ralph - -	36
13 d'	Betonsone, John, to William de Elmedene, junior.	Recognizance - - - -	36
14	Burne, John, of Coxhowe - -	See Kyowe, William de - - -	36
	Belasys, John de - - -	See Conyers, Robert; see Lomley, Robert de.	36
	Bernelby, Thomas de, Master of the Hospital of Shirburne.	See Alverton, John de - -	36
	Brunton, Cecilia and Agnes, daughters and co-heiresses of Thomas de,	Release to William Lambard, Thomas de Hartlepool, and Robert Couper, chaplain, all their claims to all lands, tenements, rents, &c., formerly belonging to their father in Brunton.	36
	Brunton, lands, tenements, and rents in.	See Brunton, Cecilia.
	Beverlay, William de - - -	See Henley, John de - - -	36
	Betonsone, John, of Evenwode -	Receives a grant for life of the office of Parker of the Park of Evenwode.	36
	Byrtley, Gilbert Eglyn of, and Elizabeth his wife,
	Byrtley Manor - - -	See Eglyn, Gilbert - - -	36
	Byrtley, Cecilia de -

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
14	Broughton, William de	Receives from the Bishop a grant for life of the common oven at Sedgefield.	36
	Burdene, John de	Receives a grant for life of the custody of the Park of Auckland.	36
14 d'	Birtby, Alice, widow of Thomas	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of John, son and heir of Thomas de	3..
	Bradewode, Sub-forester of	See Sawserle, John del	36
	Burdon, John de, William Belers, Robert To . . . Robert Emerison, William and Richard de Fotherstanhaigh, William de Horley, junior, John de Horley, John Sh . . . Adam Batmanson, William Emerison, John Betonsone, William Broughton, William Forester, of Gateshead, Adam Yoman, John Makand, John Verte, William Braban, William Pixley, Nicholas Coke, of Newcastle, Alexander Colyer, John del Lee, Robert Shepirdsone, Adam de Esshendene, Walter de Brantyngham, William del Grene, Richard de Whitchirche, William de Collanwode, Thomas Yong, John Attegate, John Thomesone, of Feildrawe, and John Robynneson.	Receive a pardon for infractions of the forest laws in the Forest of Werdale.	36
	Belers, William Batmanson, Adam Betonsone, John Broughton, William Braban, William Brantyngham, Walter de	See Burdon, John de.
	Bottall', Chantry, in the parish church of.	See Holgrave, David de	36
	Bather, John de	See Macy, John	36
	Bishop, the (episcus)	See Hatfield, Thomas de
1	Cok, John, of Rhchester	See Ravensworth, Alan de	21
	Cosdor, Adam, of Durham, to the Bishop.	Recognizance	21
	Carrowe, John de, and John de Whitworth, to John	Recognizance	22
	Chauncelor, Thomas	See Newsom, Adam de	23
1 d'	Coxside, Thomas de, of Durham	See Forster, John	23
3	Clixton, Thomas, and Hugh de Brunnyghill, to John de Rivet.	Recognizance	24
	Carlbury, Ralph de Neville's lands in	See Fulthorpe, Roger de	23
2 d'	Chaundeler, John	Receives a grant of the office of parker of the park of Evenwood, for life.	23
	Copgrave, William de	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Richard Copin, of Essington.	24
	Copin, Richard	See Copgrave, William de	24
3	Carrowe, John de, to Roger de Fulthorpe,	Recognizance	26
	Coxside, Robert, son and heir of Thomas de.	See Lewyn, John	26
	Chilton, Hugh de	See Wolviston, Richard de	27
3 d'	Chanund', John, Margaret, and Jane	See Barton, Henry de	26
	Couper, John, of Hamsterley	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of John de Kylyngham.	27
	Carrowe, John de	See Bras, Robert	27
4	Coigners, Robert	See Daddese, Jordan	27
	Croxdale manor	See Whalton, Robert de	27
	Chilton, Hugh de
	Cleeby, Richard, son of Henry de	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Robert de Hayton.	28
4 d'	Coigners, John de, knight	Receives a grant of free warren in all his demesne lands of Sokburn, Bishopton, Harperley ie Blakhall, and Staynes.	28
	Coke, Philip	See Stanlawman, Richard	28
	Carrowe, Thomas de	See Whitworth, John de	28
	Coke, Nicholas	Is appointed keeper of the Bishop's coals of Gateshead and Whicham. He is to sell the coals and be answerable for the money.	28

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
5	Cloths, woollen	The King's writ to the Bishop commanding proclamation to be made in the cities, boroughs, and market vills of the Palatinate concerning the length and breadth of woollen cloths, both of one colour and variegated.	28
		The proclamation itself follows [in French]. It recites further, that the Scots have abstracted English money, and recoined it, and set their own coins of inferior value in circulation in England. The Scotch four-penny piece is therefore to pass current at the value of only threepence half-penny English.
	Coinage, Scotch and English	See above.
	Carrowe, John and Thomas de	See Ingelby, Thomas de	29
	Claxton, William de	See Heron, John de	29
6	Coken, William, son of Thomas de, of Durham.	Grants to John de Killyngehale the reversion of lands, tenements, etc., in Durham, expectant on the death of Matilda, widow of the said Thomas.	29
	Coken, Matilda, widow of Thomas de	See Coken, William.
	Cheesewik Manor	See Gray, Thomas	28
	Coupland, Jane, widow of John de
	Coukesheved Manor
6 d	Claxton, Thomas de, and Hugh de Burnynghill, to John de Elvet.	Recognisance	27
	Consby, William de, chaplain, and John de Whitworth, to the Prior of Durham.	Recognisance	28
	Coken, Walter de	See Barber, Walter	28
	Cleiom, Henry Testard of	See Testard	29
	Chaumberlayn, Richard, of Raby
	Coigners, Robert, and Alice his wife	Receive a license to enfeoff Thomas de Norton, chaplain, and William de Scurby, of the manor of Panillion, and half the vill of Bedlkwaitrville. The said Thomas and William are to re-enfeoff the said Robert and Alice for life, with remainder to William, son and heir of Jordan de Daldene, knight, and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to Robert, brother of the said William son of Jordan, and the heirs male of his body, with reversion to the aforesaid Robert and Alice Coigners, and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to . . son of Edmund de Killyngwill and Katharine, his wife, and the heirs male of their bodies, with remainder to Robert, son and heir of the said Robert Coigners, and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to John, brother of the said Robert, son of Robert, and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to William, brother of the said John, brother of the said Robert, son of Robert, and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to Thomas, brother of the said William, brother of the said John, and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to the right heirs of the said Alice for ever.	2.
	Coigners, Robert, son of Robert, John, William, and Thomas.	See Coigners, Robert	2.
7	Claxton, Thomas de, to John de Nevile, knight.	Recognisance	30

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
7	Cirest, Thomas, parson of the church of Redmarshill, and Richard de Richemond.	Receive a pardon for having acquired, without the Bishop's license, from Alan de Fulthorpe, the manor of Fulthorpe, and other lands and tenements held in capite of the Bishop. The Bishop grants them a license to enfeoff Jane, widow of the said Alan, of the said manor, etc., to her for life, with remainder to the heirs of the body of the said Alan with remainder to the right heirs of the said Alan. The said Richard de Richemond has custody of the said manor, etc., during the minority of Alan, son and heir of Alan de Fulthorpe, with the marriage of the said Alan, junior, and in the event of the death of the said Alan, junior, unmarried, the wardship and marriage of successive heirs, until the said Richard shall have received the profit of a marriage.	20
	Claxton, Thomas de, Hugh de Burnynghill, John Billy, and William de Kellawe del Park, to Alice, widow of John Spryng, knight	Recognisance - - - -	22
	Chambre, John del, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Thomas, his son, Thomas de Herynton, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and John Irengray, chaplain, to Raymond Pelegrim, canon of Lincoln, proctor and vicar-general, in England, of Cardinal Robert de Cevennes, the rector of the church of Bishop's Wearmouth.	Recognisance. An indenture follows declaring the said recognisance void upon payment to Robert de Cevennes, by the parties first named, of £94 marks per annum during five years, for which term the church of Bishop's Wearmouth had been leased.	30
	Cevennes, Cardinal, Robert de -	See Clambre, John del - -	20
7 d'	Carren, Nicholas de, keeper of the Bishop's privy seal.	See Ketchyn, William del - -	31
8	Carbowe, William de, of Ludworth -	See Billey, John de - - -	22
	Oxken, Richard de - - -	See Menevill, Thomas de - -	33
	Craven, John de, of Darlington, to John Yele, of York, draper.	See Yekemond, Robert - -	33
9	Claxton, William de - - -	Recognisance - - - -	33
9 d'	Clerkem, William Jonyson of - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	33
	Chaumberlayn, Thomas - -	See Jonyson - - -	33
	Cassshop, lands in - - -	See Popham, John de - -	32
10	Conyers, John, knight - - -	See Morton, William de - -	35
	Cokett, William, to John Conyers, knight.	Recognisance - - - -	35
	Conyers, John, knight - - -	See Cokett, William - - -	35
		See Walefel, Ralph - -	33
	Custom, William, to John Conyers, knight.	Recognisance - - -	33
	Conyers, John, knight - - -	See Custom, William - - -	33
		See Ward, John - -	33
	Coke, John Walker - - -	Receives a pardon for having, with his brother Adam, stolen cattle and other property belonging to William, son of Stephen de Ravensworth, Thomas de Derynton, of Ravensworth, Richard Sausiner, John de Welles, and Roger Hawe, Walker.	35
	Coke, Adam - - - -	See Coke, John - - -	33
	Clak } forester of the Bishop's Cotcliff } parks and woods of.	See Notton, John de - - -	35
10 d'	Claxton, Thomas de - - -	See Nevill, John de - -	33
	Carubbous manor - - -
	Catrik, Roger de, the Bishop's clerk, notary public.	Receives from the Bishop a grant of a plot called "Lee Morhouses," enclosed from the Bishop's waste, near the vill of Kyuleswurth.	35
	Claxton, William de - - -	Receives a license to enfeoff William Lambard and John de Claxton, of the manor of Holom; and they are to re-enfeoff the said William de Claxton and Isabella, his wife, of the said manor to them and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to the right heirs of the said William for ever.	33

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10 d'	Claxton, Isabella de Claxton, John de	See Claxton, William de	33
	Cornhale, Cuthbert, son of Christina de.	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of John Bricesson, of Cornhale.	33
	Carlebery, John de Houghton, of, junior.	See Houghton	33
11	Claxton, William de, knight	Receives a license to enfeoff William Lambard and John de Claxton, of the manor of Holom; and they receive the Bishop's license to re-enfeoff William de Claxton and Isabella, his wife, of the said manor, to them and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to the right heirs of the said William.	33
	Claxton, Isabella de Claxton, John de	See Claxton, William de	33
	Coxhowe, Hugh de, of Bermeton.	Receives a pardon for not having appeared before the justices as respondent to William de Merton, of Darlington, under the statute of Labourers.	34
11 d'	Cleydon, William de	See Henlee, John de	34
	Currour, Robert, clerk	See Wham, Thomas del	32
12	Conyers, Robert, knight	See Heron, John	35
	Coulurd, Roger	See Esshe, Thomas de	35
	Colyne, John	Receives a grant of the office of Parker of the Park of Penwick.	33
	Carrowe, John de Carrowe, John, son of Thomas	See Lambard, Alan	35
	Carrowe, Thomas de, and John de Luffenam, chaplain.	Receive a pardon for having acquired, without the Bishop's license, to themselves and their heirs certain messuages, lands, and salt mines in Seton Carrowe from John de Carrowe, lord of Seton Carrowe; and receive a license to re-enfeoff the said John de Carrowe of the said messuages, etc., to be held by him for life, with remainder to John, son of Thomas de Carrowe, knight, and Isabella, his wife, and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to the right heirs of the said John de Carrowe.	36
	Carrowe, John de Carrowe, John, son of Thomas de, and Isabella, his wife.	See Carrowe, Thomas de	36
	Chabyngton, Parker of the Park of	See Macy, John	35
12 d'	Chestre, John de	See Hakthorpe, John de	35
	Conyers, John, knight, to William de Elmedene, junior.	Recognisance	35
	Carlele, William, the Bishop's yeoman of the kitchen.	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of Henry, son and heir of Alan de Alwent.	35
	Cruyk, cottage, called "Dowcot-place," in.	See Brantyngham, Walter de	35
	Coke, Roger, of Chester	Receives a pardon for having, in self-defence, killed John Waryn, of Chester.	35
	Chester, Roger Coke of Chester, John Waryn of Carlele, Robert de Chester, sub-forester of the ward of	See Coke, Roger. Exemption from service on juries See Brantyngham, Walter de	32 35
	Chaunbre, John, of Cleshy Cleshy, John Chaunbre of	See Jackson, John	35
13	Curtays, Adam Cowhird, Roger	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
13 d'	Coke, Nicholas	See Skarburgh, John de	35
14	Coxhowe, Ralph Jopson of John Busse of William Milner of Conyers, John, knight Castell, Thomas del	See Kyowe, William de See Merley, Richard de	36 36

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
14	Conyers, Robert, knight, Robert and Marmaduke de Lomley, John de Scrutevile, John de Belasys and William Symson, of Kybleworth, to Isabella, widow of William de Clarton, knight.	Recognisance.	36
	Clarton, Isabella, widow of William de.	See Conyers, Robert - -	36
	Conyers, Robert, knight - -	See Lomley, Robert de - -	36
	Couper, Robert - - -	See Bruntoft, Cecilia - -	36
	Consistory, apparitor of the Bishop's -	See Rome, John de - - -	36
	Chestre, John de - - -	See Eglyn, Gilbert - - -	36
14 d'	Coke, Nicholas, of Newcastle - -	See Bardon, John de - - -	36
	Colyer, Alexander - - -
	Collanwode, William de - -
	Chestre, John de, of Chester-le-Street	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	36
	Chestre, John de, of Satley -
1	Daldene, William de, to William . . .	Recognisance - - - -	23
1 d'	Dowedall, Robert de, and Isolda his wife.	See Fery, John - - -	23
2	Durham, John, Prior of - -	See Merynton, John - - -	23
		See Morden, William de - -	24
3	Dogle, John - - - - -	See Blaykeston, William de - -	27
3 d'	Daynill, William - - - -	See Barton, Henry de - -	26
	Durham Bridge, between Durham and Shincliffe.	Commission to inquire into an alleged misapplication of certain rents destined for the maintenance and repair of the bridge, which had become unsafe.	36
	Durham and Sadberge, gaol-delivery of, and shrievalty of.	See Umfranville, Robt. de - -	27
4	Daldene, Jordan son of William de -	Who has received the Bishop's license to travel beyond sea, gives a warrant of attorney to Robert Colgners, knight, Hugh de Westwick, clerk, John de Herdwyk, and William de Sourby.	27
	Daldene, Gilbert de - - -	Who has received the Bishop's license to travel beyond sea, gives a warrant of attorney to John de Herdewik and William de Sourby.	27
	Durham, the Prior and convent of, and office of Almoner of.	Receive from the Bishop a grant of a messuage in the bailiwick of Durham called "Lihftothous," which the Bishop had recovered against William del Pole and Katherine his wife by writ of cesserit per biennium.	27
4 d'	Darlington, three messuages in, and cottage and garden in Northgate in.	See Verly, John - - -	26
	Durham, keeper of the coals of the Bishop of.	See Coke, Nicholas - - -	23
	Dounyng, Robert, of Pencher - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of some offence committed against . . . . . Beawe of Pencher [roll torn, date, etc. partly lost].	2..
	Dagworth, Nicholas de, Constable of the Castle of Norham.	Is mentioned in an instrument which is very imperfect, but the effect of which apparently is that John Heron is appointed his successor.	?
5 d'	Dalton, John de - - - -	See Tychill, William - -	39
6	Duddowe Manor - - -	See Gray, Thomas - - -	22
	Darlington, land in - - -
	Durham, rent in - - - -
	Durham, lands and tenements in -	See Coken, William - - -	29
	Durham, gaol-delivery of - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	36
6 d'	Durham, Prior of - - -	See Consby, William de - -	28
	Durham, janitor of - - -	See Barker, Walter - - -	28
	Daldene, William and Robert de -	See Colgners, Robert - - -	2..
7 d'	Darlington, Roger de - - -	See Tudhowe, Thomas de - -	31
8	Durham, the Chaplains, Prior, and Convent of.	Present a petition to the Bishop and his Council for a process against John Albon, who was alleged to have been surreptitiously collated to the vicarage of	31

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
		Norham while the priorate of Durham was vacant. The petition is granted. It is decided that the presentation to the vicarage rests with the Sub-prior and monks during the vacancy of the priorate, and the collation of John Aiton is consequently annulled.
9	Durham and Sadberge, Sheriff and Escheator of.	See Hindley, John de - - -	32
9 d'	Derby, Thomas de - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	33
10	Darlington, Janitor of - - -	See Fauconer, Robert - -	33
	Derlyngton, Thomas de, of Ravensworth.	See Coke, John - - -	33
	Debynton, Robert, of Norton - -	See Fourman, William - -	33
10 d'	Dalton, John de - - - Darlington, burgages and land in	See Neville, John de - - -	33
	Draper, John son of William, of Durham, to Richard Stanlawman.	Recognisance - - - -	33
	Durham, the Prior of - - -	See Houghton, John de - -	33
11	Duideford, Robert - - -	See Maulevrer, Richard - -	34
	Durham, escdership and janitorship of	See Elmedene, William de -	34
	Durham, the Prior and Convent of -	Receive from the Bishop a grant and license to hold in free alms certain lands, etc., previously held by them of him in capite.	34
	Durham, the Prior of - - -	See Rasbe, Thomas de - -	34
11 d'	Durham, the Prior and Convent of -	Receive from the Bishop a grant in free alms of a messuage in Haliestand (Holy Island) for a special prayer daily at High Mass, and for a solemn mass yearly after the Bishop's death, in the church of Holy Island, in memory of him the said Thomas de Hatfield, Bishop of Durham.	34
	Durham, messuage and garden on the "Place," and plot or place in Owengate.	See Wham, Thomas del - -	32
12	Durham and Sadberge, Sheriff and Escheator of the county of.	See Bowes, William del - -	35
	Durham, the Prior of - - -	See Semer, William de - -	34
	Ditemale Church - - -	See Surtays, Alexander - -	35
12 d'	Dowcot Place, in the town of Crake	See Brantyngham, Walter de -	35
13	Durham, the Prior and Convent of -	Receive a license to acquire from John de Saamburgh, the statute of mortmain notwithstanding, a messuage, four tofts, and land in Wolveston formerly belonging to John de Wolveston, a messuage and land formerly belonging to Richard de Aske, a messuage and land formerly belonging to Robert de Masham, a messuage and land formerly belonging to Thomas son of Marjory and Marjory his wife, 26*s.* 8*d.* of rent formerly belonging to Walran de Lomley, a messuage and land and part of the plot called "Le Orcheard" formerly belonging to Geoffrey Huiet, all in Wolveston; a messuage and land formerly belonging to Adam Tyllyng, a messuage and land formerly belonging to John Skipwyth, four tofts and land formerly belonging to Roger de Butterwyk, the third part of a messuage and land formerly belonging to Geoffrey Huiet, a cottage and land formerly belonging to William Fynch, all in Billyngham; two messuages and land in Great Burdon, and the third part of a messuage and land in Aclyf formerly belonging to Thomas Tours, a messuage and land in Fery formerly belonging to Hugh son of Hawis, a messuage and land in the same town formerly belonging to John son of	34

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
		Symon, two messuages and land in Monk Hesildene, formerly belonging to William Hulot; land formerly belonging to Adam Curtays, and a messuage and land formerly belonging to William del Riddyng and Margaret his wife in Edmundbires; land in Durham belonging to William Aiman; a messuage and land formerly belonging to John de Hette, a messuage and land formerly belonging to John son of Isabel de Hette in Hette; 6*s.* of rent in Heberne formerly belonging to William Syre, a messuage and land in Sponyngmore, formerly belonging to John de Ogle and called "Le Morehous"; the manor of Rylly and land in Aldyngrige, and a messuage and four cottages in Elret formerly belonging to Richard de Barnard Castle; a messuage and land in Aldyngrige formerly belonging to Roger Cowhird; a garden and land in the old burg of Durham formerly belonging to Richard de Barnard Castle; a messuage and land in Heberne formerly belonging to William Lardener; three messuages and a croft in Durham formerly belonging to Simon Aiman; and two messuages and land in Wolveston formerly belonging to Richard de Wolveston, chaplain.
13	Durham, William Aiman's land in Durham, Old Burg, Richard de Barnard Castle's land in. Durham, Simon Aiman's land in	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Durham, the Prior and Convent of -	Receive a license to acquire from John de Baumburgh, the statute of mortmain notwithstanding, a messuage and lands called "Dryngesland," "Beilasteland," "Sternsland," and "Le Orcheard" in Wolveston, formerly belonging to Geoffrey Huiet; the third part of a messuage and lands in Bylyngham formerly belonging to William de Herle; 30*s.* rent issuing from land called "Southwykland" in North Pyttyngton, and a messuage and land in Morsalawe formerly belonging to Alexander de Pyttyngton, in part satisfaction of an annuity of 100*s.* for a light before the altar of St. Nicholas and St. Giles, in Durham church, and for a chaplain to pray for the soul of John Fossur, formerly Prior.	34
	"Dryngesland" in Wolveston - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Durham, the Prior and Convent of -	Receive a license to acquire from William de Graystanes, John de Leihom, and John de Baumburgh, the manor of Henknoll, and to give it to John de Relsays and his heirs, in exchange for seven messuages, eight score acres of land, and eight acres of meadow in Wolveston.	36
	Durham City - - - -	Grant of tolls for the purpose of enclosing and paving.	34
13 d'	Durham, the Prior and Convent of -	Receive a license to acquire lands, tenements, and rents of the annual value of 200 marks, for the support of eight monks as chaplains, and of eight poor scholars in Durham College, Oxford, recently founded anew by the Bishop.	36

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
13 d'	Durham College, Oxford (subsequently suppressed and refounded as Trinity College).	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	36
	Dryng, Peter, and John Legge to William de Elmedene, junior.	Recognisance - - - -	36
	Darlington, Provost of - - -	See Gref', John - - -	36
14	Durham, the Prior of - - -	See Alverton, John de - -	36
	Durham, moler and janitor of the castle of.	See Elmedene, Thomas de -	36
	Dunelm' - } (passim) - - -	See Durham.
	Duresme - }
	Darlinton' (passim) - - -	See Darlington.
1	Estmerryngton, Thomas, son of John de, to - - - -	Recognisance - - - -	21
	Elmedene, William and Jane de -	See Nesbit, Thomas de - -	21
	Elmedene, William and Jane his wife	Receive a license to enfeoff Gilbert de Holum and Walter de Hunnunby of the manor of Trilleslene; and the said Gilbert and Walter receive a like license to grant the said manor to the said William and Jane, and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to Thomas, brother of the said William, with remainder to the right heirs of the said William for ever.	21
2	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Claxton, Thomas de - -	24
2 d'	Evenwood, Parker of - - -	See Chaundeler, John - -	23
3	Eston Robert de - - -	Releases to John de Byshopdale of Durham, all his right and claim to a tenement adjacent to the Guildhall in Durham.	26
	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Parco, Richard de - -	27
	Elvet, John de, to Simon de Langton -	Recognisance - - - -	27
	Eure, Ralph de, Thomas Surtays, knight, John de Hedlum, John de Sadberg, and John Lewyn of Durham: to John de Orgle.	Recognisance - - - -	27
	Eure, Ralph de, to Thomas Surtays, John de Hedlum, John de Sadberg, and John Lewyn.	Recognisance - - - -	27
3 d'	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Umfromville, Robert de -	27
	Elmedene, John son of William de -	Releases to William de Elmedene his father, and Jane wife of the latter, all his right and claim to the manor of Trilleslene, which they held of the gift and feoffment of Gilbert de Holom and Walter de Hunmanby.	27
	Elmedene, William and Jane de -	See Elmedene, John, son of William de.	27
	Elmedene, John son of William de -	Releases to his father all his right and claim to certain lands, &c., (of which the names are illegible), held by the said William of the gift and feoffment of William de Hunmanby and Robert de Ynchestre.	27
4	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Bowes, William de - -	27
	Easyngton, messuage in - -	See Kerby, John de - -	28
5	Elmedene William de - - -	See Moubray, John - - -	28
	Elwyk, wilbert de - - -	See Heron, John - - -	29
	Eure, Ralph de - - - -	See Heron, John de - -	29
5 d'	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Gilkt, Roger - - -	29
6	Eesbe, Thomas son of William - }	See Gray, Thomas - - -	22
	Elvish, manor - - - - }
	Elmedene, William de - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - }	30
	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Ingelby, Thomas de - }
	Elvet, Henry Littester of - - -	See Littester - - - -	27
	Eure, Ralph de - - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de -	27
	Ethirdakers, Walter de - - -	See Lomley, Thomas de - -	27
	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Claxton, Thomas de - -	27
7 d'	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Aluan, William - - -	31
8	Ethirdacres, Walter de - - -	See Biley, John de - - -	32
8 d'	Estbirdene, messuages and lands in -	See Mcneville, Thomas de - -	32
9	Elmedene, William de - - - }	See Grene, William del - -	32
	Elvet, John de - - - - }	See Ingelby, Thomas de - -	32
9 d'	Elmedene, William de - - -	See Orchard, William del - -	32
		See Fulthorpe, Roger de (bis) -	33
10	Eland, John de, chaplain - -	See Stanhope, Richard de - -	33

Digitized by Google

703

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10	Elmedene, William de - - -	See Ingelby, Thomas de - -	33
		See Belgrave, John de - -	33
10 d	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Alman, Simon - - -	33
11	Elmedene, William de - - -	See Heron, John - - -	33
	Elmedene, William de - - -	Receives a grant for life of the offices of gaoler and janitor of Durham castle.	34
	Elmedene, William de, junior - -	See Hetheworth, Richard de -	34
	Esshe, Thomas de, to the Prior of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -	34
	Esshe, Thomas de, to Isabella de Skirnyngham.	Recognizance - - - -	34
	Etherdacres, Walter de - -	See Hawik, Walter de - -	34
	Elvet, John de - - - -
11 d	Elmedene, William de - -	See Heron, John (bis) - -	34
	Elvet, John de - - - -
	Elmedene, Thomas son of William de	See Todd, Alice - - -	34
	Elmedene, message and land in
	Eggliscliff, John de - - -	See Wham, Thomas del - -	33
12	Esshe, Thomas de, lord of Esshe, to Roger Coubird.	Recognizance - - - -	35
	Evenwode, office of parker of the park of.	See Greyn, William del - -	35
	Eure, Ralph de, brother and heir of Robert de Eure.	Upon payment of a fine of 100 marks receives a pardon for having married during his minority without the bishop's license, for which offence the bishop had retained in his hands the manor of Wotton beyond the term of the said Ralph's minority.	35
	Eure, Robert de - - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	35
12 d	Elmedene, William de, junior -	See Conyers, John - - -	35
	Evenwode park - - -	See Popham, John de - -	35
	Eglon, Gilbert, of Birtlee - -	Exemption from service on juries -	35
	Elmedene, William de - -	See Heron, John - - -	35
13	Edmundbires, William de - -	See Durham, the Prior and convent of.	34
	Elvet, messuage and cottages in
13 d	Elmedene, William de, senior -	See Skarburgh, John de - -	35
	Elmedene, William de, junior -	See Dryng, Peter - - -	36
		See Luge, John de la - -	36
		See Betonsone, John - - -	36
		See Merlay, John de - -	36
		See Hunter, William - - -	36
		See Gref,' John - - -	36
		See Tebeone, William - -	36
14	Elmedene, William de - - -	See Kyowe, William de - -	36
	Eggliscliffe, John de - - -	See Killinghale, John de - -	36
	Edmundesbire manor - - -
	Evenwode, parker of the park of -	See Betonsone, John - - -	36
	Elmedene, Thomas de, whose father William had assigned to him all his own interest in the offices of gaoler and janitor of the castle of Durham, with the bishop's consent.	Receives a grant of those offices for life, with a proviso that in case he should die before his father, the latter is to hold them for his life, according to the tenor of a previous grant.	36
	Eglyn, Gilbert, of Byrtley, and Elizabeth his wife.	Receive a license to convey to John de Chestre, John de Kastrik and William de Hirdley, chaplains, two parts of half the manor of Byrtley (excepting the third part of the said two parts), to be held by them and the heirs of the said William for ever. The said Gilbert and Elizabeth also receive a license to grant the said third part of the said two parts held by Cecilia de Byrtley in dower, and of the third part of half the said manor held in dower by Thomas de Stafford, and Alice his wife (which were to have reverted to themselves) in remainder to the said John, John and William, and the heirs of the said William	36
14 d	Emerison, Robert and William -	See Burdon, John de - -	34
	Eshendene, Adam de - - -
	Elvet, John de - - - -	Receives a pardon for all offences committed by him as under-sheriff and sub-escheator of the county of Durham.	36

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
14 d'	Elmedene, William de Elmedene, William de, senior, and Jane his wife. Elmedene, Thomas de	See Fulthorpe, Roger de See Pelewe, John son of Robt. de	36 36
1	Fulthorpe, Roger de, William de Menevill, John de Brytley, Alan Lambard, William de Blaykeston, Richard de de Heaildine, and John Plummer of Newcastle-upon-Tyne to the Bishop.	Recognizance	23
1 d'	Forster, John, of Elvet Forester, John	See Marton, William de (bis) Grants to Thomas de Coxside of Durham an annuity of forty shillings issuing from his lands in Tudhowe.	21 23
	Fery, John, son and heir of Jane, daughter and heiress of Roger de.	Releases to Robert Dowdall and Isolda, wife of the latter, all right and claim to all lands, &c., in Fery, which are to come to him upon the death of his mother.	23
2	Fulthorpe, Roger de Forester, William, of Gateshead	See Bewlewe, William de Receives a grant for life of the office of keeper of the Bishop's park of Gateshead.	24 24
	Felton, William de Fulthorpe, Roger de	See Hilton, Robert de Receives a grant of the custody of all the lands and tenements in the vills of Oulneby, Carlbury, and Ingreton in the Bishop's hands by reason of the minority of Alexander, son and heir of Ralph, son of Ralph de Neville, to be held until the said Alexander shall be of full age.	24 23
2 d'	Fernacres, free warren in the demesne lands of.	See Umframville, Robert de	24
3	Fiesh, Margaret, daughter and heiress of John, of West Auckland.	See Todhowe, William de	26
	Fulthorpe, Roger de	Is appointed one of the justices of assize, &c., pro hac vice at Sadberge. In the following entry appears his commission to act as justice at the ensuing session.	25
3 d'	Fulthorpe, Roger de	See Moubray, John de	26
4	Fournyvall, William de	See Umframville, Robert de Who is about to follow the King beyond sea, has the Bishop's protection for one year.	27 27
4 d'	Fulthorpe, Roger de	Is appointed justice in place of John Moubray, deceased.	28
5	Fulthorpe, Roger de	See Moubray, John de See Ingelby, Thomas de	28 28
5 d'	Fildyng, John	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of John de Halugh.	29
6	Fellyngton manor Faulets manor Fetherstanhalgh, John de, and Idones his wife.	See Gray, Thomas	22
	Fildyng, John	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of John del Halugh.	29
	Fulthorpe, Roger de, William de Elmedene, John de Elvet, and Thomas de Hertilpole.	Are appointed justices for the gaol-delivery of Durham and Sadberge except in the case of prisoners accused of causing death.	30
	Fulthorpe, Roger de	See Ingelby, Thomas de	30
6 d'	Fulthorpe, Roger de, Ralph de Eure, Thomas de Heaham, and John de Hedlom, to John de Oggle.	Recognizance	27
	Fulthorpe, Roger de Franweigate in Durham. Walter Barker of. Fulthorpe manor Fulthorpe, Alan de, Jane his wife, and Alan his son.	See Laton, William de See Barker See Barker See Cirest, Thomas	28 28 29 30
7	Farnham, William de, and William de Franceys, vicar of the church of Middleham, to the Bishop.	Recognizance	30
7 d'	Franceys, William de Fleshewer, Thomas, of Tudhowe	See Farnham, William de See Tudhowe, Thomas de	30 31
9	Fulthorpe, Roger de	See Ingelby, Thomas de (bis)	32

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
9	Fulthorpe, Roger de, knight, John Heron, knight, William de Claxton, knight, and William del Bowes, knight, to the Bishop.	Recognizance - - - -	33
9 d'	Fulthorpe, Roger de, knight - -	See Perers, Alice de - - -	32
	Fulthorpe, Roger de, Hugh de Westwik, William de Elmedene, and John de Hyndeley.	Receive a commission to try John Legg of Durham, for an assault upon John Gibson.	33
	Fulthorpe, Roger de, Hugh de Westwik, Thomas Surtays, William de Elmedene, and John de Hedlam.	Receive a commission to try William de Bowes, knight, John de Hetton, chaplain, William Todd, Thomas de Derby, Thomas de Neusome, John Thomson of Pilerawe, and William Pikbask, for trespassing and hunting on the park of John de Neville at Raby.	33
10	Fulthorpe, Roger de - - -	See Ingelby, Thomas de - -	33
	Fauconer, Robert - -	Receives a grant of the office of janitor of the manor of Darlington.	33
	Fourman, William, of Hardwick -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Robert Dobynson of Norton.	33
10 d'	Fencotes, Thomas de, the Bishop's receiver of Alverton.	Receives a grant of a burgage in Alverton, which escheated to the Bishop on the death of John Hogman, without heirs.	33
11	Fairefax, John - - - -	See Neville, John de - - -	34
	Fisshelake, parson of - - -	See Maudeverer, Richard - -	34
	Fenwik, office of parker of - -	See Tollerton, John de - -	34
11 d'	Fossour, John, son and heir of John -	See Popham, John de - -	34
	Forth, Robert del - - - -	See Henlee, John de - - -	34
	Fyldyng, John, of Langchesire, son and heir of Robert Fyldyng.	Releases to Thomas de Birthy of Durham, all his lands, tenements, and rents, formerly belonging to John de Popham. -	34
12	Fyldyng, John, of Langchesire, to Alice, widow of Thomas de Brethy.	Recognizance - - - -	35
	Fenwik, parker of the park of - -	See Colyne, John - - -	35
13	Fynch, William - - - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Fery, message and land in - -
	Fossur, John, Prior of Durham -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
14	Fery, Richard, son of Peter de -	See Stapilton, Peter de - -	36
	Fulthorpe, Roger de - - -	Is appointed chief justice for assizes, certificates, and attaints, in place of Thomas de Ingelby, deceased.	36
14 d'	Fetherstanhaigh, William and Richard de.	See Burdon, John de - -	36
	Forester, William, of Gateshead - Feldraw, John Thomsone of - -
	Fulthorpe, Roger de, John Heron, William de Elmedene, and Hugh de Westwyk.	Are commissioned to inquire whether John de Chestre of Chester-le-Street, and John de Chestre of Saltley, found by a previous inquisition to be the Bishop's "nativi," are bondemen or freemen.	36
1	Gateway, John de - - - -	See Merynton, John de - -	23
	Gunnays, Richard - - - -	See Aske, Richard - - -	22
1 d'	Gunnays, Richard de - - - -	See Marton, William de (bis) -	21
2	Gateshead, keepership of the park of	See Forester, William - -	24
3	Graystanes, William de - - -	See Wodriston, Richard de -	27
	Garnet, William - - - -	See Rims, Robert - - -	27
4 d'	Grendon, Gilbert - - - -	See Whitworth, John de - -	28
	Gateshead, keeper of the Bishop's coals at.	See Coke, Nicholas - -	28
5	Galon, Thomas - - - -	See Heron, John - - -	29
	Gray, Robert, of Newbiggryng - -	See Heron, John de - -	29
5 d'	Gray, Margaret, widow of Thomas, knight.	See Perers, Alice - - -	29
	Gilet, Roger - - - -	Gives power of attorney to John de Rivet and William Gilet during his absence beyond sea.	30
	Gilet, William - - - -	See Gilet, Roger.
6	Gray, Thomas, knight - - -	Receives a license to enfeoff Thomas de Kellawe, chaplain, and Robert Gray of Wyprideue, of the manors of Heton, Ancroft, Rosse, Fellynton, and Duddowe, half the manor of Allerdene, two parts of the manor of Kyley, a third part of the third part of the manor of Chesewik, and a fourth part of	22

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
		the manor of Westerupsetlyngton, twenty messuages and a hundred acres of land in Norham, seven messuages in Haliceland, the fishery of Hornecliffe Pole and half the fishery of Orde in the Tweed. The said Thomas de Kellawe and Robert Gray are to re-enfeoff Thomas Gray and Margaret, daughter of William de Presence, of all the aforesaid possessions to be held by the said Thomas and Margaret, and the heirs of the body of the said Thomas, with remainder to Jane, widow of John de Coupland, for life, with remainder to John Gray, son of Margaret, daughter of William de Presence and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to Thomas Gray, son of the said Margaret and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to Jane, daughter of the said Margaret, and the heirs of her body, with remainder to Elisabeth, daughter of the said Margaret, and the heirs of her body, so far as one half of all the aforesaid possessions is concerned, the other half to be in remainder to Agnes, daughter of the said Margaret, and the heirs of her body, with remainder of the whole to the survivor and the heirs of her body, with remainder to Robert Gray of Neubigging, and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to David Gray, and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to Thomas, son of William de Esshe, and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to Robert, son of Robert de Ogle, and the heirs male of his body, with remainder to the aforesaid Thomas Gray, knight, and his heirs for ever.
		Thomas Gray further receives a license to enfeoff Richard de Barnard Castle, clerk, and the aforesaid Thomas de Kellawe of the manors of Elstob, Newland, Faulels, and Ladley, of the reversion of the manor of Urpath (held by John de Fethirstanhalgh, and Idonea his wife, during the life of the said Idonea), of two messuages and 300 acres of land in Rouley, Walsinghan, and Darlington, of half the manor of Coukesheved and of 6s. 8d. of rent in Durham. The said Richard de Barnard Castle and Thomas de Kellawe are to re-enfeoff Thomas Gray and Margaret his wife, according to the form of the preceding license.
7	Graystans, William de -	Grants to William Annotson a lease, for four years, of lands and tenements in the vill of Westmorton formerly belonging to John de Menvile, Piers de Heley, John Taylour of Hilton, and John Hait of Killerby.	30
7 d	Grey, Robert, of Newbiggin - -	Are Heron, John - - - -	31
	Grey, Margaret, widow of Thomas, and Robert Grey, executrix and executor of the said Thomas Grey.	Are released by the Bishop from a certain recognizance given by the said Thomas for the farm of the Bishop's coal mines at Quickham and Gateshead.	31
		They also (in the next entry) release the Bishop from all actions, real and personal.

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
7 d'	Grey, Robert - - - Gateshead, the Bishop's coal mines at.	See Grey, Margaret - - -	31
8 d'	Grene, William del - - -	Receives from the Bishop a grant of a messuage and seven acres of land in Esbirdene, which escheated to the Bishop because they had been acquired by William Gibbeson, his "nativus," without his license.	32
	Gibbeson, William - - -	See Grene, William del - -	32
9 d'	Gibson, John - - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	33
10	Goldsmyth, John, of Hartlepool -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of John Sayning.	33
11	Gretword, John, of Sedgefield -	See Baseley, William de - -	33
	Graystanes, William de, chaplain, John de Lethom, chaplain, and John de Bamburgh, clerk.	Are released by the Bishop from all rents and services of the manor of Henknoll, for their lives, and from all arrears of rent.	34
11 d'	Gateshead, hospital of St Edmund the King at.	See Brantyngham, William de -	34
12	Gameleston, Robert de - - -	See Arrowsmith, John - -	35
	Greyn, William - - - -	Receives a grant for life of the office of parker of the park of Evenwode.	35
13	Graystanes, William de - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	36
13 d'	Gref', John, Provost of Darlington, to William de Elmedene, junior.	Recognizance - - - -	36
14	Gretham, Robert de, of Sadberge -	See Killinghale, John de - -	36
14 d'	Grene, William del - - - Gate, John ate - - - - Gateshewed (passim) - - -	See Burdon, John de - - - See Gateshead.	36
1	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Surtays, Thomas; see Ravensworth, Alan de; see Coteler, Adam.	21
	Holum, Gilbert de - - - Hunnunby, Walter de - - - Hedlom, John de - - - - Herdewyk (Hardwick), demesne lands in.	See Elmedene, William de - - See Percebrig, John de - - See Aske, Richard - - -	21 21 22
	Hatfield, Thomas de (Bishop of Durham). Hesildene . . . . de - - Hertilpol, Thomas de - - - Hagthorpe, Master John de -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	23
		See Newson, Adam de - -	23
		Receives from the Bishop a grant of a vacant place, twenty-four feet in breadth, upon the "Place" of Durham.	23
1 d'	Herdewyk (Hardwick) Manor -	See Marton, William de (bis) -	21
	Hilton, Robert de, knight, Thomas Surtays, knight, and William de Kilhwe of Chevire,	Receive a pardon for having acquired in fee and entered upon the lands of William de Kellawe of Lomley without the license of the Bishop, of whom the said lands were held in capite. They further receive permission to grant the said lands to Isabella widow of William de Kellawe of Lomley for her life, with remainder to the right heirs of the said William.	21
	Holynside Manor - - - Hexham, Thomas de, and Katherine his wife.	See Burneton, John de (bis) -	23
2	Hunter, Thomas - - - -	See Merrynton, John de - -	23
	Hyndeley, Isabella daughter of Adam de.	See Bedale, Robert de - -	24
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Kellawe, Thomas de - -	24
	Heighere, Robert, yeoman of the Bishop's kitchen.	Receives from the Bishop a grant of ten acres of land in "Le Frankesfeld" by Woodhouse, which reverted to the Bishop on the death of John Pollard, "le Pier" (the tiler), who held them for life.	24
	Hilton, Robert de - - -	Receives a grant of the custody of all the lands in Medmesley and Hamsterley, of which William de Felton died seised, during the minority of William de Hilton and Thomas de Swinbourne, cousins and heirs of the said William de Felton.	24

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
2	Hamsterley - - -	See Hilton, Robert de.	24
	Hamsterley, Robert Shephirdson of -	See Shephirdson - - -	24
	Hatfield, John de - - -	Receives a grant of the custody of all the lands formerly belonging to Thomas de Ogle in the town of Thikley, during the minority of Katherine, daughter and heiress of the said Thomas, and, should she die under age, until an heir shall reach full age.	23
2 d'	Hamsterley, Forester of the ward of -	See Beryere, William - - -	24
	Hebbeson, John, of Wearmouth -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Robert Jordanneon of Bishop's Wearmouth.	24
	Haverynton, Henry de, knight -	Receives a grant of the custody of all the lands and tenements formerly in the possession of John son of Richard Merson of Middilheryarton, during the minority of John the son and heir of the said John, and if the said John son of John shall die under age, until an heir shall reach full age.	24
	Heryngton, Middle - - -	See Haverynton, Henry de - -	24
3	Hexham, Thomas de, John de Bishopdale, and William Jalker to William de Meneville.	Recognizance - - - -	27
	Hewyk, Walter de, to Simon de Langton.	Recognizance - - - -	27
	Hedium, John de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de (bis) - -	27
3 d'	Hyndeley, John de, of Hedlam -	See Middilton, Lucy de; see Middilton, Thomas de.	26
	Hedlam, John de Hyndeley of -
	Hamsterley, John Couper of - -	See Couper - - -	27
	Houdene, officer of Founder of the Manor of.	See Middilham, John de - -	27
	Holum, Gilbert de - - -	See Elmedene, John - - -	27
	Hummanby, Walter de - -
	Hummanby, William de - -	See Elmedene, John - - -	27
4	Heworth, William de - - -	Receives a grant of the custody of all the lands and tenements formerly belonging to Thomas son of Thomas de Brafferton, in Brafferton, during the minority of Thomas his son and heir.	27
	Hawik, Walter de - - -	See Bowes, William de - -	27
	Herdwik, John de - - -	See Daldene, Jordan; see Daldene, Gilbert de.	27
	Henley, John de - - - -	See Whalton, Robert de - -	27
	Hopehous, Thomas del - - -	See Scot, Oswald - - -	28
	Hayton, Robert de - - -	See Clesby, Richard - - -	28
	Houdenshire, lordship of - -	See Rous, John - - -	28
4 d'	Harpeley le Blakhall, free warren in -	See Colerers, John de - -	28
	Houden, messuage in - - - -	See Shotelyngton, Alan de - -	28
	Hadyngton, Richard de, vicar of Darlington.	See Verty, John - - -	28
	Heron, John - - - -	See Dagworth, Nicholas de.
5	Hawik, Walter de - - - -	See Mowbray, John - - -	28
	Heron, John, Thomas Galon, Walter de Swynhowe, and Gilbert de Elwyk.	Are appointed justices of assize for the county of Norham.	29
	Heron, John de, Robert de Hazirreston, Robert Gray of Newbiggyng, Walter de Swynlowe, and . . . . Botho.	Are commissioned to assess, collect, and raise in all the parishes of the palatinate the subsidy some time previously granted to the King. The collection, is to be made in the manner adopted by Thomas Surtays, William de Claxton, Ralph de Eure, and others, i.e., the parishioners of parishes of greater value are to be aiding and contributory to the parishioners of parishes of less value.	29
	Hazirreston, Robert de - -	See Heron, John de - - -	29
5 d'	Heryngton (East and Middle), William de Tychill's lands in.	See Tychill - - - -	29
	Halnaik, John de - - -	See Fildyng, John de - -	29
	Hamsterly, messuage and land in -	See Macy, John - - -	29
	Heton Manor - - - -
	Halieland (Holy Island), messuages in -	See Gray, Thomas - - -	22
	Hornedlife Pole fishery - -

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Certificate.
6	Halugh, John del - - -	See Fildyng, John - - -	29
	Hartlepool, Thomas de - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de; see Ingelby, Thomas de.	30
6 d'	Heaham, Thomas de - - - Hedlowe, John de - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	27
	Herdwik, John de, to John de Neville, knight, Lord of Raby.	Recognizance - - - -	27
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Barker, Walter - - -	29
	Heron, John, knight, to John de Barnard Castle.	Recognizance - - - -	29
	Heron, John, knight, to John de Henle, clerk.	Recognizance - - - -	29
	Henle, John de, clerk - - -	See Heron, John - - -	29
7	Heron, Gerard - - - -	Receives from the Bishop a grant of two parts of the manor of Skremerston during the minority of Robert son and heir of William de Swynhowe, together with the marriage of the said Robert.	30
	Herryngton, Thomas de - - -	See Chambre, John del - -	30
	Heley, Piers de - - - - Hilton, John Taylour - - - Halt, John, of Killerby - - -	See Graystans, William de - -	30
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Farnham, William de - - See Merley, John de - -	30 31
7 d'	Hadham, Thomas de - - -	Has a license to enfeoff John de Hadham, clerk, and William de Seham, chaplain, of a messuage and land in Seton by Seham, so that they may re-enfeoff the said Thomas and Isabella his wife of the said land and messuage to be held by them and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to the right heirs of the said Thomas.	30
	Hadham, John de - - - Hadham, Isabella de - - -	See Hadham, Thomas de - -	30
	Houghton, William de Bristall, parson of the church of.	See Oxenhall, Henry de - -	31
	Hetheworth, Richard de - -
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Wessyngton, William de -	31
	Heron, John, knight, Robert Grey of Neubiggyng, and Walter de Swynhowe, to the Bishop.	Recognizance. Conditions (somewhat illegible) in next entry.	31
	Hatfield, T. de, Bishop of Durham -	See Heron, John.
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham's coal mines at Quickham and Gateshead.	See Gray, Margaret - - -	31
8	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham, the King's letter to.	See King, the - - - -	31
	Hilton, William de, Hetheworth, John de, to the Bishop	Recognizance - - - -	32
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Hilton, William de -	32
	Hawyk, Walter de, and John Sadberge, to John de Bishopslale.	Recognizance - - - -	32
	Hall, John del - - - -	See Yekemond, Robert - -	32
9	Hyndley, John de - - -	Is appointed Sheriff and Escheator of the county of Durham and Sadberge.	32
	Hyndley, John de - - -	See Ingelby, Thomas de - -	32
	Hetheworth, Richard de, to William de Hawthorne, chaplain.	Recognizance - - - -	32
	Hawthorne, William de - -	See Hetheworth, Richard de -	32
	Henley, John de - - - -
	Hill, William del - - - -	See Lumley, Thomas de - -	32
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Fulthorpe, Roger de -	33
	Heron, John - - - - -
9 d'	Hall, Thomas del, of Sedgefield, to John de Stokton, clerk.	Recognizance - - - -	32
	Hyndeley, John de - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	33
	Hatfield, Nicholas de - - -	Receives a grant for life of the keepership of the park of Walsingham.	33
	Haluzhton, Hurworth-on-Tees } lands and messuages in.	See Ingelby, Thomas de - -	32
	Hedlam, John de - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	33
	Helton, John de, chaplain - -

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
9 d'	Hartlepool, William, servant of John de.	See Slynggisby, William de - -	33
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Popham, John de - - -	32
10	Hyndeley, John de - - - Harwode, Nicholas de - - Henlee, John de, parson of the church of Sedgfield.	See Inrelby, Thomas de - - See Belgrave, John de - -	33 33
	Hunwick, messuage and land in -	See Sawsery, John del - -	33
	Hawn, Roger, Walker - - -	See Coke, John - - -	33
10 d'	Horman, John - - -	See Feucotes, Thomas de - -	33
	Hedlom, John de - - - Heley Manor - - - Herford, Elias de - -	See Neville, John de - -	33
	Haddan, John, son and heir of Thomas de.	See Popham, John de - - -	33
	Holom Manor - - -	See Claxton, William de - -	33
	Heworth, John Nicson of - -	See Nicson - - - -	34
	Houghton, John de, of Carlebery, junior, and John de Somerhous, chaplain, to the Prior of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -	33
11	Heron, John, and William de Elmedene.	Are appointed additional justices of assize.	34
	Hetheworth, Richard de, John de Stokton, clerk, and William de Swalweis, to William de Elmedene, junior.	Recognizance - - - -	34
	Holom Manor - - - -	See Claxton, William de - -	33
	Henknoll Manor - - -	See Graystanes, William de - -	34
	Hill, Thomas Johnson del - -	See Waleys, William - - -	34
	Hawik, Walter de, and Walter de Kirbedacres to John de Elvet.	Recognizance - - - -	34
	Heron, John, William de Elmedene and John de Elvet.	Are comissioned to try Adam de Huton, chaplain for an assault upon William Brigthson.	34
	Huton, Adam de, chaplain - -	See Heron John.
11 d'	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Stockton, John de - -	34
	Heron, John, William de Elmedene, and John de Elvet.	Are commissioned to try Robert William and Ranulph de Brouhop for an assault upon Alice wife of John de	34
	Hexham, Hugh, son and heir of Thomas de.	See Popham, John de - - -	34
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Halieland, } church and messuage (Holy Island) } in - - -
	Henlee, John de - - - -	Receives a license to enfeoff John de Batisford, William de Wyntryngham and Thomas del Ok, clerks, of the manor of Nesbyt, for them to re-enfeoff the said John de Henlee, William de Langchestre, and William del Hill, clerks, Robert del Fosth, Thomas de Bernuham, William de Cleydon, and Thomas de Stratton of the said Manor, to them, their heirs and assigns, for ever.	34
	Hill, William del - - -	See Henlee, John de - -	34
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Belgrave, John de - -	35
	Hawthorne, William de - -	See Wham, Thomas del - -	32
12	Heron, John, knight, Robert Conyers, knight, and William del Bowes, knight, to Richard Stanlawman.	Recognizance - - - -	35
	Hatfield, John de, the Bishop's Yeoman of the Pantry.	Receives a grant for life of the office of Bailiff Errant within the liberty of Aivertonshire.	35
	Henle, John de, parson of the church of Sedgefield.	Receives a license to acquire lands, tenements, and rents to the value of 10*l.* per annum in order that he may assign them to two chaplains of the Church of Sedgefield to be held by them and their successors for services in behalf of the said Bishop and John de Henle, etc.	35
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Henle, John de - - -	35
12 d'	Henlee, John de - - - -	See Mortymer . . . . de -	35

Digitized by Google

771

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
12 d'	Hakthorpe, John de, senior, clerk, John de Chestre, Roger Aspyre, Alan Bower, William Skot of Pelton, and Richard de . . . . . to John de Henice, parson of the church of Sedgefield.	Recognizance - - - -	35
	Henice, John de, parson of Sedgefield	See Hakthorpe, John de - -	35
	Heron, Gerard - - -	See Bothe, Roger del - -	35
	Heron, John, Seneschal of Durham, to William de Elmedene, junior.	Recognizance - - - -	35
13	Huict, Geoffrey - - - -
	Hawis, Hughson of - - -
	Hazeldean, Monk, messuages and land in.	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Hette, John de - - - -
	Hette, John son of Isabel de - Hette, messuage and land in - Heberne, rent in - - -
	Huict, Geoffrey - - - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	36
	Herle, William de - - -
	Heuknoth, Manor - - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	36
13 d'	Hunter, William, to William de Elmedene, junior.	Recognizance - - - -	36
14	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Stapilton, Peter de - -	36
	Hartlepool, Thomas de - - -	See Bruntoft, Cecilia - -	36
	Henley, John de, Hugh de Westwyk, William de Beverlay, and John atte Lee, clerks.	Receive from the Bishop a grant of certain portions of the Chapel of Loudon for the purposes of a chantry of twelve chaplains to pray for the souls of the Bishop, his predecessors and successors.	36
	Hatfield, Thomas de, Bishop of Durham.	See Henley, John de - - -	36
	Hindley, William de - - -	See Eglyn, Gilbert - -	36
14 d'	Hornby, John de - - -	Receive from the Bishop a new grant of a place called Le Wodehouse, near Auckland, which had been previously granted to him by John de Popham on the terms on which it had been held by Roger Tykell.	36
	Heron, John - - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	36
	Holgrave, David de, and Elena, his wife.	Receive a license to give fifteen messuages and land in Wyndeleston for a chaplain to pray for the souls of their ancestors in the parish church of Bottall.	36
	Hertepol', &c. (passim) - - -	See Hartlepool.
2	Ingelton, Robert de Redale of - -	See Redale - - - -	24
	Ingelton, Ralph de Neville's lands in -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	23
	Jordanson, Robert - - -	See Hebbeson, John - -	24
3	Jalker, William - - - -	See Hexham, Thomas de - -	27
3d' and 5	Ingelby, Thomas de - - - -	See Mowbray, John - - -	26
5	Ingelby, Thomas de, Alan de Shotelyngton, Roger de Fulthorpe, and Richard de Barnard Castle.	Are commissioned to try John and Thomas de Carrowe for having entered and hunted upon the Bishop's free warren at Stockton, and carried off from Preston John son and heir of Alice daughter of Thomas de Seton, when the wardship and marriage of the said John belonged to the Bishop.	28
6	Ingelby, Thomas de, Roger de Fulthorpe, William de Elmedene, Richard de Parco, John de Elvett, and Thomas de Hertipole.	Are appointed Justices to inquire into offences against the Statutes of Winchester, Northampton, and Westminster made for the preservation of the peace.	30
7	Ingelby, T. de, A. de Shotelyngton, R. de Barnard Castle, and H. Westwyk.	Are commissioned to inquire who entered the Bishop's free warrens and chaces and carried off certain hares, partridges, etc.	30
	Irengray, John - - - -	See Chambre, John del - -	30
7 d'	Jehan, John - - - -	See Kechyn, William del - -	31
9	Ingelby, Thomas de, Roger de Fulthorpe, Hugh de Westwick, William de Elmedene, John de Hyndley, Ralph de Meneville, and John de Elvet.	Commission of the Peace - -	32

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
9	Ingelby, Thomas de, Roger de Fulthorpe, and Thomas Surtas.	Commission of Gaol Delivery	32
9 d'	Jonyson, William, of Clotlem	Receives a pardon for all thefts of wooden and iron plough-gear committed by him.	32
	Ingelby, Thomas de, Knight	Is pardoned for having acquired to himself and his wife Katherine and his heirs for ever, without having previously obtained the Bishop's license, certain lands and messuages in Haughton, Sadberge, and Hurworth-on-Tees.	32
10	Ingelby, Thomas de, Roger de Fulthorpe, William de Elmedene, and John de Hyndeley.	Receive a Commission to try Thomas de Bello Campo, Earl of Warwick, Thomas de Bland, Nicholas de Harwode, clerk, and John de . . . for carrying off certain horses and cows belonging to Hugh de Westwik, clerk, and committing an assault upon his servants.	33
	Joliff, William	See Preston, William de	33
11	Ingram, John, of Sedgefield	See Blaykeston, Hugh, servant of William de.	34
	Johnson, Thomas, del Hill	See Waleys, William	34
11 d'	Jarowe, Juliana de	See Brantyngham, William de	34
12 d'	Jakson, John	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of John Chambre of Clesby.	35
14	Ingelby, Robert de Jopson, Ralph of Coxhowe Ingelby, Thomas de	See Kyowe, William de See Fulthorpe, Roger de	36 36
1	Kellawe, William de, of Chestre Kellawe, William de, of Lomley, and Isabella his widow.	See Hilton, Robert de	21
2	Kellawe, Thomas de, of Norham, to the Bishop.	Recognizance	24
2 d'	Kyllowe, John de	See Wessyngton, William de	24
3 d'	Ketteryng, Peter de, the Bishop's "valetius."	Receives from the Bishop a grant of a messuage and 18 acres of land in Wyrsyde.	26
	Kylyngham, John de	See Couper, John, of Hamsterley	27
4	Kerby, John de, the Bishop's palfreyman.	Receives a grant of a messuage in Esryngton.	28
6	Kellawe, Thomas de, chaplain Kyley, manor of Killynghale, John de	See Gray, Thomas	22
6 d'	Killyngworth, Edmund de, and Katharine his wife.	See Coken, William See Colmers, Robert	29 [illegible]
7	Kyngeston, J. de	See Neville, Ralph de	22
	Kellawe, John de, of Seton Carrowe, to John de Neville, lord of Raby, knight.	Recognizance	22
	Kellawe, William de, del Park	See Claxton, Thomas de	22
	Killerby, John Halt of	See Graystane, William de	30
7 d'	Kirkeby, John de	See Wessyngton, William de	31
	Kechyn, William del, of Overheworth Kechyn, Ranulph del, of Nethirheworth.	At the request of Nicholas de Carren, keeper of the Bishop's privy seal, receive the Bishop's pardon in the matter of the death of John Jehan.	31
8	King, the, to the Bishop	Letter forbidding the latter to exfort, in accordance with a letter from the Pope, procurations from the clergy, and sums of money from the people. (In Latin.)	31
	King, the, to the Bishop	An entry similar to the above, but in French.
9 d'	Kellawe, Robert son of William de, of Lomley.	Receives a pardon for having acquired, without the Bishop's license, certain lands in Lomley and elsewhere, previously held by Isabella his mother, for her life, Thomas Surtays, knight, and Alexander his son also receive a pardon for having similarly acquired the said lands from the said Robert.	33

Digitized by Google

773

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10 d'	Kellawe, William de, chapiain -	See Neville, John de - - -	33
	Kellawe, Great, manor of, land and messuage in.	See Popham, John de - -	33
	Kellawe, John, son and heir of John de.	See Catrik, Roger de - -	34
	Kynilesworth, plot called "Les Morhouses" near.	See Kellawe, Ralph - - -	36
13	Kellawe, William de - - -	Recognizance - - - -	36
14	Krowe, William de, Robert de Ingelby, Richard de Andreby, Ralph Jepson of Coxhowe, John Busse of Coxhowe, and William Milner of Coxhowe, to William de Elmedene and John Conyers, knight.	See Merley, Richard de - -	36
	Kendale, John de - - -	See Conyers, Robert; see Lomley, Robert de.	36
	Kybiesworth, William Symson of -	Receive a pardon for having acquired to them and their heirs for ever, without the Bishop's license, the manor of Edmundsleee from Thomas de Umfraville, and two messuages and land in Sadberge from Robert de Gretham of Sadberge.	36
	Kilinghale, John de, and John de Egglescliffe, junior	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of —— ——, son and heir of William Usher, and (in the event of the said heir's death during minority) of the wardship and marriage of successive heirs until one shall attain full age.	36
	Kerby, John de - - - -	See Eglyn, Gilbert - - -	36
	Katrick, John de - - -	See Yong', John - - -	36
14 d'	Kichyn, Richard del, of Norham	Recognizance - - - -	22
1	Lister, Henry, of Elvet, to John Boynton.	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	23
	Lambard, Alan - - - -	See Neville, Ralph de - -	21
1 d'	Lomley, Marmaduke de, and Robert his son and heir.	See Bedale, Robert de - -	24
2	Lewyn, John - - - -	Receives from the Bishop a grant of four acres of land in "Framwelgate," and other parcels of land formerly in the tenure of John de Reine.	24
	Lewyn, John, of Durham - -	Exemption from service on juries -	24
	Lewyn, John, of Durham, the Bishop's mason.	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of Robert son and heir of Thomas Coxside of Durham, and in the event of the death of said Robert during his minority, a grant of the wardship and marriage of successive heirs until one shall attain full age.	26
3	Lewyn, John of Durham, mason -	Recognizance - - - -	26
	Laton, William de, to William de Merley, senior.	See Wolviston, Richard de - -	27
	Lithom, John de - - -	See Hawyk, Walter de; see Elvet, John de; see Boner, John.	27
	Laneton, Simon de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de (bis) - -	27
	Lewyn, John, of Durham -	See Durham, the prior and convent of.	27
4	"Lithfothoun," in the bailiwick of Durham.	See Rous, John - - - -	28
	London Manor - - - -	Releases, to Thomas son of Gilbert of Lambeton, all his right and claim to the blood and issue of the latter as a "nativus."	28
4 d'	Lambeton, William, son of Robert de, lord of the town of Lambeton.	See Lambeton, William - -	28
	Lambeton, Thomas, son of Gilbert of -	Commission to inquire into infringements of it by servants, workmen, and artisans.	28
5	Labourers, Statute of - - -	Commission to inquire into infringements of it by dealers in provisions, innkeepers, vintners, &c.	28
	Labourers, Statute of - - -	See, in connexion with this subject, Cloths, woollen.	28

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records : Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
5	Lomley, Robert de	See Moubray, John	28
5 d'	Laton, Isabella, daughter and heiress of William de, knicht.	See Perers, Alice	29
6	Ladley Manor	See Gray, Thomas	22
6 d'	Littester, Henry, of Elvet, to Alan de Shotelynton, clerk.	Recognizance	27
	Lomley, Thomas de, and Walter de Ethirdakers, to John de Ogyle.	Recognizance	27
	Laton, William de, to Roger de Fulthorpe.	Recognizance	28
7	Lomley, Marmaduke and Robert de	See Neville, Robert de	32
	Lomley, Thomas de, to John de Sadbergh.	Recognizance	30
	Lomley, Thomas de, to John de Sadbergh.	Recognizance	31
7 d'	Lomley, Thomas de and Katharine his wife.	Receive a license to enfeoff William de Brantyngham, chaplain, and John de Broughton, chaplain, of the manor of Morden, so that the said William and John may re-enfeoff the said Thomas and Katharine of the said manor to them and the heirs of their bodies for ever, with remainder to the right heirs of the said Katharine.	30
8	Ludworth, William de Coxhowe of	See Billey, John de	22
		See Meneville, Thomas de	32
9	Lomley, Thomas de, and John de Broughton of Thornlawe, chaplain, to John de Henley, clerk, and William del Hill, chaplain.	Recognizance	32
9 d'	Laton, William and Elizabeth de	See Perers, Alice de	32
	Leg, John, of Durham	See Fulthorpe, Roger de	33
	Lomley, Robert son of William de Kellawe of, Lomley, lands in.	See Kellawe	33
10	Leventhorpe, John de, chaplain	See Stanhope, Richard de	33
10 d'	Lambard, William	See Claxton, William de	33
11	Lambard, William	See Claxton, William de	33
	Lethom, John de	See Graystanes, William de	34
11 d'	Langchestre, William de	See Henlee, John de	34
	Langchestre, John Fyldyng of	See Fyldyng	34
12	Langchestre, John Fyldyng of	See Fyldyng	35
	Lambard, Alan, and John de Seton of Hartlepool.	Receive a grant of the custody of two thirds of all lands, &c., in Seton Carrowe, formerly belonging to John de Carrowe, during the minority of John son of Thomas Carrowe, cousin and heir of the said John.	35
	Lufferam, John de	See Carrowe, Thomas de	36
12 d'	Langton, Thomas, son and heir of Simon de.	See Popham, John de	35
13	Lomley, William de Lardener, William Lethom John de	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
		See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	36
	Lambton, William de, and Alice his wife, and their family. Lambton manor.	See Brantyncham, Ralph	36
13 d'	Legge, John	See Dryng, Peter	36
	Luge, John de la, to William de Elmedene, junior.	Recognizance	36
14	Lomley, Robert de Lomley, Marmaduke de	See Conyers, Robert	36
	Lomley, Robert de Lomley Marmaduke. to Robert Conyers, knight, John Scruteville, John de Belasis, and William Symson of Kybleworth.	Recognizance	36
	Lambard, William	See Brunton, Cecilia	36
	Lee, John atte	See Henley, John de	36
	London, chapel
14 d'	Luge, John del	See Burdon, John de	36
	Lampton, William de	Exemption from service on juries	36
1	Moreton (East), manor	See Nesbit, Thomas de	21
	Merynton, John de, Richard de Parco, senior, and John de Gateway, to Richard de Barnard Castle.	Recognizance	22

Digitized by Google

775

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
1	Menevill, William de - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	23
	Mordon, William de, to - - -	Recognisance - - - -	23
	Menevill, William de, sheriff of Durham.	See Newton, Adam de -	23
1 d'	Marton, William de, vicar of the church of Heildene, and John Forster of Elvet.	Being entitled to the reversion of the manor of Herdewyk-on-sea upon the death of John de Ogrie, and Margaret his wife, grant the said reversion to Richard de Aske, John de Aske, William Benet of Newton, and Richard de Gunnays, their heirs and assigns for ever.	21
	Marton, William de, vicar of the church of Heildene, and John Forster of Elvet.	Receive a pardon for having acquired from John de Ogrie and Margaret his wife, without the Bishop's license, the manor of Herdewyk-on-sea, held of the Bishop in capite. John and Margaret de Ogrie, Richard and John de Aske, and William Benett of Newton also receive a pardon for the acquisition by the said John and Margaret from the said William de Marton and John Forster, of a life interest in the said manor without the Bishop's license. Richard and John de Aske, William Benett, and Richard Gunnays also receive a pardon for the acquisition of the reversion of the said manor without the Bishop's license, and the settlement is confirmed.	21
2	Merryngton, John, son of Richard de, John de Wodom, Richard de Redworth, and Thomas Hunter, to John, Prior of Durham.	Recognisance - - - -	23
	Medmesley, William de Felton's lands in.	See Hilton, Robert de - -	24
	Mordon, William de, to John, Prior of Durham.	Recognisance - - - -	24
2 d'	Merton, John son of Richard de, of Middilherryngton, and John his son.	See Haverryngton, John de - -	24
	Menevill, William de, escheator of Durham.	See Neville, Alexander de -	26
	Menevill, Thomas de, and John de Bilie, to John de Ogrie.	Recognisance - - - -	26
	Merley, William de - - -	See Laton, William de - -	26
	Menevill, William de - - -	See Hexham, Thomas de - -	27
	Maudayr, John, son of John - -	See Blaykeston, William de -	27
3 d'	Middilton, Lucy, relict of Thomas de	Releases to John de Hyndeley of Hedlam, his heirs and assigns, all her right and claim to a burgage in "Newgate," in the town of Barnard Castle as well as to a toft with croft and six acres of land in Westwyk.	26
	Middilton, Thomas, son and heir of Thomas de, of Westwyk.	Releases to John de Hyndeley of Hedlam the above-mentioned burgage, etc., but the land in Westwyk is said to consist of seven acres.	26
	Moubray, John, Thomas de Ingelby, Alan de Shotelington, Roger de Fulthorpe, Richard de Barnard Castle, and William de Menevill.	Are commissioned to enquire into an alleged mis-application of certain rents destined for the maintenance and repair of Durham Bridge.	26
	Menevill, William de - -	See Moubray, John - -	26
	Middilham, John de, "vallettus" of the Bishop's chamber.	Receives a grant of the office of pounder of all the demesne lands of the manor of Houdene.	27
4	Marchegall, William -	Receives a pardon for having stolen 51 sheep, which belonged to John de Whistan, and 4 sheep which belonged to Gilbert, son of Henry de Ray (value 1s. each.)	27
4 d'	Mowbray, John - - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	28
6	Moubray, John, Thomas de Ingelby, Alan de Shotelyngton, Roger de Fulthorpe, Robert de Umfranville, Richard de Barnard Castle, Robert de Lomley, William de Elmedene, and Walter de Hawyk.	Are commissioned to enquire concerning infringements of the Statute of Labourers by servants, workmen, artizans, dealers in provisions, etc.	26

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records : Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
6	Macy, John - - - -	Receives from the Bishop a grant of a messuage and two acres of land in Haunsterly, formerly belonging to Philip de Preston, a felon.	29
7	Menville, John de - -	See Graystans, William de - -	30
	Middleham, William de Franceys, vicar of the church of.	See Farnham, William de - -	30
	Merley, John de - -	To the Bishop. Recognizance -	31
7 d	Merley, William de, junior -
	Mordon manor - - - -	See Lomley, Thomas de - -	30
	Merley, Robert de - - -	See Valley, John de - -	31
8	Meneville, Thomas de, to John de Billey, Ralph de Maltby, Walter de Ethirdacres, and William de Coxhowe of Ludworth.	Recognizance - - - -	32
	Maltby, Ralph de - -	See Meneville, Thomas de - -	32
		See Billey, John de - - -	32
9	Meneville, Ralph de - - -	See Ingleby, Thomas de - -	32
9 d	Merington, Robert, son of Richard de, to John Verti of Auckland.	Recognizance - - -	32
	Macham, John - - - -	See Asseby, William de - -	33
10	Morton, William de, to John Conyers, knight.	Recognizance - - - -	33
	Maddison, William - - -	See Westwik, Alan de - -	33
	Middleham, John de - - -	Receives a grant of a messuage and land in Redworth which escheated to the Bishop on the death of Alan Trewe of Redworth without heirs.	33
	Middleham, John de - - -	Receives a grant of messuage and land in Redworth, which escheated to the Bishop by reason of a felony committed by John Storour of Redworth.	33
	Morehouses, Les, near Kynilsworth -	See Catrik, Roger de -	33
11	Maulevérer, Richard, parson of the church of Fisshelake, Henry son of William de Percy, Robert Maulevérer, William de Westeley, Robert Daldeford, chaplain, Robert de Midhope, and John de Bank.	In consideration of a fine of 20*l.* made by Isabella widow of Richard Tempest, knight, receive a pardon for having acquired, without license, from Richard Tempest, knight, the manor of Trefford. The said Richard Tempest and Isabella are also pardoned for having acquired without license from the said Richard Maulevérer and others, the said manor to themselves, and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to the right heirs of the said Richard Tempest.	34
	Maulevérer, Robert - -	See Maulevérer, Richard - -	34
	Midhope, Robert - -
	Morton, William de - - -	See Coxhowe, Hugh de - -	34
12	Muston, Stephen de - - -	See Arrowsmith, John - -	35
	Macy, John, junior - - -	Receives a grant of the office of parker of the park of Chabyngton for life.	35
	Moulton, Thomas de - - -	See Surtays, Alexander - -	35
	Merley, John de - - -	See Billey, John de - - -	35
	Maltby, Ralph de - - -
12 d	Mortymer . . . . . de, and Thomas de Birtley, to John de Henlee, parson of the Church of Sedgefield.	Recognizance - - - -	35
	Merryngton, William de - - -	See Bothe, Roger del - - -	35
13	Marsham, Robert de - -
	Marjory, Thomas, son of, and Marjory his wife.	See Durham, &c., Prior and Convent of.	34
	Monk - Hazeldean, messuages, and land in.
	Morehous, Le, &c., in Sponygrmore -
13 d	Merlay, John de, to William de Elmedene, junior.	Recognizance - - - -	36
14	Milner, William, of Coxhowe - -	See Kyowe, William de - -	36
	Merley, Richard de, to Thomas del Castell and John de Kendale	Recognizance - - - -	36
	Midlam, John de - - -	Receives a grant for life of the office of "Mesnor" of the manor of Midlam.	36
	Midlam, Manor, Mesnor of - -	See Midlam, John de - -	36
	Morgan, John - - - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Isabella	36
14 d	Merley, William de, junior - -
	Merley, John de - - -	See Burdon, John de - - -	36
	Makand, John - - - -

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
1 d'	Morley, William de, junior - -	Receives a grant for life of the offices of parker of the park of Walsingham and Westrop, and forester of Rushsideward, in the forest of Werdale.	36
	Macy, John - - - -	Receives a grant for life of the office of apparitor in Northumberland, formerly held by John de Bather.	36
1	Nesbit, Thomas de - - -	Releases to William de Rimedene, and Jane his wife, all his right and claim to the manors of East Moreton and Trillesdene.	21
	Nesbit, Demesne lands of - - Newsom, William Benet of - - Newsom, Adam de, Thomas Chauncelor, Roger de Byshopton, Gilbert de Tours, and Thomas de Hertilpol, to William de Meneville, Sheriff of Durham.	See Aske, Richard - - -	23 23
1 d'	Newsom, William Benet of - -	See Marton, William de - -	21
	Neville, Ralph de, Lord of Raby -	Receives a grant of the custody of all the lands of Marmaduke de Lomley, knight, in the county of Durham, and the wapentake of Sadberge, during the minority of Robert, son and heir of the said Marmaduke, and so on from heir to heir until one shall arrive at full age.	21
2	Neville, John de, Lord of Raby -	Receives a grant of the manor of Wynlaxton, on condition of rendering certain services to the Bishop in time of peace, and serving against the Scots on the marches of Scotland in time of war.	23
	Neville, Alexander, son of Ralph, son of Ralph de.	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	23
3	Neville, Alexander de, Archdeacon of Durham, to William de Meneville, Escheator of the Bishop of Durham.	Recognisance - - - -	26
4 d'	Neville, Dame Alice de - -	See Belgrave, John de - -	28
	Norham Castle, Constable of - -	See Dagworth, Nicholas de - -	?
5	Norham, appointment of Justices for the county of.	See Heron, John - - -	29
	Neubiggyng, Robert Gray of - -	See Heron, John de - - -	29
	Neubiggyng, Agnes, daughter of William Pattonson of.
	Neubiggyng, John de, Dean of Lanchester.	See Pattonson - - - -	29
	Neubiggyng, Hugh de - - -	See Pattonson, Agnes - - -	29
5 d'	Newsom, Alan de - - -
6	Norham, land in - - - -	See Gray, Thomas - - -	22
	Neubiggyng, Robert Gray of - - Neuhaid Manor - - -
	Northampton, statute of - -	See Ingelby, Thomas de - -	30
	Neville, John de, Lord of Raby -	See Herdwik, John de - - -	27
6 d'	Norton, Thomas de, Chaplain - -	See Cosgrove, Robert - - -	2..
7	Neville, John de, Knight - -	See Claxton, Thomas de - -	30
	Neville, Ralph de, Lord of Raby -	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of Robert, son and heir of Marmaduke de Lomley, and of successive heirs, until one shall attain full age.	22
	Neville, Ralph de - - -	Has the Bishop's receipt for 40 marks paid by the hands of J. de Kyngeston the Bishop's receiver for the above-mentioned wardship.	22
	Neville, John de, Lord of Raby, knight.	See Kellawe, John de - - -	22
7 d'	Nunwel, William de, of Darlington -	Receives a general pardon - -	21
8	Norham Vicarage - - -	See Durham, the Chaplain, Prior, and Convent of.	31
9 d'	Neuscome, Thomas de - - - Neville, John de - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	33
10	Norton, Robert Dobynson of - -	See Fourman, William - -	33

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject	Year of Pontificate.
10	Notton, John de, barber, yeoman of the Bishop's chamber.	Receives a grant for life of the office of forester of the Bishop's parks and woods of Clak, Cotcliff, and all others in Alvertonshire, and a grant for life of the office of warrener of all the Bishop's warrens in Alvertonshire.	33
10 d'	Neville, John de, knight, Lord of Raby.	Receives a license to erect a castle on his manor of Raby.	33
	Neville, John de - - - -	Receives a pardon for having acquired without the Bishop's license (1) from John de Broughton, Stephen de Swyne, and William de Kellawe, chaplains, half the manor of Birtley, and certain reversions appertaining to it after the death of Eleanor, wife of John de Seton, and the heirs of her body; (2), from the same, the third part of the manor of Great Kellawe, and a messuage and land in Great Kellawe; (3), from John de Hedlom, and John de Dalton half the manor of Shirmeton to be held to the said John de Neville, and Thomas de Clarton, and the heirs of the said John de Neville; (4), from John de Broughton, chaplain, and Thomas de Bicheburne, the manor of Heley; (5), from John de Strecelyn, knight, the manor of Cambhous for the term of the life of John de Strecelyn; (6), from Elias de Herford, a burgage and land in Darlington; (7), from William de Okerby and Alice his wife, a burgage in Darlington, the whole to be held to the said John de Neville and his heirs for ever, except where otherwise stated.	33
	Nicson, John, of Heworth - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of John de Shipley.	34
11	Norton, William Taillifour of - -	See Walker, Henry -	34
	Neville, John de, Lord of Raby, and John Fairefax, clerk.	Receive a pardon for having, without the Bishop's license, acquired to themselves and their heirs, from John, son of Roger de Belgrave, the manor of Ozenhall.	34
	Neville, John de, Lord of Raby -	Receives a license to hold a market weekly on Tuesdays, and a fair annually on the eve of the translation of St. Thomas the Martyr, and two following days in his vill of Stayndrop.	34
11 d'	Nesbyt manor - - - -	See Henlee, John de - - -	34
12	Norton, Richard de - - -	See Surtays, Alexander - -	35
12 d'	Norton, Vicar of - - - -	See Billeston, John de - -	35
1	Ogyle, John and Margaret de - -	See Aske, Richard - - -	22
1 d'	Ogyle, John and Margaret de - -	See Marton, William de (bis)	21
	Ogyle, John and Margaret de - -	See Vaus, John de - -	23
2	Oulneby, Ralph de Neville's lands in -	See Faithorpe, Roger de - -	22
2 d'	Ogle, Thomas and Katharine de -	See Hatfeld, John de - -	23
3	Ogle, John de - - - -	See Meneville, Thomas de - -	26
	Ogle, [John Dogle] - - -	See Blaykeston, William de - -	27
	Ogyle, John de - - - -	See Rure, Ralph de - -	27
3 d'	Ouldham, Adam de - - -	See Page, John - - -	26
6	Orde fishery - - - -	See Gray, Thomas - - -	22
	Orgle, Robert, son of Robert de
6 d'	Ogyle, John de - - - -	See Faithorpe, Roger de - -	22
		See Lomley, Thomas de - -	27
	Orchard, William del - - -	See Annotson, William - -	28
7 d'	Ozenhall, Henry de, to William de Bristall, parson of the Church of Houghton.	Recognizance - - - -	31
d'	Orchard, William del, clerk, and John de Stokton, clerk, to William de Elmedene.	Recognizance - - - -	32
10 d'	Okerby, William de and Alice his wife.	See Neville, John de - - -	33

Digitized by Google

779

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
11	Ozenhall Manor - - - -	See Neville, John de - - -	34
11 d'	Ok, Thomas del - - -	See Henlee, John de - - -	34
	Orchard, William del - - -
	Owengate (Durham), plot or place in.	See Wham, Thomas del - -	33
13	Ogle, John de - - - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Orchcard, Le, in Wolveston - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
1	Percebrig, John de - - -	Releases to John de Hedlom all right and claim to certain land in the vill of Hedlom.	21
	Parco, Richard de - - -	See Merynston, John de - -	22
	Plummer, John, of Newcastle-on-Tyne.	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	33
2	Pymond, William - - -	See Sadler, Robert - -	33
	Pollard, John, le Pier - - -	See Heighacre, Robert - -	34
3	Parco, Richard de, senior, to John de Rivet.	Recognizance - - - -	27
3 d'	Paco, John - - - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Adam de Quitham.	26
4	Pole, William del, and Katharine his wife.	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	27
4 d'	Percy, Henry de - - - -	See Whitworth, John de - -	28
	Pencher, Robert Dounyng of - - Beawe of - -	See Dounyng - - - -	27
5 d'	Perers, Alice - - - -	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of Isabella daughter and heiress of William de Laton, knight, and in the event of her dying before attaining her majority the wardship and marriage of successive heirs until one shall attain full age.	29
	Perers, Alice - - - -	Receives a grant of the marriage of Margaret widow of Thomas Gray, knight, the said Margaret having married again without the Bishop's license.	29
	Pattonson, Agnes, daughter of William, of Neubiggyng.	Grants to Hugh de Westwyk all the lands, tenements, &c., in Barnard Castle and Whitynton which descended to her upon the death of John de Newbiggyng, formerly Dean of Lanchester, after the death of Hugh de Newbiggyng her brother.	29
	Pattonson, Agnes, daughter of William, of Neubiggyng.	Gives power of attorney to Alan de Newsom to give Hugh de Westwyk seisin of her lands in Barnard Castle and Whitynston.	29
6	Preston, Philip de - - -	See Macy, John - - -	29
	Pressene, Margaret daughter of William de.	See Gray, Thomas - - -	22
	Parco, Richard de - - -	See Ingelby, Thomas de - -	30
6 d'	Pityngton, Thomas de - - -	See Barker, Walter - -	28
		See Barker, Walter - -	29
	Pavilion Manor - - -	See Colgners, Robert - -	2[illegible]
7	Park, Thomas de Kellawe del -	See Clarton, Thomas del - -	22
	Pelegrim, Raymond - - -	See Chambre, John del - -	30
7 d'	Fulter, Robert - - -	See Tudhowe, Thomas de - -	31
	Fulter, John - - - -	See Robertson, William - -	31
8	Pope, The - - - -	See King, The - - -	31
8 d'	Pott, Thomas - - - -	Receives a grant of the offices of Janitor and Pounder of the Manor of Allerton, together with the custody of Allerton Gaol.	32
9 d'	Perers, Alice de - - - -	Having granted to Roger de Fulthorpe, knight, the wardship and marriage of Elizabeth daughter and heiress of William de Laton, previously granted to her by the Bishop, her grant to the said Roger is confirmed by the Bishop.	32
	Pikbusk, William - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	33
	Popham, John de - - -	Receives a grant of all the Bishop's estate in the lands formerly belonging to Thomas Chaumberleyn in Cashop.	33

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10	Preston, William de, of Elvet - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of William Joliff of Elvet, Arrowsmith.	33
10 d'	Popham, John de - -	Receives from the Bishop a grant of a place called "Le Wodhous," in the parish of Auckland.	33
	Popham, John de - - -	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of John son and heir of John de Kellawe, and of successive heirs until one shall attain full age.	33
	Popham, John de - - -	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of John son and heir of Thomas de Haddam, and of successive heirs, until one shall attain full age.	33
11	Percy, Henry, son of William de -	See Mauleverer, Richard - -
11 d'	Popham, John de - - -	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of John son and heir of John Fossour, and, in the event of the said John's death during minority, of the wardship and marriage of successive heirs until one shall attain full age.
	Popham, John de - - -	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of William son and heir of William Bruys.	34
	Popham, John de - - -	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of Hugh son and heir of Thomas de Hexham, and, in the event of the said Hugh's death during minority, the wardship and marriage of successive heirs until one shall attain full age.	34
	Popham, John de - - -	See Fyldyng, John - - -	34
	Punfrait, Alice Todd, formerly wife of John de.	See Todd - - - -	34
12	Plays, William, the Bishop's Esquire -	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of successive heirs of Thomas de Seynt Quyntyn, knight, until one shall attain full age.	36
	Pountays Bridge - - -	See Surtays, Alexander - -	35
12 d'	Popham, John de - - -	See Bekrawe, John de - -	35
	Popham, John de - - -	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of Thomas son and heir of Simon de Langton, and in the event of the said Thomas's death during minority, of successive heirs until one shall attain full age.	35
	Popham, John de - - -	Receives a grant of the office of Chief Forester of Werdale together with the supervision of the parks of Evenwode and Auckland.	35
13	Pythyngton, North, lands in - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
14	Pythyngton, Alexander de - -
	Popham, John de, the Bishop's nephew	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of Thomas son and heir of Alexander Surteys, and (in the event of the said heir's death during minority) of successive heirs until one shall attain full age.	36
14 d'	Pixlay, William - - - -	See Burdon John de - - -	36
	Popham, John de - - -	See Hornby, John de - -	36
	Polawe, John, son of Robert de -	Releases to William de Elmedene, senior, Jane his wife, and Thomas de Elmedene, the manor of Polawe.	36
	Polawe Manor - - - -	See Polawe, John son of Robert de.
4 d'	Quickham - - - -	See Whicham - - - -	28
5 d'	Quickham, the Bishop's coal mines at	See Bekrawe, John de - -	29
7 d'	Quickham, the Bishop's coal mines at	See Grey, Margaret - - -	31
12 d'	Quitechirche, Richard de - -	See Brantyngham, Walter de -	33
1	Ravensworth, Alan de, John Coke of Ebchester, and Thomas de Tudhowe of Gateshead to the Bishop.	Recognisance - - - -	21
1 d'	Redburh, Hugh del - - -	See Bradley, Alice - - -	21
	Reby, Ralph de Neville, Lord of -	See Neville - - - -	21

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
1	Redhugh, Hugh del - - -	See Burneton, John de (bis) - -	23
2	Redworth, Richard de - - -	See Merrington, John - -	23
	Raby, John de Neville, Lord of -	See Neville - - -	23
	Reline, John de - - - -	See Lewyn, John - - -	24
4	Ray, Henry de - - - -	See Marchepail, William - -	27
	Rous, John, citizen of London -	Receives a grant of the custody of the manor of London [written in error for Houdon?], and is to receive 4*d.* per diem out of the rents and issues of the lordship of Houdenshire.	28
	Redworth, messuage and land in -	See Stokton, John de - - -	28
4 d	Ryley, free warren in - - -	See Barnard Castle, Richard de -	23
6	Rosse manor - - - -	See Gray, Thomas - - -	22
	Rouley, land in - - - -
6 d	Raby, John de Neville, lord of -	See Herdwik, John de - -	27
	Roter, Thomas, janitor of Durham -	See Barker, Walter - - -	28
	Raby, Richard Chaumbrleyn of -	See Testard, Henry - - -	29
7	Richemond, Richard de - -	See Cirezi, Thomas - - -	30
	Redmarshill, parson of the church of	See Neville - - - -	22
	Raby, Ralph de Neville, lord of -	See Kellawe, John de - -	22
	Raby, John de Neville, lord of -	Recognizance - - - -	31
7 d	Robertson, William, of Barneston, to John Pulter of Durham.
	Robertson, William, of Barneton -	See Standhupright, William - -	31
	Robertson, William - - -	See Stuvt, Rowr - - -	31
9 d	Raby Park - - - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	33
10	Richemond, Juliana widow of John de Ravensworth, William, son of Stephen de.	See Sawsery, John del - -	33
	Ravensworth, Thomas de Derlyngton of.	See Coke, John - - -	33
	Redworth, Alan Trewe of - -
	Redworth, messuages and lands in -	See Middleham, John de - -	33
10 d	Raby Castle, Bishop's license for the erection of.	See Neville, John de - - -	33
11	Raby, John de Neville, lord of -	See Neville - - - -	34
13	Raddyng, William del, and Margaret his wife.	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Rylly Manor - - - - -
14	Rome, John de - - - -	Receives a grant for life of the office of chief Apparitor of the Bishop's Consistory.	36
14 d	Robynneson, John - - -	See Bardon, John de - - -	36
1	Surtays, Thomas, to Thomas Hatfield, the Bishop.	Recognizance - - - -	21
	Shirneton, demesne lands of - -	See Aske, Richard - - -	22
1 d	Surtays, Thomas - - - -	See Hilton, Robert de - -	21
	Sholyngton, Alan de - - -	See Alverton, John de - -	21
	Shynnam, Thomas and John, sons of Allen de.	See Burneton, John de (bis) -	23
2	Sadler, Robert of Durham, to William Pymond of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -	23
	Swinbourne, Thomas de - -	See Hilton, Robert de - -	24
	Shephirdson, Robert, of Hamsterley, to Richard de Barnard Castle.	Recognizance - - - -	24
2 d	Spenser, Richard - - -	See Bishop, John - - -	23
	Smyth, John - - - -	See Taylour, William - - -	24
3	Sadberge, assises at - - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	26
	Shirburne, John Romer of - -	See Boner, John, - - -	27
	Surtays, Thomas, knight - -	See Eure, Ralph de (bis) - -	27
	Sadberg, John de - - -
3 d	Shinchiffe Bridge - - -	See Mowbray, John de - -	26
	Sholelynston, Alan de - -
	Sadberge and Durham, office of the sheriff of.	See Umfravill, Robert - -	27
	Sadberge and Durham, gaol delivery of.	See Umframville, Robert de - -	27
	Surtays, Thomas - - -
4	Sourby, John de - - - -	See Daldene, Jordan; see Daldene, Gilbert de.	27
	Scot, Oswald - - - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Thomas del Hopehous.	28
	Smytheton, Ranulph de - -	See Alayn, Ranulph - - -	28
	Stokton, John de, the Bishop's servant	Receives a grant of a messuage and land in Redworth.	28
4 d	Sokburn - - - - -	See Colgners, John de - -	28
	Starnes, free warren in - -
	Stanlawman, Richard, of Blaykeston	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Philip Coke.	28

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
4 d	Shotelynaton, Alan de, seneschal of Durham.	Receives from the Bishop a grant of the reversion of a messuage in Houden, held by Thomas Benegt, parson of Sigyston, for life.	28
	Shephed, William a hermit	Receives a grant in pure alms of a piece of waste land (80 feet long and 40 feet broad), on which he is to build a messuage, and for which he is to pay a penny per annum during his life.	28
5	Shotelynaton, Alan de Swynhowe, Walter de Stockton, the Bishop's free warren in	See Ingelby, Thomas de See Mowbray, John See Heron, John	28 28 29
	Seton, John, son of Alice daughter of Thomas de.	See Carrowe, John and Thos. de	29
	Swynhowe, Walter de Surtays, Thomas Subeldy, collection of	See Heron, John de	29
5 d	Scot, Nicholas	See Belgrave, John de	29
6 d	Shotelynaton, Alan de, clerk	See Littester, Henry See Barker, Walter See Barker, Walter	27 28 29
	Shurneton, William de
	Scurby, William de	See Colgnern, Robert	2
7	Shotelyngton, A. de Sadberg, John de Stoatley, Thomas de	See Ingelby, T. de See Blakdene, William de	30 30
	Seton Carrowe, John de Kellawe of Spryng, Alice widow of John, knight Skrymerston Manor	See Kellawe See Claxton, Thomas de	22 22
	Swynhowe, William de, and Robert his son.	See Heron, Gerard	30
	Sadbergh, John de	See Lomley, Thomas de See Lomley, Thomas de	30 31
7 d	Seham, William de Seton-by-Seham, messuage and land in.	See Hadham, Thomas de	30
	Standhupright, William, to William Robertson of Barmeton.	Recognizance	31
	Swynhowe, Walter de Surtays, Thomas Snowi, Roger son of William	See Heron, John See Wessington, William de Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of William Robirtson.	31 31 31
8	Sadberge, John de, to John de Barnard Castle.	Recognizance	32
	Sadberge, John Surtas, Thomas Stokton, John de, clerk	See Hawyk, Walter de See Ingelby, Thomas de See Orchard, William del	32 32 32
9 9 d	Sedgefield, Thomas del Hall of	See Hall, Thomas del	32
	Stokton, John de, clerk Sadberge, lands and messuages in Surtays, Thomas	See Ingelby, Thomas de See Fulthorpe, Roger de; see Kellawe, Robert son of William de.	32 33
	Slyngesby, William de	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of William servant of John de Hartlepool.	33
10	Stanhope, Richard de, of Newcastle-on-Tyne.	Receives a license to enfeoff John de Leventhorpe and John de Eland, chaplains of his lands, tenements, etc., in Great and Little Usworth. The said John and John are to re-enfeoff the said Richard and Alice his wife of the said lands, etc., to them and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to the right heirs of the said Richard.	33
	Sedgefield, John de Henley, parson of the church of.	See Belgrave, John de	33
	Sawery, John del	Receives a grant of a messuage and land in North Auckland and a messuage and land in Hunwick, which escheated to the Bishop because Juliana widow of John de Richmond was a bastard.	33
	Sansmer, Richard Sayning, John Storour, John, of Redworth	See Coke, John See Goldsmyth, John See Middleham, John de	33 33 33
10 d	Sayne, Stephen de Seton, Eleanor wife of John de Streuelyn, John de Shurneton Manor	See Neville, John de	33

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records : Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10 d'	Stanlawmas, Richard - - -	See Draper, John - - -	33
	Shipley, John de - - -	See Nicson, John - - -	34
	Somerhous, John de - - -	See Houghton, John de - -	33
11	Sedgefield, Gilbert Ingram of - -	See Blaykeston, Hugh, servant of William de.	34
	Sedgefield, William de Baseley of -	See Baseley - - - -	34
	Sedgefield, John Gretwood of -
	Stokton, John de - - -	See Hotheworth, Richard de -	34
	Swalwell, William de - - -
	Stayndrop, market and fair - -	See Neville, John de - - -	34
11 d'	Stokton, John de, to the Bishop -	Recognizance - - - -	34
	Stratton, Thomas de - - -	See Henlee, John de - - -	34
12	Stanlawman, Richard - - -	See Heron, John - - -	35
	Semer, William de, of Seham, to, the Prior of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -	35
	Seham, William de Semer of - -	See Semer.
	Seyntqwyntyn, Thomas de, knight -	See Plays, William - - -	35
	Seton, John de, of Hartlepool -
	Seton Carrowe, John de Carrowe's lands in.	See Lambard, Alan - - -	35
	Seton-Carrowe, messuages, lands, and salt mines in.	See Carrowe, Thomas de - -	36
	Surtays, Alexander - - -	Receives a license to grant to Thomas de Monkton and Richard de Norton, chaplains, ten marks of rent for the augmentation of the sustentation of the said chaplains and their successors in the church of Ditensale, and for services for the souls of Thomas Surtays, knight, and his ancestors and heirs, subject to the deduction of one mark for the repair of Fountayn Bridge.	35
	Surtays, Thomas - - - -	See Surtays, Alexander - -	35
	Sadberch, John de - - -	See Billey, John de - - -	35
12 d'	Sedgefield, John de Henlee, parson of	See Mortimer . . . . . de ; see Hakthorpe, John de.	35
13	Skipwyth, John - - - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Symon, John, son of - - - Syre, William - - - - Spounymore, "Le Morehous" in -
	"Stereseland," in Wolveston - -	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	"Southwykland" in North Pryttyngton.
13 d'	Skarburth, John de, of Durham, to William de Elmedene, senior, Nicholas Coke, and Thomas de Tuddowe of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -	35
14	Stapilton, Peter de, clerk, William Wrieffel, and Richard son of Peter de Fery, to the Bishop.	Recognizance - - - -	36
	Scrutevile, John de - - -	See Convers, Robert ; see Lomley, Robert de.	36
	Symson, William, of Kyblesworth -
	Shirburne, Thomas de Bernelby, Master of the Hospital of.	See Alverton, John de - -	36
	Sadberge, two messuages and land in	See Killinghale, John de - -	36
	Sadberge, Thomas de Gretham of -
	Surteys, Thomas, son of Alexander de	See Popham, John de - -	36
	Stafford, Thomas de and Alice his wife.	See Eglyu, Gilbert - - -	36
	Sedgefield, common oven - -	See Broughton, William de - -	36
	Sawcrie, John del - - -	Receives a grant for life of the office of sub-forester of Bradewode.	36
14 d'	Shephirdsone, Robert - - -	See Burdon, John de - - -	36
	Saltley, John de Chestre of - -	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	36
	Segefelde (passim) - - -	See Sedgefield.
1	Trilleedene Manor - - -	See Nesbit, Thomas de - -	21
	Tudhowe, Thomas de - - -	See Ravensworth, Alan de - -	21
	Trilleedene Manor - - -	See Elmedene, William de - -	21
	Tours, Gilbert de - - - -	See Newsom, Adam de - -	23
1 d'	Tudhowe, John Forester's lands in -	See Forester - - - -	23
2 d'	Thirkley, Thomas de Ogle's lands in -	See Hatfield, John de - -	23
	Taylleur, William, of Bisshopton -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of John Smyth of the same place, whom he had killed in self-defence.	34

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
3	Todowe, William de - - -	Receives a grant of the wardship and marriage of Margaret daughter and heiress of Robert Fisshe of West Auckland, and, in the event of her death during her minority, a grant of the wardship and marriage of successive heirs until one shall attain full age.	26
3 d'	Tees, river, salmon fishery in - -	Commission to investigate charges of taking salmon and samlets during the fence months.	26
	Trilleadene Manor - - -	See Elmedene, John - - -	27
4	Tibbe, John, of Durham - -	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Thomas Bryan of North Shirburne.	27
3 d'	Tychill, William, son and heir of Gilbert de, of Heryngton.	Grants to John de Dalton an annuity of 1*l.*, payable out of the lands in East Heryngton and Middle Heryngton, which he has granted to John son of John de Heryngton by another deed.	29
	The same - - - - - -	Releases to John de Dalton all his right and claim to the above-mentioned annuity.	29
6 d'	Testard, Henry, of Cletlom, to Richard Chaumbrleyn of Raby.	Recognizance - - - -	29
7	Tayllour, John, of Hilton - -	See Graystanes, William de - -	30
7 d'	Tudhowe, Thomas de, Fleashewer, of Durham, Robert Pulser of Durham, and Roger de Darlington to the Bishop.	Recognizance - - - -	31
9	Thornlawe, John de Broughton of, chaplain.	See Lomley, Thomas de - -	33
9 d'	Todd, William - - - - -}	See Fulthorpe, Roger de - -	33
	Thomson, John, of Filerawe - -}
10	Trewe, Alan, of Redworth - -	See Middleham, John de - -	33
11	Taillour, William, of Norton - -	See Walker, Henry - -	34
	Tollerton, John de - - -	Receives from the Bishop a grant for life of the office of Parker of the Park of Ferwik.	34
	Tempest, Richard, knight - -}
	Tempest, Isabella - - -}	See Maulevrer, Richard - -	34
	Trafford Manor - - - -}
11 d'	Todd, Alice, formerly wife of John de Punfrait, smith.	Releases to Thomas son of William de Elmedene a messuage and land in Elmedene.	34
12	Tod, William - - - - -	See Yonge, Thomas - - -	33
12 d'	Twysill Manor - - - - -	See Bothe, Roger del - - -	35
13	Tyllyng, Adam - - - -}	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Tours, Thomas - - - -}
13 d'	Tudhowe, Thomas de, of Durham -	See Skarburgh, John de - -	35
	Tebeone, William, of Walsingham, to William de Elmedene, junior.	Recognizance - - - -	36
14 d'	Thomsone, John, of Feildraw - -	See Burden, John de - - -	36
	Tykhill, Roger - - - -	See Hornby, John de - - -	36
1 d'	Vaus, John de, son and heir of Nicholas de.	Releases to John de Ogle all right and claim to the lands descending to him upon the death of his mother Alice.	23
2 d'	Umframville, Robert de, knight -	Receives a grant of free warren in all his demesne lands of Fernacres in the county of Durham.	24
3 d'	Umframville, Robert de, knight -	Receives a grant of the office of Sheriff of Durham and Sadberge.	27
	Umframville, Robert de, Thomas Surtays, Roger de Fulthorpe, and John de Elvet.	Are appointed Justices for the gaol delivery of Durham and Sadberge. The commission, however, does not extend to the case of five prisoners charged with manslaughter.	27
4 d'	Verty, John, yeoman of the Bishop's kitchen.	Receives from the Bishop a grant of three messuages in the vill of Darlington and of a cottage and garden in Northgate in the same vill, all of which had escheated to the Bishop upon the death of Richard de Hadyngton, vicar of the church of Darlington, without heirs.	28
5	Umframville, Robert de - -	See Mowbray, John - - -	28

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
7 d'	Valley, John de, to Robert de Merley	Recognizance	21
9 d'	Verti, John, of Auckland	See Merington, Robert, son of Richard de.	32
10	Usewerth, Great and Little, lands, &c. in.	See Stanhope, Richard de	33
14	Umfraville, Thomas de	See Killinghale, John de	26
	Ussher, William	See Kerby, John de	36
	Verte, John	See Burdon, John de	36
1	Whiteworth, John de	See Carowe, John de	22
1 d'	Wright, John, of Alverton	See Alverton	21
2	Wodom, John de	See Herrynton, John	23
2 d'	Wessyngton, William de	Receives a license to enfeoff John de Ashby, and John de Kyllowe of twenty marcates of land and rent in Wessyngton. The said John de Ashby and John de Kyllowe also receive the Bishop's license to re-enfeoff the said William de Wessyngton and Alice his wife, and the heirs of their bodies, of the said land and rent, with remainder to the right heirs of the said William for ever.	24
3	Wolviston, Richard de, to William de Graystanes, John de Lithom, Hugh de Chilton, and John de Bamburgh.	Recognizance	27
3 d'	Walleworth, lands in.	See Barton, Henry de	26
	Westeyk, Thomas and Lucy de Middilton's toft and land in.	See Middleton, Lucy de; see Middleton, Thomas de.	26
	Wyzsyde, messuage and land in	See Kotering, Peter de	26
4	Westwick, Hugh de	See Bowes, William de; see Baldene, Jordan.	27
	Whalton, Robert de	Receives a license to enfeoff Thomas de Brakenbury and Hugh de Chilton of the Manor of Crouxdale and 3s serve of land in Querrygadene, so that they may re-enfeoff the said Robert and Jane his wife, John de Henley, and Roger de Whaleby of the said manor and lands, to be held to them and the heirs of the said John and Roger for ever.	27
	Whaleby, Roger de	See Whalton, Robert de	27
	Whiston, John de	See Marchegall, William	27
4 d'	Whitworth, John de	Being about to accompany Henry de Percy, the King's cousin, beyond sea, gives a warrant of attorney to Thomas de Carrowe and Gilbert de Grendon.	28
	Whicham, Keeper of the Bishop's coals at.	See Coke, Nicholas	28
	Werdale, Forest of	See Belgrave, John de	28
5 d'	Westwyk, Hugh de Whityngton, lands in	See Pattonson, Agnes	29
6	Wypirdene Robert Gray of Westerupsetlyngton Manor Walsingham, land in	See Gray, Thomas	22
	Winchester } Statutes of Westminster }	See Ingelby, Thomas de	30
6 d'	Wolston, Richard de, chaplain, to Thomas Bewyt, burgess of Newcastle-on-Tyne.	Recognizance	28
	Wakirfeld, William Annotson of Wakirfeld, John, son of Conan de	See Annotson, William	28
	Whitworth, John de	See Cornby, William de	28
7	Westwyk, H.	See Ingelby, T. de	30
	Wearmouth, Bishop's, Cardinal de Cervenes, rector of the church of.	See Chambre, John del	30
	Westmorton, lands and tenements in	See Graystans, William de	30
7 d'	Wyles, John	Receives a grant of the office of Janitor of the Manor of Auckland for life.	30
	Wastropp, Park of	See Bertram, Helen	30
	Wessyngton, William de knight, Thomas Surtays, Richard de Hetheworth, and John de Kirkeby to the bishop.	Recognizance	31
	Westwyk, Hugh de	See Yekemond, Robert	33

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Rolls of Bishop Hatfield—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
9	Westwik, Hugh de	See Ingelby, Thomas de	33
9 d'	Westwik, Hugh de	See Fulthorpe, Roger de	33
	Walsingham, Keepership of the Park of.	See Hatfeld, Nicholas de	33
	Westwik, Hugh de	See Fulthorpe, Roger de	33
10	Warwick, Thomas de Bello Campo, Earl of.	See Inrelby, Thomas de	33
	Westwik, Hugh de
	Welefed, Ralph, to John Conyers, knight.	Recognizance	33
	Ward, John, to John Conyers, knight.	Recognizance	33
	Westwik, Alan de	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of William Maddison.	33
	Writes, John de	See Coke, John	33
10 d'	Wodhous, Le, in Auckland parish	See Popham, John de	33
11	Walker, Henry, of Hushopton	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of William Taillifour of Norton.	34
	Westeby, William de	See Mauleverer, Richard	34
	Waleys, William	Receives a pardon for having broken into and robbed the house of Thomas Johnson del Hill of Ufferton.	34
11 d'	Wyntrynghan, William de	See Henlee, John de	34
	Wham, Thomas del, chaplain	Grants to William de Hawthorne and John de Egriscliffe, chaplains, and their assigns, a messuage and garden on the Place of Durham and a place or plot in Owengate, which the said Thomas held of the gift and feoffment of William del Orchard, clerk.	32
		He gives Robert Curreur, clerk, power of attorney to deliver seisin of the above.	33
12	Werdale, Sub-forester of the forest of.	See Betonson, John	35
	Wotton Manor	See Eure, Ralph de	35
12 d'	Werdale, Lead mine in the forest of	See Birthy Alice, widow of Thomas	35
	Waryn, John, of Chester	See Coke, Roger	35
	Werdale, Chief Forester of	See Popham, John de	35
13	Wolveston, messuage and land in	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
	Wolveston, John de
	Wolveston, Richard de
	Wolveston, lands in	See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	34
		See Durham, the Prior and Convent of.	36
14	Welefed, William	See Stapilton, Peter de	36
	Westwyk, Hugh de	See Henley, John de	36
14 d'	Williamsone, John Yong', son of Adam	See Yong', John	36
	Whitchirche, Richard de	See Burdon, John de	36
	Werdale Forest
	"Wodehous" Le, near Auckland	See Hornby, John de	36
	Westwyk, Hugh de	See Fulthorpe, Roger de	36
	Walsingham
	Westrop
	Werdale, Forester of Russhsideward in.	See Morley, William de	36
	Wyndeleston, messuages and land in	See Holgrave, David de	36
8	Yekemond, Robert, Richard de Coben, John del Hall, and John de Boynton to Hugh de Westwyk.	Recognizance	32
9	Yele, John, of York, Draper	See Craven, John de	32
11	Yoman, Adam	Receives from the Bishop a grant of a plot of waste land newly enclosed in Bishop Auckland.	34
12	Yongge, Thomas	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of William Tod.	35
14 d'	Yong', John, son of Adam Williamsone of Norham.	Receives a pardon in the matter of the death of Richard del Kichyn of Norham.	36
	Yoman, Adam	See Burdon, John de.	36
	Yong', Thomas

Prepared and examined by (Signed) L. Owen Pike.

No. 3.—Durham Records—continued.

4. Roll of John Fordham, Bishop of Durham.

(Pontificate extended from Sept. 9, 1381 to April 3, 1388.)

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
	Aukeland, &c. (passim) - -	See Auckland - - - -
1	Auckland, John Pollard of - -	See Hadhame, John de - -	1
2	Alverton, John de, to John de Fordham, Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -	2
3	Auckland, park of - - -	See Fulthorp, William de, knight -	1
2 d'	Auckland, Hailmote at - -	See Midelton', John de - -	2
4 d'	Aslagby, John de - - -	See Reed, William - - -	3
5 d'
4 d'	Auckland, North - - -	See Coweton', Alan de - -	3
7 d'	Auckland, West - - -
	Alverton, manor of - - -	See Dike, John del - - -	2
	Auckland, West, land, &c. in - -	See Betonnesson', John - -	4
8	Armurer, Thomas, of Brancepath, and John de Hergraton'.	Pleslees of Thomas Atkynson' of Eldon, to prosecute Robert Jackson' of Eldon on a writ of mahim.	5
	Atkynson, Thomas, of Eldon - -	See Armurer, Thomas - -	5
	Aspour, Roger - - -	See Lewyn, John - - -	5
8 d'	Aslakby, John de, of Aslakby, to Ralph de Eure, knight.	Recognizance (cancelled) - -	5
	Aslakby, John de Aslakby of - -	See Aslakby, John de - -	5
	Arwesmyth, William - - -	Pardoned for the death of Robert Firbrand of Cokefeld.
	Applynden', manor of - - -	See Carleton', John de - -	5
	Aspour, Roger - - -	See Lewyn, John - - -	4
9	Axsheles, lands, &c. in - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	6
	Ask, John de, the elder - - -	Has license to grant to John de Ask the younger, and Juliana his wife, the reversion of the manor of Hardwick, which Margaret de Ogle holds for her life.	6
9	Ask, John de, the younger, and Juliana his wife.	See Ask, John de, the elder - -	6
	Aspore, Robert, son of William, of Langchester,	Pardoned for stealing money and goods and chattels of William Eyvaux, of Langchester.	6
	The same - - - -	John Bacon, and William del Cotes, become bail for good behaviour of the said Robert, son of William Aspore.	6
	Aspore, William - - - Aspore, Roger - - -
	Aspore, Roger - - - -	See Lewyn, John - - -	6
9 d'	Aspore, Robert, son of William, of Lanchester.	See Eyvaux, William - - -	6
	Auckland, wardenship of the park of
10	Acle, William Power of - -	See Hall', William of - -	6
	Appilby, John de, chaplain - -	See Power, William - - -	7
	Annesley, Thomas de - - -
	Acly, land in - - - -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	7
10 d'	Alvertongate, in Durham, messuage in.
	Aspur, Stephen - - - -
1	Bittley, Gilbert Egglyn of - -
	Butteflour, William - - -	See Egglyn, Gilbert - - -	1
	Butteflour, Robert - - -
	Bradfurton', Thomas, son of Thomas de
	Bille, John de - - - -	See Tours, John del - - -	1
	Brittley, Gilbert Egiyn of - -	See Heron, John, knight - -	1
	Billy, John de - - - -	Has grant of the office of coroner of the ward of Darlington - -	1
	Betonson', John, of Evenwod - -	Has confirmation of the grant of the office of parker of the Bishop's Park of Evenwod.	1
1 d'	Bowes, William de - - -	See Nevill', John de - - -	1
2	Blakeden, William de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	2
	Blaykeston', Gilbert de - - -	See Dyryg, Peter - - -	2
	Blaykeston', William de, and Richard de Filongley.	Directed to take inquisition touching the lands of William de Derun, deceased, in the manor or barony of Evenwod, and the moor of Morley.	2
2 d'	Billy, John de, to John Ferour of Conecliff.	Recognizance - - - -	2
	Blacden', William de, to William de Rimeden' the younger.	Recognizance - - - -	2
	Birtley, Gilbert Egiyn of - -	See Egiyn, Gilbert - - -	2

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
2 d'	Billy, John de, John del Botery, and Thomas Marcshall', to John de Elvett.	Recognizance - - - -	2
	Botery, John del - - - -	See Billy, John de - - -	2
	Billy, John de - - - -	See Whitworth', John de - -	2
3	Baron, Roger, Alan de Ravensworth, William Hunthrys of Crawcrake, Robert Neucomme, and John Forester, to John de Fordham, Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -	2
	Braunceath, robbery in the forest of.	See Patenson', John - - -	2
	Billyngham, William del Toune of - } Billyngham, John Wedowe of - }	See Toune, William del - -	2
4 & 5	Bilton', Cassandra, widow of William Daynill' of.	See Kilkenny, Katherine, widow of William de, the younger.	3
4 & 5	Bishoprike, Isabella de, widow of John de Boynton', of Durham.	See Gray, Thomas - - -	3
4 & 5	Boynton', John de, of Durham, Isabella de Bishoprike, widow of.	See Gray, Thomas - - -	3
4 & 5	Bishoprike, Richard del, of Durham	See Gray, Thomas - - -	3
4 d'	Blakden', William de - - - } Billye, John - - - - }	See Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	4
	Bland, Thomas, Alan Lambard, and John Hedlame.	Appointed Commissioners of array for the wapentake of Sadberg.	4
	Blaykeston', William - - -	See Laton', Robert de, knight -	4
	Bowes, William de, knight, Walter de Hawick, Robert de Karlelo, John de Sadberg, and Robert Skelton'.	Appointed Commissioners of array for the ward of Esyngton'.	4
	Billyngham, Alan de - - -	See Elmeden', William de - -	4
4 & 3	Barkere, Geoffrey, of Conneclif -	Pardoned for the death of Gilbert de Mountfort.	3
4 d' & 5 d'	Brunhop', John de - - -	See Lounesdale, John de - -	3
4 d' & 3 d'	Blande, Thomas - - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	3
4 d' & 3 d'	Bedlyngtonshire, mines in -	See Haunsard, Thomas - -	3
4 d' & 3 d'	Broune, John de - - - -	See Coweton, Alan de - -	3
6	Beryngton, John de, Prior of Fencal -	See Clere, John, of Chester - -	3
	Bynchestre, Robert de - - -	Has license to enfeoff Richard de Chesterfeld, parson of the church of Braunceath', and William de Sutton, parson of the church of Whitwell in Scaresdale, of the manors of Binchestre and Hunwyk, that they may grant the same to the said Robert and Katherine his wife, with remainder to Joan the daughter of the said Robert.	3
	Braunceath', Richard de Chesterfeld } parson of the church of. }	See Bynchestre, Robert de - -	3
	Binchestre, manor of - - - }
6 d'	Blaiden, William de - - - } Blakden, William de - - - } Billy, John - - - }	See Eure, Ralph de - -	4
	Bland, Thomas, Alan Lambard, and John Hedlame.	Appointed Commissioners of Array for the wapentake of Sadberg.	4
	Blaykeston', William - - -	See Laton', Robert de, knight -	4
	Bowes, William de, knight, Walter de Hawik, William de Lambeton', John Clixton, John de Sadberg, and Robert Skelton.	Appointed Commissioners of array for the ward of Esyngton'.	4
			Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw 1
	Bowes, William de, knight - -	See Lumley, Ralph de, knight; also Eure, Ralph de, knight.	1
6 d'	Bowes, William de, knight, William de Fulthorp knight, Thomas Bland, Alan Lambord, John Hedlame, John Ferour of Connescliff, and Henry Pillok.	Appointed Commissioners of array for the wapentake of Sadberg.	1
	Bland, Thomas - - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	1
	Bowes, William de, knight, William de Elmeden', Gilbert Elrol, Walter Hawyk, John de Clayton, Thomas Mennill', and Robert Heslrigg'.	Appointed Commissioners of array for the ward of Esyngton - -	1
	Blaykeston', William de - -	See Fulthorp, William de, knight -	1

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
			Pontificate of John Fordam.
7	Bowes, William - - - -	See Heroun, Gerard - - -	4
	Blacden', William de - - -	Execution against his goods and chattels for recognisance to William de Elmeden' the younger. -
7 & 7 d'	Brafferton', messuage and land in -	See Wyke, John - - -	4
7 d'	Birteley, Gilbert Eglin of - -)
	Birteley, Alice, widow of William de -)	See Eglin, Gilbert - - -	4 Bromyngholm, demesne of - -)
	Barkere, Robert, of Newcastle -	See Hexham, Thomas de - -	4
	Barker, Robert - - - -	See Frankesman, Thomas - -	4
	Betonneson', John, Parker of Evenwood.	Has grant of the custody of lands, &c., in West Auckland, and Littryngton', late belonging to Thomas Parkyneon, deceased, and in the Bishop's hands by reason of the minority of Alexander his son and heir.	4
8	Blakeden', William - - - -	See Bure, Ralph de, knight - -	5
	Brancepath', Thomas Armurer of -	See Armurer, Thomas - -	5
8	Beaufwe, Ralph - - - -)
	Blaykeston', William de - - -)	See Wurnale, John de - -	5
	Burdon', John - - - - -)
	Blaykes . . Robert de - - -)	See Stanlawe, Richard - -	5
	Burgh', John de - - - - -)
	Blaykeston', William de, of the county of Durham.	See Laton', Robert de, knight -	5
8 d'	Beaurepair - - - -	See Dryng, Peter - - -	5
	Bowes, William de, knight - -	Appointed the Bishop's sheriff and rachendor in the county of Durham and Sadberg.	5
	Bland, Thomas de, to John de Fulthorp'.	Recognizance (cancelled) - -	5
	Bowes, William de, knight, to John Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance (cancelled) - -	5
	Birteley, Alice, widow of William de -	Permitted to appoint as her attornies in the Bishop's Courts, Gilbert Eglyn of Birteley, and William Corbrigge; she residing in distant parts.	5
	Birteley, Gilbert Eglyn of - -	See Birteley, Alice, widow of William de.
	Battisforth, John de - - -	See Egliscliffe, John de - -	5
	Brantyngham, William de, vicar of the church of Kellowe.	See Elmeden', William de - -	5
	Brantyngham, Ralph de - -	See Elmeden', William de - -
9	Berryngton, John de, monk of Durham	See Whitworth, John de - -	6
	Billy, John de - - - -	See Fetherstanhalgh', Richard de -	6
	Blacden, William de - - -)
	Bland, Thomas - - - - -)	See Bure, Ralph de - - -	6 Bradley, lands, &c. in - - -)
	Bolume, Thomas Smyth', of - -	See Yole, Thomas - - -	6
	Burgh', John - - - -	Pardoned for entering into the manor of Fulthorp' and lands, &c., late of Alan de Fulthorp', after the death of Richard de Richemund, father of the said John, without the Bishop's license; also has leave to grant the said manor, &c., to Alan de Fulthorp'.	6
	Bacon, John - - - -	See Aspore, Robert, son of William -	6
9 d'	Broun, Robert, of Hawethorn -	See Fulthorp', Roger de - -	6
	Ryshopton', William de -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	6
	Burdon, John - - - -	See Hall, William of - - -	6
10	Bryght, William, son of John -	See Power, William - - -	7
	Blakwell, John de Middelton' of -) Bolom, Thomas Graystanes of -)	See Middelton', John de - -	7
	Berryngton', John de, monk - -	Makes tender of payment to John [Fordham] Lord Bishop of Durham, but no one is present to receive it.	7
	Bowes, William de, knight, John de Claxton', Robert Meneil', and Thomas Gower, to the Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -	7
	Bynet, Thomas, of Castelford - -)
	Botahy, William, knight - - -)	See Vavasour, William - -	7

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10	Brandon, West, manor of Barbour, Edmund Rider Bishopdale, John de Bernardi, Richard de Castro Baumburgh, John de Barnby, William de Brome, land in le Bus, John Burdon', land in Billingham, land in	See Rodeclough, Agnes widow of "dominus" Hugh.	7
		See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	7
10 d'	Brakenbury Close, a close called Burmynghill', Hugh de Bowes, William de, knight	See Nevill', John "dominus" de See Whitworth, John de Has license to grant to John de Helton chaplain, and John de Carleton' chaplain, the manor of Luttryngton', that they may re-grant the same to the said William, with remainder to Thomas his son. The said William and Matilda his wife have also license to grant the manor of Chilton' to the said John de Helton' and John de Carleton', that they may re-grant the same to the said William and Matilda, with remainders to their son William, and Nicholas son of the said William.	7 7 7
	The same, Matilda his wife, and their sons Thomas, William, and Nicholas.	See Bowes, William de, knight	7
1	Carlisle, Robert de Casson, Thomas, Thomas Mareschall' of Stanhop', and Thomas Lax of Darlington, to Thomas de Stokele, clerk. Chanceler, Thomas, to Thomas Gower of Elton. Claxton', Thomas de, to William de Elmeden' the younger. Conesclyff, John Fervour of Chilton, John de, of Little Chilton Chilton, John de, to Hugh de Westwyk, clerk. Conyers, Robert, knight, and William Hadham, to William Playa. Chilton, William de Claxton', Isabella widow of William de, knight. Chester, ward of Cumberland, county of Colden, Robert de Conslif, John Fervur of Crawcroke, William Huntbrys of Coxside, Thomas de, Alice his wife, and Robert their son. Colynson, Richard, of Little Stayuton	See Hadhame, John de Recognisance Recognisance Recognisance (cancelled) See Graystok, Ralph Baron of Recognisance (cancelled) Recognisance See Short, John See Hilton', William de, knight See Eglyn, Gilbert See Hedleigh', John de See Fethirstonhaligh', Richard de See Bilby, John de See Baron, Roger See Forester, John, chaplain Pardoned for the robbery of a horse belonging to Thomas de Thorp, and one belonging to Roger Ilwedir, at Langueuten, and the outlawry against him for same.	1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 2 2 2 2 2
3 4 4 d'	Chilton', William de Claxton', Thomas de Currour, Robert, clerk Corbrigge, Hugh de, clerk Chaton, Thomas de Chestre, John de Chester, ward of	See Short, John See Gray, Thomas See Skelton', Robert de See Eure, Ralph de, knight See Hilton', William de, knight	½ 3 3 4 4
4 d' & 5	Coneselif, Geoffrey Barkere of	See Barkere, Geoffrey	3
4 d' & 5 d'	Cowetou', Alan de, John del Broune and Michael del Chambre.	Appointed to inquire concerning the use of illegal weights and measures in North Auckland and West Auckland, and in Northrawe and Southrawe in North Auckland.	3
4 d' & 5 d'	Chambre, Michael del Chestre, William de Chester, ward of Carlisle, Robert de	See Cowetou, Alan de Appointed Coroner of the Ward of Chester. See Chestre, William de See Bowes, William de, knight	3 3 3

Digitized by Google

791

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
5 d'	Conescliff, Hugh de - - -	See Lunden, Thomas de - -	3
6	Currour, Robert, clerk - - -	See Elvett, Gilbert de; also Skelton, Robert de.	3
	Clere, John, of Chester - -	Pardoned, at the request of John de Berynton, Prior of Foreal, for the robbery of 2.36*l.* from the Treasury of the Bishop's predecessor Thomas, in the Castle of Durham, in the 24th year of his pontificate.	3
	Chester, John Clere of - - -	See Clere, John, of Chester - -	3
	Chesterfeld, Richard de, parson of the church of Brauncespath'.	See Byncheste, Robert de - -	3
	Corbrigge, Hugh de - - -	See Skelton', Robert de - -	3
6 d'	Claydon, Thomas de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	3
	Claxton', John de - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	4
	Chestr', John de - - -}	See Hilton, William de, knight -	4
	Chester, ward of - - -}
			Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw.
	The same - - - -}	See Lumley, Ralph de, knight -	1
	Chestr', William de - - -}
	Conneclyff, John Ferour of - -	See Bowes, William de knight -	1
	Claxton', Thomas de - - -}
	Chamberlayn, Richard - -}	See Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	1
	Clayton, John de - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	1
			Pontificate of John Fordham.
7	Collier, Roger, of Gateshead - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	3
	Custon', John, of Durham - -	See Hexham, John de - - -	4
8	Custon', John - - - -	See Tuddowe, Thomas - - -	5
	Claxton', Thomas de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	5
	Carter, Matthew, of Durham - -	See Darcy, Margaret widow of John	5
	Cokyn, Master John, clerk - -	See Nicholas late servant of - -	5
	Cokyn, Walter - - - -	See Lewyn, John - - -	5
8 d'	Cokefeld, Robert Firbrand - -	See Arwesmyth' William - -	5
	Carleton', John de, chaplain - -	Pardoned for acquiring the manor of Applynden from John Heron, knight, and entering into the same, without the Bishop's license; he also has license to grant the said manor to Gerard Heron, knight, and Elizabeth his wife.	5
	Corbrigge, William - - -	See Birtelay, Alice widow of William de.	5
	Conyers, Robert, knight, and Walter Hawyk.	Become bail for William Chaumberleyn to answer John Fourbour before the Council in an action for trespass.	5
	Chaumberleyn, William - -	See Conyers, Robert, knight - -
	Cokyn, Walter - - -	See Lewyn, John - - -	4
9	Cotes, William del - - -	See Aspore, Robert son of William -	6
	Chaumore, Simon de la, to John de Henley, parson of the church of Segrefeld.	Recognizance - - - -	6
	Cuntslate, land so called - -	See Sconcle, Richard de - -	6
9 d'	Cowehird, Roger - - - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	6
	Chevyngton', John de - -	At the request of the Earl of Northumberland, pardoned for stealing cattle and other property from Richard Sausten', Thomas de Darlington, William son of Stephen de Lancaley, John Darcy, knight, and John the son of John Darcy, knight.	6
	Coke, Robert - - - -	See Sumpter, William - -
10	Custon', John, of Durham, to Thomas de Elmeden'.	Recognizance - - - -
	Clayeroft, John - - - -	Has grant of the custody of the lands, &c. in Sadburg, and marriage of John Willison' a minor, heir of John Williason' of Sadeburg, deceased.
	Cotom, lands, &c., in - - -	See Power William - - -

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10	Claxton', Thomas de - - -	Has grant of the custody of the lands, &c., of John Darcy, knight, and Margaret his wife, during the minority of Robert their son and heir. The said Thomas de Claxton', William de Wessyngton', knight, John de Claxton' and John de Notingham are pardoned for having ravished the said Robert and married him without license, and the said Robert is pardoned for being so married.	7
	Claxton', John de - - -	See Claxton', Thomas de; also Bowes, William de, knight.	7
	Catlynson', John - - -	See Wessyngton', William de, knight	7
	Cokesfold, manor of - - -	See Vavasour, William - -	7
	Cokerynton, Southkirke in, Geoffrey, vicar of the church of.	See Vavasour, William - -	7
	Castelford, Thomas Rysel of - Cockerynton', John de Yarborgh of
	Cressy, John de - - - -	See Vavasour, William -	7
	Constable, John, knight - -
	Coumberworth, Robert de - -
	Cressy, Hugh de, of Oulecotes -
	Carrowe, John de - - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	7
	Couthon, William de, chaplain -
	Castro Bernardi, Richard de - -
	Clayport in Durham, messuage near and messuages in - - -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain	7
	Coteler, John - - - -
	Clayporth, messuage in - - -
	Coxside, Robert de - - - Cyrnebikes, Adam - - -
	Cawod, John de - - - -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	7
10 d'	Cowhird, Roger - - -
	Cokon, land in - - - -
	Coxside, Thomas de - - -
	Coxside, waste land in - - -	See Nevill', John "dominus" de -	7
	Colpichill', land in - - -	See Nevill', John "dominus" de -	7
	Clebourne, John de - - -	Has general pardon - -	7
	Carleton', John de, chaplain -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	7
	Chilton', manor of - - -	See Whitworth, John de; also Porter, Thomas.	7
	Carrowe, John de, of Seton' - - Carrowe, Seton', lands, &c. in -
	Dunelm', Duresme, &c. (passim) -	See Durham.
1	Darlington, Thomas Lax of - -	See Casson', Thomas - -	1
	Durham, Robert Prior of - -	See Graystok, Ralph Baron of -	1
	Dryng, Peter - - - -	See Short, John - - -	1
	Durham, Roger Fleasherer of -	See Tours, John del; also Hilton, William de, knight.	1
	Durham, John de Fordham, Lord Bishop of.
	Darcy, John, of Herverton, knight -	See Kellawe, Robert de - -	1
	Darlington, ward of - - -	See Billy, John de - - -	1
1 d'	Durham, county of - - -	See Nevill', John de; also Fulthorp, Roger de.	1
2	Daynill', William - - - -	See Elmeden, William de - -	2
	Durham, John de Fordham Lord Bishop of.	See Fethirstonhaugh', Richard de; also Alverton, John de; also Dryng, Peter.	2
	Dryng, Peter, and Gilbert de Blaykeston', to John de Fordham Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -	2
	Denan, William de, deceased - -	See Blakeden, William de - -	2
2 d'	Durham, John del Hall' of - -	See Laton', Robert de, knight -	2
	Durham, John son of Alan Smyth', cousin and heir of Isolda widow of Gilbert de Elvett, clerk of.	See Smyth', John son of Alan -	2
	Durham, John Marescall' of - -
	Durham, messuages in the North bailey of - - - -	See Smyth', John, son of Alan -	2
			"Sede vacante." 5 Ric. II.
3	Durham, John de Nevill', custos of the temporalities of the bishoprick of.	See Nevill', John de - - -	5 Ric. II.
	Durham, the knights, freemen, and other tenants of the bishoprick of.	Commanded by the King to be attendant and respondent to John de Fordham, canon of Lincoln, who had been appointed Bishop of Durham.
	Durham, John de Fordham Lord Bishop of.	See Baron, Roger - - -	2

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
3	Durham, messuages and rents in Durham, church of St. Nicholas in Durham, trial at Durham, Thomas late Bishop of Darcy, John of Herverton, knight Dryng, Peter Durham, Roger Fleshewer of Durham, John Mareschall of	See Forester, John, chaplain See Paterson', John See Fulthorp, William de, knight See Kellawe, Robert de See Short, John See Short, John; also Smith, John son of Alan.	2 2 1 2
3 d'	Durham, Robert Prior of Durham, John Legr of Durham and Sadberg	See Kirkeby, Thomas de See Legr, John Commissions for justices of pleas of the crown and gaol-delivery; no names of persons mentioned.	2 2 1
4 & 5	Dayrill', of Bilton, Cassandra widow of William.	See Katherine widow of William de the younger.	3
4	Durham, John de Boynton of	See Gray, Thomas	3
4 & 5	Durham, Richard del Bishoprike of	See Gray, Thomas	3
4 d'	Darlington ward of Darcy, John, knight Durham, William de, draper of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.	See Eure, Ralph de, knight See Hilton', William de, knight See Fournace, William de	4 4 3
4 d' & 5 d'	Disher, Adam	See Malkynesson', John	3
4 d' & 5 d'	Durham, county of	See Eure, Ralph de	3
6	Durham, the Bishop's treasury in the castle of.	See Clerc, John, of Chester	3
	Durham, Shirborne nigh	See Waltham, John de; also Nevill', John de.	3
6 d'	Durham, Richard de Moreton of Darlington, ward of Darcy, John, knight	See Eure, Ralph de See Eure, Ralph de, knight See Hilton, William de, knight	3 3 4
	Darlington, ward of	See Eure, Ralph de, knight	Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw. 1 Pontificate of John Fordham.
7	Durham, office of gaoler and gatekeeper of the castle of. Durham, Sunderland nigh Dagworth, Nicholas, knight Durham, John Custeon' of Durham, the Prior of	See Elmeden', Thomas de See Killynghale, John de See Heroun, Gerard See Hexham, John de See Hexham, John de; also, Wright, Gilbert.	4 4 4 4 4
	Durham, the Lord Bishop of	See Lambton', William de; also Hilton', William de, knight.	4
7 d'	Dike, John del	Confirmed in the office of porter ("janitor") of the manor of Alverton, granted to him for life by the Bishop's predecessor Thomas.	2
	Durham, William de Elmeden', Chancellor of.	See Elmeden', William de	4
	Durham and Sadberg, John de Hexham Under-sheriff of.	See Elmeden, William de	4
8	Durham, farm of the town of Durham, enclosure of the town of Durham, John Rymson, fleshewer of Durham, Gilbert de Huton' of the county of. Darcy, John, knight, Margaret widow of, John Watson Smyth of Durham, and Matthew Carter of Durham.	See Tuddowe, Thomas See Eure, Ralph de, knight See Rymson, John See Wirsale, John de Become bail for Gilbert Waterman to answer William de Elmeden' the elder concerning a debt.	5 5 5 5 5
	Durham, John Watson Smyth of Durham, Matthew Carter of Dalton', John de, and John Tuddowe, to Huch de Westwyk, clerk.	See Darcy, Margaret widow of John See Darcy, Margaret widow of John Recognizance (cancelled)	5 5 5
	Durham, J., the Lord Bishop of Durham, William de Blaykeston' of the county of.	See Lewyn, John See Laton, Robert de, knight	5 5
8 d'	Dryng, Peter, mason Durham Durham and Sadberg, the county of	Granted twenty acres of the Exchequer land lying between Durham and Beaurepair. See Dryng, Peter See Bowes, William de, knight	5 5 5

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
8 d'	Durham, John Lord Bishop of -	See Hawyk, Walter; also Bowes, William de, knight; also Lewyn, John.	4 & 5
	Durham, borough of - - -	See Lewyn, John - - -	4
9	Durham, John Lord Bishop of -	See Hawyk, Walter de - - -	6
9 d'	Durham, the Prior and Convent of -	See Elvet, Gilbert de - - -	6
	Durham, John de Fordham Lord Bishop of.	See Hilton, William de, knight; also Elmedew', Thomas de; also Ravenesworth', Alan de.	6
	Darlington, Thomas de - - -	See Chevyngton', John de - - -	6
	Darcy, John, knight - - -	See Chevyngton', John de - - -	6
	Darcy, John son of John, knight -
10	Durham, office of clerk of the Chancery of.	See Jarum, William - - -	7
	Durham, John Custon' of - - -	See Custon', John - - -	7
	Darlington, Coroner of the Ward of -	See Middelton', John de - - -	7
	Durham, the Lord Bishop of - -	See Gourley, William de; also Berynton, John de, monk; also Wessyngton, William de, knight; also Bowes, William de, knight.	7
	Darcy, John, knight, and Margaret his wife, and Robert their son and heir.	See Claxton, Thomas de - -	7
	Durham, the Prior and Convent of -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	7
	Durham, rents, messuages, &c., in -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	7
	Durham, Clayport in - - -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	1
	Durham, Sadlergate in - - - Durham, Alvertongate in - - - Durham, the baileys of - - - Durham, "Le Flesshewerrawe" in - Durham, Alan de - - -
10 d'	Durham, old borough of - - -
	Durham, church of - - -
	Dryng, Peter - - -	See Sadbergh, John de - -	7
1	Eglyn, Gilbert, of Birtley, William de Lambeton, William Bulteflour, and Robert Bulteflour, to Nicholas de Skelton'.	Recognizance - - - -	1
	Elton, Thomas Gower of - -	See Chauncelor, Thomas - -	1
	Elmeden', William de, the younger -	See Claxton', Thomas de - -	1
	Eglyn, Gilbert, of Britley - -	See Heron, John, knight - -	1
	Elvett, John de - - - -	See Short, John - - -	1
	Evenwod, John Betonson of - - -	See Betonson, John - - -	1
	Evenwod, park of - - -
	Eglyn, Gilbert - - -	Has grant of the office of coroner of the ward of Chester.	1
1 d'	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Nevill', John de, also Fulthorp, Robert de.	1
2	Elmeden, William de - - -	Directed to bring into the Chancery of Durham all fines and other muniments of the time of Thomas, late Bishop of Durham, in the custody of the said William. By virtue of which warrant there was delivered into the said Chancery the foot of a fine made in the eighth year of the Pontificate of the Bishop Thomas between William de Kilkenal the elder, plaintiff, and William Daynill', deforciant of the manors of Stotfauld and Stanley.	1
	Eure, Ralph de, Hugh de Westwyk, John de Mordon, William de Blakeden, and Thomas de Hartlepool.	Appointed justices to inquire concerning offences in the forest of Werdale and the parks of Stanhope and Wolsyngham.	2
	Evenwod, manor or barony of - -	See Blakeden, William de - -	2
2 d'	Eure, Ralph de - - -	Appointed justices to inquire into the allegations of John Hobbesden of Wermouth, a reputed bondsman of the church of St. Cuthbert of Durham, that he is a free man, and that his ancestors were free men.	2
	Elmeden, William de - - -
	Elmeden', William de, he younger -	See Blacden', William de, also Skelton', Robert de.	2
	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Laton', Robert de, knight, also Eglyn, Gilbert, also Billy, John de.

Digitized by Google

795

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
2 d'	Eglyn, Gilbert, of Birtley, Richard de Morley, and Thomas de Rede of Lynce to John de Elvett.	Recognisance (cancelled) -	2
	Elvett, John son of Alan Smyth', cousin and heir of Isolda widow of Gilbert de.	See Smyth', John, son of Alan -	2
	Evenwod, park of - - - -	See Fulthorp, William de, knight -	1
	Elvet, John de - - - -	See Short, John, also Legg, John -	2
3 d'	Eure, Ralph de - - - -	Appointed Justice of Assize and of Pleas of the Crown, in the place of John Heron, associated with Roger de Fulthorp, Hugh de Westwyk, and John de Preston.
	The same - - - - -	See Fulthorp, Roger de - -	2
	Elmeden, William de, the elder -	See Midelton', John de -	2
	Elmeden, William de, the younger -	See Midelton', John de, also Lomley, Ralph de.	2
	Evenwod, barony of - - -	See Fulthorp', Roger de - -	2
4 & 5	Eggiscly f, vill of - - -	See Kilkenny, Katherine widow of William de, the younger, also Kilkenny, Richard de, the younger.	3
4 d'	Elmeden' William, the younger -	See Wyndelesdon', John de, also Skelton', Roger de.	3
	Eure, Ralph de, knight, Thomas de Claxton', William de Blakden', and John Billyn.	Appointed commissioners of array for the ward of Darlington.	4
	Eayngton', ward of - - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	4
	Elmeden', William de, Alan de Billyngham, and John Lewyn.	Appointed commissioners of array for the city of Durham.	4
4 d' & 5 d'	Eure, Ralph de, Robert de Laton', Thomas Hlande, John de Tours, and John de Tresdale.	Appointed justices of the peace for the counties of Durham and Sadberg.	2
	Elvett, Gilbert de - - -	Grants to William de Elmeden the younger, and Robert Currour, clerk, lands, rents, &c., in the town and territory of Tylliesden.	3
	Elmeden, William de, the younger -	See Elvett, Gilbert de, also Skelton', Robert de.
	Ebchestre, free warren in - -	See Waltham, John de - -	3
	Ebchestre, messuage in - -	See Nevill', John de - - -	3
6 d'	Eure, Ralph de, - - - - Elmeden', William de, and William de Blacdon'.	Appointed justices to try whether Richard de Moreton' of Durham was a bondman of the Bishop or not. An inquisition taken by certain commissioners being to that effect, against which the said Richard had petitioned. Inquisition, taken by the said Ralph, William, and William, says that the said Richard is a free man.	3
	Eure, Ralph de, knight, Thomas de Claydon', William de Blakden', and John Billy.	Appointed commissioners of array for the ward of Darlington.	4
	Eayngton', ward of - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	4 Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw.
	Eggiyn, Gilbert - - - -	See Lumley, Ralph de, knight.
	Eure, Ralph de, knight, William de Bowes, knight, Thomas de Claxton', Richard Chaumberlayn, William de Morleyn, William Fetherstanhalgh', John Tesdale, and John de Middilton'.	Appointed commissioners of array for the ward of Darlington.	1
	Elmeden', William de - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	1
	Elvet, William - - - - Eayngton, ward of - - -
	Elvet, Gilbert de - - -	See Fulthorp', William de, knight -	1 Pontificate of John Fordham.
	Elmeden', Thomas de - - -
	Elmeden, Thomas de - - -	Pardoned for the escape from prison of John Mason of Gateshead, John Wright of Sneton', Roger Collier of Gateshead, and Robert Tailiour living at Sesley, indicted for various felonies and trespasses: of John Northman, clerk, Thomas	4

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
		Marshal, clerk, and John Taylour of Ravenesheime, clerk, convicted of various felonies and trespasses: and of William de Preston', chaplain, imprisoned on suspicion; Thomas Gernayman, Thomas Gervaux, and William Sumpter. He is also confirmed in his office of gaoler and gate keeper of the castle of Durham.
7	Ezeswlyf, John de, the younger -	See Killynghale, John de - -	4
	Elandeshire - - -	See Heroun, Gerard - -	4
	Elmeden', William de, the younger -	See Lomley, Ralph de, alias Blacden', William de.	4
7 d'	Eglin, Gilbert, of Birtley, and Elizabeth his wife.	Pardoned for acquiring from Alice widow of William de Birtley, her estate in lands, &c., called Tribley and Woddesside, and in the demesne of Bromynsholm, and land there, and entering thereupon without license first obtained.	4
	Esterherlis, land, called the - -	See Notyngham, John de - -	4
	Elmeden, William de, chancellor of Durham.	Memorandum that he had delivered to John de Hexham, the undersheriff of Durham and Sadberg, nine writs from the King's exchequer for execution.
	Eure, Ralph de, knight - - -	Has grant of land in the waste of the forest near Were, in the place called Serselykerre, a piece of waste called the Stokinrig, and four acres of waste at Fotteſrawe, for making a fish pond, with liberties, &c., at a rent of 6*s.* 8*d.* yearly; saving mines of coal, stone, iron, and other metals.	4
	Evenwood, John Betounesson, parker of.	See Betonnesson', John - -
	Emerson', Robert - - -	See Fetherestanhalgh, William de -	4
8	Eure, Ralph de - - -	See Tuddowe, Thomas - -	5
	Eure, Ralph de, knight, Thomas de Claxton, Walter Hawyk, William Blakeden', John Sadbury, and John Lowyn.	Commissioned to inquire concerning the sums of money levied upon goods for sale, to be applied to the enclosure of the vill of Durham, and to audit and send in to the Bishop's chancery the accounts of the collectors of such money.	5
	The same Ralph, Thomas, Walter, William, John and John.	Commissioned to inquire concerning the sums of money collected for the repair of the bridge of Shynkelf, and to audit and send into the Bishop's chancery the accounts of the collectors of such money.	5
	Elynson, John, fleshewer of Durham, to John Greynesby of York.	Recognizance - - - - -	5
	Ebor (passim) - - - -	See York - - - - -	5
	Eldon', Thomas Atkynson of - }	See Armurer, Thomas - -	5
	Eldon', Robert Jackson' of - }
8d'	Eure, Ralph de - - -	See Ashkby, John de - -	5
	Eglyn, Gilbert, of Birtley - -	See Birtley, Alice widow of William de.	5
	Eglaclyfe, John de, the elder, chaplain.	Has confirmation of grant made to him by John de Battlesith of a chamber within the rectory house of Eglaclyfe for the term of his life.	5
	Eglaclyfe, rectory house of - -	See Eglaclyfe, John de - -	5
	Elmeden', William de, the younger -	See Pillok, Henry - -	5
	The same, and John de Kyrkby -	Become bail for William de Brantyngham, vicar of the church of Kellowe to answer Ralph de Brantyngham before the justices on a writ of account.	5
	Elmeden', William de - -	See Tuddowe, John de - -	5
9	Evenwode, lands, &c., in the barony of	See Hawyk, Walter de - -	6
	Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	See Skelton', Robert de - -	6
	Eure, Ralph de, William de Elmeden', and William de Blacden.	Assigned to inquire what waste had been done by Agnes Salvan and Thomas Bland, who had the custody of the lands, &c., of Thomas de Essh' in Esh' and Heryngton;	6

Digitized by Google

797

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
		also by Hugh Herle and Thomas de Illerton, who had the custody of the lands, &c., of Hugh del Redhaugh, knight, in Holynside, Axsheles, and Bradley, and to return inquisitions thereon.
9	Elmeden', William de - - - Essh', Thomas de - - - Essh', lands, &c. in - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	6
	Eghton', the vill of, hermitage near.	See Lamb, Robert - - -	6
	Elmeden', Thomas de - - - Elmeden', Avice wife of Thomas de, Alice wife of John de Whitworth', Isabella wife of Thomas Porter of Seton', and Joan de Karrowe, next of kin and heirs of John de Karrowe, deceased.	See Whitworth, John de - - - To have seisin of the lands, &c., of the said John de Karrowe.	6 6
	Eghton', land in - - - -	See Lounley, Ralph de, knight -	6
9 d'	Eure, Ralph de - - - - Elmeden', William de - - -	See Fulthorp, Roger de - -	6
	Elvet, Gilbert, de - - -	Deed enrolled, whereby the Prior and Convent of Durham grant him a "place" of land of their waste and soil in the borough of Elvet, with leave to build a wall thereon, at a rent of twopence annually.	6
	Elvet, land in the borough of - -	See Elvet, Gilbert de - - -	6
	Elmeden', Thomas de, Thomas Mennill', Roger Crowchird, and William de Ryshopton'.	Become bail for the good behaviour of Richard Tod of Shaldefordi.	6
	Egxiselyf, rent, &c., in - - -	See Hoton, Gilbert de - -	6
	Elmeden', Thomas de, Gilbert de Elvet, Reginald Porter, chaplain, and Richard Monour, to John de Fordham, Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance - - -	6
	Elvet, Gilbert de - - - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	6
10	Elmeden', Thomas de - - -	See Custson, John - - -	7
	Elandshire, offices of justice, steward, sheriff, and escheator in.	See Heron, Gerard - - -	7
	Elmeden', Thomas de - - -	See Whitworth', John de - -	7
	Erchom, William de, knight - -	See Vavasour, William - -	7
	Elmeden', Thomas de, and Avice his wife, one of the heirs of John de Carrowe of Seton'.	Have pardon for all alienations made by John de Carrowe and his ancestors in Seton Carrowe and elsewhere.	7
	Estmerynton', land, &c., in - - Estmynton', land, &c., in - -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain
10 & 10d'	Edmandbires, land, &c., in - - Elmee, messuages in - - -
	Eyngton', office of coroner of the ward of.	See Skelton', Robert de - -
	Eure, Ralph de, knight - - -	See Whitworth', John de - -
1	Fulthorp, Roger de, knight' - - Ferrour, John, of Conesclyff - - Fethirstanhalugh, William de - - Fleschewer, Roger, of Durham - - Fordham, John de, Lord Bishop of Durham.	See Hilton, William de, knight - See Graystok, Ralph Baron of - See Morley, William de - - See Sherf, John - - - See Hilton, William de, knight ; -
1 d'	Fulthorp, Roger de, John Heron, and Hugh de Westwyk.	Appointed Justices of Oyer and Terminer for the counties of Durham and Sadberg.
	The same - - - - -	See Preston, John de, also Nevill', John de.
	The same, John Heron, John de Preston, Robert de Laton', and John de Elvet.	Appointed Justices of Pleas of the Crown for the counties of Durham and Sadberg.
2	Fethirstonhalugh', Richard de, Fethirstonhalugh', William de, Robert de Colden, and Gilbert de Hoton, to John de Fordham, Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -
	Fordham, John de, Lord Bishop of Durham.	See Fethirstonhalugh', Richard de, also Alverton', John de, also Dryng, Peter	2
	Fliongley, Richard de - -	See Blakeden, William de - -
2 d'	Ferour, John, of Conscliff - -	See Billy, John de - - -

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
			"Sede vacante."
3	Fordham, John de, canon of Lincoln -	See Nevill', John de, also Durham, the knights, freemen, &c. of the Bishoprick of, also Baron, Roger.	3 Ric. II.
	Fery, Richard, son of Peter de - -	See Weisfel, William - - -	6 Ric. II.
	Forester, John - - - -	See Barun, Roger - - -	2
	Forester, John, chaplain - -	Has license to grant to John Fullour, chaplain, messuages and rents in Durham, and rent out of the manor of Kimblesworth, for the performance of services in the church of St. Nicholas, Durham, for the souls of Thomas de Coxside, Alice his wife, and Robert their son. License to the said John Fullour to receive the same for such purposes.	2
	Fullour, John, chaplain - - -	See Forester, John - - -	3
	Fulthorp, William de, knight - -	Has confirmation of the office of Chief Forester of Werdale with the survey of the parks of Evenwod and Auckland, which had been granted by the Bishop's predecessor Thomas to John de Popham his nephew for life, and by him granted to the said William de Fulthorp.	1
	Fleshewer, Roger, of Durham - -	See Short, John - - - -	2
3 d	Fulthorp', Roger de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - - -	2
	The same, Ralph de Eure, William de Fulthorp', and Thomas de Hartlepool.	Appointed to inquire by whose default the river Skyren had overflowed and inundated the country.	2
	Fulthorp', Roger de, William de Fulthorp, Ralph de Eure and Robert de Laton'.	Appointed justices of Oyer and Terminer of the complaint of Walter de Hawyk against the Bishop's officers for preventing persons using the highways for the purpose of going to and from the said Walter's coal mine at Morley within the barony of Evenwod	2
	Fulthorp' William de - - -	See Fulthorp, Roger de - -	2
4 d' & 5	Fournace, William de, to William de Durham, draper of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.	Recognizance - - - - -	3
4 d' & 5 d'	Farnacres, manor of - - -	See Umfreville, Robert son of Thomas de.	3
5 d'	Fossour, John - - - -	Pardoned for acquiring the third part of the vill of Great Kelloue from John de Nevill Lord of Raby without obtaining the Bishop's license (repented on m. 6).	3
6	Fencal, John de Berynton, Prior of -	See Clerc, John, of Chester - -	3 Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw.
6 d'	Fulthorp, William de, knight - -)	See Bowes, William de, knight -	1
	Ferrour, John, of Conneclyff - -)	See Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	1
	Fethirstanhalgh', William - -	Appointed commissioners of Array for the ward of Stokton.	1
	Fulthorp', William de, knight, Gilbert de Elvet, William de Blaykeston', Thomas de Elmeden', and Gilbert Huton'		1 Pontificate of John Fordham.
7	Fulthorp" Roger de - - -	See Hilton, William de, knight -	4
7 d'	Frankesman, Thomas, servant of John Milner of Milnebourne.	Pardoned for the death of Robert Barker.	4
	Fetherestanhalgh, William de, and Robert Emerson.	Granted the custody of the park of Stanhope for life.	4
	Fulthorp, Roger de, of Hardwick -	See Mordon', John de - - -	4
8	Fulthorp', John de, of the county of York.	See Wurudale, John de - -	5

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
	Frankleyn, park of	See Stubbes, William	8
	Fulthorp', manor of	See Laton', Robert de, knight	5
	Fulthorp', Alan de
8 d'	Franklein, the Bishop's park of	See Swaynesby, John de	5
	Fulthorp', John de	See Bland, Thomas de	5
	Fitzrand, Robert, of Cokefeld	See Arweswyth', William	5
	Fourbecur, John	See Conyers, Robert, knight	5
9	Fetherstanhalgh', Richard de, John de Fauderley, John de Hilly, and Thomas Tebson, to John de Kendale, clerk.	Recognizance	6
	Fauderley, John de	See Fetherstanhalgh, Richard de.
	Fulthorp', manor of
	Fulthorp', Alan de	See Burgh', John	6
	Forgithwait, John Thomeson' Huddeson of.	See Thomeson' Huddeadon', John	6
	Forithwait, Thomas Plays of
	Foxden', lands, &c., in	See Karrove, John de, deceased	6
9 d'	Fulthorp', Keper de, Ralph de Eure, William de Elmeden', John de Preston (?) and William	Appointed commissioners of Oyer and Terminer to try Robert Broun of Hawethorn, and other disturbers of the peace who had infringed upon the Bishop's rights to wreck of sea, whales, sturgeons, and other fish at Hawethorn.	6
	Foxden, rent in	See Hoton, Gilbert de	6
	Fordham, John de, Lord Bishop of Durham.	See Hilton', William de, knight, also Elmeden', Thomas de, also Ravenesworth', Alan de.	6
10	Fordham, John de, Lord Bishop of Durham.	See Berrygton, John de	7
	Ferrour, John, of the North bailey, and Hugh de Fayceby.	Become bail for the prosecution of an appeal of mahim by Alexander Utley against Thomas de Hett and William de Hamerton'.	7
	Fayceby, Hugh de	See Ferrour, John
	Flesshewerwe, le, in Durham
	Framwelgate, messuage in
	Fery, land, &c., in	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain	7
	Fenrothir, Robert de
10 d'	Farnham, Master William de
1	Gower, Thomas, of Ritou	See Chauncelor, Thomas	1
	Graystok, Ralph Baron of, John Ferrour of Consecliff, and John de Chilton, of Little Chilton, to John Prior of Durham.	Recognizance	1
3	Gilbert, son of Geoffrey
4 & 5	Gray, Thomas, of Whitby, cousin and heir of Isabella de Bishoprike widow of John de Boynton', of Durham.	See Patenson', John Deed enrolled whereby he released to Thomas de Claxton', all right and claim to lands, &c., late of Richard del Bishoprike of Durham.	2 3
4 d' & 5 d'	Gretham, Master Thomas de, parson of the church of Riton',	Has permission to have an aqueduct by a pipe underground from the spring near the church to the rectory.	3
5 d'
6	Great K-llowe, vill of	See Fossour, John	3
	Garmondesway, free warren in	See Waltham, John de	3
	Gatesheved (passim)	See Gateshead
	Gateshead, John Mason of Gateshead, Roger Coller of
	Gornaymau, Thomas	See Elmeden', Thomas de	4
	Gervaux, Thomas
8	Graynesby, John, of York	See Elynson, John	5
	Gretham, lands, &c., in	See Wursale, John de	5
9 d'	Gateshead	See Lamb, Robert	6
	Gateshead, lands, &c., in	See Preshall' (?) Thomas, chaplain	6
10	Gategang, William, the younger	See Preshall' (?) Thomas, chaplain	6
	Graystanes, Thomas, of Bolom	See Midelton', John de	7
	Gourley, William de, William de Senegefeld, of Hamsterly, and Robert Yonge, of Hamsterly, to the Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance	7
	Gourley, William	See Wessyngton', William de, knight	7
	Gower, Thomas	See Bowes, William de, knight	7
	Grey, Walter	Has grant of freedom and manumission from any servile condition to him and his heirs.	7
	Greyndon, manor of	See Rodebough, Agnes, widow of "dominus" Hugh.	7

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10 & 10 d.	Graystanes, William de, chaplain; William de Couton, chaplain; John de Appilby, chaplain; and Reginald Porter, chaplain.	Have license to convey to the Prior and Convent of Durham the manor of Hely, late of Sir ("dominus") John de Strevelyne and since of Sir ("dominus") John de Nevill', three messuages in Gateshend late of John de Bisshopdale, rent in Gateshead late of the said John, land in Whikham late of the said John, rent in Durham late of Richard de Castro Bernardi, two messuages in Durham late of John de Plompton', a messuage near Claypert in Durham late of Richard de Castro Bernardi, a messuage in Sadlergate in Durham late of John Cotelet, two messuages in the bailey of Durham late of Robert de Massham and John de Jarum, two messuages in the north bailey of Durham late of John de Baumburgh, one messuage in Sadlergate aforesaid late of John Schort, one messuage in "le Flessheverrawe" in Durham late of the said John, another messuage in the same place late of Thomas de Tudowe, another messuage of the said Thomas in the same place, one messuage in Clayperth late of Thomas de Annesley, four messuages in Clayport in Durham late of William de Haraby, one messuage in Framwelgate late of Robert de Coxside, one messuage and land late of Thomas de Qwarryngton', five messuages in Pipwelgate late of John de Bisshopdale, two messuages near Pipwelgate late of the said John, rent of the said John from tenements in Pipwelgate, rent of the said John from a tenement in Pipwelgate, one messuage and land in Westmerynton', late of Adam Cryngildikes, one messuage and land in Westmerynton' late of John Joly, two messuages and land in Estmerynton', one messuage and land in Acly called Sabynland late of John de Wyndiston', land in Acly late of Richard de Heworth, one messuage and land in Fery late of John de Nevill', one messuage and land in Wolveston' late of Robert Lucas, land in Hewiden' late of Robert Whittonman', two messuages and land in le Brome late of John de Cawod, three messuages and land in Northpityngton' late of Robert de Fenrehir, one messuage and land in Estraynton' late of John Bna, one messuage and land in Estraynton', late of Walter Tallilour, land in Heberne late of Alan de Durham, two messuages and land in Burdon' late of John de Nevill', land in Billingham late of John Tydde, four messuages and land in Edmandbires late of John del Riddyng, one messuage and land in Edmandbires late of Roger Cowhird, one messuage and land in Edmandbires late of John Sadler, one messuage and land in Edmandbires, one messuage in St. Giles Street late of Marjory Pymond, eight messuages and land in the same street, four messuages	7

Digitized by Google

801

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10 & 10 d'		and land in the same street late of Richard de Castro Bernardi, three messuages and land in the same street late of Thomas de Lumley, chaplain, three messuages and land in the same street late of Thomas Lorymer, one messuage in the same street late of Thomas de Stafford, one messuage in the bailey of Durham late of Richard de Castro Bernardi, one messuage in Alvertongate in Durham late of Stephen Aspur, one messuage in the South bailey of Durham late of Master William de Farnham, six messuages and land in the old borough of Durham late of Robert de Coxside, four messuages and land in the said old borough of Durham late of John Schorte, one messuage and land in the said old borough of Durham late of Thomas de Tudowe, land in the same borough late of Robert de Masham, one messuage in the same borough late of Roger Cowhird, six messuages in Ebuce late of William de Schaldford, one messuage and land in Cokon late of Thomas de Coxside, and land in the said old borough of Durham late of Richard de Castro Bernardi. To hold the same in aid of the sustentation of the church of Durham and of the charges incumbent thereon. The said Prior and Convent have also license to accept the same lands, &c.
10	Gateshead, messuages and rent in -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain	7
1	Hilton, William de, knight, William de Wessington, knight, and Peter Tulleof, to Roger de Fulthorp, knight.	Recognisance (cancelled) - -	1
	Hadhame, John de, parson of the church of Seham, Robert de Carlisle, William de Lambeton, and John Pollard, of Auckland, to John de Popham, chief forester of Werdale.	Recognisance - - - -	1
	Heron, John, knight, William de Lambeton', John de Bille, and Gilbert Eglyn, of Britley, to Nicholas de Skelton'.	Recognisance - - - -	1
	Hadham, William - - -	See Conyers, Robert, knight - -	1
	Hull, William de - - -	See Short, John - - -	1
	Hilton', William de, knight, to John de Fordham, Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognisance (cancelled) - -	1
	Herverton, John Darcy of, knight -	See Kellawe, Robert de - -	1
	Hilton', William de, knight, William de Wessington, knight, and Peter Tilloh, to Isabella, widow of William de Claxton, knight.	Recognisance - - - -	1
1 d'	Heron, John - - - -	See Fulthorp, Roger de; also Preston', John de; also Nevill, John de.	1
	Hertilpole (passim) - - -	See Hartlepool - - -	1
	Hedley, John de - - - -	See Nevill' John de - - -	1
	Hartlepool, Thomas de - - -
	Hedleyh, Richard de, of Nicoll forest, in the county of Cumberland.	Publication of the pardon granted to him by the King for all felonies, &c., committed before the 14th of December last.	1
2	Hartlepool, Thomas de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	2
2	Hotot', Gilbert de - - -	See Fethirstonhaugh, Richard de -	2
2 d'	Hobbeston', John, of Wermouth -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	2
	Hair, John del, of Durham - -	See Laton', Robert de, knight -	2
3	Hilton', William de, knight - -	See Welefed, William - - -	6 Ric. II.

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
3	Huntbrys, William of Crawcroke Hurverton, John Darcy of, knight Hull', William de Heron, John Hartlepool, Thomas de Hawyk, Walter de	See Baron, Roger See Kellawe, Robert de See Short, John See Eure, Ralph de See Fulthorp', Roger de	2 2 2 2 2
4	Halle, John del, and Gilbert Tommesson', of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.	Warrant from the King to the Bishop directing their capture and imprisonment at the suit of John Scot, of Whitby, for debt.	8 Ric. II.
	Hartlepool	Grant by the Bishop to the burgesses of the town, of power to take certain customs upon goods for sale for five years, in aid of the expenses of enclosing the town (repeated on m. 6).	8
4 d'	Hedlame, John Hartlepool, Thomas de Hawik, Walter de Hilton', William de, knight, William de Wesynrton, knight, John Darcy, knight, John Strutlevill', and John de Chestre.	See Bland, Thomas See Laton', Robert de, knight See Bowes, William de, knight Appointed Commissioners of Array for the ward of Chester.	4 4 4 4
4 d' & 5 d'	Haunsard, Thomas	Appointed surveyor of all the Bishop's mines of coal and iron within his royal liberty, and in Norhamshire and Bedlyngton-shire.	3
6 6 d'	Hunwyk, manor of Hedlame, John Hartlepool, Thomas de Hawik, Walter de Hilton', William de, knight, William de Wesynrton, knight, John Darcy, knight, John Scrutevill', and John de Chestr'.	See Rynchestre, Robert de See Bland, Thomas See Laton', Robert de, knight See Bowes, William de, knight Appointed Commissioners of Array, for the ward of Chester.	3 4 4 4 4
	Hedlame, John Hawyk, Walter Heslrigg', Robert	See Bowes, William de, knight	Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw. 1
	Huton', Gilbert	See Fulthorp', William de, knight	1
7	Heroun, Gerard	Has confirmation of the offices of Constable of the Castle of Norham, of Justice, Steward, Sheriff, and Escheator in Norhamshire and Elandeshire, granted to him by his father who had them of the grant of the Bishop's predecessor, saving the rights of Nicholas Duxworth, knight.	Pontificate of John Fordham. 4
	Hexham, John de, and John Custeon' of Durham, to the Prior of Durham.	Recognizance	4
	Heroun, Gerard	Deed enrolled of the conditions and terms of his tenure of the offices of Constable of the Castle of Norham, of Justice, Steward, Sheriff, and Escheator in Norhamshire and Elandshire, for the execution of which his father, John Heroun, and William Bowes are his pledges.	4
	Heroun, John Hilton', William de, knight, William de Wessyngton, knight, and Peter Tyllecf.	See Heroun, Gerard Execution against their goods and chattels for satisfaction of recognizance to Roger de Fulthorp.	4 4
	Hilton', William de, knight	Execution against his goods and chattels for satisfaction of recognizance to the Lord Bishop [of Durham].	4
7 d'	Hexham, Thomas de, of Shurneton'	Pardoned for the death of Robert Barker, of Newcastle.	4
	Hexham, John de, under-sheriff of Durham and Sadberg.	See Elmeden', William de	4
	Hobbeson', John, of Wermuth	Has grant of a me suage and land in Sunderland.	4

Digitized by Google

803

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
7 d'	Hardwick, Roger de Fulthorp, of	See Mordon', John de	4
8	Hartlepool, Thomas de	See Mordon', John de	4
	Hawyk, Walter	See Bure, Ralph de, knight; also Laton', Robert de, knight.	5
	Heryngton', Thomas de, to Alan Whitehead, vicar of the church of Tynemouth.	Recognizance	5
	Heryngton', John de	See Armurer, Thomas	5
	Huton', Gilbert de, of the county of Durham.	See Warnale, John de	5
8 d'	Heron', John, knight	See Carleton', John de	5
	Heron', Gerard, knight, and Elizabeth his wife.	See Carleton', John de	5
	Hawyk, Walter, to John, Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance (cancelled)	5
9	Hunt, Richard	See Tuddowe, John de	5
	Hawyk, Walter de	Deed enrolled whereby he releases to John, Lord Bishop of Durham, all claim to lands, &c., in the barony of Evenwode.	6
	Huton', Gilbert de	See Skelton', Robert de	6
	Heryngton, lands, &c., in	See Bure, Ralph de	6
	Herle, Hugh
	Holynside, lands, &c.
	Herdewyk, &c. (passim)	See Hardwick.
	Hardwick, manor of	See Ask, John de, the elder	6
	Heron, John, of Thornton, in the county of Norham.	See Swynhowe, William de	6
	Heron, Robert, of the county of Sadberg.	See Swynhowe, William de	6
	Huddesson', John Thomesson', of Furythwait.	See Thomesson' Huddeson', John	6
	Hoton', John de	Pardoned at the request of Robert Heron, for stealing the cattle of John Throstel, of Staynton'.	6
	Heron, Robert	See Hoton', John de	6
	Henley, John de, parson of the church of Seggefeld.	See Chaumbre, Simon de la	6
9 d'	Hawethorn, Robert Broun of	See Pulthorp', Roger de	6
	Hawethorn, wreck of sea, &c., at
	Hoton', Gilbert de	Directed to make assignment of dower to Isabella, widow of Thomas de Seton, knight, of his lands, rents, &c., in Preston, Egrisclyf, Shoiton, Fowden, Thorpthewales, Liteleden', and Hartlepool; and fishery in the water of Tees.	6
9 d'	Hartlepool, rents in	See Hoton, Gilbert de	6
	Hilton', William de, knight; William de Weseyngton', knight; John Hedworth' and Thomas Meuvill', to John de Fordham, Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance	6
	Hedworth', John	See Hilton, William de, knight.
	Hall', William of	Confirmation to, by the Lord Bishop of the grant of the wardenship of the park of Auckland, made to him by John Burdon, the grantee of the Bishop's predecessor, and the fees pertaining to the said office paid by the chief forester of Wardale.
10	Hamsterly, William de Sengefeld of	See Gourley, William de	7
	Hamsterly, Robert Yonge of
	Heron, Gerard	Grant to, of the offices of constable of the Castle of Norham, and of Justice, Steward, Sheriff, and Escheator, in Northumbria and Flandeshire for life; the same having been previously granted to his father John Heron, knight, by the Bishop's predecessor Thomas, and confirmed by the Prior and Chapter.	7
	Heron, John, knight	See Heron, Gerard	7
	Hett, Thomas de
	Hamerton, William de	See Ferrour, John	7
	Hette, Margaret, widow of William de	Assignment of dower in the lands, &c., of her late husband.	7
	Hette, Thomas de, son and heir of William de Hette deceased.	To have seisin of his father's lands, &c.	7

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10	Hely, manor of Heworth, Richard de Hesilden', land in Heberne, land in	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain	7
10 d'	Hawethorn', Robert de Skelton' of Huchonesson', William Hexham, John de Helton', John de, chaplain	See Skelton', Robert de See Wnif, Walter See Sadbergh', John de See Bowes, William de, knight	7 7 7 7
3	Hwedir, Roger	See Colynson', Richard	2
9	Hilerton, Thomas de	See Eure, Ralph de	6
8	Jakson, Robert, of Eldon'	See Armurer, Thomas	5
10	Jarum, William	Grant to, of the office of clerk of the Chancery of Durham for the term of his life with an annual fee of forty shillings.	7
	Jarum, John de July, John	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain	7
1	Killerby, John de, the younger Kellawe, Robert de, of Lomley, to John Darcy of Herverton, knight.	See Short, John Recognizance (cancelled)	1 1
2	Kirkenni, William de, the elder Kilkenny, Catherine de, to Hugh de Westwyk, clerk.	See Elmeden, William de Recognizance	2 2
3	Kimblesworth, manor of Kellawe, Robert de, of Lomley, to Sir John Darcy of Herverton, knight.	See Forester, John, chaplain Recognizance	2 2
	Killerby, John de, the younger Kirkeby, Thomas de, to Robert Prior of Durham.	See Short, John; also Legg, John Recognizance	2 2
4 & 5	Kilkenny, Katherine, widow of William de, the younger.	Deeds enrolled whereby she grants to Hugh de Westwyk, clerk, her estate in the vill of Sunderland nigh Durham.	3
	The same	Grants to Hugh de Westwyk, clerk her estate in lands, &c., in the vill of Egrieslyf in the Wapentake of Sadberg formerly belonging to her husband William, and Cassandra widow of William Daynill of Bilton'.	3
	The same	Releases to Hugh de Westwyk, clerk, all right and title to a moiety of the vill of Sunderland nigh Durham, and lands, &c., in the vill of Egrieslyf in the Wapentake of Sadberg.	3
	Kilkenny, Richard de, the younger	Releases to Hugh de Westwyk, clerk, all right and title to a moiety of the vill of Sunderland nigh Durham, and lands, &c., in the vill of Egrieslyf in the Wapentake of Sadberg.	3
4 d'	Kendale, John de, clerk	See Wyndelesdon', John de	3
	Karlele, Robert de	See Bowes, William de, knight	4
5 d'	Killerby, John de	Has grant of the liberty of not being put on assizes, recognizances, &c., against his will (repeated on m. 6).	3
	Kellowe, Great, the vill of	See Fossour, John	3
7	Killynghale, John de, and John de Egrieslyf the younger, chaplain.	Deed enrolled, whereby they grant to John de Nevill' of Raby, knight, the moiety of the vill of Sunderland nigh Durham, late belonging to William de Kilkenny, and received from Hugh de Westwyk, clerk.	3 4
	Kilkenny, William de	See Killynghale, John de	4
7 d'	Kendale, John de, clerk	See Skelton', Robert de	4
8	Kyowe, William	See Tuddowe, Thomas	5
8 d'	Kyrkby, John de Kellowe, William de Brantyngham Vicar of the church of.	See Elmeden', William de	5
9	Kendale, John de, clerk	See Fatherstanhalch', Richard de, alias Skelton, Robert de.
	Karrowe, Joan de Karrowe, John de, deceased	See Elmeden', Alice wife of Thomas de.	6
	Kendale, John de, clerk Kariel, Robert de, deceased	See Lomley, Ralph de, knight See Lambard, William	6 6

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
9	Karrowe, John de, son of Thomas de Karrowe knight, deceased.	William Sayer and Joan the wife of John son of Laurence de Seton the younger are his heirs and next of kin. Seisin of a moiety of his lands, &c., in Foudre', Shotton', and Preston-upon-Tees directed to be given to the said Joan.
	Karrowe, Thomas de, knight - -	See Karrowe, John de, deceased -	6
9 d'	Karrowe, John de, of Seton - -	See Wyke, John de - - -	6
1	Lambeton', William de - - -	See Hadhame, John de; also Eggelyn, Gilbert; also Heron, John, knight.	1
	Lax, Thomas, of Darlington - -	See Cason', Thomas - - -	1
	Little Chilton, John de Chilton of -	See Graystok, Ralph Baron of -	1
	Legg, John - - - -	See Short, John - - -	1
1 d'	Laton', Robert de - - -	See Fulthorp, Roger de - -	1
2 d'	Laton', Robert de, knight, and John del Hall' of Durham, to John de Elvet.	Recognizance (cancelled) - -	2
	Lynce, Thomas de Rede of - -	See Eglyn, Gilbert - - -	2
3	Little Staynton, Richard Colyseou of } Laugenton, horses stolen at - }	See Colynson, Richard - -	2
	Laton, Robert de - - -	See Paterson, John - - -	2
	Lomley, Robert de Kellawe of -	See Kellawe, Robert de - -	2
	Legg, John - - - -	See Short, John - - -	2
	Legg, John, of Durham, to John, de Elvet and John de Killerby the younger.	Recognizance - - - -	2
	Lincoln, John de Fordham, canon of	See Nevill', John de; also Durham, the knights, freemen, &c., of the bishoprick of; also Baron, Roger.	"Sede vacante." 5 Ric. II.
3 d'	Laton', Robert de - - -	See Fulthorp, Roger de - -	2
	Lomley, Ralph de, and John de Sadbergh', to William de Elmeden' the younger.	Recognizance - - - -	3
4 d'	Lambard Alan - - -	See Bland, Thomas - - -	4
	Laton', Robert de, knight, William Blaykeston, and Thomas de Hartlepool.	Appointed Commissioners of Array for the ward of Stokton'.	4
4 d'	Lewyn, John - - - -	See Elmeden', William de - -	4
4 d'	Lounesdale, John de, of Newesom -	Pardoned for the death of John de Brunhope.	3
& 5 d'
4 d' & 5 d'	Laton', Robert de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	3
	Lunden, Thomas de - - -	Pardoned for the death of Hugh de Conescliff (repeated on m. 6).
6 d'	Lambard, Alan - - - -	See Bland, Thomas - - -	3
	Laton, Robert de, knight, William Blackeston, and Thomas de Hartlepool.	Appointed Commissioners of Array for the ward of Stokton'.	4
	Lambeton', William de - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw. 1
	Lumley, Ralph de, knight, Marmaduke de Lumley, knight, William de Bowes, knight, William de Wessyngton, knight, Thomas de Methirby, William de Lambton, Gilbert Eegyn, and William de Chestr'.	Appointed Commissioners of Array for the ward of Chester.
	Lumley, Marmaduke de, knight } Lambton, William de - - }	See Lumley, Ralph de, knight -	1
	Lambord, Alan - - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	2
7	Lumley, Ralph de - - -	See Wright, Gilbert.	Pontificate of John Fordham.
	Lambton', William de, to the Lord Bishop [of Durham.]	Recognizance - - - -	4
	Lomley, Ralph de, and John de Sadbergh.	Execution against their goods and chattels for recognizance to William de Elmeden, the younger.	4
7 d'	Littryngton, land, &c., in - -	See Betonneson', John - -	4
8	Lewyn, John - - - -	See Eure, Ralph de, knight -	5
	Longneweston', John Robynesson' of -	See Robynesson', John - -	5
	Lewyn, John, Walter Cokyn, Roger Aspour, and Henry Shyrbourne, to the Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance - - - -	5

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
K	Laton', Robert de, knight, and John de Burgh.	On the bail of Walter Hawyk and William de Blaykeston' of the county of Durham, are granted the custody of the manor of Fulthorp, and lands, &c. late of Alan de Fulthorp, till it shall be determined by the Court that the right thereto belongs to the Lord Bishop or to the said Robert and John.	5
8 d'	Lewyn, John, Walter Cokyn, Roger Aspour, and Henry Shyrbourne.	Deed enrolled whereby John Lord Bishop of Durham grants to them the borough of Durham to farm, with all rents, services, etc. appurtenant thereto for the term of six years, they rendering yearly sol. 13*s.* 4*d.* for the same.	4
9	Lomley, "Monsieur" Ralph de -	See Whitworth, John de -	6
	Lambe, Robert, a hermit -	Has grant of an acre of waste at the north end of the vill of Eghton', near the highway leading to Gateshead on the west side thereof, close to the brook running from the spring called Scotswell, for the purpose of building a chapel and hermitage there in honour of the Holy Trinity; to hold the same in alms.	6
	Langchester, Robert son of William Aspore of.	See Aspore, Robert, son of William	6
	Langchester, William Ryvaux of -
	Lewyn, John, Henry Shirborne, William de Shruveton, and Walter Sadler.	Become bound in 100*l.* that Roger Aspore will abide the decision of the Lord Bishop and his Council.	6
	Lomley, Ralph de, knight - -	Deed enrolled whereby he grants to John de Kendale, clerk, land in Eghton', reserving the rent of one mark annually.	6
	Lambard, William - - -	Has custody of the lands of Robert de Kariel deceased.
9 d'	Langchester, Robert, son of William Aspore of.	See Ryvaux, William - - -	6
	Litleden, land in - - -	See Hoton, Gilbert de - -	6
	Lanesley, William, son of Stephen de	See Chevyngton', John de - -	6
10	Little Roule, vill of - - -	See Rodehough, Agnes widow of "dominus" Hugh.	7
	London, Edmund Rider Barbour, citizen of.	See Rodehough, Agnes, widow of "dominus" Hugh.
	Lorne, Robert - - - -
	Lumley, Thomas de, chaplain -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain	7
	Lorymer, Thomas - - -
10 d'	Langchester, ward of - - -	See Nevill', John "dominus" de -	7
	Luttryngton, manor of - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	7
1	Marcesshall', Thomas, of Stanhop'	See Casson, Thomas - - -	1
	Merley, William de, the younger, and William de Fethirstaubalugh, to John de Westwyk, clerk.	Recognizance - - - -	1
	Marschall, John - - -	See Short, John - - -	1
2	Mordon', John de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	2
	Morley, moor of - - -	See Blakeden, William -	2
2 d'	Milner, Richard, son of John Milner of Mayneaford.	Pardoned for the death of Agnes wife of John son of Thomas de Mayneaford, of which he was indicted.	2
	Mayneaford, Richard Milner, son of John Milner of.	See Milner, Richard - - -	2
	Mayneaford, Agnes, wife of John son of Thomas de.	See Milner, Richard - - -	2
	Merley, Richard de - - -	See Relyn, Gilbert - - -	2
	Marcesshall, Thomas - - -	See Billy, John de - - -	2
	Marcesshall', John, of Durham -	See Smyth', John son of Alan; also Short, John.	2
3 d'	Midelton', John de, clerk - -	Having shown by petition that in the twelfth year of the Bishop's predecessor Thomas he had, in Hailmote held at Auckland, taken a messuage and lands in Redworth, which his mother held and had surrendered to his use, and held the same to the thirty-third year of the pontificate of the said	2

Digitized by Google

807

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
		Bishop. John de Midelham pretending a title thereto, forcibly ejected him from the said tenements, and enfeoffed thereof William de Elmeden the elder and William de Elmeden the younger and others unknown. Justices (whose names are not given) are to inquire touching the premises and send inquisition thereon.
3 d'	Midelham, John de - - -	See Midelton, John de - -	2
	Morley, coal mine at - - -	See Fulthorp', Roger de - -	2
4 d'	Mountfort, Gilbert de - - -	See Barkere, Geoffrey - -	3
& 5
4 d' & 5 d'	Malkynesson', John de - - -	Pardoned for the death of Adam Disher.	3
6 d'	Moreton', Richard de, of Durham -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	3 Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw.
	Methirby, Thomas de - - -	See Lumley, Ralph de, knight -	1
	Morley, William de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	1
	Middilton', John de - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	1
	Mennil', Thomas - - -		Pontificate of John Fordham
7	Mason, John, of Gateshead - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	4
7 d'	Marshal, Thomas, clerk - -	See Notyngham, John de - -	4
	Midrige, land, &c., in - - -	See Frankesman, Thomas - -	4
	Milnero, John, of Milnebourne, Thomas Frankesman servant of.
	Milnebourne, John Milnero of -	See Frankesman, Thomas - -	4
	Mordon', John de, Rower de Fulthorp of Hardwick, Thomas de Hartlepool, and John de Toure, to Thomas de Elmeden'.	Recognizance - - - -	4
9	Massam, Robert de, the elder - -	Has grant of exemption from being in assizes, jurnites, or recognizances.	6
9 d'	Mennull', Mennill, Thomas - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de; also Hilton' William de, knight.	6
	Momour, Richard - - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de -	6
10	Morley, Richard de - - -	Grant to, of the office of one of the four foresters of the forest of Wardale for the term of his life with the usual fees and profits.	7
	Midelton', John de - - -	Grant to, of the office of coroner of the ward of Darlington.	7
	Midelton', John de, of Blakwell, and Thomas Graystanes of Bolom, to J. [de Fordham], Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognizance for the due performance of the office of coroner of the ward of Darlington by John de Midelton, and his answering for the monies received in the execution thereof.	7
	Mortymer, William - - -	See Wessyngton, William de, knight.	7
	Menell', Robert - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	7
	Milner, Richard, son of John Milner of Maynesford.	Pardoned for the death of Agnes wife of John son of Thomas de Maynesford.	7
	Maynesford, Richard Milner son of John Milner of.	See Milner, Richard - - -	7
	Maynesford, Agnes wife of John son of Thomas de.
	Masham, Masham, Robert de -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	7
1 d'	Nevill', John de, Lord of Raby, Rower de Fulthorp', John Herun', Hugh de Westwyk, John de Preston', William de Bowes, John de Helden, John de Elvet, and John de Hartlepool.	Appointed Conservators of the Peace for the counties of Durham and Sadberg.	1
	Nevillforest in Cumberland - -	See Hedlegh' John de - -	1 "Sede vacante." 3 Ric. II
8	Nevill', John de, Custos of the temporalities of the vacant bishoprick of Durham.	Commanded by the King to deliver the said temporalities to John de Fordham, canon of Lincoln, who had been appointed Bishop and had done fealty, &c.

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
3	Neucomme, Robert - - -	See Baron, Roger - - -	2
4	Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Gilbert Tomesom' of.	See Halle, John del - -	3
	Nevyll', John de - - - -	See Tyllyolf, Peter - - -	3
4 d' & 5 d'	Newcastle-upon-Tyne, William de Duresme, draper of.	See Fournace, William de - -	3
4 d' & 5 d'	Newesome, John de Lounesdale of -	See Lounesdale, John de - -	3
4 d' & 5 d'	Northumberland, Earl of - -	See Reed, William - - -	3
4 d' & 5 d'	Northamshire, mines in - - -	See Haunsard, Thomas - -	3
4 d' & 5 d'	North Auckland - - - -	See Cowton', Alan de - -	3
4 d' & 5 d'	Northrawe in North Auckland -	See Cowton', Alan de - -	3
5 d'	Nevill', John de, Lord of Raby -	See Fossour, John - - -	3
6	The same - - - - -	Has license to grant to John de Waltham, Master of the Hospital of Sherborne nigh Durham, and the brethren and sisters thereof, a messuage in Elchestre.	3
7	Northman, John, clerk - - -	See Elmedon, Thomas de - -	4
	Nevill', John de, of Raby, knight -	See Killynghale, John de; also Wright, Gilbert.	4
	Norham, Castle of - - -	See Heroun, Gerard - - -	4
	Northamshire - - - -
7 d'	Newcastle, Robert Barkere of - -	See Hexham, Thomas de - -	4
	Notyngham, John de, and Eleanor his wife.	Deed enrolled whereby the Bishop grants to them the rents and services, except knight's service, due by John de Redeworth', chaplain, for the manor of Newelsigning nigh Thikley, and land and wood in the said vill and territory of Newelsigging, and land in the vill and territory of Midrige, called the Esterberde, in exchange for a messuage and land in Midrige granted by them to the Bishop.	4
	Newebigging nigh Thikley, Manor of - - - -	See Notyngham, John de - -	4
	The same, land, &c., there - -
8	Nesham, William, son of Adam de -	See Robynesson', John - -	5
	Nicholas, late servant of Master John Cokyn, clerk.	Pardoned at the request of his said master, for all felonies and trespasses.	5
9	Norham, John Heron of Thornton in the county of.	See Swynhowe, William de - -	6
9 d'	Northumberland, Earl of - -	See Chevyngton', John de - -	6
10	Notyngham, John de - - -	See Clarton', Thomas de - -	7
	Norham, Office of Constable of the Castle of.	See Heron, Gerard - - -	7
	Northamshire, Offices of Justice, &c., in.	See Heron, Gerard - - -	7
10	Nevill', "dominus" John de; John de)	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	7
	Northpitryngton, land in - -
10 d'	Nevill', John "dominus" de - -	Has grant of twenty acres of waste land in Coxside, a close called Brakenbery Close within the vill of Newelouncay, a messuage and land in Colpighill', with common of pasture in the forest of Wardale in the ward of Lanchester, rents being reserved for the same.	7
	Newelouncay', vill of - - -	See Nevill', John, "dominus" de -	7
9	Oxle, Margaret de - - -	See Ask, John de, the elder - -	6
10	Oulecotes, Hugh de Cressy of - -	See Vavasour, William - -	7
1	Pollard, John, of Auckland - -	See Hadhame, John de - -
	Popham, John de, chief forester of Werdale.	See Hadhame, John de - -	1
	Plays, William - - - -	See Conyers, Robert, knight -	1
1 d'	Preston, John de - - -	Associated with Roger de Fulthorpe, John Heron, and Hugh de Westwyk, as Justice of Oyer and Terminer.	1
	The same - - - - -	See Nevill', John; also Fulthorp, Roger de.

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
3	Paienson', John - - - -	Pardoned for the robbery of oxen belonging to Richard son of Reginald de Stanlawe in the forest of Braunespath, of which he had been found guilty before Robert de Laton and other justices of gaol-delivery at Durham, on the appeal of Gilbert son of Geoffrey.	2
	Popham, John de - - -	See Faltborp, William de, knight -	1
3 d'	Preston, John de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	2
4 d' & 5 d'	Pollesworth', Walter de -	See Reed, William - - -	3
			Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw.
6 d'	Pillok, Henry - - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	4 Pontificate of John Fordham.
7	Preston', William de - - -	See Elmeden, Thomas de - -	1
7 d'	Potteſrawe, waste at - - -	See Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	4
	Parkynesson', Thomas, deceased -	See Betonemeuer', John - -	4
8 d'	Pillok, Henry, to William de Elmeden' the younger.	Recognisance (cancelled) - -	5
9	Playz, Thomas, of Pogithwait - -	See Thomesson', Huddesson', John -	6
	Porter, Thomas, of Seton, Isabella the wife of.	See Elmeden', Avice wife of Thomas de.	6
	Preston-upon-Tees, lands, &c., in -	See Karrowe, John de, deceased -	6
9 d'	Preshall' (?), Thomas, chaplain -	Has custody of lands, &c., in Gateshead on the bail of William Gatesgang the younger and William Tollard.	6
	Preston' (?), John de - - -	See Faltborp, Roger de - -	6
	Preston, land, &c. in - - -	See Hoton, Gilbert de - -	6
	Porter, Reginald, chaplain - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	6
10	Power, William, of Acle - -	Has grant of the custody of the lands, &c., and marriage of William son and heir of John Bryght, deceased, in Cotom.	7
	Pelton, land, &c., in - - -	See Rodebough, Agnes widow of "dominus" Hugh.	7
	Pacok, John, son of Adam, "serviens" of John del Stubbes.	Pardoned for the death of Walter Raudesson', at the request of William de Wessyngton', knight.	7
	Porter, Reginald, chaplain - -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	7
	Plompton, John de - - -
	Pipwelgate, messuages and rents in and near.
10 d'	Pymond, Marjory - - -	See Whitworth', John de - -	7
	Porter, Thomas - - - -
	Porter, Thomas, and Isabella his wife, one of the heirs of John de Carrowe of Seton'.	Have pardon for alienations of the said John of lands, &c., in the vill of Seton Carrowe without license.	7
10	Qwarynգton', Thomas de - -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	7
10 d'	Qwykham, office of forester of -	See Bertell', Robert - - -	7
1 d'	Raby, John de Nevill' Lord of -	See Nevill', John de - - -	1
2 d'	Rode, Thomas de, of Lynce - -	See Ralyn, Gilbert - - -	2
3	Ravensworth, Alan de - -	See Baron, Roger - - -	2
3 d'	Redworth, messuage, &c., in -	See Middelton', John de - -	2
4 d' & 5 d'	Reed, William - - - -	Pardoned (at the request of the Earl of Northumberland) for having permitted the escape of John de Ashaghy and Walter de Pollesworth, captured for certain felonies.	3
	Riton', Master Thomas de Gretham, parson of the church of.	See Gretham, Master Thomas de -	3
5 d'	Raby, John de Nevill' Lord of -	See Possour, John - - -	3
6	The same - - - -	See Nevill', John de - - -	3
7	Ravenshalme, John Taylour clerk of -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	4
	Raby, John de Nevill' of, knight -	See Killynghale, John de - -	4
7 d'	Redeworth', John de, chaplain -	See Notyngham, John de - -	4
8	Robynesson', John, of Longneweton' -	Pardoned for the death of William son of Adam de Nesham.	5

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
9	Redhugh, Hugh del, knight - -	See Rure, Ralph de - - -	6
	Richemund', Richard de - -	See Burgh', John - - -	6
	Ryvaux, William, of Lanchester -	See Aspore, Robert son of William -	6
	Redeworth', Henry Scorour of -	See Scorour, Henry - - -	6
	Redeworth', Robert son of Anabilla &c.
9 d'	Redeworth', messuage and land in -	Has grant that he shall not be molested on account of his receiving back from Robert the son of William Aspore of Langchester the money and goods stolen from him by the said Robert (cancelled). It is afterwards entered in the form of a permission to receive the said goods and chattels, with the condition that he shall not be molested for so doing.	6
	Ryvaux, William - - -	Recognizance - - -	7
	Ravensworth', Alan de, to John [de Fordham] Lord Bishop of Durham.
10	Redehough', Agnes, widow of "dominus" Hugh.	The Sheriff is directed to seise her vills of Little Roule and Yrwle, her manors of West Brandon and Greyndon, and land, &c., in Pelton, and deliver the same to the executors of the will of Thomas de Wode, Esquire, and Edmund Rider Barbour, citizen of London, to whom the said Agnes was bound by statute staple.	7
	Roule, Little, vill of - - -	See Redehough, Agnes, widow of "dominus" Hugh.	7
	Rider Barbour, Edmund, citizen of London.
	Randesson', Walter - - -	See Pacok, John son of Adam -	7
	Riddyng, John del - - -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain.	7
1	Schame, John de Hadhame, parson of the church of,	See Hadhame, John de - -	1
	Skelton, Nicholas de - - -	See Erglyn, Gilbert; also Heron, John de, knight.	1
	Stanhop', Thomas Marcshall' of -	See Casson', Thomas - -	1
	Stokele, Thomas de, clerk - -
	Short, John, Alexander de Stanhop, Peter Dryng, John Marschall', John Legg, Roger Flesshewer of Durham, William de Hull', and William de Chilton, to John de Elvett, and John de Killerby the younger.	Recognizance (cancelled) - -	1
	Stanhop, Alexander de - -	See Short, John - - -	1
	Sadberg, county of - - -	See Nevill', John de; also Fulthorp Roger de.	1
2	Stotfauld, manor of - - -	See Elmeden, William de - -	2
	Stanley, manor of - - -
	Stanhope, park of - - -	See Rure, Ralph de - - -	2
2 d'	Smyth', John, son of Alan - -	Deed enrolled by which he, being cousin and heir of Isolda, widow of Gilbert de Elvett, clerk of Durham, releases to John Marcshall of Durham, all his right to two messuages in the North bailey of Durham.	2
	Skelton', Robert de, to William de Elmeden' the younger.	Recognizance (cancelled) - -	2
3	Staynton, Little, Richard Colynson of.	See Colynson, Richard - -	2
	Stanhawe, Richard, son of Reginald de.	See Patenson', John - - -	2
	Short, John, Alexander de Stanhop, Peter Dryng, John Marcschall of Durham, John Legg, Roger Flesshewer of Durham, William de Hull', and William de Chilton', to John de Elvet, and John de Killerby the younger.	Recognizance (cancelled) - -	2
	Stanhop', Alexander de - - -	See Short, John - - -	2
3 d'	Sadbergh', John de - - -	See Lomley, Ralph de - -	3
4 & 5	Sunderland, vill of - - -	See Kilkenny, Katherine, widow of William de, the younger; also Kilkenny, Richard de, the younger.	3

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Mem. brane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
4 & 5	Sadberg, the vill of Egglesclyf in the wapentake of.	See Kilkenny, Katherine widow of William de, the younger; also Kilkenny, Richard de, the younger.	3
4	Scot, John, of Whitby - - -	See Halle, John del - - -	3
4 d'	Scotland, robberies on men of - -	See Tyllyolf, Peter - - -	3
	Skelton', Robert de, and John de Thoresby, to William de Elmeden' the younger, and Robert Curreur, clerk.	Recognizance - - - -	3
	The same, to Hugh de Corbrigge, clerk.	Recognizance - - - -	3
	Sadberg, wapentake of - - -	See Bland, Thomas - - -	4
	Stokton, ward of - - -	See Laton', Robert de, knight -	4
	Sadberg, John de - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	4
	Skelton', Robert - - -	See Hilton', William de, knight -	4
	Struttevill', John - - -	See Cowston', Alan de - -	3
4 d'	Southrawe, in north Auckland -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	3
& 5 d'	Sadberg, the county of - -
6	Shirborne, nigh Durham, the master, brethren, and sisters of the hospital of.	See Waltham, John de; also Nevill', John de.	3
	Shirborne, free warren in - -	See Waltham, John de - -	3
	Sutton, William de, parson of the church of Whitwell in Scarresdale.	See Bynchestre, Robert de - -	3
	Scarresdale, William de Sutton, parson of the church of Whitwell in.
	Skelton, Robert de, and John de Thoresby, to William de Elmeden' the younger, and Robert Curreur.	Recognizance (cancelled) - -	3
	The same, to Hugh de Corbrigge, clerk.	Recognizance (cancelled) - -	3
6 d'	Sadberg, wapentake of - - -	See Bland, Thomas - - -	4
	Stokton', ward of - - -	See Laton', Robert de, knight -	4
	Sadberg, John de - - -	Bowes, William de, knight - -	4
	Skelton', Robert - - -	See Hilton, William de, knight -	4
	Servelerill', John - - -	See Bowes, William de, knight -	4
	Sadberg, wapentake of - - -		3
			Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw.
	Stokton', ward of - - -	See Fulthorp, William de, knight -	1
			Pontificate of John Fordham.
7	Smeton,' John Wright of - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -
	Satley - - - -
	Sumpter, William - - -
	Sunderland nigh Durham, the vill of.	See Killyngdale, John de - -
	Sadberch', John de - - -	See Lomley, Ralph de - -	4
7 d'	Shurneton', Thomas de Hexham of -	See Hexham, Thomas de - -	4
	Burleys, Goscelin, the younger, and Ralph his son and heir.	See Wyke, John - - -	4
	Sadberg, John de Hexham, undersheriff of Durham, and.	See Elmeden', William de - -	4
	Sunderland, messuage and land in -	See Hobbesson', John - -	4
	Sexely kerre, placed called - -	See Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	4
	Stokkeyrig, waste called - -
	Skelton', Robert de, to John de Kendale, clerk.	Recognizance - - - -	4
	Stanhope, park of - - -	See Fetherstanhalgh, William de -	4
8	Shruveton', William de - -	See Taddowe, Thomas - -	5
	Shirburne, Henry de - -
	Sadbury, John - - -
	Shynkclif, bridge of - - -	See Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	5
	Sadberg, John de - - -	See Warnale, John de - -	5
	Stanlawe, Richard, and John Burdon	Become bailf or Robert de Blaykes . . . to answer Richard Stanlawe a debt.	5
	Smyth, John Watson, of Durham -	See Darcy, Margaret, widow of John	5
	Stubbes, William - - -	Has confirmation of the office of parker and keeper of the park of Frankleyn, for life, granted him by John Swaynby, to whom the Bishop had granted it.	5
	Swaynby, John - - - -	See Stubbes, William - - -	5
	Segefeld, Henry de - - -	Has grant of land in Segefeld, escheated by John Atte Stile of Billington, for granting to the church of Segefeld without license.

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
8	Segefeld, land in - - - - Stile, John Atte, of Stillington - Stillington, John atte Stile of - Segefeld, church of - - -	See Segefeld, Henry de - -	8
8 d'	Shyrbourne, Henry - - - Sadberg', county of Durham and - Swaynesby, John de - - -	See Lewyn, John - - - See Bowes, William de, knight - Has grant of the custody of the Bishop's park of Frankleyn.	8 5 5
9	Shyrbourne, Henry - - - Skelton,' Robert de, and Gilbert de Huton', to Ralph de Eure, knight.	See Lewyn, John - - - Recognisance (cancelled) - -	4 9
	Salvan, Agnes - - - - Swynhowe, William de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - - Has custody of the vill of Skremerston, on the bail of John Heron of Thornton, in the county of Norham, and Robert Heron of the county of Sadberg.	6
	Skremerston, vill of - - - Sadberg, Robert Heron of the county of.	See Swynhowe, William de -	6
	Smyth', Thomas, of Bolume - - Scolcewell, spring called - - Skelton', Robert de, to John de Kendale, clerk.	See Yole, Thomas - - - See Lamb, Robert - - - Recognisance (cancelled) - -	6 6 6
	Staynton', John Throstel of - - Shirborne, Henry - - - Shrurcton', William de - - Sadler, Walter - - -	See Hoton', John de - - - See Lewyn, John - - - See Lewyn, John - - -	6 6 6
	Segefeld, John de Henley, parson of the church of.	See Chaumbre, Simon de la -	6
	Sconacle, Richard de, and Alice his wife.	Acknowledge certain land called Cuntslate, parcel of the manor of Trefford, to be holden of the Lord Bishop in capite, notwithstanding it had appeared by Inquisition that the same was holden by Isabella Tempest as of her manor of Trefford; and the said Richard did homage and fealty for the same, and paid his relief.	6
	Scorour, Henry, of Redeworth -	Has enrolled a charter whereby Robert the son of Anatilla de Redeworth', granted to William the son of Simon de Neubiggyng, and Elizabeth his daughter, a messuage and land in Redeworth', with remainder to the heirs of the said Elizabeth, and reversion to the heirs of the said William. The seal of the charter was suddenly broken in Court when it was delivered to the Council for inspection.	No date.
	Shaldeford, Richard Tod of - - Seton', Isabella, wife of Thomas Porter of.	See Tod, Richard - - - See Elmeden', Avice, wife of Thomas de.	6
	Sayer, William - - - - - Seton, Joan, the wife of John son of Laurence de, the younger.	See Karrowe, John de, deceased - See Karrowe, John de, deceased -	6 6
9 d'	Shotton', lands, &c. in - - - Shaldeford, Richard Tod of - - Seton, Thomas de, knight, Isabella widow of.	See Karrowe, John de, deceased - See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	6 6
	Shotton, rent, land, &c., in - - Sausten', Richard - - - Sumpter, William - - -	See Hoton, Gilbert de - -	6
	Seton', John de Karrowe of - - Sayer, William, a minor - - Sadberg, lands, &c. in - - - Sadberg, John Willson' of - -	See Chevyngton', John de - - Pardoned for the death of Robert Coke. See Wyke, John de - - -	6 6 6
10	Sengefeld, William de, of Hamsterly - Southkirke in Cokerynston, Geoffrey vicar of the church of.	See Clayeroft, John - - - See Gourley, William de - - See Vavasour, William - -	7 7 7
	Stubbes, John del - - - - Seton', John de Carrowe of - - Seton Carrowe, lands, &c., in - - Strevelyne, Sir ("dominus") John de	See Parok, John son of Adam - See Elmeden', Thomas de - - See Graystanes, William de, Chaplain.	7 7 7

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
10	Sadlergate in Durham - - - Schort, John - - - - Sabyniland, land in Acly called - Sadler, John - - - -
10 d	St. Giles street - - - - Stafford, Thomas de - - - Schorte, John - - - - Schaldford, William de - - -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain	7
	Skelton', Robert de, of Hawethorn, to William de Yarum, clerk.	Recognisance - - - -	7
	Skelton', Robert de - - -	Has grant of the office of coroner of the Ward of Eyrygton' for life.	7
	Sadberg', John de, Peter Dryng and Adam Smyth' of Stranton' to John de Hexham.	Recognisance - - - -	7
	Smyth', Adam of Stranton - - - Strauton', Adam Smyth' of - - -	See Sadberg', John de - -	7
	Skirtell', Robert - - - -	Has grant of the office of forester of Qwykham.	7
	Seton', John de Carrowe of - - - Seton' Carrowe, lands, &c., in - - -	See Whitworth', de; also Porter, Thomas.	7
1	Tulleof, Peter - - - -	See Hilton', William de, knight -	1
	Tours, John del, and Thomas son of Thomas de Bradforton', to John Lord Bishop of Durham.	Recognisance - - - -	1
	Tilolp, Peter - - - -	See Hilton', William de, knight -	1
3	Thorp, Thomas de - - -	See Colynson, Richard - -	2
	Thomas, late Bishop of Durham -	See Fulthorp, William de, knight -	1
	Toune, William del, of Billyngham -	Pardoned for the death of John Wedcowe of Billyngham.	3
3 d	Thomas, late Bishop of Durham -	See Middelton', John de - -	2
4	Tommeson', Gilbert, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.	See Halle, John del - - -
	Tyllyolf, Peter - - - -	Warrant from the King to the Bishop directing seizure of his lands and goods for the satisfaction of debt to John de Neryll' one of the wardens of the Marches on account of robberies on men of Scotland (repeated on m. 6).	8 Ric. II.
4 d	Thoresby, John de - - -	See Skelton', Robert de - -	3
4 d & 5 d	Tours, John de - - - -
4 d & 5 d	Tesdale, John de - - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	3
6	Trilleaden, vill, &c., of - - -	See Elvett, Gilbert de - -	3
6	Thoresby, John de - - -	See Skelton', Robert de - -	3
d	Tesdale, John - - - - -	See Eure, Ralph de, knight - -	Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw. 1 Pontificate of John Fordham. 6
7	Taillour, Robert - - - -
	Taylour, John, of Ravenesholme, clerk	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	4
	Tylleof, Peter - - - -	See Hilton, William de, knight -
7 d	Tribley lands, &c., called - -	See Eglin, Gilbert - -	4
	Thikley, Newbiggyng nigh - -	See Notyngham, John de - -	4
	Tours, John de - - - -	See Nordon', John de - -	4
8	Taddowe, Thomas, and John Custson late farmers of the vill of Durham.	Surrender the farm of the vill of Durham to Ralph de Eure the Steward thereof, who demised the same to William de Shrueton', Henry de Shirburne, and William Kyowe for six years.	5
	Tynemouth, Alan Whitered, vicar of the church of.	See Herrygnton', Thomas de - -	5
	Taddowe, John - - - -	See Dalton', John de - - -	5
8 d	Taddowe, John de, chaplain, and Richard Hunt to William de Elmeden'.	Recognisance - - - -	5
9	Tebson', Thomas - - - -	See Fetherstanhalgh', Richard de -	6
	Thornton in the county of Norham, John Heron of.	See Swynhowe, William de - -	6
	Thomesson' Huddesson' of Fogythwait, John.	Pardoned for the death of Thomas Plays of Fogithwait.	6

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
9	Throstel, John, of Staynton' - -	See Hoton', John de - - -	6
	Trefford, manor of - -	See Sconacle, Richard de - -	6
	Tempest, Isabella - -
	Tod, Richard, of Shaldeford - -	Pardon for all felonies - -	6
	Tees, Preston upon - - -	See Karrowe, John de, deceased -	6
9 d'	Tollard, William - - -	See Preshall', (?) Thomas, chaplain	6
	Todd, Richard, of Shaldeford - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	6
	Thorpthewleis, land in - -	See Hoton, Gilbert de - -	6
	Tees, fishery in the water of -	See Hoton, Gilbert de - -	6
10	Tudowe, Thomas de - -
	Tailliour, Walter - - -	See Graystanes, William de, chaplain	7
	Tydde, John - - -
4d' & 5d'	Umfreville, Robert, son of Thomas de	Pardoned his trespass in acquiring the manor of Farnacres of his father Thomas without the license of the Bishop or his predecessor.	3
10	Utley, Alexander - - -	See Perrour, John - - -	7
10	Vavasour, William, son and heir of Henry Vavasour.	Pardoned for alienating the manor of Cokesfeld without license to Geoffrey, vicar of the church of Southkirke in Cokerynton, Thomas Byset of Castelford and John de Yarborgh of Cokerynton'; and the said Geoffrey, Thomas and John are pardoned for acquiring the same. The same Geoffrey, Thomas and John are also pardoned for alienating the same manor without license to Elizabeth widow of the said William Vavasour, and to John de Cressy, William de Erghom, knight, John Constable, knight, William Bothby, knight, Robert de Coumberworth and Hugh de Cressy of Oulecotes; and the same Elizabeth, John, William, John, William, Robert, and Hugh are pardoned for acquiring the same, and the said Elizabeth for receiving the issues thereof.	7
	Vavasour, Henry, William Vavasour son and heir of. Vavasour, William, Elizabeth widow of.	See Vavasour, William - -	7
1	Wessington', William de, knight -	See Hilton', William de, knight -	1
	Werdale, John de Popham, chief forester of.	See Hadhame, John de - -	1
	Westwyk, John de, clerk - -	See Merley, William de - -	1
	Westwyk, Hugh de, clerk - -	See Chilton, John de - -	1
1 d'	The same - - - -	See Fulthorp, Roger de; also Preston', John de; also Nevill, John de.	1
2	Westwyk, Hugh de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de; also Kilkenny, Katherine de.	2
	Werdale, forest of - - -
	Wolsyngham, park of - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	2
2 d'	Wermouth, John Hobbesdon' of -
	Whitworth', John de, to John de Billy	Recognizance - - -	2
3	Welefed, William, and Richard son of Peter de Fery.	Deed of recognizance to William de Hilton, knight.	4 Ric. II.
	Werdale, office of forester of -	See Fulthorp, William de, knight -	1
	Wedowe, John, of Billyngham -	See Tonne, William del - -	2
3 d'	Westwyk, Hugh de - - -	See Eure, Ralph de - - -	2
4 & 5	The same - - - -	See Kilkenny, Katherine widow of William de, the younger; also Kilkenny, Richard de, the younger.	3
4 & 5	Whitby, Thomas Gray of - -	See Gray, Thomas - - -	3
	Whitby, John Scot of - - -	See Hale, John del - - -	3
4 d'	Wyndelesdon', John de, of Wyndelesdon', to William de Elmedon', the younger, and John de Kendale, clerk.	Recognizance (cancelled; repeated on m. 4.)	3

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
4 d'	Wyndelesdon', John de Wyndelesdon' of.	See Wyndelesdon', John de -	3
	Wessyngton', William de, knight -	See Hilton, William de, knight -	4
4 d' & 5 d'	West Auckland - - - -	See Cowlton', Alan de - -	3
6	Waltham, John de, master of the hospital of Shirborne nigh Durham, and the brethren and sisters thereof.	Grant to them of free warren in their demesne lands of Shirborne, Whitwell, Garmondeswra', and Rhebestre.	3
	Whitwell, free warren in - - -	See Waltham, John de - -	3
	Whitwell in Scarredale, William de Sutton, parson of the church of.	See Bynchestre, Robert de - -	3
	Waltham, John de, master of the hospital of Shirborne nigh Durham, and the brethren and sisters thereof.	See Nevill', John de - - -	3
6 d'	Wessyngton', William de, knight -	See Hilton, William de, knight -	4
	The same - - -	See Lumley, Ralph de, knight -	Pontificate of Walter Skirlaw. 1 Pontificate of John Fordham.
7	Wright, John, of Sneton' - -	See Elmeden', Thomas de - -	4
	Westwyk, Hugh de, clerk - -	See Killynthale, John de - -	4
	Wright, Gilbert - - -	Directed to arrest carpenters and sawyers and engage them upon repair of the castles and other fortalices of the Royal liberty, as a protection against the Scots; the carpenters and sawyers of the Prior of Durham, John de Nevill and Ralph de Lumley excepted.	4
	Wessyngton, William de, knight -	See Hilton, William de, knight -	4
7 & 7 d'	Wyke, John - - - -	Has grant of a messuage and land in Bradliston'.	4
7 d'	Woddeside, lands, &c., called -	See Eglin, Gilbert - - -	4
	Wyke, John - - - -	Has grant of the custody of the lands, &c., late of Goscelin Surtees the younger, during the minority of Ralph his son and heir.	4
	Wermuth', John Hobbeson' of -	See Hobbeson', John - -	4
	Were - - - -	See Eure, Ralph de, knight -	4
	West Auckland, land, &c., in - -	See Betonneson', John - -	4
8	Whitlewed, Alan, vicar of the church of Tynemouth.	See Heryngton', Thomas de - -	5
	Wirnale, John de, the younger -	By the bail of John de Fulthorp' of the county of York, Ralph Beaufere, William de Blaykeston and Gilbert de Huton' of the county of Durham, he has committed to him the lands, &c., late of John de Sadberg in Gretham which had been seised into the Bishop's hands by his escheator; to hold till the right thereto shall be decided by the Court.	5
	Watson Smyth, John, of Durham Waterman, Gilbert - - - - Westwyk, Hugh de - - - -	See Darcy, Margaret widow of John	5
9	Whitworth', John de - - -	Deed enrolled between "Monsieur" Ralph de Lomley, John de Whitworth, and John de Berryngton monk of Durham concerning charters, &c., made to the Priory of Durham of lands in Whitworth and Wedome, and dealings with the said lands, contingent upon payment of a sum of money by the said John de Whitworth.	6
	Whitworth, lands in - - - -	See Whitworth, John de - -	6
	Wedome, lands in - - - -
	Whitworth', John de, to Thomas de Elmeden'.	Recognizance - - - -	6
	The same, Alice wife of - - -	See Elmeden', Avice, wife of Thomas de.	6
9 d'	Wessyngton, William de, knight -	See Hilton', William de, knight -	6

Digitized by Google

No. 3.—Durham Records: Calendar of Roll of Bishop Fordham—cont.

Membrane.	Name.	Subject.	Year of Pontificate.
9 d'	Wardale, chief forester of Wyks, John de, the Bishop's chamberlain.	See Hall', William of Has grant of, the custody of the lands, &c., and marriage of William Sayer a minor, cousin and heir of John de Karrowe of Seton.	6 6
	Wardale, forest of	See Morley, Richard de	7
10	Williamson', John, heir of John Williamson' of Sadberg, deceased.	See Clayroft, John	7
	Wessyngton', William de, knight	See Claxton', Thomas de	7
	Whitworth, John de, to Thomas de Rimeden'.	Recognisance	7
	Wessyngton', William de, knight, William Gourley, and William Mortymer, to J. Bishop of Durham.	Recognisance	7
	The same William, William, and William, and John Catlynson', to J. Bishop of Durham.	Recognisance	7
	West Brandon, manor of Wode, Thomas de, esq., the executors of the will of.	See Rodeshough, Agnes widow of "dominus" Hugh.
	Wessyngton', William de, knight Whikham, land in Westmerynston', land, &c., in Wyndilston, John de Wolveston', land, &c., in Whittenman, Robert	See Pacok, John son of Adam	7
		See Graystanes, William de, chaplain	7
10 d'	Wulf, Walter	Pardoned for the death of William Huchonessow'.	7
	Wardale, forest of	See Nevill', John, "dominus" de	7
	Whitworth', John de and Hugh de Burynghill, to Ralph de Eure, knight.	Recognisance	7
	Whitworth', John de, and Thomas Porter, to Ralph de Eure, knight.	Recognisance	7
	Whitworth', John de, and Alice his wife, one of the heirs of John de Carrowe, of Seton'.	Have pardon for alienations of the said John of lands, &c., in the vill of Seton Carrowe, without license.	7
8 d'	Yarum, William	Appointed clerk of the Chancery	2
8	York, John Grayneeby of York, John de Fulthorp of the county of.	See Elynson, John See Wursale, John de	5 5
9	Yole, Thomas	Pardoned for the death of Thomas Smyth' of Bolume.	6
	Yonge, Robert, of Hamsterley	See Gourley, William de	7
10	Yarburgh, John de, of Cokerynston	See Vavasour, William	7
	Yvele, vill of	See Rodeshough, Agnes widow of "dominus" Hugh.	7
10 d'	Yarum, William de, clerk	See Skelton', Robert de	7

Prepared and examined by (Signed) JOSEPH BURTT.

817

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Rolls of the Chancery of the County Palatine.

1. Roll of Fines, Letters Close and Patent, and Charters of the Fourth Year of the Palatinate (Ducatûs) of Henry Duke of Lancaster, in the 29th Year of the Reign of King Edward III. (Class xxv.—A 2 b.)

De Anno Quarto Ducatûs.

1. For William de Heskayth, ch'r. Exemplification of the record and process of a presentment made before the justices of pleas at Preston. Richard de Aghton against Roger Bondesson and John Stelle of Hughforde, for fishing at Le Wyk in le Northmeles. Defendants pleaded that the place called le Wyk in le Northmeles is a certain water, parcel of Merton Mere, which is held "pro indiviso" between William de Heskayth, ch'r., Thomas de Litherlond, the Prior of Burscogh, the Abbot of Cokersand, and Richard de Aghton in right of his wife Catherine, and others, and that they caught the fish in the said water by order of William de Heskayth as in his right and as his fishermen. A verdict was given for the Defendants.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 10th March.

2. Fines paid to the Duke.
John son of Richard de Haconeshoe. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Hamelton.
Thomas son of Richard de Bradshagh. For a like writ, concerning tenements in Perbald.
William Jerrard and his wife Johanna. For a like writ, concerning the manor of Assheton in Makerfield, with appurtenances.
Peter Jerrard and his wife Catharine. For a like writ, concerning the moiety of the manor of Wyndhull and the fourth part of the manor of Raynhull.
William Careles, ch'r. For a like writ, concerning the manors of Torbok, and Walshwhithull, and 45 acres of land in Wrightynton and Copphull and the fourth part of the manor of Dalton.
William Laurence. For a writ, concerning 6 messuages, 107 acres of land, and 4 acres 1 rood of meadow in Thorneton, Laton Magna and Parva, the moiety of the manor of Ribleton, and the fourth part of the manor of Assheton, near Preston.
Henry de Ditton. For a writ concerning tenements in Ditton.
William de Excestre, parson of the church of Crofton. For a writ de Compositione by pledge of William de Heskeryth, ch'r.
John Culpepir. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Maincestre.

3. For William de Heghfeld, and his heirs for ever. Grant by the Duke of 28 acres of land in Salford Waste, with the reserve rent of 14*s.* per annum; and, if the land should hereafter be built upon, the tenants and inhabitants to do suit at the Lord's Mill of Salford. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 15th April.
For Thomas de Strangwas. Grant as above of 10 acres at 5*s.* rent.
For Geoffrey del Oldfeld. Grant as above, of 6 acres at 3*s.* rent.
For Richard de Lister. Grant as above of 4 acres at 2*s.* rent.
For Roger, son of Thomas. Grant as above of 6 acres at 3*s.* rent.
For John, son of Peter. Grant as above of 6 acres at 3*s.* rent.
For Richard de Pennulton. Grant as above of 6 acres at 3*s.* rent.
For John son of Adam le Wright. Grant as above of 1 acre at 6*s.* rent.
Total 63 acres.
(Cancelled because all the same tenements are leased by the Duke's Charter, to John de Radeclif.)

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

4. Fine paid to the Duke.
   Cecilia Daughter of William de Okulshagh. For a writ of "Pone," concerning an agreement between Cecilia Daughter of William de Okulshagh and Hugh de Ince.

5. Richard de Walton, the Duke's approver of the parts of Blackburneshire. Grant by the Duke of a messuage, and 53½ acres of land in the towns of Colne and Merclesden, formerly held by Richard, son of John Hobson, and Richard Fitz William, by custom of the manor and castle of Clithero. Two messuages and 40 acres of land called Wakersale and Northmanhil. 25 acres, 1½ rood, of waste in the town of Merclesden, improved in the time of Queen Isabella, late lady of the manor and castle of Clithero. 17½ acres also improved, and formerly held by Robert of Merclesden, by custom of the said manor and castle. 19½ acres of improved waste within Trouden Chase. 17 acres, and three roods of the improved waste in the town of Colne, and 9½ acres there called Trouden Mithum;—to the said Richard de Walton for his life, at an annual rent for all services, with remainder to John, son of Alice de Rossendale, and the heirs of his body.
   Witness the Duke, at Preston, 14th May.

6. Fines paid to the Duke.
   John de Radeclif, parson of the church of Bury. For a writ concerning 1 messuage and 80 acres of land in Assheton-under-Line.
   Robert de Legh, and Matilda his wife. For a like writ concerning the moiety of the manor of Flixton, except 1 messuage, 19 acres, and 1 rood, in the same moiety.
   Clarissa de Bolton. For an Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Neuton in Makerfeld and Walton in the Dale.
   Robert de Legh, and Matilda his wife. For a writ concerning the manor of Ordeshale.
   John de Plessington. For an Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Gairstang.
   Agnes Daughter of Adam de Dokesbury. For a like Assize concerning tenements in Dokesbury.
   Richard, son of Gilbert de Halsale. For a writ concerning the manor of Ayntre, except 1 messuage, 6½ oxgangs, and 30 acres of land, 3*s.* 3*d.* rent, and 1 mill in the same manor.
   John Daudison, of Ditton, and Johanna his wife. For a writ concerning the manor of Dounelitherlond.
   Thomas le Molyneux. For a writ concerning tenements in Laton Magna, in Amounderness.
   John, son of John de Copbull. For an Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Worthington.
   John, son of Laurence de Thorneton. For a writ concerning 1 messuage, 48 acres of land, and two acres of meadow in Stalmyn.
   Geoffrey de Werbarton, senior, chr'. For an Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Perbald.
   Roger de Wakerlee. For a writ concerning 1 messuage, 160 acres of land, and 10 acres of wood in Maincestre.
   Adam de Briddestwysell. For an Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Hapton.
   John de Assheton-under-Line. Half a mark for a writ de "Attincta."
   Robert, son of Robert de Holand. For a writ, concerning the manor of Netherkellet, and the Bailiwick of the Serjeantcy of the wapentake of Lonesdale.
   Gilbert, son of William de Urmeston. For a writ concerning 5 messuages, 50 acres of land, 6 acres of meadow, and 40 acres of wood in Westelegh.

De Anno Quarto Ducatûs. (In tergo.)

1. Recognizances of debts.
   Otho de Halsale, and Richard de Rixton, to John de Radeclif, and John de Assheton, and others. 100 marks.
   John son of Adam de Claxton, to Sir Adam de Hoghton, knight. 17 marks.
   Otho de Halsale, to the duke. 40 marks.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

2. Geoffrey de Langholt, and Robert de Gikelleswyk of Tadcastre, for the Abbot and convent of Sallay. License from the Duke to aliene in mortmain, 3 messuages, 42 acres of land, and 4 acres of meadow in Bradeford, in Bouland, within the demesne of Bouland, held of the Duke in socage by fealty and service of 10*s.* per annum, as appears by the inquisition taken before the Steward of Bouland by the Duke's command, and returned before the same Duke and his Council. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 18th September.

3. For Adam de Hoghton. Acquitance of serving on juries, assizes, recognizances, &c., for life. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 18th September.

4. For John de Haverington of Farleton. Lease for term of ten years of the manor of Horneby, with the demesne and all appurtenances (with the exception only of the custody of the castle, and the deer of the park there, and the free chase of Rebrundale, and all knight's fees, advowsons of churches and escheats). Witness the Duke, at Preston, 14th Sept.

5. For Matthew de Southeworth. Pardon of a debt of 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* which had been due to the Duke's father, Henry Earl of Lancaster.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 14th Sept.

6. For John de Dyneley, and the heirs of his body. Grant by the Duke of the manor of Donnum, (Downham) with appurtenances (except a rent of 1*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* from the free tenants and their reliefs and services in the same manor), to hold by homage and fealty, and the 4th part of knight's fee, and the service of 12*l.* 6*s.* 7*d.* per annum, and 2*s.* for the ward of Lancaster Castle.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 22nd September.

7. For the King. The Duke's precept to John Cokayn, Thomas de Arderne, John de Alnetham, and William de Etheleston, to levy in the duchy (county Palatine) of Lancaster the remainder of the aid granted by parliament to King Edward III., to knight his eldest son, according to the tenor of the King's mandate within recited. Witness the Duke, at Lancaster, 18th November.
Mandate to the sheriff of Lancaster to aid and assist the said John and the rest in the premises. Witnessed, as above.

8. Nicholas le Botiller, ch'r., to the Duke. Recognizance of a debt of 100*s.*
Acknowledgment of the payment of the same.

9. William de Stoklegh, to Avicia de Bretargh. Enrolment of the deed of William de Stoklegh, being a grant and surrender of the 3rd part of the manor of Huyton with appurtenances, which he held for term of his life, with remainder to the said Avicia and her heirs and assigns.
Dated at Preston, 29 Edw. III.

10. Alice, widow of William Lawrence, and others, to the Duke. Recognizance of a debt.
Acknowledgment of the payment of the same.

Roll from the Fourth to the Eleventh Year (Ducatûs) of Henry Duke of Lancaster, from A.D. 1355 (29 Edw. III.) to A.D. 1361 (35 Edw. III.). (Class xxv.—A 3*.)

1. For William del Hegbfeld, and the heirs of his body. Grant of 23 acres of waste in Salford, with a reserved rent of 11*s.* 6*d.* to the said William and the heirs of his body, with remainder in failure of heir to Thomas Strangwys.
Witness Henry de Walton, archdeacon of Richmond, lieutenant of the duchy, at Lancaster, 10th March.

2. For Richard de Aynesargh, of Liverpool, and the heirs of his body. Grant of a messuage with appurtenances in Castelatrete, Liverpool, which formerly belonged to Benedict le Stedemen, late constable of Liverpool Castle, at 4*s.* rent per annum, and by such services as the other tenants of the said town do for their messuages.
Witness H. de Walton, lieut. of the duchy, at Lancaster, 8th May.

3. For Henry le Norreys, of Speek, and his heirs for ever. Grant of free warren in all his demesne lands of Speek within the duchy, unless they be within the metes of the Duke's forest. Witness, as above, 24th March.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

4. For John, son of Adam del Monkes, of Blakebork. Grant of the wardship of the lands and tenements late of Henry de Croft, deceased, in the Duke's hands by reason of the minority of John son of Roger de Croft, the cousin and heir. Witness, as above, 24th March.

5. Fines paid to the Duke.
   Nicholas de Kighlay and Johanna his wife. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Hopton.
   John, son of Nicholas de Tildeslegh. For a like writ, concerning tenements in Tildeslegh.
   Alesia, daughter of Robert son of John de Ditton, and her sister Emma. For a like writ, concerning tenements in Ditton near Torbok.
   Roger de Chisenhale. For a writ, concerning 3 messuages, 1 mill, 60 acres of land, 4 of meadow, and 6 of turbary, with appurtenances in Chorlegh.

6. For John de Perburn. Letters of protection while abroad with the Duke in the King's service. Witness the Duke, at Lancaster, 3rd July.

   For Edmund Laurence,
   John de Tarleton, of Liverpool,
   Robert, son of John de Haverington, of Farleton,
   William le Calfe, of Bolde,
   Adam de Hoghton,
   William de Skargill, ch'r.,
   Roger son of Roger de Pilkynton.
   } Similar letters of protection, and of the same date.

7. For Roger, son of Roger de Pilkynton. License to have his attornies for all pleas or complaints moved for or against him in any of the duchy courts while absent with the Duke in the King's service. Witness, as above.

8. For John Cokayn, Roger de Faryngton, William Careles, and Robert Prestecote. Justices assigned to keep the statute of weights and measures as appears in the commission enrolled in the 3rd year.
   Witness H. de Walton, at Preston, 4th September.

   Mandate to the sheriff to aid and assist in the premises.

9. For the King. Writ of "Diem clausit extremum" directed to John de Haverington the uncle, Henry de Greystoke, clerk, and John Cokayne, to inquire what lands John de Rigmayden (who held by knight's service of the fees of William de Couey, then in the King's hands), died, seised of in his demesne as of fee in the duchy of Lancaster, according to the tenor of the King's mandate to the Duke of Lancaster or his chancellor.
   Witness H. de Walton, at Lancaster, 20th July.

   Mandate to the sheriff to assist in the premises.

10. For John Cokayn, Roger de Faryngton, John de Haverynpton, Richard de Radeclif, William de Radeclif, Robert de Syngleton, and Robert de Prestecote. Justices assigned to keep the statute of servants, artificers, &c., within the duchy of Lancaster. Witness H. de Walton, at Preston, 1st August.

    Mandate to the sheriff to assist in the premises.

11. For Thomas de Abnay. Exemplification of the record and process of an assize of Mort Dancestre, between Thomas de Abnay of the High Peak and Thurstan de Holand of Salfordshire, summoned by the Duke's writ in the third year of the duchy and returned before him and his chancery, concerning the fourth part of the manor of Denton subtus Douneshagh.
    Witness H. de Walton, at Preston, 28th September.

12. Fines paid to the Duke.
    John de Eccleston. For a writ concerning 7 messuages, 30 acres of land, 30 of turbary, and 16 of pasture in Raynhill.
    Robert son of Robert de Rustune. For a writ concerning the manor of Rustune near Harewode.
    William de Kirkeby, of Wrightyngton. For a writ concerning the fourth part of the manor of Wrightyngton (except 10 acres of land 6 acres of meadow and 20s. rent in the said fourth part).
    Roger de Hegheleghes. For a writ de Conspiratione against Robert le Dane, Robert de Grenecacres, and Henry de Crompton.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

Nicholas, son of Adam de Briddestwysell. For a writ concerning 3 messuages, 50 acres of land, 20 acres of meadow, and four of wood, the fourth part of a mill, and 5*s.* rent in Hirstewode and Worsthorne.

John Beaufrount. For a writ concerning the manor of Stalmyn.

Roger, son of Roger de Hulton. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tents in Hulton and Westhalghton.

Alice de Workeslegh. For a writ concerning a debt of 100 marks.

Robert, son of William de Walton. For a writ concerning 3 messuages, 33 acres of land, and 10*s.* of rent in Walton, near Derby (West Derby).

18. For the King. Mandate to John Haverynton, the elder, Nicholas le Botiler, and John de Kirkeby, to review and equip all the men-at-arms within the duchy, and 300 archers, 100 horse, and 200 foot, in addition to the 200 ordered by the King, and to dispatch them to Newcastle-upon-Tyne to be ready to march with the King against the Scots.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 29th December.

14. For the King. Mandate to Henry de Haydok, clerk, Richard de Radeclif, and Robert de Prestecote to execute the King's command addressed to the Duke or his chancellor of the duchy, relative to the alienations, concealments, &c., made of the possessions of Lancaster Priory, which was taken into the King's hands, together with other alien priories, by reason of the war with France.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 12th November.

15. Geoffry de Wrightyngton, the Duke's "vallettus." Appointed to the office of escheator of the duchy during pleasure, at a salary of 100*s.* per annum.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 2nd March.

By the Duke's letters under the seal which is called "signet."
Mandate to the Archbishops, &c., of the said duchy to be answerable to the said Geoffry as escheator in all things touching that office. Witness, as above.
Like mandate to the sheriff of Lancaster to assist in the premises as often as required.

Mandate to Alan de Raynford, late escheator of the duchy, to give up the rolls, memoranda, &c.

16. Gilbert de Haydok and John Baret. Assigned to inquire into the conduct of the bailiffs of the wapentake of (West) Derbyshire for taking bribes of the archers equipped for the King's service, who had received wages both from the King and Duke and yet after all refused to attend, &c. Witness, as above.
Richard de Radeclif and William de Radeclif. Assigned to inquire as above for the wapentakes of Blackburnshire and Salfordshire.
John de Haverynton, Adam de Hoghton, Nicholas le Botiller. Assigned to inquire as above for the wapentakes of Lonesdale, Amunderneesse, and Leylondshire.

Mandate to the sheriff to aid and assist in the premises.

17. John Cokayn, William de Blaby, and John de Keyghton. Justices assigned to hear and determine all manner of trespasses within the duchy.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 28th March.

Mandate to the sheriff of the duchy to aid in the premises.

18. For Thomas de Brounlawe, Parker. Lease for the term of eight years of the herbage of Musbury park, at 8 marks rent per annum.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 8th April.

19. For the Prioress of Seton. Grant of the hospital of St. Leonard of Lancaster in pure and perpetual alms, to be annexed to the priory of Seton, if with consent of the burgesses of Lancaster. Witness, as above, 1st April.

20. Fines paid to the Duke.
Margery, widow of Robert de Fairclogh. For a writ concerning the eighth part of the manor of Shenynton, except 100 acres of land in the same manor.
John de la More, of Liverpool, and others. For a writ concerning a debt of 48*l.*

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

21. For Henry, son of Nicholas de Bury, of Keverdelegh. Pardon of the suit of peace pertaining to the Duke against the said Henry, for an assault upon Richard Hickson, of Bretlond, at Farneworth.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 4th May.

22. Roger de Etheleston. Appointed keeper of the forests of Amounderness and Lonsdale, at a salary of 60*s.* per annum. Witness, as above, 26th May.
By letters of Privy Seal.

23. For Sir Robert de Langton, knight, and John de Wynewyk, parson of the church of Wigan. The King having granted to Sir Robert de Langton, knight, and his heirs, the advowson of the church of Wigan, the Duke, at the request of John de Wynewyke, clerk, ratifies the King's grant, and releases all right and claim to the advowson of the same church.
Witness, as above, 18th May.
By letters of Privy seal.

24. Fines paid to the Duke.
Hugh de Wynstanlegh. For a writ concerning 4 messuages and 60 acres of land in Pemberton and Orrell.
Richard, son of Margaret de Katerall. For a writ concerning 1 messuage, 1 toft, 20 acres of land, 3 of meadow, 60 of pasture, and 2 of wood in Gosenargh.
John, son of John de Aynesworth. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Midelton near Chatherton.
Henry, son of Margery de Radecliff. For a writ de "Attincta."
John, son of Robert de Dalton, ch'r. For a writ concerning the manor of Hacongeshow, except 1 messuage and 14 acres of land in the same manor.

25. For Hugh, son of Robert, son of Henry de Fasakerlegh. Letters of protection while staying with the Duke's suite in the parts of Brittany in the King's service. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 14th July.
Roger de Orell, junior, John de Perburne. } Like letters of protection.

ANNO SEPTIMO DUCATÛS.

26. Fines paid to the Duke.
Adam de Whetelay and his wife Emma, and Hugh Banastre. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Longetre, Hepay, and Dokesbury.
William de Lindelay and William Ayglad, chaplain. For a writ concerning 2 messuages, 66 acres of land, 14 acres of meadow, and 40 acres of wood in Great Penhulton.
Richard Nowel. For a writ concerning 4 messuages, 80 acres of land, 40 acres of meadow, 8 acres of wood, and the moiety of a mill in Great Merley.
Richard de Hewode. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Bury and Middilton.
William del Fere, of Barton, chaplain. For a writ concerning 1 messuage, 1 mill, 56 acres of land, and 4 acres of meadow in Penhulton, in Salfordshire.

27. For Richard de Wyndill. Grant of 24 acres of land and turbary, with appurtenances in Salford, for term of life, at 12*s.* rent per annum.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 1st March.

28. For Thomas de Davenport. Grant of the wardship of the lands and tenements late of Robert le Grosvenour, deceased, in Mabonesfrith, in county of Stafford, in the Duke's hands, by reason of the minority of Robert, the cousin and heir.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 19th January.

29. Fines paid to the Duke.
Richard de Mulngate, chaplain, of Maincestre. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Westelegh.
Robert de Legh and Matilda his wife. For a writ of "Post Disseisinam," concerning the moiety of a mill, with appurtenances in Flixton, sued against John de Radeclif.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

William, son of John le Wright, of Baylegh. For a writ de Forma Donationis (Formedon), concerning 1 messuage, 80 acres of land, 20 acres of pasture, 20 acres of wood, and 6 acres of turbary in Wytton.

Hawisia, widow of Richard de Hallum, William de Rypon, and Richard del Ford. For a writ concerning 11 messuages, with appurtenances in Werryngton.

William le Botiller, of Werryngton, ch'r., and Elizabeth his wife. For an assize concerning tenements in Werryngton, Sonky, Penketh, Bartonwood, and Laton.

30. For the King. Mandate to William de Horneby and Richard de Tounlay to collect and levy the 10th and 15th within the duchy of Lancaster to the King's use, according to the tenor of the King's mandate within recited.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 12th August (anno 7 ducatûs).

Mandate to the sheriff to aid and assist in the premises.

31. Fines paid to the Duke.
John de Haydok. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Laton, Great Merton, and Bispham near Carleton.
Witness, as above, 20th August.

And for a like writ, concerning tenements in Werryngton, Great Sonky, Atherton, Westlegh, Pynynton, Bold, Lydeyate, Thorneton near Sefton, Culchith, Tildesleyh, Glasebrok, Bedeford, Halsale, Wynchull, and Ince near Crosseby. Witness, as above.

Richard de Knoll and Laurence Noel. For a writ of Dedimus Potestatem, concerning 3 messuages and 2 acres of land, with appurtenances in Ince Blundell.

32. For Hugh le Machon, of Adburgham. Pardon of the suit of peace pertaining to the Duke against the said Hugh and others, indicted for breaking into the house of John Tillesone, of Chorlegh, at Chorlegh, &c.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 4th October.

Anno Octavo Ducatûs.

33. Fines paid to the Duke.
Thomas del Bothe, of Barton. For a writ concerning 1 messuage, 160 acres of land, 10 acres of meadow, and 30 acres of wood, with appurtenances in Brudeford in Maincestre.

John de Brereworth. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Caterale and Gosenargh.

John Mauldesone. For a writ of Assize of Novel of Disseisin, concerning tenements in Chepyn.

William, son of John de Merklesden. As above concerning tenements in Great Merklesden and Penkhull.

John de Catherton, of Ellale. As above, concerning tenements in Ellale.

John de Brereworth. For a writ de Ingressu, concerning tenements in Wrighynton.

Roger del Stanyhurst, of Ormskirk. For a writ of Dedimus Potestatem, concerning tenements in Lathum.

34. For John de Wynewyk, parson of the church of Wigan. Mandate to Thomas de Seton, Henry de Haydok, John Cokeyn, John de Moubray, Richard de Radeclif, and Roger de Faryngton, justices, assigned to try certain malefactors against whom John de Wynewyk, lord of the town of Wigan, had laid a complaint touching the hindrance of his bailiffs in the performance of their duties. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 8th July.

Mandate to the sheriff of the duchy (county Palatine) to assist in the premises. Witness as above.

35. Fines paid to the Duke.
Catharine, daughter of Thomas del Bothe. For a writ de "Conventione," concerning 6 messuages and 70 acres of land in Culchith.

Roger la Warre, ch'r. For a writ concerning the manor of Maincestre and the advowsons of the churches of Maincestre and Assheton.

John, son of Adam, son of Robert de Chippyn, and Cecily, widow of Henry le Wright. For a writ concerning 2 messuages, 40 acres of land, 20 acres of meadow, and 16*s.* rent in Chippyn.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

William, son of Robert de Radeclif. For a writ concerning the third part of the manor of Eggeworth.

Hugh de Walay and Letitia his wife. For a writ concerning 6 messuages, 10 acres of land, and 7*s.* rent in Liverpool.

Henry, son of John Gowyn. For a writ concerning 1 messuage and 60 acres of land in Penhulton, in Salfordshire.

Richard, son of Richard de Culchith. For a writ de Conventione, concerning the manors of Culchith and Hyndelegh, except 6 messuages and 60 acres of land in the said manor of Culchith.

36. For Alan de Raynford. Lease for the term of 10 years of the herbage of the park of Crokstath, at a rent of 5 marks per annum.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 28th July (anno 8).

37. Fines paid to the Duke.
Robert de Legh and Matilda his wife. For a writ concerning the moiety of the manor of Flixton.
Adam de Kenyan. For a writ concerning tenements in Kenyan.

38. For Lambert le Kieu. Grant for term of life of the herbage of the "Fossatum" of Lancaster Castle, and of a certain place called le Bernyard in the town of Lancaster. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 1st September (anno 8).

39. For Adam de Kenyan. Acquittance of serving as juror or the office of eschentor, coroner, or bailiff. Witness as above, 1st December (anno 8).

40. For John Baret. Release of rent for his lands held of the Duke in the towns of Derby, Liverpool, and Everton, and elsewhere within the duchy.
Witness as above, 3rd July (anno 7).

41. Fine paid to the Duke.
William de Walton. For a writ de Conventione, concerning the manor of Huyton.

42. For John de Ethelestone. Pardon of the suit of peace pertaining to the Duke against the said John, indicted for extorting money, and other offences.
Witness as above, 8th December (anno 8).

43. For Adam de Skylyngcorne. Lease for term of six years of the Fishery in the river Ribble at the town of Penwortham with the demesne meadows in the same town at six marks rent per annum.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 8th December (anno 8).

44. For William del Twys. Pardon of the suit of peace pertaining to the Duke against the said William indicted for divers transgressions.
Witness as above, 20th October (anno 8).

45. Fines paid to the Duke.
William Gerard and Johanna his wife. For a writ concerning tenements in Barnhull.
Beatrice widow of Thomas de Wight. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin concerning tenements in Hyndelegh.
Thomas del Bothe. For a writ de Conventione concerning 1 messuage, 160 acres of land, and 30 acres of wood in Maincestre.

Anno Nono Ducatûs.

46. Richard de Wilughby, Thomas de Seton, John Moubray, John Cokeyn, Henry de Haydok, and Roger Farynton. Appointed Justices in Eyre for the pleas of the forest of the duchy of Lancaster.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 24th January (anno 8).

47. Precept to the sheriff to make proclamation for holding the sessions, and to summon all persons accustomed to come, to be before the said justices, at Preston on the 2nd Monday in Lent.
Witness as above, 26th January (anno 8).

48. For John de Grelle. Pardon for all trespasses of vert and venison committed in the forests of the duchy.
Witness the Duke, at Liverpool Castle, 20th April (anno 9).

49. For Otho de Halsale. Grant of free warren in all his demesne lands of Halsale and Rynacres within the duchy, unless they be within the metes of the Duke's forest. Witness as above, 26th April (anno 9).

Digitized by Google

825

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

50. For Robert, son of Nicholas de Holden. Lease for term of life of the herbage called Veden and Mufden at 15*s.* rent per annum. Witness, as above.

51. For Ranulph de Dacre, parson of the church of Prestecote and others Pardon of trespasses done within the forest of the duchy.
Witness, as above, 2nd April, anno 9.

52. For William de Liverpool. Grant of an annual rent of 20*s.* payable to the said William for term of life out of the manor of West Derby.
Witness, as above, 20th April, anno 9.

53. For William de Liverpool. License to take two cartloads "gorstorum" weekly from Toxstath Park, for 12*d.* rent per annum.
Witness the Duke, at Liverpool Castle, 26th April, anno 9.

54. For William de Halton, chaplain. Pardon for all trespasses done in the forest of the duchy. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 4th May, anno 9.

55. William son of William Cobynson and others. Pardon for a trespass done in Toxstath Park in the forest of the duchy.
Witness the Duke, at Liverpool Castle, 21st April, anno 9.

56. For Roger and William de Boton. Pardon for trespasses done in the Speek within the forest of the duchy.
Witness the Duke, at Liverpool Castle, 6th April, anno 9.

57. For Adam Bonde, late servant of Richard de Radeclif. Pardon of the suit of peace against the said Adam indicted for certain offences before the Justices assigned to keep the statute of servants and laborers, &c., within the duchy.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 29th June, anno 9.

For Ralph de Fynays. A similar pardon.

58. Fines paid to the Duke.
Robert de Gryffin. For a writ de "Conventione" concerning 6 messuages, 4 oxgangs, and 8 acres of land, and 60 acres of meadow, in Gosnargh and Wodeplumpton.
Henry de Trafford. For a like writ concerning 80 acres of land, and 4 acres of meadow, with appurtenances in Barton near Eccles.
Richard de Aghton and Catherine his wife. For a like writ concerning 5½ messuages, 18 acres, and 3¾ oxgangs of land, in Hurleton, Scaresbrek, Thistelton, and Barton near Halsele, and the moiety of the manor of Northmedes.
William de Fernars, chivaler. For a writ de Forma Donationis (Formedon) concerning 6 messuages, 140 acres of land, 10 acres of meadow, 40 acres of wood, 10 acres of pasture, and 10 acres of heath in Chorlegh.
Thomas Moure. For a like writ concerning 1 messuage, 64 acres of land and 1 acre of meadow in Bikerstath.

59. For Roger la Warre. Thomas de Seton, John Cokayn and Roger de Farygton. Commissioners assigned to inquire into the premises contained in the petition of Roger la Warre exhibited before the Duke and his council, shewing that although the said Roger holds the town of Manchester as a boro' and market town and his ancestors lords of the same have time out of mind enjoyed certain liberties there and in the manor and the members and hamlets thereof, nevertheless the Duke's bailiffs have interfered to levy amerciaments, &c.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 8th March, anno 9.

60. For Hugh de Fasacrelegh. Protection for the said Hugh going abroad in "Comitiva Ducis" in the King's service.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 26th July, anno 9.

61. For Adam de Cokerham, vicar of the church of Millum, and the abbot and convent of Fourneys. License to alienc in mortmain 1 messuage and 3 roods of land with appurtenances in Lancaster.
Witness the Duke, at Liverpool Castle, 21st April, anno 9 ducatûs.

62. Adam le Taillour, of Ulverstone to William de Clifton, ch'r. Recognizance of a debt of 10*l.*
Thomas de Haverington and others to the same William. Recognizance of a debt of 8*l.*

63. For Thomas del Olers and Ellen his wife, and Thomas Eleynson Chokes. Grant of 2 acres of land with appurtenances in Salford at 12*s.* rent per annum to the said Thomas and Ellen for term of their lives, with remainder to Thomas Eleynson Chokes and the heirs of his body.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 1st August.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

64. For Richard de Par, senior. Pardon for a trespass of the forest done in the time of Henry, Earl of Lancaster, in a place called Morkellesmosse.
Witness the Duke, at Liverpool Castle, 16th April, anno 9.

65. For Roger del Wyche, of Preston, and the heirs of his body. Grant of a messuage in Preston, which had escheated to Henry Earl of Lancaster by felony of Roger del Wyche, to hold to the same Roger and his heirs at 2s. rent per annum for all services.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 28th September, anno 9.

66. For Henry de Cancefeld. Pardon for all trespasses done in the forest of the duchy. Witness, as above, 3rd September, anno 9.

67. William de Fynchedene. Appointed one of the justices of the pleas of the forest of the duchy in room of Thomas de Seton, deceased.
Witness, as above, 20th July.

68. For the same William de Fynchedene. Mandate to Richard de Wylughby and the other justices to admit William de Fynchedene as their associate in the room of Thomas de Seton, deceased. Witness, as above.

69. For Richard de Wydale and Cecily his wife. Precept to the sheriff to inquire if Margery widow of John de Wythinton, and John, Alice, Cecily, and Ellen their children, unjustly disseize the said Richard and his wife of 1 messuage and 20 acres of land in Barton in Salfordshire.
Witness Nicholas de Colshull, lieutenant of the duchy, 1st January, anno 9 ducatûs.

70. For Gilbert, parson of the church of Standish. Mandate to the escheator of the duchy to interfere no further in a chapel, 1 messuage, and 17 acres of land in Audreton, which for certain reasons had been seized into the Duke's hands by Henry de Yokuale, the late escheator of the duchy, it being found by inquisition returned into the Duke's chancery that the church of Standish had been endowed by Thomas de Burnehull with the said tenements to find a chaplain to officiate in the said chapel.
Witness Nicholas de Colshull, lieutenant of the duchy, 1st January, anno 9 ducatûs.

Anno Decimo Ducatûs.

71. Fines paid to the Duke.
Robert de Legh and Matilda his wife. For a writ concerning the manor of Ordesale and the moiety of the manor of Flixton.
2nd October, anno 9.
John de Ipre, chaplain. For a writ concerning 5 messuages, 60 acres of land, 60 acres of pasture, 6 acres of meadow, and 60 of turbary (the place omitted).

72. For Adam de Skilyngcorn. License to take men about with him within the duchy for the defence and protection of his person.

73. Fines paid to the Duke.
John de Barton. For a writ concerning 1 messuage, 8 acres of land, 12 acres of wood, and the moiety of a mill in Barton near Eccles.
John de Radcelif, senior. For a writ of "Conventione," concerning the manor of Ordeshale and the moiety of the manor of Flixton, and the moiety of a mill in Flixton.
Catherine widow of Hamo le Massy, ch'r., to Thomas del Bothe. Recognizance of a debt of 80 marks.
John de Barton. For two writs, concerning ¼ part and ¾ parts of the manor of Barton near Eccles.

74. For Ellen widow of Richard de Urmeston. Pardon granted to Agnes, widow of Henry del Birches, for producing a forged charter in court before the justices in an action brought by Ellen de Urmeston against the said Agnes and others concerning tenements in Astelegh.

75. For John Gowyn and the heirs of his body. Grant of 8 acres of waste with appurtenances in Penhulton, at 4s. rent per annum.
Witness Nicholas de Colshull, lieutenant of the duchy, at Preston, 4th March, anno 9.

Digitized by Google

827

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

76. For Adam de Hoghton, ch'r. Mandate to the escheator of the duchy to cause livery of seizin to be made to Adam de Hoghton of a messuage and 12 acres of land, which William, son of Stephen de Ravenshagh, outlawed for felony, held of him in Chipyn, the Duke having had his year, day, and waste therein.
Witness, as above, 23rd March, anno 10.

77. For Adam, son of William de Halton. As above.

78. For the King. Mandate to John de Kirkeby, William de Clifton, William son of Robert de Radeclif, and Richard Nowel, to collect and levy within the duchy the 10th and 15th granted to the King by parliament to defray the expenses of the war, according to the tenor of the King's mandate addressed to the Duke or his lieutenant or his chancellor.
Witness Nicholas de Colshull, lieutenant of the duchy, at Preston, 10th April, anno 10.

79. For Robert de Shenthow. Pardon to the said Robert, indicted for certain offences before the justices assigned to keep the statute of servants and labourers within the duchy.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 20th June, anno 10.

80. For John, son of William le Palfreymon. Pardon as above.

81. For Thomas de Fazacresley.—Appointed bailiff of the manor of West-Derby for term of life at 2*d.* a day for his wages.
Witness Nicholas de Colshull, lieutenant of the duchy, at Preston, 26th May, anno 10 ducatûs.

82. For Roger de Ditton. Appointed keeper of Toxstath Park for life with the same wages as the late keeper Roger de Mourton had, and the grant of a certain rock within the sea called Skeryorde to construct a fishery there.
Witness, as above.

83. Fines paid to the Duke.
Geoffry del Holt. For a writ de "Conventione" concerning one messuage, 20 acres of land, 10 acres of meadow, and 20 acres of pasture, in Middleton near Chaderton.

John de Morlegh. For a like writ, concerning the manor of Wenyngton.

84. For Hugh de Derby, clerk. Pardon to the said Hugh, indicted for certain offences before the justices assigned to hold pleas of the forest.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 5th August, anno 10.

85. For John de Arderne. Mandate to the escheator of the duchy to interfere no further in the moiety of an oxgang of land in Kirden, which had been seized into the Duke's hands by reason of the felony of Robert de Arderne, the Duke being certified that the said Robert had only a life estate in the premises, and that the reversion of right pertained to John de Arderne.
Witness the Duke, 10th August, anno 10 ducatûs.
By the council.

86. William, son of William de Lee, ch'r. Fine for a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tents in Mondesbegh.

87. For Ralph de Ipre. Appointed parker and keeper of Quernemore Park for life, with 1½*d.* a day for his wages and certain liberties in the said park.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 5th August, anno 10.

88. For Geoffry, son of Henry le Chapmon, of Preston. Pardon to the said Geoffry, indicted before the justices assigned to try offences within the duchy, for an assault upon John Wynnepeny, at Preston. Witness, as above.

89. For Emma widow of Nicholas le Norreys. Mandate to the escheator of the duchy to deliver to the said Emma her lands which had been seized into the Duke's hands because she had married one of the Duke's natives, Adam de Whiteley, it being certified to the Duke that a legal divorce had subsequently been had between the parties. Witness, as above, 10th August, anno 10.

90. Fines paid to the Duke.
John, son of Nicholas Blundell. For a writ concerning 9 messuages and 30 acres of land in Crosseby.
Laurence de Baylay and his wife Alice. For a writ de Conventione, concerning 2 messuages, 60 acres of land, 20 acres of meadow, 30 acres of pasture, and 2 acres of wood, with appurtenances in Henthorn in Mitton.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

91. For Adam, son of Roger Kide. Pardon to the said Adam, indicted before the sheriff of the duchy at his turn holden at Maincestre (Manchester), for catching the fish of John Emmeson at the mill of Heton Norreys.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 18th September, anno 10.

92. Fines paid to the Duke.
Adam del Dervylegh. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Houeresfyld.
John de Oxclif. For a writ of Formedon, concerning 4 messuages 1 mill, 3 saltpits, 20 acres of land, and 4 acres of meadow, in Stalmyn.

93. William del Hegbfeld and the heirs of his body. Grant of 1 messuage and 1 rood of land in Salford, which came to the Duke's hands by the death of Richard, son of Hugh de Tettelowe, who was a bastard and died without heir, to hold to the said William at 12*d.* rent per annum, with remainder in failure of heir to Thomas de Strangwas.
Witness, as above, 4th October, anno 10.
By John Cokayn, the Duke's steward.

94. For Robert de Cotom. Grant of all the lands and tenements which Alan le Greyne late held in Ingole to the said Robert for term of life at 20*s.* rent per annum. Witness, as above, 11th July, anno 10.

95. Alice widow of Roger, and Roger son of Roger de Pylkyngton. Fine for a writ de Attincta.

96. For William del Heghfeld. Grant of an escheat in Salford. See No. 93.

97. Fines paid to the Duke.
Thomas Hert. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning a freehold in Hyndelegh and Raynhull.
Henry de Walsh, parson of the church of Aghton, Richard le Walsh, Henry de Becaneshou, and Hugh de Chatherton. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin, concerning tenements in Eukeston.
John de Haverynglon, of Aldyngham, ch'r. For a writ de "Debito" of 42*l.* 5*s.*
Margery de Kirkedale and her sister Juliana and others. For a writ, concerning the manor of Kirkedale (except 4 acres of land in the same manor), and 4 acres of land in Kirkedale.

98. Between the Duke and the Abbot and convent of Whalleye. Indenture of agreement touching the grant of lands and tenements in the Chase of Romesgreue near Blakeburn, and the reversion of tenements in Penhulton and Clydrehou, which William de Ines holds for term of his life. (Cancelled. See No. 106.) Dated 2nd January, anno 10 ducatûs.

99. For Thomas de Lathum le Fitz, ch'r. Grant of an annual rent of 20 marks, payable out of the manor of West Derby.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 11th January, anno 10 ducatûs.

100. For Mathew de Assheton, clerk. Grant of the wardship of the lands and tenements of William de Warton deceased, who held of the Duke in capite, by reason of the lordship of Werington being in the Duke's hands, together with the marriage of the heir. Witness, as above, 10th February, anno 10.

101. For the Duke. William de Fyncheden, John Cokayn, Henry de Haydok, Roger de Farynton, and Robert de Syngleton, justices assigned to try certain malefactors for trespasses done in the free chases of Bouland, Penhull, Trouden, Rachedale, Rossendale, and Romesgreue.
Witness, as above, 4th March, anno 10.

102. For James de Pykeryng, ch'r. Grant of the wardship of the lands and tenements late of Thomas de Haverynglon, ch'r., deceased, who held of the Duke in capite, together with the marriage of Nicholas, brother and heir of the said Thomas, and, if the said Nicholas should die a minor, the wardship and marriage of William the next brother.
Witness, as above, 30th December, anno 10.

103. For Robert de Horneby and Margaret his wife. Grant of lands and tenements in Gosenargh escheated to the Duke by felony of John and Robert sons of Henry de Blakeburn. Witness, as above, 1st December, anno 10.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster : Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

104. For Richard de Radeclif. Lease for the term of 20 years of the foreign wood of Miresclogh, at 18 marks rent per annum.
Witness, the Duke, at Preston, 30th December, anno 10.

105. For Roger de Walmereslegh and Alice his wife. Mandate to Gef. de Wrightynton, the escheator of the duchy, to interfere no further in a messuage and 40 acres of land in Riblechastre, which had been seized into the Duke's hands by reason of the felony of Roger de Ellale, it being certified to the Duke that the said Roger de Walmereslegh was seized of those tenements in right of his wife Alice, without the said Roger de Ellale having any estate therein at the time he committed the felony.
Witness, as above, 16th March, anno 10.

106. Between the Duke and the abbot and convent of Whalleye. Indenture of agreement touching the grant of certain tenements called Romesgreve in the Duke's chase near Blakeburn, and the reversion of certain tenements called Standen, Hulcroft, and Grevinche, in the towns of Penhulton and Oldrehou, held by William de Ines for term of life.
Dated, 2nd January, anno 10 ducatûs.

107. For Ralph de Torbok. Grant of the bailiwick of the wapentake of Derby, for term of life, at 4 marks per annum.
Witness, the Duke, at Preston, 19th December, anno 10.

108. For Thomas del Bothe. Mandate to the escheator of the duchy not to interfere further in 9 messuages and 120 acres of land in Astelegh and Hyndelegh, seized into the Duke's hands by reason of the felony of Richard, son of Henry de Atherton, the Duke being certified that the said Henry had no interest therein at the time he committed the felony.
Witness, as above, 16th March, anno 11.

Roll from the 4th to the 11th year "Ducatûs" of Henry Duke of Lancaster. In tergo. (Class xxv.—A. 3ª.)

1. For Adam Skillyngcorn. Lease for term of 12 years of a place called Hoddesdone with appurtenances, at a rent of 2*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum.
Witness H. de Walton, lieutenant of the duchy, at Lancaster, 8th March.

2. For Henry le Norreys of Speek, Henry, son of Adam del Monkes of Blakeburn, and others. Recognizances of debts.

3. For William, son of Adam, of Liverpool, and others. The town of Liverpool demised to farm.
Witness Henry de Walton, lieutenant of the duchy, at Lancaster, 24th March.

4. For the King. Mandate to John de Haverington, senior, Nicholas le Botiler, and John de Kirkeby, to raise soldiers, men-at-arms, and archers in the wapentakes of Amounderness, Fourneys, and Lonsdale, within the duchy, to march against the Scotch in the King's army, according to the King's mandate to the duke or his lieutenant of the duchy.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 1st April.
Mandate to the sheriff to assist in the premises.
Similar letters are addressed to Richard de Radeclif, Gilbert de Haydok, William de Radeclif, sheriff of Lancaster, John de Assheton, John de Eccleston, and Henry de Becaneshou, in the wapentakes of West-Derbyshire, Salfordshire, Blakeburneshire, and Laylondshire.

5. William Careles, ch'r., Hamo de Mascy, ch'r., and many others. Recognizances of debts.

6. William le Botyler, of Werryngton, ch'r., to Geoffry, son of Ambrose de Wrightyngton, and others. Recognizances of debts.

7. Thomas, son of Stephen de Ditton, for Henry de Ditton. Enrolment of the deed of Thomas de Ditton, being a grant of an annual rent of 10*l.* payable out of all his lands and tenements in Ditton.
Dated at Ditton, 24th Edw. III.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

8. Otho de Halsale and others for John de Radeclif. Enrolment of a plea for debt, anno 4 ducatûs.

9. For Adam Skilyngcorn. Grant of the wardship of the lands and tenements late of William, son of Robert de Prees, deceased, who held of the Duke in capite, together with the marriage of John, son and heir of the said William. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 12th December.

10. For Geoffry de Medoucroft and Adam de Medoucroft. Pardon of the suit of peace pertaining to the Duke against the said Geoffry and Adam for breaking the fence of Blakelegh Park and hunting therein. Witness, as above.

11. For Robert de Glasebroke and the heirs of his body. Grant of a place called le Holtefeld in the town of Salford for 13*s.* rent per annum. Witness, as above, 13th December.

12. For William de Slayteburn, vicar of the church of Kirkeham. Pardon of the suit of peace pertaining to the Duke against the said William for maladministration in his office of dean of Amounderness, made at the request of Henry de Walton, archdeacon of Richmond. Witness, as above, 4th December.

13. For Adam Skilyngcorn and others. Recognizance of debts.

14. For the Duke. Mandate to Richard de Radeclif and William de Radeclif to raise and equip 300 archers in the wapentakes of Blackburneshire and Salfordshire (their wages to be paid them by the receiver of the duchy), and to have them conducted to the town of Hampton to go with the Duke to the parts of Brittany of which land he is appointed custos.
Similar mandate to Richard de Radeclif, Gilbert de Haydok, Thomas de Mascy, and John Baret, in the wapentake of West-Derbyshire.
Similar mandate to John de Haverington, Adam de Hoghton, Nicholas le Botiler, and William Radeclif, in the wapentakes of Leylondshire, Amounderness, and Lonsdale.
Mandate to the sheriff to assist in the premises.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 28th February.

15. For William de Hegham and others. Recognizance of debts.

16. For the mayor and commonalty of the town of Preston in Amounderness. Grant of a paviage for the town of Preston for the term of two years, being a license to take customs on all merchandize coming to the said town in aid of paving the same. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 3rd May, anno 6.

17. For Thomas del Bothe, absent in the King's service. Writ for admission of attorneys to plead in all the duchy courts. Witness, as above, 4th May. By the Duke himself and council.

18. For the prior of Durham. Admission of attorneys as above. Witness, as above, 7th May. By the Duke himself and council.

19. For Robert de Syngleton. Associated with the other justices assigned for the observance of the statute of weights and measures within the duchy in the room of Wm. Careles removed. Witness, as above, 3rd May. By the Duke himself and council.

20. For Hugh, son of Robert de Hornelyve. Richard and William de Radeclif assigned to inquire into the complaint of the said Hugh touching certain lands and tenements which he holds of the Duke in Hornelyve by custom of the manor. Witness, as above, 18th April.

21. For Roger de Wynstanlegh. Grant of the wardship of the lands and tenements late of Richard, son of Adam, son of Adam de Mondesslegh, deceased, who held of the Duke in capite, together with the marriage of Roger son and heir of the said Richard. Witness, as above, 14th August.

22. For the men of the town of Liverpool. Paviage for the town of Liverpool, for the term of two years. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 21st April, anno 7.

23. For Richard de Radeclif. Mandate to the escheator of the Duchy to cause livery of seizin to be made to the said Richard, of one messuage, and 12 acres of land in Radeclif, which were seized into the Duke's hands, because Adam de Radeclif, who held those lands of the said Richard, was hanged for felony, the Duke having had his year, day, and waste therein. Witness, as above.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

24. For John Cokayn, Roger de Farvngton, John de Haverynton, Richard de Radeclif, and others. Assigned justices for the observance of the ordinances and statutes of servants and artificers, and of weights and measures within the duchy. Witness, as above, 10th October.
By the Duke himself and council.

25. For Thomas le Norreys, of Derby, son and heir of William le Norreys. Confirmation of a grant of Henry, Earl of Lancaster, made to William le Norreys of 40 acres of land in West-Derby, in the duchy at 3*s*. 4*d*. rent per annum.
Witness, as above, 20th September, anno 7.

26. For Henry de Dokesbury. Writ of Redisseisin to the Sheriff of Lancaster, concerning two parts of the manor of Dokesbury.
Witness, as above, 26th June.

27. For William, son of John de Chorlegh. Writ of Postdisseisin to the sheriff of Lancaster, concerning one messuage, three acres of land, and half an acre of meadow in Chorlegh. Witness, as above, 28th July.

28. For Robert son of Henry de Plesyngton. Mandate to the escheator of the duchy to give seizin to the said Robert of a messuage and an oxgang of land in Penwortham, which had been seized into the Duke's hands by Henry de Yoxale, the late escheator of the duchy, for retraction of service, viz. to find a boat to convey persons as well on horse as on foot over the river Ribble; it being certified to the Duke that the said tenements were given by one Albredus Busshell to Henry de Plesyngton to find a boat as above for foot passengers only, which service had never been withdrawn.
Witness, as above, 1st August, anno 8.

29. For Jordan Abbot of Cockersand. Writ of Redisseisin to the sheriff of Lancaster, concerning 200 acres of moor and pasture in Ellisle.
Witness, as above, 7th September, anno 8.

30. For Master Richard de Hibernia, the Duke's physician. Grant of the site of the manor of Ulneswalton with the demesne lands, meadows, and pastures for term of life, and liberty to be tollfree and hoperfree for his own corn at the Duke's mills of Ulneswalton.
Witness the Duke, at Liverpool Castle, 18th December, anno 8.

31. For Ralph D'ypre, the Duke's Valletus. Grant of the nine quarters of wheat, which the men of the town of Overton pay annually to be allowed to grind their corn at the Duke's mill of Lone.
Witness, as above, 8th December, anno 8.

32. For John de Estwitton, Hermit. Grant of the custody of the chapel of St. Mary, of Syngleton.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 20th August, anno 8.

33. For Ranulph de Dacre, parson of the church of Prestecote, and others. Pardon for all trespasses done within the forest of the duchy, granted at the request of Geoffry le Scrope.
Witness the Duke, at Liverpool Castle, 1st January, anno 8.

34. For Richard de Dynelay. Pardon to the said Richard for not appearing in court at the suit of John de Radeclif, executor of the will of John, son of Alexander de Cliderhou. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 1st March.

35. Richard Peert, of Stirkland, and Margaret his wife. Fine for a writ of Formedon concerning one messuage, 16 acres of land, 80 acres of meadow, 20 acres of wood, and 500 acres of pasture, in Caton.

36. For Henry le Chaumberlein, of Prestecote. Pardon for trespasses done in the Duke's forest.
Witness the Duke, at Liverpool Castle, 24th March, anno 9.

37. For Robert del Eaes. Pardon for a trespass done in Gerstan, in the forest of West-Derbyshire. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 24th March, anno 9.

38. For John Cokayn, Roger de Farynton, and others. Justices assigned for the observance of the statutes of servants and artificers, and of weights and measures within the duchy.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 26th April, anno 9.

39. For John Cokayn and others. Justices assigned to keep the waters in which salmon is caught according to the statute. Witness, as above.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

40. For John Cokayn and others. Justices assigned to inquire into the stoppages of the common passages in the great rivers within the duchy, and chiefly in the river Ribble, by which the duke's fishery of Penwortham is destroyed and ships are impeded in their passage to the port of Preston, &c. Witness, as above.

41. For the men of the town of Liverpool. Paviage for the town of Liverpool for the term of two years. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 16th May, anno 9.

42. Henry le Norreys, of Speek, to William de Stanley, senior. Recognizance of a debt of 100 marks.

43. Otho de Halsale. Appointed to the stewardship of the wapentakes of Derbyshire and Salfordshire (except the fees of Totynton and Rochedale which were of the fee of the Earl of Lincoln, in Salfordshire) to hold during pleasure at the fee ordained by the Duke and his council.
Witness the Duke, at Liverpool, 26th April, anno 9.

Mandate to Richard de Radeclif and Robert de Syngleton, the late stewards, to deliver the rolls, &c.

44. For Roger la Warre, Lord of Maincestre. Pardon of n fine for a writ and another "pro Licencia Concordandi" concerning tenements in Maincestre.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 8th January, anno 9.

45. For Roger la Warre. Exemplification of the letters patent directed to certain commissioners to inquire into the premises set forth in the petition of Roger la Warre exhibited before the Duke and council touching the town of Maincestre, and of the inquisition taken by virtue of the same letters and returned into the Duke's chancery The inquisition states that Sir Roger la Warre, knight, lord of Maincestre, and his ancestors, time out of mind, have held the town of Maincestre as a market town but not as a borough, and have enjoyed certain liberties in the same town and in the manor of Maincestre, with the members and hamlets pertaining to the same, viz. in the town of Assheton in Salfordshire, Wythyngton, Heton Norrays, Barton near Eccles, Halghton, Hetoncuhn-Halfwall, Pilkynton, and in the hamlets of the same towns pertaining to the said manor. Witness the Duke, at Liverpool, 26th April, anno 9.

46. For Nicholas le Gentill. Fine for a writ of Formedon concerning the manor of Wynmerley.

47. For Thomas de Lathum le Piere and Dame Alianora Lathum, his wife. License to hold his park of Knouselegh without a deer leap, and to enclose a place contiguous called Grymesburst, although within the metes of the forest of the duchy. Witness, as above, 31st May, anno 9.

48. Between John de Wynwyk, parson of the church of Wigan, and Richard, son of William de Molineux, of Sefton. Enrolment of the agreement touching the wardship of the lands, and the marriage of William, son of William, son of Richard de Molineux, of Sefton (the right to the wardship of the heir being disputed by the king and the said Richard); it is agreed that in case the decision be in favour of Richard de Molineux, he is to grant to John Wynwyk, parson of the church of Wigan, the said wardship and marriage for 100 marks on certain conditions. The said Richard engaging not to alienc any of his possessions (so that the inheritance whereof he is now seized should not freely descend to the said William, son of William, as his heir apparent), by a bond of a rent charge of 100*l.* upon his manors of Sefton, Thorneton, and Dounlytherland. And on the part of John de Wynwyk, as to the payment of the 100 marks, 20*l.* thereof to be paid when the deeds are completed and acknowledged before Sir Henry de Haydok the Duke's chancellor, 10 marks in the following August, and 40*l.* to John de Masey, parson of the church of Sefton, and William de Stanley to the use of Joane daughter of the said Richard de Molineux in aid of her marriage.
Dated at Walton, near Derby, 33 Edw. III.

49. For John de Wynwyk, parson of the church of Wigan. The letters of John de Mascy, parson of the church of Sefton, and William de Stanlegh the elder, touching the 40*l.* as above. 33 Edw. III.

50. For the same John and his brother master Richard de Wynwyk, parson of the church of Walton. Enrolment of the bond of Richard de Molineux, of Sefton, in an annual rent of 100*l.* charged upon his manors of Sefton, Thorneton, and Dounlytherland, as above. 33 Edw. III.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

51. For the same John. Enrolment of a bond of Richard de Molineux, in 200 marks received as a loan. 33 Edw. III.

52. For William de Fynchedene. Justice assigned to hold pleas within the duchy in room of Thomas de Seton. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 1st August.

53. For Henry le Norreys and William de Holand, of Hale, going abroad in the King's service. Letters of protection attested by Henry de Walton, Archdeacon of Richmond. 6th August, anno 9.

54. For Adam de Hoghton, ch'r. Letters of protection for the said Adam going abroad in the King's service in "Comitiva," John Earl of Richmond. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 6th August, anno 9.

55. For John de Ipre. Inspeximus and Confirmation of an indenture of lease made by Peter Martin, prior of the church of our Lady at Lancaster, to the said John de Ipre for term of 60 years, of the manor of Aldeclif, together with the services of the free tenants, bondmen, and tenants at will at 20*l.* rent per annum, and the services due and accustomed to the chief lords of the fee. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 8th August, anno 9.

56. For the men of Lonsdale. William de Dacre, ch'r., and others assigned to levy the sum of 520 marks from the men and freeholders within the forest of Quernemore, and the natives of Lonsdale and others, being their portion of the fine of 1,000*l.* incurred by the freeholders within the forest of Lancashire for trespass against the assize of the forest. Witness, as above.

57. For the King. Mandate to John de Haverington and others to raise and equip soldiers, men-at-arms, and archers within the duchy, according to the tenor of the King's mandate within recited.
Witness Nicholas de Colshull, lieut. of the duchy, at Preston, 24th November, anno 9.

58. For John, son of Richard le Botiler, of Merton. Pardon to the said John indicted for shooting at Adam Skilyngcorne, at Clifton, in a place called Depedale. Witness, the Duke, at Preston, 24th September, anno 10.

59. For John de Trafford and Nicholas, son of Richard de Trafford. Pardon to the said John and Nicholas, indicted for divers trespasses.
Witness, as above.

60. For Gilbert de Kighlay. Mandate to the escheator of the duchy to give seizin to the said Gilbert of 16 acres of land in Bedeford, which were held of him by Adam de Sale of Leght, a felon, the Duke having had his year, day, and waste therein.

61. For Henry, son of William de Sale. Mandate as above, concerning 1 messuage, 10 acres of land, and 2 acres of meadow in Bedeford. Witness, as above.

62. For Richard de Bradeshagh of Pynynton. Mandate as above, concerning 8½ acres of land in Pynynton. Witness, as above.

63. For Matthew, son of Gilbert del Twis. Mandate to the escheator of the duchy to interfere no further in 2 messuages and 28 acres of land in Culchith which had been seized into the Duke's hands, because Goditha, wife of Gilbert del Twis, who held the tenements for term of life, had given them to Adam, son of John de Tildesleigh, outlawed for felony; it being certified to the Duke that Richard del Twis, great grandfather of the said Mathew, died seized of the said tenements in his demesne as of fee, from whom the said Mathew claims as being the son of Gilbert son of Alan son of Richard, and that the said Adam de Tildesleigh, the felon, never possessed any estate in the same. Witness the Duke, at Preston, 12th August, anno 10.

64. For John, son of Matilda de Coure. Mandate to the escheator to give seizin to the said John of 1 messuage 50 acres of land and 10 acres of meadow in Chipyn, seized into the Duke's hands by reason of the felony of John son of Richard de Knoll, it being certified to the Duke that the said John obtained a pardon from the King, and afterwards enfeoffed the said John, son of Matilda de Coure, with the said tenements.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 12th August, anno 10.

65. For Thomas de Ardern, ch'r. Mandate to the escheator to give seizin to the said Thomas of 20 acres of land in Chorlegh, seized into the Duke's hands for the felony of Robert de Ardern, who held the lands for the term of life only, with remainder to the said Thomas. Witness, as above.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

66. For Margery, daughter of Henry de Pillesworth. Pardon to the said Margery, indicted before the justices for an assault upon Matilda le Mercer at Maincestre.
Witness, as above, 23rd September, anno 10.

67. For Nicholas, son of Adam de Syngleton. Pardon to the said Nicholas for a trespass in Lancashire forest at Mirescogh park.
Witness, as above, 24th September, anno 10.

68. For Alan, son of Richard de Caterhale. Pardon to the said Alan for a trespass in Lancashire forest at Gosenargh. Witness, as above.

69. For Alice, widow of Roger de Pilkyngton and Roger, son of Roger de Pilkyngton. Exemplification of the record and process of an imparlance between Henry de Bury complainant, and Alice widow of Roger, and Roger son of Roger de Pilkyngton defendants, touching the entail of the manor of Bury.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 22 September, anno 10.

70. For William de Heskeith, ch'r., lord of the town of Great Harewood. Exemplification of the record and process of an Assize of Novel Disseisin, summoned to recognize whether Henry de Clayton othe Mores and others unjustly disseize William de Heskeith, ch'r., of his freehold in Harewode and Clayton othe Mores, viz. of a watermill situate upon the water of Hyndeburne, which is the division between the towns of Harewode and Clayton othe Mores.
Witness the Duke, at Preston, 28th September, anno 10 ducatûs.

IV. Roll from the First to the Twelfth Year of the Regality of John, King of Castile and Leon, Duke of Lancaster, viz. from A.D. 1377 (51 Edw. III.) to 1389 (12 Ric. II.).

(Class xxv.—A. 6.)

Memorandum.—That on the 17th of April in the 51st year of the reign of King Edward III. at Le [Savoy,] near Westminster, John, King of Castile and Leon, Duke of Lancaster, in presence of Sir Robert de Wylyngton, knight, Sir Thomas de Hongerford, knight, and others of the same King's household present there, that is to say, in the chapel built within his mansion there, did constitute Thomas de Thelwall, clerk, his chancellor, within the duchy and county of Lancaster, and upon his taking the oath the same King with his own hand delivered to the said Thomas "Magnum "sigillum suum pro regimine regalitatis comitatûs palatini ibidem ordinatum," his great seal for the governance of the regality of the county palatine there ordained, to keep according to the duty of his office.

And afterwards the aforesaid chancellor having received the said seal, on the 20th April following set the same to a writ, which is enrolled as follows:

Proclamation—

John, by the grace of God, King of Castile and Leon, Duke of Lancaster, to the Sheriff of Lancaster, greeting:

Know ye, that we have assigned our beloved and faithful William de Skipwyth, Roger de Filthorpe, and William de Nessefeld, to be our justices, to hold all our pleas as well of the crown as of land, assizes, juries, and certificates, and all manner of pleas whatsoever arising in the county aforesaid, and to a count palatine belonging, "ad comitem palatinum spectantia," and with the advice of our Council we have thought fit to fix the Monday next after the Lord's Ascension for the same justices to commence their sessions at Lancaster. And therefore we command you that in your full county and in other market-places where you may deem it expedient, you cause a public proclamation to be made that all and singular persons wishing to prosecute their business or their pleas before the same justices, be present there on that day. And further, do you cause then and there to come 24 of the most discreet, lawful, and honest men of every wapentake or hundred of the said county, further to do that which our aforesaid justices shall command on our behalf; and have you there the names of the aforesaid 24 and this writ. Witness ourself, at Lancaster, on the 20th April in the first year of the regality of our county palatine.

---

1. Fines paid to the Duke.
John de Hoddeleston, ch'r., and Catherine his wife. For a writ of Assize of Novel Disseisin.
Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 20th May.
Nicholas de Syngleton, junr. For a writ de "Conventione."
Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 6th May.

Digitized by Google

835

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

2. For Robert, son and heir of Sir John de Haryngton, knight. Mandate to Roger de Brokholes, the Duke's escheator in the county of Lancaster, to cause livery of seizin to be made to the said Robert of his lands, upon receiving security for the payment of his relief, the said Robert, son of John de Haryngton, who held of King Edward in capite, having proved his age before Richard de Hoghton, late the King's escheator in the said county of Lancaster.
Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 28th April.

Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Laurence de Holm and Isabella his wife.
William de Par, chaplain.

3. For Henry, son and heir of William de Ferrars of Groby, ch'r. Mandate to Roger de Brokholes, the Duke's escheator in the county of Lancaster, to deliver to the said Henry the lands both of his father William and those which his mother Margaret, now deceased, had held in dower, the said Henry, son of William de Ferrars, who held of King Edward in capite, having proved his age before Thomas Bataill, the King's escheator in the county of Essex.
Witness, as above, 12th May.

4. For Walter Pedwardyn, ch'r, and his wife Isabella, and John de Hotham, ch'r. Mandate as above, to deliver to the heirs of Thomas de Thweng, who held of King Edward in capite the advowsons of the abbeys, priories, churches, and chantries, which had been seized into the King's hands upon the death of the said Thomas, viz. to Walter Pedwardyn, ch'r, and his wife Isabella, daughter of Margaret one of the sisters and heirs of the said Thomas, and to John de Hotham, ch'r., and his wife Matilda, another of the daughters of the said Margaret, the advowsons of the priory of Conyngesheved [Conished) and the advowsons of the church of Warton in the county of Lancaster, as their portions.
Witness, as above, 20th May.

5. For William de Botrieux, ch'r., and his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Katherine, one of the sisters and heirs of Thomas de Thweng, the moiety of one knight's fee, with appurtenances in Ellale, Scotford, Asheton, Stodagh, Thirnum, Ketelfeld, Fynchecroft, Stalegill, Kliffegh, Bakesterfeld in Esshescogh, and Kerneford called Saltmere, in the county of Lancaster.
Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 20th May.

6. For the Duke. Warrant to Adam de Hoghton, keeper of Quernemore Forest, to cut down 260 oaks within the foreign wood of Quernemore, for the repairs of Lancaster Castle.
Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 26th August.
By the council.

7. For the Duke. Precept to the mayor and bailiffs of Lancaster publicly to proclaim a prohibition against any persons congregating with an armed power to impede the sessions of the justices at Lancaster.
Witness, as above, 9th May.
By the council.

8. Fines paid to the Duke for various writs.
Ralph de Radeclif.
Roger de Pilkyngton, chivaler.
Henry de Bradshagh and Johanna his wife.
Amice widow of William de Bradshagh, chivaler.
John de Croft and Mabel his wife, David de Irland and Margery his wife, and John de Strangways and Alice his wife.
Roger de Louglegh.
William son of Thurstan de Holand.
John del Nott, senior.
Thomas le Molyneux of Keverdale.
Adam de Hoghton, kt., and Elena his wife.
Robert de Burgh.
Thomas le Wyse, clerk, and William Gronel.
John son of William Cay.
Thomas de Suthworth, kt.
Robert de Ursewik.
William de Accres of Kyrkedale.
Robert del Eues of Par.
Richard de Shuteleworth.
Matilda widow of Robert de Legh of Adlyngton, senior.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

Geoffrey de Worksleigh, kt., and Maria his wife.
John de Masey, kt., and John son of Richard de Radcliffe.
Roger son of Richard de Bradeshagh of Pynyrton.

9. For the Duke. Writ of "Diem clausit extremum" directed to the escheator in the county of Lancaster to seize into the hands of the King and Duke the lands of Nicholas de Prestwyche, who held in capite.
Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 4th December.

10. For John Boteler and Nicholas de Haveryngton. Precept to the sheriff of Lancashire to pay to the said John and Nicholas, the knights elected for the commonalty of the duchy of Lancaster, 26*l.* 8*s.* for their expenses in coming to the Parliament of King Richard at Westminster.
Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 20th December.

11. For King Richard. Precept to the sheriff to make proclamation in all the cities, boroughs, &c., within the duchy, that all foreign mendicant friars, regular and secular, do quit the realm within a certain time, according to the tenor of King Richard's mandate, directed to the Duke or his chancellor in the duchy. Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 15th January.

12. For the prior and convent of St. Mary's, Leicester. Precept to the escheator in the county of Lancaster not to interfere in the manors and possessions of the abbey of St. Mary de Pratis, otherwise called Leicester Abbey, during its present avoidance by the death of its abbot, according to the tenor of King Richard's mandate within recited. Witness, as above, 25th February.

"Hic incipiunt rotuli claus' de interiori parte de anno regalitatis Johannis Regis Castellæ et Legionis, ducis Lancastriæ, videlicet comitatûs sui palatini Lancastriæ, secundo incipiente."

13. For the Abbot of Furness. Precipe directed to the sheriff of Lancaster to cause the executors of the will of John Raton, merchant, to pay the said abbot 55*l.*
Witness the Duke, at Lancaster, 1st March, anno Regal. 2.

Richard de Shutelesworth. Fine paid for a writ.

14. Fines paid to the Duke for various writs.
John de Wandesford, and John Le Botiller, of Merton.
William Langley, parson of the church of Midilton. 18th March.
Richard Sonderland, chaplain, and others. 10th March.
John del Eues and his wife Johanna.
Witness Henry Earl of Derby, "filio Regis carissimo, custode regalitatis comitatûs sui palatini Lancastriæ." 11th July.
William de Wetherby, vicar of the church of Blakeburn, and Robert de Carleton, chaplain.
Christofer de Broghton, John de Croft of Dalton, and others.
Witness the aforesaid custos, 8th August.

15. For the Abbot of Evesham. Mandate to the Barons of the Exchequer to inquire concerning the fishery called Hoghwyk in the river Ribble, claimed by the said abbot, as pertaining to his priory of Penwortham, and seized into the Duke's hands by William de Chorlegh, deputy steward of the manor of Penwortham. Witness the aforesaid custos, 14th August.
"Per petitionem de consilio."

16. For the King and Duke. Mandate to the sheriff of Lancashire to levy the aid, according to the statute, to make the Duke's eldest son a knight.
Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 20th May.
"Per litteras ipsius Regis et Ducis."

17. For the Duke and the other magnates in his retinue going abroad in the King of England's service. Letter to the abbot of Furness to offer prayers and sacrifices to God for the success of the expedition.
Witness Henry Earl of Derby, custos of the regality of the county palatine of Lancaster, 12th June, anno 2.
By the council.

Similar letters addressed to—
The Abbot of Whalley.
The Prior of Burscogh.
The Abbot of Cokersand.
The Prior of Holand.
The Prior of Cartmell.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

The Prior of Conynsheved.
The Proctor of the Abbot of St. Mary's at Leicester, residing at Cokerham.
The Proctor of the Prior of Durham at Lythum.
The Proctor of the Abbot of Croxton at Hornby.
The Prior of the Order of Preaching Friars at Lancaster.
The Warden of the Order of Preaching Friars at Preston.
The Prior of the Order of Hermits of Saint Augustine at Werynglon.
The Archdeacon of Richmond, or his officiate in the duchy.
The Archdeacon of Chester, or his officiate in the duchy.
Witness, as above.

18. For the Duke. Mandate to Roger de Brokholes the duke's escheator in the county of Lancaster, to seize into his hands all the lands and tenements which Otho de Halsale held in capite on the day of his death.
Witness the Custos aforesaid, at Lancaster, 4th August.

19. For Richard de Townlay the sheriff. Mandate to the Barons of the Exchequer to pay the sheriff's account of charges for parchment, &c., used in the exercise of his office. Witness, as above, 12th August.

20. For John Botiller ch'r and Ralph de Ipre. Precept to the sheriff to pay the knights elected for the commonalty of the Duchy of Lancaster 16*l.* for their expenses in coming to the parliament at Glouecster.
Witness the King and Duke at Lancaster, 18th November, anno 2.

Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Hugh de Dacre, kt.
Sarra widow of Matthew de Burgh.

ANNO TERTIO REGALITATIS.

21. For Alan Wilkeson and Matilda his wife. Mandate to the Barons of the Exchequer to inquire into the petition of the said Alan and his wife, touching a messuage, 20 acres of land and 5 acres of meadow, in Kirkehy in West-Derbyshire, seized into the Duke's hands for the felony of John, son of Thomas de Leylond, ch'r., the said Matilda's first husband.
Witness the King and Duke, 18th March, anno 3 Regalitatis.
By petition before the council.

22. Fines paid to the Duke for various writs.

John de Heuthorn, chaplain.
James de Pykeryng.
The Abbot of Vale Royal.
John Byron, chivaler.
Richard de Shotelesworth.
William de Tunstall.
John de Assheton, kt.
John Botiller, chivaller, and Alice his wife.
Agnes widow of William Cupper of Chester.
Ralph de Bolton.
John del Elmetrydyng.
John son of William Cay.
William le Genour.
John de Bredekirk.
The Abbot of Fourness.

23. For the Duke. Mandate to the justices to adjourn the sessions.
Witness the King and Duke, 22nd March.
By the council.

24. For the Abbot of Whallay. Mandate to the Barons of the Exchequer to inquire into the petition of the said Abbot, touching 16qrs. of oats the Tithes of his church of All Saints of Whallay at Alnetham, which the escheator had seized into the Duke's hands, supposing them to have belonged to William Talbot an outlaw.
Witness, as above.
By petition before the council.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster : Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

25. For the King of England. Precept to the sheriff to proclaim within the duchy the ordinance made relative to the goldsmiths' mark.
Witness, as above, 21st July.

26. For Nicholas de Haryngton Ch'r and Robert de Urcewyk. Precept to the sheriff to pay the knights elected for the commonalty of the duchy 18*l.* for their expenses in coming to the Parliament at Westminster.
Witness, as above, 12th July.

27. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to elect another coroner for the county of Lancaster in the room of Thomas de Fasacrelegh.
Witness the King and Duke at Lancaster, 8th August.

28. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to elect other verdurers for Derbyshire Amounderness, and Lonsdale. Witness, as above, 10th August.

29. For John de Eccleston. Precept to the sheriff to give seizin to the said John of the messuage and eight acres of land in Raynhull which had been seized into the Duke's hands for the felony of Robert de Raynhull ; the Duke having had his year, day, and waste therein.
Witness, as above, 22nd August.

Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Ralph de Tildesleyh.
Richard de Shutelesworth.

30. For the Abbot of Evesham. Mandate to Richard de Hoghton the Duke's escheator in the county of Lancaster to deliver the temporalities to Roger de Yatton chosen Abbot of the Monastery of Evesham.
Witness, as above, 1st December.

By petition before the Council.

31. For the Abbot of Evesham. Mandate to the Barons of the Exchequer to surcease all demands upon the Abbot of Evesham to answer to the Duke for the issues of the temporalities of the said abbey, according to the force and effect of the award of the Great Council. Witness, as above, 13th February.

32. For the Duke. Mandate to Richard de Hoghton, the Duke's escheator, to seize into his hands all the lands and tenements which Sir Thomas Banastre, knight, who held of the Duke in capite, died seized of in his demesne as of fee.
Witness, as above, 1st February.

Anno Quarto Regalitatis.

33. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to elect a coroner for the county of Lancaster, in the room of Gilbert de Berburn.
Witness, as above, 14th March, anno Regalitatis 4.

34. For John Botiller, ch'r, and Thomas de Sutheworth, ch'r. Precept to the Sheriff to pay the knights elected for the commonalty of the duchy 24*l.* for their expenses in coming to the Parliament at Westminster.
Witness, as above, 24th March.

35. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.

William de Bisphame, chaplain, and Thomas le Wrighteson of Cokirhame.
Matilda widow of John de Ethelistou.
John de Sonky.
John de Kirkeby, chivaler, Edward de Lathum, and Henry de Scaresbrek.
John son of Roger Travers of Heesham.
Hugh de Daere, kt.
Henry de Scolefeld and Richard de Bolton.
Walter Robynson of Lancaster.
Robert de Alnetham and Emma his wife.
John le Botiller of Werynglon, chivaler.
Alan de Caterale.
Nicholas Baret, chaplain.
Roger de Keverdale, chaplain, and Adam de Redeleghs, chaplain.
William de Gouer, chaplain, and John de Fourness, chaplain.
Richard de Shotelesworth.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

36. For John de Haydok and Johanna his wife. The Duke's precept to his escheator to give seizin to John de Haydok and his wife Johanna, widow of Richard le Botiller, the lands of William le Botiller, ch'r., deceased, who held in capite for term of life, with remainder to Richard le Botiller and his wife Johanna, the manors of Laton Magna, Laton Parva, Bispham, Warthebrek, and Great Merton, and rent in Atherton, Westlegh, Pynnyngton, Bolde, Lydeyate, Thornton, Culcheth, Egergarth, Tildeslegh, Glassebroke, Bedforth, Halsall, Ines, and Wyndehull, and the manor of Great Sonke or Sonky (except 3*l.* 5*s.* 11*d.* rent), the third part of the manor of Werynyngton (except 27 messuages, 80½ acres of land, 17 acres of meadow, and 6*l.* 9*s.* 11½*d.* of rent).
Witness the King and Duke, 1st August.

37. For John Botiller, knight. Precept to the escheator to give seizin to John Botiller, knight, of the lands of his father William Botiller, ch'r., deceased, who held in capite 40 messuages, 440 acres of land, 20 acres of meadow, 300 acres of wood, 400 acres of turbary, and 2 parts of a mill in Burtonwod, and 2 parts of the manor of Werynyngton, with the advowson of the church.
Witness, as above, 6th August.
By letters of Privy Seal of the same King and Duke.

38. For the Duke. Precept to his escheator to seize into his hands all the lands and tenements which William le Botiller, ch'r., held on the day of his death.
Witness, as above, 18th April.

Like writ as to the lands of John Byron, ch'r., deceased.
Witness, as above, 18th July.

Like writ as to the lands of Richard son of John de Radeliff, deceased.
Witness, as above.

39. For Gilbert de Gosforthcbo. Writ of Redisseisin directed to the sheriff, concerning common of turbary in Searesbrek, pertaining to a freehold in the town of Scaresbrek.
Witness, as above, 6th August.

40. For the tenants of the township of Worston. Mandate to the Barons of the Exchequer to cease their demand upon the tenants of Worston for a rent of 2*s.* for an enclosure of parcel of the common of pasture of the said township which had been made by William Nowel, but being found to be to the injury of the tenants had been subsequently thrown down.
Witness, as above, 14th August.
By petition before the council.

41. For John Botiller, ch'r., and Thomas de Suthworth, ch'r. Precept to the sheriff to pay the knights elected for the commonalty of the duchy 19*l.* 12*s.*, for their expenses in coming to the parliament at Northampton.
Witness the King and Duke, 12th December.

42. Writs of "Diem clausit extremum."

The Duke's mandate to his escheator to seize into his hands the lands and tenements of Peter Gerard, ch'r., who held in capite.
Witness, as above, 20th February.

Like mandate as to the lands of Ellen de Birewayth, deceased.
26th February.

Like mandate as to the lands of William de Bradeshagh of Hagh, deceased.
20th February.

Like mandate as to the lands of Richard de Caterall, deceased.
20th February.

Like mandate as to the lands of Gilbert de Kyghlegh, deceased.
20th February.

Like mandate as to the lands of Isabella widow of Robert son of Nicholas de Eton, deceased.
24th February.

43. For John, son and heir of Richard son of John de Radeclif. Mandate to the escheator to give to John, son of Richard de Radeclif, deceased, seizin of his lands, viz. the manor of Urdesale, three parts of the moiety of the town of Flixton, tenements in Le Hope, Shoresworth, Le Holynhed in Tokholes, Salford, the bailiwick of Rachedale, and one-fourth part of the moiety of the town of Clixton.
Witness, as above, 28th September.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

Anno Quinto Regalitatis.

44. For Isabella, widow of William de Bradeshagh of Hagh. Mandate to the escheator to assign to the said Isabella her dower out of the lands of her husband William, seized into the Duke's hands by reason of the minority of Thomas the son and heir. Witness, as above, 23rd March, anno 5.

45. Writs of "Diem clausit extremum."
The Duke's mandate to the escheator to take into his hands the lands of John de Skereton, deceased, who held in capite.
Witness, as above, 1st March.

Like mandate on the death of Adam de Lancastre, tenant in capite.
Witness, as above.

Of Adam de Knoll.	Witness, as above.
Of Robert de Rissheton.	Witness, as above.
Of William de Noweil.	Witness, as above.
Of Roger de Aspeden.	Witness, as above.
Of John Bannastre of Walton.	Witness, as above.
Of Hugh del Holt.	Witness, as above.
Of Adam Ward.	Witness, as above.
Of John Gresleley.	Witness, as above.
Of Robert de Irland.	Witness, as above, 15th March.

46. For Roger de Pilkyngton, knight. Writ of Post Disseisin addressed to the sheriff concerning a tenement in Rediche.
Witness the King and Duke, 24th August.

47. For the Abbot of Cokersand. Mandate to the Barons of the Exchequer to inquire concerning a certain rent which the said abbot claims in right of his church, issuing out of certain lands held by Henry de Chaderton in Mellyng, seized into the Duke's hands for debt. Witness, &c., 20th of March.
By petition before the council.

48. Fines paid to the Duke for various writs.
Thomas de Rigmayden.
James de Radclif.
Geoffrey de Workesleyh, kt., and John le Masey, kt.
John son and heir of Richard de Tounlay.
Robert del Eves.
John de Horneby, parson of Tatham, and William son of Robert de Horneby.
Richard de Redich.
Robert de Maunton, vicar of Eccles, and John de Maunton, chaplain.
Roger de Bysspham and Margaret his wife.
John son of William Kay.
Richard son of John Bannstre of Walton-in-le-dale and Johanna his wife.
Solut'. Et quieti sunt sicut Willielmus de Horneby clericus Hanaperii Regis et Ducis recognovit.

49. For the King of England. Precept to the sheriff to take William del Grenhill, of Gosiver (outlawed in the court of the King of England) within the duchy, according to the royal mandate within recited.
Witness the King and Duke, 22nd August.

50. For the King of England. Precept to the mayor and bailiffs of the town of Liverpool to proclaim the King's mandate prohibiting the exportation of corn.
22nd October.

Anno Sexto Regalitatis.

51. For John de Warenna, knight. Mandate to the escheater to give seizin of the manor of Wodplumpton to John de Warenna, knight, the son of Cecily, sister of Robert, son of Nicholas de Eton. The feoffment of the manor having been made by John, son of John de Davenport, knight, to the said Robert, son of Nicholas de Eton, and his wife Isabella, and the heirs of their bodies, and after them to John, son of Nicholas de Eton, and Katharine his wife, and the heirs of their bodies, and after them to the right heirs of the said Robert.
12th March, anno 6.
By letters of privy seal of the King and Duke, and by the council.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

52. For William de Atherton and Robert de Urcewyk. Precept to the sheriff to pay the knights elected for the commonalty of the duchy 38*l.* 8*s.* for their expenses in coming to the parliament at Westminster.
Witness the King and Duke, 20th March.

53. For the King of England. Precept to the mayor and bailiffs of the town of Liverpool to proclaim the King's mandate touching the exportation of corn.
Witness, as above, 1st March.

54. For the King of Scotland. Precept to the sheriff to distrain certain persons of Liverpool, into whose possession had come several casks of wine which had been taken in the port of Inchegalle by some persons of the county of Chester contrary to the truce made with Scotland, to pay the sum of 10 marks for each of the casks so taken. Witness the King and Duke 20th March.

55. For the King of England. Precept to the sheriff to publish the King's proclamation within the duchy relative to the obtaining of charters of pardon by any of the King's subjects (except certain persons named and the men of the city of Canterbury, and of the towns of Cambridge, Bridgewater, St. Edmonds, Beverley, and Scardeburgh). Witness, as above, 1st March.

56. For Roger de Pilkyngton, chr.', and Robert de Clifton. Precept to the sheriff to pay the knights elected for the commonalty of the duchy 10*l.* for their expenses in coming to the parliament at Westminster. 1st June.

57. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.

Thomas de Ditton of Fourness and others.
Elizabeth, widow of John de Rigmayden, executrix of the will of John de Rigmayden.
Henry son of Alan de Worthyngton.
Geoffrey de Werberton.
Anabel widow of John Comyn of Neubold, and John de Haydok.
John de Wassyngton and Johanna his wife.
William de Athirton, kt.
Master Richard de Wynewyke, parson of Walton, and Master William de Assheton, clerk.
John de Holcroft.
Nicholas Orell and Thomas de Fasacreley.
Robert de Syngleton.

58. For the King of England. Precept to the mayor and bailiffs of the town of Liverpool to proclaim the King's mandate touching the exportation of corn.
26th May.

59. Writs of Diem clausit extremum. The Duke's mandate to the escheator to take into his hands the lands and tenements of Edmund Laurence, deceased, who held of the King and Duke in capite. 13th March.

Like mandate as to the lands of Thomas de Lathum, knight, deceased.
20th March.

60. For the King of England. Precept to the mayor and bailiffs of the town of Liverpool to proclaim the King's mandate relative to the exportation of corn.
3rd June.

61. For the poor fishermen in the duchy. Precept to the sheriff to publish the King's mandate prohibiting any persons within the duchy, holding lands on the sea coast, from preventing the fishermen from setting their nets in the sea and catching fish there for their livelihood. 3rd June.

62. For Matilda, daughter of Richard Waryng, of Whityngham. Writ of Redisseisin addressed to the sheriff, concerning 1 messuage, 30 acres of land, and 6 acres of wood in Chippyn. 7th August.

63. For Thomas, son of Roger de Knoll. Mandate to the Barons of the Exchequer to inquire concerning certain lands in Chippendale which had been seized into the Duke's hands, on account of the felony of John, son of Richard de Knoll, on the suggestion that the purchase had been made subsequent to the date of the charter of pardon obtained from the King.
Witness the King and Duke, 20th August.

By petition in council.

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster : Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

64. For the King of England. Writ addressed to the King of Castile and Duke of Lancaster to cause to be elected and to come to Parliament two knights for the commonalty of the duchy, and of every city two citizens, and of every borough two burgesses.
Witness the King, at Westminster, 7th January, 6 Ric. 2..

65. For the King of England. Precept to the sheriff to make proclamation of the statutes and ordinances made in the Parliament of the 6th year of King Richard as recited in the King's mandate addressed to the Duke of Lancaster or his lieutenant. Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 8th February.

66. For Margery widow of John Banastre, of Walton-in-le-Dale. Writ of Post Disseisin, concerning the dower of the said Margery out of the lands in Walton in the Dale. 12th February.

67. For the owners of the ship, called a "Carrak," wrecked on the duchy coast. Precept to the sheriff to make proclamation that all the Duke's officers, ministers, and tenants of the duchy abstain from taking the goods of the said ship, the crew having escaped alive. 24th February.

ANNO SEPTIMO REGALITATIS.

68. For the Duke. Writ of "Diem clausit extremum," upon the death of John de Kirkby, chr.' Witness the King and Duke, 3rd March, anno 7.

69. Like writ upon the death of David de Irland. Witness as above.

70. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to elect a verdurer for Amounderness in place of Adam Bradkirk. 4th March.

71. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to elect a verdurer for Derbyshire in the room of Richard de Aynesargh, deceased. 4th March.

72. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to elect a coroner for the county in the room of Adam de Shylicorne. 6th March.

73. For the Abbot of Cockersand. Precept to the sheriff to give the said abbot seizin of the lands in Billynge, which had been seized into the hands of King Edward for the felony of William de Falynge, who held them of the abbot of Cockersand. 8th March.

74. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Roger Henrison le Walsh.
Isabella widow of William de Bradeshagh of Hagh, and Gilbert le Vikerymon, executors of the will of the said William.
William son of John de Hulm.
Geoffrey son of Adam Medocroft, and Margery his wife.
John de Bridestwisill, chaplain, and Rich. de Twyston, chaplain.

75. For Richard de Bareweford and Agnes his wife. Writ of Redisseisin, concerning 14 acres of land and 2 acres of meadow at Chorlegh. 12th March.

76. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
The Abbot of Cokersand.
Thomas de Clayton, chaplain.
John Fairfax, parson of Prestcotes.
Cecilia widow of James de Lostok.
Richard son of John Banastre of Walton-in-le-dale.
Thurstan son of Gilbert de Culchith and Elizabeth his wife.
Gilbert de Culchith and Katherine his wife.
Richard de Hadfeld.

77. For the Duke. Writ of "Diem clausit extremum," directed to Robert de Urswyk, escheator, on the death of Hugh de Bradshagh. 30th August.

78. For John, son of Roger de Pilkyngton, ch'r., and Margaret his wife. Writ "de Dote assignandâ," directed to Robert de Urswyk, escheator, for Margaret widow of Hugh de Bradshagh. 27th August.

79. For the Duke. Writ of "Diem clausit extremum," upon the death of Hugh de Dacre, ch'r. 1st February.
Like writ, on the death of Thomas de Rigmayden. Witness, as above.
Of Thomas de Lathum. Witness, as above.
Of Richard de Balderston. Witness, as above.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

80. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
John son of Robert de Singleton.
Thomas del More.
Henry de Strangways.
William de Langeton, clerk.
William de Blakburn and Katherine his wife.
Henry Hoghwik.
John de Pilkyngton, parson of Bury.

ANNO OCTAVO REGALITATIS.

81. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to cause proclamation to be made that all the men of the Duke's retinue be prepared to meet him at Newcastle-upon-Tyne to march into Scotland.
Witness the King and Duke, 1st March, anno 8.

82. For Adam de Prestall, of Salfordshire. Precept to the sheriff not to put the said Adam on juries, &c., he being so deaf that he can scarcely hear a sound. 16th March.
By the Council.

83. For Johanna, widow of Thomas de Rigmayden. Writ de "Dote assignandâ," addressed to the escheator.
Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 12th March.

84. For the Duke. Writ of "Diem clausit extremum," upon the death of Mathew de Twisilton. 14th March.
Of John Kekwyk, of Derby. 26th March.
Of William Barton. 12th December.

85. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Walter de Strikeland.
John de Stanlowe.
John de la Warre, kt.
Roger del Barres.
William de Tunstall.
Robert de Hyde of Northbury.
Richard de Shotelisworth.
Isabella widow of Richard son of William de Radclif.
Thomas son of Henry de Tildeslegh, and Alice his wife.
The executors of the will of Thomas de Trafford.
John de Leght, chaplain.
John la Warre, kt., of Mainceestre.
Richard de Sutton and Henry de Bradshagh.
William de Atherton, kt., and John de Holcroft.
John Cauchone, late parson of Warton in Kendale.
Alicia daughter of Adam de Bury.
Peter de Shakerslegh.
Thomas son of William de Bolroun.

86. For the Duke. Writ of "Mandamus" addressed to the escheator upon the death of John, son of Thomas de Rigmayden. 26th March.
Of Thomas Banastre, ch'r. 13th December.
Of Edward Banastre. As above.

87. For John Daunport. Mandate to William de Horneby, the receiver in the county of Lancaster, to pay the secondary justice in the duchy 20 marks for his fee, and 20*s.* for the fee of his clerk for the two last sessions. 12th March.

88. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Thomas Jacson del Lee.
John de Morlegh.
John de Fletewode, executor of the will of John Skilicorn.
Richard son of Henry de Kyghley, kt.

89. For the King of England. The Duke's precept to the sheriff to get ready the men-at-arms and bowmen within the duchy to march against the Scotch, according to the King's mandate. 4th July.

90. For the Abbot of Cockersand. Precept to the sheriff to give seizin to the said abbot of 5 acres of land in Billynge, which had been seized into King Edward's hands for the felony of William de Falyng. 18th August.

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster : Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

91. For Isabella, widow of Thomas de Lathum. Writ de "Dote assignanda" out of the manor of Lathum (except a parcel of the manor which the said Isabella claims as having held conjointly with her husband). 1st February.

92. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Margery daughter of William de Rigby, and Alicia her sister.
Edward de Lathum and others.
John de Holcroft.
Thomas de Strangways and Elena his wife.
John son of William de Neuham.
Philip le Sadeler of Lancaster.
Robert de Hyndelegh.

93. For Roger de Fasacrelegh and Johanna his wife. Writ "De Procedendo" in an Assize of Novel Disseisin before the justices of the bench, between Roger de Fasacrelegh and Johanna his wife, and Ellen, daughter of Thomas, son of Thomas de Lathum, knight, concerning tenements in Knowsleyh, Childwall, Roby, and Ankesargh. 20th February.

94. For Johanna, widow of John Kekewyk. Writ de "Dote assignanda." 16th February.

95. For the Duke. Writ of "Mandamus" to the escheator upon the death of Thomas, son of Thomas de Lathum, knight.
Witness the King and Duke, 16th February.
Like writ on the death of Thomas, son of Robert de Lathum, ch'r.
Witness, as above.

HIC INCIPIT ANNUS NONUS REGALITATIS.

96. For the Duke. Writ of "Diem clausit extremum" upon the death of Henry de Dyneley. Witness, the King and Duke, 8th March, anno 9 regalitatis.
Of Geoffry Workesley, ch'r. 2nd September.
Of Adam de Hoghton, ch'r. As above.

97. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to elect a coroner for the county of Lancaster, in the room of John Skillicorn, deceased. Witness, as above.

98. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
John son of William de Singleton.
John del Holt, senior.

99. For John de Pilkyngton, parson of the church of Bury. Writ of Redisseisin, concerning the manors of Le Lee, Grymsargh, Hoghton, Quylton, Ravenemeles, and Whityngham, 100 messuages, 1,000 acres of land, 500 acres of meadow, 200 acres of wood, 2,000 acres of moor and pasture, and 10*l.* of rent in Lee, Gosenargh, Assheton, Grymesargh, Quytyngham, Frekilton, Caterale, Hoghton, Quilton, Whithenhill, Hephay, Lyvesey, Plesyngton, Wrightyngton, Ravenemeles, Goldburn, Preston, Sourby, Whithill in the Wodes, Walshewhithill, Eccleston, Chernok Richard, and Ribchester, the moiety of the manors of Chernok Richard, and Whithill in the Wodes, two parts of the manors of Assheton and Gosenargh, and the fourth part of the manors of Caterale and Wrightyngton. 20th April.

100. For the King. Mandate to the justices to adjourn the sessions. 12th July.

101. For the Duke. Mandate to the escheator to seize into the hands of the Duke all the lands whereof Thomas Banastre, ch'r., died seized, viz. in the towns of Etheliswyk, Freculton, Claghton in Amoundernes, Billesburgh, Halghton, Syngleton Parva, Thornton le Holmes near Thornton, Sourby, Hamylton, Stalmyn, Crofton, Farygnton, Thorp, and Brethirton.
Witness the King and Duke, 12th September.

Like mandate as to the lands of Edward, son and heir of Thomas Banastre, knight, deceased, viz. in the towns of Dilworth, Broghton, Preston in Amoundernes, Wodeplumpton cum le Morehall, and Gosenargh
Witness as above.

102. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Ralph de Frekilton.
Adam de Bredekirk.
Richard de Wysebeche, vicar of Kirkby in Lonsdale, and Alicia widow of John de Horuby, senior.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls —continued.

103. For Isabella, widow of Thomas de Lathum. Precept to the sheriff to give the said Isabella seizin of the tenements within the manor of Lathum, which she held conjointly with her husband, viz. Horskarre, Demedowe near Raghford, Robynfeld de Horskarre, Calverhey, and Watton Rydyng, and a rent of 8 marks per annum of the freeholders in le Nuburgh. 17th March.

104. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Ralph de Barton, of Rydale. For two writs.

105. For Margery, widow of John de Radelif. Recognizance for payment of an annual rent of 10 marks out of the lands in Oldom, Chatherton, and Witton near Plesyngton, for term of life of the said Margery. 20th September.

106. For Margaret, wife of Hugh de Ines. Writ for the assignment of dower to Margaret, widow of Roger de Bradeshagh, out of a watermill in Westlegh, in the Duke's hands by reason of the minority of the heir of the said Roger. 27th September.

107. For James Butiller, son and heir of James Butiller, late Earl of Ormond. Precept to the escheator to give seizin to James Butiller, Earl of Ormond, of 100 marks of rent issuing out of the manor of Wetheton, in the county of Lancaster, notwithstanding that the process of proving the age of the said James has not been made in the duchy, and notwithstanding his being called, in the inquisition taken before the eschentor, Thomas, instead of James. 27th November.

108. For Roger de Fsaucrelegh and Johanna his wife. Mandate to the justices of the bench to proceed in taking the Assize of Novel Dissesisin between the said Roger and Ellen, daughter of Thomas, son of Thomas de Lathum, knight, concerning tenements in Knoualegh, Childewall, Roby, and Anlesargh, notwithstanding the fresh allegation of the said Ellen, and the testimony of the escheator that the lands in dispute are in the Duke's hands by reason of the minority of the heiress; but on no account to give judgment without the Duke's advice. 1st February.

Hic incipit Annus Decimus Regalitatis.

109. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Nicholas de Haveryngton, kt.
Abbot of Fourneys.
Robert de Clifton, chivaler.

110. For Margaret, wife of John de Radelif. Precept to the receiver of the duchy to pay an annual rent of 20 marks out of the lands of John de Radelif in Oldom, Chatherton, and Witton near Plesyngton. 22nd March.

111. For Robert de Barton, of Lathum, and Agnes his wife. Writ of Redisseisin, concerning 2 messuages and 20 acres of land in Lathum, against William del Crosse, of Lathom.
Witness Henry Earl of Derby, custos of the duchy, at Lancaster, 1st September.

112. Fines paid to the Duke.
Richard de Hoghton, kt.
William, abbot of Whalley.
Robert le Spenserson of Scaresbrek.
Richard de Athirton.
Thomas Gerard.
Isabella widow of Nicholas de Prestwich.
Thomas del Rawe.
Henry Geffray and Johanna his wife, and others.

113. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to levy 20*l.* out of the lands of John de Radelif in Oldom, Chatherton, and Witton near Plesyngton, for the arrear of 10 marks of the annual rent of 20 marks granted to Margaret, wife of the said John for term of her life. Witness the custos, 20th September.

Hic incipit Annus Undecimus Regalitatis.

114. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
William de Rigmayden.
Ralph de Radelif.
Robert de Plesyngton, chivaler.
John Lascy and Agnes his wife.
Thomas del Hogh and Katherine his wife.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster : Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

115. For William Warde. Writ to Walter de Urswyk, keeper of the forest of Lancaster, to accept bail for William Warde detained in Lancaster Castle for a trespass in the forest. Witness the custos, 12th March.

116. For the Duke. Writ of "Diem clausit extremum," upon the death of John de Wareyn, ch'r., tenant in capite. Witness, as above.
Of Thomas de Strangways. Witness, as above.
Of Thomas de Sotheworth, ch'r. Witness the custos, 6th September.
Of Richard Torbok, ch'r. Witness, as above.
Of Thomas de Holand. Witness, as above.
Of William de Tunstall, ch'r. Witness, as above.
Of Hugh Haywode. Witness, as above.
Of Petronilla, widow of Adam Banastre, knight. Witness, as above.
Of Thomas le Molyneux. Witness the custos, 16th February.
Of William de Aghton Witness the custos, 16th February.

117. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to elect a coroner for the county in the room of Edward Frere and another in the room of Hugh de Ines, they being both incompetent to the discharge of their offices.
Witness the custos, 16 March.

118. For the Duke. Precept to the sheriff to elect a verdurer for Quernemore and Wyrisdale in the room of John Croft, of Dalton, made steward of Lonsdale.
Witness the custos, 16th March.

Like precept to elect another verdurer in the room of Robert Cauncefeld, in Spain with the Duke. Witness, as above.

119. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Edmund Frere of Lancaster and Cecilia his wife.
Richard le Marschall of Eukeston.
John Caries.
Abbot of Whallay.
John de Catford and others.
William de Caton, bailiff of Lonesdale.

120. For Ralph de Radclif, sheriff of Lancaster, and others. Recognizance of a debt of 160*l.* And the Duke grants that if the sheriff shall pay 80*l.* for his office for one year, the recognizance shall be void.

121. Ralph de Radelif. Recognizance of a debt of 100*l.* And the Duke grants that if the sheriff shall render a faithful account before his auditors of the issues, profits, and emoluments of his bailiwiek for the last year, the recognizance shall be void.

122. For John de Ines and Margaret his wife. Precept to the eschentor to surcease the demand upon John de Ines for 4*l.* 13. 4*d.* of the issues of his lands and tenements in Wythyngton and Harewode, and certain other sums of money until the next sessions. Witness the custos, 28th September.
By the Council.

Hic incipit Annus Duodecimus Regalitatis.

123. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
Henry de Bradscolis.
Roger, vicar of Rochedale.
John son of Robert de Ines.
Henry de Trafford.
Ralph de Radclif.
William de Selby, abbot of Whalley.

124. For the Duke. Mandate to the justices to adjourn the sessions.
Witness the custos, 9th March.

125. For the Duke. Writ of "Diem clausit extremum," upon the death of John de Haydok. Witness, as above, 23rd May.
The like upon the death of Alice, widow of Gilbert de Legh. 20th June.
Of John de Nevill, of Raby, ch'r. 24th October.

126. For Milicent, widow of William de Aghton. Writ to the escheator for the assignment of dower to the said Milicent. Witness, as above. 24th May.

127. Fines paid to the Duke for writs.
John Botiller of Kirkland, and Alice his wife.
Matthew de Huyton.
John son of Thurstan de Tildeslegh.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster : Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

John Lovell, kt.
Roger de Pilkyngton, chivaler
Richard son of Thomas Talbot.
John son of Richard de Tounlay.
John son of Geoffrey del Holt.
Nicholas Styveley.
Robert de Harynton, kt., and Isabella his wife.

128. For Ralph de Nevill, son and heir of John de Nevill of Raby, ch'r. Precept to the escheator to cause livery of seisin to be made to the said Ralph of the advowson of the church of Prestecote, to receive security for the payment of his relief, and to respite his homage and fealty for the said advowson until the Duke's return to England. Witness the custos, 6th December.

ROLL from the First to the Twelfth Year inclusive of the Regality of JOHN KING of CASTILE and DUKE OF LANCASTER. (In tergo.)

1. Edmund, son of Alan de Folifayt, for Edmund Lorence, son of John Lawrence of Assheton. Enrolment of the deed of Edmund de Folifayt to his uncle Edmund Lorence, being a release and quit claim of all right to the manor of Folifayt near Tadcastre. 50 Edw. III.
The like of all right in the lands which Elizabeth, widow of his brother, John de Folifayt, held in dower in the said manor. 51 Edw. III.
Other deeds relative to the release of the said manor of Folifayt.

2. John, son of John de Assheton-under-Lime, to John de Kirkeby. Recognizance of the receipt of 40*l.* in part payment of a debt of 140 marks. 20th August, 1 Ric. II.
Other deeds relative to the above sums of money.

3. Thomas, son of Thomas de Lathum, knight, for Robert de Breton, vicar of the church of Huyton, and Thomas de la Ridyng, chaplain. Enrolment of the deed of Thomas, son of Thomas de Lathum, being a release and quit claim of all right in a place called le Crossehalle in the town of Lathum, and in all the manors, messuages, lands, &c., which Thomas de Lathum, knight, the father, granted to the said Robert de Breton and Thomas de la Ridyng, in the county of Lancaster. 49 Edw. III.
Nicholas de Atherton, Adam de Bykerstath, and Richard de Rygby. Recognizance to the Duke and William de Nessefeld.
Robert de Blakeburn, of Lonesdale,
Robert de Plesynton and Robert de Faryngton, clerk. Recognizance of a debt.
Witness the King and Duke, at Lancaster, 13th December.

HIC INCIPIT ANNUS SECUNDUS. (In tergo.)

4. Robert de Washington and others, to William de Horneby, parson of the church of St. Michael-upon-Wyre. Recognizance of a debt of 8*l.*
Witness the King and Duke, anno 2 regalitatis, 23rd March.

5. Thomas de Lamplogh and others, to Edmund Lorence. Recognizance of a debt of 40*l.* Witness, as above, 23rd March.

6. Adam of Lancaster, to Thomas Mirreson of Lancaster. Recognizance of a debt of 10*l.* Witness, as above, 23rd March.

7. William de Heton, for Ralph de Ipre and Peter de Boirun. Enrolment of the grant of William de Heton of all his lands in Heton, Bronne, Molebrek, Urwike, and Lancaster. 51 Edw. III.

8. Richard de Massy, knight, to John de la Pole, justice of Chester. Recognizance of a debt of 5*l.*
Witness Henry Earl of Derby, custos of the Regality, 3rd August.
Other recognizances of debts.
John Serjaunt, of Walton-in-the-Dale, to John de Asphull.
William de Caton, of Lancaster, William Boyvill and John de Horneby, junior, to William Whetill (cancelled).
William de Athirton, chivaler, Edward de Lathum, Henry de Scaresbrek, Gilbert de Culehith, and James de Sale, to John son of William de Bredkyrk.
John Fitzwilliam of Bredkirk, for William de Athirton, chivaler, and others. Acknowledgment of receipt of money due by force of a recognizance in the Duke's chancery.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued

HIC INCIPIT ANNUS TERTIUS. (In tergo.)

9. John, son of Henry de Plesyngton, for Hugh de Dacre, knight, Lord of Gillesland, and his son William. Enrolment of the grant of the manors of Halton in Lonesdale, and Eccleston in Leylondshire, in the county of Lancaster, with all their members and appurtenances. 2 Ric. III.
Release and quit claim of John de Plesyngton and the other feoffees of the said manors.
Various recognizances of debts.
Richard de Towneley, Roger de Brokholes, Nicholas de Syngleton and Edmund de Dacre, to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
John de Assheton, chivaler, Robert de Buclegh, and Adam son of Henry Hayward, to William de Horneby, clerk.

HIC INCIPIT ANNUS QUARTUS. (In tergo.)

10. Various recognizances of debts.
Thomas de Horneby to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
Thomas le Molyneux of Kyverdale, John le Botiller of Merton, John le Botiller of Kirkeland, Roger de Penketh, Geoffrey de Osbaldeston, Gilbert del Briche, Hugh de Bradeshagh, William de Lynals, Thomas de Barton, Matthew de Kenyan, and Hugh de Ines, to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
Richard Talbot and Gilbert del Briche to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
Edmund de Dacre, Richard de Stanesfeld, William son of Richard de Merseden, and Roger de Bancroft, to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
James de Radelif, Richard de Tettelawe, John de Barlowe, and Adam de Medoeroft, to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.

HIC INCIPIT ANNUS QUINTUS. (In tergo.)

11. John Botiller, knight, for HENRY de Bispham and Richard de Carleton, chaplains. Enrolment of the grant of the manors of Great Laton, Little Laton, Bispham, and Wardebrek, lands and tenements in the town of Great Merton, and the whole lordship of the said town of Merton. 4 Ric. II.
12. Henry de Bispham and Richard de Carleton for John Botiller, knight, and Alice his wife. Enrolment of the grant of the above manors, lands, tenements, and lordship in fee tail; first to John Botiller, knight, and Alice his wife, and their heirs male on the body of the said Alice begotten, then to the heirs male of the said John, and afterwards to the heirs of the said John and Alice, then to the heirs of the said John lawfully begotten, and in default of such to the right heirs of the said John, to hold of the chief lords of the fee by the services for the same due and of right accustomed. 4 Ric. II.
Recognizances of debts.
John Botiller of Kirkland, William de Blakburn, and John son of Laurence de Thornton, to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
Richard son of Adam de Hoghton, kt., Richard de Bold, chivaler, and Henry de Bradshagh, to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.

HIC INCIPIT ANNUS SEXTUS. (In tergo.)

13. Recognizances of Debts.
William de Aghton, Gilbert de Halsale, Hugh de Standish, Roger Penketh, Geoffrey de Osbaldeston, and John Wyche, to Richard son of Adam de Hoghton, kt.
Robert de Wasshynton and John son of Edmund de Horneby, to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre, and William de Dutton.
Richard de Croft of Lonnesdale to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
14. Robert de Wasshyngton for William de Horneby, parson of the church of St. Michael upon Wire, and William de Dutton. Enrolment of the grant of Robert de Wasshyngton of all his lands and tenements in the town of Carleton in Amounderneese to the said William and William and their heirs and assigns for the rent of a rose per annum for the first eight years, and after that term at the rent of 20*d.* per annum. 5 Ric. II.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

15*a*. Roger de Fassereley for Edward de Lathum, Henry de Scaresbreck, and others. Memorandum of an agreement touching the dower claimed by Roger de Fassereley against the said Edward de Lathum and the rest, in right of his wife Johanna, in tenements in Wrightinton.

HIC INCIPIT ANNUS SEPTIMUS. (In tergo.)

15*b*. Recognizances of debts.
John de Clayton, junior, Adam de Brokenfeld, and Richard son of Henry de Clayton, to Roger de Farryngton, clerk.
Edward de Lathum, senior, Henry de Scaresbrek, senior, and Richard de Ellerbek, to Roger de Fassereley.
Robert de Wassyngton, John Philipson le Forster, and John de Horneby, to Adam de Hoghton, kt.

16. For Adam de Hoghton, ch'r., Nicholas de Haryngton, ch'r., and Richard, son of Adam de Hoghton, ch'r. Recognizance of a debt of 200 marks. And the King and Duke grants that if the aforesaid Adam shall stand to the Duke's ordinance relative to 100 marks of rent issuing out of the manor of Wetheton and seized into the Duke's hands upon the death of James le Botiller, late Earl of Ormond, the recognizance shall be void. 26th August.

Roger de Pilkyngton, chivaler. Recognizance of a debt to the Duke.

HIC INCIPIT ANNUS OCTAVUS. (In tergo.)

17. Richard de Hoghton, son of Adam de Hoghton, knight, for William de Horneby, parson of the church of St. Michael upon Wire. Enrolment of the grant of the wardship of the lands which belonged to Henry de Kighley, knight, in the counties of Lancaster and York, and the marriage of Richard, son and heir of the said Henry. 20th March, 7 Ric. II.

18*a*. For John, son of Laurence Nowell. Precept to the sheriff to surcease the taking of the body of the said John to answer before the justices of the duchy for the death of John, son of Henry de Holden, upon the appeal of Hugh, brother of the said John de Holden, upon the coming of age of the said Hugh, according to the King's mandate.
Witness the King and Duke, 14th March.
By the council.

18*b*. Precept to the sheriff to surcease the outlawry against William de Rigmayden for trespasses in the chases of the duchy until the next sessions.
Witness, as above, 1st March.

19. For Hugh, son of John de Partyngton, of Irwilham. Precept to the sheriff to surcease the outlawry against the said Hugh, the King (Richard) having granted to him his pardon.
Similar writs "de Supersedendo" for William, son of Richard Crist of Lever, and for John de Leylond Sonter, of Wigan.
Witness, as above, 14th March.
By the council.

20. For Adam de Hoghton, ch'r., Nicholas de Haryngton, ch'r., and Richard, son of Adam de Hoghton, ch'r. Precept to the escheator to surcease the levying of the rent of 100 marks out of the manor of Wetheton till the next sessions. Witness the King and Duke, 16th March.
Recognizances of debts.
Richard son of Adam de Hoghton, kt., and William de Walton of Preston, to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
Richard de Hoghton and Robert del Eues to Hugh de Wombewell and John de Sadyngton.
William de Atherton, chivaler, Roger de Hilton, Robert de Worksesley, John del Bothe, William de Atherton, Adam de Lever, Richard de Hilton, Thomas de Pynyngton, and Robert de Holand, to Hugh de Wombewell, John de Sadyngton, John Woderouf, and Robert de Tounley.
Hugh Ward and Robert de Neuton to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.

21. For Thomas Smith Nayller of Cholle and another. Precept to the sheriff to surcease the outlawry against the said Thomas, &c., for a debt at the suit of Robert de Oulgreve, they having found bail to answer for their appearance at the sessions. 8th February.

Digitized by Google

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

Other writs of a like nature.
Recognizances of debts.
Agnes daughter of William de Chaydok of Pemberton to Hugh de Wikeshalgh.
Roger de Fassereley, Gilbert de Halsale, William de Aghton, Robert de Derby, Nicholas de Orell, and Richard de Ellerbek, to the Duke.

HIC INCIPIT ANNUS NONUS. (In tergo.)

Various recognizances of debts and writs "de Supersedendo" addressed to the sheriff relative to debts and trespasses.
John de Croft of Dalton, chivaler, to Richard Wysbeche, vicar of Kirkeby in Lonesdale.
Thomas Gerard and William de Atherton, junior, to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
Thomas Gerard, William de Athirton, junr., Richard de Holand, Robert son of Alan de Par, Robert de Eccleston, John de Eccleston of Lyverpull, Richard Masey of Rixton, Nicholas de Orell, Richard de Asshton of Adburgham, Henry de Rixton, and Almaric Walker of Wygan, to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
Almaric Walker of Wygan to William Walton of Preston.
Robert de Eccleston, John de Holcroft, and Nicholas de Rigby to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
Thomas Gerard, chivaler, William de Atherton, chivaler, junr., Adam de Bykerstath, and Robert son of Alan de Par, to the Duke.
Richard Torbok, chivaler, and Adam de Medowcroft to the Duke.
John de Farynton, junr., Henry de Hoghwyk, John Balle, and Robert de Blakburn, to William de Horneby.
Henry Blundell, Roger de Penketh, and Nicholas de Lyverpole, to William de Horneby, clerk.
Robert Diconson of Great Crosby, and John de Moueley, to William de Horneby, clerk.
Thomas Gerard, chivaler, and Robert son of Alan de Par, to William de Horneby, clerk.
Nicholas de Singleton, junr., Thomas de Barton of Amoundernes, and Thomas de Hesketh, to the Duke.
Henry de Bradshagh, Robert de Bradshagh, Ivo de Bradshagh, Hugh de Wilkeshalgh, and Nicholas de Bradshagh, to the Duke.

HIC INCIPIT ANNUS DECIMUS. (In tergo.)

Recognizances of debts, &c.
Thomas Gerard, Chivaler, and Robert son of Alan de Par, to William de Horneby, clerk.
Richard de Holand to William de Horneby, clerk.
Richard de Asshton, Robert de Chernok, Nicholas de Orell, Gilbert de Longtre, and Hugh de Longtre, to William de Horneby, clerk.
Richard Talbot, Edmund Skylyngeorn, William de Rigmayden, John de Bredekirk, and John de Cuntcliffe, to Nicholas de Knyveton and John Cokayn the uncle.
Hugh de Wynstanley, Hugh de Ines, Richard de Assheton of Adburgham, Alexander de Worksesly, Henry del Mersh of Wygan, and Robert de Hyndelegh, to the Duke and William de Horneby, clerk.
Robert de Urswyk, chivaler, John Butiller of Roudcliff, chivaler, John de Dalton, chivaler, Thomas de Radclif, James de Radclif, Thomas de Hesketh, John de Radclif of Urdesale, John del Bothe, Richard de Heton, Robert de Bolton, Richard Banastre, William de Hulm, and Richard Crook, to the Duke.
John de Radclif of Urdesale, Ralph de Radclif, chivaler, and Robert de Buckley, to the Duke and William de Horneby, clerk.
Robert de Wasshyngton, John Phillipson Forster, John de Wassyngton, and John son of Edward de Hornehy, to William de Horneby, clerk.
John de Berewyk of Berewyk to Adam de Laghfeld of Middleton in Lonesdale.

22. For Robert de Saureby and John de Birkeheved, chaplains. Enrolment of the grant of John de Walton of all his lands and tenements within Lancaster, Bare, and Kertmell. Anno 9, Ric. II.

Digitized by Google

857

No. 4.—Duchy of Lancaster: Calendar of Chancery Rolls—continued.

23. John de Walton and Rosa his wife. Grant by Robert de Saureby and John de Birkeheved, chaplains, of all the above lands and tenements to John de Walton and Rosa his wife in fee tail, to hold of the chief lords of the fee by the services thereof due and accustomed. First to the heirs of the bodies of the said John and Rosa, and then to the heirs of the body of the said John lawfully begotten, and in default of such heir to John Jonson of Walton, son of Agnes Seynt Paule, bastard, and the heirs of his body lawfully begotten, and in default thereof to William de Stokynbrig and the heirs of his body lawfully begotten, and in default thereof to the right heirs of John de Oxelif.
Anno 9, Ric. II.

24. Agnes, widow of Thomas Banastre, knight, to William de Horneby, parson of the church of St. Michael upon Wyre. Recognizance of a debt of 500 marks. And the said William grants that if the said Agnes after the recovery in her estate in the manors and lands which belonged to her husband, shall enfeoff Robert de Urswyk, ch'r., and others, with certain lands and tenements, this recognizance shall be void. The manors, &c., were seized into the Duke's hands by reason of the minority of Constance, daughter of Edward, son of the said Thomas Banastre, knight. 20th September.

Recognizance of debt.
Agnes widow of Thomas Banastre, kt., to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.

Hic incipit Annus Undecimus. (In tergo.)

Recognizances of debts and writs "de Supersedendo," relating to debts.
John de Wassyngton of Warton to Adam de Laghfete.
Nicholas de Rygby, John de Holcroft, Henry de Scaresbrek, and William Chesnale to Robert Nevill of Horneby, chivaler.
Richard del Croke and Thomas de Radelif to William de Horneby, parson of St. Michael-on-Wyre.
Thomas Abbot of Cokersand to John de la Pole, kt.
Richard Talbot to John de la Pole, kt.

25. For William Moton, Robert Dyryng, John de Cornay and others, chaplains. Enrolment of the grant by William de Dutton of all his lands and tenements in the towns of Ribchastre, Bispham, and Northebroke, and all his burgages, lands, and tenements, in the town of Preston in Amoundernesse, which he had by gift and feoffment of Henry Banastre, Geoffry del Wyche, and John del Grene and his wife Matilda. Anno 11, Ric. II.

Hic incipit Annus Duodecimus. (In tergo.)

Recognizances of debt.
Gilbert de Halsall, chivaler, Ralph de Radclif, chivaler, Richard de Holand, John de Radclif of Chaderton, Robert de Bolton, Richard de Heton, Gilbert del Bruche, William de Bekenysbowe, Roger de Brokholes, Robert de Bucley, Robert de Fenton, John de Aynesworth, Nicholas de Baumford, John de Bukleye, Adam de Medecroft, Richard de Bealford, and Richard de Brudshagh, to the Duke.
Nicholas de Orell to John de Lovell, chivaler, Thomas de Radelif, and Mathew Kenyan.
Robert de Standissh, chivaler, William de Chernok, Henry Blundell of Crosby, Richard del Croke, and Robert de Chernok, to the Duke.

26. For the King and Duke. Recognizance of a debt of 700*l.* And the King and Duke grants that if Ralph de Radcliff, ch'r., late sheriff of Lancaster, shall pay to William de Hornby the receiver 237*l.* 14*s.* 0½*d.*, on his account for the whole time that he was sheriff, the recognizance shall be void.
Witness Henry Earl of Derby, custos of the duchy, 26th May, anno 12.

27. For the King and Duke. Recognizance of a debt of 200*l.* And the King and Duke grants that if Robert de Standissh, the sheriff, shall render a faithful account of his office, the recognizance shall be void.
22nd August.

Prepared and examined by (Signed) William Hardy.

Digitized by Google

No. 5.—ADDITIONS, in the YEAR 1870, to the LISTS of CALENDARS, INDEXES, &c., of RECORDS in the PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE, annexed to the Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, and Thirty-first Reports of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records.

	Page
Chancery	366
Common Pleas	366
Exchequer of Pleas	367
Exchequer: Queen's Remembrancer	367
Exchequer: Court of Augmentations, &c.	368
Duchy of Lancaster Office	368
Palatinate of Durham	368
Admiralty: Whitehall	368
Audit Office	371
Home Office	374
Foreign Office	374
Colonial Office	374
Treasury	374
War Office	375
Transcripts	375

CHANCERY.

Page of Appendix to the Twenty-fourth Report.	Class to which the Calendars, &c., refer.	Title and Nature of Calendars, &c.	Period embraced, and whether complete or defective.	Whether in Manuscript or printed.	REMARKS.
2 & 3	Affidavits(Registers)	Indexes	1760-1842	Manuscript.
2	Bills, Answers, &c.	Indexes	1751-1790	Do.
2 & 3	Close Rolls	Press List	1827	Do.
3	Decrees	Calendar	8th Division, Parts 140 to 147.	Do.
—	Decrees and Orders (A.)	Indexes	1731-1799	Do.
—	Do.	List	Do.	Do.
—	Decrees and Orders (B.)	Indexes	Do.	Do.
—	Do.	List	Do.	Do.
2	Depositions	Indexes	Do.	Do.
—	Masters' Reports, &c.	Do.	Do.	Do.
—	Do.	List	Do.	Do.
	Recognizance Rolls	Press List	1867	Do.

COMMON PLEAS.

26	Feet of Fines, divers Counties.	Index	Edw. 1. — Eliz. 3.	Manuscript.

No. 5.—Additions, in 1870, to the Lists of Calendars, &c.—continued.

Page of Appendix to the Twenty-fourth Report.	Class to which the Calendars, &c., refer.	Title and Nature of Calendars, &c.	Period embraced, and whether complete or defective.	Whether in Manuscript or printed.	Remarks.
		Exchequer of Pleas.
—	Affidavits, General, (used on motions).	List - -	1843-1849 -	Manuscript.
—	Declarations in Ejectment.	Index - -	1830-1852 -	Do.
	Do. - -	List - -	Do. - -	Do.
36	Judgment Books -	Indexes -	1843-1849 -	Do.
36	Do. -	List - -	Do. - -	Do.
36	Judgment Rolls -	Do. - -	Do. - -	Do.
—	Outlawry Proceedings.	Do. - -	1833-1849 -	Do.
—	Do. - -	Do. - -	Do. - -	Do.
—	Rule Books, or Records of Rules.	Do. - -	1843-1849 -	Do.
—	Rules to Plead -	Do. - -	Do. - -	Do.
—	Term Papers -	Do. - -	Do. - -	Do.
—	Warrants of Attorney, and Cognovits.	Do. - -	Do. - -	Do.
		Exchequer : Queen's Remembrancer.
31	Alien Priories -	Descriptive Slips.	Edw. 1. — Edw. 4.	Manuscript -	2 vols.
32	Army - -	Do. -	Hen. 8.-Eliz.	Do. - -	10 vols.
33	Church Goods -	Do. -	Edw. 6. -	Do. - -	4 vols.
—	Claims of Lords of Liberties in the Exchequer to Fines.	List - -	1843-1848 -	Do.
36	Conventual Leases -	Descriptive Slips.	Edw. 3. — Hen. 8.	Do. - -	1 vol.
34	Equitum Regis -	Do. -	Edw. 1. — Jas. 1.	Do. - -	2 vols.
—	Excise Accounts -	List - -	1844-1849 -	Do.
—	Exemplification of Judgments, and an Escheat.	Do. -	1841-1845 -	Do.
—	Informations -	Do. -	1843-1850 -	Do.
—	Do. - -	Indexes -	1796-1843 -	Do.
37	Memoranda Rolls -	List - -	1842-1850 -	Do.
—	Do. (Addenda) -	Do. -	1837-1846 -	Do.
38	Mint - - -	Descriptive Slips.	Hen. 3. — Geo. 2.	Do. - -	2 vols.
38	Navy - - -	Do. -	Edw. 2. — Eliz.	Do. - -	2 vols.
—	Orders, Books of -	List - -	1843-1850 -	Do.
38	Originalia Rolls -	Do. -	1844-1850 -	Do.
38	Do. - -	Index - -	1844-1850 -	Do.
—	Special Commissions and Inquisitions as to Duty on Coals.	List - -	1838-1846 -	Do.
40	Subsidies, Lay—Alien, Divers Counties.	Descriptive Slips.	Edw. 3. — Ric. 3.	Do. - -	1 vol., No. 26.
40	Subsidies, Lay—Cinque Ports.	Do. -	Edw. 3. — Jas. 1.	Do. - -	2 vols., Nos. 93 and 94.
40	Subsidies, Lay—Divers Counties.	Do. -	Edw. 1. — Chas. 2.	Do. - -	2 vols., Nos. 96 and 97.
40	Subsidies, Lay—Wales.	Do. -	Hen. 8. — Chas. 2.	Do. - -	2 vols., Nos. 90 and 92.
41	Wardrobe and Household Accounts.	Do. -	Edw. 3. — Geo. 3.	Do. - -	Vols. 11 to 14.
—	Writs and Postea -	List - -	1843-1850 -	Do.

Digitized by Google

No. 5.—Additions, in 1870, to the Lists of Calendars, &c.—continued.

Page of Appendix to the Twenty-fourth Report.	Class to which the Calendars, &c., refer.	Title and Nature of Calendars, &c.	Period embraced, and whether complete or defective.	Whether in Manuscript or printed.	Remarks.
	Exchequer: Court of Augmentations and Court of General Surveyors.
38	Ministers' Accounts of Crown Lands, &c.	Descriptive Slips.	5-6 Eliz. -	Manuscript -	1 vol.
	Duchy of Lancaster Office.
4	Chancery Rolls -	Calendar -	- - -	Printed in this Report, App. No. 4.
	Palatinate of Durham.
—	Chancery Rolls of the Bishopric of Durham.	Calendar -	1265-1388 -	2 rolls, printed in this Report, App. No. 3.
—	Do. - -	Do. - -	1388-1415 -	2 rolls, M.S. -	In progress.
	Admiralty: Whitehall. (Secretary's Records.) The Documents are open to the Public only to the end of 1800.
	Accountant-General	List - -	1832-1839 -	Manuscript.
	Admiral's Despatches—Africa.	Do. - -	1830-1832 -	Do.
	Admiral's Despatches—Brazil.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
	Admiral's Despatches—Cape of Good Hope.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
	Admiral's Despatches—East Indies.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
	Admiral's Despatches—Jamaica.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
	Admiral's Despatches—Lisbon.	Do. - -	1831-1839 -	Do.
	Admiral's Despatches—Mediterranean.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
	Admiral's Despatches — Cork Naval Station.	Do. - -	1830-1832 -	Do.
	Admiral's Despatches — Plymouth Naval Station.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
	Admiral's Despatches — Portsmouth Naval Station.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
	Admiral's Despatches — Sheerness Naval Station.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.

Digitized by Google

No. 5.—Additions, in 1870, to the Lists of Calendars, &c.—continued.

Page of Appendix to the Twenty-fourth Report.	Class to which the Calendars, &c., refer.	Title and Nature of Calendar, &c.	Period embraced, and whether complete or defective.	Whether in Manuscript or printed.	Remarks.
—	Admiral's Despatches — Woolwich.	List - -	1830-1839 -	Manuscript.
—	Admirals' Journals	Do. - -	Nos. 151-185	Do.
—	Admirals, unemployed.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Admiralty - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Affidavits - -	Do. - -	1836-1836 -	Do.
—	Ammunition expended.	Do. - -	1825-1833 -	Do.
—	Appointments and Removals of Officers.	Do. - -	1830-1846 -	Do.
—	Architect - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Army Officers -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Articles under trial	Do. - -	1830-1840 -	Do.
—	Artificers and boys -	Do. - -	1832-1844 -	Do.
—	Attendance Books -	Do. - -	1810-1840 -	Do.
—	Breakwaters - -	Do. - -	1828-1839 -	Do.
—	British Museum -	Do. - -	1817-1838 -	Do.
—	Captains' Journals	Do. - -	Nos. 2,415-2,427	Do.
—	Captains' Letters -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Chatham Yard -	Do. - -	1834-1839 -	Do.
—	Commissioners (abroad.)	Do. - -	1830-1833 -	Do.
—	Commissioners (at home.)	Do. - -	1830-1832 -	Do.
—	Commissions and Warrants.	Do. - -	1768-1768 -	Do.
—	Compassionate Papers.	Do. - -	1835-1839 -	Do.
—	Consuls (British) -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Do. (Foreign) -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Consuls' Letters -	Do. - -	1710-1725 -	Do.
—	Contractors -	Do. - -	1833-1841 -	Do.
—	Courts Martial -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Customs - -	Do. - -	1830-1830 -	Do.
—	Deptford Yard -	Do. - -	1834-1839 -	Do.
—	Detached Squadron	Do. - -	1831-1837 -	Do.
—	Digests - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Doctors' Commons -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	East India House -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Foreign Yards -	Do. - -	1832-1839 -	Do.
—	Greenwich Hospital.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Home Dispositions	Do. - -	1826-1851 -	Do.
—	Hospitals - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Indexes - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Landsmen, serving -	Do. - -	1829-1836 -	Do.
—	Lieutenants' Letters.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Lloyds - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Machinery Returns	Do. - -	1835-1839 -	Do.
—	Marine Pay Office -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Marine Society -	Do. - -	1829-1833 -	Do.
—	Marines, Artillery -	Do. - -	1830-1851 -	Do.
—	Marines, Captains -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Do. Divisions (Chatham.)	Do. - -	1829-1839 -	Do.
—	Do. Divisions (Plymouth).	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Do. Divisions, (Portsmouth)	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Do. Divisions (Woolwich).	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Do. Field Officers.	Do. - -	1827-1839 -	Do.
—	Do. Lieutenants	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Marine Office -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Masters who have passed the Trinity House.	Do. - -	A to Y & 1835	Do.
—	Minutes - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Do. (special) -	Do. - -	1838-1839 -	Do.
—	Monthly Allowance	Do. - -	1834-1841 -	Do.
—	Navy Board - -	Do. - -	1830-1832 -	Do.

No. 5.—Additions, in 1870, to the Lists of Calendars, &c.—continued.

Page of Appendix to the Twenty-fourth Report.	Class to which the Calendars, &c., refer.	Title and Nature of Calendar, &c.	Period embraced, and whether complete or defective.	Whether in Manuscript or printed.	Remarks.
—	Officers' Services -	List - -	Various dates	Manuscript.
—	Do. waiting passages.	Do. - -	1836-1841 -	Do.
—	Orders in Council -	Do. - -	1830-1840 -	Do.
—	Ordnance - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Packet Service -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Packet Service—Dover.	Do. - -	1837-1839 -	Do.
—	Packet Service—Hobbs Point.	Do. - -	1837-1839 -	Do.
—	Packet Service—Holyhead.	Do. - -	1837-1839 -	Do.
—	Packet Service—Liverpool.	Do. - -	1837-1839 -	Do.
—	Packet Service—Port Patrick.	Do. - -	1837-1839 -	Do.
—	Packet Service—Weymouth.	Do. - -	1837-1839 -	Do.
—	Palace Letters -	Do. - -	1830-1836 -	Do.
—	Parliamentary Papers	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Passengers - -	Do. - -	1825-1830 -	Do.
—	Patent - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Paymaster-General	Do. - -	1830-1835 -	Do.
—	Pembroke Yard -	Do. - -	1834-1839 -	Do.
—	Periodical Returns -	Do. - -	1831-1839 -	Do.
—	Petitions - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Physician - -	Do. - -	1832-1839 -	Do.
—	Plantations, Governors of.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Plymouth Yard -	Do. - -	1834-1839 -	Do.
—	Portsmouth Yard -	Do. - -	1834-1839 -	Do.
—	Portugal - -	Do. - -	1832-1834 -	Do.
—	Post Office - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Powder expended -	Do. - -	1825-1829 -	Do.
—	Preparations for Battle.	Do. - -	1828-1840 -	Do.
—	Promiscuous Letters	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Register Office -	Do. - -	1835-1839 -	Do.
—	Royal Naval College	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Royal Naval College Question.	Do. - -	1835-1839 -	Do.
—	Royal Society -	Do. - -	1829-1839 -	Do.
—	Secret and Confidential Papers.	Do. - -	1809-1837 -	Do.
—	Secretary of States' Letters.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Services of H.M.Ships	Do. - -	1812-1828 -	Do.
—	Sheerness Yard -	Do. - -	1834-1839 -	Do.
—	Solicitor - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	States and Conditions (Sheerness).	Do. - -	1831 - -	Do.
—	States and Conditions (Woolwich.)	Do. - -	1831 - -	Do.
—	Stationery Office -	Do. - -	1833-1838 -	Do.
—	Steam, Controller of	Do. - -	1837-1839 -	Do.
—	Storekeeper - -	Do. - -	1832-1839 -	Do.
—	Supernumeraries -	Do. - -	1823-1843 -	Do.
—	Surveyor - -	Do. - -	1832-1839 -	Do.
—	Surveys on Warrant Officers.	Do. - -	1831-1832 -	Do.
—	Town Commandants	Do. - -	1830-1831 -	Do.
—	Transport Board -	Do. - -	1832-1839 -	Do.
—	Treasure, Returns of	Do. - -	1834-1844 -	Do.
—	Treasury - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Trinity House -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Vessels grounding -	Do. - -	1838-1840 -	Do.
—	Vice - Admiralty Courts, Patents.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Victualling, Comptroller of.	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	War Office - -	Do. - -	1830-1839 -	Do.
—	Warrant Officers serving in Ordinaries.	Do. - -	1836-1839 -	Do.
—	Woolwich Yard -	Do. - -	1834-1839 -	Do.

Digitized by Google

No. 5.—Additions, in 1870, to the Lists of Calendars, &c.—continued.

Page of Appendix to the Twenty-fourth Report.	Class to which the Calendars, &c., refer.	Title and Nature of Calendars, &c.	Period embraced, and whether complete or defective.	Whether in Manuscript or printed.	Remarks.
	Audit Office.
	The Documents are open to the Public (in part) only to 25 November 1760.
67	Chelsea Hospital Accounts.	List - -	1686-1826 -	Manuscript.
67	Chelsea Hospital; Declared Accounts.	Do. - -	1700-1826 -	Do.
—	Excise, Declared Accounts	Do. - -	1647-1849 -	Do.
71	Salt Accounts -	Do. - -	1694-1798 -	Do.
72	Stamp Accounts -	Do. - -	1694-1846 -	Do.
	Irish Declared Accounts.
—	Academical Institution, Belfast.	List - -	1814-1833 -	Manuscript.
—	Academy, Royal Irish.	Do. - -	1816-1833 -	Do.
—	Army Accounts, Comptroller.	Do. - -	1799-1812 -	Do.
—	Away Master -	Do. - -	1776-1804 -	Do.
—	Bogs in Ireland, Commissioners for Improvement of.	Do. - -	1809-1816 -	Do.
—	Bridewell (Richmond), Implements for Prisoners.	Do. - -	1819-1824 -	Do.
—	Bridge over River Onna, Liffey, &c.	Do. - -	1786-1793 -	Do.
—	Do. Queen's -	Do. - -	1817-1820 -	Do.
—	Do. Richmond -	Do. - -	1811-1818 -	Do.
—	Do. Whitworth -	Do. - -	1816-1828 -	Do.
—	Do. Dublin -	Do. - -	1806-1823 -	Do.
—	Buildings, House of Lords and Commons, additional.	Do. - -	1784-1793 -	Do.
—	Do. Commercial Building Co.	Do. - -	1797-1816 -	Do.
—	Canal, Grand -	Do. - -	1788-1818 -	Do.
—	Do. Kildare -	Do. - -	1786-1793 -	Do.
—	Do. Lough Neagh to Antrim.	Do. - -	1775-1790 -	Do.
—	Do. Newry -	Do. - -	1774-1787 -	Do.
—	Do. Royal -	Do. - -	1789-1850 -	Do.
—	Charitable Donations and Bequests.	Do. - -	1802-1833 -	Do.
—	Churches, First Fruits for Building.	Do. - -	1783-1833 -	Do.
—	Do. Rebuilding -	Do. - -	1781-1786 -	Do.
—	Coal Yards, Dublin	Do. - -	1776-1824 -	Do.
—	Do. Cork -	Do. - -	1776-1823 -	Do.
—	College, Kilkenny -	Do. - -	1783-1785 -	Do.
—	Do. Maynooth -	Do. - -	1795-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. of Surgeons	Do. - -	1805-1813 -	Do.
—	Collieries, Tyrone Steam Engine at.	Do. - -	1788 - -	Do.
—	Constabulary Force, Ireland.	Do. - -	1824-1831 -	Do.
—	Convicts, Transportation, Clothing, Conveyance, and Subsistence.	Do. - -	1798-1833 -	Do.
—	Corn Exchange -	Do. - -	1815-1827 -	Do.
—	Do. Purchase of -	Do. - -	1789-1806 -	Do.
—	Cow Pock Institution.	Do. - -	1813-1833 -	Do.

No. 5.—Additions, in 1870, to the Lists of Calendars, &c.—continued.

Page of Appendix to the Twenty-fourth Report.	Class to which the Calendars, &c., refer.	Title and Nature of Calendar.	Period embraced, and whether complete or defective.	Whether in Manuscript or printed.	Remarks.
—	Deeds, Registrar of	List - -	1830-1832 -	Manuscript.
—	Defence Acts (Signals and Works).	Do. - -	1805-1816 -	Do.
—	Dublin Society -	Do. - -	1784-1832 -	Do.
—	Education, Commissioners of.	Do. - -	1813-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. of the Poor, Society for.	Do. - -	1816-1832 -	Do.
—	Exchange, Royal -	Do. - -	1784-1832 -	Do.
—	Farming Society -	Do. - -	1801-1827 -	Do.
—	Fees, Reduction of -	Do. - -	1813-1833 -	Do.
—	Do. Commissioners of Inquiry into.	Do. - -	1804-1831 -	Do.
—	Fisheries - -	Do. - -	1785-1799 - and 1836-1851 -	Do.
—	Fountains - -	Do. - -	1818-1832 -	Do.
—	Hanaper - -	Do. - -	1824-1831 -	Do.
—	Harbour, Belfast -	Do. - -	1746-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Cork -	Do. - -	1775-1788 - and 1814-1829 -	Do.
—	Do. Donaghadee.	Do. - -	1831-1833 -	Do.
—	Do. Drogheda	Do. - -	1798-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Dublin -	Do. - -	1753-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Dunmore	Do. - -	1814-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Galway -	Do. - -	1784-1798 -	Do.
—	Do. Howth -	Do. - -	1807-1823 -	Do.
—	Do. Kingston	Do. - -	1815-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Waterford	Do. - -	1816-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Wexford -	Do. - -	1797-1832 -	Do.
—	Health, Board of -	Do. - -	1818-1832 -	Do.
—	Hibernian Society -	Do. - -	1783-1831 -	Do.
—	Hospital, Fever -	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Green Coat	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do Holy Ghost	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Incurables	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Leper -	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Lying-in -	Do. - -	1785-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Meath -	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Mercers -	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. St. John's -	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. St. Patrick's	Do. - -	1783-1831 -	Do.
—	Do. Sir Patrick Dunn's.	Do. - -	1800-1829 -	Do.
—	Do. Dr. Stevens'	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Westmoreland Lock.	Do. - -	1792-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Whitworth Fever.	Do. - -	1826-1827 -	Do.
—	Hulk (Convict) Essex.	Do. - -	1824-1832 -	Do.
—	Hulk, Surprise -	Do. - -	1823-1832 -	Do.
—	Humane Society -	Do. - -	1812-1829 -	Do.
—	Dublin Industry, House of.	Do. - -	1783-1832 -	Do.
—	Infirmary, Drogheda	Do. - -	1812-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Dublin Charitable.	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Londonderry	Do. - -	1811-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. North Cork	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. South Cork	Do. - -	1805-1832 -	Do.
—	Institution, Cork -	Do. - -	1807-1833 -	Do.
—	Law Building Four Courts of.	Do. - -	1776-1905 -	Do.
—	Light Houses -	Do. - -	1811-1832 -	Do.
—	Linen Board -	Do. - -	1784-1832 -	Do.
—	Lunatic Asylum, Armagh.	Do. - -	1825-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Belfast -	Do. - -	1829-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Limerick -	Do. - -	1826-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Londonderry	Do. - -	1829-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Richmond -	Do. - -	1815-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Commissioners for Erection of.	Do. - -	1817-1832 -	Do.
—	Manufactures, Trustees.	Do. -	1786-1800 -	Do.

Digitized by Google

No. 5.—Additions, in 1870, to the Lists of Calendars, &c.—continued.

Page of Appendix to the Twenty-fourth Report.	Class to which the Calendars, &c., refer.	Title and Nature of Calendar.	Period embraced, and whether complete or defective.	Whether in Manuscript or printed.	Remarks.
—	Marshalsea, Four Courts.	List - -	1827-1833 -	Manuscript
—	Merrion Square, Commissioners for the Improving of.	Do. - -	1791-1833 -	Do.
—	Military Encampments, and Sundries.	Do. - -	1776-1814 -	Do.
—	National Debt, Reduction of.	Do. - -	1797-1829 -	Do.
—	Navigation, Borrow	Do. - -	1787-1809 -	Do.
—	Do. Boyn -	Do. - -	1778-1797 -	Do.
—	Do. Inland -	Do. - -	1729-1851 -	Do.
—	Do. Lagan -	Do. - -	1809-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Lough Erne and Ballyshannon.	Do. - -	1763-1796, & 1792.	Do.
—	Do. Shannon	Do. - -	1792-1797 -	Do.
—	Do. Strabane	Do. - -	1795-1796 -	Do.
—	Orphan (Female) House.	Do. - -	1800-1833 -	Do.
—	Paving Board, Dublin.	Do. - -	1774-1833 -	Do.
—	Penitentiary -	Do. - -	1803-1832 -	Do.
—	Piers - -	Do. - -	1767-1786 -	Do.
—	Pipe, Water, and Metal Main Establishment.	Do. - -	1810-1827 -	Do.
—	Police Service, Commissary General for.	Do. - -	1822-1831 -	Do.
—	Do. and Watch Establishment.	Do. - -	1787-1833 -	Do.
—	Population Act -	Do. - -	1816-1827 -	Do.
—	Post Office - -	Do. - -	1806-1833 -	Do.
—	Prerogative and Faculties Courts, Registrar of.	Do. - -	1827-1833 -	Do.
—	Prison Ships -	Do. - -	1805-1820 -	Do.
—	Quay Walls - -	Do. - -	1826-1833 -	Do.
—	Relief of Fever Poor	Do. - -	1817-1819 -	Do.
—	Do. of the Poor -	Do. - -	1823-1851 -	Do.
—	Road, Drumglass Colliery.	Do. - -	1789-1792 -	Do.
—	Do. Waterford and Cork.	Do. - -	1796-1794 -	Do.
—	Roads and Bridges -	Do. - -	1826-1832 -	Do.
—	Roads, Circular, Dublin.	Do. - -	1779-1796 -	Do.
—	Rolls, Deputy Keeper of.	Do. - -	1823-1832 -	Do.
—	Savings' Banks -	Do. - -	1817-1829 -	Do.
—	School, Blue Coat -	Do. - -	1805-1811 -	Do.
—	Do. Grants in aid of.	Do. - -	1819-1832 -	Do.
—	School, Hibernian Marine.	Do. - -	1783-1832 -	Do.
—	Do. Protestant Charter.	Do. - -	1783-1832 -	Do.
—	Sundry Services -	Do. - -	1777-1827 -	Do.
—	Shannon Survey -	Do. - -	1821-1831 -	Do.
—	shelter for Females	Do. - -	1826-1832 -	Do.
—	Stamp Duties -	Do. - -	1774-1833 -	Do.
—	Tolls at Kingswood Gate, Naas.	Do. - -	1805-1807 -	Do.
—	Vice, Discountenancing of, and Promoting the Christian Religion.	Do. - -	1800-1833 -	Do.
—	Wide Street, Dublin	Do. - -	1776-1833 -	Do.
—	Works, Board of, for Civil Buildings.	Do. - -	1795-1832 -	Do.
—	Works, Civil Engineers of Public.	Do. - -	1822-1833 -	Do.

Digitized by Google

No. 5.—Additions, in 1870, to the Lists of Calendars, &c.—continued.

Page of Appendix to the Twenty-Fourth Report.	Class to which the Calendars, &c., refer.	Title and Nature of Calendars, &c.	Period embraced, and whether complete or defective.	Whether in Manuscript or printed.	Remarks.
		Home Office.
	The Documents are open to the Public only to 1760.
—	Alien Certificates	List	1836-1846	Manuscript.
73	Domestic Series	Calendar	1601-1668	Printed.
		Foreign Office.
	The Documents are open to the Public only to 1688.
73	Foreign Series	Calendar	1564-1565	Printed	The remainder of the reign is in progress.
		Colonial Office.
	The Documents are open to the Public only to 25 November 1760; the North American Correspondence not later than 1702.
—	Foreign Plantations	List	1678-1783	Manuscript.
—	Gibraltar, Minorca, Entry Books.	Do.	1713/14-1808	Do.
—	Mauritius	Do.	1834	Do.
—	New Brunswick (Despatches sent).	Do.	1784-1853	Do.
—	Do. Letter Book	Do.	1861-1867	Do.
—	Do. (Despatches received).	Do.	1784-1865	Do.
—	Do. (Despatches received and sent—schedule).	Do.	1861-1867	Do.
—	Sierra Leone	Do.	1830	Do.
—	Turkey, Barbary, and East Indies Entry Books.	Do.	1704-1785	Do.
—	West Indies	Do.	1846	Do.
		Treasury.
	The Documents are open to the Public only to 1820.
—	Miscellaneous Books.	List	1702-1829	Manuscript	14 vols.
80	Treasury Board, Papers.	Do.	1819-1854	Do.
85	American Claims Commission.
—	Special Agent's Reports on Claims. A. to Q. and I. to XXIII.	Do.	Various dates not continuous.	Do.
—	Minute Book	Do.	1797-1798	Do.
—	List of Claims	Do.	1797-1802	Do.
—	Virginia, Sales of Estates, &c.	Do.	1790-1787	Do.

Digitized by Google

No. 5.—Additions, in 1870, to the Lists of Calendars, &c.—continued.

Page of Appendix to the Twenty-fourth Report.	Class to which the Calendars, &c., refer.	Title and Nature of Calendars, &c.	Period embraced, and whether complete or defective.	Whether in Manuscript or printed.	Remarks.
—	Proceedings of the Board.	List - -	1803-1811 -	Manuscript.
—	Entry Book of Claims.	Do. - -	1803 - -	Do.
—	Minute Books -	Do. - -	1802-1812 -	Do.
—	General Orders -	Do. - -	1803-1811 -	Do.
—	Miscellaneous Papers. Entry Books of.	Do. - -	1803-1811 -	Do.
—	Statements - -	Do. - -	1804 - -	Do.
—	Journal - -	Do. - -	1804-1806 -	Do.
—	Ledger - -	Do. - -	1804-1812 -	Do.

War Office.

The Documents are open to the Public only to 1820.

82	Discharges by Purchase.	List - -	1809 - -	Manuscript.
—	Monthly Returns -	Press List -	1785-1800 -	Do.	In progress.
86	Regimental Pay Lists.	List - -	1863-4 and 1864-5.	Do.
—	Recruiting District Pay Lists.	Do. - -	1863-1867 -	Do.

Transcripts.

—	Carte Papers -	- - -	Chas. 2 -	Manuscript	Vols. 37 to 46. 12 vols.

No. 6.—Calendars of State Papers, &c.

Volumes published in 1870.

Calendar of State Papers, Domestic Series, of the Reign of Elizabeth (continued), preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. Edited by Mary Anne Everett Green. Vol. VI.—1601–1603; with Addenda, 1547–1565.

Calendar of State Papers, Foreign Series, of the Reign of Elizabeth, preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. Edited by the Rev. Joseph Stevenson, M.A., of University College, Durham. Vol. VII.—1564–1565.

Calendar of the Carew Papers, preserved in the Lambeth Library. Edited by J. S. Brewer, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London; and William Bullen, Esq. Vol. IV.—1601–1603.

In the Press.

Calendar of State Papers, Colonial Series, preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office, and elsewhere. Edited by W. Noel Sainsbury, Esq. Vol. III.—East Indies, China, and Japan, 1617–1621.

Calendar of Letters and Papers, Foreign and Domestic, of the Reign of Henry VIII., preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office, the British Museum, &c. Edited by J. S. Brewer, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. Vol. IV.—1524, &c.

Calendar of the Carew Papers, preserved in the Lambeth Library. Edited by J. S. Brewer, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London; and William Bullen, Esq. Vol. V.

Calendar of State Papers, Foreign Series, of the Reign of Elizabeth, preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. Edited by Allen James Crosby, Esq., B.A., Barrister-at-Law. Vol. VIII.—1566–1568.

Calendar of State Papers, Domestic Series, of the Reign of Charles I., preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. Edited by John Bruce, Esq., F.S.A., and William Douglas Hamilton, Esq., F.S.A. Vol. XIII.—1638–1639.

Digitized by Google

No. 6.—Calendars of State Papers, &c.—continued.

CALENDAR OF STATE PAPERS, DOMESTIC SERIES, OF THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH (continued), preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. Edited by MARY ANNE EVERETT GREEN. Vol. VII.—Addenda, 1566–1579.

CALENDAR OF TREASURY PAPERS, preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. Edited by JOSEPH REDINGTON, Esq. Vol. II. 1697–1702.

CALENDAR OF STATE PAPERS AND MANUSCRIPTS, relating to ENGLISH AFFAIRS, preserved in the Archives of Venice, &c. Edited by RAWDON BROWN, Esq. Vol. IV.—1527, &c.

CALENDAR OF STATE PAPERS relating to IRELAND, OF THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH, preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. Edited by HANS CLAUDE HAMILTON, Esq., F.S.A. Vol. III.—1586, &c.

SYLLABUS, IN ENGLISH, OF RYMER'S FŒDERA; with Index. Vol. II.

In Progress.

CALENDAR OF LETTERS, DESPATCHES, AND STATE PAPERS, relating to the Negotiations between England and Spain, preserved in the Archives at Simancas, and elsewhere. Edited by DON PASCUAL DE GAYANGOS. Hen. VIII.

CALENDAR OF STATE PAPERS relating to IRELAND, OF THE REIGN OF JAMES I., preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office, and elsewhere. Edited by the Rev. C. W. RUSSELL, D.D., and JOHN P. PRENDERGAST, Esq., Barrister-at-Law. Vol. I.—1603, &c.

Digitized by Google

No. 7.—Chronicles and Memorials of Great Britain and Ireland during the Middle Ages.

Volumes published in 1870.

Chronica Monasterii S. Albani.—5. Johannis Amundesham, Monachi Monasterii S. Albani, ut videtur, Annales. Vol. I. Edited by Henry Thomas Riley, Esq., M.A., of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; and of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

Willelmi Malmesbiriensis Monachi de Gestis Pontificum Anglorum Libri Quinque. Edited, from William of Malmesbury's Autograph MS., by N. E. S. A. Hamilton, Esq., of the Department of Manuscripts, British Museum.

Chronica Magistri Rogeri de Houedene. Vol. III. Edited by William Stubbs, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford.

Historic and Municipal Documents of Ireland, from the Archives of the City of Dublin, &c. 1172–1320. Edited by John T. Gilbert, Esq., F.S.A., Secretary of the Public Record Office of Ireland.

In the Press.

A Collection of Sagas and other Historical Documents relating to the Settlements and Descents of the Northmen on the British Isles. Edited by George Webbe Dasent, Esq., D.C.L. Oxon.

Official Correspondence of Thomas Bekynton, Secretary of Henry VI., with other Letters and Documents. Edited by the Rev. George Williams, B.D., Senior Fellow of King's College, Cambridge.

Roll of the Privy Council of Ireland, 16 Richard II. Edited by the Rev. James Graves, A.B., Treasurer of St. Canice, Ireland.

The Works of Giraldus Cambrensis. Vol. IV. Edited by J. S. Brewer, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. Vol. VII. Edited by the Rev. James F. Dimock, M.A., Rector of Barnburgh, Yorkshire.

Chronicon Radulphi Abbatis Coggeshalensis Majus; and, Chronicon Terræ Sanctæ et de Captis a Saladino Hierosolymis. Edited by the Rev. Joseph Stevenson, M.A., of University College, Durham.

Iter Britanniarum: the Portion of the Antonine Itinerary of the Roman Empire relating to Great Britain. Edited by William Henry Black, Esq., F.S.A.

Year Books of the Reign of Edward the First. Years 21–22. Edited and translated by Alfred John Horwood, Esq., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

The Annals of Loch Cé, a Chronicle of Irish Affairs, from 1014 to 1590. Edited, with a Translation, by William Maunsell Hennessy, Esq., M.R.I.A.

Digitized by Google

No. 7.—Chronicles and Memorials, &c.—continued.

CHRONICLE OF ROBERT OF BRUNNE. Edited by FREDERICK JAMES FURNIVALL, Esq., M.A., of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, Barrister-at-Law.

POLYCHRONICON RANULPHI HIGDEN, with Trevisa's Translation. Vol. III. Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH RAWSON LUMBY, M.A., late Fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge.

THE ANGLO-LATIN SATIRISTS OF THE TWELFTH CENTURY. Vols. I. and II. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A.

DOCUMENTS RELATING TO ENGLAND AND SCOTLAND, FROM THE NORTHERN REGISTERS. Edited by the Rev. JAMES RAINE, M.A., Canon of York, and late Fellow of the University, Durham.

CHRONICA MONASTERII S. ALBANI.—5. JOHANNIS AMUNDESHAM, MONACHI MONASTERII S. ALBANI, UT VIDETUR, ANNALES. Vol. II. Edited by HENRY THOMAS RILEY, Esq., M.A., of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; and of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

LIBER NIGER ADMIRALITATIS. Edited by Sir TRAVERS TWISS, D.C.L., Queen's Advocate-General.

MATTHÆI PARISIENSIS HISTORIA MAJOR. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow of Trinity College, and Registrary of the University, Cambridge.

MATERIALS FOR A HISTORY OF THE REIGN OF HENRY VII. Edited by the Rev. WILLIAM CAMPBELL, M.A.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE OF MANUSCRIPTS RELATING TO THE HISTORY OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND. Vol. III.; 1200–1327. By Sir THOMAS DUFFUS HARDY, D.C.L., Deputy Keeper of the Public Records.

In Progress.

CHRONICA MAGISTRI ROGERI DE HOUEDENE. Vol. IV. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford.

THE METRICAL CHRONICLE OF ROBERT OF GLOUCESTER. Edited by WILLIAM ALDIS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A.

RECUEIL DES CRONIQUES ET ANCHIENNES ISTORIES DE LA GRANT BRETAIGNE A PRESENT NOMME ENGLETERRE, par JEHAN DE WAURIN. Vol. III. Edited by WILLIAM HARDY, Esq., F.S.A.

LIVES OF ARCHBISHOP DUNSTAN. Edited by the Rev. JOHN RICHARD GREEN, M.A.

Digitized by Google

LONDON:
Printed by GEORGE E. EYRE and WILLIAM SPOTTISWOODE,
Printers to the Queen's most Excellent Majesty.
For Her Majesty's Stationery Office.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google